A Good Paint!
There must be something a bit different about
"Matchless" Paint
from all other Paints, for it isn't, it can't be, purely a matter of luck that wherever it goes people speak well of it. Even people who are pushing some other brand will say, "Oh yes, I know 'MATCHLESS,' it's a good Paint."

The Earl's Son;

TWO HEARTS UNITED

CHAPTER XXI.

Without waiting for Goodwin she undressed herself and went to bed. But she could not sleep, for there was a kind of fever, the fever of self-dissatisfaction, of self-reproach, added to her headache at the loss of Ralph, and she tossed to and fro restlessly. Suddenly she smelt the smell of fire, as if clothes were burning. She sat up and listened, and heard a door stealthily opened. Was the house on fire? She rose and opened her own door slightly, and heard the few words that passed between Talbot and his man. As before, when she had seen Talbot in the grounds, it did not seem to her extraordinary that he should be burning things at that time of night. He was fond of hard work, and when at the Court, often sat up late writing or reading. She went back to her bed satisfied with Talbot's explanation, and lay with wide-open eyes recalling Ralph's face, Ralph's voice. The dawn came, and as the birds began to sing, her misery, accentuated by her sleepless night, became unendurable without some action. She would go down to breakfast presently—the breakfast with its numerous dishes, its elaborate service, the stately attendance of the butler and footman—would have to live through the day—ah, Heaven, how many days!—in hopeless waiting, with no news of Ralph, no assurance that he was even alive.

"I cannot—I cannot!" she said to herself, between her clenched teeth. "I should die of shame, of the ignominy of such a life. Why, the old one would be better!"

She stopped, her heart suddenly arrested by a thought born of her words. Why not cast off this existence of dependence, of slavish luxury, and go back to the old life? Better still, why not follow Ralph and join him? The idea sent the blood rushing through her veins, and the light to her eyes, aching with unshed tears. The chill grey vista opened, and Hope shone like a star at the end of it. To find Ralph, to see him again!

She sprang out of bed and began to dress herself. In one of the ward-ropes still hung the plain, ready-made serge costume in which she had come to the Court. She found it and put it on. Then she went to the Sherraton bureau and wrote a letter, and addressing it to the earl, laid it on the dressing-table, and beside it her jewel case, in which she placed all the costly gems and trinkets which he had given her. She emptied her purse and counted the contents.

She had, fortunately, just drawn her quarterly allowance, and she had several pounds left from her last quarter; so that she was fairly well supplied—better off, she thought, winning, than Ralph! She pondered over the question as to whether she could retain the money; but as it was paid her as a kind of salary, she concluded that she could do so conscientiously. In a small bag she packed a few necessary articles, put on her plainest hat and jacket, and drawing a veil over her face, opened the door and listened.

Goodwin was moving in the next room; there was no other sound in the great house. With her bag in her

Any Headache Cured, Tired Systems Re-Toned.

When You're Dull, Tired, Restless Day and Night Something Is Wrong in the Stomach.

A Prominent Publishing Man Says the Quickest Cure Is Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

Headaches never come to those who use Dr. Hamilton's Pills, and this fact is vouched for by the Assistant Manager of the Poultry Success Magazine, of Springfield, O., Mr. J. H. Callender, who writes: "No better medicine than Dr. Hamilton's Pills. We use them regularly and know of marvelous cures that resisted everything else. They cleanse the whole system, act as a tonic on the blood, enliven digestion, help the stomach, and make you feel strong and well. For headaches, indigestion and stomach disorders I am confident that the one prescription is Dr. Hamilton's Pills."

Being composed of natural vegetable remedies, Dr. Hamilton's Pills possess great power, yet they are harmless. They aid all organs connected with the stomach, liver, and bowels. In consequence, food is properly digested, the blood is pure and nourishing, the body is kept strong and resists disease, all druggists and storekeepers sell Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c. per box, 5 for $1.00 or by mail from the Catarrhose Co., Buffalo, N.Y., and Kingston, Canada.

hand she stole down the stairs, and noisily opened the great door. She paused for a moment and looked round the vast, dim hall. She had been proud of it, proud of every inch of the stately old house; but that kind of pride had died. The place had assumed the likeness of a prison, a gilded, but a shameful one; and she left it without a pang.

The cool air met her and lent her fresh courage. She went down the broad steps and was crossing the lawn for the high road when she remembered her horse. She loved the faithful, devoted animal, and knew that it would fret after her. It would only take her a minute or two to say "Good-bye."

She went to the stables and to the loose box where Sally was luxuriously housed, and the mare pricked up its ears and "breathed" as he heard her mistress's footsteps. Veronica put her arm around the proudly arched neck and lovingly straked the satin nose. Sally nibbled playfully at her mistress's sleeve and Veronica drew the seek head down and whispered a "Good-bye." "I'm sorry to leave you, Sally," she murmured; "but I am going to one who loves me better than even you do."

The thought gave a fillip to her resolution, and she left the stable and walked boldly across the park towards the station. There was, as she knew, an early market train that morning; and when she ascended to the platform there were half a dozen or so farmers and farmers' wives, with their baskets, covered by a snowy cloth, on their arms. They were far too well bred to show any surprise at the presence, at that early hour, of the young mistress of the Court, and Veronica nodded to them generally and spoke to one or two quite easily, as if it were not at all extraordinary for her to be travelling by so early a train.

Without thinking of the cost, she took a first class carriage and, of course, had it to herself. Not until the train had started did she realize that she had left her life of luxury for ever, and that once more she had engaged in the old struggle for her daily bread. But not for was she not going to join Ralph, going to help him in the struggle! And how different, how very different a thing that was! She laughed softly and blushed as she thought of how he would look, what he would say when she found him, when she put her hands in his and said:

"I have followed you, Ralph, because I find that I cannot live without you. Please take me!"

Talbot rose as the dressing-bell rang. He had lain awake staring at the wall on which, as if they were painted by a relentless hand, had passed lurid pictures of the incidents in the wood. The face of the murdered man glared at him from that wall, the echo of his death-cry sounded in the tick of the ormolu clock on the mantel-shelf.

He would like to have kept to his room, to have avoided, for a space, the eyes of his fellow-men; but he knew that any divergence from his usual habits might excite remark, and therefore he dressed, and went to Gibbon's.

Gibbon came in, noiseless, respectfully as usual, and just glanced momentarily at his master's white face. "The bath is ready, sir," it was the ordinary formula, but he pronounced it more meekly, tonelessly than ever.

"Thanks," said Talbot. He looked round as Gibbon collected the evening things. "I'm afraid you will find my clothes and boots in rather a bad state, Gibbon. I got into a rough bit of the woods last night and stumbled. You may keep them for yourself and get me some new ones."

Gibbon eyed the still earth-stained clothes under his lids with a gleam of satisfaction. "Thank you, sir," he said, gratefully. "Am I to go up to town this morning?"

"Eh? Oh, I don't know," replied Talbot. "Better stay, perhaps. May you go up myself sometime to-day and may need you."

"Yes, sir," said Gibbon, with profound respect; and he carried out the clothes, and packed them, unbrushed and exactly as they were, in the bottom of his own box.

Talbot went down to breakfast. Veronica was not in the room. "Miss Veronica not down yet?" he asked.

"No, sir," replied the butler. "Not yet. She may breakfast in her room. I'll send to enquire."

Talbot helped himself to the dish offered, and endeavored to eat; but his throat was so parched and sore that every morsel of food he tried to swallow threatened to choke him. He drank half a cup of tea and made another effort; but presently he pushed his plate aside and began to open his letters.

While he was doing so Gibbon came into the room. "His lordship would like to see you, sir," he said.

Talbot started and looked up at the man's pale, impassive face. "Like to see—what is it—what—I mean, certainly, certainly!"

Gibbon, with respectfully bent head and lowered eyes, opened the door, and Talbot went up the stairs to the earl's room. The earl was sitting up in bed, an open letter in his hand. "Good-morning, Talbot," he said in a dry voice. "I am sorry to disturb you at breakfast; but something has happened—" way, and yet with a kind of relief in his face.

"Veronica—left—the Court!" "For God's sake don't repeat my words like a parrot!" said the earl, not angrily, but with icy contempt. "It is as I state. She has gone. She left this morning—or last night—I do not know; this morning, I should say. This letter, with her jewel-case, the presents I gave her, were on the dressing-table."

He glanced at the letter. "She expresses herself plainly. It is an admirably composed letter. I will not read it to you; I am a bad reader, and should not do it justice. To summarize it, she says that she is tired of a life of dependence, and has resigned it in favour of one of—I think she says honest and self-respecting toil."

"Why did she go?" asked Talbot, who had recovered his presence of mind by this time. "The earl shrugged his shoulders. "Does it matter? Women's reasons are seldom of much importance. She has gone, and that is sufficient. Of course, I alter my will. It is only fair to you that, Veronica having left the Court—and me—you should have Wayneford and my fortune."

Talbot's face flushed and his eyes gleamed. "I—I—" he stammered. "Oh, no thanks, please!" said the earl, coldly, as he sank on to the pillows. "At least, if you feel grateful to anyone, let it be to Veronica, who has, so to speak, resigned them to you. May I ask you to be so good as to send my man to me?"

Talbot went outside, the blood surging through his veins. Surely life was in the ascendant. That vile wretch Oatway was gone, Veronica dethroned, and he, Talbot, was master of the situation! He laughed noiselessly, but the laugh died on his lips as he met Gibbon on the stairs.

"Send his lordship's man to him," he said. And Gibbon, drawing close to the wall to allow his master to pass, lowered his eyes and murmured, as usual, quite as usual: "Yes, sir."

Persons making a will in which they appoint the Eastern Trust Company executor may deposit their wills in the vault of the Company without charge.
An impression has gone abroad that the Company charges a fee upon the making of a will which the Company is appointed executor. This is an error. The Company charges no fee until after the death of a testator and the Company has undertaken the execution of the trusts under the will. Time and the Roses.
By RUTH CAMERON.
The old order changeth, yielding place to new
And God fulfills himself in many ways
"Least one good custom should corrupt the world."
—Tennyson.
A friend of mine told me this story.
She was putting some flowers on her little son's grave. He has been dead but a few months. It was the first great grief of her life.
The old gardener of the burying ground was raking the leaves nearby and watching her in a kindly way. I think he must have seen her face working as she bent over the flowers, for by and by he came nearer to her and leaning on his rake said something about the weather. Soon they were talking in friendly fashion, and before she knew it the mother was relieving her overburdened heart by telling the old gardener about her grief.
He listened in the kindly wisdom and patience that years of dwelling in the city of the dead seemed to have brought him. And by and by, after the first torrent of said and tender memories had spent itself, he tried to make her realize that time will heal the deepest wound and that this first sorrow would not darken her whole life.
Of course she could not believe

Chief Bender.
Red McGhee says:
Good Indians are always dead, our great-grandfather always said. But gran' pop's dead—dead wrong. If he could see Chief Bender work he'd substitute the low down Turk for Indian in his song. Perhaps it was that Bender name that dragged the redskin into fame for big league pitcher's stunts. For he can bend 'em in and out. If you've got any sneakin' doubt just look him over once.
He's helped the sturdy tribe of Mack to leave their rivals holdin' sack for half a dozen years. His right arm don't slow up none. Firewater Chief has learned to shun—he's off this cup that cheers. When less wise guys are shootin' craps you'll find the ol' chief shootin' traps—it helps his pitchin' eye. Despite traditions of his race good horse sense regulates his pace—this level-noodled guy.
Some pitchers rattle just like dice but Bender's just as cool as ice when runners choke the sacks. He keeps his head an' plays it tight an' usually come out all right before the derrier acts. He don't strike out so many men, he's hit quite freely now and then but still he sticks around and wins his games when he's due. Ol' Mack'll grieve when Chief goes to the Happy Huntin' Ground.
Fads and Fashions.
The straight coats and waisties seem to have obliterated the wide line altogether.
The shapes of sunshades this summer show more originality than their materials.
Some of the prettiest white hats have white wings set on either side. Mercury-fashion.
Round, broad-cut necks are often used than the V-shape for decollete dresses.
The very simplest and quietest dresses are being worn by the best-dressed Parisiennes.
The transparent sleeve, tight at the top and gathered into a cuff at the wrist, is a new fad.
The general effect of hats is height.

Where Responsibility Lies
No matter how large, or how small, a business may be, nobody can deny that the Office is the nerve centre of the firm. Every transaction, important or trivial, must be recorded at the Office. An order is received at the Office, its history is recorded at the Office, and finally payment is received at the Office. If the Office makes an error the firm stands the loss. That's why you must be sure that your office is moderately and dependably equipped for the care of all important papers. To do this effectively you need the up-to-date equipment of the "GLOBE-WERNICKE CO." When sixty offices in St. John's have found this necessity this equipment can surely be of use to you. French Captain Commits Murder After a Dream.
Oran, Algeria, July 14.—Under the influence of an overpowering hallucination that Arabs were about to capture them, Captain Gouze, of the Second Regiment, Foreign Legion, shot and killed his wife and three children as they slept, and then committed suicide.
The captain left a letter explaining that he had been suffering for some months from hallucinations of ever-increasing force.
Last night a vision of his wife and children in the hands of the Arabs, being subjected to torture, recurred so vividly that he seized a pistol to kill them and then save them from horrors worse than death.
As on previous occasions, the hallucination passed quickly, and he was confronted with his dreadful deed. Overcome with grief, he resolved to join his family in death and sent a bullet through his brain.

Home Lessons.

We are pleased to notice that Dr. Burke, in his last School Report, has another tilt against home lessons for young children. "It is said also that more sorrow, tears and unhappiness are caused during the school period of our children's lives by that custom of setting home tasks than by anything else. If a child does a good day's work in school, and he will if properly directed, he is only crippled by struggling with overtime work at home. Again, if we are to believe our Physiology, that an adult may be seriously injured by unusual demands upon him when greatly fatigued, surely the placing of extra home tasks on a child in the evening, when all his energies have been exhausted by the work and play of the day, must cause undue strain, and cannot in the long run make for either health or efficiency. These remarks apply especially to children under nine or ten years of age, and while I shall not urge the abolition of home lessons in the higher classes, yet I do most strongly recommend all teachers within my superintendence to set no home lessons to children in the Primer, First and Second Standards."

These words of Dr. Burke are words of wisdom, based on experience and knowledge. The true direction of education of children is to take advantage of their extraordinary activity and love of change. Tasks in school should be short and all absorbing. Sandwiched with plentiful rest, physical exercise and play, tasks should never be carried to the point of exhaustion, but they should call for effort. If prolonged, they will produce dullness and stupidity. If short and strenuous, they will prove stimulating and capacity producing. Play and exercise will afford change and rest, and give the fallow time. Nature requires to get the best results out of the short and vigorous tasks we have advocated. The efficiency of our schools will come not from prolonged school and home tasks, but from a better use of school hours based on a knowledge of child life, by teachers trained to put to the best advantage what Nature itself is doing for the child.

The Duke and the Institute.

 July 17, 1914.

My dear Mr. Watson,—
 Permit me, on the earliest opportunity, I have had of writing, to thank you for the reception tendered to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught by the Committees of Management of the King George the Fifth Seamen's Institute.

His Royal Highness was charmed with the collection of pictures contained in the volume that had been prepared for his acceptance.

In going through the Institute, the Duke expressed to me his admiration for the skill with which the ideas of Doctor Grenfell had been developed for the good of the seamen who frequent the port of St. John's.

Believe me to be, dear Mr. Watson, Yours sincerely,
 (Sgd.) W. E. DAVIDSON.

My dear Mr. Job,—
 His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught expressed to me his gratification and interest in the King George the Fifth Seamen's Institute on the occasion of his visit on the 15th instant.

The Duke took the greatest interest in the history of the formation of the Grenfell Association, and the scheme which has been adopted for the management of all the Mission interests, which have been inaugurated by Doctor Grenfell, and His Royal Highness agreed that the Institute was a model of its kind.

 Believe me to be, dear Mr. Job, Yours sincerely,

The King Calls a Conference on the Irish Question

Special to the Evening Telegram.
 LONDON, To-day.

The King has called a conference of leaders of all parties to seek a solution of the Irish problem. This is the momentous announcement which Premier Asquith is expected to make to-day, when the Bill amending the Home Rule Bill comes up again for consideration with the Commons. The Prime Minister's speech on this occasion indicating how the Government will deal with the Lords' amendments to the Amending Bill is awaited with deepest anxiety. It is probable the House will immediately adjourn the debate on the amending Bill indefinitely to allow negotiations for a settlement to proceed outside of Parliament. Asquith has been with the King at Portsmouth during the week-end. The King's anxiety to get the difficulty settled has resulted in a decision to call conferences, and it is said the various leaders invited have accepted the invitation, that the conferences will meet at an early date probably on Tuesday in London. The King will receive the delegates but will not himself preside over the conference which it is confidently thought under such exalted auspices will prove successful. At the same time Ministers are placing great reliance in the persuasive powers of Chancellor Lloyd George who has been temporarily shunted from his financial duties to assist the Prime Minister in finding a solution for the Irish difficulty. Chancellor Lloyd George's practical business is to smooth the path between the Nationalists and Liberals. It is understood the Government is willing to go a considerable way in the direction of meeting the Carsonite demands, but is hampered by the unyielding attitude of the Nationalists. The Chancellor of the Exchequer has had several conferences with John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, in an endeavor to find points of common agreement. Redmond called a conference of his party to-day to hear the report from Joseph Devlin, Member of Parliament for Belfast, who has returned from an important mission to the North of Ireland. This conference will have an important bearing on the negotiations. For the moment Tyrone is the crux of the situation about which neither Nationalists nor Carsonites are willing to yield. At a meeting of the National Executive of the Irish Trades Union Congress of the Labor Party at Dublin, resolutions were passed urging workers throughout Ireland including Ulster, to oppose the exclusion of Ulster from Home Rule and if a Provisional Government is set up in Ulster, to resist it with all available means.

Special to Evening Telegram.
 LONDON, To-day.

Right Hon. Walter Runciman, President of the Board of Agriculture, speaking at Babley, said Home Rule is now an assured fact. It would be impossible for any Government, whether Liberal or Conservative to withhold it. The Government he declared, hoped to launch Home Rule in an atmosphere of peace, but refused to surrender one of its main objects under any pressure however great. Sir Henry Lucy, writing to the Observer says Premier Asquith to-day will invite the Commons to restore the Amending Bill pretty much to the form in which it was introduced in the Lords by the Marquis of Crewe.

DONEGAL ISLAND, To-day.

It is reported a cargo of rifles, numbering several thousand which was being conveyed in an American yacht for National Volunteers were seized by a British cruiser which intercepted the yacht on Friday night.

Severe Storm.

Special to Evening Telegram.
 HALIFAX, To-day.

Nova Scotia was swept from Cape North to Cape Sable on Saturday night and Sunday morning by one of the most terrific storms experienced in the memory of the oldest inhabitants. Particularly along the Eastern coast was the fury felt. Four vessels, two steamers and two schooners, are reported total losses. The Nova Scotia shores are strewn with wreckage. The vessels are: a Cuban steamer, Chienfuegos, bound from Gulf Port for Montreal; Pegna, Philadelphia for St. Ann's ballast, American schooner, Clarence H. Verner ashore in the vicinity of Scentarie. The crews are all saved.

My Dear Mr. Gosling,—
 Will you permit me to compliment you and your brother Commissioners on the composition and illumination of the excellent Address tendered to His Royal Highness the Duke of Connaught on his landing in your City. The Duke greatly admired it.

I desire, also, to thank you all for your general co-operation in making the Royal visit the success it has been. Many of the illuminations have been the contribution of the citizens, whom I can only reach and thank through you.

I would also thank the Municipal staff for having put the streets of the town, which were traversed by His Royal Highness, in such excellent order.

I think we may mutually congratulate each other on the satisfactory outcome of His Royal Highness's visit to the City of St. John's.

Is Confederation on the Carpet?

(Harbor Grace Standard.)

The subject of the union of Newfoundland with Canada appears to have come suddenly into prominence the past two or three months, ever since the eyes of the people have got fairly open through the logic of events to the financial and fiscal straits in which the over-lavish expenditure of the past four or five years has landed us, or at all events threatens to land us.

Gentlemen lately returned from the City say that the matter is being discussed there as if it were a real live issue, many holding that it is the only chance to retrieve our position, rid us of our present embarrassment, and prevent still further plunging and floundering in the bog of extravagance, and taxation, and governmental insolvency.

Indeed some go so far as to assert that the terms that the Canadian Government would offer the Colony to join the Confederation are known, which if true might imply either that our Government had made formally or informally application for terms, a theory that some will regard as given color to by the presence of three of the leading members of the Government in Canada, and the interview of at least one of them with the Canadian Premier, or it might simply mean that the Canadian Government or some enthusiastic advocate of the "rounding off" of the Dominion for them had put out a "feeler." Though we cannot say positively, we are not inclined to think anything so definite has yet been done. The statement of terms is likely a shrewd guess as to what Canada would offer.

Be that as it may the report is, so far as we have heard and recollect, that the terms offered include besides such inevitable ones as assuming our debt, and provision for the Civil service, the grant of $1,000,000, and the taking over by the Canadian Pacific of our railway, the building a broad gauge system across the country instead of the present narrow one. Whether there is any truth in the report or not, we can readily see that Canada would bid pretty high to include in the Confederation the only part of British North America not included in it, "The Key to the Gulf."

We see no objection to a free and frank discussion of the pros and cons of Confederation, and as our decision as to union will always to a great degree hinge on the goodness of the terms, we see no harm in getting an idea as to what Canada would offer.

What we do not like is to be digressed so to speak into union or to put it in another way of going with our cap in our hand to Canada begging to be taken in.

Five years ago, commenting on the charge that the present Government would put the country into Confederation, we said that we thought the real danger lay not in its supporting union with Canada; but in its pursuing a policy of too lavish expenditure that would make us beggars at Canada's gates. We also reflected that in such an eventuality, the professed politicians in general—and this would be true of any side in power at the time—could (in the event of union being consummated) look to receive honors and emoluments at the hands of the Canadian Government and hence the need of vigilance and forethought on the part of the people at large to prevent such an impasse. Whether things have reached such a stage or not the people need to be on the alert. In the event of Confederation, politicians that had a hand in bringing it about would have everything to gain and the vest of interests such as St. John's manufacturing interests, will be well looked after.

These powerful influences may at any minute be brought into play in favor of Confederation. We are not rabidly denouncing any just reward or compensation such might receive; we are only pointing out the temptation that exists to force the hands of the people at large. It may be our interest to confederate at this juncture, or it may not. It matters not for our argument which. Our contention is that we should not rush into union that the matter should be laid fairly and squarely before the people ere they are asked to pronounce upon it at the polls, and that the negotiations should be placed by the electorate in the hands of men of proven honesty, and capacity. In the meantime, the finances of the Colony should be administered with the utmost regard to economy which we take it means not the cheese-paring on matters of real utility and productivity that goes by that name sometimes, but expenditures made with judiciousness on objects calculated to promote the welfare of the people at large, not to enrich a few big party men and the more numerous tribe of smaller men that condone their misdeeds because of what they themselves expect to make out of their political connection with these big men. With due economy, with the helm of Government in the hands of men determined to do their best for the people, and of good judgment and fair ability, Newfoundland can retrieve her position enough not to be a beggar. It should go against the country's grain to drift or rather be pushed into insolvency, and to let those that have pushed her into that desperate position be the ones to be rewarded with the leaves and fishes in the shape of honors and emoluments that would be the price of their recklessness, incapacity, or worse. The cry is not now Confederation, but Careful Management.

Cricket Match.

An interesting cricket match between the ex-pupils of St. Bon's and Bishop Feild Colleges took place at St. Bon's practice grounds, Saturday afternoon, the former team winning by 20 runs.

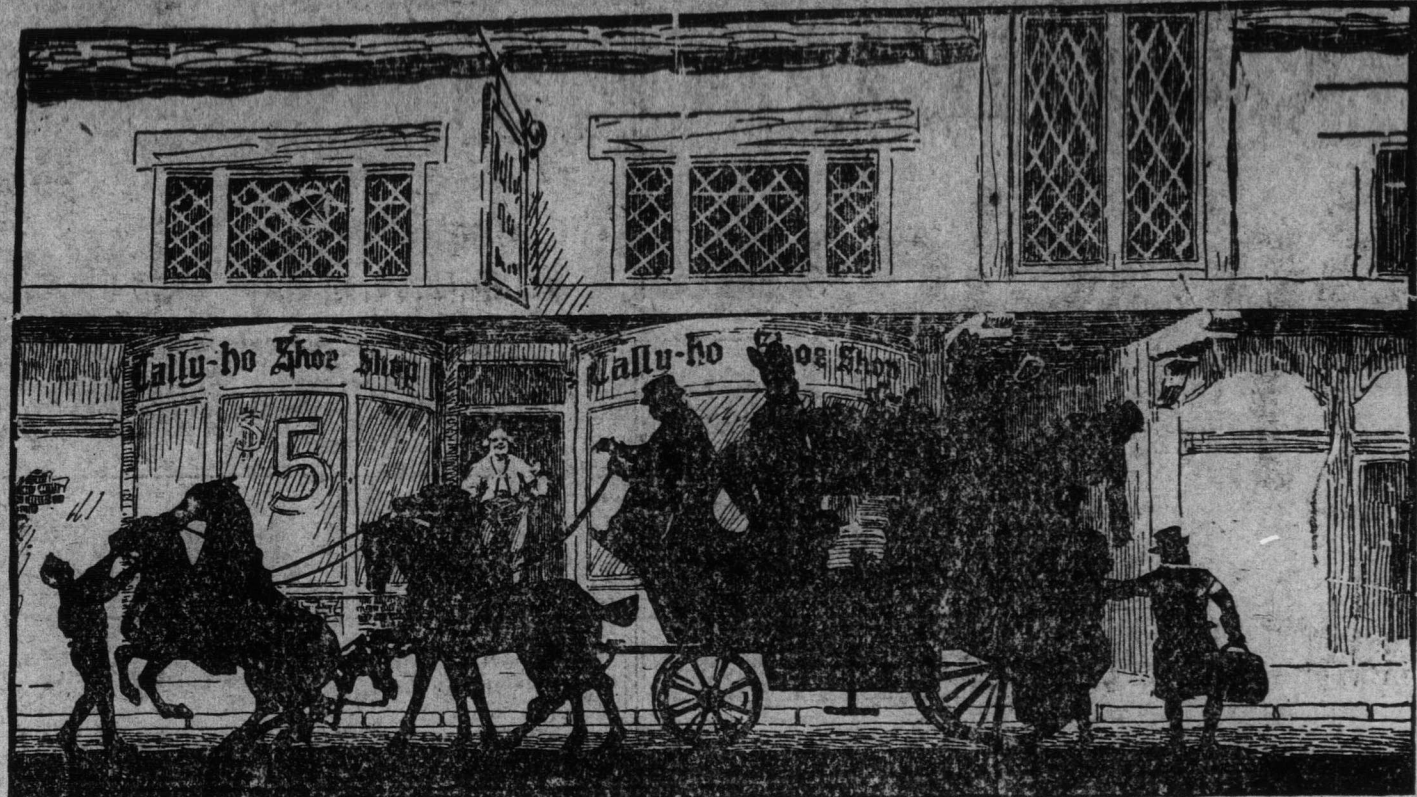

The splendid exhibition of bowling and batting showed that enthusiasm in the noble game is not lacking, though baseball seems to have usurped its place. J. Foley, of St. Bon's, made the highest score, having 24 runs to his credit when bowled by Winter. The next to him was R. H. Tait, of Feild College, who had notched up 19 runs, when conquered by Higgins' bowling, which was also responsible for the fate of five others of the team.

The players were:—
Old Feildians:—D. Atkinson, C. Fenwick, R. H. Tait, J. Straug, E. Winter, H. Goodridge, A. Edwards, D. Winter, E. Grant, E. Trapnell and A. Nother whose scores totalled 55.

OLD ST. BON'S:—J. Foley, P. Berrigan, L. Edens, H. Knight, W. Hearn, J. Higgins, J. Rawlins, E. Crawford, W. Brown, W. McGath and W. Templeman whose scores totalled 75.
Fenwick, Winter and Tait bowled for the Feildians, and Higgins and Knight for St. Bon's.

Failure of Labrador Fishery.

According to recent advices from Labrador, the fishery shows very little sign of improvement. From Battle Harbor to Grady, the fishery is almost a blank, and messages from Holton and Macovik state that similar conditions prevail in those sections. The season is rapidly slipping by, and judging from the catch to date the prospects for even an average voyage are anything but encouraging.

Regarding Standard Price

$5.00 is right
You can't get a good Shoe for less and you should not pay more.

THE customers' safeguard—is the standard price. Any article of merchandise—the price of which is known—advertised broadly and stamped plainly upon it—is bought with confidence.

In shoes especially—the public have no means of judging values—and every day—shoes that do not cost any more than Tally-Ho's are being sold for $6—$8 and $10.

Every pair of Tally-Ho Shoes is sold at the Standard price of $5.00. Just that—no more—no less.

Every pattern—design—and variety is the same. The price here—or in New York—or in London is the same—$5—21 shillings.

We can do this and give the extra big value—because we are men's specialists—we have but one grade—we have a special method of distribution—all of which reduces the cost.

The Grizzly Bear.

By GEORGE FITCH.
Author of "At Good Old Sivas."

The grizzly bear is the most bear that is contained in a single hide. He lives in the Rocky Mountains and vicinity, and until the high power rifle was invented was not bothered much by his neighbors.

The grizzly is sometimes 10 ft. long from the top of his nose to the end of his very brief and economical tail and when he stands up on his hind legs and prepares to embrace a friend or foe he looks as tall as a light-house. A large grizzly weighs almost a thousand pounds, but he does not have to roll over on a personal enemy in order to kill him as an automobile does. He can bite through a gun barrel with his teeth and he can scratch furrows in a battleship's sides with his claws. Nothing is more discouraging than to meet a provoked grizzly and to have to attempt to reason with him while being hugged into a small bundle of messy remains.

The grizzly is amply equipped to take care of his own affairs and his greatest virtue is the fact that he always betrays an earnest desire to do this. He does not attempt to interfere with the plans of the passer-by so long as he is let alone. The grizzly is a whole peace commission by himself. He spends a placid vegetarian life, digging up roots, eating berries and occasionally attacking a mouse or a ground squirrel for desert and whenever man appears on the horizon he retires to some secluded spot. However, when some foolish enemy mistakes his peacefulness for cowardice and attempts to exterminate him the grizzly becomes a cyclone, an eruption, a catastrophe, a Mexican revolution and a destroying besom, all at once. Only those who are extremely good shots and who have plenty of ammunition and a large tree in the immediate background should attempt to show up the grizzly's cowardice.

The grizzly on account of his great willingness to defend himself let severely alone by all the animals and most men and should form a very instructive object lesson to those earnest advocates of peace who declare the United States should set an example to the rest of the world by throwing its guns in the ocean and arming itself with a Chautauque salute.

Dead Man's Wife Knows Where the Cashed Treasure Is.

Savannah, July 13.—Mrs. Charlie Craven, whose husband, a desperado, was killed five months ago, leaving her $54,000 worth of cash and valuables secretly buried, is being watched by Secret Service men. Rather than let them know where the treasure is located, Mrs. Craven says she will suffer poverty.

Before being killed on a robbery expedition in Wellwood, Fla., Craven had been a successful crackman in Georgia, Alabama and Florida. According to his wife, he blew open a safe in the Owensboro Ky. post office and got away with thousands of dollars. After cracking successfully other grubs in Atlanta and Augusta, Craven joined his wife in Savannah.

"He came back with $38,000 in cash and $16,000 worth of jewels," said Mrs. Craven. "He went out one night and buried the whole lot and no one knows except me where the treasure is."

Start Repairs to Storstad.

Quebec, July 14.—Work of repairing the damaged collier Storstad, which rammed the Empress of Ireland, was started Saturday night last about an hour after the vessel entered the Lewis dry dock. George T. Davie, proprietor of the dock, is supervising the repairs, and he has day and night shifts to rush the work.

The whole of the ship's stem is already removed. It was ripped and torn as far down as the keel, so that the repairs are expected to cost in the vicinity of $50,000.

It is not expected that the Storstad will be able to take to sea before a month or six weeks.

Croker for Tammany Again.

New York, July 14.—Richard Croker, the old-time leader of Tammany Hall, will return to New York from Ireland next September and seek to oust Charles F. Murphy from the leadership of Tammany Hall, according to Harry W. Walker, a confidant of Croker, who reached here yesterday from a visit to Croker in Ireland.

"Big things are going to happen when Croker comes here in September," Mr. Walker said. "He has in his possession confessions that he is going to make public. These will have an important bearing on his fight against Charles F. Murphy, which he will vigorously renew."

PORTIA RETURNS.—The s.s. Portia, Capt. J. Koeh, reached port from the westward on Saturday evening after a quick round trip, bringing a full freight and as passengers: Messrs. Curtis 12, Mrs. McDeranott and child; Mrs. Kennedy, Mrs. Curtis, Mrs. Lake and ten second class.

Old Tom, Famous Shark, is Killed.

Big Fish Lived in Waters of Port Royal Harbour for Twenty Years.

New York, July 15.—Old Tom, a shark that has lived in the waters of Port Royal Harbor, Jamaica, for twenty years and is known to thousands of travelers and seagoing men, was put to death by the island authorities several weeks ago according to officers of the schooner Calab Martin, which arrived here yesterday with coconuts from Kingston.

The famous fish was one of the sights of the West Indies. He was to be seen every day in the clear waters of Port Royal and was fed regularly by the men of the British war ship fleet stationed there.

He preyed upon the other fish in the harbor and was equally as quick in attacking human beings. His presence precluded the possibility of sea bathing by the sailors and desertions among the crew of the British war vessels were few, as none had the fortitude necessary to swim ashore when old Tom was in the vicinity.

The shark always could be found near the war ships and the boatloads of tourists who daily went out to see him were never disappointed. If he chanced to stray away for a few minutes the loud beating of a tin pan would invariably bring him back.

During the twenty years that old Tom has been a familiar object a number of persons have lost their lives in the waters of Port Royal, due, it is believed, to his man-eating proclivities. He was never seen, however, to kill a person until a few weeks ago, when he attacked a native boy who had fallen overboard from a war ship cutter. The sailors tried hard to save the boy, and although their efforts were in vain several well directed blows crippled Old Tom so badly that his capture a few hours later was an easy matter.

When the boy's death was reported the authorities decided that Old Tom must go. He was barely able to swim when they found him near one of the war ships and harpooned him. The carcass was taken ashore and after being mounted will be placed in a museum at Kingston.

The shark was nearly twenty feet long. Native fishermen said he had the most vicious teeth of any shark ever killed in the vicinity of Port Royal. Among the articles found in his stomach were three fathoms of chain; a gold watch; a marlin pin and a miscellaneous collection of nails, bolts and other small objects.

Lady Assassin's Charge Against Russian Monk.

St. Petersburg, July 15.—The Emperor of Russia's court physician, Professor Sergius Petrovitch Fedoff, and the Empress' lady-in-waiting, Mile. Virubova, started to-day for Tynanin, Siberia, according to the Courier, to attend the mystic lay monk and imperial confidant, Gregory Rasputin, who is suffering from a wound inflicted on him by a woman who tried to kill him.

In a newspaper interview to-day Guseva, the would-be assassin, now in jail, said she had long meditated killing Rasputin and thus "putting an end to the awful evil wrought by him in Russia by his impostures under the guise of a prophet." She declared "he had shaken Christianity, was sowing temptation and was blasphemously mocking the most holy feelings of true believers and the added that he enjoyed absolute immunity and had openly and without conscience ruined the lives of young girls."

Guseva concluded: "I as a simple Christian could not suffer his abuse of the church. I wanted to kill him last year. I went to Yall but could not approach because he was so closely surrounded by aristocratic women followers. I regret that I failed to kill him. All the same he will not live. The Russian people will not endure such disgrace."

Rasputin, in an interview said: "It is all that cursed Heliodorus, abbot of Tsaritsyn. But to the confusion of himself and all my enemies I will live and they will have nooses put round their necks."

Heliodorus was a great rival of Rasputin's influence with the emperor. Rasputin is recovering from his wound.

WIRE WOUNDS.

My mare, a very valuable one, was badly bruised and cut by being caught in a wire fence. Some of the wounds would not heal, although I tried many different medicines. Dr. Bell advised me to use MINARD'S LINIMENT, diluted at first, then stronger as the sores began to look better, until after three weeks the sores have healed, and best of all, the hair is growing well, and is NOT WHITE as is almost always the case in horse wounds.

Starvation In The Midst of Plenty

Many are actually starving, even though eating heartily three times a day. They are starving because the usual diet lacks certain essential elements.

In making white flour, the outer coat of the wheat, containing the phosphate of potash and other vital mineral salts, is discarded. These mineral salts are absolutely necessary to nerve health and therefore to body health.

Grape-Nuts

contains the whole nutriment of wheat and barley, including the mineral salts. The malting of the barley starts digestive processes and the 20-hour baking breaks down the starch cells. Grape-Nuts food digests in about one-third of the time required by white bread.

Divorced Life

Marian Gets a Check

With feverish anticipation, Marian paused at a news stand the next afternoon and purchased a copy of the Chronicle. A wave of emotions that included satisfaction, shame, rejoicing and mortification almost overcame her when she saw her own picture, two columns in width, gazing at her from the printed page, surrounded by five half-columns of her job-hunting experiences and topped by bold, black headlines. With a sick feeling, she let her eye run down the headlines, which loomed thus from the page:

TWO WEEKS IN NEW YORK'S JUNGLES!

Marian Winthrop, Job Hunter, Tells Vividly of Her Futile Quest for Work.

A Beautiful Victim of Unemployment Assails Economic System Sharply.

The sensation of tawdry commonness which comes over every woman when newspaper publicity first comes whirling into her life, gripped and depressed Marian as she fled with the paper to the street and plunged into a perusal of the story. At a glance she saw that the first three paragraphs had been completely rewritten with a professional swing that was utterly alien and superior to the following paragraphs of her own composition. Sentence by sentence, she devoured the story with her eyes. As she read on, her eyes traveled back and forth frequently between the text and the picture it surrounded. Having read the entire article, she felt proud of her achievement. Gradually the other sensations were subsiding. She could hardly comprehend that all this had happened in the brief space of time beginning with her decision to write to her brother to ask financial aid. Again her eye sped down the printed columns, and again there recurred that point of view that shrank from beholding in cold print the depiction of her bitter disappointment with New York, her struggles, shattered hopes and burning dreams. It is the invariable feeling that floods the soul of the novice who finds that her work has suddenly been hurled into type. Again, like on the night of her first appearance on the stage, Marian felt that she no longer belonged to herself, but to the common, staring, gazing public.

Breaking the seal she found a narrow, green-tinted oblong of paper.

At last she knew what she would do to strip divorce of its woes and poverty of its terrors. She would write. Already her brain was buzzing with ideas, vague plots, and experiences that might be woven into marketable food for the printing presses. The virus of becoming a professional writer trickled into her arteries and sped through her body. The game called and beckoned. At last she felt sure that he had struck her pace and found herself.

Newfoundlander Killed

News of the tragic death of another Newfoundlander, the third to be reported within the past week, has just reached the city. The victim is Henry Parsons who was killed by electricity in the United States. The only meagre facts of the awful occurrence to hand have been received by Mr. J. Parsons, of Hayward Avenue, father of the deceased. The message briefly said that Harry was killed but did not say the cause of the tragedy. The theory is that he was doing some electric work and met his death through shock. The unfortunate young man was well known and esteemed in the city. He was a member of the police force up to two years ago when he resigned and after being married to a St. John's young lady left to make their future home in America. Arrangements are now being made to have the body sent home for interment.

Blowing the Money.

It's surely funny to blow in money as fast as it is earned, but what will follow, oh gentle Romeo, when all the wealth is burned? Suppose you sicken, and troubles thicken about your lowly shack, while docs and nurses discourse of hearse as you lie on your back? The job you're holding, with stipend golden, may leave you any day, and you'll sit sweating, in vain regretting the dough you foiled away. Salt down the plunder, or you will blunder so bad that all your days with melancholy you'll view your folly, bewail your spending craze. If you have 'rhino, the people, I know, to you will lift the hat; but none respects you, the world rejects you, if you are busted flat. How sweet and mellow to every fellow is life's serene decline, if he is loaded with uncorroded doubloons, put down in brine! How bleak and dreary, and sad and weary, is aye to one who's broke, who sits and hollers about the dollars that he sent up in smoke!

BASEBALL.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME.

The third game of the Mount Cashel Baseball series for the H. D. Reid Cup will be played on St. Bon's practice grounds this evening. The contesting teams will be the Shamrocks and Red Lions, and the winners will play at the Garden Party. These teams are pretty evenly matched and to-night's exhibition promises to be an interesting one. The players are:
Umpires—Cheesman, Smith.
The protested game between the B. I. S. and Wanderers will be played on Wednesday afternoon and the winners will play the victors in to-night's game at the Garden Party.
To-night's game will start promptly at 6.30. A small admission fee will be charged, the proceeds to be devoted to the funds of the Orphanage.

Fiasco or a Tragedy.

Chicago Aviator Sees No Hope For Trans-Atlantic Flight.

Winnipeg, July 13.—Asked to give his opinion of the trans-Atlantic flight which Lieut. Porte proposes to make, Lincoln Beachy, the Chicago aviator, said:
"I can see no termination but fiasco or tragedy. Personally, I would not attempt it for a million dollars, and I have spent five hundred hours in the air where Lieut. Porte has spent one hour. The enormity of the proposition has been underrated, the preparations have been entirely inadequate."
"I do not believe that one aviator can make the flight. I do not believe that the present machine, the America, is capable of making the flight. I am convinced that the attempt, if made, will only result in giving aviation a terrible wallop in this country."
"While I do not undervalue Porte's ability as an aviator, I am convinced that no one man can perform this feat particularly a man of Lieut. Porte's unproved calibre. It is one thing to drive a machine for ten or fifteen hours over a stated course over the land. It is an entirely different thing to drive this machine over water. I believe that the mental tension will be more wearing than the physical tax of handling the wheel."
"I do not believe that any man in the world can, without training, stand the terrible strain. And the America should be a seasoned, hardy machine itself. It should be able to speed endlessly. There should be auxiliary power, so that the America would go so go."

More Fires.

Fires provoke immediate sympathy for the sufferer and also thankfulness for personal escape. Another thought should be whether one is personally and sufficiently protected? An insurance policy with Percie Johnson would provide for you this desired security and at a small expense. Have you enough insurance?

Yesterday's Parade.

The C. L. B. and Old Comrades, numbering about 300, under command of Major Franklin, paraded yesterday afternoon to Quiddi Vidi Church where Divine Service was conducted by Rev. Mr. Clayton, who also preached a very instructive sermon. Nearly fifty of the Old Comrades took part in the turn out, and were in command of Capt. R. Goodridge. The new uniforms looked well, and gave the squad a decided military appearance. The line of route was down Long's Hill, Duckworth Street, Ordinance Street, and Forest Roads, return to the Armoury being made via the north side of Quiddi Vidi Lake, King's Bridge, Military and Harvey Roads.
Excellent music was furnished by the battalion's band and the marching was particularly good. At the Armoury Major Franklin announced that squads from Bell Island, Carbon-car, Heart's Content and Bonavista Brigades will go into camp with the city brigade this year.

Man Falls From Train.

While attempting to detrain from Saturday's outgoing express, near Waterford Bridge Station, Frank Murphy, a young man residing on Patrick Street, fell from the car and was badly injured. Murphy who formerly worked around the railway yard boarded the train near the Gas House, and while trying to get off near Waterford Bridge, he fell, his head striking the ground heavily.
Dr. Duncan upon being summoned, bandaged the head and in the meantime a message was sent to town for the ambulance, in which he was taken to the hospital. On reaching the institution it was found that his injuries were not of a serious nature and that his complete recovery is only a question of few weeks.

Wedding Bells.

BURMEISTER-GALLISHAW.

The wedding of Miss Kitty Gallishaw and Mr. Ludwig Burmeister, was solemnized last evening at the residence of the bride's mother, 16 Bannerman Street, the Rt. Rev. Monsignor Roche, V.G., officiating. The bride looked charming in her costume of cream satin, draped with Spanish shawl with cream hat to match, and was attended by Misses Gertrude and Louise Peddigrav, who were handsomely attired. The groom was supported by Mr. J. C. Pippy. The groom's present to the bride was a gold pendant set with pearls and diamonds, and to the bridesmaids gold rings set with garnets and pearls. Following a reception, the bridal party left for Holyrood where the honeymoon will be spent after which they will leave for their future home Guatemala, where the groom holds a responsible position of ship superintendent with a large exporting company. The Telegram wishes unclouded happiness to Mr. and Mrs. Burmeister.

The bride was attended by her sister and cousin the Misses Marion and George Oakley and given away by her father, the bridegroom being supported by Mr. Will Dowling. After the ceremony the bridal party drove to the bride's home where a reception was held, afterwards accompanied by their friends they drove to Waterford Bridge en route to Topsail to spend their honeymoon. The bride and groom were the recipients of many valuable and useful presents.

Anniversary Mass.

AT MOUNT CARMEL CEMETERY.

The annual mass of Requiem took place at Mount Carmel Cemetery at 10.30 yesterday morning, the celebrant being Rev. Dr. Kitchin, P.P., of St. Joseph's, who, during the course of the mass, preached an impressive sermon on the dead, and emphasized the duty of having masses celebrated and prayers offered for the repose of the souls of departed ones; he also portrayed the hollowness and nothingness of the world. The discourse touched the hearts of the congregation which was very large. The collection taken up was a record one. Throughout the ceremony of the mass it was most impressive to see hundreds of people kneeling around the graves of beloved ones. The Mortuary Chapel was filled to its utmost capacity. The graves were beautifully decorated with flowers. The various walks were neat and clean. On the whole the cemetery is in excellent condition showing that the management have not been sparing in their efforts to beautify and adorn God's Acre.

New Vaudeville.

SCULLY AT ROSSLEY'S.

There is a very attractive program at Rossley's to-night when Scully in new vaudeville will make his first appearance in St. John's for a very short time. The pictures are also very special. The great features: "The River Pirates," a sensational film full of amazing situations; "His Mother's Son," by the Biograph Company, a real laugh maker, and a comical comedy; "Tweedledum Suffers from Sleeplessness," "An Innocent Thief," with the leaders of the Vitagraph Co., and "Wired, Tired and Fired," a Kaleid; all good films by the best motion picture people. A delightful evening's amusement for a small cost.

Doctors make New Eyelid.

Sharon, Pa., July 14.—A unique operation was performed on Harry E. Hilkirk yesterday at the Buhl Hospital. A portion of the skin was taken from his leg, manipulated into the shape of an eyelid and grafted on. The operation was successful and the affected part is healing satisfactorily.

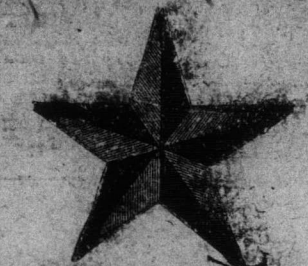

Fifteen years ago, Mr. Hilkirk was severely burned and lost an eyelid. Since that time he has been compelled to sleep with one eye open.

A Plucky Rescue.

Yesterday afternoon a little boy named Leary, about five years old, while romping around near Rennie's River, fell in the water. He would have drowned but for the pluck and promptness of his mother who jumped in and rescued him. Afterwards the youngster became ill and had to be given stimulants.

Disastrous Fire.

A fire broke out on the Torbay Road, about two miles from the city yesterday, and totally destroyed the house with its contents and barn adjoining of Mr. Edward Power. People, though few living in that neighborhood assisted in trying to quench the blaze at its early stage but owing to the small supply of water their efforts were of little use and inside of an hour the property was raised to the ground. There was no insurance carried. The origin of the fire is alleged to be sparks from the chimney.

Welcoming New Pastor at Wesley.

MAKES VERY FAVORABLE IMPRESSION.

Friday last, Rev. H. Royle, the new Pastor for Wesley Church, arrived by the express with Mrs. Royle and two children. Some of the officials met them with teams, and they were soon at the Parsonage, where the wives of members of the Trustee Board had a beautiful dinner spread, and after introductions and welcome, they were assisted in unpacking. Yesterday morning Mr. Royle preached his first discourse from Ezekiel 33rd chap., 6th verse; The vision and functions of a prophet; conveying the Will of God; the relationship of the prophet, now Pastor, to the people; and the responsibility of the people, as a watchman warns of danger, so he prayed he may do his duty, and his hearers hear the voice and do the Will of God through his message. The subject was most appropriate to the occasion and caused a very favorable impression. In the afternoon Mr. Royle visited the Sunday School and Wesley Bible Class, and at night, there was a large congregation. The text was taken from St. Paul's letter: "For we know that if our earthly house, this tabernacle, were dissolved, we have a building with God, a house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens." The subject, "Heaven" was a very able presentation of the doctrine of "Christian Eschatology." Heaven was an explanation, a completion, a recognition, and the preacher supported all his points with strong evidence from scripture and theology. It was a most instructive and comforting sermon, and when passing home comment was very general that it had been a good day and a worthy successor to the Rev. Mr. Matthews had been invited by the Official Board.

Untrue Report.

It was reported around town Saturday evening and yesterday that three men had been drowned on the local fishing grounds. The story was on the lips of prominent people and in particular, was given among the missing. From facts gleaned, we learn how the story originated. Mr. Rose and two other men in a motor boat took a full load of fish from their trap on the Cape grounds, and when they bore up for home observed a chopping sea ahead of them. Naturally they felt anxious. They were doubtful whether their heavily laden boat would survive. They decided not to take any risk, and threw overboard about one-third of their cargo. Shortly afterwards other fishermen noticed fish floating on the water and came to the conclusion that some boat and its occupants had been swamped. They immediately returned to port and gave the alarm. Fortunately the report is untrue.

De Witt C. Cairns

AT NICKEL TO-NIGHT.

There are great attractions in store for Nickel patrons this evening. First, De Witt C. Cairns, one of the best known Nickel singers of all America, will be heard in St. John's. He possesses a powerful baritone voice of sweetness and beauty, and has made hosts of friends in other cities. Mr. Cairns has gone over the Keith Circuit, and has received flattering notices from the press. That Mr. Cairns will make friends in St. John's we feel certain. Secondly, there will be a great vitagraph two-reel picture entitled "The Web." It is a story tingling with interest; a swell social drama in which four world famous artists are seen in clever parts. It is a love story which every one should make an effort to see. "Alkali Ike" will be seen at the Nickel this evening. He makes love to his best girl on a motor cycle. See him and enjoy a good hearty laugh. "Blood is thicker than Water" is a powerful western tale. "The College Chaperon" is also a very laughable comedy. On Wednesday the Nickel will show one of the greatest stories ever seen here. It was produced by the Vitagraph Co. and has been termed their masterpiece. Be sure and see it; the title is "The Next Generation."

Plague Fighters Ban Chickens.

New Orleans, La., July 14.—Chickens, probably, will be placed under the ban with rats, by health officers fighting the bubonic plague here, which in the last few weeks has affected five persons and resulted in three deaths. Federal officials will ask the city council to pass an ordinance making it unlawful to keep chickens within certain prescribed districts in the city. The chickens do not harbor plague germs, the doctor said, but feed them to them attracts rats, and this makes rat eradication more difficult. More of the 13,000 rat traps ordered arrived today, and were being placed. No new cases developed.

To-Night's Match.

The B. I. S. and Saints will try conclusions in this evening's football match. The teams will be:—
SAINTS—Ross, goal; Dick, Barnes, backs; Burns, Foster, Irvine, halves; Robertson, Kerr, Baird, Ewig, Ewans, forwards.
B. I. S.—Clare, goal; T. Duggan, Kavanagh, backs; Burke, Brown, W. Duggan, halves; E. J. Brophy, Jackman, Dunn, Shortall, E. Brophy, forwards.

BASEBALL.

THE WORLD SERIES AT THE CRESCENT.
On Wednesday, a splendid two-reel feature Giants vs. Athletics, or New York vs. Philadelphia in the 1913 world series Baseball. This great picture is interesting to those who have never seen a game; the score board shows the score after each inning in the great struggle. Baseball is fast growing popular in St. John's, but see the crowds that witnessed the world's championship series.

SIGNED PORTRAIT—H. R. H. the Duke of Connaught, before his departure, left his signed portrait with His Excellency the Governor as a gift to the King George the Fifth Seaman's Institute. Obituary.

PATRICK J. WALSH.

On Saturday last, Mr. Patrick J. Walsh, of the Warehouse Department, H. M. Customs, passed peacefully away at the ripe old age of 83 years. The deceased had been at his post until a few months ago, when owing to falling health he was obliged to give up active duty. Mr. Walsh was a well known citizen and for nearly fifty years was a member of the Total Abstinence Society, and was also one of the founders of the Star of the Sea Association. To the widow and one daughter, Mrs. E. M. Jackman, and many grand-children, who survive him, the Telegram extends sympathy. His funeral takes place this afternoon and is being attended by guards of honor from the T.A. & B. and Star of the Sea Societies.

SAMUEL BOWCOCK.

There passed away at his residence Topsail Road, Saturday last a well known farmer, in the person of Mr. Samuel Bowcock. The deceased had attained the age of 67, and had only been ailing a few weeks. Mr. Bowcock was one of the most successful farmers in the community and had hosts of friends in the city. A few years ago he decided to retire from farming and spend his remaining years at his native home in England, but love of the work was an inherent quality of his, and returning he continued to work on the farm until a short time before his death. We extend condolence.

CAPT. F. SEDGEMAN.

With regret we record the demise of Capt. Frank Sedgeman, who passed away at the General Hospital last night, after a brief illness. Captain Sedgeman commanded the s.s. Othar in the Bell Island freight and passenger service for many years, and was well known and very popular. He was in his 52nd year, and is survived by a widow to whom the Telegram extends sincere sympathy.

Com. Rees Body Recovered.

The body of Commissioner Rees, lost in the Empress of Ireland disaster, has been recovered and the funeral obsequies took place in Toronto, on Tuesday last.

The schr. N. Hansen sailed from Grand Bank for Oporto on Saturday taking 2,800 quintals.

AT THE CRESCENT TO-DAY.

The public of St. John's can expect a treat in motion pictures this week, as one of the finest series for some time will be presented at the various changes. For to-day and to-morrow five good reels. The Haunted Bride a society drama with Louis Webber, Phillips Smalley and the famous Rex players; Abbonian's Way and the Return of Tony, are also two really good stories. In the former Ramona Langley and Russell Bassett are the leads and the latter is a pathetic drama of Italian life in America. Impressions of Corsica, a travelogue, and For Art and Love is one of the humorous and refined joke comedies. Miss Louise Arkandy is singing a very pleasing ballad and the Crescent orchestra is heard in the latest musical hits.
