AND now they say Hon. Tom White did it with his little picture down in Haldimand.

1st. TORY—Did the Protestant horse succeed in Haldimand?
2nd. TORY—Noish.

The West Huron delegates to the Tory Bazaar's feast at London yesterday were nice badges. They will wear an even bluer than their badges after the next election.

There is a vacant throne in Bulgaria, and the people over there would like to have some heavy young fellow go over and sit on the crown. The king business in Europe is going abuzzing.

The Haldimand election which occurred yesterday was run solely on the Riel issue, which must be admitted by the Reformers.—Exeter Times.

Well, what about it? Who introduced that issue? We are content with the result. —As you f.

The Hamilton Spectator admits that some of the boys who were put on the list by the revising barrister, "went back on their daddy" and voted Grit. And they were not bald-headed young Liberals either.

We know that we have a local man who can carry the place on the next occasion, and who would have carried Haldimand today.—Toronto Mail.

Give us his name, please. He should have been on exhibition at the London banquet last night to revive the drooping spirits of the Boodle party.

SATURDAY last the English yacht Galatia was beaten by the American yacht Mayflower by over two miles. This is the second race in which the Galatia has suffered a reverse. Commander Henn, of the Galatia, claims that the breeze was too light to favor the sailing powers of his yacht.

SIR JOHN MACDONALD has signified his intention of being present at the Woodstock fall show. Hon. Oliver Mowat is also expected to be there and address the agriculturists on the occasion. If the people of Oxford are to be judges, we'll be a day's pay that the "little un" gets the red ticket.

The smug editor in his old habit of slandering a man who has not the confidence of his relatives should abstain from asking for a public comparison of characters. Get down to solid argument, O thou instructor of Christian youth! and don't bring Sunday's loud profession of godliness into contempt by Friday's falsehoods and general backslidings.

The London Advertiser has a happy knack of summing up an issue in a brief paragraph. It pointedly remarks:—"If the Mail were honest in its race and religion war, it would support the unopposed return of these Reformers who voted with the Government on the Riel resolution. But instead, it merely asks Reformers to vote against those who voted against the Government."

MR. BLAKE, at West Winchester, reviewed the conduct of the Government in regard to Northwest affairs, showing that the rebellion had been caused by neglect, tyranny, delay and mismanagement, and that now the Government were claiming a renewal of public confidence on the ground that they had hanged the leader of the rebellion which they had themselves provoked.

THE Tories are saying in the matter of the Haldimand election that "the Dutch have taken Holland." It strikes us we have heard that remark somewhere before, but it wasn't used when the Reform candidate was elected in Chambly. However, Holland will always be safe so long as the Dutch have possession of it, and the people of Haldimand are to be congratulated upon having successfully withstood the powers of earth and air that were brought against it in the recent campaign.

WHAT'S UP?

Things That Are Happening Around Us.

"The Signal" Roostered the Jack-knife Poetry—The Franchise—The General Election.

—I see the news from Haldimand contained THE SIGNAL to trot out its "rooster," and as if this were not enough to rouse the adam in our Tory friends, nearly a column of jack-knife poetic headings were hurled at the intelligent readers of the journal. My Tory neighbors don't like the result of the by-election in Haldimand, but they absolutely hate THE SIGNAL's rooster, and they abominate the "jack-knife" poetry. For myself I'll forgive THE SIGNAL this time, but don't do it again—in the case of Haldimand. I see the Tory papers now admit that it always was a Grit constituency and that Sir John didn't display his usual acumen when he allowed it to be contested on the recent occasion. (It should have been opened for election on the old roll or not at all.)

—And while I'm on this question of rolls, I might say that our Lib. Grits are not so much in favor of the franchise act as they were some months since. You see, running the machine costs money, and neither Grits nor Tories have had a surplus of that commodity since the N.P. came into operation. Then, when you pay out your money, you're not sure that the results will pan out as anticipated. Take Haldimand for instance: They had a revising barrister, a clerk and a bun-buff claimed that they made a gain of over 100 on the white vote, by the aid of the agencies named. 136 of the untutored red men of the forest were also added, and it was presumed that their vote would go solidly for the Government by whom they lived and moved and had their being. The late Reform member's majority had been only 120, and it was expected the Indian vote would swamp that, and that the 100 of a Conservative gain at the revising barrister's court, and the large stampede of Protestants from the Liberal party would represent the Tory majority. The calculation was carefully made, the figures were there to work on, but how did it pan out? 74 Indians voted, all told; 51 of them Tory, and 23 voted Grit, leaving a majority of 28 in favor of the Tories. The Grit candidate got 117 of a majority, which if the Indian vote was not counted, would have made 145—an increase of 19 upon the previous record. And the revising barrister's 100 made votes must have gone up the flue. Do you see?

—Now, right here in West Huron the revising barrister has acted in a rather square-toed fashion. In fact he has done so fairly by the Grits, I understand, that in many instances he failed to please the appellant, the clerk, and the other Tory bellies. The result is, we don't hear any howling about Tory gains. A further result is that there is a depression in the spirits of Tory aspirants for parliamentary honors, and the Almanac last week admitted that in sheer desperation Sir John had been implored to stand in nomination. What does all this mean? Simply that in West Huron, M. C. Cameron, by his many coils on the floor of the House, on the Riel question, Irish home rule, the rascalities of the Government, the outrageous treatment of the Indians, the corruption of the Tory members of parliament and other important subjects has strengthened himself.

—As for Sir John's candidature, I don't take much stock in it at all. I remember when he was cock-of-the-walk in Kingston, and when any one who dared oppose him in that constituency was hurried by over 500 of a majority. And yet I have lived to see him driven from Kingston, and taking refuge in Manitoba, British Columbia, and the Ontario constituencies of Lennox and Carleton. He has never been twice elected for the same riding since he was ejected from Kingston, and he has never run in a constituency where there were chances against him. For these reasons I don't think we shall have the Tory chieftain lead on the cohorts in West Huron. If he does consent to allow his name to be placed in nomination, it will only be as a second string to his bow. He will not trust his chances of entering parliament to the tender mercies of the electors of West Huron, but will take care to secure a soft seat by acclamation in some Tory

NO HUMBUGGING.

The Ontario Government Desires Scott Act Enforcement.

Unfaithful Inspectors, Magistrates and Constables to Beware—A Trench Circuit from the Provincial Treasurer.

The Liberals are the friends of temperance. All temperance legislation of any worth in Canada has been introduced by them. The whole trend of the majority at Ottawa has been to undo what the Reform Government had done in advanced temperance legislation. The Dominion Government having flung the responsibility of enforcing the Scott Act upon the shoulders of the Provincial administrations, the Ontario Government has come fairly and outrageously forward, and accepted that responsibility, in so far as it is within their jurisdiction to administer the law.

We hope that sincere temperance men who have been Conservatives will fully weigh the conduct of the Mowat administration in the stand they take in the circular we quote below. The Ontario Government is relying upon the good men and women of Ontario to support them in the bold though just and need ed stand it has taken. The action of the Liberals is in marked contrast with that of the Conservative Government at Ottawa. The circular is one that no fair-minded opponent of prohibitory legislation should object to. They, like earnest temperance men, should be anxious to see the effects of the local option law at its best. We commend the circular to the attention of all, more particularly to magistrates, commissioners, inspectors, policemen, and constables.—PROVINCIAL SECRETARY'S OFFICE, LICENSE BRANCH, CANADA TEMPERANCE ACT DIVISION.

TORONTO, Sept. 11th, 1886.

To the Commissioners, License Inspectors, Chief of Police, and Constables in Ontario under the Canada Temperance Act, 1878, has been adopted:—

Complaints have from time to time reached the Government through the public press and otherwise to the effect that the Canada Temperance Act, 1878, is not efficiently enforced in some localities, and inspectors have also complained that the constabulary do not in all cases render them the aid they have a right to expect in the enforcement of the law.

In a former circular inspectors were instructed that it was their duty to see that the several provisions of the Canada Temperance Act, 1878, were enforced in their districts; that they were to be specially vigilant in the prosecution of offenders for infractions of the Act, and not to wait for others to make complaint; and they were also required to perform such necessary detective service as their position would admit.

In again calling the attention of inspectors to these instructions, the undersigned begs to remind that the enforcement of the Canada Temperance Act is the single object for which they have been appointed, and if that duty is neglected, then the ground for their appointment ceases to exist.

It is the duty of police and constables to aid in the enforcement of law, not only by rendering necessary assistance to the officers charged with enforcing a particular law, but also by themselves prosecuting where an offence is brought to their knowledge.

In many places the inspectors complain that the constables refuse to serve summonses, or execute warrants in cases of violation of the Canada Temperance Act. The undersigned desires to impress upon all constables that by the obligation of their office, they are in duty bound to act in all cases when called upon by the constituted authorities to that end.

I again urgently call the attention of the commissioners and inspectors to the desirability of impressing upon the mind of the Justices in Sessions the importance of appointing in each municipality one or more constables in sympathy with the Act and its due enforcement. This will be found to be a most efficacious mode of securing the observance of the law, or its enforcement against those who violate it.

The refusal of magistrates to act in cases arising under the Act is a source of embarrassment in some districts. Inspectors will please notify the Department promptly when magistrates refuse to act, or when those willing to act cannot be found.

I have the honor to be Your obedient servant, ARTHUR S. HARDY, Provincial Secretary.

J. W. Menning, Chief Office C. T. A. Division License Branch.

CAMPAIGN ECHOES.

Comments After the Smoke has Cleared Away.

The Drift of Opinion on the Liberal Victory in Haldimand.

Haldimand election kept back unreasonably, and Chambly hurried on—and both lost to the Tory Boss!—(Stratford Beacon.)

The Mail complains that Mr. Merritt was "overborne by the weight of numbers." How profound a deliverance! It does not take the Mail long to discern the underlying cause of a defeat.—(Globe.)

The Hamilton Spectator says that fifty-one of the Indians voted for Merritt and twenty-three for Colter. "Only two Indians spoiled their ballots," not counting the fellows who voted the other way. The Spectator adds that its hope of redeeming the county has been "apparently disappointed." It certainly looks like it to the man on the fence. Apparently is a good word. The Spectator ought to have it stuffed for future reference.—(Toronto World.)

The Tory defeat in Haldimand is an assurance to our French-speaking brethren in Quebec that Tory bigotry is powerless against the broad liberalism that prevails in Ontario on religious as well as on political questions. It shows too that the Liberals of Ontario refuse to be divided for political purposes on denominational lines; and that the wicked efforts of the Tory press and leaders to stir up sectarian hatred and strife and create a Protestant crusade in their own favor has lamentably failed.—(Sarnia Observer.)

Under the circumstances it proves that not even the spymaster, the news franchise, the anti-Riel platform, nor its "priceless services" are likely to stem the growing tide of popular disfavor, which threatens to sweep the present Government from power. It may read the handwriting on the wall in yesterday's vote in an unmistakable manner. Ontario has fired its first gun at the administration, and the utmost effort the latter could put forth was baffled.—(Montreal Post.)

TORY ANTICIPATIONS.—"The news from Haldimand is full of encouragement. Our friends are sanguine of success. The Conservative organization is perfect; Conservatives are earnest and enthusiastic. This election will have vast and far-reaching consequences. The effect will be greater than that of any election held in Canada since 1878. We have good reason to anticipate a victory, which will cheer every loyal heart in Canada."—(Hamilton Spectator, Sept. 2.)

OTTAWA, Sept. 8th, 1886.

The Irish Catholic Liberals of the Capital congratulate the Liberal Protestants of Haldimand for nobly rebuking Thomas White, Minister of the Interior, for his brutal insult in exposing the portrait of Riel, at a public meeting, as "the last new saint of the Roman Catholic Church."—(Signed) C. NEVILLE.

The Liberal was elected with a majority which figures alone contain that Ontario was safe. Now bring on your general election, says the Liberal cry. "The Boodle Gang is burs," was another joyous exclamation, "Ontario joins Quebec in turning the rascal out," said another. "That breaks the back of Toryism," declared another. And so it went round. This morning the general verdict was that the days of the Government are numbered. The Protestant horse is hamstringing! It has the blind stag, is bad with glanders, blind in both eyes, its back is broken. It will be a sorry when the general election puts a bullet in its watery brain and it is dragged away, amid the laughing and execrations of the spectators, to the knacker's yard of dead political hacks.—(Montreal Post.)

JUST IN TIME

BY ADRIAN SHERBANE
AUTHOR OF "JACOB'S WIFE," "UNDER FALSE PRETENCES," ETC.

CHAPTER XXX.

Maggie uttered a cry that rang in the listeners' ears for many a day. She started forward and seized Anthony by the arm. "Alive! Oh, alive! Oh, alive!
my Gerald alive! Oh, mon, tell me!
I'll die—I'll die—if ye dinna tell me true!" And then, without further parley, she fell at his feet in a swoon so death-like, that it seemed as if her words were already justified.

Beatrice and Bertie Douglas both came to Anthony's assistance. Morven seemed incapable of motion, and Lilia had burst into tears. It was while they were chasing Maggie's old fingers and endeavoring to restore her to animation that Beatrice cast one appealing glance into Anthony's face. "Oh, is it true?"
she said. And he replied gravely.
"Quite true. But he is very ill. I have left him in safe keeping at the inn."

"Let me go to him!" said Lilia.
"Oh, Gerald, Gerald!" But Bertie's arm was around her, and she sobbed out the rest of her sentence upon his shoulder, while Anthony explained that Gerald was in a sadly exhausted condition, and could receive no visitors without the doctor's consent.

Maggie's first action on her recovery was to burst into passionate tears and call for her child. With him clasped to her breast she rose and begged to hear once more that the news was true, and then to go to see her husband. She too was told that he was scarcely in a fit state to see her, but this information only added to her impatience. She wanted no explanations, no advice; she only wanted to get to Gerald's side. And finally Anthony, who quietly took the whole matter into his own hands, sent her off to the inn with a pencilled note to the doctor, and a promise to follow in a few minutes. The others wished to go with her, but he begged them to delay.
"I cannot let you see him, and I cannot leave this house," he said, glancing around him gravely. "until I have given some account of the manner in which I came to find Mr. Gerald Rutven. Some public explanation of his state and treatment will, I think, have to be made by Lord Morven."

"Oh, Anthony, be merciful," whispered Beatrice.
"I have no right to be anything else," he answered in a lower tone. "I myself have made terrible mistakes, and I am punished for them now. But let Mrs.
Rutven go, and then we can speak more freely. Mrs. Pirie came with her, I believe. She is waiting in the hall, and will go back with her."

Maggie was already at the door when a new thought seemed to strike her. She turned back and spoke. "If I've forgotten my thanks," she said simply, "it's because my heart's too full of joy let me speak. Mr. Bertie, ye've been a true friend, to me, and Gerald will tell ye so himself. And the two laddies—they have been kind to me. And if Mr. Loch-hart found Gerald for us—wherever he may have been—I shall thank him as bless him 'a' the days o' my life. And my Lord," said Maggie more timidly, with a new glow upon her face, "it was my Lord that tried to find me when we thought Gerald was dead, and spoke the truth when we asked him this day about the papers, an' I'm grateful to him as well—"

"Take her away!" said Morven, suddenly lifting his head. "I can't bear it.
Take her away!"
Maggie, silenced and abashed, drew back with tears in her eyes. "What is it that I've said?" she queried almost wistfully. "Is he no glad—no glad that Gerald is alive?"
But no one answered her.

Anthony looked her out into the hall and gave her into Mrs. Pirie's charge.
Then he came back and shut the library door. A terrible silence fell over the little group as the advanced and stood before the table on which Morven's bent head was now resting. Lilia and Bertie held each other's hands like children and stood aloof, but Beatrice drew near to the stricken, guilty man. She knelt down beside him and laid her hand on his arm, then looked bravely into Anthony's face.

"Now," she said, "do your worst, Anthony. Accuse him of what you will, but remember that he is my cousin and my friend, and that I will never consent to look on him as an enemy."
"I accuse him of nothing," returned Anthony, bluntly; "but I think that the world will require (if you do not some explanation of the fact that I found Lord Morven's brother fastened up like a dog, starved, beaten, bruised, housed in a damp cellar, almost at the point of death, while everyone believed him dead some months ago. What does that mean? If Lord Morven was ignorant of his brother's existence and his brother's state let him assure us of the nature. He could not forgive it; he could not even pity the evil case of the man who had tried to practise it. In his eyes it was certainly the unpardonable sin."

Beatrice, with so much hatred for the sinner, had a greater tenderness for the sinner. In spite of Morven's errors, in spite of the fact that he had been tempted to kill the man she loved, that he had tried to sacrifice both Lilia and Gerald to his pride and to his fear, she could not forget the claims of kinship and of old association. Neither could she forget that she had done this man what might seem like a wrong to the careless eye; although in her own mind she was convinced that it was the highest right. But memory still made him dear. She listened with bowed head and clasped hands—tightly clasped as though she were suffering bodily pain —while Morven proceeded slowly and heavily with his story.

"You have heard the whole story," he said; "do you draw back?"
"I love her," said Bertie. "What others have done can make no difference to my love."
"Then take her. Take her from Bertie's hand or Gerald's if you will not take her from mine. I shall trouble you no more. I am going away. It will not hurt you, for once, to shake hands with me again, if you will do it. We were friends in the old days, Bertie."
"We will be friends still," said Bertie earnestly, he held out his hand.
"No, that is impossible. I shall have no friends henceforth," said Morven, with a strange calmness of tone. "I thank you for your kindness. You will be a good husband to Lilia, I am sure.
Now go. I have still something to say to Mr. Lockhart."

It struck them all that he was speaking as a man might speak on the eve of a long journey, or even upon his dying bed. Beatrice felt a thrill of fear—she scarcely knew why—in observing the look with which he regarded his sister and her betrothed as they left the room.
It was the look of a man bidding a long farewell to those he loved; the look of a man who foresees death, or separation which is worse than death.

Lord Morven stood perfectly silent for a few minutes, seeming to see nothing.
Anthony Lockhart, his arms folded and his brow bent, stood also, his eyes fixed upon the ground. He was dissatisfied with himself and with the part that he had to play; and yet he did not see how in justice he could have acted otherwise.
At last Morven spoke.
"I have one thing more to tell you.
This morning even I should have said that you were the last man to whom I could tell this thing. But I am beyond that now. I am beyond hope in this world. I will therefore confess—"
"No, Morven, no!" Beatrice interrupted him passionately. Anthony does not need to hear."

"But I need to tell," said Morven, raising his hand to stop both Beatrice's protests and Anthony's disavowal of any will to hear his confession; "when you have no right to refuse me the poor satisfaction of telling what I choose. Mr.
Lockhart, you are going to marry my cousin, I believe?"
"She has promised to be my wife."
"You know that she was once engaged to me?"
"I know it."
"You may acquit her of all blame in the matter, if ever you thought of blaming her," said Morven, with a slight, sad smile. "The engagement was a mistake on all grounds. I set her free, as you do not doubt you, as soon as she told me that she had no love for me. I was hurt —grieved; but that I need not say. I came home to be told by Airlie, who seems to have had means of discovering everybody's business, that you and Beatrice—that you— Well, you can guess what I would say. I went out; I saw you together in the avenue. You may have been in danger of your life before, Anthony Lockhart; you were never in more danger than you were just then."
"Say no more," Anthony broke in suddenly. "Do you think I have not known what it is to be tempted? I am and to sin too! I have suffered in my time like you, like other men. It is not for us men to confess our sins one to the other."

He held out his hand. Morven had moved him to pity at last. Anthony could not at that moment have put his entire feeling into words; but it came to something like this. "When you walked apart from other men," he might have said to Lord Morven in his heart—
"when you placed yourself upon a height and expected everyone to bow down to you, then I would willingly have dragged you down and set you with the lowest of the low. But now that you have shown your kinship with other men, now that I see you suffering, sinning, yet striving to repent—what am I that I should not give you my hand and offer you my best help and sympathy?" In this mood he spoke—addressing himself rather to the wounded spirit of the man before him than replying to his actual words.

"What is past is past," he said, "and you will do wrong if you let the past burden you so that you lose heart for the future. Besides, your wrong-doing has lain in intention far more than in deed; and it is not wise to pry too closely into one's motives and intentions. The injury to your brother—I speak plainly because I feel strongly—amounts to negligence, great and culpable negligence, great and culpable negligence, but not to premeditated cruelty. You do not come out of the business without stain; but there is no stain on you that cannot be effaced in time. The greatest of all errors is despair."
"Let us help you, Morven," Beatrice joined in eagerly. "We will keep the matter entirely to ourselves. Gerald—Gerald is the last man to bear a grudge against his own brother. He will be better soon, and everything can go on as it did before—"
"How can it?" asked Morven. "Does not sin bring it's punishment?"
"It was Airlie's doing, from beginning to end," muttered Anthony.

"Yes, Dr. Airlie!" exclaimed Beatrice.
"He must be brought to punishment."
"Don't you see, Beatrice," said Morven quietly, "that any punishment falling upon Airlie will also fall upon me?" He stood silent for a moment after saying these words, and added in an inward voice, "I am a ruined man. But that does not matter. Airlie shall not escape."
Beatrice would have answered, but he silenced her with a word and a look. "It is all that can be said today. Good-bye, Beatrice." He bent down and kissed her forehead. His lips were cold as those of a dead man.
"Mr. Lockhart, I will not forget what you have said."
"Where are you going?" asked Bertie, as he turned to the door.
With his hand upon the handle he looked at her with a faint, ghastly smile.
"I am going to see my brother," he replied, and then he went quietly away.
"Oh, Anthony, go after him; save him!" cried Beatrice. He is desperate; he will do himself harm if he is not watched. Let us go after him together."
"We shall do no good," said Anthony, who had something very like moisture in his eyes, and was not ashamed of it.
"But as you please, Beatrice."
CONCLUDED NEXT WEEK.

They Speak for Themselves.
Pictou, Feb. 17.—This is to certify that I have used Polson's Nervine for rheumatism, and have found it a valuable remedy for all internal pain, and and would greatly recommend it to the public.—N. T. Kingsley.
Leeds County, Jan. 6.—We are not in the habit of puffing patent medicines, but we cannot withhold our testimony as to the great value of Nervine as a remedy for pain. We have pleasure in recommending it as a never-failing remedy.—Rev. H. J. Allen, Benj. Dilton, and many others.
F. A. Churchill states:—There seems to be no end to the success of Nervine.
I send you a few testimonials, and can send you plenty more if of use to you.

A Spare Half-Hour.
Many years ago an officer of a company of volunteers had been putting them through their drill in Scotland, and having just finished, called them to "attention," addressing them as follows:
"Well, men, you are, upon the whole, a capital body of men, and I have no doubt, were an enemy to invade Scotland you would do your duty when called upon. Now all men in this company will please hold up their right hand who will be willing to go where and when required to do duty for their Queen and country." All hands were held up but one, and the officer addressing the owner, asked him why he would not go.
"Weel, sir, ye see my father is gettin' giddy and noo, an' there wud be naebody to look after the kye if I was to gang, but if ony Russian buddies were to come roun' this way, I might be able to gie ye a spare half-or amon' them."

Whether or Not.
You believe that consumption is an infectious disease, transmitted by tubercular parasites, the fact that Dr. Pierce's "Gold on Medical Discovery" is capable of restoring a healthy condition of the lungs however affected, is one which does not admit of question. At the very first intimation of consumptive tendencies, whether in the form of a persistent cough, general debility, loss of appetite, night-sweats or frequent and depressing chills, you should secure a bottle of the "Golden Medical Discovery." It will purify the blood, tone up the system, and remove consumptive symptoms by removing their cause.

The Best Fountain Pen in the World.
The "Wirt" fountain pen is the best thing yet invented in the way of a self-feeding pen. It has a gold nib, shades just as a dipping pen does, and never fails. It is a writing wonder. A sample can be seen at this office. Every lawyer, doctor, clergyman, school teacher and business man should have one.
Thos. McIllicuddy is the local agent.

A Word of Explanation.
The liver secretes bile to move the bowels; the kidneys secrete urine to carry off uric acid, which would poison the blood; the stomach secretes gastric juice to digest or dissolve the food, etc. Burdock Blood Purifier acts upon these organs and purifies the blood by cleansing all the secretions of the system.

Enterprising people are beginning to learn the value of advertising the year round. The persistency of those who are not intimidated by the cry of "dull times," but keep their names ever before the public, will surely place them on the right side in the end.

Ladies Only.
The complexion is often rendered unsightly by Pimples, Liver Spots, and Yellowness. These it is well known are caused from an inactive Liver and bad blood. Dr. Chase's Liver Care purifies the blood and who's system. See Receipts Book for receipts, hints and suggestions on how to preserve the complexion.

Now is the time to think about advertising, and reflection should be followed

How a Dude Caught Cold.
A slim young man in the height of fashion was violently sneezing in a street car, when a companion remarked, "Aw, Chawles, deah boy, how d'ye catch that dreadful cold."
"Aw, deah follah, left
my cane in the lower hall tother day, and in sucking the ivory handle, as dreadful cold, it chilled me almost to death." If Charles had used Dr. Harvey's Red Pine Gum his cold would not trouble him very much. For sale at J.
Wilson's prescription drug store. tf

Without Relief.
I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It helped me immediately, and effected a speedy cure.
—G. Stovell, M. D., Carrollton, Miss.
Ayer's Cherry Pectoral is decidedly the best remedy, within my knowledge, for chronic Bronchitis, and all lung diseases.
—M. A. Root, M. D., South Paris, Me.
I was attacked last winter, with a severe Cold, which, from exposure, grew worse and finally settled on my Lungs. By right usage I was reduced almost to a skeleton. My Cough was incessant, and I frequently spit blood. My physician told me to give up business, or I would not live a month. After taking various remedies without relief, I was finally

Cured By Using two bottles of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I am now in perfect health, and able to resume business, after having been pronounced incurable with Consumption.
—S. P. Henderson, Salsburgh, Penn.
For years I was in a decline. I had weak lungs, and suffered from Bronchitis and Catarrh. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral restored me to health, and I have been for a long time comparatively vigorous. In case of a sudden cold I always resort to the Pectoral, and find speedy relief.— Edward E. Curtis, Rowland, Vt.
Two years ago I suffered from a severe Bronchitis. The physician attending me became fearful that the disease would terminate in Pneumonia. After trying various medicines, without benefit, he finally prescribed Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved me at once. I continued to take this medicine a short time, and was cured.
—Ernest Colton, Loganport, Ind.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,
Prepared by Dr. J. C. Ayer & Co., Lowell, Mass.
Sold by all Druggists. Price 25¢; six bottles, $1.

STRAITFORD, Aug. 8th, 1885.
About three years ago I was laid up with bronchitis, and for six months was unable to do anything. Four bottles of Dr. Jay's "Medicine" completely cured me, and my health has been first-rate ever since. In fact I never felt better in my life.

FRATERNAL GREETINGS.

This is not blowing our own horn—we are allowing the other fellows to do it for us.

The HURON SIGNAL enters upon its seventh year under the management of Messrs. McGillivuddy with this week's number. It is a new sheet.—[Joseph Herald.]

The SIGNAL is one of the easiest and newest exchanges on our list, and the literary ability which is displayed in its columns gives a freshness that is pleasing.—[Paisley Advocate]

We congratulate THE SIGNAL on its success and hope it will continue to flourish. It is one of our best weekly exchanges, and well deserves the liberal patronage given it by the people of Goderich and vicinity.—Woodstock Standard.

THE HURON SIGNAL has just entered on its seventh year under the management of the McGillivuddy Brothers. The publishers of the Signal have both energy and brains, and they make one of the best weeklies of the west.—[Woodstock Reviewer.]

The McGillivuddy Bros. during the six years they have had control of the 'SIGNAL' have made much improvement in it. Although we do not agree, politically, yet we always welcome it as an exchange, and hope to see it still further improved.—[Wingham Advance.]

THE HURON SIGNAL under the management of the Messrs. McGillivuddy, of Goderich, has been brought into the front rank of Canadian newspapers. It has now entered upon its seventh year under their guidance with every prospect of improving on its own record.—[Sarnia Observer.]

McGillivuddy Bros. have by their ability, and advocacy of sound political principles, made THE SIGNAL a power for good in its district, and we cordially wish them a renewed lease of prosperity. May the SIGNAL continue to improve and increase in circulation and influence.—[Walkerton Telescope.]

Although THE SIGNAL is 38 years old, it has never taken the bold stand or held the important position in Canadian journalism that it has during the past few years. The McGillivuddys know how to run a newspaper. They are young men of ability and enterprise, and their phenomenal success is scarcely to be wondered at. We wish them continued prosperity.—[Wingham Times.]

THE SIGNAL is a first class weekly journal and we are pleased to notice that since 1880 its influence has been widely extended and circulation nearly doubled, which proves that the community in which it circulates appreciates the proprietors' efforts in furnishing them with a real live weekly newspaper.—[Strathroy Age.]

THE GODERICH SIGNAL last week entered upon its seventh year under its present management—the clever McGillivuddy Bros. The Signal is by no means losing in vigor as it advances in years, and we hope to see it continue to go on to perfection, enlarging its fields of usefulness, hoisting its signal higher, as years are added to its increasing manhood.—[Mitchell Recorder.]

THE HURON SIGNAL has entered on its seventh year under its present management and looks as much like living as ever. It has many readers who delighted in the long ago to peruse the vigorous articles of Thomas McQueen, who made it a power, and they have no cause to be ashamed of it now. May it go on in the advocacy of good government and public morality.—[Chatham Banner.]

The last issue of the Goderich SIGNAL inaugurated its thirty-ninth volume. The SIGNAL is a new, new, up-to-the-times newspaper. It interests itself largely in local affairs, and speaks out boldly and honestly on all moral questions. The SIGNAL is a successful journal, and is evidently appreciated by the people of its town and neighborhood.—[Acton Free Press.]

That staunch old reform paper the HURON SIGNAL has just entered on its seventh year under the management of the McGillivuddy Brothers. THE SIGNAL is one of the brightest and most ably edited weekly newspapers in Canada, and we are glad to notice its increasing prosperity. As a local and county paper it is a credit to Goderich and the county of Huron.—[Geolph Mercury.]

THE SIGNAL is in every sense of the word a first-class newspaper, and a decided credit to its clever publishers, whose ability, energy, and good judgment have placed it on a sure foundation. Goderich may well feel proud of the Signal and its conductors. The Messrs McGillivuddy can set their part well on the public platform or in the editorial chair. Continued success to them.—[Stratford Beacon.]

West Wawanosh.
 A meeting of the council was held on August 20th. Members all present. On motion a grant of $2 per week was guaranteed to the Home of Incurables, Toronto, for the care of Mrs. Welch, it being understood that her friends pay the greater part of the amount. Warrants from the several school sections for the amounts required for school purposes read. Some of these not being in proper form were ordered to be returned to trustees for correction. Plans and specifications for bridge on 12th concession were examined and a committee consisting of the reeve, deputy reeve and councillor Lockhart was appointed to let the work of building the bridge. B. F. Anderson was re-appointed collector. The following estimates for the ensuing year were adopted: County rate, $3080.44; roads and bridges, $1300; salaries, $500; charity, $200; printing and stationery, $70; wire fences, $75; sundries, $200; total, $5430.44. It was agreed that to raise above amount a tax of 2 1/2 mills for county purposes, and 1 1/2 mills for township purposes be levied on all taxable assessments. Moved by deputy reeve, seconded by councillor Todd, that the sum of $30 be expended in improving the road opposite the Presbyterian church, Duggan-gannon—carried. The usual grant of $20 each was voted to the Duggan-gannon and Lucknow Agricultural Societies. After the passing of several accounts the council adjourned to meet on Saturday, September 25th.

Fashion's Fancies.

The marquis is the newest lace. Flat finger rings are out of fashion. A glove must be long or it is nothing. Skirts are gathered, draped or plaited. The beryl and the opal are fashionable stones. Black and white silk hose in pin checks are imported. Etamines with wide meshes is combined with woolen lace. Velvet jackets, sleeveless of course, are worn with lace dresses. White silk vests, braided with gold of a pale tint, are worn with tailor-made dresses. Women will wear large and splendid ornaments in jewelry, men very small and quiet ones. It is considered more in France for a bride to wear a long plain tulle veil than a lace one. Times are good again across the line. The jewelry trade has improved 25 per cent, over last year. Shoes are less pointed, and have renounced the high heels which gave such an unsteady gait and projected the body forward. National Pills will cure constipated bowels and regulate the liver. Lush jackets are made without any extra trimming of fur or passementerie, and are beautiful from their very simplicity. 1 That Hacking Cough can be so quickly cured by Shiloh's Cure. We guarantee it. For sale by J. Wilson, Druggist.

Political Schemes and Lame.

The air is full of rumors of big political deals these days, and there are several reasons for believing that these rumors are well founded. We have emerged from the condition of things to which we have been so long accustomed. Pure party politics—the old Grit and Tory dividing line—is being rapidly broken up, and may soon be effaced. Even the more modern N. P. and C. P. are beginning to move after the innumerable caravan of dead issues which Sir John Macdonald almost alone has outlived. We have reached a transition stage in our political growth. The younger men are concerning themselves about the future of their country and its elevation from the colonial status, but their lack of a leader leaves them little choice of men and principles when they go to the polls. The social reformers—the morality men—who believe that acts of parliament are more potent than the Ten Commandments, are pledging themselves to vote for no one who will not vote for prohibition, and all its cognate enactments. Another element will bitterly oppose every prohibitionist who shows his head. The race-and-religion men are dividing off into sectarian camps, and preparing to fight one another in the name of God. In some districts a great many will vote for no one who does not call himself a labor candidate. Talk about two stools. The candidate who does not come to the ground between all these issues may consider himself mighty cunning or exceptionally lucky. The next general election will resemble nothing so much as a church fair grab-bag.—[World.]

11 Ida Lewis, famous for her efforts in rescuing the drowning at Newport, is the only woman in the world who holds the position of government lighthouse keeper. She is now past middle age.

12 "HACKMETACK," a lasting and fragrant perfume. Price 25 and 30 cts. For sale by J. Wilson, druggist.

Santa Cruz, Cal., is rather proud of Miss Alice Boston, who swam to a revenue cutter a mile from shore, swam around it while a male companion did some high diving from various parts of the cutter, and then swam back to shore without resting.

13 SHILOH'S CATARRH REMEDY—a positive cure for Catarrh, Diphtheria and Canker Mouth. For sale by J. Wilson, druggist.

Owen Sound, Ont., Sept. 10.—Report comes from up the Peninsula that last night the steamer General Wolsley, bound from here to Dyer's Bay, caught fire and was burned to the water's edge. Near Cape Croker she was run ashore and the crew escaped. Insurance $3000 in two American companies.

5 For lame back, side or chest, use Shiloh's Porous Plaster. Price 25 cents. For sale by J. Wilson, Druggist.

An Exeter cooper built a large tank in his workshop. The time came when it was to be removed, and much to the chagrin of the cooper, he found the tank to be almost as large as his shop. He sat down, meditated, and finally resolved upon tearing out the front of his shop, which was done, and the tank removed.

3 Sleepless Nights, made miserable by that terrible cough. Shiloh's Cure is the remedy for you. For sale by J. Wilson, Druggist.

The roller rink is defunct in the United States, but it has bequeathed a number of shocking scandals to several cities. It has broken up once happy homes, consigned men to jail, blasted women's lives, and started little girls on the downward path. No other amusement ever had at once such an intense, brief and destructive popularity. The existing masses of mankind may be better informed than the generations of yore, but the history of this silly and demoralizing craze shows that they are no wiser.

If your child is stubborn or hard to administer medicine to, Dr. Low's Pleasant Worm Syrup will be appreciated.

"That fellow Beggs is an industrious fellow. He works like lightning." "Yes," replied Yeast, who had loaned Beggs money, "I am glad he does work like lightning, that is, that he never strikes twice in the same place."

10 AKE YOU MADE miserable by Indigestion, Constipation, Dizziness, Loss of Appetite, Yellow Skin? Shiloh's Vitalizer is a positive cure. For sale by J. Wilson, druggist.

8. Croup, Whooping Cough and Bronchitis immediately relieved by Shiloh's Cure. For sale by J. Wilson, Druggist. Reasons why you should purchase Shiloh's Lightning in preference to all other remedies are: Rapid result—cures instantly. It is easily applied—no trouble—no loss of time. It does not require constant use—one application is effectual. One bottle will remove more pain than any other remedy in existence. Try it for Neuralgia, Toothache, Headache, Rheumatism. Sold at 25c. a bottle by G. Rhynas, Druggist. (3) 9 THE REV. GEO. H. THAYER, of Bourbon, Ind., says: "Both myself and wife owe our lives to SHILOH'S CONSUMPTION CURE." For sale by J. The School and the Bridge Get a Sharp Criticism.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Miss M. A. Young is visiting friends in Manchester.

Misses Kate and Victoria Hawkins have gone to London.

Maud and Lottie Currell, Albert Mahaffy and Arthur Bennett are taking in the exhibition at Toronto.

Jeremiah Flynn, has leased his farm to Mr. Walters, of Colborne, and intends taking life a trifle easier for a few years.

The funeral sermon of the late Mrs. W. J. Given was preached in the Union Church here on Sunday last by the Rev. Mr. Carris. There was a large congregation present.

Mr. Hennings, of Goderich, has had charge of the mill during the past week. Mr. Mahaffy has a first class miller engaged, and expects him along in a day or two.

Geo. A. Hawkins, of Indiana, and T. A. Hawkins, of Staffa, Ont., are on a visit to their parents here. They were too late to attend the funeral of their sister Mrs. W. J. Given, which took place on Tuesday last week.

The schooner Annie, of Goderich, A. Matheson, captain and proprietor, has been lying in our harbor during the past few days. The Annie is on her way to the fishing islands, and has been detained by head winds, and stormy weather.

Geo. Kay, cooper, of Kincardine, who has been making apple barrels for Mr. Mahaffy during the past month, has returned to his home. His place is now occupied by Mr. Lorrin, of Listowel, whose brother is also working in the shop.

Pete Hussey, who has been sojourning in California for the past three years, is paying a visit to his mother and sisters near this village. Pete sports a noble mustache, and looks so well in general that a great many of the Kingsbridge boys are turning green with envy. Pete has the "inside track" with the fair sex up in that district.

A Wonderful Lazarus. Miss Louisa Dougherty, of Shepparton, met with a very unusual accident one evening of last week. She was returning from a visit to her sister-in-law, Mrs. Nixon Dougherty, who is, we regret to learn, very seriously ill, when the horse which she was driving took fright, and, being a short distance from the house, and started down the lane leading to the road at a terrible rate. Lou. held on to the ribbons, like a Canadian, naturally enough expecting the horse would come to a stand still at the gate. But in this she was disappointed. The gate, which, by the way, is rather above the ordinary height, proved no barrier to the frightened animal, who cleared it at a bound, taking the buggy and its fair occupant with him. Miss Dougherty was thrown from the buggy, but fortunately received only a few bruises. The buggy was considerably wrecked.

DEBENTURE SCHOOL TRUSTEES. Our school has been silent during the past week or two. It is likely to remain so, if it has to wait until our school trustees take any action towards getting it repaired. We think it is high time these gentlemen would awaken to the fact that they are nominated to the position they occupy for use instead of ornament. It appears they have taken the latter view of the matter, however, for a more useless body than our present representatives for the duties of their position it were impossible to find. Although they have been repeatedly informed of the disgraceful condition of the school grounds, of the rickety torn-down benches, the doorless closets, the foot and a half mud and mire around the school both spring and fall, the rubbish and filth on the sides, they yet move around with a none-of-my-business expression on their countenances, enough to make one sad. And they haven't the slightest excuse to give for their negligence either. They may say that they don't wish to overburden the taxpayers, but they know quite well there is not a solitary taxpayer in this section who would grumble at paying his share of the very insignificant expenses attending the remedying of these defects. We predict a lively time for these gentlemen at the next school trustee election.

OUR NEW BRIDGE. "Speak well of the bridge that carries you safe, or sooth say similar saying is an old and oft-repeated one, and do we not wish not intend to depart from the injunction now. But we have a few words to say and a few questions to ask concerning the above mentioned structure, which may be altogether out of place. In the first place, why was there not an inspector appointed to superintend the building of the abutments? Was it sufficient that one or two visits from the bridge commissioner should enable him to ascertain as to whether the work was being done properly or not? We doubt it; we doubt it very much. Remember we do not say the contractor slogged the work. But did he not have a splendid opportunity to do so if he wished? We think so, and we are not alone in our opinion. Who authorized the contractor to depart from the plan and specification in building the east wing of the south abutment mine, instead of fourteen feet long? Why was the original intention, as specified, of having the stone brought from Bull's bridge, or stone of as good quality changed, and to a great extent common limestone, such as we have right here in the river used instead? Why was there not a foot bridge built for the accommodation of pedestrians, instead of having them risk life and limb in crossing over on the mill dam and on the stringers, which were put up for a foundation for the iron? An outlay of $10 would have built a safe means of crossing. A small boy on his way to school fell off one of these stringers, and had he not been able to swim would certainly have been drowned. Had such been the case would not this county have to pay dearly for it? So much for the bridge. And now a few words about the approaches to it. This work which is now being performed, and is already secure so far as travel over the bridge is concerned, was let privately. Surely this was an unusual proceeding. Is it not customary when public monies are being spent by the servant of the public, and for the benefit of the public, that such work should be properly advertised, and that open competition be therefor? There were many in this village who intended bidding for this work had it been auctioned off in the usual manner. We do not say, of course, that the work will not be as well and as cheaply done as if it had been got in public competition. But we have a very good, substantial reason for not saying so, and that is because we haven't got the slightest idea what the contractor is getting for it. Nor have we yet made the acquaintance of any one of the gentlemen who have been the commissioners or contractors alone, and we suppose we must rest satisfied. But did not the engineer exceed his authority in this matter? If the superintendence of the work here be taken as a criterion the answer to the county council returns to the old system the better.

The Work of the Past Year-Election of New Officers.

The following annual report of the Goderich branch of the W. C. T. U., at their regular meeting on Tuesday, Sept. 14th:

The officers during the past year have been: President, Mrs. Gibson; 1st vice-president, Mrs. T. M. Campbell; 2nd vice-president, Miss Smeeth; corresponding secretary, Mrs. S. Pollock; recording secretary, Miss Trueman; treasurer, Mrs. J. A. Naftel.

Members, 25; average attendance, 13; number of regular meetings held, 48, 7 of which were held fortnightly, the remaining 37 weekly. Two special meetings were called by order of the President.

The amount paid in charities was $12.75. Four open meetings have been held during the year under our auspices, ladies and gentlemen of the town generally assisting in the program. The number of pledges received were 62, a prisoner in the jail signing for one year. At the meeting held Nov. 5th it was unanimously decided that our Union amalgamate with the "Women's Evangelical Work," a society being known as the "Women's Christian Temperance Union," that the officers of the latter society continue to act, and that our sessions be carried on as follows:—To open with a half hour prayer meeting, to be followed by the business meeting, and the regular meetings to be held weekly. This method has been carried out during the year. At the municipal election, the members canvassed faithfully for temperance men, and succeeded beyond their expectations. Two petitions have been circulated in the town, the first to the Dominion Parliament, petitioning against wine and beer being sold in Scott's Act counties; 112 signatures were obtained. The second one was to the Governments of the world (severally and collectively) praying for their aid in putting down the liquor traffic; signatures 131. Our most interesting visits as follows: Two ladies are appointed to visit each ward, taking with them tracts and pledge cards. They also visit the jails by this means. Much good has been done. If in their visiting a family is found in destitution it is reported at the next meeting, and means taken to provide for them. Mrs. D. McGillicuddy is secretary of this department. In July we were called upon to part with our beloved 1st vice-president, Mrs. T. M. Campbell, who was removing to Owen Sound. We parted from her with regret, and her sweet influence and loving words will long be remembered. Our thanks are due to the local press and the clergy of the town, who have aided and upheld us in our work. We cannot close this report without paying a tribute to the faithfulness and energy of our worthy President. May she long be spared to devote the gifts and graces which God has given her to this good cause.

In comparing this year with the preceding year, we have gained in membership, and the attendance and interest have been most encouraging.

We have great reason to thank God, and still further to devote our time and strength to the promotion of our great and noble cause.

LUCY A. TRUAMAN.

Rec. Secretary, W.C.T.U. Officers for the year commencing Sept. 21st: Pres., Mrs. G. R. Turk; 1st Vice-Pres., Mrs. W. M. Gibson; 2nd Vice-Pres., Mrs. D. McGillicuddy; Cor. Sec., Mrs. Henderson; Rec. Sec., Miss Trueman; Treas., Mrs. John A. Naftel.

DUNLOP.

Our townsmen, H. Horton, and wife, took part in the joys of a crystal wedding at Clinton this week.

Frank Nicholson visited his old friend Isaac Hickey, in Goderich township, last week, and also the Yorkshirian.

IN HARNESS AGAIN.—The sick committee have a patient on hand, after a respite of three months from active nursing.

A number of leaux and belles from Goderich and this place, while sailing on the lake the other day, met with a gale, and some of the young ladies lost their hats. It is reported that the two lads who represented Dunlop, lost their hearts. The hats were found, but at last accounts, the Goderich girls did not surrender the hearts of the Dunlop gallants to their owners.

The Best Fountain Pen in the World. The "Wirt" fountain pen is the best thing yet invented in the way of a self-feeding pen. It has a gold nib, shades just as a dipping pen, and never fails. It is a writing wonder. A sample can be written at this office. Every lawyer, doctor, clergyman, school-teacher and business man should have one. Thos. McGillicuddy is the local agent.

Mr. Walsh, the gentleman who tried to buy votes for the Tory candidate in Haldimand, was more successful than the gentleman in whose interests he was working. He got in.—London Advertiser Labour. Rev. Dr. Uno officiated at a baptism in the church last week. John Clark is in Toronto this week seeing the wonders of the Industrial exhibition.

George Hall has gone to meet lady fair of Malakos, who will remain home with him as Mrs. Hall.

A Dunlop sportsman has made the gudevins of this section happy by shooting an owl and a fox—those terrors of the barnyard.

Echlin and Clark at the Bow Park farm with their steamer threshed 750 oats and 350 of fall wheat in ten hours, and extended to Brussels and Wingham.

A new line has been run from Toronto to Barrie, giving splendid connection between those points, and in a couple of weeks will reach Collingwood via Stayner.

A new line has been finished and is now being run from Collingwood to Owen Sound via Clarkeburg, Thornbury and Meaford, so that the whole of the district will shortly be in communication with Toronto.

In fact, as the company is now using nothing but hard drawn copper wire, which is greatly superior to iron for these lines, and has already a copper wire from Buffalo to Toronto, the officials say they could easily guarantee a satisfactory connection from Buffalo to Owen Sound—about 290 miles—if any one ever required to use a line of that length.

A new line has been strung from Wallaceburg to Sarnia, which will be a great convenience to the Company's subscribers in the district between Windsor and Glencoe, who can now transact their business with Sarnia by a short line, via Chatham.

A new route to relieve the pressure of business upon existing lines, and this wire will be extended immediately to Waterford and Simcoe. Business is now done over the whole of the Bell Company's system, comprising many thousands of miles in the Provinces of Ontario and Quebec, at a uniform rate for five minute conversations, according to distance; and for delayed messages (in the very many cases where the sender has not time or does not care to speak to his correspondent) at a rate of 25 cents for a twenty word message to any subscriber within 150 miles of the sender, with an extra 12 cents for each additional twenty words.

Some "FINE ENGLISH."—Rev. Solomon Peter Hill said to our reporter on the market this morning: "The inconspicuous multiplicity of the incoherent populace and the commotion of the streets are so inconveniently inconspicuous of cultivated humanity." The professor may have been right; we do not know enough Hindostanee to argue with him.—[Woodstock Sentinel Review.

An exchange very sensibly says: Newspaper subscribers who are in arrears should bear in mind that a dun is not an impeachment of their integrity, but simply an outcropping of a publisher's necessity. For instance, a thousand men owe him from one to four dollars each. It is a small amount to each individual, but to him the aggregate is large. Instead of becoming indignant because the publisher asks for his honest dues, the delinquent subscriber should be grateful to him for waiting so patiently, and pay up like a man.
