CANADIAN ANTI-APARTHEID REGISTER

INTRODUCTION

The fundamental realities of life in South Africa have remained constant in the period since the last Register was presented to the United Nations Secretary-General in September 1987 by the Secretary of State for External Affairs, the Right Honourable Joe Clark.

The majority of South Africans remain without basic political rights. The South African Government continues to defend this situation with restrictive measures that include bannings and arbitrary arrests. The international community, however, remains resolved to press relentlessly for the dismantling of the apartheid system. The Canadian Government maintains the Anti-Apartheid Register in order to allow individual Canadians to publicly express their opposition to apartheid and to maintain pressure against South Africa.

As in past volumes of the Anti-Apartheid Register, Volume III records the names of Canadian individuals and organizations that have peacefully demonstrated their opposition to apartheid. Thousands of Canadians all across the country participated in the candlelight vigil at Toronto's Harbourfront during the Commonwealth Foreign Ministers' Conference in August 1988.

Canadians participating in the Register represent a wide variety of groups from all across Canada, including school children, teachers, university students and professors, workers, union leaders and union members, clergy, artists, business people, journalists, doctors, lawyers, architects, elected government representatives and bureaucrats. Similarly, the actions undertaken by these groups and individuals to express their abhorrence of apartheid demonstrate Canadian innovation and humanitarianism. Actions range from boycotting South African products to designing and distributing anti-apartheid T-shirts; from organizing benefit concerts to welcoming refugees into Canadian homes.

REGISTRE CANADIEN DES MESURES PRISES CONTRE L'APARTHEID

INTRODUCTION

Les réalités fondamentales de la vie en Afrique du Sud n'ont pas changé depuis que le Secrétaire d'État aux Affaires extérieures, le très honorable Joe Clark, a présenté, en septembre 1987, le dernier registre au Secrétaire général des Nations Unies.

La majorité des Sud-Africains sont toujours privés de leurs droits politiques fondamentaux. Le gouvernement sud-africain continue de faire face à cette situation au moyen de mesures restrictives, y compris toutes sortes d'interdictions et d'arrestations arbitraires. La communauté internationale est toujours résolue cependant à poursuivre impitoyablement ses pressions en faveur du démantèlement de l'apartheid. Le gouvernement canadien tient un Registre des mesures prises contre l'apartheid afin de permettre aux Canadiens de faire connaître publiquement et à titre individuel leur opposition à ce régime, et de maintenir les pressions contre l'Afrique du Sud.

De même que les volumes précédents, le volume III contient les noms de Canadiens — particuliers et organisations — qui ont démontré de façon pacifique leur opposition à l'apartheid. Des milliers de Canadiens de toutes les régions du pays ont participé à la veillée aux chandelles organisée au Harbourfront de Toronto durant la Conférence des ministres des Affaires étrangères du Commonwealth, en août 1988.

Les Canadiens dont le nom figure dans ce Registre représentent divers groupes de toutes les régions du Canada, y compris des écoliers, des instituteurs, des étudiants, des professeurs d'université, des travailleurs, des dirigeants et des membres de syndicats, le clergé, des artistes, des hommes et des femmes d'affaires, des journalistes, des médecins, des avocats, des architectes, et des représentants élus du gouvernement, ainsi que des fonctionnaires. Les actions menées par ces groupes afin d'exprimer l'horreur que leur inspire l'apartheid témoignent du sens de l'initiative et de l'esprit humanitaire des Canadiens. Elles incluent toute une série de mesures, allant du boycottage des produits sud-africains à la confection et à la distribution de tee-shirts anti-apartheid; ainsi que de l'organisation de concerts de bienfaisance à l'accueil de réfugiés dans les foyers canadiens.

Organization of the Register

The Register begins with a description of the types of action taken by Canadians to protest against apartheid. This is followed by the list of names and place of residence of individuals or organizations expressing opposition to apartheid. The Register is organized by province and, within each province, entries are divided into the following two groups:

- individuals;
- companies, organizations, and institutions.

Présentation du Registre

Le registre commence par une description des différents types de mesures prises par les Canadiens en signe de protestation contre l'apartheid.

Vient ensuite le corps du document, c'est-à-dire la liste des noms des particuliers ou des organisations qui manifestent leur opposition à l'apartheid, ainsi que leur lieu de résidence. Le registre est divisé par province. Les entrées figurant sous chaque province sont réparties en deux groupes:
