The Catholic Record

LONDON, SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1914

TEMPERANCE NOTES

Some of our contemporaries are telling their readers the story of the results of drink reform in Finlanda country in which women have the suffrage. Fifty years ago the Finns had the unenviable distinction of being the hardest drinkers in Europe. Through the influence of women in Parliament, of temperance societies and of legislation, the Finns are now the most temperate people in Europe. Reforming, when conducted sanely, can always achieve, if not all desired by the reformers, some measure of

FROM TACOMA

In Tacoma, Washington, no saloonkeeper can, according to an antitreating ordinance, allow a man to buy a drink for another in his place of business without being subject to arrest. This ordinance if enforced will lessen the number of loungers, increase the prosperity of the household and have an astringent effect on the saloon man's dividends. We remember, however, that one saloon keeper in Detroit, with a due regard for his own and other's salvation, undertook to conduct his business in a manner consonant with morality and religion. Being obliged for lack of trade to close his doors within a very short time, Archbishop Ireland's comment was, "The decent saloon doesn't pay."

NEARER HOME

We wonder betimes why the gentle men who grant licenses are so well disposed towards certain applicants. We refer to the groggeries that are hard by the doors of the poor man. With doors ever open, always alluring, and the individual behind the bar, the "good fellow" who wears out neither brawn nor brain, always in good humor, they are a persistent temptation. We can never understand how the saloon man has any neace of mind. He must know how he is regarded by many families and he can imagine what is said of him and his business by wives and mothers. He can see the derelicts that float in and out of his saloon. But, seeking but the money of the wageearner, he strives to neither see nor hear and continues to be a factor in the increase of misery and poverty. And he is the only man who must be ashamed of his work. Other men take pride in their achievements. They represent industry, self sacrifice and brains. They are a contribution to the common good. They can sleep without being troubled with dreams of drink cursed homes, of tearstained faces of women and children. But we never have him employing some poor sodden victim to advertise his business and to proclaim that he is the finest fruitage of the bar-room

THE BIBLE SOCIETIES

Every now and then Bible Societies publish statistics as to the number of Bibles sent to India, etc. Their members are very optimistic about the result and assume that it is easy for the heathen to find for himself in the Bible a many sided book and hard to understand a guide of faith and a rule of life. Perhaps they who are the recipients of the bounty of the Society may try to rob the Bible of its inspiration and authority and thus qualify themselves for a seat among their western brethren who are the most ruthless destroyers of the Bible's sacred character. It has been said that it is this senseless scattering of the Word of God amongst the crowds who can hardly read and much less understand its pages, that has robbed the Holy Book of that strength and power with which it was endowed while it was carefully guarded by the Church from the touch of profanity and made it as useless as the dust trodden down the highways to oppose the floods of infidelity. Even James A. Froude, no lover indeed of the Church, says : " I think certainly that to send hawkers over the world loaded with copies of this book (the Bible) scattering it in all unassuming manner, but he is a man places among all persons—not teachbook (the Bible) scattering it in all ing them to understand it; not gency.—Montreal News.

standing like Moses between that heavenly light and them, but cramming it into their own hands as God's book which He wrote and they are to read each for himself and learn what they can for themselves, is the most culpable folly of which it is possible for man to be guilty."

Dr. Briggs, in Whittier, p. 21, says "that Biblical history shows that the Church is a great foundation of divine authority. If we go back of Church history into the Bible history we find that the Church antidates the Bible. If there had been no divine authority in the Church there would have been no divine canon of Holy Scripture.

Jesus Christ commissioned His Apostles and the Holy Spirit planted the Church and trained it in its earliest and most important lessons of life-institution and doctrine decades before a single one of the writings of the New Testament canon was written."

SOCIALISTIC FRIENDS The great ally of the Socialist is the employer who so contrives as to deny the employee the minimum for a decent existence, who uses him labor and then to fling him upon the human scraphean. The capitalist human scrapheap. The capitalist who looks upon the workman as a mere cog in the industrial machinery is a man who forgets what he owes to society and God. And a capitalist, as we mean it here, is not merely the one who sits throned upon money bags but one also who controls any force of labor. The man of moderate means, as well as the millionaire, can give facts which are seized upon by the Socialist as arguments to show that Christianity has lost its vitality. What Socialists can understand is effort to lessen misery and poverty and to cause the charity which we profess to operate upon the selfishness and injustice of the world and to find all classes in fraternal sympathy. "If there is one truth more distinct than others taught us by Catholic history it is that of the solidarity of the Christian people. So that each class in society has a duty of justice and charity towards every other class and each individual, according to his opportunities, towards every other individual." It is said that many of the working. men are too pessimistic, too imbued with irreligion to heed anything but what beckons them to a social resolution. So, perchance, it was said in the days of the early Christians, and yet, despite obstacles of every kind, a world tolerated with selfishness was cleansed and renovated and made into a new body whose soul was charity. And St. Francis of Assissi, the great democrat, conlove. Others before him had preached the same doctrine, and lamented, perhaps, that many were deaf to it, but he loved it, went about clad with it as a garment. He laid the hand of sympathy upon the sorrowful and miserable; he reminded the weak of their duties and forthwith charity blossomed in the hearts of thousands and gave a bounteous harvest of deeds. A man may be pessimistic and sullen, but, if not shnormal he will listen to any appeal which is made to his sense of justice and to his instinct of unselfishness. He is of the same material as were those of the days of St. Francis, and he can be influenced in a similar manner. And a modern St. Francis could sweep our world and make it clean. Doctrine generating achieve ment and backed by enthusiasm is always a wonder worker.

AN EFFICIENT MINISTER

Hon. Charles J. Doherty, the efficient and popular member of Parlia-ment for St. Ann's Montreal, has just been put to a test of his abilities. During Sir Robert Borden's absence he acted as Prime Minister. For the period of ten days or more he assumed the heaviest responsibility and the widest jurisdiction of any single Canadian. In addition to his headship of Government, the Minister of Justice was acting M nister of Agriculture, acting Minister of Interior, acting Minister of Labor and a number of other important, special and unaccustome duties fell to his lot. Hon. Mr. Doherty goes about his duties in an

LLOYD GEORGE ON ULSTER

They say they are called upon to submit to a Government they loathe and abhor. We have all had to do that in our time. We all detested, loathed, and abhorred the Unionist Government that came to an end in We may even yet have to submit to Governments we loathe and abhore. We shall take it philosophically; we shall not arm, we shall not drill; we shall not organize ourselves into battalions ; we shall not parade; we shall not salute; we shall not gunrun ; we shall not have generals and colonels and captains, nor even gal lopers. We shall just bide our time and vote them down when we get the chance. That is the very essence of democracy.

They protest because they have been driven from under the British flag. Who has driven them from under the British flag? They will have representatives at Westminster when Home Rule has been established of the army, the navy, foreign affairs, and every great imperial question. They will have just the same voice as Englishmen, Scotsmen, and Welsh-men. They will be British subjects just as much as ever. They will have much more to say on imperial questions than our kith and kin in Canada, Australia and New Zealand have at present. When they talk about being driven from under the

FOR EVERYDAY

CATHOLICS

The Pope tells us that all Catholic forces should be directed " with the greatest constancy and energy" to the solution of social problems.

All " Catholic forces! You, my Catholic reader, are a Catholic force, and for your co operation the Catholic Church is waiting. Be you man or woman, worker with head or with hand, you can give something to the something which others can-

You realize, no doubt, how much these social questions—sweated labor wages, housing, employment, care of children, and the rest—are bound up with the kingdom of God and the in terests of immortal souls. How much of our leakage from the faith is due to social conditions? How many people are kept from the sacraments by the barrier of destitution? These things cannot be put right unless we all help—unless you help! You can-not with a good conscience leave it to the politician—or the priest.

"But what can I do?" you may ask. "I am not learned, and I have few opportunities of influencing

I answer that you cannot help in fluencing others. Publicopinion (the chief engine of reform ) is made up of units; it is shaped by the thoughts and actions of people like yourself. At all events, see that your thoughts are true and your actions straight; let your influence be Christian influ-Catholic influence. How often syndicalism and the working classes and property. What about these things? You get your opinions from your newspapers or from the people round about you. Do you ever ask whether the Catholic Church has anything to say about these matters? Do you try to find out what her teaching is? If you would do so, people would listen to you. They would say, "This man knows what he is talking about. He has principles and does not talk at random." They might not agree with you at first-but they would listen to you with respect if they were honest, and the truth would do its work. For the Catholic Church has the truth in these matters. Her teaching has stood the test of time. She has the Charles Plater, S. J., M. A., in Catho-

LEFT CRUTCHES IN CHURCH AND WALKED OUT AN ABLE MAN

ILL SIX YEARS WITH PALSY-DISEASE VANISHED AT THE SHRINE OF STE.

Quebec, July 10.—Three rather renarkable cures have been effected lately at the Shrine of Ste. Anne de Beaupre, it is claimed. A Mr. Fran ois Xavier Dorton, of Rumford Falls, Maine, who had been ailing for some time past with tuberculosis of the right hip, was suddenly cured at the famous shrine on July 7th. It seems that he had been unable to walk without the aid of his crutches for the past two years, and had gone on a pilgrimage to Ste. Anne's in the hope of being cured. Mr. Dorton left his crutches in the church and walked out a perfectly able man. Another cure on the same day was effected on Mrs. Peter Lalonde, of Ottawa. She had been lately ill with dyspepsia, and had not been feeling well for some time. This case, however, is not a very certain one, and the parish priest of Ste.

Anne is anxiously awaiting word from the happy woman.

The most remarkable case was that of Mrs. George Marlow of Water-town, N. Y. She had been very ill with palsy for the last six years, had been condemned by several doc-tors, who stated that she would never be able to walk. As a last resort she went on a pilgrimage to Ste. Anne de Beaupre, and there she was cured of her wasting disease on the 24th of June. She left her crutch behind her in the church, as evidence of her complete recovery.

During the past six weeks some 5 cures are said to have been effected at the famous shrine.

ACTS OF THE HOLY SEE

THE CONCORDAT BETWEEN THE HOLY SEE AND SERVIA

The following is a translation of the text of the Concordat signed in the Vatican recently by the Cardinal Secretary of State and M. Vesnitch, Servian Plenipotentiary delegated for the purpose :

Art. 1. The Catholic, Apostolic Roman Religion shall be freely and publicly exercised in the Realm of

Art. 2. In the Realm of Servia is constituted an Ecclesiastical Prov-ince, composed of the Archdiocese of Belgrade, with its seat in the Capital of the Realm and having as its territory that which is comprised in the limits of Servia as it was before the treaties of London and Bucharest, and of the suffragan Diocese of Usküb, with its seat in that city, comprising the new terri tories, and passing from the juris-diction of Propaganda Fide to the regime of the common law.

Art. 3. The Archbishop of Belgrade and the Bishop of Usküb, to whose respective ecclesiastical juris-diction belong all the Catholics of the Realm of Servia, shall depend, exclusively from the Holy See.

His Holiness before nam ing definitively the Archbishop of Belgrade and the Bishop of Usküb, shall notify to the Royal Government the person of each candidate, in order to know whether there exist facts or motives of a political nature in

Art. 5. The Archbishop of Bel-grave and the Bishop of Usküb shall receive from the Royal Government an annual allowance; the former of 12,000 dinars; plus an indemnity of 4,000 dinars; the latter of 10,000 dinars; with the right to a pension at least equal to that of the employes of the State.

Art. 6. The official title of the Archbishop of Belgrade and of the Bishop of Usküb shall be: Most Illustrious and Most Reverend Mon-

Art. 7. Before entering on office the Archbishop of Belgrade and the Bishop of Usküb shall take on oath of fidelity in presence of a Delegate of the Royal Government in the following terms: "I swear and promise, before God and on the holy Gospel, obedience and fidelity to His Majesty the King of Servia; I promise not to take part in any compact, questions of the day—about strikes and legislation and trade unions and syndiculism and the method are sometimes a any enterprise tending to trouble the ranquillity of the State.

Art. 8. The Archbishop of Belgrade and the Bishop of Uskub shall have full liberty in the exercise of the ecclesiastical functions and in the direction of their dioceses, and they shall be able to exercise all the rights and prerogatives of their pastoral ministry, following the discipline approved by the Church; in their respective dioceses, all the members of the Catholic clergy depend from them in everything con cerning the exercise of the sacred ministry.

Art. 9. To the Archbishop of Belgrade and to the Bishop of Usküb be ongs the right, in their respective dioceses, of creating parishes, in accord with the Royal Government. To them also belong the right of nominating the parish priests. Still, in the case of persons who are foreigners to the Realm, they shall proceed by agreement with the Royal Government; and in the case of Servian subjects the Bishops shall previously ascertain from the com-petent Ministry as to whether there exist facts or motions of a political or civil character regarding them.

Art. 10. The religious instruction of Catholic youth is subject in all the schools to the Archbishop and the Bishop in their respective diocesss. In the State Schools it shall be given by catechism teachers who shall be nominated, after agreement made in common, by the Bishop and by the Minister of Public Instruction and Worship. The Bishops can forbid the giving of religious in-struction even in the State Schools by Catechism teachers who show themselves unfit for the mission thus entrusted to them, by informing on the matter the Minister of Public Instruction and Worship, in order to

Art. 11. In order to form young Servians suitable for the Catholic priesthood, there shall be in-stituted in the Capital or in its environs a Seminary to which the State shall furnish an equitable annual endowment, the respective ecclesiastical authority being charged with the care of organizing it and directing it according to the canonical dispositions. In this Seminary the Servian language shall be emin non-ecclesiastical subjects.

Art. 12. The Royal Government recognizes the validity of marriages recognizes the validity of marriages between Catholics, and of mixed marriages contracted in the presence of the Catholic parish priest, accord-ing to the laws of the Church. Art. 13. Matrimonial causes be-tween Catholics and between parties to mixed marriages celebrated before the Catholic parish-priest except as far as concerns purely civil effects, shall be judged by the Catholic ecclesiastical tribunals.

Art. 14. The Catholic party shall have the right to establish that the children born of mixed marriages celebrated before the Catholic parishpriest shall be brought up in the Catholic religion.

Art. 15. The prayer for the Sovereign: Domine salvum fac re-gem, shall be sung at the divine offices in the Slav or Latin language according to local conditions.

Art. 16. The State recognizes that the Church, represented by its legit-imate authorities and by its hierar-chial orders, has a true and proper juridical personality, and enjoys the capacity of exercising the rights which belong to it.

Art. 17. The Church has the right to acquire legally, to possess, and to administer freely property, real and personal, destined to serve for the ands proper to the Church and its institutions in the Realm ; and the objects purchased by it, and its founda-tions, are inviolable as the private property of the citizens of the Art. 18. The property of the Church shall be subject to the public imposts, always excepting the edifices destined for divine worship, the seminaries, and the houses of the Bishops and parish priests, which shall be exempt from taxes and can never be destined or em-ployed for another use.

Art. 19. The priests and clerics, secular and regular, can never be obliged to exercise public employment opposed to their sacred ministry and to the sacredotal life.

Art. 20. In the future should any difficulty arise about the interpreta-tion of the present articles or about questions which may happen not to be contemplated in them, the Holy See and the Royal Government shall proceed, by common accord, to an amicable solution, in harmony with the canon law.

Art. 21. The present Convention shall enter into force immediately after its ratification by His Holines the Sovereign Pontiff and by His Majesty the King of Servia. Art. 22. The ratification shall be exchanged in Rome with the least

TORONTO'S TAMMANY

THE MARCHING AND RULING BRETHREN

The Toronto Telegram, owned Mr. John Ross Robertson, who on Saturday "walked" for the fiftyfourth time in the city's annual Orange procession, announces that seven out of the ten members for Toronto in the Legislature and four of the five members of the Board of Control, including the Mayor, were in line among the marching thou sands. It might have added truthfully that about two thirds of the aldermen more than half the heads of civic departments, and most of the city employees who could be spared from firehall or street patrol or other necessary services were also in

Instead of being proud of this record Mr. Robertson and the thou-sands of the rank and file of the Orange Order in this city who give time and money and sole leather t the maintenance of the Order because they believe it is a strength to Protestantism and a buttress against Roman Catholicism, should begin to see how they are being worked by the "joiners" who are using the Order as a stepping stone to public office or to places on the civic pay It is amazing how invariably for the Protestant religion synchronizes, as Bro. W. T. White yould say, with a desire to get into Parliament or the City Council. And in not a few cases the less competent the candidate is to secure election on his merits the keener he is to obtain the votes of the citizens by circulating among the lodges at election time. The strength of the Orange Order in Parliament and in the City Council and civic service is vastly greater than its strength among the electorate in Toronto. There may have been 7,000 Toronto Orangemen in Instruction and Worship, in order to proceed to another nomination. The Royal Government shall remunerate the catechism teachers in the State Schools. The office of parish-priest is not incompatible with that of catechism teacher.

been 7,000 Toronto Orangemen in line on Saturday. The highest previous record was 6,004 in 1912. Let us suppose that only half the active members of the Order were in the procession. That would give us 14,000 Orangemen in the city. The total adult citizenship is not less than 100,000, so that about one man in seven is an Orangeman, taking the population as a whole. This small minority of one man in seven has at least seven tenths of the city's members in the Legislature, four fifths of the members of the Board of Control, two thirds of the members of Council, and a very large proportion of the city's permanent employees within its oath-bound brotherhood sworn not only to maintain the Pro-testant religion, but to give preference to their brethren by all reasonable means. We may talk of extravagance and incompetence at the City Hall till we are black in the face, but so long as the condition of affairs exists to which The Telegram's innocent boast on Saturday directed attention, the "joiners" will flock to the lodges, and the civic government of Toronto will be a reproach to the people of this great and progressive commun-

HEROIC CHARITY

The name of Canon McLoughlin, of Liverpool docks, deserves to live among the Catholic martyrs. Early last may he was in full health. Returning home, perhaps from a sick call, he found a poor sailor lying on a country road in great agony with severe internal cramps. It was bitterly cold, and the priest, without a moment's hesitation, wrapped the man in his own coat and supported him to the nearest surgery. The doctor said the canon had saved the man's life, but he himself caught pneumonia from exposure to the wind in his shirt sleeves, and died in three days fortified with all the last rites.—The Lamp.

EPISCOPAL MINISTER AND WIFE BECOME CATHOLICS

PITCHER, LATE OF COXSACKIE HELD SEVERAL NEW YORK PASTORATES

Rev. John A. B. Pitcher, D. D., and Mrs. Pitcher were baptized into the Catholic faith at Sacred Heart convent, the Bronx, Sunday. In Orange, N. J., Dr. Pitcher was particularly prominent, taking a leading part in all civic matters and in the famous hatters' strike defended the strikers vigorously. He was the rector there of All Saints' church, which was noted for its "High Church " service. From Orange Dr. Pitcher went to Elmira, then to Rome and until June last he was rector of the Episcopal church at Coxsackie. Then he resigned and with Mrs. Pitcher went to New York to prepare to enter the Catholic Church. As Dr. Pitcher is married, he cannot enter the Catholarge farm at Adams, he probably will take up some kind of social service work.—Catholic Sun.

THE CHARM OF NEWMAN

The following tribute to Cardinal Newman is clipped from "The Study Table" department of Unity, of Chicago, a magazine of the Uni tarian denomination:

Like a voice from the unseen comes a new volume by Cardinal Newman, yet here it is; this time Sermon Notes, gathered like precious leaves from scraps of pape on which the great preacher wont to jot down the notes of his sermons after he had delivered them. He seldom used notes in the pulpit during his Catholic years and these jottings, gathered into a volume by the brethren of the Oratory, covering the period between 1849 and 1878, make a rare book. They are characteristic, for Newman never put pen to paper that did not leave an impress of his soul. What was the charm of Newman? Was it his demand for reality—and his mysticism? Perhaps; but for some of us it lies in his motto, 'Heart speaketh to heart,' and, though dead, he yet speaketh."

YOU CAN HELP

Two things we all can do to make converts:

1. Lead truly Catholic lives so that our neighbors will see our religion in

2. Spread Catholic books newspapers among Protestants. Six copies of "Plain Facts for Fair Minds" or of Cardinal Gibbons' "The Faith of Our Fathers" can be bought and mailed to six persons in any part of this country for $1. Branches of the Catholic Truth Society should be started in every village nd city, so that members could give regularly 10 cents, 25 cents, 50 cents, or a $1 a month to the good work of circulating such books as these.

Many of our Protestant friends are kept out of the Church merely for want of knowledge. If they only knew it as it is, instead of as it has been erroneously represented to them, they would join it to day. Every Catholic should take to heart the duty that rests on him to propa gate the faith .- St. Paul Bulletin.

A good action never perishes. neither before God nor before men.

CATHOLIC NOTES

Father Godefroid, a Belgian missionary, was among the victims of the Empress of Ireland disaster.

The Cause of Beatification and Canonisation of Sister Teresa of Jesus, the "Little Flower," has been formally admitted to the Sacred Congregation of Rites.

Pope Pius received in audience on July 1, about 500 American midshipmen, 25 officers and 50 sailors who are on the annual cruise of the Annapolis Naval Academy.

The French government has issued a decree suppressing fifteen religious congregations engaged in educational work. This means the closing of 127 schools and affects the education of thousands of children throughout

Monsignor Cerretti, formerly auditor of the Apostolic Delegation at appointed Apostolic Delegate to Australia, will be consecrated titular Archbishop of Corinth on July 19 in St. Peter's. Cardinal Merry del Val will officiate.

The Right Rev. John Tohill, D. D., Bishop of Down and Connor since 1908, died July 4. He was born in County Derry in 1855 and was a pro-fessor in St. Malachy's College, Belfast, from 1878 to 1894. Before he was appointed Bishop he was parish priest of Cushendall, County Antrim.

Prince Max of Saxony is the only royal priest in the world. He is a rother of Frederick August, King of Saxony, and is a scion of a house among the oldest in Europe, which gave an emperor to Germany in the Prince Max is now preaching in in the slums of London.

The celebration of the seventh centenary of the birth of Roger Bacon, the Franciscan Friar whose learning was so marvellous, took place at Oxford University on June 10th. One of the delegates in attendance writes us: "The Bacon Celebration was a grand success and surpassed all expectations. Lord Curzon (the Chancellor of the University) insisted on being photographed alone in the midst of the Franciscan Friars who were present.

The celebrated Benedictine Abbey of Disentis, in the Diocese of Coire, Switzerland, is about to thirteenth centenary of its foundathe unique event will be very splen-did. The abbey was founded in 614 by St. Sigisbert, a compatriot and disciple of St. Columba, around a hermitage in the valley of the Upper Rhine. It remained independent till 1602, when the Council of Trent the Swiss congregation.

Another Protestant clergyman has joined the Catholic ranks and makes the twenty-seventh minister in fifteen months. The latest convert is the Rev. Henry Vernon Moreton, M. a graduate of Trinity College, Dublin, who has recently resigned the curacy of St. Augustine, Victoria Park. He is well known in various London parishes and has served in fashionable parishes in Fulham and Notting Hill. He was received into the Church recently and it is expected he will study for the priest-hood.

Since the wholesale conversion last year of the Anglican Benedictines in South Wales, close upon twenty five Anglican rectors, vicars and curates have been received into the Church in England, says Catholic Universe of London. With two or three exceptions, all are unmarried, and are, therefore, hoping to enter the priesthood. The Beda college, which is attached to the English College at Rome is already filled to overflowing with ex Anglican clergymen, who are pursuing their studies.

At Aix-la-Chapelle is the tomb of the great-Emperor Charlemagne. He was buried in the central space beneath the dome : but the manner of his burial is one of the most impressive sermons ever preached. In the death chamber beneath the floor, he sat on a marble chair—the chair on which kings had been crowned and, wrapped in his imperial robes, a book of the Gospel lay open in his lap; and as he sat there, silent, cold, motionless, the finger of the dead man's hand pointed to the words of Jesus—"What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lose his own soul ?'

Dr. Agatha Doherty, who was men tioned recently as having been presented at court, is a fortunate girl. She is not only young, and of good appearance, but the fairies at her birth gave her ability. To the great credit of the lady herself, and to the honor of Canada, she has just been appointed senior house surgeon to the new Hospital for Women in London. On Dominion Day she began her arduous duties, and all Canadians who read this will wish their young countrywoman luck. She is, by the way, a Loretto Abbey girl, and a Toronto University M. B. Miss Doherty was one of the Canadians present at the Anglo-American Peace Centenary Ball."—London Letter to the Mail and Empire.

AILEY MOORE

BALE OF THE TIMES SHOWING HOT EVICTIONS, MURDER AND SUCE LIKE PASTIMES ARE MANAGED AND JUSTICE ADMINISTERED IN IRE LAND TOGETHER WITH MANY STIBBING INCIDENTS IN OTHER

ST RICHARD B. O BRIEN, D. D. DEAN OF HEWCASTLE WES CHAPTER XXIV.—CONTINUED

"Shall I ring for a cup of coffee then?" asked Frank. "Thank you, I will take a cup of coffee," replied Father Tom. The Rev. Mr. Korner poked the fire; filled his glass of wine and drank it. He then radiantly looked Frank in the face, as if to say, "I am ready.

The priest very quietly said," Well

You must know I am not a Cath olic," said Frank, addressing Father Tom, "and, in fact, I have been, or perhaps I should say had been, grad-ually sinking into indifference. I have been aroused, and I wish to tell Mr. Korner of a very recent event."

Where did it occur ?" demanded Mr, Korner.
"In the south of Ireland."

You were present, sir ?" said the clergyman.

Yes," answered young Tyrrell. "A young lady," Twrrell continued,
"had been constantly attacked by a huge rat. Night after night, and day after day, it assaulted her."
"Well," said Mr. Korner, as if demand," What on earth of that?"

"It passed over the sea in pursuit of her, and was found again in her own abode on her return home."

"An 'obsession,' " remarked Father Tom, in his usual soft voice. "Precisely so, reverend sir. The 'obsession' continued six months and a half. The girl's face and neck were one wound—one frightful col-lection of lacerations and scars. She had been driven mad. I saw her in that condition with my own eyes-black, torn, bleeding, and desperate.

Well ?" again said Korner. And I saw her well and happy The rat left her?" said Korner.

"I saw proved by the evidence of ty senses," continued Frank, "that my senses," continued Frank, " that the monster attacked her as usual at a certain hour! I saw the lady ex-orcised," he said, turning to the Catholic clergyman; "and I have seen her ever since well and happy." The minister looked under the grate, where for some time he had en pursuing something white with the point of the poker.

"Well," said he, straightening his body again, "and pray what proof had you, and how many saw the phen omenon? and - give us all, in fact.

Certainly," said Frank, with a smile. Mr. Korner had become very familiar in his manners, and very red in the face, as we have remarked be fore. "Well, sir," said Frank, "the demon, as I firmly believe it was, al ways attacked her when she was left alone, or in the dark of the dreary Of the latter fact, we had th solemn declaration of an innocent and sensible girl to convince us. She often heard its approach and its de-We formed a mixed jury of Protestants and Catholics : we brought the young lady to a room entirely denuded of furniture: we firmly nailed an arm chair in the mids of the room; we put a strait waist coat on the young person, and a sol dier's stick under her neck-this last precaution being taken to save her throat, in the expected assault. We placed her in the chair, and tied one ankle to the chair-leg; we left her in a state of utter incapacity to stir body, hand, arm, or head. The left foot alone remained free to enable her to give notice of any attack by knocking on the floor."

Very shocking !" said Korner. "Well, sir?" said Father Tom, in an under tone.

We then taped the windowsashes, sealed them; we stopped the entrance to the chimney, and sealed We locked the door, sealed the keyhole, and left her to her fate, said Frank. But you did ?" said Korner.

Awful," ejaculated Father Tom "How many of you put your seals on the door?" asked Mr. Korner.

Myself and two others," answered Frank Tyrrell. And then, sir?" demanded Father Tom, in the usual low tone. We had not waited long when knocking was heard over-head—we had retired to the room underneath."

You went up, of course?" asked

Mr. Korner.

"Yes; and the effect produced on me will last as long as life."

"Dear me!" said the priest. We slowly unsealed the key-holes having examined them jointly and severally, and found the impressions unstirred; we unlocked the door, and looked in—the sight was terrible. There was the poor young lady; her face was black and livid; her eyes were fixed, and glaring from beneath her brows she frothed in convulsions, and spat forth blood and foam at every frightful spasm; her cheeks were laid open in wounds and bites she appeared on the verge of a sudden death."

"There was nothing left in the room, you say?" asked Mr. Korner. "A servant-girl in our presence re-moved even the pins of the 'obsessed' girl's dress."

"Heh!" said Mr. Korner.

"May I request you will conclude your most interesting narrative?" said Father Tom, finishing his coffee at a draught—it had got quite cold, in

Certainly; the most wonderful part remains to be spoken," said

Frank. "The confessor of the young lady was accompanied by two other clergymen. And having by great exertion restored the poor thing, the room was prepared for the Mass. I must confess, Mr. Korner," he said, addressing the Protestant clergyman "I felt subdued—awed in the pres ence of the invisible world. The room was not strongly lighted, and it was a dark November day; and when the candles were placed on the white covered altar, and the large Mass book on the right-hand side, and the shining chalice in the middle, and the priest stood there clad in white, and the poor pale girl knelt before him, and he commenced, in the language of departed generations, the 'Judica me, Deus,' 'Judge me, O God!' I felt like one going to stand his trial for eternity."

The Catholic clergyman crossed nimself involuntarily; the Rev. Mr.

Korner gave the fire a poke.
"At the close of the Mass," Frank continued, "the young lady received Communion; for she had never, you snow, ceased to be exceedingly igious.

Very good," said the priest. "Shortly after, the exorcism, com-menced. Turned towards the lady, who knelt before him, while we stood witnesses of the deed, the clergyman took a large book in his hands, and with a look like one who commanded earth and hell in the name of God, he raised his right hand aloft, mak ing the sign of the Cross. Then he commanded the spirit to be gone, in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost; then he announced that the 'mystery of the Cross,' 'the faith of the Apostles,' and 'the blood of the martyrs. commanded the evil one's departure He adjured the demon, 'in the name of the immaculate Lamb;' he cried aloud that the 'Word made flesh commanded the evil one to fly 'Jesus, the Nazarene,' commanded it, and 'Jesus, born of the Virgin.' She, the girl, fell on the floor—pale, cold and rigid she was; and then she shrieked-such shrieks as I never had heard or imagined. Convulsions followed so terrific, that five women were unable to keep her steady by their weight; she raised them off the floor, as children are raised by Father Tom shook from head to foot, and Mr. Korner snuffed the can

"I remarked," continued Frank "that when the 'adjurations' were pronounced, the most terrible effect seemed to follow. The girl shrieked then, and tore away through the women who held her, as though she was flying from the embrace of fire An amiable-looking clergyman, whom I now well know, suggested to the Exorcist to change the 'adjurations, and the strong expressions, which appeared to produce these effects, and to use some indifferent Latin words in the same tone of voice. I thanked him from my heart-for the thought just struck me; not that I was savage enough to doubt the poor sufferer, but people, sir," he said, turning to Father Tom,—"people will look for perfect satisfaction. Three times the priest pronounced the words of his ritual, and at each adjuration she appeared as if suddenly lung into hell; between each them he pronounced some rules of syntax, precisely in the same tone, and she lay apparently calm and ex hausted.

"Thank God!" cried Father Tom

in ecstasy.
"Hem?" cried Mr. Korner. "I remarked precisely the same effects, apparently produced by blessed water," continued Frank,

"and the same good priest was determined to tranquillize me, it had been produced by the blessed water, he substituted common water; and I assure you, on my honor, no change whatever followed the use of it. The clergyman then returned to the use of the blessed water, and having cast it upon her, she shrieked and bounded with the power of ten devils. This experiment was repeated three times, and each change from one water to the other was fol lowed by precisely the same change of effects Well, the upshot was ?" said Mr Korner.

The young lady remained calm tranquil and happy, and has so con tinued to this hour."

Where does she live?" asked Korner. Frank smiled.
"Well, pardon me; but I like to know dates and persons."

"No difficulty regarding her," said

How ?" You have travelled with her to day."

"My God!" cried Korner."
"A fact," said Frank. "She is govenor square, London.' "Grosvenor square !" again cried Ir. Korner; "oh, that changes the

Mr. Korner ; ' matter somewhat. She's respect-"Quite."

"You are a Protestant?" said Father Tom, looking at Frank with great sweetness.

"No, not that exactly," said Frank "Iam going to be something, I think, after witnessing the case of Emma

CHAPTER XXV

ROME IN 1846 The 8th of September, 1846, was great day in Rome. No triumph of consul or imperator ever awakened the echo of that day's joy, or shad-owed the magnificence of its pagent. Standards of every color waved among garlands of odorous flowers, and the nusic and song of jubilee swelled up to heaven from church, chapel, street, and square. The population now rushed to the altars' feet, to sing canticles of thanksgiving, and then in tens of thousands thronged the ublic ways from morning till late evening, giving expression to an en-thusiasm which indulgence seemed only to strengthen. How magnifient Rome looked on that day! and now beautiful it was to see her gathered around the Sovereignty of nineteen centuries, and praying to he Mother of the Church to t forever. Viva Pio Nono! was he cry; and the name in whose virtue she prayed for the chair of Peter was the name of the Virgin Mary.

Just three months and one day had passed over since the death of Gregory XVI.; and even those who be held the gradual operation of the Papal counsels wondered at the changes which had been wrought changes which had been wrought already. Prosperity seemed to have entered every home, and happiness to have entered every heart. Con ies were no longer apprehend ed, and prisons and punishments no longer feared; confidence in the present and hope in the future seemed to inspire commerce, industry patriotism and religion.

six or seven weeks had passed since the Supreme Pontiff nad opened the prison doors to proclaim liberty to the captive, and stood on the frontiers of his kingdom to welcome back the exile. He longed to embrace the repentant children who pleaded the love of Rome for the violation of their allegiance, and who, having been taught by experience the folly of treason, had sought the opportunity of expiating their crime by service to their country.

And the father of the faithful had good reason to be gratified at his magnanimous resolution at his magnanimous resolution, and at the apparent devotedness with which the prodigals knelt around his throne. No form of promise was sufficient for their conextraordinary declarations, in order to satisfy the passionate ardor of their gratitude. One swore "by the head of himself and his family" be faithful: another that " he would spill the last drop of his blood " for the Holy Father; another result his clock to entertain a guest—nounced his place in Paradise, if he had not the price of a flask of ver he proved unfaithful to the oath of honor which he had sworn ; and the famous conspirators, Renzi and Galletti, became so affected that, language being denied to them, they expressed their feelings in the deep obs of manhood.

The Piazzo del Popolo upon that away with !"

"Made away with ?" day spoke eloquently the enthusiasm of "the people," after whom it has been named. At early dawn were seen the outlines of a triumphal arch, more beautiful and majestic than that of Constantine; and as the growing light expanded the arms of the grand area, the figure of Pius IX. stood revealed, crowning the re presentations of "Hope" and "Victory,"—with "Justice," at his right hand, and surrounded by the emblems of "Art," "Industry," and "Commerce." Facing the long and magnificent street called the Corso." was the inscription :

HONOR AND GLORY TO PIUS THE NINTH. FOR WHOM ONE DAY SUFFICED

TO GIVE CONSOLATION TO HIS SUBJECTS AND TO ASTONISH MANKIND

And on the side which faced the gate of the Piazza, the grateful soul of Rome announced that this arch was to give honor "To Pius the Ninth, thirty-one days of whose wonderful pontificate would be sufficient to accumulate glories upon the most proeous act of magnanimous clemency. destroyed the ancient hatreds party, planting the standard of peace upon the Church of Christ, Rome mindful, grateful, applauding, dutiful, dedicated (this arch) on the 8th day of September, 1846."

One of the first who came to view the pageant was a gray-haired man of sixty-six or more. He was soon joined by a younger and more powerful looking person—that is, by a man of forty-two. This latter was muffled in his cloak, and his hat was slouched over eyes characteristically large and flashing.

Although not yet 5 o'clock in the morning, the Piazza commenced to fill. Strangers appeared anxious to he near the spot which was to place the Pontiff in the heart's affections of Rome, and where Rome was to glory in crowning her son and sovereign The fair haired German, the grave Spaniard, the ever active, apparently impulsive, but still resolute Frenchman; the Englishman, with folded arms, looking reservedly, and ever so little contemptuously at the whole people and preparations; and the Scotchman, calculating the prob able cost at which he might pick up many things belonging to the triumphal arch, in order to present them to his friends, or any others who could pay a fair price for his trouble and success; all were there

At 7 o'clock the blazing glory of an Italian sun flung its wreathes of golden light around a scene which Rome had never before beheld, and which it is probable her future history will equal. The Pinchin hill is on the left of the Piazza, and from its lofty eminence tens of thousands look down in expectation upon countless thousands below; while these again, gazing along a street of palaces, contemplate the thousands gathering still, who, with radiant smiles and hearty cheers, pass under flowered archways which span the street—away, away, as far as the eye can reach. The Contadini, in their a shadow had just departed.

antic costume : the women and girls in their veils of pure white; and the men with their turned up hats and the flaunting feathers or gay flowers; the black gowns and broad beavers of the clergy; the shaven crown and brown habit of the monk, the long-bearded Capuchin, the pale and severe Jesuit, the white-robed Dominicans, the young and fresh stu-dents from the universities and colleges, the assemblages of men from every clime, and the sounds of every tongue, at once reminded you that you were in the capital of the human race and the Christian religion, and that the rule of the Messiah was from "the rising to the setting the sun," and "from sea to sea." The old man mentioned above got very near the triumphal arch, and was anxiously gazing on the various inscriptions, occasionally turning to some one near, particularly to the younger or middle aged man whom we have introduced to the reader Having succeeded in satisfying his curiosity, he began to look among his companions, many of whom he questioned as to where the Pope would stand, and the exact route he would take, and the number would immediately surround him: in fact, the old man was so curious, and so precise, that had he been younger, or Pio IX, less popular, he might have endangered his liberty by his extreme curiosity. You are very inquisitive," said the man in the cloak. Poor Imola!" was the old man's reply.

"You are from Imola?" "Not exactly, but I know it well-very well," said the old man.

You saw Pio IX. there?" marked another. Every one that was poor saw Monsignore Mastai—poor Imola!"
"Ah! he was very good," remarked a young woman.

"Per Bacco!" said the old man he was poorer than any beggar in Imola.

Really ?" "Really! why, cara mia, he often wanted his dinner."
"His dinner!—Monsignore Mastai

-that is, our Holy Father want his dinner! Not two months before he becam the head of the Christian Church, he

" Dio Mio !" "Beyond doubt," said the old man

"and he found his majordomo thrust-ing the butler out of the house for the loss of his last silver cup, which he himself had stolen and made

"Yes, per Bacco! the monsignore had got it sold and given the price of it to the poor, unknown to the major domo ; because, you see, monsignor had nothing else to give, and the majordomo thought that his fellowservant had stolen it." Well?" said three of them together. Well, Monsignore Mastai-that is, the Pope-heard the uproar in the hall-

And-" said the girl. "And he came down and accused himself," said the old man, trium-phantly. "Oh! monsignore—that is, the Pope," said the old, man been sent by God, I am sure."
"That he has," said the woman. 'You know monsignore, too ?" said the old man, turning to the young woman. But do not be calling the Holy Father 'monsignore,' "said the young woman, in reply; "I do know the Holy Father, because he knows every one, and makes every unhappy one know him. The man in the cloak looked at her earnestly. "You are right," said the man in the cloak. "I am." she answered. "Two or three days ago, my poor old mother was hungry, and I prayed. Oh, we both prayed so to the Madonna! but I could get no immediate employ-ment, and I did not know what to do. At last I made up my mind to go to the Jews. You see," she continued, I had my gold cross, which I always wear on festival days," and she pointed to a rich though chaste golden cross, which she wore. "I deter mined of course to sell it for my mother, but only for my mother, for I do so love the little gold cross! and it has come down to me through so many generations. I went to the Jew, and I showed him my treasure, and my heart bled when he took it into his hands, and turned it over and over and the tears flowed down my cheeks. so that even the Jew seemed to pity me, for he was not hard, and he ga me the full value of it very nearly. Well, I ran home very fast, and I must have looked wild, for my heart beat, and I felt a tearing within me but passing through the Via degli Apostoli, my eyes met the Madonna's fgure, and I remembered the sword that pierced her. I turned only into one shop to buy bread, and a little wine, and then I ran for home, where I found my mother weak, oh very weak. 'Madre mia!' I cried, 'here's wine and bread! God has sent us wine and bread, and we shall soon have plenty. She looked up at me, and demanded where I got it, and I was obliged to tell her all: but I comforted her by saying that Pio IX would now get bread for his people and that I was sure the good Jew would give me back my cross, and that the Madonna would pray to her Son for his conversion. Will you believe it? at that moment a golden piece fell at my feet, as if from heaven! I cried aloud 'A miracle!'

and I turned to the door, from which mother almost got well, and I got my cross, my darling cross, again."

"But the Pope?" asked a young and handsome man, a foreigner, who had joined the group just as she com menced her narrative.

"You shall see!" she said; and with a care quite reverential, she drew forth from her bosom a silk pocket-book, evidently made for a pecial purpose, and deliberately un doing various strings, she produced a neatly folded note, containing the following words: My dear daughter-You were right to hope in God; He never abandons filial piety. You are right to hope in Pius IX.; he will take care that you and your mother shall no die of hunger."

An amiable looking Englishman offered the girl a hundred Roman crowns for the document; the creature reddened to the temples, and her eyes flashed—it was only momen tary, and then, in a calm, low, though majestic tone, she replied—

No. signore, I thank you." The old man and the man in the cloak seemed inclined to take the offer as an offence, but they only gave vent to their mixed feelings by cry ing at the top of their voices, chorus, "Viva Pio Nono! Viva Pio Nono!" In a moment the whole crowd took up the note, and, " Viva of voices in the Piazza: then it was taken along the crowded Corso, until on and on it went to awaken the re-pose of the "Via Sacra," and finally to rest in the old arms of the gigan tic Colosseum. We would fain dwell upon the pageant, and upon the heaven like man that gave it soul. The thunders of St. Angelo were only a mimicry of the roar of human enthusiasm, and military pomp faded in the midst of embodiment of national love, such as never met the eyes of a conqueror. When his Holiness appeared, heaven seemed to have opened, and the flowers of paradise seemed to rain on his way. He looked like one carried his way. He looked like one carried along by the very force of popular devotedness, and he seemed a vision of heaven rather than a fellow sharer of the busy life around him, for Pius IX, looks almost transparent in celes tial brightness, and his smile is some thing which never has been seen only on his face. The heart of the Father yielded in the midst of these wonderful scenes, and the Sovereign Pontiff wept. Did he, like Him of Pontiff wept. whom he is the vicegerent, see the chalice of the future in the glory of the present? Alas! perhaps he did!

TO BE CONTINUED

FAY'S TOMMY SAVAGE

At one time it seemed to Fay that nobody in all the wide world belonged to her. She was then one of the girls working in the Hillis de-

She first saw Tommy Savage one morning soon after the observation tower had been built. Crowds of shoppers and sightseers filled store that day; but, Fay, at her counter, was very lonely.

Fay sold baby things. She liked the counter, because babies. In her old home at Mapleville but when those entertainments took place at a house where there was baby, she almost always slipped ou of the parlor in order to see the child nut to hed. No game for young people could be so delightful to he as that of rocking a baby in its little nightgown. There were no babies at the house could not stop to play with those she saw in the street. When she first came to the city, she thought that people would soon begin speaking to er, and would then ask her to their houses : that was the way people did in Mapleville. But at last - that morning when she was very lonelyshe said to herself :

Well, I guess I'm not going to She had just put away some pretty little undershirts, which had strewed over the counter. As she there was Tommy Savage. He was laughing and jumping so that his mother could hardly hold him. He smiled at Fay in such a friendly manner that the girl laughed. He was a baby with blue eyes and curly golden hair.

"I have to buy shoes for him," th mother explained, "and of course new stockings come first. It takes him just two days to kick a pair into

Fay had seen the lady before, at the big church to which she went on Sundays. But Mrs. Savage had never happened to notice her. Tommy did not wait for an introduc-tion. He liked the bright, pretty hair of the strange girl, the blue satin ribbon in it, and her sweet brown eyes. He put out both his hands to her.

She lifted him to the counter; and her arms felt the sweet thrill that always ran through them when she held a child—partly joy, partly fear lest she let the little thing fall. "Is the tea room ready in the new tower?" asked Mrs. Savage, after she had bought the stockings. And Fay walked to the end of the counter with her, in order to point out the Half an hour later, at her luncheon time, Fay went to the tower in the hope of seeing Tommy Savage again. She stepped from the elevator at the tea room floor; then, as she saw nothing of Tommy, she climbed the staircase that led to the observation Why, porch at the summit of the tower.

There she found Tommy Savage. With him, besides his mother, was a oy of eight or ten years old.

Mrs. Savage was saying to the boy,
"I think I'll have my lunch now,
Hal. You watch Tommy. Mamma'd take him to the table, only he will snatch the dishes. Aren't you ashamed Tommy?"
Tommy crowed, as if he had been complimented. When Fay drew nearer, he made a leap, and got both fists full of her pretty hair, near the blue satin band. She and his mother laughed, while Mrs. Savage gently freed Fay's hair from the tiny gers. "I'm afraid they ought to be slapped!" she said.

Oh, don't !" cried Fay, quite in distress. Then she added, eagerly, "I couldn't help hearing what you said about going to lunch. I'd love to keep him for you.'

"Why, thank you!" Mrs. Savage answered. "I'm sure it's ever so kind—but this is his little uncle. He's been to lunch, and he'll take good care of Tommy. Won't you Although Mrs. Savage was gentle and sweet in her manner, Fay could see that she did not like to have strangers touch her child. The feeling of loneliness swept over girl again.

"But it's very silly of me to feel she knows, I have been exposed to scarlet fever or something—I couldn't blame her!" After deciding that she must not speak again to Tommy

Fay walked to the other side of th Suddenly Fay looked down, pas all the twenty stories, to the street where the trolley cars ran. then, she had not realized how far it was. She felt along her spine the strange shivering that always came to her when she looked down from high place. For a moment all the color went from her cheeks As it was the luncheon hour, no one else had come to the porch. and the baby remained where they had been left. When Fay turned toward the staircase, she heard a equeal of excitement from Tommy Savage.

In some way, Hal had managed to lift the heavy baby to the flat top of the wooden wall. Holding him there, he was trying to make Tommy see the trolley cars, far below.

Fay checked her scream; she she must not startle until her arms were round Tommy But then I'll tell that boy a few things !" she thought, and took one step toward the children. Tommy Savage made a sudden leap outward. Hal shrieked.

Don't dare let go of him!" cried. "Hold him till I come!" I c can't !" With that, Hal fell backward to the floor. The baby was gone.

"He w-wouldn't s-sit still!" wailed Hal.

Fay shut her eyes a moment. Her mouth worked curiously; she was afraid to think of what had happened, and she did not want to see. But something drew her to the wall and made her look over.

Her heart beat very hard! there was a sharp pain in her chest; she could not breathe as she looked down. From the observation porch the roof, glossy with paint, sloped to a cornice and a gutter. There the main wall of the tower began. When he fell from the porch, Tommy would of course roll down the roof to the gutter. Then-He was nowhere in sight. From where she stood everything looked blurred and strange. Overhead, the shower gathered rapidly; the clouds were dark and she heard thunder. Far below her, near the street, in a mesh of electric wires, she could see something hanging, white and limp

It was only a newspaper, dropped no doubt by some workman on the tower. Suddenly, from no great distance, came a tiny cry; and her first thought was, "Why, I was mistaken; Tommy didn't fall." But she had not been mistaken, and presently she caught a glimpse of Tommy's dress, and realized what had happened.

When Tommy had fallen over the wall of the porch he had rolled down the roof, and had bounded across the cornice and gutter. From the gutter, where the roof ended, he might have plunged to the street. But his fall had been stayed.

A short distance below the gutter was a light scaffolding, fastened by hooks and ropes. The finishers had used it while working on the cornice. Above it, at intervals, were the plat-forms on which they laid their tools. By some miracle, as he rolled across one of these platforms, Tommy's dress had caught on a hook that had been used to hold a paint bucket.

It was a thin little dress ; Fay wondered that it held at all. out thinking clearly, she felt she must get out there to Tommy before his dress gave way. She climbed over the wall of the porch.

She then stood on the roof of the tower. The new paint made it as smooth as glass; she kicked off her slippers and did not see where they fell. She never saw them again.

At last she reached the cornice at the edge of the roof. The scaffolding, with its platform, was a few feet be low her. She let herself down to one of the boards that had been used to hold tools, and started to walk along it to Tommy.

The board made a ledge wide enough for a foothold against the tower wall; but there was nothing to cling to, except the smooth-brick wall. When halfway across, she halfway across, she suddenly realized what a gulf-the one into which she had looked a few minutes before-opened at her left hand; and she grew afraid. But she

You Can't Cut Out

ABSORBINE TRADE MARK REG.U.S.PAT. OFF will clean them off permanently, and you work the horse same time. Does not blister or remove the nair. $2.00 per bottle, delivered. Will tell you more if you write. Book 4 K free. ABSORBINE, JR. the antiseptic liniment for mankind, reduces Varicose Veins, Ruptured Muscles or Ligaments. Enlarged Glands, Goitres. Wens, Cysts. Allars pain quickly. Price $1.00 and $2.00 a bottle at druggists or delivered. Manufactured only by W. F. YOUNG, P.D.F. 299 Lymans Bldg., Montreal, Can.

St. John's, Newfoundland

H. J. BROWNRIGG

IMPORTER OF Seeds, Fruit, Provisions, and Groceries

AFTER SHAVING Use Campana's Italian Balm, Soothing-healing-pleasant. Twenty-seven years on the market. Send cents in stamps for sample. E. G. WEST & CO., 80 GEORGE ST. TORONTO.

STAMMERERS

The methods employed at the Arnott Institute are ily logical methods for the calculation treat the CAUSE, not merely the treat the CAUSE, not merely the NATURAL SPEECH If you NATURAL SPEECH, do

THE ARNOTT INSTITUTE, Berlin, Ont., Can.

ESTABLISHED 1856

Great Reduction in Price of Hard Coal

P. BURNS & CO.

49 King East, TORONTO Telephone Main 131 and 132

-IF YOU HAVE -Rheumatism

And send to Frederick Dyer, Dept. Px30, Jackson and my $1.00 Drafts to try FREE as e Send Today for this Free Book Tells how to get tism, no matter where located or how severe, with-out Meaicine. My method has crea ted such a sensa-tion all over the world by its extra-world by its extra-ordinary simplic-ity as well as by its certainty to bring prompt and per-sufferer should learn women in every civilized e are writing me that my earlier and devears.

s-Frederick Dyer, Dept Px3?, Jackson, Michigan. Send n

Send for catalog. Our bells made of Copper and East India Tin. Famour rich tones, volume and durability. BELLS, PEALS, CHIMES remembered Tommy, and after a moment got her breath again and went on, a little too quickly, but very quietly—a slight brown-clad figure against the wall of the great tower.

Far below her, on the sidewalk, a man craned his neck to look at the man craned his neck to look at the tower. Along the light scaffolding, near where the roof began to slope upward to the observation porch, he saw something creep like a spider. And he wondered what it could be.

The platform was a frail structure, but it bore her slight weight, and she reached the baby safe. At once she freed him from the hook. His head had been hanging down, so that he could not breath easily. When Fay could not breath easily. When Fay freed him, his breath came with a wail. His tiny arms clung to her; he sobbed like a grown-up person, and hid his face against her.

She kissed his curly head. "I've got you, baby love," she murmured "I won't let the baby fall."

She felt as if they were quite safe, waiting for some one to come, Below them was the second scaffold, on which the men stood working.

Below that—
She tried not to think of the dizzy

way down the street.

The platform on which Fay stood The platform on which Fay stood sagged ominously, but with the heavy child in her arms, the girl did not dare to move. There was a spatter of rain, and lightning played across the sky. When she felt the wind again—a first faint brush on her face—she put her head down and hugged Tommy Savage.

The noise of the wind kept her from hearing what happened above her. One of the janitors of the store had made his way, by the aid of rope, had made his way, by the aid of rope down the sloping roof to the cornice He pushed a queer ladder out above her, and made it fast at the edge of the roof. Then he crept along; but for fear of starting her, he did not speak until he was very near. "Don't get scared, lady; just hand the baby here to me."

aby here to me."

In that high wind she could hardly lift Tommy to the man's arms; and Tommy screamed and clung to her. But the janitor dragged Tommy' little hands from the girl's neck.

"You stay right where you are, dy," he said; "don't try to climb ack. I'll be right here again for ou." And then Fay was left alone. The wind swelled to a gale. The weak platform swayed ominously. She clung with her hands until she saw that the whole thing would go. Then she managed to slide down to the scaffolding on which the men had stood while at their work; she bowed her head before the wind.

When she looked through the flying mortar dust, the platform on which she and Tommy had been was gone. For the first time since she had reached the baby, she began to think about falling. She tried to stop thinking of it, but could not. "Now, I mustn't look down!" she

Then—partly because she was try-ing not to do so—she did look down. She saw a restless, black crowd of people, so far away that they seemed to be in another world. She grew to be in anotated dizzy and ill.

"I can't hold out longer," she thought, "In a minute I shall let thought, bard to the scaffoldgo." She clung hard to the scaffold-ing; but everything grew dark, and then went whirling about as if in a

At last she felt the scaffolding—or her hands—gave way, and she knew that she was falling. She tried to catch at pieces of wood, but they all seemed to give way. She went down rather slowly and softly, she thought, like a feather. She passed through the mesh of wires, and began to when she should strike the ground. Then the shock came : and for a minute she knew nothing at

When she recovered her senses, there were people all about her : she was lying flat on a pavement or

Oh!" she said. "Am I hurt? I fell all the way from the top of the new tower.

Someone laughed. "I guess if you had, you wouldn't have any-thing to say about it. No, you didn't fall. When the janitor got to you, you were holding that scaffolding as if you'd never let go—he had to drag your hands away."

Fay closed her eyes to think it over. After a moment she laughed, and they helped her to her feet.

A woman, with tears flowing down her face, ran up and threw both arms around her. It was Tommy's mother. "Oh, I'll always love you!" she cried. "Tommy and I can never, never pay you back!"

Somehow, after that, the baby was often spoken of as "Fay's Tommy Savage." And after that, too, Fay never lacked for friends.

MANY DISCONCERTING VARI-ETIES OF PROTESTANTISM

The following statement is pub lished by the Rev. Royden Keith Yerkes, S. T. D., rector of the Church the Transfiguration (P. E.), Philadelphia, and instructor in the University of Pennsylvania.

" It has been well suggested that a strongly united Church can best exemplify to Christendom what she means by Christian unity. It is the Po equally well known that that Church tious! is not the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America, which contains doctrines, disciplines and worships not only varied and diverse, but in many instances almost opposite. Even the construction of

DUSTLESS-By opening dust damper and direct draft damper when shaking

M<sup>c</sup>Clary's

Furnace smoke pipe. See the McClary dealer or write for booklet. 35

"A stranger, seeing a strange church in a strange town, knows not what kind of service to expect in that church the next Sabbath morning, or what kind of religion will be taught in the sermon he may hear. If he would send his children to Sabbath school, he knows not what kind of lessons they may be taught. They may be taught that there are two acraments, or they may learn that know whom I mean?" there are seven. They may be pressed to go to confession, or they may be warned to stay away. They may be instructed that Christ is present in the elements of the Holy Communion, or they may learn that He is absent the state of the Holy Communion, or they may learn that He is absent the communication of the Holy Communion, or they may learn that He is absent the communication of the Holy Communicatio from them. They may be taught to genuflect, or they may be told that it is wrong to genuflect. They may be told that it told that they must receive Holy communion fasting, or they may be told that this is nonsense, and that "Why? Because Lee X. was an they should eat their breakfast first. They may be instructed that there are certain celebrations of Holy Communion where they should not think of receiving, or they may be taught to absent themselves from the service unless they expect to receive. They may be taught to visit the reserved Sacrament, and there to say their prayers, or they may be told that this is idolatry. They may be prepared for confirmation at ten years of age or wait till seventeen. In other words, the stranger in a strange town must first learn what kind of Protestant Episcopal church is in that town before he knows aught of the type of religion to be found within its walls. -Providence Visitor.

WHAT THE MONKS DID!

BEING A DIALOGUE BETWEEN A SCHOLAR WHO KNEW SOME. THING AND A PROFESSOR KNEW IT ALL)

There was once a professor, who There was once a professor, who used to close his lectures with the pathetic words "Priests and monks are good for nothing; they always hated science, art and progress; their schools are poor and all the books published by Catholics are of no value and when a young man cannot b anything else, he studies for the

One day, after school, a student by the name of "Sepp" called on the professor. Sepp was a bright and intelligent young fellow and could not be easily bluffed. He went to the professor's room and said gently: Professor, I have some difficulties hat worry me ever since I attended "For heaven's sake, hold your that worry me ever since I attended your lectures. Will you kindly help me to remove them?

"Why not, dear friend, with the greatest of pleasure. Certainly I

Only some questions, professor. Who preserved for us the classics? How is it possible that those valuable writings of the Greeks and Romans did not get lost during the barbarism of the dark ages?" "Monks copied them, and thus they have been saved." What, Professor! Monks you say, Yes, my friend, and especially the Benedictines."

'So monks copied the old codes and saved them for us. Indeed, that must have been a very troublesome work. Was it not? And probably many a monk caught consumption from the library dust? Well I am surprised. Strange times and curious monks to spend their lives copying letter after letter from Livy, Cæsar, Cicero, Virgil, Ovil, Homer, Demosthenes, etc. And how those codes look! Carefully written, just as if painted, and the initials are, in fact, a fine piece of art. Oh, these -wait, professor, is it true that without priests we would not have a Columbus and a Vasco de Gama? A monk, Fra Mauro, history tells us, made that costly map which gave Columbus the first impulse to the discovery of the New World?" "It is true, but somebody else could have drawn such a map, too." "Of course. Why should the monks and priests alone have those great ideas. Listen, Professor, I also read that the Pope introduced the graceful Arabic figures in arithmetic and abolished those clumsy Roman char-

Well, my boy, Pope Sylvester II. introduced them, but somebody else could have done the same thing if the Popes were not always so ambi-

"Again history teaches, that a monk invented the telescope and the microscope, but this hardly can be true? The monks want to claim all inventions."

"Well, my boy, it is believed by opposite. Even the construction of our churches varies from a close copy of a Roman Catholic Church to a bare meeting house, without altar Bacon, but remember, he was an ex- Goo-goo eyes may work all right on ception and what we style a " mod ern "Franciscan and not one of those bigots and cowl-bearers."

"He died in 1292."
"He then, was up to date very early, wasn't he? Besides this, Professor, not long ago I read of the man who first taught that the sun is stationary and the earth revolves about the sun and even you, Professor, do not know whom I mean?"

Corpernicus, I suppose." "No sir. Copernicus was not the first one. Before him the Bishop of

"That may be possible."

"Excuse me, Professor, why do we call the age in which literature, arts

"Why? Because Leo X. was an ardent admirer of classic literature, and a magnanimous patron of the arts and sciences."

"You don't say? Leo, a Pope, and at the same time took a great inter-est in fine arts. Well, I declare!" "It seems to me, fellow, you are fooling me."

"Not at all! Those are only doubts, intolerable doubts. I would kick against the monks if I had reasons, but these doubts do not let me rest. Now, Professor, is it true that the first free schools were opened by de

"Yes, by the Frenchman, de la Salle."

" I understand you mean to say by the Catholic priest de la Salle. And the first monk who cared for the deaf mutes—was not that the Spaniard Pedro de Ponce, and after him the priest L'Epee ?"
"Yes; and now stop, you block head !'

"Don't get hot, Professor. It is not our fault that history is full of the 'Black Devils.' Moreover, I read that a monk by the name of Schwartz invented gunpowder; the monk Guido d'Arezzo the gamut, and laid down the foundation for harmony; a monk from Bavaria the process of glass painting; the Jesuit Secchi is espec-ially distinguished for his discoveries in spectroscopic analysis and in solar and stellar physics; the Jesuit "Shut up. You are guying me, not take me for a lightning rod?"

"You're right, you're right, Professor! The first lightning rod was not made by Franklin, but it was invented by the Premonstrateension monk Divisch. You can read that in any tongue. You are too talkative.

"Ah, the greatest polyglot of mod-ern times was Cardinal Mezzofani. He was a talker! He knew only seventy eight languages and dialects and talked fifty-six.' That'll do, you silly goose. Get out of here.' "In what direction? The deacon Flavia Gioja, who improved the compass about the year 1300 could cer-tainly tell me." What's the matter? You're getting the brain fever, fellow."

What if I have the brain fever, go get the fire engines which were first introduced by the Cistercian monks, and the Capuchins were down to the seventeenth century the first firemen of Paris."

"If you don't shut up now, you'll fly out of the window, you infernal rascal."

"In aerial heights, oh, truly. The first balloon was made by the monk, Berthold Gusmac, sixty years before Montgolfieri, and in 120 this monk ascended with his balloon in the presence of all the lords and courtiers of Portugal. What do you clean your eyeglasses for, Professor? They are also au invention of the 'Black Dev ils,' and were invented in the thirteenth century by the Dominican Alexander Spina. Areyou in a hurry, that you look at your watch? You shouldn't do that, because it is an invention of the priests. The first clock is from the ecclesiastical writer Sassilidirus (505), but his invention was improved upon by Sylvester II., whom I mentioned before. The first astronomical clock was made by the Abbot, Wallingford, in 1316.

Now, I'll go. I see your hot, Pro-fessor, and the gas lights down town are turned on. Oh, yes, Professor, I almost forgot to tell you that the Jesuits invented the gas lights, this 'nato lucifuga.' Without any doubt the Jesuits invented and introduced it in 1794, at Stonyhurst, England and the Jesuit Dumm established the first gas company in 1815 in Preston. Now good-bye, Professor. Kindly ex-cuse. Oh, I see you bought a new bicycle? By the way, the first bicycle boys and girls, but they have no effect upon me, for unhistoric facts.

Veritas vincet. The next time we'll talk about Catholic books."

Once more Sepp said "Good-night," but the Professor did not thank him.

" IF YOU CAN'T SMILE "

In the vestibule of a certain hospital visitors see a card bearing this advice: "Never utter a discouraging word while you are in this hospital. You should come here only for the purpose of helping. Keep your hindering, sad looks for other places; and if you can't smile don't places : and if you can't smile, don't

" If you can't smile, don't go in !" It is good advice for others than hospital visitors. Who is beyond the ministry of a kindly smile? It is a tonic to the discouraged. It helps the little child for whom the world holds so much that makes afraid and it cheers the aged who find life un-speakably lonely. As King Arthur's court was built by music, so the happier life we all hunger for here upon earth is built in large part by the cheerful faces we see as we bear the load appointed for us.

Smiles are as indispensable to true success in life as money, mind and might. Not in hospitals only, then, but in the home and on the street there is a call for the kindly, sunny smile. The way to have it is to get the heart right with God and then turn the eyes to the light, for the smile that helps is the smile of heaven-kindled joy and hope.—St. Paul Bulletin. Paul Bulletin.

Our judgments are inspired by our acts, more than our acts by our judgments.

It is better to be rebuked by a wise man than to be deceived by the flattery of fools.

Loretto Ladies' Business College 385 Brunswick Ave., Toronto

MUSIC STUDIO ATTACHED

University of Ottawa

Conducted by the Oblate Fathers

Founded in 1848. Degree conferring powers from Church and State. Theological, Philosophical, Arts. Collegiate and Business Departments.

Over 50 Professors and Instructors

Finest College Buildings and finest Athletic Grounds in Canada. Museum, Laboratories and Modern Equipments. Private Rooms. For Calendar and particulars, address:

REV. A. B. ROY, O.M.I.,

N. B.-Studies resumed Sept. 3rd, 1914.

ASSUMPTION COLLEGE

Sandwich, Ontario

The college is conducted by the Basilian Fathers and offers an excellent course in the following departments:

I. COLLEGE

II. HIGH SCHOOL

First Class Buildings and Equipment; Acres of campus extending to the bank of the Detroit River; Gymnasium, Handball Alleys, etc. A limited number of private rooms. Very reasonable rates.

For catalogue, write: Rev. F. Forster, C.S.B., President.

okokokokokokokokokokokokokokokokokok

TORONTO FEDERATED WITH THE UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO

St. Michael's College

All Courses, General and Honor, leading to degrees For full information, apply to REV. R. MoBRADY, C.S.B., President.

St. Michael's College School

TORONTO Full High School, Preparatory and Commercial

Send for Separate Calendar.

DEOROGOROGOROGOROGOROGOROGOROGOROGO

College and Academy of St. Joseph

ST. ALBAN STREET, TORONTO Residential and Day School for Young Ladies and Little Girls

St. Joseph's College is affiliated to the University of Toronto through the Federated College of St. ST. JOSEPH'S CURRICULA:

COLLEGE COURSE OF FOUR YEARS—Classical, Moderns, English and History, and General Courses—leading to Degrees.
 THE COLLEGIATE COURSE (Upper, Middle and Lower Schools) in which pupils are prepared for Honour and Pass Matriculation, for Entrance to Faculty of Education and Normal School.

School.

THE ACADEMIC COURSE—In this course special attention is paid to Modern Languages, Music, Expression, Art and Needle work. In this Department students are prepared for Music Examinations (Instrumental and Vocal) at the University of Toronto and the Toronto College of Music.

Music.
4. THE COMMERCIAL COURSE (affiliated to the Dominion Business College) prepares the students for Commercial Certificates and for Diplomas in Stenography and Typewriting.
5. THE PREPARATORY COURSE includes the usual Elementary Subjects, also French, Drawing, Plain Sewing, Physical Culture, and Singing.

For Prospectus, apply to

THE MOTHER SUPERIOR.

St. Jerome's College

(FOUNDED 1864)

Residential College for Boys and Young Men EXCELLENT COMMERCIAL, HIGH SCHOOL and COLLEGE DEPARTMENTS New Buildings, with latest hygienic equipments. The largest Gymnasium in Canada. Running Track, Swimming Pool, Shower Baths, Auditorium.

Comfortable Private Sleeping Rooms. Substantial Board. Rates very moderate.

Address: REV. A. L. ZINGER, C. R.,

St. Mary's Academy Congregation de Notre Dame, Newcastle, N.B.

HIGH-CLASS BOARDING SCHOOL FOR YOUNG LADIES

Ideal location, commanding a fine view of the Miramichi River and vicinity. Beautiful grounds for outdoor exercise. Curriculum guarantees a sound and refined education, leading to Normal School and University Matriculation. Music, Painting, Needlework, Stenography, Typewriting, etc.

Apply for Prospectus to Rev. Mother Superior. Classes Re-open Wednesday, Sept. 2nd

SHAW'S Business Schools

qualify young people to earn good They include The Central Business Yonge and Gerrard Sts., and Six City Schools. Curriculum sent on request. any time. W. H. SHAW, President.

Loretto Abbey Toronto

College and Academy for Resident and Non-Resident Students.

COLLEGE FOUR YEARS—Classical, Moderna, English and History, and general courses leading to Degree.

ACADEMIC COURSE—Lower, Middle and Upper School—prepares students for Pass and Honor Junior Matriculation and Entrance to Faculty of Education; special course of one year after Junior Matriculation, designed as finishing year for Academic graduates.

PREPARATORY COURSE—Eight grades—usual elementary subjects, French, sewing, drawing and choral training.

MUSIC—Violin, piano, harp, guitar, mandolin, vocal, Students who desire it, prepared for University and Conservatory examinations. Frequent recitals by distinguished artists.

ART—Studios for Applied and Fine Arts
COMMERCIAL, DEPARTMENT—Full course for resident students only.

udents only. tion, address The Superior.

British American College

By ROSA MULHOLLAND

Marcella Grace. Agatha's Hard Saying.

Late Miss Hollingford

The Light of His Countenance.

Her Journey's End. The Secret of the Green Vase.

The Circus-Rider's Daughter.

Connor D'Arcy's Struggles.

By COTNTESS HAHN-HAHN

The Heiress of Cronenstein.

By JEROME HARTE

By FRANCIS COOKE

By JEAN CONNOR

Bond and Free.

By A. C. CLARKE

Fabiola's Sisters.

By ERNST LINGEN

Forgive and Forget.

By RAOUL DE NAVERY

Chaussee d'Antin. The Monk's Pardon.

In God's Good Time.

The Test of Courage.

The Other Miss Lisle.

The Outlaw of Camargue.

The Shadow of Eversleigh

The Tempest of the Heart. The Turn of the Tide.

By MRS. ANNA H. DORSEY

By ISABEL CECILIA WILLIAMS

By REV. A. J. THEBAUD, S.J. Louisa Kirkbridge.

BY HENDRICK CONSCIENCE

The Merchant of Antwerp.

By SARAH M. BROWNSON

Faith, Hope and Charity.

By REV. W. H. ANDERSON

By MARY C. CROWLEY

The African Fabiola.

Howthorndean.

Ferncliffe.

Kathleen's Motto.

Alias Kitty Casey.

By MARY I. HOFFMAN

Happy-go-lucky. Merry Hearts and True.

By CLARA M. THOMPSON

By GENEVIEVE WALSH

By RT. REV. MGR. J. O'CONNELL, D.D.

By MARIE GERTRUDE WILLIAMS

By CHARLES D'HERICAULT

Conscience's Tales.

Marian Elwood.

The Commander.

Catholic Crusoe.

Beech Bluff.

By FANNY WARNER

By ANONYMOUS

By MARY AGATHA GRAY

By CARDINAL NEWMAN

May Brooke. The Sister of Charity.

Tears on the Diadem.

The Alchemist's Secret. In the Crucible.

Tangled Paths.

Deer Jane."

Captain Roscoff.

By M. C. MARTIN

Rose of the World.

By A. DE LAMOTHE

By JANE LANSDOWNE

By H. M. ROSS

My Lady Beatrice. The Unbidden Guest.

By F. VON BRACKEL

By W. M. BERTHOLDS

By CARDINAL WISEMAN

AUTOMOBILES, LIVERY, GARAGE

FINANCIAL.

THE ONTARIO LOAN & DEBENTURE COT

PROFESSIONAL CARDS

FOY, KNOX & MONAHAN

: Continental Life Building CORNER BAY AND RICHMOND STREETS

BARRISTER, SOLICITOR, NOTARY, ETC. 712 TEMPLE BUILDING

TORONTO

Telephone Main 632

P. J. O'GORMAN ARCHITECT
Plans, Specifications, Estimates prepared.
SUDBURY, ONT.

FRANK J. FOLEY, L.L.B. BARRISTER, SOLICITOR The Kent Building
Corner Yonge and Richmond Streets TORONTO, ONT.

Record Standard

50c. LIBRARY

Good Reading for Everybody

50c. Per Volume Free by Mail.

Liberal Discount to the Reverend Clergy and Religious Institutions

NOVELS By LADY GEORGIANNA FULLERTON Rose Le Blanc.
The Strawcutter's Daughter.

By REV. JOHN TALBOT SMITH The Solltary Island.

By REV. T. J. POTTER

By REV. JOHN JOSEPH FRANCO, S.J.

By CECILIA MARY CADDELL

The Miner's Daughter. BY CATHRYN WALLACE

One Christmas Eve at Roxbury Crossing and other Christmas tales. By RICHARD BAPTIST O'BRIEN, D.D.

RELIGIOUS BOOKS

The New Testament. 12 mo Edition Life of Father Mathew.

By Rev. Alban Butler

By Rev. M. V. Cochem Life of Christ.

Explanation of the Holy Sacrifice of the Mass. By Rev. B. Rohner, O.S.B.

Idols; or the Secret of the Rue

Life of the Blessed Virgin. Veneration of the Blessed Virgin. By Rev. A. Tesniere

Adorarion of Blessed Sacrament.

By Rev. J. Stapleton
An Explanation of Catholic Morals By Rev. H. Rolfus, D.D.

Explanation of Commandments. Explanation of the Creed.

Explanation of Holy Sacraments

By Rev. Joseph Schneider Helps to a Spiritual Life. By Rev. L. C. Bushinger

History of the Catholic Church By W. Cobbett

History of the Protestant Reforms. tion in England and Ireland.

By Rev. Joseph Krebbs, C.SS.R.

By Rev. Richard F. Clarke

Lourdes: Its Inhabitants, its Pile grims and its Miracles. By Madame Cecilia

More Short Spiritual Readings By St. Alphonsus Liguori The True Spouse of Christ.

By Rev. H. Saintrain

The Sacred Heart Studied in the Sacred Scriptures. By Rev. Thomas F. Ward

St. Anthony. By Rev. Leo L. Dubois

St. Francis Assist. Social Reformer. By St. Francis de Sales

The Secret of Sanctity. By Abbe Lasausse

Short Meditations for every day. By R. A. Vain

Duties of Young Men. By St. John the Baptist de La Salle

Duty of a Christian Towards God, By Aubrey de Vere

Heroines of Charity. By Father Alexander Gallerani, S.J. Jesus all Good.

Jesus all Great. Jesus all Holy.

By Rev. A. M. Grussi, C.P.P.S. Little Followers of Jesus.

By Very Rev. S. J. Shadler

By Abbe Baudrand Religious Soul Elevated. By Father Henry Opiz, S.J.

Under the Banner of Mary. By Rev. Nicholas Russo, S.J. By ELIZABETH M. STEWART
Lady Amabel and the Shepherd Boy

The True Religion and its Dogmas, By Ella M. McMahon Virtues and defects of a young girl

Beauties of the Catholic Church.

The Catholic Record London Canada

The Catholic Record

Price of Subscription—$1.50 per annum. United States & Europe—$2.00 " Publisher and Proprietor, Thomas C.
Editors { Rev. James T. Foley, B. A.
Thomas Coffey, LL.D. tate Editors Rev. D. A. Casey.

any the order.

Approved and recommended by Archbishops Alconio and Sharetti, late Apostolic Delegates to alconio and Sharetti, late Apostolic Delegates to anada, the Archbishops of Toronto, Kingston, ttawa and St. Boniface, the Bishops of London, amilton, Peterboreugh, and Ogdensburg, N. Y., and the clergy throughout the Dominion.

Messra P. J. Neven, E. J. Broderick, M. J. Hagarty, Ray Clancy, J. Murray, Mrs. W. E. Smith, Miss ara Hanley, Miss L. Heringer and Miss Bride sunders are suthorized to receive subscriptions and transact all other business for The Carbolic and transact and the carbolic and transact all other business for the carbolic and transact all the

Montreal single copies may be purchased from E. O'Grady, Newsdealer, 106 St. Viateur street, and J. Milloy, 241 St. Catherine street, west.

LONDON, SATURDAY, JULY 25, 1914

STATE MORALITY

In Canada there are many who envy the United States their " national" system of schools. So that the working out of our neighbors' national system is of no small interest to Canadians. The State has no religion. State schools, therefore, must be free from all religious influence That is the principle in which the American citizen glories. It may be lived up to, it may be departed from in actual practice, here, there, or anywhere; but as a principle it is firmly held, as the only working basis on which an agnostic state can hold the balance even between contending sects and warring philosophies. The Jew, the Mormon, the anti-Christian Socialist, the agnostic, as well as the Catholic and the Protestant, must have each his religious or irreligious sentiments respected. As for morals there is no logical standard that may be considered except the laws of the State. In a supposedly Christian country Christian faith and Christian morals are necessarily excluded from the schools. Excluded in principle : in practice many would if they could legalize the teaching of Christian morality to some extent; but this is illogical, and inconsistent with the basic principle on which the national school system rests. If Christians have any such right, then others have similar rights. And there are a great many others. So instead of Christian morality based on and sanctioned by religion we have all sorts of faddists proposing all sorts of fads. And the greatest of these is sex hygiene. Miss Phelps, Professor of Physiology in the Michigan State Normal College, at Ypsilanti, has just been lecturing on this subject before the Ann Arbor Chatauqua.

Ann Arbor, Mich., July 10.-" Tell the true story to children before they have reached their fifth year, make them familiar from the first with the nude of each sex."

The little savages would then be prepared for the higher sex studies of the kindergarten.

"Children of both sexes, and adults gether freely, frankly and without prudish apology," said Miss Phelps, and she expressed the opinion that pictures and statues of the beautiful nude should have a place in homes where the adults can show the right regard for the body.
"In all ways the body must be respected and honored," said she, "but not tampered with or coddled."

The Professor of Philosophy in the Michigan State Normal College, though she is a spinster, evidently possesses one indispensable qualification for the apostolate of the new morality-she is no prude. When the State enacts legislation making this substitute for Christian morality and Christian modesty legal, perhaps obligatory, no narrow-minded religionist can complain. This is a matter of health which falls within the province of the state.

Like all modern faddists who rail against dogma and scout the idea of infallibility of Pope, or Church, or Bible, Miss Phelps never doubts her own infallibility and dogmatizes thus :

She said she believed in giving sex instruction in the schools though she emphatically states that she believed "nothing specifically called sex hygiene should be given in the schools." Her idea was that all the schools." Her idea was that an the teachers should give instruction in sex hygiene under another name, and point the way to right living through every study taken up by the pupil from the earliest grades to the highest.

Well, sex-hygiene under another name would smell as sweet—or otherwise. Note the arrogance of the official of the omnipotent state. The state can not directly educate the children. Teachers, as state officials, must exercise this unrestricted right. Theirs the duty of "pointing the way of right living." Right living ! Why not? In these days of platitudinous pulpit utterances, and easy-going surrender of individual rights and liberties, to assert the rights of parents in the matter of the education of their children is treason to the state ; to assert the claims of religion and the rights of God is an attack on the glorious system of state-schools where Catholic and Protestant, Jew and pagan, bond and free have equal rights. Offence must be given to none-unless, perhaps, he be superstitiously attached to beliefs and practices which the age has outgrown. Miss Phelps said that it was impor sible to go into a third or fourth grade of any public school and not find practically every pupil resorting

We do not know just what experience Miss Phelps has had. But she probably did not get to be Professor of Physiology in the Michigan State Normal College without considerable experience in the state schools. While she discloses the conditions and proposes her remedy those who call themselves Christians are keenly alert in defense of the principle of separation of Church and state.' No religion in the schools! It is inconstitutional.

However there is hope unless the godless school has altogether obliter ated Christian conscience.

Protestants who are sincere Christians are coming to realize the truth which a God-fearing Methodist and patriotic American thus fearlessly

I have said that a century and half of eugenics would leave the Catholic Church alone in the field. A century and a half of the godless school would leave that same church in complete possession of Christianity; and such a school as Spargo says will be compulsory under Socialism would put that church to the necessity, under which the early fathers labored, of resorting again to the catacombs in order to protect the faith from a hostile world. I have little respect for the strength of faith of those members of my own creed who fear the triumph of an other church as a result of religious teaching in the schools; and I have less respect for their judgment, for it is plain to me that Catholicism can stand up against a state-supported educational system from which God is excluded and equally plain that Protestantism cannot, and that the result of the public policy so many Protestants now blindly support will be a complete extinction of their branch of Christianity and a division of the world of opinion between Catholicism on the one hand and atheism on the other."

READING THE GOSPELS The following paragraph from the Congregationalist ought to help a little to dispel the mists of prejudice and ignorance created by the persistent calumny that the Church is opposed to the reading of the Bible. sugar coating, which is provided for the Protestant palate by the Congregationalist. Even thus sugar-coated we should be surprised to see it in some of our other religious contem-

"The activities of the Bible Society in Brazil are forcing the Roman Church to a counter-publication, at least of the Gospels. These are provided with notes warning the people against Protestantism. The one uthorized by the Cardinal Arch bishop of Rio Janeiro in 1912 has on Friend, open this book and read it Take care. Do not let it remain only on the shelf. If the Gospel of God should be an unknown with all certainty the God of the Gos pel will be an unknown God."

In November, 1893, Leo XIII. of pious memory granted indulgences to all who would read daily for at least a quarter of an hour the Holy Scriptures. We have before us a decree of Our Holy Father Pius X. granting special indulgences to sodalities for promoting the reading of the holy gospels. The opening paragraph runs as follows:

"How profitable is association for promoting the constant reading of the Gospel is shown by the remark-able fruits which have followed from such association. The societies for this purpose which have hitherto arisen with the encouragement of ecclesiastical authority are seen to be fructified by heavenly blessings."

The objects are stated simply and directly (1), to read frequently and if possible every day part of the Gospel; (2), often and opportunely to recommend this practice to others; (8), to recite frequently the invocation : "Grant, O Jesus, that we may obey Thy holy Gospel."

The use of notes to explain pasages difficult to understand or liable to be misinterpreted has this scriptural justification :

"And account the long suffering of Our Lord, salvation; as also our m lear brother Paul, according to the wisdom given him, hath written to you. As also in all his epistles, speaking in them of these things; in which are certain things hard to be understood, which the unlearned nd unstable wrest, as they do also the other scriptures to their own de struction." (II. Peter 3 : 15, 16.)

Talking about notes, what are the sermons from Protestant pulpits but explanatory notes on the Gospel or other Scriptures ? We admit that sometimes preach ers are guiltless of scriptural note or

ORANGE ORATORY Occasionally a reader sends the local paper containing the oratorical eruptions usual around the twelfth of July. Usually Catholics look on these and all other phenomena of the glorious twelfth with the quiet indifference of the stalwart Cornishman who took good-humoredly a beating from his wife. "It pleases she and it doant hurt I," was his philosophical explanation.

The Rev. Richard Lowe in St. Paul's Episcopal Church, Toronto, preached typical Orange sermon with this " Pointing to the activity of the Church of Rome and the advance of Roman Catholicism in Great Britain the speaker declared that that Church had made greater strides toward power, and showed a greater increase in membership during the past ninety years than in the pre-ceding three hundred."

The waning power of the Catholic Church is the usual consoling view taken by the Orange orator. The last ninety years were only begin ning when Macaulay declared that the Catholic Church had made greater conquests and expanded more rapidly since the Reformation than before that period of great de-

Despite opposition of all kinds and defections great or small we know the Church of Christ goes steadily on to the accomplishment of her divine mission. "Teach all nations, and behold I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world."

THE NATIONAL EDUCATION ASSOCIATION

The gathering together of repre entatives from all the States in the American Union to discuss matters of educational interest is a very important educational event. It can hardly fail to broaden the outlook of some and check the extravagance of others. It must necessarily give an ndication of the trend of thought and practice amongst those who are largely responsible for the public school system of the United States. This year, the annual convention of the National Education Association was held at St. Paul, Minnesota Before us lie newspaper reports of two different sessions. They are interesting and may be instructive On July 10th we are informed that Schools, Los Angeles, Cal., vigorously attacked the present school system, denounced the inefficiency of the average teacher, and characterized as soul-wreckers "certain powerful interests that are blocking all forms of educational progress." A formidable indictment surely, even if we are left somewhat in the dark as to the identity of the "powerful interests." Here, however, are his

"Our public schools of to-day," said Dr. Francis, "are namby-pamby places to which we go because it is the custom, and some of us become good citizens in spite of them. The purpose of education is to make us scholarly enough so that we may separate ourselves from the common herd. Teachers who train a child to believe that he cannot be respect able unless he is a professional are a menace to society." Dr. Francis was accused of sensationalism by some leading educators but "the storms of applause which interrupted him at every sentence were indicative of the general attitude of the delegates." Had such a criticism been uttered by a Catholic it would be used for generations as incontrovertible evilence of the old familiar charge of ignorant fanatics that "the Catholic Church is opposed to the public school." Nevertheless the Superintendent of Schools in Los Angeles met with vociferous applause from the delegates to the National Education Convention.

We have, perhaps in less vigorous precisely the same lines. The ele ntary school curriculum is so ar ranged as to prepare pupils for en trance to high schools. Less than 10 per cent. enter the high schools. The high school course, in turn, is subordinated to the preparation of another small proportion of this 10 per cent. for university and professional careers. Hence we are in agreement with Dr. Francis as to the effect of such a system.

"Schools are all wrong, becar they give the credit to the captains of things, not to the stokers."

We, however, emphatically agree with his proposed remedy.

"When the teaching force is al and stand on these judgments, we will have different boys and girls.'

To give the "inefficient average teacher" carte blanche is a bit advanced even for the public school fetich worshipper. The schools already have passed into the hands of women; the people must have some control or another generation might see them pass into the hands of suffragettes; or other modern types such as Miss Phelps, Professor of Physiology in the Michigan State Normal School, might dominate the teaching force."

"We are dragging out the souls of our boys and girls by telling them to learn so many pages a day of matter that means nothing to them in prac-

The hall rang with applause when Dr. Francis shouted :

"God bless the girl who refuses to study algebra—a study that has caused many girls to lose their souls."

Continuing, he said:

"Give our girls courses in costume designing instead of mathe-matics, and life and art and morality and Godliness will mean more to well-selected and well-made garment than in all the art galleries of

These flamboyant pronouncements are characteristically dogmatic. The failure of the school without religion is evident even to those who will not admit the fatal defect. They would turn the educational ship in some other direction, and without compass or rudder confidently expect to reach the promised land of educational efficiency in forming char-

" He added that nine tenths of our immorality is caused by damage done to boys and girls by teachers."

We fear that " costume-designing will hardly effect the transformation hoped for. The old adage "knowledge i power" has in the very recent past been amplified into knowledge is virtue, knowledge is character, knowledge is everything. The acknowledged break-down of the school system based on such exaggerations may bring intelligent educators appreciably nearer the truth which the Catholic Church has ever proclaimed and ever will proclaim—that there is no other basis for morality except religion.

THE SERVIAN CONCORDAT-AND THE VETO

The recent war brought the Bal-Dr. J. E. Francis, Superintendent of kan States into the gaze of all the world. Then Catholics learned that Servia occupied the unique position of being the only country in the world without a Catholic hierarchy. The only priests legally officiating in the country were those attached to Catholic embassies. Servia, which used to have the bad distinction of having the most anti-Catholic government in Europe, has just concluded a treaty of peace and friendship with the Holy See.

In another column we give the full text of this concordat. It will be seen that the Servian government is given a certain limited veto on the appointment not only of bishops but of parish priests.

A hundred years ago the Irish people offered strenuous even violent opposition to the posal to give similar voice to the British government in the appointment of Irish bishops as a condition of emancipation. Many of our read ers familiar with the history of that time will recall O'Connell's outspoken opposition. Rightly or wrongly the Irish people feared that the British government would attempt to control Irish political aspirations through the episcopate in whose selection the government would have considerable influence through the veto. O'Connell voiced the feeling of the whole Catholic people of Ireland when he declared that he would submit again to all the devilish oppression of the penal laws rather than purchase freedom at such a price. "All the religion terms, criticised our own schools on you like from Rome but no politics," declared the tribune of the Irish people. And again, "I would as soon take my politics from Constantinople as from the court of Rome." Which by the way is an apt commentary on the out worn "Home Rule Rome Rule" argument of ill-informed and bigoted opponents of Home Rule.

The veto, however, had been granted before that time to national governments, and since that time also. The Concordat with Servia contains concessions along that line quite as generous and ample as those demanded by the British gov ernment as a condition precedent to emancipation. The circumstances are vastly different, however. They would be parallel if instead of the alien government of London there had been an Irish parliament in Dublin when the veto was the burning question of Irish politics.

THE HIGH SCHOOL ENTRANCE

The results of the Entrance Examnations have just been published. Without any desire or intention of indulging in vulgar boasting we believe that an analysis of these results for the city of London may serve some useful purposes.

The total number entered on the registers for the past year in the Separate schools of London is 911; the average attendance was 679. The Public schools had 6,970 enrolled with an average attendance of 5,427. The average attendance in the Public schools is somewhat better than that of the Separate schools. However it should be noted that the Public school figures are exclusive of kindergartens. The Separate schools have no kindergartens. It is reasonable to suppose that the Separate school primary classes are attended by many chil dren who would otherwise be classed as kindergartners; these naturally would attend school only during that portion of the year when the weather and other conditions were favourable. John Johnson, of St. Peter's School, headed the list for the city; and Rhea MacRoberts, a Public school girl, was a close second. Both were thirteen years and two months of age, and there was only one mark between them.

The Separate Schools, with candidates of whom 54 passed, 31

The Public Schools with an average attendance (exclusive of kindergartners) of 5,427 had 413 candidates; 357 passed, 74 with honors.

The average age of the Separate School candidates was 14.1; of those of the Public Schools 14.5. Ninetynine per cent of the S. S. candidates were successful, 54 per cent. received honors. Of the Public School candidates 86 per cent. passed, 21 per cent with honors.

The Separate Schools sent up 8.1 er cent. of the average attendance ; the Public Schools 6.6 per cent.

We have urged as strongly as possible that those pupils who are able do so should be allowed to make their elementary course in seven, six or even five years. That this is possible is evidenced by at least two of the successful S. S. candidates this

Harold Foley, twelve years and four months of age, made the two grades of the fourth form in one year and passed with honors; Annie Pitt, eleven years, after making the same two grades in a year almost reached honor standing with 70 per cent.

Not only will these pupils begin their high school work a year sooner but they will do better work than if they lacked the mental and moral discipline of having to put forth their best efforts during the last year of the elementary course. To make bright and industrious pupils keep step with the dull, indifferent or frivolous is not only stupid, it is unjust. The comparison on every point is favorable to the Separate schools. What we find particularly gratifying is that the Separate schools sent up a larger proportion of the total average attendance, and at an earlier age. However the average age is still too high and the number of candidates too low. At least 10 per cent. of the average attendance should write every year, and the average age should be cut down a full year. Be it ours to show the

It may sometimes look very hard to do God's will, but we will find it much harder not to do it.

To each soul God gives the to rise, if it will, even above the tyranny of inherited tendencies, and make its own destiny for good, for noble ends.

ILLUMINATING INSTANCES

Were it not for unscrupulous polticians, who fan the fires of preju dice to serve their own selfish ends, we would hear but little of the cleavage that divides Ulster Protestants and Irish Catholics. The other day Canon Murphy, editor of the Irish Educational Review, Senator of the National University of Ireland and one of the most distinguished of the Irish clergy, passed away at Limerick, and amongst those who attended his funeral at St. John's Cathedral was the Protestant bishop of the city. On the occasion of the death of the late Protestant hishon of Cork the Corporation of that city and the Catholic citizens attended the funeral, and all the shops, irrespective of the creed of the owners, suspended business while the procession was passing along the streets. Quite recently the Protestant bishop of Kerry was transferred to the see of Limerick. The Catholic citizens of Tralee, headed by the parish priest, presented him with an address on his departure. In the writer's native town the largest store was kept by one of the very few Protestants in the place, and the Catholics supported him in preference to the members of their own faith. Of all the cruel libels that have been circulated about the Irish people the charge of religious intolerance is the most lying and unjust.

We do not say that there is not in tolerance in Ireland, and that relig ion does not supply the line of division between the people. But the guilty ones are not the Catholics. A Catholic storekeeper in an over whelmingly Protestant Ulster town would be forced to put up the shutters in a week. There is a Protestant parson in Queen's County, the Rev. Dudley Fletcher by name, who attained an unenviable notoriety during the Ne Temere agitation. This gentleman was invited by his Catholic neighbors to attend a meeting called to form a corps of the National Volunteers. Mr. Fletcher, who, no doubt, is sincere enough according to his lights, attended, and was immediately boycotted by the leading members of his congregation. When he called at their houses they refused to see him, and finally reported him average attendance of 679, sent up 55 to his Bishop and asked that he be removed. Protestant clergymen who refused to sign the Ulster Covenant have been shunned as lepers by the gentlemen who mouth of equal rights, and are arming to battle against Catholic intolerance. Yes, the leaders of the Protestant minority have kept alive the flames of re ligious prejudice in Ireland, not because they loved the tenets of Luther, but because they lusted after the flesh pots of Ascendancy. Given ten years of Home Rule Ulster Covenanter and National Volunteer will be marching side by side to the tune of God Save Ireland.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

nounce the death of the Most Rev. John Tohill, Bishop of Down and Connor, whose health had been in somewhat precarious state for more than a year. Dr. Tohill was a conspicuous figure in the North of Ireland and especially in Belfast, his episcopal city, where, notwithstanding its intense Protestantism, his judgment in matters affecting the general welfare was much esteemed and his presence at public gatherings much sought after. We have, indeed, heard it stated by a resident (not a Catholic) of that city, that at apublic meeting called, a year or two ago, to discuss some civic engineering problem, that of all the addresses there delivered by scientific and financial authorities of note, none made so great an impression as the weighty remarks of the Catholic Bishop of the United Dioceses of Down and Connor. Dr. Tohill was, especially, an authority on educational questions, and as a member of the Intermediate Education Board for Ireland since 1910 rendered important public ser-

BISHOP TOHILL was a native Ulsterian, having been born in faith is safeguarded and their intel-County Derry in 1855. He was edu- lect developed along strictly Catholic cated at St. Malachy's Diocesan College, Belfast, and at Maynooth, and after his ordination became professor uished themselves this year in in the former institution. In 1905 he became Parish Priest of Cushenall, County Antrim, and finally in 1908, Bishop of Down and Connor, dioceses whose union dates from 1442. It is singular, however, and suggestive of the strongly Protestant character of Dr. Tohill's surroundings fellows.

during his entire priestly career, that he had no cathedral. At Downpatrick the church is merely parochial, while at Connor there is no modern Catholic Church at all. His official residence as Bishop was Chichester Park, Belfast. His influence at all times in such environment was on the side of peace and amity, and we may be sure that the disturbed state of feeling for the past year and the threatened disturbance of the peace weighed heavily upon him in his weakened

DR. TOHILL was one of the two Bishops who came with Cardinal Logue to the Eucharistic Congress in Montreal in 1910, upon which momentous occasion he made a short tour of the country. It was our good fortune to make his acquaintance at that time and to accompany him on the water journey from Montreal to Toronto. He evinced the greatest interest in the history and institutions of the country and especially in the prospects that lay before Catholic immigrants. He also made careful note of the provisions for religious and moral instruction in our schools, and was much impressed with the Separate School System as a practical solution of a vexed problem. To say that his penetration and practical good judgment will be much missed in religious and educational circles in Ireland is but to re-echo the universal feeling of his own people and of his brethren in the Episcopate. R. I. P.

THE INCREASING attendance of Catholic young women at the Provincial Universities, and especially at the University of Toronto within the past few years is one of the noticeable features of the day in educational circles. Most of these have received their preparatory training in the Separate schools, or in the many admirable institutions conducted by the religious orders throughout Canada who are making every effort to keep abreast of the latest developments in academic teaching and have achieved results in the competitive standing of their pupils of which Catholics are justly proud. Among these St. Joseph's College and Loreto Abbey, Toronto, by reason of their position as residential institutions, and through cooperation with the federated College of St. Michael, being empowered to prepare their pupils for the annual uniform examinations of the Arts course for Bachelor's Degree, are in an especially advantageous position, of which the Catholic young women of Ontario would do well to avail themselves.

IT MAY NOT be generally known (certainly it is not fully realized) that it is now quite possible for Catholic young women aspirants to higher education in Ontario to gratify this laudable ambition without having such colleges as Loreto and St. Joseph's the students who, after their four-years' college course succeed in passing their University examinations, receive their degrees from the University of Toronto. For a few subjects only, and for laboratory work of the first two years, is attendance at the university itself necessary. All other subjects are taken at the convents, including lectures in Religious Knowledge, Ethics, Logic and Psychology, given by Professors from St. Michael's College. St. Michael's itself, fully federated with the University, is doing university work fully abreast with that of any college in the federation.

To BE privileged to make their whole University course in a Catholic college is so inestimable an advantage for Catholic young women as to scarcely need emphasis. Environment and association count for much in the formation of character: the spiritual atmosphere of a Religious house is breathed in unconsciously by those sheltered within its walls, and while enjoying all the advantages of the University their lines. The fact, too, that students from these sources have distingevery department is sufficient guarantee of the quality of the training imparted, and of the evident determination of those in authority to place Catholic young men and women on a level, so far as opportunity is concerned, with their non-Catholic

SOME APPRECIATIONS

OF THE LATE SENATOR COFFEY AND HIS WORK

J. K. BARRETT, LL.D., WINNIPEG, MAN Senator Coffey was one of my dearest and most intimate friends and I therefore look upon his death as a great personal loss. It is no easy matter to form a satisfactory estimate of the life and works of the late Senator. In his private life as well as in his public career Senator of all with whom he came in contact genial, kind, and considerate and ever ready to assist them in every deserving project.

It is, however, as a journalist that

Senator Coffey has left the impress of his genius. He succeeded in leavshind him a monument that will keep his memory green among the Catholics of Canada. His work on the CATHOLIC RECORD is sufficient to establish his claim, not only as a Catholic journalist of marked ability but as a far seeing and devout Cath-olic. He succeeded in making the Catholic journal, par excellence, the very best in Canada and with few His great heart was wrapped up in this work, and he never allowed any earthly consideration to turn him aside from its highest interests The CATHOLIC RECORD of to-day en every Catholic in Canada, because it has ever and always served the high est interests of the Church and de fended her honor with marked ability and moderation. This is the life work of Thomas Coffey. Let us hope that that noble work of his may be, in the future, directed with the same zeal and prudence that has made it, what he left it, the greatest Catholic

CATHOLIC UNIVERSE, CLEVELAND

The dean of Catholic journalists in Canada is dead. Senator Thomas Coffey, publisher of the CATHOLIC RECORD of London, Canada, died recently at the age of seventy one years after an illness of several months, mourned by all who knew him, regardless of party and of creed. He was long known as the "foremost Catholic layman of Ontario," and his life was a credit to his country and his Church and an inspiration to his fellows. Born in Ireland, he was not yet in his teens when his parents emigrated to Canada. From the humble occupation of printer's devil he arose by the force of his own prominence in business and states RECORD a prosperous and powerful journal, and this will continue to stand as his chief monument. May he rest in peace !

WHAT CATHOLIC SCHOOLS ARE

Mr. Bird S. Coler, former Controller of New York City, delivered a remarkable address recently at the graduating exercises of St. Patrick's Academy, Watervliet, N. Y. He took for his subject the Catholic Parochial for his subject the Catholic Parochial schools, to which he paid a high tribute for the work they are doing. He frankly confessed that at one time he was one of those who believed that the segregation of children of one religion in special schools was hostile to American in stitutions and foreign to the Amerintance with the work of Cath. olic schools disabused him of this opinion. He told his audience that antagonistic to Americanism, he regards them as the hope of the coun-

He pointed out that the trouble with the Public school system is its neglect of the essentials that contribute to character building. De-nominational differences had rendered it impossible to arrive at a satisfactory agreement as to the character of the religious instruction which should be given in our Public schools, and yet experience has taught us that such instructions cannot be safely neglected in the training of youth. The latest report of the Children's Court of this city b testimony to the truthfulness of this statement. Nine thousand and nine teen cases came before it in 1913. Thirty-seven per cent. of the cases dealt with offenses involving moral turpitude. There were cases where oys were banded together for stealing and where boys and girls were associated with bad companions and men of questionable character. About one fifth of the children arrested during the year had previous court records. In other words, some eightteen hundred boys and girls arrest in the borough of Manhattan last year showed evidence of having entered on the road of chronic delin-quency. It is safe to say that if re-ligious instruction were a part of the curriculum in our Public schools this army of young criminals would not receive the many recruits that are joining its ranks every year.

Is it not high time to take the Catholic view of the vital importance of making schools the media for the moral training of boys and girls who will be the men and women of the future. Just think what a mighty revolution for good would be brought about if every school in the land were has been eliminated in the Public versy, the people's voice has been chool system. I have found in them a secular education which, in every torth in demand and favor of the recent test, has shown superior efficiency over the Public school education. I have found the idea of authority dominating moral instruction, and the idea of Divinity vitalizing moral instruction. I have found the idea of personal responsibility to God pressed home upon the mind of youth. I know no other way of making good citizens. I can say that, in its paro-chial school system, your Church has built an institution that makes for the conservation of the American ideal of life and government.' It was under such a system that the Fathers of the Republic were educated in their youth. In the De-claration of Independence you will find traces of this early training.

The Charter of our liberties bases itself on rights to which an unbeliever may lay no claim. Men who do not believe in the existence of God would never have penned these lines: "We hold these truths to be self evident; that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalien-able rights." Neither would unbelievers express confidence in Divine assistance, as did the signers when in announcing their determination of their country, they declared: "And for the support of this declara-tion, with a firm reliance on the protually pledge to each other our lives, This was the language of Christian men, who, in their boyhood, had learned in the home, in church and in the school room what their duty was to God. The system of educa-tion which had imbued them with "s firm reliance on the protection of Divine Providence," remained in full vigor till the third decade of the right the time that decade it is a mineteenth century. Then the experiment of barring the door of the school-room against God and His eachings was inaugurated. It was the first step taken toward de Christianizing the country. Its effects have been of the most pernicious kind, as thoughtful persons must acknowledge. The gravest problem of the coming years will be to de-vise means for making our Public schools the main supports of our

THE IRISH

Y. Freeman's Journal.

VOLUNTEERS

The National Volunteer force now eing organized in Ireland is a highly important and weighty factor in the situation as it stands in respect to the settlement of the Home Rule question in a manner satisfactory to the Irish people. For over a quarter of a century that question has been an issue in Anglo-Irish politics, and British Liberal Party platform. Irerelying once more on assurances of English statesmen that by methods within the Constitution every Irish grievance as against England could and would be amply redressed.

political institutions, as they were struction in them was tabooed .- N

And fighting on Constitutional lines Ireland has won. She has convinced the Democracy of Great Britain of the justice of her demand for National self-government, and through the British House of Commons—representing the will and power of the British Democracy—a Bill has been three times passed conceding that demand, and the Bill only awaits the formality of the signature to become law, duly and Constitutionally en-

-"the law of King and Parlia ment"-armed opposition is threat-ened by a so-called Constitutional Party, in alliance with Protestant lancy in Ireland, a small minor ity of the population—the traditional enemies of the majority, and his torically associated with the infamous anti-Catholic Penal Code—the avowed object of which was the ex-

This is the element which has taken up arms against Home Rule, and the fact is the explanation of the Irish National Volunteers—the justification and necessity of the move-ment, as practically admitted by Chief Secretary Birrell, speaking in the House of Commons: "It a body is formed for the purpose of destroy ing the Home Rule Bill, we cannot be surprised that another body should be devised to secure its passage."

That is an object—the main object of the National Volunteers, but there is more and much more —not merely to secure the passing of the Home Rule Bill but to make it secure when passed, is the purpose of the National Volunteers—not merely, as Mr. Joseph Devlin put it—"to get Home Rule but to hold it when we get it." The spirit as well as the object of the movement was well emphasized by one of the speakers at a recent Volunteer meeting when he said :

"The Volunteer movement has come by a great impulse springing from the very depths of Ireland's heart, and of Ireland's history. We have put into the hand of Justice the sword with which she may defend and keep that kingdom of justice when it comes.' That is Ireland's sentiment and engaged in such work as that described by Mr. Coler in these words:

"I have found in the parochial schools the saving principle, which has been eliminated in the Public wersy, the people's voice has been to the control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which there has been some control of the force as to which the guidance and direction of the Irish leader and the Irish Party, and as to the future, a suggestion made at the meeting already referred to seems to meet the requirements of the posi-tion as it will be:

"The National Army of this country must be under a civil govern-ment. One hundred thousand rifle-men could not wander about at the beck of any private individual, or at the beck of any Committee, provisional or otherwise. After Home Rule the Volunteers would be em-bodied as the National army, under the Irish Civil Government. And who would be the Irish Civil Government-who would be the Irish Prime Minister ?—Mr. John Redmond." Such Government Ireland soon have and with a hundred thousand Volunteers or more she will be able to defend it against all enemies should any be.—N. Y. Freeman's

SOUL-HUNTING IN IRELAND

Recent articles and communica tions in America have been exposing the commercial and social operations of well-financed "Protestant Soul-Hunters who are buying up the Catholic souls of such of the New York Italians as they find "all underfed and so poor." The material of this soul-traffic is somewhat new, but the traffic itself is old, nor is it confined to New York or to America. To-day it is the Italians whose poverty and unprotectedness make them a prey to the soul trader. A few years ago it was the Irish, when famine threw them "so poor and underfed," and often orphaned, on our shores; and nany an Irtsh name in a violent Protestant pulpit bears witness to the success of the unhallowed traffic. But it was in Ireland itself that the rade was plied most systematically shamelessly and continuously; and, contrary to the accepted belief, it had and has still a certain measure of success. Some account of it and of the organized methods now adopt to those who are anxious to suppress this evil in our midst.

Since the imposition of Protestant rule there has been always prosely. ism in Ireland wherever there wa poverty; and the ruling powers saw it that this should be intense and extensive. In the famine years it became universal. When hundreds of thousands were dying of starvaion and millions were on its brink and British economics were compe ling the exportation, for rent and taxes, of the grain and meat that would sustain them, peers and commoners, church organizations, estab lished and dissenting, sent hordes of proselyters who, well sup-plied with money and goods, set up a soup kitchen in every centre of dis-tress, and ladled out its savory concoctions at a price. The people in town and country were literally dying for want of food; the price they had to pay was the renunciation of their faith, the acceptance of Pro-testantism. That word would ward off fever and death, insure life, and often comfort, and most of all, the lives of their little children. It is to the undying honor of Ireland, and perhaps the greatest of its many heroisms in her long fight for the faith, that she did not pay the price. She kept her soul. Her children died in thousands rather than enter the kitchens of the proselyters, and many a Connaught mother suffered her child to die at her breast rather than touch a morsel of food at the price of her faith. To follow the awful records of deaths during those years along the tracks of the ters were nicknamed, is of poignantly tragic interest. At every step there is a place for a pæan and an elegy. Not all were heroic, but the exceptions were so few that they prove the rule. One will occasionally find a family in districts of Clare and Galway that is black-marked to day because some members of it succumbed even temporarily to tempta tion. The scorn, springing from love of their faith and hatred of apostasy, had its uses; and the late T. D. Sullivan hit off happily an occasional effect of it, in a ballad describing how the wife of a man who had sud-denly found Protestant salvation in donations of food and clothes and rent money, upset his new found faith by "combing his head with a three-legged stool." Ridicule of the "Soupers" was a favorite theme of the street ballads, especially in the the street ballads, especially in the larger cities where proselytism had better opportunities both for poverty-stricken subjects and for concentrated effort. A notorious Mrs. Smyley established a very large "Bird's Nest" in Dublin which catered assiduously to the parents and the birds, and a song that the singing of Father Tom Burke made famous, points to the cause and pro-

There's Mrs. McGrane when her man was slain On the banks of the bould Crimea, Gave her religion up for the bit and

And took to Luther's idea.

It pours five scorn on such as consent to "selling their soul for a penny roll and rashers of hairy bacon;" but though such sar-casm is a useful deterrent for some and a stimulus to others, it can not and a stimulus to others, it can not supply the continuous lack of the penny roll and its equivalents. A recent attempt of the Larkinite Socialists in Dublin to spirit off the children of the impoverished strikers to English Protestant homes aroused and had a supplied that it had a the continuous that it is the continuous that such indignation that it broke the sway of Larkinism ; but the subtle, quiet, every day seductions of plaus ible proselyters who dangle bread and meat and prospects of comfor for themselves and education for their children before parents of the slums, when foodless and hopeless of employment, can only be resisted by a sustained heroism beyond what may be ordinarily expected of human mature. Whataver the economic and nature. Whatever the economic and governmental systems that brought about these conditions, there is no doubt that they exist, and that the "Bird's Nests" which have been multiplying since the famine year en battening on them. I developed from some recent trials in Dublin that these agencies are expending $300,000 annually in buying up Catholic children, that they have over two thousand such children in their "Homes," "Ragged Schools" their "Homes," "Ragged Schools" and "Bird's Nests," and that more than a thousand adult Catholics are losing their Faith in their "Asylums," "Shelters," "Missions," and other "Shelters," "Missions," proselyting institutions.

Further inquiries confirming thes evelations, that destitute Catholics were being bribed and wheedled out of their faith in Dublin and elsewhere resulted in the formation of a society to rescue those who had fallen into strengthen the faith of such as are exposed to danger. This is the Catholic Protection and rescue Soci-ety, 35 Molesworth Street, Dublin, a committee of prominent laymen and women, that has the approval of Cardinal Logue and the entire Episcopacy, and is working in co-opera-tion with the Pastors and Religious of Ireland. The director, who has forwarded their programme, writes that Ireland is grateful for the political aid she has received from A ica, but the safeguarding of her children's faith is even more precious than the realization of her national aspirations, if either can be severe from the other; and that, as she has contributed of her blood to our re'igious growth, she trusts that, while the lack of self-government still prevents her from setting right the social conditions of her cities, Ameri can Catholics will aid her in the fight for preserving the faith of her poorest and weakest against the energetic proselytism of capitalized bigotry.

The charities of Dublin are probably the most generous in the world. Every Sunday, often at several churches, there are sermons in aid of homes, hospitals asylumns, etc., and always a generous response, till one wonders how poverty can find so much to give. But now the various charities are systematized and co-ordinated, and many social activities are prosecuted that were formerly neglected. Committees provide for the food, clothing and education, or employment of the destitute, and supply the spiritual and corporal support that fortify them against the wiles and moneybags of the prosely-ters. The literature that explains their methods will prove educative in the ways of saving our own Cath olic children; and it will in no de-gree hurt this work if it also incites us to help the still poorer poor of Ireland against similar dangers.—M. Kenny, S. J., in America.

THE CHRIST OF MODERNISM

It is pretty clearly established the a Catholic who denies the divinity of Christ ceases to be, not only a Catholic, but also a Christian. Nevertheless, the Modernist persists in calling nimself both Catholic and Christian. although in effect he denies that he is aware of any other Christ than the Man Jesus Who walked the earth and taught His doctrines in the reign of Tiberius.

As we have seen, the Modernist in his attempt to adapt his new beliefs and doctrines to his Kantian philosophy, declares that what he cannot know through the senses is, as far as he himself is concerned, not really worth enquiring into. Anything that transcends his mental vision may be good in itself, but since it lies out side the scope of his power of posi tive mental enquiry, he refuses to be bound in any way by it, or in other words, he refuses to give credence to it as belonging to those things which he cannot reason but for himself.

It is interesting, therefore, to learn how and by what process of argument he continues to call himself a Christian, since he cannot accept the notion of the divinity of Christ as being a concept with which the finite mind is capable of dealing. Here, according to Father Bampton, S. J., is the way in which the Modernist describes his position:

"It is true that there existed s Jesus of Nazareth, a man, a prophet, if you like to call Him so, mighty in word and work. I do not for a moment deny His existence, nor His Holiness of life and purity of doctrine nor His extraordinary natural powers. These things belong to the realm of phenomena; they are facts of experi-ence and are therefore to be known by ordinary knowledge. The facts of experience go to make up history. The Jesus of Nazareth is therefore an historical figure and consequently I know the Jesus of history.

"But when, on the other hand you claim supernatural powers for Him when you speak of Him as possessing a supernatural knowledge, as imparting a supernatural revelation, when you talk to me of a Being who wrought miracles and so departed from the laws of nature—and I can know nothing outside nature—you are talking to me of things that transcend and are above my experience and are matters quite outside the realm of phenomena. To be true to my Kantian principles I must say that I have no knowledge of such matters. I simply do not

Nevertheless, if you ask me how people have come to invest Christ with His supernatural character of a God Man and claim to know Him thus, I give you the following explanation of the matter: In the first place, the Jesus of history alone is the object of our knowledge properly so called. Now, over and above my knowledge properly so called, I possess another faculty called the religious sentiment which is inherent in all humans. In so far as this sentiment unites me with God, I call it Faith.

Now, Jesus of Nazareth may be the object not only of my intellectual knowledge. He is a mere man, a wondrous man, indeed, but still a man in the natural order, for knowl edge can take account of nothing outside the natural order. And regarded thus, I call Him the Jesus of

As the object of my Faith, however, he assumes a different character. Faith recognizes the Divine in Him—that in all believers, but existing in Him in an exceptional degree Faith gradually expands that divine element in Him, magnifies it and amplifies it till it transfigures Him completely. Gradually legends gather round about Him, divine powers are attributed to Him until at last He is crowned with the aureola of divinity in other words, raised to godship. Is He therefore God? Not to knowledge, for knowledge admits that it can take no account of the super-natural or of the divine. But to God not in fact, but in the belief of creation of Faith. But thus con sidered, He is to be carefully distin uished from the Jesus of history.'
Views expressed on this point in the works of Loisy and Tyrell).

Commenting on the foregoing.
Father Bampton says: We have thus the historical Jesus as a fact. As for the Christ of Faith, He be comes in reality an " idea." the Modernists do not hesitate to describe the Founder of Christianity as "the incorporation of an idea. (Life of Fr. Tyrell, vol. 2. p. 396).

And so we have the Jesus of history, an undisputed fact, and the Christ of faith, a creation of the religious sentiment.

The Modernists have done what St. John foretold that men would do: they have dissolved Jesus"-(I John iv. 3). . . . Nowadays, says the Jesuit with admirable justice, if you want to damn an opponent's case be-yond all hope of redemption, you have only to label it unscientific or unhistorical or uncritical. It is not ecessary to have any clear idea of what these terms mean; they are seful to make an opponent look foolish and ignorant.

And so the Modernist, who claims to be, of course, scientific, historical and critical, calls Catholic Christian ity unscientific, unhistorical and un critical. It does not, he says, agree with the latest "results of criticism" and the "data of historico-critical re search."

And, says this learned Jesuit, what do the results and data of the Modern cannot know anything but phenomena and the facts of experience But that is what Kant taught nearly two hundred years ago, and is also something like what the Sophists taught two thousand years before him. Why not say at once that Modernism is an attempt to build a theology upon the principles of Kant's philosophy, and consequently Catho-lic doctrines must be rejected because they do not agree with Kantian philago condemned the spirit which the Church illustrious, their heavenly sought to "dissolve Jesus," and that is the spirit of the Modernist who seeks to distinguish between Jesus seeks to distinguish between Jesus and Christ—the Jesus of history and the Christ of faith. The spirit of Modernism, St. John would say, is a lying spirit. It is not of God.—N. Y. Fathers are hers; their laborings,

THEIR EFFORTS ARE NOT IN VAIN

From Prussia, Germany, comes en couraging news for the Catholic world, particularly for the teachers of Catholicism. For those who spend their days in zealous labor in the pulpit and the classroom endeavoring to inculcate in the minds of old and young the sound principles of Cath-olicism, it must often be discouraging to see the apparent drift of the world. While they are teaching brotherly love, devotion, sincerity and chastity, they see the modern tendencies begotten by free though carrying thousands to Socialism, ir religion, free love. How insignifica and futile must seem their efforts to hold back what often appears to be a landslide of humanity to the abyss of unbelief.

Occasionally comes a wealth of consolation and encouragement from some quarter that gives absolute assurance that they are not striving in vain. This time the cheering message comes from Prussia, the most notably Protestant section of Germany and the place where modern errors have taken deepest root. Steadily has the Catholic birth rate been increasing there. Of 1,000 children born in Prussia in 1875, 603 were of Protestant parents and 330 of Catholic paronts. Every year since then has the percentage swung in favor of Catholics so that in 1911 of 1,000 children born but 51 were Protestant and 408 were Catholic. In but few more years will the Catholic birth rate outnumber the Protestant and then will Protestantism become a minor factor in the life of the empire.

For the Catholic priest and teacher this is indeed encouraging informa-tion. It shows that while they may often think their efforts inadequate and futile, still the lessons they teach and the principles they inculcate are sinking deep in the hearts of the faithful and these are carrying them into practice. Modern theories and indifference that countenance the extermination of the human race in their disregard of the sacredness of the sacrament of matrimony, are but leading to their own extermination. But some of the old theories of the Manichaeans and the Albigenses, giv en new cloaks, they will pass because of their own viciousness and destruc-tiveness. The teachings of the Cath olic Church, however, where they take root, are productive of even such remarkable material benefits that ever and again will humanity of its own volition return to them. Never do the servants of the Church work in vain.—Chicago New World.

AS OTHERS SEE US

PROTESTANT WRITER BEARS TESTIMONY TO THE SANCTITY OF THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

"I freely admit the pre-eminence of Catholicism as an historical institution: here she is without a rival, or a peer. If to be at once the most permanent and extensive, the most plastic, and inflexible ecclesiasthing as the most perfect embodithe claim of Catholicism were simply indisputable. The man in search of an authoritive Church may not hesivisible and audible authority is of the essence of religion, and he has no choice; he must become or get The Roman Church assails his understanding with invincible charms. Her sons proudly say to him: "She alone is Catholic, continuous, venerable, august, the very Church Christ founded, and His apostles instituted and organized. She possesses all the attributes and notes of Catholicity an unbroken apostolic succession, an infallible chair, unity, sanctity, truth an inviolable priesthood, a holy sacrifice and efficacious sacraments

The Protestant Churches are but of yesterday, without authority, the truth of the ministeries that can reconcile man to God; they are only confused voices but protest their own insufficiency, whose impotence al most atone for their own sin of schism by the way it sets off the might, the majesty and the unity of Rome. In contrast the Catholic Church stands where her Master placed her on the rock, endowed with the prerogatives and powers He gave her, and "against her the gates of hell shall not prevail." Supernatural grace is hers; it watched over her cradle, has followed her in all her ways through all her centuries, and has not forsaken her yet. She is not, like Protestantism, a concession to the negative spirit an unholy compromise with natural ism. Everything about her is positive and transcendant; she is the bearer of divine truth, the representative of divine order, the supernatural living in the heart, and before the very face of the natural. The saints, too, are hers, and the man she receives joins their communion, enjoys their godly fellowship, feels their influence, participates in their merit St. John, says Fr. Bampton, long Their earthly life made the past of visible into unity, and lifts time into sufferings, martyrdoms, were for her sake: she treasures their words and to say: "Athanasius and Chrysostom, Thomas Acquinas and Duns Scotus, Cyprian and Augustine, Anselm and Bernard are ours; their wealth is our inheritance, at their feet we learn filial reverence and divine wis-

But rich as she is in persons, she is richer in truth; her worship is a great deep. Hidden sanctities and neanings surround man; the sacra mental principle invests the simple things, acts and rites with an awful yet blissful significance; turns all vorship into a divine parable, which speaks the deep things of God, now into a medium of His gracious and

STOCK WITH PAR VALUE OF $160,000, WORTH ONLY $1,940

"With a par value of $160,000, shares to the number of 9,580 in six different companies, comprising a part of the estate of—, the well-known lumberman who died last April, have market value of only $1,940. In the Surrogate Court the whole value of the estate of the deceased is sworn at $2,552. The deceased's daughters are the principal beneficiaries. They also share equally six life insurance

-From a Toronto Paper of June 2nd, 1914.

Note the depreciation, almost to the vanishing point, of the estate invested "to make more money than can make out of Life Insurance. The Life Policies were worth par.

CAPITAL LIFE POLICIES ARE ALWAYS WORTH THEIR FACE VALUE

and are paid promptly on proof of death, without any administration charges. Get particulars from nearest agent, or write to Capital Life Assurance Company.

HEAD OFFICE: OTTAWA

A. E. CORRIGAN, J. J. SEITZ.

consolatory approach to man, and man's awed and contrite, hopeful and prevailing approach to Him. Symools are deeper than words; speak when words become silent; gain so in hours of holiest worship the language may not utter."—Catholicism Roman and Anglican, p. 152 by Prof. A. M. Fairburn.

Sleep is death's young brother, and like him that I never dare trust him without my prayers.

Unity of doctrine is essential, and only one religion has this unity of doctrine.

One ungrateful man does an in jury to all who stand in the need of

It is only the great-hearted who can be true friends; the mean and cowardly can never know what true

FATHER FRASER'S CHINESE MISSION

The noble response which has been peal in behalf of Father Fraser's

Chinese mission encourages us to keep the list open a little longer.

It is a source of gratification to Canadian Catholics that to one of themselves it should have fallen to inaugurate and successfully carry on so great a work. God has certainly blessed Father Fraser's efforts, and made him the instrument of salvation to innumerable souls. Why not, dear reader, have a share in that by contributing of your means to its, maintenance and extension The opportunity awaits you : let it not pass you by.

Capital Trust Corporation, Limited Authorized Capital $2,000,000.00

BOARD OF DIRECTORS:

President: M. J. O'Brien, Renfrew.

Vice-Presidents: Hon. S. N. Parent, Ottawa; Penis Murphy, Ottawa; R. P. Gough, Toronto; A. E. Corrigan, Ottawa.

L. G. McPhillips, K.C., Vancouver.
Geo. C. H. Lang, Berlin.
J. J. Seitz, Toronto.
A. E. Provost, Ottawa.
Hon. R. G. Beazley, Halifax.
W. P. O'Brien, Montreal.
Hugh Doheny, Montreal.
L. E. Fabre Surveyer, K.C., Montreal.
Hugh Doheny, Montreal.
Managing Director: B. G. Connoily, Montreal.
Managing Director: B. G. Connoily, On R. Street, Ottawa.

Offices: 29 Sparks St., Ottawa, Ont.

WE CALL THE ATTENTION of Trustees and others with funds to invest, to the absolute security of and generous interest allowed on our Guaranteed Investments. A Booklet on the subject awaits

IT HAS

THE

Mutual Life

Assurance Co. of Canada

Waterloo, Ontario

therefore termed "The Efficient Company."

And it holds to guaran-tee absolutely the payment of future obligations.....

2,077,260

18,095,939

FIVE MINUTE SERMON

EIGHTH SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST

SPIRIT AND FLESH

What does the Apostle mean by this? This only, that the flesh with its concupiscence and lusts must never get such power over our will that it will carry us along with it and make us obey its longings and de-sires when we know these are forbidden by Almighty God. I say "this only" because to have the flesh is no sin; neither is it a sin to feel the disorderly movements of the flesh that lead to sin; but it is a sin to consent to these and to follow them. For this reason we are told that if we mortify the deeds of the flesh to which these movements of the flesh lead us, we shall live. But what does the word "mortify" mean? It means to destroy that which makes the life of a thing. Notice here the Apostle does not tell us to mortify the flesh itself but the deeds of the flesh. To do this we need not then attempt to kill the flesh, but we must destroy all that gives life to its deeds.

What are the deeds of the flesh They are the seven capital sinspride, covetousness, lust, anger, gluttony, envy, sloth. Can we kill them? In the most important sense we can We can get them so under our control that, after awhile, they will move us but slightly and cannot influence us to any great degree. We shall feel from time to time that they are still present in us, but that ot disturb us much. We shall have taken their strength away. We shall have made them so weak that we can check them easily.

Ought not each one of us strive to et ourselves into that blessed state? But how can we do it? Make up your mind to do it. Form a good resolution, one that will not change but that will be firm for life. Then live according to that resolution. pride is aroused, refuse to follow its promptings; when covetousness moves the heart, stop the eager desire for gain; when lust would lead away, contend against the thought until it is driven out; when anger disturbs, seal the lips with the sign of the holy cross; when glut-tony makes you long for feasting and drinking, refuse to go where these things are going on; when envy racks the soul, pray for the one who is the object of envy; when sloth tempts you to self-indulgence and inactivity, stir up the fear of God and holy shame within the soul, or sloth is a destroyer indeed of all that is truly many and heroic in us.

But all this is about as hard to do ss anything a man can do, some may say. Yes, it is hard to do, but the success is sure. Shall a man do less for God than for himself? See the time and labor spent to secure that which is necessary for the body and success in the life of only a few years in this world. Shall a man not do as much for the good of his soul and for eternal life in the next world?

is it really so hard as it seems By no means. We make it harder than it really is by putting it all together and by thinking we are to do it all at once. This is not true. It must be done by degrees, slowly, patiently, perseveringly, but surely.
The devil makes us think it harder

by telling us, when we feel the sharpness of the first struggle, "You can't bear it this way, for life." You can if God wills it and gives you the grace. And most people, almost all protest public Christian souls, do not have it "this drunkenness. the lie he tells, to make us give up the struggle. Do not listen to the lie and it cannot hurt you. Remember always, it is a lie, and the mind will not take hold of it. We can make it all the easier by trusting God, Who will always help ness is the worst enemy the true us in the struggle. Pray more. Go to confession often. The confessor will then help us and remove much of the burden by good advice. Go to Communion often, and God Himself will make it easier for us than we imagine by giving His own strength to the soul at that time. Only begin earnestly to control the fiesh, earnestly to control the flesh, continue perseveringly to use confession and Communion. This, with daily morning and evening prayer, will take away very many difficulties. Soon we shall find we have truly mortified the deeds of the flesh, and then indeed we shall live for the flesh will then be dead live, for the flesh will then be dead or dying fast and too weak to hurt the soul. Keep, then, in the mind the text from the Epistle of to-day: For if you live according to the flesh you shall die. But if by the spirit you mortify the deeds of the flesh you

CATHOLICITY IN SWITZERLAND

According to the latest Swiss census Catholics are making headway in those Cantons where they were previously in a very small minority. In the Canton of Vaud, the Catholic population has risen from 36,980 to 1880. There are more Catholics in Lousanne, Morges, Orbe, and Vevey during the past two years, while in other districts the numbers have remained stationary, and in two cases only have gone backwards.

Foreign Catholics come in great numbers to these Cantons and settle either in the industrial towns or in those winter health resorts such as Lousanne, once a stronghold of Pro-

WORLD'S GREATEST KIDNEY REMEDY

"Fruit-a-tives" Have Proved Their Value In Thousands of

WONDERFUL RECORD OF A WONDERFUL CURE

Only Remedy That Acts On All Three Of The Organs Responsible For The Formation Of Uric Acid In The Blood.

Many people do not realize that the Skin is one of the three great eliminators of waste matter from the body. As a matter of fact, the Skin rids the system of more Urea (or waste matter) than the Kidneys. When there is Kidney Trouble, Pain In The Back and Acrid Urine, it may not be the fault of the kidneys at all, but be due to faulty Skin Action. or Constipation of the Skin Action, or Constipation of the "Fruit-a-tives" cures weak, sore, aching Kidneys, not only because it strengthens these organs but also because "Fruit-a-tives" opens the bowels, sweetens the stomach and stimulates the stomach and stimulates

"Fruit-a-tives" is sold by all dealers at 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size, 25c. or will be sent postpaid on receipt of price by Fruit-a-tives Limited, testantism, which has seized the glorious Gothic Cathedral there. But now in this very place the Cath olic population has risen from 10,422 in 1910 to close on 20,000, nearly double in three years .-Church Progress.

TEMPERANCE

WARNING AGAINST INTEMPERANCE

Not only Christ's life and doctrine but the sound sense of mankind de-mands that sincere aversion for any vice shall be shown by the conspicuous practise of the contrary virtue Do you not see the need of thus making war on intemperance? Do you not know how widespread an evil it is? What family without its drunkard, or at least some one who is in danger of falling into drinking habits? What neighborhood is without its plague spot, the saloon? What community without its steady stream of horror, crime and misery due to drunkenness? The pathway which leads from the saloon to th poorhouse, from the saloon to the jail, from the saloon to the insane asylum, is well trod and is strewn with unnumbered wrecks of human ity. Therefore, every family should have its member or members who are conspicuous for the practise of total abstinence. Every neighbor-hood should have its band of valiant men and women who by their pledge protest publicly against the vice of drunkenness. Every community should have its organized permanent, In them the nesh and the movements of sin grow less day by day. The devil, however, wishes us to believe devil, however, wishes us to believe the lie be talk to make us of labor to suppractise total abstinence, for it is the most efficacious means of showing your detestation of the family's dead liest foe. If you love the people of God, take the pledge; for drunkenfaith has this day to contend against. If you have the good of society at heart, touch not the intoxicating glass; for most of the evils we have to deplore in our social and political life are the progeny of this prolific mother-vice-intemperance. Every element of Christianity in a good man or woman sharpens their and ghosts of unreal difficulties. anxiety for the welfare of their me answer a few questions here brother; he needs good example to reform; I have made up my mind to give it to him, "We know that we have passed from death to life, because we love the hrethren." (I, St. John iii, 14.) I may be too poor to give money for the reform of drunkards, but I can give what is more precious — good example. The family that can not benefit by having family that can not benefit by having a total abstainer among its members is hard to find. The parish that is not greatly helped by a total abstinence society is hard to find. It is good to be a total abstainer. "It is good not to eat flesh, and to drink wing or anything whereby the good not to eat nesh, and to drin wine, or anything whereby thy brother is offended, or scandalized, or made weak." (Romans xiv, 21.)

It is not sinful perhaps, for me to drink moderately, but for the drunk-ard to do so is a deadly peril. If he is going to be saved, he must totally abstain, a task often as difficult as martyrdom. I will help him to do it by keeping him company in total abstinence. Every one of us needs a friend, patient, edifying, loving. Heavenly Wisdom says: "Woe to him that is alone." (Eccles. iv, 10.) When struggling with any over-powering passion, poor human nature looks for a comrade. The heart cries out in danger or in weak-ness, "Help me!" Every drunkard in his sober moments cries out, "Help me!" I, for one, am going to answer that cry. I am determined that no drunkard shall relapse for want of my help. If he is driven by necessity to take the pledge, I am driven by charity to keep him com-pany in it. "The charity of Christ urges us." (II.Cor. v, 14.)

Scorned and despised, the drunkard needs a friend to share his compulsory abstinence. I am that friend. I will pick him from the slough of despond, I will cleanse him and strengthen him; I will speak tender words of encourage ment to him. I will be the drunk ard's good Samaritan. But some ne might protest, " I do not need to abstain!" Yes, I do, for what my brother needs I need; and if any man needs help, then the help he needs is the help I need to give him. -Father Elliott.

CONVERTS AND CONFESSION

After Thou didst convert me, did penance; and after Thou didst show me, I struck my thigh; I am confounded and ashamed, because I have borne the reproach of my youth.

Orestes Brownson, perhaps the greatest philosopher that America has yet produced, and the greatest American convert to the Church, said: "I never performed a more reasonable, a more manly act, or one more in accordance with the rights and dignity of human nature, though not done save by divine grace moving and assisting thereto, than when I kneeled to the Bishop of Boston, and asked him to hear my confession and reconcile me to the Church, or when I read my abjuration, and publicly professed the Catholic faith. For the basis of all true nobility of soul is Christian humility; and nothing is more manly than submission to God, or more reasonable than to believe God's word on His own authority.' A prominent Scotch convert, writer late," records his experience thus:

"I confess," he says, "this general confession filled me with dismay. I was forty three years old, had lived little better than my neighbors, had a painfully accurate memory back to my eight or ninth year. I finally decided to go to a confessor I'd never be likely to see again; but circum-stances at the very last moment caused me to go to the very priest whom I knew best of all. He was lief and happiness such as I cannot describe. I do not go to confession often enough, but I consider it one of the most inestimable blessings that God has conferred upon man. Confession seems to be a bit puzzling to converts about to enter the Church. Afterwards, like Brownson and the other just quoted, they understand the good of confession perhaps better than we who have practised it all our lives. They fear it before they generally love it afterwards. No wonder they fear it—their minds have been filled with nasty prejudices me answer a few questions here that I hope will set at ease many converts about their confessions.

"Do you believe in self-repentance?" "Can Protestants go to con-

READY

ROOFING

THE SAMSON TRADE MARK

is made to give satisfactory service—not to meet a price. The materials that are used are such as will insure its quality and the skill of Samson workers combines them in the best manner.

The Samson Trade Mark on roofing means a roofing good enough to live up to the guarantee behind it.

There is a book about Samson Roofing—"The Roofing of Farm Buildings"—that will help you solve roofing questions—write for it.

Ask your dealer for Samson Brand.

LIMITED

H. S. HOWLAND, SONS & CO.

144 Front Street West, on roofing is your assurance of efficient protection against first-cost or of up-keep.

and against extravagance of

Toronto

Every ten cent packet will kill more flies than $8.00 worth of any sticky fly killer. Refuse substitutes, which are most unsatisfactory.

fession and receive pardon ?" " Can non-Catholics go to confession? "Is it necessary for a Protestant wh wishes to become a convert to the Catholic Church to go to confession before being baptised?" "Must a convert to the Catholic Church con fess the sins of his life from childhood, or is baptism sufficient for the remission of all sins committed previ-ous thereto?" "What all is supposed to be told to the priest at conession ?"

Yes indeed, we believe in self-repentance, and in the necessity of it as a natural virtue, so that, with or without confession, the sinner cannot be saved without it. In fact our be saved without it. In late of sacrament of penance is self-repentance sanctified by Christ and raised to a sacrament. Self-repentance in the sinner is the foundation upon which our Lord raised the sacrament. Your self-repentance is our "Do penance," and consists in sorrow for sin, satisfaction for sin, and the determination not to commit sin in future with God's help. Without these dispositions absolution is useless. "Unless you do penance, ye shall all likewise perish." (Luke

Yes Protestants and non-Catholics can go to confession-for advice and consolation, and many of them do so, but they cannot obtain pardon or re ceive the sacrament of penance in the sense that a Catholic would; for they have not been formally received into the Church. Some who would not confess, confess unconsciously. A Protestant lady used to come to Cheverus, Bishop of Boston, to consult him on spiritual matters and obtain his direction and consolation. One day she remarked that confession seemed to her absurd. "Not so absurd as you might be-lieve," said the old Bishop, smiling, "you yourself at least have felt the good of it and the need of it; for you see you have been coming to confession to me these several times without knowing it. Confession is noth ing more than the acknowledgment of sins and difficulties of conscience in order to be forgiven and guided right. You have been doing that. It was now her turn to smile; shortly afterwards she went to confession rightly, received the sacrament, and became a Catholic.

The story is told of a convert who had just been received into the Church. He had been in the habit of going to confession according to the custom of the denomination to what he was about to do, adding that it would be easier for him than for others, since he had been accustomed to go to confession. The old man responded by saying with a smile:
"You are going to the real thing now." Yes, confession is the real thing in the way of true penance The confidential confessions outside the Church are not the real thing, are not the real sacrament as estab lished by our Lord. They are good in a way, as a preparation, but they do not give the assurance of pardon that the sinner requires. The power of the priesthood is necessary for that. It is not necessary for one who has never been baptized to go to confession on being received into the Catholic Church. Such a one is regarded and received as if a child. The doctrine of the Church is that baptism remits all sin, original and actual sin, committed prior to its reception. In which case, of course, the convert must have the same docile dispositions as a child would have. He must have the same sorrow for sin, the same purpose of amendment required in confession, and must make the same satisfaction he would be expected to make did he go to confession. Only on these conditions would the baptism effect the forgiveness of sin.

A convert who had never been baptized would be instructed in the

TOBACCO HABIT

Dr. McTeggart's tobacco remedy removes all de-sire for the weed in a few days. A vegetable medi-cine, and only requires touching the tongue with it occasionally. Price $2. LIOUOR HABIT

Marvellous results from taking his remedy for the iquor habit. Safe and inexpensive home treatment, to hypodermic injections, no publicity, no loss of ime from business, and a cure guaranteed. time from business, and a cure guaranteed.

Address or consult Dr. McTaggart, 155 King Street East, Toronto, Canada.

eachings of the Church, exhorted to repentance for sin, and baptized ab-solutely, and might go to First Holy Communion. He could not go to confession first, for baptism must he wanted to, and I find most of them want to. Even if one is not inclined to confess right after baptism, the time comes sooner or later when will want to confess all sins committed in his past life. Understand this is not required, but converts find more satisfaction in doing it.

be expected to make a confession of the happiness of duty. reception, whether your previous baptism is considered valid or not; for the sacrament of penance is for the sins committed after baptism. You need not worry, however, one whit about that; it will be the easiest part of your reception into the Church, the most consoling, and the best for your peace of mind. One convert says: "I went (to con-fession) full of trepidation, and came back full of joy."

Here are some of the things that your confession will do for you; it will clarify your knowledge of yourself, will help you to know the mean-ing and the number of your big sins and to hate sin more keenly, will help you to be more sorry in the sight of God for them, will give a definite aim to your purpose of improvement, will help to subdue your proud, disobedient and rebeilious spirit by humbling yourself to cheerfully submit to the requirements of your new faith, thus tramping on pride and self-will; it will give eternal assurance of security from sin and peace of soul; it will give warning, instruction, decision strength and encouragement, and suggestions to avoid sin that you cannot get elsewhere or from any one but a prudent confessor who knows your needs from your own confession. The following interesting inter view I find in Segur. You'll like it The dear old Cure of Ars used to hear men's confessions in the sac risty of his church during the morning hours. One day a rather pompous public official wearing a button "Legion of Honor' lapel of his coat strode in. Instead of kneeling on the "prie Dieu" he went directly to the cure, and, after a polite salute said: "My dear sir, I wish to speak with you." "Kneel down here," said the Cure, pointing to the kneeler by his side. "I did not come to go to confession," said the officer. "What did you come for then?" said the Cure. "I came to discuss a case with you," said the member. "To discuss! How do I know anything about discussing. Kneel down here." "But, my dear sir, I wish to say that I did not come to confession; I have not the faith; I do not believe." "Poor man," said the Cure, "you do not believe; I know nothing, but you know less; know the means of faith, you do not even know that. Do as I tell you kneel down here." "But it is precisely confession I doubt and do believe; I can't confess without faith; it would be sacrilege, and you would not permit it." But the old would not permit it.

saint stopped him saying sweetly:

Believe me, my good man, I know what I'm asking; believe me: kneel down here." He did so somehow. The Cure said, "Now make the sign of the Cross—in the name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost." The Cure did the rest, and in a few minutes the pompous official went out as happy as a little child. The Cure said afterwards: " I fought with the devil and won; and behold a contented man who came for discussion and went to confession.

Kneel down here. Go in peace my child, and God be with you. Amen.-St. Paul Bulletin.

LITERATURE AS A RECREATION

Recommending literature as a refreshment and resource in the avocations of life, Lord Rosebery said when speaking at the Royal Technical College, Glasgow : One great example is worth a ton of precept, and I will give you the example of Lord Liverpool. . . . Lord Liverpool was prime min-ister for fifteen years. He was harassed by Cannings and Eldons and all sorts of colleagues, as many prime ministers are apt to be, and he had a very arduous time of it. But what he said was this, that the only secret by which he was enabled to go on through his arduous pilgrimage of fifteen years was his practice, regularly renewed and never omitted, of reading for half an hour before he went to bed in some branches of lit-erature wholly unconnected with his political administrative pursuits. Now that was the experience of a hard-working man—there was no harder-worked man probably of his time-and I venture to recommend it to you.

HEAR THE SERMON

What does a sermon do for you? It elevates you. You complain that you have to shovel mortar, wash dishes, drive a horsecar, count money all day, and that such things keep the soul down to an earthly level. Well, then, go to church and be elevated. Listen to the word of God which raises you up above the com-mon-place things of your life, or, rather, which sanctifies them and makes you see in them stepping stones

If you were baptized in any denomination and wish to be received and brighter if we would dwell on the Catholic Church, you will the duty of happiness as well as on race.

ing of sin is to find peace, forgiveness, comfort and strong advice. The confessional is the way to a quiet conscience.

Ask any Catholic on his deathbed facing eternity, which would be pre-fer, a wreath for his coffin or a Mass for his soul. Our tribute for our dead should be worthy of our faith.

face the difficulties of life. There is no use denying that for nearly all of us life is a hard road to travel. Then why do you say that half an hour once a week is too much to give to come before penance. He might go a sermon? For in the sermon you to confession any time afterward if learn how to fight your battles. There the comforting truths of religion are brought home to you; there you learn how to hope; there you are cleansed and strengthened and equip-ped for the battle of life; there are taught the highest joy known to man the love of God .- True Voice.

Christ lives, Christ reigns, Christ triumphs, and His kingdom is spreading more and more over the earts and the minds of the human

NATIONAL FINANCE COMPANY, Limited

Paid-up Capital and Reserve $2,000,000 Invested Funds - $5,500,000

Invested Funds

Interest can be safely earned by your surplus capital if invested in our Mortgage Trust Certificates. Your money is fully secured by selected First Mortgages. These Certificates are issued in multiples of $100.00 and have interest coupons attached, payable half-yearly.

able half-yearly.
We have to offer for a limited time Debentures in 3 and 5-year terms yielding 7 per cent. interest, payable quarterly. Write for particulars.

American House Lake Muskoka

Good Boating and Fishing; Catholic Church five minutes' walk from house. Write for rates.
1861-6 MRS. M. A. WALKER, Proprie

It costs more to revenge injuries The Efficient Company That servant is termed "efficient hat servant is termed "efficient" who does well the thing he was em-ployed to do. The Mutual Life of Canada, the servant of the Canadian people, has demonstrated its efficiency,

To go to confession after repent-

HOTEL WASHINGTON Q D.C. MUTEL OF AMERICAN IDEALS

Pennsylvania Avenue, 18th and H Streets

To seekers of a hotel where luxurious quarters may be se-cured, where charm and con-genial atmosphere prevail, and where excellence of service is paramount, the Hotel Powhatan offers just such inducements.

Rooms with detached bath hay be obtained at $1.50, $2.00 and up. Rooms with private bath, $2.50, $3.00 and up. Ask for special tinerary for Bridal Couples, Conventions, Tourist Parties, and Schools, Write for booklet with map.

CLIFFORD M LEWIS,

THE ST. CHARLES

Most Select Location Fronting the Beach ATLANTIC CITY, N.J.

With an established reputation for its exclusiveness and high class patronage Thoroughly modern and completely equipped. Courteous service. Bathrooms, with hot and cold, fresh and sea water attachment, etc. Magnificent sun parlors and porches overlooking the board walk and ocean. Orchestra of soloists. Always open. Golf privileges. Illustrated booklet.

NEWLIN HAINES CO.

Crucifix Edition

PRAYER BOOK SPECIAL PRICE to Readers of the This de lux edition Prayer Book is full bound in genuine leather. It has padded covers with enamel and gold design, and full gold edges. The inside of front cover is of virgin white moire finish, with handsome border embossed in gold in gold.

The center panel is depressed and contains an exquisitely designed pearl and gilt Crucifix with indulgenced prayer on opposite page.

It is full cathedral size 3½ by 2 inches and contains 522 pages including Epistles and Gospels, Ordinary of the Mass, Novena to the Sacred Heart and

The publisher's price of this Prayer Book is $1.75 but we are very glad that Book is $1.75 but we are very glad that we are able to give it to you for only $1.50 post paid, and in order to quickly introduce it, we will also send you free, an exquisite amethyst color bead Rosary, complete with Crucifix. Please order early and state whether French or English edition is desired.

Address: Canada Mail Order, R9, Toronto Arcade, Toronto, Ont.

THE SPENCER "Orgoblo"

is being used to provide wind power for over 7,000 Organs. A fan blower, quiet in operation and high-grade in every detail. Write LEONARD DOWNEY, London, Canada

Selling Agent for THE ORGAN POWER CO., Hartford, Conn.

Western Fair

Ontario's Popular Exhibition September 11th to 19th, I914

INCREASED PRIZE LIST

Magnificent Programme of Attractions. Two Speed Events Daily. New Fireworks Every Night. COME AND SEE

The Dominion Experimental Farm Exhibit and the Canadian Royal Dragoons

The Con. T. Kennedy Shows will Fill the Midway Music by the best available Bands Reduced Railway Rates Commencing Sept. 11th Special Excursion Days, Sept. 15th, 16th, 17th. All Tickets good till September 21st ALL INFORMATION FROM THE SECRETARY

A. M. HUNT, Secretary. W. J. REID, President.

specialized

CHATS WITH YOUNG MEN

THE LOVE OF ST. PHILIP NERI FOR THE YOUNG MEN OF HIS

There is a glow of tender devotion in the biography of St. Philip Neri, written by one of his spiritual sons of the Oratory, Archbishop Capecelatro. But in no part of the work does this spirit of love shine more clearly than in the author's charming account of the saint's relations with the young.

Many reasons led Philip to devote himself with especial care to the training of the young, writes this biographer of the saint. Hearts genial and sympathetic as was his are ininstinctively drawn towards those who are just entering upon life with such eager anticipations and such exuberance of energy. But besides this, Philip thought that what good he could do them would yield more abundant fruit, and that the action of divine grace on the hearts of the divine grace on the hearts of the young has a beauty all its own; and moreover, he thought that the true and lasting reformation of Christian life must begin with those who give its character to their time, and mould the generation which is to follow And hence he tended and trained them with peculiar care and

And the young felt themselves drawn towards Philip by an irresistible force of attraction. His winning ways, the love that beamed in his eyes the simple dignity of his bearing, all combined to impress them. eyes the simple dignity of his bear-ing, all combined to impress them with a loving veneration. They felt they could go near him with confi-dence; and the charm of his words the kindliness of his manner, and his gentle charity won their hearts. Be sides this, there was one feature in Philip's character which never fails to fascinate the young; he was always mirthful and humorous, even in trib-ulations and sorrows. His cheerfulness flowed from his good, simple, frank nature; and, like all the Flor entines of his time, he was noted for a vein of pleasantry, at once delicate courteous, and restrained. And Philip sanctified these gifts, as he sanctifie all others, to the glory of God and the good of souls. We find him always sprightly, gay, and even veiling his miracles from observation with a gentle jest.

Let us picture to ourselves Philip with a troop of boys around him, ar-dent and restless in appearance, but in reality docile to the least sign from him. As he looked round on them he seemed himself to grow young again ; he had a smile and a pleasant for each, and he took keen in terest in their amusements. would often lead them with him into the fields, or to some beautiful villa in the neighborhood and set them to play at quoits or tennis or some other game; and, although he was a priest and venerable with age, he would make himself a boy with them and join in their sport. When he saw that the game was well started he would withdraw to a little distance beneath the trees to pray and meditate on the passion, for which purpose he always had with him a little book containing the last chapters of the four gospels If the boys called him to play them he would leave his prayer and join them for a time, until he could slip away again and continue his He would put up with all prayer. He would put up with an their childish pranks in order that he might keep them near him; and he even allowed them to shout and make what noise they pleased at the very door of his room.

the young from melancholy and sad- possible for all to be saved, even if

Baby's

Food

ness than from merriment. He found no fault with their gaiety, however thoughtless, if only it were not car ried to excess; and he always felt greater liking for those who were bright and spirited. If he ever saw any one of them gloomy and sad he would comfort him, caress him, and even scold him affectionately saying:
"Why do you look so sad? what is the matter with you? Come here to your father and tell him all about it." And then he would pat him on the cheek to rouse him up and encourage him. He would leave his meditation or any thing else if his boys wanted to have During the carhim among them. During the car-nival, that he might keep them from all sights and occasions of sin, he made them perform little plays; and, in a word, he spared neither time nor trouble to keep his hold of the young. When he was in company with them, his pleasantry and mirth contrasted almost strangely with his age and his dignity.

But the object of the saint in this great and startling condescension was evident, and his success marvellously great. The youths who crowded in such numbers around him not only lived good Christian lives, but they bore upon them the stamp and im-press of their beloved father. They were full of life and mirth, but still they were orderly, devout, and pure, full of faith and the love of God. They felt no false shame in being pious and humble, gentle and obedient they shrank with disgust from sin Such was their loving trust in Philip that they obeyed him instantly and always, and would endure anything rather than give him a moment's unasiness.

If he saw their playfulness degen erate into buffoonery, he would stop them with a fatherly admonition; if they allowed some little time to pass without confession, he would send or them and receive them with great affection; if any one of them had wandered from the right way, he knew no rest until he had brought nim back; if he saw that any of them needed peculiar watchfulness and care, he would charge one of his pen-itents to look after them, and keep them away from evil company. We read in the lives of the saint many instances of the tender and unwearying affection with which he guided the young. A Roman gentleman a frequent visitor of his once expressed to him his amazement that he could live with such a noisy troop of boys about him, and Philip answered with sweet simplicity: "If only I can keep them from sin, they are welcome to chop wood on my back." With such selfsacrificing and exquisite charity Philip treated the young .- St. Paul's Bul-

OUR BOYS AND GIRLS

KNOW HOW TO SWIM

When little girls eight or ten years old learn to swim they have no thought that their knowledge or ability will be the means of saving their lives. Events sometimes so shape themselves, however, that knowing how to swim is the only thing between a person and a watery grave. It was so in the disaster which overtook the Empress of Ireland a few weeks ago. A little girl, Helen O'Hara, was among the passen-gers who were saved from the ill-fated steamer. In newspaper reports this little girl is reported as saying that she was very glad she had taken swimming lessons. Well she might be, for the time when her ability to swim proved her salvation came very quickly. Of course, conditions about Philip's profound knowledge of the such an accident as that to the Emuman heart led him to fear more for press of Ireland make it almost imes to you cut and fitted and ready to nail in $147 to $5,000.

The Sovereign System means a saving of one-third on the cost of building.
Send to-day for Catalogue H giving prices and all particulars.

SOVEREIGN CONSTRUCTION COMPANY, Limited 1316 C. P. R. Building, Toronto, Ont.

The "Allenbe

provide a complete and progressive food, and are specially adapted to every stage of a child's devel-

MILK FOOD No. 1.

MILK FOOD No. 2.

retrial comes to you cut and interproceed to portable Houses.

Iumber, cut to fit, doors, windows, glass, patent plaster laster, interior trim and finish. Stairways, paints, nails, complete instructions for erecting. Immediate shipment.

Houses from two to twelve rooms—and from $147 to $5,000.

MAGIC BAKING

POWDER

ONTAINS NO ALU

find no difficulty.

MANY BRANDS OF BAKING POWDER CONTAIN ALUM WHICH IS AN INJURIOUS ACID. THE INGREDIENTS OF ALUM BAKING POWDER ARE SELDOM PRINTED ON THE LABEL. IF THEY ARE, THE ALUM IS USUALLY REFERRED TO AS SULPHATE OF ALUMINA OR SODIC ALUMINIC SULPHATE.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER

THE ONLY WELL-KNOWN MEDIUM-PRICED BAKING POWDER MADE IN CANADA THAT DOES NOT CONTAIN ALUM. AND WHICH HAS ALL ITS INGREDIENTS PLAINLY STATED ON THE LABEL.

E. W. GILLETT COMPANY LIMITED WINNIPEG TORONTO, ONT. MONTREAL

they knew how to swim, but the fact that this little girl was rescued from the water and strong men who did not know how to swim were lost carries its own lesson. So little effort is required to keep one afloat in quiet water that great strength is not needed. Indeed, strong men can wear themselves out in futile efforts to keep afloat while comparatively weak men, women or children who have mastered the art of swimming greatest difference Probably the greatest difference between one who knows how to swim and one who does not, lies in the fact that the swimmer has learned that he can float if he permits his body to remain under the water, while the one who can not swim makes frantic efforts to get himself above the surface. Unfortunately water is not heavy enough to support human beings directly on the surface but if the body be submerged it is possible with little or no effort to maintain one's head above the surface. No experienced swimmer would attempt to lift himself out of the water by beating the surface into a oam. All that is wasted effort. It is also very tiresome and will soon exhaust anybody. The person who has learned to swim has simply learned that the buoyancy of water is great enough to keep him afloat and has learned how to take advartage of that buoyancy. He has learned to make the water a servant. Long experience, of course, it requires to make an expert swimmer, but even a novice would not attempt to rear himself above the waves in the impossible manner attempted by a person ignorant of the water. Only a short time is required for a swim mer to learn when it is safe to open his mouth, and that he must not breathe if his nostrils are full of

The swimmer has a chance for his life because his accomplishment enables him to keep his wits as well as his wind and strength. He knows better than anybody else that he can not swim to a far distant shore, but he knows also that he can get to a leck chair, or a plank, or a lifeboat, if it is within reasonable distance. The swimmer knows that he can help others to help him, and it is no little thing to be of help to a rescuer at a when economy of time means time saving others' lives as well as your

Now is just the time to make this lesson profitable to innumerable thousands. It is the outing season. Learning should not be delayed be cause the prospect of an ocean voyage is small. Lives may be lost or saved in a duck pond as well as the ocean. Those who go down to the sea in ships, or rowboats alike should learn both what to do and what not to do on and in the water. The element should be respected rather than feared. No liberties should be taken with it, but it should not be allowed to end your life before your time.

Learn to swim, learn this season, and you will be glad as long as you live, even though your life never should be in danger on the water. -Intermountain.

GENTLENESS

Gentleness is like the fragrance of a flower by which it reveals its identity and its character. Gentleness is part of the sweetness of Christianity when it blossoms in a human life under the sunshine of the Lord's presence. It reveals to others the sympathy in the heart, the tender. sympathy in the heart, the tender ness in the mind's thought and even the subservience of the body itself to the unselfishness of the spirit. Gentleness in the tone of voice indicates a kindly affection; in the form of speech it reveals consideration of the affect upon the feeling of others; in the gesture of hand or its friendly grasp; it implies a sweet humility and grasp; it implies a sweet numility and a sense of fellowship. Gentleness is always in keeping with strength, whether in repose or in action; and harshness and overbearing are char-acteristic of the weakness of selfishness.

POLITENESS

There is a difference between politeness and etiquette. Etiquette can be defined, classified, formulated. You can tell young people to take their soup from the side of their spoons to eat with their forks; not to make a noise in eating, and all these and countless more such injunctions are mportant. But I would rather eat a hundred dinners with my knife than laugh one malicious laugh at some-one else who did so.—Cardinal Manning.

It is better to receive criticism than flattery.

Let us ask of Mary to obtain for us from the Holy Ghost the gift of divine love, for then all the crosses of this life will seem sweet to us.

FATHER VAUGHAN ON FIRE

addressing the Women's Conference of London recently, Rev. Father Bernard Vaughan said: "Mine is the privilege as well said : as the duty of congratulating our-selves upon the perfect restoration to health of his Grace the Archbishop. I notice that as I am get-ting older he is getting younger. Also on your behalf, I must express our delight in having his Eminence Cardinal Bourne in the chair. Under his patronage and auspices the League was started, and he has stuck to it ever since, watching its growth, directing, guiding and en-ouraging it. I have a sort of right to be here as spiritual adviser of the League in Westminster, and I have been in-vited to come and try to help you and try, if possible, to inspire you with greater zeal than at present you possess.

"I have come down as a spiritual stoker with a shovel full of coal in one hand and a poker in the other. I know no fire can live unless it is fed and a good draught created. I am going to speak about the spirit of enthusiasm with which a Catholic must be inspired and inflamed. I can hardly understand how a Catholic believing what he does can lack enthusiasm. "Enthusiasm is part of our be longings, and if we have not the monopoly of it we ought at least to have a distributing power created in ourselves to pass on to others; but I notice wherever I go, on land or by sea, the great driving force is always fire. If I stand upon an Atlantic liner and ask myself, What is driving this wondrous floating hotel across the waters? My answer is Fire. If I pass from my well be-haved ship and take my place in an express forcing its way across the country, and I pause to ask, What is that which is sending me at breakneck speed across the the answer comes. Fire. And when I alight from my train and pass into the city and see darkness I ask. How are you going to keep this ci y in order; what are you going to do to light it up? they tell me. The power-house—Fire. If by day I look around the land and watch the won drous beauty of God's earth, and see the whiteness of the lily and the redness of the rose, and pause to look at the bloom of the peach and nectar; if I see the gold of the corn waving in the sunlight, and ask myself. What has done all this? -it is Fire. When the snn s light is are going on to a time when the fires will fade away and life will pass, and the race which for a moment has troubled the surface of this planet will die from want of fire. Fire is the transforming power, fire is the driving power, fire is the refining and spiritualizing force.

"What was it our Lord's apostles and disciples lacked that they should run away from Him in his trouble and deny Him and say that they knew nothing about Him? What they lacked was fire. On the day of the Pentecost, fire descended upon them, and I can almost shade my eyes now because of its intense light. They went forth charged like a battery to give the world its shock, under which it has reeled ever under which it has reeled ever since. In all ages you will find that the heroes and heroines of Christianity, who made themselves heard and understood and felt as a driving force, as refining furnaces and up-lifting agents for God, have been men and women charged with fire. "About three hundred years ago Our Blessed Lord appeared to a simple nun. He stood before her enveloped in flames of fire. His whole presence seemed to be like an open furnace, and the source of it all was His Heart. He told that sainted soul—humble, simple, strong as a child—that He charged her to go out and through her influence and prayers to communicate this fire to the world. He said what He felt most of all was the coldness and indifference and apathy of those who were most of all indebted to Him. Catholics lacking enthusiasm—that is the torture to which we put Him. He is not indifferent. He is a blaze of fire, and says there is only one thing He wants in return for His that as a priest I must become one of His spiritual stokers. I think if you ask the Cardinal what he wants to see all over the land he would whole world at length might become enthusiastic about Him who so enthusiastic about us. The other day I was stopped in the streets of Dublin and asked, Are you not a little too enthusiastic? Why are you not a little more moderate? erate in His love for us where should we be now? It is what costs us something that is worth while. I am here to tell you that Our Lord is in our midst, and, if you cannot see Him, His heart is just as full of desire for the return of enthusiastic love as on the day He appeared to Margaret Mary Alacoque. You are privileged in knowing Him. You are in possession of God's greatest gift out of heaven—the Faith.

One rub is worth four rubs any other way

Saves time in Chasing Dirt Many uses and full directions

'We in this country are perhaps the most signally favored people on pire whose motto is justice and liberty. We live under a flag which, wherever it floats in the breeze, tells the people round about it there must be liberty, freedom and justice. We have every opportunity of practising our faith. In all the dependencies of England throughout the Empire I have noticed there has not been merely toleration about the Faith, but an encouragement from the authorities to see that their people have every liberty for practis ing it.

"What a magnificent setting you have as Leaguers. I do not know any people who ought to find such zeal and enshusiasm as Leaguers in this country. What we want taken out of us is the parochial spirit—the provincial spirit, the national spirit. Lift yourselves up to the Catholic spirit. Certainly charity must begin at home, and your first duty is to your parish, and next to your bishop. Be interested in everything bishop. Be interested in everything in which he is interested, feeling that you are ready to make sacrifices for the good of your diocese. You must not stop there. Wherever Jesus Christ our Master, is interested, be interested, too. We must always try to do our best for God. Take a part. Realize your self. Help according to your means or at least encourage others who have that work in hand. One of his Eminence's predecessors, Cardinal Wiseman, when on his death-bed thanked God that he had never consciously checked any good work in his diocese. That seems a little thing to say, but it took a great man tolsay it. We are so full of preju dices, passions and ignorance. are such a little self centred microbes that we can hardly see beyond our selves. The half-crown cannot touch florin, and the shilling will have nothing to do with the sixpence, and the sixpence won't look at the three-penny bit—because they are kept for the Sunday collection. I want every quenched the bloom of God's garden will fade away. Once this earth had too much fire to support life, and we encourage it whereve been sown. Do not let your criticism kill it, but let it blossom under your smile, then under the smile of God it will ripen into great fruit for the country."-Universe.

RELIGIOUS IRELAND

"Do you think that the Irish people are as religious as they were?" en interviewer asked the Rev. Father Vaughan, S. J., on the occasion of his recent visit to Dublin. "If you were to judge," Father Vaughan said, "of the religion of a people by the absence of crime, by the purity of their women and the innocence of their children. Ireland does not seem to be falling away from their grand ideals. In England we are fond of taking a census church going folk. It would be easier in Ireland to take a census of those who do not go. Take Gardiner street," he continued, "where I have been spending the Lent. It is never empty and nearly always full. During the year more than 360,000 people go to Holy Communion in in this one church, and on the First Friday of the month I have seen between 5,000 and 6,000 souls at Holy Communion on one morning. I cite the example of Gardiner street. I am a guest here, but St. Francis Xavier's has no monopoly on Dublin piety. What we see here may be witnessed in almost any church in the city. Till you can wipe the sun out of the heavens, till you can stop your rivers running into the sea, till you can change day into night, it will be useless to talk about a want of faith and fervor in the Celtic race for their religion. They are just steeped in it, saturated in it. It is bubbling up all over them. Faith is woven into the very texture of their being. Spirituality is their metier." — Philadelphia Catholic Standard and Times.

A man can usually patch up his reputation by mending his ways.

All these Men are Specialists

THE BIG successes of the day are being accomplished by specialists. The Safford hot water heating system is a splendid example. Not only do we specialize on the Safford system as a whole, but we specialize in every part.

Safford's fire-pot that it has in an ordinary boiler. The foregoing facts mean more to you than you possibly realize. A boiler of few parts means one that will be very unlikely to get out of order—one that will be very easy to manage. A large amount of direct heating surface and rapid water circulation means a perfectly heated home and economy in to the fact that the water, after being heated, has only one-third the distance to travel to get out of the

Safford Boilers and Radiators

minute or two to write a post-card-request for it. And this booklet will show you the road to a more comfortable home in winter and a 331/3 per cent. reduction in your coal bills. That is surely worth while.

DOMINION RADIATOR COMPANY Branches Montre TORONTO, CANADA

St. John 15 Hamilton

Northern Navigation Co. LIMITED

GRAND TRUNK ROUTE

GREATEST STEAMERS of the Great Lakes

Luxury and distinction in equipment and service are offered in the highest degree by the Steamships of the Northern Naviga-tion Co., the Largest, Finest, Fastest on the Inland Seas.

The Water Way to the West

SAILINGS from SARNIA every Monday, Wednesday and Saturday for Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur, Fort William and Duluth, via St. Clair River, Beautiful Lake Huron, SOO LOCKS and Lake Superior. DIRECT TRAIN SERVICE between Toronto and Sarnia Wharf and Fort William and Winnipeg.

Hamonic Noronic Every Saturday

Every Wednesday

Huronic Every Monday

Sault Ste. Marie, Mackinac Island, and Ports on Georgian Bay. Service from Collingwood and Owen Sound every Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

30,000 ISLANDS. Sailings between Penetang and Daily except Sunday.

Tickets and information from all Railway Agents or from the Com-NORTHERN NAVIGATION CO. Limite sleep, give freedom from digestive ills and MILK FOOD No. 3. illenburys

THIS problem solved for mothers, by the "Allenburys" Foods.

'Infant Feeding and Management'

The best food for baby is the maternal milk. If for any reason the mother cannot feed her baby, the "Allenburys" Foods should be given, because they are practically identical with healthy human milk in composition, nutritive value and digestibility.

The "Allenburys" Foods promote sound

The Allen & Hanburys Co. Limited. 66 Gerrard Street East, Toronto.

Step

Step

數器

Simply Wash It

Your investment of $1.50 for an O-Cedar Polish Mop is a permanent one. After you have used it till it one. After you have used it this is won't shake clean, simply wash it in boiling water and soap suds, dry it in the sun, pour on a few drops of O Cedar Polish, and your again to save you the hard work of housecleaning.

It polishes, cleans and dusts your floors, woodwork and furniture all at the one time. Ask your dealer to show it.

Channell Chemical Co., Ltd. 869 Sorauren Ave. Toronto, Canada

THE CONVERSION OF A METHODIST LOCAL PREACHER

Written for the CATHOLIC RECORD The following is a brief outline of my experiences in searching for the which finally led to my conversion to the Holy Catholic Church While on a visit to the Old Country nearly four years ago I was having with some friends amongst whom was a Catholic lady. After convers ing on various topics, the talk drifted towards religion, a subject which is very interesting to me, and she said to me. "do you know, George and Oakburn, if I was sound in the that Catholics are not forbidden to faith, but I naturally refused it.

to do so." I answered in the negative impression that the Catholic Church against Catholics reading their Bibles, and did nothing in the way to encourage the distributing of them." Then she explained to me the differ ence between a Catholic and a Pro testant Bible, and the reason Catholics are not allowed to read the Protestant authorized version. I had often read of the experiences of some of the colporteurs of the Bible Society and the difficulties they have in sell-ing and distributing their Bibles and Gospels in Catholic countries, but no where had I read the reason given Catholics are forbidden to take and read them, nor the distinction between the two various versions.

After this I made up my mind to study the Catholic religion, from their own point of view, not with the intention of embracing it at all, even though it were right, but because I really wanted to find out what my attitude as a Christian should be towards the Catholic Church and Catholics. Previous to this I was bitterly prejudiced against the Catholic Church as I had been attending Bible readings, the subject being 'The Church of Rome as anti-Christ. and in this light I had always looked upon her. I also attended some of the meetings of J. A. Kensit, the great Protestant speaker, and I strongly condemned the Romanizing Anglican church in our town when a new vicar came to take the place.

In fact the chief reason why I joined the Methodist Church was the advice of a Low Church of Eng. land gentleman and a Presbyterian they were under the impression that most of the Anglican churches were tending Romewards.

I returned to Hamiota, Man., in March, 1910, and the Methodist minister said that he had got a job wait ing for me down at Miniota urging to it og it was si wicked place and he thought I might be able to do some good.

So I decided to come down, and after a few months I began to study for the Methodist ministry and was made an exhorter and given a license to preach. I continued my studies for a year, but, owing to lack of time and severe headaches, I thought it best to quit for a while.

Here my thoughts turned towards the Catholic Church, but still I did not know how to proceed, as I was not acquainted with any Catholics, and the nearest church was 30 miles away; neither did I know of any Catholio publisher, until I saw some Catholic prayer books advertised in Eaton's catalogue. I obtained one, and found out it was published by Kilner & Co., New York, so I wrote to them for advice and a catalogue of books. This they sent me and I procured "Catholic Religion," "Cath-olic Belief" and "Catholic Ceremonies." These I read and studied, and they set me thinking. I then looked over the list of the publication of periodicals and papers at the end, and amongst them I noticed the CATHOLIC RECORD, this being the only Canadian Catholic paper given; so I wrote to Senator Coffey and told him that I was searching for the truth, and he kindly forwarded on to me some back numbers of the RECORD, and promised to send it on till Sep-

Since then quite alot of correspondence passed between the late Senator Coffey and myself, and I must say that he helped me immensely, and when I asked him questions from time to time he always answered them with-

The assistant editor of the Orange Sentinel, reading one of my letters in the RECORD, wrote to me bringing a whole lot of charges against the atholic Church. I replied to the etter, and asked for definite proof of hese charges, but none was forthcoming; after keeping the letter about 4 or 5 weeks I sent it to Mr. Coffey and gave him permission to publish it.

About this time I requested that my name should be taken off the roll of the Methodist Church, but was asked to think well over the step I was taking. The Methodist minister came to see me. He lived only about 150 yards away, within calling dis tance. He asked several questions of my employers and went off, promis-ing to come and see me again. Afterwards, as I was at this time particularly anxious to hear both sides of the matter, I went to the Metho dist Church quite a few times so as to try to get an appointment with the minister, but failed to do so. However, he came and saw my em ployers again, with the result that they gave him information concern-ing the amount of Catholic corresdence I was receiving, which kindly mentioned in one of his ser-

Gunpowder Plot.

I then resolved to go and see him and to take my correspondence with me. This I did and while having an interview, the Methodist minister of Miniota came in, and was present most of the time. This occurred at Hamiota. Here I was advised to take a more rational view of the Bible in my studies and to look at it in the light of the present age. The Rev. Mr. East plainly told me that he accepted what he liked concerning the Bible and the rest he rejected A few days after the interview I received the offer of $550 a year to go and take two appointments, Kello

nons preached the Sunday before the 5th of November dealing with the

About this time I returned to Min iota, and the minister of Rossburg began a controversy which laster some time, but my faith could not be shaken. He spoke at times very bitterly against the Catholic Church and referred to her doctrines as damnable doctrines" On one casion he told me to go to my Bible and read the Acts of the Apostles concerning the primacy of Peter. This I did as I am a great lover of the Bible, and in the first fifteen chapters I found no less than fourteen occasions where Peter took the most prominent part, in speaking, preaching, confirming the converts, working miracles and at th first council; I sent my reply with the result that the Rev. F. Chapman ad mitted that Peter was the chief of the apostles. On another occasion I spoke of rocuring Fisher's History of the Church, as I was advised to get this by Rev. Mr. East of Hamiota, and the Rev. Mr. Chapman also highly com-mended it. However I said that when I get one I will get two, one on the Catholic side and the other by Protestants to compare them. The Rev. Mr. Chapman said this would not do, as Church History is so unreliable, and requested the controversy to close. So I closed it, but I still have all the correspondence on hand.

In my studies I have been trying my best to find out what were the doctrines which Our Lord Jesus Christ and His holy Apostles taught, and have tried hard but in vain to find them taught in Protestantism, except where she agrees with those taught by the Catholic Church. I "Faith of Catholics," giving the doctrines and ceremonies of the early church for the first five centuries, and I can only come to the conclusion that the Catholic Church, is unchangeable. Another book which has helped me immensely along this line is Bede's Ecclesiastical History, being the bistory along the bistory and the bistory along the bi cal History, being the history of England till about the year 750 A. D.

I have again and again compared Catholicism with Protestantism with the result that Protestantism is a failure, and cannot stand the comparison. We cannot get away from the fact that Protestantism is getting farther and farther away from God and the Bible, and is being merged into atheism and rationalism. Re garding the accusations made against the Holy Catholic Church I have gone to her enemies for them to prove them, but proof they cannot furnish. In fact I was receiving the Sentinel for about three months, and what did I find? What a fuss they made if they happened to have caught a single priest here and there, who under difficult circum-stances at times made a mistake. This was nothing new to me. In fact a priest wrote and told me that the Church was human as well as Divine, and that it was on the human side that she failed. He readily told me that there were bad and wicked priests, but still there was a Judas among the Apostles and the tares and the wheat must grow up to gether. There have always been scandals in the Church and there always will be.

After the close of the controversy I set about preparing myself with the aid of the Holy Ghost for my reception into the Church, with the result that the first opportunity I had I went to St. Lazare and saw Father Lalonde, who thoroughly examined me on Sunday, June 14. I was retime he always answered them without beating about the bush. In speaking of the Orangemen, while condemning their methods he always spoke kindly and sympathetically of them and asked me to pray for them.

The orangement while condending their methods he always absolution and Holy Communion.
Now I have full confidence in the Church that she will lead me aright in my spiritual affairs. Before I close terest in all her affairs. I need your prayers as I am as yet but a young child in the faith, and I make an earnest appeal to those who should happen to read this letter, but are not of the Catholic faith, to study her claims, from both points of view; to look out into the wide world and see if they can reconcile the various sects and denominations of Protestantism, as the Church founded by Jesus Christ, and upon the Holy Apostles who were inspired in their teachings who were inspired in their teachings by the Holy Ghost. I myself am not afraid to advise any who are sincere and in search of the truth to take up their Bibles, free themselves of all prejudiced thoughts and conceptions and pray for guidance by the Holy Spirit of God. They will finally acknowledge that the Catholic Church is all that she claims to be. This is the story of my conversion: although I have barely outlined the course of my investigation, I am cation. To go fully into it would re quire an article for each prejudice uprooted and for each truth at first limly perceived and later fully un-

May God bless you abundantly in your work.

Yours sincerely in Christ, GEO. HAMMOND. P. O. Box 41, Miniota, Man.

P. S.-I will send you later an account of my experiences in a Cath-olic settlement and my impression of the ceremonies and of the priest.

The foregoing is especially interesting as the late Senator Coffey took a deep and sympathetic interest in Mr. Hammond. Frequently on receipt of a letter from him he made some such remark as this: "I have another letter from my Methodist friend out west; he seems to be quite sincere and is making progress "

We feel quite sure that his promised first impressions of Catholics will be read with lively interest; and it may be also with profit that Catholics will see themselves as the recent convert sees them. ED. C. R.]

AN UNWELCOME VISITOR

The Rev. William H. Watts, the courageous rector of St. Mary's Episcopal Church, Haledon, N. J., a sub-urb of Paterson, has shown his resentment of the unsolicited and unwelcome receipt of The Menace at his rectory, by writing a vigorous letter to the publishers, telling them quite plainly what he thinks of their sheet and demanding that they refrain from sending any further copies. He also wrote a warm letter of congratulation to the Postmaster General at Ottawa, Canada, com-mending his department for excluding The Menace from the mails, and expressing the hope that our own government would take similar action. The Menace, of course, ignored his request; he then wrote the Postmaster General at Washington, denouncing in vigorous terms the vile sheet, and concluding: "I seriously object to having this paper come into my home, and I asked to be relieved in some way from having it forced upon me through the agency of the United States mail." second request to The Menace failed to accomplish its purpose, so in despair the Rev. Mr. Watts ordered the carrier to return the weekly copies to the post office. Mr. Watts communication to The Menace be day a sample copy of your publica-tion, and I shall be greatly obliged if you will not send me any more ; this sample is quite sufficient. I have written to the Postmaster General of Canada, to congratulate him upon the exclusion of your paper from the Canadian mails. expressing the hearty wish that our own government would do likewise. "My opinion is, as stated in my letter to the Canadian Postmaster-General, that this paper is well-named, for it is indeed a menace to the people wherever it goes. It cannot help but engender strife, foster sectarian prejudice and hatred, and do far more harm than the Roman Catholic Church could do even if it were worse than it is pictured by the

"I am mildly curious to know what may be the religious views and onnections of those who are responsible for this emanation from Missouri. Whatever those views and connections may be, they could never be called Christian, for in every way opposed to the true spirit and teaching of the Christian religion, and on the contrary re-present the spirit of those who, amidst jeers and taunts and sneers, and with devilish hatred in their hearts, nailed the meek and gentle Saviour to the cross.

"I don't wonder that some driven to use violent methods in op-I don't wonder that some are posing you; your paper creates just that spirit. This shows that it is anti-Christian, and Protestantism and patriotism are in a bad way if they need such a champion as this. -The Lamp.

DIOCESE OF HAMILTON

THE BISHOP VISITS THIRTY . TWO PARISHES IN SIX COUNTIES DURING THE MONTH OF JUNE

The Rt. Rev. Bishop Dowling, Bishop of Hamilton, besides visiting the city schools and churches, has just returned from a visitation of the northern part of his diocese. The annual confirmation tour is a very great trial of endurance, occasioned by the many long drives over rough country. On numerous occasions His Lordship drove from forty to fifty miles. Despite this strenuous work he is in fairly good health. During the past month of June the bishop visited thirty two parishes, administering the sacrament of confirmation to 1,714 candidates, all of whom took the total abstinence pledge till the age of twenty one, with the promise to renew the same when they arrive at that age for another period of twenty one years—that is till the age of forty two. The bishop is greatly pleased with the state of his diocese, and since his last visitation, he found several new churches schools, convents and parish houses erected, monuments to the zeal of pastors and parishioners.

DEATH OF SISTER CAIA

The Berlin News Record, July 16 Yesterday afternoon the tolling of the bells at St. Mary's church nounced the death of Sister Caia, the Mother Superior of Notre Dame Convent, Berlin. She had been ill for some time suffering from cancer of the liver, but she bore her suffering with patience and Christian fortitude until the end came yesterday. Sister Caia was born in Louisville, Kentucky, Dec. 3, 1852, and was about sixty-two years of age. She took her rows as a school sister of the Notre Dame Convent in August 1874, and soon after she was sent to take charge of a class in the Separate School in Berlin. With the exception of about five years spent at Waterloo and ormosa, her life was devoted to her work here, where she was well known. She became Mother Superior of the Notre Dame Convent at Berlin in December, 1901.

The funeral was held on Saturday norning from St. Mary's Church and thence to St. Mary's cemetery for in-

THE MENACE

From the Monthly Brief of St. Peter's Church, (Epis A few days ago a vilely printed sheet " called The Menace, was delivered here. The Menace is opposed to the Catholic Church. We received no less than five copies of the paper, and in case the publish ers have been equally generous to others, we would like to express our opinion. venomous production could not be

Though we may differ many of us from some of the teaching of the Catholic Church, we know that she s of the true Church, and we know that she is a great living power for good, having a people who are intensely loyal, and who receive from her the sacraments of our Lord.

That then this scurrilious, wretched-ly written and miserably conceived paper, whose bigoted spirit is only equalled by its obvious greed, should be able to issue false and vile accusa tions broadcast against this Church is a matter of reproach and of shame.
Any of our readers who receive specimencopies of The Menace should believe that it lives up to its title, that this paper is a menace to all truth, charity and love, and above all a menace to that unity for which we long, when there shall be again one undivided Church.

DIED

O'MALLEY—At Marchurst, Carleton Co., John O'Malley, in his sixty-third year. May his soul rest in peace!

DURKIN—In this city, on Saturday, July 11, 1914, Mr. Martin J. Durkin aged ninety seven years. May his oul rest in peace!

McCabe—At her late residence, 295 Locke St. South, Hamilton, Ont., on Thursday, July 2, 1914, Mrs. Elizabeth Sinnot McCabe, dearly beloved wife of John McCabe. May her soul rest in peace!

NEW BOOKS

"Pictures from Canadian History." For boys and girls. By Katharine Livingston MacPherson. Published by Renout Publishing Co., Montreal. Price socts.

"Constitutions of the Friends of Jesus and Mary. A rule of life for devout Catholics. By Rev. Peter Geiermann, C. S.S. R. Published by Benziger Biothers, New York. Price, leather, 35c; cloth, 15c.

"The Narrow Way." A brief exposition of the spiritual life for the laity and practical guide book to ristian perfection for all of good will. By Rever Gelermann, C. S.S. R. Published by Benzige others, New York. Price 60 cts. "Ballads of Childhood." By Michael Earls, S. ublished by Benziger Brothers New York. Pri

"History of the Protestant Religions." Their founders, histories and developments. By kee, James Luke Meagher, D.D. Published by the Christian Press Association, New York. Price §1.25 net. "Parish Life Under Queen Elizabeth." By W. P. M. Kennedy, M. A. Piotessor of Modern History in the university of St. Francis Xavier's college. Antigonish, N. S. Published by B. Herder, St. Louis Price 30 cts.

"Lisbeth" The story of a first Communion. By Mary T Waggaman. Published by P. J, Kennedy & Sons, New York. Price 75 cts.

TEACHERS WANTED

TEACHER WAN FED FOR SEPARATE School Section No. 15, Augusta. Must be fully qualified for Ontaino. Salary $350 per annum.
Duties to commence Sept. 1st Apply to John Evans, Sec.-Treas., S. S. No. 15, North Augusta.
1866 1

QUALIFIED TEACHER WANTED FOR Separate school section No. 1, Brighton town-ship. Duties to commence Sept. 1st, 1914. Salary $500. Apply to A. McGuire, Codrington P. O., 01t.

TEACHER WANTED FOR SCHOOL SEC-tion No. 1, Nichol. Second class normal. State salary and quantications to Michael Duggan, Ariss P. O., Ont.

A QUALIFIED TEACHER FOR S. S. NO. I. B ougham. Duties to begin Sept. 1st, 191 Catholic preferred. Apply stating salary an qualifications to Dan Duggan, Secretary, Dace R. M. D. No. 1.

TEACHER WANTED FOR SEPARATE School No. 1, Morely. Second or third class School No. 1, Morely. Second or third class pressional certificate required Duties to commence after holidays. (Sept. 1st) Salary $45 a spear. Church and P. O. convenient to school. Apply stating qualification and experience to John J. Hunt, Secretary. Stratton, Ont. 1866-2

TEACHERS WANTED FOR EIGHT ROOMED

QUALIFIED TEACHER WANTED FOR S. S. No. 3, Puslinch township. Wellington, Co Salary $5,50. Duties to commence Sept. is Apply to Frank C. Mollison, Sec-Treas., R. K. No. 6 Guelph, Ont.

WANTED FOR C. S. S. No. 1, STANLEY, Normal Trained teacher. Duties to commence September 1st. Salary $400. Small attendance. Apply to E. J. Gelinas, Sec. Treas., R. R. No. 2 Zuri-

A NORMAL TRAINED TEACHER WANTED for S. S. No. 4, La Passe. Duties to begin on Sept. and. Apply stating salary and experience to Hector Gervais, Sec. Treas, La Passe, Ont.

PROFESSIONAL TEACHER WANTED FOR S. S. No. 4. Galway. salary $500 per annum. Address J. J. Guiry, Box 170, Kinmount, Ont. 1866-tf

WANTED, FOR TOWN OF WEBBWOOD school, lady teacher (Catholic) to teach primary room. Salary $550 per annum. Duties to commence Sept. ist. Apply with testimonials and state qualifications to S. J. Hawkins, Sec. Treas.

TEACHERS WANTED HOLDING FIRST OR second class certificates, for Catholic schools or William, Ont. Salary $600 per year. Duties o commence September. Apply G. P. Smith, Secre ary, 114 Simpson St., Fort William, Ont. 1863-tf TEACHER WANTED FOR JOCKVALE Public school holding a permanent second class certificate, convenient to R. R. staiton, church, and boarding-house also on Rural Mail Delivery Route. State experience and qualification. Salary $600 ex

1865-2 A NORMAL TRAINED TEACHER WANTED 1865-2

TEACHER WANTED FOR SEPARATE S S. No. 11, Hoy township Salary $400 to $450 to $ No. 11, Hoy township Salary $400 to $450 per annum according to qualification. Duties to begin Sept. the 1st, 1914. Apply to N. A. Cantin, Sec. Treas., St. Joseph, Huron County, Ont. 1865-2

TEACHE * WANTED FOR SEPARATE school Section No. 1, Merritt, qualified to teach English and French ("rimer classes, also teacher for second room. Qualified to teach French and English for Separate school section No. 2, Merritt. Apply stating experience and salary required to Rev Father Brennan, P. P., Espanola. Ont.

WANTED Fig. R. P. S. S. No. 4, ADMASTON, Ont., a second class teacher, normal trained. Duties to commence on the 1st of Sept. 1914. Apply Duties to commence in Ontario, also salary wanted, to

WANTED FOR THE CATHOLIC SEPARATE ist, and class preferred. Salary $425 per annum Apply to R. J. Snaith, R. R. No. 1, Ottawa.

AN EXPERIENCED LADY TEACHER wanted for C. S. S. S. No. 4 Biddulph Duties

WANTED CATHOLIC TEACHERS, FIRST and second class professional certificate for eparate school, No. 4, section Hagarty, Wilno. Duties to commence Sept. 1st. Apply stating exercising and salary required after giving references of Albert Lechowicz, Sec. Treas. for Separate school, Wilno P. O. Ont.

CATHOLIC TEACHER WANTED FOR Separate school, Section No. 2 Nipissing. Salary §4. per months Duties to begin September 1st, 1914. Apply to Louis Straus, Sec Treas. Alsace, Ont. 1865-3

WANTED EXPERIENCED TEACHER FOR senior room S. S. No. 5 and 8 Maidstone and Sandwich South, holding professional 2nd class certificate. Duties to commence Sept. I. Salary $525 to $575 according to qualifications and experience. School close to church, village, steam and electric R. R. Address John J. Costigan Maidstone.

TEACHER WANTED FOR C. S. SCHOOL No. 3, Admaston. Holding first or second class professional certificate. Salary $550 or upwards according to experience and qualifications. Duties to commence Sept. i. 1914. School convenient to church and railway station. Apply stating salary and experience to Edw. Windle, R. M. D. No. 2, Renfrew, Ont.

Renfrew, Ont. 1864-3

TEACHER WANTED, CAIHOLIC, QUALIfied, Separate school No. 1, Dock, T. P. Address qualification and salary, to W. Ryan, box 22, Charlton, Ont.

ton, Ont. 1864-3

TEACHER WANTED FOR SCHOOL SECtion No. 1, Arthur Township, A Catholic teacher, female with a second class certificate qualified. Apply to Patrick Costello, Kenilworth, P. O.
Box 71, Sec., Treas. 1864-3

BOX 71, Sec. 1 reas.

AN1 ED, TEACHER FOR SEPARATE school section No. 8 Peel. Holding a second class normal trained professional cercificate. State salary and experience. Apply to John Connelly, Alma, Ont. 1864-3

Funeral Directors

John Ferguson & Sons 180 King Street

The Leading Undertakers and Embalmers
Open Night and Day
Telephone—House 3/3 Factory—543

E. C. Killingsworth Funeral Director Open Day and Night

491 Richmond St Phone 897

TEACHER WANTED FOR R. C. SEPARATE school in the town of Parkhill, Ont. Very convenient to church and station, Duties to commence Sept. 14. Salary $500 to $550. Apply, stating qualifications and experience to George L. Dignan, Sec.-Treas, Parkhill, Ont. 1866-2.

Altar Plate, Statues, Stations of the Cross, Altars of Carrara Marble Dapratico and Wood, etc. All orders given prompt attention.

Mission Supplies a specialty.

J. J. M. Landy Catholic Church Goods OS YONGE ST. - TORON

FOR SALE FLORIST AND MARKET GARDEN business, in good part of Ontario, large greenhouse, and brick dwelling, city water. For full particulars apply Box C. CATHOLIC RECORD, LONGON ON.

NEWFOUNDLAND FOXES FOR SALE RANCH BRED BLACK SILVER PUPS. ALSO crass. Best fur-bearers in North America. OneNtl. fox pet sold on London market for $3,000. Offers solicited. J. F. and D. C. Gillis, Fox Ranchers, Crabbes Station, Newfoundland.

HEAD OFFICES AND NINE BRANCHES IN TORONTO JAMES MASON, General Manager

BRANCHES AND CONNECTIONS THROUGHOUT CANADA You can always reach your money that is on deposit with the Home Bank. If you are out of Town send back your passbook, and a cheque for the amount you want—to the Home Bank. The money will be returned to you by next mail, with your passbook.

OFFICES IN MIDDLESEX COUNTY London (394 Richmond St.)

Melbourne,

Thorndale, Ilderion Delaware,

TEACHER WANTED FOR SEPARATE school section No 7, Township of Glenelg, A Normal trained teacher. Duties after vacation. Salary $500 and up according to experience. Application to J. S. Black, Sec., Treas, Priceville R. R.

TWO TEACHERS WANTED FOR S. S. No.

TEACHER WANTED FOR KENILWORTH Separate school. Duties to commence Sep 102 1914. State experience, qualifications and salary expected to Rev. D. F. Kehoe, P. P., Sec. Treas, Kenilworth, Ont.

NO MONE! Canada without any deposit, and give Free Examination.

BIG PROFITS. Everybody wants to play some instrument Agents can make handsome profits with a little effort in spare time.

SPECIAL OFFER. Write for our special agents proposition with catalogue and full particulars Free postpaid. State what instrument you prefer; it costs you only One Cent to do this. You can build up a good business. If already represented, our dealer will notify you compally. DO NOT BUY an instrument of any kind

The R S. WILLIAMS & SONS CO., Ltd.
145 Yonge St., Toronto Dept. B

FARM WANTED WANTED 100 ACRE FARM WITHIN 2 MILES

Beautiful Rosary Complete with Crucifix

sitely designed Rosary is made from our best quality of face-ted cut amethyst color beads, with strong lock link attachments, and dainty cracifix. Our regular price for this Ro-sary is one dol-lar but to all readers of the Catholic Record we are offering a special discount of 25 p.c. and will send one postpaid upon receipt of 75c. of you will act as our representative in your district and sell only 12 of our size 16x20 multi-color Oleograph

Pictures at 15c. cach, we will give you one of these beautiful Rosaries absolutely free.

Our Pictures are all reproductions of Famous Paintings and sell regularly in Art Stores at 50 cents each, so that at our wholesale price of 15 cents, you can sell the entire lot in an hour. Order today. When pictures are sold, remit us the amount of your sales $1.80, and your Rosary will be sent you by return mail. Address:

COLONIAL ART CO., Desk R2., Toronto, Ont.

THIS INVESTMENT HAS PAID 7% PER ANNUM

half-yearly, since the Securities of this corporation have been placed on the market 10 years ago. Business established 28 years. Investment may be withdrawn in part or whole at any time after one year. Safe as a mortgage. Write at once for full particulars and booklet. NATIONAL SECURITIES CORPORATION LIMITED

Columbia Graphophones

Take One in Your Canoe Music is never more beautiful than over the water

Columbia Graphophone

The Eclipse

Easy Terms
Light to Carry Easy to Move
Small to Store

Other Columbias to fit every purse and suit every taste, from $20.00 to $650.00. Easy terms.

A Full Thousand Columbia Records for 85c. each

Columbia Graphophone Co. 365-367 Sorauren Ave. Toronto, Ont.

Creators of the Talking Machine Industry. Pioneers and Leaders in the Talking Machine Art. Owners of the fundamental Patents.

Largest Manufacturers of Talking Machines in the world

Manufacturers of the Dictaphone