PREFACE.

THIS Year Book is published by order of Convocation, and, in presenting it now to Trinity men and others, the Editors beg for a very special consideration, as their time was limited and their sources of information were few and difficult of access. In spite of careful work many errors have, it is feared, crept into the book, and much valuable and interesting information has eluded a patient and persistent search.

The Editors' thanks are due to the writers of the various articles, to several members of the staff (especially the Registrar) without whose help the work could not have been done, also to graduates and others who so readily responded to the request for information; and, among the last-mentioned, particularly to the Reverends D. F. Bogert, C. B. Bergin Wright, G. F. Davidson, H. Symonds, A. J. Belt, F. G. Plummer, Doctor Mockridge, and Messrs. James Henderson, J. Travers Lewis, N. F.

Davidson, Warren Burton, J. A. Houston, and J. Grayson Smith. Thanks are offered, too, to Professor Huntingford for the design for the cover of the book and to several of the undergraduates for the help they very kindly gave with the proof-reading.

In the directory no mention is made of graduates other than those who have taken degrees in Arts or Divinity, or who have had honorary degrees conferred upon them. If it is deemed advisable to enlarge the scope of the book hereafter, graduates in other faculties will then find their names included. Following the custom of the University, the names of deceased graduates have been omitted from these College lists.

It is to be hoped that, in spite of its many imperfections, the book will prove of interest and that it may be the first of a long series increasing in value each year. Readers of the book are requested to send to the Editors corrections, additions, and suggestions, for it is only by such means that subsequent volumes can be made better.

Happily the Cricket score book mentioned in Mr. Bell's article as having disappeared has been found, but too late to serve the purposes of the Year Book.

TRINITY COLLEGE YEAR BOOK.

PART I.

Trinity University, TORONTO.

FOUNDED BY ROYAL CHARTER, JULY 15TH, 1852.

Founder:—THE HONOURABLE AND RIGHT REVEREND JOHN STRACHAN,
D.D., LL.D., first Bishop of Toronto,

ALTHOUGH the Year Book is intended to deal especially with Trinity College, its life, and undergraduate institutions, it has been deemed advisable to give a short account of Trinity, the University, which is an entirely different thing from Trinity, the College.

As a University, Trinity holds examinations and grants degrees in seven faculties, viz.:—Arts, Divinity, Medicine, Law, Music, Dentistry, and Pharmacy. All regulations relating to these degrees and examinations, as well as all appointments to examinerships, are made by the chief governing body of the University, the Corporation, usually upon the recommendation of the Executive Committee. The various Boards of Studies, composed of ex-officio and appointed members, send up to the Executive Committee suggestions as to changes in the curricula and nominations for examiners.

In addition to its University functions, Corporation has certain College functions to discharge, inasmuch as it is the ultimate authority in the affairs of Trinity College, as well as in those of the University. These College functions relate mainly to appointments to the staff in Arts and Divinity, and to endowment and property; for ordinary matters of discipline, etc. are attended to by the College Committee. In the management of the Trinity Medical College, the Ontario Medical College for Women, and the Toronto Conservatory of Music, Corporation has no authority, they being affiliated institutions with full self-governing powers; though, of course, they have representatives in Corporation, and upon the Boards of Studies and the Executive Committee.

In the earlier days there was a professor of Music in Trinity College and a full teaching staff in Law, while before 1871 the Medical School had an even more intimate connexion with the University than that which now exists. Indeed, Professor Hind, not to mention others, lectured in Chemistry to students both in Arts and Medicine, and, from old Calendars, one might infer that the Dean of the Medical Faculty stood in somewhat the same relation to Corporation as does the Dean of Trinity College at the present time.

One thing is certain at any rate, and that is, that the Medical Faculty, or, if it is preferable so to speak, the Medical School, was the first part of the University to begin active operations. Bishop Strachan, our Founder, had not returned from England in 1850, whither he had gone to solicit a charter for a University "in close connexion with the Church of England," when active steps were taken by Drs. Bovell, Hodder, and Melville, among others, toward the establishment of a Medical School as a part of the proposed University. As the last named gentleman tells us in his admirable History of Trinity College, the Bishop opened the School on the 7th of November in that year, a few days after his return to the city. On the 15th of January, 1852, Trinity College was formally inaugurated; on the 15th of July of the same year the Royal Charter under which we still work was granted, after long and vexatious delays; and, after the election of the Honourable Chief Justice Robinson to the Chancellorship and his installation in office, June 1853, the first Convocation for conferring degrees was held. Till 1871 a religious test was imposed upon all graduating students, but in that year the practice was discontinued, chiefly on account of the graduates in Medicine. Now, therefore, the University is open in all departments to any and every one, who, as the Founder said, chooses to avail himself or herself of its advantages. She stands for religious teaching as an integral and necessary part of a liberal education, for the residential system, and for everything good which that implies in making men, as well as for a high standard of attainment on the purely scholastic side—in fact for the University idea properly so called. And though there may have been periods when the intentions of our Founder have perhaps been partially lost sight of, Trinity has, upon the whole, been true to her ideals, and her sons have no reason for being ashamed of their Alma Mater.

Besides Trinity College and the other institutions already referred to, Trinity University has in St. Hilda's College a Residence which forms an admirable home for the women who are seeking the higher education she offers them.

Trinity College School, too, is a part of the University. Under Dr. Bethune and Mr. Badgley it has made a name for itself which amply justifies its foundation as a feeder to the University. Begun in Weston rather more than thirty years ago and, early in its history, removed to Port Hope, it is in some sort the successor of St. Paul's Church Grammar School, which, according to Melville, took a prominent part in connexion with the laying of the foundation stone of Trinity College on the 30th of April, 1851. Though many of our men now come from High Schools and Collegiate Institutes, from Upper Canada College and Ridley College, still Trinity College School is in a peculiar sense a Trinity Institution, as the professors in Arts and Divinity are members of its governing body. To give its history at length would be interesting to us, if not to our readers, but we bequeath the task to some of our successors, who will, we hope, be more competent to arrange the mass of material contained in old calendars of the University.

Trinity College.

AS has been already implied, Trinity College is the central part of Trinity University, or, as it should be called in strict accordance with legal phraseology, the University of Trinity College. Now that St. Hilda's College has given up the business of lecturing, Trinity College is the only Arts' College in connection with the University. It is important to emphasize the fact that it is an Arts' College, for, even among the members of the Church of England, that is apt to be overlooked. Nobody wishes to minimize the important work the College is doing in training the future clergy of the Church; but, on the other hand, it must never be forgotten that both the Founder and the first Provost regarded the service of God by laymen in the discharge of their duties as citizens of this country as an acceptable service, and as requiring just the sort of Christian training Trinity tries to give those who never intend to take Holy Orders.

What Trinity has been, and is, as a home to those who have lived beneath her roof, only they can tell. That she has been vastly more than a place for hearing lectures in, accounts, we take it, for the deep and abiding affection with which she is regarded alike by those who have taken degrees and by those who have gone down without them.

Bursar and Secretary :—H. W. CHURCH, M.A.

ST. HILDA'S College, founded by Dr. Body in 1888, has succeeded in its aims and objects even beyond the anticipations of its founder, and has advanced steadily until the present time, when it may be said to have become firmly established and recognized. Dr. Body, to whose untiring efforts and determined perseverance the success of the institution is mainly due, realized, as the number of women taking a University course increased, the great necessity of providing a comfortable and suitable home for them where they would have the full benefit of collegiate life and education and he determined that a College for this purpose should be provided for those who intended taking the Arts' Course of Trinity University. With this object in view he consulted many of his friends, and, having set before them his ideas on the subject, appealed to them, as only he could do, to give their help to so worthy an enterprise, and, having gained their sympathy and support, he lost no time in taking steps to start the work.

In little more than a year a small house was taken in the neighbourhood of Trinity; the present Lady Principal was appointed, and undertook the management of the internal affairs of St. Hilda's College, which began its career with five students, two being in residence, the others attending daily for lectures. By the end of the first year it was found necessary to move into a more commodious residence, and, as there was great difficulty in finding a suitable one, two adjoining houses had to be taken, which, after several necessary alterations had been made, provided resident accommodation for six students.

At the end of three years it was again found necessary to move in order to make room for the increasing number of students, hence in 1892 two larger houses were rented, and the Collegiate year opened with fourteen students.

Once again more commodious quarters were found requisite, and in 1895 a third house was taken.

It now became very evident that a building strictly Collegiate in its appearance and requirements was desirable and necessary. In the Autumn of 1895 a petition was addressed to the Corporation of Trinity University, setting forth the needs of the women students, and begging that a grant of land might be made on which the College should be built.

This petition was favourably received, and in the Spring of the present year a portion of the ground surrounding Trinity was allotted for the purpose. Money has been promised for the erection of the building, and some of the sums have already been paid over to the Chancellor, so that there is every hope that before very long the corner stone may be laid.

The work accomplished by many of the students during their College life, and their success in different vocations, after receiving the degree of B.A., has fully justified the zeal with which those really interested in the welfare of Canadian women undertook to help them to gain such an education as would fit them to enter successfully the various avenues of employment now open to women.

Of the fifty-four students whose names have been entered in the books of St. Hilda's College, twenty-three have taken the B.A. degree, and two of these have since taken that of M.A..

The leaders, or we may say the pioneers, of this body are Miss Middleton, the daughter of Canon Middleton, rector of St. George's, Oshawa, and Miss Elliott, the daughter of Judge Elliott Jr., of London, Ontario; both showed themselves possessed of more than usual ability, and of a determination and perseverance which enabled them at the end of three year's work to take an honour degree of the highest standing.

Miss Middleton's success as a teacher is well known, and is a strong proof that she is using her powers in the best possible way.

Miss Clara Brett Martin has the honour of having, with much patience and determination, overcome the prejudices of those who were averse to women taking up the study of law, with a view to becoming lawyers. She succeeded in being admitted as a law student at Osgoode Hall in 1893, and, after being refused in May, was called to the Bar in September of this year. She took a first class honour degree in Mathematics, and was most successful as a coach in this subject, none of her pupils ever having failed to pass their examinations.

Mrs. Cornwall, who took the degree of M.A. in 1895, is now the Principal of a large girls' school at Kingston.

Fourteen students have taken up special work, and most of them have done well in their respective courses.

At the University examinations in June last Miss Lily B. Emery of Kemptville had the honour of being the first woman to hold the scholarship she had won, for, though other women, notably Miss M. I. Lowe, had won scholarships in former years, they were debarred by University regulations from enjoying them.

Space will not permit a detailed account of the excellent work of all who have graduated, but there are not stronger advocates than the graduates themselves of the benefits derived and the advantages to be gained in every way by a three years residence in College.

Trinity Medical College.

Dean:—W. B. GEIKIE, M.D., C.M., D.C.L.

THIS College is now an independent self-sustaining and self-governing body, incorporated under a special Act by the Legislature of the Province of Ontario. As far back as 1850, a Medical School was formed in Toronto, named "The Ontario School of Medicine," which, very shortly after it was constituted, became the Medical Department of Trinity University. As such, it was successfully conducted for some years. Notwithstanding the unqualified success which attended its teaching, circumstances occurred, which, in the opinion of the Faculty, appeared at the time to necessitate the discontinuance of the work so auspiciously begun.

After being in abeyance for several years, a Medical Faculty was again formed in 1871, consisting of some of the members of the former Faculty and other well known and successful medical teachers. This new body was that year constituted the Medical Department of Trinity University on a much more perfect and a broader basis than its predecessor, and was, therefore, more likely to be successful, if conducted, as it has been, with zeal, energy, and ability. Every care was taken to have each chair of the newly re-organized Faculty well filled, and it has been a perfect success from the first as a medical teaching body, and has grown in public confidence and favour year by year.

In 1877, with the full concurrence of the authorities of Trinity University, it was considered desirable in the interests, alike of the University and of the Medical Faculty, and indeed necessary in view of certain legislation which about that time had been passed by the Provincial Legislature affecting medical teaching bodies and their rights, that the Medical Faculty should apply to the Legislature of Ontario for a special Act of Incorporation. This was readily granted, and, under the new Act, the school became "TRINITY MEDICAL SCHOOL." In 1888 the Act was amended, and the School was raised to the standing and dignity of a College, and became "Trinity Medical College."

During the whole period since the re-establishment of the Faculty in 1871 up to the present, unceasing vigilance has been exercised over all the interests of this institution. This has involved no small amount of labour and very great responsibility, but has helped to promote the gratifying prosperity which the College has for many years enjoyed, and to secure for it the high position it now occupies. We sincerely bespeak for it a long and prosperous career. May it be as successful during the next quarter of a century, as it has been during the twenty-four years which the Spring of 1896 brought to a close.

Under its Act of Incorporation the College is fully affiliated with several Universities—with Trinity, as already stated, and also with Toronto, Queen's, and Manitoba Universities—and is fully recognized by all Colleges and Royal Colleges in Canada and Great Britain and Ireland, which grant Medical and Surgical Diplomas, besides having all the powers required by a Medical College actively and successfully engaged in teaching.

The Ontario Medical College for Women.

Dean :—R. B. NEVITT, B.A., M.D., C.M.

Secretary :—D. J. GIBB WISHART, B.A., M.D., C.M.

THIS School of Medicine began its existence fourteen years ago under very adverse circumstances. At that time, in Canada, the idea that women were fit to enter the learned professions was young, and that they should think of taking up the study of Medicine was horrible. The idea, however, grew steadily, the women persisted in their efforts and conclusively proved that they could make successful practitioners even under great difficulties, and against prolonged, and even violent, opposition. As the idea gained ground, its adversaries became less violent, though no less persistent, as its advocates increased in number and influence. Under the late Dr. Michael Barrett, for many years an honoured Master in Upper Canada College and a Professor in Trinity Medical College, the Woman's Medical College of Toronto was organized, and he was made Dean of the Faculty. He was determined that, if women insisted on studying Medicine, they should have the opportunity of acquiring a thorough grounding in the science, and a training in the art in every way equal to that obtained by the men, and that they should be unhampered by the trials and troubles of co-education. To make the school a success, it was necessary to overcome the sentimental prejudices of certain opponents, and to dissipate the prosaic, but more difficult, opposition of others who refused to believe that women were capable of pursuing the study of Scientific Medicine. To accomplish these ends no one was better gifted than Dr. Barrett, an educationist of long standing and of more than provincial renown, a Doctor of the old school, yet imbued with the fire and the energy of youth. Under his skilful direction the School was organized and began its difficult task. Before his death, Dr. Barrett rejoiced in beholding the fruition of many of his hopes, and had the satisfaction of knowing that the school was soundly established and had won a reputation for excellent and reliable work.

Dr. Alexander McPhedran was chosen to fill the vacant chair of the deceased Dr. Barrett, and under his vigorous and beneficent rule the College continued its prosperous career. However, greatly to the regret of the friends of the College, Dr. McPhedran resigned his position of Dean to accept a professorship in the University of Toronto. Under his successor, the present Dean, there has been no abatement of the vigorous growth of the institution. Working under a new Charter and with the adoption of its present name, in a commodious building conveniently situated, with all the facilities for teaching required by a modern school, and with a large and efficient staff of teachers, there is every prospect of continued success.

The School is a teaching body and prepares its students to take the examinations of the various licence and degree conferring institutions of the country. It is affiliated with the University of Trinity College and each year has sent up a notable number of aspirants for the degree of M.D., C.M.. The University of Toronto and the College of Physicians and Surgeons recognize its lecture tickets. At the examinations held by these various examining boards the students have generally taken a very creditable position, and in many cases an excellent one. The Faculty of the school accord a certificate under certain conditions to the graduating class. The certificate, in addition to being a pleasing memento of four years of College life, is also intended to serve as a reliable guarantee that the holder is really qualified to engage in the practice of Physic.

Of those who have passed through the College, Dr. Susanna Boyle has for a number of years done excellent work on the teaching staff; in addition to engaging in a successful general practice, she has done a great deal of literary and scientific work in various Medical Journals, and particularly in Ethnography, assisting her father, Mr. David Boyle, in the Canadian Institute. Dr. Boyle also holds the position of Physician to the Girls' Home, and has recently been appointed Lecturer in Anatomy and Physiology at the Presbyterian Ladies' College in Bloor Street.

Dr. S. Carson, '88, is in China, and Dr. McKay, '88, is in Central India. Dr. I. M. Taylor, '89, is Resident Physician of the New England Hospital for Women in Boston, where Dr. C. Sinclair, '96, has been her assistant.

Dr. E. Hurdon, '95, is assistant in Pathology, in Johns Hopkins' Hospital, Baltimore, and also had charge of the Women's Dispensary, South Charles Street.

Dr. Irwin, '96, goes to Ceylon to assume charge of a hospital.

Dr. Fleming, '94, is resident assistant in the Asylum Hospital, Worcester, Mass.

Dr. Pringle, '95, is resident physician at the Bloomingdale Asylum, New York.

Dr. Graham, '91, went to China as a medical missionary, and perished, a victim of cholera, on October, 13th, 1894.

Other graduates have gone to India and China, where they are doing good work in the mission fields.

Toronto Conservatory of Music.

Musical Director:—EDWARD FISHER, Esq.

Secretary:—GEO. J. BARCLAY, Esq.

THE study of music has in recent years become so general amongst all classes of society that it is now regarded as a necessary part of a complete education. It is one of the most wonderful and delightful gifts with which the Almighty has endowed mankind, and seems like an inspiration to all other arts. It can represent and express every emotion of which the human mind and heart is capable; joy and grief, the martial sentiment, the humorous, and the spirit of the most reverential worship. No influence could be more elevating, ennobling, and refining, when properly directed, than that of music. Of late years much has been done to encourage its study. Private schools for instruction have sprung up everywhere, whilst institutions of more pretentious character and higher aims have been established. Foremost amongst these, on this Continent, is the Toronto Conservatory of Music, which was organized to meet the demands, in this city, of learning in the arts and sciences, for a more comprehensive organization for instruction in musical art, than had heretofore existed in Canada. To meet this growing need, to broaden the channels of systematic and scientific musical training, and to place within reach of all lovers of this divine art the opportunity for a liberal and comprehensive musical education, the Conservatory of Music was established.

Founded in 1886 and opened for work in 1887, it has met with unprecedented success, and stands to-day the pioneer and leading musical institution in Canada, being first in capacity, appointments, and equipment. To afford its students the highest scholastic advantages, it has become affiliated with our Universities, which possess the authority, conferred by Royal Charter, to grant the degrees of Mus. Bac., and Mus. Doc. It has enjoyed affiliation with Trinity University since 1888. Its Board of Directors, chosen from the founders of the institution, are men of well-known high standing and character. The Honourable G. W. Allan—than whom there is no gentleman in Toronto better known as possessing a deep interest in the cause of art, education, and musical progress—being the President; the Honourable Chancellor Boyd and Mr. W. Barclay McMurrich, Q.C., Vice-Presidents; Mr. Horatio W. Nelson, Honorary Treasurer; and Mr. Edward Fisher, Musical Director; the Honourable Mr. Justice MacLennan and Messrs. Elmes Henderson, Henry Pellatt, James Henderson, S. H. Janes, E. A. Scadding, and Auguste Bolté being the other members of the Board. The Faculty includes musicians of the highest eminence and repute for their artistic and finished abilities as instructors. The courses of study and system of instruction are such as afford a comprehensive, liberal, and artistic musical education. Students are carefully grounded and brought forward from the primary grades to the highest standard of efficiency, both the classical and the more modern schools of music being used, that the student may become familiar with the best forms of music, new and old. The departments of study embrace all branches of music, theoretical, instrumental, and vocal, elocution, languages, and tuning; all having not only the advantages of thoroughly capable teachers, but also the special care and personal supervision of the Musical Director, Mr. Edward Fisher, to whose abilities, experience, and judgment may be attributed, in a large measure, the unqualified success of this deservedly popular institution. Scholarships and medals are offered for open competition in various departments each year, while, in addition to the regular work of the several courses, students have many valuable "free advantages" such as elementary harmony, sight singing, ensemble, piano and orchestral practice, concerts, lectures, recitals, etc..

The aim of the Conservatory is to afford the best possible facilities for acquiring a sound and liberal training in all branches of music, developing not only the practical side of the student's progress, but providing also complete instruction in the theory and history of music as well. Its object is also to educate the public taste for the better class of music by bringing within the reach of all the means to cultivate this delightful and divinely given art.

Convocation.

By the REVEREND H. H. BEDFORD-JONES, M.A., Clerk of Convocation.

CONVOCATION is the degree-conferring and the consulting body of the University. In the Royal Charter which Trinity holds provision was made for graduates in Arts, Divinity, Law, and Medicine, to become Members of Convocation by the annual payment of twenty shillings. This provision, however, became practically a dead letter, the University was governed solely by the Bishops of the Province and their nominees, nothing was done to stimulate the interest of graduates in their University, and what ought to have been a most valuable support to Trinity was entirely neglected. The late Provost, Dr. Body, and several prominent laymen who were graduates, felt some ten years ago that something should be done towards keeping those who looked to Trinity as their Alma Mater in constant touch with her, and giving them a more direct interest in the conduct and management of their University. The matter was thoroughly discussed and energetically taken up by some of the younger graduates, and at length a preliminary meeting was held in Toronto at the Synod Office in June, 1886. It was very well attended by about sixty graduates, who were most enthusiastic, and thoroughly unanimous with regard to the project of reviving Convocation. The late Salter VanKoughnet was in the chair, and the Rev. H. Symonds, now Rector of Ashburnham, acted as secretary. A provisional committee was appointed to draw up a constitution which should be presented and discussed at the first General Meeting, and meantime it was determined to interest and enrol as many members as possible.

The first General Meeting was held on Nov. 3rd, 1887, and, as the actions of that meeting are interesting and important, it may be well to state briefly what was done at it. Besides the Chancellor, who took the chair, the Lord Bishop of Niagara, and the staff of the College, the following graduates were present:—Revs. W. B. Carey, A. J. Broughall, J. D. Cayley, O. P. Ford, Dr. Davies, J. Gibson, J. Scott Howard, J. Langtry, C. R. Lee, J. Maccollum, R. J. Moore, T. W. Paterson, H. Symonds, G. I. Taylor, C. E. Thomson, Canon Tremayne, Canon Worrell, Dr. Harris, Messrs. S. J. VanKoughnet, J. A. Worrell, W. P. Atkinson, B. Cumberland, Elmes Henderson, James Henderson, Beverley Jones, A. F. Matheson, G. A. Mackenzie, T. H. Ince, J. S. Broughall, J. Carson, E. C. Cayley, C. Hanning, N. F. Davidson, H. O. Tremayne, Miss E. S. Mellish, and Miss H. Gregory.

In his opening address, the Chancellor spoke of the movement as one he looked upon with interest and hope, a movement likely to do more than had been accomplished for many years to increase the resources and extend the influence of the University. In particular he hoped it would give more cohesion to the graduate body, since to it in the first place must Trinity look for support, and bring about more concerted action on their part than had ever hitherto been the case.

The report from the Provisional Committee was adopted and the constitution which had been drafted was submitted and discussed clause by clause. The following are some of the most important clauses :—

"There shall be an Executive Committee, consisting of the officers of Convocation (President, Chairman, and Clerk), the Provost and the Dean of Trinity College, the Registrar of Trinity University, twelve elected members and the representatives of local branches."

"The Officers shall be elected at the Annual Meeting, (except the President, who is ex-officio the Chancellor for the time being.) The Executive Committee shall be elected at the Annual Meeting, six members every year to hold office for two years."

Full membership is open, upon payment of the annual fee of $5, to Masters of Arts and to graduates in Divinity, Law, and Medicine."

Provision was also made for enrolling Associate Members. As the regulation governing this has been changed and added to several times, we give it as it stands at present :

"In addition to the full members of Convocation, the following shall be eligible for enrolment as associate members, viz:—All such Bachelors of Arts and Graduates in Music as shall pay the annual sum of five dollars towards the support and maintenance of the University, and such other persons as shall make the like annual payment and shall have been approved of as Associate Members by the Executive Committee.

The annual payment in the case of Clergy and members of the Divinity Class of Trinity College shall be two dollars.

Bachelors of Arts of the University during the first four years succeeding their graduation, may have all the privileges of Full Members of Convocation on payment of a fee of two dollars per annum.

Bachelors of Arts of the University of more than four years' and less than seven years' standing may have all the privileges of Full Members of Convocation on payment of a fee of five dollars per annum.

The said fees shall be payable to the Clerk on or before the first day of July in each year, and the names of all Bachelors making the said payment shall be included by the Clerk in his annual list of Members of Convocation."

After the adoption of the Constitution Mr. J. A. Worrell was unanimously elected Chairman of Convocation, and year by year he has been unanimously re-elected ever since. The Rev. H. Symonds was elected Clerk of Convocation and ably filled the office until 1893, when the difficulty of carrying on the work after his resignation of his professorship and consequent departure from Trinity, brought about his regretted withdrawal from the office. Much of the work of carrying out the details of the movement fell upon his shoulders, and he contributed very largely to its success.

The first Executive Committee was then elected: S. J. VanKoughnet, Jas. Henderson, F. B. Cumberland, G. A. Mackenzie, Rev. Dr. Carry, Dr. Harris, Rev. K. L. Jones, Dr. Sheard, Rev. O. P. Ford, Messrs. N. F. Davidson, A. F. Matheson, and C. L. Ferguson.

A motion pressing upon Corporation the establishment of an Honour Course in Modern Languages was among the resolutions passed at this meeting. This recommendation was shortly carried out, Convocation voting from its income part of the necessary funds.

The ensuing two years was a period of rapid growth in the list of members, meetings were held in various places throughout Ontario, tours were undertaken by the Provost, Prof. Clark, Prof. Symonds, the Rev. E. C. Cayley, Mr. Cumberland, and others, separately or together, and Toronto was pretty thoroughly canvassed. In 1888 the membership was 350 and there was a balance of nearly $1,200. Appropriations were made from this to help in the establishment of Fellowships in Classics and in Theology. In 1889 the membership had risen to nearly 500, and the balance on hand was $1,600, the highest amount recorded. In 1890 it had fallen to $1,523, and the amount received from Convocation has varied since between that and $900. The falling off can easily be understood after the first efforts were over, but even this diminished amount is a substantial addition to Trinity's income. If all graduates were members it would be materially increased, and it is to them, and especially to the younger graduates, that Convocation looks for help in this direction. With a view to securing co-operation, certain recent changes in the Constitution have made it very easy for them to join.

Since its revival Convocation as a body, or through its Executive Committee, has proposed and urged many measures of advantage to Trinity. It has secured representation on the Corporation for Graduates in Law and Medicine as well as in Arts, and for Associate Members, altogether fourteen. It started the new Building Fund at one of its meetings; it promoted the erection of the large western wing, 1889-90; it pressed the demands of the students for a more suitable gymnasium, and thus helped to bring about the erection, in 1894, of the present building attached to the new eastern wing. Speaking broadly, Convocation has conferred on Trinity two great benefits:

(1) The annual fees have been a substantial addition to the income of the University. It was, as has been stated, due to Convocation in the first instance, that the course in Honour Moderns was made possible by the establishment of a Lectureship in that branch of study, and Convocation supplied part of the necessary funds for a Fellowship in Classics and a Professorship in History. At one of the General Meetings the late Provost stated that almost every enlargement of the curriculum and teaching staff during the last few years had been due in the first instance to Convocation.

(2) The graduates and many of the friends of Trinity have been organized throughout the Province. Trinity's work is much better known and the interest taken in her by Churchmen increased. One evidence of this may be found in the steadily increasing number of students in Arts.

EXECUTIVE—The Executive Committee meets in accordance with the constitution at least twice a year to receive reports from sub-committees and Local Associations, as well as generally to discuss matters connected with the welfare of the University. As a matter of fact it meets much oftener, probably about eight times during the year, on notice from the Clerk. It prepares an annual report on the work of the year which is laid before the general meeting in November and discussed, and it suggests subjects for the meeting to express opinions and recommendations upon. It looks after the keeping of Trinity's work and claims before the public by means of meetings, pamphlets, and the use of the press, and in this respect has overcome much of the prevailing ignorance about, or prejudice against, the University. The present Executive consists of the following members:—The Chancellor and the Registrar of the University, the Provost and the Dean of the College, the Chairman and the Clerk of Convocation ex-officio, the Rev. Prof. Cayley, and Messrs. G. F. Harman, N. F. Davidson, D. T. Symons, J. G. Carter Troop, and C. S. MacInnes, who hold office till the general meeting in November, 1896, and the Rev. J. S. Broughall, Rev. J. C. H. Mockridge, Professor Mackenzie, Messrs. A. H. Young, Kirwan Martin, and A. B. Pottenger who hold office until 1897, and Mr. Warren Burton and Dr. William Pepler, representing respectively the Hamilton and Toronto Local Associations.

For the purpose of bringing Trinity more directly into touch with the public and educational life of the Province, Convocation has deemed it advisable to arrange for lectures in as many towns as possible.

LOCAL ASSOCIATIONS—The Constitution of Convocation provides for Local Associations in all the cities and principal towns of Ontario. The three strongest branches are those in Toronto, Hamilton, and the Diocese of Ontario. The Toronto Branch was organized only during the past year. A meeting was held on January 20th, 1896, in the Dining Hall of the College, to which all Members and Associates residing in, or near, Toronto were invited. The Chairman of Convocation took the chair, and, after a number of brief speeches pointing out the advantages which the formation of a Local Branch would, it was hoped, afford to Trinity, the meeting proceeded to organize. The following officers were elected:—

President—MR. G. S. HOLMESTED.

Vice-Presidents—MR. J. K. OSBORNE, MR. L. H. BALDWIN.

Secretary—MR. E. G. OSLER.

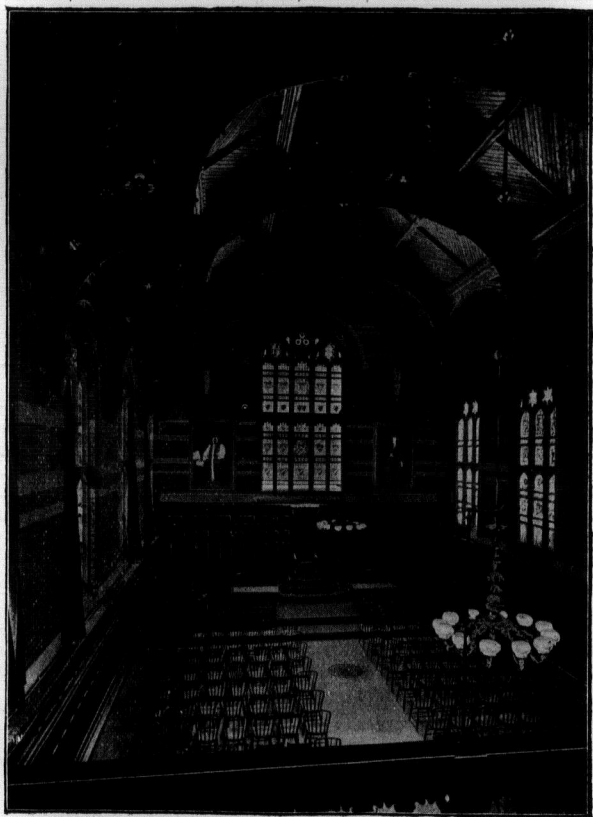

Committee—DR. PEPLER, REV. A. U. DEPENCIER, MESSRS. J. CATTO, A. F. R. MARTIN, J. D. McMURRICH, and W. REIN WADSWORTH.

In Hamilton, where Trinity has a number of warm friends, there has been a Local Association since 1889. Many useful suggestions have emanated from this Branch or from one of its members, particularly a plan for the founding of local scholarships. Up to this time, however, it has not been practicable to carry out the latter suggestion. Lectures have from time to time been delivered at Hamilton under the auspices of the Branch by Professors Clark, Rigby, and others, and last year the present Provost and the Dean addressed a most successful and enthusiastic meeting there.

The Branch of Convocation in the Diocese of Ontario was established in 1893, and has done good work in the way of keeping the University before the people of Eastern Ontario. The Local Executive meets twice a year at the same time as the Synod Committees, and the annual meeting is held on one of the evenings of Synod week. At this latter meeting, which is a public one, an opportunity is given to representatives of the University to present the aims, work, and position of Trinity before the clergy and delegates of all parishes. It has been the means of removing many misconceptions and showing what the possibilities of a Church University are.

The present officers of the Branch are :—

Chairman—R. T. WALKEM, Q.C., D.C.L.

Vice-Chairman—THE VENERABLE ARCHDEACON BEDFORD-JONES, LL.D.

Secretary Treasurer—THE REVEREND PROFESSOR WORRELL, M.A.

Trinity College,

TORONTO.

TO the enthusiasm and energy of the Right Reverend John Strachan, first Bishop of Toronto, the cause of higher education in the Province of Ontario owes a great debt of gratitude, for from the date of his arrival in the country in 1799 to his death in 1867, the advancement of the educational interest of the Province was always dear to his heart and evoked his warmest sympathy and unwearied energy.

He was brought from Scotland to take the headship of a College and University, which General Simcoe, Governor of Upper Canada, proposed to establish; but political changes occurred during the interval which elapsed between the appointment in Scotland and his arrival here, which resulted in the return of General Simcoe to England and the abandonment of his educational schemes. Deprived of the position to which he had been appointed and thrown on his own resources, Mr. Strachan accepted the post of private tutor to the sons of the Hon. Richard Cartwright of Kingston, and a few other boys, and at the same time entered on the studies preparatory to receiving Holy Orders.

In 1803 Mr. Strachan was ordained Deacon by Bishop Mountain of Quebec, and appointed to the mission of Cornwall, where, his clerical duties being light, he was induced by the solicitation of some of the parents of his Kingston pupils and residents of other parts of the Province to continue his scholastic work and to open a Grammar School.

This school was conducted for nine years with great ability, and in it were educated many who afterwards filled the highest places in Church and State and by their lives and characters reflected lustre on the little school to which they owed so much.

In 1812 Dr. Strachan was appointed Rector of Toronto, then called York, in 1825 Archdeacon of York, and in 1839 he was consecrated the first Bishop of Toronto, the New Diocese being cut off from the Diocese of Quebec.

After his removal to Toronto Dr. Strachan continued to evince the deepest interest in the advancement of education in the Province, and it was to a great extent due to his great energy and ceaseless exertions that at length, after many delays and disappointments, a charter was obtained for King's College, Toronto. The corner stone of the building was laid in 1841, and the College was opened on June 8th, 1843.

Though no religious tests were required from Professors or Graduates, yet in certain quarters much dissatisfaction was felt at the close connection of the College with the Church of England, and after several unsuccessful attempts to change its constitution were made, at length an act was passed, received the Royal assent, and came into effect on Jan. 1st, 1850, abolishing all religious teaching and supressing the Faculty of Divinity in Kings' College.

This act having been passed in spite of the strenuous opposition of the Bishop and Clergy of the Diocese of Toronto, and many of its most prominent laymen, the Venerable Bishop, now in his 72nd year, determined to enter on the arduous work of establishing a University under the direct control of the Church. He accordingly on Feb. 7th, 1850, issued a very vigorous pastoral urging upon the members of the Church the duty of contributing voluntarily to the establishment of the new Church University.

This appeal was nobly responded to, meetings were held throughout the Diocese, and the sum of $100,000 in money, lands, and stocks, a large amount considering the financial condition of the Province, was subscribed.

The Bishop, on April 10th, 1850, left for England taking with him petitions to the Queen asking for a grant of a Royal Charter for the New University signed by 11,731 persons, among whom were the Bishop, Clergy, and most of the prominent laymen of the Province.

The Bishop's reception in England was most cordial, and he obtained subscriptions amounting to £9,000 from the S.P.C.K., the S.P.G., and from private individuals, as well as an annual grant of £400 from the S.P.G., and $7\frac{1}{2}$ acres of land within the limits of the city of Toronto.

A Provisional Council was appointed, plans for the building, drawn by Mr. Kivas Tully, were adopted, and on March 7th, 1851, the first sod was turned by the Bishop, and on April 30th, the corner stone was laid by him in the presence of about 100 of his clergy, the College Council, and the newly appointed Medical Faculty. Prayers were intoned by the Rev. E. L. Elwood, Rector of Goderich, and the sermon preached by the Ven. A. N. Bethune, Archdeacon of York, in St. George's Church. After the service the Bishop, Clergy and congregation went in procession to the site, and the stone was laid with the usual ceremonies by the Lord Bishop. An address was then given by Sir Allan N. MacNab. A Latin address from the scholars of St. Paul's Church Grammar School was presented to the Bishop who replied in Latin, and the proceedings concluded with prayer by the Archdeacon of York and the Rev. H. J. Grasett, Rector of Toronto, and with the Benediction by the Bishop.

In the meantime steps had been taken in England to obtain Professors for the staff, and on January 15th, 1852, the College was opened and the Professors inaugurated, viz. : as Provost and Professor of Divinity, Rev. George Whitaker, M.A., Fellow of Queen's College, Cambridge, (6th Classic); Professor of Classics, the Rev. E. St. John Parry, M.A., Balliol College, Oxford (1st Class in Classics); Professor of Mathematics, the Rev. G. C. Irving, M.A., St. John's College, Cambridge, (8th Wrangler); Professor of Chemistry, H. G. Hind, M.A.

The first Provost was not only a man endowed with the highest moral and intellectual qualities but a preacher and speaker of such eloquence that it is not too much to say that no sermons or speeches surpassing his in elegance of language and purity of diction have ever been listened to by congregations or audiences in the Dominion of Canada. Assisted as he was by men of distinguished presence and manners and of the highest intellectual attainments in their several departments, the college entered on its career with very bright prospects, and achieved in the first years of its history a very remarkable success, considering the resources and the generally low standard of secondary education of the Province.

In 1853 Dr. Burnside made to the College the magnificent donation of £6,000, and the Council used a portion of this sum to establish two Burnside Scholarships, as a memorial of this noble benefaction.

In 1855 the first change in the staff occurred, owing to the resignation of Professor Parry, who returned to England when he received the appointment of Head Master of Leamington College. After having held this post for a few years he resigned and opened a private school for young boys at Slough, near Windsor, in which he was most successful, his pupils frequently obtaining open Scholarships at Eton, Winchester, and the other great public schools. Professor Parry's successor in the Chair of Classics was the Rev. John Ambery, M.A., of Brasenose College, Oxford.

In 1856 Professor Irving resigned and returned to England, the Chair of Mathematics being filled by the Rev. E. K. Kendall, M.A., Scholar of St. John's College, Cambridge.

In 1859, Professor Ambery received the appointment of Classical Master in a new school established in Toronto by Dr. Ryerson, then Chief Superintendent of Education for Canada West, called the Model Grammar School, and he was succeeded by the Rev. Edwin Hatch, M.A., Oxford.

In 1860, Professor Kendall having resigned, the College again secured the services of Mr. Irving, who returned as Professor of Mathematics and Vice-Provost of the College.

In 1862, Professor Hatch resigned, and after filling the office of Professor of Classics in Morin College Quebec, for a few years, returned to Oxford, where he was appointed Vice-Principal of S. Mary's Hall and held several important posts in the University, among others that of Bampton lecturer in 1880. He published several works showing great ability and research, which are regarded as valuable contributions to Theological Literature by members of the Church of liberal tendencies.

In 1863 several changes occurred in the staff, Professor Ambery returning to the chair of Classics, Professor Irving, having accepted the Rectorship of Bishop's College School, Lennoxville, in place of Dr. Williams, who had been elected Bishop of Quebec, was succeeded by the Rev. William Jones, Scholar of St. John's College Cambridge, and Wrangler, as Professor of Mathematics, and Professor Hind was succeeded by Dr. Bovell, as Professor of Physical Science. In explanation of the frequent changes which occurred from 1859 to 1863 in the staff, it may be remarked that they did not arise from any dissatisfaction on the part of the professors with their duties or with the College, but mainly from the fact that the Corporation of the day thought it essential for the discipline of the College that the Professors should reside, and refused therefore to allow them to marry.

In 1864 an effort was made to increase the endowment, and the Rev. Dr. MacMurray was deputed to visit England for that purpose. His reception was most gratifying, many of the distinguished men who had aided Bishop Strachan giving their cordial assistance to the new endeavour. Dr. MacMurray's mission, supplemented after his return by the work of the Rev. W. S. Darling, resulted in an increase to the endowment of about $22,000.

In 1867 the venerable founder of the College, in the 90th year of his age, was called to his rest on All Saints' Day. On November 5th the funeral took place, a solemn and impressive ceremony which can never be forgotten by those who witnessed it, hardly less thrilling and pathetic than the scene presented in the previous June, when the volunteers who had fallen at Ridgeway in repelling the Fenian invasion of Canada were borne to the grave amid the sobs and tears of the spectators who crowded the streets. On this occasion every possible mark of respect was shown to the deceased prelate. The route of the funeral procession was from the Palace on Front Street, up York Street, and along King Street to St. James' Cathedral. On this route all the shops were closed and the windows were all filled with those desirous of witnessing the funeral procession. The streets were thronged with spectators and the line was kept clear by the privates of the different regular and volunteer regiments in Toronto, viz., the Volunteer Battery, the Fort Artillery Company, the Grand Trunk Brigade, the 10th Royals, the Queen's Own and the Military School Cadets, two batteries of Royal Artillery dismounted, the Cavalry School Cadets and the 13th Hussars.

The hearse was preceded by the firing party of the 13th Hussars, the officers of the Volunteer and Regular Regiments, the National Societies, the City Council, the Boys and Masters of Upper Canada College, the Students and Professors of Toronto University, and the Students and Professors of Trinity College, the Clergy and the Bishop's Chaplains, the Dean of Toronto, and the Right Rev. Dr. Bethune, who as Coadjutor Bishop had succeeded to the See. The Church was hung with black, the daylight being excluded, and was dimly lighted with gas, thus producing a very solemn and impressive effect.

The first part of the service for the Burial of the Dead was read by the Rev. Canons Beaven and Baldwin, and the body was committed to the ground beneath the Chancel by the Very Rev. H. J. Grasett, D.D., Dean of Toronto, a lifelong friend of the deceased Bishop. The place where he rests is very close to the seat from which for so many years he had pronounced over the kneeling congregation the Benediction of a Father in God.

When the Bishop's will was read it was found that he had bequeathed to Trinity College his extensive and valuable library, also another very interesting legacy, to use his own words, "the splendid silver epergne which was presented to me by a large number of my former pupils, to be held by the said College in perpetuity, and always to be used at the annual dinners, and on other proper occasions." It is needless to say that this injunction has always been faithfully complied with. It may be interesting in this connection to mention that the Bishop's daughter-in-law, Mrs. Strachan, has retained the silver epergne presented by the City Council in recognition of the Bishop's services in the visitation of the cholera in 1842, and that she gave the splendid silver inkstand presented by the Clergy of the Diocese, to the Bishop of Toronto to be handed on to the successor in the See, and that it is now used by the present Bishop in his library in the See House. Mrs. Strachan presented the silver trowel used by the Bishop in laying the corner stone of Trinity College, to Professor Jones on the 25th anniversary of his appointment to his Chair, to be retained by him during his life and at his death to be given to Trinity College. This trowel was used by the Bishop of Toronto in November, 1889, to lay the foundation stone of the West Wing of the College building and by His Excellency the Earl of Aberdeen in laying the foundation stone of the Eastern Wing in June, 1894.

In 1875 Professor Ambury resigned the Chair of Classics and the Rev. H. E. Maddock, M.A., Fellow of Clare College, Cambridge, was appointed in his place.

In 1876 the family of Mr. James Henderson of Yorkville, in accordance with his desire, though no provision to that effect had been made in his will, gave $4,000 to the College. The Corporation decided to use this, together with a legacy of $4,000 from T. C. Street, Esq., of Clark Hill, towards the erection of a Convocation Hall. This Hall was opened in November, 1877, on the occasion of the installation of the Hon. G. W. Allan, D.C.L., as Chancellor in succession to the Hon. John Hillyard Cameron, Q.C., D.C.L., and has been in constant use ever since, being the scene of experiences of very varied character to the undergraduates of the University.

In 1878 Professor Maddock returned to Cambridge, where he held the post of Tutor in Cavendish College until he received the preferment of the Rectory of Patrington, Yorkshire, from Clare College. In 1895 he was appointed Canon Residentiary of York Cathedral, by the Archbishop.

In 1881, the first Provost, the Rev. George Whitaker, terminated his long period of nearly thirty years' service to the College and Church in Canada by resigning and accepting the living of Newton Toney, in the Diocese of Salisbury. The Corporation sent a deputation consisting of the Bishops of Ontario and Toronto, and Mr. John Cartwright, to England to obtain a successor, and they were fortunate enough to secure the acceptance of the office by the Rev. C. W. E. Body, M.A., Fellow of St. John's College, Cambridge. Mr. Body had, after a most distinguished career at his College, graduated with the remarkably high standing of 6th Wrangler, and 2nd class in Theology, besides taking the Bell University Scholarship and the Tyrwhitt University Scholarship in Hebrew. Mr. Body's appointment was particularly opportune, as the curriculum of the University was in sad need of revision, and the new Provost was fully acquainted with all the recent Educational advancements in the old country. His first step was to appeal, in 1882, to Churchmen for an addition to the endowment of $200,000, to add to the building and establish new Professorships and Lectureships.

The response to this appeal was so satisfactory, that in 1883 the Corporation was able to establish a second Professorship in Divinity, to which the Rev. G. A. Schneider, M.A., of Caius College, Cambridge, 2nd class in Classics and 1st class in Theology, was appointed; and a Professorship of Mental and Moral Philosophy, the first incumbent of which is the Rev. W. Clark, M.A., of Hertford College, Oxford.

Professor Clark's services have been of the greatest value to the College, as before his duties in his Philosophical lectures became too heavy to allow its continuance, he gave instruction which was much appreciated in History and English Literature, and afforded The Divinity Class the benefit of his great experience as a Parish Priest by lecturing to them on Pastoral Theology, Homiletics and Apologetics.

In 1884 the beautiful Chapel was erected, the Chancel of which is a memorial to Miss Henderson, her brothers and sisters having supplied $10,000 for the purpose. It was opened on St. Luke's Day, and has been since enriched by memorial windows in the Chancel, and other gifts in memory of deceased friends or members of the College. The organ was the gift of the Undergraduates at the time.

In 1885 Professor Schneider resigned and returned to England, where he was appointed Vice-Principal of Ridley College, Cambridge, a post he still holds. His successor was the Rev. J. C. Roper, M.A., of Keble College, Oxford, who held the Professorship up to January, 1889, when he was appointed assistant Rector of St. Thomas' Church, Toronto, and was succeeded by the Rev. Herbert Symonds, of Trinity College, Toronto.

In 1890 Professor Boys died, and the Rev. Arthur Lloyd, Fellow of St. Peter's College, Cambridge, was appointed to the vacant Professorship, which, however he held for only one year, at the end of that time accepting the Head-Mastership of Trinity College School, Port Hope. His successor was the Rev. E.

W. Huntingford, M.A., of Merton College, Oxford, 1st class in Lit. Human. in Moderations and Finals. At the same time a Professorship of History was established, and the Rev. Oswald Rigby, M.A., of St. John's College, Cambridge, was appointed the first Professor in that department.

In 1890 the west wing of the College was extended, giving excellent accommodation for two Professors and twenty-five additional students, also two large lecture rooms, and much needed improvements in the Science department.

In 1894 Dr. Body resigned the Headship of the College, and accepted the Professorship of Old Testament Exegesis in the General Theological Seminary, New York. After a year's delay the Archbishop of Canterbury, and the Bishop of Durham, to whom had been entrusted the appointment of a Provost, were fortunate enough to secure the services of the Rev. E. A. Welch, M.A., Scholar of King's College, Cambridge, 1st Class in Classics, as Provost; he entered on that office in October, 1895, and of his successful administration of that responsible office the friends of the College have the happiest anticipations.

In 1892 Professor Symonds accepted the Rectory of Ashburnham and was succeeded as Professor by the Rev. E. C. Cayley, M. A., Trinity College, Toronto.

In 1894 the extension of the east wing was most successfully carried out, the new building supplying most comfortable quarters for three or four Professors and about twenty students and excellent additions to the lecture accommodation, so that the buildings are now suitable for the accommodation of eight or ten Professors and Lecturers, about eighty-five or ninety students, with lecture rooms for about one hundred and twenty students.

In 1895 Professor Jones resigned the Chair of Mathematics which he had occupied for thirty-two years and retaining the office of Registrar of the University accepted also that of Bursar of the College. His successor as Professor of Mathematics is M. A. Mackenzie, M.A., Scholar of Selwyn College Cambridge, and Wrangler.

There is probably no College on this continent which reproduces so fully the social and academical life of the Colleges of the great Universities of the Mother Land, and Trinity will compare most favourably with the Colleges of moderate size of those ancient foundations.

It has been said that the nation which denies its past renounces its future. If we have in these pages dwelt much upon our past it is because we have a firm belief in our future. What Trinity College has tried to be in the years that are gone, what it aspires to be in still fuller and richer measure in years to come is well expressed in the two members of its name.

In the first place it is a College. A college is one or both of two things—a society and a place. It is a society, an association, a fellowship, a brotherhood of men or women united in a common purpose, sharing in common interests, animated by a common spirit. It is an organized body in which each member has a part to perform, a function to fulfil, in which, too, each member stands in a definite relation to each other member and to the whole body. Trinity aspires to be in reality and not only in name a College; its ideal is that its members, both teachers and taught, should be united in the common purpose of higher education, should share in the common interests of study and recreation, should be animated by a common spirit of devotion to this ideal, and should stand in a relation of mutual helpfulness and sympathy one towards another.

A College may also be a place, the name being applied not only to the society, but also to the "local habitation" of the Society, the home where it lives its life and does its work. Trinity College is the name not only of a Society, but also of the place that has been in a very true sense the home—intellectual and spiritual—of many of its members. And what it has been, that, again we say, it aspires to be. We look forward to the time when parents will recognize more fully than they have ever yet done the great and unique value of residence in a College as part of their sons' education. What would the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge be without their Colleges? Their distinguishing features would be gone; their unique characteristics among the great seats of learning of Europe would vanish. Trinity aspires to supply, in its measure and according to its opportunities, just those advantages which are to be found in a residential College and which cannot be found anywhere else.

The idea, however, expressed by the word College is only half, and the less important half, of the work of Trinity; or rather it should be said that it represents the superstructure, while the idea expressed in the other member of the name represents the foundation upon which all is to be built. The College has been, and for ever is to be, a place not only of education, but of religious education, not only religious but Christian, and (as the name implies) Christian in all the breadth and fulness of the revelation of Jesus Christ. It was established, as the Royal Charter has it, "for the education of youth in the Doctrines and duties of the Christian religion as inculcated by the Church of England." There is the basis on which the work has been done in the past, on which all the work of the future must be done. The outward expression of the underlying idea is found in the chapel, and in the services which are held in it morning and evening according to the directions of the Prayer Book, and in the Divinity teaching which forms part of every student's course.

Thus, the aim of Trinity is to be a true University in the breadth of its teaching, and withal, a Christian University. It aspires to be in the days to come, as it has been in the past, a faithful handmaid of the Church, giving teaching that is soundly Scriptural, and loyal to the Prayer Book, and so truly Catholic. Therefore it claims to be allowed, free from the din of party strife, untrammelled by political connexions, unsoiled by the mire of religious controversy, to pursue its one object of education in the highest and best sense, and to send forth from year to year from its walls men qualified to serve God, whether in Church or State, as devoted and faithful clergy, or as highminded, honourable Christian laymen.

FORTUNATELY the records of the Literary Institute have been tolerably well preserved and a fairly accurate account of its proceedings and deliberations is not difficult to obtain. The Trinity College Literary Institute is the offspring of the Debating Society of the Diocesan Theological Institution, Cobourg, and thus, in all probability, is nearly ten years older than the College itself. The earliest record of the Debating Society at present in possession of the Institute is a minute book of the Society's proceedings during the year 1849. The Society met then every Friday evening during term—which, at that time, ran well into August—debated some burning question of the day or some equally important problem concerning the welfare of mankind in general, charged fines to the accounts of its absent members, and then adjourned with a subject ready for discussion on the Friday following. A Chairman and a Secretary seemed to have formed the Executive of the Society at this date, the former officer being elected each evening from the body of members, while the latter would appear to have held his post for a considerable length of time. The membership of the Society for this year was eighteen and the largest attendance at any single meeting was sixteen. Out of this simple meeting of a dozen and a half members, with its small Executive of Chairman and Secretary, has grown the Literary Institute of our day, the largest and most representative body in the College, governed by a well organized Executive and possessing a thoroughly equipped reading room and library for the use of its members.

The Constitution and the customs of the Literary Institute have grown with the needs of that literary body, and the Institute is in no way hampered by any constitutional checks, which cannot at the wish of the majority of its members be removed or remodelled as the changed circumstances of the time may require. The oldest custom of the Debating Society was the wearing of gowns. The custom seems to have fallen into disuse for a short time, and the members were in the habit of dropping into the meetings by chance, as it were—a sacrilege which must have detracted considerably from the solemnity proper to august literary deliberations; but on December 5th, 1850, the attention of the meeting was called to this breach of custom, and in consequence a rule was made compelling members to wear their gowns. No record is contained in the minutes of its having been broken since. In October, 1851, the day of meeting was changed to Saturday, and for some months the Society met every Saturday evening at half past seven. At another time the day of meeting was changed to Thursday, but in a short time Friday was again chosen as being most convenient, and the Institute meets on that evening at the present time. The Society thus easily arranged for the appearance of its members at all meetings in proper academical costume and shortly afterwards crowned the chairman with the accompanying mortar-board, but it found that to provide for dignified academical behaviour was a rather more difficult task. Very early in the records this motion appears:—“That it is necessary to preserve order, and that any person guilty of disturbing the meeting or any speaker shall be fined in a sum not exceeding $\frac{1}{3}$.” From this we may judge that the members did not confine themselves strictly to discussing "Is private or public education the more beneficial?" "Whether are classics or mathematics of more general benefit?" "Which is more obnoxious, the University Bill or the Rebellion Losses Bill?" and such kindred subjects, but were prone to amuse themselves by irrelevant remarks from the floor while one of the six chosen debaters was theoretically in possession of it. A number of the wags, moreover, had an annoying habit of giving some of the more important motions which came before the Society the benefit of the six months' hoist, and the minutes of this same meeting in which the attempt was made to fine members for disorderly conduct will give a very fair idea of the amusement which was frequently obtained from the Thursday evening debates. The motion, "That it is necessary, etc. . . .," had been made, and it was moved in amendment "that this motion be laid on the table this day six months." Carried 9 pro., 4 con.

Mr. C — then gave notice, "that he will renew his motion next Thursday."

Mr. L — gave notice of a motion, "that every member do appear at debates in a white cravat."

Mr. A — "that we request the Provost to allow us our glass of beer at half past seven on the evenings of debate instead of at nine as heretofore."

Mr. G — gave notice of motion, "that any motion before being entered on the book be considered worthy of the dignity of the meeting." February 26th, 1852.

Despite the seeming want of seriousness in the early part of the evening, this was an important meeting and settled several of the customs and several of the sections of the Constitution which are still in force; among others, the amount of annual subscription, the date of payment, the number of members necessary to constitute a quorum, and the arrangement of the members' names on the roll according to academic seniority. At the next meeting of the Society the motion "That it is necessary," etc. was lost; Mr. L——'s and Mr. A——'s motions were withdrawn, and Mr. G——'s together with the changes in the Constitution were carried. At a later period in the history of the Institute the inopportune six months' hoist which was given a measure brought before the Society again caused trouble, and the resulting disorder made it necessary to dissolve the meeting. It was a motion of some importance regarding the reading room to which the six months' hoist was given. The minutes for the meeting read: "April 5th, 1853. The amendment was put and carried by a majority of one. This was the cause of a great uproar which the chairman was unable to control, and, after patiently enduring for a long time, as a last resource was obliged to dissolve the meeting."

At this date the reading room had been for nearly a year in the possession and under the control of the Society — which on the removal of the Theological Institution in Cobourg to Toronto had changed its name to the Trinity College Debating Society. Formerly there had been a reading room in Trinity College but, it would seem, separate from the Society, and on May 16th, 1852, "the Reading Room heretofore existing in Trinity College" was "incorporated with the Trinity College Debating Society." In October of the same year the Society decided to give its presiding officer the title of President and thus to make the Chairmanship of the meetings permanent. So a President was chosen and Mr. J. C. Gibson was the first to fill the honourable position. However, this plan of a permanent Chairman does not seem to have been a success, probably because he was also the critic, so in January of the following year the Society returned to its old plan of choosing a chairman for each meeting and retained the custom for seventeen years.

From 1853 to 1859 there is no record of the proceedings of the Debating Society in the possession of the Literary Institute; in fact there is no altogether authentic record of the date when the Society changed its name. On the fly-leaf of a minute book used some five years later is the legend "Trinity College Literary Institute, established October 27th, 1854;" and since in 1859 there probably existed minutes of the meetings during the five years previous, it is only fair to assume that the date is correct. In 1866 the Institute held a public debate, which does not appear to have been an unqualified success. But frequently since then the Literary Institute has taken advantage of the provision in its Constitution for this purpose and has made its debates public; certainly with gratifying results. For many of the public men of this and other provinces made their first attempts at oratory in the weekly meetings of the Literary Institute and there learned those fundamental rules of public speaking which now enable them to address their audiences from the public platform with facility and eloquence, or to give that graceful turn so essential to the airy nothings of an after dinner speech.

The public debate, although the older institution, is very far from holding the important position in the esteem of the members of the Literary Institute which has been won by the Annual Conversazione. When the first Conversazione—a real Conversazione, which all true graduates and undergraduates anticipated with impatient longing and looked back upon with fond regret—was held at Trinity is shrouded, as is only meet such things about such a venerable, jolly function should be, in the roseate mistiness of antiquity. On the eighth of November, 1871—a date long to be remembered—the Annual Conversazione was incorporated in the Constitution in the following words, and became one of the articles of faith of the Institute.

- (1). The Institute shall give a Conversazione annually at a time to be fixed by the Council.
- (2). The expenses of the Conversazione shall be defrayed by special collection from the members of the Institute.

A few days later at the meeting of the Institute the last important change was made in the Constitution. The by-law appointing "one or two essayists or one or two readers" for each weekly meeting was changed to read "one or two essayists and one or two readers." It is not to be supposed, however, that frequent changes have not been made in the Constitution and by-laws, but these have been of a minor nature in no way altering the general character of the Constitution of the Literary Institute since 1871. Indeed, the Constitution has frequently been the cause of serious deliberation and earnest contention, and on one memorable occasion was the opportune moment chosen for a revolution. The management of the Institute's business had been taken possession of by an oligarchy, three of whom became particularly obnoxious to the vast body of members, and the latter decided to take measures calculated to dampen the arduor of these and similar members who might conspire to curtail the freedom of the electors. Several of the more sturdy were formed into a committee with power to bath the obnoxious three, and they began to take the necessary steps. But the usurpers were not prepared to do battle and one at once decamped for home in much haste minus coat, waistcoat, and hat; another scaled the door of the room in which he had been imprisoned and had a laborious exit through the narrow transum, rather cut about the hands by the broken glass; the third, less fortunate, fell into the clutches of the committee and was treated to an involuntary bath.

But these are incidents of the past that have become history and legend in the annals of the Institute, and at the present time this society of literary spirits is going the even tenor of its way in sober and opulent serenity. The last two years of the Institute's history have been remarkably successful, both socially and financially. During this period the treasurer's office has been filled by two men of exceptional ability and business capacity, and the Institute is probably indebted to Messrs. De Pencier and C. W. Bell for the handsome balance of over one hundred dollars at present in the Institute's coffers even more than to the sterling worth and executive ability of the councils for these years. The expenditure of the Institute for papers and periodicals for the year 1895-96 amounted to $65.16; for additional books for the library $25.00; and for incidental expenses, including improvements made in the reading room, $48.71. The sources of income have been these: Balance on hand $45.36; fees $143.25; sale of magazines $25.35; University grant $25.00; and a refund of $5.00; leaving a balance of $105.09. For the year 1895-96, ending March 20th, the membership of the Literary Institute was 71, and the average attendance was 29. Sixteen meetings were held; the largest attendance at a single one being 61, the smallest 19. The Annual Conversazione held on February 12th was exceptionally brilliant and the College halls and corridors were more crowded than ever with the Institute's many friends. Indeed, the "Conversat." of '96 was fittingly typical of the Institute's prosperity and will be long remembered until one equally successful shall have dimmed the recollection of it and shall have given scope for the same familiar remark "more successful than ever." This time worn remark has, at least, been applicable to the yearly progress of the Institute as each twelve-month has succeeded the last in the passing decades and, viewed in the light of its past history and its present flourishing condition, Trinity College may well be proud of her premier institution—the Literary Institute.

"Notandi sunt tibi mores."

IT is dangerous to traffick in the unknown, and it is as difficult to give an account of EPISCOPON as to write the family history of Isis and Osiris. What he is we know, in so far as it is good for us to know; where he is we cannot say, unless everywhere be somewhere. Why he is, is inexplicable unless he be an answer to the prayer, "O wad some power."

"Back in the fifties," the genius of EPISCOPON first made itself felt in Trinity. The spirit came upon someone, now unknown, and he became a prophet unto his people. EPISCOPON then made his début, and while his usefulness continues. (in other words, while vice is still triumphant and the evil-doer repents not of his sin) he will remain with us.

The brightest time of the Father's visitations is said to have been in 1868 when Messrs. G. A. Mackenzie and A. B. Ford produced the message. An "Ode on St. Patrick," for some unexplained reason created in that year a mild sensation.

*The Editors have been informed that the first number of EPISCOPON has been discovered.

It was a weary wilderness through which EPISCOPON had undertaken to lead his children, and the Utopian state into which his chastening rod was to guide them is still lost in the endless perspective of the future. Troublous times were at hand, and in 1874-75 disaffection became prevalent. As is usual in unrighteous revolution, the agitation did not begin in high quarters. The Freshmen rebelled. They claimed forsooth, that they had no rights, no representation on the Institute—and other things. Private Ortheris shewed a keen appreciation of human nature when he asserted himself to be "No recruity shoutin' of his rights to this and his rights to that." The revolutionists set themselves up a false god in the shape of Kritikos, a publication on the same lines as EPISCOPON's annual message. The first number appeared in the year '75-'76 and contained twenty pieces, all the illustrations being drawn, and three of the articles written, by Mr. J. Farncomb. The remaining contributions were from the pen of Mr. B. Fletcher.

The demon of disaffection was abroad, hence the apostasy* from the orthodox faith was so general that the hand and mouth-piece of EPISCOPON, to wit his Scribe, deemed it inadvisable to present the annual budget. There remained however, a few who had not bowed the knee to Baal, and, though Kritikos continued till the end of the College year, '76-'77, there was a stiff and growing opposition.

In '77-'78 an effort was made to re-introduce the primitive practice, but again discord arose. This time it was among the editors of EPISCOPON ; and the attempt failed.

During '78-'80 Mr. C. H. Shortt was Scribe, and in the year '78-'79 many articles were contributed from the pen of the late Professor Boys. This number has disappeared along with many others. It is a matter for much regret that so many of these interesting and precious volumes have been lost. The brightest numbers seem to have had a faculty of disappearing which leads to the supposition that their departure was not unaided. The shame is greater on that account. EPISCOPON is peculiarly a Trinity institution. These volumes being of the greatest value should be jealously guarded. A bright number that has been lost was produced under the guidance of Mr. Rogers. Another is one on which our distinguished alumnus, Mr. Archibald Lampman, spent much time and talent.

EPISCOPON night was held last year on Thursday, March 19th, and was most successful. The attendance was, as usual, large, and the Venerable Father's admonitions, whether couched in poetry or prose, in the guise of satire or ridicule, were well received. It is always necessary to instruct some men in their duty towards College Institutions. It may as well be set down here that every man is at liberty to contribute to the columns of EPISCOPON, and as many as possible should make a point of doing so. No man should be allowed to miss the EPISCOPON reading.

"The Review."

THE Fourth Estate has long since thrown off the burden imposed upon it by public prejudice, completed its emancipation, and proclaimed itself a power in the land. The freedom of the press is one of our vaunted liberties. The journalistic fraternity has established its place in society.

College journalism has moved along the path of progress with such tremendous strides that it stands to-day a most significant sign of the times. There is scarcely a college or even a school in Canada or the United States that has not its journal. These publications are of various sizes, styles, and qualities; many of them are poor, some are in good taste as to form, literary in tone, and generally creditable. A few affect a highly intellectual, others a sporting character, while occasionally one appears professing a radical creed and propounding theories calculated to make the old-time Don uneasy in his resting-place.

Whatever one's opinion on the subject may be, the college journal cannot now be ignored. It is an indication of the throbbing life of the student body of to-day and thus commands attention. Its licence is general, and thus it wields an influence.

In January, 1880, the idea of a college periodical was first mooted at Trinity. One F. E. Howitt supplied the capital, and J. T. Lewis and Wm. Crutenden formed the first editorial board of Rouge et Noir, a private enterprise. Immediately after the appearance of the first number a College meeting was called in its interest, and Rouge et Noir was formally adopted as the College paper, the mouth-piece of the students. It appeared under the motto, "Fortiter, fideliter, forsan feliciter," and the initial number—as a College paper—was issued in March of the same Year, the staff being Messrs. A. J. Belt, E. Van Carsen, J. T. Lewis, and C. L. Shaw, Business Manager. Mr. Belt was, on leaving College, replaced by Mr. C. H. Shortt, and for the rest of that year the paper was issued once a term. In December the editors were the same, but Mr. J. Gibson was appointed Secretary-Treasurer, and Mr. Hope Clementi Business Manager. The publication continued under the title Rouge et Noir until 1888. Archibald Lampman was one of the early editors, and Mr. H. K. Merritt, one of the first Business Managers.

Innovations are generally the result of some present dissatisfaction; and this was true of Rouge et Noir. The proceedings of the Governing Bodies had been regarded as those of a secret society. The students far from having an opportunity afforded them of taking an active, intelligent interest in College and University affairs, had felt that they were being treated too much as if they were non-existent. There had been expressed discontent, and the remedy had seemed to be a college paper. History relates that those high in authority, the college magnates, returned their copies unopened. One distinguished member of Corporation is credited with having advised the undergraduates to "keep their literary talents for the Canadian Monthly and their wit for Episcopon." It is further stated that the authorities were considerably harassed with the revolutionary editorials on such subjects as co-education, university extension, and the granting of degrees without examination. In 1888 the title of Rouge et Noir was given up and that of THE TRINITY UNIVERSITY REVIEW adopted. This was done to identify the paper with Trinity and to proclaim its University character. Mr. C. H. Shutt was then Business Manager and he was succeeded by Mr. Carter Troop. In January, '89, Convocation joined the venture, and since that time THE REVIEW has been published by Convocation and the undergraduates of Trinity University, under the style of "a journal of literature, University thought and events." Mr. Troop was identified with THE REVIEW from '88 to '94, he having become Business Manager as a freshman in '88, and Editor-in-Chief in '89. His work cannot be overestimated; in one year he doubled the circulation and the advertisements, greatly improved the tone of the paper, and gave it a new dress. The standard of the paper generally was raised and its position among college periodicals assured before he was succeeded in 1894 by the writer of this sketch.

THE REVIEW is at present in a good financial condition. The editorial staff for the year 1895-6 was H. C. Osborne, Editor-in-Chief; H. B. Gwyn, B.A., and C. A. Seager, B.A. The recently elected board is as follows:—J. H. MacGill, M.A., E. A. Anderson, M.A., *C. H. Bradburn, and D. F. Campbell. With the hearty support of the men in college THE REVIEW'S continued success should be assured.

The Athletic Association.

IN 1892 the Athletic Association was formed and it has been an unqualified success ever since its inception. Prior to 1892 every club had its own management independent of all other clubs. This was a state of affairs that, for the following obvious reasons, did not suit a college such as ours. The cricketing men swore by cricket and completely disregarded football, hockey, and the other games; and so all round the circle. Then again economy in expenditure was impossible, for the devotees of one particular game gave all their available means to the support of that game and refused to subscribe to others; the result being that one or two games prospered, while the others fell by the wayside. Out of this athletic chaos and strife arose the Athletic Association to control all our sports and to make many clubs into one. This Association was to consist of all members of the College with an executive committee consisting of President, Vice-President, Secretary, Treasurer, and five committee men. The executive committee was to be, as far as possible, representative of all the different branches of sport; it was to have control of all games, the election of captains for teams, the appointment of secretaries for the different games, (these secretaries to be immediately under the secretary of the Association) and it was to have complete charge of, and responsibility for, the finances, to which each member was to contribute five dollars. The first Executive Committee consisted of the following gentlemen:—President, Mr. A. F. R. Martin; Vice-President, Mr. C. W. Hedley; Secretary, Mr. M. S. McCarthy; Treasurer, Mr. J. Chappell; Committee, Messrs. W. L. Baynes-Reed, E. C. Wragge, Frank Vernon, H. M. Nelles, and H. B. Robertson. The different organizations under the management of the Association are the cricket, football, hockey, tennis, and baseball clubs, the gymnasium, and the annual athletic games. The two last mentioned are comparatively new institutions. The gymnasium has been built about two years and fills a long felt want. It is being fitted up with the necessary apparatus as fast as possible, and already contains horizontal ladders, climbing ropes, punching bag, patent exercises, horizontal bar, parallel bars, tackling bag, and several good mattresses.

Our first Annual Athletic Games were held in the Fall of 1893 and proved a great success. Up till then an annual Steeplechase, held on St. Simon and St. Jude's Day, had been our only athletic event, and the Association decided that we should open more events for competition. Mr. W. R. Wadsworth won the championship in '93, taking the steeplechase, half mile, the broad jump, and second place in the mile. The other events were the 100 yards, quarter mile, and the team race, which was won by the class of '94. In '95 the championship was taken by D. Campbell, '96, who won the 100, 220, and 440 yards races. The team race was won by '96.

In 1896 the championship was divided between Campbell, '96, and C. A. Heaven, '96, who each had a score of 16 points to their credit. The different events resulted as follows :

100 Yards. 1st, Campbell, '96 ; 2nd, Johnson (Divinity) ; 3rd, Hubbard, '97.

220 Yards. 1st, Campbell, '96 ; 2nd, Johnson (Divinity) ; 3rd, Heaven, '96.

440 Yards. 1st, Campbell, '96 ; 2nd, Hubbard, '97 ; 3rd, Johnson (Divinity).

Half Mile. 1st, Heaven, '96 ; 2nd, Warren, '96 ; 3rd, Campbell, '96.

Mile. 1st, Heaven, '96 ; 2nd, Warren, '96.

Steeplechase. 1st, Heaven, '96 ; 2nd, Warren, '96 ; 3rd, Chadwick (Divinity).

Broad Jump. 1st, McEwen, '98 ; 2nd, Hubbard, '97.

Bicycle Race. 1st, Temple, '97 ; 2nd, Baldwin, '96 ; 3rd, Johnson, '98.

Team Race. Won by Class of '96 ; Campbell, Heaven, Warren, and Goode.,

At the Annual Games of the University of Toronto, held on Friday the 16th October, '96, W. F. Hubbard won the open 440 yards race, and got second place in the 100 yards, also open. This is the first time in the history of these games that a Trinity man, or indeed any one, has taken an open event from the Toronto men.

A plan to build a cinder track round the campus is at present under consideration by the Association and about one hundred dollars have already been subscribed for that purpose ; but, as it will take several hundreds more to build the track, only time will tell whether we shall be successful or not in the venture. The decision of those who created the Athletic Association that Trinity needed one governing body over all her sports was a wise one. Never have Trinity's Athletics prospered as they have done in the last four years. Good cricket and hockey teams have been turned out, but, while our football has not been quite up to the standard, that has been on account of our scarcity of numbers, rather than lack of effort on the part of the Association. Good choices of captains for our teams have been made and our financial condition is, on the whole, good. If good work is continued and we keep steadily on as in the past, the time can not be far off when all our teams will be up to the standard of the cricket team, and then we shall be at the top in all games.

The Executive Committee for '95-'96 consisted of:—H. B. Gwyn, B.A., President ; H. S. Southam, Vice-President ; D. Campbell, Secretary ; and C. J. H. Mockridge, Treasurer ; E. S. Senkler, F. J. S. Martin, R. H. M. Temple, L. W. B. Broughall, H. C. Osborne, Committee.

FOOTBALL.

Successful football at Trinity is hampered by these two difficulties:—the late opening of the fall term and the distance between the Medical College and our campus. The former prevents our entering the Ontario Rugby Football Union, as the first round of the league ties is always played during the first week of October, and College does not re-open until the 10th of October. This might be remedied, but has not yet been; and that not for lack of trying. The distance between the Medical College and ourselves, and the fact of their having lectures in the afternoon until six o'clock, makes it almost impossible to get at the Meds. for the purpose of practice. We believe that every possible scheme has been tried, but with little success, that the Meds. might be able to reap the benefits of our Athletic Association, there being only ~~one~~ Medical on last year's XV., two on the XI., and not one on the VII. Yet we sincerely think that if these two difficulties could be overcome—as they surely will be—Trinity could put a team of the first order in the field. We hope that the new regulation, which makes it necessary for Medicals henceforth to take at least one year in Arts before proceeding in medicine will bring into College a goodly number of chasers of the “pig-skin.”

Now to last season's football and accounts of the different matches. The season was rather short, only five games being played, not counting the inter-year contests which will be dealt with later.

With the opening of College, the following “probable winners” were chosen by the captain, F. A. P. Chadwick, B.A., of the Divinity Class, to enjoy the luxuries and restraints—if there be any—of the training-table:—Chadwick, Southam, Senkler, Campbell, Bain, Bushell, Gwyn, Tremayne, Warren, Heaven, Macdougall, Becher, Cooper, Osler, Baldwin, Swayne, and Messrs. Bedford-Jones and White.

The first game of the season took place on Oct. 22nd. This was a friendly match with the Lornes—the intermediate champions of Canada—on their grounds. Play was not started until nearly 5 o'clock and consequently only a short game was played, which resulted in a win for us by a very close margin, the score being 7 to 6 when time was called on account of darkness. It was rather a ragged exhibition of football on both sides, there being a decided lack of team work, which was only to be expected in the opening game of the season. Our team did well, however, to keep the Lornes from scoring until the last five minutes of the game, when they secured a try which was converted to make their six points. Our score was made up of a try and three rouges, which shows the game not to have been so close as the score would indicate. A return match was expected but it could not be arranged. The Trinity team was made up as follows:—Back, Osborne; Halves, Senkler, Mr. Bedford-Jones, Campbell; Quarter, Bain; Wings, Chadwick (Capt.), Tremayne, Heaven, Macdougall, Becher, Cooper, Warren; Scrimmage, Gwyn, Mr. White, Bushell.

The next game was played on the campus with Osgoode II. and resulted in the defeat of the visitors by a score of 20 to 1. This was not a particularly fast game either, the wings not over-exerting themselves to get after the ball. Campbell and Tremayne were shining exceptions and worked conscientiously. The scrimmage worked very well together as they did throughout the season. Gwyn was its mainstay—he has been so for the last four seasons. Bain at quarter played a splendid game and Senkler's punting at half was particularly noticeable.

Both of these matches were against intermediate teams, but the very best of that class. The next two games were with Peterborough, a senior team, which, like ourselves, had not entered the league. The first of these was played at Peterborough on a somewhat short notice and by a volunteer team. After a hotly contested game we were victorious, having a margin of 4 points. The only changes in the team were Warren in the scrimmage, Heaven at quarter, and Southam at back.

The return match was played on the campus on Thanksgiving Day. The weather was very cold and the ground hard. This was probably the best game of the season, the team work throughout was splendid and, at times, brilliant. The result was another victory for Trinity by 24-7. With the exception of the captain, who was unable to play, the team chosen for this game was the strictest college team, and the strongest that was put in the field last season and was as follows:—Back, Southam; Halves, Senkler, Mr. Bedford-Jones, Campbell; Quarter, Bain; Scrimmage, Mr. White, Gwyn, Bushell; Wings, E. G. Osler, Tremayne, Heaven, Warren, Cooper, Macdougall, and Becher.

The last game of the season was the annual match with Trinity College School. This was played on the school grounds and was rather a run-away affair for us to the tune of 78-7.

With the school match the list of 1st XV. fixtures closed. The season was not long, neither was it unsuccessful. Not one of our opponents was a first-class team, neither were we. The team was probably not up to the mark of the '94 team, but it was not far short of it. This was probably due to the—in the football line—disappointing freshman class, which did not have a single representative on the team; and yet better things are expected of them for the coming season:—but it is too early to talk about the “prospects” of this season's football.

The career of the 2nd XV. was disastrously brief. It was entered in the junior series of the O.R.F.U.

and was scheduled to play 'Varsity III. on October 12th (two days after the opening of term). The score was 35-0 in favour of 'Varsity III. This speaks for itself and was not very encouraging. The next event was another defeat at the hands of Parkdale Collegiate Institute by a score of 19-2. After these two reverses, the tide of fortune changed and the 2nd XV. succeeded in defeating T.C.S. on the campus by a score of 11-7. Alas! this was their only victory. But pluckily going on the theory that "it is better to have played and lost than never to have played at all," they crossed swords with Upper Canada College the day after Convocation Dinner! This was their last defeat. 'Twas also their last game.

Too much stress cannot be laid on the importance of the inter-year contests for the Martin Cup. This Cup was presented to the Athletic Association by Mr. Alexis Martin, B.A., to be competed for by the different year teams, and to be held by the captain of the champion year until that year is defeated or graduates. These contests are the most enjoyable games of the season. They engender a healthy spirit of rivalry and create as much interest and excitement as a first XV. match. And, as it is rather a difficult matter to get together a team of experienced players from each year, new men have to be pressed into the service. The series of hard and fast games—such as the inter-year contests are—soon develops any football instincts there are in such men. This is particularly noticeable in every freshmen year. These invariably come up to their initial contests like lambs to the slaughter. In their second year they give the freshmen the same treatment as they themselves had received, but still succumb to their seniors. In their final year they win the cup. This has been the case ever since these contests began in the fall of 1892. Three times the cup has been won by the final year team and once, under very peculiar circumstances, by the Divinity Class. The present champions and holders of the Martin Cup are the bold boys of '96 under Captain Duncan Campbell. This team was by far the best in the group and was superior in every point, but special praise is due the scrimmage, to which in a great measure '96's large scores must be credited. '96 have won a truly phenomenal victory, scoring 101 points to 3 points scored against them. The following was the team: Back, Osborne; Halves, Southam and Campbell; Quarter, Heaven; Wings, Becher, Baldwin, Goode, Bell, Wright, Wadsworth; Scrimmage, Warren, Bushell, Martin.

The results in full were as follows:—

HOCKEY.

The hockey season, in comparison with that of last year, was somewhat of a disappointment. In '95 we reached the finals for the O.H.A. cup; this year we were defeated in the first round. On paper the team was even stronger than last year's, but mild weather before the first game prevented anything like team practice, and, consequently, the men went on the ice unpracticed as a team, and individually out of training. The necessity of having covered ice was felt more than ever this year. Not only was the captain entirely at the mercy of the weather, but the lectures of the "grads" who were on the team were so arranged as to render team practices few and far between. Practice hours were applied for in one of the city rinks by the Athletic Association, but, as the time was fully taken up, none could be obtained. Four games were played, of which three were lost and one was won. Two practice games were played with the Dominion Bank, scores were not kept, but the first one was about a draw, and in the second the Trinity men scored pretty well as they liked. On January the 27th Trinity was defeated in the first O.H.A. game by Ayr. On the 30th the return game was played at Ayr, and our career in the O.H.A. series was ended for the year. On Feb. 14th the VII. went to London and defeated the home team after a close and exciting game. On the 22nd the VII. played against Queen's in Kingston; the first half was a splendid game—

Queen's 5, Trinity 2; in the second half Queen's had it all their own way and won, 18-4.

The personnel of the team was as follows:—

The following is a list of the games and scores:—

Jan. 28th at Victoria Rink	Ayr	6, Trinity	2
Jan. 30th at Ayr	Ayr	12, Trinity	2
Feb. 14th at London	Trinity	5, London	1
Feb. 22nd at Kingston	Queen's	18, Trinity	4

The second VII. acquitted themselves nobly. Although defeated in their first game by the Wellingtons, they gallantly rose to the occasion and scored seven successive victories. The most notable of these was the defeat of Toronto University II. by a score of 12-2.

The following games were played:—

Jan. 14th at Granite Rink..	Wellingtons	13, Trinity II.	2
Jan. 25th at Trinity	Trinity II.	4, Stanley Barracks	3
Jan. 29th at Victoria Rink.	Trinity II.	3, Victoria	1
Feb. 4th at Oakville	Trinity II.	4, Oakville	0
Feb. 6th at Granite Rink..	Trinity II.	6, Ontario Bank	2
Feb. 17th at Oakville	Trinity II.	7, Oakville	2
Feb. 21st at Trinity	Trinity II.	12, 'Varsity II.	2

This list reflects great credit on the 2nd VII. and on Mr. A. L. Becher, who proved a most capable and energetic captain, sparing no effort to promote the success of his team.

The personnel of the 2nd VII. was as follows:—
Heaven, goal; Jones and Bradburn, point; Goode,

In the Inter-Year series '97 was again victorious. Divinity defaulted to '96, and '98 to '97. The final game was played on Feb. 24th between '96 and '97, and after a fast and exciting game resulted in a win for '97 by a score of 5-2.

EDMUND S. SENKLER.

CRICKET.

To say that a Trinity cricket eleven has had a successful season is equivalent to saying that nearly all of the matches played were won. This is, at least the general rule and the season of 1896 has been no exception to it. Though the list of matches played was not a long one, yet the fact that six out of the eight played were won is a sufficient indication of the strength of the team. Among the matches won the most important was that with the American Intercollegiate Team, and Trinity may justly be credited with the victory because the Trinity Athletic Association got together the team, assumed all financial responsibility connected with the event, and nine Trinity men (seven present, two past) were on the team. Owing to the fact that the book containing the scores of the different matches has been mislaid, only the total number of runs in each match can be given. Parkdale was beaten by a score of 128 to 77. Upper Canada College fell before us by a score of 278 to 55. We succeeded in defeating Hamilton in a close game by 125 to 111, following this up by a victory over T.C.S. by 7 wickets and 110 runs. Rosedale defeated us once by 4 runs and we turned the tables on them by scoring 148 runs for 8 wickets to their 72. Our season was brought to a close with a defeat by Toronto on the 25th of May.

The team of 1896 was of the average strength in batting, but the bowling was scarcely as strong as usual. Dr. Pepler's bat for the highest average was secured by L. W. B. Broughall with the splendid average of 39. His chief score of 86 was made against U.C.C. and was characterized by strong clean hitting and hard forward play. It was greatly regretted that subsequent ill-health prevented his appearance on the Intercollegiate Eleven. In the second place stood the ever reliable W. H. Cooper, who batted better this year than he has ever done before, and who obtained a well-deserved place in the Canadian International eleven. It is generally conceded that, with the exception of G. S. Lyon of the Rosedale Club, no Canadian cricketer has this year scored so consistently as W. H. Cooper. His scores were all made by good fast cricket. He hit hard at times and his hits were always well placed. His best innings for Trinity was that against T.C.S., when he played splendidly for 66 not out.

H. S. Southam, who at the opening of the season appeared to be batting in hard luck, did very well later on, particularly against U.C.C., Hamilton, and the American Intercollegiate Team. In the last named match it was the fine stand made by Southam and Cooper which really won for Canada.

Among the others numbers of the team, three especially had good work to their credit. W. R. Wadsworth's good score of May 24th and his almost phenomenal bowling in the Intercollegiate match were feats which won for him the hearty applause of lovers of the game.

E. S. Senkler also bowled well and his 45 made without a chance against Hamilton at a time when runs were badly needed, gives to him the credit of Trinity's victory.

To Captain Mockridge that hearty praise is due which is the right of every captain who has worked hard and conscientiously for his team, and there is no doubt that the success of the season's play is largely due to him. He is evidently a thorough believer in the value of example, for he opened Trinity's first match of 1896 with an almost faultless 61, giving Rosedale fielders every possible chance to become acquainted with the geography of the boundaries.

The team was on the whole an exceedingly well balanced one, there being no "tail-end." The fielding was good, much better in fact than that of any team we played with, except the U.S. Intercollegiate, whose work in that respect was the best seen in Toronto for some time.

Unfortunately Toronto University could not get together an eleven for the annual match, much to the disappointment of the Trinity men, who, though feeling no doubt as to the result of such a match, were sorry to lose what has always been a very pleasant event.

A cricketing event of last season has just been brought to our notice. The achievement is one of which Rev. T. D. Phillipps, M.A., may justly be proud, and from which Canadian cricket in general, and Trinity in particular, receives some reflected glory. On May 2, 1852, Mr. Phillipps organized the Trinity College Cricket Club, which has continued to improve with age and experience, and is at the present day showing more than pristine activity, like the reverend gentleman himself. Mr. Phillipps is now sixty-four years of age, and in July last won for himself the distinction of being the only cricketer to make a century in Chicago during the past season. In speaking of this more than creditable performance the Canadian-American and British-American News has this to say: "Mr. Phillipps' cricket life has been a remarkable one. Here is a man of sixty four—at an age at least twenty years beyond the active life of the ordinary athlete—running 241 times between wickets in less than three hours, coming out fresher, if anything, than when he went in, an unexampled exhibition of vitality and endurance. The lesson of this successful cricketer's career is that of careful living. His numerous friends hope to meet Mr. Phillipps for still more years in the cricket field, and as a meritorious exponent of the gentleman's game. Meanwhile, we desire most cordially to join in congratulations extended to him."

Theological and Missionary Society.

ON Monday, January the 28th, 1884, a meeting of the Divinity Students, clerical graduates, and other friends of Trinity, was held in the College to discuss the question of organizing a Missionary and Theological Society in connection with the University.

The Provost, Doctor Bode, who was in the chair, indicated in his opening address the lines along which he thought fruitful work might be done, after which the following resolution was moved by Rev. C. L. Ingles and seconded by Rev. T. W. Paterson.

"That it is desirable to form an Association consisting of the Divinity Students and other members of Trinity College, and of the graduates in Holy Orders with the clergy and laymen interested in the work of the College, so as to form a centre of information respecting the needs of the Church and the country, and for the promotion of such missionary and other Christian work as may meet those needs."

After a lengthened discussion the motion was adopted unanimously. The Society, called "The Theological and Missionary Society of Trinity College," was then organized as follows: President, the Provost; Secretary-Treasurer, George Haslam; Executive Committee, Revs. the Provost, A. J. Broughall, J. D. Cayley, Professor Clark, C. L. Ingles, J. Langtry, J. P. Lewis, Professor Schneider, and A. W. Spragge, Messrs. T. B. Angell, G. H. Broughall, J. Davidson, G. Haslam, R. H. Hudspeth, C. B. Kenrick and E. A. Oliver. A Sub-Committee was appointed to draw up a Constitution which was afterwards presented and adopted. The Provost subsequently submitted an office to be used at the opening of meetings of the Society, which office is still in use.

The objects of the Society are stated in the Constitution as follows.

(a) To be a centre for Theological and Spiritual work in the College;

(b) to form a permanent bond of union between the Students, graduates, and other friends of the College who desire to promote the work of the Church;

(c) to supply information to members as to the needs and methods of missionary work;

(d) to be a centre from which missionary and other work undertaken by members of the Association may be directed and developed.

During the twelve years of its existence the students in the Society have done a great deal of work in the Diocesan mission fields of Ontario, and many successful meetings of the society have been held at which addresses and papers on Missionary and Theological subjects have been delivered.

We are inclined to think that the Society has failed to do all that was hoped, mainly because it has not been developed along the broad lines laid down at its foundation. This fault we hope to see corrected in the near future.

The Provost's Inaugural Address.

THE following is the substance of portions of the speech made by the Provost on the occasion of his installation as Vice-Chancellor of the University.

"There exists, I understand, much misconception as to the character and objects of Trinity. There are many who persist in regarding it merely as a Theological College. I would not for a moment minimize the great and important place which theology occupies in our work, and I hope I shall always bear it in mind, but I wish also to remember that our work is more than that of a Theological College. We know well enough, but everyone does not know, that Trinity is not only a College but a chartered University, and that her Charter is not only a Provincial, but a Royal Charter, a Charter of the same kind as that possessed by the ancient Universities of Oxford and Cambridge."

On the subject of religious education the Provost said:—"The great Bishop Strachan who founded this University was convinced of the truth of a certain great principle; and it was upon that truth that this institution was and is based. He recognized that it was not the part of education to train only one portion of a man's character; he knew that man was created in the image of GOD and was therefore possessed of a moral and religious nature, and that this nature must not be neglected if a true education were to be attained. We put these principles into practice in the regular worship offered morning and evening in the College Chapel, and in the system which requires that every graduate in Arts of this University must of necessity, during his residence here, have gone through a certain amount of Divinity teaching. And I say, without hesitation, that if ever the day should come when this teaching is taken out of the curriculum, then it will be time for Trinity to close her doors.

There is yet another point which I must mention. The religious education which is given here is in accordance with the tenets of the Church of England. I say advisedly 'the Church of England' because Trinity claims and aims to represent the whole Church and not one section or one set of views. When I was asked to come to Canada to take up the duties of the responsible position to which I have been called I was not required to pronounce any party Shibboleth. Had compliance with any such request been made the price of the distinguished honour which has been conferred upon me, I can only say that I should have found it too high a price to pay. But at the same time I must also say that I do not want to be supposed to be one of those backboneless people who have no opinions of their own. Of course I have my views on Church matters, but, as I said, I look upon Trinity as representing the whole Church, not one party within it, and I consider it her duty to show herself as broad and comprehensive as the Church itself."

The Provost also referred to the fact that members of other religious communions are welcome at Trinity, and never made to feel uncomfortable because of the difference on certain subjects. "One other characteristic" he continued "I must refer to. Trinity is essentially a residential College. What this means no one knows who has not realized in his own experience the manly independence, the selfreliance, the sense of corporate life and College spirit, which is brought into being and fostered by a college like this in which each man who rises in any measure to the height of his opportunities contributes for the general good from the endowments which are peculiarly his own."

After referring to the affiliated institutions and to the growing desire on both sides of the Atlantic for a closer connection of education with religion, a desire to which it is the mission of Trinity to minister, the Provost concluded as follows:—

"For myself, while I am well aware that I have neither the remarkable scholarship and eloquence of the first Provost, nor the wide learning and great administrative ability of my immediate predecessor, yet I know that any deficiency of mine will be made up by the staff of earnest and able men whom I am proud to call my colleagues, and I trust that, if my erudition is inferior to that of my predecessors, my devotion may come near to equalling theirs; at any rate, all that I have and am I offer to the service of the College, not only because it is the service of the Church, but also because I believe in my inmost heart that it is the service of GOD Himself."

A Bit of History.

To the Honourable and Venerable John Strachan D.D., Archdeacon of York, in Upper Canada, President of King's College, and member of the Legislative and Executive Councils in that Province.

DEAR AND VENERABLE SIR,

In presenting you with a piece of plate as a memorial of their respect and esteem, your pupils whom you educated at Cornwall are performing an act most agreeable to their feelings. It is now long since our relation of Tutor and Scholar has been dissolved, but amid the vicissitudes which the lapse of more than twenty years has presented, we have never ceased to reflect with gratitude upon your unwearied efforts to cultivate our minds and strengthen our understandings, and above all, to implant in our hearts those principles which alone could make us good Christians, faithful subjects to our King, and independent and upright members of society.

Our young minds received then an impression, which has scarcely become fainter from time, of the deep and sincere interest which you took not only in our advancement in learning and science, but in all that concerned our happiness, or could affect our future prospects in life.

Those who have since had the pleasure of frequent intercourse with you have found you always the same warm, sincere, and constant friend, ever ready to rejoice in their prosperity, and to extend your advice and assistance amidst the doubts and difficulties which have occasionally crossed their path. Those whom the varied pursuits of life have separated from you during this long interval have never felt less assured of a place in your esteem; and we all unite with the most cordial satisfaction in thus acknowledging the gratification we receive from our early recollections.

At the period when most of us were withdrawn from your care, we received your parting benediction, and your paternal counsels for our guidance in life, expressed in terms which made a lasting impression. Now that so many years have intervened, and years so full of eventful changes, it must, we are persuaded, be a source of much pleasure to a person of your benevolent and friendly disposition, to find that Providence has spared so many of those whose character you laboured to form, and has blessed them very generally with health and prosperity.

On our part we beg to assure you that we can scarcely call to mind an occasion in all the years that have passed which has given rise to a stronger feeling of satisfaction than we experience at this moment in delivering into your hands a memorial of our long cherished affection and respect.

Presented at York, Upper Canada, July 2, 1833.

THE ARCHDEACON'S REPLY.

MY DEAR FRIENDS,

That my heart should be full on this interesting occasion is natural.

Such a memorial of your affection and respect brings back in a stream of joy the days of your education at Cornwall; a period, doubtless, of great anxiety, but, from the large promise which you then exhibited, of far greater satisfaction.

The feelings of ardent friendship which you manifested for one another when about to separate, and which produced a solemn pledge of your determination to apply the knowledge and high principles which you had acquired in promoting the good of society, come forcibly to my mind at this happy moment, when, I can most truly affirm, that the pledge so nobly given has been more than redeemed.

As you never ceased, during the long period which has elapsed since our relation of Teacher and Scholar was dissolved, frequent as it has been with so many vicissitudes, to reflect with gratitude on my humble endeavours to cultivate your minds, strengthen your understandings, and implant in your heart those principles which alone can make us good Christians, faithful subjects, and upright members of society; I may with honest pride declare, that during the same period my happiness has been greatly increased by witnessing from year to year the pleasing and encouraging results which attended your progress in the busy world.

Have I not beheld you rising to eminence in your several professions, gaining the confidence of all around you, looked up to in the societies in which you move, and quoted as examples to the rising generation? In this province you are filling the highest situations with an advantage to the community, which is universally acknowledged. In Lower Canada, in England, and wherever you have gone, you have won the highest favour and distinction.

Surely I have great cause to bless that kind Providence which, notwithstanding my numerous deficiencies, has graciously made me the instrument of planting those sentiments and virtues in your bosoms which, fostered by your diligent care, are now yielding fruits so precious and abundant.

That I should cherish a deep and unwearied interest, not only in your advancement in learning and science, but in all that concerned your happiness and could affect your future prospects in life, was certainly to be expected, for I was strongly impressed from the first with my responsibility as your Teacher, and I felt that to be really useful I must become your friend. It has ever been my conviction that our scholars should be considered for the time our children, and that as parents we should study their characters, and pay respect to their several dispositions if we really wish to improve them, for if we feel not something of the tender relations of parents towards them, we cannot expect to be successful in their education.

It was on this principle that I endeavoured to proceed—strict justice tempered with paternal kindness—and the present joyful meeting evinces its triumph; it treats the sentiments and feelings of scholars with proper consideration, and while it gives the heart and affections full freedom to show themselves in filial gratitude on the one side, and fatherly affection on the other, it proves that unsparing labour accompanied with continual anxiety for the learner's progress, never fails to ensure success, to beget esteem, and to produce a friendship between master and scholar, which time can never dissolve.

To behold so many gentlemen educated in the same place assembling after so long a period of separation to honour their teacher, is an event of rare occurrence; but it will be clothed with a public as well as private interest, should it encourage faithful teachers, and cheer them in their arduous employment, by multiplying meetings similar to this, and introducing a more affectionate intercourse through life, between them and their pupils.

In my occasional communications with you since your entrance into active life, I should have deprived myself of a most productive source of delight had I not rejoiced in your increasing prosperity, and volunteered my best advice and assistance to any who chanced to be in doubt or difficulty.—Every increase of your happiness I felt an increase to my own, and to forward your honourable objects has ever been to me a favourite employment; nor can I claim for this the slightest praise, for in promoting your interests, I was promoting my own; nor should I have been less ready to forward the laudable views of those, who have been far removed from the sphere of my influence, had opportunity offered.

Towards those who have surpassed me in station and ability, I can most sincerely avow that my feelings have been those of a parent rejoicing at the elevation of his children.

The deep impression made on all our hearts in the hour of your departure from Cornwall, this meeting refreshes and renews; you plighted mutual friendship and plighted the reign of virtue and religion in your breasts, and, amidst prayers and blessings for your future happiness, I undertook to become the centre of your communication, and what more happy results could the most sanguine have anticipated, than to find so many spared in health and prosperity by our merciful Creator to meet together on this happy occasion.

Accept, my dear friends, the warm acknowledgements of a heart totally unable to give utterance to the emotions with which it is agitated; deep and lasting as my existence will this proof of your sincere friendship be retained, it tells me by sweet experience, that there are moments of virtuous enjoyments which would be cheaply purchased by the longest life of honourable and labourious exertion, moments which are granted to very few in this transitory world, and for one of the most exquisite of which I am this day indebted to your abiding affection.

THE LATE PROFESSOR PARRY.

A recent number of the Church Times notices the death, on Sept. 15th, at Godalming, in Surrey, of the Rev. E. St. John Parry at the age of seventy-one. Mr. Parry was Trinity's first Professor of Classics, holding the chair from 1852 to 1855. He was a first-class honour man of Oxford and came out here at the same time as Provost Whitaker and Professor Irving. Trinity University was then just founded and Parry did his share in starting the infant University on the road to success. With the undergraduates of his day he was deservedly popular, owing to his uniform courtesy and kindness. He took a deep interest in the amusements as well as the studies of the men, and was an active member of the cricket club until the Lord Bishop of the Diocese forbade his engaging in the sport as not being in keeping, we suppose, with clerical dignity. Times and bishops have changed, and we congratulate the present talented Professor of Classics upon the fact that in these later days he enjoys a larger liberty than the first occupant of the chair.

In 1855 Mr. Parry returned to England where he became headmaster at Leamington. He afterwards opened at Slough, near Windsor, a school for preparing boys for the public schools, a work in which he had marked success. Mr. Parry's scholarship is shown in his edition of Terence and in a Greek drama; his character is still held in esteem by those who were students under him.
