ARCHDEACON DENNISON'S CASE

Tuesday having been fixed by the Archbishop of Canterbury for delivering judgment in the case, Ditcher v. Denison, the Sessions court of the Guildhall, at Bath, was thronged. The Primate, accompanied by Dr. Lushington, and the other assessors, took their seats upon the bench.—Dr. Lushington then said: His Grace is of opinion, that the 9th, 10th, 11th, 13th, and 14th, articles filed in these proceedings on behalf of the Rev. Joseph Ditcher, and the charges therein made, are established so far as hereinafter mentioned. Whereas it is pleaded in the said 9th article, that the said Archdeacon, in a sermon preached by him in the Cathedral of Wells, on the 7th of August 1853, did advisedly maintain and affirm doctrines contrary and repugnant to the 25th, 28th, 29th, and 35th articles of the Church of England, and amongst other things did therein advisedly maintain, that the body and blood of Christ being present after an immaterial and spiritual manner in the consecrated bread and wine are given to all, and received by all that come to the Lord's table—and that to all that come to the Lord's table, to those who eat and drink worthily, and to those who eat and drink unworthily the body and blood of Christ are given; and by all who come to the Lord's table,—by those who eat and drink worthily, and by those who eat and drink unworthily, the body and blood of Christ are received. His Grace, with the assistance and unanimous concurrence of his assessors, has determined, that the doctrine contained in the said passages are directly contrary and repugnant to the 29th and 29th articles, mentioned in the statute. His Grace desires me further to state, that he will allow time to the Venerable Archdeacon to revoke his errors, until Wednesday the 1st of October next. If no such revocation shall be made by that time, he will pronounce sentence.—The court, was then formally adjourned until Tuesday, the 21st of October.

THE ROMAN CATHOLIC SYNOD IN DUBLIN

AND DR. CULLEN.—The Nation purports this week to give us a correct version of some of the proceedings at the Roman Catholic synod held in Dublin during last June. It says—"Early in that month, we understand a summons was sent by the primate or Archbishop of Dublin, to each of the Irish Bishops. His Grace the Archbishop had it was understood, received copious instructions from Cardinal Barnabo, counselling a policy with reference to the College of Maynooth which would subvert the whole constitution of the establishment; as established for now upwards of sixty years and for that time maintaining a character equal to that of any seminary in the world. These projects have been frustrated by an almost unanimous and vehement opposition of the Irish bishops. On the question that Maynooth should be placed under the control of the Propaganda, we are informed, that the only prelates who sustained the views of his Grace were the Primate, Dr. Dixon, the Bishop of Ossory, Dr. Walsh; the Bishop of Ardagh, Dr. Kilduff; and one or two more." The Nation concludes with the following open charge against Dr. Cullen:—"Every scrap of news or document that can be turned to account to further those who advocate a certain policy, to damage those who do not, is regularly translated, edited, and sent forward (to Rome). It is industriously circulated at Rome, that under the delegation of Dr. Cullen, the Church of Ireland has become far more closely bound to the Holy See. But two facts have been studiously kept back, which are as notorious as the daylight in Ireland. The first is simply this—that no Bishop or other ecclesiastic within the memory of man has so rapidly become so deeply unpopular in every part of the kingdom as his Grace. And the second is, that a feeling of distrust and uneasiness against the Roman tribunals has grown up in this country within the last few years such as was never known here before. With due sincerity we hope and pray, that measures may be taken of a nature to rectify those evils, and the greater evils and scandals to which they are likely to lead."

LOUIS NAPOLEON IN PRISON.

—Marshal Vaillant has delivered a remarkable address to the pupils of the Sorbonne at their annual distribution of prizes. In Marshal Vaillant's speech, frequent allusion was made to the Emperor Louis Napoleon; and it was dwelt upon with much force that, by his studies when a prisoner at Ham, he had prepared himself for future empire. In the course of an apparently hopeless captivity, he devoted his time to studies fit for one whom a conscious destiny had marked out for the ruler of men. Marshal Vaillant thus describes the fact;—Follow me into that fortress—draw those vaults—pass through that dark vault! Look at that young man with a pensive look, who, leaning over a table meditates in the calm of solitude. For many years he has been a captive, and his education commenced on the steps of the first throne of the world and continued amidst the misfortunes of exile, is being completed in the interior of a prison. Military art, political economy, the science of governing men, are the subjects of his studies. His genius increases and rises in the midst of his incessant labours. One day, when the hour marked by the designs of Providence shall have arrived, the gates of the fortress will fall before him, and he will go forth into the world ripened by the meditations of captivity, with the head sufficiently high, the heart sufficiently firm to save a great people from an abyss, and with the arm sufficiently robust to hold the sword to France and to secure victory to her flag.

THEOLOGICALS OF HUMBOLDT'S ORIGIN.

—The reformer, Zwingle, suffered from a ship-board at sea, the Alps. Melancthon was a workman in an armorer's shop. Martin Luther was the child of a poor miner. Dr. Adam Clarke was the child of an Irish cottager. John Foster was a weaver. Andrew Fuller was a firm weaver. Dr. Morrison, translator of the Bible into Chinese, was a hat maker. Dr. Mills was a hatter.

RUSSIA.

It has been stated that the Russian government has sent a commission to explore the coast of the North Sea in its own possessions and in Norway in order to ascertain the best position for establishing a formidable military post similar to Sebastopol. A Stockholm letter in one of our papers, says that its object is to get such a port into its possession in the hope of being able, in the event of war with England, to disembark suddenly a large body of troops in the north of Scotland.

St. Petersburg letters say that the Emperor Alexander intends making an excursion in the southern provinces before his coronation, and that he intends to invite Count de Morny, the French minister, to accompany him.

RECREATIONS OF THE CZAR.

A St. Petersburg letter of the 6th says:—Many persons in England will be interested and edified, not to say surprised, on learning the nature of those rural employments or recreations which, in Alexander II.'s case, are beguiling the retirement so usual with the Czars at this season. Just behind the green woods of Peterhoff, and visible from a deck in Cronstadt Roads, rise beyond the golden towers of the Summer palace the hills where the late Emperor Nicholas used to delight to exercise numerous hosts in mimic warfare; there, extend, at Krasnoe Selo, or the Red Village, the great summer camps, where the Guards, the army of the north, detachments from "the army of Finland," and detachments from all the other corps stationed throughout the empire, were wont to be marshalled, reviewed, marched, counter-marched, and manoeuvred. Doubtless such exercises will not be much intermitted, far less will they be altogether abandoned. But in a despotic state, the heart, the devotion which the sovereign throws into his several occupations is everything; and Alexander, while passing the interval before his departure for Moscow to receive the crown of his immense realm, amidst such solemnities as never before signalled a Russian monarch's coronation, is busy with all his soul—doing what? Why attending to, and perfecting a model farm which he has got, and with which he means to beat Mr. Mechi, giving him nine degrees of latitude as odds in climate, and about the same number of years I suppose, as a start, in the race of time. It is amidst such scenes and such cares that the little Czarevitch and the Emperor's three other children are opening their eyes upon the new politics of Europe, the close of a terrible war in their country's history, and the inauguration of an era unprecedented for the direction and the activity of its industrial hopes. The coronation will not take place till the end of August, old style (which will carry us into the second week of September). The Emperor is not yet gone to Moscow, though every day the railway groans with tons of curiosity in the shape of passengers hurrying to lodge themselves cheaply, and therefore, early; and tons of splendor in the shape of furniture, housings, blood horses, plate, &c. His Majesty is at Peterhoff in the summer palace. Lord Wodehouse is in his pretty country house along the same coast. Lord Granville has not arrived, but was supposed yesterday to be off Cronstadt. Splendid preparations are made for his brief sojourn here at Demonth's Hotel, near Politzeusky Most, or Police Bridge, off the Nevsky. M. de Moray is still also waited for. Their horses have come (two of M. de Moray's which died at sea, excepted), and have unspeakably affected Russian enthusiasm. I don't think the ambassadors will be better appreciated. Sir Charles Napier was at the review with the Grand Duke Constantine and the Emperor.

The Municipal Council of Ravens has taken another step in the dignified course of legal and pacific resistance to the misgovernment of the Papal States. An address has been signed by the municipal councillors in reply to the notification of Monsignor Amici, prolegate, and commissary for the Legations, and refusing to concur with him in the restrictive regulations on the sale of corn, which he had proposed to enforce. It should be observed that these municipal councils are nominated by the Government, whose act they now disapprove.

The Boundless West towed to the Atlantic.—There appears to be a new branch of business springing up in the boundless West, which the ever active spirit of "Young America" is directing to the Atlantic Shore. We find the commercial men of the West entering with great spirit and activity into this new branch of trade, out of which, important results may be anticipated. Away off in the interior of the country at the distance of more than one thousand miles from the sea-port but connected with the Atlantic by a chain of lakes; the Welland Canal which is 35 miles long, and the St. Lawrence River are situated the thriving cities of Chicago and Milwaukee. These places have had a growth, as if by magic, and their trade is already immense. The first named doubles its population every four years, while the latter increased its population from 1750 in the year 1840 to 89,000 in 1854. Vessels have been or are about to be dispatched from Chicago to the Atlantic sea-board, laden with produce. A Milwaukee paper of the 21st ult., states that the experiment of opening up a direct trade with Europe by way of the lakes and the river St. Lawrence has been instituted. The Schooner Dean Richmond, has already cleared from that port to Liverpool, direct, with a cargo of 40,000 bushels of wheat. The vessel belongs to Chicago, the cargo is owned by parties in Montreal, and the vessel is commanded by one of the most efficient masters on the lakes. The sailing of this pioneer craft was observed with suitable ceremonies. A great number of appropriate presents were sent to Liverpool houses, by merchants, &c., of the West. The D. R. should spend a few days at Montreal, making ready for the voyage, which it is expected will be accomplished in fifty days from Milwaukee. The arrival of the little vessel at Liverpool will be a truly great event, coming as she will from a location that was only a few short years ago the heart of the American wilderness, but which is now the natural reservoir and outlet for the granary of the world.—Halifax Novascotian.

HASZARD'S GAZETTE.

Wednesday, September 3, 1856.

Some time since, a Mr. Cole a carpenter, one of those intelligent men that we sometimes meet with amongst the industrial class and often when least expected informed us that one day walking on the farm belonging to Mrs. Davies situate in the Royalty of Charlottetown he picked up a piece of a mineral with the impression of leaves upon it stating at the same time that he considered it a sure indication of a coal formation in the neighborhood. We have since seen some large specimens furnished by him to the Legislative Library and a small specimen termed by Lyall astrophyllites foliosa now lies on the table before us. It is called "shale" and is a species of clay slate. These specimens are remarkably curious and suggest to the inquisitive mind matter for much reflection. One of them presents the figure of a fern completely developed. It is however as indicative of coal being to be found within a reasonable distance of the surface that its consequence in an utilitarian point of view consists. We were much gratified at the vote of the Assembly for placing a sum of money at the disposal of the Executive for the purpose of boring the shaft in order to ascertain the fact whether coal was to be had and considerably disappointed at not finding persons ready to tender for the same. We have been since informed by the Hon. Colonial Secretary, that a tender in fact had been put in, but that the parties tendering required that the Government should find the apparatus. Any one who knows any thing of the matter is aware, that this is by no means an expensive affair and as this is a matter of some moment we would respectfully suggest that proper and searching inquiries should be in the first place made as to the fact of the shale having been found on the spot indicated, this having been clearly ascertained we would recommend that specimens of the shale together with that of the soil and rock near to the place should be sent to some distinguished mineralogist and geologist in the United States, as well as to William Dawson, Esq. Principal of McGill College and their opinion solicited, as to whether it would be worth the governments while to go to any expense in the matter. If the opinions were favorable no time should be lost in making the trial. A coal mine within so short a distance of the city would be one of the greatest blessings that could be conferred upon it and there is no saying what effect it might have upon its future fortunes, as well as giving a hope that other parts of the Island may be equally fortunate. A couple of hundred pounds or twice that amount would be money well laid out even in ascertaining the facts, let the result be what it would.

The examination of the Kent District School will be noticed in our next.

LONG BEARDS.

As the mane to the lion, is the beard to the man— An ornament fashioned on Nature's own plan; A long flowing beard that is curly and fine, Is a glory as great as our God could divine; And a curse has ever followed the man, and the day, That first taught the nations to shave it away.

'Tis a foolish practice, I'm sorry to state, Invented by King Alexander the Great, The Great-est murderer, tyrant and knave, That ever was in, or was out of a grave; Of whom the people were so 'afraid, That out of terror they shaved the beard.

And this foolish practice, from terror begun, Has at least through a hundred ages run, For Madam Fashion has cherished the plan Of shearing the God-like face of man, Removing the long and beautiful beard That Nature designed to be nurtured and reared.

When the winds of winter their howling begin, The beard on the face, there's no manner of doubt, Keeps the heat that's within from coming out; And then, when the weather is hot as sin, A long flowing beard, whether thick or thin, Keeps the "heat" of the heat from getting in.

And now in the days of Woman's Rights, When Fancy is prone to her highest flights, The ladies begin to behold and admire The beautiful beards that the gentlemen wear; And 'tis found, that the razor, so bold and brave, Ere long will be laid in oblivion's grave.

Now, the ladies think it an awful disgrace For an honest man to shave his face, For in later years they begin to find That shaving the face shaves away the mind, And an inch from the beard they slowly suspect, Cuts at least a yard from the intellect.

There was Samson, wise, and bold, and strong, While his hair and beard were flowing and long; (In proof of this, see what came to pass When he wielded the great jaw-bone of an ass;) But how weak he was, and how ill-behaved, After his beard had been wickedly shaved.

Long life to the beard, and long may it wave, When the razor is broken and laid in its grave; Long, long may it flourish, all curly and fine, Secure in its brightness and beauty divine, An ornament fashioned on Nature's own plan, The greatness, the grandeur and glory of man!

Now under its own vine and fig tree, the beard In brightness shall grow, in its beauty be reared, With none to molest, none to make it afraid, None to ask that its length may be shortened or stayed, Since the ladies admire and some are 'afraid, Of a handsome man with a flowing beard!

A DIAMOND FOUND.—We have been well aware that this country was very rich in minerals and some kinds of precious stones but we had not expected to see a Lake Superior diamond; yet such is the case.

We were shown one yesterday that would measure three-fourths of an inch in thickness. It is a regular formed octagon, and all who have seen it pronounce it diamond, but of what exact value is yet uncertain, it being in the rough state. It cuts glass "like a knife," and shows all the brilliancy of a diamond of the first water, which, if it should prove to be, will make its value not less than two thousand dollars. The diamond was found by the wife of Mr. Alfred Huffman, while walking on the shore of the lake. The waves washed it up, and, on receding, left it exposed to the rays of the sun, when its brightness attracted her attention and she picked it up. Mr. Huffman is a poor labouring man, and should it prove to be as valuable as it is supposed, it will be a handsome windfall, (we might say water fall) for him. This is a great country—we shall expect to hear of the discovery of a gold mine next—and why not? for we have all the other minerals.—Lake Superior Journal.

THE QUEEN AND PRINCE ALBERT.—The following anecdote is now going the round of the clubs:—A rather remarkable picture is now being exhibited at Piccadilly, the production of Mr. Bartlett. It is a representation of the visit of the Queen and the Royal family to the wounded soldiers at Brompton hospital. It is said that this picture was taken at a rather curious moment. The Queen was standing with tears in her eyes, talking to a poor fellow who had got sadly shattered in battle. Prince Albert stood impassive and unmoved. The Royal mistress, who is a genuine woman, was mortified by his vacant and unfeeling look, and potently said to him, her voice still quivering with sympathy, "Do say something to the man and not stand staring in that way!"

THE SARDINIAN CHURCH.—The following are the nine articles proposed as a basis for the reformation of the Sardinian Church, to be brought forward at the next session of the Parliament at Turin: 1. The Roman Catholic Church of Sardinia declares its independence of Rome 2. The King of Sardinia is the Sovereign Protector of the church of the Kingdom. 3. The Priesthood is to be paid by the state. 4. The common law and the decision of the Council of Trent to be abrogated. 5. Tradition as a source of dogmas, to be declared of no force. 6. The reading of the Holy Scriptures to be allowed and their explanation left to the conscience of each Christian. 7. The Lord's Supper to be received under both forms. 8. The celibacy of the church to be no longer compulsory. 9. The Latin language to be no more used in the Church's service, and the number of Church festivals to be diminished.

THE PERSECUTIONS IN ITALY.—The Florence correspondent of the London Christian Times announces that the trial of Ruggeri has resulted in his triumphant acquittal. The great lawyer (M. Salavagnoli) who conducted the defence, sustained with eloquence the right of every Tuscan subject to embrace Protestantism; the further right of expressing and defending his Protestant belief; the civil right of being unmolested in so doing and the sincerity of Ruggeri's motives, and the purity and propriety of his conduct in the exercise of these rights. By the sentence of the Court, Ruggeri is restored to liberty. But who can return to him his health and strength wasted away during an imprisonment of many months?

Dresses, Silks, Shawls, Mantles, &c.

In making this announcement, we trust the public will encourage us in this undertaking, and we pledge ourselves to carry on this business in a spirit of liberality, and continue to offer to purchasers advantages which will, we have no doubt, be appreciated. STREETLY & COUCHMAN. Charlottetown, May, 17, 1856.

A MARVELLOUS REMEDY!

FOR A MARVELLOUS AGE!

HOLLOWAY'S OINTMENT.

THE GRAND EXTERNAL REMEDY.

By the aid of a microscope, we see millions of little openings on the surface of our bodies. Through these, this Ointment, when rubbed on the skin, is carried to any organ or inward part. Diseases of the Kidneys, disorders of the Liver, affections of the Heart, inflammation of the Lungs, Asthma, Coughs and Colds, are by its means effectually cured. Every housewife knows, that salt passes freely through bone or meat of any thickness. This healing Ointment far more readily penetrates through any bone or fleshy part of the living body, curing the most dangerous inward complaints, that cannot be reached by other means.

ERYSIPELAS, RHEUMATISM AND SCORBUTIC HUMOURS.

No remedy has ever done so much for the cure of diseases of the skin, whatever form they may assume, as this Ointment. Scabby, Sore Heads, Scrofula, or Erysipelas, cannot long withstand its influence. The inventor has travelled over many parts of the globe, visiting the principal hospitals, dispensing this Ointment, giving advice as to its application, and has thus been the means of restoring countless numbers to health.

SORE LEGS, SORE BREASTS, WOUNDS & ULCERS.

Some of the most scientific surgeons now rely solely on the use of this wonderful Ointment, when having to cope with the worst cases of sores, wounds, ulcers, glandular swellings, and tumours. Professor Holloway has dispatched to the East, large shipments of this Ointment, to be used in the worst cases of wounds. It will cure any ulcer, glandular swelling, stiffness or contraction of the joints, even of 20 years' standing.

FILES AND FISTULAS.

These and other similar distressing complaints can be effectually cured, if the Ointment be well rubbed in over the parts affected, and by otherwise following the printed directions around each pot.

Both the Ointment and Pills should be used in the following cases:—

- Sore Legs, Sore Breasts, Burns, Blisters, Bites of Insects, Itches and Scalds, Cuts, Bruises, Glandular swellings, Ulcers, Chancres, Hemorrhoids, Piles, Rheumatism, Scalds, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, Swellings, Tumours, Wounds, Ulcers, &c.

Sold at the establishment of Professor HOLLOWAY, 244, Strand, (near Temple Bar), London, and 20, Maiden Lane, New York; also by all respectable Dispensaries and Dealers in Medicines throughout the Civilized World; at the following prices:—at 1s 6d; 3s 6d; and 5s 6d. There is a considerable saving by taking the larger size. Directions for the treatment of patients of every description attached to each Pot.
