BOWYER'S MAGNIFICENT ADDRESS AT EAST KENT NOMINATION

Great Joint Mass Meeting Swings Solidly for the People's Candidate who Receives Veritable Ovation-Eloquent Speeches by Supporters—East Kent to be Redeemed.

Yesterday's nomination meeting at Ridgetown proved a splendid tri-umph for Phil. H. Bowyer, the People's Candidate. There was a mag-nificent turnout, not only from the town but from all parts of the surunding country, and the Grand Opera House, where the speech-mak-remding country, and the Grand Deers House, where the speech-making took place, was crowded to the door. It the teeling of those present is any-oritarion of the feeling of East Kent—and, coming as they did from the most strangly Liberal portions of the riding it may be more than fairly taken as such—then there can be no doubt of the return of Phil. H. Bowyer on the 25th. The meeting was overwhelmingly in favor. of Ridgetown's favorite aon, whose splendid address was received with unbounded enthusiasm, and though the Ross party had imported Lt-Col. J. C. Hegler, of Ingersoll, formerly law partner of the notorious J. B. Jackson, to champion the lost cause, neither he nor N. H. Stevens, of Chatham, who followed on Mr. Cochrane's behalf, could do more than feebly attempt to draw the public attention away from the great issues ably discussed by Mr. Bowyer and from his atrong indictment of the Ross administration. Their Teeble explanations met with a very mixed reception, being frequently interrupted hypointed questions from an audience thoroughly afive to the great issues of the day, and expressions of strong disgust at the attempted explanations or svasions—a striking contrast to the carreful attention and unhounded enthusiasm with which Mr. Bowyer's sappicters were received. The termal nominations took place in the Town Hall. A large crowd works.

Returning Officer, called on the electors present for nominations for a member to represent East Kent in the Legislature.

It was nearly twenty minutes later that Joseph Hornal, of Orford, moved the name of John Cochrane, of Ridgetows: He was seconded by Archie McLaughlin, of Harwich.

Ex-Warden W. C. Sifton, of Orford, then proposed the name of Philip H. Bowyer, of Ridgetown: John McArthur, of Orford, seconding him.

The entrance of Candidate Cochrane was the signal for considerable hand-clapping, but this was nothing to the splendid outburst of applause which greeted Philip H. Bowyer, the People's candidate, on his entry a few moments later.

Mr. Cochrane named as his financial agent Jas. Brown, of Thamesville, whilst J. E. Nelson, of Ridgetown, will act in the same capacity for Mr. P. H. Bower.

At two o'clock, the allotted hour having clapsed, Returning Officer McKeller declared the nominations closed. The crowd had long since wanished in the direction of the Grand Opera House, where a laint

The capacious Opera House was crowded, many being forced to stand; and the crowd was enthusiastic for Bowyer. Mr. Cochrane, on entering the hall, was permitted to reach the platform annoticed, but the appearance of P. H. Bowyer was the signal for a tremendous outburst of cheering.

from those who knew him. He had not sought the nomination but had been pressed by many people to accept it — and, as his opponents had said, he didn't want to run, he wanted to run and wanted to be elected, to support a government which the Province ought to be proad of. Our opponents say they should be turned out. When a government was as good we shouldn't put them aut — they were not even charged by their opponents with not having handled affairs efficiently and weit. They had assisted the country in many ways. Agricultural societies had received grants. The money collected largely comes back to the people. At Confederation all the provinces started free of debt inow Ontario is free of debt and all the other provinces with debt. Not all, but some of them.

with debt. Not all, but some of them.

As a farmer, said Mr. Cochrane, I take some interest in agriculture. Years ago the grants to the agricultural college were opposed by the Conservatives. Merpdith claimed it was a waste of money. Now the Conservatives say we should have five or six agricultural colleges in Ontario. I think they are going to extremes. Whitney would go too much into agricultural colleges and I wouldn't follow him that far. We have the Dominion Experimental Stations. I think the Agricultural Department is looked after efficiently and well.

Our educational system is a grand and well.

Our educational system is a grand one. At Chicago and St. Louis fairs it was considered to be the best. The government has assisted education liberally. Grants have been made to the schools. Not a dollar of taxes goes to the government; it all comes back to the people. We have retained and husbanded the wealth of the Province, and not let private individuals get franchises, lands and water power, but have field them for the people.

"I will give an instance of Ross clear foresightedness in regard to Ningara Falls. Toronto wanted the privilege to develop the power there. Mr. Hoss said. "No!" He let companies develop it, and the rental goes into the freasury. This is an instance where he did not let corporations and private individuals get the property of the Province.

PEOPLE'S CANDIDATE HONORED.

The shairman called on Phil. H.
Bowyer, the Liberal-Conservative candidate, a man whom all who knew and esteemed.

Mr. Bowyer, on rising to speak, was given a splendid and memorable ovation. The whole audience seemed to go wild with enthusiasm, and it was many minutes before the chering died away sufficiently to permit him to speak. Mr. Bowyer said, I thank you for your kindly reception, and it gives me great pleasure to stand before so large an assemblage of the electors of East Kent, not only as the nominee of the Liberal-Conservative party, but as the nominee of a convention absothe nominee of a convention absolutely unique, a convention almost as large as this audience, open to all comers and including more than a score of stalwart Liberals—cheers—and fully as many of the old-time Fatrons. I hear a gentleman laugh, He is laughing at those honest Liberals who could not condone the wrong-doing of the government but took a strong stand for the Province—Cheers. At that convention all not in accord with the government were invited to attend, and I was the united choice. I was pressed the nominee of a convention absofor weeks before, not only by Conservatives, but by Liberale and Patrons, to stand.—Cheers. This is a sign of the times. Why are they supporting me? There is no need to tell an intelligent andence why. It is because of the record of the Ross Government.—Cheers. This is not alone in Bast Kent. Every independent writer and thinker in the Province do the same. From the publis, eminent men, men who in the past have held aloof, are to-day thundering against the methods which have disgraced the Province.—Gheers. There is not a man within the sound of my voice but knows the charges to be true.

True.

A voice—No.

I see someone tries to contradict that. He is like an old gentleman hap in the northern part of the riding. I spoke there, reading the opinions of eminent men, the records of the courts the confessions ions of eminent men, the records of the courts, the confessions of the Globe, the confessions of Ross himself—and at the end of it all this old gentleman said, that "nothing had been proved against Ross."— Laughter, But when I went to speak to him he put his hand up to his ear. He was deaf.—Cheers. Some of these men who cry "No! No!" are deaf.—Laughter. A great and honorable man is this G. W. Ross. The last time he visited this hall, he made an address to the teathers of East Kent and delivered, one of the grandest time he visited this hall, he made an address to the teachers of East Kent and delivered, one of the grandest bursts of oratory I ever heard. He is a splendid prescher, but a very poor practicer.—Cheers. He spoke of the sauctity of the ballot, and of the sauctity of the ballot, and of the sared duty the young men had before them. I looked at him in smazement, for he had come straight from North Waterloo.—Cheers. And just a few days before, in West Eigin, a band of hired thugs and political thieves had invaded the riding to roof the Iree ballots of the young men. They did it in Boss interests, and not one was punished.

I shall refer to West Eigin. In 1896 Mowat went to Ottawa, and Mr. Hass must be held fully responsible for what followed. The elections of 1898 resulted in the return of the Hardy-Ross administration by a small majority against them of nearly 4, 400. They still sought to ding to the feshpots, and having consulted the heelers decided that, at he matter what cost, the Government must had a fee. They maniged to unseat Mr. McDarmid in West Eigin—bis majority was small and a smalle case was proved. They maniged to unseat Mr. McDarmid in West Eigin—bis majority was small and a smalle case was proved. They maniged to unseat Mr. McDarmid in West Eigin—bis majority was small and a smalle case was proved. They maniged to unseat Mr. McDarmid in West Eigin—bis majority was small and a smalle case was given charge of the machine and came in with Pretchett, Lewis, Gorto cleet Donald McNish. Mr. Presten was given charge of the machine and came in with Pretchett, Lewis, Gorman, Bole—the "skilled outsiders"—were introduced unden assumed names and acted as returning officers, switched ballots and stuffed the ballot boxes, and returned Donald McNish by 274 majority. Nobedy believed it, for they had looked for a close contest, so an investigation took place, At Shedden Duncan Bole had acted as Mr. Stafford, a respectable man on the M. C. B., and acted as deputy returning officer. There are very few voters at Shedden, and they looked for five majority one way or other; but they counted 86 majority for Mr. McNish. Then 84 farmers of Shedden and vicinity swore they had voted for Mr. McDiarmid, yet there were only 42 votes counted for him.—Cheers. The facts are known to everyone, no one can deny yet there were only $2 votes counted for him.—Cheers. The facts are known to everyone, no one can deny them.—McNish has confessed them.

Duncan Bole was arrested, brought to West Elgin, brought before a Justice of the Peace, and let out on two sureties of $1,000 each. But Duncan Bole didn's appear when called on, rather he disappeared,—Langhter. He is down in the West Indies representing the insurance company of which Hon. G. W. Boss is presiduit.—Cheers and laugh'er. Those bonds were never estreated. If any young man in this riding had committed some petty offence, and some one went his bond, and he got frightened and skipped out, have anyone of you ever heard of a case where the bonds would not be forfeited.
There is one low for the common farmer and another, as you all know, for the political trickster.—Cheers.

THE DISCREDITABLE RECORD. THE DISCREDITABLE RECORD.

THE DISCREDITABLE RECORD.

Then there was Martin J. Cahill. He was sworn in as Montogmery, thereby committing perjury — he signed the returns as Montgomery, which was forgery—and he committed impersonation. Something concurred at that poll. There is no need to go into the disgraceful story. Martin J. Cahill was prosecuted by the county crown attorney, an appointee of the government, the private prosecutor being asked to step aside, was brought before the acting magistrate, and Louis B. Heyd, of Toronto, one of the perambulating lawyers for the Liberals, a peared for the defence. Do you suppose that Louis B. Heyd came of his own accord? He was sent by the men who em loyed Cahill, the Reform Association. There were five charges; three very serious. The county crown attorney was prepared to proceed with two and asked time for the other three, and Mr. Heyd was prepared to defend the three but not proceed with the other two. So these three men, all appointed by the Ontario government, let Cahill go on his own bond, to appear when the two lawyers, agreed upon a time, and these two lawyers, both tarred ought to be satisfied with the Hon. was lacking in vigor, he must have been hard to piesse. "No slackness there was found." Mr. Blake now denounces the fraud and corruption by which the Ontario Government has peen maintained in power; and we dare say that some persons who were delighted with his ouslaughts on Conservative wrongdo'ng will be shocked by the vigor of his attack on Liberal wrongdoing. Mr. Blake takes no stock in the plea that one party is as bad as the other. "At the present juncture," he says, "it is not a question of how much better may be the men that we wish introduced into the public arena for the government of our land, but it is a question of pun shment for those who have been tested and fried and found deliberately at work debauching and degrading our land."

In spite of sneers and abuse, the independent movement agrinst the dependent movement against the Government gathers force from day to day. Old Liberals like Mr. Blaks are speaking out with emphasis. The Rev. D. C. Hossack declares that the defeat of the Government will be a victory for independence and for true Liberalism. The Rev. Nathaniel Smith says that Promier Ross, though he means well, is so much afraid of losing office that he has been recreant to his most sacred obligation. Prohibitionists have lost confidence in him. The Rev. Dr. Ross says it is a question not only of prohibition, but of good faith, of political integrity. If bad faith be condoned at the polls, dry-rot in public life must cause. No pledge can be trusted, "Behind every such promise must lurk the question, is this really the policy on which the Government propose to stand or fall, or is there a string to it, namely, provided it be ratified at the next Liberal convontion, says several years hence?"

The Rev. William Kettlewell, another old Liberal, says it is his duty "and the duty of every citizen who has any regard for publical and moral desency to help put out of office a government capable of such breach of good faith." He advises the elector to condemn his own party when it does wrong, you forfeit your influence upon it for the right, and the party will go on doing wrong, believing that you will stick to it in spite that you will stick to it in Government gathers force from day to day. Old Liberals like Mr. Blake will go on doing wrong, believing that you will stick to it in stite of its correct acts. The only way or its corrupt acts. The only way in which you can influence your party for good is to teach it that you are sufficiently independent to oppose it, or, at least, to withhold your augtort when it is wrong. A season in the cold shades of opposition may ne not only the best for the coun-try, but for the party itself."

Every day the people read some new declaration from an old Liberal, an independent, or from someone who has hitherto taken little or no part in rublic affairs, adverse to the government. To the names already given we may add those of Mr. Walter Mills, son of the late Hon. David Mills, a tower of strength in Liberalism; or Mr. Field, son of the late Liberal member of the Legislature; of Professor Cappon, of Queen's University; of Mr. P. D. Ross, of Ottawa. Saturday Night points out that the independent press of the Province, is against the government. The Toronto Weekly Sun is a conspicuous

'NO OPPORTUNITY NEGLECTED

The St. Thomas Journal, the Rossite Elgin organ, yesterday had a front page fordered article headed "Glaney the new Minister." The Journal, like Eyanturel, sees what's happening in Kent.

NOW THE FESTIVE

"NO OPPORTUNITY NEGLECTED.

The Fulton (Mo.) Gazette reports that a minister of that town was moved by the grief of a husband whose wife was to be buried and sought to commisserate him in the following manner:

"My brother, I know that this is a great grief that has overtaken you, though you are compelled to mourn the loss of this one who was your company in any partner in I'e I would console you with the assurance that there is another who sympathizes with you and seeks to embrace you in the arms of unfailing love."

To this the bereaved man replied by asking, as he gazed through tears litto the minister's face, "What's her name?"

THAMESVILLE

Jan. 19.—One of the largest meetings that was ever held in this vioin. Ity in the interests of any candidate was held on Tuesday evening in the interests of P. H. Bowyer, the popular candidate for East Kent. The house was filled with honest Reformers, Conservatives and Independents who honestly and for their own interests endorsed Mr. Bowyer, and his independent principles, regardless of party, against combines, monopoles, trusts, bonuses, unjust taxation of Tailways, telepgraph and telegraph companies, and among the most amportant of all denunciation and annihilation of the Ross government. Mr. Bowyer coke for some time on the receding sabjects, and cointed out very clearly to those present the great necessity of a radical reform in the methods of conducting business in the Ontario Legislators, If elected he would do all in his power to give to the people of Ontario clean, just and efficient administration. He would orpose all land grants as well as subsidies and bonuses, oppose the slaughter of timber in New Ontario, and also the school book monopoly. Mr. Bowyer was ably assisted on the platform by Mr. Carscallen, of Wallaceburg, T. Bradley, Mr. T. M. Sayer, and Mr. G. M. Fraser, Mr. John Davidson acted as chairma.

UNITED IN ONE RESPECT.

There may be differences of opnion regarding some subjects in sections of the country remote from each other, but there is more respecting the best remedy for ples, as witness the letters below:

"I have been feeling so good I could hardy believe it, after suffering with piles for a year, to find that I am ence more feeling like myself. I wish you could have seen me before I started using Pyramid Pile Cure and look at me now, and you would say I am not the same man. I have gained 20 pounds, and all on account of Pyramid Pile Cure." Walter Sharkley, 56 Park street, Springfield Mass.

"I bought a f.fty cent box of Pyramid Pile Cure and used as directed with the most unexpected results, a complete cure. I have been troubled with piles for thirty years and was in much distress and passed much blood, but at present am free from any kind of piles." F. McKay, Weaverville, Cal.

"Pyramid Pile Cure has been worth thousands of dollars to me; it cured me after using numbers of ofter remedies and taking medicines from doctors. It also cured my son, although Re could hardly walk, eat or sleep; he is, now all right." B. Stringfellow, Postmaster, Elko, S. C. One thousand dollars is offered by the Pyramid Drug Co., Marshall, Mich., to any one who will show the above testimonials to be not genuine. Pyramid File Cure is sold by druggists for fifty cents a package and every sufferer should buy a package and try it to-night, being careful to accept no substitutes, and bearing in m.ind the fact that there, is nothing else "just as good."

 AN ITALIAN

SHERLOCK HOLMES

The crime of murder is still, unfor tunately, more common in Italy than in any other country in Europe. It however, due to the amazing leniency of the sentences which Italian Judges impose, for there is no capital Judges impose, for there is no capital punishment, and only in the very rapest cases is a murderer given the extreme sentence of solitary confinement—which is synonymous with death in three to six years. It is plaimed that the adoption of capital punishment in Italy would at once reduce the crime of assassination by one-half, for the Italiar peasant has a great fear of death.

one-half, for the Italiar peasant has a great fear of death.

The Department of Public Security, as the police in Italy are called, is doing its utmost to provent the use of the kaife and to arrest the culprits, but under the present conditions it becomes each year more and more difficult-first, because of the disinclination of the judges to impose adequate sentences, and secondly owing to the interminable length of murder trials. Hence the police especially in the remoter districts of Italy, are becoming disheartened, and consequently inactive.

sequently inactive.
Since the assassination of the late

Scheethy hactive.

Since the assasination of the late King Humbert, however, a large number of reforms have been introduced into the pofice service, with the result that among the personnel is a large number of very clever and highly intelligent officials, and the whole system is being remodelled upon French and British lines.

A short time ago, by the courtesy of the Questore, or Director of Police of the Province of Florence, the writer was afforded an opportunity of inspecting the Bureau of Identification recently established by that most celebrated of Continental detectives, the Cavaliere Luigi Frosali.
Frosali, atall, fair-beared, browneyed middle aged man, good-humored, easy-going, and an expert swordsman, is the Sherlock Holmes of Italy.
An excellent linguist, he usually passas for a foregare. An excellent lingu'st he usually passes for a foreigner—a German for preference—makes it his boast that he carries no weapon save a service—able aword-cane, and leads a charmed life amid the thousand-and-one dangerous arithmet. gerous criminals in various parts of Italy, all of whom have sworn to kill him.

THE TERROR OF WRONG-DOERS. Yet so astute is he, so shrewd and ingenius, and so many are his dis-guises, that the very name of Frosali strikes terror into the heart of the most fearless thic for assassin.

To his initiative is due the estab-To his initiative is due the estab-lishment at Florence of the photo-graphic bureau and the Bertillon method of measurement, and so suc-cessful has it been during the past couple of years that the Government have just sanctioned other bureaux at Milan, Rome, and Naples, on ex-actly the same lines.

couple of years that the Government have just sanctioned other bureaux at Milan, Rome, and Naples, on exactly the same lines.

The writer met the great detective in the Gambrinus Cafe in Florence recently. He was dressed in a tweed cycling jacket and Panama hat, and looked a typical German tourist, the same as ten thousand others who visit Italy.

At the bureau, a large suite of rooms in the Prefecture, he showed his visitor, with pardonable prie, the ponderous albums containing over 6,000 photographs of dangerous criminals, each in two posse, side face, front face, with hat and without, most of which he had taken himself. They were of every type, male and female, carefully classified, sub-divided, and indexed, from pickpockets to assassins, while one large section was wholly devoted to a gallery of elegantly dressed men and women, international forgers, sharpers and blackmallers.

To some of the portraits in the albums he pointed, telling the story of their career, their crimes and how he had tracked and arrested them in Geneva, in Rome, in Venice, in Paris, and other capitals—stories which are too long to be repeated here, but which were full of excitement, and showed the marvellous ingenuity of a veritable genius in the detection of crime. For personal bravery he has received a decoration at the hands of the King, yet he is an extremely modest man concerning his achievements. He, however, let drop how he had lived out at Campi, in Tuscany, for a month as a charcoal burner, in order that his face could be black, and thus disguised. Discovery meant death, yet he successfully completed his investigations, finding a bank-note factory fitted with all the latest appliances, and turning out French and Italian 100. Franc notes so cleverly as to almost defy detection.

GUARDIANS OF THE KING.

GUARDIANS OF THE KING.

It was he who organized the cyclist squadron of detectives which now guards the King of Italy wherever he grees, and with his lieutonants, two very clever detectives, named Cimmino and Gambetti, also cyclists, he has a great force of secret police agents at his disposal. It must be remembered that the peril to which a detective is exposed is Italy is a hundredfold greater than in Great Britain or America.

Notwithstanding this, however, the changes effected in the administration of the police by His Majesty's own command have already greatly suppressed the lawlessness and crime which were such a blot upon the nation during the last years of the reign of his lamented father.

Indeed, a new era has dawned for Italy. His Majesty is almost daily giving private audience to those with practical knowledge of the various branches of the public service, and the outcome is aiready transforming the kingdom into a Power of wealth and strength. Yet in the administration of justice there is still much to be desired. What, for instance, can be expected of a President of the Court of Appeal with a salary equivalent to about two thousand dollars a year?

Criminal frials are often ludicrous, The brigand Musolino, when tried at Lucca a year or so ago, refused to court at all, and the case

Aga'n, the Pal'zzolo trial—a murder case transferred to Florence from Sicily on account of the influence of the secret societies—lasted for years, and has now only just been finished! The reason is plain. The hosts of advocates call bosts of unnecessary witnesses in every trial, and badly-paid experts combine with the judges to prolong the trials and so gain increased fees.

But the attention of the Chamber has already been called to it, and it is said upon high authority that His Majesty is making personal investigation. This means that justice in Italy will very soon be as fair and expeditious as that of other nations, for the Italians already have a saying regarding Victor Emmanuel.  THE MARRIAGEABLE AGE ******

Every now and then some one starts a discussion about the best age for marrying. Such a one has just now been opened and as an indication how other times bring other manners we find that so long as she has given up her freedom by the time she is thirty the girl of the present day may be considered to have done her duty to herself and her family. What would have been said to such a theory as this hall a century or more ago! The heroines of Jane Austen's novels reckoned spinsterhood to be their certain doom if they fad even reached the age of tweaty-three without the prospect of matrimony, and the seventeen and eighteen-year-old bride was only thought to have behaved in the way that all daughters should if they did not wish to be numbered among the pitiable or eccentric members of their sex. Spinsterhood in the "good old days" was indeed something to be ashamed of, to be avoided almost at all costs, and the parents whose daughters soonest married were endays" was indeed something to be ashamed of, to be avoided almost at all costs, and the parents whose daughters soonest married were envisibly regarded and sincerely congratulated by their friends. What a change has come about in the years that have since elapsed this discussion on the suitable marring age for women clearly shows. Common sense has happily been vouchsafed to us in these later years, and our girls very sensibly give themselves time to develop both physicially and mentally before they andertake to manage husbands and be the joyful mothers of children. But there is just the danger that we shall go to the other extreme, which will touch that of marrying off mere school girls before they have had time to eajoy, their youth. The tendency is clearly more and more to advance the marriageable age of women, and shall we not be in danger, therefore, ultimately looking upon the bride of forty as a rather rash and giddy maiden who, having married "in haste," may be expected to repent leisure. Naturally, if this course were pursued long enough we should ultimately got back to the very leasure. Naturally, if this course were pursued long enough we should ultimately get back to the very youthful brides again, but the intermediate stages would be rather trying, and parents will do well to accept the sage advice of the novelist who auggests that they might urge upon gris the desirability of marrying before thirty, "even," as she naively adds, "if the marriage offered does not reach the jdeal" set up by each individual femate. This seems to be a very discreet way of suggesting that no reasonable offer should be refused, and a delicate way of hinting that after thirty it is a decided "toss up" whether any kind of matrimonial is made, leaving the realization of ideals and sentimental considerations entirely out of the case. Perhaps we may venture to suggest that twenty-five is about the best possible age for a woman to marry. By that time the leaves the surface of the case.

him. He can tell some things. He has the government by the throat. In North Waterloo the Premier had ridden in the same conveyance with the operators. Then he came here to set forth that "Righteousness exalteth a nation,"—Laughter. The same old gang of boodlers were brought in by Smith and Vance and a school opened to teach the young men of North Waterloo to manipulate ballots in the interests of purity and good government. Wildfong and Chimmings, according to the jadge's finding, tampered with the bellots. Hon E. J. Davis forced the returning rofficer to appoint Cummings as a dejuty. But now Hon. G. W. Roes challenges us to prove that a deputy returning officer ever tampered with and switched ballots. The jadgment of the court says several tampered with the ballot boxes.

Mr. Bowyer proceeded to read from the judgment.

That is the reason'd gave a liedge to the convention to heir turn out the Ross administration. We don't need to condemn them—they condemn them—selves. Don't you be'll ve that fledge along should entitle me to your support.—Cheers. I pledged myself to surport the platform of Mr. Whitney. Mr. Cochrane says the government ager going to husband our resources. Why, have they just got light?—Cheers. Simply because these things have been advocated by the opposition for the past five pears. I promised to belp to do away with the school book muso, oly, brought in by the present premier when he became miniscter of education twenty years ago.—Cheers. Mr. Whitney is pledged to abolish that. Speaking in his presence at Chatham, I said I would hold him to his pre-election pledges. If he fails, I'll move on my own responsibility as a private member and divide the House on the question. Mr. Whitney promises law reform. You all know how law costs pile up. He proposes one final court of appeal. I'll hold him to his promise of sixe reform.

A veice—"He's skippery."

Cheers. I'll stand by you regardless of caucus or party whip. I want to come, back able to look every man in the eye and say I've stood true to my promises. On these piedges I ask your support on Wednesday next ind I feel sure you'll give it.

Mr. Bowyer took his seat amid loud and prolonged applause.

PEOPLE ASK QUESTIONS.

Lt.-Col. J. C. Hegler, of Ingersoll, was the next speaker on behalf of Mr. Cochrane. He met with a very mixed reception. He thought it incredible that so much time should be wasled on such subjects.—Derisive laughter. They were here, lke the shareholders of a joint stock company, to take stock and to judge the management on their administrative record. He urged his hearers to do so. If was a pleasure to meet Mr. Bowyer.—A voice.—"You bet?" and cheers.

During the last 32 years the Government had collected over $113,600,000—your money. Consider, if your interests would be furthered by electing them to power again.—Cries of "No." The whole opposition cry is corruption.—A voice.—"That's bad enough." Of that money 955,000,000 had been handed back to the people.

A voice.—The boodling?"

Where did the money come from?" queried several electors in pointed allusion to the Gamey episode.

Col. Hegler.—It came out of our pockets and went back into your pockets. If the officers of a joint stock company could show such a record, would you seek to dethrone them and elect untried men. Gompare Quebec's position. They are in debt, We have a surplus. Mr. Bowyer romplains of grants to railways. I don't wish to discuss that.—Laughter. No reasonable man would question their advisability. It understand Mr. Bowyer must have forgotten some things. Didn't Mr. Bowyer support a Donus here?

Col. Hegler—I am glad they were satisfied.

They taik of corruption. No Reformer will uphold wrong-doing on behalf of the government.—Derisive laughter. You all know the government lost the seats where the corruption occurred. They did not profit by it. Mr. Howyer refers to Pritchett. He was not punished because the Conservatives got an affidavit from him and withdrew the information, As to Wildfong and Cummings the evidence was shown to be purchased testimony.—hisses. The country crown attorney found it could not sustain a conviction.

Col. Hegler proceeded to justify Duncan Fole's employment as an agent of Ross' insurance company, by stating that he was appointed before Ross became the president. He dealt with the timber question, and proceeded to discuss the purity fund. It was collected he said, in order to purify the electorate. Every candidate got his share. If Mr. Bowyer had been junning he would have received some.

Mr. Bowyer—He wouldn't have didate got his share. If Mr. Bowyer had been tunning he would have received some.

Mr. Bowyer—He wouldn't have taken a nickei.—Cheers.

Col. Hegler—It was agreed that it should be erreuded for legitimate errenses alone. How about North Norfolk, Sault Ste Marie and South Ontario, where Wm. Emith the Conservative candidate in 1898 was unseated and confessed to stending $1,200. A voice—"That's not true!"

Col. Hegler—Then in the case of the Minnie M.—Lauphter—the cultrits were let go by the direct action of the Conservatives themselves. Mr. Duveroet, the Conservative counsel, had the effrancery to go to the government and ask assistance, and after he had brought action in the wrong court, ask why the Ross government didn't convict and runish the guilty parties. These stock arguments were gainful to listen to—Hear, Hear! This is no laughing matter but a very serious matter.

Uohn Lee, at this juncture endeavored to make his exit, amid toud cries of "Hold on, Mr. Lee; wait a minute You'll hear the truth." Mr. Lee, however, persisted in retiring.

MR. FRASER SPEAKS.

The chairman, in introducing Mr. G. A. Fraser, of Thamesville, took occasion to regret the interruptions which had marked Col. Hegler's address. He hoped they would not be repeated.

dress. He hoped they would not be repeated.

Mr. Fraser, on rising, was greeted with load apphase.

The day has gone by, said Mr. Fraser, when any speaker will endeavor to defend wrong-doing, whether of Grit or Tory. I was surprised at the tast speaker saying that Ontario and Quebec started on an equal footing everyone knows that is not true—Cheers.

Quebec started on an equal footing. everyone knows that is not true—Cheers.

The people have felt the burden of the school system arranged to sait the 5 per cent. who go on for higher education at the expense of the 95 per cent. who cannot do so—hear, hear!—and to enable publishers to make profits.—Hear, hear! After Mr. Bowyer explaining things so clearly, the previous speaker didn't seem able to understand.—Laughter. Two years ago we had one Ontario Reader, Part I. Certain book publishers had that one de-authorized. Then the publishers of the original reader got their book made in Canada and had it re-authorized. They say there is no monopoly, that any publisher can get a book authorized on the same conditions. Those conditions, I can tell you, are impossible to fulfill. These two books were just hicely authorized when along came the other publishers in the ring and had another book also authorized. I have the books here," continued Mr. Fraser, exhibiting them. "Here are three books authorized and one de-authorized since the last election.—Hear, hear! Whose money buys these books?"

You have heard complaints of the very poor handwriting of children today. Why? Is it because the children are less intelligent, less capable? Not at all. in 1896 we had a copybook with the old Spencerian system. Then the government concluded vertical writing would be a nice thing, and authorized another book.—Laughter. Here is the book.

A voice—Another thing they forgot!

Then they found the whole vertical

A voice-Another thing they forgot! Then they found the whole vertical system was wrong and authorized the medial slant.—Cheers. Whose money bought all these books! It was as if a yoang man wanted to learn a trade, shifted from harness-making to carpentering, then went into a printing office, then changed to a law office, went in another year or so to a theological college. He spends five or six years and what is he?

A voice—Nothing.
That's what has taken place in your writing systems. You've wasted years and money and at the end of it all your children can't write.—Cheers.

N. H. STEVENS CALLED.

The chairman thanked the audience for the attentive hearing given Mr. Fraser—an improvement on that bestowed on Col. Hegler. He then called on Mr. N. H. Stevens on behalf of Mr. Cochrane.

Mr. Stevens was pleased to be present. He opened by stating that Duncan Bole was an agent for the Manufacturers' insurance Co. long before Hon. G. W. Ross became president. N. H. STEVENS CALLED.

Mr. Fraser, pursued Mr. Stevens, has brought down quite a cartload of books. I didn't examine them to see whether they were penny novels or school books.

the Opposition for two years and couldn't find anything wrong with the Government. Six W. R. Meredith watched them 20 years and couldn't find anything. Marter tried the temperance plank for a year and a half. Mr. Whitney has been at it seven years; and now Ross would go back with a good working majority.—Several voices—"One!" and ories of "What's his majority now?"

I met a Conservative judge the other day, pursued Mr. Stevens, who said he didn't want Hon. G. W. Ross to be turned out as long as he lived. Voices—"He's a hecler!"

Mr. Stevens proceeded to defend the bonness to railways on the ground that the country had to be opened up.

"When the Reform Government appeals to you, you are to some extent under obligations to your fathers who fought against the old family compact. The hallot is a trust. Mr. Stevens in concluding thanked the audience for the splendid hearing given him.

During Mr. Stevens' speech a large namber left the hall but the exodus ceased whem J. Milton Bite ruse amid the hearty applause of all present. I know no prouder moment, said Mr. Pike, than that in which I address an andience so eloquently testifying to the fitness of Phil. Bowyer.—Cheers. As one of those aboriginal inhabitants known as Indians (laughter) I am glad to be here. I am honored above many present in that Mr. McCoig says I have two birthplaces.—Laughter. Dr. Samson will testify that I was born in Raleigh, but Mr. McCoig says it was Harwich. But that is not an issue. There are issues, platforms and policies. I was glad to have Mr. Stevens admit that by asking us to discuss the platforms. Mr. Bowyer has pledged himself to advocate these things when you send him to the House on the 25th.—Cheers. MR. self to advocate these things when you send him to the House on the 25th.—Cheers.

Why did Ross dissolve the House two years before its time.—Cries of "Forgot." The trial of protests was oo, when ev d n e in rim n ting Hoo, Mr. Mackay was coming out, and the dissolution was to prevent the trial from going on. Ross has been unable to earry on the Government any longer. What is their platform? Ross says it is the same now as in 1871. Many Liberals have stated that the Government was rotten. corrupt, a goner (Cheers) but a convention has been held since—including the machine—and these men profess to have received new light. How is that if the policy is the same? Why did Stratton ask the Globe reporter to forget? Honest Liberals and Independents are coming over. They, like P. D. Ross, will be independent. They will support Whitney and his colleagues so long as they do what they said they would do.—Cheers. Ross says we are hungry for power. Who has been hanging on to office for 32 years. Have they any right to throw stones?—Cheers. They've been hungry for power. When the majority was against them.

Corruption has been revealed; not in one riace alone, but everywhere. There was West Eigin. You find it in the north, south and west—and down in Frontenac and Hastings, fellows auxious for pure government went fishing for a new kind of fish, for drowned bailet boxes. You will notice that our opponents send out of the county for a speaker, and who do they get? They get the former partner of J. B. Jackson.

Here we had brought action in the books are also because the series of the series If he is crocked as a corkscrew, does that make Ross or Stratton any better? The mass of Liberals are rising in protest.—Hear, hear. They are true to the old sod, to their fathers who fought for liberty when the people had no say. Don't take my word alone. Take the story of the four Norths, of North York, where Hon. E. J. Davis "didn't know." Take the Globe. Take the judgments of the Government of the magistrate in West Hastings connecting members of the Government with the bogus hallot box frauds.—Take the trip of the Minnie M. with her cargo of bad votes and bad whister, The Government don't like to hear of these things. Hon, J. M. Gibson wants to be excused because the telegram regarding the Minnie M. was handed to him on a public platform. They say they don't condone corruption. In the Sec C. N. Proceeding Mr. Pike desit with the Temiskaming Railway, law reform, the fee system and the school book monopoly. He concluded with a strong enunciation of Ross and his method's, and appealed in stirring words to the electors to speak with no uncertain sound for Phil Bowyer on the 25th.

STRIKE HITS RUSS WAR

Construction of War Vessels Delayed By Labor Movement.

00 Men Out in St. Petersburg and the Movement Is Spreading-Social Into a Vast Political D At Present Crists This May Have

St. Petersburg, Jan. 19.-Early resterday morning the employes of the Neva shipbuilding works decided to support the strikers of the Putiloff and Franco-flussian (formerly the Baird) works. Subsequently 12,000 of the men of the Neva works informed their managers that they had gone out on a general strike.

The strike at the Neva works in ion of submarine boats of the pro-ector type, which was being carried sut under the supervision of an Am-rican engineer, and also the work on wo ocean-going vessels, similar to hose of the volunteer fleet, and several gunboats and torpedo boats, be-sides the preparation of war matertal urgently required for naval and military purposes. The completion of the gunboats and torpedo hoats had been ordered within two months.

Large forces of military and police have been sent to the works.

Serious in Present Crisis. The strike situation is grave. Last night there were 58,000 men out and the movement is spreading to the big cotton mills, which employ over 50,000 operatives. Meetings have been called for to-day, at which the Socialistic Demogratic leaders will endeavor to convert the strike into endeavor to convert the strike into a vast political demonstration, which at the present crisis, might have serious developments.

An Armed Camp.

The authorities are adopting every precaution to avoid an outbreak, but the Socialistic Democrats are spurring on the strikers, and there is danger of a collision with the troops, which would be almost sure to be followed by red flag demonstrations accompanied by bloodshed. The city is full of sensational rumors, and rioting generally is expected. The great industrial quarters of St. Petersburg presents the appearane of an armed camp. rmed camp.

The idle factories are surrounded by cordons of police and patrols of infantry march about the snow covered plains.

The strike has an important bearing on the war in the Far East, as every day's delay in completing Government contracts at the iron works means the less of precious time in the starting of the third Pacific squadron. Not Confirmed in Tares Weeks.

Ottawa, Jan. 19.—R. L. Borden, leader of the Opposition in the Federal House, will be given the seat now held by Edward Kidd in Carleton County. This was unanimously declared at an enthusiastic meeting of the Conservative Association at Richmond, yesterday afternoon. The meeting was held immediately after the nomination yesterday for the Provincial House.

Mr. Kidd spoke briefly of the necessity of finding a seat for the leader of the party and expressed his willingness to retire in his favor. R. H. McElroy, president of the association, also expressed the opinion that it would be a nice tribute from Carleton County to give the seat to Mr. Borden. By a standing vote it was unanimously decided to allow Mr. Kidd to withdraw in Mr. Borden's favor.

Mr. Kidd to withdraw in Mr. Borden's favor:
There will be no opposition.
Prominent Liberals at the convention expressed themselves quite satisfied to allow the change with as little trouble as possible. Mr. Kidd will now send his resignation to Speaker Sutherland and writs for a new election will be issued without delay. In about three weeks it is expected that Mr. Borden will have his seat in the House, as he already has expressed his willingness to accept one.

The Liberal-Conservatives of Ward 4 vill meet at the School House, King St. o-morrow (Friday) evening at 8 o'clock. Se present. The subject taken by Miss Miller last evening in the Park St. Methodist church "A Spiritural Agriculturist," was handled in such a manner as to prove instructive. It was shown that what we sow we are bound to reap. An earnest appeal was made for her hearers to live clean lives. To night the talk will be on Miss Miller's experience in the gold fields, of Western Australia.

POSTPONED The congregational meeting of St. Andrews church which was to have been held thew schurch which was to have been held tast evening was postponed until two week's from last night. Owing to the inclement weather there was not a full meeting of all the members of the congregation, and several of the annual reports were not ready to be presented to the meeting. Everything, however, will be in readiness for the next meeting night.

Be at the Grand to-night and hear Ned Clarke, a Working Man himself.

Boston, Jan. 19.—The strike of the cotton mill operatives at Fall River, which effected about 25,000 persons and which has been in progress for six months, to the great hardship and suffering of Fall River people, was settled yesterday through the mediation of Governor Wm. L. Douglas Under the terms of an agreement accepted by both manufacturers and operatives, at a conference held at the State House yesterday, the strikers will return to work at once under the 124 per cent, reduction, against which they struck last July, and with no discrimination because of strike. No rate of wages was established.

Thousands of operatives have found employment in other mill towns during the past five months, while many others, chiefly French-Canadians, returned to their former homes in Quebec Province. It is expected that many Canadians will return.

The Simple Life

By CHARLES WAGNER

salated From the French by Mary

Copyright, 1901, by McChure, Phillips & Co.

Let us pass at last to things simpler still; I mean the little details of housestill; I mean the little details of house-keeping which many young people of our day find so unpoetical. Their contempt for material things, for the humble cares a house demands, arises from a confusion very common, but none the less unfortunate, which comes from the belief that beauty and poetry are within some things, while others lack them; that some occupations are distinguished and agreeable, such as cultivating letters, playing the harp, and tinguished and agreeable, such as culfi-vating letters, playing the harp, and that others are menial and disagree-able, like blacking shoes, sweeping and watching the pot boil. Childish error! Neither harp nor broom has anything to do with it. All depends on the hand in which have restread to the in which they rest and the spirit that moves it. Poetry is not in things; it is in us. It must be impressed on ob-jects from without, as the sculptor im presses his dream on the marble. If our life and our occupations remain too often without charm in spite of any outward distinction they may have it is because we have not known how to put anything into them. The height of art is to make the inert live and to tame the savage. I would have our young girls apply themselves to the development of the truly feminine art of giving a soul to things which have none. The triumph of woman's charm is in that work. Only a woman knows how to put into a home that indefinable something whose virtue has made the poet that the post that the post to relieve and is say, "The house top rejoices and is glad." They say there are no such things as fairles or that there are fairles no longer, but they know not what they say. The original of the fairies sung by poets was found and is still among those amiable mortals who knead bread with energy, mend rents with cheerfulness, nurse the sick with smiles, put witchery into a ribbon and genius into a stew.

It is indisputable that the culture of the fine arts has something refining about it and that our thoughts and acts are in the end impregnated with that which strikes our eyes. But the exercise of the arts and the contemplation of their products are restricted privileges. It is not given to every one to possess, to comprehend or to create fine things. Yet there is a kind of fine things. Yet there is a kind of ministering beauty which may make its way everywhere—the beauty which springs from the hands of our wives and daughters. Without it what is the most richly decorated house? A dead dwelling place. With it the barest home has life and brightness. Among the forces capable of transforming the will and increasing happiness there is perhaps none in more universal use than this beauty. It knows how to shape itself by means of the crudest tools in the midst of the greatest difficulties. When the dwelling is cramped, the purse limited, awelling is cramped, the purse limited, the table modest, a woman whe has the gift finds a way to make order, finess and convenience reign in her house. She puts care and art into everything she undertakes. To do well what one has to do is not in her eyes he privilege of the rich, but the right of all. That is her aim, and she knows how to give her home a dignity and an attractiveness that the dwellings of princes, if everything is left to mercenaries cannot recover. princes, it everything is left to mer-cenaries, cannot possess.

Thus understood life quickly shows itself rich in hidden beauties, in at-tractions and satisfactions close at hand. To be oneself, to realize in one's natural place the kind of beauty which is fifting there—this is the ideal. How natural place the kind of beauty which is fitting there—this is the ideal. How the mission of woman broadens and deepens in significance when it is summed up in this: To put a soul into the inanimate and to give to this gracious spirit of things those subtle and winsome outward manifestations to which the most brutish of human beings is sensible! Is not this better than to covet what one has not and to give oneself up to longings for a poor imitation of others' finery?

CHAPTER XII.

CHAPTER XII.

PRIDE AND SIMPLICITY IN THE INTERCOURSE OF MEN.

I would perhaps be difficult to find a more convincing example than pride to show that the obstacles to a better, stronger, serener life are rather in us than in circumstances.
The diversity and, more than that, the contrasts in social conditions give rise inevitably to all sorts of conflicts. Yet, in spite of this, how greatly would social relations be simplified if we put another spirit into mapping out our plan of outward necessities! Be well persuaded that it is not primarily differences of class and occupation, differences in the outward manifestations of their destinies, which embroil men. If such were the case, we should find an idyllic peace reigning among colleagues and all those whose interests and lot are virtually equivalent.
On the contrary, as every one knows, the most violent shocks come when equal meets equal, and there is no war worse than civil war. But that which above all things else hinders men from good understanding is pride.
It makes a man a hedgehog, wounding every one he touches. Let us speak first of the pride of the great.

What offends me in this rich man passing in his carriage is not his equipage, his dress or the number and splendor of his retinue. It is his contempt.

not disturb me, unless I am badly dis-posed. But that he splashes me with posed. But that he splashes me with mud, drives over my body, shows by his whole attitude that I count for nothing in his eyes because I am not rich, like himself—this is what dis-turbs me, and righteously. He heaps suffering upon me needlessly. He hu-millates and insults me gratuitously. It is not what its It is not what is vulgar within me, but what is noblest, that asserts itself in the face of this offensive pride. Do not accuse me of envy. I feel none. It is my manhood that is wounded. We need not search far to illustrate these ideas. Every man of any acquaintance with life has had numerous experiences which will justify our dictum in his eyes. In certain communities devoted to material interests the pride of wealth dominates to such a degree that men are quoted like values in the stock market. The esteem in which a man is held is proportionate to the contents of his strong box. Here "society" is made up of big fortunes, the middle class of medium fortunes. Then come people who have little, then those who have nothing. All intercourse is regulated by this principle. And the rela-tively rich man who has shown his disdain for those less opulent is crush-ed in turn by the contempt of his su-periors in fortune. So the madness of comparison rages from the summit to the base. Such an atmosphere is ready to perfection for the nurture of the worst feeling. Yet it is not wealth, but the spirit of the wealthy, that must be arraigned

Many rich men are free from this gross conception—especially is this true of those who from father to son are accustomed to ease-yet they some times forget that there is a certain delicacy in not making contrasts too marked. Suppose there is no wrong in enjoying a large superfluity, is it indispensable to display it, to wound the eyes of those who lack necessities, to flaunt one's magnificence at the doors of poverty? Good taste and a sort of modesty always hinder a well man from talking of his fine appetite, his sound sleep, his exuberance of spirits, in the presence of one dying of consumption. Many of the rich do not exercise this tact and so are greatly wanting in pity and discretion. Are they not unreasonable to complain of envy after having done everything to

But the greatest lack is that want of discernment which leads men to ground their pride in their fortune. To begin with, it is a childish confusion of thought to consider wenith as a person-al quality. It would be hard to find a more ingenuous fashion of deceiving oneself as to the relative value of the container and the thing contained. I have no wish to dwell on this question. It is too painful. And yet one cannot esist saying to those concerned: "Take are; do not confound what you possess with what you are. Go learn to know the underside of worldly splendor, that you may feel its moral misery and its puerility." The traps pride sets for us are too ridiculous. We should distrust association with a thing that makes us hateful to our neighbors and robs us of elegences of residents.

robs us of clearness of vision.

He who yields to the pride of riches forgets this other point, the most important of all, that possession is a pub-lic trast. Without doubt individual wealth is as legitimate as individual existence and liberty. These things are inseparable, and it is a dream pregnant with dangers that offers bat-tle to such fundamentals of life. But the individual touches society at every point, and all he does should be done with the whole in view. Possession. then, is less a privilege of which to be proud than a charge whose gravity should be felt. As there is an appren-ticeship, often ticeship; often very difficult to serve, for the exercise of every social office, so this profession we call wealth demands an apprenticeship. To know how to be rich is an art, and one of the least easy of arts to master. Most people, rich and poor alike, imagine that in opulence one has nothing to do but t opulence one has nothing to do but to take life easy. That is why so few men know how to be rich. In the hands of too many wealth, according to the genial and redoubtable comparison of Luther, is like a harp in the hoofs of an ass. They have no idea of the man-

So when we encounter a man at once rich and simple—that is to say, who considers his wealth as a means of ful-filling his mission in the world—we should offer him our homage, for he is surely mark worthy. He has sur-mounted obstacles, borne trials and triumphed in temptations, both gross and subtle. He does not fail to discriminate between the contents of his pocketbook and the contents of his head or heart, and he does not estimate his fellow men in figures. His exceptional position, instead of exalting him, makes him humble, for he is very sensible of how far he falls short of reaching the level of his duty. He has remained a man. That says it all. He is accessible, helpful and far from making of his wealth a barrier to separate him from other men; he makes it a means for coming nearer and nearer to them. Although the profession of riches has been so dishonored by the selfish and the proud, such a man as this alternative. this always makes his worth felt by every one not devoid of a sense of justice. Each of us who comes in contact with him and sees him live is forced to look within and ask himself the ques-tion, "What would become of me in such a situation—should I keep this modesty, this naturalness, this narightness which uses its own as though it belonged to others?" So long as there is a human society in the world, so long as there are bitterly conflicting interas there are outerly connicing interests, so long as envy and egoism exist on the earth, nothing will be worthler of honor than wealth permeated by the spirit of simplicity. And it will do more than make itself forgiven; it will make itself beloved. More dangerous than pride inspired by wealth is that inspired by power, and I mean by the word every prerogative that one man has over another, be it unlimited or restricted. I see no means of preventing the existence in the world of men of unequal authority. Every organism supposes a hierarchy of powers; we shall never escape from that law. But I fear that if the love of power is so widespread the spirit of power is almost impossible to find. From wrong understanding and misuse of it those who keep even a fraction of authority almost everywhere succeed in compromising it.

Power exercises a great influence over him who holds it. A head must be very well balanced not to be dis-turbed by it. The sort of dementia wide rule is a universal maindy whose symptoms belong to all times. In evasymptoms belong to all times. In every man there sleeps a tyrant, awaiting only a favorable occasion for wak-ing. Now, the tyrant is the worst enemy of authority, because he furnishes us its intolerable caricature, whence come a multitude of social complications, collisions and hatreds. Every man who says to those dependent on man who says to those dependent on him, "Do this because it is my will and pleasure." does ill. There is within each one of us something that invites us to resist personal power, and this something is very respectable, for at bottom we are equal, and there is no one who has the right to exact obedience from me because he is he and I am I. If he does so his command degrades me and I have no right to sufgrades me, and I have no right to suf-fer myself to be degraded. (To Be Continued.)

MR. CHAMBERLAIN'S LOVE FOR CHILDREN.

CHILDREN.

Mr. Chamberlain's love for children was well exemplified by a kindly act he did just before his great meeting at Luton. A sunny-faced little maiden of eight summers had expended some of her pocket meney in buying two picture postcards with photographs of the great man, and as they were different positious, and probably had been taken at different times, she conceived the idea of writing to Mr. Chamberlain, asking which photograph was most like nim. She commanded him to write his name plainly under the picture he thought the best likeness. The man most feared by European statesmen unbent to this little child, and graciously obeyed her command by writing his name in bold, clear letters on the postcard.

The annual report showed the registration of 4,873 bulls and 5,478 cows during the year, the total being now 109,579 pedigrees in the herd books. During 1904 the membership of the association was 2,005, as compared with 1,936 in 1903. The financial statement showed a balance of $3,834.78 on hand. The directors recommended that the head offices be removed to Ottawa. A resolution was passed appealing to the Dominian Government to make it necessary, in order to import cattle for breeding purposes free of duty, that such animals be first registered in Canadian records.

Avalanche of Rock Causes Tidal Wave Which Sweeps Shore,

Christinia, Norway, Jan. 18.—
Fifty-nine persons perished as the result, of an avalanche of rocks at Hesdal, north of Bergen, Sunday. A mass of rock was suddenly precipitated into Loslivend Lake from the neighboring hills, causing an immense wave 30 feet high, which swept the neighboring shores. Houses, people and cattle were swept away by the rush of water. Thus far only four bodies have been recovered. A great storm yesterday stopped the relief work, as the surrounding district is unable to send help.

SAVE YOURSELF TO DAY. The arch enemy of human life is The arch enemy of human life is not Satan, but Pneumonia.
Consum;tion may number its thousands, but Pneumonia its tens of thousands; and, besides, it's much quicker in doing its deadly work. A person may catch cold, get pneumonia and die in two for three days.
The only safeguard is Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.
They will, if taken in time, prevent Pneumonia from develocing.
But, of course, if you wait too late, from a reall; bad attack, nothing can save you.
That's why we lay so much stress on the fact that a common cold is on the fact that a common cold is such a dangerous thing to neglect. You never know what may come of it.

You never know what may come of it.

And nowadays, when we have at hand, in Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, such a safe, certain and perfect cure for a cold, there is no excuse whatever for letting it run along.

Stuart's Catarrh Tablets act directly upon the mucous membranes of the body, the inflammation of which is generally cailed "catarrh" which inflammation is nearly always caused, in the first place, by a cold. As soon as you begin to sneeze, and your eyes and nose begin to run, fly for relief to Stuart's Catarrh Tablets, they will not fail you.

Cases of clironic, long-standing catarrhal trouble, accompanied by discharge from the nose and throat, coughing, hawking, slitting, offensive charge from the nose and throat, coughing, hawking spitting, offensive breath indigestion, irritation of the stomach and bowels, are also easily cured by Stuar's Catarrh Tablets.

In cases of long standing, however, a cure cannot be expected in a day, as ft will take some time to build up the weakened and flabby membranes to their original tonic state of health. It will take time, but perseverance will win the day-if assisted by Stuart's Catarrh Tablets.

It is innortant, however, to re-

The People's Wed! Clarke and T. W. Crothers will address the electors of Kent at the Grand Opera House to-night. Balcony reserved for ladies and their escorts.

There is no state so vile but may be remedied. There is no man faller so low but he may win upward again to the light.—Edwin Pugh.

Be at the Grand to-night and hear Ned Clarke, a Working Man himself

PEOPLE'S NED AT THE GRAND

Great Gathering Expected to Hear Canada's Talented Son To-night

Clarke and Crothers Will Speak in the Interests of James Clancy— Ladies Invited.

There will doubtless be a great githering at the Grand tonght to hear the People's Ned the eloquent parliamentary labor leader, and T. W. Crothers, e.w.M. P. P., both of whom will speak in the interests of James Claner and the cause of new clean and progressive Government.

A special invitation is extended to the ladies, the baleony being reserved for them and their escorts.

The Is the first time the people of Chatham and the County have that the opportunity of hearing this belented advocate of the labor interests. And they will indoubtedly give him a royal recention. Mr. Crothers is one of the ablest platform speakers in Western Ontario. Everyone is welcome at the Grand tonght.

DRESS CARNIVAL

That the dress carnival to be given at the dr. Il shed rink Friday night at the dr. II shed rink Friday night will be successful is almost positively assured, weather favorable. The prizes selected by the non-coms to be seen in Stone & Co.'s window, are very creditable indeed.

The prizes:

Minard's Liniment Cares Burns, eta

We have some very serviceable, comfortable yet exceedingly stylish overcoats that are claiming a great deal of attention this stormy and blustery weather.

They are made from heavy mixed tweeds, mostly Scotch effects, also plain black, are double breasted with belted backs and storm collars. The shoulders are good and broad and backs are very loose, good style sticks out all over them.

Come in and try them on, we don't think you will be satisfied to go out without one. Prices are $10, $13.50, $18.00 and $20.00.
