ITALY MAY DECLARE WAR ON TURKEY IN FEW HOURS

ITALIAN WARSHIPS SAID TO BE ON THEIR WAY TO JOIN THE ALLIED FLEET IN THE DARDANELLES-FORTY WARSHIPS RESUME TERRIFIC BOMBARDMENT OF THE FORTS AT THE NARROWS-THE WARSPITE, COMPANION TO THE QUEEN ELIZABETH SAID TO BE IN THE ATTACKING SQUADRON.

GENEVA, MARCH 10.-(Special.)--It is learned from Vienna that several Italian warships have put to sea probably bound for the Dardanelles. This apparently bears out rumors which predicted action by Italy within a few hours. The experts here are waiting confirmation of the report before commenting upon it.

Progress in the Dardanelles

Athens, March 10-Operations of the allied fleet in the Daranelles, stopped yesterday morning by unfavorable weather nditions, were resumed with great vigor in the afternoon. The arships are reported to have made additional progress in the Narrows silencing Turkish batteries on the heights of Renkui, the from which had proved troublesome to the fleet in its man-

French Admiral Had Narrow Escape.

Athens, March 10-It is reported that Rear Admiral Guepratte, commander of the French division operating with the Allied fleet in the Dardanelles, had a narrow escape from a Turkish shell which fell close to him as he was directing the operations of the Battleship Suffren which had executed a daring manoeuvre by penetrating the extreme limit of the mine field. Several shells are repenetrating the extreme limit of the mine field. Several shells are reported to have struck the warship. No mention is made of her having been damaged.

German Submarine Rammed Today.

London March 10—An Admiralty announcement issue I today says the German Submarine U 20 has been sent to the bottom The submarine U 20 was built in 1913. She had a displacement of 340 tons and a speed of 17 knots on the surface and 12 knots submerged. She was equipped with three torpedo tubes. The submarine was rammed today by the British torpedo boat destroyfleets have battered their way a step nearer to Coner Ariel. The crew surrendered and were saved.

Blackwood Was Struck by Torpedo During Snowstorm and Sank in Ten Minutes—Two Submarines Seen by Officer.

New Haven, Eng., via London March 10, 1.30 a.m.—The captain and crew of the steamer Blackwood, which was sunk off Hastings at 6 o'clock Tuesday morning, were landed here Tueslay night. They say that their vessel, laden with coal and bound from Blyth for Havre, was torpedoed during a snowstorm early in the morning eighty miles south of Dungeness without warning. Fortunately in view of the submarine sea zone menace, the men say they had their boats swung out ready for launching and that therefore all of them were saved. THE CALL TO ARMS.

as written especially for The Ontario by Miss Lillian derful way the British position, and its message comes like a clarion call to Canadians to do their duty in support of the Motherland battling for Freedom and

The call to arms is sounding, O my brothers! Hear ye its echoes pealing o'er the sea? A call to stand for honor, faith and homeland, A call to strike for truth and liberty.

Ye that are men, lift up your heads and listen: Let not your country look in vain to you. Be swift, be swift to rally to the colors: Be strong, be brave a hero's work to do.

Never to you has fallen, O my brother, Such opportunity to prove your worth:

To wrestle gloriously in the arena, Undaunted, in the eyes of all the earth. Your bright young life, with all its splendid prom Will you to King and country consecrate? Great spirits joy in sacrifice and service; For every faithful warrior glories wait.

Think of the issues pending, 0 my brothers! Then every nerve and sinew strain to win. No play of arms, no paltry passing quarrel, Is this, the struggle we are entering in. Never has earth, since nations went to battle,

Beheld so fearful and so fierce a strife. On land, in air, above, beneath the waters. We wrestle valiantly for more than life

Never the sun sets on the British Empire, Our glorious Empire, every patriot's pride, or whose security and peace and honor Heroes of old have nobly fought and died. No British Empire will there be, my brothers, If once they win, our very name who hate. "Better," I hear a myriad voices murmur, "To die than see our land a German State!"

Think of your toils, your homes, your loves, my brothers

Your mothers, sisters, wives and children sweet! Remember, then, Louvain! Her bitter sorrows Shall they, your foes, in this your land repeat? The fires of strong unconquerable passion In eyes of marching millions kindle keen:

And voices thrill in answering chorus, "Never! We'll meet them, beat them, show them what we mean!"

What are the mighty principles, my brothers, That built our Empire, kept her what she is, For which she gave the life-blood of her bravest On many shores, in other days than this? Are they not deathless truth and stainless honor, And blessed peace, and brotherhood, and love, The star of heavenly hope that out of darkness

Leadeth the soul of man to light above? Not 'gainst brother, but the domination Of those hard principles for which he stands, Crushing the weak, we carry forth our banners Beyond the seas, in far, beleaguered lands.

Blest are the peace-makers!" our Captain teacheth "Blest are the war-makers!" our foemen cry. And "Right is might," the winds of freedom whisper. "Nay, might is right," their thundering guns

And shall we doubt the issue-we, enlisted In this cruisade for love and liberty, Against the Odin-god of battle thunders? We conquer through the Christ of Gallilee. The bugle song is ringing, O my brothers! List how its far-flung echoes wake and thrill! Enlist! Enlist! And nearer bring the paean That some glad day shall peal from hill to hill.

KIPLING'S WAR POEM.

Rudyard Kipling has contributed the following

For all we have and are For all our children's fate, Stand up and meet the war-The Hun is at the gate. Our world has passed away

In wanton overthrow; There's nothing left to-day But steel and fire and woe. Though all we know depart, The old commandments stand:

In courage keep your heart! In strength lift up your hand! Once more we hear the word That sickened earth of old: No law except the sword, Unsheathed and uncontrolled.

Once more it knits mankind, Once more the nations go To meet and break and bind A crazed and driven foe.

Comfort, content, delight, The age's slow-bought gain, They shriveled in a night-Only ourselves remain.

To face the naked days In silent fortitude Through perils and dismays, Renewed and re-renewed.

Though all we made depart, The old commandments stand: In patience keep your heart ! In strength lift up your hand!

No easy hopes or lies Shall bring us to the goal-But iron sacrifice Of body, will and soul.

There's but one task for all. For each one life to give; Who stands if freedom fall? Who dies if England live? LEGAL.

He would have shone only in a literal sense as the hero of an auto-da-fé.

The Headquarters sleuth, however, quickly dismissed from his mind the easant possibility that suggested itself. It was true he would have pre ferred even the return of his abductors to the probability of being roasted like a trussed fowl, but it also was true that there was no special reason to fear the building would blaze. The important thing was to escape before he could be assailed by either kidnap-pers or flames. That he had been deserted by the three men who seized him in the park did not occur to him. He thought of them as coming back to carry out the purpose of their dar-ing capture. It was far from desirable that he be there on their return. Yet how should he get away? "Things are warming up a little too fast for comfort," thought Brits as he listened to the sibilant menace of the escaping steam. "Looks as if in a room which, from the sound of those fellows might be going to have his heels on the boards, he judged a little steamed detective on the side." But whereas, as a merciless student of self, he was glad to note that even in such a predicament he had a saving sense of humor, Britz appreciated the added danger thoroughly. Once away from immediate contact with the radiator he knew there was a chance he would be scalded seriously, for the room, though small, was large enough to let ment that sounds easy until one has the steam dissipate its heat. But tried doing it many times. With a!! with doors and windows tightly shut there was a very strong likelihood that if he remained in that room long intervals he strained his hearing enough with the steam escaping at its present rate, he would suffecte in the surcharged air—would, in fact, be drowned many stories above the street level. Britz could not repress an inward smile at the grim humor of the thought, but resolved he would not let circumstances carry the joke too far.

Interviewing the Swami The more Britz thought about hi kidnapping, the more convinced he be came that he had been mistaken fo another man. It was evident that his captors expected to find in his cesse sion something of value, and from a the circumstances he was inclined think the object of their daring search was the Maharanee diamond. By th time the detective had pretty we made up his mind that the men wh surprised him so humiliatingly in Ce tral Park were Orientals.

Britiz was a studious man. In co: nection with his calling he had gone fairly deeply into the criminal history of other lands. For one who had never been in India, he was thoroughly conversant with the strange crimes common to that country. He knew there were as many varieties of murder in Hindostan as there were tribes under the benevolent protection of His Majesty, King Edward. He was also aware that robbery in India had been reduced not only to an exact science but refined to an art. Britz, in delving through the memoirs of many a galhouse he had done so more than of vanity, and one of his few weak civil Service chief, had read thrilling once. But the thought of being hem nesses was a lifelong determination details of thuggee, that remarkable med in by four walls, unable to move to lie in such state as his Assembly form of assassination which is at through the structure or crawling real rosewood, that should cost at he had seen the sinuous glide of the hungrily towards him had been the least four figures. upon him the conviction that it had been achieved by men who, if not ac tual thugs in the original sense of that word, were skilled in their methods. That clear to him, it was plausthle to connect his abductors not only with the Hindoo servant in Mrs. Missioner's employ, but also with the mysterious Oriental of the Metropoli tan Opera box. That he had decided only a few moments before the attack upon him to visit the Swami was, Britz felt, only a coincidence. It was impossible for the Oriental to have guessed that the detective meant to call upon him. Why, therefore, were his own movements watched so close ly that the thugs were able to anticipate the exact moment of his arrival in that part of the park as soon as he was whisked away in the brougham? Britz, as the taxicab bore him along few hours before under such unfavor able circumstances, pondered persistently upon the interest of the Hindoos in his doings. Days before he His hands were free! A wnim of tancy, in that moment when he knelt and balanced himself with such extreme difficulty, threw on his mental moving picture screen the memory of little Dorothy March as she looked that afternoon in the Forrest Theater when, unwilling as he was in one way to play upon her girlish ingenuousness, he had deemed and the proposition of an unoccupied aparts ment in a new and rather pretentious building, a room planned to be entired to the sall around in quest of a landmark. It was evident that Kanands expected a responsive remark from his friend, and that the Swami, feeling the obliga, tion, was weighing his words before the words weighing his words weighing his words before the words weighing his words before the words weighing his words before the press; but, if it can columns of the press;

The Prince was dumbfounded. He ircled the table, fished in his pocket they? for a cigarette, rolled it abstractedly between his thumb and middle finger, lighted it, and then watched the in crutable features of him whom for so many years he had called "mas-

A Profusion of New Spring Dress Materials Now Shown at the Dress Goods Counter

The new spring materials are fast arriving and almost every day sees a few new pieces added to our splendid collection of Dress Fabribs for the spring season. Many new and novelty materials are introduced for the first time, prominent among them being CREPE GABERDINES, ARMURES, AURURA CORD, BENGALINES, SERGES and COVERTS. The shades also are decidedly different to those of former seasons, being for the most part of a "quieter nature"—for instance BATTLESHIP GREY, SAND, HAVANA BROWN, BELGIAN BLUE, RUSSIAN GREEN, NIGGER and CHERRY. These are displayed on the counters at the Dress Goods Section for your early inspection. Prices 50c to $3 25 yard.

Mr. H. H. Couzins, manager of the Civic Hydro-electric Commission, appeared before the committee and suggested that the entire system of street lighting should be changed by the substitution of nitrogen lamps of 1,000 candle power for the present clusters in the downtown district.

The new system with which Toronto proposes to experiment, and that Mr. Couzins, manager of the Civic Hydro-Electric Commission, so heartily recommends for installation, is no other than that already installed and working every night on Belleville's streets.

In the introduction of this splendid system Belleville has not only preceded Toronto, but also New York. After six months with the nitrogen lamp, Belleville has no hesitation whatever in pronouncing it to be THE light. The brilliance of the illumination does not seem to be dimmed in the least from the first night of can conceive of the fearful wastage caused by the installation. THE TARIFF BURDEN.

British financial papers are quoted in recent cables as expressing approval of the stamp tax feature of the new Canadian Budget. That is quite natural, for the stamp taxes are a permanent revenue getting feature in the Old Country. The financial critics, however, are not so complimentary with reference to the increase in the tariff. For instance the London Economist, which Sir Robert Borden once certified was "the greatest financial journal in the world," says:

"We are strongly of the opinion that this addition to the cost of living in a new country where prices are already very high will in the great windows as the day was dwindling cause much hardship and discontent. Many of these taxes are protective, so that the revenue secured will be much less than the burden imposed upon consumers. But in Canada manufacturing interests are powerful enough to extract advantage even from the embarassments and difficulties of the nation."

Along the same line the 'Investors' Review' says: "We think it a pity the people of Canada "should be further handicapped by direct tax- What of the chamber dark where she was lying 'than to the Treasury. THE ONLY SON.

Sir Henry Newbolt, the English poet and author, has contributed much admirable verse since the opening of the present campaign. The following poem, "The Only Son," was written during the Sounth African War and is thought by many to have been the finest poem produced at that period.

O, bitter wind toward the sunset blowing. What of the dales to-night?

In yonder gray hall what fires are glowing, What rings of festal light?

I saw an old man stand: His head was proudly held and his eyes kindling, But the list shook in his hand.

O, wind of twilight, was there no word uttered, No sound of joy or wail?

A great fight and a good death," he muttered; "Trust him, he would not fail."

trader and manufacturer within the Dominion Within her heart she rocks a dead child crying, "My son, my little son."

TELL HIM WHY.

When your boy wants to do what he shouldn't-And threaten him should he defy, With a positive order to quell him, But do you explain to him why?

When you're to have him polite, Germany as he needed, with perhaps a domestic When it's something you know that he could do Do you train him with reason or fright? With him you will deal by and by; You see why it's proper most clearly, But do you explailn to him why?

> A boy's mind is open to reason, A thinking device is his brain; Injustice he's ready to seize on, So why don't you stop to explain? It's perfectly proper to check him When you see that in danger he'd fly, But it's certainly sure that you'll wreck him Unles you explain to him why. -Detroit Free Press.

My Native Land.

She is a rich and rare land; O! she's a fresh and fair land: She is a dear and rare land-This native land of mine

No men than hers are braver— Her women's hearts ne'er waver; I'd freely die to save her And think my lot divine.

She's not a dull or cold land; No! she's a warm and bold land; O! she's a true and old land-This native land of mine.

Could beauty ever guard her, And virtue still reward her. No foe would cross her border-No friend within it pine!

O! she's a fresh and fair land; O! she's a true and rare land! Yes, she's a rare and fair land-This native land of mine. -Thomas Davis the man whom He had chosen as king he would meet, for all came to pass a changed man (chapter x, 6-10). All people to Mizpeh, reminded them of the Lord's deliverance from Egypt and God in demanding a king and then proceeded to have them elect a king with God's permission. It was, no doubt, done by lot, as the land was divided, for "the lot is cast into the lap, but the whole disposing thereof is of the Lord" (Num. xxvi. 55 56: Prov xvi. 33). First the tribe was found and then the family and then the man (chapter x. 20, 21; compare Josh. vii. 16-18), and thus they were guided to the man whom He had already chosen and anointed. Although elected, he could not for a time be found, se they inquired of the Lord, and He told them person or a thing that cannot be found. He that is perfect in knowledge knows where to find the lost (Job xxxvi, 4) When the people looked upon the man whom God had chosen they could not refrain from shouting, "God save the king!" or, as in the margin, "Let the king live!" (x. 23-25.) The band of men whose hearts God had touched were a comfort to him, so that he was able to seem as a deaf man to his enemies (x, 26, 27). Our lessen chapter shows how Saul by the Spirit of the Lord began to deliver Israel and to obtain the confidence of the people. suppose there is scarcely a day in the life of any child of God when there not an occasion to say, "New, the se pent" (Gen. iii, 1), for he is ever going about to make trouble. Nahash, whose name signifies "sernont" was mared by the devil, whose he was and whom he served, to seek to bring reproach upon Israel (verses 1-3). Saut heard of the distress of Jabesh Gilead and in a very striking way summoned the people to gather unto bim and Samuel and 330,000 gathered, and word was sent to the distressed that they would have help by the morrow. That night or in the early morning (verse 11) Saul came suddenly upon the Ammonites and so completely routed them that two of them er (verses 4-11).

The morning deliverances of the B ble are full of interest and are all sug gestive of the morning that is coming. when the Lord shall finally and forever deliver Israel (Ps. xlvi, 5, margin). Compare Ps. xlix, 14, and see Ex. xiv, 24, 27. Think also of Dan vi. 19-23, and of the deliverance that came to the disciples in the morning watch (Mark vi. 48). But. while believers may well rejoice in the glorious morning that is coming and in Him who is to us the Morning Star (Il Sam. xxiii, Rev. xxii, 16), it is also written that there will be no morning for such as do not believe God (Isa. viii, 20; margin and revised version). When the people saw the great deliverance wrought by Saul they asked to have Saul's enemies put to death, but Saul would not listen to it. saying. "There shall not a man be put to death this day, for today the Lord hath wrought salvation in Israel" (verses 12, 13). was the same power that wrought for Israel at the Red sea (Ex. xiv, 13, 30) and on so many occasions in all their history, and their greatest deliverance is yet to come (Zech. xiv. 3, 9). Samuel hen gathered the people to Gilgal, and there they made Saul king before the Lord, offered sacrifices, and all Israel rejoiced greatly (verses 14, 15). Thus far all seemed to be going well, but when man has his way there is soon failure, for "verily, every man at his best state (apart from God) is altogether vanity" (Ps. xxxix, 5). Chapter xii tells how Samuel rehears ed the history of the nation from their coming out of Egypt, the Lord's deal ings with them under Moses and Aaron and how many a time He de livered them in the days of the judges He also asked them to testify as to whether during all the time that he had judged them he had ever taken anything from them or defrauded any me or taken a bribe to blind his eyes. but they called God to witness that they could find no fault in him in any of these matters (xil. 1-5). To show them that he was right before the Lord as well as in their eyes and that they had done wrong in asking for a king when the Lord Himself was their King he asked the Lord to send thunder and rain that day, and He did so. The people seemed to see their sin and asked Samuel to pray for them (xii. 5-19i. Samuel assured them that. though they had done this great wrong. vet if they would truly turn to the Lord and fear Him and serve Him in truth with all their heart He would for His great name's sake forgive them and act forsake them and he (Samuel) would not cease to pray for them.

FORGETTING OUR DIFFERENCES.

At a banquet held recently at Kingston by the Legislation Committee of the Grand Orange Lodge of Ontario considering matters coming before this session of Parliament, Grand Master Dr. J. J. Williams, Woodstock, referred to the fact that of 32,-000 men in the First contingent, 8,000 were Orangemen and the proportion of Orangemen in the Second contingent was as large.

F. M. Clarke, Belleville, Grand Secretary, stated that of the first contingent only 2 per cent. were French-Canadian, and that in Ireland, 15 times as many Protestants as Roman Catholics had enlisted in Kitch-

Neither should we forget the almost equally devoted, death-defying loyalty to the Allied cause of Serbia-Catholic Serbia. When the annals of this terrible war come to be recorded the story of Serbia's triumphant battle for freedom will be one of the most thrilling narratives that history records.

But it is not necessary to pursue this line of thought. We merely wished to point out that courage, loyalty, devotion to freedom's cause, are not monopolised by any nation, creed, sect, or society. Love of liberty and patriotism are the common possession of Anglo-Saxon and Celt, Protestant and Catholic, Orange and Green

The Ontario has no brief to speak in behalf of the Catholic church or of any other church. The Ontario is a newspaper, non-denominational and non-sectarian. Neither has the Ontario any feeling of hostility towards the Orange order. To nearly all of the articles in the Orange creed we would subscribe without hesitation.

But we do desire to protest against the abuse and misuse of the Orange society that is being practiced by some of its professed friends. Mr. Clarke's indiscretions of speech are but illustrative of many similar untimely and exaggerated outbursts.

WHY PEOPLE PROTEST.

From all over Canada has come a chorus of protests on account of the comparatively small number of the members of our militia who volunteered for service in the present war. The opinion is very generally expressed that for the millions of money expended on this force every year that the showing has not been what it should be when the time for action has come.

Some of the rural regiments have gone to camp for the annual drill with their numbers padded out with misfits, has-beens, incompetents and impossibilities, such as might do to populate a home for the friendless, but who would be of about as much use on active service as a sweet girl graduate on a tug-of-war.

Then we have been spending our money on the training of a multitude of others who knew that business connections, family ties, or civil duties made it impossible or impracticable for them to do the very thing they were being paid

It is all right for a man to grow old in service, but what is the sense in taking a man over fifty years of age to Petawawa for the yeara kind of campaign that our Orange friends ly outing, who has never trained a day before in would do well to drop, at least until the present his life? We quote the following paragraph,-

'It is humiliating to a degree to pass by our saloons, billiard parlors, and other such places, and see there the many young men, principally Canadian-born, loafing about, when enlistment would make men of them. This is hardly less humiliating than to see volunteers still don their uniform when occasion offers itself, but who furbish up every possible excuse for not going (except the true one). Mr Editor, this is a matter which should be put plainly before the public: Either they should do that which it is supposed they were ready to do when they entered the forces, Allies hope to win. namely, answer their country's call when it was made, or else cease to appear in a uniform which they discredit. It should be universally understood that to volunteer in time of peace means to "fight in time of war." If this is not the understanding, then our whole militia force, with all its enormous expenditure, is a laughing farce. After enrolment is not the time to find excuses for not going; and especially not so when the reasons advanced existed before, as well as afterwards."

Seldom indeed does a jury these days return a verdict to send an offender to the electric every attempt to amend the laws and abolish the electric chair. At first thought it would seem that people, for some inexplicable reathey do so, it is because of this very saving clause in the law, of which the jury in the trial just concluded availed itself. Men are honestly opposed to capital punishment; but inadequate. So they choose to retain the extreme penalty in the law to-meet just such emergencies, knowing that the elasticity of the law renders the ordinary murderer immune. It is safe to say that were there no "mercy" provision in the penalty for first degree murder, capital punishment would be abolished in this state at the very first opportunity."

BRAVE DEEDS RATHER THAN BRAVE WORDS NEEDED.

There is a great deal of shallow optimism doing service in Canada at the present time. Those, who last August were predicting that the war would be ended in six weeks, have been try is to be served at home as well as abroad. compelled to revise their opinions as to the staying qualities of the Germans. Dr. McCullough and Dr. C. C. James, in their splendid addresses here last Friday, both emphasized the seriousness of the task that faced Canada, the Empire, and the Allied nations.

The Toronto Mail and Empire, which all along since the opening of the war, has seemed, more than any of its Conservative contemporaries, to realize the grave responsibility resting upon Canada, in a late issue published these very sensible remarks in regard to a subject that has for seven months received far too little

"We must beware of brave words. Of all peoples the British are least in need of this caution, especially when brave deeds are required. In peaceful times an occasional Briton may wax boastful of his nation's prowess, but "big talk" is seldom heard in a British camp. We stay-at-homes perhaps need to be reminded that resounding declarations that Germany shall be smashed are not just exactly what is now wanted. Instead of uttering with patriotic fervor emphatic assurances that she shall be overcome, we ought all to be lending a hand to overchorus of 'All's well!' The following verses were written by Pri- French camp, where they believe vate Drake, of the 1st Aldershot Battalion, National Reserve: —

It's coming, lads, it's coming; "To the Day" has been the toast, But the funeral knell has sounded O'er that blatant German boast; There's a new one in creation, Born of the battle's fray, Let us toast it all together: "Our Day! Our Day! Our Day!"

It's coming, lads, it's coming, But each must do his part, "Our day" will come the quicker, If you'll "take a little heart." The boys away are waiting, Entrenched, they hold the sway, And patiently they murmur "Our Day! Our Day! Our Day!"

It's coming, lads, it's coming, If you'll "up and get a gun," Don't sing "The King" but serve him, Ere another setting sun. There are Mothers, Widows, Orphans, In their sombre black array, Who will bless you as they whisper "Our Day! Our Day! Our Day!"

It's coming, lads, it's coming, And when the strife is o'er, We shan't know how to thank you If you've helped us in the war. Angels of peace will welcome All from the battle's fray, Don't miss the grand ovation-"OUR Day! OUR Day! OUR DAY!"

The Bible says nothing of this kind; and I am glad that my head is not so illogical as to lead me to deny the Bible and common sense for the sake of being in harmony with creeds made in the Dark Ages.

with creeds made in the Dark Ages.
The Bible makes no mystery of who Jesus is; and we would not have been in confusion had we relied solely upon the testimony of Jesus, the Apostles and the Prophets. Our mis-leading came during the twelve leading came during the twelve hundred years when the Bible was ignored, because it was believed that the living bishops were Apostolic and had the plenary power of the original Apostles. This serious error Jesus emphatically warned against in advance.—Revelation 2:2.

The Bible tells of Jesus' present glorious station, "far above angels," "partaker of the Divine nature." But many ignore this, and claim that many ignore this, and claim that Jesus is a man in Heaven, completely out of touch with His surround New York ings; for a man, according to the Temple to- Bible, is "a little lower than angels," whereas the Apostle declares that Jesus at His resurrection, was exalt-ed far above angels. This glorious One, although of a different nature, is the same One who, while on earth, was "the Man Christ Jesus," "a man of sorrows and acquainted with grief." St. Paul tells us how Jesus left the Heavenly glory, how He humbled Himself to take a bondman's form-to take the same nature as humanity, which had come into bondage to sin

The Bible explains how Jesus could be of our race, and yet be "holy, harmless, undefiled, separate from sinners." It tells us plainly that Jesus had a human mother, but that his life came not from a human father: and that therefore He was perfect, and able to be the Ransomer of the race by giving to God sacrificially a full corresponding price for Adam, whose life was forfeited because of sin. Thus the Bible explains that Jesus' death is sufficient for Adam's sin and the sins of the whole world; for the world was not condemned individually, but merely partook of Adam's condemnation to Whoever thinks of Jesus as being the Father and also the Holy Spirit -all one in person-must be conronted with nonsensical errors such as these: How did the Universe manage to progress during the period leading up to Jesus' birth and on to manhood? How did the affairs of the Universe prosper during Jesus' ministry, when He was fully engaged with earthly affairs to the extent of weariness? How did the Universe get along when Jesus died, and until He arose from death?

Some even go to this absurd ength: to wit, that Jesus raised Himself from death: whereas the apostle declared positively that the Father raised Him from the dead on the third day. How refreshing it is to get out of the fog into the clear statements of God's Word, which declare (1) "To us there is one God. the Father," (2) "and one Lord Jesus Christ!"—1 Corinthians 8:6.

It seems astounding if my opponents have never read the plain Rible statements that our glorious Rein three persons; others say three tions are alike unscriptural and According to them, He is Jehovah absurd.

Jesus Himself, in His last Message to die, and He is the Son who sent to His Church, declared, "I am the Himself, as God. When He prayed to Alpha and the Omega, the beginning. and the ending, the first and the last." (Revelation 1:8, 11.) Thus He clearly differentiates between Himself and the Father; for the Father had no beginning—"From everlasting to everlasting Thou art

> Do our opponents claim that Jesus s God? We agree most heartily, provided the word God is understood the sense in which the Bible uses Throughout the Old Testament the word for God is elohim-mighty one. It is applied to Jehovah, the Almighty One; it is also applied to angels and to men whom He sent as His messengers. Acording to this view, our Lord Jesus Christ is a God. The Bible clearly indicates that He is above all other gods except Je-

In harmony with this we read respecting Messiah and His Kingdom: "Thy throne, O God, is forever and ever." The Apostle applies these words distinctly to Jesus, but does not say this proves that Jesus was His own Father, nor does he ignore eachings; but my opponents know the Almighty God, of whom are all things. On the contrary, the context tells us explicitly that the Faside—the Bible side—the reasonable ther, who always was above all, as a reward exalted His Son to this giori-ous Kingship and Godship, declaring that even the angels of Heaven should worship Him. - Hebrews

Because Jesus was thus the Father's Representative, in the only sense that men could see the invisible Jehovah, He answered Philip on one occasion, "He that hath seen Me hath seen the Father." Thus the President's secretary would say to a caller, "I represent the President."

As Matthew's and Luke's Gospels make very plain how the glorious Son of God was made flesh, yet not a par-taker of human sin, so St. John's Gospel provides us with information still further back, pointing out and explaining clearly the glorious pre-human nature of the Son of God. The translation, however, is slightly defective, and hides from the English reader the full import of the opening verses which, literally translated,

"In the beginning was the Logos, and the Logos was with the God, and the Logos was a god. The same was in the beginning with the God. By HJm were all things made, and without Him was not one thing made

* * And the Logos was made flesh and dwelt among us; and we beheld
His glory, the glory of an Only Begotten of the Father, full of grace and truth."—John 1:1-3, 14.

The beautiful simplicity of this account is wonderful. The beginning it mentions was not that of Jehovah's existence, which the Bible declares was without beginning. The word refers to the beginning of creation, and immediately introduces us to the good that the creation of God." (Revelation 3:14.) While the name Logos may be not improperly translated Word, it has a much fuller significance; namely, Jehovah's entire Message has been, and will be given to angels and to men through the great Logos. He was the Alpha, the first; the Father created none before Him. He is the Omega, the last; the Father has directly created none since Him. This explains simply, satisfactorily, that all subsequent creations, while executed by Jehovah's Power, were worked out by His great Son, the Logos. By Him were all things made that were made.

When the time came for the outworking of the great Divine Plan for human salvation, and, incidentally the showing forth of God's Justice, Wisdom, Love and Power, the offer properly came first to the Logos. The proposition to be man's Redeemer carried with it a great blessing, as St. Paul explains. (Hebrews 12:2: Colossians 1:18.) This exaltation to God's right hand, far above all other creatures, was an advance step. Although originally higher than all the others, the Logos was not so "far above" then.

It was God's purpose to have a New Creation; and the Logos, through the redemptive Plan, was to be the first and chiefest on that highest plane—the Divine nature. During this Gospel Age, God has been calling and accepting the honest, the obedient, lovers of righteousness, haters of iniquity, to be associates with Jesus in the Kingdom and participants with Him in the highest nature of all—the Divine. So, St. Peter declares, "God hath given unto us (the truly consecrated, the Church) exceeding great and precious promises, that by these we might become partakers of the Divine nature."-2 Peter 1:4; Hebrews 2:10.

Is it right, is it Christian, is it true, is it manly, to charge my teachings with denying that Jesus is the Son of deemer was "the First-born of all creation" (Colossians 1:15), "the beginning of the creation of God" hungry sheep away from the green beginning of the creation of God" ness manifested by ministers against me is being used of the Lord to arouse investigation amongst those who are truly His people. If my reputation must be thus assassinated in order that the true sheep may hear the Master's voice, I shall acquiesce as joyfully as possible, remembering that it will be difficult for them to say bitterer or untruer things of me than they said of my Master.

My crime is the same that incited the Pharisees against Jesus and the Apostles. "They were angry that they taught the people." Preachers who do not believe in eternal torment any more than I do are angry that I am informing the people; for they fear that the people will justly think that their ministers deal dishonestly, receiving wages for keeping them in darkness. The time has come when all who are for the right, the Truth, should manifest themselves. I have many letters from ministers, marked personal and private, assuring me of their sympathy with my work, but fearful to come out boldly. I am sorry for these. The Lord exhorts, "Be thou very courageous." "He that hath a dream (an imagination), let him tell the dream (if he has nothing better to tell); but he that hath My Word, let him speak My Word fear-lessly."—Jeremiah 23:28.

As our knowledge of God and of His glorious Son, and our true understanding of the Holy Spirit, become clearer, we can the better worship God; for the eyes of our understanding opening wider and wider, we shall comprehend with all saints the lengths and breadths, the heights and depths, and know the love of God—whom to know aright implies fitness for life everlasting.—Ephesians 3:

PATRIOTISM and PRODUCTION

"Belgium as a producing factor is obliterated from the map. Britain, always unable to sustain itself, will have stronger needs. That beautiful section of France where a little more than a year ago I saw the countless stooks of golden grain is now scarred with the deep-dug trenches. Surely, surely there is need for all that we can do."

HON. MARTIN BURRELL, Minister of Agriculture.

The Empire Needs Many Foods

The Empire asks Canada to increase the production of staple foods—not merely of wheat. Great Britain wants oats, corn, barley, peas, beans, potatoes, turnips, onions, meat, dairy products, poultry and eggs.

In the past Great Britain has imported immense quantities of these staple foods from Russia, France, Belgium, Germany, and Austria-Hungary as shown by the following:

Average Imports Years 1910-1913

Wheat 28,439,609 bush .23,586,304 " Barley . . . 15,192,268 " Corn 7,621,374 703,058 639,653 Beans. Potatoes. 4,721,590 Onions. 271,569 Meat ... 26,509,766 lbs. Eggs....121,112,916 doz. Butter and Cheese... 91,765,233 lbs. The above mentioned sources The above mentioned sources of supply of staple foods are now, in the main, cut off as result of the war. Great Britain is looking to Canada to supply a large share of the shortage. Every individual farmer has a duty to perform. Make Your Land Produce More

Millions of bushels rather than millions of acres should be Canada's aim. The fields already under cultivation should be made more productive. Keep in mind good seed and good cultivation.

That there is abundant reason to expect larger returns from the same area is conclusively shown when we compare the average production of the present time with the possible production. Note the following brief table which shows our average in 1814 and the possible production per are:—

great service to the Empire, and this is the year in which to do it.

Have You Attended Your District Conference?

If you have, you know that you heard once more the same old gospel of crop production. Have you talked over with your neighbour farmers the problems discussed at the Conference? If there are any questions on which you are at all doubtful write at once for information to the Canadian Department of Agriculture, Ottawa, or to your Provincial Department of Agriculture. They will be pleased to help you.

Increase Your Live Stock

Breeding stock are to-day Canada's most valuable asset. The one outstanding feature of the world's farming is that there will soon be a great shortage of meat supplies. Save your breeding stock. Plan to increase your live stock. Europe and the United States, as well as Canada, will pay higher prices for beef, mutton, and bacon in the very near future. Do not sacrifice now. Remember that live stock is the only basis for prosperous agriculture. You are farming, not speculating.

Make use of the Free Bulle-tins issued by the Canadian Department of Agriculture. They are mines of valuable information. The Government has nothing to sell and its reports are unbiased.
