Prince Bismarck has so much improved that he has decided to return to his home at Friedrichsruhe, near Hamburg. He will

All Lost!
PARIS, Sept. 25.—A dispatch from St.
Petersburg to-day confirms the report that the iron monitor Pousalka, of the Russian navy, had gone down, probably with all on board, in a storm off the Gulf of Finland.

Harmony Restored.
ROME, Sept. 25.—The Vatican has received advice from the United States showing that the dissensions among Catholics there have ceased, and that the groups which opposed Mr. Stollie have submitted to his authority. The Vatican is especially pleased to learn that calm has been re-established in the New York province.

Proposed Union of Royal Blood.
LONDON, Sept. 25.—A dispatch to the Chronicle from Paris mentions the rumor that a marriage is projected between the Duc d'Orleans and one of the daughters of the Czar. It is said that the meeting between the Comte de Paris and the Czar at Copenhagen is intended to pave the way to this marriage.

Loss of a Russian Warship.
ST. PETERSBURG, Sept. 25.—The Russian warship Pousalka, with 160 persons on board, has foundered in the Gulf of Finland. She sailed from Rural for Helsingfors last Tuesday.
Pieces of the vessel have since washed ashore, and as severe storms have been sweeping over the gulf there is no doubt in the admiralty office here that she has been lost. The Pousalka was an armored cruiser, of 2,000 tons displacement. She was built in 1867.

The Anarchist Scare in Vienna.
VIENNA, Sept. 25.—The arrest Saturday of fourteen Anarchists here and the capture yesterday of 68 members of a secret society at Bruenn, the capital of Moravia, has revealed the existence of a desperate Anarchist plot. To-day several more members of the gang were taken into custody, and the plot against all the persons arrested is said to be overwhelming. All the persons arrested are known to be Anarchists of the worst type.

The Maasdam's Passengers.
LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Netherlands American line steamer Veendam, Capt.
Vandersee, from Rotterdam, called at Plymouth yesterday for the purpose of taking on board the passengers of the same company's steamer Maasdam. The latter steamer, while bound from Rotterdam for New York, was wrecked at sea and was towed back to Plymouth by the Dutch steamer P. Caland, which was also bound for New York. The Maasdam's passengers and their baggage was transferred to the Veendam. Immediately upon her arrival, and the latter vessel at once proceeded for New York.

Carrot's Significant Speech.
PARIS, Sept. 25.—A dispatch from Beauvais says that President Carnot entertained 200 French gentlemen and foreign officers after the army maneuvers there, and that at the close of the banquet he made a significant speech. President Carnot congratulated the French army, which, he said, gave France confidence in her strength and inspired her with eagerness and enthusiasm. France, he added, is faithful to her friendships, which she will be glad to celebrate with festivities, and she can proclaim with uplifted hand her sincere love for peace, in the firm conviction that the future belongs to prudence and right.

Tragic Death of Two German Officers.
BERLIN, Sept. 25.—Considerable excitement was caused here to-day among the troops in garrison by the tragic death of two petty officers. Sergeant Wagmann, of the Fusiliers, was drunk, and knowledge of the fact coming to his superior officer it was ordered that he be placed under arrest. Sergeant Kamboukey was detailed to guard him after he was taken into custody. Wagmann was ugly and made many threats, but little or no attention was paid to them. Through carelessness, when Wagmann was arrested his revolver was not taken from him, and when the opportunity offered he shot Sergeant Kamboukey, killing him almost instantly. Wagne-man then shot and killed himself.

British Parliament Closes.
A cable correspondent writes: The net result of the session seems to be a deep foul between the leaders of the allied Tories and Liberal Unionists. They began the year by loud boasts that Gladstone and coalition would go to pieces before midsummer. Instead of that, it is their own alliance which gives ominous signs of disruption. Apparently Churchill has petered out altogether. His performances at the outset of the session gave rise to the idea that he was going to make a desperate bid for a return to prominence, and, though his displays have been eccentric, sometimes to the verge of the painful, there was a general disposition to receive him well.

But for some reason he lapsed soon into voiceless inaction, and it is taken for granted now that he will never do anything serious again.

Aside from the abortive home rule demonstration, this long, weary session has done practically nothing but pass the unlawful inclosure act, which, after 30 years of struggle, finally puts it out of the power of landlords to fence in and grab for their own the common lands or the sides of ancient highways and other public grounds. This is an admirable reform, no doubt, but hardly a commensurate result for the eight months' arduous labor of 670 legislators.

Suing a Sultan.
LONDON, Sept. 25.—The Sultan of Jehore, against whom a pretty English girl has brought suit for $50,000 damages, claiming breach of promise to marry, has sailed for Singapore from Brindisi. The Sultan's departure has revived interest in the interesting suit to which he is a party.

The facts are about as follows: Miss Jennie Maghill, a young lady with a good position in society, gifted with accomplishments of a high order, and of attractive appearance, seeks for damages from the Sultan of Jehore for breach of promise, and also asks for the return of a diamond buckle. Miss Maghill resides at 20 Devonshire Place, Brighton, and when introduced to his highness the Sultan of the state and territory of Jehore, was not aware of the majesty of his position, but subsequently his true position was communicated to her. The story of the wool should prove interesting, but for the moment it must be deferred. The Sultan is well known in this country, and has for some time past resided in Comber-wood, Bournemouth, Isle of Wight. His highness has been conspicuous by his show of diamonds and handsome presence at most of the state functions which have recently taken place here. The state of Jehore occupies the south part of the Malay peninsula, and is one of the most prosperous in the east. It is traversed by a railway, and exports a large quantity of the finest timber. The Sultan of Jehore's solicitors accepted service of the writ, which was issued Aug. 24, 1893.

The defendant, as already stated, is at the present time a reigning monarch, and in consequence he might be able to raise a plea of personal privilege exempting him from the jurisdiction of the courts.

SHOT FOR A BURGLAR.

A Toronto Man Who Played Burglar to Secure His Wife Shot and Lamed for Life.

(Toronto World, Sept. 25.) Many Torontonians have noticed of late that a prominent business man who was absent from his store two or three weeks, "owing to illness," has since walked a little lame. More than one person has asked George what caused the lameness, but without eliciting the facts.

The cat leaked out of the bag the other day, however. About a month ago the business man's wife got the idea that she ought to have a revolver in the house. The husband protested in vain. She was dead set on having one and she got it.

The following night, after tending his wife about having something that she would never use it if he required, he left the house, saying he would return in a few hours.

Shortly after the door closed behind him his wife was attracted by the sound of footsteps upstairs. Her first impulse was to scream, her second to run next door and ask for assistance. Then she thought of the revolver and of her husband's laughing taunts that she was afraid to handle it.

Going to the drawer she secured it, as the sound of the stealthy footsteps were close to the top landing of the stairs.
Flipping open the parlor door, she peered into the darkness, and in a trembling voice demanded to know who was there. She fancied she heard a low laugh and then saw the dim outline of a man starting to descend.

"Stay back or I will shoot," she said, she pointed in the direction of the figure.
There was one more step, and a report, and the man fell down stairs with a thundering crash and lay unconscious almost at her feet. One look showed her to be her husband. Then there was a piercing scream, and when some neighbors found their way in the two were lying senseless in a pool of blood.

The husband has just recovered, but will be lame for life, and it is safe to say that he will never try to frighten his wife again.

THE CAMPERDOWN'S MISHAP.

LONDON, Sept. 25.—The British battleship Camperdown, the flagship of Rear Admiral Markham, grounded this morning at the entrance of the harbor. The Camperdown is the vessel that recently ran into and sank the battleship Victoria, causing great loss of life. The Camperdown sustained considerable damage forward in the collision, but was not seriously hurt. She was placed in dock. Her repairs had just been completed, and to-day she started out on a trial trip, and had proceeded but a short distance when she struck bottom.

YALTEA, Sept. 25.—By 2 o'clock this afternoon the Camperdown was got afloat.
Divers after examination say she sustained only slight damage.

COLD WAVE IN ENGLAND.

Snow Falls to the Depth of Four Inches in Westminster—Heavy Rainy Weather.

LONDON, Sept. 24.—The people of the North of England were surprised today morning to find snow falling as steadily as though it was winter time. The storm continued through the morning throughout most of the northern counties, Northumberland, Cumberland, Yorkshire, Lancashire, and Westmoreland, but was most severe in the last-named county, where the snow covered the ground to a depth of four inches.

A passenger train on the Highland Railroad became stalled at Dalmeny station, owing to a severe frost, which prevented the switch working. Many people were injured.

The Apennines are covered with snow.
Meteorologists predict that this presages snow fell.

PENSION FRAUDS.

Republicans Waste the Money for Political Capital—Millions to be Saved.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 25.—The work of examining the pension claims allowed by Raum under his famous order No. 164 has progressed far enough to enable a careful estimate to be made of the great saving that will be effected by reviewing these cases. A conservative calculation puts the amount at $128,700,000.

This stupendous sum includes only the cases allowed by Raum under threat of June 27, 1890. All this money will be saved without charging a single pensioner with fraud.

The fact is well known in this country, and has for some time past resided in Comber-
highness has been conspicuous by his show

Thrilling Voyage!

Marvelous Escape of an Aeronaut and His Companion.

Who Made a Balloon Ascent at the World's Fair.

The Voyagers Blown Far Out Over Lake Michigan—Rescued by a Revenue Cutter.

CHICAGO, Sept. 25.—For the second time this season the World's Fair festivities came near being marred by a dreadful calamity. On Friday a balloon ascension had almost a fatal termination. It being State commissioners' day, special preparations were made by the World's Fair directors to attract crowds to that part of the grounds. One of the amusements arranged for was a balloon ascension by an old and experienced aeronaut, Prof. King, of Philadelphia.

A large balloon was inflated and equipped for a short ascension. Prof. King, believing that with the easterly winds which prevailed during the afternoon he would be driven back of the city and could land on the open prairie within a short time after he had risen from the earth.

While active preparations were going on a great crowd assembled around the balloon. Among the number was Miss Joe Morris, whose home is at Ames, Iowa, but who came here this summer to see the World's Fair, and who had secured a position in the fine arts building, where she sold catanigans. Miss Morris watched the aeronaut as he made ready for his trip, and became possessed with an insane desire to make the journey into the clouds with him. She sought an introduction to him and preferred her request to be allowed to be his companion in his aerial flight.

Prof. King objected very strongly at first to taking the young girl with him, but her pretty and persuasive manner finally won him over, and he agreed to let her go. The weather was so fine that the ascension seemed like child's play to the veteran aeronaut. When all was ready he and Miss Morris stepped into the frail basket, and at 3:45 p.m. the word was given to cast the big gas bag loose. It rose quickly and impressively straight toward the blue sky, and the thousands and thousands of people who were packed in a black mass on the wide street and plaza before the New York building gave a great cheer and a mighty cry of "Hooray!" as the travelers went upward.

For a short time everything went well with the voyagers. A strong but gentle wind blew the balloon toward the southwest, and as it continued to rise the occupants of the basket could be seen waving their hands to the people on the fair grounds far below them. When the balloon had reached an altitude of about one mile it struck a counter current of air, which changed its course to the northeast. The balloon was stiff breeze and the balloon quickly forged toward Lake Michigan.

It was only a few minutes when those below were horrified to see that the balloon was rapidly being carried out over the lake, and that it would be useless for the aeronaut to try to descend on land, because before he could get the balloon down it would be far out at sea.

Capt. Crawford, who commands one of the steam launches which make trips out into the lake from the main landing, was one of the first to see that the balloonists were in danger. He ran to his craft, the Aloha, cast off the moorings and steered into the lake. He lost sight of the balloon as he passed under the pier, and when he got out in clear water he could not locate the flying ship. He ran the Aloha away out beyond the long pier, as he could not see the balloon he started back.

Just after he had turned the Aloha's nose toward the shore he discovered the balloon to the northeast, sailing along like a cloud against the other side of the lake.
Again he turned the Aloha seaward and started after the ship. The race was an unequal one, but it was full of excitement for the thousands of people who lined the embankment along the lake within the World's Fair grounds.

Prof. King must have begun to realize that he must take desperate chances if he wished to save his own life and that of his companion, for before the Aloha had reached a mile the balloon was seen to drop from its high position in the air. The professor had evidently pulled the valve and allowed enough gas to escape to make the balloon descend rapidly. The aeronaut had misestimated his altitude or reduced the amount of gas too much, for the balloon dropped as if it had collapsed and struck the water sharply. But the contact with the water only served to make it rise, and it bounced again into the air. It was carried along by the force of the wind.

Capt. Crawford ordered his crew to push the Aloha to the utmost. No such order was necessary, because every man was doing all that could be done to force the little craft over the waves, which were rapidly growing more boisterous as the wind freshened. But the Aloha was no match for the air ship, which always kept on the edge of the horizon, three or four miles in front. It was seen to bound along before the wind, striking the water, and then rising several times.

At last, after running ten or twelve miles, the engineer of the Aloha announced that the limited supply of coal in the tankers was almost exhausted and that it would be impossible to run any further out into the lake. Capt. Crawford, therefore, gave up the chase.

Before the Aloha had returned to the World's Fair grounds the excitement among the crowds that lined the shore had become so intense that the officers of the internal revenue cutter Andy Johnson were impetuously to start after the balloon, commander Davis was one of those who saw the balloon drop from the clouds into the lake, and it did not take much urging to get him to give the necessary commands.

It was 6:30 when the Andy Johnson started. The balloon was then 20 or 25 miles from the World's Fair grounds.
Darkness was gathering over the waters of the lake. A rain storm set in at 10 o'clock to add to the discomforts of Prof. King and Miss Morris.

At midnight the revenue cutter Andy Johnson returned to its moorings, having on board Prof. King and Miss Morris. The revenue cutter sought up with the air ship fifteen miles northeast of the mouth of the Chicago River, off Grease Point light house.

Port Stanley for the carrying of freight from United States points for transmission by rail to the East, through London. Both the railroads mentioned have connections at Detroit and Buffalo, and if freight be transhipped at either of these points, it gives a larger and, consequently, a more valuable haul to either road than if the freight entered Canada at Port Stanley. Were the L. E. and D. R.
Railway to obtain the possession of the L. and P. S. it would be in the direct interest of the former, which London wants. It would also give London a more direct connection with many towns and villages in the southwestern district than she now enjoys, for in case the L. E. and D. R. obtained the lease of the L. and P. S. the present line would be at once extended from Ridgeway to St. Thomas, and eastern freight over the L. E. and D. R., which now goes by other routes, would be transferred to them at London. Any other L. E. and D. R. directors may make it, therefore, even though it should on the face appear less advantageous than some of the other bids, worthy of very serious consideration.

Sudden Death.

St. Thomas Journal: Mrs. Mary Ross, relict of the late Charles Ross, Talbot street east, died very suddenly Saturday.
She lived alone, employing a young man named Hotwight. Saturday Mrs. Ross was as well as usual when Hotwight went to market. He returned about 4 p.m. and found her lying dead on the floor. Dr.
Gustin was notified, but decided that an inquest was unnecessary, death being the result of heart disease. A peculiar coincidence is that deceased's husband, Mr. Charles Ross, also died very suddenly at his son's hotel, London, about five years ago. He went to bed at night as well as ever, and was found dead in the morning. Mrs.
Ross was born near St. Catharines and was 73 years of age. She lived for years in the township of Malahide, and since 1882 has lived on Talbot street, where she died.
She leaves two sons, James, hotel-keeper, London, and Charles, of Yorkmouth Center.
Her daughters are Mrs. Daniel Markle, Rodney, and Mrs. E. McKicken, Tilson-burg.

Two Souls and So Forth.

They were wandering about the dark, deserted piazza, arm in arm, talking softly, as people usually do under such circumstances.

They had only known each other two days, but the days were long at a summer hotel, and time is short.

This may seem like a paradox, but it isn't.

He was not a summer young man, as she was a summer girl, and he was not accustomed to crowding the mourners, so the notwithstanding he had been very devoted, he had been somewhat diffident in the material expression of his devotion.

The girl was quick to note this, but he had not caught on.

He was still permitting "I would" to wait on "I dare not."

So it was, as they strolled up and down, up and down, on that piazza, until the girl was tired.

As they turned at a far-away corner she saw a lonely chair waiting invitingly.

"Mr. Charlie," she said cooly, "there's a chair. Let's sit down."

"Permit me," he responded, gallantly drawing it forward. "Take this; I'll get another."

But the girl didn't take it. She stood there laughing a little, gurgling, appealing laugh, and somehow Mr. Charlie tumbled to the fact that one chair was enough for two. "I am only what about it right!"—[Detroit Free Press.]

Quack Advertisements

Are a nuisance, and we think it behooves publishers to examine into the merits of many articles put up in their columns.
We do not deny that many meritorious remedies are properly to be classed under this heading. Take the hundreds and thousands relieved from suffering by the use of Polson's Nervine. Would it not be unreasonable to expect them to condemn that far-famed remedy? Now we know for a fact that Polson's Nervine is without exception the most powerful, pleasant and certain remedy in the world for pain. It cannot fail, for it goes right to the bottom of pain, penetrates to the nerves, soothes them to quietness, and affords prompt and permanent relief.

 WORLD'S FAIR, JACKSON PARK, CHICAGO, Sept. 28.—But five weeks now remain in which to see the World's Columbian Exposition. The gates will be officially closed on Oct. 30, and the next morning the demolition of the beautiful White City will begin. The largely-increased attendance of the past few weeks led to an agitation in favor of postponing the close, but the directors have decided that the programme as originally planned should be carried out. The foreign exhibitors are even now impatient to leave. The weather, though now delightful and likely to be fine in October, would be very disagreeable in November and December, and the big buildings, which cannot be heated, would be uninhabitable from the cold. The people seem at last to realize that time is short for witnessing the greatest spectacle of ancient or modern times, and are pouring in by the hundreds of thousands.

Canadians are here in sufficient numbers for their presence to be felt. From the Province of Ontario alone nearly 2,000 have registered at headquarters, and these do not represent all of those on the grounds. The Dearborn station, where the Grand Trunk trains arrive, is jammed from early morning till late at night, and finding one's friends is a task of great difficulty. On Sunday the G. T. R. brought in no less than 107 coaches, all filled with passengers, and it was not an exceptional day.

The ends of the earth shake hands with each other in the White City, and the inhabitants of every clime have an opportunity of becoming acquainted, such as has rarely if ever been presented before. Just next to the Canadian pavilion is the unpretentious building occupied by New South Wales, whose pluck and enterprise in making so magnificent a display in all departments has won for her the respect of the world. Then the tropical-looking headquarters of the Republic of Haiti, and next to these the India building, a veritable storehouse of art treasures.

Owing to the introduction of European goods, the manufacture of objects of art has declined to a great extent in India, and but for the intervention of certain commercial firms would soon disappear altogether. Among these firms S. J. T. & Co., of Delhi and other cities, is probably the most prominent, and has for a number of years stimulated and encouraged the natives in producing articles of artistic variety and cultivating a demand for them among the connoisseurs of Europe and America. Mr. Talley very kindly showed me over the building the other day, and I looked at priceless goods till my eyes were weary. There were cashmere shawls such as are given by Queen Victoria as wedding presents, the wonderful Kamper chadders, or ring shawls, of such fine texture that one of them measuring 24 1/2 yards can be passed easily through an ordinary finger ring; embroidery in silver and gold and silk, and the later of microscopic fineness; carpets of all the designs for which the East is so famous; metal work in endless variety, some pieces representing years of patient toil by many hands; carved ivory tusks, the delicacy and intricacy of which is fairly bewildering, and the wood carving of marvelous beauty. Any description of these is out of the question, but everybody should see them. The India pavilion is always crowded, and in and out among the crowd are passing the native servants, lithe of body, dark of features, and clad in scarlet uniforms, with snow-white turbans. These khutias, as they are called, are wearing Indian dress, the cultivation of a taste for which is one of the chief objects of the Indian Government at the World's Fair. Mr. Richard Biechynan, of Bombay, who represents the Association of Indian Planters, is specially charged with this mission. To British subjects it is interesting to know that the tea product of India and Ceylon has increased with marvelous rapidity, and in the British market at least has practically displaced the China crop. It is only a question of time till the same result is reached in Canada and the United States. The flavor and aroma of the steaming tea, served in Indian manufacture, decorated by native servants in native garb, are something to be remembered, and a visit to the India pavilion must remain one of the most interesting memories of the fair.

The Ontario vegetable display, since the burning of the cold storage warehouse, has been rather scant, but supplies of fresh stuff are now coming in very freely, and the court is the center of attraction, especially the farmers from the adjacent States, who are never done expressing their wonder at the marvelous productions of our country. Some 75 varieties of potatoes, all of excellent quality, are displayed on plates, also mangels, beets, carrots, cabbages, tomatoes and other field and garden products. The sensational features, however, are a mammoth squash weighing 488 pounds, and a mammoth red pumpkin of 146 pounds, both grown by Mr. Wm. Warner, of Goderich, and a longer way the largest of the kind on the ground. Major Walker, of Ancaster, who is in charge of the exhibit, informed me that next week the pick of the vegetable products from the leading farms will be shipped here, so that something especially good may be looked for.

Fruit continues to come forward very satisfactorily, and Superintendent Pettit has but few idle moments. Almost all sections of the Province are represented, the local directors of the Fruit Growers' Association, as well as private individuals, evidently taking great pains in collecting and shipping specimens to sustain the credit of the Province.

Quite a number of samples of new grain have arrived from Ontario of excellent quality. The new wheat is expected early next month.

Next week the stock pavilion will be given over to sheep and swine, the judging of which will begin on the 26th inst. In point of numbers the exhibit of these animals will far exceed those of horses and cattle, the prices being on a very liberal scale. In all, 1,418 swine and 1,367 sheep have been entered, of which 86 and 310 respectively are from Ontario. The individual exhibitors from Ontario are as follows:

Sheep—Cotwolds, J. G. Snell & Bro., Edmonton; Robert Miller, Brougham; Leicesters, Jas. Snell, Clinton; John Kelly, Shakespeare; Lincolns, Gibson & Walker; Deerfield and Idertons; Wm. Walker, Iderton; Wm. Oliver, Auburn; D. A. Campbell, Mayfield; Southdowns, Geo. Baker & Sons, Simcoe; John Jackson & Sons, Abingdon; Telfer & Sons, Paris; T. C. Douglas, Galt; Shropshires, W. H. Beattie, Wilton; Groves, John Campbell, Woodville; Oxford, Henry Arkell, Arkell; Hampshires, John Kelly, Shakespeare; Dorset Horns, J. A. McGilivray, Uxbridge; T. V. Heator, Springfield-on-Credit; R. H. Harding, Thorncliffe.

Swine—Chesire Whites, H. George & Sons, Crampton, Essex; Jos. Featherston, Springfield-on-Credit. Other distinct breeds, Jas. Calvert, Theodor; John Bell, Amber; J. E. Brethour, Benford; Jos. Featherston, Springfield.

Mr. Henry Wade, private secretary to Commissioner Awey, who has managed the collection and shipment of the Ontario live stock, arrived yesterday morning with five carloads of sheep and swine, which were soon forwarded safely to the grounds. The arrivals had hardly been settled in their new quarters before they were surrounded by admiring and critical crowds who could find little fault with them.

Ontario sheep are especially fine, and are in number nearly double those of any of the States. They have been very carefully selected, not an inferior animal having been brought over, and good judges say they never saw a better lot.

Inquiries about Ontario fruit and other products continue to pour in on Commissioner Awey. Among the latest is a letter from S. Ferd. Kramer, of Bremen, Germany, a leading commercial merchant in that city, who visited the exposition during July and was especially pleased with our fruit exhibit. It is certain, he writes, that a large business in fresh and preserved fruits can be done between Ontario and Germany, and that they need only an introduction to be appreciated there on account of their high quality and good appearance.

Mr. Kramer asked for the names and addresses of leading Ontario fruit dealers, which were furnished him by Mr. Awey. In the official list of awards published this morning I find that the Ontario collection of tropical plants in the horticultural building has been well placed, as it deserves. The large size and general excellence of this display has been a subject of general remark among experts in that direction since it was installed in the early May days.

I got a hint the other day from "Uncle John" Thorne, director of horticulture, which is well worth knowing by everybody who has a garden. Mr. Thorne stands at the head of his profession in America, and the floral display on the wooded island and about the buildings has been one of the chief delights to those who have an eye for the beautiful in this direction. Among the foliage plants are many tender species, such as cannae, etc., and I was a little curious to know how it was proposed to protect them against the early frosts that are so destructive and exasperating to florists. Mr. Thorne informed me that he watched the temperature very closely, and when there was any fear of frost he kept the heaters running through the electric system, and thus prevented damage.

The breeders' gallery, the leading American live stock journal, this week contains a full page illustration of Mr. B. B. Smith's stallion, Otway, which shows this magnificent animal to the life.

FRENCH-CANADIAN COUPLE MURDERED.

Strange Story from Calamity, Pa.—Alleged Design to Blow Up the Dominion Government Buildings.

CALAMITY, Pa., Sept. 25.—While August Reese, a miner, and his wife were returning from a visit to a neighbor's house last evening they were set upon by a party of French-Canadian miners (Reese and his wife also being French-Canadians), and several shots were fired. Mrs. Reese was instantly killed. Reese was shot and fatally wounded. Noel Marsen and August Brice, who are charged with the murder, fled. There are two factions among the foreigners at Calamity, the one open and avowed anarchists, and the other having nothing to do with anarchy. Mr. and Mrs. Reese belonged to the latter party, while Marsen and Brice are leaders among the former. In some way Mrs. Reese became acquainted with some of the secrets of the anarchists, and her death was decreed. Marsen and Brice were chosen to kill her.

It is reported they had all arrangements made to go to Canada, where they were to engage in an attempt to blow up the Dominion Government buildings. Constable McHaffey is authority for this statement. He said: The murder is the direct outcome of the killing of a Frenchman about a year ago. Then Mrs. Reese learned some of the secrets of the anarchists, and gave information that Marsen and Brice were going to Canada on Monday. They had plans all laid out to blow up some of the Canadian Government buildings. Both of the men were heard to say they would end the Reese before they left. Marsen has confessed that he shot Mrs. Reese. A .32-caliber revolver was found on him with all the chambers empty.

Scrofula in the Neck

The following is from Mrs. J. W. Tillbrook, wife of the Mayor of McKeesport, Penn.: "My little boy Willie, now six years old, two years ago had a bunch under one ear which the doctor said was Scrofula. As it continued to grow he finally lanced it and it discharged for some time. We then began giving him Hood's Sarsaparilla and he improved very rapidly until the sore healed up. Last winter it broke out again, followed by Erysipelas. We again gave him Hood's Sarsaparilla with most excellent results and he has had no further trouble. His cure is due to Hood's Sarsaparilla. He has never been so healthy and is growing stronger."

LACROSSE.

BRUTAL PLAY.

The Montreal Witness editorially denounces the brutal play of the Shamrocks on Saturday. It says: "The Shamrocks lost the championship on Saturday, and from all accounts they richly deserve it. We are to believe even the Montreal reports, who are not disposed to condemn the home team if they can help doing so, the Shamrocks, with a few honorable exceptions, acted like a lot of roughs. Can the explanation of the murderous play on Saturday be that the lacrosse players of these days are for the most part roughs? If that is the explanation of the rough-and-tumble play of Saturday, lacrosse will soon be left to the roughs altogether. It would appear that the Capitals were by far the most gentlemanly players. Although, according to recent authorities the heaviest and strongest team, they were comparatively gentle, and allowed themselves to be wantonly assaulted in many cases without making any return. Several of them seem to be very severely injured, while their opponents did not suffer. The Shamrocks have been soundly beaten in spite of their strategy in disabling their opponents. While they were giving their attention to beating their opponents over the head, neck and arms with their sticks, their opponents were probably giving their attention to the ball, with the result that they are the champions of 1923."

Wm. Leacy, one of the lacrosse players of the Capitals of Ottawa, who was so badly hurt in Montreal, was brought to his father's home on Saturday. He was hurt internally, had a back ache and was otherwise very badly bruised. He will be confined to his room several weeks.

MITCHELL.
Mitchell received word on Saturday that his 6-month-old baby was dead. The little one died from blood poisoning, as a result of being vaccinated. The news affected Mitchell deeply.

MAKING HIS MARK.
ASHBURY PARK, N. J., Sept. 25.—James J. Corbett to-day signed the articles to fight Charley Mitchell at the Coney Athletic Club for a purse of $40,000.

SOFTLY SMITH KNOCKED OUT BY DIXON.

CONY ISLAND, Sept. 25.—Despite the stormy evening the sporting fraternity came in droves to the Coney Island Athletic Club to-night to see the much-talked-about fight between George Dixon and Billy Smith. Dixon was the favorite in the betting, but the sympathy of the crowd was with Smith, who was looked upon as the most likely man in his class to go against Dixon. Smith is an exceptionally hard hitter, and while not so scientific as the colored lad, it was believed that he would be able to make up the difference with his sledge-hammer blows. Betting was very heavy. The largest bet of the night was made by John Humphries, of California, who bet $1,500 to $3,000 with Phil Howell, the bookmaker, Humphries taking the Smith end. Billy West (the minister) bet $1,200 to $600 on Dixon. The preliminary bout was a ten-round contest between Jim Barge, the Australian, and Fred Morris (colored) for a $600 purse. $500 to the winner and $100 to the loser. Morris won.

At 3 o'clock this afternoon both Smith and Dixon were under the stipulated weight, 118 pounds. At 9:32 o'clock the fight commenced. Smith was floored in the first round and had the worst of it all through Dixon knocking him out in the seventh.

In the seventh round Dixon floored Smith with a straight right. Smith staggered to his feet and was floored again. He rose just as the gong sounded, but he was too weak to stand on his feet and fell again near his corner. He rose once more and essayed to continue, but he never waved him back to his corner, and Dixon was declared the winner. The time of the fight was 26 minutes and 42 seconds. They fought to a finish for a purse of $5,000, of which the winner got $3,000 and the loser $1,000.

Hardly had the battle ended when Smith was put under arrest by a squad of police, for being a principal in a prize fight which took place before the defunct Cumbrian Club. The sheriff, at Judge Swaine's suggestion allowed Smith his liberty under the promise that Newton should be responsible for the defeated fighter until to-morrow, when Solly will be taken to Roby to stand trial.

THE WHEEL.

Two Colorado bicyclists arrived at Caldwell, Kan., the other day, having wheeled from Trinidad, 700 miles distant, in five days. They have fitted their bicycles with fenders and furnished them with outriggers, so that they can ride on the tracks of the railways, and thus they do 30 miles an hour with entire ease.

Harry C. Wheeler, the professional bicycle racer, has accepted the challenge issued by Cassiagard, the French professional, to meet any rider in a match race for $2,000. If satisfactory terms can be arranged Wheeler will likely leave for England shortly.

BLOW AT CASH PAYMENTS.

Toronto Star.

When an importer buys for cash cheaper than his rival who purchases on credit, he expects to pay custom duty on the invoice price, but the authorities think differently. They tax him on the higher price, thus doing much to deprive him of the benefit he would otherwise reap from cash payments. A Montreal house is the latest to experience this.

A. & J.

They say time flies, and indeed it does. To-day one thinks there is yet plenty of time to think about fall and winter dresses, mantles, furs, etc., etc. So there is if you only intend thinking about it. There is a whole eternity for that sort of thing. But we suppose that we are talking to practical, sensible people—those who are living and preparing to live. With what rapidly time moves along! Really, it is but a short step to winter. Everyone knows this, whether wise or otherwise, and we would urge intending purchasers to buy right now. No matter how the question of when to buy is looked at, there is no denying the fact that when a stock is fresh it is not only nice to select from, but there is greater likelihood of your securing that which is more becoming.

You doubtless are aware that our stock is complete, that we have never before opened a season with such a complete and extensive line of goods. To-day we quote some prices from the Dress Goods Department:

LONDON, Sept. 24.—John Burns, the labor leader, speaking at Battersea to-day, said that at the Belfast trades union conference all sections of the congress agreed that the day of strikes was over. The money of the unions, he states, must not be spent in strikes. Mr. Burns denounced the starting of public works as help for the unemployed, claiming that the remedies were the abolition of overtime, eight hours for a day's work, the abolition of the contract system, and forbidding the employment of children.

FRANKFURT, Sept. 25.—Another conference of the joint steel committee of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers and the manufacturers will take place this week, and the workmen will concede the 10 per cent. reduction in the finishers' department, which they refused when the conference was in session in July. If the question is settled at the next meeting it is probable that the mills throughout the country which are now closed will resume operations. The reduction will affect the wages of 10,000 men, and will give employment to 30,000 men. At present about two-thirds of the mills in the country governed by the amalgamated scale are shut down.

PREMIER THOMPSON AT BERLIN.

The Conservative Party Pledged to Carry out the Same Old Policy.

BERLIN, Ont., Sept. 25.—Premier Sir John Thompson and his party arrived from Elmira this evening at 6:30, and were escorted from the depot by the Twenty-ninth Battalion Band to the Walker House, where a grand spread was prepared for them. At 8 o'clock the party repaired to the skating rink, where a large crowd had gathered. In reply to the addresses tendered him the Premier said their object this evening was to set forth their policy as opposed by the Liberals. It had now become a question of free trade or protection. He claimed that free trade would be simply throwing open our industries to the competition of the United States, thus unmaking what we have been endeavoring to build up during the past fifteen years, namely, manufacturing and other industries.

THE GOAL WE NEVER REACH.

It was noontime in the city. And the crowd went whirling past. Where a little grimy footstep. From the street below at last. Leaning up against a wall. As he ate his bite of bread. While the people hurried past him To a more pretentious spread. "Ah, if I were but a salesman! That's the ideal life for me. Thus the little bootblack mused. "Nothing else I'd ask to be."

Twenty years, and now the salesman Has forgot his bootblack trade. In a life of ceaseless changes, And the vow that once he made. Now he sees the prosperous merchant, And the longing finds its way To his heart, and then he murmurs As he did that other day. "Ah, if I were but a merchant! That's the ideal life for me. And the busy salesman mused. "Nothing else I'd ask to be."

But when two more decades find him Busy in the whirl of trade. Resting but for just one moment In the quiet solitude of shade. And a rich retired banker. In his coach goes driving by. Then that same old dream of longing Comes again into his eye. "Ah, if I could but retire From this busy, fretful strife. So the weary merchant mused. "That is all I'd ask of life."

Then another score of summers Sees him in a mansion stand. But his limbs are weak and trembling. And his head is in a band. Now another bootblack hovers In that old familiar place. And the old dream of longing Comes again into his eye. On his young but amiable face. "Ah, if I could taste the sweetness Of that bootblack's noonday meal! Once again to feel the freshness Of that life of labor and toil. I would barter all the riches That this life of ease has won. Thus the wealthy man now mused. When that life is nearly done.
