

NEW COMPLICATION ARISES TO INCREASE THE DIFFICULTIES OF LOCAL DELEGATION'S MISSION

SHIPPING FEDERATION DECIDES TO CANCEL ST. JOHN'S SAILINGS FROM NOVEMBER 15, TO YEAR END

Action Taken Yesterday at Meeting Held in Montreal May Have Very Bad Effect on St. John's Trade During the Coming Winter—Twenty to Twenty-five Sailings it is Feared Will be Cut Out.

LONGSHOREMEN'S DEMAND FOR HIGHER WAGE RATE SAID TO BE RESPONSIBLE.

Company Representatives Declare They Will at Once Notify European Agents that no Steamers Will Come to St. John From November 15th to December 31st — Delegation Now Feels Success of Mission in Doubt.

Montreal, Quebec, October 10.—At a meeting of the Shipping Federation held in Montreal this afternoon, action was taken which will absolutely destroy the winter port traffic from St. John until the end of December at least.

The members of the Federation passed unanimously a resolution that all sailings from the port of St. John from November 15 to December 31st be at once cancelled.

In accordance with the terms of this resolution the different agents of companies located in Montreal have cabled their European offices stating the facts of the case and suggesting that the steamers which have been scheduled to sail from St. John be put on other routes. From statements made at the offices of the Federation today it may be believed that in view of the very favorable condition of the freight market all of these steamers, 20 to 25 in number, will be switched from St. John and converted, for the time being, into tramps, by which method they will, under existing conditions, be able under charter for full cargoes, to earn $5 per ton more than is possible under their regular schedules.

Some weeks ago when the Longshoremen's Association, of St. John, submitted to the steamship companies their scale of wages for the coming season, the Federation held a meeting in Montreal, and following this meeting negotiations, both direct and by mail, were carried on. Last week Mr. Gear went to St. John and placed before the longshoremen a counter proposition, upon which the members of the Federation had agreed. Mr. Gear explained that, in the opinion of the Federation, the advances asked by the St. John laborers were extreme, whereas if the demands had been more moderate all reasonable concessions would have been made. The counter proposal submitted by the Federation allowed 35 cents per hour per day work in place of the 40 cents asked by the men.

As regards extra time work on Sundays, holidays, meal hours, and work on various kinds of freight specified by the Longshoremen in their original request, an arrangement covering all of these points was made between Mr. Gear and a committee of five representing the Longshoremen's Union.

The latter appeared to be inclined to this proposition and members of the Federation state that they had a reasonable hope that this proposal would be readily accepted by the men, and that all fear of further complications would be eliminated. At a meeting of the Union held on Tuesday evening the proposal made by Mr. Gear on behalf of the Federation was flatly rejected.

ALL COMPANIES AT MEETING.

A communication to this effect was received in Montreal Thursday and this afternoon a meeting of the Federation was held. At this meeting the Donaldson Line, Manchester Line, Furness Line, Head Line, New Zealand Shipping Company, Elder Dempster Line and the Canadian Pacific S. S. Co. were represented, together with the Dominion Coal Company. The representative of the C. P. R. who attended was A. H. Harris, who has taken a somewhat prominent part in the negotiations now being carried on with regard to the Empress boats and the port of St. John.

At this meeting, at which Thomas Robb, the secretary was present, the whole situation was thoroughly discussed and a resolution was passed to the effect that rather than submit to the demands of the St. John Longshoremen's Association all sailings to the end of December would be immediately cancelled, and that steps be taken at once to notify the English officers of the companies to this effect.

Alexander Dick, representing the Dominion Coal Company, produced a communication from the Coal Handlers' Union of St. John containing the schedule for the coming season, while the charges in this schedule are considerably higher than have been paid in the past. Mr. Dick stated that his company would have been willing to meet any reasonable requests, but that when it comes to paying $2.50 for 8 hours work at 50 cents for even 10 minutes' work done after 7 o'clock in the evening, and $4.50 for a few minutes' work done after midnight it was more than he thought fair.

The Dominion Coal Company, Mr. Dick explained, has very large fixed interests in St. John and unlike the steamship companies cannot cancel these. The result, if the demands of the men have to be granted, will be that it will be much cheaper for the Dominion Coal Company to bunker steamers at Halifax.

Forwarding Copy.

In conversation after the meeting Mr. Robb stated that a communication outlining the views of the Federation and detailing the decision arrived at today's meeting will be at once forwarded to the various members of the Federation in St. John as a group reply to the Minister of Labor.

The steamship companies doing business in St. John will as a group reply to the Minister of Labor for a board of arbitration and at the same time will suggest that John E. Moore, of St. John, be appointed as their representative on the board.

Feeling of Consternation.

Among the members of the St. John delegation who are in Montreal this afternoon a feeling of consternation was created by the action taken by the Shipping Federation, and fully explained by that body. Different delegates expressed the opinion that the conference which has been arranged for tomorrow and which it was confidently reported would prove entirely successful will now be absolutely barren of result because of the fact that the C. P. R. as a member of the federation and as represented by Mr. Harris has joined in the decision to cancel all sailings of every nature to St. John and that although not previously published, the very fact of this request on the part of the Longshoremen's Union was looked upon by the C. P. R. as one of the reasons for which Halifax was selected as the terminal for the mail service. The cheerful spirit which pervaded the committee this afternoon has undergone a somewhat serious change and there now seems to be doubt as to the result of the visit.

Union May Act.

E. J. Tighe, business agent of the Longshoremen's Union, when his attention was called to the report from Montreal that the shipping federation had decided to cut out sailings to St. John rather than grant the wages asked for, said he would not be prepared to make any official statement about the matter until he had received instructions from the union.

"I think I may say, however, that the union is perfectly willing to submit the question of wages to arbitration," added Mr. Tighe. "We told Mr. Gear that much. In fact, we expected that if we applied to the government for arbitration, the shipping companies might make some such threat as this in order to be able to say that there was nothing to arbitrate. If the companies start arbitration we will be agreeable, and I think the whole influence of the International will be used to make the men accept the award of a fairly constituted arbitration board."

MUCH DEPENDS ON TODAY'S MEETING WITH SIR THOMAS SHAUGHNESSY IN MONTREAL

Hon. J. D. Hazen, Mayor Frink, Senator Thorne and J. M. Robinson Will Present St. John's Case to C. P. R. Head Today—Not Satisfied with the Information they Secured at Ottawa—Looks Good for Return of Empresses.

Special to The Standard.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—On the question as to whether the disagreement between the steamship companies and the longshoremen in St. John will have any serious effect on the work of the delegation to Ottawa there is some difference of opinion.

Senator Thorne looks upon the present situation as very serious. Mayor Frink is inclined to take the same view and expresses the opinion that the work of the delegation may be destroyed. Mr. Robinson, of the Board of Trade, however, holds a contrary opinion and believes that the differences which now exist regarding wages and conditions of labor are to a great extent, matters of detail in the conduct of the transportation business and will not affect the general policy of the C. P. R. to any marked extent. Among the other members of the delegation who are, perhaps, not so closely in touch with the trend of affairs, the feeling is one of great disappointment that this situation has arisen at the present time.

The whole delegation removed itself to Montreal today and would have gone home had there been a morning train. The members realize now that the success or otherwise of the mission depends to a large extent upon the outcome of the conference which has been arranged between Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, Hon. Mr. Hazen, Mayor Frink, Senator Thorne and J. M. Robinson.

This conference which might have been held at any time today was postponed, it is said, until the action of the Shipping Federation became known, and has now been arranged for 12 o'clock on Saturday at Sir Thomas Shaughnessy's office. From expressions which have been made by the delegation there is every hope that the Empresses may be restored to the St. John service unless, indeed this latest complication prevents. The three St. John men, who meet Sir Thomas will leave for home on Saturday evening and Mr. Robinson has requested that a public meeting of the citizens be called for Monday night at which a report of the trip will be presented.

It is felt that Sir Thomas Shaughnessy will not hesitate about giving his answer but that he will let the St. John men know at once what his views may be.

St. John's Request May Be Granted.

As intimated in The Standard there is every reason to believe that the request of St. John will be granted. But while there may be conditions attached to this response there is no intimation as yet to the effect, or any hint as to what their conditions might be. In fact, the feeling today has been one of almost entire confidence in the restoration of the Empresses to St. John. In view of the fact that this consultation has been definitely arranged, and that practically everything has been made public, there is now little reason why the known details of the contract arranged between the intercolonial and the Canadian Pacific should be withheld. In connection with the arrangement which was informally discussed by the delegation and once the Standard has been informed of the same, it is not deemed proper to withhold the same.

STEPHEN DALY THE VICTIM OF NIGHT DROWNING IN HARBOR

Young North End Man Fell from Ladder Used as Gang Plank on Steamer Shenandoah—Plunged into Harbor and Did Not Rise—Hasty Search for Body Proved Fruitless.

The plunging of the victim into the water by slipping from a ladder gang plank, the immediate sinking of the man to bottom, a period of unsuccessful search and then the resumption of work are few of the incidents connected with the tragic fate of one believed to be Stephen Daley, of Acadia street, about 2:30 last evening, met his death by falling from the steamer Shenandoah docked at Long wharf.

The body of the unfortunate man still rests beneath the water unrecuperated.

The unfortunate man who met this tragic fate is Stephen Daley, is the statement of a young man named McCafferty, who accompanied the victim on the boat.

At the time the accident occurred work was temporarily suspended, as the slight crew were taking their hour off. A number of longshoremen were eating on the deck of the steamer when they saw the man slip and plunge below.

According to the stories told, Daley had been around town during the evening with Mr. McCafferty of Lombard street. A short time before 12:30 o'clock the two wandered down Long wharf and went on board the steamer. Neither of the men were working on the boat, but evidently Daley was acquainted with those who were. A ladder with no railing acted as a gangway leading to the steamer which was docked to the wharf and the man was coming off the steamer he missed his foot and tumbled head long into the water.

According to the exact circumstances of the drowning could be secured last evening, but it is believed to have happened as described.

Second Officer Ronald Haynes, who was in his stateroom heard a third followed by a shout from those on deck and rushed to the side of the vessel, and Third Officer Charles Spool was also seen on the scene.

It is thought that in the fall the body was hurled against the wharf and the victim stunned for no sound

A WELL KNOWN SEA CAPTAIN IS DEAD

Yarmouth, Oct. 10.—A telegram received here announced the death of Capt. William W. Crosby, one of Yarmouth county's best known master mariners. Capt. Crosby resided in Brooklyns with a daughter, and nothing was known here respecting his illness. Letters received a few days ago conveyed the idea that instead of spending the winter here, as was his custom, he would go south. It was thought that the effect of the bites of a son of the late Josiah Crosby, and

HIGH OFFICIALS OF ALL NATIONS ATTEND

Chinese Deputies Dressed in Pink Coats and Silk Hats— President Announces Policy of Firmness.

Peking, Oct. 10.—Yuan Shi-Kai was today inducted into the office of President of the Chinese Republic and the ceremony of inauguration was surrounded with eastern brilliance. It was attended by throngs of distinguished Chinese and foreign officials, diplomats and military officers, and took place in the interior of the Tai-Ho Palace, in which many of the Ming and Ching emperors had been crowned.

The choice of the place of inauguration was a further endorsement on the sacred precincts of the Emperor within the forbidden city. The southern half of this extensive enclosure was decorated with garlands and lanterns and hall after hall and court after court toward the present residence of the little deposed emperor.

The ceremony was conducted in the vast building called the Tai-Ho Tien or Hall of Supreme Peace, which sits high up on terraces of marble and inlaid with gold and silver, with dragons and imperial gold. It was here that the emperor formally received New Year's greetings from the Manchus and Suiyuan princes.

The Chinese officials present, as well as the priests of the various religions, wore garments of colored robes of many hues, but the members of the Chinese parliament were dressed in western frock coats and silk hats, which they have adopted as their official costume.

Many of the natives of Turkestan, Tibet and Mongolia, and also some of the Chinese and Manchus appeared still to feel ill at ease in their sombre garb, which they have so recently chosen instead of their former flowing robes.

The chiefs of the foreign legations were carried to the ceremony like the president in chairs on men's shoulders and during the inauguration the brilliant uniforms of the military officers attached to the legations contrasted strongly with the black of the Chinese deputies.

Yuan Shi-Kai wore a blue military uniform. He read his declaration of independence tantamount to taking the oath of office from the dragon dais of the Emperor, over which republican precautions, both police and military, had been taken for several days as it was feared that some Chinese rebels who had cut off their queues might obtain access to the emperor disguised as Japanese.

It was not possible for the authorities to limit the number of invitations sent to the Japanese legation, and for this reason it was decided to reduce the number all round.

In spite of these precautions it was found that the rebels had succeeded in tainting the loyalty of the chief of the Peking mounted police. This was discovered in time, and he was arrested and confessed that he had been bribed to assassinate the president.

President Yuan Shi-Kai in his inaugural address, avowed his intention of maintaining a firm and steady policy.

For Seven Innings Bender Made Opponents Look Like Bush Leaguers — Philadelphia Fans Nervous When Merkle Hit Home Run.

(By "Dutch" Erwin.)

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—This afternoon proved the first really fine day for baseball since the series started, and that forced the bleacherites to remove their coats. As predicted yesterday, the Athletics had it all over the Giants, especially in the first part of the game. Big Chief Bender pitched for the Phillies and for six innings only two hits were made off his delivery and these were made by Big Larry McLean, a clean single to centre in the second inning and one that Collins at second could not handle in the fifth. It was then that McLean was taken off the base and Cooper sent in to run for him.

Up until the seventh the Athletics had the Giants looking like a lot of bush leaguers, the score being six to nothing. In four innings seven hits for a total of ten bases and four runs were made off Demaree. Then Marquard went in the box and after two were out he gave a base on balls which was followed by a two bagger by Barry and a single by Schanz, which netted two more runs. The Philadelphia fans went wild.

There was plenty of excitement and worry for the Athletic fans, however, in the seventh and eighth, when the Giants got to Bender and pounded out two singles and a home run in the seventh for three runs, a single, a two bagger and a three bagger in the eighth sent across two more runs. Bender, however, was firm and when asked if he wished to retire refused and was cheered to the echo and retired three men in order in the ninth.

It is more than expected that tomorrow's game in New York will prove the final one of the series with a win for the Athletics, and sporting writers and out of town fans are preparing to vacate New York in the evening.

The Athletics look much faster than the Red Sox last fall, while the Giants do not appear to be as fast a team as they were last year.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—But one victory stands between the Philadelphia Athletics and the world's championship in baseball tonight, for the Mackmen defeated the New York Giants at Shibe Park this afternoon by a score of 6 to 5 in the fourth game of the titular series. Before the contest was clinched, however, 20,000 Quaker City fans suffered a period of suspense that will keep the Giants' eleventh hour batting rally green in their memory for some seasons to come. The game effort of the National League players to overtake their rivals in the closing innings of the game changed the entire complexion of the battle, leaving what appeared to be a one-sided match into a contest that hung in the balance until the last put out.

Smoke of Herbs For Catarrh

A Simple, Safe, Reliable Way and it Costs Nothing to Try.

This preparation of herbs, leaves, flowers and berries (containing no tobacco or habit-forming drugs) is either smoked in an ordinary clean pipe or smoking tube, and by drawing the medicated smoke in the mouth and inhaling into the lungs or sending it out through the nostrils in a perfectly natural way, the worst case of Catarrh can be eradicated.

It is not unpleasant to use, and at the same time it is entirely harmless, and can be used by man, woman or child.

Just as Catarrh is contracted by breathing cold or dust and germ-laden air, just so this balsam antiseptic smoking remedy goes to all the affected parts of the air passages of the head, nose, throat and lungs. It can readily be seen why the ordinary treatments, such as sprays, ointments, salves, liquid or tablet medicines fail—they do not and cannot reach all the affected parts.

If you have catarrh of the nose, throat or lungs, choking, stopped-up feeling, colds, catarrhal headaches, if you are given to hawking and spitting, this simple but scientific treatment should cure you.

An illustrated book which goes thoroughly into the whole question of the cause, cure and prevention of catarrh will, upon request, be sent you by Dr. J. W. Blosser, 208 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Canada. He will also, mail you five days' free treatment. You will at once see that it is a wonderful remedy, and as it only costs one dollar for the regular treatment, it is within the reach of everyone. It is not necessary to send any money—simply send your name and address and the booklet and free trial package will be mailed you immediately.

It was shown to their own conviction that this arrangement is very unjust towards St. John and that it constitutes a blatant discrimination against that port.

Senator Thorne, speaking from memory, stated that on certain classes of freight shipped by him to Halifax the rate is $2 per ton. Under the new agreement the Canadian Pacific will be able to carry similar and even higher classes of freight at 75 cents per ton.

Joseph A. Likely told that on lumber shipments to Halifax he pays $2.25 per ton as against 75 cents which the C. P. R. will be able to carry deals for. As regards the passenger traffic, it was figured out that on a train of 13 cars, even supposing that only 8 of them carry 50 passengers each, or a total of 400 passengers, the C. P. R. will not be called upon to pay more than the maximum railroad charge of $300, which will be at the rate of 75 cents per passenger.

It is a matter of fact, and judging by the manner in which immigrant trains are frequently loaded, if many, at times, be found that the C. P. R. will carry passengers from Halifax to St. John for as low as 35 or 40 cents each. At the present time the C. P. R. is paying the Intercolonial $2.48 for first class and $2.00 for second class passengers.

None of the members of the delegation professed to be expert in matters of this kind and spoke only from personal experiences, but all were convinced that the agreement which has been made is highly unjust and that it must be opposed.

FALLING HAIR MEANS DANDRUFF IS ACTIVE

Save your hair! Get a 25 cent bottle of Danderine right now.

This, brittle, colorless and sticky hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scourge. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp, which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderine tonight—yes, anytime—will surely save your hair.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance—an incomparable gloss and softness, but what will please you most will be after just a few weeks' use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp.

Another Report. Montreal, Oct. 10.—Cancellation of sailings arranged for this winter from the port of St. John is the threat made by representatives of shipping interests running boats to Montreal in the summer and from St. John in the winter. Prominent local shipping men, however, refuse to discuss the matter for publication at present.

Thomas Robb, secretary of the Shipping Federation, made it clear that the resolution reported to have been arrived at must not be ascribed to the Federation. He stated that the shipping interests of which the C. P. R. was one, having steamers running to and from Montreal in the summer, and to and from St. John in the winter, were arranging to cancel sailings which had been arranged in connection with St. John during the coming winter, as a result of the demands made by the logshoemen at that port.

SYNOD URGES BIBLE STUDY FOR SCHOOLS

Sydney, N. S., Oct. 10.—The first business of the synod was an ovation of the Presbytery of Pictou in regard to the use of the Bible in schools. Resolutions were read that were passed by the Voluntary International Interdenominational Conference held in Halifax, January 31, 1913. These substances of the ovation and resolution is that steps should be taken to place the Bible in public schools and to further religious education in the schools.

The document was brought before the synod revealing the fact that in a western Presbytery a movement has been started to raise a memorial fund for the late Dr. Robert Murray of the Presbyterial Witness. The Hymnal Committee, at a recent meeting in Toronto, took cognizance of the matter in Toronto and sent it down to their report to synod. Dr. Murray's memorial is written in the Book of Praise and several other churches have availed themselves of their work by including his hymns in their books of praise.

We intend to conduct this business in future under the same system as our main store at 558 Main street, which enables us to sell the goods we handle at exceptionally low prices.

Our first object will be to eliminate all unnecessary working expenses so that we may do business on the lowest possible margin of profit.

The direct cause of the high cost of living today is the increased cost of labor, and in order to overcome this we will deliver no goods and sell for cash only, reducing our working expenses to a minimum, and giving our customers the benefit of this saving.

We give below a few of our prices which you will notice are considerably lower than those you usually have to pay.

Table with 2 columns: Item and Price. Items include Beefsteak, Round (15c), Beefsteak, Sirloin (16c), Beef Roasts (10c to 14c), Good Dairy Butter (29c), Good Cooking Butter (23c), Sweet Potatoes (25c), Canned Peas (25c), Stewing Beef (6, 8 and 10c), Corned Beef (8 and 10c), Moose Steak (15c), Good White Potatoes (17c), Good Red Potatoes (15c), Cranberries (25c), Apples (17c), Bright, New Spanish Onions (10c, 8 lbs. for 25c).

THIS FINE OLD GENTLEMAN ANSWERED 187 LETTERS IN REGARD TO "FRUIT-A-TIVES" People in All Parts of Canada Wanted to Know More About These Wonderful Tablets Made From Fruit Juices.

N. JOUBERT, Esq. "I heartily recommend 'Fruit-a-tives' to all who suffer from Constipation and the painful consequences—Piles. I am now over 74 years old and suffered for over 20 years with Constipation and Piles. I tried all kinds of remedies, saw the doctors and took their medicines, but nothing cured me. About four years ago, I tried 'Fruit-a-tives'—found they were doing me good. Then I procured an additional supply and was much gratified at the wonderful good they did me. After taking four boxes, I felt my bowels were regular and the Piles had disappeared."

Whether it was the fine, honest, straightforward fact that inspired confidence or the simple language, which rang true as a silver bell, that made so many people think over this letter, is hard to say. But the fact remains that one hundred and eighty-seven persons have written Mr. Joubert to enquire more fully about 'Fruit-a-tives.' And this delightful old gentleman who is now 74 years old—happy in his release from pain—grateful for his cure—took the time to answer every enquiry. Take his advice and try 'Fruit-a-tives.'

WHAT MAKES A COMPLEXION? The season's programme of evening parties, social events, etc., is before you. Why not look your best? Why not ensure a good complexion? Matter of time and perseverance only if you will use Zam-Buk. Zam-Buk is a skin food; and complexion is purely a matter of skin health. Zam-Buk smeared lightly over the face, each night, acts as a skin tonic. It stimulates the cells beneath the cuticle to healthy action, makes the capillaries and blood vessels work, and the vigorous circulation, thus started, carries away secreted impurities. Waxy, yellow deposits are thus removed. That yellow tinge gives place to the pink health.

The Mysterious Philanthropist
A melodrama with an English setting, gripping story which requires nearly two reels for the telling. An adventure and crook representing himself as a philanthropist worms himself into the affections of a remarkably beautiful and accomplished daughter of a millionaire, and becomes engaged. The final coup where the crook is caught by father and daughter attempting to crack the former's safe has got "Jimmy Valentine" skun a mile, as the boys say.

Runs Plays Capid
Pretty little love story with a delicious touch of comedy. The family doctor falls in love with rich client, a charming widow, an unfortunate arrangement which follows presents an opportunity for the widow's small baby girl to right matters. It's just too cute for anything.

WEALTHY LAKEWOOD WOMAN FIGHTS TO PROVE MAN ACCUSED OF MURDERING WOMAN INNOCENT

MRS. JASPER LYNCH AND DAUGHTERS
Mrs. Jasper Lynch, of Lakewood, N. J., is confident that her attorneys will obtain an acquittal for William J. Leehan, who is to be tried in St. John, N. B., in December on the charge of having murdered Mrs. Caroline Turner at Lakewood in April, 1911. Mrs. Lynch, who has taken up the legal battle for Leehan from altruistic motives, told a reporter some of her reasons for believing the man under arrest to be guiltless of the crime.

Through her friendship and influence with wealthy and poor persons Mrs. Lynch said she had been able to glean evidence in connection with the death of Mrs. Turner which caused her to believe that three or four men who were in a high powered automobile near the spot where Mrs. Turner disappeared on the same day and the day afterward know all about the killing of the woman. Moreover, Mrs. Lynch said she had the testimony of reliable persons to support this theory, together with a stained handkerchief bearing the initial "C," an automobile tire ring and the top part of a tall lamp.

BEAUTIFUL KIRMESS WILL BE PRESENTED NEXT WEEK

King and Queen to be Announced Soon — Cigarette Girls in Carmen Scene Cause of Much Discussion about the City — Will be a Magnificent Spectacle.

The York Theatre will be the place of the coming society Kirmess, in which over five hundred people take part, and the dates are next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights with a special matinee on Saturday afternoon. Never in all its history has that place housed such a magnificent production as this coming Kirmess will be.

Realizing that the Kirmess is to be the special social event of the season, and will be largely attended, Manager Golding of the Imperial and York theatres, is sparing no expense and trouble to fit the place up as it has never been fitted up before. The whole of the interior is being freshly painted, cleaned, new electrical effects installed both in the front of the house as well as the large stage, some new scenery will be put in, the house will be beautifully decorated from top to bottom, four large tiers will be used in the back of the stage so there will be no one hidden in the back lines, two large spot lights will be used at the rehearsals and performances, and the famous Kirmess will be presented here in all its beauty as it has been in all the larger cities of Canada and the States.

The King and Queen.
The name of the beautiful queen will be announced within the next two or three days, and the whole of St. John at the four or more performances will get a chance to pay homage to the most beautiful woman in St. John.

was originally intended, and the directors insist on every detail being carried out to the letter, and are turning a deaf ear to "prudes." It is hinted that the ministers will have something to say about this interesting matter at the different churches tomorrow. In the meantime the Cigarette Girls are rehearsing most diligently and are learning to handle their cigarettes beautifully.

Special Orchestra Leader.
The Kirmess is to have a special orchestra leader, who has played the Kirmess many times before, and the music will be one of the delights of the whole affair. Miss Bernadette Moreau, of Portland, Me., has been engaged especially for the full dress rehearsals and performances, and she will be assisted by ten of the best musicians of St. John. Miss Moreau will arrive Tuesday morning and will immediately commence to rehearse the local musicians in the beautiful and difficult Carmen, Merry Widow and other music that runs through all the Kirmess scenes.

Kirmess Ball to Be Brilliant.
The Kirmess Ball, that will follow the Kirmess, will be the most brilliant function of the year. The ball will be given on the following Tuesday night of the Kirmess, October 21st. All the Kirmess participants will attend in their brilliant costumes, and all the prettiest scenes of the Kirmess will be repeated at the ball. Invitations are to be issued soon, and they will be confined to grown people, as the little children of the Kirmess will take no part in this affair. The ball room and other rooms at the York Theatre are to be especially decorated, and the special Kirmess orchestra will play for the ball.

Kirmess Tickets.
The reserved seats for the Kirmess will be placed on sale next Wednesday morning at nine o'clock at Landry's Music Store, on King street, and a long line of people are expected to be on hand to secure choice seats. No seats will be reserved for anyone in advance, the first that are present will be allowed the pick of the house, and every seat on the ground floor and first balcony will have reserved seat coupons.

Cured Diseases of the Kidneys

And is Depended on Right Stomach and Liver Disorders.

Once Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are introduced into the family and their efficiency becomes known they are usually found too valuable to do without. For everyday ills arising from liver and bowel disorders they bring relief promptly, and when complicated diseases of the kidneys and liver develop they often prove a successful cure after doctors have failed. As an illustration, you may read the following, which was received a few days ago:

Mrs. John Wright, 53 McGee street, Toronto, Ont., states: "We have used Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills for ten years, and would not be without them. My husband suffered from kidney trouble, and after taking treatment from several doctors without receiving any benefit, tried Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, which worked a complete cure. Since that time we have used them for all stomach and liver disorders."

RASH ON FACE HANDS AND ARMS

Skin Would Flake Over and Peel, Spots Large, Used Cuticura Soap and Ointment. Has Not Had a Mark on Her Since. They Also Cured Mother of Pimples on Face.

878 Gladstone Ave., Toronto, Ont.—"My baby's trouble began as a rash and the skin used to sometimes peel off and look as if it were going to get better, but would just flake over again and peel. The spots were large and it used to make her face very red and inflamed all the time. It came on her face, hands and arms, and it used to make her restless at night. She got the rash in March and how I hated to see it on her little face and hands! I tried a lot of different things after that but nothing did any good. I saw the advertisement and sent for samples of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and it started to get better right away. I used them only about once a day, and in little more than two weeks she hadn't a spot on her anywhere. She had it three months before I used the treatment. She has not had a mark on her face and she is two and a half years old now. Cuticura Soap and Ointment also cured pimples on my face." (Signed) Mrs. McKnight, Jan. 8, 1912.

SUMMARY

(J. C. MACKINTOSH & CO.) New York, Oct. 10.—U. S. Steel unfilled tonnage figures due at noon, W. U. Lee, president Brotherhood of Locomotive Trainmen, says Western trainmen have been clamoring for another wage increase for some time.

LAIDLAW & CO'S CLOSING STOCK LETTER

(J. C. MACKINTOSH & CO.) New York, Oct. 10.—Today's stock market possessed absolutely no new features that were worthy of comment. The complete indifference of the outside public and the lack of any semblance of support from important sources early encouraged another fairly successful rally against the market.

NEWSPAPERS ON THE MARKET SITUATION

(F. B. McCURDY & CO.) New York, Oct. 10.—Commercial—As things stand, dividends on United States Steel Common seem well assured as they are on C. P. R. Journal of Commerce—It seems rather difficult to detect in the United States statement any reason for renewed strength.

N. Y. FINANCIAL BUREAU

(F. B. McCURDY & CO.) New York, Oct. 10.—French bankers are selling in London are the chief sufferers from the Balkan situation. Hill calls the currency measure socialistic. Wilson charges a bankers' conspiracy. Wilson declines to aid repeal of the five per cent rebate. The President will set off at 2 p. m. today the final blast to open the Panama Canal.

BEAR TRADERS ACTIVE IN STOCK MARKET YESTERDAY

New York, Oct. 10.—Bear traders singled out a new target for their attack today. In place of Steel or Union Pacific, on which selling has been concentrated during the recent decline, Amalgamated was the conspicuously weak stock among the leaders. Pine-tinners were again uncertain, with alternate advances and declines reflecting nothing more than the shifting tactics of professional traders, but the movement as a whole was downward.

CLOSING STOCK LETTER FROM RANDOLPH

(F. B. McCURDY & CO.) New York, Oct. 10.—First prices were 2 to 5 points lower and active months soon sold 6 to 10 points under the closing figures of last night. There was, however, apprehension of lower temperatures in the southwest, and as soon as the early selling movement slackened, prices became firmer on covering reports of a better trade demand, and a renewal of bull support.

FOR INVESTORS OF SMALL AND ODD AMOUNTS

It is a well known fact that investors of small amounts much prefer owning a number of shares of a security of a small par value than one share of $100 par value. This accounts, to a large extent, for the popularity of the shares of the Trinidad Electric Co., Maritime Telegraph & Telephone Company, the Acadia Sugar Refining Co., with investors of small amounts.

NOON LETTER ON NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, Oct. 10.—The market was dull and irregular, with strength in some places, while other stocks showed a tendency to sag off. Before long, however, pressure was again exerted against the entire list. Amalgamated showed special weakness and stocks declined sharply, many issues making new low records on this move.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY LETTER CLOSING PRICES ON MONTREAL MARKET

(F. B. McCURDY & CO.)
 Montreal, Oct. 10.—Conditions during the past week have been anything but favorable to the stock market. Wall Street in particular showed a despondent tone and the local market had all it could do to bear up under the pressure of constant selling and somewhat pessimistic advices from that centre. Another factor which made for lower prices was the situation in connection with Brazilian Traction, which was sold very heavily all week. The cause for this selling has been difficult to determine with certainty. Several rumors are afloat such as the dissolution of the pool which was formed for the purpose of taking large profits as soon as the increased dividend was paid. It turns out, however, that the increase which was predicted will not take place. Conditions in Brazil are anything but favorable. There is an acute money shortage, apparently and troubles are expected. This of itself would cause the company to conserve its financial position particularly when it is remembered that that is only beginning to assume good shape for the payment of increases. It became evident that the payment of increased dividends would not be advisable and it is said that this has been the cause of the recent liquidation. Brazilian sold down on Thursday to the low point of the week, being 86 at the opening. On Thursday afternoon the tone was better and also Friday brought renewed eagerness but the market held above Thursday's low. In addition to rumors mentioned it has been claimed that interests in the Republic of Brazil itself were sellers of the stock as well as holders in England, Montreal and Toronto. A week ago the stock was selling at 92 and the drop to 86 was not at all severe when all the circumstances are taken into consideration. There has been good buying and there can be no doubt that Brazilian has many friends and that these have been demonstrating their confidence in their favorite stock. In addition to the weakness in Brazilian there was renewed selling in C. P. R. in fact it is a long time since such sudden movements as during the past week. The bull card was undoubtedly the encouraging statements of President Shaughnessy at the recent annual meeting. Besides this, the earnings have of late been showing the improvement which has lacked for such a long time and this has had the effect of strengthening the market considerably. Berlin is reported to have been a large buyer and London considerably also. London generally brings a price higher than the opening of the day than it was at the previous night's closing in Wall Street, the inference from which is that London is feeling more cheerful than the American market. Local dealers do not know quite how to account for the weakness of Wall Street. Doubtless it is to some extent associated with the recent tariff revision passing into law but it would appear to be equally due to anticipated changes in the currency laws. In fact it has been charged that the money forces have combined in an attack upon the market in order to impress upon President Wilson the folly of his ways. By this time, however, they should have learned that it takes more than a demonstration of this sort to cause the president to alter his mind when once he has made it up as he seems to have done in the matter of the currency bill.

During the week Montreal Tramways' general manager made the announcement concerning the expenditure during the coming year which in the matter of rolling stock alone would require $2,000,000 and which in the matter of new construction would require considerably more than this figure, also it is reported that the company is prepared to take up with the city the question of an underground track system in exchange for all of which it will receive a rolling stock franchise on terms which will be satisfactory to it. There was very little trading in the securities of this company or its associated companies. Trading in Spanish River and McDonald was indulged in but to a small extent and prices were slightly on the easy side. No further announcements of a definite character have appeared on either company. McDonald was slightly easier and the price was down to 33 1/2. Steel Corporation held around the low point of 44. Altogether the general level of the local market showed remarkably little decline when the weakness of New York together with the situation in

PURE RELIGION, SUBJECT OF INSPIRING SERMON

Well Known Baptist Divine Tells Effect on Character.

ANOTHER SOURCE OF KNOWLEDGE IS BELIEF

Christianity Admits there is Much Good in other Religions, but they are Man-Made—Elevates Nations.

Brooklyn, Oct. 6.—Dr. Llewellyn L. Henson, pastor of Hanson Place Baptist Church, preached on "Pure Religion" in the Dudley Street Baptist Church, Boston, his text James 1:8: "Pure religion and undefiled before God and the Father is this, to visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unstained from the world." Dr. Henson said:

There are many religions in the world, for all men have some form of worship. Indeed, it is said that no nation has ever been found without some kind of religion. A nation's religion may be elevating or degrading, but whatever its religion is its people will be in character what its religion makes them, for men grow to be like their God. To see this one has only to compare the people of a Christian land with the people of ancient Egypt or with the inhabitants of Palestine before the days of Israel.

Christianity admits that there is much good in some of the other religions of the world. That was brought out at the Parliament of Religions at Chicago. It is also seen on the mission fields of today. But while that is willingly admitted, still these other religions do not stand with the Christian religion. They are man-made, man-inspired and man-proclaimed, while Christianity is God-inspired and God-proclaimed. There is as much difference between them and Christianity as there is between man and God.

We gain knowledge in various ways, John Locke, the founder of English and French "sensational" philosophy and psychology, as early as 1690, in his great work, an "Essay Concerning Human Understanding," said sensation and reflection are the two terms of knowledge. A recent book says a child begins to live in sensation. To him the earth is motionless. The sky and the ground are not separated very far away. The moon is about as big as a plate, and on no two succeeding nights can it be found in the same place. The sun travels in a circle each day. These and similar phenomena are to the child the beginning of knowledge. He sees things as they seem. But he soon begins to think, and as he reflects he sees that things are not exactly as they seem to me, and thus by reflection he gains further knowledge. But we know now that he does not stop with this. He learns still more by his emotions and especially does the act because of his emotions. Attention has been called to the fact that America's judgment as to slavery was formed already, but it took "Uncle Tom's Cabin" to arouse her emotions and stir her to action. "It took Japan forty years to fan her patriotic feelings, but it took only a few days and Russia found her army restless."

Another source of knowledge is belief. Man is not satisfied with what he knows. He desires to reach out beyond the known, and belief or faith, we might say, enables him to do so. Belief plants your crops (increases your money, builds your commerce, educates your children and makes multitudes of scientific discoveries. Nor do men stop with faith, but even hypothesis helps us to knowledge. This too is a favorite method of religion. An experiment is made. If it fails the supposition is abandoned. It proves successful, standing the pragmatic test, knowledge is gained.

Still another source of knowledge is instinct. Back of reason and instinct it holds away the infant to his mother's breast; it makes him cry when in pain and then he soon learns to make his wants known. And in these latter days we are coming to admit more and more that the subconscious mind is one of the principal sources of knowledge. We don't know much about it, we admit, but some would have us believe that it is as much above the ordinary human faculty as the sun is above the glowworm of earth. Many things we learn and know, but we do not know how we learn them. It is said they are from the faculties that are below the surface, from some mysterious underpurling, having said: "Unconscious thought, there is the one method. Macerate your subject—let it boil, then take the lid off and look in and there you find it—good or bad." That reminds one of the preacher who chooses his text, states his subject and outlines his sermon early in the week and then "lets it soak" until the end of the week before writing the sermon in full. To this source of knowledge by some genius, the affluence of the master composer, the inspiration of a Shakespeare, the wonderful power of the mathematician, the prophetic and "brooding" of a Lincoln when he said he "felt it in his bones." And the question has been raised as to whether this undercurrent is not really the part of the spirit force of the world, and in this way we can and do really approach God.

Not only do we gain general knowledge in all these and other ways, but by them we gain at least some knowledge of God. Furthermore, we learn to know God from nature, for, as the psalmist says, "The heavens declare the glory of God and the firmament showeth his handiwork." We also learn to know God from experience. We would not say that experience is our only source of knowledge about God, but it certainly is a real source of things divine. Professor Small is reported to have said in a recent address that there are two theories of religion. Christianity is a religion of experience—one shaped by the collective human consciousness as a result of human experience. It is a sad mistake to lose sight of the value of experience in learning about God, but it is a worse mistake to say that experience is our sole authority in religion. Man does not make his own god, but God is the Author of our religion. Therefore, perhaps, most of all, we come to know God through His own revelation of Himself as we see Him in Jesus Christ, who was God manifest in the flesh. God the Father through Christ it is, who speaks to the world and it is ours, as His followers, to obey, and this is our religion.

Religion is not, as Dr. Woolfkin has said, attendance at church service or saying one's prayers or participation in any form of worship. Nor is it a formulated creed. Men have fought and died for their creeds, it is true, and yet creeds pass away with the using, for no formal statement of belief will answer for all the centuries. Every generation makes its own creed, for, in other words, every man may state his belief if he will in his own individual way.

But "religion is life." It is oneness with God. Taking the meaning of the word it is a "binding of the soul to God." It is unity with the Highest, it is to be in rapport with the Eternal.

Our religion expresses itself in our acceptance of the authority of God and in our obedience to His command, and it issues forth in our lives in personal purity—keeping "himself unstained from the world," and in personal service—visiting "the fatherless and widows in their affliction." Here we have presented the double duty of every Christian, the sum and substance of pure religion.

But what is the good of our religion? It makes us to live both upright and useful lives, so that we can not only be as good as it is possible for us to be in the midst of our environment, but we can also do all the good that is possible for us to do in this life.

It comforts us in sorrow. This life is full of afflictions and sorrows. Our "heartstrings are so woven together" that when they are suddenly snapped and our relations are changed we need comforting influences of our Christian religion to sustain us. And this we have in pain and sorrow, in sin and death, in doubt and despair, in this is one of the benefits of the Christian faith.

It gives us assurance. We need not live in the midst of doubt but with the great apostle in a pen of praise we are enabled to shout, "I know whom I have believed." Doubts and perplexities may arise, and oftentimes they do, but whose feet are fixed on the foundations of faith can laugh at doubt and spurn perplexity, always rejoicing that he can say, "I know that my Redeemer liveth."

It gives us triumph. Ah! the note that triumphs has been heard through out the ages. Think of Luther before the Diet of Worms. Think of the Baptist who were imprisoned in Virginia, and whipped on Boston Common. Think of Judson in the dungeon of Ava. Think of the native Chinese Christians of the Boxer uprising. Yes, think of Jesus Himself, now washing the feet of His disciples, now hanging on the cross of Calvary, and now breaking the bars of death and coming forth from the tomb victoriously triumphant. No wonder Paul says, "In all these things we are more than conquerors. Paul was seen crawling away from life and Christianity is not a "hospital for the derelicts of the world," it is not an "almshouse for moral bankrupts," it is not a "lifeboat to transport men into heaven." It is activity. It is life. It is service for our fellowman. It is labor for the betterment of the world and it is religion pure and undefiled that sets men their tasks. The Christian is not the "ragged lame leper slipping into heaven," but he is the man of vigor, the man of life, the man with red blood in his veins, the man whose heart throbs with a desire to serve, the man who gives himself even as Jesus gave. He is the man who can shout "Thanks be to God who giveth us the victory," who can sing "Though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death I will fear no evil"; who really rejoices that "God is our refuge and strength," and who in supreme exultation can cry "We know that if our earthly house of this tabernacle be dissolved we have a Building of God, an house not made with hands, eternal in the heavens. That is the Christian and this is pure and undefiled religion.

new and the strange alone could satisfy them.

The following note is from the London Baptist Times:

A remarkable answer to prayer, recalling the experiences of George Muller, C. H. Spurgeon, and other men of faith and prayer, has just been received by the Baptist Missionary Society. Last week, at the committee meeting, and at the usual prayer meeting, definite prayer was made for some large gift towards the deficit. A day or two after an unknown lady called at the bank and handed in two notes of £1,000 each for the deficit. Mr. Wilson and Mr. Pullerton, and indeed, all of us, are filled with gratitude at this token that God is with us, and we ought also to see in it a command to go forward with renewed courage.

A singular situation exists in Germany with regard to total abstinence from intoxicating liquors. It is announced that as a result of his long and successful career, Emperor William has become a total abstainer. It is also announced that the faculty of Griefswald University have expelled several students because they are total abstainers and refused to join in a "beer evening" in honor of the jubilee of the Emperor. One of the abstainers was put in the college dungeon for three days. This reads like a story from the Middle Ages.

The government has great power over the university. It would be strange, when this matter comes to the Emperor's attention, if the university authorities should find themselves in difficulty for their treatment of the Emperor's temperance allies.

A new man will write "Baptist Notes," beginning next week. Rev. H. C. Newcombe, B.A., of St. George, has received and accepted a call to become pastor at Simcoe, in Succession to Dr. Bryan. Mr. Newcombe came to St. George from Yarmouth, N. S., and has had a very successful pastorate of the largest in length, during which he led in the building of a handsome new structure. Simcoe, we understand, is a promising field, the church at present being in the midst of erecting a first class Sunday School hall that will for its personal utility serve as a place of worship.

Rev. York A. King, has finished his first year as pastor of the First Church, Lawrence. Sixty-four persons have been received into the church, fifty three by baptism. All debts have been paid, and $4,000 has been raised for a new heating plant and for repairs. P. B. Stout will hold evangelistic services in the church for three weeks in November. The season's work is opening encouragingly, but we can also do all the good that is possible for us to do in this life.

A Wolfville writer says:

The Academy and Seminary have been open now for a month. In both cases the attendance is the largest in the history of the institutions and the staff of teachers is giving the greatest satisfaction. On Wednesday the College opened for registration. A large number of students, and for about the first day and although the registration is not complete it looks as though it would be about as last year, which was up to that time the largest in the history of the College. The classes have started and the new Professors are taking hold exceptionally well. We are looking forward to a splendid year.

Dr. O. C. Wallace has lost time in getting to work. The Canadian Baptist says:

The evangelistic meetings conducted by Dr. Wallace at the St. Henri mission of the church during the past week, were a success. He was in the neighborhood of thirty, let us be said to the praise of God, were led to accept Christ and confess Him.

Rev. Messrs. Camp, Hutchinson, McIntyre, Porter and McCutcheon, of St. John, started for Toronto on Monday to represent the Maritime Convention of the Mission Board meetings this week.

An English pastor, who found half of his church opposed to industrial communion cups, speaks this of his procedure:

I suggest, therefore, that the deacons should make provision for supplying the new method without discontinuing the present usage. If that be done, everyone will be free to follow his own convictions and no one will be coerced. Those who desire the separate cups may be seated in the centre of the chapel, and those who wish to continue the older method may sit on side seats. They can all be served at the same time, from the same table, and as we have never attempted to one single cup, there can be no real objection. In this way we shall secure both liberty and unity.

It is said that the senior deacon had proposed it would, as the Junior second it, and I felt that it would be a very happy way of meeting the situation. Well, there was no objection, but 'Agreed, agreed!' came from every quarter, and so our happy meeting ended and in the course of the evening the new method was tried, however, that as time went on the side seats were less and less occupied, and that some of the oldest members have been quite converted, not by argument but by witnessing the orderly and comely administration of Communion under the new arrangement. So ends my experience of changing the wine and the wine-cups, and I think both were managed very well.

Canadian Baptist have four Missions in Bolivia. One of them writing of a recent trip says:

Leaving Aruro at 9.30 a.m. we are late in the afternoon at the end of the rails, and also at the way-side, when we were doomed to spend the night. I have heard of people in Canada complaining about hotel accommodations. A trip through South America would make them content with anything, for the moment that one leaves the large cities, he leaves all conveniences behind. Separate beds are an unknown luxury, and every one has to accommodate himself as best he could in a room which contained six single beds, and in which nine messengers "in all states of the night." Sleep was impossible owing to the disturbance caused by one of the passengers who happened to be in distress, and we welcomed the 11 o'clock call to arise and prepare for the next day's journey.

Six o'clock found us seated in the heavy mountain stage coach, with seating capacity for twelve, in which we were to complete our journey. This romantic means of conveyance has long since disappeared from North American life; only a few relics are today found in the more remote sections of South America, and even these are being superseded by railroads, which are gradually pushing their way across the continent.

The rule has gained a world wide reputation for generosity. But hitch eight of these up to one conveyance and you may have some idea of the made for recreation by private persons and the public authorities, real holiday privileges were combined with those of student and devotional fellowship. Bowling, tennis, swimming, boating, socials, not to mention the day of field sports, were on the list.

From Monday, August 11, at 8 p.m. the school continues in Knox Church (of which Rev. Geo. Ross, B.D. is the pastor), till Saturday, August 17, at 12 o'clock noon. Such a full programme was offered every morning that each student had to choose between the Institute in Sabbath School Methods, and that in Young People's work; and between the classes on the Rural Problem, and those on Foreign Missions.

Each of these courses was conducted by a recognized expert of our Church. After the opening devotional exercises of the day, a series of scholarly lectures, continuing throughout the week, was given on "The Holy Spirit in the New Testament." These came the institutes, followed each by an able address which might attend, on some important work of the Church.

task the driver has in his hand to say nothing of the four pairs of reins and long whip, all of which he must skillfully manage and never tangle.

The chief difficulty seems to be to get the whole team started at the same time and in the right direction. When once this is effected they are kept going and never allowed to stop until the next changing place is reached, unless it is absolutely necessary.

When the leaders lag a little, a little Indian boy, who acts as runner, dashes ahead and gives them a few cuts with his whip; one or two lashes are dealt to the other mules as they pass and finally he jumps on the coach as it goes, surrying by.

Thus we tear down the mountain canon, crossing and recrossing the little stream, which in the rainy season becomes a raging torrent and makes all travel impossible. Neither driver nor mules have much concern for the passenger, at least the coach will strike a stone or drop into a hole, making the passengers in the last seat (where we had the unfortunate) as the driver's head. A few moments later the coach whirrs against the edge of a precipice with D. MacPhie will drop fifty or one hundred feet, and for a few times one feels a delicate thrill of excitement as he lies on his back, ready to take what ever happens.

Notwithstanding the backwardness of the mules, they still speak of Canadians as "most delightful savages."

PRESBYTERIAN

Rev. C. G. Townsend, of Fort Kent, Me., is ill with typhoid fever at the home of his brother, Rev. W. M. Townsend, of Portland, N. B.

Rev. Donald N. McRae, of Mitchell, Ont., son of the late Dr. Donald MacRae, of St. Stephen's Church, St. John, N. B., has returned to his congregation after an extended summer tour in Egypt, Palestine, Turkey and Greece.

Friends of Rev. St. MacPhie will refer to the hospital at Killarney, Man. Mr. MacPhie has held several positions of responsibility in the Maritime Provinces and is now settled at Avonmore, Ont. He was spending a few weeks in Western Canada for the purpose of inspecting a new heating plant and for other matters, when he was taken ill with typhoid.

Rev. A. D. MacKenzie, late of Roxborough and Moose Creek in the Presbyterian congregation in the Maritime, is a missionary in Trinidad, and recently inducted into the pastoral charge of St. Luke's Church, Montreal.

One of the most interesting undertakings of the Maritime Missionary Society is the work of the Marine Mission on the Pacific Coast. A new boat, the Thomas Crosby, has been purchased and is used exclusively in mission work among the miners, lumbermen, and those employed in the canneries on the west coast of British Columbia. METHODIST

Rev. Samuel Dwight Crowe, D. D., Junior General Superintendent of the Methodist Church in Canada, was well known as the very energetic and able general secretary of the Department of Temperance and Moral Reform, before he was elected to his present high office three years ago. He is a "Saul among the prophets," not only in stature but in those mental and magnetic qualities which so make a great man. He is a splendid platform speaker, clear and forceful in utterance, lucid in expression and direct in application. Among his brethren he is beloved for his generosity of spirit and sympathy of soul. From the Atlantic to the Pacific he is known by all who know him, for his many qualities, his wise discernment and his eminently sane disinterestedness in the great cause of the world.

He was born in Kingston, Ontario, in 1863, and to look at him one would judge him to be in the very prime of life.

AMHERST

The Amherst conference has closed, though the general board of missions still continues its sessions. The occasion was a notable one, filled with spiritual influence and inspiration, and the results will doubtless be seen in quickened missionary zeal and renewed devotion to the interests of Christ's Kingdom.

Most of the Methodist ministers of St. John attended and all have returned prepared to carry out the plan of campaign devised by the Missionary Executive; the first feature of which is the preaching of missionary sermons in all the churches tomorrow. The following members of the general board will be here to assist the various pastors on Sunday: Rev. S. D. Chown, D. D., general superintendent of the Methodist church, whose home is in Vancouver, B. C.; Rev. J. S. Woodworth, M. A., of Winnipeg; Rev. R. I. Warner, D. D., principal of Alma Ladies' College, St. Thomas, Ontario; and Rev. W. A. Cooke, D. D., also of Winnipeg.

The mid-week services, next Wednesday evening, will take the form of congregational missionary meetings. The programme will include (1) A Missionary Survey, covering the city district and conference; (2) Adoption of Congregational Offerings and Plans for Canada by missionary committee; (3) Prayer for World-Wide Work and our own Campaign. It is expected that the following Sunday will be given to the consideration of our foreign missionary policy.

The opening address at the Amherst conference was given by Rev. Geo. J. Bond, D. D., of Halifax, whose zeal on behalf of missions led him to make a trip to his own expense into the very heart of China some three years ago, the report of which he has embodied in an intensely interesting volume, entitled, "Our Share in China."

Rev. Dr. Bond took for his subject, "The Call of the World," and in the course of his remarks took occasion to give a worldwide view of missionary enterprise. He opened with some humorous references dealing with the Conference, remarking that "it was always fine weather when God's Ser-

The conference proposed to carry out the plan of God for the redemption of the world and to do this the church must have a spirit of prayer, a spirit of concentration and a spirit of trust. He alluded to his visit to Japan a few years ago after the close of the Russo-Japanese war and referred to the fact that their success had brought upon the Japanese a spirit of intoxication and self-confidence. The Japanese needed the Gospel and it was the duty of Methodists in this country to do their part in sending the message to them.

BAPTIST

Dr. A. H. C. Morse, a Maritime man, now pastor of First Church, Denver, Col., has received 215 new members this last year.

"The Examiner" says:

We have requested Dr. William M. Lawrence to write an article on the weakest spot in our church polity, namely, our method of setting pastors. How should a church go about the settling of a new pastor? How should a good man, who feels that his work on a particular field is finished, proceed to get another church? Our churches are blamed, and our ministers are blamed, for the present methods, but who can suggest better methods for a denomination in which liberty is cherished as among the Baptists. We want Dr. Lawrence to try his hand on this matter, and then we shall be glad to have the views of others.

Amherst Baptists are looking for at least 300 delegates at the United Baptist Convention, Oct. 17-22.

Here is a parable for today:

There is a legend current in East Anglia, and probably elsewhere, of a financial panic in which a run was made on a famous bank. The frightened depositors clamored for their money in excited crowds until, according to the story, really few remaining sovereigns were well heated over a fire in the basement and dealt out to the first applicant, but as the hours of the night. Then the nervous crowd believed in the resources of the concern, and in the perfect goodness of the gold which they got. Ordinary features of good coin of the realm, did not impress them. The

For Baking Success —This Oven Test

Success on some baking days can be expected no matter what flour you use. But constant success is rarer. It can be assured in only one way. The miller must select his wheat by oven test. So from each shipment of wheat we take ten pounds as a sample. We grind this into flour. Bread is baked from the flour.

If this bread is high in quality, large in quantity, we use the shipment from which it came. Otherwise we sell it. Constant baking success comes as a matter of course from flour bearing this name

The Tangled Web Of Calls And Cards

By Lelia James
THE question of when to call and how many cards to leave is one of the nice points which frequently arise in our social life. Most of us, I think, dread making formal calls; but even in small towns, if you want to keep many friends, calling is obligatory. Everybody who goes out at all, from the very young girl to the grand-mother, not forgetting the young man and his father, should have a card in his pocket; for they are so very inexpensive that they are well within the means of a very modest income.

Formal calls should be made between three and six in the afternoon, while men, of course, call in the evening and on Sunday afternoons. Morning calls are to be tabooed except between intimate friends or for business purposes. You know yourself that you do not care to have comparative strangers drop in on you while you are doing your housework before the noon hour.

The safest and really the sanest solution to the question of when to receive and pay calls is for every woman to have a day at home. It makes it pleasanter for everyone concerned, not the least of whom is yourself. It means that your intimate and formal friends will be sure of finding you at home; that you will always be dressed and ready to receive old and new friends, and that you will have a bit of refreshment ready which you can serve at your ease without the confusion of hurrying around which an unexpected call sometimes creates.

Who shall pay the dreaded first call? It would be difficult to answer that with one sweeping statement, for it depends on several conditions. The older residents of a town or village should call on the newcomer without any exception, and this call should be made as soon as the new neighbor has had time to settle her house.

A bride should always be called on first as soon as she has settled in her new home or has come back to her old home to live, as the case may be. A bride, however, should send out cards with her new name and full address on them, and should have her cards engraved in the lower left-hand corner. A married woman calling on a bride should leave one of her own cards and two of her husband's. This means that a woman caller never leaves any cards for the men of a household.

Those of two people who live in the same town have just met, the younger woman should make the first call upon the elder, while if they are of about the same age, the first call is made by mutual agreement or when opportunity first presents itself. All first calls should be returned within two weeks if possible.

Neckwear Of Odds And Ends

THIS is just the time to use up little odds and ends of lace and ribbon which have been accumulating "and which seemed too good to throw away, and yet they were so small that there was no apparent use for them. These may all be utilized in making fascinating jabots and collars which would be an expensive luxury if purchased in the stores.

These charming accessories, which every woman admires, are many of them made from the latest pieces of ribbon and lace, but it is the work on them which one has to pay for, so if one is fortunate enough to have a quantity of these bits of dainties, she may fashion any number of pretty pieces of neckwear, which will give a charming touch to almost any dress and will do much toward lightening

Up an otherwise dull-looking one. The variety of neckwear shown in the stores is wide. There are very large collars, fichus and jabots, and there are the tiniest of little bows, floral ornaments with pendants and even the hair pins made of a row of the faintest roses of thin silk or chiffon.

There are now over 900 women on the books of the British Medical Association, of whom, perhaps 50 per cent are practicing abroad, and some are retired from active work.

Women are now admitted on equal terms with men to every medical examination, and can do win every possible degree except those at Oxford and Cambridge. It is only the last two or three years that the College of Physicians has opened its doors to them, but the British Medical Association has recognized them almost from the first.

Inviting Young Men to Call.

As a rule young men wait to be invited to call on a young girl. The girl having met him at some place outside of her home should tell him she would like to have him drop in some evening. Such invitations are generally given informally. When the young man pays his first call the girl should be sure to have him meet his parents or at least her mother. After that formal rules will be dropped and he will feel at liberty to call when he wishes to.

If by any chance you are making a call your hostess should open the door, do not give her your cards. Put them back in your purse or drop them on the table as you go out of the house. You can easily see how embarrassing it is to receive cards at your own door. As a rule a small china or silver tray is left on the hall table for cards, and this often saves an embarrassing situation if you keep no maid.

If death has come into a family on your visiting list you should send a card to the house, either by hand or by mail, bearing a message of sympathy to those bereaved.

SUFFERED EVERYTHING

For Years, Restored To Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Canadian women are continually writing us such letters as the two following, which are heartfelt expressions of gratitude for restored health:

Glanford Station, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and never found any medicine to compare with it. I had ulcers and falling of womb and doctors did me no good. I suffered dreadfully for years until I began taking your medicine. I also recommend it for nervousness and indigestion."

Henry Clark, Glanford Station, Ont.

Chesterville, Ont.—"I heard your medicines highly praised, and a year ago I began taking them for falling of womb and ovarian trouble.

"My left side pained me all the time and just before my periods which were irregular and painful it would be worse. To sit down caused me pain and suffering and I could be so nervous sometimes that I could not bear to see any one or hear any one speak. Little specks would float before my eyes and I was always constipated.

"I cannot say too much for Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and her Pills for there are no medicines like them. I have taken them and I recommend them to all women. You may publish this testimonial."

Root-Maggots Of Cabbage Cauliflower, Radish And Onions

The Editor, Journal of Agriculture.—I have quite a large garden and grow a large area of cabbages, cauliflowers, radishes and onions. This year a small white grub has attacked them and has destroyed fully a third. What should I do to control them? What is the nature of the grub that attacks them?

J. M. Richmond, P. Q.
Ans.—Nothing can be done now to control these root-maggots, as they are working underground. The proper time is the spring when the plants are being set. The adults of the root-maggots are flies, a little smaller than houseflies. They appear about the time the early cabbages, etc., are set out, and lay their eggs on the ground around the base of the plants, sometimes on the sheaths of the leaves of onion sets. In a few days the eggs hatch and the young maggots make their way to the roots upon which they feed. Throughout June they feed, and when full grown change to a brownish pupal condition in the soil, close by where they have fed. In July, a second brood of flies appear and lay eggs, but the maggots of this and the third brood in September do but little harm, except in the case of onions. Root-maggots are difficult to control, for some growers find treatment too costly. However, many vegetable growers place large fly-paper disks around their cabbages and cauliflowers as they set them out, thus preventing the flies from laying their eggs near the base of the plant. The disks may be readily cut out by a cutting tool made of a hand of steel into the form of a half hexagon. They are 2 1/2 inches in diameter and when placed on the plant lie flat on the ground. The grower should have a supply of them ready for spring planting.

A decoction of hellebore is sometimes applied around the base of each plant a few days after the plants are set out, and at intervals of five or six days until the plants are thoroughly established. The decoction is made by steeping 2 ozs. of good fresh white hellebore in 1 qt. of water for a hour, then diluting with water to make one gallon of the decoction. Some growers use a solution of carbolic acid emulsion, prepared by boiling one quart of soft soap or one pound of hard soap in one gallon of water. When boiling 1 1/2 pint of crude carbolic acid is added, and the whole stirred until well emulsified. The emulsion may then be stored away and will keep for several days. When used it should be diluted by adding 50 gallons of water to each gallon of the emulsion. The plants are sprayed with this solution once a week until well into June.

In the case of radishes, protection can be given from the root-maggots by covering them with cheesecloth screens. Onions are more difficult to treat. Light applications of nitram of soda (100-200 pounds per acre) should be made at intervals of five days to a week. It is advisable to change the ground to a place which is free from the maggot. While hellebore decoction and carbolic emulsion are sometimes used they do not appear to be used much by growers. It should be stated here that the maggot that attacks cabbages, cauliflowers and radishes is not the same insect as the one that attacks onions.

Fruit Crop Conditions

(The Journal of Agriculture and Horticulture.)
Attention drawn once more to the value of spraying. No remark appears more frequently in the reports than that sprayed orchards are fairly good even where unsprayed orchards are total failures. Quite often an account of the poor condition of apples in a particular district ends up with the statement that in any orchards that have been thoroughly sprayed, there is a fairly good crop of clean apples. No argument is needed to show that those who grow apples must spray, and a spray pump is just essential as an apple barrel. Properly being supplied to show that apple being made, and additional evidence is being supplied to show that growers have bought spraying outfits quite freely this season. It cannot be too often pressed home that spraying is an absolute essential in every orchard, no matter how small.

Foreign Fruit Conditions.
Great Britain—Conditions in Great Britain have not improved. The weather has not been altogether unfavorable but too much damage was done by the early spring frosts and the insects and fungous diseases. Nothing apparently can now secure more than a crop below medium. The quality, however, may be better than was anticipated, earlier in the year. Pears are also poor, and a fair crop of small fruits will no way take the place of apples.
In Continental Europe the estimates of the crop show no improvement. There will undoubtedly be large exports to Germany this year and even France may import a few late apples. Denmark will harvest a good crop, but the quality is not sufficient to affect the markets.

United States—The history of the apple crop in the United States for the last month has been very similar to that of Canada, a slight deterioration in all directions. With the exception of the boxed fruit from the Pacific coast, there are, however, so many substitutes for apples that the market will be able to absorb practically all the apples grown, with the exception of the boxed fruit from the Pacific coast. There are, however, so many substitutes for apples that the market will be able to absorb practically all the apples grown, with the exception of the boxed fruit from the Pacific coast.

Prices.
Up to the time of writing there has been a very brisk demand throughout the Dominion for all kinds of small fruits and prices have consequently been rather above the average. Whether such a demand will maintain during the latter part of the season when the larger fruits will be upon the market is questionable, but in view of the fact that in nearly all sections of the Dominion the crop of apples is considerably below average, it is more than likely that so far as this commodity is concerned there will be no appreciable lowering of prices.
Last year the English merchants for the first time in several years did not advance money to local buyers. Apparently they are adhering to this resolution this year. This is due to the fact that the co-operative associations are now formed in all the best apples districts, leaving little encouragement.

agement for the itinerant apple buyer, is however, abroad in the land. The apple district of the province of Ontario is spread over so wide an area that there is a large aggregate of apples yet unaffected by any co-operative association, and in these districts the itinerant apple buyer is still to be found. We have reports of some buyers offering 75c. per barrel on the trees. This, of course, is an absurdly low price. There is absolutely no reason why every apple in Canada should not be sold this year at a price that would bring back to the grower at least $1.25 per barrel on the trees. On the other hand, we find reports of some independent co-operative associations asking $3.50 per barrel for No. 1 Spies. It is quite as absurd for a grower to accept so small a price for his apples as to leave him no profit as to ask so large a price that the merchant who handles his fruit will have no profit. As a matter of fact at prices at the present time are purely speculative, and it would be much better for all parties concerned wait until the crop is assured, if not harvested. There are many conditions that cannot be predicted at the present time that will enter into the problem and the nearer estimates can be made to the time the fruit is ready to be placed upon the market, the nearer the true value of the fruit can be gauged.

In District 1 high prices have been maintained throughout the early part of the season for all fruit sold and such predictions as have been made by correspondents would indicate a demand which has existed up to the present. In Eastern Ontario the prices for all small fruits average from 10 to 15 per cent higher than those of last year.
Reports from British Columbia with reference to prices are indeed favorable. A central selling association has been formed in the Okanagan Valley, but their prices for later fruits have not yet risen above the average. But excellent prices have been received for all small fruits with the exception possibly of early cherries.

Speculative Prices.
There is undoubtedly a slight shortage of apples in all the apple growing districts of the world for this year. The shortage is not by any means a failure, and under the stimulus of high prices the quantity extraordinary has been marketed at a later date. The present market conditions are extremely critical. On the whole, the price of apples has within the last decade somewhat similar conditions, and in each case very grave mistakes have been made in pricing the fruit upon the market. In 1910 many dealers, noting the short crop, went into the field early in the season, paid fairly high prices for those who knew the market conditions, and in all cases they stored prices to the large majority who were not able to hold their fruit. A single incident will show the results. A large retail merchant in an eastern city offered a dealer $3.50 per bushel for a very fine line of Northern Spy apples. This was refused about the middle of November. About the first of December, following a slump in prices in the British market, the dealer offered the merchant these apples at the original price of $3.50 per barrel. The dealer, however, refused. Four weeks later, in January, the apples were offered at $2.25 to the merchant, who refused them absolutely at any price, giving as his excuse that his customers were not calling for apples, considering them much too expensive, and even though the price were reduced to a reasonable one, he did not consider the chances for sale good. Later these apples were sold at public auction at $2.50 per barrel. This, of course, is only a single incident, but it is typical of thousands that are placed during the year, and many buyers are declared that it was the worst apple year that they ever knew.

Apple growers and apple dealers must not forget that there is an all-year-round competition in apples. Bananas can be bought at any season of the year. Oranges are always impossible any more to secure export prices except on a few very choice lots.

Any prices that may be given yet are purely speculative, but it is safe to say that no differences in the crop that are likely to be placed upon the market, are likely to change the price either above or below the normal price obtained as an average over the several years.
Coopers' Stock.
A disturbing feature in connection with the harvest of apples this year will be the high price of coopers' stock. Barrels are being put out freely at 10 apiece, and only a few of those who have purchased stock can get the material alone for much less than 25 cents. Apple growers are neglecting this feature of their business. Scarcely one in a hundred has any conception of the price of the raw material, the price of manufacturing it, or has given the cheapening of the package any consideration whatsoever. The price of coopers' stock is competition among local coopers. The package this year will cost not less than one-third the value of the fruit on the tree. The packer who packs his own fruit and all co-operative associations in the position of merchants in coopers' stock and barrels, and as competition becomes near future, those who have the package end of the apple business the best under control will be the most likely to succeed. In all probability the co-operative association or combinations of these associations will take up this co-operative question next year and materially improve the situation over the conditions this year.

Fruit Crop in Western Quebec
District 4 seems to have a most unfavorable year in apples. The early varieties are somewhat better than the late; but even the early varieties do not show more than 55 per cent of a full crop. McIntosh and Snow are decidedly short and somewhat badly affected with scab. The corresponding reports that he had occasion to visit a section of the Eastern townships covering an area of about 50 square miles, and failed to find a well loaded orchard in the whole district. Many of them appear to be absolutely without apples.

The Wool Industry In The British Dominions

(The Journal of Agriculture and Horticulture.)
According to statistics quoted by C. E. W. Bean in a recent article on "The Wool Industry in the British Dominions" in the Journal of the Royal Society of Arts, the British Empire has 150 million of head of sheep, not including those of British India nor the unwooled sheep of South Africa. The total number of sheep in the world is estimated at 515 million head. Thus the British Empire owns nearly, if not quite, one-third of the world's supply of sheep.

Of the 150 millions of woolled sheep Australia has 93 millions, or just over half. New Zealand 24 millions and South Africa 22 millions. The remaining forty millions are divided for the most part between Canada, the Falkland Islands and the British Isles. (According to the latest statistics Canada has less than 1 1/2 million head.)
The British Empire controls about half the world's wool trade. The sheep owner in Australia and New Zealand is usually well educated and well endowed with capital. He is a citizen for local credit being exceptionally good. The trade is well organized, the wool sales being quite independent of the intervention of middlemen. Even when the sales were made exclusively in London the Australians were able to sell their wool on their own account. Today the chief sales are made in Australia and New Zealand markets and are attended by buyers from Germany, France, Belgium and Holland, as well as from England.

The same writer foresees a great increase in the world's demand for wool. The demand is already increasing in Europe and Japan. It is expected to increase shortly in America and the demand from China, if it comes into existence, is a factor in the wool trade. Everything points to a prosperous future for the wool industry, to the special advantage of the British Dominions in which it holds such an important place.

The Province of Quebec is well endowed with land finely adapted for the growing of sheep. It has already some woolen factories, which, in spite of adverse conditions, are making excellent progress. Is it not the duty of the Quebec farmer to prepare for the coming demand for wool by maintaining the industries already established, by stocking our hills with sheep, and by learning to co-operate in the sale of wool?

Prices Decline

(The Journal of Agriculture and Horticulture.)

The Department of Labor's index number of wholesale prices stood at 125.2 in June and 124.1 in July, 1912. The numbers are percentages of the price level during the decade 1890-1899. The chief advances occurred in grains and fodder, hops and hog products, flour, oatmeal, wool, cotton and raw silk, with a decline in sheep, mutton, lambs, bananas, tin, meals, liquors, tobacco and sundries. Hides and tallow were higher but cattle and beef were somewhat lower. Retail prices were comparatively steady during July. Eggs and hog products advanced, while butter showed a general decline.

ATHLETICS AGAIN DEFEAT NEW YORK GIANTS; VICTORY TODAY WILL MEAN CHAMPIONSHIP

Demaree received a warm welcome at the start, but it was not until the second inning that the first Athletic crossed the plate. McInnis opened with a Texas Leaguer that Snodgrass could not quite reach. Strunk sacrificed and Barry's double scored McInnis. The big blow came in the fourth. With one out Strunk knocked Herzog over with a smashing single and Barry put him on third with another, taking second on Shafer's throw to third. Schang followed with a vicious liner past Doyle, scoring Strunk and Barry. He went to second on the throw to the plate and to third a moment later on McLean's passed ball. Schang scored when Merkle fumbled Bender's grounder.

When the Athletics next came to bat they faced Marquard, and after two outs had been recorded, Strunk walked on four successive wide ones. Barry's single double to left put Strunk on third, Schang promptly singled to centre, scoring Strunk and Barry. Bender went out, Marquard to Merkle, and the Athletics' run-gathering for the day was ended.

A Desperate Rally.

The desperate, but, as it proved, futile rally of the Giants came like a bolt from a clear sky. Bender, the Chippewa Indian, master of mysterious curves and a breaker that had held the Giants runless for six innings, while his teammates by pile-driving hits had scored as many runs at the expense of Demaree and Marquard. Already the fans that filled every seat in the stands and bleachers were exulting in the downfall of the New York club. Bender, confident in the big lead of his team, was pitching consistent ball and there was not a single danger signal in sight. Suddenly the Giants became transformed from listless weaklings to real Giants, who hammered the speed and slants of the Indian twirler to all parts of the park.

It was in the "lucky seventh" that the storm of hits burst upon the astonished Athletics, and before the aborigine and his fellow players could recover, three Giants had crossed the plate and the fusillade continued into the next session, when two more scored, and the team which was but a few moments before apparently outclassed, was battering down the last defences of the Mackmen. First Fred Merkle, who injured ankle still caused him to limp perceptibly, was the player who was directly responsible for the breaking through of the coat of whitewash that Bender was applying so artistically.

Merkle's Home Run.

With Burns and Murray on second and third as the result of two singles and a double steal, and two out, Merkle caught one of Bender's low balls on the outside corner of the plate and lifted it far out into left centre, where neither Oldring nor Strunk could quite reach it. The sphere hit the green turf of Shibe Park and with a mighty bound hopped over the fence into the bleachers, and Merkle trotted home after his two team mates with the third home run of the series, thus joining Baker and Schang in the roll of baseball immortals.

Spurred on by Merkle's example, Herzog, who had not made a hit in the series to date, opened the eighth with a single, only to be forced by Doyle who was similarly forced by Fletcher. Burns came through with a double down the third base, scoring Fletcher and Shafer shot a triple past first, tallying Burns.

Murray smashed a scorching drive at Collins, but the Columbia boy managed to hold the ball until he could steady himself and throw the runner out at first for the second out. Although McGraw sent two pinch hitters to bat in the ninth the Giants could not get over the run that would have tied the score for Bender was now fully aware of the danger that beset him and his team mates and pitched a ball that fairly whistled as it flashed and broke across the plate.

A Narrow Escape.

It was the narrowest kind of an escape, and but for the equally heavy hitting of the Athletics in the first part of the game, and some brilliant displays of defensive activities, the Giants would now be on even terms with the Philadelphia shortsop shot a solid drive down the left field line for two bases, on which McInnis scored. Schang drew a base on balls and the two runners were left on the bases when Bender sent a high fly to Burns, and Murphy lifted one to Snodgrass.

Demaree was warmly welcomed by the fans as he stepped to the plate and showed his confidence by making a free swing at the ball. His composure with it with considerable force and sent a long fly to Murphy, who had to do a little running to get it. Despite his limp, Snodgrass attempted to hunt safely, but was easily out at first, Bender to McInnis, Doyle raised a fly to Strunk, ending New York's fourth inning after four runs had been scored from his delivery it marked the passing of every New York pitcher except the veteran Christy Mathewson. In four games Marquard, Crandall, Teareau and Demaree have all fallen before the terrific hitting of the heavy batting Athletics. Only Mathewson, in his wonderful exhibition on Wednesday, when he shut them out, has been able to hold the American league pennant winners in check.

GAME BY INNINGS.

First Inning.
Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—Snodgrass limped slightly as he walked to the plate to open the game. Bender, who had warmed up well, lost no time in getting into action and served up a strike which Snodgrass let go by. The New York centre fielder tried to connect with the next pitch and Bender had two strikes on him. Then Snodgrass raised a high foul which Baker gathered in without effort. Captain Larry Doyle was given a hand by his New York friends as he came to the bat, and sent up a long high fly to Strunk. Fletcher ended the inning by grounding to Barry, who threw him out at first.

Demaree, in spite of the fact that he was starting in to pitch an important game in the world's series, did not appear nervous. His first offering to Eddie Murphy, a hard man to pitch to, was a strike that cut the plate in the middle. He was observed by the big New York contingent. Murphy lifted the next pitch to deep right centre and was out, as Snodgrass made a fine catch, despite his limp. Rube Oldring, who has hit safely the first time up in all the present world's series games, out loose again and sent a terrific drive down the right field foul line for three bases. It looked like sure run for the Athletics, with their heavy artillery coming up and the New York infield gathered about the youthful pitcher encouraging him. Eddie Collins came up and faced Demaree with a confident air. After getting a ball and fouling off the second pitch, the second sacker chopped a grounder to Merkle, who scooped up the ball and made a lightning throw to McLean to catch the flying Oldring. The play at the plate was close and Umpire Egan called Oldring out at which the latter flared up and protested vigorously. Then came a daring play, which upset the New York infield for a moment. While Demaree was watching McLean signaling for the next ball, Collins made a dash for second base. The young pitcher instead of throwing to second, shot the ball to Merkle, who made a quick throw to the middle bag, but Collins easily slid into the base for a steal. Collins was left stranded at second, however, as Baker raised a high foul fly to Shafer. Demaree was given a vigorous hand clapping by the supporters of the Giants for holding the Athletics runless in this inning.

Second Inning.

Burns opened the second inning for the National Leaguers by flying out to Murphy. Shafer fell a victim to strikes. Murray reached first base when Bender hit him on the arm with a pitched ball. Larry McLean sent a slashing single to right field, on which Murphy sprinted to third. Merkle sent up a high foul, which McInnis caught right at the bench of the New York players, retiring the side. In the Phillies' half of the second inning Snodgrass, owing to his "charley horse" could not reach McInnis' Texas leaguer, and the runner was safe at first. Strunk laid down a sacrifice, Demaree to Merkle, advancing McInnis to second. After Merkle had dropped Barry's high foul fly, the Philadelphia shortsop shot a solid drive down the left field line for two bases, on which McInnis scored. Schang drew a base on balls and the two runners were left on the bases when Bender sent a high fly to Burns, and Murphy lifted one to Snodgrass.

Demaree was warmly welcomed by the fans as he stepped to the plate and showed his confidence by making a free swing at the ball. His composure with it with considerable force and sent a long fly to Murphy, who had to do a little running to get it. In four games Marquard, Crandall, Teareau and Demaree have all fallen before the terrific hitting of the heavy batting Athletics. Only Mathewson, in his wonderful exhibition on Wednesday, when he shut them out, has been able to hold the American league pennant winners in check.

Third Inning.
Burns opened New York's big seventh with a single, Bender belting down the ball, but unable to field it. Shafer sent up a high fly to Collins. Murray shot a single into left field, and Burns was held on second. With three balls and two strikes on him Wilson missed the third strike and was out. Both Burns and Murray made a double steal. Schang threw to third, but Baker could not hold the throw with Burns coming into the bag feet first. Then New York got into the game on a hard drive by Merkle for a home run, scoring Burns and Murray ahead of him. The ball travelled fast to left centre, struck the ground several feet in front of the centre field bleachers and bounded into the stand. New York fans cheered frantically as they realized that New team had cut the Athletics lead in half. Marquard ended the inning by hitting a weak grounder to Bender, shortstop shoving his displeasure by stepping on the plate and turning his back to Egan as the latter was talking to him. Fletcher finally met the ball and flet out to Collins. Burns went out on a high fly to Baker and Shafer struck out for the second time on one of Bender's swift fastballs.

Fourth Inning.
The Giants were quickly retired in the first half of the fourth inning. Fletcher protested again Egan's calling of a strike and he and the umpire argued for a moment, the New York shortsop showing his displeasure by stepping on the plate and turning his back to Egan as the latter was talking to him. Fletcher finally met the ball and flet out to Collins. Burns went out on a high fly to Baker and Shafer struck out for the second time on one of Bender's swift fastballs.

There was much excitement at the top of New York's batting order came up in the eighth. Herzog opened with a single to left and was forced at second. Then New York got into the game on a hard drive by Merkle for a home run, scoring Burns and Murray ahead of him. The ball travelled fast to left centre, struck the ground several feet in front of the centre field bleachers and bounded into the stand. Fifth Inning.
A three run lead, with Bender going good and Demaree having trouble, looked very bright for not only the Athletics' rooters, but also to the Giants' supporters. But the New York players were not dismayed. Opening the fifth inning Murray drew a base on balls. McLean whipped a single to centre on which Murray went to third. Manager McGraw here took McLean out of the game and let Cooper run for him. A quick throw by Schang nearly caught the runner off first base, and he hugged it a little closer. Merkle struck his fly for an out in deep right field. Eddie Grant was sent into bat for Marquard. He took the limit in balls and strikes and then fouled out to Schang, who caught the ball half way to the grand stand and the game was over.

Sixth Inning.
The Giants were quickly retired in the first half of the fourth inning. Fletcher protested again Egan's calling of a strike and he and the umpire argued for a moment, the New York shortsop showing his displeasure by stepping on the plate and turning his back to Egan as the latter was talking to him. Ninth Inning.
Realizing that the Giants were dangerously near, the American leaguers again went at Marquard viciously, but the left-hander held them safe. Barry sent out a long fly to Murray. Schang waited and was given a base on balls amid much cheering. Bender fled to Murray and there were groans in the stand when Murphy hit straight to Doyle, who stepped over to second forcing out Schang.

THE FLOODS OF WELLINGTON AT SALAMANCA

July 22, 1812

Salamanca was the first decided victory gained by Wellington...

It was a French officer who conceived the story of Salamanca into the epigram that it was "the battle in which 40,000 men had been beaten in forty minutes in an epigram, and the French had been repulsed; here they were driven headlong, as it were, before a mighty wind without help or delay..."

He was a gallant soldier, a fine tactician, a French officer, and of a half scornful eagerness to overthrow the mere "spicy general" opposed to him...

En avant, Français! dashed on the British, who were carried away in a moment by the rush of the whole mass, French and British, struggling together, and smiting furiously at each other, went tumbling down the steep slope...

It was a brilliant stroke of generalship, and on the evening of the 17th, Cotton, with no support in the cavalry, had the obstinate courage that combats characterize his command...

Wellington reached Salamanca on June 17, and Marmont, who could assemble only 25,000 troops, fell back before him. But he left Salamanca strongly fortified. No less than three less convents and twenty-two colleges, it was said, had been pulled down to furnish material for the French forts...

Marmont found he must do something to divert the fierceness with which the British pressed on his position...

Just imagine two million persons held up by a rainstorm in New York! That is just what happens very frequently. The gigantic subway system is easy prey for a heavy storm, the flooding of the tracks paralyzing the roads and leaving the congested business sections helpless...

tion was present and listened, and smiled at the story, drew a realistic sketch of the manner in which Marmont's unobscured move was detected by the British general.

He (Wellington) had been very busy all the morning, and had not thought of breakfast, and the staff had grown very hungry; at last, however, there was a pause (I think he said about two) near a farmyard surrounded by a wall, where a kind of breakfast was spread on the ground, and the staff alighted and fell to. While they were eating, the Duke rode into the enclosure; he refused to alight and advised them to make haste; he seemed anxious and on the look-out for some news, and he was not long in leaving them.

While Pakenham, bearing onward with a conquering violence, was closing in on their flank, and the fifth division advancing with a storm of fire on the front, the interval between the two attacks was suddenly filled with a whirling cloud of dust, moving swiftly forward and carrying within its womb the trampling sound of a charging multitude. As it passed, the light of the third division, the Marchant's heavy horsemen, flanked by Anson's light cavalry, broke forth from it at full speed, and the next instant 1500 French infantry, though formed in several lines, were trampled down and scattered in all directions; they cast away their arms and ran through the openings of the British squadrons, while the dragons, big men on their long glittering swords in uncontrolled power, and the third division followed at speed, shouting as they passed, and the French masses fell in succession before the dreadful charge.

For the INDUSTRIOUS NEEDLEWOMAN

By ADELAIDE BYRD

FOR PLATTER and BREAD TRAY

DAINTY GARMENTS FOR BABY

JUST as a change, the oval dolly furnish a delightful task for you today. They are beautiful contributing parts of a luncheon set which you will prize and press into service with joy.

The large one is for the platter, and as only one-half of it is shown, you will have to turn the design to complete the dolly, if you are tracing it according to directions.

There is excellent possibility of combining eyelot work with the buttonhole stitch that is so appropriate for wheat, two of the long French knots, side by side, making the grain. You will see the illustration of the stitch on the page.

It is formed by inserting the needle at the top of the oval and bringing the point out at the base. Then the thread is wound around it many times. You will probably make too few at first.

Remember, it must be a solid coil when completed, extending the length of the space. Hold the left thumb over the thread and pull the needle through the coil. Pass it through the material and out again at the top. Make a second buttonhole stitch beside the first. The grain of wheat will be there in a lovely naturalness. This buttonhole stitch is almost as quick as French knots, and comes back from the laundry just as good as before washing.

The ends of each grain should be in outline stitch and the central vein the same.

Eyelets are so easily worked that I suggest them for the rest of the design. Punch the holes and use soft untwisted cotton for the working. An outlining around the hole with running stitches will give a stability to your eyelets, but many embroiderers dispense with this and just work over and over in close stitches. It is fascinating work, and the only difficulty that you will have is in stopping the work.

Solid work is a delightful alternative. Work the circles one way for the padding and then in the opposite way.

When working the scallops, a padding of darning cotton should be given by long stitches, or chain stitches. Another method is that of holding the strands of darning cotton, if or it, with the left hand quite as you hold couching thread and working in buttonhole stitches from the left to right.

The bread tray is worked similarly and must not be forgotten in your hand-worked luncheon set. And that reminds me: Next week the plate and tumbler dollies are coming. Be ready embroiderers dispense with this and

It is perfectly natural for women to love to make pretty little garments for babies, either their own or the child of some dear friend. But if she is fond of needlework, the making of these dainty wrappings will be a positive joy unto her soul.

In these the best materials, the simplest designs and the finest needlework are blended for embroidery on infants' clothing should always be simple in design and very delicately executed.

Only the softest, most delicate color tones are allowable; pale pink, tender blue and the faintest lavender are alone in good taste. Either these shades or all-whites are seen in infant's linens, and when either color is chosen it is adhered to in the entire outfit.

A pretty little sacque of white cashmere embroidered with pink or blue makes a charming gift for an infant. Patterns for these small garments can be bought for a few cents and after the material has been cut out the embroidery design is stamped around the edge and on the cuffs that finish each little sleeve.

A lining of soft Japanese silk should be cut with the cashmere and basted firmly around the edge, so that when the scallops that edge the sacque are worked the lining will be caught in with the outside.

Before the embroidery is started the sacque is pinned at the under-arm and shoulder seams, which are finished with feather stitching to keep them flat. This done, the design on the sacque is worked after it has been padded slightly with soft darning cotton. The sleeves are then made, lined and the cuffs embroidered. The sleeves are sewed in with the seam about an inch in front of the under-arm seam. Silk tape is used to bind the armholes.

A pretty vine design or one showing very small flowers is best to choose for these garments, and they should be worked in the satin stitch, using the silk floss and a fine needle. The sacque is fastened at the neck with a bow of inch-wide wash ribbon the color of the embroidery silk used.

A cape hood is another very useful garment for the young baby. This is made from a square yard of white cashmere or flannel lined with china silk, either white or in a delicate shade of pink or blue. One corner of the square is rounded off, the lining basted firmly to the edge all around, then buttonholed in scallops with silk floss. If you wish, a pretty floral design can be embroidered at each of the square corners; but if this is done, it must be worked before the silk lining is basted in.

The rounded-off corner is altered up to form the top of the hood by two rows of shirring about an inch from the edge. These are held tight by stitching through them after they are adjusted. Two inches back from the rounded corner, extending diagonally across the corner from edge to edge, two rows of stitching, placed an inch apart, form a casing through which narrow wash ribbon is run. This forms the neck stay of the hood, which can be adjusted around the baby's throat at will.

Instead of cotton there is the cashmere or flannel blanket or carriage robe with its scalloped edge and embroidered corners. This can be lined or unlined, as you wish. Petticoats of flannel are their embroidered sides, and all the little garments of fine material and cambric, linen and lawn have a touch of fine handwork used in their construction. A set of infant's patterns will suggest many ways of artistic decoration that can be worked by the needlewoman of experience.

How to Transfer

HERE are suggestions for transferring the pattern before you to any material before working.

Perhaps the easiest way is the "window-pane" method. This is successful when the material is thin, like linen, batiste, etc. Pin the sheet of paper and the material together and hold them up against the glass of a window. With a sharp pencil draw on the material the design, which can be easily seen through the glass. If one-half of the design only is given, unpin the fabric. The strong light behind will make it plain.

If you have carbon paper, you should place the sheet between your fabric and the newspaper. The latter is on top. With a sharp pencil go over the outline of the design. The impression will be left in the line and will last until worked. This method is successful on heavy material.

The last way is also easy. On wax paper or ordinary tissue paper trace the pattern before you. When the design is completed, turn over the paper and outline the pattern with a heavy lead pencil. Then place the design down on the fabric and redraw the outline, tracing hard with the pencil. The pattern will be transferred without difficulty. Surely the way is easy.

Points to Remember

NEVER keep needles in a needle-book with the "leaves" made of flannel. The dressing in the woolen cloth is very apt to rust them. Make the "leaves" of your needle-books of small pieces of chambric skin or bits of hid cut from your coat-off gloves. It is best to have a small emery bag attached to the book or case in which your needles are kept; in case one of them becomes rusty it can be cleaned by passing it through the emery several times.

Before sewing basting on a wash skirt, shrink the basting by pouring boiling water over it and letting it soak therein for five or ten minutes. Dry and iron. If this precaution is not taken, the first time the skirt is washed the basting will shrink, and in all probability will have to be taken off the skirt and made larger before the skirt can be worn again. Save yourself trouble and work by shrinking the basting first.

Instead of putting machine-stitching pleats or tucks in a lace blouse or one of very fine material, catch the tucks down with French knots. These can be worked in any shade you desire or can be white or the color that matches the blouse. Not and lace are sure to shrink when washed, causing the machine stitching to pucker or break when the garment is ironed or pulled into shape.

In any case the French knots make a very attractive trimming.

ONE-HALF OF PLATTER DESIGN

A Daisy Blouse

ONE of the daintiest blouses I have ever seen was made of white batiste, hand embroidered with garlands of daisies laid on like a daisy chain around the edges of the collar, cuffs and down the front.

It was a delightfully simple little blouse, which could easily be copied at home by any girl who is fond of dainty needlework.

Handkerchief linen, cotton voile or soft Japanese silk could be used in place of the batiste if you do not care for that material. The blouse is cut over a plain model having a deep sailor collar which opens in a V in front. This has the edge cut in scallops, buttonholed with fine white mercerized cotton; or, if it is made of silk, the embroidery would be of silk floss in shades that will match the natural flowers. Work the petals with white floss, and tip them with the very palest shade of pink or yellow, should you desire a touch of color in the embroidery. The stems and leaves will have to be worked in the stem stitch with very pale green floss; but if the embroidery is done in cotton, I advise you to let it all be in white.

Pad the petals with darning cotton; then cover it with the fine cotton, using the stem stitch or the satin stitch. The centers of the flowers look well when worked with French knots.

The scalloped edges are first padded, then worked with the buttonhole stitch. And if you wish to make the work a little more elaborate, work an eyelot in the center of each scallop or a round dot in solid embroidery.

The daisy is one of the simplest flowers to draw, and you can sketch your own pattern, making two or three flowers, with stem and a leaf to each flower. Then repeat the design all along the edge of the collar, cuffs and front. It can be traced from the paper on which it is drawn to the material by the use of carbon paper and a hard pencil or the end of a knitting needle.

I feel sure that the finished blouse will justify the time spent in making it, and that you will be delighted with the result of your labor.

When Mending Matting

MATTING is such an unhandy thing to work with," exclaimed a young housekeeper who was trying to mend a hole that had been worn through the matting on the bedroom floor.

"It is impossible to sew it, and if I tack a patch over this hole, it will look untidy, and will be kicked up at the edge in a few days, anyway."

That is partly true; matting is difficult to work with and tacked-on patches are unsightly; but it can be sewed, if you go about the sewing properly and use raffia instead of thread.

Raffia can be bought by the hank in colors that correspond with the colors in the matting, or in "natural" color, which matches the groundwork in nearly all the mattings. It costs but a few cents and will wear as long as the matting itself.

When a worn place or hole appears in the matting, it can be darned with threads or strands of raffia. Use a long darning needle having an elongated eye, and work the strands of raffia in and out of the matting, the same as you would if you were darning a hole or torn place in any other material.

When patching, cut a piece of matting several inches larger than the hole itself, taking care to match the figure in the patch with that in the matting on the floor; then lay the patch under the hole and darn the worn edges of the matting down to it, weaving the raffia in and out, over and under, using colors where colors in the figure in the matting demand, and natural-colored raffia on the groundwork.

If neatly done, this is a successful way of mending matting. After the work is finished, the worn place will not be at all noticeable.

Raffia is the best thing to use when sewing strips or breadths of matting together. Lay the two breadths together, as you would when sewing carpet, and sew over and over with a firm but not too tight stitch. When the breadths are opened out flat, the stitches will look like a portion of the woven material.

Sewing-Room Sense

WHEN darning a rent in woolen goods, and it is impossible to unravel out the goods, make for thread to darn with, use long hairs from your own head. The loose weave of the wool loses the hair in its meshes, and so the darn becomes invisible.

The best way to clean rusty needles is to run them up and down in the earth. Just go out in the garden and stick the needles in the ground, then pull them out. Have the needles threaded, with the thread tied double, so there will be something to catch hold of to extract the needles from the earth. This method is even better than using an emery bag.

When buttons come off shoes and you sew them on again, run through all the other buttons with the same thread with which you replace the missing ones. It will strengthen them all and make the next button sewing a task far in the future.

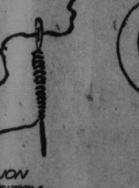

Small holes in black or white kid gloves can easily be mended with court-plaster. Cut the plaster a little larger than the hole itself, and stick it to the under part of the glove directly over the hole, pressing the kid down smooth on the sticky surface of the plaster. This will last as long as the gloves themselves do.

If the tip breaks off the end of your scissors, the jagged point may be smoothed off by rubbing it on a whetstone. The point will be uneven, but it will cut all right. The same treatment may be used for blunted needles.

Glove clasps or snap fasteners are better to use as a fastening for plaques on cloth dresses than are buttons and eyes. But when the latter are used be sure to buy those having the cast eyes instead of the ordinary loop eye.

Silk petticoats always give way first at the waist; therefore, when buying a new one, see silk seam binding over each seam on the flat side. This will often serve as a cure for worn-out petticoats.

When doing drawn work or hemstitching on linen, soap the place where the threads are to be drawn, using a thick soap lather and a soft brush. If the work is once started, it will be an easy matter to draw out the threads, as they slip very easily on the soapy surface.

BUILLION STITCH

Trim Your Winter Hat

HAT trimming nowadays is such a simple matter that almost any girl who can sew at all will be able to trim her own hats for the coming season.

Just now it is the fashion to wear hats almost devoid of any trimming whatever; but a cluster of flowers or a wing placed in a jaunty manner at one side or in the center of the front will be all that is necessary as trimming for one of the new felt or velvet hats.

Hats having turned-up brims are exceedingly fashionable and very often are trimmed with two small wings, one sewed on the under brim and one on the inside of the brim, then taking a small stitch in the feather back to the inside again. Always use elastic thread that has been waxed; the stitches can be concealed under the fronts of the wings.

When sewing feathers or wings on a felt hat, catch the threads through from the inside of the brim, then taking a small stitch in the feather back to the inside again. Always use elastic thread that has been waxed; the stitches can be concealed under the fronts of the wings.

A charming hat of black velvet has a rather low round crown, with the brim flaring slightly on the left side. Its only trimming are two greenish-gold wings sewed to the brim, one on the upper and one on the lower edge. The effect is decidedly chic, for on the velvet, velour and plush hats very little trimming is required. A single rose or a cluster of small blossoms sewed to one side of the brim, an upstanding aigrette or a little cockade of plumed ribbon rising from the center front, is quite enough to trim the average hat for morning or afternoon wear. You should have no trouble at all this season in trimming your own hats; wash the styles and copy them if you are clever at working with a needle.

Contestants who happen to send in a solution and forget to enclose the money must repeat their solution in the later letter in which their money is enclosed.

Special Conditions

While the winning of a prize does not depend upon the time the solution is registered, the puzzle is more or less elusive and the best thing to do is to begin counting at once. Send in your solution, and if later on you find you have made a mistake, send in another. There is no limit to the number of different solutions that may be registered.

All those entering the contest will, as a condition and consideration, be required to abide by the ruling of the contest manager. In the event of any questions arising the puzzle manager, if he deems it wise, may appoint a committee to assist him in deciding them, and those entering the contest do so with the understanding that such decisions will be final.

Close of the Contest

THIS CONTEST WILL CLOSE ON SATURDAY NOVEMBER 8th.

Always use the blank coupon form printed herewith. Read this blank carefully and fill out every portion of it. It is absolutely necessary that attention be paid to all the questions on this blank for which answers are desired in order that there be no confusion in sending out The Standard to new subscribers or in crediting payments on old subscriptions. Write the names and addresses plainly.

The General Scheme of the Contest

This contest is simple and contains no catch or trick of any sort. It is conducted by The Standard for the purpose of securing new subscriptions and making collections on renewals. At the same time it offers to new and old subscribers an opportunity by which, through the exercise of their brains and a little patience, they may earn generous amounts of money.

With this announcement there appears a chart containing a number of figures from 2 to 9. There are no higher numbers than 9—that is there are no double numbers. The puzzle is to add together all these numbers and send in to The Standard the amount you find as the total. It is a simple question in addition.

There will no doubt be a number of correct answers—perhaps a large number. If it should happen that more than 120 persons find the correct answer, then a second puzzle will be given which will be open only to those whose solutions of the present puzzle are correct. This second puzzle will be solely for the purpose of deciding ties. If there are less than 120 correct solutions to the present puzzle prizes will be awarded to those who send in the correct solutions and those nearest correct until the total number of 120 prizes have been awarded. In this event the first prize will be given to the one whose solution bears the earliest post mark or hour of receipt if delivered at The Standard office personally.

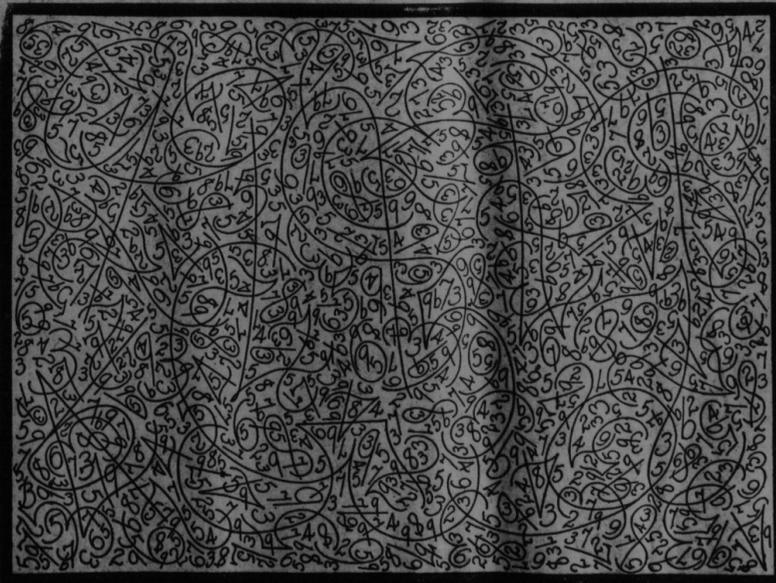

Whatever amounts of money may be sent in will be credited on one continuous subscription to The Standard unless otherwise requested by the competitor, with this exception, that not more than $3.00 will be credited on a single subscription to The Semi-Weekly Standard. Anyone sending more than $3.00 will be given The Daily Standard.

Any amount from $1.00 up to $6.00 may be sent with each solution and all such amounts will be credited on the subscriptions as they are received. No solutions not accompanied by money will be accepted and if competitors forget to enclose a payment with a solution they must send a copy of their solution later when sending their money.

The prizes have been arranged on a dividend basis and the amount to be won by any successful competitor depends very largely on the amount of the payment made on subscription account with the winning solution. For instance if a competitor encloses $1.00 with any one solution and this solution wins the first prize, the amount of that prize will be $125.00. If the competitor sends $2.00 with the winning solution the amount of the prize will be $150.00, and so on, so that a payment of $6.00 with the winning solution will mean a first prize of $250.00.

Address all enquiries, solutions, remittances, etc. to "The Puzzle Editor"—The Standard, St. John, N. B. Remit by Express Order or Post Office Order or by Registered Letter. Send in your solution early as in case there are no ties, the prizes will be awarded according to the time the solutions are received.

What's the Total of These Figures?

On the opposite side of this announcement will be found fuller particulars as to how solutions are to be submitted and prizes awarded. There is also printed another chart of the puzzle so that anyone who may happen to spoil the first one attempted will have another copy at hand.

How to Enter

This contest is open to any person residing in the Maritime Provinces and to all others who may be within reasonable reach of The Standard office by mail.

A payment on subscriptions to the Standard, Daily or Semi-Weekly, of from $1.00 to $6.00, entitles the contestant to submit a solution of the puzzle.

The amount of money paid in will cover the subscription price for the paper according to the regular rate whether the rate be for city delivery or by mail.

AS MANY DIFFERENT SOLUTIONS MAY BE SUBMITTED AS THE CONTESTANT DESIRES, UPON MAKING AN ADDITIONAL PAYMENT WITH EACH ONE, BUT NOT MORE THAN $6.00 CAN BE PAID WITH ANY ONE SOLUTION.

It is not necessary to pay the same amount with each solution if more than one be submitted.

As the prizes have an added value according to what is paid in on subscription with the winning solutions contestants should familiarize themselves with the dividend schedule before sending in their subscriptions and their solutions.

Remit by check, money order or registered letter.

Whatever is paid, whether on the one or on a number of solutions will apply on one continuous subscription to The Standard.

Solutions not accompanied by cash subscriptions will not be registered.

This contest is open to both old and new subscribers.

The Puzzle

The problem is to ascertain the total of the figures in the puzzle chart.

Just add them up as if they were in one long column under each other.

The figures run from 2 to 9. THERE ARE NO DOUBLE FIGURES and no characters which are not figures. The tail of the "6's" is a decided curve, while the tail of the "9's" is straight. All the other figures have their usual characteristics. So there is no intent to allow any question to arise over the identity of a figure.

In the event that no one ascertains the exact total, the prizes will be awarded for the nearest correct solutions.

Ten prizes of $5.00 in gold to which will be added the amount paid in by subscribers with the winning solutions. Each of these ten prizes may be worth $11.00.

FIFTY PRIZES
50 prizes of $1.00 each to which will be added the amount paid in by the subscribers with the winning solutions. These prizes may be worth $7.00 each.

FIFTY PRIZES
Fifty other prizes of $3.00 each without any additional dividend.

This Whole Prize List Makes a Total of $1,310.00 Divided Into 20 Prizes.

Contest Closes Saturday, November 8, 1913

Always use the solution blank and read it carefully before filling out. Write your name and address plainly.

The payment of from $1.00 up to $6.00 on your subscription allows you one solution; but the payment of $6.00 on your subscription gives you one solution and six times as much in dividends.

An additional payment of from $1.00 up to $6.00 entitles you to another solution. Remember, the larger the amount you pay on your subscription the larger will be your dividends should you win one of the dividend prizes.

Study the first prizes and dividends offered and send in your solution today. No one associated with The Standard in any way will be allowed to enter this contest.

Deciding Ties

In case there are ties, as many prizes will be reserved as there are contestants tied, before any prizes are awarded for less correct solutions.

For instance, if two people tie on the absolutely correct answer, they would have to solve a second puzzle to determine which was entitled to the first and which to the second prize. Then the one who sent the next best answer would be entitled to the third prize. This rule will apply generally.

If there should be more ties than there are prizes offered, a second puzzle will be presented. No money will have to accompany the solution of this second puzzle. It will be practicable and solvable, and only those who send in correct solutions to the first puzzle will be permitted to solve puzzle No. 2. The second puzzle will be printed only three times and those eligible to solve it will have a week in which to prepare their solutions.

In the event of ties on the second puzzle, a third puzzle will be presented. The second and third puzzles will be used only in the case of ties and their purpose will be merely to decide those ties, so that it may not become necessary to divide the prizes. However, not more than three puzzles will be presented and in the seemingly impossible event of still another tie, the prizes will be equally divided.

IF THERE ARE NO TIES, THERE WILL BE ONLY ONE PUZZLE.

No prizes will be distributed until the contest is finally decided.

CHATEAUGUAY FOR FISHER'S DEFEAT OF LAURIER FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT

Constituency Historically Liberal Returns Candidate for First Time Since Confederation Elected by 144 Majority—Conservative Camp.

RACE CRIES AND SECTIONAL APPEALS TO TURN CHATEAUGUAY

Saturday's Pronouncement of Great Impending Trend of Feeling in Quebec Province to Arguments of Sir Wilfrid on Empire.

Special to The Standard.

Ottawa, Oct. 12.—Consternation reigns among Ottawa Liberals over the loss of Chateauguay. Consternation is a mild word. The turnover in this old Liberal riding has thrown the opposition headquarters' organization into utter disorder. The far-reaching significance of yesterday's verdict is clearly recognizable even by the most confident and aggressive of the Laurier lieutenants. The defeat in Chateauguay, and the prospect of defeat in both East Middlesex and South Huron will, it is believed, necessitate a complete reconstruction of the opposition and the adoption of a platform upon which the scattered forces of Liberalism can come together for a fresh start, probably under new leadership.

The friends of Hon. Sydney Fisher, who helped force his candidature upon the unwilling Liberals of Chateauguay, are now saying that he did not expect to win, that he was simply getting a foothold in the riding with a view to running there again in the general elections, his own county of having served notice upon him that he cannot get the nomination there. This, of course, is not the case. The defeat of Saturday can hardly be said to have given Mr. Fisher a foothold in Chateauguay. The Laurier opposition made the fight of their lives, fighting to win now and not at a general election in the distant future. Every campaign art known to the Liberal organization in the Eastern Townships was exerted in the recent contest, backed with all the help that the Ottawa organization, with nothing else to do, could give.

Politicians here while regarding the fate of Mr. Fisher as unimportant, see in the election of Saturday a blow at the waning prestige of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, from which his leadership can hardly recover.

Premier Borden received the news of the Morris election with satisfaction, but declined tonight to make any comment on the result.

The turnover adds to the government majority in the House of Commons bringing it up to 49.

Hon. Martin Burrell, Minister of Agriculture, who took a prominent part in the campaign and whose exposition of the government's policy, did much to put the issues clearly before the electorate, said of the result tonight: "The result of the Chateauguay contest is a matter of unusual importance and significance. Two great questions have divided political parties and engrossed public attention during the past three years, viz: National trade and imperial defence. Mr. Fisher in common with his leader re-affirmed the Liberal party's views on reciprocity and justified the senate action in de-

"Wild Women" Attempt to Mob King George and Queen Mary—Beaten Back by the Police.

London, Oct. 11.—King George and Queen Mary, who attended a command performance at a London music hall tonight had a narrow escape from being mobbed by suffragettes. The women, who had gathered in considerable numbers, made a lively dash for the royal carriage on its arrival at the theatre shouting "women are being tortured in prison."

They had almost reached the carriage when the police closed around, and with defiant shouts of "votes for women" were hurled back. The suffragettes were treated roughly by the crowd, but managed to escape arrest.
