The Broken Circle!

CHAPTER XXI.
"Most likely," answered Sir Arthur, briefly again.

The duke went on in his usual amiable manner, making very mild and pointless comments, which elicited but monosyllabic replies.

"I see you are busy," said his grace. "We will discuss the question more fully after dinner."

Sir Arthur groaned as his friend went out. "Now surely I shall remain uninterrupted," he thought.

Fate was against him this morning, for the fourth time the door opened. It was Leah who now appeared. She was in her favorite colors of amber and white, with creamy roses at her throat. She did not observe the screen, much less wonder if any one were behind it. She knew it was a favorite recess of her uncle's, but she was not thinking of him. He recognized the gentle footstep, but her presence did not disturb him—he loved her too well, and he was accustomed to it; he did not think it necessary to tell her he was there.

For ten minutes there was almost complete silence. He could hear the sound of Leah's pen. She was writing rapidly. Then suddenly the door opened, and Sir Arthur's smothered groan was lost in the voice of the speaker.

"Shall I disturb you Miss Hatton?" It was Sir Basil who put the question. "I am in trouble, from which a lady alone can release me."

"I am glad you sought me," she said. "And for the first time the general was struck with something peculiar in the tone of her voice as she answered him. "What can I do for you?" she asked.

"There is an old proverb which says that a stitch in time saves nine. Will you make that first stitch now, and save the nine hereafter, Miss Hatton?"

"Of course I will," she replied; "Where is the stitch needed?"

"In this driving-glove," he replied; "the button is nearly off. Would you be so kind as to fasten it?" Leah laughed blithely.

"Certainly," she said, as she took the yellow driving-glove that he held out to her. "Will you excuse me one minute while I find needle and thread?" she added.

She went away, leaving Sir Basil looking over an open volume that lay upon the table.

"I hope," thought the general to himself, "that this good fellow will not find me out and begin to air his ideas on Indian politics to me."

But Sir Basil was in happy ignorance of the general's proximity. He read a few lines in the open volume, hummed a favorite air to himself, and then Leah returned.

"I am sorry to have kept you waiting," she said. "I will release you now in a few minutes."

The slender fingers soon accomplished their task. She held out the glove to him, and as she did so, her eyes fell on the spray of stephanotis that he wore in his coat.

"Your flower is faded," she said. Let me give you another. I have a superstition that it is unlucky to wear faded flowers.

"By all means replace it, if you will be good enough," he responded.

She took the spray of stephanotis from him, and laid it upon the table. From one of the vases she chose a beautiful moss-rosebud, fresh as the dawn, and fastened it in his coat for him.

He thanked her briefly, stood talking to her for some few minutes, and then went away.

Sir Arthur, looking over the screen, was about to thank Heaven that he was gone; but no word came from his lips—he was stricken dumb.

What was she doing—his proud, beautiful niece—whose love no man had been able to win, whose smiles had been sought as a priceless boon? She had never seemed to care for love or admiration, for lovers or marriage. She had moved through the brilliant world like an ice-queen. What was she doing?

She had taken the withered flower in her hands, and was kneeling down by the table and covering the faded spray with kisses and tears.

"Oh, my love," she sighed, "my love, if you only loved me! But I am less to you than the withered flower you have thrown away."

The general would have spoken then and have let Leah know that he had overheard her, but surprise and wonder kept him silent. He saw her kiss the open volume where Sir Basil's hand had rested.

"I shall die," she sobbed, "just as this flower has died, and just as far from his heart! Oh, cruel world! I have asked but for one thing and it has been denied me. I wish I had never been born. Oh, my love, why can you not love me? I am fair enough for others, why not for you? I can win other hearts, why not yours? I would give my life for your love!"

The low smothered sound of her bitter sobbing mingled with the song of the birds and the whisper of the wind; it smote the heart of the old soldier with unutterable pain. He had rescued her from what he thought a shameful life, adopted her, and given her his love and protection; he had made her heiress of his vast fortune; and this was all that had come of it, this was the end of all his hopes for her. She was wearing her heart and her life away for a love that could never be hers, or at least, that was not hers. From the sight of the kneeling figure, the clasped hands, the proud head so despondingly bent, the general turned with tears in his eyes.

"If I could but die," she said to herself, "and be at rest; if I could but sleep and never wake; if I could but hide my love, and sorrow and pain!"

He was tempted to go to her, to take her in his arms and try to comfort her, but a sense of delicacy forbade him. She was so proud and sensitive, what would she think or feel if she knew that he had possession of her secret? Yet the bitter long-drawn sob, fell on his ear and tortured him. He could not help her. He would not for the world let her know that he had overheard her; so he laid down his newspaper and passed noiselessly out through the open window on to the lawn, and not until he had walked some little distance did he feel at ease.

"I would not have her guess that I have been a witness of that scene for treble my fortune, poor child!" he murmured.

This was her fate—brilliant, beautiful, worshipped and wretched. This was the love he had never appreciated, never even understood. How strong, and deep and terrible it must be thus to torment one on whom the brightest gift of earth had been bestowed. He forgot the Indian news—all that had interested and puzzled him. So this was Leah's secret—she loved Sir Basil, and he did not love her!

"Poor child, poor child!" muttered the general. "How distressed she was. No wonder she loves him; he is the finest young fellow I have ever met. Any woman might love him. The wonder is why he does not love her. Perhaps," thought the simple old soldier, "he is like me. I did not understand such things until they were pointed out to me. I should never have proposed to dear Lady Bourgoyne if Major Wratte had not told me that she loved the very ground I stood upon. After that it was plain sailing. It may be the same with Sir Basil. Something must be done. It is a sad thing when girls lose their mothers; it is only women who understand each other. If Doris were here, she would know what to do."

His heart was heavy. He had meant this girl's lot to be so fair, and she was so unhappy. He grew nervous at the thought of meeting her again; but to his surprise, when he saw her at the luncheon table, there was no trace of sorrow on her beautiful face. She looked sadder and prouder than usual, but there was no sign of love-sickness about her.

"Who can understand women?" said Sir Arthur, appealing to some invisible power. They were beyond him altogether.

No Appetite

Nervous exhaustion leads to distaste for food. The nerves of the stomach are weak, digestion fails and you become generally upset and out of sorts.

The secret of complete restoration is in getting the nervous system fully built up.

Mrs. R. Cheney, 208 Richmond St., Chatham, Ont., writes:

"I was troubled with indigestion, which caused me many sleepless nights. I would be in terrible distress at times, and would get no relief for two or three hours. For sixteen months I ate nothing but Shredded Wheat biscuits, as I dare not eat anything else. I did not know what to do, as I had tried so many different remedies, as well as doctors' medicines, without gaining permanent relief. Finally I got some of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and within the second box noticed that I was improving. I continued the treatment until I am now fully restored, and have returned to my regular diet. My husband has also taken Dr. Chase's Nerve Food with splendid results, so we are glad to recommend it to others."

De Valera said that if the electorate accepted the Irish-Anglo treaty the position would be that the government in Ireland would have to use its power against any section of the people who rose to achieve the country's freedom. He added, if there is another Easter, it would not be against the British forces and a Foreign Secretary of State the people would be fighting, but against Irish soldiers.

To Dismantle Cape Ray Wireless Station.

Evidently the wireless station at Cape Ray is unnecessary or not a paying affair, as it is the intention of the Marconi people to dismantle it. Capt. John Barushett, the well known mariner of Grand Bank, Nfld., arrived here recently, and will await the arrival of the necessary apparatus with which to take down the plant at the Newfoundland promontory, when he will proceed to Port aux Basques where he will secure the necessary help to finish the work. The apparatus will then be forwarded to the Pacific Coast, where it will be installed by the Marconi Company. The dismantling of the Cape Ray plant will mean much more work for the North Sydney wireless station, which will now handle all reports from the Gulf. —North Sydney Herald.

Tremendous Story At the Nickel.

VIVIAN MARTIN IN "THE SONG OF THE SOUL."

The Nickel theatre presents to-day a photoplay that will not soon be forgotten. The picture is entitled "The Song of the Soul," and the leading of which is taken by the winsome Vivian Martin. A remarkable love story, involving a beautiful blind girl and a young man terribly scarred through an accident, is the basis of the film. Picture a beautiful girl totally blind, lost in the midst of the vast maze of the Everglades of Florida. At the point of exhaustion, she is rescued by a man, whose face terribly disfigured, has made him a recluse. Later they wed. He finds that an operation could restore the woman's sight. The husband feels that if his wife were to see him, she would turn from him. Her sight is restored—this is the story up to the final climax, which perhaps, has never been equalled in dramatic intensity. Mr. Henry G. Kelly, a famous Baltimore comes to the Nickel this week, direct from an American concert tour. Watch for the opening announcement.

Telling the Tale.

When revenues are collected from the people of a country, they are supposed to be spent—at least in lands under the British flag—in giving back returned benefits, and towards the general advantage and progress of the population in the avenues of trade, commerce, education and general industry.

penses) of ten thousand, seven hundred and ninety-five dollars, eighty-nine cents, ($10,795.89.) Notice again how punctiliously the odd cents appear. The latter patriot not only drew on a grateful country's treasury for this sum, covering about a year's work, but was subsequently given a position in one of the departments at the modest salary of Three thousand, six hundred dollars per annum (Vide Estimates 1922-23). And so the patriots continue to skin the taxpayers. Is it any wonder when the figures which we have quoted, have been paid out in picnic jaunts from which not one dollar of value ever accrued to the Colony, why the Government cannot reduce taxation, and is it any cause for further wonder why the people are paying sixty-five cents out of every dollar they earn to retain such baronies on the ship of state?

The Final Appeal.

To-day's issue of the Telegram contains the final appeal of Padre Nangle for the War Memorial to those of our heroic dead who made the Supreme Sacrifice in the great struggle for the freedom of the world. No need to point out further all that they endured, all that they suffered, all that they overcame in the four years of the most critical history of the Empire. These were men indeed. Bone of our bone, flesh of our flesh, and it would be indeed to our everlasting disgrace if we neglected anything in perpetuation of their undying heroism. For all time their names will stand, an unselfish, patriotic, gallant band of men, who had no thought but of service to the cause for which they gave themselves and their most precious possession—their lives. Their sacrifice was the greatest of all. By as through their immolation on the altar of country they made it possible for those who are left to "carry on."

Interpreting the Law.

COUNSEL CRITICIZES PROHIBITION.

Counsel for the defence in a prohibition case heard before Judge Morris this morning, severely criticized certain prohibitionists. The case was that of a young man who was charged with having liquor in his possession. Mr. W. J. Higgins, for the accused, pleaded not guilty. Constable Curlew, the complainant in the case, said he had found accused drunk and had placed him under arrest. When searched at the police station, a part bottle of rum was found in his possession. This, accused said, he had got on a "script." Cross-examined, witness said he had reported accused's statement. The prosecution was instituted by his superiors. Asked how he interpreted the Prohibition Act, witness said that any man who had liquor in his possession was guilty of a violation of the law. In answer to further questions witness said he had told accused it would have been better if he had drunk it all. Mr. D. Jas. Davies, Government Analyst, said the liquor found on accused was of the same quality as that sold by the Controller. In closing the case for the prosecution, Supt. O'Neill said the police did not desire to interfere with the rights of the people, but it was their intention to put down all smuggling of rum and poisonous liquors and the sale of these at exorbitant prices. For this purpose, a vigorous campaign had been instituted. Accused went into the box and said he had contracted a cold while at the ice, and had obtained a "script" from a doctor. He had taken more of it than he should, was arrested and then discharged. Mr. Higgins said that if the sole object of the police was to clear up "dives," then they were quite right. He then referred to the actions of many supporters of prohibition whom he declared were too good to be seen going into the Controller's, but would get their supplies from dope sellers. There had been absolutely no evidence to warrant issuing of a summons against accused. If every man who bought liquor daily at the Controller's were summoned there would be about 2,000 cases each day. His Honor said that in the majority of cases, men arrested for drunkenness, obtained their liquor in "dives." The police had organized their campaign as a result of this. As there was no evidence against accused, he was discharged.

An Open Letter

To ALL Newfoundlanders At Home and Abroad, By Lt.-Col. Nangle, C. F.

War Memorial Fund Office, G.W.V.A. Bldg., St. John's, Nfld., April 17th, 1922

NEWFOUNDLANDERS.—The campaign to raise funds for our NATIONAL WAR MEMORIAL to be erected in the capital of our country, is now about to close.

I know that we are passing through a period of depression but the majority of our people are in a position to give something, no matter how small, to this fund, even if the giving means depriving themselves of something they really need. Those who gave their lives did not reckon up the cost to themselves when they enlisted. They did not reckon up the cost when they volunteered to launch a rescue boat on a rough sea or to raid the enemy lines. Neither did they regret the step they had taken as

"Lying low In some French village battle glow, They see ere yet their blood is spent The sun set over Heart's Content; Many a sailor lost at sea Sweeping some mined-in channel free, Sees his schooner far away Beating across Conception Bay. AYE, THOUGH THEY DIED ON DISTANT SHORES, THEY DIED FOR THIS, IT'S DOUBLY YOURS."

They made the greatest of all sacrifices, what have you done for them? The Government of this Dominion has done its duty to our dead, and done it right loyally and well by erecting memorials in the United Kingdom, France and Belgium, but the people of this Dominion have not done their duty, as will be seen when I publish the subscription list.

This is your final opportunity. If you can afford only ten cents in stamps send it along. If every person in Newfoundland sent ten cents it would total twenty-five thousand dollars; but ten cents is not the limit. Send such an amount as you think you owe to the memory of our FIFTEEN HUNDRED DEAD. If you are unable to do so, send as much of that amount as you can.

To those who are in a position to contribute and will not do so, I say, in the name of those who "Went West" and whose bones rest in the bosom of the ocean, the mud of Flanders, the fields of Picardy, or the olive groves of Gallipoli,—"KEEP YOUR MONEY." Your small, mean, contemptible souls should go down upon their knees and, with bowed heads and hearts abased, worship Mammon, the god of your hearts, but never claim kinship with the whitest blood of this country which will be commemorated by OUR National War Memorial.

I have the honor to be yours, fellow countrymen,

J. Nangle C.F., LT.-COL.

N.B.—Orders, cheques, etc., should be made payable to the WAR MEMORIAL FUND, and crossed Bank of Nova Scotia.—T.N.

An Open Letter on Railway Matters.

C. Morgan, Esq., C.E., Winnipeg, in the Dominion of Canada, and of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, Chy. Str.—In dealing with the matter of freight and passenger rates, that they are inadequate, because it appears from your statement of the records and accounts furnished you by the Reid Newfoundland Company the receipts from do not appear to defray the maintenance, and operating expenses. Your admission that the records and accounts have not been "verified" must necessarily, I think, lead you to a conclusion that you will admit, raise a doubt as to the correctness of your conclusions. You are sure, can you be sure, if you are not "verified" those "records and accounts" that receipts, which I have properly credited to maintenance and operating expenses, have been so credited? For instance, the numerous freights carried by the railway during the period of construction, for construction purposes, been duly credited to the freight and passenger rates, been so credited?—those under the Railway Contract part of the Railway system, and part of law called upon to interfere with the Railway Contract, I do not determine. You certainly lost sight of the fact that the passenger rates referred to in the contract are not the only rates received by the Reid Newfoundland Company for the operating of the Railway. Now the explanation in most of the cases after the operation of the Railway during the period fixed by contract, the contractor received a very large payment, namely: enormous areas of land, agricultural, timber, and mineral in fee simple; and Eight hundred and fifty thousand dollars in value of lands taken back under the contract. Was that large sum of money duly credited in the "records" accounts? It certainly had been credited to maintenance and operating account. If it had, then you will probably admit that it ought to have been. It is said of a man, busy with his labor problem, that he was "blowing it out in theory, unclouded single fact." Your theory is exact, but what about your facts, all right? Have they been before you? I think so. In fact I am sure have not, and shall prove what is to be correct. It was, of course, said by the grantors of those lands, timber, and minerals, and unclouded by the contractor, that the payment of those resources would should augment the receipts from freight and passenger rates, and thus make to the public moderate for freight and passage during whole of the contractor's term of years. That they have not so credited, is not the fault of the present and people of this Colony, the sole fault of the Reid Newfoundland Company, who, for a quarter of a century, and for some reason known to themselves, have failed to carry out their contractual obligation to convert those resources into cash. Four million acres of the valuable lands in this country held by them to-day in fee simple and scarce an acre of those lands, during the past twenty-five years, has turned into a contributory to the public. The purpose for which those grants were given has been ignored by the contractors, the payment has been flouted, and the lands of this country have been sold by the annual sums that reasonably be expected to result from the settlement and development of those lands. If any of those lands have been converted into cash, timber or minerals from off or without the lands have been turned into cash if the Reid Newfoundland Company themselves have used timber, or other mineral substances taken from those lands have you in the "records" and accounts seen fit for them to operating and maintenance account? If not, then I think again that your postulate as to the rates under contract is an error. I have stated in your Report that the original contract for the operation of the Railway was—"undertaken on the existing Canadian ways, and that it was impossible to expect that operating costs would be kept as low as those of the existing roads, seems not to have understood or appreciated into," the contract was entered into," by it is perfectly clear to me that it was "understood and appreciated" by both parties to the contract. If it were not, then for what reason were Four Million of land, timber, and minerals in fee simple to the contractor? Must have been a consideration of the transfer of those valuable lands. What was the consideration? I have stated my conviction on the matter. What is really new, now that the facts of the case have been brought before ability of the contractors to recognize this obligation, and the failure of the Government of the Colony to apply to the Supreme Court to compel the contractors to perform it, that has brought about the present lamentable condition of Railway affairs that you have had under review. Again, you appear to advance as a postulate, that because the freight and passenger rates over the Canadian Pacific Railway and other large and important railway systems are so much higher than those over the Reid Newfoundland Company Railways, therefore the latter rates should be equalized, or at least increased. People are not usually expected to pay for conveyance on a one-horse, rickshaws, and chaises, the same fare as if travelling by a "Rolls-Royce" Motor Car. The contract between our Railway accommodation, and that supplied by the Canadian Pacific, and the other Railway Companies, you have referred to is pretty nearly, if not quite, as great. (To be Continued.)

The St. George's Coal Fields, Limited.

We wish to advise our Shareholders as well as the general public that since starting our development on the above named area some three years ago, we have uncovered and prospected over FIFTEEN separate SEAMS of COAL, SEVEN of which come well within the range of workable COAL SEAMS, namely:—

Containing
The Howley on the Robinson River	... 4 ft. 2 inches Coal
The Cleary on the Barachois River	... 2 ft. 2 inches Coal
The Jukes on the Barachois River	... 5 ft. 5 inches Coal
The Murray on the Barachois River	... 3 ft. 3 inches Coal
The Murray No. 1 on the Barachois River	... 3 ft. 3 inches Coal
The Murray No. 2 on the Barachois River	... 5 ft. 5 inches Coal
The Tom Diamond on the Barachois River	... 2 ft. 2 inches Coal
Total	... 25 ft. 10 inches Coal

As we are now satisfied we have a Coal property with sufficient Coal in sight to warrant any reputable Company to finance and work on an extensive scale, we have invited Engineers to examine the area during the coming spring.

In order to defray the necessary expenses which must be met, such as keeping the shafts and tunnels on the various sections of the property open and ready for the inspection of engineers and buyers during the coming summer, together with the payment of Government rentals, office and travelling expenses until the property is sold, we are asking your co-operation in the purchase of some additional Shares.

As the risk of speculation in this proposition has been borne by the pioneers we make no hesitation in stating, that the present offering of shares may be regarded as an investment with enormous possibilities.

The area contains 11 1/2 Square Miles containing according to surface measurements of Seams 2 ft. 2 inches and upwards calculated on the basis of 1,000 tons per acre-foot (the very lowest estimate) over 190,000,000 tons, thus guaranteeing enough of Coal to supply Newfoundland with 500,000 tons per year for 126 years in addition to export 1,000,000 tons per year over a similar period. The consumption of coal in Newfoundland at the present time is about 300,000 tons per year.

With regard to the possibilities and future value of this property we would call your attention to the Iron Ore Properties at Bell Island.

When the Dominion Iron & Steel Co. purchased from the Nova Scotia Steel & Coal Co. a portion of the Iron Ore properties at Bell Island for $1,000,000 they based their calculation on 26,000,000 tons of Ore just a margin over 3 3/4 cents per ton, it was looked upon as a wonder. To-day the total holdings of both these Companies are calculated to contain (according to some of the leading Geologists of the world) about FOUR BILLION tons of Iron Ore.

As a NATIONAL ASSET at a valuation of 10c. per ton in taxes and 50c. per ton in labour these Mines are worth to this Dominion about $2,400,000,000 enough to pay off our NATIONAL DEBT about 40 times over.

Coal is the foundation on which Nations are built, no country can be great or ever prosperous without Coal of its own, and as we have proven beyond doubt we have MILLIONS of tons of high grade Coal on our property, we are making this appeal to our SHAREHOLDERS and also to the GENERAL PUBLIC for their earnest support in the purchase of some additional SHARES to enable us to carry through to a successful finish the work so well begun.

As this may be our last appeal and your last opportunity to participate in this venture we would ask you to let us have your application as quickly as possible.

HIS DIARY.

April 15th.—I took some turns in Water St., where it was pretty to see the women, how boldly they do many of them wear their skirts to their toes almost, but a year since they did have them to their knees. All the talk of the town is of the open letter on the railway which is appearing in the Telegram sheet. And some will have it that Mr. H. Knight writes it, and more that it is the work of Sir Robert Bond, and others even that it is by Mr. Morgan. Nor do I think it a hard thing to guess the author of it and he one whom I myself know. Mr. Morgan, that the letter is addressed to, will leave to-morrow, and goes to Canada. I was put to much pain by an article in the Advocate sheet, being that it makes unfair criticism of the merchants and will do it no good. My wife tells me she has bought a gown, price $85; the same which Mrs. Crumlin this day bought also, which I was vexed for a little, though I do not grudge it to her. To the Croisie Hotel, where I met Mr. G. A. England, a writer, that is but new come from the sealshoery. He tells me of his experiences, which he did find most interesting, but would not go another time to the ice. At night, I to the Club, where I pass the time at Bridge and Billiards.

April 16th (Easter Sunday).—A fair frosty morning, as it were the very midst of winter. Comes Mr. Povy to tell me how all relief work was stopped yesterday by order of the Cabal, and God knows what will come of it, albeit, the proper thing to do and should have been done long ago. This will now drive me to the fishery. He tells me also how Mr. Morgan did not leave today, and thinks he stays at the request of the Cabal. Out at night and have supper with friends. So home and to bed.

The Services were attended by very large congregations. The Pastor, C. H. Johnson, M. A., B. D., spoke of the facts of resurrection, and set forth the many proofs of that great event, which means so much to Christianity. At the Evening Service the Pastor spoke of the Resurrection as portrayed in poetry, and gave several selections that were very beautiful, both in description and in the application of the great truths of the Resurrection. The sermon was very suggestive, and was greatly enjoyed by the congregation.

There was a large Choir present, and the music was splendidly rendered. The Soloist was Miss Vincent, who for a number of years has been a member of the Choir, and has rendered very valuable and acceptable work in her rendition of Sacred Song. Miss Vincent purposes leaving for Montreal this week, and will reside there in future, so that yesterday was the last occasion of her singing at Cochrane Street Church. She will be greatly missed. Her host of friends unite in wishing her many years of happiness in Canada.

The Anthem "Unto the Paschal Victim," by John E. West, was finely sung. It is rather difficult Anthem, with much independent work for the various parts, the central section depicting the wondrous strife between Death and Life. The Choir also sang "Worthy is the Lamb," from the "Messiah." They took up the various leads perfectly, and this fine chorus received a good rendering. There was a bright Easter Carol during the Offertory. The congregational singing was splendid. At this church special attention is given to the singing by the people, and they are encouraged to join heartily in this part of the service. The large congregations with the solid well known tunes, sang with volume, and a cheerful gladness in keeping with the festival of Easter.—COM.

Relief Work Stopped.

MEN RESENT BEING PAID OFF.
On Saturday evening some five hundred men who were working at drain digging and snow shovelling were paid off. This morning some of the men, about 50, were given tickets at the Employment Bureau to go to work at the widening of Waterford Bridge Road. The men resent being paid off as they were given to understand that relief work would be found for them up to the end of April. They say the peremptory stopping of the work was not on the score of economy, as the amount to be expended on relief work had already been provided for in the Budget Speech.

An Author At The Ice.

American Writer Describes His Experience on a Sealing Steamer--Pays High Tribute to Newfoundlanders--Hopes to Return Here.

Men of iron, simple and very pious, industrious as ants and good hearted. These are only some of the nice things which Mr. G. Allan England, an American author, who has just returned from a trip to the ice, has to say about Newfoundlanders. "They are one of the finest types of men I have ever seen," said Mr. England to a Telegram reporter who interviewed him at the Crobie Hotel on Saturday, "and they are hampered only by their lack of education."

MOST INTERESTING EXPERIENCE.

Mr. England describes his trip as the most interesting experience in a life of travel. He was sent out here by the big American publishing house of Street and Smith for the purpose of obtaining first-hand information for a novel about the sealers. He was also commissioned by several editors to write short stories and articles for their publications. Upon arrival here, Mr. England interviewed Mr. Eric Bowring and arrangements were made for him to go to the icefields in the Terra Nova. Mr. England thinks that the sealership is the most arduous occupation that could be found. He could not help but admire the spirit of a country which produced men who would engage in such a hazardous and trying occupation, especially when the returns were so small. This spirit, which impels these men to risk their lives in an attempt to earn a bare pittance, will be advertised to the English-speaking world in the novel which Mr. England will write.

GETTING USED TO CONDITIONS.

"It is surprising how quickly civilized man can become accustomed to unusual conditions," said Mr. England. "At first the sight of blood repelled me, but after I had got used to it, I began to admire it. The whole scene was the most colourful I have ever seen. The gleaming blue of the ice and the bright crimson of the bloodstains presented a most spectacular sight. The sunsets and sunrises were beautiful, and the iridescent effects at night were incomparable. A most peculiar phenomenon was the 'loom' which was frequently seen at the edge of the ice." Mr. England made a keen study of the sealers themselves and has many anecdotes to tell of them. One was about a man who had told him that his wife had been asking him for a new set of teeth. In the first place, he said he could not afford them, and in any case, if she had them she would eat too much. Another man did not want to give his wife a new skirt because she would be gadding about too much.

KILLED NO SEALS.

Mr. England did not kill any seals himself, and he said that he was very glad that he had none of their blood on his hands, for they were the most harmless and tamest he had ever seen. He thinks they could be quite easily domesticated. As a further proof of the fact that Newfoundlanders were the most wonderful race physically he had ever encountered, he told how they are very reluctant to seek the aid of the doctor. They endure injury and hardship in a manner quite different from other men. Mr. England made a special study of the many dialects which the sealers made use of. Newfoundland has more dialects to the square mile than any other country," he told the Telegram. He is preparing a dictionary of dialects for the American Dialect Notes Society, of which he is a member, and will publish it upon his return to the States. Mr. England was loud in his praise of Capt. Abram Kean, whom he describes as a splendid type of the old self-made captain. Capt. Kean did all in his power to make his guest's trip a pleasant one. Mr. England is also very grateful to Mr. E. A. Bowring, through whose courtesy he was enabled to make the trip. Mr. England transferred from the Terra Nova to the Eagle, reaching port by the latter ship.

NEW LITERARY FIELD.

In his opinion, Newfoundland opens up a new field of literature. "In fact, he is surprised that authors did not long ago realize the wealth of material that exists in this country, and which has never yet been exploited. He proposes to come back next year and will spend some time upon the West Coast. Mr. England is a man of about middle age and has been writing fiction since his college days. He is a M.A. of Harvard University and a member of many prominent American literary organizations. He has maintained a connection with the publishing firm of which Frank A. Munsey was the founder, since he first entered the literary field. Newfoundlanders will look forward with great interest to the novel in which Mr. England will incorporate his experiences at the sealership. Below will be found a poem which he wrote at the icefields, and which he has dedicated by Mr. E. A. Bowring:

The Sealers of Newfoundland.

(By GEORGE ALLAN ENGLAND.)

Dedicated to Mr. Eric Bowring.

Oh, we be the Sealers of Newfoundland!
We clear from a snowy shore,
Out into the gale with our steam and sail,
Where the mercurial tempests roar.
We battle the foe, as we northward go,
A sturdy, stalwart band;
Through lead and bay we fight our way,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

Yea, we be the Sealers of Newfoundland!
We laugh at the frozen dark,
The wilderness white and stark,
We jest at death at the icy breath
Of the Pole, by the moonlight spanned.
In a wild death-dance we dice with Chance,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

We dauntless Sealers of Newfoundland,
With engines begrimed and raked,
With grouting beams, where the blue ice gleams,
We push through the growlers packed.
With rifle and knife we press our strife,
Who ever shall understand
The war we fight in the ghostly light?
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

The ice glows red, where our skin-boots tread,
And crimson the gleaming floes,
From barrel we "skun" till our race be run,
Where the Labrador current goes.
From sticks we spring to the pans that swing;
By stalwarts our ship is manned,
O'er the blood-red road the sculps are towed
By the Sealers of Newfoundland.

Oh, some may sail with a Southern gale;
And some may fare East or West,
The North is ours, where the white storm lowers,
Wild North that we love the best!
Oh North, we ken that ye make us men;
Thy glory our eyes have scanned,
Staunch men we be, of the Frozen Sea,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

Fearlessly bold, through the stinging cold,
We vanquish the pitiless North,
We make our kill with a dauntless will,
Where the great white cold stalks forth.
Onward we ply where the icebergs lie;
Dauntless our course is planned,
With blood and sweat, scant bread we get,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

Untired, we Sealers of Newfoundland
Press on through the grinding pan,
We labor and muck for a fling at luck,
Each one of us, God! a man!
We cheer at the hawl of the white-coats all,
We labor with brain and hand,
With rope and gale. At the North we laugh,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

Where the old dog-hood and the old harp's brood
Lie out in the growling pack,
We tally our prey--then away, away,
Hurrah! for the homeward track!
Till the glad day's here, when a welcome cheer
Shall guide us, as staunch we stand
On the decks that come to our island home,
We Sealers of Newfoundland!

Easter at Wesley Church

SPECIAL SERVICES, MUSIC AND SERMONS.

This recurring Sabbath was one of the most beautiful, to large congregations, as instead of sorrowing, they remembered the Living Christ. Rev. Mr. Bugden commenced his sermon by speaking from the verse, "Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning." There are occasions of weeping which may reasonably be expected to terminate in joy, but there could not have been much hope in the disciples' mind when they heard that in addition to the sealing of the tomb, there had been a watch set. They sat lonely, weeping, before day break, but when preparing to embalm, found an empty tomb, and her glad news was utterly unexpected by the other women, and by Peter and John, when they hurriedly reported the facts to them. And the empty tomb showed the Conqueror. He could not be destroyed, and through Him we have also a glorious heritage. There is a constant recurrence of evidence that man is eternal; the ever increasing problem is how to adjust the relations that will let him onward. Like the murmuring brook held with an icy grasp, the spring time compels the hold to be loosened, the birds sing happily, the ground becomes alive, the seeds are bursting and the flowers come. And we all react to this optimism, for just as the earth throbs and thrills, longing for a new life, so the resurrection speaks of an immortal life beyond the grave with new powers, beyond conception. An anthem followed, "At the end of the Sabbath, etc." in which Mrs. Stanley Garland took the solo, "Oh death where is thy sting," etc., very beautifully with fine voice.

At the evening service the Pastor delivered another very able sermon speaking on "What Jesus had to say about the future life" Matt. 6-20, Mark 9-48. Both sentences refer to life after death. This twofold thought finds a place in all our Lord's teaching. We cannot delete them from the context nor banish them from our vocabulary. From the parable of Dives and Lazarus we must learn there must be a distinct survival of some part of our personality in the after life. The preacher could not say what it was, it may be memory, and from the Saviour's teachings as to reward, there was additional few talents and an "enter thou into the joy of your Lord" for the one who was useful in service. Jesus also says "I go to prepare a place for you" and speaks of "everlasting habitations," and eternal tabernacles--and to enter them was not to be afraid. He said "Father into thy hands I commend my spirit" and having Jesus for a friend and guide we need not tremble to go through the portal of death.

Another anthem followed "Awake! Awake!" and following the offertory the choir repeated the best of the morning's selections "Now is Christ Risen from the dead" by F. C. Maker, in which Miss Sparks sang the solo very true and sweetly. All the singing for the day was very fine and that glorious hymn "For ever with the Lord" was a fitting close for a day of gladness commemorating the victory and triumph of our blessed Lord over death and the grave. FOR JOINT PARADE, ST. GEORGE'S DAY.

At a recent meeting of representatives of the following City Societies:—British, L. O. A., S. U. F., I. O. O. F., S. O. E., and C. L. B. Cadets, it was decided to hold a joint parade on Sunday afternoon, April 23rd, in honor of St. George's Day. Mr. A. G. Williams, Past District Deputy of the Sons of England, was elected Chairman and Mr. Herbert LeGrow, Secretary. The different Societies will meet in their Lodge Rooms and parade to Gower Street Methodist Church, where they will be addressed by Rev. E. W. Forbes, B.D., and during the service a collection will be taken up for the Methodist Orphanage, after which, headed by the C. L. B. and Band, also accompanied by M. G. B. Band, and drums and bugles of the Boy Scouts, they will parade to Government House and greet His Excellency and request that a message of loyalty be sent to His Majesty the King. After leaving Government House the parade will continue through the city by way of King's Bridge Road, Ordance St., Duckworth Street, Cochrane Street, Water Street, Springdale Street, New Gower Street and Theatre Hill and disband in Cathedral Square. It has been arranged to have the service commence at 2.45 sharp so as to give ample time for the parade afterwards. Mr. K. Ruby was appointed Grand Marshal to look after the parade.

FOR QUEEN'S COLLEGE. — The Easter collections at Heart's Content parish in aid of Queen's College funds amounted to $1200. In addition to this handsome sum about $80. was contributed by the children for the orphanage.

F. SMALLWOOD, The Home of Good Shoes

Horror of the Deep.

name of F. A. Mitchell-Hedges, R. G. S., is rapidly becoming famous as an explorer and big-game hunter. I have just returned having witnessed in the Caribbean Sea some of his battles with hitherto little-known leviathans of the deep. Beyond the imagination of the great cities are the terrible sea weeds, poisonous sea an-mones, sea scorpions, sea spiders are a few of the smaller dangers, but it is when man is opposed in deadly combat with the greater dangers that death in many forms may come momentarily. I have watched with hair on end and the perspiration streaming down me some of these terrible encounters. Here is an example: Fishing just off a coral reef in only four fathoms of water—suddenly there is a tightening of the line—a rush. Mr. Mitchell-Hedges strikes with all his might, driving the hook well home. The line vibrates and the grazy dugout shakes with the shock. "Whip ray?" he tersely remarks. "But handled carefully the fish has to come to the surface, and as the hideous flat brute is gradually worked alongside the dugout, suddenly he roars: "Down—flat down in the bottom, and for God's sake don't move." The fish's great flukes start to thrash the water like a ship's propeller, driving the little boat round and round in circles.

I glimpse over the side, my curiosity overcoming discretion. Suddenly, a thin black, flickering thing like a whip hicks across the boat. Out shoots the fisherman's right hand. "I hold my breath. Missed!" "If it touches you," he shouts, "you are dead, for nothing can save you!" The thrashing continues. Again something strikes into the air. Like lightning his hand again shoots out. "Get a rope around it!" he thunders to the native boatman. "I have the whip." And, with water and foam flying in all directions, this is done.

With his free hand, he draws a gun from his belt and four bullets are fired through the brute's head. There is a frightful convulsion of the water and the boat is nearly overturned, but the steel grip never relaxes its hold upon the deadly tail. Seizing his opportunity, the boatman rises up and strikes with all his strength at the head with a log-wood club, and then at last, quietness prevailing, I breathe more freely.

Now I sit up and take in the full spectacle. There, two inches below where the fisherman grips the whip is the great fish's weapon of defence, fashioned like a saw, about fourteen inches in length, and set in the base of its long, rough tail. I shudder, for he knows that within a few minutes of it touching the flesh one dies in the most horrible convulsions. In fact, the boatman had actually witnessed a friend of his die a terrible death from one of these creatures.

The camera is now busy and ultimately the huge reptilian-looking fish is towed ashore to be weighed and more photographs taken. It would take much more space to give all the encounters I have witnessed with strange and fearful-looking fish, one of which was a colossus that took ten men all their strength to haul ashore—C. H. FRASER, in New York Times.

ty girls and men polite I greeted everywhere; no vicious orgies were in sight, to fill me with despair; no wild carousels in the night disturbed the balmy air. Oh, Hollywood has had her crimes, which no one will deny, and sinful actors have at times consumed illicit rye, or pulled off dice games for the dimes, no peepers being nigh. But here in Pruneville, do we not have deeds of darkness, too? Was no one ever slugged or shot? Does no one make home brew? Does white-robed virtue always trot along the road with you?

Gave Wrong Address.

Editor Evening Telegram—Dear Sir,—The advertisement inserted in the "Post" column of your very popular paper of Thursday, (13th inst.) last issue having reference to three five dollar bills lost at the store of the London, New York, and Paris Association of Fashion of this city and requesting the finder to return same to 147 LeMarchant Road, was an error or wrong information on the part of the inserter. Neither the writer who is occupant nor any present resident of 147 LeMarchant Road has at any time met with any loss at the store of the London, New York, and Paris Association of Fashion. HOLLYWOOD

I made a trip to Hollywood, where movie actors dwell; for quite a while I understood the town resembled hell, that nothing flourished which was good, and evil reigned the bell. "Oh, nothing is good or nice!" To this I had been wised; I look to see all sorts of vice, as widely advertised; if I were murdered once or twice I wouldn't be surprised. But nothing happened while I stayed, to far my saintly soul; no blatant vamps were on parade, no hophead pinched my roll; the dealers sold pink lemonade, none sold the demon Bowl. Each dweller seemed to have some work to occupy his dome; there was no idleness to irk the gent who writes his poem; no Sunday people want to Kirk just as we do at home, and pret-

ARE YOU LOGICAL?

A man friend of mine says he thinks people show the most extraordinary lack of logic in their choice of a home. They go about the thing from a point of view of a business friend of his in an out-of-the-way suburb. When he asked why he happened to settle in an inconvenient place, he had particularly congenial neighbors, or what the attorney answered, "Well, we are for a certain kind of a house we found it there." "I say my logical friend is going at the whole thing from a wrong angle. It seems to me the logical thing is to decide the part of the world you want to live in, then what city, then what house. As pure logic, I call it argument, don't you?" "That's what I mean by logic. You thing about my logical friend? Yes, I have guessed the difference between him and his illogical acquaintance. The latter was married, and he was a bachelor.

When one is a bachelor the kind of house one lives in seems comparatively unimportant. But, when one takes to oneself a wife one sees a new light. And rightly, for since the home is the scene and stage of woman's labor, it is natural that she should lay more stress on the kind of a house it is than man does.

Nevertheless I do think we are a less logical in a great many of our acts than we ought to be. We don't think things out. We don't find out what we want most and then go after it.

How She Learned.

A friend of mine was telling me of her experience in learning to drive an automobile. She found it hard to back the thing "even as you and I" and so, after her first unsuccessful attempt to steer backwards, she went into the house, took her little boy's kiddie car, sat down on it and worked out the principle of the thing. When she next tried backing, instead of muddling about, she knew just what she wanted to do, and how to do it. That's what I mean by logic. You will not be surprised to know that the woman who showed it has been exceedingly successful in getting what she wanted, or at least what she thought she wanted, out of life.

Produce and Provisions.

(From Saturday's Trade Review.)
Codfish—The exports of codfish this week amounted to 14,669 quintals, as follows:—
From Outports—By schooner General Byng 4,936 qtls. from Marystown Trading Co., to Oporto; by schooner Carl S. from Thom. Garland, Gasolite, 1,133 qtls. to Oporto; by schooner General Albany from S. Harris, Grand Bank, 4,538 qtls. to Oporto.

From St. John's—By S.S. Rosalind, 2,712 qtls. from various shippers to New York for transshipment to the West Indies, and by S.S. Canadian Sapper, 250 qtls. in casks and drums for British West Indies. The price of fish is quite now in the West Indian and European markets, particularly in Spain and Portugal, where exporters are getting the best price since the war. The stocks in Oporto are now down to 20,000 qtls. with about 7,000 qtls. consumption for the week. There is also a splendid market in Spain for good fish and the West India prices are the highest for three years. The outlook for the new catch of 1922 is very bright, and the stores here will be all cleaned out by the month of May.

Flour—The Winter wheat crop in the United States will be short. Government Report recently published gives an average of 744 for the Winter wheat crop, as compared with $1 last year. This has led to a stronger tone in wheat circles and since the report was issued the markets advanced three to four cents per bushel. The imports for the week were 1,000 barrels by the S.S. Mapledawn, 800 barrels, and 2,000 bags by the S.S. Rosalind, and 2,000 barrels and 450 bags by the S.S. Sable I, and 3,294 barrels from Halifax by the Canadian Sapper. Windsor patent and other prime brands are quoted at $10.25 wholesale, this week in the local market. Chicago May Wheat covers all this week around $1.31.

Beef—The market in the United States continues quiet and steady, and there is absolutely no change in barreled beef. It is possible however, that the big coal strike may effect the beef situation by summer and interfere with a free cattle movement, thus increasing prices. The imports this week were 747 barrels by the S.S. Rosalind and 100 barrels by the S.S. Sable I, making the total for St. John's today 8,912 barrels, as compared with 4,630 to this date last year. Local wholesale quotations are, $26.25 for Libby's Special Family, $26.00 for Flank, $20.00 for Boe Packet, $20.50 Family Special, and $20.25 to $20.75 for Boneless.

Pork—The imports of pork this week were 52 barrels by the S.S. Rosalind, and 250 by the S.S. Sable I, from New York and Halifax. May option pork at Chicago advanced two dollars this week and there is a strong undercurrent in the United States market. Local prices, however, are unchanged owing to the liberal imports since New Year which are 6,207 barrels to date as against 3,055 last year. Present prices therefore, are likely to rule for some time, viz: Mess $30, Fat Back $28, Ham Butt $31, Family Mess $42, and Spare Ribs $31. The last quoted quality is unobtainable here at present, but some consignments are due from Halifax next steamer.

Molasses—The first cargo of new molasses for the season arrived here this week by the schooner "James O'Neill" to W. A. Mann, from Barbados, viz: 270 puncheons, 24 tierces and 41 barrels. The S.S. Rosalind also brought in 52 barrels to Job Bros. Ltd., last trip. The price of this new molasses which is all "fancy" is 80 cents per gallon wholesale in the puncheon. Grocery molasses it is said will be scarce in Barbados. What is offering so far is five to seven cents cheaper, but is said not to be as good as formerly. The price in Canada is 45 cents per gallon wholesale for fancy.

Sugar—There was a decline in both Raw and Refined sugar in New York last week, to the extent of one quarter of a cent per pound on the former and ten cents per hundred pounds on the latter. The S.S. Mapledawn brought in 900 barrels and 400 sacks this week from St. John, N.B. There is no change in the quotations in the Canadian market, and white granulated, No. 1 is still selling at $6.90 per 100 lbs. The local price is still $10.85 wholesale for this grade. It is rumored to-day that the tariff changes about to be made will include a reduction of the heavy duty on sugar.

Potatoes—Lower prices for potatoes in May are predicted by the United States Market Bureau, principally on the grounds that one-third of last year's crop is still unconsumed. This applies to the Canadian market also. In Newfoundland there are large quantities still held in cellars, but as they are more susceptible to rot and frost it is doubtful whether there will be any considerable quantities to come forward. New No. 1 Florida's are expected to be open and freight rates on oats, etc., from Montreal will be cheaper.

Hay—The demand for hay still continues good and prices at Montreal have strengthened up to $29.00 for No. 2 Timothy in car lots, and to $30.50 in lower provinces. The St. John's market is still quoted at $53.00 to $54.00 per ton for large lots, at the rate of $55.00 to $57.00 for less than a ton, and three cents a pound for single bales. This week cattle were let out to graze here for the first time, and from this time forward the local demand will no doubt fall away considerably. The imports this week were 2,922 bales from St. John by the S.S. Mapledawn, and by S.S. Canadian Sapper from Halifax.

Oats—The price of oats declined this week, both in the foreign and local markets. The St. John's wholesale quotation is now $3.50 per sack for white, and $3.70 for mixed, a falling down of 30 cents per sack, or 5 cents a bushel. The imports this week were 2,922 by the S. S. Canadian Sapper from Halifax, and by the S.S. Mapledawn from St. John, N.B. The week after next the St. Lawrence is expected to be open and freight rates on oats, etc., from Montreal will be cheaper.

Every fellow has his price. Some will sell for yellow gold, some for fame will sacrifice. Honor they should be proud to hold, some a woman's smile will buy, others can't withstand a sigh. I am weak and I give in. To a little reason's grin.

He's my weakness, I confess, He can lead me far astray, He can bind me to success, And the straight and narrow way; Small his hands, but they can hold tighter than the lure of gold, And his lips can speak my name Louder than the voice of fame.

Well I know what I should do, Well I know that I should stand Till my round of tasks is through, Resolute of heart and hand; But I put it all away When he coaxes me to play; Though I know I should deny, Joy, forbidden him, I buy.

He can bribe me with a smile, With his face against my cheek, I who should resist his guile, Find my flesh and spirit weak; Greater power has he than fame, For his love I'd suffer shame, Spurn his wishes, I cannot— He's my vulnerable spot.

C. L. B. Band Concert.

GOVERNOR WILL BE PRESENT.
The Easter Monday Band Concert of the C.L.B. Cadets, takes place to-night and will be under the distinguished patronage of His Excellency the Governor, His Lordship Bishop White and the Prime Minister. The Band has been hard at work during the past month practicing a new series of selections which are bound to please those who hear them. Some of the best of local artists will assist the band in providing St. John's concert goers with a real treat.

Increases the action of the intestines

Hundreds of men and women have already found freedom from laxatives by eating Fleischmann's fresh yeast.

Doctors are now agreed that proper elimination of food should be brought about by food. One doctor comes right out and states plainly that the indigestible waste of cathartics is one of the causes of constipation.

Physicians all over the country are recommending Fleischmann's Fresh yeast because it is a fresh food, rich in those elements which keep the intestines healthy. In one series of tested cases, normal functions were restored in from 3 days to 5 weeks.
