MAIL ORDERS
 We solicit out of town orders which receive our personal attention. The length of time taken to fill orders is governed very largely by how busy we are in the department of our factory in which the particular goods are made. While we have exceptional facilities for promptly turning out goods, it is important to place orders as far ahead as possible. Orders are filled by us in the rotation in which they are received, and customers can always depend on our doing everything in our power to give prompt despatch.

CAMPBELLTON BOY RECOMMENDED FOR V. C.
Was Killed in Action, But Showed Marked Bravery Under Fire.

Last week we published a report of the killing in action of Pte. Albert Astles. Herewith we are publishing a letter received by Mrs. Astles from one of the officers of the 26th Battalion giving particulars of the young man's death and we notice that according to this statement recommendation has been made that he be awarded the Victoria Cross.

Paris, Nov. 24th, 1916.
 Dear Mrs. Astles—
 It is with much regret that I write you regarding the death of your son, and to convey to you the deepest sympathy of the officers and men in our Battalion for the supreme sacrifice he and also you have been called upon to make.
 He was killed early this morning when returning to our trench from a party which had made a raid on the Boches. It was a volunteer party and that fact alone shows the "stuff" your boy was made of. Death was instantaneous and he suffered no pain. I have just returned from his funeral which took place in our military cemetery this afternoon. Lieut. Col. MacKenzie and all the officers of the Battalion were present and paid their last respects to your brave son. The grave is marked by a wooden cross on which is his name, number, Battalion, and date of death.
 Albert was stretcher bearer in my Platoon, in fact I looked upon him as my S. B., and there was not a man in the Platoon liked as well as he. None of us were the least bit afraid of being left in "No Man's Land" when we had your son with us. We all knew, and he showed us many times that he was afraid of nothing and would go through anything to do his duty.
 At the Somme he was over the parapet saving the lives of dozens of men, not only our own but also of other Battalions in the thick of the fiercest fire possible. He was recommended for the Victoria Cross, the highest honor possible.
 He met death nobly, Mrs. Astles, like the good soldier and man that he was.
 I can say no more except to again extend my personal sympathy for your loss.
 If there is ever anyway in which I can be of service to you, please don't hesitate to write as I looked upon your son a friend as well as a soldier. I am, yours very sincerely,
 Geoffrey R. Harrison,
 Lieut. 26th Bat.

OBITUARY.
 The death of Mrs. Rose Delina Lacasse took place at the Hotel Dieu hospital, Montreal, where she had been receiving medical treatment since last ten weeks, on Saturday evening, last. At the time of her death, Mrs. Lacasse was surrounded by fifteen nuns, Reverend Father Trudeau, a Dominican priest who gave her final absolution, Sister Lacasse of that institution, her sister, Mrs. Chateau de St. Hyacinthe and Mrs. Wilfrid Comeau of this town, also a large number of nurses.
 The body was laid in the Mortuary Chapel of the Hotel Dieu on Sunday where there was a continual procession of nuns and friends who prayed for her soul.
 Father Lacasse accompanied the remains to this town on Saturday evening, last, on Monday. Interment took place on Tuesday in the Catholic cemetery, the funeral being largely attended. Requiem High Mass was celebrated by Father Lacasse, son of deceased, assisted by Fathers Cormier and Lanctote as Deacon and sub-deacon. In the choir were Father Wallace, Father Pierre of Restigouche and Father Lebel. The pall-bearers who were selected by the deceased a few days before her death were Dr. L. G. Pinault, Dr. Martin, Messrs. David Roy, Jos. Boudreau, David Harquail and Geo. St. Onge.
 A large number of spiritual and floral offerings testified to the high esteem in which deceased was held.
 Mrs. Lacasse was in her sixty-fourth year and leaves to mourn three sons and three daughters, Reverend Amelac Lacasse of Watkinson, N. Y., and Aime and Joseph Lacasse of Campbellton, Reverend Sister Lacasse of the Hotel Dieu of Montreal, Mrs. Alex. J. A. Roy of Moncton and Mrs. Wilfrid Comeau of this town.

NEWCASTLE BOY KILLED ON I. C. R.
Was Repairing Break on Car in Station Yard When Shunter Moved Cars.

One of Newcastle's best young men, William Keating, son of Wm. J. Keating, Chief Car Inspector, lost his life Friday morning as the result of not obeying the "Safety First" maxim and setting up a signal when he went under the car to repair a brake. There were three or four cars together, and while he was under one of them a shunting engine ran into the barch and set them into motion. The poor young fellow was jammed between a brake bar and the sleepers, and was unconscious when he was picked up. He was carried home and died about an hour later, without having regained consciousness. The deceased was about twenty years old. Besides his parents he leaves two sisters—Mrs. Stafford and Miss Patricia. The funeral was held Sunday afternoon.
 First lord of the admiralty, Sir Edward Carson.
 Minister of munitions, Dr. Christopher Addison.
 Minister of blockade, Lord Robert Cecil.
 Food controller, Baron Devonport.
 Shipping controller, Sir Joseph Faton Maclay.
 President of the board of agriculture, Rowland E. Prothero.
 President of the board of education, Herbert A. L. Fisher.
 First commissioner of works, Sir Alfred M. Mond.

MAY MEAN PULP MILL FOR CAMPBELLTON.
J. D. Volkman and North Shore Lumbermen Meet at St. John.

Prominent lumbermen who registered at the Royal Hotel yesterday included George Cutler of Boston, D. R. Richards and W. F. Napier of Campbellton, and J. D. Volkman of Millerton, nephew of Sir Robert Perks and manager of Sir Robert's Canadian interests. Mr. Cutler is one of the chief directors of the well known firm of Stetson, Cutler & Company, which Messrs. Richards and Napier are the managers of the Shives Lumber Company, a subsidiary concern of the Stetson, Cutler Company. It is reported that the presence of these gentlemen is in connection with an important deal now being done in this province.
 Both Mr. Cutler and Mr. Volkman said in connection with their visit to the lumbering business on the North Shore has been quite fair during the past year and men are now going into the woods for the season's cutting operations.
 Mr. Volkman managed for some years with much success the pulp and paper mill of Sir Robert Perks at Millerton which was destroyed by fire a few years ago. It is understood that this industry will be revived.—Globe.
 Sir Robert Perks is interested in the pulp and paper business and it is possible his interests are looking for additional limits on the North shore.

POINT A NAVEAU

Lance Corporal Malvin Hamilton of the 171st Battalion spent a few days with his parents Mr. and Mrs. George Hamilton before leaving for England. Sergt. Nicholas Stanley of the 171st Battalion also visited his parents before going overseas. Friends have received word that Mr. Frank Brothers of Douglastown has enlisted in the 244th Battalion, Kitchener's Own.

Mr. John Minchinton has received word that his brother Pte. Alfred Minchinton has been killed in action. Quite a number of jobbers have left for the lumber camps for the winter during the last two weeks.

Shepard and Morse mill has been closed down for the winter but the planning mill is still working.

Quite a number of jobbers left for the lumber camps for the winter during the last two weeks. Friends of Mr. Casper Bail will be glad to hear that he has recovered from his recent illness and were pleased to see him about on Monday.

While out hunting, Harold Eden of Gaspe Bay tripped over a fallen tree causing the discharge of his gun which killed him instantly.

DEESIDE, MATAPEDIA.

On the third of December, Mr. John Ferguson passed peacefully away at the age of seventy-eight years after a lingering illness of several months, which he bore with uncomplaining fortitude. He leaves to mourn besides a widow, two sons, and two daughters, Mrs. J. L. Wyres of Campbellton, and Mrs. Frank Scott of Matapedia, Robert of Matapedia and David with whom he resided. He was born at New Mills, N. B., where two sisters and a brother still live and came to the Restigouche River fifty years ago, where he spent the remainder of his life.

The funeral services for family and friends showed the esteem in which he was held.

The pall bearers were Thos. Wrangham, J. L. Wyers, John McIntyre, Wilson Mann, James Adams and James McNaughton. He was laid to rest in the Matapedia cemetery. He lives in Christ.

BLACK CAPE

The friends of Mrs. J. C. Fair will regret to learn that she is confined to her home through illness but hope for an early recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Henderson are receiving congratulations of friends on the arrival of a baby girl at their home on the 5th.

Mrs. Howie Taylor and children of Chaleurs are the guests of Mrs. John Burton.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Campbell. Mr. James Jamieson left last week for Bathurst, where he intends to be for a few months.

Mr. Nevin Campbell returned on Saturday from Shigawake where he had been spending a few days.

Lillian, the seven year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James McNaughton who has been quite ill is now somewhat improved and we hope that the little one will soon recover.

Many friends of Pte. John West of the 171st Battalion who has been in the Lake Edward Sanatorium for some time will be pleased to know that he is improving in health.

Miss Rania McNair, teacher of the School No. 1, intends holding a Christmas Tree in the school house on December 22nd and a good programme is looked for.

CROSS POINT RESTIGOUCHE.

We regret to announce the serious illness of Mr. Steeve Wheaton of this place.

Friends of Mr. Wilbrod Olscamp are glad to see him about again after his illness.

Mr. Sherman McNaughton spent a few days at his home on his return from the Murray Lumber camps.

Notwithstanding the sad state of the roads and blustering weather on Sunday, Mr. Jos. E. Olscamp undertook a long drive to Escuminac to take Dr. Pineault to attend to a case of diphtheria, there, Jos. says the roads were "certainly slippery".

Mr. Isidore Day is now at home. He has finished threshing for this fall. Rev. Father Ferdinand returned home from Rimouki this morning, he is much improved in health.

place around Xmas. Mr. Jos. E. Olscamp recently sold a setting house to Mr. Wilbrod Olscamp.

Our congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bield on the arrival of a baby girl at their home on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Joseph and family left on Monday night for St. John's where they will spend the Xmas holidays.

Rev. Father Peters left for Memramcook last night.

Mrs. William Vicarie, is we regret to announce, seriously ill. Many are complaining of sore throats, head-aches and colds this changeable weather.

We are pleased to see Mr. Eugene Pichette of Chaleurs Bay Mills Lumber Company at work again after an attack of ja gripe.

CARLETON.

Mr. Jos. E. Olscamp of Restigouche visited Albert and Frank Allard on Friday last.

Miss Mabel Findlay and Miss Ida Geraghty of Cross Point visited friends here last week.

A serious fire occurred here this week when the barn belonging to Mr. Philip Barrison, was burned to the ground. Besides the building Mr. Barrison lost nine cows and three young horses and all the contents of the barn. The loss which is about $3000. is not covered by insurance.

Mr. Jos. Arsenault has the sympathy of many friends in the death of his son, aged sixteen years which occurred last evening.

PINE FORESTS IN DANGER

Through the invasion of the "white pine blister rust," a virulent fungus disease imported from Germany about seven years ago, Canada is seriously threatened with the extermination of her pine resources, probably the most valuable forest asset of Eastern Canada. This disease has destroyed the white pine of Europe, has made serious ravages in the pines in the northeastern states, and is spreading in Ontario and Quebec. Centres of invasion are scattered from Maine to Minnesota in the United States, and from Southwestern Ontario to Southern Quebec in Canada, the Niagara peninsula being the most seriously infected district in the Dominion.

For its full development and for transmission to the pine, the disease is dependent on the currant and gooseberry bushes. The fact that it cannot spread directly from one pine to another offers a means of control and no effort should be spared to combat the rust by exterminating the currant and gooseberry bushes in infected or exposed districts, or at least by prohibiting the shipment from these regions of all currant and gooseberry bushes and fruit and by placing an embargo on the importation of such stock. Unfortunately, the wild gooseberry is equally dangerous as an intermediary in spreading the disease.

Any loss entailed by even the total destruction of the whole currant family is insignificant compared to the value of the white pine in Canada. In 1914 the white pine production of Eastern Canada, including logs and sawn lumber, totalled $16,600,000. The cutting and manufacture of this timber furnished employment to thousands of men and supplies hundreds of industries with raw material for which no satisfactory substitute can be secured. The white pine is one of the most important tax-payers in Canada and contributes no less than $1,250,000 to the total revenue of about $4,000,000 which the four eastern provinces derive annually from their forests. In view of these facts it is evident that drastic measures should be taken to eradicate the disease which threatens this resource.

BOMBING ENEMY STEEL WORKS

Here is a letter recounting Canadian aerial activities on the west front. It tells how Fred Armstrong, jr., of 707 Spadina avenue, Toronto, dropped bombs on a German steel works. The letter, dated November 15, itself is written by another Canadian aviator: "You will remember that I remarked during the night of the 13th and 14th of three ago. The next day we raided a steel works at Hagendange, about ten miles north of Metz. The French had paid the place a visit the night before, with forty aeroplanes, so that we were expected to finish the job. "We set off about noon, and as Metz was in our direct course, and since it is crowded with anti-aircraft guns, we gave it a wide berth, passing about ten miles to the west of it. Our objective was not hard to pick up, as it was near a river and a railway intersection, which helped to identify it. Our instructions told us to look out for a row of five large chimneys (one hundred and fifty-foot high variety) as a means of being sure of our objective. When we arrived there were only three standing, showing that the French had got in their work, and when we left there was only one. Sub-Lieut. Fred Armstrong (Toronto) dropped one of his bombs between two of the chimneys, sending one to the right and the other to the left. As we approached the works we could see where parts of the roofs seemed to be scattered around the land. One of the last of our chaps to drop his bombs reported that there seemed so little of the objective left that he bombed the intersection of the railways, managing to hit a train. In order to fool the enemy airmen, we returned to the east of Metz, and crossed a part of the line where they were not expecting us. On this account our fighting machines, which always accompany the bombers, had nothing to do, so it was a very tame affair from their point of view. However, it was a very satisfactory raid, for in addition to smashing the place to smithereens, all our machines returned safely. The shelling was very poor compared with what we got on our last raid, which I can tell you now was to the Mauser Rifle Works at Oberdorf in Wurtemberg. Those gunners in the Vosges mountains and Rhine Valley certainly know how to shoot. This raid to Hagendange was a picnic in comparison. "Then for over two weeks the weather interfered with operations. But once it became fine, and what we made of our opportunities! On Friday, Saturday and Sunday, November 10th, 11, and 12th, we bombed steel works and foundries in the Saar Valley, near Saarbruck. I understand that three daylight raids on successive days by our squadron stands as agreed in the war.

NOT VERY MUCH PLEASED

Moncton Times, Thursday: The local police are no very much pleased with action of the St. John authorities in suspending the sentences of three young ladies, recently captured in a raid down there, on condition that they come back to Moncton. The fair dames in question arrived here last evening, but only stayed for a short while, leaving almost immediately for Bathurst, where they intend to locate, it is said. However, it is said the North Shore town is not exactly hankering for their company, either. The St. John police yesterday also unloaded on Moncton an old man who had walked down to the winter port from Buctouche. What is to be done in his case is not yet definitely known.

A CHRISTMAS STAR SONG

Listen, listen, all ye people! Hear the mighty star world singing. With their wondrous eyes upturning Reverent towards the highest heavens. As upon that first glad morning, Praising, in the enraptured chorus, The Creator, grand, beloved, For His mercy everlasting.

"Glory, honor, worship, blessing. Past all doubt and fear and danger, See our God, His love confessing,

Lowly, lying in a manger

With the great, dull beasts around Him Gazing mute upon His glory— Where 'ae prostrate kings have found Him, Hope of prophecy and story.

Over all in radiant shower Beams our blessed chosen brother— Star of peace and holy power Shining on the Virgin Mother.

Wonder, awful, unexpressed, Still the kings to silent praise Of the Babe their Lord confessed, Born to save through endless days; Glory! glory! peace and gladness! Let the stars triumphant sing! Past all doubt and fear and sadness, Christ is born Eternal King." —Emily Anderson Rowland

CHRISTMAS.

'Tis Christmas Day, the angels say; We sing their song again; Glory to God in the highest, peace On earth, good-will to men."

Two thousand years have rolled away, Since first they sang their song, And strife and hate and cruel war Their awful work prolong.

The weary world sends up its cry: "How long, O Lord, how long Shall sin abound, and wrong be crowned And weak be crushed by strong!"

God of the nations, God of peace, Bring in the reign of love, When man shall own his brother man And all their God above." —Rev. G. Colborne Heine.

THE CHRISTMAS MORN

Light of the longing ages, Hope of the yearning earth, Song of the choir angelic, Above the wondrous birth; Good tidings of great gladness, Of peace and love new born, Dispersing gloom and sadness With dawn of Christmas Morn.

Ye have no dreams, deceiving True hearts that trust and then— No false light glamour weaving Round hearts and minds and men, Though many a dream has vanished Before fierce passion's rage And peace and love had vanished From history's blotted page!

What though a world is weeping, Her stricken and her slain, And though the bells of Christmas We hear the wail of pain— Wrecked cities, smoking hamlets, The shattered ruins show, In mute appeals to Heaven From ruthless human foe?

What though each martyred nation Mourns o'er her thousands, laid Cold 'mid the desolation To win a life near-born; And through the fierce fought battle Still gleams the blood stained sword, Yet cry the angel voices: "The Saviour is the Lord!"

What though thick clouds and darkness Veil His eternal throne? His righteousness stands steadfast, His love still seeks His Own; And—though the cannon's thunder, Through anguish, pain and fear, Through whirlwinds of man's fury, The still, small voice we hear.

His love draws love to serve Him, Careless of loss or life; His peace shines through the darkness, His power controls the strife, His wisdom guides the conflict To win a life near-born; His light through crimson drawing Wakes the new Christmas Morn. —Fideles Kingston

If a man succeeds the world envies him; if he fails it openly sympathizes with him—and secretly rejoices.

THE WHOLESALE DEPLETION OF POULTRY

Laying and Breeding Stock Not Warranted Under Present Conditions

Judging from the unprecedented heavy deliveries of poultry on the central eastern markets so early in the season, it would appear that farmers and producers generally are not only depleting their flocks unwarrantably but also rushing them to the market in an unfinished condition.

With the brisk inquiry for Canadian poultry from Great Britain, it is expected by exporters that the demand for well-finished, good quality stock will be kept during the coming winter.

The presence of pullets and young fowl has also been noted in many shipments. This is most unfortunate considering the price of eggs. The very firm prospect for the profitable marketing of all poultry products points to the necessity of conserving in every possible way all suitable laying and breeding stock.

Current receipts to date have consisted mainly of live poultry. The however, to previous, but re-lit-utana season is now sufficiently advanced, however, to warrant more liberal shipments, of dressed poultry. In light of the fact that there will be a considerable movement of Canadian poultry to Great Britain, it is of the utmost importance that all poultry killed on the farms, in addition to being well-finished, be properly killed and dressed.

Proper and complete bleeding is most essential. Sometimes the arteries of the neck are not completely severed, the bird fails to bleed properly, with the result the carcass takes on a reddish appearance. With proper attention to details, a useful reputation

TRANSFORMING OLD PAPER INTO NEW

Process That Removes The Ink From Newspapers Successfully Tested In Wisconsin

The high cost of print paper is largely responsible for bringing into the limelight Dr. Thomas Jasperson, who is confident he has invented a process whereby old newspapers are transformed into pure white stock, to be again used for newspaper printing. The process has had an actual test; newspapers yellow with age having been converted into rolls of spotless paper and used for several issues of a Neenah newspaper. Dr. Jasperson is being besieged with inquiries from all over the country.

The process removes all ink from the old newspapers, and they are ground up, made into pulp, and run through a papermaking machine, coming out immaculate, whiter than the original paper. Dr. Jasperson worked more than four years before he perfected his compound. He completed his work about a year ago. He persuaded a paper manufacturer at Kalamazoo, Mich., to make a test. A few weeks ago the Combined Locks Paper Company made one run of the Jasperson paper. It was used in the publication of the Neenah paper, and the result was a paper firm, white and of excellent quality.

In this process the old newspapers are put into the beater, or mixing machine, and a chemical is added. By this the lampblack is extracted and the paper pulp is bleached clear white. The mass is washed several times before it is run through the rolls, from which it comes, dried by heat, in a fine white sheet, and is rolled on a spool for use. No changes in plant are necessary. The same machinery is used. The inventor has received a patent from the United States.

A mill is being equipped at Chicago, where his processes will be used.

BILLY'S CHRISTMAS GREETING

So I am a heartless flirt who doesn't understand the meaning of the word Love, am I, Mr. William Dunning?" stormed Marjorie all to herself, in answer to the final degree of rage and defiance which that gentleman hurled at her by means of a vigorous slam of the front door.

"I believe he would have shaken me, if he hadn't rushed out in time to prevent himself from doing it," she continued, the ever ready dimples venturing out of their hiding places, but she banished them severely. "I'll never, never forgive him even though he asks me to which of course, he won't! And he calls me stubborn!"

Next morning Marjorie was tremendously busy wrapping up dainty little parcels, for the next day was Christmas, and her many friends must be remembered, in spite of quarrels and Billy.

Still she seemed very much preoccupied over her work, and quite suddenly she threw aside the pieces of holly she had been toying with, and fairly flew to the telephone.

In answer to her impatient summons, she was quickly connected with Brown & Co.'s book store. "Have you sent out those books that were ordered for Mr. William Dunning?" she asked anxiously.

The answer evidently pleased her, for she breathed a sigh of relief. "That's all right; I'm glad you haven't, for I have changed my mind about them. Please cancel the order."

Marjorie hung up the receiver with an air of triumph. "There, I'm glad I thought of that! Billy would have construed a Christmas present into an abject apology," she said, her indignation rising at the very thought of such a thing.

But when she went back to her parcels and picked up the little twig of holly she had intended tucking away into one of them, her face softened. "I know that isn't the right kind of a Christmas spirit to have, but I can't have Billy thinking that I am admitting I was wrong, when I know I wasn't," she argued with herself.

The joyous ringing of Christmas bells and merry shouts of her younger sisters and brothers, when they discovered their stockings the next morning, only served to emphasize her depression.

"Billy never loved me; if he really and truly did he never could treat me like this," she told herself as she stood looking with unseeing eyes at the snowy Christmas world.

Just then a young man, fairly tearing around the corner, arrested her attention. It was no less a person than Billy himself who was coming, post haste, to see her.

Marjorie looked at him in wonder. What had come over Billy? Why this sudden contrition, when, she admitted it now for the first time, if not altogether, to blame for their quarrel.

"O, Billy, I am so glad you came." Billy took some time to emphasize his appreciation of her welcome, then "Glad I came? Why wouldn't I come dear?" he asked.

"Because you vowed you wouldn't unless I apologized," Marjorie explained mischievously.

"You didn't think I'd be so narrow and unforgiving as to ignore your dear little peace offering? I brought one of the books with me to read something to you," he told her, and diving into his pocket he produced a little copy of "Romeo and Juliet."

Marjorie was surprised for a second, then it flashed over her what it all meant. Brown & Co. had forgotten to cancel her order and Billy had received the books. Billy had construed her sending them into a humble plea for forgiveness.

He most probably wouldn't have come at all if it hadn't been for that. She stiffened visibly and all her love was swallowed up in a wave of rebellious pride.

"You are mistaken," she commenced coldly, but Billy interrupted her. Here I have found it.

"My bounty is as boundless as the sea, My love as deep, the more I give to thee.

"The more I have, for both are in-

In Memoriam. It is sad but loving memory of our dear father Angus McLeod who died Dec 1915.

Just one year ago he left us, How we miss his loving face; But he left us to remember None on earth can fill his place. Inset by his daughter Mrs Catherine W. Clark.

There passed away on Friday last, Dec. 8th. Mrs. Alfred Malcomber of Campbellton. The deceased came to Canada from England many years ago and settled in Restigouche. Some three months ago she went to the United States to visit relatives and while there became ill. A little over a month ago she returned home and gradually became weaker and weaker until the spirit took its flight to God who gave it. The funeral service which was conducted by Rev. J. E. Purdie was held on Sunday afternoon. There were many kind and sympathetic friends who came to pay their last tribute of respect. There are left to mourn, her husband, one son (Corp. Wm. Malcomber), (now on active service), and two daughters, Mrs. John A. McCallum and Mrs. H. Stanley Mann, both of Campbellton. Mr. Malcomber and the members of the family wish to thank the many kind friends for expressions of sympathy received during their hour of sorrow.

OBITUARY. There passed away on Friday last, Dec. 8th. Mrs. Alfred Malcomber of Campbellton. The deceased came to Canada from England many years ago and settled in Restigouche. Some three months ago she went to the United States to visit relatives and while there became ill. A little over a month ago she returned home and gradually became weaker and weaker until the spirit took its flight to God who gave it. The funeral service which was conducted by Rev. J. E. Purdie was held on Sunday afternoon. There were many kind and sympathetic friends who came to pay their last tribute of respect. There are left to mourn, her husband, one son (Corp. Wm. Malcomber), (now on active service), and two daughters, Mrs. John A. McCallum and Mrs. H. Stanley Mann, both of Campbellton. Mr. Malcomber and the members of the family wish to thank the many kind friends for expressions of sympathy received during their hour of sorrow.

LETTER TO SANTA

The Graphic will undertake to forward letters intended for Santa Claus. Any boy or girl who writes in care of these columns will no doubt have their wishes gratified. The following letter has been received at the Graphic Office this week:

Dear Santa Claus:-- Please bring me a little clock, and a drum and a bugle and a little sled, because I am a small boy. A jumping jack. You will find my stocking hanging up by the fireplace, next my little sister's. She wants a jolly, some nuts and candies. Well I must close. Love to you Santa Claus. Yours truly, A.

GERMANY AND PEACE.

Germany and her allies have made overtures of peace through neutral nations.

In the message given to the world Germany says:—"Consciousness of their responsibility before God, before their own nation and before humanity."

It is indeed sad that consciousness was not manifested two years ago, before this war was undertaken by the German War Lord.

Then in announcing his steps to procure peace the Kaiser sends the following note to his generals at the front:—"Soldiers—In agreement with the Sovereigns of my allies, and with consciousness of victory, I have made an offer of peace to the enemy. Whether it will be accepted is still uncertain."

"Until that moment arrives you will fight on."

"With a consciousness of victory" In these words are summed up sufficient reasons why peace cannot come at this time. Until this "consciousness of victory" is entirely dispelled from the Kaiser's mind no lasting peace can possibly be made.

Germany, to all intents and purposes as for she and her allies are concerned, are the victors. Are not Belgium, Poland, Serbia, Montenegro, Roumania, and parts of Russia and France in the hands of the enemy?

Until Germany is driven out of the occupied territory and is brought to bay at her own frontier, or the people of Germany rise and overthrow military government, any hope of lasting peace is only a dream. And a lasting peace is what the world requires of Great Britain and her allies.

That Germany is yet far from being humiliated, and in proper form to accept lasting peace proposals.

HUN SEA RAIDER BELIEVED TO BE OFF THE COAST

Halifax, Dec. 9.—Warning of a possible German sea raider has been given Allied shipping by British naval authorities here, in addition to the continued warnings concerning two fighting submarines believed to be somewhere off the Atlantic coast.

The strictest watch on the vessel suspected of being a raider is being maintained today, since from the position where she was last sighted, she could reach the waters in this vicinity within a day or two.

The naval authorities in their warning relate that the suspected craft was allowed to pass by the patrol off the southwestern coast of Scotland last Sunday under the impression that she was the Dutch steamer Gamma. Later it was learned that the latter was at Kirkwall at the time.

The vessel is described as of 1200 tons, black hull with red bottom, white upper works, on funnel, thought to be plain black.

Naval officers believe the vessel may have mines, intended to be sown in this part, the most important on this coast to the British navy, or to endanger the travel lanes taken by troop ships.

JOSEPH H. WRAN DIED ON WEDNESDAY

Moncton, Dec. 7.—Joseph H. Wran, a well known citizen, died last night, at the home of his son-in-law, E. J. Thomson, Lewisville, aged 73 years. He was born in Chichester, Sussex, England, and came to Canada 44 years ago. He first settled in St. John, came to Moncton a year later and entered the employ of government railway shops, retiring in 1914. He was foreman of the Copper, Tin and Water Department of I. C. R. and was an active member of St. George's Church of England and Westmorland Lodge of K. P. The deceased leaves two sons and two daughters, Joseph G., of I. C. R. offices, Moncton; Thomas, druggist, Campbellton; Mrs. William Casin, and Mrs. E. J. Thomson, Lewisville.

ALLIED BLOCKADE OF GREECE BEGUN

Washington, Dec. 9.—The U. S. Ambassador Sharp, at Paris, notified the State Department to-day that the Allied blockade of Greece began at Friday-morning at 8 o'clock.

ROBERT J. STEEVES.

Wounded and Missing... ing was in Moose Jaw when war was declared and enlisted with the 5th Battalion and went overseas with the first contingent. When the first contingent went to France he was billeted to remain in England to help train the 2nd Contingent having three stripes, but he said, "No, I did not enlist for a barracks soldier but to go to the front" and gave up his stripes and went as a private. He sailed for France in February 1915 and went to the trenches four days later. He only had a seven days leave of absence up to the time he was wounded and missing.

Mothers can rest easy after giving "California Syrup of Figs," because in a few hours all the clogged-up waste, sour bile and fermenting food gently moves out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. Sick children needn't be coaxed to take this harmless "fruit laxative." Millions of mothers keep it handy because they know its action on the stomach, liver and bowels is prompt and sure. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which contains directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups.

IF YOUR CHILD IS CROSS, FEVERISH, CONSTIPATED

Look Mother! If tongue is coated, cleanse little bowels with "California Syrup of Figs."

DALHOUSIE.

Mr. George LaBillio left on Saturday for Moncton where he will visit his sister Mrs. R. L. Lennox.

Mrs. DeGrace of Campbellton is visiting in town at the home of Mrs. W. A. Mott.

Mr. P. M. Shannon of Campbellton was in town on Monday on business.

Mr. D. A. Stewart, M. L. A. of Campbellton visited the shiretown on Monday.

Mrs. S. A. Mott spent the week-end in Campbellton the guest of Mrs. S. H. Lingley.

Lieut. E. R. Richard who has been visiting his parents at Dorchester has again returned to town.

Mr. Jas. Martin of River Charlie was in town on Tuesday.

Mrs. W. S. Montgomery spent Saturday at the home of her mother Mrs. D. J. Keefe.

Mr. Peter H. Schohar was in Campbellton on Monday.

Miss Bernetta Hayes of the Royal Bank staff spent Sunday at her home in River Charlie.

Lieut. Edward Elziger of the 8th Quebec Rifles, Quebec City spent a short pass here last week.

The many friends of Mr. Briggs, filer for the Dalhousie Lumber Company, will regret to hear that he met with a bad accident while filing in the woods for the Company. He was unstrapping a bench for his work when the axe slipped and cut his foot very seriously. Mr. Briggs left on Monday for Maine where his home is.

Dalhousie has welcomed home another returned hero in the person of Pte. Henry Splude of the 43rd Montreal Highlanders. Pte. Splude was five and one half months in the trenches and went through some serious engagements with his most gallant regiment. He was taken seriously ill with trench fever and when recovered his heart was too weak to go back. He returned to his home town last week and was warmly welcomed by his many friends.

A serious fire broke out on Tuesday of last week in the home of Mr. Isaac Normandeau. The fire alarm was rung about two o'clock in the afternoon and the Volunteer Fire Department were quickly on the scene. Despite their most desperate efforts the fire made great havoc and the interior of the house was very badly damaged. The loss is not covered by insurance. Mr. Normandeau has commenced repairing and expects to have his house ready very soon.

The management of the rink are having it flooded regularly and the ice is coming along finely despite the poor weather conditions. The curling ice is nearly completed and it will not be long before the residents of Dalhousie shall enjoy skating.

Word has been received here that Corporal Fred Fallon Musketry instructor of the 132nd Battalion has left Dalhousie for the firing line.

He is the first of the Dalhousie platoon of the North Shore Battalion to reach France and his many friends wish him every success and a safe return.

POLICE COURT.

A hotel keeper who has a beer license was up before His Honor this week for selling beer on Sunday. He was fined $25.00 and costs.

A local restaurant keeper endeavored to make a little pocket money on the side, so he sold a little booze. It cost him $50.00 and costs.

On Monday another citizen was up before the court for selling beer on Sunday. The case was dismissed on account of insufficient evidence.

A lumber jack was arrested at the I. C. R. depot on Tuesday evening for creating a disturbance. He contributed $15.00 to the Police Court funds.

OFF TO HALIFAX.

Lieut. J. L. Lawlor, with the 12th Field Battery, recruited by him on the North Shore left Wednesday for Halifax en route to France.

ADJUSTMENT OF FISHERY DISPUTES

Negotiations Between Canadian and American Governments

Washington, Dec. 8.—Negotiations are under way for a permanent adjustment of all issues arising between the American and Canadian governments connected with fisheries, not only on the Pacific coast, where troubles recently have been most acute, but on the Atlantic and the Gulf of St. Lawrence.

A general discussion of the international fisheries, it was learned to-day has grown out of negotiations over disputes between Americans and British Columbia ports in regard to the Puget Sound and Southern Alaskan fisheries. Officials here are confident that an agreement soon will be reached.

Before enlisting he was Principal of Centreville School, Carleton County. Lieut. S. S. McLean, a brother is now over in England with the 132nd Battalion, also another brother, Pte. A. R. McLean is with the 281 Scaford Highlanders, now training in Vancouver, B. C.

Mrs. McLean has received the following letter from France relating how Bdr. McLean met his death. Nov. 2, 1916.

Dear Mrs. McLean; I have commenced several times to write to you and stopped in fear of unduly renewing the memory of your great loss, but on reading your letter to Sergt. Bishop I gather that you would like to know something of old Mc's life out here. I never was especially intimate with him but he, Johnston and I worked together on the same shift for about three months in the salient. As you know Mc held the rank of acting Bombardier and was well fitted for the position by knowledge and character. Our work was operating the signal stations at the guns, the trenches and the observation post, doing three days at each and three rest at the end. The work requires endurance, patience, and nerve, the latter especially. When the observing officer registered the guns from an exposed position or when the wires were cut, repairing same under shell fire or machine gun fire. In every case he set us a splendid example by his coolness and contempt of danger when duty required dangerous work to be done and his infectious grin was a by-word among the rest of us. He was willing to do even more than his share of cooking, carrying water and rations and working on dugouts, etc.

In physique he had broadened and matured a lot since boarding the train at Campbellton and was a finely developed big man. In my army life I have met some fine fellows but none who possessed such clean straightforward qualities as Mc.

He was killed with Fred Clark whose people live in Riga, Sask., a very fine chap too. They were sent out to maintain the line between the brigade and observation post in the front line, a very difficult job, and one which killed both instantaneously while they were in the trench.

Both were buried together, Mc with a smile still on his face and we are having a white cross put on the grave. Their grave at the time they were buried was about 300 yards behind the front line. It is now nearly four miles and the little bit they did helped a little bit to put it there, so their lives did not pass for nothing.

You have the sincerest sympathy of all the Battery especially the signallers who admired and loved him the more they worked and lived with him.

Yours truly,
86240 W. McLARNON,

JUST BY WAY OF CONTRAST

British vs. German Navies—The Week Done.

(Boston Post.) The ability of half a dozen German destroyers to invade English waters and bombard the coast town Ramsgate is not so surprising as the fact that such exploits do not happen more often. Instead of proving that England is not "mistress of the seas," they rather emphasize the fact that she is, if such things are the best the great German navy can do.

In contrast, it must be remembered that no armed hostile force has yet been able to set foot on English soil; that scores of English steamships are running on regular schedule, and that Germany's transatlantic commerce in many months has been limited to two trips of a submarine merchantman. These things are what really count.

Such raids as that on Ramsgate are spectacular, of course; but they have no more real value than the exploit of a small boy who throws a stone when policeman's back is turned and then flees frantically for shelter before the guardian of the law can catch him.

THE 236th NEW BRUNSWICK BATTALION

AND THE CLAN MacLEAN TARTAN.

Sir Fitzroy and Lady MacLean on the Steps of their Family Mansion, Duart Castle, Mull, Scotland.

When authority was given Lt. Col. Gauthrie to proceed to recruit a Scotch Battalion in New Brunswick there was much speculation as to the tartan to be worn. The announcement that the MacLean was the choice created enthusiasm among the MacLean clan throughout the province. By the kind permission of the Toronto Sunday World we are able to reprint pictures of the head of Clan MacLean, and his good lady.

It is too bad recruits for this Battalion, which is to uphold the honor of so noble a clan are coming forward so slowly. Men of the Clan, rally to the trumpet call.

SAW CRUCIFIED CANADIAN SOLDIER

A vivid account of the part he took in taking down the Canadian who was crucified by the Germans at the front was given by Private William Herry Cook of Saskatoon, who landed at Halifax on his way home. He spent eighteen months in the trenches.

"On April 24th, 1915," said Private Cook, "I was one of the bunch of fifteen who discovered this poor chap spiked to a barn door just outside the village of St. Julien, near Ypres. He had been fastened to the door of an old barn with five German bayonets; one through his head and one through each hand and each foot. He was a member of the 5th Battalion, and was from Saskatchewan, but I cannot give his name. This was on the second day after the British offensive, began at Ypres.

"There can be no doubt that the Germans were very sore about the Canadians taking part in the war. When we first went over, the first day we were in the front line trenches we hadn't been there five minutes before we heard a German yelling: 'Hello, you Canadians! We'll get you all right!'

CANADA DOES NOT WANT CONSCRIPTION

Canada does not want conscription. No doubt this country is yet good for a third great effort to raise the last 140,000 of our national half-million of an army. But it may as well be set down as a national fact that conscription is not the way to do it, says the Canadian Courier. Let us keep in mind just what has been the experience of conscription in no-conscript countries like England and Australia. The parallel does not hold with conscript continental Europe. Trace it in democracy, Australia, which before the war had universal training and was able to send at once a much larger army than Canada sent in 1914, has recently voted down conscription. There must be a reason in democracy, England, which now has conscription, did not begin to create it until there had been instituted in the name of a free nation, first, voluntary enlistment; second, the national register and the pink forms; third, the Derby scheme of systematic recruiting based upon the national register—finally, to get the last remnant of the slackers, compulsory service. And if compulsion had not exercised at the ports of debarkation much of that

DURING war times one has to make every cent count when making a purchase, and there are many luxuries which you must forego before this great struggle is over. Therefore in purchasing your Christmas Gifts you should buy something of a practical nature.

Here are a few suggestions for suitable gifts for men:

remnant of slackers' would have escaped overseas. Conscription would have defeated by its own force. What have we done in Canada to test our capacity to raise a half-million army without compulsory service? As yet nothing but voluntary enlistment. That has given us an army of 360,000. Will anyone say that it is not a marvelous achievement. We have not as yet even the beginning of a nation register. Our present census is six years old. Long ago the Government should have organized our census department upon a sensible business inventory of our resources in a time of war. A national register would indicate where the rest of our half-million army is to come from. But it would not of itself get the men. A Canadian Derby, taking the results of the national register, would surely have a chance to enlarge our Canadian army. Is it out of comparison with what we have already achieved under voluntary enlistment to imagine that such a scheme would get most, if not all, the necessary balance? And if it did not would conscription do it. Consider the slackers of England who were kept in the country because the ports were blocked against them. But what blockade could Canada ever enforce along the United States border? What is to prevent 100,000 men—if we have so many slackers—from crossing the border to a land where there is no war? Nothing. Conscription, aiming to get the remnant, would make the slackers and exiles of men who, under a more system on the basis of a national register, might be got to enlist. If Australia, which is an island and capable of keeping her slackers at home, votes down conscription—why should Canada, which half a continent, dream of adopting it?

TAKE THESE

CHRISTMAS LEGENDS

All around the season of the Coming of Love as a little Child there have sprung legends and beliefs, like blossoms in a gracious clime, which testify with subtlety to the depths of the appeal of the birth of Christ. Here divinely spiritual symbolism and there sweet human tenderness and pathos appear, and blended, they evidence the world's belief that this was both Son of Man and Son of God.

An Irish legend tells that, on Christmas eve, the Christ-Child wanders out into the darkness and cold, and the peasants still put lighted candles in their windows to guide the sacred little feet, that they may not stumble on their way to their homes. And in Hungary the people go yet further in their tenderness for the Child, they spread feasts and leave their doors open that He may enter at His will while throughout the Christendom there is a belief that no evil can touch any child who is born on Christmas eve.

The legends which tell how the very hay which lined the manger in which the Holy Babe was laid put forth living red blossoms at mid-winter at the touch of the Babe's body could only have arisen from belief in the renewal of life through the Lord of Life.

THE HOLY THORN

It is not so many centuries ago since there was that holy thorn every Christmas, and, so ran the legend, had done ever since St. Joseph of Arimathea, having come as apostle to Britain, and, landing at Glastonbury, had stuck his staff of dry hawthorn into the soil, commanding it put forth leaves and blossoms. This the staff straightway did, and thereby was the king converted to the Christian faith, the faith which preached life from death.

The holy thorn of Glastonbury flourished during the centuries until the civil war. During those it was uprooted; but several persons had had trees growing from cuttings from the original tree, and those continued to bloom at the Christ-season, just as their parent, which had grown from St. Joseph's staff, had bloomed. And about the middle of the 18th century it was recorded in the Gentleman's Magazine how the famous boy thorn would not deign to recognize the new style calendar, which had then come into force but would persist in blossoming as of old on old Christmas day!

In those days the anniversary of the advent of the Babe had certainly meant more to the common people than merely a time for feasting and revelry, for giving and receiving; it had been also a season for holy observances, for they refused to go to church on New Christmas day, the holy thorn not being then in blossom. So serious became the trouble that the clergy found it prudent to announce that Old Christmas day should also be kept sacred as before. Only another story of men's weak, superstitious minds? True perhaps; but there are better who evidence some spiritual weakness than those who wallow in the wholly material, and when we cease to be careful of the cup and the platter, we become not careful of their contents.

An Error.—An exchange prints the following: "A Westerner had hanged himself to the bedpost by his suspenders. The verdict of the coroner's jury, "Deceased came to his death by coming home full and mistaking himself for his pants."—Galveston Tribune.

THE CHRISTMAS ROSE

Another of these spiritual parables is the legend of the Christmas rose, and tells how good things, fit for giving, spring up ready to the hand which earnestly desires to give to the Child. It is said that a certain maiden of Bethlehem was so poor that she had nothing to give to the Babe to whom kings brought wealth from afar and, as she stood, longing and morning, an angel appeared to her, saying: "Look at thy feet, beneath the snow," and lo! on obeying the maiden found that a new flower had miraculously sprung up and blossomed at her needs. Ever since then, runs this story, this exquisite flower, with its snowy petals just touched by suggestions of pinkish bloom, is to be found at this season; and, indeed, its half-opened cups are like chalices of love and its fully spread petals are like a happy innocence, fit symbol for the gifts for the Babe of spotless innocence, whose heart was the vessel of love.

CHRISTMAS EVE LEGENDS

Here are several exceedingly touching legends concerning bells, which are heard ringing from buried cities and villages this season. One belongs to a village near Ralleg, in Nottinghamshire, and the story runs that once, were there is now but a valley, there was a village which, with every trace of life and habitation, had been swallowed by earthquake; but ever since, at Christmas, the bells of the buried church are heard to ring as of old.

A similar legend is told of Preston, in Lancashire, and yet another and more moving ones comes from the Netherlands. It is said that the city of Beem was notorious for its black and shameless sins, as well as renowned for its beauty and magnificence. To Sodom of the middle ages came our Savior on an anniversary of his birth, and went as a beggar from door to door, but not one in all that Christmas keeping city gave the Master of the abundance. Sin he saw rampant on every side, but not a trace of Christmas bounty and good will, and he called to the sea, which, as of old, obeyed his voice, and Beem, the city of sin, was buried deep, clean out of sight, beneath the waves. But ever at Christmas up from beneath the covering waters comes the sweet calling of church bells buried in Beem. It is a legend which appears to tell in parable that nothing which ever belonged to the Christ, and was dedicated to his service, is ever wholly lost from him and alienated from service; that ever again something of their inherent beauty and compelling sweetness rises from the depths though all seeming ruin.

THE MANGER

Tradition declares that within the stone manger there was another one of wood, and that the stone cradle in the Chapel of the Nativity is, indeed the manger. Splendid is that humble stone trough now with white marble, softly rich with costly draperies, and radiant with a silver star which is surrounded by 16 lamps, ever a-lit. But yet more glorious is the wooden manger at Rome, held to be the veritable manger in which the Christ-child lay. It was removed to Rome in the seventh century during the Mohammedan invasion of the Holy Land, and there it is preserved in a strong brazen chest, from which it is brought forth on Christmas days, when it is placed on a Grand Altar. It is mounted upon a stand of silver, which is inlaid with gold and gems, and the shrine in which it rests is of purest rock crystal. In the days in which this was accomplished men, whatsoever may have been their shortcomings in other directions, gave magnificently to the Church Visible.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

Tradition says that the hour of the Babe's birth was the hour of midnight, and legends adds that from then until dawn cocks crow. In Ireland it is held that whose looks into a mirror on this eve will see the devil or Judas Iscariot looking over his shoulder, surely thought sufficient to drive the hardest soul to a thought of the innocent Babe.

Another legend tells that, on Christmas eve, Judas Iscariot is released from that hell—"his own place"—and is allowed to return to earth that he may cool himself in icy waters.

Wild and improbable although such and such legends appear on their faces, they bear study and repay it, for we then see that they are full of subtle spiritual expression, as it were; that they are parables of certain spiritual facts; and it will be ill for us should the Christmas day ever dawn on which such flowers of tender faith and wonder shall appear to us no more than dry curious specimens from the dead roots of superstition.

THE EDITOR AND YOU

Did you ever stop to consider the difference between the treatment accorded you by the editor and that you accord him?

If he should knock your business through the columns of his paper, or say uncomplimentary things about you in his paper, you would nurse a grudge against him to your grave, and as time rolled by it would grow in size as a baby elephant soaked in grease.

Now is such the case with the editor or? He hears that you have ridiculed and run down his paper, that you have told people on the streets that it would not come to your home, and then you tell him that your daughter has graduated. He praises her to the sky, says she is the pride of the community, the smartest thing on earth and that her parents have just cause to be proud of her. You can mark your paper refused—stick it back in the office and blast of the fact to your friends, humiliating him if you can, but if your son gets into trouble, rather than hurt your feelings he suppresses things connected with the unfortunate case at the risk of being called a numb-skull who can never get hold of the news.

He hears of your denunciations, feels the sting of it all and sometimes suffers financial loss as a consequence but never uses the columns of his paper to get even.

On the other hand if you have anything to boost, he will boost for you; if honors come to take you, he takes local pride in heralding it, and if death steals into your home he will go to the bottom of his heart for tender expressions of love for the departed one and condolence for the ones who are left to mourn.—Exchange.

CANADA, MY CANADA.

From rising sun to setting sun,
From northern snows to south,
Thy loyal sons have gathered O,
A host of gallant youths,
Canada, my Canada!

On Flemish plains, on Turkish shores,
On Egypt's burning sands,
They've poured their blood like water O,
In far and foreign lands,
Canada, my Canada!

O let thy royal challenge ring,
O let the world be shown,
Thy ranks have proved their mettle O
Canada my Canada!

In honor's cause were they sent forth
Nor honor will they yield;
On land and sea, 'fore field and foe,
They bear a spotless shield,
Canada my Canada!

O when at last the fight is won,
Thy heroes gathered home,
The red lips of thy lasses O
Reward them as they come,
Canada my Canada!

And for thy sons returning not,
Whom Death shall keep away
From all thy love and longing O,
Then bend the knee and pray,
Canada, my Canada!

Their laurels be a crown to thee
In all thine after years;
High honor for the living O,
And for the dead thy tears,
Canada my Canada!

THE ANSWER IS WEAR RUBBERS

Many People Will Don Goloshes Early This Season to Combat the High Cost of Leather Foot-wear

"Buy rubbers," says the shoeman, the dealer who plays fair with his customers. Leather is up and shoes are up to such an extent that the buying of a pair of shoes is almost on a level with the acquiring of a new suit or coat. Shoes must be worn, but the economical person will don rubbers as soon as the weather gets the least bit "damp under foot", not only for the protection to the health that the rubbers afford, but to save the costly shoes he or she wears.

There was never a problem in economics that was not solved sooner or later, and rubbers and overshoes seem to be the answer to the augmented price of shoes this winter. 24

BUCHAREST HAS ANCIENT HISTORY

Originally a Fortress 700 Years Ago—Now Important Commercial Centre.

The Roumanians capital, Bucharest, which figures so largely in the news of the day, straggles in its history far back into the past. The historians declare that it was originally a fortress erected on the site of the Daco-Roman Thyanus to command the approaches to Tirgovistea, at one time the capital of Wallachia. But tradition has it that it was built by the semi-mythical Radu Negru, who is supposed to have flourished during the closing year of the thirteenth century and the early years of the fourteenth. Radu Negru was the first Wallachian prince, and it is a point of honor with all Roumanian cities, with any claim to antiquity, to hail him as their founder.

However founded, Bucharest became in time the summer residence of the court, and in 1595 it leaped suddenly into prominence by reason of an occurrence common enough in that part of the world in those days—it was burned by the Turks. It was however, restored again, grew greatly in size and prospered, and in the year 1698 was chosen by Prince Constantine Brancovan for his capital.

During the next century Bucharest was in the centre of the great struggle carried on at that time between Russia, Austria and Turkey for predominance. In turn the city was in possession of all three. In the first half of the following century its fortunes were equally varied. In 1828 it was occupied by the Russians, who, the following years, made it over to the Prince of Wallachia. It was again held by the Russians in 1853-4. On their departure, an Austrian garrison took possession and kept it until the early part of 1857. Its status remained uncertain until 1861, when, on the declaration of the union of Wallachia and Moldavia, Prince Cuza, the first ruler of the united provinces, proclaimed Bucharest, his capital.

Bucharest is essentially a modern town. Although Oriental in external appearance, it has of late years assumed more and more the aspect of a European city. Writers frequently have styled it "the city of enjoyment" from the fact that it is the residence during a part of the year of the magistrates and great landholders of the principalities, and is noted for its gaiety.

The city lies on a swampy plain traversed from northeast to southeast by the Dinovitz river. To the west and southwest, it is sheltered by a low range of hills, but on all other sides the land stretches across marsh and lowland away to the sky line, to where the great central Wallachian plain sweeps down to the Black Sea.

Bucharest has multitude of gardens and a multitude of turrets and gilded cupolas, which lend to the city otherwise, it might be lacking by reason of its essentially modern character. In the matter of avenues and boulevards it bears a striking resemblance to Paris. The three main boulevards skirt the left bank of the Dimbovitza, while the Elizabeth boulevard named in honor of the late Queen, and the famous Calea Victoriei, or "Avenue of Victory", which commemorates the Roumanian successes at Plevna, runs out, east and west, respectively, and meet a broad road which practically encircles the city.

CHRISTMAS BELLS

I heard the bells on Christmas Day Their old familiar carols play, And wild and sweet The words repeat Of peace on earth, Good-will to men!

And thought how, as the day had come, The belfries of all Christendom Had rolled along The unbroken song, Of peace on earth, Good-will to men!

Till, ringing, singing on its way, The world revolved from night to day, A voice, a chime, A chant sublime, Of peace on earth, Good-will to men!

Then from each black accursed mouth The cannon thundered in the South, And with the sound The carols drowned, Of peace on earth, Good-will to men!

It was as if an earthquake rent The hearthstones of a continent, And made forlorn The households born Of peace on earth, Good-will to men!

And in despair I bowed my head; "There is no peace on earth," I said; For hate's strong, And mocks the song, Of peace on earth, Good-will to men!

in the Roumanian capital is the cathedral, or metropolitan church, which was commenced in 1656. Built in the form of a Greek cross, surrounded by a broad cloister, it has three towers, and standing as it does on high ground it overlooks the whole of Bucharest and commands a view of the distant Carpathians.

Bucharest is an important commercial centre, having a population of about 150,000, and covers an area of four by three miles. While it has been compared to Paris in the matter of its magnificent thoroughfares and imposing public buildings, there are many features which render it totally unlike the French capital or any other purely western city. The brightly colored costumes of the gipsies and Roumans, the Russian coachmen or sleigh drivers, and the curious cry of the pedlar lend to everything the unmistakable air of the east, so common in the Balkans.

PICKING A PRESENT FOR PLATT

When Harry Platt and that girl friend of the Greens I forget her name were married, it was one of those nay-affairs, with no one in on the secret except the suburban minister who tied the knot, the cab man who drove them out there and the girl from the minister's kitchen, who was a witness, and left a thumb-print of grease on the certificate (she was frying doughnuts at the time) minister's wife (at least the name was the same). Let's see, where was I? Oh, yes, when the Platts were married, it being that kind of a wedding, there was no chance to send them a wedding gift as I would have liked to do, or to have done, (whichever is proper, or grammatical, though I'm sure I can never tell which.) But Mr. Platt is one of the nicest men in the office, that is, he was before this happened, so I felt we ought to do something for him, just to show our good will—and, anyhow, we've dug down for others we thought much less of, so why shouldn't we for him? But the wedding was over, without invitations, or even a reception, and they were housekeeping before we knew it. So what could we do?

Well, just then Christmas came along not just then but two months after the wedding. They were married October 29, so it wasn't quite two months, but that's close enough. When Christmas came along, that is, just before it came along, I suggested that we make up a purse and give them a sort of delayed wedding present, just to show our good will. Every body thought it was a splendid idea, that is, of course, except Mr. Platt, whom, of course, I didn't consult. So I got up a subscription paper and went to everybody in the office (except Mr. Platt, of course). I got $26.60, including ten cents from the janitor, who wasn't expected to give anything, but wanted to give something, which shows just how popular Mr. Platt was with everyone in the building, when a janitor even would chip in.

Christmas is hard enough, goodness knows, when you do it for yourself; but when you do it for a stock company capitalized at $26.60, with 28 stockholders, with 28 different kinds of ideas and tastes, then Christmas shopping rises above a mere annoyance to dignity of a real trouble. And that's what I was up against. I thought it would be nice to get an expression of opinion. So I went around one morning and asked for ideas. But I couldn't get a word. Nobody could think of anything, I couldn't myself. At noon I went out and looked, I walked miles. I priced, then I went back to the office. You should have seen my desk. Honest you would have thought some one had turned in a general alarm. They couldn't wait for me to get back. There they were—28 of them, (that is, 27, or 28 with me). They all had suggestions, and they were all different.

The head book keeper thought an arm chair would be nice. (He stands up all day)... The collector thought a raincoat would be best, while Miss Jones suggested a dress pattern. They all said, of course, that they left it entirely to me; and then each went away sadly, as much as to say that he hoped I wouldn't be so foolish as to buy any of those other things that the others had proposed.

The next day I looked again. But either a thing was too expensive or I would have money left. It is remarkable how few things there are in the world you can buy for $26.60, no more no less.

And then I saw it. It was in a department store, and marked down from $50 to $26.60! There it was, to a cent! A great, big, glittering, magnificent Punch Bowl! Nobody had thought of that!

But to make sure, I sent the sales ticket with it and told the Platts they could exchange the punch bowl, if they wished, for something they liked better.

And what do you suppose those Platts did?

In January they traded in that magnificent punch bowl for three tons of coal!

ing given those who came to speak to us in the interests of the people. The disturbers were not assembled there by chance; indeed, we were informed two days ago that there was a conspiracy to create a disturbance at the meeting. The scandal is all the more great because its authors are not of the lowest social strata, but come from the condition is being given to the young men? We believe that the time has come for the religious authorities, who enjoy greater liberties in this country than in any other in the world, and profit by their position to rebuke men whose actions are opposed to the interests of our children of sentiment opposed to their duty as citizens.
