Rev. R. C. Matthew, incumbent of St. Stephen's church, who has been absent from his parish during the past five months, returned home few days ago, much improved in health. At Toronto.—Mr. C. J. Newman, the organist of St. George's Church, Goderich, is spending the week at the Toronto Exhibition, his services having been secured by some eminent firms to manipulate their organs. Mr. Newman was selected from a number of other applicants having the highest testimonials. This speaks well for his professional ability.
THE RED COATS.—Goderich volunteers, No. 1 Company 33rd Batt., left on Tuesday for London, where they intend to go into camp on Carling's Farm. The Company was about forty strong. The following staff officers of the regiment also accompanied them: Col. R. B. Payne, Paymaster Jordan, Quartermaster Strachan, Adjutant Cooke, Capt. J. B. Miller commands the company, and is aided by Lieutenants Beck and C. Ross.
The Goderich papers, unintentionally perhaps, got off a good joke at the expense of Mr. Ben. Armstrong, the well-known musician, in stating that "on account of ill health he has had to give up his music class," while on another page appeared "the wife of Mr. Ben. Armstrong, of a daughter." Is it not fair to infer that the cause of his illness is due solely to having a whole music class embraced in an atom of humanity.—[New Era.

E. R. WATSON, Painter and House Decorator. Combination Ceilings done in the latest style.
Yesterday we had the pleasure of a brief visit from Mr. Evan MacColl, the veteran Scottish and Canadian bard. Mr. MacColl is introducing to the public in this section a neat little volume entitled "Bide a Wee," and other Poems," the author of which is his daughter. The tug Mary Anna, which was fitted up in Goderich harbor in the spring, owned by Jos. Kidd and sailed by Capt. Hill, was lost off Tobermory a few days since. The engineer was also lost. Whether she struck a rock or foundered from rough weather, is not known. Capt. Hill resided here during last winter and was very popular with his associates.
G. T. R. CHANGES.—Mr. J. L. Morton, of Goderich, has been appointed agent at Fort Gratiot; and Mr. W. W. Hume, of Paris, has been appointed agent at Port Huron. Mr. Luttrell, who was brought from Hamilton with the intention of making him agent here, has been appointed Assistant-Superintendent over the traffic department of the four stations.—Point Edward, Sarnia, Port Huron and Fort Gratiot. Mr. Larmour being relieved of the superintendence of these places.—[Sarnia Observer.

CHURCH OPENING.—The new Methodist church, Hensall, will be opened and dedicated on Sunday Sept. 24th. The Rev. John Wakefield, chairman of the Goderich District, will preach in the morning at 10.30, and in the evening at 6.30. The Rev. Hugh Cameron will preach in the afternoon at 2.30. A collection will be taken after each service on behalf of the trust fund. The opening tea meeting will be held the following Monday evening, September 25th. The meeting will be addressed by several ministers, and there will be music, instrumental and vocal. Tea will be served from 5 to 7 p. m.
LALA.—This operetta was played on Monday and Tuesday, under the auspices of St. George's Church. The piece was superintended by Miss Radcliffe, who showed considerable ability for an amateur. Unfortunately the neglect of most of the singers to enunciate their words distinctly detracted much from the success of the affair, nearly all the songs were not fully intelligible to the majority of the audience. But considering the youth of the players and newness of the situation to most of them, the affair was creditable to the young actresses. The dresses of the children and maids were tastefully made, and the music furnished by the orchestra was very pleasing, and such as the trio need not be ashamed of.

WEST HURON TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION.—The semi-annual meeting of the West-Huron Teachers' Association will be held in the High School, Goderich, on Friday and Saturday, Oct. 13th and 14th, commencing each day at 9 o'clock a. m. Programme—President's address; Reports of committees; Monthly reports, Mr. R. D. Cameron, Geography, Mr. J. R. Stewart, Arithmetic, Mr. J. W. Mering, Intermediate Algebra, Mr. D. D. Yule; The Useful and the Useless in our Public School Teaching, Mr. A. Crassweller; Music—Tonic-Sol-Fa System, Mr. W. M. Leigh; Common Errors in Pronunciation, Mr. J. Elliott. Election of officers. On Friday evening the session will be held in the Temperance Hall, at which one or two subjects on the programme will be taken up, together with the readings and music.
PROMOTED.—Our readers will regret to learn that Mr. A. Straiton, who for about eight years has very efficiently performed the duties of station agent for the Grand Trunk here, is about to remove, he having been promoted to the more lucrative and responsible position of agent at Goderich. Mr. Straiton has made a large number of friends here, notwithstanding his somewhat retiring disposition, and we can heartily recommend him to the people of Goderich as one who will be a desirable acquisition to the place. A leading member of the Presbyterian church, and worker in the Sabbath School, his place will not be easily filled. His successor is Mr. Paterson, of Dublin, who has already entered upon the duties of his office. Those who know this gentleman, speak highly of him, and if he succeeds in establishing as good a reputation here as his predecessor will have no reason to regret his removal to this town.—[Clinton New Era.

OBITUARY.—The Clinton New Era says:—It is our painful duty this week to record the death of a lady, who though only a short time, a resident of Clinton, leaves many warm friends to mourn her demise. We refer to the wife of Mr. Geo. Swallow, who died on Friday last at the age of 32 years and 3 months. Deceased was a daughter of Mr. Frederick Phipps, of Toronto, and sister of Mrs. John Marquis, and Mrs. John Alexander, of Goderich township. For about two years past deceased had been a sufferer from consumption, and despite all that could be done by kind friends and the best medical skill, this fell disease carried her to a premature grave. She was an earnest member of the Presbyterian church, and amid all her great suffering, and even in the hour of death, manifested her love for that Saviour whose love had been manifested for her, and leaves behind a record of a blameless life. Her husband and child have the sympathy of a very large circle of sorrowing friends.

THE SCHOONER GEO. D. RUSSEL was run into by the str. Northern on Thursday, and sunk in the Sault Ste. Marie River. Two, if not three persons, one of whom is a woman, are believed to have gone down in her. The schooner is said to have been in the "prop" course. Capt. Shephard, of the Northern, says his vessel became unmanageable. The Russel is said to have had a cargo of 1,276 tons at the time of the accident, though only registered for 758 tons. The sunken schooner, which lies in the middle of the channel, is a serious impediment to lake navigation, as the river is narrow and the current extremely rapid.
OBITUARY.—On Monday morning last about 2 o'clock, William B. Hibbard, eldest son of Hon. John Hibbard, American Consul at this port, breathed his last, aged 34 years, 6 months and eleven days. The deceased was a victim of consumption, which seized upon him last winter and gradually wore out what was at one time a particularly hardy constitution. In his earlier years Hibbard had the location of timber limits in Michigan for his father, who was an extensive lumber dealer, and showed great capacity for doing hard work and withstanding fatigue. The body was escorted to the station by friends and relatives of deceased, whence it was conveyed for interment to Port Huron, where the family burial plot is located. Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard have the sympathies of the entire community in their deep affliction.
MORE IMPORTED HORSES.—The Seaford Exporter says:—Messrs. James Horton, of Hibbert, and Thomas Dickson, of McKillop, arrived home from the Old Country on Saturday last. They brought with them one two-year-old and three yearling stallions and a breeding mare and foal. They are all good animals. They had a pretty rough passage, but got them all landed here in safety, although two of the colts were pretty badly used up when they took them off the cars, and for some days were in a critical condition, but we are glad to learn that they are now all right. Owing to the carelessness of the railway hands in shunting trains at Stratford, the horses received some pretty rough treatment there which did them more harm than all the rest of the voyage. The offending party was, however, reported, and no doubt will be properly dealt with as his carelessness deserves.

A Passenger's Troubles.
Mr. Duncan McKellar, of Minnedoua, Manitoba, complains of his treatment by the steward of the Beauty steamer "Manitoba," which left Duluth on August 27th. Mr. McKellar says that his wife was sick, and unable to stay in the close, poorly ventilated and hot stateroom above the engine room appointed to them, and that he asked the steward to give them another room, there they could get a little pure air. That official refused, and Mr. McKellar was forced to lead his wife into the cabin where a bed was made for her on the sofa by some ladies on board. A request for another room next day, was met by an oath from the steward, and another refusal. Mr. McKellar then decided to go on shore and wait for the next boat at Prince Arthur's Landing, where he received more profanity from the steward. After waiting for three days he took passage on the Quebec, and his wife and himself were treated with much consideration and kindness by the steward of that vessel on their journey to Sarnia. Mr. McKellar says that the captain of the Manitoba was not to blame, but that the conduct of the steward towards him and his sick wife was brutal. This is the story as told by the abused passenger.

Meeting of Presbytery.
The Presbytery of Huron met in Willis Church, Clinton, Tuesday, 12th inst. It was called in reference to the annual missionary meeting, and that the making all necessary arrangements, as also the time of holding such meeting be left to the sessions of the various congregations, and that a session report of compliance at the March meeting of Presbytery. A letter from Rev. Mr. Thynne, declining the call to Rogerville, was read, also one from Rev. J. Gibson, B. A., declining the call to Exeter. Grand Bend was granted leave to moderate in a call to a minister.
A memorial signed by a few of the members of Manchester congregation was received, read, considered seriatim, answers being given to the questions contained therein.
The appeal of Mr. Jackson against the recent election of elders in Manchester congregation, on the ground of alleged informalities was after hearing the parties, carefully considered, and as no ground on which to sustain the appeal appeared from the evidence given, it was dismissed. Mr. Jackson was then called before the Presbytery by one of the members of Manchester congregation, to answer to the charge of circulating a false statement throughout the congregation, but as he produced evidence showing the truth of his statement he was declared innocent.
The clerk was directed to grant certificates to students returning to college. The next meeting of Presbytery will be held the second Tuesday in November.

Sir Garrett Wolsley is a good deal grayer than when he passed through L'Amelia four years ago on his way to Niagara, and when he arrived there recently looked and an ill-proceeded.

PROVINCIAL WARDS.
The Government's Care for the Blind.
Miss Loveys, who has charged of the needlework department at the Asylum for the Blind at Brantford spent a few days in Goderich during the week, the guest of Mrs. Struble. Upon her return to the Indian city, Miss Loveys assumed the character of "guide," that is protector on the journey of pupils of the blind college returning from vacation. This school for the blind has been in operation for many years, and is growing more popular with pupils and their friends every year. There are about 150 pupils, who are instructed in reading, writing, geography, history, etc., as well as in useful handicraft such as sewing, knitting, making willow-ware, cane seats for chairs, nick-nacks in bead-work, and the manufacture of other articles which sell readily. A specimen of writing shown us was very legible. The pupils range from 7 to 22 years of age, although exceptions have been made in a few instances in favor of older and younger scholars. Attendance is voluntary, and no charge is made for residence on campus at the Asylum. After vacation, "guides" are sent out to gather back the pupils. Miss Lovey's route is on the G. T. R. between Goderich and Tavistock. The pupils seem anxious to return to Brantford, and as a rule are of a cheerful demeanor. Miss Loveys left on Wednesday, accompanied by Master T. Johnston, who is returning from his holiday visit home, and she expected to take up pupils on the way as follows:—Clinton 1, Seaford 1, Dublin 1, Stratford 5, (4 from one family) Tavistock 1. From what we hear of the school for the blind at Brantford we are led to believe that the Government is doing a noble work in thus providing for the education in so popular a fashion of the sightless but intelligent and active blind of our Province.

THE LEBURN BELL.
Generous gift of the Proprietor and Pastors of the Point Farm.
For a long time past the proprietor of the Point Farm, Mr. J. J. Wright, has been of opinion that a bell should be placed in the belfry of the pretty little Presbyterian church at Leeburn, about a mile and three quarters distant from that popular summer resort. With this end in view Mr. Wright had subscriptions taken up among his guests, and when a sufficient sum was collected to pay for a bell, ordered one from the Guelph manufactory. The bell was forwarded by the makers last week, and Mr. Wright has presented it to the pastors and congregation of Leeburn church in the following neat style:
THE POINT FARM, GODERICH, 5th September, 1882.
DEAR MR. TURNBULL,
On behalf of the guests of the Point Farm, I ask your acceptance of a bell for the Leeburn church. The subscription has been taken up at different times and seasons from parties residing in New Orleans, Montreal, St. Louis, Toronto, Saginaw, London, Bay City, Guelph, Chicago, Hamilton, Detroit, Stratford, and many other places in the States and Canada.
I am particularly requested to state that the sole object of the donors was simply to show their appreciation of the advantage having the means of public worship in the neighborhood.
Trusting that the little gift may prove of service to the church,
Believe me, dear sir,
Very sincerely yours,
J. J. WRIGHT.

TO REV. J. A. TURNBULL, B.A.,
Pastor of Leeburn Church, Goderich.
Dr. Ur has been absent for a number of weeks and will not be home for some time, so Rev. Mr. Turnbull acknowledged the gift as follows:
(GODERICH MANSE, 13th Sept. 1882.)
DEAR SIR,
In the name of the congregation of Leeburn, I accept with gratitude the gift of a bell for the church, from your guests, who during their stay with you were wont to join with us in the public worship of God. It will be of great service in securing punctuality, and if in our midst we have any who are inclined to neglect the house of prayer, I trust it may bring to their remembrance the words of Holy writ, "Forsook not the assembling of yourselves together."
May you at some future time have the opportunity of conveying personally to them our thanks, and may we once more be gladdened by seeing them in our midst.
Your sincerely friend,
JOHN A. TURNBULL.
Mr. J. J. Wright, Point Farm.
The bell will be placed in the belfry at an early day, and it is to be heard inviting all to the preaching of the gospel. It is a boon to a country congregation to have a bell, and we feel sure that Mr. Wright's thoughtfulness and the generosity of his guests will be much appreciated by the people who attend the church.

THE WRONG MEN.—Four men were arrested at Emerson the other day on suspicion of being connected with the robbery of $10,000 from the Merchant's Bank, Winnipeg. Two of the suspects were Knox, Registrar of Crystal City and J. W. O. Greenway, son of Mr. Thos. Greenway ex-M. P. for South Huron. They were not the parties wanted.

The Poet's Corner.

There are moments we never forget,
There live in our hearts for ever,
Faintest, by links that never sever,
No earthly power can sever.

Some go to Church.

Some go to church just for a walk;
Some to stare, and laugh, and talk;
Some go there to meet a friend;
Some for their idle time to spend;

PROVINCIAL RIGHTS.

Hon. Oliver Mowat on Public Affairs.

The Premier of Ontario was one of the speakers at the Lynden picnic last week, and his admirable speech was mainly devoted to Provincial affairs.

You have been engaged in a contest in which you have been more successful than many of your neighbors, though not more successful than you ought to have been.

RATIFICATION OF THE AWARD.

Ten years ago he announced it to be his policy to take this north-western territory from Ontario; and after he was returned to power in 1878, as soon as he manifested any policy at all, he told us his policy in regard to our rightful territory was the same as before.

A GENERAL ELECTION FOR THE PROVINCIAL LEGISLATURE.

It is announced that we are to be met, not with the inquiry whether the merits of the legislation passed by the Government are such as would entitle us to the confidence of the people; but the election are to be asked to oust the Mowat Government because the N. P. is in danger! (Laughter.) Nothing could be further from the truth.

MILLIONS OF ACRES

of territory to Ontario that is the ground for the Tory cries. They say they may be able to maintain these rights. I do not believe they could try did they get the confidence of the people.

ENORMOUSLY ALREADY.

If we had the territory declared ours the mines would be developed, we might be getting large dues from the timber, now given to the Syndicate for nothing, and agricultural lands might be settled.

The city of Guelph adopted the half-yearly plan of collecting taxes, with the result of enabling it not only to keep clear of the banks as a borrower, but to wipe out the overdrawn balances of previous years.

Miss of War Correspondents.

The sending of trivial news, the sending of false news, and the sending of news which will be telegraphed back for the benefit of the enemy, are three of the basest sins of the war correspondent.

Brevity in Speech—Sweetness in Music.

Some one has said that short speeches are most impressive, and simple, sweet music the most touching. If there be anything in the idea, certainly the following from C. C. De Zouche, & Co., Piano and Organ Dealers, 233 St. James street, Montreal, is to the point and convincing.

A Positive Cure for Dyspepsia.

From Abram Mead, of Littleton, Mass. "I have for several years suffered with Dyspepsia, accompanied by weakness and nervous irritability, which made life a burden to me. Nothing but the simplest nutriment could remain in the stomach without pain, sourness and windy evacuations, uncomfortable feelings in the mouth, catarrhal symptoms, inactivity of the liver and bowels, piles, general debility and a nervous state of extreme susceptibility to ordinary medical treatment.

A Word of Caution.

As is usually the case where an article of true merit has attained a world-wide reputation by its wonderful results, as the celebrated Electric Bitters have done, certain unscrupulous parties have endeavored to imitate them and expect to induce an unsuspecting public to purchase their fraudulent wares.

Fencing in vs. Fencing Out.

In Minnesota, Dakota, and many parts of the Canadian North-west fence timber is scarce and dear, and one sees immense fields of grain totally unenclosed. The fence laws of the American prairie States are founded on a simple and common sense principle—namely, that it is the duty of the owner of a farm to fence his neighbor's cattle out, but that it is the duty of such cattle owner to fence his own cattle in.

Farm and Garden.

Transplanting Evergreens.

Take the trees up carefully, keeping the roots as nearly perfect as possible after digging; puddle the roots well; place carefully in a proper position and cover with fine rich soil (not manure) well pressed down; mulch with sawdust, coarse straw, leaves, or anything that will make a good mulch; then let them alone. This will apply to all evergreens as well as all kinds of fruit trees, except that the latter should be cultivated at least for a few years—most kinds, the longer the better.

Mistakes. An exchange speaks of the departure of an old settler of Dakota, where he will take up a quarter section of land and start again in life at the age of seventy. The man had a nice farm near a splendid town, where he had lived and brought up a family. He got tired of farming, sold the farm for $6,000, moved to town and went into the livery business, and in three years went through everything except a team and a lumber wagon, and now he has packed up and gone to Dakota, with a heart heavier than his pocketbook, and he will die out there. The number of farmers that decide to go to town to live, every year, and go into business, is appalling. Every town has them, and nine out of ten become poor. They get an idea that town business men are the happiest people on earth and have an easy time, and they get to brooding over their hard life, and they think anybody can run a store, a grocery, or a livery stable, and they sell out the farm and go into business in town. The most of them go into the grocery business, because it seems so easy to weigh out sugar and tea. They can always find a grocery man who will sell out the remains of a sick stock of groceries for ready cash, and when the farmer first sees his name over the door of a grocery he feels as though he was made, and puts his thumbs in the armbands of his vest. The farmer's girls and boys soon realize that they are merchants' sons and daughters, instead of farmer's, and they have to keep up with the procession. There have to be lots of things bought as merchants that would never be thought of as farmers. The farm-house furniture is not good enough, the democratic wagon gives place to a carriage, the old mares give place to high steppers, and the girls dress better and do not work. The family lives out of the grocery, the boys play ball, and the girls go to big parties. The farmer is a good fellow, and trusts many other good fellows who can't pay, and in some cases he gets to drinking. Bills begin to come in, and he can't collect enough money to pay rent. Friends that would help him out with money when he had a farm will now tell him money is mighty scarce, and he will have to get a chattel mortgage on the stock. The stock runs down until there's nothing but a red tin can of mustard, with a bull's head on it, some canned peaches and core oysters on the shelves, a few boxes of wooden clothes-pins, six wagon loads of barrels with a little sugar in the bottom, a couple of dozen washboards, a box of codfish of the vintage of 1860, which smells like a glue factory, a show-case full of three-cent wooden pocket combs and bluing, hair pins and shaving soap. Some empty cigar boxes that the boys had smoked the cigars out of, and a few such things that do not bring enough at an auction to pay for printing the auction bills. Then the farmer breaks up and goes west, leaving a lot of bills in the hands of a lawyer for collection, who manages to collect enough to pay his commission; and the family that was so happy on the farm, and so independent, becomes demoralized, the girls marry helpers in livery stables rather than go West, the boys go to driving hacks or working on the threshing machine, or tending bar, and refuse to go West, and the old folks go to Dakota alone and wish they were dead, and will be, quick enough. This is the history of thousands of farmers who get tired of the old farm. If they would but realize that they are better fixed than nine-tenths of the merchants in towns, and that they cannot become successful merchants any more than merchants can become successful farmers, they would be valuable to them.

Horse Breeding Profitable. The active demand for good horses which prevails in all parts of the country is attracting increased attention to the breeding of horses. The breeding of horses for sale is likely to prove one of the most profitable branches of farm industry. By securing good brood mares to start with, and breeding from stallions such as will mate well with the mares and tend to secure the desired qualities in the offspring, the business may be on such a sound basis that success may reasonably be expected. One difficulty, however, which meets the breeders at the outset is that of obtaining suitable stock with which to start. The demand for good horses the past few years has been such that the best horses or medium and large size have been pretty cleanly picked up, leaving mostly horses of small size or undesirable ones. Horses weighing only nine hundred pounds have not been in very active demand in the market, and consequently there are many of that size scattered over the country which are of excellent quality. These may readily be obtained for breeding purposes, and by mating with stallions of large size, colts may be obtained which will attain a size suitable for the market. In selecting breeding stock great care should be exercised, and only such chosen as are sound. Many of the affections which render a horse unsound are hereditary, and are liable to reappear in the offspring at about the same age as they appear in the parents.

Educating Horses.

If a colt is never allowed to get an advantage, it will never know that it possesses a power that man cannot control, and if made familiar with strange objects, it will not be skittish and nervous. If a horse is made accustomed from his early days to have objects hit him on the heels, back, or hip, he will pay no attention to the giving way of a harness or a wagon running against him at an unexpected moment. We once saw an aged lady driving a high-spirited horse attached to a carriage down a steep hill, with no hold-back straps upon the harness; and she assured us that there was no danger, for her son accustomed his horses to all kinds of usage and sights that commonly drive the animal into a frenzy of fear and excitement. A gun can be fired from the back of a horse, an umbrella held over the head, a buffalo robe thrown upon his neck, a railway engine pass close by, his heels bumped with sticks, and the animal takes it as a natural condition of things, if only taught by careful management that it will not be injured thereby. There is less whipping wanted and more education.

Afraid of the Facts. The Globe chaffs the Tory organs on their cowardice in withholding from their readers the true facts in the boundary question. It says: "The Tory organs in Ontario dare not let their readers see the part of Mr. Mousseau's speech in which the Quebec Premier stated that he and Mr. Masson would only consent to enter the Dominion Cabinet on the express promise that the Ontario Award should be repudiated. The Tory organs also refused to publish an important State paper—Mr. Mowat's despatch—on the Boundary question—'because it was too long.' The extract from Mr. Mousseau's speech, however, would not take up one inch of space. The Globe and the Reform press generally have given both sides of the question, and did not object to Sir John Macdonald's despatch 'because it was too long.' The difference is, 'The Globe is not afraid of the enemy's case; the Tory organs can only afford to print their own version.' Mr. Mousseau in addressing his constituents the other day referred to the boundary award and reminded them that at a meeting at St. Jerome, in 1878, in the presence of Hon. Mr. Masson, he expressed his disapproval of the award. He said: 'I laid down the condition, on which we would hold our position as members of the Dominion Cabinet. I said that, if the Province of Ontario is to acquire an additional territory of 62,000,000 acres more than she was given under the British North America Act, the Province of Quebec would have the right demand an equivalent territory. It would be impossible for the province of Quebec to remain in this position if Ontario gained her case, because any improvement in her position must be followed by an equal one in ours.' Commenting on that declaration the Montreal Journal of Commerce remarks: 'It is certainly an unusual occurrence to have boundary disputes left to arbitration. What is unusual is for one Government to repudiate an agreement entered into by another. Great Britain did not like the award regarding the boundary between the United States and British Columbia, and the United States did not like the fishery award, but it would be thought in Great Britain simply disgraceful for one Government to repudiate a formal agreement made by another government of opposite politics. Whatever may be the merits of the Ontario boundary award, it must not be forgotten that both Sir George Cartier and Mr. Cawthon, and the Government of Sir John A. Macdonald, claimed for the United Canada, on behalf of Ontario, a much more extensive territory than was awarded to it by the arbitrator. Mr. Mousseau has taken pains to establish his personal responsibility in conjunction with Mr. Masson for the most disgraceful act that has been committed by Canada since she obtained self-government, viz the deliberate repudiation of an agreement formally entered into between the Dominion Government and the House of Commons. Whatever opinions may be held as to the best mode of adjusting such a difference, it is clear that the Government concerned agreed to refer it to arbitration with the result of an unanimous award.'

Scal Skins. Few ladies are aware at how much expense of cruelty the seal-skin jackets they so delight in are obtained. They have seldom read anything more revolting than the following description of seal fishing taken from a work of "Social Architecture": "What does the reader think of the picture drawn by Captain Gray, commander of the Eclipse steamer, of the behaviour of the Scotch seal-fishers who annually sail to the neighborhood of the island of San Mayan in lat. 73 North, for the capture of these creatures? The harpooners choose a place where the young are lying, knowing that the mothers will soon come to see if the young are safe, when they shoot them without mercy. This sort of work goes on a few days, till tens of thousands of young seals are left motherless, to die of starvation (40,000 old ones were killed last year in March.) It is horrible to see the young ones trying to suck the carcasses of their mothers, their eyes starting out of their sockets. They crawl over and over them, no doubt wondering why they do not feed them. The noise they make is dreadful. If one could imagine oneself surrounded by four or five thousand human babies, all crying together, he would have some idea of it, for the tiny seals' cries are very much like those of a child. These, motherless, lie at last in groups of four and five, dying on the ice; their heads becoming the largest part of their bodies as they starve slowly to death. It is suggested that this atrocious system of procuring the skins of seals should be prevented by securing by international treaty a close time for the seals while they are rearing their young. But the author argues that, for the sake of luxury alone, man has no right to dispose of the lives of brute animals, and in no case is he justified to inflict pain and torture on them, when this can be avoided."

FRIDAY, SEPT. 15th, 1892.

BARKING UP THE WRONG TREE.

It looks as if the solicitor for the Tory petition in West Huron had made an error in filing his petition against the return of M. C. Cameron, M. P., for West Huron. His legal knowledge appears to have been at fault, and the chances are that Mr. Cameron will remain in undisturbed possession of the seat.

By the recent change in the Provincial Law in the adoption of the Judicature Act, three Divisions were created in the High Court of Justice of Ontario—the Chancery Division, the Common Pleas Division, and the Queen's Bench Division, and in one or other of these all the cases to be brought before court had to be tried, save and except such as were specified in section 87 of the miscellaneous provisions of the Judicature Act, which is as follows:

"Nothing in the act, or in the Schedule thereto, effects or is intended to effect the practice or procedure in criminal matters or matters connected with the Dominion controlled elections or proceedings on the Crown or Revenue side of the Queen's Bench or Common Pleas Division."

The solicitor for the Tory petitioner in sublime innocence of Sec. 87, entered his petition in the Queen's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice, and now exception is taken to his action by Mr. Cameron's solicitors on the ground that the Court in which it is filed is not a competent court of Jurisdiction. This is one objection raised to the further prosecution of the petition, and it seems to be well taken in the premises.

Another objection is that an extension of time was required to effect service of the protest on Mr. Cameron, and that the extension of time was obtained from Hon. Mr. Justice Osler, of the Common Pleas Division, who had no jurisdiction whatever in the Queen's Bench Division, wherein the petition was entered. It is contended, and with good reason, by Mr. Cameron's solicitors, that the extension of time for service should have been made by a judge of the Queen's Bench Division in which the case was entered, and not by a judge of a court which had no jurisdiction in the case.

These are the principal exceptions taken, and it would appear that either one would be sufficient to invalidate the petition and render it void in law.

We append the preliminary exceptions taken to the petition by the respondent, wherein some of the mendacious assertions advanced by the petitioner are mercilessly exposed:

1. This Honorable Court has had no jurisdiction in the matter of controverted elections of members of the House of Commons of Canada conferred upon it, either by the Dominion Controverted Elections Act, in pretended pursuance whereof the petition herein has been filed, or by any other act of the Parliament of Canada.

2. The said petition was presented on the twelfth day of August, A. D. 1892, but the respondent was not within the time limited by the Statutes and rules of Court in that behalf served with notice of the presentation of the said petition, or of the security given therewith, nor with a copy of the said petition which the respondent is ready to verify.

3. The pretended order extending the time for serving such petition and notices obtained by the petitioner, and purporting to be made by the Honorable Mr. Justice Osler is ultra vires and void, inasmuch as the said Honorable Mr. Justice Osler had no jurisdiction to make the same, and the pretended service effected in pursuance of the said order is therefore ineffectual and invalid.

4. The respondent further says that the eighteenth paragraph of the said order is struck out and set aside with costs, because it alleges undue influence to have been exercised by the Government of the Province of Ontario at the said election, in the interest and on behalf of the respondent, and in order to aid him in his candidature, and because no agency on the part of the said Government of the Province of Ontario or for the respondent is alleged, and because no such agency, even if sufficiently alleged, could in law exist.

Who made the next best speech to Sir John this time at the Convention? The world knows who did last year.

The Goderich Township Court of Revision has been adjourned until September 23rd. The Reformers expect to make a gain of some fifty votes over the crooked printed list.

Those fellows who have been croaking about Sir Garnet Wolseley's tardiness will now turn around and laud him to the skies. He displayed rare generalship in his capture of Tel-el-Kebir.

Owing to hard times a number of ardent Tories could not attend the big party at Toronto on Wednesday. Yet some of these same ardent Tories grew purple with shouting about the good times during the late election. The N. P. is a humbug, and these ardent Tories know it.

The Tory papers are writing a lot of puerile stuff about the "eight vacant seats." Are not all the seats in the Provincial Legislature vacant at this time of year? If the House meets before the bye-elections come off, our contemporaries can show some grounds for complaint. At present they have none.

When the Star stated in its last issue that the Star had not dealt in a fair and impartial manner with Mr. Campion in the matter of the alleged conspiracy against Mr. Grace, it stated what was false, and what it can not substantiate. We have avoided mentioning the "conspiracy" case editorially, in our columns, for the reason that it reflected no credit upon any of the persons connected therewith. We have no desire to do so now, but if Mr. Campion is anxious to have his "dirty linen" washed in public we have not the slightest objection.

The London Advertiser gets in a hard drive at the chief Tory organ in the following paragraph:—"The Toronto Mail is endeavoring to prove that tavern-keeping has degenerated; that the men who now keep licensed houses have encouraged drunkenness and crime, and that the Province has, of late, gone from a moral point rapidly down hill. Is this so? Are the inns and hotels now kept by a lower class of men than they were a few years ago? They are mostly Tory. Are they what the Mail paints them? What can they say in defence of themselves?"

At no time of the year does Goderich look prettier than at the present. The trees have attained their growth for the season, and in most cases are at their fullest density of foliage. The leading avenues are lined with profusely leaved shade trees, and the vistas looking towards the court house are charming. As yet the ground is unstrewn with fallen leaves, although here and there a tree, kissed by the early frost, bears a tattered blush. The sunlight dancing on the waves gleams merrily, and the high banks overlooking the harbor are clothed with dark green. Goderich is glorious in September.

The editor of the Mail is better acquainted with slang than with arithmetic, if we judge by his diatribes against the Local Government on the question of the Crooks Act. He scoffs at the possibility of an improvement being made by the present system in the way of moderate drinking, when a licensed dealer can sell as much liquor as before. If the number of hotels and groceries are decreased, does not that mean heavier sales of liquor for each of the remaining stands doing business? If the Crooks Act insists that but five hotels shall sell liquor in a municipality where there are ten or fifteen taverns and groceries flourished before, doesn't that mean an increased sale for the privileged few who enjoy a license? If they do not double or treble their business after the groceries are abolished, then the consumption of liquors must have diminished since the Act came into force.

The Tories of Lucknow—if there are any in that thriving village—must be considerably put out by the cavalier manner in which Sir John Macdonald has treated them and their neighbors in the matter of the Northern Games. Early in the season Sir John was invited to attend the games and witness the greatest Scotch gathering on the continent. The chieftain, we understand, agreed to present, if his public duties did not interfere with his attendance. It was known that the games would be held on Wednesday, Sept. 13th, but Sir John failed to connect. And what is the reason? Simply this, that Sir John chose Wednesday, Sept. 13th on which to hold the grand Tory Convention in Toronto, at which he as the great incubator of the party would hatch out the policy for the Opposition to pursue against Mr. Mowat at the coming election. There are some who contend that Sir John made the meetings clash as a petty spite on the people of West Huron and Bruce for the election of Cameron and Wells at the last election. If such be the case it is easy to see who the "small potatoes" Premier is, and Huron and Bruce will remember the fact in the time to come.

The East Huron Tories have selected Thos. Hays, of McKillop as their standard bearer at the Local Election. On Tuesday next the Reformers will meet at Brussels to choose the man who is to beat him.

The Bothwell conspirators are in a bad fix, Judge Hagarty having refused to strike out the election petition on account of a technical objection. As the conspirators have based all their hopes of gaining the seat on a technical objection, it looks as if they have a slim chance of winning the case. If the Bothwell scoundrelism were to pass through the Courts unchecked, we might well fear for the safety of our political liberties, the honor of our courts of justice, and the continuance of an unfettered franchise. The simple question of right or wrong is the one which should prevail with every court, great or small.

The Star doesn't see a plot in the present Tory protest against the return of M. C. Cameron, M. P. The New York Star and World which were in the ring in the Tammany transactions couldn't see a plot in the actions of Boss Tweed and his confederates. The obtaining of $1,000 from the greenhorns of the Tory party to enter a protest against Mr. Cameron's return, and the entering of the petition in the wrong court, so that of the $1,000 would revert the wire-pullers, looks "fishy," to say the least. The manipulators saved $600 to themselves after the last protest against Mr. Cameron, and the chances are they will make bigger haul this time. The Star is the official organ of the protest-mongers, and we would like to know how much per cent of the subscribed stock in the previous protest was returned to the dupes who subscribed to raise the $1,000. The present protest scheme is really a dodge by a few needy Tories in this section to "raise the wind."

The howl of the Mail against the Crooks Act is loud, and deep and long continued. The Act, according to the Mail has increased crime, added to the number of drunkards, and degraded the hotel-keepers of the Province. The Mail wants to bring back the good old days of "sheebens" on every corner, whiskey gallop in every grocer, and rampant drunkenness on every street. The "gentleman's journal" is bidding low for aid when it wants to court the favor of those who would be willing to see a return of the bumming days of the olden time. Even the hotel-keepers, whose support it covets, deprecate the idea of free trade in whiskey, as was the case previous to the introduction of the act. The Tory hotel-keepers in this section prefer the law as it now stands, and contend that it has given a solidity and standing to their business not previously enjoyed. They believe the abolition of the Crooks Act would result in the establishment of low groceries which would be detrimental to their trade, and inflict great injury upon them. Li- quor at all times, in all places, and under circumstances seems, however, to be a broad plank in the Tory platform, and the Mail in its crusade for enlarged trade in alcoholic stimulants is but following out the line laid down by that much-experienced anti-temperance advocate, Sir John Macdonald, who, at London a few years ago, put the cap-shelf on an oration, with a similar effect in view, by reciting to an enthusiastic audience the polished refrain:

"Damn my eyes, If ever I tries To rob the poor man of his beer."

The "Mail" and Hon. Mr. Mowat. The Mail has been preparing for the fray by bragging every other day that the province will send to the right about "Mr. Mowat and his Hardys and Pardees," "his Frasers and blazers," "his 'bummers and bailiffs'; it speaks of 'all the extensive patronage now controlled 'by the gang,' and uses many other choice epithets too numerous to mention, all winding up with a hysterical declaration that "Mr. Mowat must go." Mr. Mowat can safely await the popular verdict with calm confidence that he will have a renewed lease of power. He has administered affairs wisely and well, and the people of Ontario are not going to turn him out to please the Tory leaders at Ottawa and the followers in the local house.—[Lindsay Post.

An Impudent Beggar. It is to be hoped that there will be no temporizing with Quebec's demand for a larger subsidy from the Dominion Parliament. The subsidies were arranged at the time of the provinces entering the Confederation, and if they are upset in order that Quebec may get her hand further into the public treasury there will be no stability in regard to any of the subsidies. Quebec appears to get nearly everything she demands, and her representatives demand a good many things, knowing that as it is their votes that keep Sir John in office he cannot easily refuse. They demanded Letellier's head, and they got it. They asked for a grant to build a monument to Sir George Cartier, and they got it, although there are those who have done quite as much for Canada as Sir George ever did, and no monuments have been erected to them. They insisted that Ontario should not get the additional territory awarded to her, and their voice has been hearkened to by Sir John; and now they are after an increased subsidy. It would be far more to the purpose if they were to follow the example of Ontario and do without a Legislative Council.

NORTHERN GAMES.

Lucknow Leads the Procession. Another Successful Competition—The Games a Triumph for the Press—The Tug of War.

The great northern games, which have gained for Lucknow a reputation and a name, wherever athletes or lovers of Scotch games live, were held in that village on Wednesday last, the 13th inst., and surpassed all previous representations in attendance, and the number of athletes and other competitors present. Great preparations had been made by the residents of Lucknow, so that the Highland hospitality would be extended to the inhabitants of the outside world who on Caledonian Day take possession of the village, and for the time being identify themselves with it. Every larder was filled as if preparing for a heavy siege, and the result proved that the sage providers of good cheer were wise in their day and generation.

On Tuesday afternoon the visitors came to come in by train, and the late evening train brought up nearly all of the athletes and other competitors, together with the aboriginal band from the Saugeen reservation. The usually inclined red men were much taken with the air of the bagpipers who piped M'Clasac, and the drone, when it assumed full power, appeared to "catch" them every time. They gazed with surprise, awe and wonderment at the instrument from which the martial strains came, and no doubt, had kindled in their breasts

The stirring memory of a thousand years, and Bruce's famous rang in their Saugeen ears. or words to that effect. The night train to Lucknow was an hour and a quarter late, bringing the hour of its arrival close to midnight, but notwithstanding this fact, the station platform was crowded with Lucknowites of all ages and sexes, who had gathered to welcome the visitors. The members of the press were taken in charge by Mr. D. E. Cameron, who year by year undertakes the same heavy contract, to which up-ending a cabinet of the cabaretelle, and escorted to the residence of that gentleman, where excellent accommodation was their portion. About the "wee sma' hour ayont the twal" Lucknow sought repose, preparatory to entering upon the arduous duties of the day; and so did the press men.

THE MORNING of the day for holding the games, opened with a lowering sky, and anticipations of a damp day could be heard on every side, the hour of each arrival, and the holding of the events was thought that he, and he only, could forestall moisture from dark clouds. Others there were who contended that it was contrary to all precedent that the games at Lucknow should not have fair weather.

Fortunately the threatened rain did not come down until late in the afternoon, and the holding of the events was militated against to any great extent. Had the place not been Lucknow, and the day Caledonian Day, we verily believe an all-day downpour would have resulted if a dark-complexioned sky, a criterion to go by. But they do things differently at Lucknow to what they do in other places, and it would not surprise many who were present to learn that Dr. McCrimmon, the popular Chief of the Caledonian Society, acting in his official capacity, of course, had the dampness postponed, so that no falling-off in the gate receipts would result. It's just a trick the doctor would do under the circumstances.

THE PROCEEDINGS OPENED with a Scotch reel by four Highlanders in costume, which was taken part by Messrs. George Matheson, J. L. Henderson, T. McDonald and J. Munroe, Piper G. A. Smith furnishing the music in his usual excellent style. The judges at once forced on the local competitors, and no time was lost. In fact the rapid manner of placing the events is one of the marvels of the Lucknow games.

THE HEAVY ATHLETES.

DONALD DINNIE, whose presence at Lucknow this year was the great specialty, is a native of Aberdeenshire, Scotland, stands 6 ft. 1 in. in height, and weighed on the grounds 230 lbs. As will be seen by his height and weight he is a tall, heavy-built man. His torso is that of a Hercules, and the muscles on his arms and legs stand out like whip-cords when the body is in play. He wears a kilt of dark green tartan. He gives his age as 45, but is still as supple as a youth. A number of Aberdonians present at the games took advantage of the occasion to scrape an acquaintance with the famous athlete. In some instances the feelings of pleasure appeared to be mutual, while at other times the speech of Dinnie was laudatory, and his manner of twirling the Highland hose was commended and contemplated the competition showed that he was averse to being bored even by old "townies" "fr' Aberdeen. He wore none of his trophies, although it is said his medals are sufficient in number to cover his breast and back. In addition to medal honors, he is reputed to have captured over a thousand money prizes during his athletic career.

DUNCAN C. ROSS is already known to the readers of THE SIGNAL, he having competed on former occasions at the Lucknow games. He stripped at about 200 lbs. on Wednesday last, and was beyond question the finest proportioned heavy athlete on the ground. His light hair and blonde complexion give him a comparatively youthful appearance in the face, but the frame gives evidence of maturity in development. His height is 6 ft. 4 in. This year he hails from Louisville, Ky.

ARCHIE SCOTT, a strapping young fellow, 6 ft 4 in. in his stockings, is a Huron County man, and was born in the township of Morris in 1855. He weighs about 175 lbs when in condition. His specialty is jumping and vaulting, but he takes his full share of prizes in the heavy weight competitions. At present it is believed that he can capture more first prizes from the Caledonian series of competitions than any other athlete in the Dominion. He is a resident of Brussels, and an active member of the Caledonian Society of that village.

W. W. JOHNSTON is another regular attendant at the games throughout the northern circuit. He is about the same height and weight as Archie Scott, and was born in 1853. Last April while giving an exhibition for the Guelph Caledonian Society he had the misfortune to break his leg, and the fracture has militated greatly against his record during the past year as compared with that of previous years. He is a member of the Hamilton Caledonian Society. He has the appearance of a thorough "sport."

M. J. McDONALD, of Toronto is now one of the "annuals" so far as Lucknow is concerned. He weighs 185 lbs, stands 5 ft 10 1/2 inches, and is a well-built young fellow. He is a good athlete, and always manages to get an interest in everything that is going in the shape of prize money in games.

A. A. McDONALD, of Glenarry, a tall light-haired young man, is a good specimen of the brave representatives of Canada's Highland county. He weighs about 200 lbs, and stands 6 ft 1 1/2 in. in his stockings. He is a new man at the Lucknow games, but will in all probability be a regular attendant hereafter, as he gives promise of becoming a successful heavy athlete.

HIGHLANDERS IN COSTUME. Geo. Angus, London; Thos. McDonald, Lucknow; Ian Mackenzie, Hamilton; D. McMichael, Buffalo; W. W. Luncheon, Dundas; Neil McIsaac, Bruce; Jno. James McKay, M. D., Dananmond; H. Ross, Lake Lynden, Mich.; Joseph Ritch, Dundas; Geo. Smith, Hamilton; Neil McDonald, do.; Angus McQuisig, Lucknow; Chief MacCrimmon, do.; J. Henderson and J. L. Henderson.

THE TUG OF WAR was, as usual, an affair of great excitement. Year by year Bruce had pulled Huron over the score, and the changed conditions this year, whereby the tug was arranged to be between ten constables Huron and ten of Bruce, had raised high hopes in Huron's sympathizers that Huron's representatives would carry the day on this occasion. The Bruce team, however, as soon as they seized their end of the rope appeared to have the "win" in them; they were a heavier and more solid set all the way through, and from the first, the result was settled. Two straight draws over the score by Bruce did the business. Huron was captured by J. C. Currie and Bruce by J. H. McHardy.

OTHER FEATURES. There were a number of other interesting features of the day which contributed to make the witnessing of the events a thing to be remembered. The 100 yards foot race of the press representatives was one of these; the Indian war dance was another; and so was the dancing of the ladies and lassies in Highland costume, and the hotel-keepers' race, and the commercial men's race, but our space will not enable us to more than merely mention them.

THE CLOSE. After the tug of war, the rain, which had been doing some serious sprinkling during the day, began to descend in earnest, and the stampele for shelter became general. In a few minutes the grounds which had been the holder of some 9,000 persons during the afternoon was a deserted place, and the great Northern games of 1892 was a thing of the past.

THE REASON FOR THE SUCCESS of the Lucknow Caledonian games is not far to seek. From the smallest to the greatest of the members of the Lucknow Caledonian Society each vies with the other to render the experience of the visitor of a pleasant nature. Hospitality is widely dispensed. The officers of the society are unceasing in their efforts to contribute to the success of the gathering, and stand shoulder to shoulder. Our thanks are due to Dr. McCrimmon, the popular Chief, and Mr. John Moffatt, the Secretary, and other officers for courtesies extended; and as one of the members of the press party, which was so hospitably entertained by Mr. D. E. Cameron, the Treasurer of the Society, we extend to that gentleman our cordial acknowledgments for the exceptionally good treatment we received.

Dr. Siemens thinks that before many years have passed ships will be made of such tough "mild steel" that when they strike upon a rock they will not spring a leak, but only "bulge several feet." These ships will be driven by electricity or gas; for, in the opinion of the learned President of the British Association, the steam-engine is doomed. Raw coal is to disappear as a fuel.

Who made the next best speech to Sir John this time at the Convention? The world knows who did last year.

The Bothwell conspirators are in a bad fix, Judge Hagarty having refused to strike out the election petition on account of a technical objection.

When the Star stated in its last issue that the Star had not dealt in a fair and impartial manner with Mr. Campion in the matter of the alleged conspiracy against Mr. Grace, it stated what was false, and what it can not substantiate.

Features of the Crooks Act.

In answer to some of the absurd statements made by the Tory press about the present license law, it may be well to point out that among its features are the following: At the end of each license year a statement is made up showing the receipts and expenditures for each license district. It embodies the number and kind of licenses issued in the district, the total amount of the duties imposed by the municipalities, the receipts for fines, transfer fees, etc., the payments to inspectors for salary, and the outlay for postage, stationary, fees in connection with legal proceedings, and any other items of expenditure fully particularized. The amounts of money remaining to be distributed between the Government and the municipalities are given in detail showing the proportion due each municipality. Copies of these statements are furnished to the Inspector, and he is directed to deliver a copy to each municipality for the information of the municipal council. In addition to this an annual report showing the working of the license system, embracing all the above and many other details, is brought down at every session of the House, each member being supplied with a number of copies. The pretence that the people are kept in ignorance of the financial details of the license system has no further foundation than the imagination of Tory journalists utterly at a loss for subjects of attack upon an honest and capable Government.

The transit of Venus, which is to take place next December, will be the last for over one hundred and twenty three years; and as transits of that planet are chiefly relied on as a means of determining the distance of the sun, the scientific world as a whole with costly preparations for securing complete and careful observations if the unusual phenomena. There is no doubt that mankind is very much indebted to the oyster, both in his fried and raw and his stewed state, and even womankind has been placed under deep obligations, as without the oyster church festivals would be a hollow mockery and church debts mountains of perpetual sorrow. We can think of no higher example of self-sacrifice for the good and noble pursuit than for one poor oyster to permit himself to be pursued, solitary and alone, through a plate of alleged soup in order to raise funds to wipe off a church debt or pay for putting new cushions in his pew.

Cures all Nervous Diseases. NEWMARKET, March 21, 1882. Messrs. Lowden & Co., Toronto. GENTS:—I have taken one bottle of Dr. Austin's Phosphatine, recommended by Dr. Ross, of this place, and have received great benefit from it. I believe that after taking five or six bottles I shall be quite free from a nervous tremor which has troubled me since I was 16, and now I am (61) sixty-one years of age.

Yours truly, J. S. WETHERILL. Special Correspondent Toronto Globe.

WILL YOU EXCHANGE a case of Dyspepsia or Biliousness for 75 cents? It is awfully unwise to agonize unduly over a ailment arising from Dyspepsia, Biliousness, Indigestion, Disordered Stomach and Liver, when this offer is made to you in your own home in all sincerity, with an absolute certainty of curing you. ZOPESA (from Brazil) cures Dyspepsia and Biliousness. A single dose relieves; a sample bottle convinces; a 75 cent bottle cures. It acts directly upon the Stomach, Liver, and Kidneys. Cleanses, Corrects, Rejuvenates, Zopesa gives energy and vim to the Brain, Nerve, and Muscle, simply by working wonders upon the Digestion, and giving activity to the Liver. Cut this out, take it to any dealer in medicines, and get at least one 75 cent bottle of Zopesa, and tell your neighbor how it acts. It is warranted to cure Dyspepsia and Biliousness.

Trade Mark Registered. AO THE GREAT BOOM IN WINNIPEG.

By casual observation, we find all land speculators have a clear head and watch the ups and downs of property, thus making large fortunes. But the whole secret is they keep the system in a healthy condition by the use of THE PRIDE OF THE VALLEY MEDICINE. We can safely say that hundreds come to us for the great lung and blood purifier before going west. Read the following statement. We could give thousands of the same kind if it were necessary. "I certify that I was troubled with Catarrh in the head, gathering of phlegm in the throat, coughing and coughing at night for years, so I could not sleep, often troubled with dull, lifeless feelings, pains in the chest and back. After giving hundreds of dollars to doctors and giving up all hopes, I tried the PRIDE OF THE VALLEY, and am now able to do my work after seven years' sickness." MRS. JAMES McNEIL, 202 Simcoe Street, London, Ont.

LEARNING HERBIE A JOURNAL

"Just what I have been expecting for about seven years," said Mrs. Louie Worthington, looking from an open letter in her hand, with a smiling brow.

"Is not your letter from Herbert, Lina? questioned Mrs. Worthington, a tiny, silver-haired old lady, with a gentle expression.

"Yes, mother. Essie is very ill with nervous fever, and they want me to come and stay till she is better. The carriage will be sent at three o'clock, mother," and Pauline's eyes flashed. "I think it is about time Bert's ranny over that little martyr was ended. He is killing her."

"Lina, he is your brother."

"I can see his faults, if he is."

"I never heard Essie complain."

"She never would. But look at her. Nine years ago, when she was married, she was a lively sunbeam, so bright and pretty. Now, pale, quiet and reserved, her voice is seldom heard, her smile seldom seen. A wintry shadow of her former brightness! Now she has broken. You have never seen her at home, but surely when she is here you see the change."

"Yes, dear, she has changed; but family cares—"

"Has Louie changed so? She has been twelve years married."

Mrs. Worthington was silent. Louie was her oldest child, and presided over the home in which her mother had been a crippled prisoner for fifteen years. She took all the household care, and had five children, and yet Louie had gained in beauty, and certainly in cheerful happiness, since her marriage, even if the... said Lina:

"There lies the difference between her happiness and Essie's dejection. If there is any domestic trouble, Henry and Louie share it, while Herbert shifts it all upon Essie. He is an habitual faultfinder."

"Perhaps, dear, Essie is not so good a housekeeper as Louie. Herbert may have cause to find fault."

"You never spoke as before, Lina."

"Because Louie and I thought it better not to worry you with a trouble beyond your help. But firmly believing, as I do now, that Herbert is actually worrying his wife into her grave, I intend to give him a lesson. That is, if you can spare me to go."

"So, when Herbert Worthington sent his carriage, Lina was quite ready for the fourteen miles drive to her brother's house. It was a house wherein no evil spirit of repining or fault finding should have found an abode. Spacious, handsomely furnished, with well-trained servants, and every comfort which wealth could furnish, it seemed a perfect paradise to visitors. But a very demon lurked there to poison all, and this demon Lina had come to exorcise."

For the first fortnight Essie took all her time and care, the gentle spirit hovering very near the portal of the eternal home. There was a babe, too, six months old, and its want filled all the spare moments. Henry snarled and fretted over domestic shortcomings, but Lina peremptorily forbade any mention in the sick room, having the doctor's authority for saying the patient's life depended upon quietness."

But when convalescence commenced, Lina sent Essie and the baby to visit old Mrs. Worthington, and took control of Herbert, the two older children and the household, fully determined to show her brother how far he carried his absurd habit of fault finding."

The first dinner saw the beginning of the lesson Lina meant to teach, by practically illustrating some of Herbert's absurdities. Herbert entered the dining room, his handsome face disfigured by its habitual frown."

"Soup? said Herbert, lifting the treacle cover; 'perfect dishwater.'"

"Susan," said Lina, sharply, before Herbert could lift the label, "take that treacle to the kitchen, and tell Jane the soup is not fit to eat."

Susan promptly obeyed. Herbert looked rather ruefully at the vanishing dish. He was especially fond of soup, and the savory fumes of the delicious dish were tantalizing. Essie would have made some gentle excuse—never whipping off his dinner in that way. All dinner-time Lina kept up a ding-dong about that abominable soup, until Herbert heartily wished he had said nothing about it. But his imagination detected a burnt flavor in the pudding, and, before he could remonstrate, that dish had followed the soup."

"I'll get this house in some sort of order before I leave it," said Lina emphatically.

"Before you leave it?" said Herbert, sharply. "Do you suppose you are a better house-keeper than Essie? Why, I have not a friend who does not envy me the exquisite order of my house and my dainty table."

"Herbert, you surprise me. Only yesterday I heard you did wish there was ever anything to eat on the table."

"One don't expect every word to be taken literally," said Herbert, rather sulkily. But an hour later, finding a streak of dust in the sitting-room, he declared emphatically "it was not fit for a pig to live in."

Coming into it next morning he found the curtains torn down, the carpets taken up, the floor littered with pails, soap and brushes, and Lina in a dismal dress, her hair tied up in a towel, directing two women, scrubbing vigorously.

"Good gracious! What are you doing?"

"Cleaning the room."

"Why, Essie had the whole house cleaned till it shone, in the fall, and didn't make half the fuss," he added contemptuously.

"Well, said Lina slowly, "I thought this room a marvel of neatness, but when you said it was not fit for pigs, I supposed you wanted it cleaned."

"The room was well enough," was the curt reply. "For heaven's sake don't turn any more of the house upside down."

At breakfast a tiny tear in Louie's apron caught her father's eye, and his own angry statement, "she never had a decent stitch of clothes, and he did wish somebody would see to her."

Two days later a formidable dry goods bill was presented at the store, and Lina explained it in this wise:

"You said, Herbert, that Louie hadn't a decent stitch, and you wished somebody would see to her, so I bought a complete outfit. I could not see any fault myself, but of course I got more expensive articles, as you did not like those provided. I am glad you called my attention to the poor neglected child."

"Poor, neglected child!" echoed astonished Herbert. "Why, Lina, Essie fairly slaves herself out over those children. I am sure I never saw any better dressed or neat."

Lina merely shrugged her shoulders. A month passed. Essie gained strength in the general atmosphere surrounding Louie and her mother, while Lina ruled Louie's home with a rod of iron. Herbert began to experience a sick longing for Essie's gentle presence. Lina took him so very literally in all he said, and yet he could not rebuke her for doing exactly what he only wished."

A chair with a tiny spot of dirt being declared absolutely filthy, was upholstered and varnished at a cost of eight dollars. A dozen new shirts, Essie's last meal bags, were bestowed upon the gardener, and a new set sent from the furnishing store. Harry's blocks were burned in the kitchen fire, because Herbert accidentally stepped upon one, and said he "would not have such rubbish in the house." Every window was opened after a pettiish declaration that "the room was as hot as an oven," and an hour later the stove fired up to smothering heat because he declared it cold enough to freeze a polar bear."

In short, with apparently an energetic attempt to correct all shortcomings and put the house-keeping upon a perfect basis, Lina, in one month nearly doubled her brother's expenses and drove him to the verge of distraction, keeping actual account of every complaint."

But Essie, well and strong again, was coming home. On the day of her expected arrival, Lina, with a solemn face, invited her brother into the sitting-room for a few moments of private conversation."

"Herbert," she said gravely, "I have a proposition to make to you. It has really grieved me to the heart to see how much there is to find fault with in your beautiful home."

Herbert listened uneasily in his chair; but Lina continued:

"You know that mother is very dependent upon me, Louie having the house and children to care for, but I think she would sacrifice her own comfort for yours. So if you wish, Herbert, I will come here permanently, to keep things in order for you."

Here Lina was obliged to pause and struggle with a laugh at Herbert's expression to utter her word and dismay."

"You are very kind," he faltered, the instincts of a gentleman battling with the strong desire to tell Lina she would certainly drive him into a lunatic asylum by six months more of her model housekeeping."

"Not at all. A man who has made an unfortunate marriage certainly needs all the aid and sympathy his family can give him."

The last straw was laid upon the camel's back. Herbert spoke hotly: "You are entirely mistaken, Lina! I have not made an unfortunate marriage. If ever a man was blessed in a wife, I am that man."

"You amaze me," Lina cried, in a well-feigned astonishment.

"I can not see why you should be surprised. Essie is gentle, loving, a model mother, and a perfect home angel—God bless her."

"Herbert, is that true?"

"Certainly it is true."

"I cannot believe it," was the slow response.

"Cannot believe it? Why?"

"Because"—and Lina dwelt impressively on the word—"during the nine years of your married life, though visiting here frequently, I never heard you speak one word of praise or encouragement to Essie. I never saw one look of approbation or appreciation of any effort she made for your comfort, upon your face. Continual fault-finding, constant blame, have changed her from a happy, winsome girl to a pale, careworn woman. Even her last illness was but the broken despair of a heart crushed under a load of daily censure and constant striving for the approbation never given. And you tell me now she has never failed to do her duty to you. There is a grave error somewhere."

The sadly earnest tone, the face of thoughtful gravity, sent every word home to Herbert Worthington's heart. He spoke no word of self defence as Lina slowly left the room. In the profound silence that followed, conscience reviewed the past, and he knew that his sister had spoken only the truth. This habit of fault-finding meeting no resistance to Essie's gentleness, had gained in force, till all its unobtrusiveness revealed in the experience of the past month."

In the days when Essie lay dangerously ill, there had been no self-reproach like this in her husband's sorrow. He had given his wife a fair home, an ample income, frequent social pleasure many costly gifts, and loved her faithfully, while poisoning her whole life.

"God help me," he whispered, "to conquer this fault. Essie shall hear no more fault-finding, I will send for her and let Lina return to her home."

Never had wife and mother a warmer welcome than greeted Essie. The children were uncheered in their loudest demonstrations of delight. But Lina had to rush into the hall to hide her merry eyes, when Herbert, kissing Essie, said:

"We must let her have Lina now, dear. She has been very kind, and worked hard for my comfort; but there is no home for her here."

The quick, glad look in his wife's soft eyes told Herbert that one step had been taken in the right direction. As the days glided by, and Essie found appreciation meeting every effort to add to her comfort, a word of praise for every little triumph of cookery or needle work, her pale face grew bright with untold happiness. Gradually the careworn expression was obliterated by one of sweet content, and Herbert found his own heart lightened by the cheerful voice, the sunny smile, the bright eyes of the Essie he had wooed years before."

Lina made a visit six months later, and on her return, told her mother "Herbert had learned his lesson by heart. He appreciates Essie now at her true value, and lets her know it."

Delays are dangerous, particularly in Kidney Diseases, so take at once Dr. VAN BUREN'S KIDNEY CURE and obtain relief from all your sufferings. Your druggist keeps it. Jas. Wilson, Goderich. 2m

The License System. The Mail some time ago pronounced the Crook's Act a success. Now it says it is a failure. The Mail took the first position when it was the mouthpiece of the anti-prohibitionists: it takes the latter position wishes to injure the government that carried it. The Crook's Act did not set out to make people temperate; but it has regulated the sale of intoxicants. There may be, doubtless are, abuses under it; but instead of assisting in remedying these, the Mail is only anxious to make political capital. It wants the votes of the hotel men. What sort of a law would the Mail's friends give us instead? This bidding for trade and sectarian votes is discreditable to any party. If the Conservatives succeed in getting the hotel-keeper's vote, will they not strangle any temperance upholders they may have had heretofore? The hotel men are not dissatisfied with the law; they will vote as they individually think on the main provincial issues.—[World.]

After many years of patient investigation Dr. VAN BUREN, of Germany, finally succeeded in perfecting a Kidney Cure that would permanently relieve all cases of Kidney Disease. Be sure and ask your Druggist for Dr. VAN BUREN'S KIDNEY CURE. Sold by James Wilson, Goderich. 2m

Snatched From the Grave. Mrs. Helen Parviz, No. 331 Dayton St., Chicago, Ill., is now in her eighty-eighth year, and states that she has suffered with Consumption for about ten years, was treated by nine physicians, all of whom pronounced her case hopeless. She had given up all hopes of ever recovering. Seven bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption completely cured her. Doubting ones, please drop her a postal and satisfy yourselves. Trial bottles free at Rhyans's Drug Store. Large size $1.00. (1)

Mr. Wm. Ranson, of South Norwick, says: For sixteen years I suffered from Biliousness, never had any medicine done me any permanent good until recommended by our druggists, (J. Wesley Fish & Co., Orterville.) to try Dr. Carson's Stomach and Constipation Bitters, which have done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. I would, with the utmost confidence, recommend them to all suffering from Biliousness, etc. Sold by all Druggists at 50 cts. a bottle.

Carless Habits of Ants. Sir John Lubbock's extraordinary book on 'Ants, Bees, and Wasps' will amaze readers. Fancy ants having slaves! Fancy these proverbial examples to the sluggish keeping certain insects as we keep cows, and building sheds over them, and keeping others as pets! The aristocracy of ants seem to have all the vices which brought antique monarchies to destruction. Sir John writes soberly, as a philosopher should, and weighs his words no doubt, which makes his conclusions the more astonishing. The author quotes some of Huber's experiments, the value of which he has himself tested. The bloated ant aristocrats, it is said, "have lost the greater part of their instincts; their art, that is, the power of building; their domestic habits, for they show no care for their young, all this being done by the slaves; their industry, for they take no part in providing the daily supplies; if the colony changes the situation of its nest, the masters are all carried by the slaves on their backs to the new one; nay, they have even lost the habit of feeding. Huber placed thirty of them with some larvae and pupae and a supply of honey in a box. 'At first,' he says, 'they appeared to pay some little attention to the larvae; they carried them here and there, but presently replaced them. More than one-half of the Amazons died of hunger in less than two days. They had not even traced out a dwelling, and the few ants still in existence were languid and without strength. I commiserated their condition, and gave them one of their black companions. The individual, unassisted, established order, formed a chamber in the earth, gathered together the larvae, extracted several young ants that were ready to quit the condition of pupae, and preserved the life of the remaining Amazons.' This observation has been fully confirmed by other naturalists. However small the prison, however large the quantity of food; these stupid creatures will starve in the midst of plenty rather than feed themselves. I have, however, kept isolated specimens for three months by giving them a slave for an hour or two a day to clean and feed them; under these circumstances they remained in perfect health, while, but for the slaves, they would have perished in two or three days."

THE BEST REMEDY FOR Diseases of the Throat and Lungs.

AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL. In diseases of the pulmonary organs a safe and reliable remedy is invaluable. AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL is such a remedy. It is a scientific combination of the medicinal principles and curative virtues of the finest drugs, chemically united, of such power as to insure the greatest possible efficiency, and uniformity of results.

It strikes at the foundation of all pulmonary diseases, and is adapted to patients of any age or either sex. Being very palatable, the youngest children take it readily. In ordinary Coughs, Colds, Sore Throat, Bronchitis, Influenza, Clergyman's Sore Throat, Asthma, Croup, and Catarrh, the effects of AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL are magical, and multitudes are annually preserved from serious illness by its timely and faithful use. It should be kept at hand in every household for the protection it affords in sudden attacks. In Whooping-cough and Consumption there is no other remedy so efficacious, soothing, and helpful.

Low prices are inducements to try some of the many mixtures or syrups, made of cheap and ineffective ingredients, now offered, which, as they contain no curative qualities, can afford only temporary relief, and are sure to disappoint the patient. Diseases of the throat and lungs demand active and effective treatment; and it is dangerous experimenting with unknown and cheap medicines, from the great liability that these diseases may, while so trifled with, become deeply seated or incurable. Use AYER'S CHERRY PECTORAL, and you may confidently expect the best results.

It is of acknowledged curative power, and is as cheap as its careful preparation and fine ingredients will allow. Eminent physicians, knowing its composition, prescribe it. The test of half a century has proven its certainty to cure all pulmonary complaints not already beyond the reach of human aid.

PREPARED BY DR. J. C. AYER & CO., Practical and Analytical Chemists, Lowell, Mass. SOLD BY ALL DRUGGISTS EVERYWHERE.

Fun and Fancy.

A corn dodger—a man who avoids wearing tight boots. Young man, don't pay the minister over $20. You will need all your energy the first time Helms put her diaphanous arms around your 12-inch neck and tries to trade off two kisses for a spring bonnet.

When Fenderson heard the cannon yesterday afternoon he asked: "What's that?" "The Governor taking his seat on the Common," he was told. "Thunder!" exclaimed Fenderson; "does he always sit down as hard as that?"

A conversation was overheard at Margate between two children who were playing on the sand together. The small boy said to the little girl: "Do you wish to be my wife?" "The little girl after reflection, said, "Yes." "Then pull off my boots," said the boy.

"Let us play we were married," said little Edith, "and I will bring by dolly and say, "See baby, papa!" "Yes," replied Johnny; "and I will say, "don't bother me, now. I want to look through the paper." Children have strange ideas of grown folk's ways, now, don't they?"

"I declare," exclaimed Fogg at the dinner table to-day, "this is the most affectionate pie I ever saw." "A affectionate pie!" cried everyone at the table, including the landlady. "Yes," said Fogg; "the upper and lower crusts are so affectionate that they couldn't get anything between them."

"Ah, dearest," sighed the young man, kneeling at the feet of his ownest own, "doest thou know what all outward things is nearest my heart?" "Really, I can't say," she replied, "but if you have any regard for your health in this changeable weather, I should think it was a flannel shirt." She was too practical, and it broke the engagement.

An Austin man started in the lively stable business last week, and the first thing he did was to have a toy sign painted, representing himself holding the reins by the bride. "Is that a good likeness of me," he asked of an admiring friend. "Yes it is a perfect picture of you, but who is the fellow holding you by the bridle?"

"That man is a phrenologist. Pat." "A phrenologist?" "Phat's that?" "Why, a man that can tell, by feeling of the bumps on your head, what kind of a man you are." "Bumps on me head, is it?" exclaimed Pat. "Begorra, then I should think it would give him more of an idea phat kind of a woman me wife is!"

A little girl was promised by her grandmother her gold watch and chain when she should die. The child appreciated the delicacy of the situation, but after some hints her grandmother was prevailed upon to show her the watch.

"I wonder," said the little one to her mother, as they were leaving the grandmother's house, "if I shall get the watch in time to wear at the funeral."

Justice North is becoming noted among English judges by his peculiar ways of asserting the dignity of the court. He lately astonished a lawyer in the crown court at Manchester, who was reading a paper, by saying that he must leave the court if he wished to indulge in the newspaper. The man put away his paper at once. Then the judge cried out, "Leave the court!" The man departed accordingly. This incident reminds the London journals of the vice-chancellor's remarkable order to a bald man, whose misfortune interfered with the official's comfort. The sunlight was reflected so vividly from the polished surface of the offender's head that the vice-chancellor's eyes were afflicted, and man was forced to retire. Severity with judgment was illustrated in the direction to remove a barking dog from the court room. The wrong animal was seized by the officer, and the magistrate exclaimed: "No, not that dog. I have been watching him all day, and I will say that a better behaved little dog never entered a court of justice."

Phosphatine is a wonderful thing, yet so natural, so reasonable. Why? If you have feelings of goneness; too weak and dragging to rally; too nervous to sleep; an appetite hardly sufficient to keep body and soul together; headache, with pains across the back; the whole system relaxed; perhaps coughs and sore lungs; and will use one to six bottles of Dr. G. L. Austin's Phosphatine as the case may demand; it will not fail to make you an enthusiastic friend. Why do we say this? Because Phosphatine supplies a want, the very properties the system is lacking, and nutriment instantly converted into blood, bone and tissue. It is also delicious to the taste. Try it. The result is as certain as that cause and effect go hand in hand. All druggists, Lowden & Co., Sole agents for the Dominion, 55 Front St. East, Toronto.

The mob at Mt. Vernon, burnt the city marshal's house and beat his deputy terribly in revenge for an attempt to close the saloons on Sunday.

Household Hints.

A good plum cake is made as follows: Beat up one pound of butter and one pound of sugar, the whites of eight eggs and the yolks beat separately; half a gross of nutmeg, two teaspoonfuls of ground cinnamon and two ounces of candied orange and lemon peel are added and three pounds of flour are then added and beaten up to a light batter for a whole hour to make the cake light. This cake is baked for three hours and makes a good cake for New Year's or a Twelfth Day cake. Icing can be added if desired.

DOUGHNUTS OR FRIED CAKES.—Make a batter of flour, eggs well beaten and sugar and add a few caraway seeds. Have ready a pan full of hot lard and drop into it large spoonfuls of the latter, for the batter may be made stiff enough to stamp out into rings, or made into flat cakes, which are cooked in the hot lard until browned. When taken out, a little white sugar is sifted over them.

MINCE PIES.—A pound of lean, tender beef and two pounds of suet are chopped fine; three pounds of currants, three pounds of pared apples and a half pound of candied lemon are chopped fine and added the juice and grated nutmeg and a quarter of an ounce each of mace and cinnamon pounded fine. A pint of good cider and a glass of brandy are also added and the whole is well mixed. Pack into a stone jar to keep.

SAUSAGE MEAT.—Two part of lean pork and one part of fat are finely chopped; for three pounds of meat add two teaspoonfuls of salt, one of pepper, two of minced sage and a teaspoonful each of mace and nutmeg. The seasoning is evenly mixed with the meat, which may be packed in jars and covered with melted lard to keep.

Macaroni is made as follows: Remove by scalding the skins of half a pound of the best almonds, and pound them to a paste in a mortar or bowl, with two tablespoonfuls of water flavored with vanilla essence; beat up the whites of 8 eggs to a froth; add a pound of fine sugar and mix evenly with the almond paste. Drop it on tissue paper in small rounds and bake 20 minutes.

RICED CAKES.—Beat up 8 ounces of butter to a cream, add the whites of 7 eggs, well beaten, then a pound of sugar, then the beaten yolks of the eggs; lastly beat in a pound of ground rice very thoroughly; drop on a baking tin, sift sugar over the small cakes and bake 20 minutes.

GINGER CAKES.—Beat up 4 ounces of butter with four ounces of sugar, add one ounce of ground ginger, and the yolks of 4 eggs, well beaten. Add flour to make a fine paste, roll out very thin and bake 20 minutes.

OATMEAL GINGER CAKES.—Mix fine oatmeal with sufficient maple syrup or common molasses to form a stiff paste; adding 2 ounces of ginger to the pound of oatmeal; roll out thin and bake half an hour.

FRENCH ROLLS.—Rub two ounces of butter into 2 lbs. of flour, add 2 well-beaten eggs and half an ounce of German yeast cake, or 2 teaspoonfuls of fresh yeast in half a pint of new milk; beat up to a stiff batter and set it in a warm place to rise for one hour; then, without kneading, drop it on tins in round or long rolls and bake 15 minutes.

Words of Wisdom.

God is better served in resisting a temptation to evil than in many formal prayers.—[William Penn.]

There is nothing greater than the name of Christ, but nothing more to be feared than to bear it unworthily.—[Quenel.]

Patient, trusting humility is the crowning Christian grace; but for the want of it, how often has Jesus occasion to rebuke us!

Look upward and onward. We learn to climb by keeping our eyes, not on the valleys that lie behind, but on the mountains that rise before us.

An apostate soul may die, an apostate church may die, but somewhere on the earth the glory of the Lord will abide.—[Morgan Dix.]

Of all religious thought, none is so important as the right thought of Christ. What we think of him underlies all true spiritual life and hope. What do we say that he is?

Once more and finally: God is given us his word not only for our sustenance, but for our stimulation. Not only does it enlighten the eyes, but rejoices the heart.

Middle Life.

"It is a solemn thought and feeling connected with middle life," says the late eloquent F. W. Robertson, "that life's last business is to begin in earnest; and it is then, midway between the cradle and the grave, that a man begins to marvel that he let the days of his youth go by so half-enjoyed. It is the pensive autumn feeling; it is the sensation of self-sadness that we experience when the longest day of the year is passed, and every day that follows is shorter, and the lighter and feebler shadows tell that nature is hastening with gigantic footsteps to her winter grave. So does man look back upon his youth. When the first gray hairs become visible, when the unwelcome truth fastens itself upon the mind that a man is no longer going up hill, but down, and the sun is always westering, he looks back on things behind, when we were children. But now there lies before us manhood, with its earnest work, and then old age, and then the grave, and then home. There is a second youth for man bettet and holier than his first, if he will look forward and not backward."

The Doctor's Last Happy Resort. EVANSVILLE, Ind., Jan. 11, 1882. I recently had a very difficult case of Consumption. I treated it in the most scientific manner possible, but to no effect; patient grew gradually worse. Rather than give up, and as a last resort, I decided to try one of my former patients. Greatly to my surprise, the patient began to gain, and in a much shorter time than I dared to expect, she was completely cured.
