

A SURE RELIEF FOR WOMEN'S DISORDERS.

10 Days' Treatment Free.

Orange Lily is a certain relief for all disorders of women. It is applied locally and is absorbed into the suffering tissue. The dead waste matter in the congested region is expelled, giving immediate mental and physical relief; the blood vessels and nerves are toned and strengthened, and the circulation is rendered normal. As this treatment is based on strictly scientific principles, and acts on the actual location of the disease, it cannot help but do good in all forms of female troubles, including delayed and painful menstruation, leucorrhoea, falling of the womb, etc. Price $2.00 per box, which is sufficient for one month's treatment. A free Trial Treatment, enough for 10 days, worth 75c, will be sent free to any suffering woman who will send me her address.

CHAPTER XIV.

A FATHER'S BLESSING.

Grace strained her ears and started back with a suppressed cry of horror. What was it she had heard?

Hugh—the dead Hugh—had brought it on his own head! What had he brought? Not death—oh, no, merciful Heaven, it could not be! The squire—Uncle Harry—had not killed his own son!

Frozen with the horror of the thought she remained white and cold, and strained her ear to catch more of the broken tones.

"He brought it on himself, Reg; brought it on himself. It wasn't a hard thing, may, it was for his own good. I meant it for his good, and he knew it. Was it a great thing to ask him to marry a good, honest girl, worth her weight in gold and ready, ay, more than ready, to love him with all her honest heart?"

His voice had grown louder, but at the last words sank again.

"No, he wouldn't. He gave me 'No' on my face, and called me—'villain!'"

The captain muttered something; still the old man took no notice.

"He seemed communing with himself rather than addressing the other."

"The Dale couldn't hold us both after that, Reg, and—and—well—well, it's past and gone forever, and there's no—no—good in crying over spilled milk. And so you're going up to London, Reginald Dartmouth, eh? You'd better stay down here, I'm thinking."

"Sir?" said the captain.

The squire turned his face to him—it was a wrinkled, weary, care-worn face—and it was rendered more worn still by the half-expressed look of doubt it wore at this moment.

"You'd better stay down here at the Dale, I said," he repeated. "You're fond of the place, you said, didn't you, eh?"

"I am—too fond of it," murmured the captain.

"You're fond of it, and the men are getting to take your word and mind ye. And, Reg, I'm an old man, an old man. Heaven knows how long it will be before the parson will have his last say over these old bones. I'm feeling tired—tired and worried with it all. And there's Grace. She's rough and wild, unfedged and awkward as for even a greater kindness than you a young thistle, Reg; what's to be—"

ask you to give your consent to my wooing Grace. Uncle Darroll, you must have seen that we were more than friends; you must have seen the dear girl was everything to me; and therefore, I will not distress you by a string of lovers' explanations. I love her, sir, and I feel I could not be happy without her. Nay, more: I feel that I could not, in honor, stay longer at the Dale without getting my fate—for it is my fate—decided."

The squire kept his eyes fixed on the red-hot coals, but his face was working with some emotion, and there was an eager light in his eyes that told how greedily this subtle move pleased him.

Here were all his fears laid at rest. Grace married to Reginald Dartmouth the Dale would be in no danger of falling into a fortune-hunter's claws; the old, well-beloved home would remain in the family.

At that moment half the pain Hugh's absence had laid upon his heart had lifted.

He turned his face and held out his hand.

"Heaven bless you, Reg! Take her; she's only a girl—a rough, giddy young girl—but she's a Darrell, every inch of her; and she'll make you a good wife."

Grace heard the outburst of well-bred gratitude that flowed from the captain's lips indistinctly and in one blurred mass of sound.

She leaped from the cupboard and clutched the old carved bedpost like a stag driven to bay.

Was she dreaming or mad? Could it be possible that her uncle had given her to that smooth-faced, bad, wicked man?

Could it be possible? Ay, more than possible; for had she not heard him, with her own ears, declare that he had killed his own son? Ay, and for as light a cause as his refusal to marry where his father, the same old man, had bidden him?

Poor Grace! With white face and staring eyes she pondered over this slowly and in fragments, and then threw herself down upon her knees and grasped the bed-clothes with her two small hands, hiding her poor, tearful face against the bed.

For five minutes she remained thus; then she rose and sprang to the glass. It gave back a white face still, but not a terror-stricken one.

The fear had left it, and only the Darrell grimness, obstinacy, and determination remained.

In those few moments she had girded herself up for an effort—an effort for freedom.

Before she would be handed over, body and soul, to Reginald Dartmouth she would die, that was settled as firm as a rock within her breast; but there was a chance to be taken before things came to that pass, and that chance was—flight.

Hastily wrapping her cloak round her and tying on her hat, she took a little box that had belonged to her mother, and thrusting into it all the money she possessed—only a few pounds—and all the trinkets the squire had given her, she put it in her pocket, and then, with cautious step, stole to the door.

They were still talking, the wicked men, and her eyes flashed fire as she glanced at the door.

Should she go now? No one had seen her come in. They fancied her still at the Warren. Yes, she would chance it; and plucking up all the courage her by no means faint heart possessed she sped with the lightness and silence of a mouse down the huge, polished stairs and out of the house.

Now, Laurence Harman, if, sleeping or waking, you feel a sudden start within your heart's pulse, keep all your senses on the alert, for as one blind gropes in the dark with hands outstretched, so has fate started in the winding maze of life to seek thee.

CHAPTER XV.

UNDER FOREIGN SKINS.

The loss of wealth is loss of dirt, as sages in all times assert. Give me of health and with a flow, And freely let the money go.—SIR H. WARTON.

Eventide at Algos Bay.

An English ship was just in. The quay was crowded with shippers, sailors, negroes, and colonists.

Here, chattering like magpies, a gang of slaves rushed to and fro with baskets of cotton, fruit, and merchandise; there a tall, sun-burned looking settler bartered his corn for farming implements just landed, and elsewhere and everywhere the motley crowd hurried backward and forward, chattered, shouted, and bought and sold with the greatest ardor.

On the gangway, which had been wheeled from the landing place to one of the large lading boats, stood the captain of the newly-arrived ship surrounded by a few sailors, to whom he was paying their wages. At his elbow stood a slimly-built youth, dressed in semi-nautical clothes and looking round him with wondering and particularly bright and beautiful eyes.

His complexion was startlingly clear for a man, and would have been almost feminine were it not that it was of a dark shade and was rendered apparently darker by the heavy eye-brows that nearly met on the clear forehead.

He stood gazing round him and waiting patiently until the captain was disengaged.

Then, when the last sailor had rolled off to spend his money in red Cape wine and fery brandy, the youth turned and asked a question—a question that, seemingly, considerably puzzled the captain, for he scratched his head and pulled his chin and went through the usual antics of his class when they are puzzled and nonplused.

While he was considering thus, the youth still standing and waiting patiently, a cloud of dust rose in the distance, the slaves set up a shout, the colonists stopped their bargaining for a moment, and everybody turned his head to see what was coming.

The cloud of dust grew denser and heavier, and presently the crowd on the quay parted and scampered out of the way to admit a cavalcade of ten Cape horses, five of them ridden by slaves, four unsaddled, and the tenth bestriden by a magnificently built man clad in the orthodox runner dress and sweeping down upon the quay at the head of his cortege with the air and bearing of a prince.

His face was handsome, tanned by the sun and marked by a stern and reserved expression that distinguished it from the weary or sharp look of the colonist, as a thoroughbred is singled out from a ruck of cart horses.

"Ha, ha! Massa Wild Laury!" grinned the negroes, leaving their bundles and rushing up to hold the bridle and cluster at a respectful distance from the horse's head.

Three or four of the traders nodded to the horseman, several taking off their hats, with a half friendly, half respectful greeting.

With a reserved, cold nod to the whole he waved the negroes aside and rode up to the gangway, his black retainers clustering together in a heap at the back and chattering with their brethren on foot.

The captain nodded eagerly and stepped forward. He had forgotten the youth for a moment in the prospect of trading.

"Good-morning, he said. "Mr. Stewart's man?" he added, conciliatingly. "I am," was the curt reply. "Have you iron on board?"

"Tools?" asked the captain, with a smile.

"Yes," was the reply.

Bolsheviks Report Successes

Polish Troops Retreat and Towns Captured--Bank Pressure Applied to Dealers in Non-essentials -- Big Canning Companies Will Boycott Sugar--Carranza Still at Large--Mild Sensation in British Parliament--Pistol Battle Ends in Death of Twelve Persons.

BOLSHEVIKI SUCCESSSES.

LONDON, May 20. Confirmation that the Bolsheviks have captured the towns of Polobsk and Lepel, in the Govt. of Vitebsk, was given by an authoritative British source to-day. It was stated that the Bolsheviks have advanced thirty miles in depth along a front of thirty to fifty miles.

PRICE CUTTING IN THE BANKS.

NEW YORK, May 20. New York banks to-day applied pressure to importers and merchants dealing in luxuries and non-essentials in compliance with the request of the Federal Reserve Board that they aid in the definition of credits. Customers who handle such lines as jewelry, pleasure automobiles, furs, objects of art, cosmetics and more luxurious articles of wearing apparel, were notified that for the time being they would only be accorded such credits and accommodations as were absolutely necessary for the conduct of their business. In financial circles it was believed this action would effect a drastic curtailment in trading operations of such dealers which would necessarily be reflected in their sales to extravagant customers. While the wave of price cutting by department stores and others continued to spread here, the principle reductions are in clothing and shoe stores, with cuts from fifteen up to as high as seventy per cent. in one instance.

WILL BUY NO SUGAR.

NEW YORK, May 20. National preserves and Food Products Association announced to-day that its members will stop out of the sugar market until the price of sugar comes down from its high level. The Association claims to represent 85 per cent. of the manufacturers of the country who make jams, jellies and preserves.

CARRANZA STILL FREE.

MEXICO CITY, May 20. President Carranza with a few followers was reported on May 18 to be in the village of Chignahuapan, in the northern part of the State of Puebla, according to a bulletin issued at military headquarters here. It is believed he is heading toward the virtually impregnable mountain fastnesses of the Seacapaaxtla Mountains which Victoriano Huerta failed to occupy after a year's campaign in 1914.

NO GREAT EXPLOSION EXPECTED.

LONDON, May 20. In the House of Commons to-day Sir Donald McLean, National Liberal, demanded of the Government what Field Marshal Sir Henry Wilson, Chief of the Imperial Staff, meant in a recent speech when he advised the men of the British forces to "keep themselves fit for the time that is coming." Amid cries of "hear, hear," Sir Donald continued, "Who are we going to fight at no distant date? Is it America or is it Russia?" Winston Churchill, War Minister, intervened. He stated that Great Britain had enormous obligations in Constantinople, Ireland, Mesopotamia, Palestine and Egypt. Great Britain had only a small army, he said and the Field Marshal in addressing the soldiers had pointed out how sorely they Hall Can Eat Even Flippers Now, He States.

Says Tanlac Has Overcome His Long-standing Stomach Trouble--Feels Fine.

"I am certainly glad Tanlac came to St. John's, for it has made me feel like a brand new man," declared John Hall, of 29 Dugan St., St. John's, Nfld., when speaking to the Tanlac representative at M. Connors' drug store recently. "You can't imagine what I've gone through on account of stomach trouble during the past fifteen years. I was afraid to touch anything like potatoes, cabbage, pork or beans. Even soup would upset me, and my chief diet was just dry bread. And yet such plain food would lie on my stomach like a lump of lead and turn sour on me, and I would belch up a lot of bitter fluid. Then gas would form and I would bloat up as tight as a drum and feel miserable for 36 hours afterwards. I got so at last that I was afraid to eat at all because I knew I should suffer so much afterwards. I got so weak that my legs would hardly support my weight and if I tried to go up a hill like Prescott Street, my heart would beat wildly and I would blow like a blacksmith's bellows. The least bit of hard work tired me out and I often had spells of dizziness when if I hadn't caught hold of something I believe I should have fallen. I slept very badly and got up every morning feeling sick and all fagged out. "I'm very grateful to the friend who advised me to try Tanlac for it sure has done me a world of good. Why, I can now eat all kinds of food, even flippers, and never have any trouble from indigestion afterwards. I must have gained several pounds in weight for my clothes are all getting too tight and I am fuller in the face. I'm never troubled with sourness, gas or dizzy spells now, and am so much stronger and more energetic that I can do a good day's work without getting tired out. I'm glad of the chance to tell others about what Tanlac has done for me and feel sure it will help anybody who suffers as I did."

Tanlac is sold in St. John's by M. Connors; by Reg. Sullivan, Pouch Cove; Sound Island Store, Sound Island; Dennis Flynn, Avondale--adv.

were needed. That did not mean war, the minister asserted, and that Great Britain was on the verge of another great explosion.

NEW REICHSTAG WILL MEET IMMEDIATELY.

BERLIN, May 20. The convocation of the newly elected German Reichstag, ten days after the elections will be held will be asked of the president of the body by the Government, according to the Tageblatt. If it is considered necessary to call a session of the Reichstag before the Allied-German conference at Spa, the newspaper says, because it is possible the election will result in an altered coalition Government.

TWELVE WERE KILLED IN PISTOL BATTLE.

MATTEWAN, W. Va., May 20. With 100 deputy sheriffs armed with rifles patrolling the streets, and detachments of State Constabulary expected to arrive at any minute, the situation in this mining village, the scene of the killing of 12 persons last night in a battle between private detectives and citizens, was quiet early to-day. Deputies rushed here last night by Sheriff G. L. Blankenship of Mingo County had the situation well in hand at daybreak and they made no effort to disperse the gatherings of citizens at the Norfolk and Western Railroad Station, where the state troops were expected to leave their train when they arrived.

AMERICA INTERFERES.

WASHINGTON, May 20. Hungarian Communists held by Austrian authorities must not be transferred to Russia without the reciprocal release of all Americans now detained in Soviet Russia, the department of State to-day informed the American Commissioner in Vienna.

When making infants' petticoats put the flannel skirt and nainsook skirt on one body. This is a trouble-saver.

The Actual Price of Hard Coal.

Editor Evening Telegram. Dear Sir--We observe from the local papers that attention has recently been drawn to the price prevailing here for Anthracite Coal, and, as the matter is of some interest to many of our citizens, we may be excused for placing some figures bearing upon it before the public.

We are informed that a good sized cargo (about five hundred tons) of American Anthracite Coal will shortly arrive here. Our firm has no interest direct or indirect in the cargo which consists, we believe, of the size called Broken or Furnace, a size that is usually procurable at a lower price than the smaller sizes. We have learned that the cost of this coal, if sold in this market, would be as follows:

Per Ton
Cost delivered c.i.f. St. John's	$22.50
In American currency	22.50
Difference in exchange at 11%	2.48
Duty	1.00
Cost of putting in store when discharging	50
Wharfage	40
Storage until sold	40
Electric light in store, labor, delivery and weighing, fire insurance, telegrams, office expenses and bad debts	40
Loss in weight 5% on $27.29	1.28
Interest 3% on $30.00	.90
Cartage to Householder	1.60
Profit to Importer 30, Government Profit Tax 20	1.00

The loss in weight, of course, varies with every cargo, but is always a serious one. We have adopted five per cent. as the probable rate because that was the rate of loss shown by the cargo of twenty five hundred tons of Furnace Coal lately landed from the steamship "Campello," and of which a most careful account was kept.

If any of your readers be interested in these figures and desire to verify them, it will give us pleasure to supply them with the information necessary for that purpose.

We are, dear Sir,
Yours very truly,
A. HARVEY & Co., Ltd.

ATTENTION!

Do you know that about SEVENTY PER CENT. of the coal used in your house is wasted, and that you can prevent a large proportion of waste?

Coal is wasted in two ways. It goes up the chimney in smoke and soot. It is left unburnt in the form of cinders. COALOX prevents the escape of smoke, and by providing an additional supply of oxygen burns up most of the soot and cinders.

Persons who have not used Coalox say that it is all very well in theory but it never works out.

LISTEN! One customer who used COALOX regularly during the past six months had the Sweep in the other day. They knew they were getting more heat from the coal used, but they did not know why until then. There was not any soot in the chimney and the Sweep's fee was easy money for him.

YOU TRY IT and find how it will save YOU money.

A can costing $1.20 treats 1 1/2 tons coal. Also in $2.50 sizes.

"He Told Me About How He Got Strong After the 'Flu'"

"I MET this man on the train on the way home from the coast and he began telling me about having the 'flu' very badly and how he regained strength by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. "Then he took a box of the Nerve Food out of his grip and was so enthusiastic about it that I said, 'You are not selling Nerve Food, are you?' "Oh, no," he said, "I am not selling it, but I am recommending it. When I find a good thing I believe in telling others about it. I was on my back for two weeks with the 'flu' and when I got up I was so weak that I did not get out of the house for ten days. I started out on the road but did not have the energy to sell goods." "What seemed to be the matter," I asked. "The doctor said my nerves were in bad condition," he said, "I could not sleep nights and after talking to a customer I seemed to be all in. There was so little nerve force in my system that I went all to pieces with a little exertion." "I did not get right," he continued, "until I had used Dr. Chase's Nerve Food for about two weeks. By that time my appetite was good and I began to feel like myself again." "For a month I scarcely missed a dose of the Nerve Food and am now feeling fine. I eat and sleep well, and take the same old pleasure in my work that I always did when in good health. I thought for a while that I would have to quit the road entirely but I never felt better than I do now." "He left the train then but I thought I never heard a stronger recommendation for any treatment than he gave for Dr. Chase's Nerve Food." Sydney Not Keen on Daylight Saving.

(Sydney Record.)

Whether or not Sydney is to have Daylight saving time this summer will likely depend on the pressure brought to bear by the citizens themselves.

Asked this morning in regard to the changing of time, Mayor Fitzgerald said that the city council had not acted in the matter yet and he could not say whether it was to come up for consideration or not. The Mayor added, however, that a resolution had been received from the Trades and Labor Council expressing that body's disapproval of Daylight Saving. The matter, he stated, would have to be generally accepted by the public before any civic or official action would be taken.

Should the railways adopt the "new time" naturally the majority of citizens would fall in line. However, little is heard one way or the other and it looks as if the adoption of Daylight Saving this year will depend upon the action of the railways.

House of Assembly.

Thursday, May 20, 1920.
The House met at 3 p.m.
On behalf of the ladies of St. John's Sgt.-Major Legrow (Bay de Verde), presented a petition asking that the right to vote be granted the women of the country. The petition, which had been circulated in St. John's only, was signed by 1700 women. Messrs. Small, Fox, Higgins, Winnicombe and Sir John Crosbie supported the petition, which was then referred to the proper department.

Hon. W. R. Warren presented a petition on behalf of the Montreal Trust Co., asking that a charter to do business here, like the Eastern and the Royal Trusts do, be granted. The petition was referred to a Select Committee consisting of the Minister of Justice, Mr. J. H. Scammell and the Prime Minister.

QUESTIONS.

Mr. Sullivan asked the Honorable Minister of Marine and Fisheries, if it is the intention of the Government to make provision in the Estimates for the erection of a Fog Alarm at Point La Haye, St. Mary's Bay, and for one other Alarm on the Western Shore, Placentia Bay.

Mr. MacDonnell asked the Minister of Public Works to lay on the Table of the House a statement showing: (a) What sums of money have been expended by his Department in the District of St. George's since November, 1919; (b) To whom such sums were sent, and on whose advice such allocations, if any, were made.

Mr. MacDonnell asked the Minister of Marine and Fisheries to lay on the Table of the House a statement showing: (1) What sums of money from his Department have been expended in the District of St. George's since November, 1919; (2) To whom such sums of money were sent, and upon whose advice the allocations, if any, were made.

Mr. MacDonnell asked the Minister of Justice to lay on the Table of the House copies of all correspondence relative to the appointment of a Commission to enquire into the circumstances and alleged malpractices as disclosed by the Woodford Affidavit. Correspondence as follows: (1) Between the Dept. of Justice and the Governor; (2) between the Dept. of Justice and those appointed to that Commission now abortive; (3) between the said Commissioners and His Excellency the Governor; also a copy of the said Commission; and further, any other correspondence between his Department and any other parties whatsoever on this matter.

In reply to the last question; the Minister of Justice said there had been no correspondence whatever conducted in the matter. There had been three or four Commissions drafted. In the final draft instructions had been given to the Commissioners to reach a finding on the evidence given. To this the judges, before the Commission was signed, objected, hence no Commission was signed and therefore not issued. Mr. MacDonnell then asked that the Minister table copies of all drafts referred to, and the Minister replied not one was now in existence.

A few days ago Sir Michael Cashin asked the Minister of Public Works, Mr. W. B. Jennings, the following question:—

On whose recommendations did he allocate $1200 to Ferryland on account of the so-called "wash out" grant, giving the particulars of the work to be done, and to whom the money was allocated to Capt. Bonia and if it is now in his possession.

Reply to question asked by Sir M. P. Cashin—No allocation was made for this work till after Capt. Bonia had inspected and reported thereon. See his report for description of work to be done. The money was allocated to Capt. Bonia and is still in his possession as far as I am aware.

Dept. of Public Works,
St. John's, Nfld.,
April 28th, 1920.

Sir—Under instructions I visited Aquaforte and Ferryland. At the former mentioned place I arranged with W. J. Maher to give the three bridges reported on the necessary repairs, namely: South West, North East, and Spout Bridges.

The work at Ferryland re the concrete wall asked is on the right of the road going West.

Dimensions about 400 feet long, 6 feet high and 2 1/2 feet thick. The road also requires to be widened and will take an average of five feet off its entire length owing to its present condition, which varies from twenty feet to ten feet only. Rev. A. J. Maher offers to construct the wall and give the two thousand feet of land with the promise that the Government allocate to him $1200.00 recompense for the land and to offset the purchasing of material, etc. The total cost will be in the vicinity of $3,500,000.

Yours truly,
(Sgd.) THOMAS BONIA,
Outport Road Inspector.

W. B. Jennings, M.H.A.,
Minister of Public Works.

The following bills were given third reading and sent to Legislative Council:—
"An Act to amend Chapter 4 of the Consolidated Statutes of Newfoundland (Third Series) entitled, "Of Legislative Disabilities and the vacation of Seats in the House of Assembly; "An Act to provide for the Lighting of Streets in the Outports"; "An Act for the confirmation of a contract with the Susu Shipping Company, Limited."

The following bills passed the Committee Stage and were ordered to be read a third time to-morrow: "An Act to amend Chapter 86 of the Consolidated Statutes of Nfld. (Third Series) entitled, "Of Stipendiary Magistrates and Justices of the Peace"; "An Act to amend Chapter 27 of the Consolidated Statutes of Nfld. (Third Series) entitled, "Of Death Duties"; "An Act concerning the Registry of Midwives"; "An Act to amend Chapter 157 of the Consolidated Statutes of Nfld. (Third Series) entitled, "Of the Fire Patrol."

The House then went into Committee on "The Encouragement of Agricultural Bill."
The Premier said that the Bill introduced a new era so far as an agricultural policy was concerned. In the past the policy consisted of distributing thousands of dollars worth of bulls, rams, etc., to party heaters for Christmas presents, a large number of which very soon found their way to the butcher shops.

Mr. MacDonnell (St. George's), asked for a bonus for land clearing and thought it would be a great boon for people as an encouragement to make farms for themselves. He thought that this bill was the 2nd chapter with the 1st chapter omitted. The first thing wanted was oats, hay and other things to feed cattle before the cattle was imported. Before we get the pedigree stock we want the wherewithal to feed them.

Mr. Bennett (St. John's West) supported Mr. MacDonnell in his request and thought that it would be a step in the right direction. Where we spent $30,000 every year since 1916 this bill now asked us to vote $55,000, an increase over last year of $25,000. He asked where the Minister of Agriculture was located? Why should he be in the Upper House and the Prime Minister acting as his understudy? He could remember in 1914 when the pre-on a cow, with the result that the owner lost both his cow and calf. The man has since put in a claim for $200 or so to the Department of Agriculture and Mines to meet his loss. The claim has not yet been paid, but he ventured to say that on the eve of the bye-election the man's claim would be met in full. This action, his first as Minister on the part of Dr. Campbell, he characterized as a corrupt act in the worst sense of the term.

Mr. R. Hibbs (Fogo) was glad that something was being done to encourage agriculture. He did not wish to accuse the late Government of improper dealings with bulls. They had done their best, he believed. They had done their best for the present Government had nothing to do with the policies of past Governments, and it was up to the present one to do something for the farmers. He considered that the vote should be for at least $100,000.

Adjournment was then taken until 5.30.

Night Session.

Mr. Hibbs, continuing, supported the plea for land-clearing bonus. He believed that, while this was not a great farming country, it could become self-supporting.

Sir John Crosbie (Port de Grave) said that the House was lost for a Minister of Agriculture, and for a farmer. He noted the new model farm policy, the increase of $35,000 in the vote, and the purpose to introduce thoroughbred stock. If his experience counted for anything, when the Minister finished buying the stock he wouldn't have money enough left to build a hen house, and would be handicapped immediately for funds. The difficulty with Agriculture policies in this country was to get the people to take them seriously. He remembered when he represented the District of Bay de Verde, Boards were formed and animals sent to men in different sections to care for. He remembered one individual who got one of the finest looking animals, but who, because he was opposed to the Government, let the animal starve—to make political capital out of it. Where the Morris Government made the mistake in its policy was by making it non-political. The policy of distributing animals and seeds was all right, and did a great deal of good, but it would have been more effective if proper interest had been taken by the people. He advised the government if they intended distributing cattle, to give them to those who would take care of them. Sir John referred to the shortage of seed potatoes, and suggested that where the people were not in a position to buy them, the Department should provide them with seed on a guarantee that an equivalent amount should be returned in the fall. He supported the bonus proposition believing that a good method of distributing it would be half when the land was cleared and half when the crop was up.

The Prime Minister extolled Dr. Campbell, after which the Bill passed.

The House went into Committee on the Fish Export Regulations, when Sir John Crosbie announced he was going to oppose same and he did so because he was a Britisher and believed in British fair play, and no act passed, restraining trade was an act of British fair play. He defied any man to prove to his satisfaction that the regulations benefitted the trade of the country. He was sure that they were a detriment. The situation would have been much better to-day but for these regulations. The exporters had held a meeting a day or two ago, when 26 out of 27 present voted against these regulations. Would not this be a consideration in influencing the Government? It was apparently not. It seems the Government would put them through in defiance of the trade. Well, so be it. He wanted supply and demand to govern, as it had always governed. As regards the point of payment in the regulations, he was right up against it. Why should he not be allowed to sell to the man who would give him some cash and a 60 days note for the balance? These regulations prevented him from doing that, but if we sell to Mr. Hawes, he is allowed to purchase that way. Well, why not every other buyer be also allowed to do the same? Why discriminate? "The rumor is around the street," said Sir John, "and I think well founded, that Mr. Hawes has refused to go to Italy to consult with the Consorsio unless the arrangement of last year with the 'big six' is signed up again for next year. I want to sell my fish without any Government interference whatever. Why should I be interfered with? It is my own business." He had sold his fish locally when the regulations were put in force and had done better than if he had sent it across. "You are proposing here to have a Board of five people who will make the rules and regulations. These men who are named for that Board wouldn't know a cod's head from a cod's tail nor a sculpin from a tomcod, and these are the men who will dictate to me as to where I shall sell my fish. Mr. Coaker said yesterday the day of reckoning is coming. He and I differ only on one point. The day of reckoning is here." He hoped that Mr. Coaker, for his own sake, would not put the Bill in force, but if it is on the Statute Book people will be suspicious and want to know the minute it will be sprung on them. If this Bill goes as law then he predicted the days of selling fish along Water Street in yaffles were again upon us. He pitied Mr. Coaker because with the possible exception of Mr. Halfyard he was associated with men in the Executive Council who did not know a sculpin from a squid.

Prime Minister—We are unable to identify you Sir John.

Sir John Crosbie—"You are right. Not only now, but there has been many a time that I saw you when you were unable to identify me or any body else. If you wish me to tell you what you know about fish I will say that what you know about it would fill one leaf of a very small book. But it is a good man who minds his own business and we have them to-day walking in high places who don't know their own business, not to say anything of other peoples."

A Member—"What about Mr. Foot's knowledge of fish?"

Sir John Crosbie—Oh well, Mr. Foot does not pretend to know anything, anyway. Talking about keeping up the price of fish, I have often heard it said that Mr. Coaker did the trick, but he has as much chance of keeping up the price of fish as I have of keeping a pit prop under the heavens. The banks will do the trick for us this year. If the banks say fish will be a good price, it will be a good price; if they "tighten up," down she goes." He asked that in view of the trade meeting this forenoon to discuss this question, further action be stayed until they had discussed what action they would take in the matter.

Sir Michael Cashin backed Sir John in this request and the Minister agreed.

After some further explanations by Mr. Coaker the Committee rose.

The House considered some other bills in Committee and then adjourned until to-day.

DON'T WASTE HAPPINESS.

RUTH CAMERON

"If you have made up your mind to do a thing, it is your duty to expect happiness in the doing of it." Who was it said that? I can't seem to remember, but I think it is a good saying and I have a slightly different version of it to suggest: "If you have made up your mind to do a thing, it is your duty to expect happiness in the doing of it." A friend of mine was planning to go on a journey. Just before she was to go, one of the members of her family was taken sick. She was willing to give the trip up, but it was one to which she had long looked forward; she needed the vacation and there were educational advantages attached to it, so her family wanted her to go and insisted they could manage without her. She hesitated, balanced her duty to herself and to her family, and finally set off on her journey. Her maiden name was Ward, and she was born on March 27, 1837, a little more than 83 years ago. She celebrated the recent anniversary of her birth by playing the leading female part in Shakespeare's tragedy, "Coriolanus."

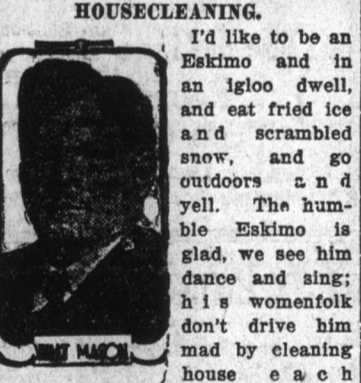

Not Old at Eighty-Three.

To a few is given the happy power of defying time, of living long and being active to the last. One of these is Mrs. Calvert, known in the Old Country as the "Mother of the Stage." Her maiden name was Ward, and she was born on March 27, 1837, a little more than 83 years ago. She celebrated the recent anniversary of her birth by playing the leading female part in Shakespeare's tragedy, "Coriolanus."

HOUSECLEANING.
I'd like to be an Eskimo and in an igloo dwell, and eat fried ice and scrambled snow, and go outdoors and yell. The humble Eskimo is glad, we see him dance and sing; his womenfolk don't drive him mad by cleaning house each spring. He isn't driven out of doors to hunt for frozen grub, the while the women scrub the floors—there are no floors to scrub. He is not chased, to beat the band, from out the divers rooms, by dames with brooms and mops in hand—there are no mops or brooms. Year after year he sits in peace, or lies upon his back, clothed in his wholesome film of grease, and no one cleans the shack. His treasured goods are not mislaid, as mine are, every year; and he can find his blubber spade, his corkscrew and his spear. And if he spills a cataract of ashes on the floor, no woman reads the riot act, no female heart is sore. I'll go to join the Eskimo when next a vessel starts, for I am tired of all the woe that cleaning house imparts. I'm tired of sitting on the stairs, oppressed by fantods three, because the couches and the chairs are hung upon a tree.

Remarks Never Heard at Sea

ONE IN PORT, EITHER.
The Skipper:—(After a bad breakdown has been successfully dealt with.) No, you mustn't give me the credit, it belongs to the Chief Engineer. I only made myself a nuisance and got in the way. The Engineering Dept. didn't do so well because of my assistance, but in spite of it!
The Chief Engineer:—Of course I am only a nonentity, the 2nd is really the man, as a matter of fact I'm bluffed if I know how I ever got my ticket!
3rd Engineer (To Chief on Sunday morning):—Would you mind if I worked a "field day" to-day sir, as I hate to feel I am wasting a day and by the way sir, I should like to work a three-hour field day instead of just two hours.
The Fireman:—Yes, the coal is very good stuff but we are too d—d lazy to work it properly.
The Steward:—(To Messroom Boy.)—Give my compliments to the Engineers and tell them that if they don't eat more I shall feel quite concerned about their health; ask them too if they would prefer a little tinned fruit now and again instead of those nauseating plum heavies.
The Cook:—(To Steward.)—Geel! ain't this stoo 'bloomin' awful, 'nuff to poison a buck elephant. I allus 'noo' I was a rotten cook, but I never thought as 'ow I could dish up anything so ruddy stinkin' as this muck.
The Crew (To Steward):—We've never been on such a good "Grub" ship before. The only complaint we've got to make is that the food is too rich, will you please knock off half of our "whack," as we fear the excessive eating will impair our working capacity.

The Super (In Port to all Engineers):—I am going to raise all your wages.
All Engineers (To Super):—Thank you very much sir! but we would rather you didn't. In fact we are already getting paid far too much for what we do!
Mess Room Boy (To Engineers):—Please gentlemen can I have your boots to clean!
N.B.—This is the most absurd and wildly impossible speech of all.

And if they chance to climb his tree, He is as ugly as can be. If in his yard they drive a ball, Which near his pretty flowers should fall, He hides the leather sphere away, Hoping to thus prevent their play.
The youngsters worry him a lot, This sorry man who has forgot That once upon a time, he, too, The self-same mischief used to do, The boyhood he has left behind Has strangely vanished from his mind. And he is old and gray and cross For having suffered such a loss— He thinks he never had the joy That is the birthplace of a boy.

He has forgotten how he ran, Tied to a poor dog's tail a can. Broke window panes, and loved to swipe Some neighbor's apples, red and ripe. He thinks that always, day or night, His conduct was exactly right. In boys to-day he cannot see The youngster that he used to be, Forgotten is that by-gone day, These youngsters that you drive away Would be your comrades here to-day; Among them you could gayly walk And share their laughter and their talk. You could be young and blithe as they, Could you recall your yesterday.

De Valera After U. S. Eagle Boats.

Quebec, May 13.—That a number of financiers friendly to the Irish Republic are endeavoring to purchase from the American Government some of the U. S. Eagle boats which wintered at this port, is the rumor published in yesterday's issue of Le Soleil. The object of acquiring these vessels, the rumor states, would be to enable Edmond de Valera, the "President" of the Irish Republic who is at present in the United States, to get from America to Ireland without being captured by the British Government.

The Salt Situation.

The tinkering and tampering with the question of our annual salt supply, not to speak of others, by the present Government, has left Newfoundland in an awkward position, a position fraught with many difficulties and uncertainties, for a stringency of salt or a diminished supply is bound to react unfavorably upon our principal industry—the codfishery.

Salt importers themselves are exceedingly dubious regarding future arrivals, and are not at all anxious to supply information, perhaps for the reason that they have none to give out. Be that as it may there can be no denial that the situation is most perplexing.

of fish which are detrimental to the conduct of business.

The Minister of Marine and Fisheries agrees that the position so far as salt is concerned, has not been exaggerated, but he speaks without intimate knowledge of actual conditions when he says that ample supplies of salt can be purchased from West Coast importers.

Startling Propositions.

The Legislature is asked by the Government to hand over to Mr. Coaker the control of its most vital interest, and it will obey! The Bill introduced into the Assembly, to provide for the regulating of Fish Exports, proposes that exporters shall be licensed by a Board of which Mr. Coaker is to be Chairman, and which, with but one exception, he will nominate.

Nor is the foregoing the only tragedy which threatens the representative institutions of this dominion. The Bill proposes to hand over to Mr. Coaker the practically uncontrolled expenditure of $450,000 annually, raised by an extra export tax of ten cents per quintal on codfish.

The Opposition cannot, unaided, prevent this tragedy being consummated, but they can fight vigorously, to the last gasp even, for government by the people, and will, we hope, do so incessantly. It is not enough for the Opposition however, to plead their lack of power, and supinely allow bad measures to be enacted.

doing, and if they do less than the best that is in them they too will be responsible for whatever evil results accrue from Mr. Coaker's alarming legislation.

Drowned at Barbados.

A letter was received in town during the week stating that one of the crew of the schooner Admiral Drake had been drowned at Barbados, some time ago. It appears that the unfortunate seaman while asleep on the deck of the schooner, got up and in some manner fell overboard. He was not missed till next morning, when his clothing was found where he had been lying. The harbor was dragged and the body found by members of the vessel's crew. The Admiral Drake was undergoing repairs at Barbados. The vessel is owned by A. S. Rendell & Co.

Reported Missing.

The police received a report last midnight that a woman resident of the East End had left her home early in the night and up to that hour had not returned. Enquiries were made by a couple of officers, and at 2 a.m. the woman was located at her home, who in the meantime having been with her husband, who is a night watchman.

OPERA WEEK — Perhaps there is no magic in this dull old world of ours. But, wait and see "DOROTHY."—may21.1

To-day's Messages.

IN THE COMMONS.

LONDON, May 21.

Parliament adjourned to-day for ten days Whitnuntide recess, the final meeting being notable for a vigorous attack on the Government's general foreign policy, led by Sir Donald MacLean. This attack was the outcome of a belief among opposition parties that there is a disposition to belittle the League of Nations, and to elect a Supreme Council into a permanent body as the arbitrator of European affairs. MacLean criticised Great Britain's action in sending war materials to Poland, and pleaded that the League of Nations be brought into existence at once. Lord Robert Cecil made a great impression on the House by a speech, in which he pleaded that the League of Nations be made a real thing, and in effect declaring himself willing to break out with the coalition, if he found that the Government was not in earnest in behalf of the League. Cecil also demanded why the League of Nations had not been called in to avert a new Polish war. Andrew Bonar Law for the Government declared Great Britain had no desire to make war on Soviet Russia. The Government felt strongly that the Soviet Government was more likely to be strengthened, if it were enabled to continue a state of war, than in any other way. The kind of Government, which the Soviet claimed, was contrary to nature and could not last, he declared. The way to get rid of it, and to create a reasonable situation in Russia was to allow the Russian people in the first place to work out their own salvation. It was by the opening up of trade, much more than by armament, that the Bolshevik Government could be put down.

NOT ALARMED.

LONDON, May 20.

In official circles to-day there was an inclination to minimize the immediate gravity of the near Eastern situation, due to the invasion of Persia by the Bolsheviks, but there was undoubted apprehension lest a continuation of Bolshevik successes in that region, might prove that the activities of Bolshevik propagandists, known to be operating there for some months, had been more effective than was expected. Bolshevik forces landed at Enzeli, and are believed, in official quarters, not to exceed ten thousand, which fact, it was considered, seemed to make improbable any immediate extension of operations of large numbers of pro-Bolshevik elements in transcaucasian Republics. For this reason War Office experts deemed it to be unlikely that any advance toward Teheran would be attempted, as the Persian capital is more than a hundred and fifty miles distant.

WILL NOT HANDLE MUNITIONS.

LONDON, May 20.

The Dublin correspondent of the Exchange Telegraph Company, says that in consequence of English declarations having telegraphed that they had refused to load war munitions for Ireland, and the Irish transport Union having decided not to unload munitions should they reach Dublin, the military officer in command at that port to-day interviewed the Harbor Master and later went to Headquarters to consult with his superiors on the situation. Two vessels with war material are expected at Dublin, one from Avonmouth the other from Southampton.

CARSON SEES SEPARATION.

LONDON, May 20.

The Home Rule Bill was further discussed in committee in the House of Commons to-day but no important changes were made. The discussion concerned the composition of the proposed Council and Powers of the new Parliament. The only notable feature was another declaration from Sir Edward Carson, Ulster Unionist Leader, that the Bill as framed was going to mean the separation of Ireland from England, and that the Government would be powerless to prevent the separation once these Irish Parliament, with unlimited powers, were set up.

JAPAN EDGING IN.

HONOLULU, May 20.

The Japanese War Office has announced that the first contingent of Japanese troops was landed a few miles south of Nikolaiouk, on May fifteenth, beginning their operations against Bolsheviks, according to a Tokio cable. Japan immediately will open negotiations with Russia for a Buffer State in Siberia. It is reported in a Tokio cable to the Nippuji, a Japanese newspaper here.

WHAT WILL FLOUR BE?

OTTAWA, May 20.

Addressing a Conference of Western supporters of the Government to-day, Dr. Robert Magill, with a deputation from the Winnipeg Grain Exchange, declared that in all probability Canadian wheat this year will sell anywhere between three and five dollars a bushel.

The battalion was put through different exercises, and, with the band, was inspected by the officer in charge. The parade was a record one.

Empire Celebration.

In another column an announcement is made of a Men's Banquet to be held by George Street Adult Bible Class, in the basement of the Church on Wednesday evening of the 26th inst. This banquet is given in honor of the sixty men who gave their services to King and Empire in the Great War, of which number, fourteen made the Supreme Sacrifice. The George Street Adult Bible Class is the oldest organized class in the city, and the hundreds of young men who have passed through its ranks, remember with gratitude and affection the Christian associations which it has cast around their lives. The class has always been fortunate in being able to enlist the kindly support of many of our leading citizens, who have spoken to them on Sunday afternoons, from time to time. From the inception of this organization Mr. C. P. Ayre has occupied the honored position of teacher, and it is to him more than to any other that the class owes its proud record of achievement. The toast list, as prepared for the banquet, will be of a comprehensive nature, and the speakers will include many prominent figures in the community. The ladies of the congregation will look after the catering and it is safe to say will "excel themselves."

To Lower the High Cost of Living.

Considering the high cost of coal and expenses of spring house cleaning, the Star Laundry, 10 Pleasant Street, has decided to give special rates for washing Quilts, Blankets, Bed Covers, etc., to help out the housewife. This offer will be open for a short time only as our summer trade will soon be starting, and we hope to have a full share of the laundry trade of the city seeing that all our help is local and all money spent is a benefit to our own country. may21.61

Enjoyable Entertainment.

The Church Lads' Brigade Ladies' Association held a social entertainment in the Canon Wood Hall last night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of raising funds for the C.L.B. War Memorial Company at the Shannon Munn-Orphanage Farm. The Association was organized by Col. R. G. Rendell, O.B.E., a few years ago when Commanding Officer of the Brigade, at the time that the C.L.B. at the Orphanage was started. Mrs. Herbert Outerbridge is the President of the Association and Miss Edwards, Secretary. The ladies have been working during the winter one afternoon a week providing clothing and C.L.B. kit for the boys. Last night's entertainment was in 2 parts, the first consisting of songs by Mrs. W. R. Warren, Mr. Williams, Mr. Lloyd Woods and Miss Joyce Dunfield, a violin solo by Mrs. Brian Dunfield, recitations by Miss Keegan and Mr. Pittman, Orphanage manager. The recitation given by Miss Keegan was composed by Capt. Hugh Anderson, the subject being "The Dammings of the Bell Isle Straits." Another feature of the programme was a costume dance by four mysterious young ladies. The programme ended with a farce, "The Backward Child," in which Mrs. Herbert Outerbridge and Miss Ruth Emerson took the parts. Afterwards tea and cake were distributed by the ladies, and an enjoyable social hour spent. Among those present were Lady Harris and Miss Harris and a number of C.L.B. officers in full kit. As there was a large attendance the affair was undoubtedly a financial success.

As She Is Wrote.

"Your English is really a very curious language," recently remarked Miss Eugenia Ratimirova, the Russian singer and actress. "What I mean," she went on, "is that there are so many words that sound the same and have different meanings, while others that are spelt the same have different meanings and sometimes cannot be set down clearly.

"It is not only we poor foreigners who get confused in consequence. I have known even you English people to misunderstand one another."

"For instance, a newly-married couple, friends of mine, went to Switzerland for the honeymoon. They arrived in Geneva in the morning, had lunch, then hired a boat and went out on the lake.

"The following morning the bride's mother got a wire which read: 'Arrived safely. Had a row after lunch.'

"Oh, dear," cried the mother, when she showed it to me, "I didn't think they would quarrel so soon."

Paris a New Babylon.

Paris is "fou fou!" In other words, all Paris has gone crazy in its thirst for pleasure. Now that peace has been definitely signed, all restrictions have been removed, the censorship abolished, and the appetite for pleasures of all sorts is but the more ravenous after these five years of deprivation.

The theatres are crowded, the restaurants are surging with gay crowds until the early hours of the morning, and in spite of the talk about the scarcity of coal, Paris has once more become "La Ville Lumiere" of "avant guerre" (before the war), and only those who stayed with the city through her days of anguish and her nights of darkness turn to gaze and marvel at the blaze of lights everywhere.

Paris, because of an enormous foreign population, always has been the least French of any of the French cities, but now it is more so. The proportion of strangers has become so marked that one hears a babel of all other tongues in the restaurants and at places of amusement, with only a sprinkling of French mingled in discreetly.

All the Russians who have been able to escape the Bolsheviks and who have succeeded in getting out of Russia, their pockets stuffed either with their own gold and gems or with that of others, seem to have arrived in Paris, and appear bent on spending as quickly and pleasantly as possible before being overtaken by the waves of the Red Sea. They have taken expensive apartments, no matter what the price; rented automobiles "de luxe," employed large households of servants, and "voila!"

The greatest rivals of the Americans and the Russians in the matter of spending money in Paris have always been the South Americans. Even before the war there was a large permanent colony of Latin Americans in Paris, opulent and lavish spenders. But now all who failed to get over before seem to have arrived, and, warned of the high cost of living and mindful of the uncertainty of getting transportation back in the near future, they seem to have come prepared to make a long stay. They, too, have made great inroads on the available apartments, and they are hanging out of the windows at all the expensive hotels.

There are the Spanish, the Italians, the Dutch, the Swedes, and last, but not at all least, there are the Orientals—the Turks, the Roumanians, the Serbs, the Montenegrins, and the rest, to say nothing of the Japanese, the Chinese, and some more. All of the peoples of these various countries have suffered more or less because of the war, but there are always some people in every country, no matter how much it has suffered, who have not only succeeded in keeping the money and valuables they possessed before, but have in thousands of cases succeeded in gorging themselves with this world's goods to a degree that would put the Count of Monte Cristo to shame. They are all here, and they are throwing their ill-gotten gains out of the window with both hands (says a correspondent of the New York "Sun"). Do you understand now why Paris has not missed the Americans?

In spite of the fact that everybody who is anybody is in Paris, there is very little private entertaining. People prefer to invite their friends to theatre parties, and they entertain them at the restaurants in preference to their own homes. This can be understood. There is a vacant chair in almost every home, and people want to get out and try to forget. Also, there is no end of the good things at both the theatres and at the operas.

Paris has been taken over by the world, and it behooves us to remember that when we are giving the French metropolis a hard character we are talking against the pleasantest part of ourselves, because we, with the rest of the world of strangers, have done our part in moulding and making Paris what she is. It is like a man who goes about talking against his wife because he happens to have had a tiff with her. With all her faults, he loves her still. Paris belongs to the world of nations. She is a part of all of us, and in the make-up of her amusements especially we have our share of responsibility.

"That's Lucky!"

We must all have noticed how many unlucky omens there are, and how few signs that foretell good fortune. It has been well explained that we need to be prepared for bad luck, but that good fortune does not require to be guarded against.

All the same, it would certainly add to the cheerfulness of life in general if lucky omens were more widely known. How much brighter things look to us if we have reason to hope that something good is coming to us! Everybody, of course, knows that it is lucky to pick up a bit of iron or coal. So it is to pick up a pin if its head is towards you; if not, let it lie!

It is, of course, a sign of good fortune to put on some garment inside out, but only if it is done by accident, and the garment is allowed to remain reversed during the day. William the Conqueror put on his mail-shirt back to front on the morning of the Battle of Hastings, and we all know what luck he had on that occasion!

If you find your keys or other steel articles rusting, do not be annoyed about it; it only shows that somebody is putting money by for you.

It is lucky to be followed home by a stray dog. Still better is it if a strange cat comes to stay at the house. Speaking of cats, passimists, of course, assert that when they tear the furniture with their claws, it is a sign of rain; but others hold that they are "scratching luck" to their masters.

Middle Aged Women

Women should take warning from such symptoms as heat flashes, shortness of breath, excessive nervousness, irritability, and the blues—which indicate the approach of the inevitable "Change" that comes to all women nearing middle age. We have published volumes of proof that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is the greatest aid women can have during this trying period.

Read About These Two Women:

Fremont, O.—"I was passing through the critical period of life, being forty-six years of age and had all the symptoms incident to that change—heat flashes, nervousness, and was in a general run-down condition, so it was hard for me to do my work. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was recommended to me as the best remedy for my troubles, which it surely proved to be. I feel better and stronger in every way since taking it, and the annoying symptoms have disappeared."—Mrs. M. GODDARD, 922 Napoleon St., Fremont, Ohio.

Urbana, Ill.—"During Change of Life, in addition to its annoying symptoms I had an attack of grippe which lasted all winter and left me in a weakened condition. I felt at times that I would never be well again. I read of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and what it did for women passing through the Change of Life, so I told my doctor I would try it. I soon began to gain in strength and the annoying symptoms disappeared and your Vegetable Compound has made me a well, strong woman so I do all my own housework. I cannot recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound too highly to women passing through the Change of Life."—Mrs. FRANK HANSON, 1216 South Orchard Street, Urbana, Ill.

It may be asked—

WHY not the manufacturers of Klim effect a slight saving in the price by putting up their product in CARDBOARD instead of their well-known airtight TIN?

THEY could—but they won't—for the very good reason that a TIN container obviates almost to an absolute certainty any possible bacterial action through exposure to air.

IT'S in your interest entirely—and it is felt that the average consumer is willing to pay the slight premium for protection.

Isn't it worth while?

Save the Public School.

(Winnipeg Free Press.)

Theoretically in a bi-lingual system of schools, English is taught; in practice, as this province knows to its cost, a bi-lingual school is a one-language school in which, at the best, English is taught merely as a subject and at the worst is not taught at all. The typical Rutenian school under the former regime was taught by a Rutenian youth, imperfectly educated in his own language and with a mere superficial smattering of English; the pupils who passed through it got very little education of any kind and acquired no useful knowledge of English at all.

This has been wholly changed. The non-English children are now getting a real English education; they leave school—which they are obliged to attend by reason of the compulsory attendance provisions of the act—able to read, write and speak the language. There has been a transformation in this province within the past four years; and a continuance of the present system for another ten or fifteen years will settle the language question forever and make out of the diverse elements in our population a homogeneous and unified people, wholly Canadian in sentiment and outlook. [A relapse now to old conditions would be fatal to the future of the province.]

BEWARE OF DECEPTION

Statistics show that when egg albumen is used as a constituent of baking powder, the amount so used is too small (usually 15/100 of 1%) to affect the quality or effectiveness of the baking powder containing it, and when so used, is plainly for the purpose of fraud. Intelligent buyers will not permit themselves to be deceived by the water glass test.

MAGIC BAKING POWDER contains no alum or egg albumen and is guaranteed to be composed of the ingredients printed on the label—and none other.

DO TWO WRONGS MAKE A RIGHT?

Is what is wrong doing for one side of politics right for the other? Why will people exclaim loudly against the action of the other side, and when their own side gets in power and does the same thing they excuse it by saying that the other fellow did it, anyhow.

SIXTEEN DAYS DOING NOTHING.

The debate on the Speech from the Throne ended on Friday; that means that a fortnight of the people's time has been wasted by its politicians. The Speech from the Throne is nothing more than an expression of opinion of the Government of the day, and a foreshadowing of the legislation which it proposes to bring in. To pass an opinion on it may be worth while, and two days should be quite ample in which to discuss its merits, but to spend over a fortnight, in what is absolutely useless talk, arguing, is a waste of the people's time that is little short of criminal in these times of stress and difficulty.

Episcopal Visit.

Of His Lordship Bishop White to Foxtrap.

Ascension Day, 1920, will long be marked as a very happy and joyous one to the church people of Kalligrews, Foxtrap and Long Pond. It was the day on which our beloved Bishop paid his first visit to this mission for the purpose of holding a Confirmation Service. The profusion of bunting displayed from every point of vantage, and magnificent arches erected en route to the church, testified to the loyalty and affection of the people for their spiritual head. One thing noticeable was that the "artillery" of these places was silent on this memorable occasion. But when one considers how everything has gone sky-rocketing in regard to prices, no doubt gunpowder comes under the list as well.

I am sure the good Bishop will overlook and forgive us for not being quite so demonstrative in our welcome as those of other missions. Altogether 84 candidates received the sacred rite, witnessed by a large congregation.

The church here no longer justifies its existence as a building. A church with treble the seating capacity of the present one, must be aimed at to meet the requirements of an ever-increasing population. Already a good start has been made in collecting funds, and we hope eventually to see two things accomplished: (a) an up-to-date, commodious church erected within the next three or four years; (b) the mission divided with headquarters at Foxtrap. The present incumbent, Rev. Hugh Facey, B.A., is very keen on this matter, and it is up to the people to back him. Further comment is unnecessary.—"Where there's a will there's a way."

The Angel of Death has overshadowed many homes along our shore during the past few months, and called to their rest some in the prime of life, others in the "sere and yellow leaf," necessitating a good share of work to the Rector, who, to put it plainly has had his hands full. These gaps in the family circle speak to us who are left behind in words which no person may mistake or misinterpret: "Set thine house in order for thou shalt die and not live."

Refuses to Take Part in Empire Day Ceremonies.

ST. PATRICK'S SOCIETY OF MONTREAL WILL NOT BE REPRESENTED.

(Montreal Daily Star, May 12.)
The St. Patrick's Society of Montreal, not desiring to place itself in a position where "it might be construed that they were in support of a theory of constitutional relationship which subjected the rights of the weaker nation to the interests of the more powerful" has declined to take any part in the Empire Day celebration on Monday week, and has so informed the National Societies' Empire Day Committee, which had invited them to attend a meeting of which the program of the ceremonies was drawn up.

The letter sent to the committee by M. Doyle, the secretary of St. Patrick's Society, after acknowledging the invitation to attend a meeting on Tuesday last to arrange for the celebration of "Empire Day," continues: "While this society does not interest itself in political questions it believes that, as the constitutional relations of the equal and self-governing nations of the Commonwealth are to be adjusted on a basis of freedom and equality of nationhood, it would be unwise to participate in a celebration that could be construed as in support of a theory of constitutional relationship, declared by the Government of our country, to be incompatible with the aspirations of the people of Canada."

"Empire is held to be a theory of constitutional relationship which subjects the rights of the weaker nation to the interests of the more powerful. This society would not desire to be understood as favoring the placing of Canada in the position of Ireland today."

"I am, in consequence, instructed

Kiwanis Club Rebuke Sinn Fein Editor.

WINNIPEG MEN REPUDIATE LINDSAY CRAWFORD.

WINNIPEG, May 12.—The Kiwanis Club yesterday refused to allow Lindsay Crawford, editor of the Statesman, to continue his speech, when he made statements derogatory to England.

Crawford, as the guest of honor at the luncheon, was discussing the Irish question. He started to say England was interfering with Ireland economically as she interfered with Canada on the railway problem, declaring that Canada's railways be built east and west instead of north and south.

Members of the club arose and protested, demanding that he retract that statement. President Salmon brought the incident to a close by calling on the members to rise and sing "God Save the King." Mr. Crawford protested against treatment which he called unfair.

In discussing the establishment of the shipbuilding industry in Belfast, Mr. Crawford said that it had been founded by an English engineer, Harland, and a German financier, Wolff. Referring to the subject a few minutes later, the speaker alluded to the establishment of the Belfast shipbuilding industry by "foreigners."

W. McLandress arose and said that it was not right to refer to an Englishman as a foreigner before such an audience.

Mr. Crawford said that it was a slip and he wished to apologize. However, he said, the industry had been established by foreign capital and therefore in a technical sense he was correct. He then proceeded with his speech.

Cause of the Incident.
Mr. Crawford claimed that one reason why there had not been important industrial development in the south of Ireland was because England had made a practice of throttling all industries that would compete with her own. Likewise, the English had forced the Irish to use British shipping, and had kept trade out of Irish channels.

"Irish trade was controlled by England," said the speaker. "In the same way as she has controlled the trade of all her colonies. We have an instance of this in Canada, where England made us build our railways east and west instead of north and south."

Caused Prompt Protest.
Fred. Law, of the Great War Veterans, rose to his feet and protested against the statement that England had forced Canada to build her railways east and west.

A New Leader for Old McGill.

The qualities which made Major-General Sir Arthur Currie a great soldier guarantee his success as Principal of McGill University.

Though a student of the arts of war he was not a professional soldier, but his organizing genius, his strong and high-principled personality, his force of character, and his ability to fire his men with his own enthusiasm and determination, gained him the leadership of one of the hardest fighting units in the British Expeditionary Forces, and made that corps the spear-head of the final offensive that smashed through the German lines to victory.

McGill needs the same qualities in its leader. He is not a professional pedagogue—had until to-day no University degree—but that spirit and personality which made him and his fighting corps so famous will serve him equally well in his new command.

Education is a continual warfare against the powers of darkness and ignorance and narrowness. Victory is the price of courage and stern mental discipline and a vision that sees over the immediate trenches. General Currie has this vision, this instinct of discipline, this courage, and with it an idealism of Old Testament intensity and supreme scorn for cut-throat, red-tape rules and inhibitions.

The war has given us a new world, with new problems and new tasks. The old instruments of peaceful progress must adopt themselves to the situation or be thrust aside. Under General Currie we believe that McGill will not fail to meet its obligations to our reconstructed society, but will lengthen its cords and strengthen its stakes so that under its inspiring shelter may be built a new army that shall win great victories for the honor of our country and the glory of the old college.—Montreal Daily Star.

John Curtis, who is 83, is known as the "Grand Old Man of Waiworth, Eng." He is a cabinet maker and has always refused to accept an old man's pension on the ground that he is still capable of earning his living. He has 11 children, 47 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

MONTREAL BROTHERS GIVE HIS NAME TO NEW LODGE.

An exceptional Masonic honor is being bestowed on ex-Alderman Isaac Henry Stearns in that a lodge to be invested in Montreal is to bear his name, the Isaac Henry Stearns Lodge, A.F. and A.M. The formation of the new lodge has been arranged to coincide with the celebration of the 60th anniversary of Mr. Stearns' entry on a Masonic career. Mr. Stearns celebrated his 83rd birthday on May 3rd, and will celebrate his 60th anniversary of Mr. Stearns' to Masonic mysteries on the 14th inst., when the brethren purpose honoring the event in style worthy of one of the oldest members of the craft in Canada, a worthy and esteemed brother who has travelled the rough and rugged path to the 33rd degree.

A large attendance of brethren is expected at the Masonic Temple, where the new lodge will be formally inaugurated, its ultimate headquarters being fixed for Notre Dame de Grace. The following are the officers of the new lodge: W.M., R. Wor.

Household Notes.

Dry celery leaves, crushed to powder, add salt and you have an excellent celery salt.

A dash of lemon juice in water makes a good tooth wash and sweetens the breath.

If fruit is boiled long enough, it may be put up without sugar and sweetened as used.

Toasted cheese crackers are delicious when a strip of bacon is laid on each to brown.

Are They in Earnest?

The idea behind the "overall" movement is one that will be effective—If it is adhered to for a reasonable length of time, if the women could be persuaded to adopt the same plan, and attire themselves in cheap materials plainly made it would be a most effective step in reducing the cost of living.

For many years there has been sinful extravagance in dress, especially by women, but also, to a large degree, by men. Few women wear their clothes until they are worn out. As soon as the style changes the dress or suit is cast aside. They are slaves to fashion, and in being so are guilty of gross extravagance. To a lesser degree men also are culpable. They want to shine all the time, and have at least twice as many suits as would be needed if strict economy were practised.

We fear the present movement will be too ephemeral to accomplish the results that are possible. People who are really in earnest, in practising economy in clothing would insensibly economize in all other supposed needs. There is an awful waste of money on amusement, and almost as much on food. If we could get men and women to calmly scrutinize their contemplated expenditures before they are made, it would be found that a vast amount of money would remain in their pockets. It would, of course, lessen the demand for many things and bring the supply up as the demand went down. That is the only road that leads to a lower cost of living, but how many will travel it to the end?—The Sentinel.

A Buyer's Lament.

For it's broken I surely am.
And two or three pounds of ham.
O well for the man in Fiji
That he pays little heed to the rent.
O well for the gypsy lad
That he dwells more-or-less in a tent!

And the bulging ships come in
With their cargoes of spice and teas;
But we sigh for the days of the dollar
And the butter that used to be.

Break, break, break.
The market's a rising sea;
But the tender grace of the Simple Life
Will never come back to me.—E.J.G.

The Maoris.

Recently the cablegrams gave an interesting account of a reception given to the Prince of Wales by many hundreds of the natives of New Zealand, Maoris (pronounced Mow-ries), dressed in loin clothes and exhibiting their native war dances, accompanied with songs. The address to the Prince was most poetical.

These are strange people. When Europeans first visited their island homes they were cannibals of the most pronounced and cruel types, but withal were highly intelligent, conscientious, moral, artistic, eloquent, poetic, and musical. Their warriors were very brave. Considering their numbers, which were small compared with continental races, they offered the strongest and best ordered resistance to British forces which Britons ever met.

Lucas says: "In the native New Zealand you have a man who appreciates nothing, in a supposed enemy, except brute force. If he has to submit to it, when he has done his best, he does so with a good grace, as he has done in this instance, and respects it, because he discovers a power superior to his own."

Their subjugation to civilized power has resulted in a complete cessation of those tribal wars in which thousands were slain, many more thousands than those who fell in resistance to their conquerors. Now they have peace among themselves as well as between them and their victors.

The English law gave them a written language which they did not previously have. But they had schools, open for four months of each year, where the children had to commit to memory histories of their wars, their traditions, songs and folk lore. When a written language was given them, they gave to the world a wonderful history of the aboriginal conditions of these remarkable people.

Their origin is very doubtful. It was found that they had a general knowledge of many things believed and taught by the Hebrews. They had well-established ideas of the creation of the world, and of the redemption of the world after man had become corrupt through transgression. They held that a god, "Tiki" (te-ke) had made man, and they were extremely orthodox. When a priest once denied the faith they killed him and then ate him. Preachers, a little loose in their theology, had better keep away from New Zealand natives. These natives are not of negro origin, but are supposed to be of the Polynesian branch of the Malay family. The average height of the men is 5 ft. 6 in. and the weight about 140 lbs. Their bodies and arms are longer and their legs are shorter than those of Englishmen of similar stature. The New Zealander's hair is generally coarse and black, though sometimes rusty red. He has good teeth, broad nose, dark brown eyes, large mouth, and an olive brown skin. The women are not handsome though when young they are graceful and pleasing with mild eyes, pathetic voices, and great ease of manner. In tattooing, these natives, both male and female, stripped the natives of all other lands, and their appearance was most grotesque. They are fond of ornaments, especially in their head dresses, in which the white tipped feathers of the hula bird held a prominent place.

The Most Beautiful Car in America

A New Development in Light Sixes

Before we began experimental work on our new six-cylinder motor three years ago, we made a very thorough investigation of the light six field.

We found out just what qualities car owners desired in the power plants of their motor cars and then we designed an engine to meet these requirements.

The wisdom of our method is attested by the unanimous approval given our five-passenger "Glenbrook" model. With its first appearance, it immediately won the enthusiastic support of motorists.

And, by its dependable and economical performance, it has so clearly demonstrated its high character as an investment value that our production schedule is already proving unequal to the demand.

The "Glenbrook" is a truly remarkable development in five-passenger cars. Won't you arrange for a demonstration while our dealer is in position to meet your requirements as to delivery?
