The Imprisoned Heiress

—OR—
The Spectre of Edremont.

CHAPTER III.

She was standing in the full blaze of the chandelier, dressed in garnet silk that fell in heavy folds behind her, trailing upon the carpet, her eyes glowing under her arched brows and her dark hair wreathed with red geraniums, seeming to the bewildered Lord Ashcroft like the embodiment of the light and fragrance that filled the apartment.

There was nothing timid or retiring in her manner as she stood there, playing with a jeweled fan. No queen ever appeared before her subjects with more royal self-possession than the heiress of Edremont did before the guests.

Lord Ashcroft bowed low before her, and with queenly graciousness the Lady Alexina extended one of her white hands, allowing him to clasp it for a second with something of a lover's warmth.

An introduction between the Lady Lorean and Alexina followed, and as they exchanged a few sentences Lord Ashcroft found opportunity to regard the maiden more closely.

She did not come up to his ideal. There was nothing tender or amiable about her, nothing sweet and clinging, and the idol of his dreams had possessed all these qualities, with an ineffable grace that might only be compared to the fragrance of the flowers.

But he did not feel much disappointed.

This beautiful, imperious girl aroused his intense admiration, and he even felt a thrill of pride in believing that her haughty will might bend to his, and that to him she might become the tender, clinging being he had loved to picture.

His thoughts were put to flight by the keen and quiet glance he suddenly encountered from the eyes of the heiress, and he knew that she had been scrutinizing him as narrowly and as thoroughly. He wondered what her opinion of him could be.

It could not be otherwise than favorable, although he was too modest to confess so much to himself. In full dinner dress, as he was, his elegant form was set off to the best advantage, and his spirited face wearied the faintest trace of anxiety, never looked nobler or more commanding.

A conversation upon the commonest topics of the day soon became general, and Alexina's condescending air, and Lord Ashcroft's deferential manner, delighted Lord Egremont, for he read in them the favorable impression each had made upon the other.

But a few minutes passed when a young gentleman sauntered into the room, and was introduced to her guests by Lady Egremont as her nephew, Lyle Indor.

Directly after the introduction dinner was announced and Lord Egremont gave his arm to Lady Lorean, Lord Ashcroft offered the same courtesy to his betrothed, and Lady Egremont laid her fingers lightly upon the arm of her nephew.

Then they passed to the dining-room, where a sumptuous meal was provided. It was enjoyed by all. At its close the ladies retired to the drawing room, the gentlemen lingering in the dining-room but a short time.

Lord Ashcroft would have liked to withdraw with his betrothed to one of the deep window-seats, a little retired from the general company, and converse with her upon subjects agreeable to themselves, but he felt doubtful.

He was, however, about to address some light remark to the heiress, who was in the centre of the group, when Lyle Indor addressed him, thus claiming his attention.

Mr. Indor was older than his lordship, being in his six-and-twentieth year. His appearance was very prepossessing, his countenance having a frank and boyish expression, and his manner being easy and careless.

He had a brown mustache, which he played with frequently with long and tapering fingers that might have belonged to a woman. There was an air of effeminacy about him, which was increased by the quantity and delicacy of his perfumes, his hair and handkerchiefs sending forth the sweetest of odors, and by the handsome diamond ring he wore.

Lord Ashcroft liked him from the moment he saw him, while the Lady Lorean, a strong-minded woman, despised him, calling him in her own mind "a scented popinjay," and "a ladies' darling."

She retracted this opinion before the evening was over, for Indor devoted himself to her, paying her so many delicate and unobtrusive compliments that she took a great fancy to him.

Lord Ashcroft had scarcely replied to the remark of Indor when Lady Egremont exclaimed:

"Lady Lorean has been telling me, Lord Ashcroft, that you had a serious adventure on your way here."

Lord Ashcroft bowed.

"What was it?" asked the earl, with some appearance of interest. "Did your horses get beyond the control of their driver?"

"It was more serious than that," answered Lord Ashcroft, quietly. "I had the honor to be made a target of by some wanderer in the woods."

There was a general stir at this announcement, and the Lady Alexina drew a little nearer her betrothed. He noticed the act, and drew favorable inferences from it.

"How unfortunate that such a thing should have occurred!" exclaimed the earl. "I suppose it was an accident, or the work of some awkward sportsman."

"I think your conjectures are wide of the truth," said Lord Ashcroft, reflectively. "There was something about the occurrence that shows it to have been premeditated. I do not know positively that I was the victim intended, but the hand of an assassin directed the bullet that I narrowly escaped."

"But," said the earl, "what possible motive could there have been?"

"I know of none. My sister suggested that the act was that of a madman."

The earl shook his head, showing that the theory met with no assent from him, and then requested full particulars of the outrage.

Lord Ashcroft replied by giving a lucid account of the affair, describing the obstructions along the road, the assault, and the pursuit of the assailant.

"Did you see the man's face?" inquired Mr. Indor.

"Unfortunately, I did not. He seemed rather stout and disproportionately small. His clothes were dark, and he wore a small black cap. Beyond these few particulars, which attracted my notice as I pursued him, I cannot describe him."

"As you say," exclaimed the earl, after a period of thought, "the act was premeditated! I know of no lunatic in the vicinity of Edremont, and had there been one lurking about, the foresters must have discovered him. The obstructions must have been placed on the road this afternoon, but who could have done it? I shall probe the matter thoroughly. Such an outrage, such a murderous assault, shall not go unpunished."

"I passed over the road this morning," said Mr. Indor, and there were no branches lying across it then. The earl's conjecture that they were placed there this afternoon is therefore true."

"What a pity you did not overtake the assassin," said the earl regretfully. "I would give much to have him locked up. But he shall reach that destination yet, and a worse imprisonment will follow. But I think," he added, "you said you brought away the gun."

Ashcroft bowed, answering that it was at that moment in the corridor.

The earl immediately rang, ordering the weapon to be brought into the drawing-room. The order was obeyed by the footman.

The weapon was deposited upon a table, and the party began to examine it.

It was plain, but well made, and seemed calculated to do excellent service for a long period. There was nothing particular about it, except a small plate riveted upon it. Upon this plate, which was silver, were scratched some initials, which were at length deciphered as being G. K.

"G. K.," said the earl, musingly. "Here is an excellent clue to the assassin; but I know no one whose initials are G. K."

Sensational Story of Zinovieff Incident Told by Lemberg Paper

Chicago Slayer Charged With Another
Serious Offence—Ramsay MacDonald
May Visit America—Irish Boundary Commission Adjourned Indefinitely.

ALMOST SOLID VOTE FOR UNION.

WINNIPEG, Nov. 13.—Church Union received almost the solid support of members of the Manitoba Synod in session here to-day. The vote for the proposed amalgamation was 91 in favour with only 4 dissenting members. Ministers voting in favour numbered 72 with two against, while 19 elders supported Union with four opposed.

COAL OUTPUT RECORD.

GLACE Bay, N.S., Nov. 13.—New high output records were made at the Dominion Coal Company collieries yesterday, the total output for the day being 19,901 tons, the highest since August 6, 1914, when 18,188 tons were raised. No. 2 broke its record yesterday with an output of 4,345 tons. The new mine, No. 2 B, also made a new record, producing 2,729 tons for the day. When opened a few months ago it was thought its limits would not exceed 2,500 tons a day.

MEXICAN DEPUTIES IN SHOOTING AFFRAY.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—Two members of the Mexican Chamber of Deputies were seriously wounded in a shooting affray which came as a climax to a stormy debate in the Chamber last night. Deputy Luis Morones, the most prominent Labour leader in Mexico, was shot through the stomach, while Demopolio Guerrero, an aged Deputy from Zacatecas, was wounded twice in the chest. General Jose Maria Sanchez, former Governor of Puebla, had demanded from the Speaker's stand that Morones retract the charges which he made against Sanchez in a speech last Sunday. He gave Morones the alternative of a meeting of honor, and the Deputy declared the matter settled. Immediately friends of the deputized went into the corridor and shots were heard. The Chamber was immediately adjourned, deputies flocked into the corridor, out into the street and shooting became general. It is estimated that more than two hundred shots were fired before order was restored.

MACDONALD MAY VISIT AMERICA.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Ramsay MacDonald is contemplating a visit to America on a holiday after his hard grind of nearly a year as Great Britain's first Labour Premier, the Evening Star to-day says it understands. Nothing definite has been decided as to the trip, but it is expected the announcement will be made shortly, according to the Star, which adds that while the ex-Premier has received a number of tempting offers, he does not intend to lecture or make public speeches.

CANADIAN WHEAT CROP.

OTTAWA, Nov. 13.—A crop report issued by the Bureau of Statistics estimated the wheat crop at 271,622,000 bushels. This is 20,000,000 less than the last estimate. The final estimates for last year were 474,199,000 bushels.

BESCO NOT TO BE REORGANIZED.

MONTREAL, Nov. 13.—With reference to a report from Toronto stating there was a possibility of the British Empire Steel Corporation being reorganized, an emphatic denial that any such move was contemplated was issued this morning by Roy M. Wolvin, President. Such a plan, said Mr. Wolvin, has not at any time received the consideration of the board of directors.

LABOR M.P. DEAD.

TEIGNMOUTH, Eng., Nov. 13.—Edmund Dene Morel, Labor member of the House of Commons, died here last night. He was a writer and journalist and his work in forming the Congo Reform Association in 1904 largely contributed to the exposure of the rubber horrors in the Congo and resulted in their cessation. He was recommended this year for the Nobel peace prize. He was born in Paris in 1873.

THE FINAL RETURNS.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—With the declaration to-day of the election to Parliament of the members from the Scottish universities, resulting in the choice of the Liberal and two Conservatives, the final state of the parties in the House of Commons in the new Parliament will be as follows: Conservatives, 412; Labor, 152; Liberals, 42; Constitutionalists, 3; others 6. Total, 615.

PRINCESS ENGAGED TO COMMONER.

BERLIN, Nov. 14.—The engagement is announced of Princess Joachim, of Prussia, widow of the former Kaiser's youngest son, to Herr Benert, a Saxon landowner.

SMITH TAKEN TO PENITENTIARY.

TORONTO, Nov. 13.—Peter Smith, former Provincial Treasurer for Ontario, was taken to-day for Port Arthur Penitentiary to serve three years' imprisonment, more or less, as a result of his conviction on a charge of conspiracy in connection with the sale of Provincial Government bonds, while he occupied the office of Provincial Treasurer. Major Basher, Governor of Toronto Jail, and Officer Coburn, of the County Sheriff's staff, were in charge of the prisoner. Mrs. Smith accompanied her husband on the train. Peter Smith smoked his pipe cheerfully as the train pulled out of Toronto. He called for a morning newspaper, as the news agent went through the train. "Want to see how they have white-washed Sir Adam Beck," he said, but added that he did not know anything about that case. Talking to the newspaper reporters, Smith said, in regard to things generally, "I told the truth I would increase the circulation of your newspapers. The prisoner was not in a very talkative mood, however, and addressed most of his conversation to Mrs. Smith.

LABOR PREMIER RESIGNS.

VICTORIA, New Zealand, Nov. 13.—The Labor Premier of Victoria, G. M. Prendergast, resigned office to-day as a result of the defeat of his Government in Parliament yesterday on a no confidence vote and the refusal of the Governor, the Earl of Stradbroke, to accede to his request for parliamentary dissolution.

MURDERERS CHARGED WITH ANOTHER SERIOUS OFFENCE.

JOULET, Ill., Nov. 13.—A suit for $100,000 damages has been filed in the Circuit Court here against Nathan F. Leopold, Jr. and Richard Loeb serving life terms for the slaying of Robert Frank. The suit was filed in behalf of Charles Ream, a taxicab driver of Chicago, who charged that the two mutilated him.

PRINCE'S ASSAULT CONDEMNED TO DEATH.

TOKIO, Nov. 13.—Namba, charged with the attempt to assassinate Prince Regent Hirohito while the latter was driving from the Imperial Palace to the Diet on December 17 last year, was yesterday condemned to death. The trial took place in the Supreme Court, the public being excluded.

FLIGHT OF CHRISTIAN GENERAL.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 13.—A report has been received here from a Japanese source at Tientsin that General Feng Yu Hsiang the "Christian" whose recent coup d'état placed him in control of Peking, has fled.

SERIOUS EXPLOSION IN GRAND RAPIDS.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., Nov. 13.—Two men were killed, one is dying and 12 are injured as the result of a terrific explosion which late yesterday destroyed the loading dock and the receiving room at the main Grand Rapids Post Office with a property damage of $50,000.

IRISH BOUNDARY COMMISSION AT A STANDSTILL.

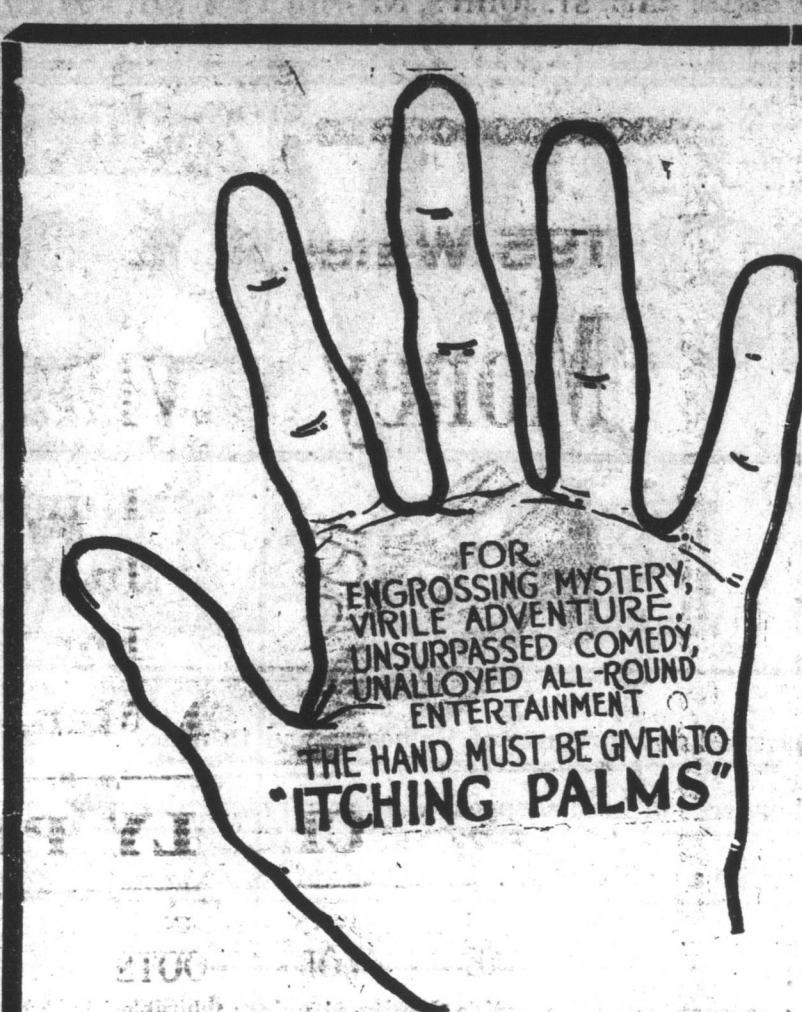

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Irish Boundary Commission's work is at a standstill, according to some of the newspapers, which say it may be necessary to pass another bill through the British Parliament before it can be resumed. The Commission met recently in London, but after two meetings adjourned indefinitely. The difficulty is said to be that the Commission found itself powerless to summon witnesses and cable for documents, while it is also stated that the Commissioners were not agreed respecting the scope of their work. The suggestion now is that these points will have to be cleared up by fresh legislation, but nothing to this effect has come from official sources.

CABINET COMMITTEE TO INVESTIGATE ZINOVIEFF LETTER.

LONDON, Nov. 13.—The Cabinet has appointed a Cabinet Committee to re-investigate the alleged letter from M. Zinovieff calling for increased activities on the part of the British Communists, according to statements in some of the morning newspapers. These reports say the Minister agreed the matter could not remain in the indefinite position in which it was left by the late government, and they decided it was necessary to establish whether the letter was genuine or a forgery. The Government's demand, for an apology. It is believed the Committee's report will be ready for submission to the Cabinet at the next meeting, probably early next week.

STARTLING REVELATIONS BY LEMBERG PAPER.

WARSAW, Nov. 13.—The Lwowka Gazeta, a Lemberg newspaper, usually well informed on Russian affairs, says the alleged Zinovieff letter was divulged by the chief of an important secret section of the Moscow Foreign Office, which directed propaganda in British Dominions. This official, the paper says, left Moscow suddenly about the middle of October, taking with him the famous letter and other secret documents concerning Bolshevik propaganda in the British Empire. His departure spread consternation among the Soviet authorities and attempts were made to catch him at Berlin. He took airplane to London where other agents of the Soviet tried to seize him upon landing, but he again evaded them and handed the Zinovieff letter and other papers to the Conservatives who, the account says, intended to use them in the forthcoming debates in the House of Commons on Anglo-

Don'ts for Lovers

GUIDE TO CONJUGIAL HAPPINESS.
Advice To Both Sexes By "Great Reconciler."

Twenty warnings for girls and young men, which, if needed, will materially diminish divorce, have been drawn up by Judge Thomas F. Graham, famous in California as "the great reconciler." The warnings are the fruit of 30 years' study of the divorce problem and the handling of thousands of divorce and annulment cases. They are as follows:—
Never marry a man who does not read the sports section of the newspapers. Young fellows who profess no interest in manly, outdoor athletic sports are not likely to be interested in anything or anybody but themselves. They make poor husbands.
Never marry a man who plays cards for money. Love for games of chance is almost certain to supplant all other loves, greater than love of home, wife and children.
Never marry a man who says he has no bad habits. He is pretty sure to have a vice much worse than smoking or even drinking.
Never marry a man whose parents object to, unless your parents are most unreasonable. It is court history that 65 per cent. of all elopements end in the divorce courts.
Never marry a man who says he does not care for children. He is an unnatural, selfish man and not to be trusted.
Never marry a man because he is a good dancer. Men who have intelligent feet seldom have anything in their heads.

For a Throat Tickle
you couldn't do better than take—

Never marry a man who detests dogs. If you do you will find he is incapable of loving anything.
Never marry a man who drinks on the sly. If he is not fair and square on that subject he will deceive you and cause you many a heart-break on other accounts.
Never marry a man who speaks slightly of your parents or of old people. He will neglect you when you begin to become wrinkled and grey.
Never marry
Until You Are Old Enough to know what you are doing. Sixteen-year-old brides too often are 17-year-old grave widows.
Never marry a girl who has lily-white hands, when her mother's are calloused and roughened by hard work. That girl will not be a good helpmate.
Never marry a girl who wants you to take her to a "show" every night and is never content to let you "sit up" with her in her own room.
Never marry a girl who keeps her room, or the sitting-room, littered with signed photographs of former or present sweethearts. She is a collector of heart throbs, and she will not stop flirting after she marries you.
Never marry a girl who is ashamed of her parents and does not want you to meet them.
Never marry a girl whose only thought is clothes. If that is the call of her brain she will never be a real wife or mother. She will always be a clothes-hanger and will keep you "broke."

Never marry a girl who insists that you take her to places of amusement that are beyond your means. If she is so thoughtless before marriage she will not bother about your financial affairs after marriage.

Never marry a girl who is immodest in her dress. No man wants to blush because of his wife's appearance, and a girl who is loosely and untidily will kill even the most ardent love.

Never marry the promiscuous kisser. She will cause you lots of grief and heart pangs later on.

Never marry a girl much older than yourself or many years younger. The difference in years will cause many a squabble, and these are the harbingers of separation cases.

Municipal Council

WEEKLY MEETING.

The regular meeting of the City Council was held yesterday afternoon. Mayor Cook presided and Councillors Martin, Outbridge, Collier, Ryan and Dowden were present. After reading and confirmation of Minutes of last meeting, a deputation from the Sergeants' Mess, G.W.V.A., waited upon the Council, and made certain suggestions re lighting of the Monument at foot of Garrison Hill. They stated it was their intention to place an iron railing round same and to erect three standards for lights, and they thought if the Council would undertake to remove the light at the corner of the road, the lights at the Monument would be sufficient for the locality.

Mr. Wells on behalf of the Deputation stated that he would submit plans and specifications, as also figures obtained from the Newfoundland Light & Power Company. This will be taken up and given consideration by the Lighting Committee. Messrs. Duffett, Casey, Wise and other residents of Collier's Lane (off Forest Road) asked that a light be erected in this locality as at present there is no light between Cavell Street and the General Hospital Avenue. This matter will also receive the attention of the Lighting Committee.

An application was read from William Clancy for position as caretaker during the winter season of the Open Air Skating Rink. The Council has no such proposition under consideration.

The application of the Royal Exchange Insurance Company for share of insurance on Municipal property will be placed on file. W. R. Warren, solicitor, on behalf of Jas. Kirby asked compensation, as he stated this man had to retire from work through injuries sustained in the employ. A certificate from Dr. Fallon accompanied his communication. As the Council is not aware of any injuries being received by Mr. Kirby, no action was taken.

W. H. Rose, Springdale Street wrote re the condition of this thoroughfare from New Gower to George's Street, and asked that same attention be given same. The matter is to be inquired into by the City Engineer.

Messrs. Cashin & Coy. complained of the condition of road bed, Bishop's Cove and asked that something be done before the winter season sets in. The Roads Department will attend to same.

Permits.

The following are to be given permits, subject to the approval of the City Engineer:

Harvey & Co., Ltd., to extend Buttrick's Factory.

L. V. Cashin to effect repairs to building formerly "Botwood Hall," Hutchings' Street.

C. J. Fox, to erect a garage, Military Road, on the recommendation of the City Engineer, provided he gives a guarantee to comply with conditions under which permit will be issued.

As regards the application of Thos. Downey to repair buildings partially destroyed by fire some weeks ago, the Inspector General objected to permit being granted, unless the following conditions are carried out:

(1) That the passageway connecting the store on Henry Street and residence on Bell Street be removed and the two buildings disconnected.

(2) That the annex to the Bell Street premises and building to the westward be taken down, so as to leave a clear passage to the rear of Bell Street residences.

This matter was the subject of considerable discussion, and it was decided to withhold permit pending further enquiry.

The Medical Officer of Health reported one new case of Diphtheria and one Typhoid in the City during the past week.

The Sanitary Supervisor, in submitting his weekly report stated that all the men of his department had returned to work and that every effort was being made to clean up the city as expeditiously as possible; that as upwards of two hundred loads of ashes and garbage had been carted to the various dumps during the day; that all the hoppers were cleaned and arrangements were being made to have them flushed to-morrow. He stated that during the strike an agreement had been made whereby the night staff made their usual rounds for collection of night soil. He hoped to have all the accumulations of ashes and garbage taken from the City streets by noon to-morrow.

Statements of Revenue and Expenditure for October 31st were tabled and discussed. The accounts presented were ordered paid.

The meeting then adjourned.

Baffin Land Visitor to the Abbey

(The Daily Express.) Nowabes is in town. And who is Nowabes?

Nowabes is a five-foot, lone Eskimo all the way from Yakaford, somewhere in Baffin Land, where the Polar bear sports himself on perpetual snow.

Nowabes—call him John for short, he is just as pleased—had heard of the great Exhibition at Wembley, so he donned his bear coat, put on his big seal boots, pulled on his heavy by Montreal boat, a shipment consisting of nearly two thousand bottles of

Bricks Tasteless

Have same quantity following next week, and double the quantity the week after, making a total of over

7,000 Bottles

which will be here before the end of November.

BRICK'S TASTELESS is evidently come to stay, it is not one of those "come-to-day and gone-to-morrow" Patent Medicines. It is a good reliable tonic that does its work every time and people who have taken it always take it again when they need a good TONIC and BUILDER.

Dr. F. Stafford & Son

(Sole Agents for Newfoundland.)

NOTE TO DEALERS:—Owing to the manufacturers of Brick's Tasteless having some difficulty in getting their supply of empty bottles in time, they were unable to make shipment to us this week. The shipment first in will hardly be sufficient to fill all the orders we have on hand complete, but the greater portion of each order will be sent out in a day or two and the balance when other shipments arrive next week.

fox cap well down over his eyes, and set sail in his mighty kayak with wings, otherwise the 200-ton Rosie, laden with pelts, for Peterhead.

Captain Pearson, of the Rosie, took Nowabes in hand, and when he landed at Peterhead he was equipped with three magnificent words:

"Yes," "No," "Good."

His real idea of a train will never be known till he returns home to Yakaford. The dogs that pulled the sleigh must have been hounds of Hades. He could not see them, try as he might.

But London! Mr. Nowabes gripped tightly his guide's arm, and stood trembling on the brink of that ever-flowing river of vehicles and men. He was taken across the roads at a run, dodging the invisible dogs that drew the motor-cars.

After various adventures he went to the great temple of the Great White Spirit of the missionary, Westminster Abbey.

He had no interest in the monuments to the dead. John's people do not bother about ancestors. Again his guttural machinery worked, and he explained Baffin Land method.

"Big man he die. No good keep. Put in box. Dig in snow. That's all."

What held him spellbound, though, was a growing tree. You do not see a tree in Baffin Land. Mr. Nowabes was transfixed whenever he saw one.

But he was plucky, was John. He was persuaded to the top of a motor omnibus, and looked on London from this eminence.

He made a succession of gear-changing sounds.

"This igloo," he said, "is tremendous."

A queer-footed beast harnessed to a box on wheels also excited him.

"That," said he, "is the animal you get the milk from."

He was wrong. The thing was a horse, not a cow. It was excusable. The only cow John had ever seen was on a condensed milk tin.

It is a pity John has shed his furs for a reefer coat, trousers with a crease, and a peaked cap that leaves long, straggling black hair sweeping down his neck. He is a laughing babe, aged twenty-seven. He took his roast beef, potatoes and pudding at a Strand restaurant like a perfect gentleman, though, and never asked for a handful of blubber.

Jackie Coogan will be shown at the Nickel and Crescent both on Saturday afternoon.—nov13.21

C. L. B. Cadets

The C.L.B. paraded Thursday night this week at 8 o'clock, and the usual routine was carried out by the officers. The Lt.-Col. was in command and Rev. A. B. S. Stirling duty Chaplain. On the eve of Armistice Day the Officers held a Stag Card Party in the Armoury Gymnasium at 8 o'clock. There were about 80 present playing auction forty-fives and bridge. The prizes—four C.L.B. silver cups, were won by the following gentlemen:—Auction forty-fives: 1st, Dr. A. H. (Carnell); 2nd, Capt. N. Snow. Bridge: 1st, Chas. Grant; 2nd, J. Chas. Phillips. The souvenirs of a jolly evening were officially presented to the winners by Lt.-Col. Rendell in a neat speech of congratulation. This is the second time Dr. Carnell and Chas. Grant have carried off the prizes. "Congratulations."

Trinity East-Port Rexton Company under Capt. Fitzgerald, O.C., reports 47 on the roll for October. Average attendance forty. An examination of N.C.O.'s was held October 9th, and in consequence Corporals Rex and Fowles were promoted Sergeants, and Ptes. M. Ploughman and Fitzgerald have been given Corporal stripes. The company is growing strong and is finding their drill very small, which is a healthy sign. Eight recruits viz., Fred Bannister, Jos. Butler, F. Rex, J. Ryan, C. Rendell, J. Randall, Harvey Pearcey and Samuel Rendell have passed their exams and were posted to the Company. Heartiest congratulations, lads, on your success.

Headquarters hopes that all out-port companies can now arrange to secure the kind help of the medical man in their town in order to instruct all ranks in First Aid work this winter. Books of instruction can be had from the Quartermaster for the use of the lads.

All ranks welcomed Lieut. H. King of Lunenburg Company who visited Headquarters last night. Lieut. King is as keen an officer as any holding the Brigade commission. He has not missed a parade, we understand, in three years.

The annual Anniversary Tea and concert in honour of the Brigade's 3rd birthday will be given to the lads on Thursday, Nov. 20th. Lads will please note the date! Headquarters committee to carry it out consists of Capt. P. B. Rendell and Messrs. Lieut. Hubert Rendell, Sergt. Major Best and the Brigade Major. The ladies will be asked to cater on the lines of previous functions.

The Brigade extends its sincere sympathy to their sister service, i.e., the Girl Guides, in the passing to rest of Lieut. Helen Thompson, of No. 1 Co., Spencer College, whose funeral took place on Wednesday. Lieut. Thompson was one of the first members in Nfld., and a bright pupil, a leader in all College movements with a brilliant future before her, but the Great Commander has ordered otherwise and called her to join her father, whose death occurred just two months ago. Spencer College Guides, under District Commissioner, Miss Annie Hayward and Capt. Nash with some nine officers representing other city companies and Capt. Furlong of the Sea Scouts attended the funeral. At the graveside the Guide "salute" was given. The Guides sent a beautiful wreath made to represent the Guide's Signal, "I've come home." This sympathetic touch was very appropriate. We congratulate Bugler Cook on his sounding the General Salute last night, which shows him to be a past master of that instrument.

Lieut. G. E. Bartlett of Durin Company was a visitor this week. He reports his company going strong with 24 on the roll. Lieut. Wm. Martin, a war veteran, O.C., is drilling the lads in good shape, and although still suffering from war wounds walks some two miles to do his bit for the lads of his company. Lieut. Martin has the real C.L.B. spirit. Corp. Day, Thos. Rose and F. Bugden are his staff, and regular drills are held on Monday in the Parish Hall. We congratulate Rev. J. Meaden and his officers on their pluck and enterprise in carrying on so splendidly.

The staff acknowledges with thanks the original book of records of the founding of the C.L.B. Savings Bank from its organizer, Col. R. G. Rendell, C.B.E. (Reserve), the founder. It is a very interesting book and contains the work of several highly esteemed officers who have since answered the Last Roll Call. Q.

U.S. CUSTOM OFFICIALS MAKE A GREAT SEIZURE.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. Agents of the Customs service have succeeded in breaking up one of the greatest smuggling conspiracies in recent times. It was disclosed last night at the Treasury, where it was said the Customs agents in half a dozen sections of the country in recent months have seized and identified smuggled jewelry valued at more than a quarter of a million dollars.

Jackie Coogan in "Long Live the King" will be shown at the Nickel and Crescent both Saturday afternoon.—Nov. 13.

Tragedy of the Arctic*FOUR EXPLORERS FROZEN TO DEATH.*Discovery of Skeletons.

The veil has at last been lifted from another tragedy of the Arctic.

It relates to the fate of four members of the Canadian Government Expedition of 1913, which, under the command of Mr. Stefansson, set out to explore the uncharted regions of the Arctic.

These four explorers disappeared in a raging storm, and for ten years their fate was enveloped in mystery. Now the mystery has been cleared up by the discovery of four skeletons on Herald Island.

All the indications point to the fact that men were frozen to death.

TEN YEARS' SECRET.

Hopeless Battle With Raging Tempest—Two British Scientists Among Victims.

No explorers ever fought against worse conditions in the Arctic than the gallant men whose deaths are now recorded, viz:

Mr. James Murray, 49, the veteran of the party, who was biologist to the Shackleton "Nearest the Pole" expedition.

Dr. Alister Forbes Mackay, 35, who was also a member of the Shackleton expedition, and reached the South Magnetic Pole.

M. Henri Beuchat, 34, a Parisian, well versed in American anthropology.

Stanley Morris, an American or Canadian sailor.

From the very outset of their adventure they were dogged with misfortune. First of all the Karluk, the vessel in which the expedition set out was wrecked. After this disaster the four men whose remains have just been discovered left Stefansson and the other survivors, and camped on an icepack under the command of Captain Robert Bartlett, and headed for Wrangel Island with sleighs and dogs. They were last seen by one of Captain Bartlett's scouting parties returning to camp. Morris was suffering from blood poisoning. Beuchat's hands and feet were frozen.

The evidence indicated that the men were frozen to death in an Arctic storm which overtook them as they slept the sleep of utter exhaustion round the fire of their camp. The camp was found to be amply provided with stocks of food, states the "New York World" correspondent. A corroded rifle, pemmican, ammunition, a sleigh, and other equipment established beyond doubt the identity of the skeletons. It will be remembered that Mr. Stefansson, who had already made himself famous as an Arctic Explorer, and especially as the discoverer of the white Eskimos, was entrusted in 1913 by the Canadian Government with the command of an expedition to explore the vast uncharted track which lies to the north of the Beaufort Sea. The Karluk, an old whaler, was the main ship of the expedition, and in 1913, being a particularly bad ice year, she was unable to get very far east before she became fast in the ice.

Stefansson, with four of his party and two Eskimos, had gone ashore in search of game when a gale sprang up, the ice broke, and the Karluk drifted away. This was in the latter part of September and the vessel drifted steadily northwest in the moving ice, until January, 1914, when she was crushed and sank in deep water near Herald Island. The first news of the disaster which had overtaken the Karluk was contained in a long message from Stefansson, Stefansson contrived to carry on in spite of the loss of the Karluk and made some notable discoveries of new land. But it was from other sources that the fate of the Karluk and the members of the expedition who were on board was revealed. Captain Bartlett, Beary's old skipper, was in command, and he had with him the four men whose deaths are now recorded, together with Mr. C. S. Malloch, a Canadian, and Mr. B. Maule, a Norwegian. When the Karluk sank scientists and crew camped on the ice. A first advance party left ten days later. A second party left after the lapse of a fortnight, consisting of Dr. Mackay, Mr. James Murray, M. Beuchat, and Stanley Morris, A.B. A third party set out five weeks after the second. They were Captain R. A. Bartlett, Mr. G. Malloch (zoologist), and his assistant, Mr. Maule, Mr. John Murray (first engineer), Mr. Robert Williamson (second engineer), R. W. Maurer, and Geo. Brady (fireman), H. Williams, A.B. R. Templeman (steward), E. F. Chafe, (cabin boy), and John Hadley (handyman). All the party had sleighs and dogs, and were amply provided from the ship's stores in addition to fresh meat from the seals and walrus they had killed. Captain Bartlett's party arrived at Wrangel Island

Without Seeing Anything of the others. He then determined to strike across the ice to Siberia, a hundred miles away, as the only means of bringing help to those in his charge. He was accompanied by two Eskimos, and they had a sleigh and seven dogs. Gale after gale swept down upon them and the moving ice delivered them in crossing a long sound. But eventually they reached the mainland, 50 miles west of Cape North, with the loss of only four dogs. They met with very kind treatment from the natives, and managed to get a whaler to take them to St. Michael, in Alaska. Arrangements were made with the United States Government that the Revenue Cutter Bear should call at Wrangel Island to rescue the survivors, but in the meantime the King and Wing, which was engaged in a walrus hunt, searched the island, and on September 7, 1914, the shipwrecked members of the expedition were taken on board. Three men of the Wrangel Island party had died, including Mr. Malloch, but the others survived their hardships and were landed in Alaska. Of the other parties nothing has since been heard until the skeletons now discovered disclosed some of their tragic story.

Grand Jury Raps Police Systems

SUGGESTED NEW DETECTIVE-INSPECTOR TO SUPPRESS VANCOUVER CRIME.

VANCOUVER, B.C., Oct. 30.—(Canadian Press).—In a presentation to Mr. Justice Murphy who presided at the Criminal Assize Court here, the grand jury yesterday declared the detective systems of both Vancouver and the Provincial Police and the Secret Service Branch of the Royal Mounted Police to be wrong and badly in need of reorganization.

Supporting this conclusion the grand jury cited several murder and bank robbery cases in this city which the police had failed to solve and in connection with which no arrests had been made.

The political choice of a Crown prosecutor the report declared to be a weak link in the system of justice. The grand jury recommends that the chief inspector of the city detective force be honorably superannuated for his long and faithful services, and that a highly trained outside man be engaged to superintend the suppression of crime in Vancouver.

Dealing with the drug traffic the report claimed that the peddling of contraband narcotics to addicts, the report continues, are almost entirely manufactured in Germany and exported, and it is suggested that international steps be taken to stop this traffic.

INTER CLUB BILLIARDS.

Masonic Leading By 18 Points.

The second night in the Inter Club Billiard Tournament, between the Masonic and B.I.S. players, brought out another large crowd to the Masonic rooms where the first round of the tournament is being played. Last night two games were played, each

Club having registered a win, although the B.I.S. gained the advantage in the total number of points scored. To date the Masonic players are leading by the small margin of 18 points. Both games proved very interesting and several fine shots and excellent breaks were made.

E. Phelan vs. D. R. Thistle.

At the beginning Phelan got the advantage and gradually drew away from his opponent until at one time he was 89 points in the lead. Thistle, however, continued to play steadily, gradually lessening the lead, and eventually passing his opponent, and when the game ended he was 28 points in the lead. The final scores were:

Thistle (Masonic)—350—13, 20, 11, 11,

12, 28, 15, 11, 14, 11, 15, 14, 18—196.

Phelan (B.I.S.)—322—21, 41, 37, 11,

11, 16, 25, 11—173.

T. Ryan vs. J. Edwards.

The second game was also interesting and some splendid billiards were shown. Ryan was in fine form and played a splendid game throughout.

Edwards was not playing as well, and Ryan soon outdistanced him, maintaining his lead till the end when he finished with 110 points to the good.

The final scores were: Ryan 350; Edwards, 240. The breaks were:

Ryan (B.I.S.)—350—14, 22, 11,

47, 31, 25, 15, 18, 13, 12, 19, 19, (unfinished)—275.

Edwards (Masonic)—240—20, 19,

24, 28, 23, 12—126.

Our Montreal Letter

(From Our Own Correspondent).

THE PATHS THAT LEAD TO DIS-

GRACE AND SHAME.

Life, we are told, is measured by its opportunities. These stand at the door of every human being. There is one, in the career of each individual that either makes, or if lost, breaks it.

A missed opportunity is too often a matter of regret, and often becomes a tragedy. The missed opportunity is sometimes the neglect of an education, or the proper home training.

Life's golden opportunity, to become good and useful citizens, does not appear to many to-day, especially to the young. A useless and wasted life, even at the early age of twenty years, seems to be the guiding star for those whose careers end up in shame and disgrace. A love for gambling, reading of dime novels, stealing, late hours, a spirit of independence, a love for bad companions, a spirit of bravado, which lures them on to deeds of violence, which often ends in death, form the life's chapter of many a youth the world over to-day. The long list of criminal offences tried in the courts here, the vast majority of the cases being against men of the younger type, is not only appalling,

but a real reflection on the foundation of a good life—the Home Training. Here are a few examples of those whose careers have ended up sudddenly in jail, and where three, if not four of the young criminals, stand in the shadow of the gallows.

Just a little over a year ago John

D. Cummings, aged 21 years, of Syracuse, N.Y., inherited $40,000 from his father. To-day he is lying in the cells at Bordeaux Jail fighting extra dition to the United States on an automobile theft charge and facing a similar charge in the courts here.

And into the bargain he is broke.

The thousands he possessed a year ago have been scattered about in the night life of Montreal and the large cities of upper New York State. Today Cummings has nothing in his bank account but a debit balance.

Detectives who have watched Cummings and Paul D. Hoster, his alleged partner in crime, for the past four months, claim that the dissipated fortune was cast recklessly about in a series of wild parties held in road-houses about this city. One party, which lasted for nearly forty-eight hours, cost Cummings over $5,000. It is said. Many of the affairs cost very nearly as much, the police claim.

Besides his expenditure on entertainment for himself and his friends,

it was stated, Cummings lost huge sums by gambling. He was an expert when it came to backing horses that crossed the line lengths behind the winner. When it came to shooting craps, Cummings was always ready, but he never rolled a seven except at the wrong time.

Throughout his period of affluence

Cummings was surrounded by a host of those who claimed to be his friends.

They were too, until the supply of ready cash failed at its source. Cummings' experience had everything in common with the experience of plenty of other "suckers." When the money ran out he came down to earth with a sickening thud, and found himself broke and alone, his acquaintances gone and unwilling even to lend him

the price of a meal.

While the cash lasted Cummings thought nothing of entertaining 31

score of friends to a champagne party with all its incidentals. He footed the bill cheerfully every time.

PLACENTIA BAY STEAMSHIP SERVICE

Passengers leaving St. John's on 6 p.m. train to-morrow, Saturday, will connect with S.S. Argyle, at Argentia, for regular ports en route to Lamaline (Western trip).

But now he could not even raise the price of a plate of beans from any of them without good security.

Although anxious about his present difficulties with the police of Montreal and Syracuse, Cummings ponders more on his short career as a spendthrift than about anything else.

Towards his legion of "one time friends" he is bitter. "It is because of them I am in jail," he says, in denouncing them.

"Bill" Watkins, the 20 year old, self-confessed slayer of Francis Xavier Beaulieu, the Verdun shopkeeper and postman, has achieved his ambition—that of being an accused bandit and murderer. His chief delight was to read stories of crime in magazines, newspapers and cheap dime novels.
He was out at all hours of the night, proving about in lanes and back yards, and was crazy after automobiles. When he and his two companions were captured, he was driving a stolen automobile. He has divulged the names of three companions who were with him and aided him on the night of the robbery and murder at the Verdun store.

Three Judges of the Court of General Sessions, Thomas C. T. O'Grain, Otto A. Rosalsky and Alfred J. Talley, in a statement addressed to the parents of New York, recommended religious training as a means of preventing delinquency and crime. The cases of "moral breakdown" coming to their attention prompted the appeal.

"By reason of our judicial positions
we are daily brought face to face with cases of moral breakdown," says the statement. "The more we consider the causes which have produced these cases of delinquency and crime the more we are convinced that much of the responsibility for them rests upon all the citizens of our great metropolis, because of the failure to recognize the necessity of training and safeguarding our most precious human asset—character.

"We support at enormous cost reformatories and prisons for corrective purposes. Most of this expense could be avoided were our fellow citizens of every denomination to increase and strengthen religious instruction of the children as society's most effective force for the prevention of delinquency and crime.

"But infinitely more important than the saving of dollars through building up religious training instead of reformatories would be the saving of human lives from degradation and misery.
Prison chaplains advise us that the great majority of those brought to court for wrongdoing have had little or no religious instruction. The most potent single force for rearing a decent, law-abiding citizenry is religious training. We therefore appeal to all parents in our great city to set their children on the path of life with the high spiritual impulses of religious ideals. Secular education should be supplemented by a religious training which conforms to the faith of the parents, but which, in its beneficient results, will unquestionably rebound to the security, advancement and the perpetuity of our nation."

TELLS FRENCH CANADIANS TO HONOR THE BRITISH FLAG.

"We have no right to form a separate element, grouping ourselves into a block. In other days our forefathers fought against Edward for the kings of France, as was their duty.

There is another duty upon us, and that is to defend and spread the flag that flies over us. At the session we became English, speaking French.

That is what we are legally and we have our duties now under that title."

So spoke Napoleon Garceau, of Drummondville, before the Cartier-

Macdonald club here. He urged that the spirit of unity and unity among

French and English-speaking people as Canadians, should be encouraged to grow so that the term "French

Canadian" would disappear. He objected to the French speaking element not observing Dominion Day.

He urged the club to work to eliminate friction, and argued for a nationalized history book for school instruction so that no particular creed or nationality would be offended.

THE COMMISSIONERS FINISH THE

INQUIRY INTO SCHOOL PRO-

BLEMS.

The Quebec School Commission appointed to look into school problems here finished its work after holding seven public sessions. The report of the members will be made to the Provincial Government in a few weeks. Notwithstanding the fact, that the majority of the Jewish community want separate schools, the general opinion is, that the Protestant Schools will have to continue to educate the Jewish children. His Lordship Bishop

Parfing, the Anglican Divine, is bitterly opposed to having non-Christian children in the Protestant Schools.

According to Chairman Greaves of the Protestant School Board, only 40 per cent. of the cost of educating the Jewish children is paid by the Jewish proprietors, and the balance, 60 per cent, has to be borne by the Protestant proprietors. Speaking of the other difficulties which the schools have to undergo by educating the Jewish children, the Chairman said:

"Jewish holidays disrupt our school system, spoil our classes, keep back our Protestant scholars and disor-ganize our entire system. In our schools we have seventy Jewish teachers and 11,557 Jewish scholars, and they all stay away on their religious holidays. In the twenty-three school

Daring Feats of Forgers

RISKS THAT ARE RUN TO GAIN FORTUNES.

"Forgery is one of the most serious crimes it is possible to commit," a well-known judge declared recently in a case of this description, but this much can be said in favour of such criminals—before they stand even the faintest chance of success they must be not only keen-brained, but also skilled in the art of printing and lithography, while there is almost nothing that they dare not do!

There are rich rewards for those who succeed in their audacious coups. It has been estimated that every year notes to the value of several millions of pounds are forged in all parts of the world. The currency in this country being difficult to imitate, and as Scotland Yard has the most perfectly—and scientifically—equipped organization in the world to deal with this type of rogues, forgers are not so numerous here, but still rich harvests are reaped.

£10,000 a Year by Crime.

In one case not so long ago the earnings of the accused were stated to have averaged £200 a week, or £10,000 a year. The Bidwell brothers, it may be remembered, robbed the Bank of England of £200,000. It was the most astounding swindle in criminal history.

The note-forgers have to proceed warily. If he aspires merely to print or draw—for some forgeries are done by hand—a few ten-shilling notes and pass them off on unsuspecting shopkeepers, he need not be so highly-skilled. The higher he aims, however, the more difficult does his task become, and if he plans to flood the country with spurious Treasury notes, as has been attempted more than thirty times since the present issue came into use, he must be prepared for all eventualities.

The Counterfeiter's Excuse.

While a counterfeiter might have the audacity to present a forged bank-note at a bank—this was done once in the case of several £100 notes—he would scarcely dream of going there with Treasury notes for a similar amount, no matter how perfect they might seem. There is a simple reason for this: the counterfeiter manufactures a complete plate, from which he prints his spurious notes. But each of these notes bears the same number, and as the number is usually the first thing at which a bank official looks the probability is that the similarity of the numbers in the bundle of Treasury notes would be observed almost at once.

To get a different number on each note, it would be necessary for him to "smash" his plate when he had printed one, make a new plate for the next note, and so on. That, of course, would entail too much work and reduce the "profits" tremendously.

Usually, when a counterfeiter constructs a good plate, he makes a large "print." Then he destroys the plate, which would be a stronger piece of evidence against him than the notes themselves, for which he might be able to account by explaining that he was an innocent victim, having received the notes in the ordinary way of business.

Forger as Philanthropist.

Often the forger, once he has printed his notes, is afraid to attempt to pass them. For example, when a man named Jacobus, an artist, was sent to prison for three years at the Old Bailey a few weeks ago, it was mentioned that when the police entered his home there were signs of poverty everywhere—he and his wife were forced to sleep on the floor. Yet there were bundles of excellent counterfeit notes in various parts of the room.

Not so faint-hearted was another counterfeiter, who actually gave 2,000 pounds in forged notes to charity. His generosity was his downfall, for the bank clerk who went to the hospital to collect the notes found out the fraud by examining some of the notes while he was returning to the bank by bus.

Greatest Work on England Soon to Come From Press

LONDON, Oct. 11 (A.P.)—The New English Dictionary, which has been in the course of compilation since 1857, probably will be published about the first of the new year, and it is claimed that it will be the largest and most authoritative exposition of the English language ever produced.

The dictionary is being compiled by the Oxford University press, and most of the work has been done under the supervision of Oxford University professors. All the sections of the dictionary have been completed, but the editors have been finding it necessary to make several additions and revisions, so changeable is the English of to-day.

FOUR LOVES.

These loves alone will bring content:
The love of home, which works to know
A little bed where roses blow;
A cherry hearth, where kindness reigns
And smiles light up the window panes;
The love of home, which works to make
A playground for the children's sake,
And lovely rooms where selfishness
May sow no discord or distress.

The second love to bring content
Is love of friends and neighbors near:
A love too warm, too true to sneer,
A love that understands the cares
And griefs and hurts each mortal bears,
That sees beneath the garments thin
Of flesh and cloth the soul within.
And holds to friendships, true and true,
Life's changing fame and fortune through.

The third great love to bring content
Is love of God: that love which sees
His splendor in the sheltering trees,
That finds Him nightly in the sky,
Where race the stars and planets by;
That feels His presence when he stands
Before life's storms with helpless hands.

And trusts Him, whatso'er befall,
To guide him safely through it all.

The fourth true love to bring content
Is love of country: that sweet love
Which cherishes the flag above,
Which stands to serve and seeks to build

A native land with laughter filled;
Which gives obedience to its laws,
Upholds its every righteous cause,
And strives to live so all may see Just what a free man ought to be.

"Cold Storage in Porto Rico"

By S. Ramirez de Arellano, Jr., Treasurer of S. Ramirez & Co., San Juan, Porto Rico, now visiting Newfoundland.

The establishment of Cold Storage Plants has contributed greatly to the development of industry and commerce in these modern times. Thanks to these establishments the Packing Industry has risen both in Uruguay and Argentina, to such an extent, that they supplied with all varieties of Packing House Products, not only Europe but also a good part of the United States during the world's war.

Venezuela has had for sometime plants of this nature and at the present time there is being constructed a large Cold Storage and Slaughtering Plant in which the Government is interested, in the eastern part of the Republic. This plant will meet the domestic need and also attend to the export trade.

In Porto Rico, we are beginning to utilize these Cold Storage Plants solely for the Cold Storage of perishable articles. This island imports more than $12,000,000.00 worth per annum of fresh and smoked meats, dryfish, milk, cheese, eggs, fresh fruits, butter, vegetables, candy, medical products, etc., and great losses have been frequently met with by the decomposition of these perishable articles. Cold Storage has remedied to a very great extent this trouble and since the establishment of Cold Storage facilities losses have been considerably reduced.

We had the opportunity of proving the usefulness of Cold Storage in Porto Rico with a small lot of chocolate imported to the island from Venezuela. It happened that this chocolate was not well enough advertised and consequently had not a ready market in the island. By suggestion of the Importers part of the chocolate was stored in "Ramirez Cold Storage Plant" at San Juan and the rest sent on consignment to the city of Mayaguez, where there are no cold storage facilities, and spent a few months in storage in a common warehouse. Finally it was sold on its merits and obtained a price of $15.00 per quintal. The cases that were put in Cold Storage in San Juan remained there for a year and were all sold at the price of $35.00 per quintal, or a difference of $20.00 over the price obtained at Mayaguez which was not stored scientifically. These are facts which should be well known by the merchants in order that they should patronize and support cold storage in Porto Rico.

The benefits of the Cold Storage method of preserving perishable commodities may be summarized as follows:—

(a) Deterioration and destruction of a great quantity of foodstuffs which represents a very large sum of money yearly is avoided.

(b) Demoralization in sales by eliminating temporarily from the market a large amount of perishable goods and consequently prices are enhanced.

(c) Business is facilitated in certain perishable articles which was not possible before the establishment of Cold Storage Plants.

Recently an American firm has been making experiments in shipping fish (fresh) from the Caribbean Sea to New York City by the New York & Porto Rico S.S. Co., which is operating some fast steamers with cold storage between San Juan and New York. It is generally known, that fishing in Northern waters during winter time is very much curtailed and the fresh fish which is caught in the Gulf of Mexico or Caribbean Sea, for example, is not sufficient to meet the requirements of large cities like New York, Boston, Chicago and New Orleans. If the island of Porto Rico could contribute during the winter months a good supply of fresh fish to the city of New York from the Caribbean Sea, there is no doubt, that attractive prices could be fetched for this fish and would increase a business which has had moderate proportions up to the present.

The establishment of cold storage on board some of the steamers of the New York & Porto Rico S.S. Co. is favouring greatly the export of fresh tropical fruits from Porto Rico. And "a propos" to fruits, an official from the Department of Agriculture of Washington, D.C., experimented last year with pineapples and grape fruits in "Ramirez Cold Storage Plant" and rendered afterwards a report recommending the use of cold storage for these fruits at shipping points while waiting to be loaded on board steamers to be carried to their ultimate destination.

The storing of perishable commodi-

like Porto Rico, offers unlimited possibilities; tobacco in the leaf, rice, weevils—also Porto Rico's chief staple for the poor class (Bacalao) or codfish is being wonderfully well preserved with the aid of this scientific

Before the establishment of The "Ramirez Cold Storage Plant" at San

hake had to be sacrificed at prevailing depressed market prices when numerous and continuous shipments were being received at that end with little or no demand as sometimes hap-

Wonder Athlete

ARTHUR NEWTON AND HIS MAGIC DRINK.

Naturally the topic of the moment in athletic circles is the wonderful record run to Brighton by Arthur Newton, of the Thames Hare and Hounds. He pulverized all known records in and around the distance with the exception of his own marvellous 50 mile world's record of 5 hrs. 53 min. 5 sec. made on the South African roads last year. When he looks back upon the world's best performances at or near 50 miles, such, for instance, as E. W. Lloyd's 50 miles track record at Stamford Bridge (5 hrs. 13 min. 58 sec.), A. G. Cartwright's 50 miles track record (50 miles 1,200 yards), made at Westminster as far back as 1887, or Dan Hurst's profession record to Brighton (5 hrs. 34 min. 50 sec.) and P. W. Randall's amateur record of 5 hrs. 53 min. 13 sec., one can more fully realize the magnitude of Newton's new record—London to Brighton in 5 hrs. 11 min. 42 sec. The distance to-day from Big Ben to the Royal Aquarium, Brighton, is, in my opinion, still above 51½ miles, but as some question the distance, I will shortly measure the course with an up-to-date clock. Of course the record so suddenly sprung upon us by Newton is a great surprise for English athletic circles, because of Newton being unknown; but it will cause no surprise in South Africa. His 50 mile run out in Maritzburg, Natal, is quite above suspicion, and is now the accepted 50-mile record. The start was made in the Agricultural Show grounds at 7.1 a.m., passing Thorneybush in 56 min., Cato Ridge, 2 hr. 5 min., 25 miles, 2 hr. 44 min., turning back to Cato Ridge 3 hr. 21 min., Camperdown, Thorneybush, Town Hall, and Show Grounds (50 m.), arriving 5 hr. 53 min. 5 sec. The course is hilly throughout, and that used for Marathon races and trials. I watched Newton closely all the way during his Brighton run, and he impressed me as the most perfect running-machine for a distance I have ever seen. His action simply tells you he can run for ever—quite flat-footed, short strides, resembling a shuffle more than a run, his feet never being more than six inches or so above the ground. Newton carries his arms loosely by the hips, and his mind is concentrated absolutely upon the run. He never touches solid food of any sort during the run, and only a drink when he feels the heat. Under these conditions he seldom has a bad time. Coming to the drink "magic" is—what which seems so effective in getting him over a bad time—it is merely a good half-pint glass of ordinary lemonade with six or eight teaspoons full of sugar, half a teaspoon of salt, well stirred up and as cold as possible. The idea worked out by Newton, who has made this long distance running a real study for three years, is that the drink itself quenches the thirst, the sugar creates internal warmth, and the salt either prevents or gets rid of cramp. As athletes know, cramp is generally the real trouble of a break-down. That there is some sound sense in Newton's drink I am ready to believe, for he has found it effective every time he has had it. I tried it—with surprising results—on two of the St. Dunstan's competitors, who could not keep upon their feet, and I would certainly advise our Marathon and longer distance athletes to put it to the test. My remarks upon Newton's style of running, the fact that he runs a distance so frequently, that he knows no breakdowns, and wears the lightest possible shoes and attire, should be studied very closely, and tried in every possible way. I shall give it a great deal of thought, for it revolutionizes all the ideas of long-distance training I ever had. We may find more Newtons in the near future, and it may be that a real lesson has been learned. Regarding Newton's preparation other than running, our present-day massagers, rubbers, etc., have much food for thought. Newton rose at 4 a.m., just in the ordinary way, had two fried eggs and some bread and butter; the bacon was too hard, so he left it. He had no rubbing down, oil or grease of any kind, but just put on a thin vest and knickers, and a pair of toe socks made of wash-leather, which he wore for the first time. He has usually had bare feet of thin socks. Putting on a pair of thin shoes—the lightest possible—he put both feet and shoes inside a woollen sock, tied at the tops to keep out the grit. At the finish he had a hot bath and no massage business whatever. He was fully dressed in a very few minutes. Another remarkable fact is that when he finished his run he immediately lit his pipe, and was the most unconcerned man in the crowd, who cheered him heartily. Newton had not altered the proverbial hair—this after an average of less than 6½ minutes per mile for the whole journey. It is astounding! When I saw with what ease he all but crowded 23 miles in his first three hours, I am quite ready to believe he could have won the Olympic Marathon race. Newton returns shortly to South Africa to carry on his fight for compensation in his farm troubles, and he told me he is not likely to seriously race again, but will continue to run many miles as an exercise.—Joe Sinks in News of the World.

THE WINE BARDS.

Old poets were singing forever of wine, their golden words ringing in ecstasies fine. With port and canary the ruminants were filled, and cheerful and merry, they buoyantly trilled. Oh, wine is the magic that smooths out our path, and water is tragic, except for a bath. And wine is compelling a season of peace, and water's the dwelling of bullfrogs and geese. I seem to behold them, the bards of the past, for fame has enrolled them, their laurels will last. In hall and in palace they chant to the lords, and drink from a chalice fermented rewards. The lights are all glowing and beauty is there, and incense is throwing its fumes on the air. Oh, wine's the inspirer of music and art, and has an admirer in every gay heart. But lo, in the dawning the poets appear, be-shrewing, doggoning, and empty of cheer. With heads that are aching they rise from the bay; with nerves that are quaking they face a new day. These singers, so noted, all groan when they stir; their tongues are be-coated with fungus and fur. The gods never filled of wine when they woke, for they were all wilted, their throats full of smoke. And when you're perusing their stanzas of scorn for those who dodge boozing—remember the morn! Remember the waking, the moans on edge, the heads that are aching, the signing the pledge!

What is the Use of Living

What is the use of living when a woman gets up in the morning as tired as when she went to bed at night, with headache, backache, dragging-down pains, nervous, irritable and despondent? These are all symptoms of ailments peculiar to her sex which makes life a burden. Every woman in this condition should rely upon Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a good old-fashioned remedy made from roots and herbs. It contains no narcotics or harmful drugs, and for fifty years has been restoring women to health and strength and the joys of living.

Heads of Traitors Were Exhibited

Heads of persons executed for high treason were formerly exhibited on Temple Bar, London, an arched gateway which was built in 1670 of Portland stone. Over the gateway were statues of Queen Elizabeth, James I. Charles I. and Charles II. Here on particular occasions, the corporation of London received the royal family, the heralds' proclamations, or any distinguished visitors. When the Sovereign came in state the Lord Mayor here delivered to him the sword of state, which was returned, and after this he rode bareheaded immediately in front of the royal procession.

As the gate seriously obstructed a crowded thoroughfare, it was removed in 1878.

Remembrance Day Address

Mr. Peter Cashin, M.H.A., delivered the following address on Monday afternoon before the Holy Cross Schools:

Reverend Brothers and Students of the Holy Cross Schools:

When it was suggested to me to lecture before you here this afternoon I hesitated for a moment but eventually submitted and now, before proceeding on the subject which has been given me, namely, Commemoration Day, I would ask you first that, if I should inadvertently trespass upon any of your personal ideals, I sincerely trust you will take no offence whatever but remember that we can always honestly differ and that none of us are absolutely infallible.

In the year 1914, as we are well aware, Great Britain declared war upon Germany. At that time the British Army was anything but ready to face the German Army in France, as our enemies had been for years preparing for what they thought now was their ultimate goal. We recall the time when the Old Continent, namely, the first British Expeditionary Force, went to France, made the glorious retreat from Mons in conjunction with the French and Belgians, still holding their line and remaining intact but retreating on account of superiority in numbers of the enemy. Thousands of lives were sacrificed by the British, French and Belgians, and it is on this matter that I am supposed to discourse with you this afternoon.

Immediately after this the statesmen of Great Britain realized that in order to live up to the traditions set for them by their forefathers, it would be necessary to call for assistance from the various Dominions and dependencies which compose the Empire. Hence we find Newfoundland in October, 1914, sending overseas a contingent of five hundred men who were afterwards christened the "Blue Puttees." In January and February another Company followed, and again in April, May and June other Companies went, comprising in all one battalion of 1,000 and a reserve Company of 250. In the autumn of that year the first Newfoundland battalion was attached to the 88th Brigade in the 29th Division and embarked for Gallipoli. Whilst I personally did not take part in Gallipoli, I feel confident from what little experience I may have had that the fighting was not of a very strenuous nature as far as modern warfare tactics were concerned, but that the climatic and other conditions under which the troops had to exist were something appalling. It would be better in my mind to have a real good up to date battle with everything in the way of modern artillery and machine guns taking part, than to hold down a position flooded with water and with no possible means of escape, and with the food poisoned. I must say that in every way these conditions were far worse than in the modern battles which took place later in France; that is, from a physical point of view of the troops. However, at the end of 1915 or the beginning of 1916 it was decided by the British command that Gallipoli should be evacuated, and I might say here that our troops from Newfoundland played a very important part in the evacuation of Gallipoli, having to fight the rear guard action if necessary and being practically the last troops to leave the Peninsula on the front which they occupied. Then we have them coming to France, taking up a position on the Somme opposite Beaumont-Hamel, holding that position until the beginning of July, when a tremendous attack had been planned by the British war chiefs in this area, the object being to drive in the German left and to force his right wing to retreat. Whilst the Newfoundland Battalion did not actually take its objective on that day and, as we know, we lost hundreds of our men, we must still admit and concede to them the fact that this portion of the line was much more difficult in the way of defence and attack than other positions on the Somme front and that in order to make other portions more easily entered, it was necessary to put our troops in practically impregnable positions.

Now, whilst I do not intend to dwell on the doings of our Regiment in particular in connection with the war, the point I want to bring out is this, did Newfoundland gain any material advantage by sending troops overseas? Were the ones who returned, either wounded or in good condition physically or mentally, rewarded for their trouble or was it worth their while. As one of those who took part for practically three years in the engagements on the firing line in France, I do not think that our people, either politicians or civilians, have realized what these men have done. While the war was on they were "Hell Fellows. Well Met" with everybody, but as soon as the last shot was fired in France and Foch's signature was hardly dry on the Armistice, they were all mostly allowed to go home for themselves. No doubt critics would reply to me and say that some of our men expected too much and they were unreasonable. My reply to that is this: that there is practically nothing too good for these men and that we find unreasonable ones in all walks of life, but, give the good soldier a fair show and a square deal and you will find him every inch a man.

To-morrow we will commemorate Armistice Day and in all the cities and settlements in the British Empire, this day is looked upon as the most important day of the year. My duty in lecturing to you here this evening is to try and instill into your minds that you are Newfoundlanders born and bred, living within the fold of the British Empire, and it is to you that the future generations must look for the safekeeping of their country and the Government thereof. Consequently I want to impress upon you with whatever little ability and power is at my command—and I feel certain that the good Brothers do not leave any stone unturned to instill the same into your young minds—love of your country. During my short term in the Army I was practically trained to look up to my country as well as the Empire generally, as my first love, and I might say here now that I would rather see Newfoundland laid desolate, the Pink, White and Green flag torn from the Heavens above it and its name wiped off the map of the world, its inhabitants sleeping in heroes graves, than to see it made a mark for scorn or an object of contempt.

As the war continued, from 1916 to 1918 various engagements took place. Obviously the German push on March 21st, 1918, when, by a very great supreme effort the Germans made a determined attempt to break the British front and to separate the French from the English. At that time I was in command of a unit of machine guns of the 20th British Division, composed of English soldiers and attached to the 3rd Army under General Byng, now Governor-General of Canada. On the right was the 5th Army commanded by General Gough. The great attack started at daylight in the morning with the most incessant bombardment of the war and, after flattening our trenches and obliterating our machine gun emplacements, killing practically all our troops, the Germans advanced and took prisoners of practically what remained of the forces. At the same time we were bringing up reserves behind and held up the Germans after about three thousand yards advance. Our friends on the right under General Gough were not so fortunate. His reinforcements were few and far between and the 5th Army was dispersed. Consequently the Third on the left had to withdraw in order to conform with the movement on the right, otherwise we would have been surrounded and the whole Army enveloped. This continued for several weeks when other determined efforts were made by the Germans in the North, notably at Kemmel Hill against the French, and finally they gave up any further attempt to end the war in that year.

Just about that time the present Marshal Foch was given the United Command of the British, French, American and Belgian Armies on the Western Front, and I think that it would be only fair to him and fair to you that I should tell you that Mar-

"STAFFORD'S DRUGSTORE NEWS" RESOURCEFULNESS

M. Coty, the head of many great perfume factories in France, experienced great difficulty in making his start toward success. When only a poor chemist he discovered a new mixture of unusual merit, but he peddled the process in vain to all the leading perfume makers.

Turned away from his last chance, he instantly decided upon an unusual plan of action. Just as he was leaving, he dropped on the floor a small unstoppered bottle containing his entire stock of the precious liquid. A few days later he received a brief letter from the company. It said:

"We cannot longer refuse to help you. That illustrious fluid has made of this office a veritable paradise. Come and see."

To this interesting incident M. Coty attributes his success. Those who look beneath the surface, will understand that the dropping of the bottle simply manifested an ability to think clearly, decide positively, and act immediately. In short, M. Coty possessed the qualifications for an executive.

Why not make your home, office or any place you may be working be also a veritable paradise. It's very hard to do this without you are enjoying good Health and Strength, and thousands of people are neglecting themselves every day by not being careful enough over their body. If you require perfect Health and Strength you will find nothing better to restore it than Brick's Tasterless. The proof of this being the very best preparation on the market is that by the end of this year the sale will be over Ten Thousand Bottles.

shal Foch was a great Roman Catholic; one who attended Holy Mass practically every morning, and at all times before any important engagement. He also had a brother, a Jesuit Father, in France. Under his command the tide seemed to turn and early in August the British Forces started a great counter offensive which eventually ended on November the 11th, when the Armistice was signed, some troops being withdrawn and others marching on to the Rhine. We then found ourselves demobilized, sent home to our various avocations in life. Our homecoming is one of cheer, but those who remained behind and paid the Supreme Sacrifice, did they pay it in vain? These are important questions which occupy our minds to-day. While my opinion is that they did not actually pay that sacrifice in vain and that their deeds will live after them, still we must not forget the fact that those who returned have accomplished in just as great a measure the same work as those who paid the price, and do you think they are looked up to with any greater respect than prior to the war? Do you think they are treated fairly and squarely? On these two points my opinion is in the negative. I attended a play a few nights ago and the leading man got off a statement which comprised a part of the show and which struck me very forcibly at the time. He said that the American Government had spent thousands of dollars to carry the unknown soldier across the Atlantic and bury him in Washington with every reverence and respect, but he said, "that unknown soldier had to have the courage to return alive those same people wouldn't give him his job back. I think that I may say the same of Newfoundland, because to-day we find a great number of our returned men absolutely destitute."

In conclusion, I ask you, as the future generation of St. John's, to take home with you this evening the fact that from 1914 to 1918 thousands of your fellow countrymen fought and died that you might live and that when Commemoration Day comes around each year you bring your minds back and think of those wonderful men. Again I would say to you that on to-morrow, the anniversary of Armistice Day, pray for the souls of those who died in such a good cause. Pray also that you, who are to be the good citizens of Newfoundland in the years to come, may have the strength in case of need to do as your ancestors have done, fight for your country and "Never Let The Old Flag Fall."

The deceased had passed the allotted span of three score and ten years, and up to a few weeks ago was enjoying good health. Her life was one worthy of imitation for she possessed great charity and was ever the kind and faithful friend in time of others' troubles. She was predeceased by her oldest sister about two years ago, and now leaves to mourn one sister in England, her son, from whose residence the funeral takes place, and two grandsons, Fred J. and William J., one grand-daughter, Mary. The funeral takes place on to-morrow afternoon.

"The Veiled Woman" To-Night's Play

To-Morrow "Ten Nights In A Bar-Room."

The Young, Adams Company conclude their engagement at the Casino Theatre by presenting to-night that great social drama "The Veiled Woman" which will be followed to-morrow by that greatest of all old time plays "Ten Nights In A Bar-Room."

"The Veiled Woman" gives each performer in the cast an individual opportunity and Marie Adams will be seen in the role that will not soon be forgotten. Miss Adams has ample scope to act and wear some of her very beautiful gowns. H. Wilnot Young appears in the role of Donald Hayston, an important business man, who is in love with Marjorie Ramsay. Another very important role is that of Robert Elton, the noted bridge player, which will be taken by Edgar Harris. Jason, Alfred Stretton will be seen as the District Attorney, and this particular role fits Mr. Stretton like a glove. Edward Stauffer, a clever character man, will be Inspector Harris. Marguerite Young, the popular leading lady in "The Call Of The Woods," has a splendid role in this play, namely, that of an attractive French girl, Cecile Florent. This is certainly a real cast of players and to-night we expect a production equally as good as the opening performance. The vaudeville and music will be all changed and a big night's entertainment is promised.

Seats are already selling rapidly for to-morrow's production of "Ten Nights In A Bar-Room," which will be the attraction at both the afternoon and evening performances. As to-morrow night is the final appearance of the company, there will be farewell speeches by some of the members. Book your seats now for "Ten Nights In A Bar-Room."

Last Night's Blaze

The Central and West End Fire Companies were called out at 8.30 last night to Mundy Pond Road where a blaze was in progress in a vacant house owned by Mr. James Harding. The blaze was found in the upper flat and had gained slight headway when the firemen arrived. The chemical was turned on the flames, with the result that they were soon extinguished. Owing to the fire having eaten its way between the first and second floors, the firemen were compelled to remain on the scene for some time, as much of the wood work had to be chopped away before it could be finally extinguished. Mr. Harding had moved out of the house yesterday afternoon to live with his son on Beaumont Street, and there was nothing left in the house. The blaze is attributed to a defective chimney. The house was covered by insurance, we understand.

Whaler Cachalot in Port REPORTS A SUCCESSFUL WHALING VOYAGE.

The whaler Cachalot, Capt. Amundsen, arrived in port yesterday, after a very successful whaling voyage. During the season the Cachalot operated at Rose au Rue, where 109 whales were captured. The first taken were very large, one of which measured 80 feet in length. During the past month the whaler scouted the waters in the vicinity of Hawkes Hr., Labrador, where seven more were secured and taken on board. Capt. Amundsen reported the whaler Cabot at Hawkes Hr. for 74 whales, five of which were large sperms. The Cachalot made the run from Hawkes Hr. to this port in 42 hours. When she left the latter port there was three feet of snow on the ground.

Home and Tinsel

London Morning Post: The Conservatives can now pledge themselves to their best in the interests of the country; to provide such real safeguarding of industry that unemployment will steadily decrease; to pursue the policy of Imperial preference, thus both giving employment to settlers migrating to the Dominions and making more stable and of better quality the food supplies for which Great Britain is at present mainly dependent upon foreigners; to extend the principle of insurance while reducing the expense at present involved in a wasteful system; and to use every endeavor to reduce the taxation which under a Socialist Administration must rapidly increase. Compared with the glittering tinsel of Socialism, the homespun of Conservatism is sober enough. Its appeal is and must be to good sense and to patriotism.

Lady Astor

Montreal.—The Gazette says editorially under the heading "A Good Campaigner"—Among the women candidates seeking political honors in the present British electioneering contest, Lady Astor holds a conspicuous position, alike by her talents and by a certain pliancy of appeal that renders her a great favorite with the crowd. Probably no candidate, male or female, has been subjected to more vehement "heckling" than this imperturbable champion of conservative creed. Lady Astor never refuses a challenge, she rather enjoys the fun. Truth to tell, we have a suspicion that the sound of tumult is as music in her ears. A soap-box or the top of an automobile for campaigning purposes is a stand good as any marble stair-case. And wherever she goes, she has a great following. And wherever she goes, she has a great following. And wherever she goes, she has a great following.

Rusty Guillotine

Geneva.—The guillotine which will be used at Aldford for the execution of Bernet, the Swiss railway employee who murdered a woman last August, has had to be oiled, as it is rusty from disuse.

Executions in Switzerland are rare, but Bernet's crime has aroused widespread indignation, and twenty people, including a woman, have volunteered their services as executioners. The authorities, however, have selected an executioner whose ancestors have all held this office.

Tootal, Broadhurst, Lee, Ltd., the famous Manchester cotton goods firm. He is going to become a school teacher, the profession for which he believes he is really suited. "I shall begin at the bottom of my new profession," Mr. Broadhurst said. "I want to teach, and my first business is to learn how to teach. There is a tremendous field of work before me, and I am certain that I have chosen right."
