DISASTROUS TRAIN WRECK

Disconnected Freight Cars Rush Down Mountain Side, Crashing Into Great Northern Passenger Train Near Nyack, Montana—Thirty-six People Killed.

Katispell, Mont., Aug. 31, via Skagway Sept. 9.—The west bound passenger train on the Great Northern railroad was wrecked at 8:30 last night near Nyack station in the mountains 40 miles east of this place. While the east bound freight was backing out from the switch at Essex it broke in two and 28 cars went back down the mountain side at fearful velocity, crashing into the passenger train, which was coming up the grade, without warning. The special car of Assistant General Superintendent Downs and a day coach filled with laborers were completely demolished, taking fire later. Downs and his son were both instantly killed as was also their cook. Among the laborers 33 were killed making a total of 36 deaths. None of the regular passengers were injured.

FOUR BOATS AT SKAGWAY

After Four Days of Quiet the Gateway City Has Rush.

Skagway, Sept. 9.—The steamers Hating, Humboldt, Cottage City and Amur all arrived Sunday morning with totals of 200 passengers and 1500 tons of freight, nearly all the shippers in the latter place being represented on the various manifests. Much freight also arrived for Whitehorse, Atlin and Bennett.

MANAUENSE REPAIRED

And Again Leaves for St. Michael With Dawson Freight.

Seattle, Sept. 4, via Skagway, Sept. 9.—The steamer Manauense which broke her shaft when 375 miles off Cape Flattery en route from Vancouver to St. Michael with 1600 tons of goods for Dawson merchants, put back to Seattle where she was repaired at Morans, after which she again sailed for the north. In making the repairs it was not necessary to unload her cargo.

His Arm Broken.

Roy Jones, a young lad 10 years of age, had the misfortune to fall and break his right wrist this afternoon. In company with other boys of the same age they were swinging on a trapeze and jumping in the rear of the N. C. office building. Young Jones is seeking to onto the others swung too hard, falling on his back with his arm underneath, sustaining a simple fracture of his wrist.

HAWKINS HAS RESIGNED

Will Soon Arrive in Skagway to Close Up Affairs.

Skagway, Sept. 9.—Your correspondent is informed by a railroad man who is in position to know that E. C. Hawkins has positively resigned the general superintendency of the White Pass Railroad Company and that he will come north on the next trip of the Seattle to close up and turn over his business to Vice-President Newell who will assume the duties of the position, but not until this is done will official announcement of the resignation be made. Your correspondent's informant says that Hawkins is out of his element in the operating department of a railroad, construction being more to his liking. Whether or not he is connected with the proposed Valdes road is not known, but apparently he is not troubled about the future.

An Awful Night.

New York, Aug. 26.—Mrs. Silas Dodd, wife of the captain of the schooner Eliza Scribner, from Boston for Savannah, yesterday reported beached off Fire Island, had a thrilling experience before she was rescued by life savers. When the vessel struck a sunken wreck and began to let in water, Captain Dodd ordered the small boats over the side, provisioned. He told his wife to get into the boat, and at his command cut the tow line running to the schooner. He gave her a sheath knife.

All night the woman sat in the small boat. In the darkness she could barely make out the hull of the schooner. Every minute she expected to hear her husband cry out to cut the line. When the life savers reached her she was in a semi-conscious condition.

An Employee Sued.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Suing a former employe for $25,000 damages on the charge that he spread disaffection among the other workmen and was thereby largely instrumental in causing a strike is the latest novelty in the many labor troubles in and near Chicago. The plaintiff in the suit is the W. B. Conkey Company, of Hammond, which secured an injunction against the strikers a few days ago and the defendant is James A. Russell formerly employed by the Conkey company as foreman.

This action was filed in the superior court here. According to the counsel for the plaintiff, Russell has been persistent in his agitation among the other workers, which has resulted in the strike now said to be embarrassing the company.

EXORBITANT CHARGES

BY BOARD OF TRADE REPRESENTATIVES

From the Cities of Vancouver and New Westminster.

BROKE THE CUSTOMS RECORD

Their Royal Highnesses to Reach Vancouver Sept. 30—Ill Health Causes Salisbury to Retire.

Vancouver, Aug. 31, via Skagway, Sept. 9.—At a meeting today between Government Rate Commissioner McLean and representatives of the Boards of Trade of this city and New Westminster the rates charged by the White Pass & Yukon Route came up for discussion. Charges were made by the merchants that the rates charged by the company are excessive and its classification unjust. Special attention of the commissioner was called to the fact that under existing conditions it is necessary to ship to Dawson by way of St. Michael when it is possible to do so.

August Customs Revenues.

Ottawa, Sept. 3, via Skagway, Sept. 9.—The Dominion customs revenue for the month of August were $3,005,485, the largest in the history of Canada. Arrangements have been concluded for the Dominion police to take the census of the Yukon.

Died at Seattle.

Word has been received in Dawson by letter that Mrs. Swezza, wife of Bert Swezza, a well known Seattle printer, died at her home of typhoid fever on August 26 after a three weeks' illness. Bert Swezza has a number of friends in this country who will regret to hear of his sad bereavement.

ATTEMPTED ASSASSINATION

Of His Holiness Pope Leo the Thirteenth.

New York, Sept. 4, via Skagway, Sept. 9.—The papers today publish a special from Rome of an attempt by anarchists to assassinate His Holiness Pope Leo. They had concealed themselves in the garden early in the morning but were discovered, arrested, disarmed and taken away before the pope appeared.

Salisbury's Retirement.

London, Aug. 31, via Skagway, Sept. 9.—A representative of the Associated Press has learned that the rumors of Lord Salisbury's retirement are due to the existence of agitation within his own family and that he is taking the step to preserve his health.

Their Royal Highnesses.

Vancouver, Sept. 3, via Skagway, Sept. 9.—Their royal highnesses will reach Vancouver September 30th and will leave for Victoria October 1st.

Three Deaths Only.

Havana, Aug. 27.—Of the eight persons bitten by infected mosquitoes in connection with the experiments conducted by the yellow fever board during the last three weeks, three have died. Three others who took the fever are expected to recover. One has not developed the disease. The eighth person as yet has not developed yellow fever. Surgeon Major Reed intends to continue the investigations.

Major Gorgas, chief of the sanitary office, says the idea of the yellow fever board was to subject to mosquito infection as many as would volunteer. Sixteen persons had been bitten and all had recovered, and the theory of the board was that if some hundred of persons could have been bitten with similar results a report could have been published showing apparently how safe and easy it was to become immune. After this had been published the entire population might have been immunized. So many cases gave mild results that the impression was created that the danger was not so great as it has turned out to be. Thus far during August there have been two deaths from yellow fever in Havana, as compared with an average of more than 50 for the month of August during the previous 11 years. Major Gorgas regards the experiment in mosquito infection as of immense service to science.

The man who was bitten by an infected mosquito after inoculation with the serum of Dr. Caldas, the Brazilian expert, has developed what seems to be symptoms of yellow fever. The yellow fever board calls the case a suspect.

BROWN CAUSES TROUBLE

In Dunsmuir's Cabinet From Which Minister of Mines McBride Resigns and Other Members Will Do Likewise—Too Much Martinism—May Convene House.

Victoria, Sept. 2, via Skagway, Sept. 9.—As the result of calling J. C. Brown, of New Westminster, to the portfolio of provincial secretary in Dunsmuir's cabinet, the political machinery of the province is undergoing something of a crisis. Minister of Mines McBride has resigned and others may follow his example. Brown is a strong adherent to Joe Martin and his appointment is looked upon by many as a betrayal of confidence. Prentice who was formerly provincial secretary, was given the position of minister of finance when that position was vacated by Turner who was sent to London as agent general of the province. This plain is said to have prevented Prentice's threatened resignation as secretary. Brown says he resigned, not because Brown is a Liberal but because he is a Martinite.

There is some talk among the opposition of calling the house together at once for the purpose of passing a vote of want of confidence in the Dunsmuir government. They claim the majority necessary to carry the vote.

It is rumored that Melneue, a son of the former governor, will be appointed minister of mines to succeed McBride.

BOERS MAKE TROUBLE

Blow Up Train Between Water vaal and Haman's Kraal.

London, Sept. 3, via Skagway, Sept. 9.—A dispatch today from Lord Kitchener, dated at Pretoria, says: "A train was blown up today between Water vaal and Haman's Kraal by 250 Boers who afterwards fired on it, setting it ablaze. Lieutenant Colonel Vandelaar of the Irish guards, a most promising officer, was killed. The other casualties have not yet been reported to me."

Another of Kitchener's reports received at the war department today says: "Since August 16th the columns have reported 99 Boers killed, 3 wounded, 120 made prisoners and 127 surrendered with 184 rifles and 27,500 rounds of ammunition. In this time 1700 horses and 7500 cattle have been captured."

A River of Fire.

Philadelphia, Aug. 27.—The big oil fire at the Atlantic Refining Company's works at Point Breeze is burning more fiercely than at any time since the first explosion occurred. Shortly before 6 o'clock this morning another tank exploded, the force of the explosion causing a big tank near Pennsylvania avenue to careen, the blazing oil flowing over the street and forcing the firemen to abandon that part of the works. The oil ran into the sewer which emptied into the Schuylkill river, and the officers say the sewer is a raging furnace. All police boats that were throwing water on the flames have left, so they will not be caught by the burning oil when it flows into the river.

Appeal to Yates.

Chicago, Aug. 27.—Governor Yates is to be asked by the union machinists of Chicago to intervene with a view to putting a stop to the importation of strike breakers who are being brought to this city daily from the East and placed at work in striking machinists' positions. Governor Tanner's action in excluding negro strike breakers from the state and deporting them from Spring Valley during the big strike of the coal miners, is to be brought to the attention of the present governor as a precedent. This plan was decided upon at the meeting of the machinists' executive board, representing the eight local lodges of the machinists' international union. Business Agent Arthur E. Ireland asked the meeting to empower him to send a letter to the governor on the subject.

AN ULTERIOR MOTIVE.

On the occasion of the visit of Premier Dunsinuir to Atlin the people of that district prepared a petition setting forth the wants of the amp. The first and chief item of the document which was handed to the premier read: "Freight rates.—The attention of the government is called to the fact that the existing rates on the W. P. & Y. Ry. Co.'s from Skagway to Caribou and inland points are in excess of those existing between Halifax and Vancouver. That the gross receipts, from the company's statements, amounted to nearly 75 per cent of the cost of construction, during the first eighteen months' operations, and the enormous net profit earned is good justification for the charge of exorbitance. At present the cost of living is so high that men of limited means are unable to spend any length of time, either investigating new districts or opening up old ones."

The pitiable plea which Atlin makes to the government of British Columbia serves, in the strongest manner imaginable, to support the position which the Nugget has taken on the freight rate question. Atlin has been given more unjust treatment if anything than Dawson has received, simply for the reason that in respect to that district there is absolutely no competition in the transportation business. The screw has been applied just as hard in Dawson as circumstances would permit, but in the care of Atlin, there has been nothing to stay the hand of the oppressor. The White Pass has enjoyed a clear field, and with medieval brutality has wrung the blood from its victims to the last drop. In establishing its rates for Dawson the railroad octopus has been forced by competition to stay within certain limits, but its treatment of Atlin indicates very plainly what would occur if Dawson were forced to rely upon the railroad company alone for the transportation of its freight. Nevertheless there are newspapers in Dawson which at every opportunity seek to uphold the railroad in its treatment of the miners of this territory.

The Sun and News, both have shown their hands unmistakably. They have arrayed themselves on the side of the enemy, and have aided and abetted him in every way within their power. What object they hope to attain in thus working against the interests of the community upon which they depend for support is not apparent. That the motive is an ulterior one we cannot help believing.

EXAMPLES BROUGHT HOME.

Examples of the effects of the big strikes now prevailing on the outside are coming home to Dawson merchants. Goods which were ordered by mail before the opening of navigation last spring are only now beginning to arrive and fears are entertained that in no few cases, orders cannot be filled at all. Delivery of freight on the coast from Eastern Canada has been greatly hindered owing to the strike among the C. P. R. operators and in a number of instances which might be cited several months have been consumed in the delivery of goods from

TO EDUCATE YOUNG PRINCES

Scheme for Forming Cadet Corps in British-India.

Simla, Aug. 30.—The assent of the king-emperor has been received to a scheme which was submitted to his majesty's government by the viceroy with the unanimous support of his council for the provision of military employment and rank for a limited number of cadets of princely or aristocratic families in India. A large field is already provided for the military employment of native officers of good birth or position, of whom there are nearly 3000 in the commissioned ranks of the native army, but there has been a dearth of a corresponding openings for the sons of Indian princes, nobles and gentlemen, who are every day receiving a superior education, but for whom opportunities of active public service when they reach years of manhood are restricted.

SOLDIERS ATEGEBERT

Arrived None the Worse for Their Dawson Visit.

Eugene Leddy, special agent of the traffic department of the White Pass route, who has had in charge the transportation of the troops for Fort Egbert and the commissary supplies for the posts along the lower river, returned to the city this morning at 4 o'clock on the Victorian.

"We arrived at Eagle Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock," said he, "with the boys in blue but little the worse for the day and evening before. I find that not only those who were here Friday under Lieutenant Fitzpatrick but the signal corps who preceded them a week or so ago as well as all others at the post who have ever been in Dawson, speak in the highest possible terms of the unbounded hospitality of the N. W. M. P. and Canadian officials. They cannot apparently say too much for the treatment accorded them whenever they happened to be in British territory. Lieutenant Fitzpatrick told me that he had been in the army transport service two years and never had he seen the troops or he himself been so royally entertained. They are very anxious for an opportunity to reciprocate and if any of the police should ever go to Fort Egbert there will be nothing in the entire country too good for them."

"There is another large shipment of quartermaster and commissary supplies which I am daily expecting and which will end the season's shipments. The consignment yet to come amounts to 110 tons, 25 of which is iron piping for the water service at Fort Egbert. It will be forwarded by one of the N. C. boats as soon as it arrives and I shall accompany the goods to the lowest station they are intended for Fort Gibbon. As there will probably be no way of returning again to Dawson, I shall have to go outside via St. Michael." Mr. Leddy will winter at his headquarters in Seattle.

HIGH WATER IN KLONDIKE

Is Proving Disastrous to Wood and Lumber Men.

The heavy rains of the past week have caused a rise in the waters of the Klondike river and is creating considerable havoc for the wood and lumber men who are sending logs down the river to the booms at the mouth. The boom has not been broken, but the rise of the water has caused a large gap in one end through which a large number of logs have passed working their way down the Yukon river. A continual string of logs have been floating down the Yukon today and a number of men in small boats have been at work harpooning as many as they could get hold of. Most of the logs coming down today belong to the Dawson Electric Light & Power Co.

BROUGHT TO HER RIGHT MIND

The Young Lady of Meadowtown Ashamed of Her Lover

Until Her Rich Cousin From Newport Fell in Love With Him—A Country Romance.

I was just 18, and I was unquestionably pretty. Our home at Meadowtown was the quietest of country homes, but it did not prevent me from meeting there what I felt wholly justified in calling my "tate."

Robert Carroll was a young artist who had come up one summer for the purpose of filling his portfolio with sketches under the most economical circumstances as regarded his board per week, and Robert and I in the early part of the summer had met in a mutually love at first sight sort of way, which soon resulted in our engagement.

Robert's ignominious prospects as concerned personal support were several water colors of by no means remarkable value and an oil painting which he found it impossible to sell. But he whispered to me confidential things before long about a comfortably off grandfather of 82 and a neglected yet half presumptive grandson.

But in the middle of the summer the unexpected happened. I received an invitation from my aunt, Mrs. Grosvenor Abercrombie, to come and visit her at Newport.

I accepted the invitation in fear and trembling. I made no attempt at anything like a strain in the matter of costume, for my simple dresses I well knew would stand me in better stead than all the country made finery which I might have hastily stitched up. At least I was sure of one thing about myself—I had not a suggestion of vulgarity in appearance or manners that could shock these high bred relatives.

I think Mrs. Abercrombie recognized this fact in five minutes after meeting me. She was a superb looking woman, with great gray puffs at either temple, a delicate peachy complexion, strangely untouched by time and manners that were quietly with quiet dignity.

Aunt Cornelia had one daughter, Helen. Very much of her mother's state's grace belonged to Helen Abercrombie's style. Her small head, where thick masses of blue black hair lay coiled and twined in glossiest abundance, was exquisitely set upon her swanlike sloping shoulders. Her face, thoroughly brunette in type, had a dreamy sweetness of expression that struck you at a glance as most winningly lovely. She was a great belle, whose presence, in Newport society.

Aunt Cornelia's house and its appointments were regal in my rustic eyes. The luxurious ease in which she lived seemed almost marvelous—servants bowing at every turn, no task to be done by your own hands except just what they wished to do; splendor, wealth, grandeur and refinement everywhere. Ah, me, what wonder that my head was turned to it all!

I rapidly accommodated myself to this new life. Helen was charming to me without any irritating touches of coquetry, and Aunt Cornelia was full of the most genial hostess.

I was made in the most delicate way to understand immediately upon my arrival that my few simple dresses would be wholly unseemable for the gayeties of Newport and very soon I attending high dinners, kettledrums and heaven only knows what else in costumes that Aunt Cornelia's charming method of dressing made it no embarrassment to wear.

The change from Meadowtown to Newport, from rural immurements to perpetual round of merry-making, was a change intensely radical, as all will admit. After three weeks of this utterly new life, when the time came for me to go home, I remember having a dreary depressed feeling that not even the thought of seeing Robert once more could do anything except mildly alleviate.

But, ah, until I was really back in Meadowtown once more I never knew how radical my mental change had been. I fought against it as I would, discontent and dissatisfaction besieged me at every turn. Our modest household customs, arrangements and conveniences struck me as ridiculous, vulgar, contemptible, after the glories of Aunt Abercrombie's Newport mansion and the wealth stamped surroundings of her fine friends.

Four mother! She came with me very patiently, as it was her sweet nature always to bear with everybody's conceits and shortcomings. Robert came with me patiently, too, at first, but I really believe that his love was strong enough to make nearly my worst faults take a borrowed ideal light of virtue.

Now here is a specimen of how I would sometimes treat him during the month that followed my return: "You have come for me to take a walk, Robert?" "Yes, Ada," with the pleasantest smile in his large, soft brown eyes. "Careless!" I rather pettishly. "It is altogether too early in the afternoon. This blazing sun will ruin my complexion. Cousin Helen and all the ladies at Newport would never think of walking out at this hour."

"I thought it rather cool, Ada. But just as you wish. We can sit here and talk for awhile on the piazza, if you prefer."

"Positively, Robert, I'm almost ashamed to sit with you while you have on that horrid, careless looking arrangement which you dignify by the name of a coat. None of the gentlemen at Newport!"

"Well," Robert here interrupted, with just the least tinge of pronounced pique in tone and manner, "what about the gentlemen at Newport?"

"Oh, pshaw! Don't show jealousy, it is such dreadfully bad style, you know."

"Is it? I wasn't aware of being jealous, Ada. I hope there is no reason for any such feeling."

"All I meant, Robert, was that the Newport gentlemen," with a faint, fluttering, retrospect so t of sigh at this point, "are so very neat in their costumes."

This amiable little confab is only one of the many which took place between Robert and myself during the month that succeeded my eventful visit. Did I finally see signs of impatience in his manner, touches of manly intolerance at my treatment, periods of coolness in his general demeanor? Well, if I saw them, I chose not to see them, and so the days passed.

At length, one autumn morning, I rushed into the room where mother was seated, holding an open letter in my hand.

"Oh, mother, mother," I cried, "what do you think?"

"Well, Ada," was the placid question.

"You remember," I sped on, "how in my last letter to Cousin Helen I jokingly invited her to Meadowtown? Of course I never dreamed of having her come and just put in the invitation as a means of filling up my stupid letter, and now she writes me that she will take up with my word—that she is very anxious to visit a real bit of country life before going back to next winter's gayeties in New York, and—oh, I shall die of mortification at the thought of having her here!"

But have her I was forced to do, and mortification spared me any such terrible result as that prophesied. She came, looking the thorough lady she was, dressed with suitable quietness and accepting all our homestead hospitality with a sweet, thoroughbred lack of surprise.

"I want you to appear your very best," I said to Robert in the morning before her arrival. "Cousin Helen is very particular and fastidious about gentlemen. She is a great belle—and, for that matter, a great beauty—and the least coarseness in a man's manners or dress always shocks her keenly."

Robert's brows darkened. I had gone too far. For the first time since knowing him I saw his handsome mouth take a bitter, sneering curve. "Perhaps a clod like myself had better not appear at all," he said, "while your paragon is here."

But he did appear that night. Helen was very affably cordial to him. She knew nothing of our engagement. I had never mentioned a word of it either to herself or Aunt Cornelia.

When Robert had left us that night and we were alone together, she astonished me by saying:

"What a charming man Mr. Carroll is! Why have you never mentioned him to me, Ada? Has he been long in Meadowtown?"

"Oh, yes! Nearly all summer."

"He comes of the Carrolls of L. does he not?"

"Yes," I said, a little confused, a great deal astonished. "That is, his grandfather, Mr. Everhard Carroll, lives in L. This Mr. Robert Carroll is an artist, as he told you, and—quite poor."

"Oh, I know nearly all about his family!" Helen said. "His grandfather, Mr. Everhard Carroll, treated him shamefully on account of embracing art as a profession. The old gentleman is one of the greatest millionaires in the country, and he has given out I believe, that he will bequeath all his fortune to this Robert, his only heir, though he refuses to notice him while he lives—and for that absurd reason too! It is not wonderful what simpletons some people can make of themselves!"

"Very," I murmured. I was more confused than ever.

During the next four or five days Robert came constantly to the cottage. Helen showed the most marked attention and rapidly growing preference for his society. His manner was very courteous to me—nothing more. I could not complain, for I had more than once pointedly hinted to him that I desired no mention of our engagement to be made during Helen Abercrombie's visit.

Two weeks passed on. At the end of those two weeks I was sick, tortured, agonized with jealousy. It seemed to me that in every motion of Robert's and in every sound of his voice I saw proof that he had transferred all his old allegiance from myself to Helen. And for my own feelings, every vestige of my own slumbering, maltreated, half despised love revived under the present shock of circumstances. I blamed myself for the past—I hated myself for it—I told myself that I deserved terrible punishment.

And the punishment came. Helen staid with us three weeks. The night before she left they took a walk together among the paths that skirted our cottage. It was a night of perfect autumn moonlight, and now and then I could see their dark forms sharply outlined in the silver air as I watched them from the window of the sitting room, where I sat alone, with a miserable, throbbing, foreboding heart.

At last they entered the house. Then I heard them pass into the little library where mother often sat and was sitting now. Presently I heard Robert ask:

"Where is Ada?"

He had never called me "Ada" before in her presence. I knew what was coming then. I heard mother's answer, "In the sitting room, I think," and waited and shuddered.

The door was half closed. Presently there sounded a little knock upon it. I rose as if stung.

"Come in," I said.

Robert entered.

"I can't write out his words. They were very mildly spoken. He said that he had thought I cared nothing whatever for him."

And then, though my heart was nearly breaking in my breast, woman's pride came to my rescue.

"You are right," I said, "I do care nothing for you. I suppose you have come to tell me that you wish to break your engagement with me and marry Helen Abercrombie?"

"I do," he answered simply, "if you will release me."

"Very well," I managed. "You are perfectly free." But the sitting room light was dancing before my eyes as I said it, and my poor heart was wildly galloping. I had got my punishment. Was it over severe? Often, often I think so during the lonely, eventless years of maidenhood which have followed.

They have been married almost more years than I can count over. I rarely see them, but I know they are very happy. Do you call this a miserable sad story, reader? Well, remember that, as I said at first, it is "sad, but true."

THEY ARE UNITED

All Nomeites Demand Removal of Judge Noyes.

The lawyers at Nome have sent a petition to Washington asking for the removal of Judge Noyes.

The merchants, business men and miners of Nome are not to be behind the Nome bar in the movement for the removal of Judge Noyes and the assignment of a man in unison with the popularity, as United States district judge.

Not only have they in mass meeting adopted and signed a petition for the judge's recall, but they have delegated a representative to go in person to Washington City and lay the matter before the president.

This delegate will most likely arrive at Seattle on the Santa Ana which was to have sailed the day preceding the departure of the Senator, and which reached Seattle on the 28th.

J. P. Brewster, who has the cigar stand in the Hotel Northern at Seattle, returned on the Senator, and brings a report of the big mass meeting of the merchants and miners, held at Nome on Saturday evening, the 17th. They passed the resolution asking the removal of Judge Noyes. Captain Baldwin, of the Giese Hardware Company, presided, and the resolution passed unanimously, as did those of the lawyers the official actions of Judge Noyes in strong terms and embody a memorial to President McKinley asking him to recall the judge and assign another to act, that the many cases awaiting trial may be disposed of before time for work to begin next spring.

The petition was signed by nearly all of the merchants in the city and practically all of the miners present. A committee was appointed to select a delegate to convey the petition to President McKinley in person and make a statement to him of the actual feeling existing against Judge Noyes' manner of administering justice.

"This action of the merchants, following so closely the protest of the lawyers, practically puts every business man and miner present in the city at the time on record against Judge Noyes, and they have every confidence that President McKinley cannot refuse to listen to their appeal," said Mr. Brewster.

Referring to the mining situation, he said: "Iron and Canyon creeks are showing up particularly good and I hear one man offer to bet $100 that the former will produce at least $250,000 this season. These creeks are in the Kougarak district, but they are to be cut off and renamed the Golden Gate, as they are far removed from what is now called 'Kougarak' and really form no part of it."

Looks Bad for Hoey.

Nogales, Ariz., Aug. 29.—William Hoey, United States collector of customs at this port was arraigned today before United States Commissioner R. D. George on several charges on information that he conspired to admit Chinese into this country from Mexico in a fraudulent manner. A number of witnesses were examined, the principal one being George W. Webb, known as a ling rider. Webb testified that among other things that he advised Hoey that Chinese were being brought through the lines and made an engagement with the collector to meet him at his room. He put a man named Dickey in a cupboard, and left the door ajar. Continuing he said:

"I talked with Hoey about a Chinaman named How, and proposed to go in with him. I said that How had promised me $100 a head. Hoey said all right and told me how he had fixed it with them to use the letter A on the certificates of those who paid the fee, and that I was to let such Chinamen go, but was to arrest all others."

The examination will be continued tomorrow.

Will Pay No Reward.

San Francisco, Aug. 29.—President Ralston, of the Selby Smelting Works, announces the reward of $25,000 which was offered for the arrest and conviction of the thief or thieves who stole over $300,000 worth of gold bullion on the night of August 5 will not be paid as such, though the detectives and others who were instrumental in recovering the treasure and sending the robber, John Winter, to jail, will be liberally compensated for their services. Winters was under arrest when the reward was offered and President Ralston says his conviction was expected. The company, however, thought he had accomplices, and also feared that the gold had been taken out of the country, and for these reasons offered the big reward. It is stated that several of the officers who worked up the case have been settled with, but the amount paid them is not known.

NO MORE BOOZING

For Employees of the P. C. S. S. Co. While on Duty.

The fact that it is generally conceded that the wrecking of the steamer Islander and consequent loss of life was directly due to the intoxication of the ship's officers has caused the Pacific Coast Steamship Company to issue an edict to the effect that none of its employees shall take a drink of intoxicating liquor while on duty under penalty of immediate and summary dismissal. Had such an order been in existence and rigid enforcement with the C. P. Co. there is no doubt, all smoothing over and polishing to the contrary, that nearly half a hundred persons ruthlessly rushed to their deaths would have today been living and well.

The drinking order is and has been in effect on many eastern railroads for several years and its effects are most satisfactory. With this order in force on coastwise steamers the traveler may repair to his bed with the assurance that those whose duty it is to protect his life and property are not indulging in drunken orgies instead of attending strictly to their duties.

Late Fall Predicted. Notwithstanding the fact that the present has been practically a year without a summer those who venture weather prognostications do not hesitate to say that the fall will be a late one, and that in the face of the assertion made by the Indians that the river will close between the 12th and 15th of October. The prediction of a late fall is based on the remarkably heavy rains now prevailing, old timers insisting that heavy August and September rains are invariably followed by a long and cloudy fall.

OLD MEMORIES ARE REVIVED

In Police Court This Morning of Two Years Ago

When Dark Brown Tastes Vied With Each Other on the First Row of Benches.

There was something about the police court this morning that revived recollections of the halcyon days of two years ago this winter when dark brown tastes would vie with each other for luridness on the first row of benches and when from three to eight new royal saws would be placed in commission every day. There is now every indication that some paint store proprietor has duplicated his hooch order of two years ago for evidences of the slumber and fighting brand were both eminently apparent in Magistrate McCauley's court this morning. D. B. Wheatley had become 'ryely' on Second street south on Saturday afternoon and when requested by a constable to repair to his abiding place had declined to do so. He had partaken of the brand that causes the memory to move out and leave the think tank a fit place for a 'to let' sign. He had no recollection of his actions but said it was the first time it 'hever 'appened.' The man with the cereal name and cereal inclinations was given an option on paying $10 and costs or of devoting 30 days of his time to the reduction of fuel.

Finding himself in a hole He just dug up his roll— (How is that for less than an hour's study) paid the bill and departed as gently as does the morning dew. N. Olsen 'ha lakwise been off the aigs onto da straw.' It was half past midnight Sunday morning that N. laid him down in peace to sleep on First avenue and declined to heed the call of an officer when he told him to move on. The advice and proffered assistance of one of N's friends was also passed up at the same time. He was 'yust' in from Sulphur and, being accustomed to drinking roathouse whisky, had not made the necessary allowance for water when he opened a campaign on Dawson case goods. An option on $5 and costs or 30 days at the end of a royal saw was allowed, but N. dived into the interior of his pants and produced paper of the realm sufficient to allow him to depart with an approved bill of lading.

A. B. McLean had hit the fighting brand for a few and gone out on the street to de-up-whomsoever he met, but the first man with whom he done business promptly knocked him down. When a constable was escorting him to the barracks McLean 'buckled' and it was necessary to call assistance. In his own defense the man said he had no recollection of what had taken place; that he is a peaceable man and that he had taken only four drinks. From his actions, however, one of two things was evident: Either he is unaccustomed to drinking or he used side boards on the glasses. He did not study a second on the option extended, paying $10 and costs or cutting narrow apertures in timber for 30 days. He took the former without a chaser. Just as court was about to adjourn a wild-eyed appearing son of the Norseland entered the courtroom and in a frightened tone of voice appealed to Magistrate McCauley to protect him from the devil who has been chasing around after him ever since he arrived by a lower river steamer from Nome some time ago. The fellow who gave his name as Antone Helm, said the devil had followed him from Dawson to Gold Run and back and had poured something down his throat that gives him a pain in his chest. As it was clearly evident that the fellow was demented he was taken to the guard room where the proper medical care will be given him.

Thos. Clotier of Dawson was taken in custody by Sergeant Smith on Saturday, being afflicted with dementia of such serious form that he was not in fit condition for a hearing this morning. He is under the care of Police Surgeon Thompson and will be given a hearing on Thursday.

DAWSONITE AT CIRCLE

Writes a Detailed Account of Doings Down There.

A letter has just been received in Dawson from W. F. Courtney the well known Dominion creek miner and freight who is now at Circle City. Mr. Courtney has been doing considerable prospecting on Fourth of July creek and tributaries which creek is a tributary of the Yukon river about 90 miles below Eagle City. The first locations were made on this creek in '98 by the passengers of a steamer, which was stranded near the mouth of a sand bar. For three days, who did a little panning on the creek and found some very good prospects.

The time of year being near the great American holiday the creek was named in its honor and called Fourth of July creek. Nothing further was done on the creek until last year when a man by the name of Clark who had staked No. 12 went back and sank a hole. He worked all winter and is said to have taken out $5000. Mail Carrier Downing used to deliver Mr. Clark's provisions to him last winter and he noticed on several occasions that he received his payment in new dust and upon inquiring learned from Mr. Clark that the gold was being taken from his own claim. Mr. Downing then staked a claim for himself and going to Eagle to record created quite a stampee to the creek from that place, the result of the stampee has been that a thriving little village has sprung up at the mouth of the creek which has been given the name of Nation City.

Mr. Courtney, who has been prospecting in the district, writes that he has been very much pleased with the result of his prospecting and that he has some very good location. He says that Clark and his partners on No. 12 are taking out from $25 to $350 to the shovel to the day per man. This is an excellent showing and promises well for the future of the country.

MR. NEWELL INTERVIEWED

New Vice-President of W. P. & Y. R. Meets Nugget Man.

Mr. A. B. Newell, vice-president of the White Pass & Yukon railway and steamer line, arrived in the city yesterday morning on the Whitehorse. During the day Mr. Newell has been closely closeted with Agent Rogers and being a very busy man it was with some little difficulty an interview was procured. In a conversation lasting two minutes and seven seconds much valuable information was learned concerning the present outlook and future policy of the struggling young infant with which Mr. Newell is affiliated. Though it was not so expressed in so many words, the Nugget feels safe in stating to the public that the White Pass route will be in operation next season at the same old stand and also that the Yukon river will follow the same general course it has pursued this year. The Nugget is also in a position to positively deny that the White Pass people have secured an exclusive concession on the water of the Yukon. Scows will be allowed the privilege of navigation under certain conditions notwithstanding the scurrilous reports to the contrary by unscrupulous and irresponsible parties. Stevedores will continue to receive the munificent and princely wage of six bits per in chacko. Knowing that shippers would be particularly interested in hearing of any readjustment of rates that would be likely to occur before the opening of navigation next season, the Nugget made distinct inquiries as to that point. The result was simply astounding.

"Do you know anything concerning the proposed reduction of rates next year?" was queried. "Nothing. It's too early," was the reply. "Do you think they will be reduced?" "It's too early to think about it." "What is your opinion of the matter?" "It's too early for an opinion."

"Well, what do you think about it?" "I don't think."

Wonderful! Psepticuousness procured only by persuasive and pertinacious perterbation.

"Any new building going to be done next year? What about the spur from Whitehorse to the copper mines?" "I have nothing to say concerning next year," was the thoroughly understood reply.

"Is it true Mr. Hawkins has resigned?" "I heard from Mr. Hawkins a few days ago and he is shortly expected in Skagway. His reported resignation is untrue as far as I know."

And as Mr. Newell arose to his feet intimating that the exhaustive interview was at an end the reporter thanked him for the exclusive information given and hurried out muffled to the ears in his bright new $10 Raglan. Chilly? Ugh!

COMING AND GOING.

H. M. Ford, who has been a heavy contractor in wood and logs for the government at Fort Egbert, arrived in the city this morning on the Victoria.

Mr. and Mrs. Ole Finstad and Miss Emma Burt will leave this week for the outside. They contemplate spending the winter in Southern California.

Court Stenographer George Craig and family will leave the latter part of the month for the outside. The major portion of the winter they will spend in Toronto, Mr. Craig returning over the ice in February in time for the opening of court.

TOM CHISHOLM'S GOOD SAMARITAN WORK MISCONSTRUED.

MINE CRACIOUS, I WAS ROBBED!

Tom Chisholm's Good Samaritan Act Misconstrued.

Tom Chisholm has long been known as 'big-hearted Tom,' always ready to help a friend in need, a champion of the weak and a man who was never known to go back on a friend. An illustration of his willingness to assist others in times of need occurred yesterday morning about 2 o'clock. Walking down First avenue in company with another party they came upon a store where the gates, which are used to close the store at night, there being no front, had been knocked down by a couple of drunks who were walking just ahead of them and the sidewalk was covered with hat boxes, boots, shoes, clothing, etc., which had fallen with the gate. Without arousing the proprietor, or perhaps thinking that no one was around and not wishing to see the goods either stolen or destroyed by being left on the sidewalk, Tom with the assistance of his friend proceeded to pick the goods off of the sidewalk and replace them in the store. The goods had all been put inside of the store and the men were just finishing their self imposed, gratuitous task by putting the gates in place when the proprietor of the store came rushing upon the scene, dressed in his 'nighty,' and brandishing a Colt's 44 repeater and threatening annihilation to the men whom he at the first impression mistook for thieves who had entered his place with intent to take away his goods and chattels.

An extended argument ensued over the merits of the case and the proprietor finally saw the service which had been rendered him, made an apology for his hasty action and thanked the men for their kindly deed. The thanks were accepted with instructions for him to 'keep the change.'

Wrestling Match.

The wrestlers are now occupying the attention of the sports around town and much speculation is rife as to the outcome of the match. It is expected that fully a thousand people will witness the event and arrangements are now being perfected by the Savoy management to arrange the stage with a large number of additional chairs as there are many calls for reserved seats for that event. Marsh is backing himself for a big wad of money as he is confident of winning the match. Kennedy is equally as confident and has as many supporters as Marsh. The go occurs next Friday night.

Road Work Completed.

The roads being constructed by the territorial government under the supervision of Mr. David Macfarlane are now about completed, with the exception of the trail to Miller and Glacier creek upon which the work is now progressing rapidly. Mr. Bertrand, assistant superintendent of public works announces that the roads under construction of the federal government are also nearing completion. The road from the Arlington roadhouse to lower Dominion will be completed in two days. This road Mr. Bertrand says will be in very fine condition with the exception of a few places where there is practically no foundation upon which to build; and these places will be in passable condition and will be kept in repair when needed. A particularly fine piece of road is between the Arlington roadhouse at the mouth of Hunter and camp No. 5, a distance of about five miles where the road is as level and smooth and solid a driveway as anyone would wish to travel over. The road over the flat from the mouth of Bear creek to the Arlington roadhouse is expected to be finished in about ten days. The force of 40 men who are now at work will be increased to 60 and the work will be performed correspondingly rapid. This will just about complete the road work for this year and will give a fine system of roads throughout the entire district.

In the Territorial court of the Yukon territory, No. 361.

Between JOHN D. M'GILLIVRAY, Plaintiff and THE CONSOLIDATED MINES SELECTION COMPANY, and the ANGLIO-KLONDIKE MINING COMPANY, Defendants.

To the above named defendant, the Consolidated Mines Selection Company: Take notice, that this action was on the 25th day of June, 1901, commenced against you, and that the plaintiff, by his writ of summons and statement of claim claims to be entitled to a fifteen per cent interest in eleven certain placer mining claims known as the Goheen group and three interests in land and water right in the Bonanza mining division of the Dawson district. And further take notice that the court has, by order dated the 13th day of August, 1901, authorized service of the said writ of summons on you by the insertion of this notice once each week for three weeks in the Klondike Nugget, a newspaper at Dawson, Y. T. And further, take notice that you are required within 60 (sixty) days after the insertion of this notice, inclusive of the date of such insertion to cause an appearance to be entered by you at the office of the clerk of the territorial court at Dawson, Yukon territory, and that in default of your doing so the plaintiff may proceed with his action and judgment may be given against you in your absence.

Dated at Dawson, Y. T., this 13th day of August, 1901.

TERRITORIAL COURT

Number of Important Cases Up for Adjustment.

In the territorial court this morning before Mr. Justice Dugas the Horn Williams case came up again. It is claimed by plaintiff that tailings from the hillside claim of defendant which is being hydraulized is running over the creek claim adjoining much to its detriment and injury. Williams being present in court his lordship informed him that he had no right to injure or inconvenience his neighbor and suggested the appointment of an expert to investigate the workings and alleged injustice being done. Counsel on both sides stated they had already agreed upon such procedure and asked the court to confirm the appointment of George Clazy as such expert. Defendant later attempted to have M. Beaudette substituted, but Horn would not agree to it.

Counsel for defendant in the case of Felcher vs. McDonald stated that some time ago the clerk of the court had made his report and asked that a day be appointed upon which it could be heard.

In Clark vs. Nicholson, which was heard last week upon a motion to set aside the judgment, the motion was granted, defendant was allowed to appear and was granted eight days within which to plead.

In the McDermott case a motion for judgment was dismissed, counsel, however, being allowed to renew his application.

Jackson vs. Daniels stands over until next chambers day.

Ewell vs. Clark continued for a week.

An extensive argument was indulged in in the case of Jones vs. Strait. As stated by counsel for defendant, the action arose out of differences coming up between the parties in effecting a settlement of accounts. By mutual agreement the question was submitted to an arbitrator, under the arbitration ordinance, Mr. Condon being appointed for the purpose. The arbitrator after hearing the case made his award in favor of defendant Strait, finding nothing owing plaintiff, a decision so it is stated satisfactory to all. Six months later Jones brings a civil action for the very amount he claimed originally and which was adjudicated by the arbitrator, and caapiases Strait who was leaving for the outside and compels him to give bond for his appearance. Counsel for plaintiff on the other hand claims the judgment of the arbitrator was not impartial and alleges collusion between him and Strait. He alleges further that the arbitrator was the paid agent and possessed power of attorney from defendant Strait. By the terms of the arbitration agreement the loser of the case agreed to pay the arbitrator $500 for his services, and notwith-

Married Yesterday. An interesting event transpired yesterday afternoon at the residence of H. Johnson, corner Second and north and Ninth street, the occasion being the wedding of Mr. J. H. Scott, the popular cashier of the White Horse Route in Tacoma, and Miss Laura Scott, of Tacoma. The bride arrived on the Whitehorse Sunday morning accompanied by Mrs. Goss, a sister of Mr. Scott. The impressive ceremony was performed by Rev. Mr. Larson, in the presence of a few intimate friends. In the evening Mr. and Mrs. Johnson tendered the newly wedded couple a reception which was largely attended. Mr. and Mrs. Scott are at home to their friends in the residence lately owned by Dr. Howe, situated on the brow of the hill at the rear of St. Mary's hospital.
