THE JAPANESE HOLOCAUST.
SIANGHAI, Sept. 10. Pictures told by eyewitnesses of the earthquake holocaust depict a scene of appalling horror the popular representations of the Buddhist hell. The first quake huge oil tanks on the hillside above the Yokosuka cable car exploded and millions of tons of wreckage swept down the city, turning the harbour and canals into a sea of flames. The walls of Negishi prison collapsed and five thousand convicts were liberated. The most desperate of these at once set about robbing the dead and murdering the helplessly wounded until citizens hastily banded and armed dealt out summary death sentences upon the miscreants. An American Hospital is reported to have been hurled from a bluff into the cemetery below, tearing open the earth and exhuming bodies buried there. Business men were about to leave their offices in Yokohama at the close of Saturday morning's work when without warning and with a tremendous roar the ground heaved up four or five feet then dropped back again in utmost chaos. Houses on the bluff toppled down into the city, while the landscape rocked and heaved like waves of the sea. Fugitives from the falling buildings found their escape cut off by huge gaps in the earth, while the peril was added by the rising water as it poured out of broken mains in the city works.

On the destroyer Young twenty-five sailors died in their berths when the craft capsized two minutes after striking. Others were badly injured in their fight to safety through mountainous seas. The Heno, the eighth vessel of the squadron, was saved when she lost her bearings in the fog and strayed seaward in the darkness.

Legal Action Against "Gold" Boomers Soon?

PROSPECTOR SAYS THERE ISN'T ENOUGH GOLD AT STAG BAY TO COVER A PENNY.

STAG BAY, Sept. 6.—That plans are being made in Newfoundland and Montreal to take legal action against the Goldfields, Ltd., and other mining corporations that boom Labrador "gold" rush last year is the statement made by Geo. W. Payne, prospector, who reached here on Tuesday, after spending 4 months at Stag Bay.

According to Winston, a number of prospectors, who paid out large sums of money for "gold" claims at Stag Bay, will ask the Newfoundland Government to proceed against the directors of various corporations which sold these claims, in order to have the money obtained by the claims refunded.

Winston states there isn't enough gold at Stag Bay to cover a penny. He bought a small claim and after working it for months gave it up. Winston was a couple of experienced mining men, one or two of whom spent a considerable time in Elmdyke. They explored all the creeks in the Stag Bay but did not find even a "color."

Among the following prospectors with whom were A. Green of Thomasburg, Geo. Fournier, of Windsor, Ont., Mackenzie, of Scotsburg, N.S., R. Appleton, of Flushing, N.Y., who went to Stag Bay by prominent men in that city: A. Payne, of St. John's; H. W. Sexton and J. P. Kelly, of Port Burwell, Nfld.; H. Hale, of Bay Roberts; N. Allan, a veteran of 22 years in the Klondyke; and Edward Holmes, of Bay Roberts, Nfld.

Each claim contained 320 acres, and he said that about 1,400 claims were owned by the different corporations.

OTAWA, Sept. 6.—W. Morley Ogilvie, well known mining engineer, has returned from Labrador, where he went to ascertain what the prospects of finding gold in the leased gold fields of that province, of which J. Lambert Payne, of Ottawa, was Vice-President. Ogilvie reports that he found no gold. There is no gold as far as he can ascertain in the districts.

Ogilvie left for Labrador July 20 and returned Sunday. The financing of this company was one of the most interesting ways J. Lambert Payne, who is well and very well known in Ottawa, and, in fact, throughout Canada, in extensive advertisements warned the public that the proposition was an absolute gamble. The belief in the presence of gold depended on the stories told by prospectors who had visited the area and had claimed to have discovered gold, backing this up with alleged assays.

The company sold 125 leases in all last year, some 90 in Ottawa, 27 in Montreal and 12 in Boston. Ogilvie, in a report to the geological department as to the results of his action of glaciers at Stag Bay, was not sustained by his investi-

In a statement by J. Lambert Payne the Vice-President says: "This is to me a bitter disappointment. I believed in the thing, and to the extent that I influenced some of my personal friends. I feel humiliated and discredited. This simply means, however, that I was deceived along with many others, and I am a loser as well as they. I have but one consolation. In all our advertising, we presented the proposition as an absolute gamble. No one could have been misled into the belief that they were taking up a sure thing."

Timber Limits Going.

I have read your articles in the Star, on "The Whisper of Death." My opinion may not be as heavy as that of a big financier, being only a commercial traveller for a Montreal firm, but I have travelled all through Quebec Province, and if I know little, I must say that I see and hear a lot. The way things stand in the wood and lumber districts in La Beauce, Temiscouata Line and Matapedia, I must state that private limits, which were tremendously large, are almost all cut off. I can predict that within five years from now, private lumber limits will be exhausted, and they will then have to dig into Government limits. J. B. Lemieux, in Montreal Star.

Canned peaches are nice jellied, flavored with lemon juice and served with sweetened, whipped cream.

Deceived!

An Englishman staying at a Nevada ranch suggested that his host should take a walk with him to a mountain that looked close to hand. The Englishman was deceived in the appearance of the distance owing to the rarity of the atmosphere. After walking several hours the mountain seemed no nearer.

Returning by a different route, the pair came upon an irrigated field. At the first ditch the Englishman sat down and began to remove his shoes. "What are you going to do?" inquired the Nevada.

The Englishman contemplated the ditch, and said, "Why, I'm going to swim this blooming river."

Tiny Truths.

A mirage is a marriage that never happens.

A woman's "No" has so many tomorrows.

For some women it's never too late to pretend.

The prettier the feet, the easier they get up stairs.

It's a poor young man who can't even pay addresses.

Worry is interest paid on trouble before it becomes due.

Truth is personified as feminine; but why, nobody knows.

If you live in a glass-house you should pull down the blinds.

A woman will pardon cruelty and injustice, but never indifference.

Many a girl has hugged safety because she couldn't hug anything else.

Stories for all Moods.

A MIXED BAG.

(John O'London's Weekly).

An old farmer lay so dangerously ill that the doctor gave no hope of recovery. Whilst lying in an apparently semi-conscious state, he suddenly opened his eyes and said to his wife, who was watching by his bedside: "Mary, that's a nice smell. It's just like a ham cooking. I almost think I could eat a little, if it is cooked."

The reply was: "Thee get on with the dying, that ham is for the tuns."

This story is one of three hundred good yarns told in "Ever Heard This?" by E. W. Chambers. Here are some others:—

A great punster was Sir G. Rose. Once, observing someone imitating his gait, he said, "You have the stalk without the rose."

A NEW RECIPE.

At one of the meetings of a literary club a dish of peas was brought in, become almost grey with age. "You ought to carry these peas to Kensington," said one of the party. "Why?" asked another. "Because it's the way to Turn'em Green."

Oliver Goldsmith, author of "The Vicar of Wakefield," who had no sense of humour, hearing this, was delighted and made a note of the joke. The next evening, dining out, he was asked to find a dish of yellow peas on the table. "These ought to be sent to Kensington," he said. "Why?" he was asked. "Because that's the way to make them green," he replied.

A DIFFERENT POINT OF VIEW.

A Scot and a minister were in a train together travelling through a lovely part of Scotland. Beautiful scenery—mountains, dales, rivers, and all the glories of Nature. When passing a grand mountain they saw a huge advertisement for So-and-so's whisky. The Scot gave a snort of disgust. The minister leaned forward and said, "I'm glad to see, sir, that you agree with me, that they should not be allowed to desecrate the beauties of Nature by advertisement."

"It's no' that, sir," said the Scot, bitterly, "it's rotten whisky."

WHAT'S IN A NAME!

A lawyer who was sometimes forgetful, having been engaged to plead the cause of an offender, began by saying: "I know the prisoner at the bar, and he bears the character of being a most consummate and impudent scoundrel." Here somebody whispered to him that the prisoner was his client, when he immediately continued: "But what great and good man ever lived who was not calumniated by many of his contemporaries?"

THE COMPROMISE.

At Durham Assizes a deaf old lady, who had brought an action for damages against a neighbour, was being examined, when the judge suggested a compromise, and instructed counsel to ask what she would take to settle the matter. "His lordship wants to know what you will take," asked the learned counsel, bawling as loud as ever he could in the old lady's ear. "I thank his lordship kindly," answered the ancient dame; "and if it's no inconvenience to him, I'll take little warm ale!"

WITH QUALIFICATIONS.

The late Judge O— one day had occasion to examine a witness who stammered very much in delivering his testimony. "I believe," said his lordship, "you are a very great rogue." "Not so great a rogue as you, my lord, take it takes me to be."

A WATCH OVER OUR FRIENDS.

Miss Grace Ellison, in her "an Englishwoman in Angora" describes a Turkish wedding, which she calls, "a fine example of true democracy as practised in the East."

"Among the guests in their elaborate ball-dresses, trimmed with orange blossoms, I noticed the Grand Vizier's wife, and then, catching sight of a very differently attired group of women, wearing faded and worn turbans and kerchiefs, I realized that the 'half-women' of the family had come uninvited to the feast! And the door of the harem was wide open, that all might enter in to see the presents, admire the dresses, and all the other delightful feminine intimacies of such an occasion."

"As a matter of fact, I was told by Zeyneb, any woman can go to a Turkish wedding without having been invited. 'You in England only ask your intimate friends, and yet you have to employ detectives to watch the presents.'"

STORIES THE TURKS LIKE.

"Simple stories about the Royal Family of Great Britain," says Miss Ellison, "interested the Turks far more than my 'grander' or more romantic reminiscences from the Courts of Europe. They are never tired of hearing that our Edward VII. only required one 'gentleman-in-waiting' at a time at Marlborough, whereas the Czar (Ferdinand) of Bulgaria was always accompanied by a suite of eight or nine. Sir Edward Goschen was instructed to dress, like his royal master, in a green Tyrolean hat with its little shooting feather. He was sent to sit on 'the king's bench' until the crowd had satisfied their natural desires for 'a good view' and gone home to breakfast. Then Edward VII. himself arrived."

Miss Ellison says she has never met an "old maid" in Turkey, and doubts whether one could be found.

Greb New Champion.

WILSON UNABLE TO SOLVE HIS PECULIAR MODE OF ATTACK—WAS OUTCLASSED, BUT MADE A GAME BATTLE.

NEW YORK, Sept. 1.—Harry Greb, of Pittsburg, won the world's middle-weight boxing championship from Johnny Wilson, of Boston, in a one-sided fifteen round battle, before a small crowd in the Polo grounds, last night. Greb won the judges' decision. The weights were 168 lbs. each.

But while Greb fought with all his customary fire and aggressiveness, it is doubtful whether he added much prestige to his record—outside of the title laurels—for Wilson proved conclusively the contention of critics that he has never measured up to real championship calibre. The Boston boxer, who has been in practical obscurity for the three years he has held the crown, was outclassed from start to finish. He battled gamely enough and showed an occasional flash of form, but he was at no time dangerous.

They made a lively start, with each driving the other around the ring in turn in the first round. They exchanged counter blows, each with one arm locked in the other's. They had a furious exchange in Greb's corner, near the end of the round, again looking each an arm, and pounded each other freely twenty blows apiece separating at the bell.

They made a lively start, with each driving the other around the ring in turn in the first round. They exchanged counter blows, each with one arm locked in the other's. They had a furious exchange in Greb's corner, near the end of the round, again looking each an arm, and pounded each other freely twenty blows apiece separating at the bell.

Wilson's blows were not worth much in the last round. Wilson landed a slight right to the jaw and Greb was pounding him along the ropes when the gong ended the fight.

Wilson fought toe to toe with Greb in the sixth, and got in a number of body punches during the round, while Greb landed a half dozen times about the jaw.

In the seventh the champion continued the body attack, but Greb kept gingerly on the offensive. In the eighth Greb sent a left to the body, and then began to punch Wilson's left eye, which was half closed. Wilson was unable to solve Greb's clumsy and unorthodox attack, and was simply blocking the leads which came from the most unexpected quarters. Greb held again with his left, and punched with his right, both at short range and with long swings. Greb was again warned for holding, but it did not stop him, for he landed a dozen more blows from that position, and had the champion obviously bewildered when the round ended.

In the ninth, Greb landed a hard right to the head, and Wilson backed to the ropes, covering his face with his hands while the Pittsburgher whacked away.

Wilson appeared groggy as he sat in his corner and his left eye was completely closed. They started slowly in the tenth, but in a moment Greb shot a straight right toward the injured eye, and cornered the champion in a neutral corner.

Greb landed numerous rights before he opened up with both hands in the 11th. Greb held with his left and butted with his head, and these tactics were expected to count against him. It was difficult to estimate his lead, and Wilson was cheered for living the battle with a left.

At the opening of the 12th Greb slashed, ripping uppercuts to Wilson's jaw and the champion clinched when Greb again pounded with his left.

In the fourteenth, Wilson began to bore it, but he did it too slow and Greb had one arm around his neck and was pounding with the other, before the champion could get going.

Women Police for Toronto.

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—County Clerk R. W. Phillips, interviewed as to the rumour that women might be added to the police force of York County, said that while nothing definite had yet been done he himself believed that women officers could work more effectively than men in some locations and situations. It is his intention to bring this subject before a meeting of the York County Police Commission with the object of preparing the way for possible action next summer. The county, Mr. Phillips thought, could readily be served by policemen scouting the secluded and wooded outskirts of the city.

Nothing New.

That the aeroplane entered by Mr. Robey for the air race round Britain came within a few minutes of winning, lends interest to another story I once heard him tell.

It concerned a little boy who, after his mother had been telling him about flying machines, coldly remarked that he did not think they were wonderful and that they certainly were not new.

"Not new!" said his mother. "Why, what do you mean?" "Well, anyway, teacher read about one in the Bible the other day!" "In the Bible?" exclaimed his mother. "Are you sure?" "Oh, yes!" replied sonny. "She told us that Esau sold his heirship to his brother Jacob!"

Widows and Windows.

The boy had to write a short essay on light. And windows he happened to mention. But he missed out the "a"—Just a slip of the pen—Which at once drew the master's attention.

The master said "Windows Much differ from widows; Don't you know that?"—the tone meant to wither. Said the boy with a grin. "Aye, you see through the yin. But ye never can see through the other!"

Big Feature Programme at The Crescent.

PAT HARRINGTON CONTINUES TO GO BIG.

Pat Harrington, the vaudeville boy wonder registered another triumph by his catchy selections at the Crescent last night. His opening number entitled, "S'Nce" is a very catchy selection which had the audience swaying to its theme. The other items were "Holland Moon" and "Lost You Forget," two popular novelty songs. In the latter songs Pat was accompanied on the bells by Jack Cronan, whose skilled touch greatly enhanced them. The piano accompaniments by Al Pittman left nothing wanting.

The dancing by Mr. Harrington was performed very gracefully and he steps as lightly as air. He has a winning personality which immediately captivates. The pictures yesterday were Louis Mercanton's production, "Possession" and Johnny Hines, the classy comedian in "Battling Torchey."

Too Smart.

Few writers have a more intimate first-hand knowledge of London lower-class life than Mr. Thomas Burke. One of his stories concerns a teacher at an East End Council school who asked a question of the class: "Tell me, boys, what would you do if someone gave you a five-pound note?"

"Up went the hand of little Jimmie Smith, the brightest boy in the school. "Well, Jimmie," said the teacher, "What would you do?" "Please, teacher," said Jimmie, "I should change the five-pound note into five one-pound notes. Then I should change the notes into ten-shilling notes. Then I should change the shillings into sixpences. Then I should change the sixpences into three-penny-bits. Then I should change the three-penny-bits into pennies. Then I should change the pennies into halfpennies."

"But tell me, Jimmie," said the teacher, "why would you do all this?" "Well," said Jimmie, "there's always the chance of someone making a mistake and giving me too much change!"

Why?

The newly-appointed stage manager decided that money should be saved as well as art preserved, and on going over the accounts he discovered two shillings a week set aside for meat for eight cats, whose mission was to keep the building clear of rats.

He decided that this was an unnecessary expenditure, and stopped it. Profits were raised, but the notes he attached to the order was too logical to be refuted. It ran:—

"If the cats eat the rats, why the meat? If they do not eat them, why the cats?"

TO CURTAIL DEATHS FROM AUTOMOBILES.

CHICAGO (A.P.)—An intelligence test for the man or woman who drives a motor car is a possibility for the next two or three years.

Representatives of 13 middle western states are to be invited to attend the Conference of Motor Vehicle Administrators, representing state automobile licensing bureaus, to be held here early in September, at which plans will be made for working out safety-first laws for automobilists and pedestrians. The movement is being fostered by the National Safety Council.

"The man who drives a car for somebody else must pass an examination," said Walter W. Miller, chief clerk of the automobile division of the Illinois Department of State. "But anybody can drive an automobile if he owns it, whether he has ordinary horse sense or not."

The accidents do not happen to licensed chauffeurs. They happen to unskilled drivers. The conference will make plans for uniform laws to govern the licensing of automobile operators to see if they are sufficiently competent mentally to handle a motor or driven vehicle. Some form of intelligence test is likely to be devised.

Representatives of the state departments of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota will be invited. It is hoped to have the conference just prior to the meeting of secretaries of state at Asheville, N.C., September 13, 14, 15.

There is a real need, according to the officials sponsoring the conference for uniform laws of driving to lessen the death rate. One way suggested is to prevent a man who never has handled a car before from buying a machine and promptly setting forth as if he were an experienced driver. This prevalent custom could be prevented, they say, by forcing the dealer by law to see that everybody to whom he sells a car is thoroughly instructed before he is permitted to operate it on the public highways.

A Women's Way.

A woman ran out of a house shouting "Fire!" A passer-by started at a gallop for the fire-station, while a second pedestrian dashed into the hall and, being unable to see or smell smoke, turned to the gasping and excited woman, and asked: "Where is the fire? I can't see any signs of me."

"I—I didn't mean fire! I—I meant murder!" she screamed. A policeman arrived at that moment and demanded to know who was being murdered. "Oh, I didn't mean murder," wailed the miserable woman, "but the biggest ran you ever set eyes on chased our cat across the kitchen just now!"

Pickled apples are an excellent relish for game or roast pork.

Wants Indians at Olympics.

MEXICO CITY—Mexico should enter a few Tarahumara Indians in the coming Olympic Games at Paris and win every long distance running event, according to Dr. M. Ail, an authority on these primitive natives of Chihuahua. The Tarahumaras can run six marathons in a day, he declares. In describing the part that running figures in these Indians' religion. One of the Tarahumara hunters from the Mineral de Ocampo district has covered 90 kilometers in 24 hours, the doctor asserts.

An east-end artisan got a foreman's job on some Nile barge works. A year later he came home for a holiday. "And do they pay you well on the Nile, Mr. Potts?" he was asked. "Well, not exactly on the Nile, mum," he replied. "We have to wait till the end of the month."

ONLY GOD KNOWS.

"Everyone seeks for truth, but God only knows who has found it. It is therefore as unjust to persecute as it is to ridicule the people for those several opinions which they cannot help entertaining upon the conviction of their reason."—Lord Chesterfield.

A Letter Friend asks me to use his letter in my column for the sake of truth. He seems to be an authority upon truth and a guardian angel of the same so I feel I should accede to his plan.

Here is his letter: "In this evening's Herald it appears to me you are a little unfair. You say I do not wish to seem too positive. You say: 'Having a mind to use a synonym for positive I looked it up in my Thesaurus, and here are some of the words I found allied to it—narrow minded, obstinate, dogmatic, bigoted, intolerant, arbitrary.'"

"Then I looked up synonym for 'positive,' and here are some of the words I found—real, actual, definitely laid down, clearly expressed, indisputable, decisive, fully assured, confident, certain.

The Non-Stop Railway.

London, Sept. 7.—A possible solution of the traffic problem in big cities is the "never-stop" railway, a test of which new method of transit is to be made in the near future at Southend-on-Sea. It is believed to have remarkable possibilities in the way of relieving the passenger traffic congestion of large cities, certainly an acute and serious problem in London and Paris. At Southend-on-Sea a never-stop railway system is in course of completion. This system is the invention of W. Yorath Lewis, a well-known engineer and his associates, and consists essentially in the use of travelling carriages of a simple type, close together, which never stop, passing through stations at such a low speed that anyone can stop on or off, but shooting up instantly to a high speed between the stations in this way the great loss of time in starting and stopping ordinary trains whether electric or steam is avoided—not only the time of the actual stoppage, but also the loss of acceleration immediately before and after. The method was first described at the British Association meeting of 1911, but although a small experimental railway on these lines was erected at Ipswich there has hitherto been no means of testing the idea on a practical scale. The equipment now under completion at Southend consists of two parallel tracks six feet apart from centre to centre and 800 yards long, joined together at each end in the form of a curve of no more than three feet radius. Between the rails is a large "skeleton" screw-thread or spiral arrangement constructed of a heavy central steel tube with spokes carrying a flat steel bar forming the spiral, the whole rotating at a constant speed and driven by an electric motor with suitable gears at each end of the track. The driving screw comes to an end at the curve, but the carriages are conveyed round and engage in the other spiral again by an arm arrangement driven by a worm wheel geared to the driving shafts. The carriages are roofed in but open at one side, each carrying eight people seated and four standing, running with rubber shod wheels on the broads rails, and under the frame they engage with the rotating screw or spiral by means of a special projecting arm carrying two rollers. That is to say, as the long-driving screw-thread revolves, in conjunction with the end driving mechanism, it conveys the carriages along the track and continuously around the whole circuit. The system is so designed that though the screw-thread revolves at a constant speed, the pitch of the thread—that is, the distance between each of the spirals or teeth—is different. When therefore, the carriage enters a portion of the screw-thread where the teeth or spirals are close together it travels very slowly, but when the teeth spread out again—that is when the teeth get further away from each other—the carriage speeds up. The arrangement is such that the carriage never stops travelling, since the screw is continually revolving at one speed, but by a suitable alteration in the pitch of the thread at intervals it slows down to 1½ miles per hour when passing through stations, and when clear of these shoots up at once to about 34 miles an hour. The passengers step in and out of the trains without difficulty, because of the low speed, just as they do in the case of a moving staircase. Many critics naturally suggest themselves to engineers, particularly the wear and tear on the driving spirals and the methods of stopping the entire series of carriages, but whether the system will justify the hopes of the inventors or not, it is an ingenious and well-thought out method which will occupy the earnest attention of traffic engineers throughout the world.

The daughter of a strict-principled old deacon had attended a dance the previous night, much against her father's wishes. When she appeared at breakfast the next morning, he greeted her with the words:—"Good morning, daughter of Satan." To which the girl replied:—"Good morning, father."

The accidents do not happen to licensed chauffeurs. They happen to unskilled drivers. The conference will make plans for uniform laws to govern the licensing of automobile operators to see if they are sufficiently competent mentally to handle a motor or driven vehicle. Some form of intelligence test is likely to be devised.

Representatives of the state departments of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Michigan, Kansas, Nebraska, and North and South Dakota will be invited. It is hoped to have the conference just prior to the meeting of secretaries of state at Asheville, N.C., September 13, 14, 15.

Simla, Sept. 7. (A.P.)—The question of the advisability of prohibiting the employment of women in mines has again been taken up by the Government of India. At present about one-third of the mine workers in India are women. Since 1842 women have been excluded from mines in England; in 1901 an attempt was made to prohibit them from Indian mines. This effort failed on account of violent opposition on the part of employers. Expression was given to the fear that if steps were taken to prevent women relatives of men workers from going below the latter would themselves refuse to work in mines.

The Department of Industries and Labor of the central government has sent a letter to each of the provincial governments, asking for advice with regard to possible legislation against the employment of women in mines.

Since 1901," says this letter, "mining conditions have undergone a considerable change. Indian mining is no longer in its infancy; the mines are deeper, and the risk of danger is accentuated. There is a steadily increasing body of public opinion which strongly deprecates the continued employment of women in mines."

Opposition to this proposed reform has already been started by the British imperialist press in India. It is argued that conditions of employment in Indian mines are fundamentally different from those in Western countries, and that Indian mine labor works in family gangs, women assisting their relatives and helping to swell their earnings.

The Impossible.

A subaltern who had been on a duty-journey, put in a bill for travelling allowance, which was not permissible as the journey did not exceed five miles.

"He got back an Objection Memorandum," said a Colonel Bird demanding his reason for making the claim, the two places not being five miles apart "as the crow flies." The reply endorsed on the memo. by the subaltern ran: "I did not go as the crow flies. I went on a horse. I am not a—Bird."

Served Him Right.

The train was just off, and Jeannie was congratulating herself on the prospect of having a compartment to herself, when a smartly-dressed man rushed on to the platform and sprang into her carriage, not a moment too soon.

"Just did it, after all," he muttered, as he flung himself into a corner seat and prepared to enjoy the evening's ride.

The Rise of Firpo.

NEW YORK, Sept. 5. (A.P.)—Luis Angel Firpo—ex-stevadore, son of an Italian emigrant to the Argentine—has scaled the pugilistic heights to challenge for the world's heavyweight title after one of the strangest, most picturesque careers the prize ring has ever known. Unheard of two years ago, he is matched to fight Jack Dempsey, the champion, at the Polo Grounds on Sept. 14. Big, strong, and possessed of a powerful punch, Firpo is recognized by boxing critics here as a dangerous contender for the title, but back in his native Argentine, Luis is more than that—he is a national hero. Firpo's early career in the land of the pampas gave little forecast of the athletic prowess he was to gain. Born October 29, 1895, nearly 28 years ago, in Buenos Aires, he had little but size and ruggedness to recommend him as a ring prospect. His father, a native of Genoa, Italy, emigrated to the Argentine at an early age. Enrique Firpo was small of stature but his wife, born of Spanish parents in the Argentine, was of much larger build and from her Luis inherited his size. The mother died several years ago leaving an older brother and a younger sister, besides Luis. The father is now employed in the Government railroad offices at Buenos Aires. Before turning to pugilism as a means of livelihood, Firpo had a variety of occupations, doing odd work as a stevedore for some time. He also earned a little as a bootblack and had another job as bottlewasher in a drug store—the foundation upon which was built the legend that he was once a drug-clerk Firpo, however, fringed under the drudgery of these tasks and devoted most of his spare time to athletics, where he demonstrated all-around prowess through natural aptitude and physical qualifications. He had read of the achieve-

RIGHTING A WRONG.

There is a cedar cottage next door,
Quaint and lovely and old,
And the logs still carry the bark they wore
When they were young and bold.
And the children who dwell there know that they Must never tear bits of that bark away.

Last night the father and mother stood
By the side of the porch and frowned—
One of the logs was bare to the wood.
There were thread-like wisps on the ground.
"We didn't do it," the children said,
And for that "untruth" they were sent to bed.

I can see that porch through my window pane
As I sit at my desk to write,
And this morning I saw, and I can explain
These two little tots were right.
"We didn't do it"—I'll pledge those words:
That havoc was wrought by two busy birds.

I watched them carry that bark away.
Strip by strip to their tree.
Doing their work at the break of day,
Thinking that none would see.
And I thought of the children wronged
last night,
And that is the reason these lines I write.

I shall show them the nest in the maple tree,
I shall tell them the things I've seen.
I shall set those punished children
free
And wash their records clean.
And I'll say: "It is true as your children said:
You should have sent two little birds to bed."

contender. He bowled over Bill Brennan, Jack McAuliffe and then halted a come-back by Jess Willard, besides scoring a number of minor victories here and in a barnstorming trip to Cuba and Mexico. He has battled his way to the top of the heavy-weight challenging heap and the title match was a natural outcome.

English Wig Etiquette

KEEPS LAWYERS ON TIPTOE.

London, Sept. 7. (A.P.)—The etiquette which here governs the wearing of the legal wig is weird and mysterious, and awful things may happen to the lawyer who disregards this etiquette, for a judge may then refuse to hear him and order him out of court.

H. P. Macmillan is one of the fortunate double-wigged lawyers and gave an amusing exhibition the other day of his thorough mastery of the etiquette of the wig.

He had to argue an appeal at the bar of the House of Lords. He also had to oppose a private bill in committee upstairs. At the bar of the House of Lords it is essential that a K.C. should wear his full bottom wig, otherwise he would be refused a hearing. But before a committee he must wear his bob wig to command a hearing.

At one moment Mr. Macmillan was at the Bar of the Lords wearing his full bottom wig, and holding his small bobbed wig in his hand. Presently he appeared upstairs before the Committee with his bobbed wig on his head, holding his full bottom wig out of sight behind his back. Four times the change had to be made as the K.C. ran up or down the stairs. He proved himself to be a lightning change artist as well as something of a sprinter. When he had finished however, he was convinced that he had well earned his fee.

THE IRON HAND.

The fathers of the olden time which time will not return—thought every boyish prank a crime that called for measures stern. When little Aleck was a t to fish upon the Sabbath day, he'd hear a birch rod swoosh and swish before he hit the hay. In every woodshed there were straps and rods and strips of lath, with which the little erring chaps were shown the righteous path. Tired Father knew infrequent joys, his lot was stern and sad, and knocking sawdust from the boys was all the fun he had. And as he made his offspring smart, he'd say, "My little Engk, this pain me in my inmost heart more than it's hurting you." Old fashioned things are done away; behind the woodshed door the birchen rod that used to stay, the strap are seen no more. On children now there's no restraint, no caustic words are said if gayly they elect to paint their native village red. For Father joyrides in his bus that's made of costly tin; he hasn't time to raise a fuss o'er every boyish sin. The woodshed now has wider doors, that cuss may enter there, and from it come no anguished roars of Alecks in despair.

Gossip and Home Hints.

WHEN AT THE SEASIDE.

Bathing dresses present little that is new this year. Again tafetta holds the field in popularity, with satin running it a close second. You see both of these fabrics bear immersion with- out clinging to the figure with that bedraggled appearance that is so much to be avoided. There is only one desirable that is of this year's birth, and that is the large monogram worked boldly on the front in block lettering rather than "artistic."

"ROLL" ON BOBBED HAIR.

Can you adopt the new coiffure? You can if you are "Miss Bobbed At- tempting to Grow Again!" You part your hair down the middle or at the side, drag it—most unbecomingly—over the head and turn up the ends into a tight roll that continues round the whole of the head. With this style you may wear your earrings as low-awaying as you like.

If the hair is inclined to be oily do not use a brush too often, it will only bring the oil from the scalp over the hair, and encourage the new flow of oil into the roots.

Washing once a fortnight is a necessity for greasy hair, but if possible it should be shampooed once in three weeks.

If the hair is difficult to dress nicely rub it with an old silk handker- chief every morning, and it will be found that a great deal of the oil has been removed.

SOAP IN TIME.

If your stocking develops a hole during the day when it is impossible to darn it, just rub the hole with a piece of slightly moistened soap. This will make the threads cling together and prevent a ladder developing further.

EUCALYPTUS OIL FOR GREASE.

Eucalyptus oil has another use besides that of curing a cold. Rubbed with a clear rag on to grease or fat stains it will effectively remove them without injury to the most delicate fabric.

THE NEWEST JUMPERS.

Quite the newest and smartest jumper is of patterned and coloured tulle silk, hand-painted in Chinese designs that show up to perfection on this neutral tinted background. Surely the artists must be proud of their creations because one seldom sees anything quite so lovely.

WATERCRESS FOR THE FAMILY.

Remember that plenty of watercress is good for every member of your family, especially during the hot weather. If just the leaves are pulled off and placed between bread and butter they make delicious sandwiches.

THOSE SUMMER STINGS.

If a very little powdered menthol be mixed with talcum powder, and the skin dusted with this, it is a discouragement to the attentions of mid- gets. Legs, arms and shoulders all should be treated, for thin stockings and jumpers are little protection.

When the swollen red marks of the bites appear on the skin, refrain from increasing the irritation by rubbing or scratching them, but put some drops of eau de Cologne on the spots at once. They will very soon subside. Ammonia is not pleasant to one's sense of smell, but it is extremely effective. If applied in solution in cases of really bad bites, and bi-carbonate of soda dissolved in water is excel- lent for bathing irritating spots caused by insects.

Household Notes.

Serve fresh, warm gingerbread with marshmallow cream sauce.
Mold cold left-over rice and serve with marshmallow cream sauce.
Left-over veal can be minced, re- heated and served in tomato cases.
Mint jelly is more attractive if it is colored green with fruit coloring.
A little chopped onion gives an additional savoriness to scrambled eggs.
Serve individual planked steaks in a ring of potatoes, and garnish with broiled tomatoes, wax beans, and on- ions.

Market News.

(Trade Review.)
 As usual this week large quantities of new fish came into the harbor, Madrox Bay, Bull, Torbay, Outer Cove, Flat Rock and Bauline as well as Topsail and Broad Cove in the Bay, so that there was a great deal of activity along the waterfront. The first of the Northern and Western schooner arrivals next week. From the Labrador catch as well as the fish caught the past week in the Straits of Belle Isle, and many other who are now living in the greater part of the fall. Much of the fish will be shipped to the West and Westward, as the price in the local market taken into consideration is satisfactory to the fisherman. We learn from the more prominent exporters that there was no advance in the price offered this week, and medium merchantable fetch $1.00 per quintal and $1.05 for the new season's catch entering these markets there is little hope, but this fish will be sold at a great sacrifice and will be practically given away, so that it will be seen that to market our new fish in anything like an advantageous manner will exercise all the ingenuity of our most careful and experienced business men. Though some sections of the Newfoundland coast as well as Labrador have been miserable failures this summer, others have done exceptionally well and the fishing of the next five or six weeks or more will largely supplement the summer's voyage and add considerably to the aggregate voyage, this phase of the fishery also adding to the uncertainty as the voyage all round may not be such a poor one as first estimates would lead us to believe. A fleet of steamers are already under charter to take cargoes of fish up the Mediterranean, and the vanguard of this will sail in a short while, but exporters we have spoken to as to what they do not know what figures may be offered for these consignments on arrival, and the feeling of uncertainty as to this and the possible outcome for the goods is general and anything but optimistic, many inclining to the opinion that a decline in prices will shortly occur in the local market. The S.S. Hekla, which takes some 15,000 qts., will be the first ship to arrive on the other side, and figures for her cargo will be heard of with interest by the trade. Besides the stocks of our fish in Spain and Italy there yet remain heavy holdings in Portugal for the figures for the Oporto market this week are 68,973 qts. with a consumption of 8,423 and about the last of our old fish will be shipped next week. Besides S.S. Hekla the S.S. Ingun will get away in a week or so for Spain and Italy and will take 20,000 qts. There cleared during the week for Pernambuco, Brazil, the schooner Inspiration with 5,714 qts. shipped by James Baird, Ltd., the Emma A. Moulton with 8,407 qts. from G. M. Barr, and Ida M. Zinck (West Indies) with 8,224 qts. cod, 76' haddock, 25 tierces salmon, 8 barrels salmon and 19 barrels herring, and the John Llewellyn from Harvey & Co., Rencontre, with 4,811 qts. for Oporto. There were shipped by the S.S. Digby for the West Indies via Boston, 94 packages cod and 150 barrels herring, by the Schem for the United Kingdom 1,090 packages cod, 4 tierces seal, 11 tuns cod oil and 103 tierces and 305 barrels herring, and by the Rosa Lind 2,710 packages cod for the West Indies and 89 for the United States as well as 27 tuns cod oil and 5 tierces salmon.

Lobsters—In a more or less desultory manner small shipments of lobsters have been coming in the past week or so and most of these are for suppliers. Few sales were effected as several of the packers are reserving their stock in the hope of an advance in the price as we remarked, light week. Dealers of good experience and long standing, however, do not view the future with any degree of assurance as the foreign markets are without any go in them, and it will be some time yet, it is feared, before any smart demand will be in evidence and any incentive to offer more than present quotations in the local market. Some enquiries (if we are rightly informed) were received recently, but whether these would signify that any activity will soon ensue it is hard to state. Some small parcels of the season's pack were recently shipped to the European market, and the Schem brought to England last trip 1,011 cases which, we hear, were sold at a reasonable fair rate, but not at a figure which would warrant more than the price now prevailing in St. John's for goods brought in here. The local consumption of lobsters is negligible, but as regards our canned salmon this is a dominant market and the season for any considerable consumption of the fish has not yet arrived. In speaking to one or two business people during the week, they seem to agree with us that something should be done in the matter of putting our canned salmon on the market and though they recognize that the foreign competition in the article is keen, they see no reason why the canning industry could not be amplified and extended so as to get our goods before the foreign consumers, who must appreciate the excellence of this product. They agree with us that a golden opportunity presents itself to advertise our canned salmon at the Empire Exhibition, when a proper display of our canned salmon should open up a good foreign trade in it. We would not be surprised to see people of enterprise and initiative take steps next year to extend Newfoundland's trade in this class of goods, and we would hail such an innovation with pleasure.

Cod Liver Oil—Matters are quiet in this market at present, and not much new refined oil is showing up in the market, and there is a feeling of uncertainty as to the prices that may be offered for the output of the refineries. Most people think it was inadvisable for the Government to retain the export duty on this oil when the trade is making a stiff fight to recover lost ground and re-establish a business that was fast declining. There must be a great stimulus to our trade in medicinal oil after the pronouncements as to its excellence made by the eminent men and experts who visited here and saw the mode of its manufacture and analyzed its properties, but with the tax on the refined oil of four cents per gallon, many have refused to make another start at the business of refining, and we may find a shortage in this class of goods just when it is necessary to have at our command all that is required for an active market. During the week it was next to impossible to ascertain just what would be paid for the first offerings of refined oil here.

Common Cod Oil—There is no snap to business, but a better enquiry is reported in some quarters. Offerings are light and the market has a healthy tone. Consumers are not disposed to take hold and such transactions as are reported are very limited quantities. The business in Manhattan oil in the United States is still very restricted, owing to the depression in the market, and this must have its effect on our produce for which there are at present better prospects than were at first anticipated.

Flour—During the week the flour market which was more or less in a fluctuating condition the two previous weeks became quiet and no further advance in price was noted. During the two previous weeks a total advance of 30 cents was registered in the local market, but despite the present easy condition of the market dealers do not look for a continuation of this aspect of the trade, but believe we have not yet seen the last of the upward trend in this article. The adverse weather conditions alluded to in the last few editions of the Trade Review undoubtedly decreased by a considerable percentage the volume of No. 1, which would have been milled, but for this occurrence and several in the trade opinion that very low figures would have been reached as the crops gave promise of an almost record output. Undoubtedly the more or less inferior grading of the wheat as a result of what has occurred will tell on the price of the superior brands of flour, which will be dearer than anyone expected a month or two ago. As we said in our last issue a large amount of flour has been purchased locally to arrive this month and in October and heavy shipments coming this way will soon eventuate. As a matter of fact it looks as if they had just commenced for this week the S. S. Manos, from Montreal, landed 10,266 barrels, and the Canadian Sapper 567 barrels; a total of 10,833 barrels. Figures vary this week from $8.25 to $8.75 per barrel wholesale, according to grade.

Pork—During the week the pork market still held the firm tendency it has shown for some little time past and the price in the local market for some lines of pork has advanced by about $1.00 per barrel. Fat Back, S.C. Clear and Ham Butt which were quoted at $27.00 last week now stand at $28.50 per barrel in the wholesale market and it is not unlikely that higher figures will be realized later. Spare Ribs still retain the same figure $22.50, the barrel wholesale. No heavy imports were recorded this week; the aggregate being 470 barrels, as follows: 123 by the S.S. Silvia from New York and 260 and 135 respectively by the Manos and Canadian Sapper from Montreal.

Beef—The increase in business in beef caused by an appreciably larger demand has caused an upward tendency in price as compared with last week and like pork a firmer future market is a possibility. There are signs that pretty large imports of beef will soon be expected to arrive and by the Silvia this week there was landed from New York 1,125 barrels and by the Canadian Sapper, from Montreal, 50 barrels. The prevailing price this week are: Bos Plank $24.50 per barrel wholesale, Bos Packet $20.50, Family Special $19.50, Boneless $19.50. Boneless Light $18.00.

Sugar—An unlooked for and quite strong trend to the sugar market took place during the week and prices have advanced from the lowest point about 25 cents per 100 lbs. or quarter cent per lb. Refined sugar shows great activity at the present time and we should not be surprised to see it advance on a considerable scale during the next month or so. There is not much sugar now being imported and the only chance for lower prices will be when the new seasons raw sugars are ground in November towards the end of the month and in the month of December. With a big crop the prices will be lower but in the meantime the present figures will hold. The imports this week were 1,232 packages by the Silvia from New York and the price for the various kinds range from $8.00 to $9.45 and $15.00 per barrel.

Tea—Pretty large shipments of this commodity are coming forward by the Red Cross and other boats and this week there was landed 55,900 packages, via 40,750 by the Silvia from New York, and 15,150 by the Canadian Sapper from Montreal. There has been a notable shortage in the quantity of tea picked this year which of course must tend to the stiffening of prices so that this important beverage, a favorite with the Newfoundlander will be a rather dear one this season.

Oats—Oats as a rule are not largely produced in this country and we rely on our imports for the greater portion of what we consume, so that from this time forward goodly consignments will be coming this way. The price during the week advanced 20 cents per sack for Western Canada, old crop, but it is too early yet to get figures from Charlottetown for the new crop which will not be available for two weeks yet. The imports this week were 2,015 bushels by the Manos and 4,000 by the Canadian Sapper, a total of 6,005 bushels. The local prices are for black $3.50 per sack, for white $3.40 and mixed $3.50 per sack, in each case of 4 bushels.

Hardware, etc.—By the next steamer from England there will likely be considerable shipments of hardware, tin and kindred goods, when prices will be fixed for this class of local requirements and will be duly chronicled in the Trade Review. At present there
