TO INTERFERE. Sunset Cox Heads a Deputation to the White House—The Gist of His Remarks and the President's Reply.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 8.-A large dele gation of democratic congressmen called upon the president to-day and presented a petition, urging him to exert his influence to obtain a respite for O'Donnell. The O'Donnell's Brother Tells the Condemned delegation in cluded these congressmen: Cox and Robinson, New York; Morrison, Springer and Finerty, Illinois; General Lefevre and Foran, Ohio ; Murphy, Iowa;

Maybury, Michigan; Lamb, Indiana; Mc-

Maybury, Michigan; Lamb, Indiana; Mc-Ado, New Jersey; Collins, Massachusetts; O'Neil and Burns, Missouri.

Mr. Cox was spokesman, and in the course of his remarks alluded to the many distinguished Americans of Irish descent in this country, concluding with, "And you, Mr. President, are proud to be reckoned among the descendants of this gallant race," at which the president smiled and bowed. Mr. Cox argued that O'Donnell was not an avenger, but was merely taking the voyage of an ordinary passenger, and that the killing was the result of an affray. He also said: "Besides, it is thought by many that the trial was unfair, not to say cruel. The authoriwas unfair, not to say cruel. The authorities at the Cape claimed jurisdiction. It is a law of the realm that the first port nation whose laws are broken is the locus in quo for trial. Custom and law unite to condemn the proceeding. It is contrary to English jurisprudence. Besides there was wanting the old practice, of late above the condemn the proceeding the condemn the condemn to the condemn

A great now is going up from the entire country at the is going up from the entire country at the outrageous action of the English judge before whom the prisoner was tried. By Jove, who ever has heard of such procedure as his? Pontius Pilate was an honorable man compared to him. The trial has given party violence suprement in Iraland. There are the procedure as the procedur pared to him. The trial has given party violence supremacy in Ireland. There are five million people in Ireland without arms. They are prevented by England herself from going on the field of battle where a contest might ensue. They cannot win themselves, and what is left them to do? Why, just what many American people would do if placed in a like condition. They would resort to violence, and take the means to accomplish the ends a small man would in an attempt to whip John Sullivan.

"In my opinion the Irish will act in their own behalf and destroy, not only the English parliament buildings, but ruin other interests, as far as possible. I can't say how nor when. If I knew, it wouldn't be for me to tell. But I do know such procedure will be taken. I'm opposed to raising more money to aid in the trial of Irish prisoners. O'Donnell's trial has been a farce. To ask more money to continue prisoners. O'Donnell's trial has been a farce. To ask more money to continue similar trials would be dishonest. No hope of fairness nor justice from an English court can be entertained."

"By the postponement of the time of execution what will be gained?" was asked.

"If the president asks that the sentence be postponed for a time, England will not doubt grant the request, for she will not desire to offend America. The evidence of O'Donnell being an American citizen will then have been secured, and an opportunity sought for giving him a fair trial. I do not want war to be the outcome, for our navy is not in condition for the conflict. But I looks. sought for giving him a fair trial. I do not want war to be the outcome, for our navy is not in condition for the conflict. But I do want justice for O'Donnell. It looks, however, as if he would hang at the time set for the execution unless this government can interfere. The alleged civilization of England may consider the moral resentment of America.

Mr. Cox added that the deputation represented seventy million people of Irish decent, among which was a large vote in which they were all not a little interested. "If," said Mr. Cox, "this hurried execution takes place a shudder will run through our people."

A member of the deputation drew attention to the report that O'Donnell was formerly a Union soldier.

The president in reply said that the department of state would at once telegraph to Minister Lowell to make all possible inquiry regarding O'Donnell's citizenship, and he (the president) would take whatever action he could with propriety.

The Tribune this tions permitting grinding of wheat in bond, morning contains a four-column expose of the proportion of wheat allowed for each morning contains a four-column expose of alleged extensive frauds in city contracts. It says careful investigation of the department records by Tribune reporters reveals the existence in this city of a ring of contractors, whose methods are similar to those of the canal ring broken up eight years ago. A system of unbalanced bids by which the public treasury suffers heavily has grown to startling proportions in the department of public works.

the proportion of wheat allowed for each barrel of flour exported was 4 36-60ths bushels; but it having been represented to the customs department that the wheat of the past season was of an inferior character, owing to climatic causes, and that it would consequently require a larger quantity of wheat to produce a barrel of flour, it has been decided to alter the original average of wheat per barrel of flour to 4 45-60ths bushels. That is to say, when the millers export a barrel of flour they are credited with duty on 4 45-60ths bushels of wheat, for which they would otherwise be held liable for duty.

Another account of the Egyptian defeat at Suakim says spies entered Suakim and reported that Hill men were hovering near the town. Mahmoud Taper Pasha, anxious to efface the defeat at Tokkar, on account of which a court martial was pending, sent forward 500 black troops and 200 bashi bazouks against the Hill tribes, he himself remaining at Suakim. Three hours march from the town the Egyptians were attacked by several thousand men. The Egyptians fought stubbornly, but were cut to pieces. Fifty, of whom half were officers, escaped. This defeat of troops which had hitherto been regarded as the flower of the army has caused great consternation here, as it tends to show the task of opening the route from Suakim to Berber with the material at Baker pasha's disposal as nearly a hopeless one.

MONDAY MORNING, DEC 10, 1883. Negotiations With Washington.

President Arthur's message contains instruction which is of special interest to Canadians. He says that, in accordan with notice given some time ago, the fish-ery claims of the Washington treaty will expire on the first of July, 1885, and recommends that commissioners be appointed on the American side, to confer with British commissioners on the subject of a new arrangement. The making of a fresh bargain regarding the fisheries is evidently a work that must be done during 1884, for it would never do to let it lie over until the following year-to the eleventh hour, we may say. There will be three parties to the negotiations—the governments Canada, the mother country, and the United States respectively. And it is none too soon for public opinion here to express itself strongly and decidedly to the effect that Canadian interests must not be sacrificed in any way, not even for the object of making things pleasant between London and Washington.

This does not mean that the pre sent dominion government is likely to consent to any sacrifice of our interests, either from misapprehension of what they are or from weakness in maintain ing Canadian rights. After having had the courage to tell a most influential representative meeting of English merchants and manufacturers that the National Policy of 1879 was framed expressly in the interest of Canada alone, and not of Great Britain or any other country whatever, Sir John is not likely to be backward in maintaining our rights at Washington, we should say. But, supposing himself and his colleagues fully mined in this matter, they would still require that their hands be strengthened Canadian public opinion. What is wanted is, not merely that our own government should take the right stand for Canada, but also that the public voice should strongly support them in so doing. This should be made so ap parent to the magnates of the British foreign office and of the department of state at Washington as to leave them no room whatever for doubting the fact. Of one thing we may be assured before hand, that the imperial authorities will throw their weight in favor of anything and everything looking towards free trade The argument that one-sided free trade would be an injury to Canada would be lost upon them, for they believe, honestly enough as we know, that even one-sided free trade is better than protection. Their view of the matter is that if they could by any means help Canada to free trade they vould really be conferring a benefit upon her instead of doing her an injury. Argument the other way would simply be lost upon them; nothing will meet the case but the plain assertion that fair protection to Canadian interests is something that must and shall be preserved. We should expect Sir John to be as bold at Washington next year as he was at Liverpool a few years ago; and doubtless we shall not be disappointed. The occasion will be one to test the actual working value of those Imperial concessions of recent years which are supposed to give something like national powers to this dominion -at all events in matters of trade and commerce, If we have in good faith acquired our commercial independence, then the approaching negofact more apparent to the world than ever before. Supposing this to follow, there would be other results besides those affecting our relations with the great republic. The conspicuous assertion, at Washington, of Canada's commercial independence. would tell greatly in our favor with foreign powers the world over. "H. B." and "Law Student" appear to have some things in common if one may judge from their letters. They both seem to the large offices in Toronto. They both seem to have found that the gentlemen to whom they were articled dwell in some secret top of Sinai top of Sinai to whose calm the student knows no approach. (In other words, that these gentlemen might as well be in Kamschatka.) They both find that students' work is not well distributed and not well graduated. And they both make common cause against that surely unfortunate man, the junior

In order to put our friends on equal footing we may suppose that "Managing Clerk" is also in a large office. Having done so, we now survey the scene and confess to a certain amount of amusement at the view

There is first that cocky managing clerk (we can tell he is cocky from his letter) who surveys mankind from China to Peru with equal and smiling regard, and now pats the junior student and now the junior partner on the back alike with impartia vords of cheer. He sees the junior student ticking stamps and tells him with a bright smile of encouragement to stick them well. There is then the junior partner toiling with desperate haste at the mass of affidavits and motions in front of him, and wondering if that "fool of" a student is sticking on the right stamp. There is last the junior student who is licking the stamp with holy fervor and wondering if there is any poison in the glue.

We repeat then that this scene is amus Whether it shows us the best method of either practising or of studying law is another thing. If it is, it seems that best systems may have disadvantages connected with them.

At the same time we hardly think that our correspondents have exaggerated the disadvantages. The lawyers have the whip hand and they know it. They hold a monopoly and they are loyal to each other in it. Work which should be done by paid men is, by a well recognized sleight-of-hand, disguised and passed off on a student as work necessary to be done by one who would be proficient in law. And the student takes it perforce, because if he does not take the mposition he will not be given a chance at good work. He takes the bitter, because the sweet is dealt by unfair hands. There are better ways of training students. System and graduation in work are both good things. It one has a desert to cross one will cross it without a wry face if one starts with it and knows it will not meet him at every subsequent turn. When moreover the student is supposed to read law would puzzle a Philadelphia lawyer. Work all day and read at night is harder work than any lawyer himself does. Few students can stand it. What a lawyer reads at night he argues on next petition. A student if he would do as letter, though jauntily written, contained day. That is to a certain extent mere restant state of wrestling with a new thing that taxes him night and day. This too might be regulated by the junior partners if they were willing to give a fair return to the students for the gratuitous work they do for the junior partners.

Yes, we advise the students to strike.

If, as reported, the government has ap pointed Major Lewis to the brigade majority of this district, it will find when too late that a mistake has been made. This is the case for many reasons. The major has in no way identified himself with the militia spirit of the province outside of being senior major of the York Rangers We have never heard that his connection with that corps was marked by any brilliant or even ordinary executive ability. The fact that Major Lewis has been a regular officer is no reason that he should ucceed in a high volunteer position, such as that of brigade major. In fact the opposite has been found to be the case. Regula officers have too much to unlearn before they can succeed with Canadian volunteers We have had too many appointments of this kind already for the good of the country. The brigade major of this, the most aportant military district of the province hould be a man well known for his soldier ly abilities and military spirit, one wel known to the officers and men of the district, and one, if possible, promoted from we have mentioned is not.

The popular conception of a poet as one who lives in trouble and dies in want does all speed in the study of the law, exercising personal supervision and giving him instruction. This, in many cases, he certainly does not do, as every law student in not fit his case. Mr. Gladstone is his very good friend, and their late yachting cruise together, when they entertained the king of Denmark and the czar of Russia on board, Denmark and the czar of Russia on board, may have determined the offer of the great they are even worse. Were the work a distinction that is said to await him. Even the elevation of a great poet to the upper house cannot redeem the absurdity and injustice of the system of creating hereditary legislators. Mr. Tennyson knows nothing of statecraft, and his descendants may prove anything but worthy for high positions, still a political leader has it in his power to give them political power while the family lasts. Byron was born a hereditary legislator, but he had no respect for the house of lords, and seldom took his intending law students is, don't attach yourself to large, cumbersome firms. The Guelph Lottery Again.

To the Editor of The World. SIR: There are at the present time partie going around the city distributing circulars with respect to the Guelph Opera House company trust, asking parties to subscribe to it at $2 per share. I see that a few of the prominent men of Guelph are acting as trustees. Now, what I should like to trustees. Now, what I should like to know as well as others through the columns of your paper is, is it a lottery, and if so is it illegal or not, and if the authorities will allow it? I understand that a great part of the 100,000 shares are taken up. I would like to have all the light you have, thrown on this scheme, and see whether it is a humbug or not. FAIR PLAY.

To the Editor of the World. It is true they are both operators, but their acquaintance was not made by wire, neither was their first meeting at the Briggs' house at Chicago, as your paper states. I would like very much to find out where all of this report first originated. Will you please contradict it in your paper as I am having it done in the St. John papers. I am the young lady's mother and I feel the slight and false statement very keenly. Will you please send-me a paper with the contradiction in it.

Law Students' Grievances.

To the Editor of the World. SIR: A recent issue of your paper tained a letter signed "H. B." claimin that law students had grievances. The naging Clerk directs, will be in a con-"H. B.'s" complaints, and attributing all his misfortunes to lack of genius and energy. He even goes so far as to predict that should that unfortuaate individual ever betray anything like the "genius and energy" which has always been remarkable in Managing Clerk he need not despair of finally reaching the seventh legal heaven in which "M. C." now disports himself. Did we know who this complacent and optimistic "M. C." is, we might the more easily judge for ourselves the height of the pir nacle on which he stands. It would be well, for instance, to know whether his "genius and energy, have made him managing clerk in an office where there is only an office boy besides, or whether law student is also under his dominion law student is also under his dominion. However that may be is beside the point. The question is, is the law student's experience in many cases an "absurd and silly" existence as you have described it editorially, and if so is this as "M. C." aseditorially, and if so is this as "M. C." asserts always owing to his not scintillating with genius and bursting with energy?

There can be no doubt that "H. B." is right in holding the former and "M. C." is most decidedly wrong in ascribing his failure in every case to himself.

The writer can assure "M. C." that he has known dozens of cases exactly such as has known dozens of cases exactly such as "H. B." describes, excepting of course un concern in making affidavits. Too often it concern in making affidavits. Too often it happens that a man with "genius and energy" far keener and stronger, I venture to say, than Managing Clerk's has found this out. Many a young man, many educated university men, who have early learned the intricate task of running messages, licking stamps and mechanically copying from manuscript, find this the only scope in which to evince the "genius and energy" which is a stepping stone to favor and fame. I do not say that the most exalted law student should never do any of these things, but I assert emphatically that many a young man has found either these tasks or "nothing to do" so blunting, deadening and dispiriting, and so repellant leadening and dispiriting, and so repellant o "genius and energy" that he has left he field of law forever, while many than sufficient socks to supply every their sleepy pertinacity alone have risen man, woman and child in Canada with a pair. among other absurd covenants he not to purloin the stationery belong is employer. VIIITYING the Medical Profession.

To the Editor of the World.

Sir: In the last issue of the Canada Lancet a correspondent calls attention to what he terms an "underhand method of streets an arcade could be run streets an arcade could be run through the building into Court street because we say in one of our advertise-ments, "It is to be regretted that the large in this court house could be located the law

ments, "It is to be regretted that the large majority of so-called M.D.'s will persist in discouraging poor sufferers whom they have failed to cure in trying the specialists," etc. Now, we did not make that statement without foundation. Indeed we are in a position to prove by the statements of several of our patients that a ornation medical man in this city, well known to the Lancet's correspondent, has more than once endeavored to dissuade patients from coming to us after he had admitted that he could not possibly do anything for them. Those patients, however, did come to us notwithstanding the "underhand" and ungentlemanly attempt which this medical man made to "vilify" us. Such cases are occurring to our notice every day, hence our reason for writing in the way we do. It is easy to conceive, however, that it is not because we make a breach of so-called "medical ethics" in large entrances to the courts; in this court house could be located the law courts, the police station, besides many offices, the police station, besides many offices, the police station, besides many offices, which could be utilized for the sheriff's offices, clerk of the peace, etc.

It is in the interest of the city to open out our streets in the best advantage for all concerned; and no cheese-paring should be thought of when money is to be laid out with a view to future requirements. The fire establishment, of course, must be thought of and put into a position where it could be made most use of, and properly could probably be bought at or near the northwest corner of Adelaide and Church streets, which would admirably suit this purpose. Many persons from a distance have to come into the city for the purpose of attending the every day, hence our reason for writing in the way we do. It is easy to conceive, however, that it is not because we make a breach of so-called "medical ethics" in a description of the city to open out our streets of the city to open out our streets of the city to open out our streets of the city to open out our stree derhand" and ungentiemany attempt which this medical man made to "vilify" us. Such cases are occurring to our notice every day, hence our reason for writing in the way we do. It is easy to conceive, however, that it is not because we make a breach of so-called "medical ethics" in advertising our specialty that we are taken to task, but rather because the profession know of our increasing success and that our gain is their loss. That our influence is being severely felt, no better evidences can be required than that our institution is noticed in no less than three different articles in the last issue of the Lancet. In conclusion we beg to say that if we "vilify" the profession or any of its members let them follow our example and seek redress in a court of law. And while we feel obliged —What is better than presence of body, of course. Be prepared for accidents and emergencies by having a bottle of Hagyard's Yellow Oil, the great external and internal remedy for all pain, soreness, lower with a square of lawn or Swiss and hold before the five a moment before applying. A neural gic pain in the face or any part of the body is helped by a mustard plaster, and also toothache, rheumatism, and pain in the face or structive that the gazers blocked the streets, and his competitors asked the courts to haul in his attractions, and the court made the order.

To the Editor of the World. SIR: Now that the question of hunting deer with dogs has assumed a tangible shape a few remarks by an old hunter may be in place. To begin with, will you quote the act as it is! and also let us en know the import of the bill introduced last session by Mr. Monck, M.P.P. Your idea of calling upon the Toronto Gun club to take action in the matter is a good one. know the import of the bill introduced The club contains some genuine sportsmen,

Many remedies present themselves.

To the Editor of The World: Sir-I attended the Grand opera house on Saturday afternoon and have a grievance. Buying a seat in the dress circle I handed in my ticket and passed inside, or at least I attempted to pass inside. The place was so thoroughly jammed that I could not get in.

I was refused my money back by the manager. The least that Manager Sheppard could do, and which is done in all the respectable theatres in New York, Boston, Chicago, etc., is to hang out the familiar sign, "standing room only," when all the seats are sold. People could then govern themselves accordingly. It would be nothing but justice if the Grand people ceased selling tickets on Saturday when their house was as full as it could hold. their house was as full as it could hold.

The City and the New Court House. The civic court house committee met Saturday and passed the following resolution: In view of the fact that this comtion: In view of the fact that this committee was not asked to join the county committee in the selection of the proposed site for the new court house, they decline positively on behalf of the city to accept either of the sites mentioned in the notice served upon the city by the county clerk. The committee would, however, be glad to meet the county committee for the purpose of discussing the question of choosing a site, and if the county committee decline the proposed conference, the matter will have to be determined by arbitration as provided by section 427 of the consolidated municipal act of 1883.

The Toronto Riding School. this city. On Friday and Saturday saw the opening scenes in the Toronto riding school, which is situated in rear of Trimble's transfer, Wellington street. Entrance is from Millstone lane off York trance is from Milistone later the imstreet. The school will be under the immediate charge of Mr. Lloyd, an English gentleman, and he will be assisted by his accomplished young lady, gentleman, and he will be assisted by his daughter, an accomplished young lady, and a thorough horsewoman. The building in which the riding lessons will be given is fitted up with all the necessary appointments for a first-class school. The Zoo to be Enlarged. A meeting of the directors of the Toonto Zoological society was held Friday afternoon at the office of the president. Present: W. B. Scarth, president, Messrs. T. McGaw, D. Roberts, J. G. Beard, A. W. Godson, H. L. Piper and others. After hearing the report of the management and of the success that has attended the efforts to promote such an attractive institution in the city since its organization, it was to promote such an attractive institution in the city since its organization, it was decided to enlarge the membership and to secure more desirable premises, the present site being too limited for the purposes intended, and to erect suitable buildings similar to those in American cities. As it is understood that Rev.

Rooney has determined to retire from the separate school board at the end of the current year to make room for a younger if not more energetic man, we believe it is the intention of the members of that body to make the reverend gentleman a presentation, but what shape it will assume has yet to be decided.

A HOME DRUGGIST TESTIFIES.

Popularity at home is not always the best test of merit, but we point proudly to the fact that no other medicine has won for itself such universal approbation in its own city, state, and country, and among all people, as Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

RHEUMATISM. had an attack of Rheumatism, so severe that I could not move from the bed, or dress, without help. I tried several remedies without much if any relief, until I took AYER'S ARRAPARILLA, by the use of two bottles of which I was completely cured. Have sold large quantities of your SARSAPARILA, and it still retains its wonderful popularity. The many notable cures it has effected in this vicinity convince me that it is the best blood medicine ever offered to the public.

TESTING ITS MERITS.

So much has been said regarding the wo derful cures made through the aid of the spirometer, the invention of Dr. M. Souvielle of Paris ex-aide surgeon of the French army, that many eminent physicians have been induced to investigate the instrument, and also Throat and Lung Institute. All who have so investigated express themselves satisfied that the physicians comprising the staff of the institute are thoroughly qualified medical men, that patients receive the latest and most scientific treatment, and that the spirometer is really a valuable addition to medical science. One very prominent physician said: "If there is anything in inhalation it can be got out of the spirometer. I am surprised at the powerful effects produced." Any one suffering from Asthma, Bronchitis, Catarrh, Catarrhal Deafness, Consumption in its first stages or Laryngits should consult the physicians of the institute personally and be examined; if not, write for a list of questions and copy of "International News," published monthly. TO THE MAN WHO THINKS. 213 YONGE STREET.

Suppose a wealthy man of your acquaintance, one whose word and whose ability to carry out his promises you placed full confidence in, proposed to sell you a valuable farm, worth at this time, say $10,000, and would sell it to you as being an exceptionally healthy man, on a credit running through ten years, with a certain equal amount payable each year of the ten, and that it was in your power to apply that sum each year to the payment required. Suppose further, that this friend said: You can make these yearly payments for any number of the ten years that you please, and if you see fit, for any cause, to stop these payments at the end of any of the years short of the ten, (after two years have been paid for) I will make you a deed of the land in the proportion you have paid for; and, further, I agree to give you, at the end of each year, while you are making these payments, the annual profits, earnings, or dividends on that farm, and, each year, deduct from your annual payment such earnings profits, or dividends as the farm may earn that year; and he assures you that these earnings or dividends will probably increase each year, and materially reduce the amount of from your annual payment such earnings, profits, or dividends as the farm may earn that year; and he assures you that these earnings or dividends will probably increase each year, and materially reduce the amount of your annual payment, and that the farm in that ten years shall not be liable for your debts, and he further guarantees that at the end of the ten years the farm shall, be worth exactly $10,000. He then says: Take this offer and I will further bind myself and guarantee to you that if you will keep up your annual payments, and die ANY TIME within those ten years, and before all the payments are made, that in such case, I will deliver or pay over to your wife or to any person you may will or devise it to, THE ENTIRE FARM, or $10,000 IN GOLD COIN, and require no further payments on the same. WOULD YOU NOT BUY A FARM UNDER SUCH CIRCUMSTANCES?
