"ECHOES of the Past; OR, The Recompense of Love!"

CHAPTER XXV.

"It was better that I should go. I got an engagement to sing at one of the watering places, and that led to other engagements. I have been very fortunate. I have more offers than I can accept."

"I am glad," he said simply. "And—and you are happy, Mina?"

He did not know, then, how cruel the question was. But she did not wince, she even forced a smile.

"I am—content," she said in a low voice. "I love my work—I must go back. What a lovely morning! It tempted me to come out before breakfast." He turned with her, his heart aching. "And you? You must be very happy," she said, after a pause. "I read about you in the newspapers, Mr. Clive—Mr. Harvey."

"No, no!" he said, wincing, as she had not done. "Call me Mr. Clive, Mina. It—it will sound like old times. Oh, Mina, why did you not answer my telegram, my letter? Why did you send it back unopened? You knew I loved you. Could you not have written me one line, if only to say good-by?"

She stopped dead short, and her hand went to her bosom as if something had struck her there.

"Your telegram—letter?" she breathed, her face suddenly pale.

He looked at her amazed, spell-bound. "Yes, I wired to you—I was called away to my father—he died. I wrote to you from Ratborough. I could not come to you, or I would have done so—" He stopped, smitten dumb by the bewilderment, the agony on her face.

"You wrote—to me?" she said in a dull voice, and yet with a note of relief, of joy in it.

"Yes, yes, of course!" he said. "Did you think I should have gone away without writing? You sent the letter back without a word!"

"I never—got it," she said slowly, as if she were speaking to herself rather than to him.

He stared at her, the color coming and going in his face.

"You never got it!" he cried. "Mina! Then—then—who sent it back—who intercepted it? Ah! Tibby!" he answered it for her, his teeth clenched, his face a dusky red.

She was silent for a moment, then she looked at him.

"I am—glad—you wrote," she said almost inaudibly. "I thought—that you had changed your mind. Ah, yes; you were free to do so. It—it was a bargain between us, do you remember? You—you were quite free—quite. And I thought—"

"You wronged me cruelly!" he cried, not loudly, but with all his heart in the cry. "Oh, Mina, didn't you know that I loved you! That I should not change!"

The color flooded her face, then it went white, and she looked from side to side as if in trouble and pain—for them both.

"I—I did not know. You did not come," she said. "I see now why you could not. But then—it seemed as if—as if you did not want to, as if you had regretted what you had said."

"But you understand now?" he said.

Various Forms Of Headache

"It is necessary in order to treat headaches properly to understand the cause which produces them," says Dr. J. W. Bay of Brockton, Ala. Continuing, he says: "Physicians cannot even begin the treatment of a disease without knowing what causes give rise to it, and we must remember that headache is to be treated according to the same rule. We must not only be particular to give a remedy intended to combat the cause which produces the headache, but we must also give a remedy to relieve the pain until the cause of the trouble has been removed. To answer this purpose our Anti-Kamnia Tablets will be found of most convenient and satisfactory remedy. One tablet every one to three hours gives comfort and rest in the most severe cases of headache, neuralgia and particularly the headaches of women."

"When we have a patient subject to regular attacks of sick headache, we should caution him to keep his bowels regular, for which nothing is better than 'Actoids', and when he feels the least sign of an oncoming attack, he should take two or three tablets. Such patients should always be instructed to have them ready for instant use. These tablets are prompt in action, and can be depended on to produce relief in a very few minutes. Ask for A-K Tablets. Anti-Kamnia Tablets can be obtained at all druggists."

pleaded almost fiercely. "You know now that I was not the—cur you thought me! My wire, my letter explained my absence. Oh, Mina, could you not have trusted me a little longer, have waited!"

She shook her head. "It was not that I did not trust you," she said, "but when you were silent, no message came from you, and I learned that you were—what you are, so far above me—"

He stifled a groan. "As if that counted!" he said hoarsely. "And it was Tibby who intercepted the telegram, who returned the letter. God forgive her! She has wrecked my life! And you—ah, Mina, tell me, that you have not forgotten me."

He stopped, struck silent, by the horror in her eyes, by her sudden shrinking from him.

"Oh, no, no!" she breathed. "It is you who have forgotten. Lady Edith!"

Her face burned and her eyes met his with a solemn reproach in them. Clive stood and gazed at her, as the respite might gaze when he hears that it is respite only, not full and free pardon, and that the sentence still stands. Mina lowered her eyes as if she could not endure the misery in his.

"Lady Edith! If you knew!" he said hoarsely.

Mina turned her head away. "I—I am not reproaching you," she said, in a low, agitated voice. "You were free. I left you free. Oh, I cannot say any more, cannot stay!" she broke out, the tears threatening to start to her eyes; but she drove them back and faced him with quiet dignity. "I must go. They—they will miss me and wonder. I am sorry—no, I am not, I am glad we have met, that you have told me that you wrote, that—that you had not changed then. I am glad, because now I can think of you without pain—without shame." Her eyes sank for a moment, but she lifted them to his face again bravely. "I shall never forget all your goodness to me. I can never repay it. I have not tried," she added, with a touch of her wonted girlish simplicity. "And I—I wish you every happiness."

"For God's sake!" he pleaded hoarsely. "Is this the last word, is this our farewell, our real parting, Mina?" he said almost inaudibly. "Ah, what can I say!"

What could he say? Certainly he could not tell her that he was marrying Lady Edith because he was forced to do so by a chapter of accidents!

She was silent a moment or two, then she said gravely:

"Yes. I—I hope we shall not meet again. Last night—"

"Last night!" He caught her up with what he knew to be a mean eagerness.

She blushed. "Last night I—I was startled by the sight of you, and—and it all came back to me so suddenly, like a flood, that—that— But it will not happen again. No; it will not affect me so again. I think now

I have seen you that I shall be—more at peace."

"This was too much for him. "Mina!" he cried desperately. "We must not part—we must not! I cannot! God help me, I am tied and bound, a slave but it is not too late!"

He had caught at her hand and, grasping it tightly, drew her nearer to him. His eyes half-closed and he saw her quiver and bend toward him as a flame is swayed by the wind, then, with a faint cry, she tore her hand free and drew back.

"No, no! Please let me go! There are some people—"

Clive turned his head angrily and saw some persons coming down the lane. One of them was a woman, wrapped in voluminous drapery with a veil half-down across her face. It was Sara. In his surprise at her appearance and his indignation—for it flashed upon him that she must have been spying on them—he released Mina's hand, and she passed him and walked on quickly. As she came toward the Hindu woman, Sara stopped and looked at her with a fierce, threatening stare; then she walked on until she came to Clive, where she stopped and salaamed.

Clive eyed her sternly. "Sara! What are you doing here?" he demanded.

She salaamed again. "I came in search of the sahib," she said. "My mistress gave me a note to send early this morning, and the weather being so fine, I take it myself. At the hotel they say the sahib is out walking. I come to find the sahib."

He held out his hand for the note and she took it from the folds of her shawl. It was a line or two from Lady Edith asking him to lunch at the Grange. He thrust it in his pocket and gazed at the dusky face moodily and in doubt whether or not he should offer any explanation of his meeting with Mina, in doubt as to whether Sara had seen him take Mina's hand. "Thank you, Sara," he said. "Will you tell Lady Edith that I will be there?"

"Yes, sahib," said Sara. She stood for a moment or two eyeing him with a strange intentness, then she salaamed and went on.

Clive mechanically walked toward the hotel. His brain was in a whirl. It was almost impossible for him to think, for his emotions overwhelmed his capacity for reasoning. If he had ever laid the flattering unction to his soul that he had ceased to love Mina, this meeting with her, this discovery that she had not received his telegram and letter, and had fled from Benson's Rents because she thought him faithless, undecieved him. He loved her as devotedly, as passionately as ever.

And that being so, his engagement to Lady Edith suddenly appeared in its true light. When his brain grew clearer and able to act, he saw that in marrying her he would do her a great, a cruel wrong. He had hoped that in time he should be able to love her; but he knew now that the hope was a futile, an impossible one.

Yes; he must, at all costs to her and himself, tell her the truth, the whole truth, and save her from a loveless marriage. But the cost was so great that he naturally shrank

CAN YOU AFFORD TO TAKE CHANCES?

A little cold may not seem a dangerous thing—you may feel inclined to let it go on hoping that to-morrow it will be better—but can you afford to take chances? Just as the little insignificant acorn grows if let alone, to the mighty giant oak, that cough if not stopped may grow to a very serious illness. When a cough starts there's no telling where it will end. You know no doubt, of cases right among people you have known where serious complications and fatal illnesses have had their start from a neglected cough or cold.

A cold is more than inconvenient—it is dangerous—so the big thing is to find a reliable remedy—one that will give you quick, satisfactory relief. There are many treatments that are recommended for a cough or cold but STAFFORD'S PHORATONE COUGH AND COLD CURE is recommended to be the safest, surest and most satisfactory way to cure a cold, grippe, etc.

from the ordeal through which they must both pass. He would wait until the election was over, until they had returned to town and the announcement of the rupture of the engagement could be made at a time when it would attract less attention than it would do at the present moment, when his name was so prominently before the public.

He made a pretense of a breakfast and plunged into work. He had to address a meeting in the forenoon, and forced himself to concentrate his mind on his speech, though he felt that it mattered little whether he were returned for Brimleigh or not, mattered little what became of his political career. What he wanted, longed for, was a quiet life away from the world—with Mina.

He was late at the Wynthaw's lunch, and his haggard face, though he endeavored to force a show of cheerfulness, of course, attracted attention and evoked the sympathy of the ladies.

"You will want a long rest after the election, Mr. Harvey," said Lady Wynthaw. "I used to think a fashionable doctor the hardest worked man in the world, but I'm inclined to alter my opinion and give the palm to a present-day politician. You must take the kind of holiday my doctor goes in for. He spends his fortnight in bed every year, and declares that it does him more good than the seaside or the Continent. What a successful concert last night!" she went on. "I was so sorry for that pretty young girl who was taken ill! I sent to inquire after her this morning, but her party had just left the hotel. Hers must be a hard life—what is the new word for it?—strenuous, isn't it?"

"I also sent," said Lord Chesterleigh, "and was too late. It seemed to me that she saw something or some one in the audience who startled her; looked up you think so, Clive?"

Clive looked up but was fortunately spared the reply, for Lady Edith said, with a laugh, before he could answer:

"What a romantic explanation, father! 'A face in the crowd' kind of idea! No; I fancy she lost her words."

A Foolish Expectation.

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

The little woman in front of me on the car almost wept for self pity as she told her woes to the older woman.

"I haven't been feeling at all well for the last week," she said. "I didn't tell Tom because I hate to seem to be always a crying baby. But when he came home and spoke about going away for a week's hunting I couldn't help crying. Then he got mad and said I never wanted him to have a good time."

She paused to swallow a little sob. Then she added, almost vindictively, "I bet he'd be sorry if he knew how sick I've felt."

"You didn't tell him?" asked the other woman.

"No. I wouldn't tell him for anything now."

In the meantime, poor Tom!

Of course she will, sooner or later. And in the meantime poor, bewildered Tom will drag himself home evenings to a house over which the shadow of a misunderstanding hangs heavy, wondering just what has hit him.

The craving for sympathy is universal. The baby cries for it, the child demands it, we grown-ups hope for it and feel hurt when we don't get it. It is an easily understood, though rather foolish trait, this forcing our griefs and injuries upon the attention of others, polite enough to feign an interested sympathy they do not feel. For "no man limps because another is hurt."

But even more foolish than this demand of ours that others sympathize with our sorrows and ills when we tell of them, is the hope of receiving sympathy when the cause for such is withheld.

He Deserves Sympathy, Too.

Tom simply didn't know that his wife hadn't been feeling well. His side is just as understandable as hers, and if either of them deserves sympathy I rather think it is he.

Now and then we make a praiseworthy effort to martyrize ourselves by refusing to demand the sympathy we crave. Our purpose is a worthy one, but to be really worthy of praise it must be adhered to the bitter end.

If She Gives Him a Boiled Dinner.

It is Smith, suffering from indigestion, withholds that fact from Mrs. Smith in order that she may not worry, he is doing a Spartan and commendable thing. But if Mrs. Smith, in her ignorance, sets a boiled dinner garnished with mince pie before him, who can blame her for lack of sympathy?

For Smith to eat the dinner, thinking with bitterness how sorry Mrs. Smith would be if she knew how much he suffered and was about to suffer, availeth no one anything. If he chooses he can eat and be miserable, but to be true to the course he has mapped out for himself he must do so without bitterness or self pity.

Engineer Commander Howley

Tells of His Thrilling Experiences in the Dardanelles—Meeting at Halifax Academy.

"If you are not with us, you are against us." These caustic words by Sergeant Knight were the keynote of the recruiting meeting at the Academy of Music last Saturday, a meeting that was one of the most wonderful ever held in this city, a recruiting meeting that thrilled every man, woman and child that crowded the big play house to the roof. How like a sea was the surge of that throng as it swept through the doors, eddied this way and that, and in a trice had filled every nook and cranny of the building. But how like a plaything was that tidal wave of a crowd in the hands of the speakers.

First, was the story of Engineer Lieut. Commander Howley's marvelous escape, told in a humorous and ingenious way that sent delightful chivers running up and down one's spine. His was the tale of the miracle wrought when a man wounded almost unto death fell into the sea, could not swim a stroke, but yet was rescued and nursed back to health once more. It was a "tale to keep children from play and old men from the chimney corner."

In opening the meeting Chairman Justice Wallace read the proclamation of King George, given out but a few days ago, in which His Majesty stated the end was not yet in sight and more and more men are needed. In introducing Engineer Lieut. Commander Howley, Justice Wallace said he was introducing a British sailor who had fought nobly and well. He said Commander Howley was a native of the sister country of Newfoundland as well as a member of the British Navy. He was there to tell of his experience at the Dardanelles.

In rising, Lieut. Commander Howley said he would give a few incidents of the fight in the Dardanelles. He said one day in March last, the fleet formed in a semi-circle and bombarded the Turkish position. Then four British and four French ships closed in and kept up a terrific fire. The British landed twenty men to blow up some of the Turkish forts. Two thousand Turks attempted to snipe the sailors from the village of Seddul Bahr. The irresistible opened fire on the Turks and "in a few minutes," said the speaker, "that village looked like the Halifax South End terminals."

On another occasion he saw five whiffling, full of Turks, shot away by a British cruiser in just five shots. One by one they went, a shot to a windmill. He then told of how his own ship was blown up by a mine. There was a terrific explosion and the ship heeled far over on her side. He was thrown up against the side of the ship. The ship filled rapidly with water and hot vapor. He got up on the shell deck, knowing the possibility of an explosion internally he visited the boiler room. Every man was at his post. He ordered them on deck and they left the boiler room singing "It's a long way to Tipperary." He, too, went on deck and suddenly he felt as if he had received a terrific blow on the head. His feet were taken from under him and he just felt as if the flesh had been ripped off his back. He rolled off the side of the ship into the water. He said he threw out his arms and luck was with him, he caught a log. A picket boat rushed up and saved him.

Commander Howley then exhibited the trousers he had worn when he was wounded. They were a weird sight. Both legs were in tatters, torn to shreds by pieces of shell. Another interesting exhibit was a number of bullets which had been removed from the speaker's body.

"I only got a few of them," said the speaker, "the doctors kept the others."

The speaker then told of some amusing things he had heard of the English Tommy on the western front. He said one day a sign bearing the following words was seen above one of the German trenches:

"We are Saxons. You are Anglo-Saxons. Keep your bullets for the Prussian bullies, they will relieve us at 11 o'clock."

He said the only French word the average Tommy knew was "Allez." One was known to go into a French shop and say to the proprietor: "Allez! give me some milk." The proprietor did not make a move. "Allez, don't you know your own language?" shouted the soldier in exasperation.

They Said Child Could Not Live.

Mother tells how Zam-Buk worked almost a Miracle.

"I wish to let you know of a wonderful instance of the healing power of Zam-Buk," writes Mrs. A. Bruhm, of West Northfield, N.S. "While my little daughter was playing around a bonfire, her clothes caught fire, and she was so badly burned that those who saw her said she could not live. We knew how fine Zam-Buk is, and at once secured a big supply and swathed the child in bandages covered with Zam-Buk. The soothing effect of the balm was soon apparent, and the awful pain was greatly reduced. This treatment was continued, and in a few days the child was on the way to recovery. Naturally, we kept on using Zam-Buk until the pain was finally banished. Healing went on rapidly, and at last my child was quite restored to health."

"After this experience you may rest assured that our home will never be without Zam-Buk, and I would most heartily recommend other mothers to keep it handy at all times."

Is there no child, no adult, in your circle who would benefit from Zam-Buk? Remember the balm is a sure cure for eczema, ulcers, abscesses, ringworm, babies' rashes, inflamed sores, old wounds, etc., as well as for cuts, burns and scalds. Zam-Buk may be had from all druggists and stores for only 50c. box, or direct from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Zam-Buk is so good that it has been imitated, and more or less harmful imitations are on the market; so be sure to see the name "Zam-Buk" (protected by law) on the box before parting with your money.

Dust should never be swept from one room to another. Take it up in a dustpan, and if you have previously thrown a few tea leaves down this will prevent dust from flying about.

The Good Genius of the Sick Room.

A gas fire, always a desirable installation, never proves its worth more than in cases of illness, for an invalid may need a fire at any season of the year. A coal fire makes dirt and dust and needs repeated attention, and the noise and clatter that the least stoking operation renders inevitable is at once an annoyance and a possible danger to the patient.

Gas fires are clean and noiseless, and when once alight will burn for an indefinite period without supervision of any kind, and it is now the common practice of medical men, especially when the illness is likely to be lengthy, to recommend a gas fire in the sick room.

When children are convalescent but still confined to one room, it is highly necessary, if the much-dreaded chill is to be avoided, to keep its temperature at a steady level. This is impossible where coal is the fuel, but a gas fire can be so easily and accurately regulated that the required degree of warmth can be obtained without difficulty.

In Five Minutes! No Indigestion, Gas Or Sour, Acid Stomach

The moment "Pape's Diapepsin" reaches the stomach all distress goes.

"Really does" put bad stomach in order—"really does" overcome indigestion, dyspepsia, gas, heartburn and sourness in five minutes—that—just that—makes Pape's Diapepsin the largest selling stomach regulator in the world. If what you eat ferments into stubborn lumps, you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food and acid; head is dizzy and aches; breath foul; tongue coated; your insides filled with bile and indigestible waste, remember the moment "Pape's Diapepsin" comes in contact with the stomach all such distress vanishes. It's truly astonishing—almost marvelous, and the joy is its harmlessness.

A large fifty-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin will give you a hundred dollars worth of satisfaction or your druggist hands you your money back.

It's worth its weight in gold to men and women who can't get their stomachs regulated. It belongs in your home—should always be kept handy in case of a sick, sour, upset stomach during the day or night. It's the quickest, surest and most harmless stomach regulator in the world.

Convicted of Trying to Wreck Train.

The case in which two boys, aged 16 and 17 years, respectively, belonging to Heart's Delight, T. B., were charged with attempting to wreck a train on the Heart's Content Branch Railway by placing a lot of wood on the rails, was resumed and concluded before Mr. F. J. Morris, K.C., in the Magistrate's Court yesterday evening. Several witnesses were examined and after sumpung up the evidence the Judge convicted the lads and after pointing out the seriousness of the offence, sentenced the accused to one month's imprisonment each, without the option of a fine. Mr. J. A. Winter appeared for the defendants and Mr. W. J. Higgins conducted the case for the Crown.

Prohibition at Greenspond.

The prohibition campaign is in full swing here. Dr. Geisel gave us a wonderful lecture on Sunday night on Prohibition. St. James' Hall, the largest in the place, was packed with grown folk.

On Monday morning, at 10 o'clock, Dr. Geisel addressed the people, chiefly women and children, on the subject of Health. She dealt a good deal on the different foods the body wanted, and where and how they could be obtained. The lecture occupied nearly two hours, but so interested were the audience that they had had almost forgotten time. We all feel sure that the lecture will have a lasting effect on this place. Immediately after the lecture a committee of women was formed called the "Women's Auxiliary Committee of Health and Temperance." All women present signified their willingness to act on this committee. The officers were appointed right away. This committee meets to-night to organize for work.

On the 18th inst. we held a very successful Prohibition meeting in the F. P. U. Hall, or rather I should say in the Burnett Orange Hall, both societies using the same building. The place was crowded. Capital addresses were given by Rev. Moore, Rev. French, Ensign Oake, Capt. James Bandford and Mr. S. White. Mr. K. Oakley acted as chairman. A test was put to the electors at the close of the meeting, when at least nine out of every ten present stood to their feet, thereby showing their intention of voting for prohibition.

Another successful prohibition meeting was held last night at Shamblie's Cove in the F. P. U. Hall. The meeting was addressed by Rev. Nottie, Ensign Oake, Dr. Jamieson, Mr. A. Vivian and Rev. French. When the test was put at the close of the meeting, only two or three of the voters present kept their seats, while all the others rose to their feet, showing their intention of voting this demon out of Newfoundland. Without doubt Greenspond and vicinity will give an overwhelming majority in favour of Prohibition.

The Prohibition Committee have planned another meeting at Fair Islands for to-morrow night. Quite a number from here have signified their intention of going with us. So far as we can learn at this distance, the feeling there is strongly for prohibition.

Greenspond, Oct. 26th, 1915.

YOUR BOYS AND GIRLS

Most mothers find that it pays to wash the baby's expensive little woollens themselves, instead of letting them go into the regular wash. It takes little strength or time to wash out a tiny shirt after the baby has donned a clean one, and it pays because they do not shrink so much if washed carefully. A baby can do with three shirts if one is washed out each morning.

This allows a clean shirt after the daily bath, one used the day before to be put on at night and one to be washed, with time to dry thoroughly before being put on the next day. With only three shirts the mother can afford to buy a good quality, which pays always in baby things, and, as they are in constant use, there is not much danger of their being outgrown.

Don't Scold, Mother! The Cross Child is Billious, Feverish

Look at tongue! If coated, clean little stomach, liver, bowels.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign its little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste.

When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "fruit-laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given to-day saves a sick child to-morrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeits sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Hand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

The Prohibition Campaign.

Little Bay East, Fortune Bay, Expects Victory.

October 28th, 1915.
 Mr. A. Soper, Campaign Secretary, had the following wire from Rev. Mr. Sears, of Little Bay East, Fortune Bay: "We anticipate victory in this entire section.—Sears." This is surely good news. Well done, Little Bay.

Horse Cove, Conception Bay.
 Mr. R. J. Lawlor writing from this place says: "Good vote will be polled in this place for Prohibition; many of our men were up at St. Philip's to hear the Rev. Dr. Jones and since then they are heart and soul for Prohibition."

Good News From Fortune Bay.
 Rev. Hugh J. MacDermott, telegraphs the Secretary Prohibition Campaign Committee from Pool's Cove, Fortune Bay: "Making complete canvass of district; every prospect of good majority vote."

Quirpon and Griquet Favour Prohibition.

Last evening the Prohibition Committee had word from a gentleman doing business in these important fishing settlements. He says both here and in surrounding places strong sentiment in favour of Prohibition.

Bellefleur Promises a Large Majority.
 Rev. G. S. Templeton wires: "We are holding satisfactory meetings everywhere. Large majority favour Prohibition. This looks like a sure thing."

Old Perlican—No Opposition.
 In Old Perlican the outlook is bright for Prohibition. All that is needed, as conducive to success here, is plenty of energy—plenty of efforts—plenty of optimism and plenty of faith as to the issue.

If Old Perlican rises to the situation she will uphold the honor of her good name in being foremost in the work of general reform in this Island and in the future it will be an un-falling pleasure to know that her labours in this grand cause of Total Prohibition were crowned with success. Well done Old Perlican—Don't permit your efforts to wane, or your ardour to decrease, until victory is perched upon our banners.

Bonavista to the Front.
 Bonavista is to the front with Committees and Sub-Committees all in working order. An able secretary is at the helm here and the work is progressing favourably.

Gambo and Port Blandford.
 Some difficulties experienced owing to the situation of the men at the lumber business but it is hoped that this will be overcome. The leaders there will do their best to help in the good cause to victory.

Heart's Content, New Perlican and Winterton—Trinity Bay's Grand Trio.

There are many excellent workers in this district, and, of course, in any work of reform they are sure to be in the vanguard. In the female population many ladies will be found whose interest and effort form an important and influential consideration in every good work and they will take good care not to be behind, or in any way a measure delinquent in this most important matter—a matter aiming at the salvation of the youth of the present population from the ruinous habit of indulging in intoxicating beverages. Well done ye grand trio. Your work will live in fact and in human memory long after you are gone to your reward.

Clark's Beach.
 Organization has been completed and a United March to Victory is in hopeful contemplation. In this old historic settlement, around which so much interest centres we hope to see grand work accomplished for a Prohibition Victory.

Springdale Solid for Prohibition.
 Western Bay, Cat Hr. and Chance Cove, in the march. Some difficulties to be overcome. People generally favorable to the campaign and will do their best to bring about success to the undertaking.

Blackhead to the Front—Organized Weeks Ago.
 Blackhead, another old historic settlement with many traditional remembrances, is to the front. There is nothing like being in time. It is said of the "Black Prince" that he contracted a habit of saying "In ten minutes time," when asked to do anything, and on one occasion when his army was in danger and he was advised to retreat he replied "In ten minutes time," and "before that period was expired his body was riddled with bullets. When an opportunity offers to do away with danger, or to get out of the way of danger, or the best thing, and the safest thing, and the wisest thing anybody can do is to be in time.

Botwood is Doing It's Part.
 Botwood is doing it's part—organized and progressing prospects favourable.

Brigus in the Fight.
 Brigus realizes the importance of the situation and is prepared to fight the campaign to the close.

Bay Roberts Right.
 A very favourable Prohibition sentiment prevails in Bay Roberts where efficient organization has been effected. Suitable lectures have been delivered here and the voters, in a calm reasoning attitude, pronounce themselves favourable to a Prohibition Victory.

Grand Falls and Millertown.
 Both these lumbering settlements are favourable to a Prohibition vote. Grand Falls is organized and progressing. They report some disability as to voting and think some special arrangement should be made to meet the conditions there existing—applying to transient voters engaged in lumber operations.

This matter will no doubt receive due consideration.

Twillingate will give a Large Prohibition Vote.

The tide is running high for the good cause in Twillingate and the workers there are backing up a strong feeling with great activity. King Alcohol will receive some of his hardest blows from this quarter. Preparations for the fight have been made some time in advance and there is no such thing as defeat in the Twillingate vocabulary. Men of the North stand up for your rights and liberties against the common enemy of mankind.

Carbonear Joins in the Fight.
 There can be no doubt that some good work will be done at Carbonear by the able workers residing there. The outlook is good for a large Prohibition vote and a triumphant victory. Of course difficulties may intervene but a people resolved to win will make their difficulties and disappointment the steppingstones to a glorious victory. Well done Carbonear—go forward.

To keep brass candlesticks and handirons bright for years apply a coat of varnish after they have been scoured. It is said that a bowl of lime in the closet where jellies, jams and preserves are kept will prevent them from moulding. When serving hot meat or vegetables, serve them very hot. They are really more tempting nearly at boiling point than half cold. If the blankets have been in use through the summer now is the time to sun and air them before the fall and winter storms set in. Each week all dustcloths and scrubcloths should be thoroughly washed and dried in the sun. They will then be in good condition to use. Cheese grated is considered more digestible than cheese sliced. Only a little should be eaten at a time, because it is concentrated nourishment. When baking a cake a delicate flavour can be obtained by placing a few leaves from the peach tree in the bottom of the baking dish before putting in the batter. A good dressing for sliced tomatoes is made with a hard-boiled egg, chopped fine and mixed with mustard, some butter and cream. Season to taste and place on each slice of tomato. If your eyes smart and feel tired, bathe them in a little warm water in which a pinch of boracic powder has been dissolved. Use an eye-cup for the purpose and take an eye-bath every night. No matter how much dripping is used, fish when being fried is apt to stick to the pan's bottom. If a tablespoonful of dry salt is put into the pan and rubbed over it, it will be found satisfactory. Remnants of meat of different kinds can be ground fine and mixed with rice, a raw egg, seasoned and made into cakes and fried brown on both sides. They are very good for a lunch dish. Annual Meeting of the Licensing Board.

The annual meeting of the Licensing Board took place yesterday afternoon. Members present were Mr. J. P. Blackwood, Mr. J. A. Winter and Inspector General Sullivan attending, the latter presiding. The 40 retail and 17 wholesale licenses held in the city last year were reduced this year to 37 retail and 17 wholesale, there being no change in the latter. The three retailers gone out of the business are Mrs. Catherine Kiely, Rawlins' Cross; Mr. John Meahan, Duckworth Street and Mr. Mogue Power, deceased. Some discussion took place over the fact of certain houses holding wholesale and retail licenses at the same time, but no new course was decided on. Owing to certain unforeseen circumstances it was decided to renew the license of Mr. John Clarke, Water Street, in the name of Mrs. Clarke, notice of the transfer having been given by Mr. W. J. Higgins.

Amusements.

FAREWELL SONGS OF THE HARMONY DUO.

The Nickel attendance yesterday was as large as on Wednesday and everyone was delighted with the show. To-day there is a complete change. The bill includes the eleventh episode of the "Trey O' Hearts" which is wonderful, thrilling and sensational. There will also be a most exciting reel of the Hazards of Helen.

"E Convict 4287" is a grand picture produced in two reels by the Reliance players. The "Fable of the Gallantions Girl" by George Ade will also be shown. Messrs. Huskins and Cairns will sing their farewell songs. The bumper matinee for children takes place to-morrow afternoon. Send the little ones early so that they may enjoy themselves. The programme is specially arranged for the benefit of the children.

AT THE CRESCENT.

The Crescent Picture Palace presents to-day a great detective drama: "Following a Clue," this feature is produced in two reels by the Kaleem Company and is a thrilling picture. "Peggy of Fifth Avenue" is a classy melo-drama, a Vitagraph production featuring Lillian Walker. "Broncho Billy's Vengeance" a strong western drama with G. M. Anderson. The funny reel is entitled: "Flirtations Lizzie," an uproarious comedy. Mr. Dan Delmar sings a comic song to-day. On to-morrow there will be a big matinee, extra pictures will be shown; send the children they will have a good time. On Monday a special two reel feature: "Aurora Floyd."

BRITISH THEATRE.

An excellent programme consisting of six most superior photo-plays has been selected for the week-end entertainments at the above Theatre, among which is a great three-reel production entitled "The Heart of Lincoln." This is one of the most beautiful pictures of its kind and tells a pretty sympathetic story, a true happening in the life of that wonderful man. The title role, that of Abraham Lincoln, is played by Francis Ford. The favorite actor J. Warren Kerrigan will also appear in a two-reel society drama of exceptional merit. Miss Ruth Emblem sings two delightful numbers and to-morrow afternoon at the children's matinee she will give away a number of genuine Japanese dolls. Every child on entering the "British" will be given a ticket bearing a number and the corresponding number on the doll will entitle the holder to receive one. The dolls are not large but are very pretty and attractive. Commencing Monday, the British will introduce a first class orchestra.

DON'T MISS THIS CONTEST IF YOU WANT SOME FUN.

The contest to-night will be very funny. Several names have been sent in, and children under fourteen cannot compete; besides the competition Atlantis, Fisk and Jack will appear in one of their marvellous, thrilling and daring acts wearing elegant wardrobe and performing feats never seen here before. Beautiful Atlantis in her great spectacular number will delight all. The pictures are capital and the great two reel feature: "The Kaffir's Skull"; a screamingly funny Keystone comedy and other pictures. Mr. Rossley has booked one of the finest original and up to date Irish singing, dancing and sketch artists, also a great female impersonator. These Irish performers Mr. Rossley has tried to secure for two years. The wardrobe of those people will be something to remember.

School lunches come next on the list, and it should be remembered that the various nut filling are very acceptable.

451st Day of the War TO-DAY'S Messages.

12.30 P.M.

GERMAN ATROCITY MUSEUM.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Petrograd says a German atrocities museum was opened here to-day. It contains a large number of photos of mutilated soldiers, whose wounds are alleged to have been caused by explosive bullets; also tables of statistics of five thousand cases of atrocities investigated by a special commission of inquiry into German atrocities, by which the museum was established.

THE SITUATION IN SERBIA.

PARIS, To-day. The Serbian legation here last night issued the following statement concerning the situation in Serbia: On the 28th on the northern front the Serbian troops on the right bank of the Morava River were obliged to fall back south and after heavy fighting have occupied the line of Svil, Gradovatz and Chetmona on the left bank of the Morava and on the left bank of Lepentiza. There has been a violent artillery duel along the front. Fighting is going on along the line of Viseak-Kladour and on the southern Morava front. The Serbian troops repulsed the enemy on the left bank of the Morava. There is nothing to report on the Nichava front. On the Kniajovats since the Serbian troops retired from their position at Tresshadander, under strong pressure of the enemy. In the direction of Kojel, Boutchie the enemy attacked with strong columns and fighting lasted all day. The Koutchona region the Serbians by counter attacks recaptured the Koutchouk defile. It will be seen neither this statement nor the preceding one confirms the capture of Pirot, which was reported in despatches from German sources.

GENERAL MAHON'S RECORD.

LONDON, To-day. Lieut-General Sir Bryan Thomas Mahon (the British commander in Serbia), gained fame as leader of the expedition, when he marched to the relief of Mafeking in the South African War. The relief of that town caused greater joy in England than any other single event of the war. It was stoutly defended against the Boers for seven months by a small force. Sir Mahon, who is 53 years old, saw distinguished service in the Egyptian Expedition in 1896, when the Egyptian army under General Kitchener, recaptured from the Mahdists the province and the important expedition and Kordofan expedition.

GOODS OF ENEMY ORIGIN.

LONDON, To-day. Sir Edward Grey, Foreign Minister, replying yesterday to a question in the Commons, repudiated the suggestion that the Government had decided to give immunity to the goods of an enemy country. The Government, said Sir Edward, declared her intention not to interfere with shipment from neutral ports of goods of enemy country origin, actually ordered before March 1, 1915, either paid for before that date or contracted for, upon such terms that the Government is liable for payment if such payment in an enemy country to be legally enforced whether the goods are delivered in his own country or not. The Government, Sir Edward added, stipulated that such intended shipments must be notified to them for consideration before Nov. 1.

BULGARIA AND INTERNATIONAL LAW.

AMSTERDAM, To-day. In consequence of the bombardment of Dedeagatch, which was a despatch from Sofia, considerable property of the Bulgarians was destroyed. The Bulgarian Government intends to place under compulsory administration all French and English property for indemnification of Bulgarians who suffered by the bombardment.

GERMAN ATROCITY MUSEUM.

LONDON, To-day. A despatch from Petrograd says a German atrocities museum was opened here to-day. It contains a large number of photos of mutilated soldiers, whose wounds are alleged to have been caused by explosive bullets; also tables of statistics of five thousand cases of atrocities investigated by a special commission of inquiry into German atrocities, by which the museum was established.

THE SITUATION IN SERBIA.

PARIS, To-day. The Saloniki correspondent of the Petit Journal learned from a reliable source that Roumania has mobilized 450,000 men, of whom 200,000 are concentrated on the Bulgarian frontier, where impregnable defences have been constructed. A correspondent of the Havas Agency at Athens telegraphs under Thursday's date that the aspect of operations on the Serbian front is changing since the French success at Veles and Strumitza. The Bulgarians, he says, are on the defensive, while the French and Serbians are able to take the offensive northward along the Nish railway. A big battle is expected in the neighborhood of Istip, toward which the Franco-Serbian army is marching. The Bulgarians are entrenching themselves on the heights around the town. According to despatches received by an Athens newspaper, the Bulgarians operating in the valley of the Lower Timok, between Oresovo and Strumitza, have been cut off and annihilated. News from Constantinople, said to be authentic, says that the anti-German movement is growing daily.

C. I. B. --Bowring Outing

AT SMITHVILLE LAST NIGHT.

Smithville was enfeete last night, it being the occasion of an outing and banquet tendered to the members of the Church Lads' Brigade. The event was held because of the Brigade not having held its annual camp outing the past summer, owing to so many of its members being at the battle field, some of them having already paid the supreme penalty, and in addition it was the yearly celebration of C. Company, or students of Bishop Field College, and generously provided by that high spirited gentleman, Sir, Edgar Bowring, as has been his wont for the past fifteen years. On this occasion Sir Edgar extended his generosity by covering expenses for the entire affair. Those present included: His Lordship, Bishop Jones, Bishop of Newfoundland and Regimental Chaplain of the 1st B. Chesham's Regt. Cannon White and Revs. Uphill and Clayton, the Masters of Bishop Field College, and ex-Bandmaster N. Snow, besides the officers and members of the Brigade. An excellent menu was supplied by the Messrs. Furlong and after ample justice had been done, the following toast was taken up: "The King"—Proposed by the Chairman; responded: "God Save the King." Our Casualty Lists.

The list of casualties, sent to us to-day contains the largest number of names we have yet seen in any one list, and brings home to us the havoc which War is making among our Volunteers at the front. The list contains the names of three young heroes, whose names now appear on the Roll of Honour as giving their lives for the good of the great cause. Two others are down with wounds. The other ten are down with illness, brought about by the hard conditions under which they are forced to live. One is ill with pneumonia, one from gastro enteric fever, and the remaining eight are suffering from dysentery, but fortunately none of these are in a dangerous condition. This month, beginning on Oct. 2nd, sixteen casualty lists have been issued. These lists contain about 81 names. Some of the names are repeated, showing that the patient has succumbed or reporting further progress in the case. Taking this into account, the casualties among the men who have been sent to the front in the Near East, so far amounts to over 7 per cent. Fortunately many of these are suffering from sickness which there is every expectation of a more or less speedy recovery. The lists, however, show the dangers to which our boys are subjects to in German Atrocities.

It is evident that the tale of German atrocities is not confined to Belgium, France, England and the high seas. The opening of a German Atrocity Museum at Petrograd affords conclusive evidence that the atrocities practised in the West have their counterpart in the East, where the Germans are fighting the Russians. This is of course not surprising and we are quite prepared to hear of it, after the authenticated cases proved by the different commissions which have investigated German horrors in Belgium and France. The thrill of horror which arose some days ago at the execution of Miss Edith Cavell has now been followed up by proof that there are 5,000 authenticated cases of outrages committed by the Germans on their Eastern front against Russians. These cases emphasize the worst feature of them, and their multiplicity prove that they are the result of deliberate policy and are carried out to frighten the enemies of Germany. That effort has however signally failed in moving the people of the Quadruple Entente.

Captain Crowdy Killed in Action.

Capt. C. H. Crowdy, of the 13th Battalion Canadian Expeditionary Force, has been recently reported "killed in action." Captain C. H. Crowdy, was the only son of Mr. George C. Crowdy, formerly of this city, and nephew of Mr. W. H. Crowdy, Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada. He was doing duty with the 15th Battalion, when he met his death. He was 26 years of age, and was the tallest man in his regiment, being 6 feet 4 inches in height. He enlisted with the 5th Royal Highlanders at Montreal and went across with the first contingent in October last. Before leaving Valcartier he was married to Miss Lorraine Walsh, of Philadelphia. Shortly after his arrival in England he went to the front and up to the time of his death he had not received a scratch though he had spent many months in the trenches, coming through Ypres, St. Julien and other fierce engagements unscathed. Only a short time before his death, he was over to Folkestone on leave where and Mrs. Crowdy celebrated the anniversary of their wedding. He was then in high spirits over his particular good fortune, and it is a pathetic circumstance that only a few days after his return to the front he was killed. He was buried at Armentieres on the 21st.

Prohibition.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—I heartily endorse the statements made by one of our young men in a letter which recently appeared in your esteemed paper in connection with prohibition. He says a man at 18 can buy and intoxicate himself with liquor, why then is that man not eligible to vote? That is a question which should be answered not ignored. Too many of our young men have become slaves to drink before reaching their 21st birthday, and why not give them an opportunity to co-operate with their senior countrymen in the desperate struggle which now confronts the colony. We are not electing members for the House of Assembly now, but we are electing a way by which the members of the drunkard's house may be void of the poverty caused by drink, and not because 21 is the age for the government elector should it be the age for the prohibition one. I voice the opinion of hundreds of young men when I say it is unfair that we should be exempt from the movement. Backward is he who does not know his own mind, and I have a ready taken too much space, so I shall conclude by wishing prohibitionists every success without our aid, but with our sympathy.
Yours for Prohibition,
YOUNG NEWFOUNDLANDER

Sagona Returning.

The Reid Nfld. Co. received a Marconigram from Capt. Parsons of the Sagona this morning, stating that the ship had arrived at Indian Harbor at 7:10 a.m. to-day, coming South. The Sagona was as far North as Hopedale, having reached there on Wednesday last. Variable winds with thick snow were encountered going North, but on the return, the weather was fine with light S.W. by W. winds prevailing.
Capt. Parsons reports that all the people have left the coast from Grady North except the Marconi Operators who are still at their respective stations.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Cotter.

Smithville hotelery was the scene of a death which occurred suddenly last night. The victim was Mrs. Cotter, mother of Mr. John Cotter, of Conners' Drug Store. She went to Smithville in company with her daughter-in-law, Mrs. W. P. Cotter, who was waiting table with her sisters, the Misses Furlong, at a banquet, and in the height of the joviality and fun she was stricken. Medical and spiritual aid were summoned and responded hurriedly, but were of no avail as life was found to be extinct when the doctor and clergy arrived. Deceased was 82 years old. She is survived by one son and numerous friends. Much sympathy will be expressed to the bereaved ones.

RAPIDLY IMPROVING.—Mr. Sidney Woods, of the Public Treasury Office, received a cable from Gibraltar to-day conveying the news that his son Corporal W. Lloyd Woods, of the Nfld. Regiment, is rapidly improving. It will be remembered that Corporal Woods was recently reported ill of dysentery at Leimnos. His many friends will be glad to hear that he is gaining strength rapidly and is able to get up in the afternoons.

Impossible for Germany to Have Many Submarines On Sea Now.

So Many have been Sunk, and it Takes so Long to Train Crews That it is Easier to Guard the British Fleet Against Them.

The following article has been written by a special contributor, who has obtained his information from thoroughly reliable sources. The article has been submitted to the Press Bureau and passed for publication: The First Lord of the Admiralty has announced that the losses inflicted upon German submarines have been formidable. By doing so, Mr. Balfour crystallized the stories told by the naval men who have come in from the North Sea to those who move amongst them in the anchorages on the eastern seaboard. But very little has been said so far about the method followed by the navy in tracking and destroying the latter day pirates of the seas, and not very much about the number of German submarines which have been accounted for by the fleet.

GREAT HUNTING FLEET.
 A great deal might be said on both points. There are 2300 trawlers, mine sweepers, and other auxiliaries on duty outside the regular service keeping the North Sea clear. We always believed there were about 3,000 ships at work around our coast, and what is that matchless armada searching for on the lone wastes? What is this quarry that gives the great sport? Reliable figures are not available of how many German submarines were afloat when war was declared. Possibly at the outset there were 50. Fanciful stories have been published of submarines built in sections and carried overland—vessels of 1000 tons—be it noted—all fitted with most finely adjusted and delicate machinery. To the Germans we grant much is possible, but, setting aside freak ideas and coming to absolute facts, the German yards could not turn out in a year more than 20 new submarines. And even supposing that not a single submarine is being retained outside Kiel, off Heligoland or in the Baltic, for a year, 3,000 ships have been searching for about half a hundred underwater craft.

THE ROUTINE WORK.
 What does this mean? So far as the smaller patrol vessels are concerned they have their month or so divided up that more than half of the 30 days is spent on actual patrol work and for about one-third they lie at their moorings, ready at any moment to go out and reinforce a given unit. The remaining few days they are in the harbor and the men are on shore leave.

But their work when out is no sport. Take the men who are patrolling given tracks. They do ten miles either way—back and forward, back and forward, no change, no variety—locking, watching, ever ready. Night and day there stands the gun layer, his own master as to when he should fire. To watch these vessels from land, even at long intervals, as they pass back and forward grows tiresome. What is it to those on board whose eyes must never relax and whose watchfulness must never waver? In fine weather life is passable, but take it on the dirty winter nights they pass through. Where is the sport in living under conditions which pile torpedo boats above high water mark, a March gale tossing them ashore like corks—and the gales of the North Sea are as fierce and bitter as on any ocean, for the terrible nor'easters laden with the ice of Norway come cutting deep into the sailors who man even the ships that patrol the Scottish firths.

ANXIOUS DAYS PASS.
 The cruisers on patrol are not so fortunate in going to an anchorage after a short service or in obtaining the benefits of recuperating by a few days' shore leave. Respite from active service are now happily more numerous than in the anxious days when we thought the German fleet might come out, but it was a melancholy experience to move slowly about the North Sea, day after day, week after week, and month after month—nothing in sight but water and no one on board knowing where they were except the captain.

It was an intense vigil, with ever the danger that the fate that overtook the Hawke and the Pathfinder in broad daylight might overtake them at any moment.

TRACING THE SUBMARINE.
 The losses inflicted on the German submarines have been formidable, they are more than formidable, they are irrevocable. When this war started we had still to acquire actual experience in fighting the underwater craft. We had to learn, but after the Hogue, the Cressy and the Aboukir, there was a lull to the losses of the Pathfinder and the Hawke, and there was then a long interval before the Germans sank the Formidable.

But we have grappled with difficulty, and we have means for tracing submarines immediately they enter given areas that are amongst the most carefully guarded secrets of the navy. But what is common knowledge amongst those acquainted with naval work is that we can trace a submarine travelling under water through a curious formation of the wave it creates on the surface. Our sailors are now trained to pick out this wave.

Every layman in navigation will readily understand that if there is a large object under the water, approximately a thousand tons, even at a considerable depth it will cause a displacement on the surface. This wave is not easy to pick out on a tumultuous sea, but we can do it, and, moreover, once we get this wave there is no difficulty in following it, for the submarine is constantly sending up little air bubbles.

Get the full benefit of your food, - use Windsor Table Salt

Once on this track the submarine is doomed. It has no escape. But there are not many German submarines now. We keep sinking them, towing them in, blowing them up.

From the eastern coast one day, less than a month ago, three destroyers could be seen steaming up, not three miles out. Two were steaming abreast, and one stood back about midway. They were going about half speed. Suddenly the rear destroyer made a spurt forward. She gathered speed so that the foam rushed over her bows. The others zig-zagged and the guns boomed out. The destroyers were twisting and twirling in a maze of movements the while their guns cracked. Soon the firing ceased, and the destroyers steamed about over the apparently vacant sea for about half an hour. Then they turned seaward and steamed away. Their mission was accomplished. On the next incoming tide the shore was strewn with oil.

Life in these submarines is on a razor's edge. The Germans know that the fearless, tireless British navy has swept from the sea the bulk of the submarines. It takes years to train the highly-skilled men for submarine work. If they have many boats left—and the facts are against them having many—they cannot have capable men or skilled officers to work the most delicate machine in the whole service of the sea.—Glasgow Herald.

CABINET TALK.

LONDON, Oct. 28. No reconstruction of the Cabinet nor constitution of a small cabinet is being considered by the government at the present time, says the parliamentary correspondent of the Daily News, but it has been decided, he says, to give official recognition to a hitherto unofficial inner war council or committee. Seventeen ministers have heretofore taken part at various times in the deliberations of this body, which is now to be officially appointed with an exact definition of powers and principles. The committee, the newspaper says, will sit daily and will decide on executive acts of war. Such decisions, moreover, need not in future be referred for approval to the full cabinet. It is not yet decided whether the membership in the new council shall number three, five or seven. Two proposals as to its formation, are being considered, the first is that the balance of political opinion represented in the full Cabinet should be preserved, in other words that the council should be a miniature of the cabinet. Another proposal is that the council should contain only ministers directly concerned with the conduct of the war. In the former case the number of members would be seven, in the latter case either three or five. In either case it is understood that Churchill will no longer serve on the inner body.

THE PLEDGE STILL HOLDS.

LONDON, Oct. 28. A denial that Britain was engaged in any peace negotiations, direct or indirect, was made by Lloyd George in reply to a question in the Commons to-day. The words of the Premier still hold good, he added referring not only to the question of peace negotiations, but to the query as to whether the Premier still adhered to his declaration in his Guildhall speech that Britain should not sheath her sword until the freedom of Europe was secured. "We shall not think of entering into any peace negotiations except in common with our allies according to the agreement made."

KAISER'S YACHT CONDEMNED.

LONDON, Oct. 28. The racing yacht Germania which on two other occasions, won Emperor William's cup at Cowes, was condemned in a prize court to-day as a prize of war. The Germania was captured at Cowes on the outbreak of the war. Three other yachts, captured at Cowes, were also condemned.

TO SETTLE DISPUTES.

LONDON, Oct. 28. Foreign Secretary Grey said in the Commons to-day that the American Government had a right to demand the submission to an international tribunal of awards for the British prize courts. Sir Edward made this admission, being pressed as to the power given to the American Government in this regard to the British note of July 31 last. If a dispute arose with the States, he said, after all legal remedies had been exhausted, I think undoubtedly, we should refer it to the arbitration. The Secretary added that this was the usual procedure adopted by the British Government, when ordinary negotiations had failed. It is to be preferred to settlement by way.

GREY'S DIGNIFIED REPLY.

LONDON, Oct. 28. Sir Edward Grey, in the Commons this afternoon agreed with a proposition advanced by Lord Charles Bessford in the shape of a question, that in view of Germany's many breaches of international law, Britain was under no obligation to observe previous declarations or conventions between the two countries. We shall continue, I hope, he added, whatever Germany does, to pay regard to those considerations of humanity which are independent of any conventions, and the rights of neutrals must of course be respected.

GERMAN PROPERTY IN ENGLAND.

LONDON, Oct. 28. The suggestion advanced in a question in the Commons to-day that the Government might take steps to trace and sequester private securities in England of the German Emperor and rulers of German States, and hold them as security for the present, and possible future damage caused by Zeppelin raids, does not meet the approval of Premier Asquith. The Premier informed the House through Lloyd George that he did not consider the scheme offered a practical method of deterring the enemy from future violations of the international law.

EX-GOVERNOR DEAD.

LONDON, Oct. 28. Sir Thomas Powell Burton, formerly Governor of South Australia, is dead.

RUSSIAN COMMANDER.

MILAN, Oct. 28. The Corriere Della Sera learns from a diplomatic source that General Radko Dimitrieff will command the Russian forces sent against Bulgaria. He is now at Bucharest trying to induce the Roumanian Government to permit the passage of Russian troops through Roumania.

FRENCH PREMIER RESIGNS.

PARIS, Oct. 28. Premier Viviani has retired from his position in favor of Aristide Briand, former Premier. It is said that

M. Viviani will be Minister of Justice in the reorganized cabinet. Information now available indicates that M. Briand will become Foreign Minister as well as Premier with Jules Cambon who was Ambassador to Germany at the outbreak of the war, as his principal secretary.

TRAIN SERVICE RE-ESTABLISHED.

PARIS, Oct. 28. The Havas agency correspondent at Athens sends word that railway communication between Salonika and Veles, has been re-established and that literally the train going a long distance northward from Veles encountered no Bulgarian troops.

TURKS SUPPORT BULGARIANS.

PARIS, Oct. 28. The entire armament on the Bosphorus has been transferred to Tchatalja and Adrianople while the Turkish garrison has been sent to the Bulgarian front. The Havas correspondent at Athens wires that he has seen this news from a reliable source in Constantinople. For fear of raids by Russian aeroplanes Constantinople is in obscurity nightly.

USKUB RE-TAKEN BY SERBIANS.

LONDON, Oct. 28. An Athens despatch says a confirming report has been received there that Uskub has been retaken by the Serbians. In the Strumitza region the French have occupied the village of Tirih.

BULGARIAN ADVANCE.

LONDON, Oct. 28. Bulgarian forces aiming toward Nish, have occupied the strongly fortified town of Pirost, says a despatch from Salonika. Pirost is 31 miles east of Nish.

SERBIAN STRATEGY.

PARIS, Oct. 28. Uskub was abandoned by the Serbs, says a despatch from Salonika on Tuesday with the object of drawing the Bulgarians and enabling the Serbian forces at Veles to envelop them. In the north, the correspondent says, the Germans after gaining 20 miles, thanks to their heavy artillery, are now checked by natural obstacles which will that military achievement useless.

BULGARIANS IN BAD PLIGHT.

MILAN, Oct. 28. The Secole announces the Bulgarians have been repulsed in Timok Valley after two days desperate fighting. One of their regiments is surrounded between the Timok and Danube and will be obliged to surrender. Two Serbian divisions, under General Glukowitch, are marching against the Austro-Germans.

WILL NOT DEMAND WITHDRAWAL.

PARIS, Oct. 28. The Greek Minister called on the Foreign Office, and gave assurance under instructions from Premier Zaimis, that reports that Greece would demand the withdrawal of the Allied forces from Salonika were unwarranted.

MORE TROOPS NEEDED.

ROME, Oct. 28. The gravity of the situation in the Balkans, from the standpoint of the Entente Allies is emphasized by information which has reached the Messagero. This newspaper states that the allied forces landed at Salonika are insufficient; and that 30 or 40 days will be required to place adequate reinforcements on the fighting front. In the meantime, the Messagero says the Serbian army may retire safely, even as far as the Montenegro mountains, awaiting a more favorable opportunity for taking the offensive.

MAHON IN COMMAND.

LONDON, Oct. 28. Sir Bryan Mahon has taken command of the British forces in Serbia. This announcement was made in the Commons this afternoon by Harold Tennant, parliamentary Secretary of war.

WILL MAKE NO OFFICIAL REQUEST.

BERLIN, Oct. 28. The Frankfurter Zeitung says: Inasmuch as the Roumanian government has replied in the negative to an official request for its permission to send Russian troops through Roumania, Russia has decided not to make a request officially to this effect.

LONDON BUDGET.

LONDON, Oct. 28. Outside of a German official statement, which records an advance of Austro-German forces, and the capture by the Bulgarians of Zalgear and Knjalevics, both on the Timok River, northeast of Nish, and of Pirost, almost directly east of Nish, there is little or no authentic news as to the invasion of Serbia. There are reports, however, that the Serbians have captured USKUB, which is most important, as Salonika despatches report, the French now hold the line of Kraljak-Radovista-Strumitza, for, with an army there and the Serbians at Veles, Uskub would form a dangerous salient. For the moment, the danger spot of the Serbians is the northeast corner, where they are being attacked from three sides, and must eventually fall back toward the southwest. Thus far they have been retiring in good order. Despite the seriousness of the situation, optimism prevails in Serbian quarters in London, which are probably best able to judge of the assistance being sent by France, Britain and Russia. The French, according to German despatches, have already landed 150,000 men, with one hundred guns, at Salonika. While the whereabouts of the British reinforcements remains a secret, that they are of considerable size may be judged from the fact that, although General Munro, recently appointed to the command of the Gallipoli operations, is already on the spot, the Government has decided to send out Major General Sir Bryan T. Mahon, who commanded the columns which relieved Mafeking in the South African war, to co-operate with the French.

ITALIAN SUCCESS EXPECTED.

ROME, Oct. 28. In political circles here, the fall of Gorizia and Riva are considered imminent, notwithstanding reinforcements that are concentrating on the Italian front.

DUTCH PATRONIZE GERMANS.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT REJECTS REQUEST.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. The British Government has rejected the request of foreign trade advisers that goods purchased in Germany or Austria between March 1st and March 15th, be released from the provisions of the British Order in Council. Cable advices were received to-day stating that the British authorities would not extend the agreement to apply to goods, except those purchased before March 1st.

PEACE RUMORS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 28. Ambassador Gerard's recent conference with Emperor William is causing much speculation in official quarters here. Secretary Lansing stated to-day that the Ambassador had not been directed to visit the Emperor, and that no report of a conference had been received. He presumed that on return of the Emperor to Potsdam the Ambassador made an informal visit in the interests of German-American relations.

The satisfactory settlement of the Arabic case gives ground for the belief that the Ambassador might have sought the Emperor's views on several diplomatic questions which have been held in abeyance owing to the submarine controversy. The possibility that the Emperor might have taken advantage of the opportunity to express to Gerard, Germany's views of peace; the published reports that Germany intends soon to make known the basis which would make peace; reports that Prince Von Buelow, former German Chancellor and Ambassador to Italy, was to visit King Alfonso of Spain, and later the States, attracted attention here because of the belief that he might be entrusted with the task of explaining the German viewpoint. President Wilson made clear that until one of the belligerents indicates plainly a desire to accept mediation there will be no action on the part of the American government.

The Eastern Trust Company.

A few reasons why an estate can be better administered by the Eastern Trust Company than by a personal executor or administrator:—

1. The Company affords the estate absolute security; it has a paid-up capital of $831,000.00, and a reserve fund of $229,300.00.
2. It has a long experience in the work of administering estates; it is incorporated for this business of acting as a trustee, and, unlike many other trust companies, it does no other.
3. Its existence is perpetual. Your estate, in the event of the death of a personal executor or administrator, must look around for a substitute, and the work of administration is impeded during that time, and the new executor is unfamiliar with the policy of his predecessor, and confusion results. This company's existence is perpetual, and there is a continuity of policy in its administration that the death of its officers does not break.
4. It possesses the confidence of governments, universities and prominent charities and administers their funds.
5. A number of other advantages which will appear in due course.

Germans Tell of Plot to Blow Up Steamers.

New York, October 25.—Robert Fay, a lieutenant in the German army, and his brother-in-law, Walter L. Scholz, who were arrested yesterday while testing explosives near Grantwood, N. J., were arraigned to-day before a justice of the peace at Weehawken, N. J., on charges of conspiracy, and held without bail for examination to-morrow.

The arraignment of the two men disclosed the fact that a third man, Paul Daech, had been arrested early to-day at his home in Jersey City. Daech was also arraigned with Fay and Scholz, and held without bail. Fay admitted to-day that he came here last April, through an arrangement with the German secret service for the purpose of blowing up or delaying steamers sailing from this country with arms and ammunition for the Allies.

Fay declared, however, that while he had been here he had acted independently of the German Embassy, or other German agents here. He added that he had told Captain Von Papen, military attache, and Captain K. Boy-Ed, naval attache of the German Embassy, of his plans, but said that both men told him not to interfere with steamers sailing from American ports or American ammunition plants. Fay said that while serving in the field with the German army he invented a device for blowing up ships.

French Caused Great Havoc.

He gave out a statement to the newspapers, as follows:

"My only object, when I came to this country, was to interfere with the enormous shipments of artillery ammunition to the Allies. Being a manufacturer myself, and knowing that any ordinary damage that may be done to a factory may be repaired within a few hours, I decided it was useless to bother with ammunition plants. Therefore the intimations that I have been connected with various explosions or accidents that have occurred in such plants in the United States is entirely wrong.

"I am not a college man, but I hold the diploma of an efficient engineer from an American correspondence school. I am interested in a plant that is manufacturing small machinery.

"I was serving with my regiment in the Champagne district, and saw the terrible havoc and loss caused by the French artillery fire.

"During my spare time I had invented a device to explode mines by doing away with the electrical wiring. In this way I was able to overcome the effect of dampness or water on the wires. I applied to the colonel of my regiment and he decided to give me a chance.

Sent to United States.

"He put me in touch with the secret service office, and one of the agents arranged for my passage to the United States. I came here on the steamship Rotterdam, arriving, I believe, on April 23 last. I had no trouble in getting into the country."

Fay said that he and Scholz had conducted a large number of experiments with his mine device along the Hudson River, but declared that Daech was in no way implicated. The man said that although Fay did not appear to be a German name, Robert Fay was his correct name, and that he was listed under that name in his regiment. He also said that he was a German, and denied that his father had been an Englishman. Fay said he was well supplied with money when he arrived here, and therefore was able to act on his own responsibility.

Use It in Canada.

"When the German secret service arranged for my trip to the United States they left the advisability of using my device to the judgment of German military and naval authorities in this country," Fay said. "Both Captain Von Papen and Captain Boy-Ed strongly refused to make any use of my device in this country, but said that its use in Canada would depend upon developments."

Lieutenant Fay explained how he planned to attach a mine carrying his device to the sterns of ammunition-laden vessels sailing from New York. By properly arranging the device, he calculated, the mine would be exploded when the steamer was about half a day out.

Fay declined to say whether he had attempted to attach mines to any ships in this harbor, but he declared that he had not attached loaded mines to any vessels. He said he had been ready since early in July to carry out his mine planting campaign and waited here, hoping the German military and naval attaches would change their minds about accepting his offer.
