

WILL STEVE ADAMS CONFESS AGAIN

Alleged Partner of Assassin Orchard to Take the Stand at Boise.

Boise, Idaho, June 11.—There is much speculation as to what Steve Adams will say when placed on the stand as a witness for the state against William D. Haywood. Orchard has said that Adams was his partner in many of his most desperate undertakings, such as the blowing up of the Independence depot. Adams, who came to Boise yesterday from Shoshone County, where he is awaiting trial for murder, is said to be in a sullen mood, and not likely to answer any of the questions. It is known that his repudiated confession is in the hands of counsel for the prosecution of Haywood, but it is doubtful if this confession can be brought within the cognizance of the jury, unless Adams himself consents.

Mr. Annie Adams, who has been in Boise since the trial began, and who is an aunt of Adams, in the court room, saw her husband at the county jail last night. Mrs. Adams is credited with much influence over her husband. It was at her solicitation, it is said, that he repudiated the confession he made last year. He went so far after making the confession as to travel to Colorado with General Bulkley and a party of men, and under the direction of Adams, evidence was discovered that cleared up the mysteries of the several disappearances. Skeletons of non-union miners who were believed to have been killed, but the proof of whose death has never been found, were discovered.

It is said that should Adams be acquitted of the murder for which he is yet to stand trial, the Colorado authorities will requisition the governor of Idaho, and will try him on the charge of the murder of Collins. There is some belief that Adams may yet repeat his alleged confession. Counsel for the prosecution say they are not relying upon Adams as a confirming or corroborative testimony.

Harry Orchard is on his fourth day of cross-examination. He shows not the slightest sign of fatigue. On the contrary, he grows apparently more cheerful and unshaken as every minute passes. He is confident that his Counsel for defense admit he is a man.

Orchard's Strong Story.
Today he will complete his story of the attempt to kill Fred Bradley, formerly manager, and now president, of the Bunker Hill mine, who was blown up by the striking miners in 1899. The prosecution attaches much importance to this part of Orchard's testimony. A number of witnesses are here from San Francisco to testify in support of the attempt on Bradley's life. As in the rest of his cross-examination, Orchard, under the fire of questions, has only strengthened his direct testimony as to the San Francisco story. He is going into the minute detail, and has given names of a dozen people who can affirm or deny. For instance, he said where he bought the strychnine for the milk, where he bought the powder, how and where he got money from Pettibone, and the names of the servants. He took the code of the theater, he said, in order to get out from her the habits of the household and as the climax of his

Orchard will be on the stand up cross-examination at least until close of the afternoon session, as it is possible that Mr. Richardson not conclude until tomorrow. In there is an idea that one of the poses of the close and exhaustive trials is to wear the witness out, unless all signs fail, Orchard will be the last man to give way under strain.

Boise, June 11.—When the Hay trial was resumed today at 9:35 a. m. Orchard, continued his Attorney Richardson continued the question the witness about the attempts he made upon the life of F. Bradley in San Francisco. Orchard said he roomed near the Bradley residence, being able to overhear it from his room.

Orchard thought it was the J. Powder Company that he bought explosive from.

Asked the appearance of the who waited on him, Orchard was youngish-looking.

"Don't you know there are stumps within 150 miles of San cisco?" demanded Richardson.

Orchard gave as nearly as he could a description of the various places he had lived while in San Francisco. He could not remember names of streets or the numbers of the houses.

he had taken to Caliente Sp

BRITAIN'S GREAT RAILWAY SYSTEM

Employs 83,000 Men, Carries 50,000,000 Tons Freight, Earns $76,000,000.

London, June 10.—Sixty-one years ago, when the London and North-western Railway came into existence by the consolidating of the London and Birmingham, Grand Junction and Manchester and Birmingham railway companies, its 420 miles of permanent way made it the largest railway in the kingdom. Since that time the length of the line has increased by nearly 1,600 miles, the capital is close upon $615, 000,000, while the company gives employment to 82,835 persons.

These figures will give some idea of the size and importance of the company, which claims to be the biggest joint stock corporation in the world, and whose revenue in 1906 was just over $76,250,000.

The question naturally arises, how many passengers and tons of goods carried are represented in that enormous revenue? The latter may be put down roughly at 50,000, 000 tons a year, while 84,000,000 people have traveled on the railway in twelve months.
To cope with this traffic over 3,000 engines, nearly 10,000 carriages, 75,000 wagons and 17 steam vessels are employed.

Those who have done long distances traveling on the London and North-western Railway must have been surprised at the remarkably smooth running of the trains, and the absence of that jolting and vibration which so often causes discomfort when journeying by rail. This is due to the fact that the permanent way—acknowledged to be the best in the world—consists of what are known as the heaviest section rails, each 60 feet long, and weighing 95 pounds to the yard. Then, again, the fact that the carriages are built with the idea of giving the greatest solidity and strength, as well as comfort, has a great deal to do with reducing the vibration to a minimum.

These carriages are built at the company's works at Wolverton, where 4,000 hands are employed, while the wagon works at Earlston, in Lancashire, give employment to another 1,500. The engines are constructed at Crewe, a town which has been built up by the London and North-western Railway.

Practically the whole of the 43,000 inhabitants of Crewe are dependent upon the company for their livelihood. In the works, which cover 116 acres, of which 36 are covered in, 10,000 men are employed.
And yet 60 years ago Crewe itself was merely a rude hamlet, with a few laborers' cottages scattered about, and farms dotted here and there.

To give in detail an account of the work done at Crewe would occupy a score of columns. It might be mentioned, however, that what is known as the Siemens-Martin house produces 50,000 tons of steel boilers in the same period, which in the plant shop 100 engines at a time are colored in the familiar jet, glossy black and pinked out with green, red and yellow lines.

The engineering works, which can be seen by any passenger on the system, however, are no less remarkable than the feats performed at Crewe. The Britannia bridge over the Mersey, the London and Liverpool station, Liverpool, and New street station, Birmingham, are marvels of modern engineering, while there are various tunnels on the system ranging between 1,180 yards and 5,340 yards, or over three miles. The one at Festiniog, in North Wales, which is nearly 4,000 yards long, has been driven through solid rock.

Although the oldest, Euston station, with its fifteen platforms, varying from 400 feet to 1,000 feet long, is still one of the largest of the gigantic railway termini in the metropolis. The signal cabin, which contains nearly 200 levers, the total number in use on the London and North-western Railway being 37,000. Altogether there are 1,450 signal cabins and 30,000 lamps have to be lighted every night.

Needless to say, the total yearly bill of expenses is no small one. It amounts to over $45,000,000, of which about one-third is swallowed up in general traffic expenses.
The locomotive power costs nearly $12,500,000.
The balance of the total goes towards paying for carriage and wagon repairs, rates and taxes and general charges.

"NOT FAR FROM THE KINGDOM"

Rev. Dr. H. M. Wharton Appeals to Those Who Have Been "Almost Persuaded"

Still another large audience gathered in Jubilee Rink last night, and listened with close attention to Evangelist Wharton's earnest words of warning and invitation, as he clearly and forcibly presented his Gospel message. Dr.
Wharton elicited an encouraging response on the part of those who were not church members, but who believed on the Savior to rise, including also those who were desirous of becoming Christians.

After singing a number of selections from the "Songs of Love Divine," Rev.
A. J. Bowen was called upon to offer a prayer, and was followed by Mr. J.
O. Boone, of New York, in a much-appreciated tenor solo.

The Lord is Gracious.
Rev. Dr. Wharton then read a portion of Psalm xxxiv., calling special attention to the eighth verse: "O, taste and see that the Lord is gracious," is thus God speaks of the religion that he has instituted," said the preacher. "Some have said that certain of God's promises must be held to invisible ink and must be held to the fire of affliction to bring them out. Of this character is the eighteenth verse of this Psalm, 'The Lord is nigh unto those that are of a broken heart; and saveth such as be of a contrite spirit.'"

Before taking up the offering, Dr.
Wharton told of an incident related by Rev. Dr. Hall, who while collecting for a worthy object met with an English lord who was asked to contribute.
The nobleman put off Dr. Hall with him, but would he contributed had been at home. Dr. Hall said that if that was the case he would go home with the lord. To this the gentleman replied that he had a lot of company at home; there was only one spare room, and that he was haunted. Dr. Hall replied that he was perfectly willing to occupy the haunted room, which he did in the morning when Mr. Hall came down to breakfast his host asked him if he had seen any ghosts in his room. Mr.
Hall replied that he had—lots of them —but he easily got rid of them, for when he passed his hat around among them for a collection they all left. Dr.
Wharton was glad his hearers were not frightened by a collection plate.

Mr. Boone here sang very sweetly a selection, "I Want To Go There."

Two Kingdoms.
Rev. Dr. Wharton took his text from Mark xvi. 34: "Thou art not far from the kingdom of God." "Everyone admits," said the preacher, "that there is evil in the world; but the Bible goes further and calls it a 'kingdom of evil.'"
And there is good in the world—morality and in people than we are apt to believe. Jesus made people believe that there was some good in this world, and he went about to develop it. So there are two kingdoms—one of good and one of evil. All of us are in one or the other, and whichever kingdom we live and die in here, in that kingdom we shall spend eternity.

The Tree Lies as It Falls.
"As the tree leans, so it is apt to fall; as people lean, so they are apt to fall," said Dr. Wharton, who was called to attend the deathbed of a man who was well known to have lived an ungodly life, was asked: "How did he die?"
The doctor's characteristic answer was:
"You know how he lived." There is a class of people who are a long way from the kingdom of God. There is the infidel, who believes in no hereafter; the drunkard, who drinks sense and conscience in the cup; the man and woman of the world who never think of the future—these are a long way from God. Oh, my friends, I feel we are not half as much in earnest as we should be, in our efforts to warn and save those who are on the broad road to destruction, and far, far from the kingdom.

Not Far From the Kingdom.
"The text says: 'Thou art not far from the kingdom of God.' Let us see who is not far from the kingdom:
There is the way of life. What a joy it is for us if we can point him to the road! Another is the one who is willing to be prayed for. Another is the one who will go alone to God and pray 'God be merciful to me a sinner!'" The hypocrite won't do that. Ah, there is strong hope for the man who will pray. But prayer is not enough—it is believing, trusting, surrendering to the Savior. 'He that believeth on the Son hath everlasting life.'

"But is it not sad," asked Dr. War-ton in conclusion, "that many who are so near the kingdom listen to all these warnings and entreaties, and yet at last pass down, down, to endless despair?"

"Is there one here tonight 'near' but not 'there'?" Like a vessel stranded in port, are you going to sink in the harbor of your hopes—lost in sight of home? Come into the kingdom—let it take the kingdom into your heart.
Let it be not merely 'near' tonight, but let it be 'there.'

Mr. Boone sang "Almost Persuaded," and at Dr. Wharton's invitation, a number stepped forward in token of their willingness to accept Jesus as their Savior. Rev. E. B. Lancelotti offered the closing prayer.

INGRATITUDE OF MR. DOOLEY.

The original Mr. Dooley, now gone his way, was a character well-known to George Ade, John McCutcheon, Vance Thompson, and many other Chicago newspaper men, long before Peter Dunne made him a national celebrity. It was Vance Thompson, by the way, who swooped down on the old gentleman in a sleepy hour, borrowed two dollars from him, before he rightly realized it, and vanished into the outer darkness while he was still rubbing his eyes. This little episode he subsequently referred to as "the hurrycane touch." Similar anecdotes of the old man's wit are cherished as particular possessions. George Ade has one that he entitles Human Ingratitude.
Late one night he was surprised to find the proprietor asleep behind his own bar. On being roused, that worthy showed a marked disinclination for business and a strong desire to be let alone. So Ade pulled down the blinds stacked up the cuspidors, locked the cash register and called a cab. With some difficulty he elicited an address and then, for what seemed hours, they journeyed over out-of-the-way streets until at last the cab-draw up before a ramshackle little box of a frame house with a stairway running up the outside. All this time the cab driver had slept sweetly. Out of the cab and up the rickety stairs, puffing and blowing, Ade bundled his charge. On the top step he lost his footing and the two of them rolled giggled-piggledly to the street. The old gentleman sat up, regarded Ade with the utmost indignation, and spoke the first words of the evening.
"Jarge," said he, "ye thripped me."

Manhood, Womanhood the Turning Point of Health

Growth, hard study and the tax of social life, entered upon with the zest of youth, is a severe tax on strength.
If strength is not guarded it may lay a train of evils that retard success, and the result is poor health.
Your son and daughter need something to tide them over the first great tax on vitality. Give them a fighting chance and insure them a period of perfect health.
Of what use is education if you have not health to carry out much cherished plans in the future?
Ferrozine will bestow that priceless blessing—health—on every weak, nervous boy or girl.

Two reasons why young people bless Ferrozine: First, it is easily taken, pleasant to the eye and palate. Secondly, it acts so promptly and with such certainty that the falling powers of the body are restored; the blood is renewed and the color is restored.
How delightful it is to feel strength and hopefulness coming back, after having been on the verge of physical collapse.

Take Ferrozine, give it to your friends, and watch the magical results. Ferrozine takes away that tired feeling and gives you a feeling of repose and strength.

Ferrozine is a marvelous tonic—the best medicine in the world for those in weak or failing health. Do as thousands before you have done, use it and get well. Sold everywhere in 50-cent boxes.

engaging in the English language, printed after a lapse of four centuries, artificial flies, constructed after her formulas, would prove as successful as any of the up-to-date creations.

LAND REFORM IN ENGLAND.

In the bill to provide for small holdings of land in England, now before the House of Commons, the Government gives evidence of an honest desire to remedy the evils of the present system, chief among which is the steady depopulation of parts of rural England, with the land under cultivation declining in area.

As a matter of fact, not more than one-third of the agricultural land in England is devoted to field crops. In marked contrast is the showing in Denmark, where the proportion is nearly two-thirds, the difference being in large measure ascribed to the small holdings of the Danes. In addition, the small farmer in England is at a disadvantage as regards fixity of tenure, besides having to put up with bad housing and unfair taxation. While land held merely to gratify the sporting shillings of its owner is assessed a few shillings an acre, farm lands immediately adjoining pay six or eight times as much in taxes.

The anomaly has led the Premier to assent to the principle that, for assessment purposes, land should be valued apart from the buildings or other improvements upon it. The bill, of course, largely experimental, making but a modest beginning. It empowers the local authorities and the county councils to acquire, by amicable purchase or expropriation, land suitable for small holdings. Two new commissioners of agriculture are to be appointed, who, in the event of the failure of the local authorities to act, will have power to proceed in any county in England or Wales, to take over land at an agreed price or under compulsion, and to charge the price to the county councils. Provision is also made for the leasing of property for small allotments for a period of not less than fourteen years, with the privilege of renewal. Lands are to be let in parcels of from five to fifty acres, the rental value not to exceed £50 a year, and the rent charge will be so fixed as to pay off the whole of the interest and sinking fund of the moneys expended in purchase or lease of land by the county councils. A credit of half a million dollars is to be given the board of agriculture by the treasury for the past year for buying lands to be broken up into small holdings.

The measure finds its opponents, as might be expected. For instance, Jesse Collings, once the preacher of the gospel of "three acres and a cow," now an ardent Tory, opposes it, because it does not go far enough; while others on the same side of the House object that it goes too far. Rider Haggard, who claims to have closely studied the subject, denies there is "land hunger," and does not believe the provision for small holdings in the country will check the drift to the cities. The London Times is almost savage in its attacks upon the measure. It says:

"To suppose that in any and every country successful small holdings can be set up on any land that a council may find attainable is to show sad ignorance of realities. By grouping small holdings, by giving to a considerable group a central creamery and packing-house, by connecting it by a light railway with some trunk line, and by applying the co-operative principle to its utmost extent in every way, the general run of small holders might be enabled to market their goods in such a way as to compete with the highly organized peasant proprietors of Denmark.
But without these aids the small holder in this country, apart from exceptionally favorable cases, has very little chance. Our fiscal conditions are all against him. Sixty years ago we had yeomen occupying their own land, and having all the incentives of ownership. We created fiscal conditions which drove them into bankruptcy. Is it reasonable to suppose that, with these conditions persisting, we can replace them with men lacking the initial advantage of ownership and equipment. A Government really in earnest would essay the feat in the best conditions.
It would buy well-chosen land in a ring fence, divide it into contiguous holdings with adequate equipment, give them all the advantages of cooperation and uniformity of output, and see what could be made of the experiment. But, as proposed by this bill, the experiment can only lead to waste of public money, to deterioration of the soil, and to embitter-ment of the unsuccessful occupiers." However, there can be no doubt the situation is such as to call for remedial legislation, and the Government given credit for a sincere desire to set the case. The measure is rejected in the country with popular favor, and for that reason the House of Lords will scarce dare to throw it out. The fact that the Opposition, the Commons agree with the principle of the bill, but object to its details is taken as the preliminary to a grudging acceptance of it, though as yet Mr.

Balfour has not spoken.

AS TO MR. FOSTER.

It is amusing to listen to the talk of Mr. George E. Foster contesting North York in the next election against Mr. Aylesworth, and of what a battle royal such a contest would be. Mr.
Foster's achievements in this line have not been such as to warrant these vauntings. After the general election in 1900 and until he found a haven in North Toronto three years later, Mr.
Foster was a sort of wandering Willie.
He was pitted against the late Mr.
Blair in St. John, N. B., the avowed object being to keep out of the House one of Sir Wilfrid Laurier's ablest colleagues. The result showed the former finance minister to be discredited in his own province, the majority against him in a constituency of his own choosing being in the neighborhood of a thousand. His subsequent meanderings in search of a seat are still fresh in memory. After his defeat in North Ontario, a Conservative riding before Mr. Foster crossed its threshold, he apparently gave up the idea of re-entering Parliament, and took a job in high finance, where he was destined to make a reputation which hangs like a millstone around his political neck. A vacancy in North Toronto, then a Tory pocket borough, looked like a special providence for him. The Opposition was as weak in talent as in numbers, and Mr. Foster was welcomed as a needed recruit.
Sweet are the uses of adversity, but not in Mr. Foster's case. He soon showed that his troubles had not mellowed or softened his temper or his tongue. Acrimony is his stock-in-trade. As a master of vituperation he is valued by the rank and file of his party, but he inspires little respect and no affection. In the House he is wont to talk valourously against Mr.
Aylesworth, but that he thinks of entering the lists with that gentleman in a constituency historically Liberal, no one who knows Mr. Foster will for a moment suppose. From all accounts the Conservatives of North Toronto are anxious to set Mr. Foster adrift and take up Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, who is a power in that constituency, and who is said to be himself desirous of shining in federal politics. If that is the case this talk of Mr. Foster running in North York is easily explained. But it may be taken for granted that he will not readily consent to being offered up as a sacrifice with the Minister of Justice presiding over the rites.

THE PROOF LINE ROAD.

It looks as though years of negotiations over the question of purchasing the Proof Line road and abolishing the tolls thereon are about to culminate satisfactorily.

The road may be acquired for $11, 000, and of this sum $9,500 has been pledged by public bodies in these proportions:

Ontario Government .....$3,300
County Council .....2,200
London Township Council .....4,000
The township's original offer was 25 per cent of the whole, or $2,750, and the city of London was asked to make an equal contribution, but refused. The township council having agreed to pay $4,000, the city of London is now asked for only $1,500 to complete the arrangement.

The extinction of the Proof Line road tolls would be a substantial saving to farmers and villagers in London and Biddulph Townships, but the city would profit also by making free the most important highway which enters it, just as it profits by a reduction in railway fares in this district. As the chief market and distributing center in these parts, London is interested in facilitating means of ingress.

The county authorities, especially the township of London, having shown such enterprise, the city should exhibit the same spirit. The contribution asked for is a modest one, and although not provided for in this year's estimates, it may be granted without embarrassing the civic finances.

The opposition of the Conservative press to the all-red line is another evidence that its patriotism is sometimes of color.

A clergyman has been appointed governor of the Toronto jail, but his congregation would be the first to resent the suggestion that he had had any training for the work.

It is a misfortune that Prince Fu-shimi has landed just as the function at the Armories has ended. A visit to the Japanese booth would have cured him of home-sickness.

Orchard confesses that he began his career of crime by selling cheese short-weight. It is a far cry from such an offense to wholesale homicide, but after all the difference is less in kind than in degree.

One of the objects of Mr. Perks, M.
P., in visiting Canada is to look into the Georgian Bay canal project, in which he is interested as a contractor.
This stupendous project appeals to the imagination of the country, but its commercial feasibility is by no means established. It would effect a saving of hundreds of miles compared with the St. Lawrence route, but the real test would be the saving of time. A vessel must go through a canal at a snail's pace, and there would be a much greater mileage of canals, and a more tortuous course, by the Georgian Bay than by the St. Lawrence route. These are factors to be reckoned with.

St. Thomas is a city of attractive young women.

PROFESSOR LEACOCK'S STYLE.

[Toronto Star.]
The Morning Post sniffs at Professor Stephen Leacock's literary style, not knowing perhaps that the professor taught it last summer at Jarrett's Corners, and is now trying it on the dog.

NO, INDEED!

[Washington Star.]
I try to love my neighbor,
To be gentle, kind and true,
And be cheerful at my labor,
And I nearly always do.
But there ain't nobody livin', Whose disposition is Contented and forgivin',
When he's got the rheumatism.

NOT AFTER THAT PLACE.

[Pick-Me-Up.]
Ella—Marry you? Why, you couldn't dress me.
Edgar—I wasn't looking for a position as lady's maid.

"HOCH DER KAISER!"

Bear-Admiral Coughlan, of the United States navy, who has just retired, will be chiefly remembered because he recalled "Hoch der Kaiser" at a dinner of the Union League Club a couple of years ago, and almost created international complications by doing so. The verses are as follows:

Der Kaiser von das Fatherland
Und Gott und I all things command;
Ye two—ah! Don't you understand?
Meinself—und Gott!

Vile some men sing der bower divine,
Mein soldiers sing "Die Wacht am Rhein," Und drink der health in Rhenish wine,
Of me—und Gott!

Dere's France, she swaggers all around,
She's augspeidit—she's no aground;
To much we think she don't amount,
Meinself—und Gott!

She will not dare to fight again;
But if she should! I'll show her blain Der Kaiser und in French she'll terraine.
Are mein—und Gott!

Dere's Grandma dinks she's nicht schmal;
beer,
Mid Boers und such she interfere;
She'll learn none ones die hemphere
But me—und Gott!

She dinks, good Frau, from ships she's got,
Under soldiers midt der scarlet coat,
Aoh! We could knock dem, pouf! Like dot,
Meinself—und Gott!

In dimes of peace breathe for wars,
I bear der helm und spear of Mars,
Und oars not for den thousand Oars, Meinself—und Gott!

In fact, I humor evey whim,
Mit aspect dark und visage grim;
Gott pulls mit Me and I mit Him,
Meinself—und Gott!

SOMEWHAT DISCOURAGING.

[Washington Star.]
"Do you intend to go to Europe this summer?"
"Yes," answered Mrs. Gurnor, "although going to Europe isn't what it used to be.
So many people are making the trip that there isn't nearly so much chance to get superior."

TO THE WINDS.

[New York Mail.]
Tell me, ye winged winds,
That, through my window blow,
Do you not know that ye should Have stopped some time ago?
For south, it is not March.
Sing a more fervid tune
Before the May is past,
Or over it is June.
The chill wind ceased its wintry blight,
And gently answered: "Oh, all right."

EFFECTS OF ITALY.

[Tit-Bits.]
Mrs. Money Bags—I hear you have spent a great deal of your time in Italy.
Mrs. Parvenue—Oh, yes, my dear! we quite finalized.

NO PAYMENT IN ADVANCE.

[Philadelphia Press.]
"Yes," said old Boxley, "my daughter is to be married next month to Lord Broke-leigh."
"Ah," remarked the friend, "everything's settled, eh?"
"Well, I guess not! You don't ketch me paying in advance."

ONLY ON SUNDAY.

[Cleveland Plain Dealer.]
"Did I tell you the story of the old church-bell?"
"No, I haven't heard it."
"Sorry, but it can be told only on Sunday."

THE PULLMAN HOG.

[Toronto World.]
We do not refer to the Pullman Company. Unfortunately some of its patrons imagine its porcine proclivities. It may be that every man on a sleeper should have a separate stateroom, including facilities for his toilet. But he hasn't, as yet. As a rule, of a morning, twenty men must use two washstands and two mirrors between them, in not much over forty minutes.
This allows in fairness to each traveler some five minutes for his ablutions.
What is often seen?
Two young men will take a stand and mirror apiece, and, after a leisurely scrub, proceed with an exhaustive toilet, including shaving. The performance usually ends up with brushing the teeth—a graceful act of courtesy which exhilarates the man who is next to wash his face in the basin, and gives him a hearty appetite for his breakfast.

A GOOD ARCHBISHOP.

[Ottawa Journal.]
Archbishop Bruchesi, of Montreal, has accepted the post of third arbitrator in the commission which will look into the claims of the "longshoremen" of Montreal for an increase of wages. Proceedings having been instituted under the Lemieux act, this young prince of the church—far from being a young man—may lay claim to a position among the foremost of Canadian publicists and philanthropists. He visited the Young Women's Christian Association the other day and delivered an

Kidney and Bladder Troubles

DYSPEPSIA BANISHED FOREVER

There are today in London hundreds of persons at work earning a living for themselves and families who a few weeks ago were suffering from some form of disease and unable to do any work or earn money for their families dependent upon them.
For these the sun shines brighter, the clouds have been driven from their future, and the benefits derived from Mun-yon's remedies are to our readers.
We are glad that we have been instrumental in adding Prof. Munyon to the ranks of those who have been instrumental in curing the suffering. There is not a man who has a big bank account, a man who is afflicted with any ailment life is anything but pleasant. Therefore we should encourage a man like Prof. Munyon who devotes his life to alleviating the suffering of humanity.

For more than fifteen years Prof. Munyon has been advocating a law to prevent the use of cocaine, morphine and other dangerous drugs. His improved homeopathic remedies are absolutely harmless, and are prepared so that any mother can become the family doctor. That they cure and cure quickly, is attested by the thousands of testimonials that have been given by our best citizens. There is not a particle of deception in any of Munyon's statements. He has made a practice of giving away millions of his remedies every year in order that people might test them.
He has been more than this, he says to everybody, "Go to your druggist and buy a 25-cent remedy. Take it according to direction. I will refund your money." Certainly nothing could be fairer.

His remedies are guaranteed under the pure food and drug law so that the people take absolutely no risk. We join our fellow-citizens in wishing Prof. Munyon all success.

Rheumatism Cured.
Munyon's Rheumatism Cure is guaranteed to be absolutely harmless and a strong tonic in building up the weak and debilitated. It cures acute or muscular rheumatism in from one to five days.

5c a Yard Extra for Making and Laying

Our English Tapestry Carpet at 50c a yard—the value cannot be beaten.
Choice of six splendid designs—all new this season. The colorings are particularly desirable in red, green, oak and fawn. At 50c a yard. Five cents a yard extra for making and laying.

Made and Laid, per Yard.....85c

Twenty designs in high-grade Tapestry Carpet. The richest effects in bright and pleasing colors, including red, green, oak, fawn and terracotta.
Heavy pile. Colors guaranteed pure wool. This line is made and laid at 85c yard.

$1.25 Brussels

That Cannot Be Touched Anywhere at $1.50 Yard

Genuine English Body Brussels Carpet, full pitch, four frame, with heavy, close pile. We do not carry a cheaper grade. We maintain that a "good" Brussels is the only safe investment. The difference between the cheap Brussels and our grade is instantly detected by looking closely at the pile. The inferior pile appears streaky; there is not sufficient wool on the surface of the carpet to cover it. It is wisest every time to get "QUALITY." We will be pleased to show our quality grade of Brussels. Patterns and colors are beautiful. Made and laid at $1.25 yard.

The Hound of The Baskervilles

BY SIR A. CONAN DOYLE.

"Well, surely his own wife ought to know where he is," said the postmaster, testily. "Didn't he get the telegram? If there is any mistake it is for Mr. Barrymore himself to complain."

It seemed hopeless to pursue the inquiry any further, but it was clear that in spite of Holmes' ruse we had no proof that Barrymore had not been in London all the time. Suppose that it was so—suppose that the same man had been the last who had seen Sir Charles alive, and the first to dog the new heir when he returned to England. What then was the agent of others or had he some sinister design of his own? What interest could he have in persecuting the Baskerville family? I thought of the strange warning clipped out of the leading article of the Times. Was that his work or was it possibly the doing of someone who was bent upon counteracting his schemes? The only conceivable motive was that which had been suggested by Sir Henry, that if the family could be scared away a comfortable and permanent home would be secured for the Barrymores. But surely such an explanation as that would be quite inadequate to account for the deep and subtle scheming which seemed to be weaving an invisible net around the young baronet. Holmes himself had said that no more complex case had come to him in all the long series of his sensational investigations. I prayed, as I walked along the gray, lonely road, that my friend might soon be freed from his preoccupations and able to come down to take this heavy burden of responsibility from my shoulders.

Suddenly my thoughts were interrupted by the sound of running feet behind me, and by a voice which called me by name. I turned, expecting to see Dr. Mortimer, but to my surprise it was a stranger who was pursuing me. He was a small, slim, clean-shaven, prim-faced man, flaxen-haired and keen-jawed, dressed in a gray suit, and wearing a straw hat. A tin box for botanical specimens hung over his shoulder, and he carried a green butterfly-net in one of his hands. "You will, I am sure, excuse my presumption, Dr. Watson," said he, as he came panting up to where I stood. "Here on the moor we are homely folk and do not wait for formal introductions. You may possibly have heard my name from our mutual friend, Dr. Mortimer. I am Stapleton, of Merril House."

Uric Acid Stones in the Kidneys

The passing of stones or gravel, as the uric acid formation is called, from the kidneys through the ureters to the bladder probably produces the most terrible pain that human being was ever called upon to bear.

Mrs. Walter Hornbrook, Cody's, Queen's County, N. B. writes: "I was a great sufferer from kidney disease, which the doctor described as the uric acid stones passing from the kidneys to the bladder. I had heard of kidneys to similar cases being cured by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and sent for some. Altogether I used seven boxes and was completely cured. That was six years ago, and I have never had a pain in my kidneys since. We are never without Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills in the house."

There could scarcely be a more severe test of any treatment for the kidneys, and when Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills prove successful in such cases as this they can surely be depended upon in less severe kidney ailments. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box at all dealers.

introduce myself. I trust that Sir Henry is none the worse for his journey."

"He is very well, thank you."

"We were all rather afraid that after the death of Sir Charles the new baronet might refuse to live here. It is asking much of a wealthy man to come down and bury himself in a place of this kind, but I need not tell you that it means a very great deal to the countryside. Sir Henry has, I suppose, no superstitious fears in the matter?"

"I do not think that it is likely."

"Of course, you know the legend of the fiend dog which haunts the family?"

"I have heard it."

"It is extraordinary how credulous the peasants are about here. Any number of them are ready to swear that they have seen such a creature upon the moor. He spoke with a smile, but I seemed to read in his eyes that he took the matter more seriously. The story took a great hold upon the imagination of Sir Charles, and I have no doubt that it led to his tragic end."

"But how?"

"His nerves were so worked up that the appearance of any dog might have had a fatal effect upon his diseased heart. I fancy that he really did see something of the kind upon that last night in the Yew Alley. I feared that some disaster might occur, for I was very fond of the old man, and I knew that his heart was weak."

"My friend Mortimer told me."

"You think, then, that some dog pursued Sir Charles, and that he died of fright in consequence?"

"Have you any better explanation?"

"I have not come to any conclusion."

"Has Mr. Sherlock Holmes?"

The words took my breath away for an instant, but a glance at the placid face and steadfast eyes of my companion showed that no surprise was intended.

"It is useless for us to pretend that we do not know you, Dr. Watson," said he. "The records of your detective have reached us here, and you could not celebrate him without being known yourself. When Mortimer told me your name he could not deny your identity. If you are here, then it follows that Mr. Sherlock Holmes is interesting himself in the matter, and I am naturally curious to know what view he may take."

"I am afraid that I cannot answer that question."

"May I ask if he is going to honor us with a visit himself?"

"He cannot leave town at present. He has other cases which engage his attention."

"What a pity! He might throw some light on that which is so dark to us. But as to your own researches, if there is any possible way in which I may be of service to you I trust that you will command me. If I had any indication of the nature of your suspicions, or how you propose to investigate the case, I might perhaps even now give you some aid or advice."

"I assure you that I am simply here upon a visit to my friend Sir Henry, and that I need no help of any kind."

"Excellent!" said Stapleton. "You are perfectly right to be wary and discreet. I am justly reproved for what I feel was an unjustifiable intrusion, and I promise you that I will not mention the matter again."

"We had come to a point where a narrow grassy path struck off from the road and wound away across the moor. A steep, boulder besprinkled hill lay upon the right, which had in bygone days been cut into a granite quarry. The face which was turned toward us formed a dark cliff, with ferns and brambles growing in its niches. From over a distant rise there floated a gray plume of smoke."

"A moderate walk along this moorland brings us to Merril House," said he. "Perhaps you will spare an hour that I may have the pleasure of introducing you to my sister."

"My first thought was that I should be by Sir Henry's side. But then I remembered the pile of papers and bills with which his study table was littered. It was certain that I could not help him with those. And Holmes had expressly said that I should study the neighbors upon the moor. I accepted Stapleton's invitation, and we turned together down the path."

"It is a wonderful place, the moor," said he, looking round over the undulating downs, long green rollers, with crests of jagged granite foaming up into fantastic surges. "You never tire of the moor. You cannot think the wonderful secrets which it contains. It is so vast, and so barren, and so mysterious."

"You know it well, then?"

"I have only been here two years. The residents would call me a newcomer. We came shortly after Sir Charles settled. But my tastes led me to explore every part of the country round, and I should think that there are few men who know it better than I do."

"Is it so hard to know?"

"Very hard. You see, for example, this great plain to the north here, with the queer hills breaking out of it. Do you observe anything remarkable about that?"

"It would be a rare place for a gallop."

"You would naturally think so, and the thought has cost several people their lives before now. You notice those bright green spots scattered thickly over it?"

"Yes, they seem more fertile than the rest."

Stapleton laughed.

"That is the great Grimpen Mire," said he. "A false step sends a man to death to man or beast. Only yesterday I saw one of the moor ponies wander into it. He never came out. I saw his head for quite a long time craning out of the bog-hole, but it sucked him down at last. Even in the dry seasons it is a danger to cross it, but after these autumn rains it is an awful place. And yet I can find my way to the very heart of it and return alone. By George, there is another of those miserable ponies!"

Something brown was rolling and tossing among the green hedges. Then a long, agonized, writhing neck shot upwards and a dreadful cry echoed over the moor. It turned me cold with horror, but my companion's nerves seemed to be stronger than mine.

"It's gone," said he. "The mire has him. Two in two days, and many more, perhaps, for they get in the way of going there in the dry weather and never know the difference until the mire has them in its clutch. It's a bad place, the great Grimpen Mire."

"And you say you can penetrate it?"

"Yes; there are one or two paths which a very active man can take. I have found them out."

"But why should you wish to go into so horrible a place?"

"Well, you see the hills beyond? They are really islands cut off on all sides by the impassable mire, which has crawled round them in the course of years. That is where the rare plants and the butterflies are, if you have the wit to reach them."

"I shall try my luck some day."

"For God's sake, put such an idea out of your mind," said he. "Your blood would be upon my head. I assure you that there would not be the least chance of your coming back alive. It is only by remembering certain complex landmarks that I am able to do it."

"Halloa!" I cried. "What is that?"

A long, low moan, indescribably sad, swept over the moor. It filled the whole air, and yet it was impossible to say whence it came. From a dull murmur it swelled into a deep roar, and then sank back into a melancholy, throbbing murmur once again. Stapleton looked at me with a curious expression in his face.

"Queer place, the moor!" said he. "But what is that?"

"The peasants say it is the Hound of the Baskervilles calling for its prey. I've heard it once or twice before, but never quite so loud."

I looked round with a chill of fear in my heart, at the huge swelling plain, mottled with the green patches of rushes. Nothing stirred over the vast expanse save a pair of ravens, which croaked loudly from a tree behind us.

"You are an educated man. You don't believe such nonsense as that?" said I. "What do you think is the cause of so strange a sound?"

"Bogs make queer noises sometimes. It's the mud settling, or the water rising, or something."

"Well, no, that was a living voice."

"Well, perhaps it was. Did you ever hear a blithering booming?"

"No, I never did."

"It's a very rare bird—practically extinct in England now, but all things are possible upon the moor. Yes, I should not be surprised to learn that."

what we have heard is the cry of the last of the baskervilles."

"It's the weirdest, strangest thing that ever I heard in my life."

"Yes, it's rather an uncanny place, altogether. Look at the hillside yonder. What do you make of those?"

"What are they? Sheep-pens?"

"No, they are the homes of our worthy ancestors. Prehistoric man lived thickly on the moor, and as no one in particular has lived there since, we find all his little arrangements exactly as he left them. These are his wigwams with the roofs off. You can see his hearth and his couch if you have the curiosity to go inside."

DESIGNED BY MARTHA DEAN.

A PRACTICAL SHIRTWAIST DRESS (4201).

Now that the season of the washable shirtwaist dress is on, designs for such are always in demand. Here is sketched a dress showing yokes in waist and skirt, both being novel in shape and very becoming. An inverted box pleat at the yoke line provides fullness for the waist and box pleats for the skirt. The sleeves may be finished long or to the elbow, and the skirt may be made with or without the yoke. Any of the chambrays, percales, pongee, mohair or silk, may be used for the dress; 5-8 yards 44 inches wide being needed for the medium size.

4201—Sizes 14, 15, 16, 17 years.

The price of this pattern is 10 cents.

DIAMOND MINING AT KIMBERLEY

London Syndicate Contracts to Take the Entire Output—Cutting at Amsterdam.

London, June 10.—The story of the Kimberley diamond mines began two generations ago, when two bands of Boer immigrants fled out of Cape Colony to escape British rule.

One of them, says a writer in the World Today, settled on a patch of gold 40 miles in extent, which has since become the famous Rand, and yields a hundred million dollars every year in the precious metal.

On the other hand, Burgher Jacobs off-saddled on a hundred acres of diamonds, and his little claim today contains an absolute monopoly in these gems.

His children used to play in the sand with bright pebbles for marbles. Neighbor Schalk Van Nekirk saw one of the stones, took it from the little ones, and the remark that it might be valuable, and the following year it was on show at the Universal Exposition of Paris as a magnificent diamond of 21 karats.

Two years later old Van Nekirk himself picked out of the mud plaster of neighbor Du Toit's the famous Star of Africa, which sold for $50,000. That was the beginning of the diamond mines which today employ 15,000 Kafirs and 4,000 Europeans.

The pits run in tubes or funnels many acres in extent, evidently forced up ages ago by volcanic action. At first a yellow ground was found, and men left the blue below this severely alone. But the era of open workings soon came to an end, although thousands of independent diggers made huge fortunes in a few months.

Today you will find depths of 5,000 feet in the diamond mines, and the bottom of the blue funnel has not yet been reached. Both blue and yellow earths, studded with diamonds like a geological pudding, are supposed to be volcanic mud.

Holes are drilled, and after the blasts are touched off, the crushed blue ground is conveyed to the mine shaft, 1,500 feet from the tunnels. Here the ore is sent into buckets on wheels and drawn up to see thousands of men, mostly negroes, earning $1.25 a day, perched upon the blue ground rock in the tunnels, patiently drilling with hammer and chisel.

Great stretches of ground known as the receive the precious ore; for air, rain and sun do the waste earth is not yet done. This is specially treated, lest tallored anything of value. That the precious diamonds worth $1,400,000 were recovered from these tailings last year.

A London syndicate contracts to take the entire output of the mines; and all cutting is done on the continent of Europe, chiefly in Amsterdam and Antwerp. The stones vary enormously in quality, and fetch in the rough from $2 to $200 a karat.

There is very little leakage, considering the stupendous scale on which the diamond mining is done. On year, however, a negro sorter was found to have swallowed $5,000 worth of stones, but a colleague broke this record by swallowing 340 karats of diamonds, worth $5,500.

The Kafirs are constantly devising new modes of smuggling. They will load their pipe bowl with small diamonds under a layer of tobacco, and vigorously puff smoke to divert suspicion.

Leaves of books have been cut out and one would think diamonds were on one between them. Other smugglers have gone so far as to infuse diamonds into themselves and cut valuable diamonds into these wounds.

Massanoga.
A lake, shaped something like a pair of spectacles—rather a pair of lakes joined by a passage some few feet wide—a lake immensely deep in part, with sunny bathing beaches, perfectly safe, along its shores. Beautiful woods all around, far of a native life, unspoiled and largely untrodden; and, befitting over the water, just at the bridge of the spectacles, is the grand old rock, the crowning glory of Lake Massanoga. "The Gibraltar of Canada" it has been called, and fitly enough. A mile and more long, hundreds of feet high, rising sheer out of the calm waters of the lake, impressively beautiful by day, positively awe-inspiring in the moonlight, is this great stone mountain. In its shadow nestles Bon Echo Inn, as nearly perfect a summer hotel as one could wish to find. Hotel seems scarcely the word for Bon Echo, so homelike is it—the hotel feeling lasts no longer than it takes our genial host to express his welcome. Canoeing, sailing, rowing, swimming, all may be enjoyed at Massanoga, and down in the depths lurk gamey salmon trout. Massanoga is a resort recently discovered, and known to comparatively few Canadians. But for people who want to get near to nature, and yet not out of touch with civilization, who want to enjoy glorious air, brilliant sunshine, cool waters and all the fascinations of a primitive region combined with the comforts of a modern summer resort, Massanoga is the place. The nearest railway station is Kalamath, 150 miles east of Toronto on the C. P. R. Illustrated folder and full particulars will be gladly mailed on request by C. B. Foster, district passenger agent, C. P. R., Toronto.

SPURNS IDEA OF YANKEE BEYREUTH

Nordica's Plan for home for Opera on Hudson Ricked
in German Circles

Berlin, June 10.—Germany's great music masters ridicule the notion that Nordica's "American Beyreuth" on the banks of the Hudson will sooner or later obviate the necessity of Americans coming to Europe to study music. Two artists well known in the United States, Professor Xavier Scharwenka, director of the Kłodworth Scharwenka Conservatory of Berlin, and Leopold Godowsky, piano virtuoso, who formerly resided in Chicago, were interviewed today.

"The Beyreuth idea is admirable if Nordica is really qualified to carry it out on a scale of sufficient bigness," said Scharwenka. "Any attempt to produce a second-rate, mediocre imitation of Germany's historic Beyreuth would, however, make America ludicrous. It would be naturally impossible to found a second Beyreuth in the United States unless America could simultaneously produce a second Wagner. It is not so much the excellence of operatic productions, but historic atmosphere, etc., which gives the Bavarian village its uniqueness."

"The chief drawback is the fact that European teachers are not likely to be willing to settle permanently in America, hence the disadvantage of a continually changing faculty. Germany decidedly has nothing to fear from the idea of an American Beyreuth."

"Nordica's project, in my opinion," said Professor Godowsky, "is destined to failure. Great America needs for the furtherance of her musical culture not an opera, and certainly not more Wagner opera. New York already has enough opera."

"I would suggest instead of putting hundreds of thousands of dollars into elaborate, and perhaps sensational settings, it would be better to cultivate European standards, our chamber and instrumental music, wherein New York is sadly lacking. I must confess that the whole scheme impresses me as one-sided. Nordica views America's music needs exclusively through the eyes of the opera. I think the enterprise would inevitably overstretch New York with too much Wagner. Moreover, the site chosen in itself represents a mistaken conception of America's musical wants. Only New Yorkers can easily come to Europe."

BURGLARS DRANK WINE

Smoked Owner's Cigars, and Played Piano All Afternoon.

New York, June 10.—John Young, who is some pumpkins as a concert singer and a musician, would like to know who were the burglars who "lady and gentleman" who jimmied their way into his apartments at 267 West One Hundred and Thirtieth street, drank his champagne, smoked his cigars and played his piano, and tried his music over on his romantic and tuneful scores.

Mr. and Mrs. Young were away from home and when they got back they found the lock of the door leading into their rooms smashed and within other invited visitors during their absence. On a table in the room, an empty champagne bottle that belonged to Mr. Young's leechbox and two champagne glasses. Alongside lay the stubs of cigars and cigarettes that formerly reposed in Mr. Young's humidor, and still further, on the door of the music cabinet, was pinned a note addressed to them in a woman's handwriting, and—Aha! Marvelous!—entwined in the knob of the door was a long, glistening strand of golden hair. Mrs. Young seized upon the hair and Mr. Young the note. The note read as follows:

"We need this music much in our business. It's very stuff. To save you the trouble we'll tell you what we've taken:

"Before the Dawn, Chadwick; 'When Love Is Gone,' Hawley; 'Phyllis Is My Only Joy' (here's where we drink), Weply; 'She Is Mine,' Mary Satter; 'Come to the Garden Love' (here's where we leave you). You can get some new ones while about this summer. PAUL AND VIRGINIA."

"Well, of all the nerve!" exclaimed Mr. and Mrs. Young in chorus. They looked around, but although there were plenty of valuables in sight not a thing else was missing except a score of "Pagliacci" and of "Aida," and a volume of Cesar Franck's, not mentioned in the list. They made some inquiries of fellow-tenants, and Mrs. Nathan, on the floor below, said:

"Why, yes, I heard the piano going almost all afternoon, but I supposed you had company. A man and a woman were singing and they had perfectly beautiful voices. I could almost imagine it was Sembrich and Caruso. They were singing something about Phyllis that was as sweet as it could be."

Mr. Young looked at the note and remarked:

"Yes, I guess they sang that song more than one time."

Who Paul and Virginia can be Mr. and Mrs. Young have no idea. If they were friends perpetrating a practical joke the Youngs fail to see the point. They are saving the thread of golden hair in hopes of identifying Virginia some time.

KAISER WARS FOR BIGGER NAVY

Opposition of People to Further Expenditure Does Not Affect Him.

Berlin, June 10.—In spite of the strong opposition of the majority of the German people against devoting more money to military and naval expenditures, the Kaiser continues to agitate for the building of even more battle-ships than his own plans called for two years ago.

Emperor William lets no opportunity slip by to impress upon the minds of those who come near him that owing to Germany's isolated position in the world she must have a powerful navy that she may hope to be left alone.

At the recent annual conference of the German Naval League at Cologne, it was plainly shown that it means little or nothing that Germany is represented at the peace conference at The Hague.

The Kaiser not only sent a message to the 300 delegates present at the conference, but he also sent a special representative, who at length told the conference what the Emperor actually thought, although he could not officially let his thoughts become known.

Addressing the conference, the imperial messenger, General von Hahnke said: "I am commanded to convey the Kaiser's greetings to the delegates present. His majesty desires me to thank all those who are carrying on the good work of the Navy League, which has filled the Kaiser with joy and pride."

The Kaiser hopes that the league will remain strong and united, showing the German nation an example of patriotism and spirit, which ought to prevail in public life.

To please their imperial master the conference then adopted a resolution calling for a quicker construction of new battleships than Germany had seen hitherto, and the appropriation of enough money necessary to give the country a navy equal to that of France within the next decade.

As a proof of the Kaiser's love of England and everything English, he allowed his messenger to say that no sensible man thought that any power in Europe cared for the friendship of England for its own sake, but it was sought after only because Great Britain has a powerful navy which renders her a valuable friend and a formidable foe.

Germany at the present time resembles a lonely man with a thin cane facing a group of menacing rivals armed with thick, heavy cudgels. No representatives of English or American powers were allowed to be present at the conference, while correspondents of conservative papers also over the country were especially invited.

ECCENTRIC ROSTAND

Some Crack-Brained Actions of the Great French Dramatist.

London, June 10.—Some very curious stories are being related in Paris as to the eccentricities—to put it mildly—of M. Edmond Rostand, the famous poet and dramatist. His utter indifference to the consequences of whether he works or not may be caused by the bad state of his health, but the rumors of a few years ago as to his mental condition are also being revived.

It is four years since he promised to finish his play, "Chantecler," for Constant Coquelin, and those who are most intimate with him go so far as to say that he will never finish this drama, or, indeed, any other.

A few days ago Rostand telegraphed to his publisher in Paris to send him to his chateau at Cambo-les-Bains. The publisher sent a return wire informing M. Rostand of the train he would take. Great was the publisher's surprise when on his arrival M. Rostand asked him to excuse his husband that night as he could not receive the visitor until the next morning. When the morning came the poet's wife informed the publisher that Rostand had decided not to leave his room that day, and requested the Parisian to be patient for another 24 hours.

The same comedy was gone through the following day, and on the fourth day, when the publisher, who had business in Paris, was obliged to leave

The backward season has worked wonders for us. The volume of business done in the past two months has been in medium weight goods, and these conditions afforded us an opportunity to put our factory making "two-piece" summer suits. The present outlook is favorable for warmer weather, and this means lighter weight clothing. Our style of two-piece summer clothing is without doubt the most up-to-date we've ever shown.

Single and double breasted models in the two and three button styles. Some made half and quarter lined.

The fabrics consist of tropical worsteds, homespun, blue serges and fancy chevrons.

We guarantee every fabric used in our clothing to be pre-shrunk, and will retain its shape. All canvas and interlining is cold water shrunk, and you cannot pull the garment out of shape. The new shrinking process installed at our factories is the most modern in the world, and is a positive guarantee against the sagging tendency always found in cheaply made clothing.

the chateau, without seeing the author of Cyrano de Bergerac. Hardly had he returned to Paris than he received three acts of "Chantecler," with the request from Rostand that it should be immediately set into type.

Before even this work could be commenced another telegram was received ordering the immediate return of the manuscript.

Rostand's conduct is described as a succession of wild eccentricities. One of his favorite diversions is to read his verses aloud in the chapel of his house dressed in his uniform of an Academician, and no one is allowed to enter the chapel while this performance is going on.

Successful Opening of Race Meet

1,200 See Opening of London Races; Straight Heats Decide the 2:50 Race

Peter Miller Captures Event—Ohio Horse Takes 2:10 Race—Run to London Owner.

Approximately twelve hundred lovers of fast horses from London and surrounding places were at Queen's Park yesterday afternoon to witness the opening of the June races, under the auspices of the London Trotting and Pacing Association, and all were indeed well rewarded for their journey, for never has the opening day at the local races been productive of better going or more exciting finishes.

Taken as a whole, the events were equally as well, if not better, paced than were last year's opening races, and Secretary Fraser last night expressed himself as being highly satisfied with the attendance.

Beyond a wind which blew up the stretch, carrying clouds of dust every where, the day was an ideal one for racing, and everybody thoroughly enjoyed the excellent sport provided.

But two incidents marred the day, and neither was of importance enough to spoil the day's fun, although they caused a great deal of unfavorable comment.

The racing association had provided an excellent band for the occasion, and it served to liven up waits between heats in fine style.

A Popular Win.

Undoubtedly the most popular victory of the day was that of Reminiscence, owned by Mr. T. Morkin, of this city and ridden by Kit Walsh, a local boy, in the running race.

It took three heats to decide this event, which was a 3/4-mile affair. The finishes in the last two heats were of the hair-raising variety, not a foot separating the two leading horses, Mizemast and Reminiscence.

The 2:50 pace, too, was of the neck-and-neck variety, and was only decided after four bruising heats had been run off.

In the 2:50 pace, Peter Miller, a Newmarket bay gelding, won handsily in three straight heats, although he was pressed rather closely in the last heat by King John, an Elora gelding.

The 2:50 Pace.

The first heat of the 2:50 pace brought together Peter Miller, Maud A. Roy Boy, El Paso, Sandy Points and King John.

El Paso came in under a "strong pull" in the 2:50 pace yesterday at Queen's Park.

John, Jerry Dillard, a Chatham gelding, was scratched.

Starter "Dan" Ferguson had his own troubles in getting this bunch away, but eventually, after five or six "seesaws," they were sent off with Peter Miller in the lead, King John right behind, and Maud A. following. The horses finished in the order named, with Sandy Points, driven by Dan McEwen, fourth, and Roy Boy, a big black gelding, fifth, and El Paso, a bad fifth, and El Paso distanced.

In the second heat the horses finished in the same order as in the first, although to an unprejudiced spectator King John didn't appear to be going as fast as he might have with better handling. At all events, W. Pulkinghorn, of Elora, who drove him, was taken out of the sulky, and Crumner put in his place for the next heat, which was the best of the race. When the horses came into the stretch in the final heat, Peter Miller led by a few feet, with King John and Sandy Points closely pressing him. Foot by foot the pair drew up on the flying leader, and it looked as though they would surely overtake him, but they didn't, although there was very little between them as they passed under the wire. Roy Boy, who had the "breaking" habit at critical junctures, did not run in the last session, while Maud A. finished fourth.

Intense Rivalry in 2:10 Pace.

Intense rivalry was shown in the 2:10 pace, and at the conclusion of the event Tommy Rombough, driver of La Points, who finished third, made things lively right in the center of the track for two of the other drivers, and a policeman before he was eventually subdued. During the scrimmage several blows were struck and a lot of bad language indulged in.

Incidentally, it might be remarked that during the last heat of the contest, Neville, who had charge of Colingwood Rooker, gave the worst exhibition of driving—and cruelty—that has been seen on a local track in a long time, and how he escaped being penalized for his "all-over-the-top" whipping tactics is something for the judges to explain. He whipped the horse all most constantly from the word "Go" to the finish, and kept up his unmerciful hammering even when he had second place in the heat secure, and could not reach Elmwood, who led at the start-off and never being headed.

La Points Close Call.

There appeared to be a great difference of opinion as to the fairness of the start in the second heat of the race. Many prominent local horsemen declare that La Points, who came very nearly being distanced, broke just before going under the wire at the start, while others held the opinion that the mare was down and going right as she passed under the wire, although she

TOURNAMENT WON BY THE LIBERALS

Hyman Hall Bowlers Finish With a Lead of Nearly 300 Pins.

The Liberal Club-ideal tenpin tournament was brought to a close last night, when the latter team won a match by a margin of 5 pins.

The tournament, however, goes to the Liberal Club boys, who have a lead of 279 pins for the series.

LATONIA DERBY TO THE ABBOTT

Colt Led Almost From Start to Finish of the Cincinnati Feature.

Cincinnati, Ohio, June 10.—Leading almost from start to finish, the Abbott, a colt by The Friar-Goodwood, and owned by W. J. Young, of Lexington, Ky., won the Latonia Derby this afternoon in easy fashion.

There was really no contest, for after Jockey J. Lee assumed the lead, he held his mount away in front and won by five lengths. Red Gauntlet finished second, five lengths in front of Beau Brummel. Six horses ran, being the largest field that has gone to the post in the event in a number of years.

When the horses went to the post for the Derby the track was muddy. This caused Old Honesty to be withdrawn. Summary of the race:

MILITIA OFFICERS ENTER PROTEST

Do Not Like Actions of Temperance Organizations—Advocate Camp's Removal.

London, Ont., June 10, 1907.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

We the undersigned senior officers of the camp of instruction now in progress at Carling's Heights consider that the time has arrived for us to publicly protest against the yearly attacks made upon us by officials of the Temperance Associations, which has the effect of holding us up before the whole of Canada as a drunken and intemperate lot.

We have all had experience at other camps throughout Ontario and Canada, and without hesitation, we maintain that there is no similar assembly of military men where less drinking is indulged in, and where quietness and orderly behavior is more rigidly adhered to. Because a paid official wishes to advertise his zeal, is it right that the London Camp should be yearly paraded as a drunken orgy, thereby preventing parents from allowing their sons to join the militia, which every young man with spirit and patriotism should do?

We see throughout the Dominion accounts of other camps, but never do we notice the annual attacks similar to that which occurs regularly in this city. It is well-known that at many other camping grounds grog shops exist within a few yards of the limits, where men are continually drinking, and the orderly conduct of our own camp is unknown, but nothing appears in print to that effect. It appears that the citizens and press of London stand alone in abusing their own. So far as we are concerned, Mr. Editor, we are heartily sick of these continual false and untruthful accusations, and would advocate the removal of the camp in future to some other locality where we may not be sacrificed to the fanatical attacks of a few temperance officials who are compelled to earn salaries even at the expense of the reputation of their own city, and us, the militia, who sacrifice considerable time and expense in order to make, as far as possible in our power lies, the defending force of Canada effective. We trust that all right-minded people will see this, that not only does such action injure London and our military forces, but, at the same time, does no good for the cause of temperance.

SYNOD WEEK MEETINGS

Important Conferences To Be Held on Monday and Tuesday.

Prior to the opening of the Synod of Huron on Tuesday next, two important voluntary conferences will be held—one at Huron College on Monday evening, and the other at a downtown restaurant on Tuesday morning.

The conference at Huron College on Monday evening at 8 o'clock will be open to clergy and laity and will be presided over by Rev. R. S. W. Howard, of this city. The subject for consideration is "The Office of the Holy Communion," and the first speaker will be Rev. R. S. W. Howard.

On Tuesday morning at 8 o'clock, the clergy will meet as usual for breakfast at Friend's restaurant, after which Rev. Dean Ardill will introduce the morning subject, "The Millennium," the first address on which will be by Rev. T. S. Boyle (Wingham). The discussion on this subject will be by Revs. G. B. Sage, of this city; Wm. Henderson (Warrton), and H. W. Snell (Thornhill). These conferences are always instructive and enjoyable and add greatly to the interest of synod week.

The secretary of the conference is Rev. T. G. A. Wright, Walkerton.

FIGHTING THE FLAMES

A Decided Novelty That Will Be Here With Forepaugh-Sells Circus.

Monday next will be circus day, when all the poster promises that have decorated the billboards, are to materialize.

The omnipresent clown will be there with a new make-up, but with the same delightfully-reminiscent smirk. The wonderful trained animals performing feats seemingly impossible, the equestrian, the hair-raising acrobats, the beautiful horses, the hundred and one pictured features will all make their appearance, and the long-anticipated enjoyment of circus day will be a reality.

The Forepaugh-Sells Show is practically new this year. The present owners have brought all their combined resources to aid in perfecting an organization which it is hoped will win for itself the distinction of being the greatest circus exhibition in the world. Chief among the many features is the spectacle entitled "Fighting the Flames," a decided novelty representative of a great fire scene. The spectacle will occupy the oval of a large arena tent. A scene representing a block of skyscrapers in the busy section of a city. The streets are filled with groups of happy, holiday-making people, bands of music parading. The alarm of fire is heard. Flames are seen bursting from the windows of a large hotel. Then the rush of engines and all manner of modern fire-fighting apparatus. There are 1,000 actors participating in this scene. May, Victoria and Orrin Davenport, a trio of equestrians, in a new and novel exhibition. Oscar Lowanda, bare-back acrobatic expert; Spessard's trained bears, in stunts that are said to rival in "Teddy Bears." Captain Webb's two groups of educated seal and sea lions. A unique exhibition of horse accomplishments, four distinguished prize winners appearing in one ring; the Dollar family, a troupe of English acrobats, eight thrilling hippodrome events, while the stages and circus rings are occupied by the different performers, just in the way of good measure, and meritment, groups of clowns, 40 in all, will circulate in the hippodrome oval, present pantomime comedies and laugh-provoking conceits.

VAUDEVILLE AT SPRINGBANK

Good Bill Secured for the Second Week of the Season.

The second week of the Springbank vaudeville season opened last night with a good, all-around bill. The bill contains a number of good turns and closes with the ever-popular cinematograph.

Medal and Corbly present a musical comedy sketch that is hard to beat, while Rhea Robinson, the child wonder, renders several vocal selections in excellent voice.

Prof. Pendere, ventriloquist, Clark and Stockwell in a musical turn, and Alice Vorsler, singing comedienne, complete the bill.

THE TORONTO SYNOD
Plans for a Building To Be Occupied by the Official Body.

Toronto, June 10.—The annual meeting of the Anglican Synod of the Diocese of Toronto commences tomorrow in St. James' Cathedral.

Archbishop Sweatman, whose duties since his election to the primacy have become very arduous, has asked for assistance, and the synod will be asked to vote funds for this purpose, as the appointment by the synod of a coadjutor bishop would raise the question of the right of the person appointed to succeed in the event of the death of the primate. Bishop Reeve, of Mackenzie River, has been mentioned for the position, and will probably secure the appointment.

A new church building, to be occupied by the synod and the authorities of St. James' Cathedral, will be considered. It will accommodate the church school as well as include a hall for church meetings, committee rooms, church offices, and quarters for visiting clergymen. The various church societies, such as the Missionary Society, Woman's Auxiliary and Brotherhood of St. Andrew, may also be accommodated with space if the negotiations between the committee and the cathedral authorities reach a satisfactory conclusion.

On a tombstone in a churchyard at Gower, England, the death of a member of the Benson family is recorded, and on the other side appears: "Also the body of William Denman Benson, Barrister-at-law, died —." Mr. William is not dead yet, having just been appointed County Court Judge, but it is confidently expected that the vacant space will be needed sooner or later.

The various church societies, such as the Missionary Society, Woman's Auxiliary and Brotherhood of St. Andrew, may also be accommodated with space if the negotiations between the committee and the cathedral authorities reach a satisfactory conclusion.

On a tombstone in a churchyard at Gower, England, the death of a member of the Benson family is recorded, and on the other side appears: "Also the body of William Denman Benson, Barrister-at-law, died —." Mr. William is not dead yet, having just been appointed County Court Judge, but it is confidently expected that the vacant space will be needed sooner or later.

Plans for a Building To Be Occupied by the Official Body.

Toronto, June 10.—The annual meeting of the Anglican Synod of the Diocese of Toronto commences tomorrow in St. James' Cathedral.

Archbishop Sweatman, whose duties since his election to the primacy have become very arduous, has asked for assistance, and the synod will be asked to vote funds for this purpose, as the appointment by the synod of a coadjutor bishop would raise the question of the right of the person appointed to succeed in the event of the death of the primate. Bishop Reeve, of Mackenzie River, has been mentioned for the position, and will probably secure the appointment.

A new church building, to be occupied by the synod and the authorities of St. James' Cathedral, will be considered. It will accommodate the church school as well as include a hall for church meetings, committee rooms, church offices, and quarters for visiting clergymen. The various church societies, such as the Missionary Society, Woman's Auxiliary and Brotherhood of St. Andrew, may also be accommodated with space if the negotiations between the committee and the cathedral authorities reach a satisfactory conclusion.
