DUNDONALD IS DISMISSED

The Bourassa-Laurier Element Succeeded in Getting Rid of the Gallant Scottish "Forsigner."

The Meddling Minister "Vindicated" by his Colleagues and the Hero of Ladysmith Sacrificed.

Ottawa, June 14.—At to-day's cabinet meeting an order-in-council was passed relieving Lord Dundonald of the command of the Canadian militia. The order-in-council is as follows:

THE SUB-COMMITTEE'S REPORT.

"Report of the committee of the hon. the Privy Council, approved by His Excellency the Governor-General on the 14th day of June, 1904:—

"The sub-committee of council, having had under consideration certain recent public utterances of the Right Honourable the Earl of Dundonald, General Officer Commanding the Canadian militia and a report in relation thereto by the Minister of Militia, report as follows:—

"On the 8th day of June, 1904, the attention of the Minister of Militia was drawn to a despatch in one of the newspapers of Ottawa, purporting to give a report of a speech made by Lord Dundonald at a dinner in Montreal, in which he assailed the Government, and particularly the Minister of Militia, in relation to their action in militia affairs. On the same day the Minister of Militia addressed a letter to Lord Dundonald, calling his attention to the report, and inquiring whether it correctly stated his utterances and the attendant circumstances. To this a reply was received from Lord Dundonald admitting the substantial correctness of the report in question.

"A REGRETTABLE FAILURE.—Lord Dundonald's remarks as to what he calls political interference, as well as those in relation to the particular case which he mentions, indicate on his part a regrettable failure to appreciate the principles of British constitutional government.

"Lord Dundonald's recommendation of an gentleman for appointment as an officer of the militia would in itself have no force or effect. It could only become effective after receiving (1st) the approval of the Minister of Militia, (2nd) the approval of His Excellency the Governor-General in council. The power of approval on the part of each of these authorities must of necessity carry with it the right of enquiry and rejection.

"In the case of members of the Cabinet, while all have an equal degree of responsibility in a constitutional sense, yet in the practical working out of responsible government in a country of such vast extent as Canada, it is found necessary to attach a special responsibility to each minister for the public affairs of the province or district with which he has close political connection, and with which his colleagues may not be so well acquainted. Mr. Fisher, while sharing with his colleagues the general responsibility already referred to, represents in a particular manner the Eastern Townships of the province of Quebec. If, when it was proposed to form a new regiment in that district, he interested himself in the matter, he would make the organization effective, he was not merely exercising a right; he was discharging a duty both to the people of the district and to his colleagues in the cabinet, who would expect him to inform himself of all the facts and advise them before approval by the Cabinet of the proposed arrangements.

DEFENSE OF FISHER.

"Mr. Fisher states that so far as his interference related in any way to politics, it was not to give the new regiment a political color, but to guard against that very evil which he had reason to believe was one of the causes of failure of some previous efforts to maintain efficient military organizations in the Eastern Townships. He interfered, not to have the regiment officered by his political friends, but to see that capable military men of all political colors received, as far as possible, equal consideration. That he did not seek to give his own political color to the regiment is abundantly evidenced by the fact that of eighteen names submitted in the list, only one was struck out by him, and by the further fact that a majority of the gentlemen chosen for commissions with his approval are his political opponents. In the case of the gentleman particularly mentioned by Lord Dundonald as having been rejected, it has been shown that he had never been in any way connected with the militia, and therefore was not regarded as a suitable person to have the rank of major; and that Mr. Fisher recommended for the place another gentleman who was also a political opponent, but who was well qualified by military service for a position of command.

"It should be added that at the time of dealing with that particular case, as set forth by Lord Dundonald, Mr. Fisher was not acting merely as a minister specially interested in the Eastern Townships affairs, although such position would have given him an undoubted right to advise; he was acting for and with the authority of the Minister of Militia, who was absent from the capital, and, therefore, his action had all the force and authority of the action by the responsible head of the department of militia and defense.

WITHIN HIS RIGHT AND DUTY.

"In view of these facts it is difficult to reach any other conclusion than that the action taken by Mr. Fisher was entirely within his right and duty as a cabinet minister, and entirely in the interest of a non-partisan militia service. It is of importance to observe that the list from which one name was struck was completed by the approval of His Excellency the Governor-General on the 31st of May. At that time the Minister of Militia had returned to the capital, and was in a position to call on the responsible minister and invite a discussion of the subject. This he did not do. He made no representations whatever to his minister, but proceeded to Montreal, and made his speech attacking the administration under which he was serving.

NO JUSTIFICATION.

"The sub-committee, while drawing attention to the reasons which fully justify the steps taken by Mr. Fisher, deem it well to state that such explanation is not a necessary part of the record. Even if Mr. Fisher's action had been as erroneously stated, there would still have been no justification for the course pursued by Lord Dundonald. Lord Dundonald is an officer of the Canadian Government, a high officer, it is true, but still an official of the Government, subject to all the limitations which are usually imposed upon public officials in regard to the action of their superior officers. For an official to make a public attack upon ministers of the Government, under which he serves, is a proceeding so totally at variance with the principles which must necessarily obtain in the administration of military as well as civil affairs that it cannot with propriety be excused. It is impossible to characterize the speech of Lord Dundonald as a grave act of indiscretion and insubordination.

"In the subsequent proceeding, further evidence has been afforded of Lord Dundonald's failure to appreciate the position he occupies as a public official. It appears that he desired to make a further communication on the subject. Instead of sending this communication to the Minister of Militia, he sent it to an Opposition member of Parliament, and then forwarded a copy to the minister, to whom it was delivered at the very moment when, as previously announced, a statement was to be made in Parliament.

RELIEVED OF HIS POSITION.

"The sub-committee deeply regret that an officer of Lord Dundonald's high rank should have been so misguided as to fall into these grave errors, and to pursue a course which, if ignored, would be fatal to the discipline and authority which are essential in both civil government and military service.

"For the reasons herein set forth, the sub-committee advise that the Right Honourable the Earl of Dundonald be relieved of his position as General Officer Commanding the militia in Canada.

"The committee of the Privy Council concur in the foregoing and submit the same for approval."

DISCUSSION IN THE SENATE.

"Earlier in the evening and before the above report was given out, the question was brought up by Senator Landry, who said: 'The order of the day are called I would like to ask the Government if there is any truth in the rumor that is afloat to the effect that His Excellency the Governor-General has refused to sign the despatch of the Major-General I suppose Parliament will be entitled to have that information before the newspapers, before the country, and for the reason I ask the question.' Senator Scott replied: 'I am not aware of it in fact I can speak very confidently that the Governor-General has not been asked to sign any papers involving the question that my hon. friend asks about. By that it is not to be understood that they may not be submitted to him. I merely say that up to the present time no such thing of the kind has occurred.' 'So we understand,' asked Senator Landry, 'that the matter is to be submitted to the Governor-General here or to the proper authorities in England?'

"To the Governor-General, certainly," replied Mr. Scott.

"I suppose the hon. gentleman will take the occasion of the question I put to give the House the information he promised on the Dundonald incident," the Senator suggested.

"Just as soon as anything definite has been done," the Secretary of State answered, "I shall be glad to inform the House of all the facts."

"I thought," observed Senator Landry, "that the House was not in possession of anything except what we have seen in the press, and the hon. gentleman has promised us some information."

"Just as soon as any definite decision has been come to it will be communicated to the House," the Secretary of State repeated and with that the subject dropped.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier spent considerable time at Rideau Hall this morning and returned to a meeting of the Cabinet which sat until 2 o'clock.

London, June 14.—The Daily Chronicle says we can not portray Lord Dundonald's sitting in sackcloth and ashes to-day, for he has attained his real object in laying an important issue clearly before the Canadian People. That issue is whether the militia should be officered with a single eye to the adequate defense of the Dominion or with a partial view of securing votes and influence. The warmth of Laurier's reply shows the criticism proved something of great and tender importance to the Canadian Ministry. The Chronicle, in contradicting the statement of a political basis, for military affairs in Canada, points to the fact that the leading officers at the coronation and in the South African contingents were political opponents of Laurier. The Westminster Gazette says while no one doubts that Dundonald acted in what he conceived the public interest, his action was wholly inconsistent with the freedom upon which our daughter colonies insist. Premier Laurier himself explained that Canada was loyal because free, and the way to make her share her ties to the Motherland was to act as Dundonald has done.

ONE OF THE SCOTCH "FOREIGNERS."

The Glasgow Herald, on the other hand, declares that if Lord Dundonald was indiscreet, the provocation offered him was insulting. In view of Hon. Mr. Fisher's admission Sir Wilfrid Laurier had no shadow of room for rebuke. If Sir Wilfrid Laurier believes the Dominion is capable of negotiating her own treaties, why not command her own army?

WOULD NOT RECALL HIM

Attitude of the British War Office in the Case of Lord Dundonald.

Refused Also to Suggest to Him that he Resign—Implied Criticism of Meddling Ministers.

London, England, June 15.—It is understood that the real position of Lord Dundonald is that the War Office refuse themselves to recall him, and refuse also to suggest to Lord Dundonald that he himself resign. If this is so, it clearly indicates the attitude of the War Office in allowing considerations of party politics to impede the efficiency of the Canadian militia.

BATTLE FOUGHT AT VANFANGOW

Russians Repel Japanese Attack but Suffer Severe Losses.

Kuropatkin Reports the Japanese Advancing—General Engagement Believed to be in Progress.

St. Petersburg, June 14.—Emperor Nicholas has received the following telegram from Lt.-General Baron Stokelberg, bearing to-day's date:— "A battle began at noon around the Russian position four and a half miles south of the station of Wanfangow (Vanfangow), the enemy making repeated attempts to dislodge our left flank. The attack was repelled and we retained our position. "The first regiment occupying the left flank of our position sustained severe losses. Its commander, Col. Khavastonnoff, and Adjutant Su-Lit, Dragostoff Nadochinsky, were killed. Gen. Gerngross was wounded, a shrapnel bullet shattering the right side of his lower jaw, but he remained on the field."

KUROPATKIN REPORTS.

Emperor Nicholas has received the following despatch from Gen. Kuropatkin, dated June 15:— "This morning the advance of two Japanese divisions was discovered northward of the Pu Lan Tien. The advancing forces at 2 p. m. were observed to extend from the village of Vond Chou along the valley of the Tassa, one division advancing by the Tassa Valley. The enemy halted at 4.30 p. m., occupying the villages of Tao Tsia Tung, Chang Tsia Tung and Lai Tsia Tung and the heights southward of Vani Chou. I have not received detailed information of our losses to-day, but Lieut. Tscherepakhin and several soldiers were wounded. According to our intelligence, no advance of the Japanese from Su Yen toward Taling Pass was observed to-day."

JAPANESE REPULSED.

The general staff has received the following despatch dated June 13, from Major-General Karkevitch:— "During the night of June 11-12 the Japanese attacked our advance posts near the village of Utsien, south of Wan Fang Tien station and about the Pitswo Pu Lan Tien line. The Japanese were repulsed with loss. The same night, after fighting lasting until morning our detachments took possession of the pass and heights near the village of Lai Tsia Tung. Our losses in these encounters were four soldiers killed and 18 wounded. "FORCED HIS WAY THROUGH.— "During the evening of June 8, Lt. Lang, while engaged in a reconnaissance in the neighborhood of Ontachers, ten miles north-east of Al Yang Shenn, was attacked by two companies of Japanese. He succeeded in forcing his way through after a hand-to-hand fight. "According to information 3,000 Japanese are marching northwards toward Hua Yen Sheng."

AT PORT ARTHUR.

Liao Yang, June 14.—The two officers who escaped from Port Arthur and arrived here June 11, after crawling through the Japanese lines, for four days, brought important despatches from Lt.-General Stoessel, commander of the Russian military forces at Port Arthur—to Viceroy Alexieff. The general reports that the troops composing the garrison of Port Arthur are in excellent spirits, and says the bands play regularly in the park and that Port Arthur has not the appearance of a besieged fortress.

AS TO WEI-HAI-WEI.

London, June 14.—It appears from a question and answer in the House of Commons to-day that the fall of Port Arthur will mark the end of British supremacy of Wei-Hai-Wei, on the Shan Tung promontory. Earl Percy, the Under-Secretary, informed the House to-day that under the Anglo-Chinese convention of 1898 Great Britain's lease of this Chinese port was only valid so long as Port Arthur remained in the occupation of Russia.

SEIZED BY JAPANESE.

Che Foo, June 14, 11.15 p. m.—A fleet of junks loaded with flour and rice for Port Arthur was seized to-day off this port by the Japanese. Japanese have complained to the Tao tai of Chinese, who, with foreign merchants here, are shipping goods to Port Arthur and that the Russians have established at Che Foo a station for receiving from Port Arthur wireless messages. Evidence of the existence of this wireless station are lacking.

GRAMMAR IN PUBLIC SCHOOL.

Professor Alexander, of Toronto University, has been credited with the assertion that it is a mistake to try to teach grammar in the public schools, points out the Windsor Record. The Professor's opinion is always worth respectful consideration and it is not unlikely that he made some statement to this effect. There is much to be said in favor of more rational methods of teaching the subject. Grammar, as we learned it quite a number of years ago at the country school was very dry and therefore uninteresting. It was merely a matter of committing to memory rules of syntax, declensions and conjugations. No doubt methods of teaching grammar have improved since our time, but it is said to the credit of the up-to-date teacher.

And yet the mistake in teaching this subject is in making the subject an end in itself. Apart from its value as a mental discipline, grammar is only a means to an end, and that end is the ability to use the English language, whether spoken or written, correctly. The subject which should be accorded the greater attention is composition, embracing correspondence and essay writing. Composition is grammar practically applied; grammar is theory. It is he who can best put his knowledge to practical account who will succeed best in life. The young man or woman capable of writing a good business letter possesses no mean equipment for any work he or she may be called upon to undertake. A good letter of application has time and again been the means of helping one to a good position. A letter is often the only means available for forming an estimate of an applicant, and in the absence of other corroborative evidence the employer must base his judgment on the only evidence at hand. The ability to write a good letter can be gained by practice only. The same may be said of any other species of composition.

We learn to speak the English language correctly or otherwise from those we associate with from day to day. Similarly one learns to write good English by closely studying good models.

LORD DUNDONALD.

The Dundonald affair was yesterday discussed in Cabinet Council, the upshot of which is to be the cancellation of Lord Dundonald's appointment as general commanding the Canadian militia, or in other words his dismissal. The ground of this action is alleged insubordination to superior authority, said authority being held by the Cabinet to reside in the Hon. Sydney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, whose interference with militia appointments was called in question. Militia appointments are thus confirmed as a part of the machine party patronage and subject to the will of district political bosses. The whole incident is valuable as giving the public a glimpse of the party machinery at its secret and weird work. It is seen that even the militia, which ought to be neutral, and open to every patriotic citizen, is no more exempt from the spoils system than the most ordinary departmental gutter. The temper shown by the Cabinet ministers also gives a valuable insight by which the public will profit. The Premier's contemptuous description of Lord Dundonald as "a foreigner, or a stranger," has a distinct value to the British people and especially to British-Canadians as a revelation of mind. They can now judge the better what manner of man this is. It will recall Sir Wilfrid's dictum forbidding the sending of soldiers to South Africa, a determination which he waived only in fear of a reference to the electorate of the distinct issue as to whether this Dominion was to be regarded as "British" or "foreign." By submission he kept his job. It may revive the almost forgotten expression of his sympathy for the rebel, Riel, whom he said he would have supported with a musket in his hands, as against the soldiers of the British Empire. So good a Liberal paper as the Montreal Witness observes that Sir Wilfrid "made a terrible slip in calling Lord Dundonald a foreigner and in correcting that epithet with the word 'stranger.'" "It would be impossible," the Witness declares, "in one word to do more harm to national unity in Canada." Sir Wilfrid for the nonce forget his "sunny ways," the ways of an arifal, scheming political opportunist, when he addressed those epithets to the distinguished soldier of the Empire, Lord Dundonald. Citizens of Canada who are Scotchmen, must feel anything but complimented by the epithet of "a foreigner" applied by the First Minister to one of the most intrepid and accomplished military men, representing the land of their nativity. Does Sir Wilfrid or Sydney Fisher imagine that by discussing Lord Dundonald, they end this controversy, or that they represent the prevailing spirit of this country? They represent not public opinion, but only the inflated self-conceit which is become more and more marked as the characteristic of the ruling men of the Cabinet. The richer they grow, the more insolent they become. It can matter little to the future of the present commandant, what action those gentlemen may take. But it matters much to the militia force whether it is to be the catspaw of political wire-pullers in the choice of officers, and whether it is to be led by a lickspittle of the departmental back-stairs or by a competent commander whom all men in it can respect. What respect would the citizen soldiery pay to a commander in chief who had to stand trembling at the office door of a man of Fisher's calibre, in fear for his broad and butter?

MONEY FOR A MONOPOLY.

In 1896 the Liberals stumped Canada and denounced the iniquitous tax on coal oil. "Put us in power," they said, "and we will remove the burden." A reduction in the duty on oil from 6 cents per gallon to 5 cents was the hard blow they delivered to the Standard Oil monopoly. In eight years they have mustered no courage. Mr. Fielding, in his budget speech, declared that in future the duty on coal oil would be 2 1/2 cents per gallon. In order to compensate the producers of crude oil he promised a bounty of 1 1/2 cents per gallon on their output. Taking the two changes together, he explained that the difference between the reduced price to the consumer of the refined article and the bounty on the crude product would be a net gain to taxpayers of $300,000. Perhaps so. To-day the price of refined coal to the consumer is much higher than it was under a higher duty. In 1896 oil was bought for the Canadian canals as low as 16 1/2 cents per gallon. To-day the Government is paying 20 cents for the same commodity, with a duty of one cent a gallon less than was in force in 1896. In 1896, 7,588,028 gallons of coal oil imported for home consumption were valued (with duty) at $1,045,357, or 13.8 cents per gallon. In 1903, 14,479,176 gallons of coal oil imported were valued (with duty) at $1,965,671 or 13.7 cents per gallon. This is a difference in the importer's price of one-tenth of one cent a gallon. According to Mr. Fielding the saving should be one cent per gallon. Everybody who bought oil in 1896 and buys it to-day knows to his sorrow that the price now is away above that of the former year. Buder twine and barbed wire fencing have gone up in price since the duties on them were removed. The trusts have put the duty money in their pockets. The Standard Oil Company will do the same now, and the only thing the people will get out of it is a chance to make up the tax in another direction. The Canadians who feel in duty bound to hand over a few more dollars of John D. Rockefeller will please stand up.

Berwick, Ont., June 13.—(Special).—That Dodd's Kidney Pills will cure Rheumatism, or any other disease resulting from disordered kidneys is the experience of many of the settlers in this Rainy River country. The case of William John Dixon of this place is a fair sample of the work the great Canadian Kidney Remedy is doing. "I had Rheumatism so bad I had to use a stick to walk. I had pains in my back and right hip and I had no comfort in sleeping. "I could no more than dress or undress myself for nearly two months, and I was for nearly three weeks I could not lace my right shoe. "My mother advised me to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and I did so. BLENHEIM

June 14.—Mrs. D. McLachlan, of Glenora, is visiting Mrs. Jamieson.

Blenheim Methodist church had their opening services on Sunday last after being closed for some weeks for renovation, during which time new seats, new windows and a new pulpit have been installed, besides the frescoing of the walls and the oiling and painting of the entire woodwork. The church, with these additions, as well as new matting in the aisles and new carpets around the pulpit and choir gallery, present a very handsome and comfortable appearance. The services on Sunday last were preached by the Rev. James Livingstone, a former pastor, and one of the most popular preachers in the London conference. His morning subject was "The difference between false and true love for Christ"; evening, "The power of man's vision," founded on Isaiah's statement that he had seen the Lord. Both sermons were highly appreciated by the large congregations in attendance. In the evening many were unable to procure seats, as the Presbyterian and Baptist, both of whom were present, had kindly withdrawn the services the church was filled to overflowing. The singing was led by the church choir, under the leadership of Mr. J. J. Cookson, and was very creditable to them and inspiring in character. Mrs. Grant, of Mull, sang a solo in the morning and in the evening a quartette was given by the Messrs. Grant, Hyatt and E. and H. Gordon, both of these being rendered with credit to those taking part. A very successful tea meeting was held last evening, supper being served in the basement. Little Doris Edwards, age of the bride was flower girl. After the supper was over an entertainment was given in the church, with the Mayor of Mull, Mr. Neil Watson, acting as chairman and, as the evening drew to a close, the quartette of the Park Street Methodist church, Chatham, contributed largely to the program. Miss E. Hill's rendering of Three Fishes West Aniling demanded an encore. She sang Annie Laurie in fine style. Both Miss White and Mr. Jasper Wilson's solos were highly appreciated. Revs. A. E. Thompson and Livingstone gave addresses. A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to those who had taken part on Sunday and last evening, also to Miss Letta Elliott for the handsome pulpit drape she worked and presented to the church. The singing of God Save the King brought the entertainment to a close.

June 15.—Mrs. Chambers and daughter, of Florida, are visiting Mr. F. M. Deacon.

Rev. G. McQuillan conducted the services at Trinity Church on Sunday. Owing to the absence of the organist Mr. Kelly, of Oldham, England, presided at the organ.

The infant child of Mr. and Mrs. Abthorpe, who died last week, was interred on Monday last at Florence.

Mrs. Davison, of Windsor, and A. Shillington and Mr. Wm. and H. Shillington, of Chatham, spent Sunday with relatives here.

The senior team went to Rodney on Monday last to play their second game in the C. L. A. Why they arrived there Rodney would not play until four o'clock. It was not possible for the Blenheim team to catch a train back the same evening. The referee gave the game to Blenheim by default. By default, the home juniors played the Chatham juniors.

Time is money, if it doesn't happen to be the time of the losing horse in a race.

THE GERMS OF CATARRH

Not only attack the passages of the head and throat, but finally reach the lungs and cause consumption. Nothing destroys catarrh so quickly as fragrant, healing Catarrhose, which relieves the cough, stops the discharge, takes all soreness from the throat. "I consider Catarrhose has no equal as a cure for catarrh and lung trouble," writes Jas. E. Wetherell, of Brighton. "It cured me after many good doctors failed to even relieve my trouble." Catarrhose can't fail to cure—it's guaranteed. Two months' treatment $1.00; trial size 25c.

CALLAHAN-KELLY

The home of Mr. George W. Kelly presented an attractive appearance on Wednesday morning, June 1st, at 11 o'clock, when his daughter, Mabel F. Callahan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. Callahan, of Blenheim, Ont., was married to Mr. J. H. Cobble, of Blenheim, Ont. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. G. H. Cobble, B. A., pastor of Park Street Methodist Church. The bride looked charming in a gown of cream silk, train, and lace, and was escorted by her father. The groom wore a tuxedo and carried a beautiful bouquet of white carnations and maiden hair ferns, tied with liberty satin ribbon. The wedding party sat down to a sumptuous dinner, after which the happy couple left on the 2:27 train amid showers of rice and good wishes for good luck.

The unusually large number of gifts testify to the wide circle of friends and merited popularity of the bride and groom. The bride's going-away gown was of blue velvet, over blue and white lace. Mrs. Callahan will be at home to her friends after July 4th, at the residence of her father, Queen Street South.

THE BROOK. I come from haunts of coot and hern I make a sudden sally. And sparkle out among the fern To bicker down the valley. By thirty hills I hurry down, Or slip between the ridges, By twenty throps, a little town And half a hundred bridges; Till last by Philip's farm I flow, To join the brimming river; For men may come and men may go, But I go on forever.

I chatter over stony ways In little sharps and trobles, I bubble into eddying bays, I babble on the pebbles. With many a curve my banks I fret, By many a field and fallow, And many a fairy foreland set With water-wheels on mill and mill I chatter, chatter, as I flow, To join the brimming river; For men may come and men may go, But I go on forever.

I wind about, and in and out, With here a blossom sailing, And here and there a lusty trout And here and there a grayling, And here and there a foamy flake Upon me as I travel; With many a silver waterfall Above the golden gravel, I draw them all along, and flow To join the brimming river; For men may come and men may go, But I go on forever.

THE NEW GRAVE.

Death Is But a Natural Graduation to Better Things.

There is a little scar on the door where the pall was hung, there is a wound in the heart and a vacant chair before the grate in the library, there is a Bible that's worn, there is a fresh-made grave and a new voice in the choir.

He used to have a favorite hymn at family devotions, and we have often heard "Sweet hour of prayer, sweet hour of prayer, that calls me from a world of care."

And when he was called, he did not hesitate.

"Is he sleeping?" They asked the nurses, and when the doctor called him, there was no answer. He had slept away, turned over, and, with a smile, as one in pleasant dreams, he left the winter's night for a summer's morning.

And here we are tossing on this sea, this sea of life, and there he is safe in the harbor. Here we are subject to the pangs of humanity, and there he is clothed in divinity. Here we are troubled, there he is peaceful. Here we are anxious of the morrow, he has no morrow, there is no night there, it is all today.

So the tears are not for him, for he is far better. They are selfish tears, they are the tears of earth's children, who grieve over this loss, forgetting what it means for him.

We know that he would ask why the tears if he saw them; he would question the drawn curtain, the teardrop and the husband's voice. He would have none of this. But we are human, and so we mourn to-day for the "touch of the vanished hand, the sound of the voice that is still."

Yet we know we should not mourn. To him alone was serious and worth while.

And death but a natural graduation to better things.

So we stand by the vacant chair, and hold to life's things loosely, for we saw him slip away even as a child kissing his mother closed its eyes, and fell asleep.

Life to-day has a new meaning, for we are bound by ties that reach from earth to the city that knows no sorrow and needs no sun.—Charles F. Raymond, in Toronto Star.

History of Canada's Mail.

Although the first land mail in Canada had been established as early as 1721, until the transfer of the Postoffice Department on the 6th April, 1851, the postal arrangements had made but slow progress. On the very day the transfer took place the Canadian Parliament made uniform charge for letters throughout Canada of 3d. This was afterwards, in April, 1869, still further reduced to three cents. The first stamps were issued in 1851; money orders were introduced in 1855, and postcards were first used in 1871. Canada joined the postal union in 1878, though the first bag by parcel post was not sent to England until 1886. The later improvements to the system were the two-cent letter rate between Canada and Great Britain and between the British possessions—since extended to almost all the colonies—which went into operation on Christmas Day, 1893; the rate of two cents per ounce for domestic letters (Jan. 1, 1899), and the new rate on newspapers and periodicals posted in Canada for transmission to the United Kingdom, which went into force on the 7th March, 1903.

Three Months on the Way.

Hutchinson Bros., grocers, of Bracebridge, bought a cartload of hay at Mariposa that was shipped on January 16 last. Mariposa is a station on the Midland division of the Grand Trunk, probably 60 miles from Bracebridge. Paul Jones, the same day left New York City for a trip around the world. He visited the British Isles, took in the chief points of interest, went to France, to Germany, The Hague, St. Petersburg, over the world-known Trans-Siberian Railroad to Japan, the wonderful little island of the east, saw the Great Wall of China, took a flying trip through the east, in the east called India, went down to sunny Ceylon, across the Indian Ocean to the newly acquired district of South Africa, from thence to Australia, to Honolulu, to San Francisco, and then on the overland limited to New York, landing at that city on March 27, after an absence of two months and nine days, the same day as the car of hay landed at Bracebridge.—Burk's Falls Arrow.

An Error About Irving's Understudy.

It appears from British mail advices that the cable misled Canadians as to Sir Henry Irving's remarks about people mistaking his understudy for himself. The Daily Chronicle puts it in this way: "Sir Henry's understudy, who had not a single chance in his six months of waiting, might legitimately have nursed a grievance. However, he got his chance in an unexpected way when the company was in Canada. They were there when 'Our Lady of the Snows' was at her best, and many of the members of the company distinguished themselves on the ice. Particularly was this the case with the gentleman who takes Sir Henry's place on the stage in an emergency. And as he bears some facial resemblance to the great actor, the local papers came out with lengthy accounts of Sir Henry Irving's feats on the ice. As a matter of fact, he has never got beyond sliding."

Photographs Nerve Action.

Dr. Charpentier in a communication before the Paris Academy of Sciences described an interesting discovery as to the possibility of photographing muscular and nervous activity on a plate covered with a layer of platinum cyanure of barium. Nervous sensations and impressions and muscular efforts are flashed on the plate and produce a special fluorescence, showing, for instance, the action of the heart and muscles of the interior of the body.

Growing Old

Ought not to mean growing weak and feeble. It does not mean weakness or feebleness for those who eat with good appetite and sound digestion. It is of the utmost importance that old people should retain the power to digest and assimilate food which is the sole source of physical strength. When age brings feebleness it is generally because of the failure to assimilate the nutrition contained in food.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and enables the perfect digestion and assimilation of food. It invigorates the liver and promotes general physical well-being.

"It is with gratitude we acknowledge what Dr. Pierce's medicine has done for grandmother's food, it has cured her of indigestion, and she has been able to eat with good appetite and sound digestion. She has been able to take three bottles of Golden Medical Discovery and is entirely well. She has been able to take three bottles of Golden Medical Discovery and is entirely well. She has been able to take three bottles of Golden Medical Discovery and is entirely well."

Sick people are invited to consult Dr. R. V. Pierce by letter, free. All correspondence is held as strictly private and is kept confidential.

A Nova Scotian in Newfoundland.

Alfred Bishop Morine, leader of the Opposition in the Newfoundland Legislature, who recently addressed the Canadian Club in Toronto, was born in Port Medway, N. S. He went to St. John's, Nfld., to edit The Newfoundland Mercury, and four years later ran for the Legislature, defeating a Cabinet Minister. He has been a member of the House almost continuously ever since, and has, in successive Cabinets, been Colonial Secretary, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, Minister of Finance and Customs. On two occasions he was appointed on colonial delegations which appeared before the Imperial Parliament in connection with the French treaties. Mr. Morine was called to the Bar in 1894, after graduating LL.B. at Dalhousie University, and at once became prominent in legal circles. He is known in the island as the "fighting politician," a title earned as the principal figure in a score of historic Parliamentary "scorches." Mr. Morine has a dominating personality. He is a fluent and incisive speaker, a past master in the use of biting sarcasm, and never so happy as when leading a forlorn hope. Holding a seat on the Board of the Newfoundland Railway, Mr. Morine's political influence in the island at the present time is weak. He has been always an unblinking advocate of the entrance of Newfoundland into the Canadian confederacy.

JAP MARRIAGE.

No Lovemaking Before Marriage, Yet Japanese Domestic Life Is Happy—Parents Arrange the Marriages.

To us in Canada it certainly would appear as if more than half the population of the world were lost if society were suddenly deprived of all the parties, picnics, dances, drives and evening calls where bachelor and maid meet, become acquainted and are drawn together by the mutual attraction of youth and life and joy. How would it seem if there were to be no more courting, no hand clasps or meetings on the sly to exchange words that are nothings and yet are all in this golden time of life, which ought to be prolonged forever, only nobody seems able to achieve it as yet.

They do all this differently in Japan, to our taste not half so delightfully. It is odd that the Japs, except perhaps the French, the most sentimental of all people, go about marriage in as businesslike a way as they build a ship. In many cases the bride and groom to be do not even know before betrothal time that they are going to be married.

Parents usually arrange marriages. A father decides that it is time for his son to take a wife. He and the youth's mother look about among their acquaintances for a pretty, sweet tempered girl who will make a pleasant home for their son. Some times a young man himself, who thinks he wants to be married commissions an elderly woman friend to find a wife for him. In either case the method of betrothal is the same. There is always the intermediary who must arrange matters with the girl's father.

If the girl's father is willing the betrothal occurs. This betrothal is the formal introduction to each other of the bride and groom to be, who probably have never spoken to each other previously. They are introduced at the house of some friend of both and exchange gifts. After this exchange of presents they are in for it. There can be no backing out and no "take back your gifts" business.

When the parents of the pair arrange the marriage it must take place, no matter whether the young couple are satisfied or not. They have to be satisfied.

The wedding consists merely of ceremonial eating and drinking together by the parents of the pair arranged marriage. There are no religious or state ceremonies. Japanese matrimony is a private matter. On the wedding day the bride, in light or white garments and with a white veil over her face, is taken to the home of the groom's parents. Then comes the wedding feast. The groom squats or sits upon the floor, Oriental fashion. He, too, is attired in light-colored clothing. The bride, in light-colored dress, sits on the left of the groom squats his father, grave and dignified. On the left of this gentleman sits in the same fashion the woman mutual friend and on her left, last of the wedding group, the bride.

A table, one of those ridiculous Japanese affairs about four inches high, is in front of the group. It is painted white. There is a wedding feast. After that the bride is conveyed to the home her future husband has prepared for her. There both bride and groom change their costumes. The ceremonial drinking together by the bride and groom of sake (rice wine) completes the wedding observances.

"Three times three" the Japanese bride and groom, now in the "room of honor," take the sake together. On this occasion the man drinks first, the girl afterward. They are now ready to take up housekeeping and home-making. It would be, extremely improper to fall in love before marriage in Japan.

In spite of the lack of acquaintance of bride and groom Jap marriages are as happy as those in Christian countries. The little brown women are so bright and sweet that it would be a very evil-tempered man who could not get on with one of them. Two sentiments pervade perfectly the Jap mind and influence for good all Jap life. These are love of children and love of the beautiful in nature.

In the home of a Japanese family of means is always one room called the "chamber of the inspiring view." It is situated so as to look out upon some beautiful and picturesque natural scenery.

Stray Petals.

In discussing the question "What Constitutes a Table Plant?" The Menomonee County (N.J.) Horticultural Society arrived at the conclusion that a table plant should not be more than twenty inches high.

A long old time flowers lately returning to fashion, both for cut flowers and as a pot plant, is Epacris paludosa.

The gardenia is the favorite flower of the society folk.

Ideal, a sport from La France, is a beautiful rose. Its fragrance, form and color are charming, and it is well worth a trial.

An extremely attractive hydrangea making its appearance this season is Hortensis rosea, with flower heads of a delightful clear rose color.

SOMETHING LEFT UNDONE.

Labor with what seal we will, Something still remains undone: Something uncompleted still, Waits the rising of the sun.

By the bedside, on the stair,
At the threshold, near the gates,
With its mace or its prayer,
Like a mendicant it waits;

Wait, and will not go away;
Wait, and will not be gained;
By the cares of yesterday,
Each today is heavier made;

Till at length the burden seems
Gone, and our strength can bear,
Heavy as the weight of dreams,
Pressing on us everywhere.

And we stand from day to day,
Like the dwarfs of times gone by,
Who, as northern legends say,
On their shoulders held the sky.

THE PIPES OF PAN.

Bliss Carman's New Volume "From the Book of Myths."

The Canadian poet, who is winning laurels abroad as most clever Canadians do, has issued the first of the series "The Pipes of Pan." The decorations are striking and include an exquisitely designed frontispiece, showing the god with his satyr smile, and an elaborate title page. Mr. Carman's preface is a study in the plain and mellow things of wine and, by implication, myths. There are ten poems in the book, connected in feeling, if not in theme, particular theme, it should be qualified, for there is a general scheme, namely, the praise of beauty in nature. In the book, "The beauty," with Mr. Carman, does not prefigure an invisible world. With him the "light of sense" never appears to go out, and this element in him which responds to beauty, he does not appear in his later work to regard as an inlet of mystic truth. The first poem, "Overlord," expresses an exultant pantheism:

"Lord of the grass and hill,

Lord of the rain,

White overlord of will,

Master of pain.

"I who am dust and air

Blown through the halls of death,

Like a pale ghost of prayer—

I am thy breath.

So read the first two stanzas. The external world has ceased to appear to the poet, the terrible and unfriendly, and in the long poem which follows, "The Pipes of Pan," he sings the cohering and transfiguring power of love. But it appears to be a sort of atomic love:

"We behold in love the ether
Blending the great world together;
For without that coil of wonder
The round world would fall asunder,

It is doubtful if the rhymed couplet which Mr. Carman employs in this poem is a wise choice. It certainly does not leave the impression of melody to be drawn up with a jerk at the end of every line. Far more agreeable is the form of "Marsyas," a new version of the ancient theme of youth fired by imagination and love:

"There he stood a youth, transfused in
The young world's golden glow,
Made immortal in a moment by the muse,
His melting flow,
Pattern of the artist's glory for the after Years to know."

Then follow "Daphne," "The Lost Dryad," and a very lovely thing, "The Dead Faun"—"fair as a mortal and spiritual as a flower." The finest bit of work in the book, however, is "At Phaedra's Tomb," for who, if not that victim of earth's magnetic attraction, should be sung on the pipes of the earth-god? We know the story, one of the most tragic in classic legend. And what an insufferable prig Euripides makes Hippolytus out to be! Mr. Carman's Phaedra is all a woman, and somehow he makes us respect her passion for beauty, represented by this youth:

"Of orange marsh and lilac shore,
To brood in Autumn peace once more!
So there survives the magic flame
Of her imperishable form—
Light from a time when love was great,
And strong hearts had no fear of fate,
But love and sorrow and wrought and died,
With beauty for their only guide."

Mr. Carman's philosophy will sustain a superstructure of fine verse, but not examination in the light of history and experience. The pursuit of the human spirit in harmony with the cosmic procession is not the pursuit of beauty, but of righteousness.

A Striking Contrast.

When we consider the representation in Parliament of the Canadians in the Klondike, their public buildings, and mail and telegraph facilities; their wagon roads to the various mining centers; their efficient mounted police system (the most perfect in the world), whose members act the part of humanitarians in the winter to distressed miners on the trail; when we think that since 1897 the same judge has continued on the bench at Dawson, while in Nome, since June, 1900, we have had two judges on the bench, followed by a third party, who now sits where they sat; when all these facts are before us, it surely cannot be wondered at if sometimes there should happen to run through our minds the thought of how good a thing it might have been for us if, during the Alaskan boundary award, the result had been different, and Canada had been given not only the territory which she claimed, but the whole of Alaska as well, for in that case the good results accomplished in the Klondike might, perhaps, ere long, have been repeated by her in Alaska.—John T. Reed of Nome, in N. Y. Post.

The Press Avenged.

A teacher in a public school not a thousand miles from Strathroy the other day told her class that "newspapers are not fit to read because of the poor grammar used by the editor," and in less than a moment afterwards the same teacher said: "I don't believe you know nothing over she reprimanded a pupil who was looking about the room by saying 'Don't rubber.'—Strathroy Dispatch.

Red Tag Sale.

C. AUSTIN & CO.

ATTEND THE GREAT STOCK REDUCTION RED TAG SALE AT AUSTIN'S.

$30,000 Surplus Stock to be Cleared Out in Six Weeks

It is the unexpected that always happens, is an old saying. It has been proved true this year in regard to the weather. After the unusually severe winter weather which restricted every Spring trade, most people looked for an early warm spring, but it didn't come. As a result we have $30,000 Worth of Stock Here, which we had calculated would be sold previous to June. We cannot afford to keep it here for several good reasons. FIRST—We need the room for other lines which will be coming in August, and which were contracted for months ago when prices were lower than they are to-day at the mills. SECONDLY—We need the money because a cash business needs prompt cash to buy in the cheapest market, and LASTLY, our policy is no matter what the loss, goods must be sold in the season they were bought for.

WHY WE CALL IT A RED TAG SALE.

Because every article that is reduced has a red tag or ticket with the special price marked on it in plain figures so you can readily see whether you are buying goods at special prices or not. All Goods Marked in Plain Figures, and strictly one price to all.

The Russian Empire embraces one-sixth of the land surface of the world. It is more than fifty times larger than Japan, and has a total area of 8,650,000 square miles. Half of Europe and the whole of Northern Asia are included within its boundaries. It has a greater continuous area than any other nation in the world. The Arctic Ocean lies to its north and the Pacific to its east. On the south lie Manchuria and Korea, over which Russia is now battling with Japan; China, Afghanistan, Persia, Turkey, both in Asia and Europe, and Roumania. On the west Russia adjoins Austria-Hungary, Germany, the Baltic Sea and Sweden.

There are four distinct parts to the Russian Empire which mark its growth and development. These are (1) Russia in Europe, including Poland and the Grand Duchy of Finland; (2) the Caucasus and Transcaucasia; (3) Siberia; and (4) Russian Central Asia. The extreme southern latitude of the Empire is the same as that of Charleston, S. C., and its northernmost parallel passes through the unexplored regions of Northern Greenland. European Russia has an area of 2,095,000 square miles, about thirteen times greater than that of Japan.

We have just put in, at great expense, a WONDERFUL MACHINE, heated by steam, work only passing through the rollers once; the result—Work is ELASTIC, WILL NOT BREAK, and will last much longer than when ironed by the old method, heated by gas, which has to pass through the rollers eight times.

P.S.—We have also added a newly invented machine to iron the edges of Collars and Cuffs.

HAD A LIFE-LONG FIGHT

ALL LATE SIR H. M. STANLEY'S LIFE WAS A STRUGGLE.

A Workhouse Boy Who Received Enough Education to Qualify for School Teacher—Ran Away When Chance Offered, He Learned to Take Chances, and They Appeared—Thus Ready for Great Opportunity When It Came.

Henry Morton Stanley was a remarkable man, rather than a great one. For many years he was a force, that the influence he exerted will long survive him is doubtful. As an explorer his title to fame is secure. He discovered two sources of the Nile, and he traced the Congo to its mouth, a distance of 1,600 miles. So far as geography is concerned, he did more for Central Africa than any other man, with the exception of Livingstone. These are his claims upon posterity. His fame among his contemporaries is based on several notable deeds; second, the founding of the Congo Free State; third, the rescue of Emin Pasha. Surely his memory shall not be soon forgotten!

All Stanley's life was a struggle; but he fought like a brave man against the circumstances which conspired against him. When he was a boy, his fight was against his humble and obscure origin. He was brought up in a Welsh work-house, but received enough education to qualify for a school teacher. He knew enough to run away when the chance offered, and, shipping as cabin boy, he came to America. For a time fortune seemed to favor him. A wealthy American, Henry M. Stanley adopted him and he assumed his benefactor's name, discarding his own, which was John Rowlands. The death of his patron and his neglect to leave a will put an end to the young man's good fortune. He was more he set out to win his way without a friend in the world. He joined the Confederate army, and later fought in the Federal navy, without much idea of the merits of the great quarrel, no doubt, and with the sole desire to be doing something. After the war he secured a position with The New York Herald, and was sent by that journal to represent it in the Turkish war. Later on he visited Spain and other countries at the instance of The Herald. He was rapidly making a name for himself, when his great chance appeared. David Livingstone, the great African missionary and explorer, had not been heard of for two years. The outside world was anxiously expecting news of him. It was feared he was lost. The London Telegraph, edited at the time by Sir Edwin Arnold, and the New York Herald put their heads together and planned an expedition to go in search of Livingstone. Stanley was asked to command it. He saw his star, and accepted.

Struggles with poverty, struggles for foothold in the world, were now a thing of the past. Stanley was now engaged in a still grimmer struggle—a conflict with unknown nature in the heart of equatorial Africa. With the indomitable courage which none will gainsay him, he fought his way through jungle and desert and bloodthirsty natives, until at last he reached David Livingstone. Of the famous meeting both he and Livingstone have written. Stanley wished to carry Livingstone back with him, but that lion heart would not abandon his work. So Stanley gave him supplies, and after spending some weeks in explorations, they parted, and Stanley returned home.

The reception he met was almost terrific. He was burdened with honors, mobbed with kindness. He was hailed as the greatest of living explorers, his journeys everywhere were literally triumphal processions. So far swung back, not, however, before Stanley had visited Africa again to trace the Congo to its mouth. On the battle raged, and there can be little doubt that the things that were said embittered Stanley far more than his early misfortunes. We have it on his own authority that he was the "thinnest-skinned man in the world." At the same time, he was not always showed to others the consideration which was necessary to his own happiness.

It must have been with a feeling of relief that he embraced an early opportunity to plunge again into the wilds. This time it was as the representative of King Leopold of Belgium, whose dark ways in the Congo Free State have recently attracted such unfavorable attention to His Majesty. Of course, it was inevitable that Stanley's connection with the colonization of the Free State should have been severely criticized, so when he again returned to civilization he found friends and enemies with fresh weapons with which to carry on the warfare. But Stanley's next move was to silence his critics. He volunteered to lead the expedition to rescue Emin Pasha, without fee or salary, and forfeited several thousand dollars to do so. In face of this, the allegation that he was a persistent self-seeker falls to the ground. But the discussion threatened to break out once more when he suggested that Zehrer Pasha, a noted slave dealer, should succeed him at Khartoum.

In 1890 Sir Henry married Miss Dorothy Tennant, a beautiful artist, and sister of Hon. Herbert Asquith's wife. The girls were brought some unenviable notoriety by E. F. Benson's "Dodo," which one of them was said to have inspired. It is said that when this interesting fact became known, the author sent the following note to Miss Tennant: "Dear Miss Tennant,—The whole world is talking about you and about my book. When may I call?" To which she replied: "Dear Mr. Benson—Have you really written a book? How sweet of you! Call any time."

But she was never at home, says the truthful historian.

Two years after his marriage Sir Henry became a naturalized British subject, and three years later took his seat in the House of Commons as the representative of North Lambeth. At his election the old discussion was renewed, for the last time, let us trust. Stanley would have been the last man to invite to his seat with David Livingstone. The latter was a great man in any sense of the word, and a good man, a hero and a martyr. Stanley was a strong, courageous fellow, who regarded Christianity as a civilizing force rather than a path to eternal life. His dealings with natives were not marked by kindness, but by another virtue—justice, and this is all Stanley, if he were living, would ask from his biographers.

Stanley was a strong, courageous fellow, who regarded Christianity as a civilizing force rather than a path to eternal life. His dealings with natives were not marked by kindness, but by another virtue—justice, and this is all Stanley, if he were living, would ask from his biographers.

Two years after his marriage Sir Henry became a naturalized British subject, and three years later took his seat in the House of Commons as the representative of North Lambeth. At his election the old discussion was renewed, for the last time, let us trust. Stanley would have been the last man to invite to his seat with David Livingstone. The latter was a great man in any sense of the word, and a good man, a hero and a martyr. The Stocking Problem.
Keeping down the stocking basket is the problem which confronts the woman who has to do the darning for a family. If there are small boys with a fondness for playing marbles and climbing fences she will find her labor much lessened if she gives up darning altogether and takes to mending instead. The tops of half worn stockings similar to those in use should be put away for this purpose. From these pieces matching in grain may be placed under incriminating holes, the edges trimmed away and the goring neatly made by what is known as "cashmere" darning. When properly done it is almost impossible to detect the repaired place.

NOTHING LIKE EXPERIENCE.
"One truth learned by actual experience does more good than ten experiences of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy will cure cholera morbus, and he will most likely forget it before the end of the day. TALK TO YOURSELF.
Why are there so many "don't feel well" moments? What is the cause of these aches and pains?
When you don't feel well your stomach is not well. That is when the life of the body commences, and they will never end until the stomach is made right. When the stomach is wrong the whole body is liable to go wrong—Poisonous formations are thrown into the circulation in too great a quantity for the other organs to resist—Nerve tissue poisoned—Sleepless, excitable, nervous, head irregular, headache, kidney overtaxed, backache, kidney pains, liver clogged, constipation and bowel trouble. You can end these afflictions by helping the stomach with ANTI-BILL. It is just what a damaged stomach needs. You can prove for yourself by addressing Wilson-Frye Co., Niagara Falls, Ont., for a free trial bottle. Regular size 50 cents (a month's treatment).

When a man is well dressed he feels he is entitled to attention.

FOR STREET WEAR.

Fashions in Motor Coats—Shirt Waist Suits as Popular as Ever.
For automobile and outing wear coats of mohair and shantung are the favorite materials. They are admirably suited for shedding dust. The mohairs have never before been manufactured in such silky materials as this year. The shantungs are heavier than last, and the favorite shades are ash gray, damson blue and willow green. The coat of natural colored silk, however, trimmed with black gold and cream braid, has a very smart appearance.

A CARRIAGE HAT.
Both black and brown taffeta coats are also being turned out for the same purpose.

The latest development of the sleeve frill is the employment of fine lace frills dyed to the exact shade of the gown. Chiffon is also largely used for sleeve frills.

Shirt waist suits will be more popular than ever, and these little one color costumes are infinitely more becoming than the light waist and dark skirt to the woman who is at all inclined to stoutness.

The boat shape turban is again with us and is sure to have many admirers, as it lends itself so admirably to the shaded petal trimming. Rose petals of silk or velvet are particularly effective.

In the picture we have a dainty hat most suitable for carriage wear. It is of horsehair straw, draped with lace and a bunch of pink roses.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

HINTS ON ECONOMY.
Last Year's Dresses Can Be Renovated—The Season's Tailor Made.
There is quite a pronounced fancy for simple gauze and muslin frocks for evening wear.

Renovations this season are not hard to make. The principal difficulty comes in the skirts, which require more fulness, and often this may be obtained by the addition of a front panel of embroidery, the same material being used to make the sleeves fuller. Sleeves are often plain to the elbow, where they blossom out into many long frills of lace or accordion platted chiffon. Wide collars of lace and embroidery cover a multitude of sins, not to speak of the ever present sash. Skirts may be freshened up by the addition of ribbon ruching put on in a conventional design.

The tailor made frock is likely to prove the most expensive of the entire wardrobe, for it cannot even be partially made at home. The woman who cannot afford to invest much money in hers had better buy it ready made in some good shop.

It is no wonder the best tailor makes are expensive; they show such perfection of cut and such dainty touches in the way of handmade trimmings.

Lace stoles are mounted on chiffon and taffeta and make dainty neck pieces with which to replace the old fashioned boa. Chiffon, crepe de chine and mousseline are made up in dainty fashion with gauged centers of contrasting material. Ribbon is shirred and combined with chiffon and lace to form chic cape effects.

Forgo this season comes dyed in a variety of shades, including gray, a royal blue and a rich brown. It makes pretty coat and skirt costumes and shirt waist costume dresses, and it wears well.

The picture represents a gown of cream velvet trimmed with fat tucks and circles formed of galloon.

The average man is quick enough to grasp an opportunity to make a fool of himself.

Americans are known as a dyspeptic people. The extent of this may be inferred from the multitude of so-called "medicines" offered as a remedy. They are often in tablet form and have no value except as palliatives of the immediate effects of dyspepsia. The man who used them may feel better but is surely getting worse. They do not touch the real cause of the disease. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is a medicine specially prepared to cure diseases of the stomach and organs of digestion and nutrition. It is not made to give temporary relief but to effect permanent cure. In ninety-eight cases out of every hundred it cures perfectly and permanently.

It has cost Dr. Pierce $25,000 to give away in the last year the copies of his People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, which have been applied for. This book of 1008 pages is sent free on receipt of 31 one-cent stamps to pay expense of mailing and customs. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

MUSICAL

A DELIGHTFUL RECITAL.

A very creditable recital was given last evening by W. R. O. Dolman, the recently appointed organist of Christ Church. Notwithstanding the lateness of the season, there was a very good attendance and no one was disappointed. Every number on the program was well rendered and reflected much credit upon the performers.

The evening was opened with a magnificent organ selection by Mr. Dolman. He gave four numbers during the evening and every one of them was given in a masterly style. Mr. Dolman is an organist of more than ordinary ability and Christ Church was indeed fortunate in securing his services. He has had extensive experience in organ playing, having for a number of years been organist to Staphill Parish, Burton-on-Trent, England. He created a very favorable impression among the musical critics of the city last evening and gained for himself a high place among the musicians of the city.

He was assisted in his recital by Miss Florence Stephenson, contralto; Miss Gertrude Somerville, soprano; Mrs. Milton Bogart, contralto; C. O. Wrege, basso, all of whom gave solos, and a quartette composed of Mrs. Cooper, Mrs. Milton Bogart, J. W. Wilson and R. W. Angus.

Miss Stephenson's solo, "The Good Shepherd," was one of the favorite numbers with the audience. Miss Stephenson never sang better, and her solo was exceptionally well rendered. She has a very sweet contralto voice with an extensive range and volumes of power, and her excellent training enables her to use it with much effect and to the very best advantage. A flute obligato to her solo was played by J. W. Wilson.

Miss Somerville, of course, sang well, as she always does. Miss Somerville is deservedly popular with Chatham audiences, as she is possessed with a marvellous soprano voice, well developed and trained. There are few singers to-day who sing better than Miss Somerville, and those who do are only found in the largest cities. She has indeed a very promising future before her, and Chatham is proud of the fact that she is a Maple City girl.

Mrs. Milton Bogart sang "Happy Days," with a flute obligato by J. W. Wilson. No better name could be given to Mrs. Bogart than that of "Chatham's sweet singer," which has so often been appropriated to her in discussing her repeated triumphs in music. There is something in her voice which always appeals to her audience, who are completely won after the utterance of the first tone. She is always a general favorite wherever she appears, and last night was no exception.

Mr. Wrege, basso, gave two solos. He has a magnificent basso voice, rich and full, and he sang remarkably well.

J. W. Wilson gave a flute solo, "The Holy City." His work on the flute was very creditable.

The evening closed with the quartette "Good Night Gentle Folks," and then "God Save the King."

TILBURY

Mrs. Jas. Smith, of Stewart, is visiting her sister, Mrs. James Fowler.

Bethel, the eight year old daughter of Robert Geddy, of Windfall, died Monday morning as the result of a kick from a horse, received on Sunday evening. Dr. Sharp, of Tilbury, was summoned and also medical aid from Wheatley, but the shoe of the horse had penetrated the brain, and death was inevitable.

Mr. Sawyer, of Detroit, has arrived to take charge of the dry goods department in J. S. Richardson's store, to succeed Henry Richardson, who left for Detroit on Sunday.

John Anderson and family are moving this week into the house on Fort St., lately occupied by Henry Richardson.

KICKED BY HORSE

Glencoe, Ont., June 13.—While attempting to hitch a team of horses to a post on the street here, Mrs. R. C. Twiss met with a very serious accident. The horses, frightened by a passing train, broke away from her, and in attempting to regain the lost reins, she was kicked in the back of the head by one of the frightened animals, and in a moment lay unconscious on the road. She was picked up and carried into the American House, where her wounds were dressed by three doctors. Mrs. Twiss regained consciousness after some little time, and although seriously hurt, it is now thought that she will recover.

"Our delusions are the sweetest things in life," said the gentle optimist.

"How about the man who thinks he can sing?" asked the pessimist.

DYSPEPSIA CURED.

A Severe Sufferer Tells How He Overcame the Trouble.

"Not only do I not hesitate to declare the benefit I have received from Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, but I feel it my duty to do so." These are the words which Mr. Edward Lavoie, of Jerome, Que., lately addressed to the editor of the Evening Star, when relating the story of his cure. Mr. Lavoie is well known in St. Jerome, and what he says carries weight among those who know him. For a considerable time he was a great sufferer from dyspepsia, which caused severe headaches, pains in the stomach and sometimes nausea. Sometimes he felt as though he would suffocate, he would become dizzy and experienced ringing noises in the ears. His appetite became poor, and his general health so bad that he found it almost impossible to work, and when the headaches attacked him he had to quit work. For six months, he says, he suffered both physically and mentally more than can be imagined. During this time he took medicine from several doctors, but found no help. Then one day he read of the cure of a similar case through the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and decided to try them. He used the pills for a couple of months, and they have made him feel like a new person. He is no longer troubled with any of the old symptoms, and says he can now go about his work as though he never had dyspepsia.

The digestive organs—like all the other organs of the body—get their strength and nourishment from the blood. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make new blood. This new blood strengthens the stomach, stimulates the liver, regulates the bowels and sets the whole digestive system in a healthy, vigorous state. Good blood is the true secret of good health. That is why Dr. Williams' Pink Pills always bring good health to those who use them. You can get these pills from your medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box by six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

To be perfectly just is an attribute of the divine nature; to be so to the utmost of our abilities is the glory of man.

SACHEL OF THE SATELLITE

It looks very much like June was here.

This is good weather for strawberries and for corn.

I wonder who the farmer was that hurt the Banner editor's feelings.

Judging merely from the weather, I should say that June is here.

Wonder if Laurie meant to imply that he considered all Scotchmen as "foreigners."

I should think that the fact that Lord Dundonald was Scotch would have been sufficient warranty that he was the goods.

I hope Lord Dundonald won't consider Canada a Foreign strand just because some members of parliament talk faster than they think.

What I don't know about the Kent Farmer is a huge book from the pen of the Editor of the Banner with an appendix by the gent that helped him write it.

And each evening the busy little mosquito doth make life interesting for the venturesome young people who dare to saunter forth into the open air these nights.

Chas. Hekls sent up word by wireless telegraphy from the press room at a late hour last night to the effect that the Satellite had better purchase an automobile for running to Ercau instead of wheeling out. He said the automobile way was the easier. This will be given careful attention.

"These lovely June evenings inspire a love for sonnets," remarked the college graduate girl as she reclined lazily in the hammock on the front piazza. "I think they inspire a taste for 'compleats,'" replied the merry maiden as she watched the modern young man and his girl sliding off for an evening stroll.

AN INSULT TO THE POTATOES.
The Hamilton Spectator's Scotch blood will now boil in allusions to Lord Dundonald's persecutor as Hon. Small Potatoes Fisher.—Toronto Telegram.

Stylish Straws

The "properest" hat is a "T. & D. Split Braid." It is made of the smallest, and at the same time, toughest straw in the world. Practically featherweight. The only heavy thing about 'em is the value. That is because the wholesaler's selling expenses do not burden T. & D. prices.

The blind beggar generally has an eye for business.
Do not think too much, if at all, of to-morrow.

Teachers of cookery must have the best. Their work demands perfection, especially in baking. They cannot take chances with a baking powder that will raise today and fail tomorrow. That is why they use Cleveland's in their work. They know that it is pure and sure.

Housewives everywhere will recognize the value of such commendation.
