Best Food in the World is Good Homemade Bread, Made of BEAVER FLOUR

When you bake the bread yourself, and know that anything you put in is as good as "Beaver" Flour, then you have a product that cannot be equalled.

Bread made of "Beaver" Flour will nourish and sustain you longer than any other one article of diet.

Bread, made of "Beaver" Flour, is the least expensive of wholesome foods. The cost of living becomes a very reasonable cost, when you make the principal part of every meal this good home-made bread.

You can eat bread, made of "Beaver" Flour, three times a day for a lifetime, without wanting a change. This shows it's good for you.

All this is true because "Beaver" Flour is a blended flour. It contains exact quantities of nutritious, full-flavored Ontario Fall Wheat blended with a little Manitoba Spring Wheat to give added strength. Western Spring Wheat Flour is too strong and flavorless to make real home-made bread or good pastry. Ontario Fall Wheat makes the best flavored and finest pastry flour in the world and, with a little Spring Wheat added for strength, makes the ideal Flour for both bread and pastry.

"Beaver" Flour is not like the woman who can only make one kind of cake or one kind of fancy pastry. "Beaver" Flour is like the attractive, capable, clever housewife who can make Bread, Rolls and Biscuits—Cakes, Pies and Pastry—and makes them all equally well. Isn't this the kind of Flour you want? Then order it at your grocer's.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

The footman drew it aside, and at the sight of the portrait of the beautiful woman whom Reuben Vale had loved so passionately and suspected so unjustly, a low cry rose from Nora's lips, and her face grew paler than before. Milly clasped her hands tightly.

"Nora! it's—it's—"

"Yes, Miss Lester, it's Miss Vale's mother," said the old housekeeper, solemnly. "It was carried here the day—"

She stopped in confusion.

Mr. Lester came into the room at the moment.

"You girls still exploring?" he began, then he glanced from the picture to Nora's face, down which the tears were trickling. "I know why the other side gave in so quickly and quietly," he said under his breath. "I sent him your portrait, my dear, and they had only to compare it with this to see how strong our case was. Don't cry, my dear, and—and I think

"I would come away now."
"It—it must not be left there," said Nora, almost inaudibly. "I should like—"

She could get no further; but he understood her.

"Go now, both of you," he said. "I will give instructions for its removal to a worthier place."
"It's the image of our young mistress," said the housekeeper. "I saw the likeness the moment she entered the hall last night; and now you are here, sir, perhaps you would look round; there might be something else Miss Vale would like taken out."

He nodded and looked round thoughtfully, then he examined the old boxes and tried his keys in the locks.

Half an hour afterward he appeared in the drawing room, where the two girls were sitting, with a cedar case in his hands, and with a grave smile, laid it before Nora.

"I have been exploring, too, my dear Nora," he said. "Can you guess what it is I have got here?"

Nora shook her head. Her eyes were still moist. The spirit of the mother whom she had never known seemed hovering over her.

He lifted the lid of the box and tilted it toward them. Milly uttered an exclamation of amazed delight, and even Nora looked startled.

It soaks right in and cleans out the stopped up, inactive kidneys, dissolves and drives out the uric acid and other poisonous impurities that lodge in the

There, in a heap, as Reuben Vale had left them the day he showed them to Vane, were her dead mother's gems.

Nora looked at them through mist. Priceless as they were, the diamonds and rubies and pearls, she would have given them all, together with Vale Hall and everything it possessed, for one touch of her mother's hand, one kiss from her lip.

"Take them away for to-day, papa," Milly whispered. "They are wonderful—wonderful—and some other time—let us go up to our rooms, Nora, dear."

When they came down to dine the portrait which had been hidden so long behind its curtain smiled at them from over the huge fire-place beside that of Reuben Vale, and Nora never afterward passed through the hall without pausing and looking up with loving sadness at the beautiful face whose eyes seemed to pou down a benediction upon her.

On the days the rain held up, the two girls drove out, and gradually visited the whole estate.

They drove in a dainty but serviceable phaeton, drawn by a pair of pretty but quiet ponies, and before very long the tennis and the mangers grew to look out for and welcome the appearance of the "young mistresses" and her friend.

It was generally known that Nora had once lived not far from the mansion which she now owned, and the people, being acquainted with the vague outline of her story, came to regard her as a kind of heroine.

"They never look at you without seeing a halo of romance about your head, dear," Milly remarked.

At first, with the reserved characteristic of the western people, they were rather stand-offish with her, as if they were on their guard and waiting to see what sort of a person the new mistress was likely to prove; but before very long they thawed under Nora's smile and the gentle regard of the sad eyes, and not only the women and children, who were the first to be vanquished, but the rough men themselves, were eager to get a word and a smile from "our young lady." They were quick, too, to recognize that beneath the extreme quietude of her manner there dwelt a spirit which res as full of fire as their own.

"She's no mouse, our young mistress," said one old miner, when the gang were discussing her. She had not driven past the mouth of the mine, and had pulled up to exchange a word with them as they sat smoking their after-dinner pipes. "She's no mouse, for all her soft and speery ways. There's a look in her eyes that's like old Reuben Vale's. I wouldn't like to anger her; you'd see them brows of hers come down and them eyes of hers flash like the old man's used. Some'tat has happened to the lass to cast her down, but the spirit's there, boys, though it may be sleepin' as you may say. And she's strong, too—just like the old man. Did you notice how she lifted Willie's child just now? He went up in her arms and over her head as if he'd been a bag of feathers; and there's more puddin' than feathers in the young 'un."

"Ay, ay!" assented one of the men "I remember her skimming from rock to rock, down there on the beach below the Caldron, like a young goat, as lissom and as strong. Lawks alike! I little thought when I seen her there, with her hair all a-flyin' and the rain droppin' off her, that she'd come to reign at the Hall. It's a strange world, my sonnies. I rub my eyes sometimes when I look at her, and wonders whether she really was the girl as used to live up there and help us run a cargo. Hab!" he drew a long breath. "It's a strange world, indeed, my sonnies, and full of contrariness. Little did old Reuben think that his own daughter was livin' up in the cliffs there like a young eaglet."

"I wonder whether she remembers it?" said the first man, ruminatingly. Did she remember the Witches Caldron and the old days. She never spoke of them, never alluded to the past in any way, and soon people began to forget the story of the wild girl of the smuggler's hut, and almost to doubt if Miss Vale and she were one and the same person.

After a while the county families and neighbors—if a person who lives at least six miles off can be called a neighbor—came to visit her; came with not unnatural curiosity, and went away with surprise and amazement. They expected to see a shy, shrinking, underbred girl, embarrassed by the splendor of her new surroundings, and haunted by an ignominious past. They found, instead, a perfectly self-possessed young lady with a lovely face and a graceful form, and that indescribable air of reserve and unconscious dignity which quite matches, if it did not surpass, the visitor's own.

In youth one learns quickly, and, in truth, Nora had rapidly become accustomed to the grandeur of Vale Hall, and the fact that she was a millionairess. She had inherited Reuben Vale's self-reliance, and pride, as well as his money, as the shrewd old miner had observed.

The visitors went away much struck by her beauty and grace and self-possession, and would have been very friendly—some of them were quite prepared to gush—but they found it difficult to get on with the young mistress of Vale Hall. It was evident that she did not want to be made much of or gushed over, and that she preferred to live quietly with her bosom friend, Miss Lester, and was quite content to find her amusement in driving about the country with the little cripple, or riding—very often unattended—the black mare, which she sat with the ease and grace acquired by her in the old days, when she caught and rode, bare-backed, the ponies of the moor.

SAVORY ROASTER.

Our many customers who had the pleasure of examining and trying our sample of this very useful household article will be pleased to hear that we have just received a shipment, so that all orders can now be filled. What is a Savory Roaster? It is such a good thing that it must be seen to be properly understood. A Savory Roaster is a Pan for roasting meat; but it is more than this, it is a self heater. No torment or burning your fingers removing it from oven to baste the meat. You simply place your roast of meat in the roaster, close the pan—trouble no more about it until it is cooked. The meat is really steamed all through. None of the nutritious properties of the meat can escape. It is a marvel and the price is within the reach of everybody, $1.50.

The "Ritual Murder" Case.

(By H. Sacher, in the Daily News and Leader, London.)

On Oct. 8 the trial opened at Kiev, of Mendel Bellis, a Jew, on the charge of murdering a Christian boy, Andrew Yuschinsky. The trial might be a commonplace criminal affair, but for one circumstance. The indictment specifically alleges that the boy was murdered by a Jew in obedience to Jewish religious doctrine so that his blood might be used for Jewish ritual purposes. After much hesitation, and in the teeth of the weightiest legal opinion, the Russian Government decided to put this charge in the indictment, and so to bring the most terrible of accusations against a whole nation and its religion.

The history of the blood libel is a long tale, but one must go back to the middle ages for a precedent to this formal and public identification of the State with it, and even then the medieval ritual murder trials were usually the expression of local fanaticism, ignorance, or greed, commonly reprobated by the central authority. If Russia has secured for herself this evil distinction the responsibility rests with the Tsar in person. The Black Hundreds and the Anti-Semites generally agitated for the conversion of the Yuschinsky murder into a grand ritual murder process which should damn the Jews for ever, but it was the authority of the Tsar which compelled obedience to the agitation.

The Story of the Crime.

The indisputable facts in the case are few and simple. On March 25, 1911, Andrew Yuschinsky, an illiterate child, went to school and was not again seen alive. Early in April his dead body was found in a cave outside Kiev. It bore the marks of a large number of wounds. On August 15, Mendel Bellis, a Jew employed at a brickkiln, was arrested. Some children declared that they had seen a black-bearded man come out of the brickyard and seize Yuschinsky. That is all the evidence against Bellis, who protests his innocence, and who indeed, so far from being a pious Jew with a peculiar interest in religion, regularly worked on the Sabbath. Nevertheless Yuschinsky has already become a martyr under the auspices of reactionary members of the Duma, high clerical dignitaries, the Tsar; even a mass has been sung in the Kazan Cathedral for the repose of the "martyr."

That the poor lad was murdered there is no doubt. That there is no evidence against Bellis worth the name is also pretty generally admitted. Assuming the innocence of this unfortunate man, who has lain in prison more than two years under this terrible charge, what hint is there of the real criminals? Here, again, there is no certainty. But it is known that the boy Yuschinsky was playing with on the morning he disappeared in the son of a woman whose house was the home of a gang of criminals, with whom Yuschinsky associated; and it has been suggested that these scoundrels murdered the boy from fear that he might betray them.

The "Expert" Evidence.

The evidence which encouraged the Government to pronounce the crime one of ritual murder is of two kinds—that of an "expert" on forensic medicine and of an "expert" on theology. The medical expert, Professor Sikorsky, in an opinion which reads like a comic parody, declared the nature of a wound points to ritual murder. This opinion has been condemned by the greatest authorities on forensic medicine in Russian Europe as fantastic nonsense. The original theological "expert" admitted that he himself knew nothing about the subject, but he had gathered from conversation with Jewish sect which practises ritual murder. The particular sect hit upon for the ing revived, on almost each occasion with the torture and massacre of hapless Jewish men and women. The anti-Semitic movement in the nineteenth century saw the charge revived for the benefit of modern civilization—at Tisza-Eslarsh 1882, Xanten in 1891, Pölna 1899, and Konitz in 1900. Emperors, Kings, and Popes have condemned the libel, but the malignant zeal of Jew baiters has proved too strong for them, and to-day an Emperor, a Russian Emperor, it is true, takes the lead in exhuming this foul superstition.

Quo Vadis?

("Whither Goest Thou.")

"Quo Vadis," George Kleine's magnificent production of the masterly Cines photo drama which crowded the Astor Theatre in New York City and broke all records at Philadelphia, Chicago and Boston, continues to do so in all other cities where it is being presented. It is glowing tribute to the finest achievement of the world has yet known in the field of photo-drama and serves to illustrate the marvellous hold this form of entertainment has on the public and the enormous possibilities for future development.

That tremendous soul or magnetism with which the brilliant, Sienkiewicz invested his novel, is retained in the photo drama reproduction and the audience is almost as much swayed by the camera effect as by the words of the novelist. The arrangement of the picture is perfect, relating the story in sequential detail, and, by the use of the slightest imagination, the auditor has no difficulty in following and understanding it. The pursuit of Lygia by the young patrician Vinitius, is so thoroughly human, it has a strong appeal to everybody, and when his earthly passion is glorified through his conversion, the young man has everybody's sympathy in his trials. It is the immense human interest of the photo drama that has as much as anything to do with its success. The spectacular features are wonderful: the burning of Rome, the pageantry of the court of Nero, the games in the Arena and the devouring of the Christians by the lions, all have their thrills, but to young and old it is the big love story that lingers longest in the memory.

Mr. George Kleine's production of "Quo Vadis" will be the attraction at the Casino Theatre for one week, commencing Nov. 10th, with matinee Saturday.

If Meals Hit Back And Stomach Sours.

"Pape's Diapiesin" ends indigestion, Gas, Dyspepsia and Stomach Misery in five minutes.

If what you just ate is scouring on your stomach or lies like a lump of lead, refusing to digest, or you belch gas and eructate sour, undigested food, or have a feeling of dizziness, heartburn, fulness, nausea, bad taste in mouth and stomach, headache, you can get blessed relief in five minutes.

Ask your pharmacist to show you the formula plainly printed on these fifty-cent cases of Pape's Diapiesin, then you will understand why dyspeptic troubles of all kinds must go, and why they relieve sour, out-of-order stomachs or indigestion in five minutes. "Pape's Diapiesin" is harmless; tastes like candy, though each dose will digest and prepare for assimilation into the blood all the food you eat; besides, it makes you go to the table with a healthy appetite; but, what will please you most, is that you will feel that your stomach and intestines are clean and fresh, and you will not need to resort to laxatives or liver pills for biliousness or constipation. This city will have many "Pape's Diapiesin" cranks, as some people will call them, but you will be enthusiastic about this splendid stomach preparation, too, if you ever take it for indigestion, gases, heartburn, sourness, dyspepsia, or any stomach misery. Get some now, this minute, and rid yourself of stomach trouble and indigestion in five minutes.

Nickel Theatre.

The entertainment at the Nickel Theatre last evening was very largely attended and everyone was delighted with it. The pictures were bright and interesting and were excellently arranged, while the singing was also of a high order. This evening there will be a change of programme, which will include four full reels of pictures never before seen here. An extra good show will be put on at to-morrow's matinee for the children.

Casino Theatre.

The above house was packed again last night with a most appreciative audience, who were greatly interested in watching the famous picture of "The Battle of Waterloo." The picture will be here for the balance of the week and has proved to be an instantaneous and successful production from the first. The orchestra is also to be commended.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 6. The entire State Militia of Indianapolis has been ordered out by Governor Raistoun, on account of the street car strike here. The Governor has also announced that he would declare martial law.

ALLAHABAD, India, Nov. 6. Nine ringleaders of an abortive plot, recently discovered, against the reigning Amir of Afghanistan, have been executed at Kabul, the capital of that country. The conspirators were blown from the mouths of cannon.

SYDNEY, Nov. 6. The Dominion Coal Company's steamer Charles of Bridgeport, due at Montreal on Tuesday, has not been heard of since she sailed from Sydney on Saturday. She should have signalled Home Point 24 hours after leaving Sydney.

Cable News.

Special to The Evening Telegram. BERLIN, Nov. 6. The newest German battleships Kaiser, and Koening Albert, and the cruiser Strassburg have been ordered to leave Germany in December for South American waters, visited the German West African Colonies on their way. The cruise will be intended as a test voyage, but the warships, as is pointed out by the newspapers here, will evidently be available for service on the Mexican coast, if necessity should arise.

German naval circles regard this South American cruise as an evidence that the Anglo-German tension is disappearing, as this is the first time a battleship has been detached from the North Sea fleets since the naval rivalry between Germany and Britain became acute.

FRIDAY, November 7, 1913.

Magnificent Records.

After a record delay, which extended from Oct. 30th to Nov. 7th, the Twillingate count was at length declared this morning. It shows a magnificent victory for the Opposition team. The three candidates have polled a record vote for Twillingate District. As a team they have polled a record vote for any district, either at this or at any other general election. Sir Robert Bond has also polled a record vote ever given to any candidate at any time. In 1909 the vote stood:

Bond	2531
Clift	2592
Roberts	2498
Goodridge	1297
Milley	1204
Woods	1090

The Poll as declared this morning is as follows:

Bond	3481
Clift	3427
Jennings	3397
Milley	887
Temple	734
Yates	698

It will be observed that Sir Robert's majority in 1909 over Mr. Goodridge, the candidate who led the Tory team, was 1,324. At this election Sir Robert's majority over Milley's vote is 2,594. In other words he has almost doubled his majority. Not only is this so, but each one of the team has secured a greater majority over Milley, the leading Tory, than Mr. Blandford secured over the leading Liberal in Bonavista, in 1909 and even that was a record. Then Mr. Blandford's majority over Mr. Giles was 2,496. The majorities over Mr. Milley are as follows:

Sir Robert Bond	2591
Mr. Clift	2540
Mr. Jennings	2512

In face of these records in Twillingate District, the extraordinary success of Mr. Coaker and his colleagues, and the great victories won in Trinity Bay and at Fogo. It will amuse our readers to read the letter published in the Daily News, five days before the General Election:

FROM THE NORTHWARD.

Editor Daily News.
Dear Sir,—Having just returned from down north, it gives me the greatest possible pleasure to be able to state that from my own personal observations, most of the reports coming to The Telegram and The Advocate regarding the Coaker-Bond meetings have been grossly exaggerated or in some cases manufactured out of whole cloth.

I had gone expecting to find that Coaker still retained a considerable measure of strength and popularity, but I really found that he is not nearly so strong as he was a couple of years ago. Many of the Fishermen have voted him out, and his action in handing the Union over to Bond has lost him hundreds of his members.

There is no longer such a thing as a solid Union vote in those districts where Coaker was formerly. The People's Party candidates in Bonavista have lost little of their strength, and their majorities will be substantial. The Morris trio in Trinity are making good headway and Twillingate will surprise those who fancy that Bond is impregnable there. The man who is confident for the People's Party, is making no mistake.

—TRAVELLER.
St. John's, Oct. 25th, 1913.

It will be seen that not one of the three Tory candidates secured one-third of the vote given to Mr. Jennings, and they have lost the whole of their nomination fees.

Another curious feature is that the total aggregate votes of the leading Tory candidate at the last three General Elections is 39 below the vote secured by Mr. Jennings on October 30th.

We congratulate Sir Robert Bond, Mr. Clift and Mr. Jennings on the result.

SIR ROBERT'S VOTES IN TWILLINGATE.

Sir Robert's votes in Twillingate, since his first election in the District, is as follows:

1897	1865
1900	2207
1904	2425
1908	2639
1909	2621
1913	3481

J. A. CLIFT'S VOTE:

1900	2044
1904	2267
1908	2550

Gulf Fleet.

It is said that the following will comprise the sailing fleet to prosecute in the Gulf next spring—Neptune, Southern Cross, Viking, Kite, Seal, Erik and Terra Nova. Whilst the latter two vessels are new to engage in the Gulf there is really only one addition to the fleet as the Erik takes the place of the Labrador.

Byron J. Sold

A. J. Roberts, a well-known merchant of Newfoundland, is spending a few days in Glace Bay and vicinity. On his return he will take with him one of the best horses in Cape Breton, namely Byron J., the fast pacer owned by Billy Scott, of New Aberdeen, this horse having been purchased by Mr. Roberts on Saturday. Byron J. has made a lot of friends among horsemen in Cape Breton, and they will be given one more opportunity of witnessing him perform before he leaves Cape Breton. He is entered in the 2.25 class at the Sydney races on Thursday, and judging by the speed he has displayed on the track here should win first money. Horsemen here will wish Mr. Roberts every success with Byron J. in the Ancient Colony.—Glace Bay Gazette.

ACCIDENT IN MILL.—Mr. Sidney Davis, of Glovertown, B.B., met with a very painful accident, while working in a mill down there recently. One of his hands got caught in the machinery and was badly crushed. He came in by yesterday's train, to enter the General Hospital.

FIRE ALARM.—Last night the Central and East End Fire Companies responded to a call from box 233 and proceeded to Hayward Avenue, where they found a slight fire in the house of Mr. Wm. Christian, caused by soot igniting in the chimney. The fire was extinguished before any damage was done.

MAY BE HARBORED.—Considerable anxiety is felt at Bay Roberts for the safety of a schooner which left here on Sunday morning for that port. She had 28 persons on board, and as she had not arrived up to late last night, their many friends have become alarmed. The weather has been so boisterous of late that it is quite probable the vessel has harbored on the way.

SIR MARTIN PROBISHER died 1594, aged 59. The first Englishman to attempt a north-west passage to Cathay. He distinguished himself against the Spanish Armada and died from a wound received while aiding Henry IV. of France.
LAST EXECUTION at TYBURN, 1783. After this date executions were carried out outside Newgate Prison. Disgraceful scenes generally accompanied these executions, people making the event a kind of holiday, and in 1868 an Act was passed prohibiting public executions.

A Volturino Survivor.

Brought to Halifax Tries to End Her Life.
New York, Oct. 28.—Suffering with a fever following the terrifying experience when she was rescued from the steamship Volturino that burned at sea recently, Miss Martho Novik, 19 years old, escaped detention in the hospital ward at Ellis Island to-day and flung herself into the bay.
Anna Olson, nurse in charge of the ward, was looking out of the window and caught a fleeting glimpse of the girl as she leaped from the seawall. She hurried to the wall and jumped in after the girl. Both women were struggling in the water when they were rescued by James Lee, day superintendent of the hospital.
When the Volturino was afire at sea and the excitement attending the taking off of passengers in lifeboats was at its height, Miss Novik was directed to slide down a rope over the side of the Volturino into a boat. She became hysterical, but managed to keep her hold half-way down the side. Then she let go and fell into the water. She was rescued by one of the seamen.
With other passengers, mostly women and children, Miss Novik was taken to Halifax and then sent here on board the Florizet. Since the night she was picked up out of the sea, she has been ill.

Burning Steamer Sinks.

The steam Refrigerator, Alcona, which was referred to in yesterday's Telegram as being on fire at Woods Island, has sunk, a message to that effect having been received by Mr. H. LeMessurier, Deputy Minister of Customs, yesterday afternoon. The Alcona was owned by the Gorton Pew Co., of Gloucester, Mass. She was 1199 tons gross, and was built at Gibraltar, Michigan. She could steam, eight knots and could carry a million and a half pounds of frozen herring.

Schr. Strikes Entering Harbor.

The schooner Union, Capt. John Cranney, struck the cliff near the southern entrance to the Narrows, about 9 o'clock last night. The vessel was beating into port, and at the place mentioned, mis-timed and crashing into the rocks carried away her bowsprit. After the impact, the schooner "fell off" into deep water, and it was observed that she was making water rapidly. The pumps were set going and had to be worked continuously to keep her free. Distress signals were then shown, and the Tug Company responded, and towed the ship to port, arriving at 3:30 a.m. The vessel was fish laden, and neither the cargo nor the hull was insured.

Models of Patience.

"As a study in hobbies the model engineering exhibition now opened in the Royal Horticultural Hall, Westminster, is of unusual interest and illustrates in striking fashion the way in which busy men spend their spare moments," says the Daily Mail. A Wanstead butcher has built a North-Eastern Railway express locomotive, a London policeman a steam launch, an Ilford tramway car driver a medical galvanic battery, a Norfolk corn merchant a racing yacht, a London insurance clerk a traction engine, a Bristol grocer a waterplane, a Surrey surgeon a crane and an Aberdeen hotel proprietor a marine engine and boiler.

Trade Union Hens.

"The results of the experiments at the Ideal Home Exhibition in Olympia as to the influence of electric light in stimulating the egg production of hens have exceeded expectations," says the Evening News. "Mr. Cook, the poultry fancier, of Orpington fame, arranged a competition between five hens which retired to roost at sunset and five others induced to work overtime by the presence of electric light."

The S. S. Durango leaves Liverpool on Monday next for this port.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram. CHICAGO, Nov. 6. As the result of the showing made in the elections on Tuesday, when the votes of the recently enfranchised women are said to have placed 18 out of 24 municipalities voting in the dry column, 300 cities and villages in Illinois will hold Local Option elections next spring. This was the statement of Scott McBride, State Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. Under normal conditions, McBride said, as the vote of Tuesday shows, the women will be 3 to 1 on the side of Dry. The organized property proportion should be 4 to 1.

Tramp Dredge In Port.

The dredge Hopper No. 64, arrived in port to-day short of coal. She was twenty-three days out from Southampton, bound to St. John, N.B., having met heavy weather, consequently her coal supply ran short. Word was received that the dredge Hopper No. 63 left Southampton the same time, met the same weather and, no doubt, would soon put into this port on a similar mission to her consort.

See If The Child's Tongue Is Coated

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, it is a sure sign that your little one's stomach, liver and bowels need a gentle, thorough cleansing at once. When peevish, cross, listless, pale, doesn't sleep, doesn't eat or act naturally, or is feverish, stomach sour, breath bad, has stomach-ache, sore throat, diarrhoea, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" and in a few hours all the foul, constipated waste, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of its little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

A shipment of Florence Barclay's new book, and a shipment of "The Outlaw," by Hennessy, all bought by the above mentioned circle of readers almost before it was known outside that they were to be had. Now we have:

Nobody Ever Does.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

her family were of grape fruit. "I don't think it would be good," said she. "Why not?" said I. "Well, nobody ever does use grape fruit for a flavoring," said she with an air of having completely settled the matter. Now, to be sure, grape fruit may not be a good flavoring but I don't think that fact proves it, and the next time I make gelatine I am going to find out for myself.

As I said before, there are times when the fact that "nobody ever does" rests on the foundation of some unmountable obstacle, for instance, on a trip to Jamaica a friend of mine had planned to bathe in the Caribbean Sea at Kingston. When he asked his fellow passengers about the bathing they all said, "It may be good. We don't know. Nobody ever does bathe there." When he reached Kingston he investigated further, before giving up his project and found out the reason that nobody ever did bathe was that the bay was full of sharks. Needless to say, he was quite willing to give up his bath.

But you will notice he gave it up, not because nobody ever did, but because of the obstacle that stood behind that phrase.

And that to my mind is the right spirit. If an apparently feasible thing is never done, don't assume that it is therefore undesirable to do. Try to find out why. Quite often there will not be any why, and that is your chance to be a pioneer and find out something for yourself.

Household Notes.

Kerosene quickly applied is an excellent remedy for burns and will prevent a blister from arising.

To whiten finger nails and improve the hands, cut a fresh lemon in two and rub in well at night.

Black stockings will always keep a good color if after washing they are rinsed through blue water.

Lacquered brass can be cleaned by washing in hot water and a little soap may be added if necessary.

To mix a mustard plaster so that it will not blister the patient use white of egg to mix instead of water.

A piece of beeswax tied up in a rag to rub quickly over the bottom of a hot flatiron will keep it smooth.

A soft rag dipped in lemon juice and then dipped in silver whitening will be found excellent for cleaning piano keys.

Cover your pillows with a bastedon pillow case of old muslin, which will protect the ticking from head stains.

Do not put milk into art glass tumblers. Milk clouds glass so that its original brilliancy cannot be restored.

Always boil a new clothes line before using it. This prevents the line from stretching and makes it last longer.

Vells are kept in good condition by dipping them in alcohol several times and hanging them up indoors to dry.

Apply glycerine to a scald directly the accident occurs, and cover it up with strips of rag soaked in glycerine.

If mixed with milk instead of water, mustard will not get dry, but will keep nice and fresh until it is all used up.

Better paint the pantry shelves with white enamel. It is cleaner and more lasting than paper and it is very attractive.

Coffee is a fairly good air purifier, and a little of it burned on hot coals will purify a sick room and do away with bad smells.

A teaspoonful of sugar added to the water for basting meat will give it a rich brown color, and the flavor will be much improved.

When cooking liver and bacon, get a sour apple, slice it very finely and add it to the gravy. This will impart a delicious flavor.

Scratched silver may be improved if rubbed well with a piece of chamois leather which has been rolled into a tight bag and dipped in sweet oil.

To clean an enamel bathtub, wipe it dry, and then rub it with a cloth dipped in turpentine and salt. Afterward wash it with clean warm water.

Why Scotsmen Succeed.

England's Interior Education is Alleged as a Reason.

Harold Spencer, in a recent London News says:

The vivid pen picture of English private schools given to the House of Commons by the Minister of Education, have come as a shock. Dothey boy Hall, it seems, still flourishes in our midst, and the work of Dickens requires to be done over again.

Matthew Arnold pointed this out with all his power a generation ago, and the story has been since repeated by many brilliant writers and critics. But the English people are deaf, and in hundreds of cases parents prefer to send their children to these schools even when there are the very best free public schools round the corner. Bad education seems somehow always to consort with "gentility."

But now certain remarkable signs are appearing. The boys from the council schools, profiting by a thorough training at the most impressive years are invading our secondary schools and universities, and compelling the middle classes to look the facts in the face. The other day ten council school boys appeared as wranglers at Cambridge. I am informed that in many of the secondary schools of the L.C.C. winners of scholarships often rapidly take the lead of the middle-class children.

At the universities the public schools still keep an iron hand over the sports, but in matters of education they are often beaten by boys from the grammar schools and the council schools. It is clear that a great crisis in education is approaching. The middle-class parent will have to wake up if he and his offspring are to avoid defeat in the struggle. A national comparison reveals the same facts. In secondary education England is far behind both Scotland and Wales. The higher education of Scotland, stimulated by the great boon of the Carnegie trust, is moving steadily forward both in the schools and in the universities.

The result is seen by the fact that the unhappy English boy, though born of a stock certainly not less gifted, is too often beaten by the Scots boy in the competition for all the higher offices and posts, both of learning and business. The attitude of the middle class in England is, indeed, one that exceeds wonder. They pay the education rate, but in nine cases out of ten they refuse to avail themselves of it. They actually pay in order that their children should receive a far worse education than the working classes receive without paying another penny.

Exhausted with the expense of paying for bad schooling they often find themselves, at the critical moment, unable to start their children in life. Thus they lose the one great financial handicap that they have over their working-class competitors. Meanwhile, these parents are too often unnecessarily obsessed with the middle-class habit of sending their children away from home—a habit produced by the lack of good secondary schools evenly distributed throughout the country. By sending their children away they lose control over their lives and they sacrifice all influence over their character.

And then they are surprised to find that at the age when life is opening to their children they have lost all parental control, and have not even obtained any superior educational value.

Canoeing.

Canoeing is one of the grandest and most beneficial of outdoor sports. By its means the devotee is not only able to fill his lungs to capacity with fresh, clean air every day, but to soak them in water once or twice a week throughout the summer. Canoeing requires much strength in the wrists and also a level head. Any man who is a good tight rope walker can navigate a canoe with success. Experts in the art speak scornfully of the prevailing belief that canoes are tipsy and must be balanced. They declare that a canoe is safer than a steamboat, but when a man who cannot swim strikes gaily out in one of these temperamental craft they call him an idiot in a loud and harmonious chorus.

Canoes are made of thin wooden ribs covered with canvas, and sit on the water as lightly as a feather. It is a magnificent sport to swing gently from wave to wave in a 16-foot canoe, steering it deftly hither and elsewhere with a broad blade paddle, and ever and anon coming to the surface with a loud snort and pumping out the craft by seizing it in both hands and skilfully flipping fifty gallons of water from its insides.

Experts disagree as to what is the best stroke for practical canoeing, but a great many canoeists are using the trudgeon with considerable success.

Real canoeists scorn to navigate in plain water, preferring the kind that is adulterated with rocks and trout to an extensive degree. After a canoeist has mastered his craft he usually takes it north to the headquarters of some disorderly river and after packing fifty pounds of frying pan and bacon, wrapped up in a blanket, in the bow he careers down stream through rapids and over waterfalls for a few hundred miles. Whenever he dodges a rock it counts one for his side. Whenever he hits one he swims ashore and chalks up one for the river, as soon as he had dived for the frying pan.

Other canoeists are still more adventurous. They prefer to rig up a sail and skim the lumpy lake for miles and miles. Those who have managed a small canoe with a large sail in a brisk breeze with the nearest life preserver many miles away, decline to get awe-stricken over Blodin's feat of walking over Niagara Falls on a wire cable.

Canoeing develops the muscles and courage and also gives the student thereof a beautiful bronze complexion on the shoulders and arms. Canoeists are also contented men. They are not continually clamoring to Congress for a $10,000,000 appropriation to deepen the Mississippi. Give them a tea-cup full of water arranged slantwise over a mossy rock and they are happy and content.

The Horse's Vacation.

I'm going to have a vacation; I don't know where it will be; I know it's away from the city; And that is enough for me.

They say I shall roam in pasture; And roll in the fresh green grass; Where neither street cars nor autos Can terrify me as they pass.

I'm going to leave the harness; I'm going to caper and run; Perhaps I shall have companions To join me in my fun.

I shall dip my nose in the water Of a brook that sings its way; Through this wonderful, sweet, green pasture Where I for a time shall stay.

There are trees with wide-spreading branches; To shelter me from the sun; Rushes that I can nibble When weary of frolic and fun.

I shall sleep at night in the open; With stars shining over my head; The air blowing fresh in my nostrils; And the soft grass for my bed.

Good-by to the hard city pavements; Where the scorching sun beats down; To feed bags and stuffy stable— I'm going away from town.

I'm going to have a vacation The first one I've ever had; Out in the country I'm going; Do you wonder that I'm glad?

Ponderous Personages.

SIR WALTER RALEIGH. Sir Walter Raleigh is the world's greatest example of what can be accomplished by politeness. Born in 1552 in a peculiarly unhealthy time, owing to the general hostility prevailing, he eked out a precarious living by fighting and discovering until about 1608, when he returned from America with the price of a few weeks' board and lodging in his pockets, and while walking on the palace grounds discovered Queen Elizabeth hesitating before a muddy spot where the lawn sprinkler had flooded the vicinity.

Sir Walter had only one manie and owed his tailor for that, but he did not hesitate. Hastily removing it he laid it on the mud and begged the Queen to walk over it. She did so and while Walter hastened to the cleaners through the alleys the Queen went back to her palace and appointed him gentleman-in waiting, discoverer extraordinary, Imperial poundmaster, second assistant postmaster-general and congressman from seven districts. She also sent him a new suit of clothes.

Sir Walter Raleigh was now a made man, but he did not bask in society and spend his time idly driving his racing car over the common people. He continued to explore and discover with great zeal and soon became so well acquainted with America that he would find the site of New York City in a few months from any given point without a guide. He colonized several southern islands, but owing to the promptness with which the colonists died, volunteers ran out and he had great difficulty in selling enough town lots to fund the city of Raleigh, North Carolina.

Sir Walter led a busy life for fifteen years, helping to put the royal kibosh on the Spanish Armada and fighting up and down the map of the world with great energy to the intense disgust of Spain. He discovered tobacco and introduced it in England, but was not guilty of rolling cigarettes. All would have been well for him if Elizabeth had not died. Her nephew, who took over the stock, fixtures and good will of the Empire, looked coldly on Raleigh and declined to fall for the coat game or any other form of politeness. He stuck Sir Walter into prison where the latter lived for thirteen years writing poetry and books and feeling for his head each morning nervous as he awoke. Finally he was released because of some skillful press agent work concerning some of the king's mines in Guinea, and burned a Spanish town to show his gratitude. However, the Spanish ambassador was a friend of the king's, and this proved his undoing. He was tried for murder, arson, malfeasance in office, treason, and on suspicion of being a suffragette and was beheaded October 29, 1617, with great éclat, going through the ceremony with a grace and courtesy which endeared him to all.

Sir Walter was a perfect gentleman through all his life to all except Spaniards, and deserved a better fate.

Conn. Isiah Morrison, of Queensbury, gave his dogs an expensive meal quite accidentally a few days ago. Varicose Veins and Itching Piles Usually Arise From Same Cause—Relief and Cure Effected by Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Nearly everybody knows of Dr. Chase's Ointment as the most effective treatment for piles or hemorrhoids that medical science has been able to compound. So much suffering and misery arises from this ailment that one is not long in telling his friends when he has found an actual cure. This accounts for the enormous sales of Dr. Chase's Ointment. Many suffer from this trouble not knowing the comfort to be obtained by the use of this great soothing ointment.

Mrs. B. J. Evans, 157 Munro street, Toronto, writes: "We have used Dr. Chase's Ointment for years. I have been troubled with varicose veins, and find it the only thing that gives relief. For every purpose when a soothing, healing ointment is needed there is nothing so good as Dr. Chase's Ointment." 40 cents a box.

The Income Tax.

I am always coughing up, it seems to me; there's the tax upon my bow wows, two or three; and I have to ship a crate of my money to the state, and the poll tax makes me hotter than a bee. And the city needs my money for its game; and the country comes along and climbs my frame, crying, as it wields its ax, "You must pony up your tax," and the while dodged business is a shame. For it's money that I work so hard to get! Every nickel means a bucketful of sweat; and my gauds and my marks go to fatten up the sharks who are holding down the offices, you bet! And the final blow is coming down etsons; it will make our boastful freedom look like prunes, when our nery Uncle Sam, the original I Am, puts his hand into the voter's pantaloon. And he'll take your little wad and count your scads, and he'll confiscate the dollars of your dads, saying "I require the same, to conduct my little game"—then you'll be a mighty mournful bunch of lads. And his motive—if you do not see its drift—is to penalize all energy and thrift; to the prudent man he cries, as he robs him, "You'd be wise if you didn't earn this cash for me to lift!"

The Fall of Pompeii.

There was a good house at Rossley's last night. The Dora Patterson trio in a new act; Miss Arkandy, the clever young English vocalist, was heard to great advantage in a beautiful song, entitled "We have much to be thankful for." The new pictures brought out on the s.s. Digby, are splendid subjects, many big features among them. Jack Rossley is making arrangements to have the nine reel feature film, "The Fall of Pompeii," one of the most wonderful photo plays ever seen. It has been seen at Marcus Lewis Broadway Theatre, New York City, for four weeks. Mrs. Rossley has commenced training the city children for a big production at Christmas, and it will be both novel and surprising; a beautiful little Fairy story, dramatised by herself. She has engaged a larger number of people than last Christmas. Every costume will be new and in keeping with the story.

S.S. KYLE.—The s.s. Kyle will sail for Labrador ports on Wednesday, Nov. 12th, at 1 p.m.
