A despatch, dates Cowes, Jan 31, 9 p.m.—A glistening crescent of light stretches this evening from Cowes to Portsmouth. It consists of ten miles of warships, the pick of the British, French and German navies. These lie at anchor, ready to take part in to-morrow's ceremonies, when the navy will pay a last magnificent tribute to the Soweneign whose reign was marked by the greatest naval progress in the his-tory of the nation. It will probably be four o'clock to-morrow afternoon before the Alberta with the royal coffin leaves Cowes. She will steam inside the single line, and then enter the passage formed by the leviathans. WHY THE EVENING DAILIES LEAD

The Toronto evening papers are pointing out how superior their news service is to that of their morning contempories. The reason for this is that there is a difference of five hours between English time and ours. We are that much slower. As far as South Africa is concerned we are 12 hours behind. The consequence is that the day's news both in England and South Africa arrives in time for the evening papers. This fact is emphasized almost daily by The Planet. It is true that this news while full is not padded, so that the morning papers have the satisfaction of spreading at length on the details. All the principal markets also close in time for the evening papers, so that for fresh news the morning papers are really restricted to the happenings of the evening on this con tinent. Still the morning papers have their uses but a few of them will cover a large extent of territory without crowding each

THE UNCROWNED SOVEREIGN OF THE WORLD.

One of the most apt phrases made regarding the late Queen that we dress by Rabbi Joseph Silverman, of New York. "Victoria," he said, "was the uncrowned Queen of the whole world." It is a grand title and at the same time one whose propriety will be universally admitted wherever modesty, graciousness of life and all the attributes of true womanhood are revered. Dr. Silverman in paying a tribute to her memory on behalf of his people, said: "It has been claimed that in these days royalty has become a mere form-that the Queen reigns, but does not rule. There is truth in this, but it needs some modification. It makes a difference whether an Elizabeth, an Anne or a Victoria sits on the throne of England. Elizabeth gave great force to her reign, but it was largely the face of a selfish will. It had none of the womanly quality about it. It has been well said that Elizabeth was every inch a king. Equalty true, Victoria was every inch a queen. There are three types of woman. One is the brilliant woman, who shines through her intellect. Another is the masculine woman, who wields power through the possession of manly qualities. The third in the womanly woman, possessing those qualities of feminine virtue that rule not by force or intellect, but through the heart Such women were Ruth, Esther and Queen Victoria. As Jews we owe a special debt to her. By fairness in favoring equally all religions it was possible during her reign to remove the last civil disabilities against Jews. in England."

OUR OBSOLETE JURY SYSTEM.

A few years ago a number of judges in Ontario were asked to give their opinions upon the jury system, with a view to ascertaining whether the time had arrived when that system could, in part, be done away with to advantage. As might have been expected, opinions differed, according to the temperament and experience of the judges in question. Some thought the system, although cumbersome and faulty, could not readily be improved upon, while others believed that the time for reform had arrived:-

In British courts it appears that the popularity of trial by jury is waning. The Law Journal states that the proportion of actions "to be tried without juries in the Queen's Bench Division during the present term is exceptionally large; the jury cases number 295, and the non-jury cases 190." The same paper asserts that the want of faith in trial by jury is even more strikingly displayed in the County Courts in England.

The jury has served its purpose, has proven very useful, and has now become an hindrance rather than an aid to justice. In our day judges are usually upright and skilled in the law, and they have a different class of laws to administer from what they once had-they are not on the bench to enforce class privileges and to oppress the common people.

When one reads of some of the oldtime trials by jury it is not to be wondered that the ruling classes recognized the necessity of having twelve men drawn from the ranks of the people to sanction with their verdict the severe punishment of an offender which was authorized by law.

The twelve men in question could judge of facts, but not of law-they could decide whether the offence had been committed by the person accused, but not whether the laws were just or applicable, or the punishment deserved. Their share in the proces was undeniably a safeguard to their fellows, although, also, it gave popu lar sanction to convictions and punlar sanction to convictions and punishments which, if put into effect wholly by judges belonging to the ruling classes, would no doubt have been rebelled against as tyrannous.

Laws, judges, and people have undergone revolutionary changes and the necessity of juries is, we believe, gone, but the state of the same transfer of the same transfer where it is optional whether a jury shall be called or not, there is in Canada, as in England, an increasing disposition to dispense with the jury. Perhaps we may rely upon it that as the necessity for continuing the jury have seen was contained under an ad- system grows less, it will be less used; and finally abolished.

The sudden change of decision on the part of the Dominion Government in regard to the holding of a state service for Her late lamented Majesty is most extraordinary. The excuse that it would be improper to hold such a service when there is no state church in Canada is a piece of humbug. It is not the real reason; that we have yet to find out. This country gave Sir John A. Macdonald and Sir John Thompson state funerals. At those funerals state services were held. There was no question raised, no one ever dreamed of raising one. But here, when such a service is proposed and agreed upon by the Government for Her late Majesty, some secret in fluence steps in and proves sufficiently powerful to upset the plans of a ministry. What that influence is it is to be hoped the country will one day learn.

LOTS OF COLOR FOR THE IRISH GU'ARDS. London Daily News.

The uniform of the new regiment of Irish Guards has at last been approved. To be uniform with the other regiments of the brigade the tunic of the Irish Guards will be a scarlet, and the facings blue, denoting that the regiment is a "royal" one. The Irish will be the fourth Guards' regiment and this fact will be indicated by the buttons in front of the tunic, which will be placed in groups of four, with an intervening space. The collar badge will be a shamrock leaf, and the band around the forage cap green. Like the other regiments of Guards, the full-dress headpiece of the Irish regiment will be a bearskin, with a plume of "Patrick blue" at the side. "Patrick blue" is a light shade, very much resembling that affected by Cambridge un versity, and is so called as being the color of the ribbon of the premier Irish order—St. Patrick.

"Under these circumstances," he continued, "I cannot afford to shoot you unless, as a precautionary measure, you first insure your life for my benefit. If you do, then heigh for powder and ball. I'm your

The other case had an ending almost as ludicrously absurd. It also arose out of a lawsuit and affords us yet another curious glimpse of that arena—the Irish courts of law—in which O'Connell had at the time of which I write already won fame and fortuse. In the August of 1813 O'Connell, appearing in a case tried at Limerick, interrupted his learned friend, Counselor Maurice Magrath, who was engaged on the other side, by exclaiming, "That's a lie, Maurice!" to which Magrath replied by flinging the volume of the statutes from which he was quoting at O'Connell's head and then kicking him

O'Connell sent a challenge, which of course Magrath accepted. A refusal to fight when challenged in those days led to one inevitable conclusion—that it was due to cowardice. On the old windmill field outside the city—the scene of many an affair of honor—O'Connell, as he stood before his opponent awaiting the signal to fire, exclaimed with deep exceed. "Now I am going to fire at my dearest and best friend." The duel was stopped, and the seconds after a long discussion arrived at an amicable settlement. It was arranged that the two combatants should again face each other, loaded pis-tols in hand, and each declare aloud his regret for what had occurred. After this somewhat comic episode O'Connell and Magrath warmiy shook hands amid the acclamation of those present and returned to Limerick in the same carriage.

Soccessful Caristian Work Typi fied by Galilean Fishermen.

ENOUGH CHRISTIAN FISHERMEN

in the Kingdom of God Before This-The Causes of their Failure-The Way

Washington, Jan. 27 .- In this dis course Dr. Talmage describes the gospel net and how it is to be repaired after being damaged; text, Matthew iv, 21, "James, the son of Zebedes and John, his brother, in a ship with Zebedee, their father, mending their

"I go a-fishing!" cried Simon Peter to his comrades, and the most of the apostles had hands hard from fishing tackle. The fisheries of the world have always attracted attention. In the third century the Queen of Egypt had for pin money $470,-000 received from the fisheries of Lake Moeris. And, if the time should ever come when the immensity of the world's population could be fed by the vegetables and meats of the land, the sea has an amount of animal life that would feed all the populations of the earth and fatten them with a food that by its phosphorus would make a generation brainy and intellectual beyond anything that the world has ever imagined. My text takes us among the Galilean fishermen. One day Walter Scott, while hunting in an old drawer, found among some old fishing tackle the manuscript of his immortal book, "Waverley," which had put away there as of no worth, and who knows but that to day we may find some unknown the fishing tackle in the text.

It is not a good day for fishing, and three men are in the boat repairing the broken fishing nets. you are fishing with a hook and ine, and the fish will not bite, it is good time to put the angler's apparatus into better condition. aps the last fish you hauled in was so large that something snapped, or, if you were fishing with a net, here was a mighty floundering of he scales or an exposed nail on the side of the boat which broke some of the threads and let part or all of the captives of the deep escape into their natural element. And hardly anything is more provoking than to nearly land a score or a hundred trophies from the deep, and when you are in the full glee of hauling in he spotted treasures, through some imperfection of the net they splash back into the wave. That is too much of a trial of patience for most ishermen to endure, and many man ordinarily correct of speech in such circumstances comes to an in-tensity of utterance unjustifiable. Therefore no good fishermen considers the time wasted that is spent in mending his net. Now, the Bible again and again represents Christian workers as fishers of men, and we are all sweeping through the sea of kind of a net. Indeed there have been enough nets out and enough fishermen busy to have landed the whole human race in the kingdom of God long before this. What is the matter? The gospel is all right, and it has been a good for catching souls for thousands of years. Why, then, the failures? The trouble is with the nets, and most of them need to be mend-ed. I propose to show you what is the matter with most of the nets and how to mend them. In the text old Zebedee and his two boys, James and John, were doing a good when they sat in the boat mending their nets. The trouble with many of our nets is that the meshes are too large. If a fish can get his gills and half his body through the network, tears and rends and works his way and leaves the place through which he squirmed a tangle of broken threads. In our desire to make everything so easy we relax, we looswe widen. We let them after are once in the gospel net escape into the world, and go into indulgencies and swim all around Galilee, from north side to south side, and from east side to west side, expecting that they will come back again. We ought to make it easy for them to get into the kingdom of God, and, as far as we can, make it impossible for them to get The poor advice nowadays to is: "Go and do just as you many is: did before you were captured for God and Heaven. The net was not intended to be any restraint or any hindrance. What you did before you were a Christian do now. Go to all styles of amusement, read all styles of books, engage in all styles of behavior as before you were converted." And so, through these meshes of permission and laxity, they wriggle out through this opening and that opening, tearing the net as they go, and soon all the souls we ex-pected to land in Heaven, before we know it, are back in the deep sea of the-world. Oh, when we go a-gospel fishing, let us make it as easy as ossible for souls to get in and as hard as possible to get out.

Is the Bible language an unmeaning verbiage when it talks about self denial, and keeping the body under, and about walking the narrow way and entering the strait gate and about carrying the cross? Is there to be no way of telling whether a about carrying the closs, to be no way of telling whether a man is a Christian except by his taking the communion chalice on sacramental day? May a man be as reckless about his thoughts, about his words, about his temper, about his amusements, after conversion as before? Alas, the words of Christ are so little heeded when he said: "Whosoever doth not bear his cross and come after me cannot be my disciple." The church is fast becoming as bad as the world, and when it gets as bad as the world it will be worse than the world by so much, as it will add hypocrisy of a most appalling kind to its other defects.

Furthermore, many of our nets are torn to pieces by being entangled with other nets. It is a sad sight to see fistermen fighting about sight to see fistermen fighting about sea room and pulling in opposite directions, each to get his net, both nets damaged by the struggle and losing all the fish. Now, I have noticed a man annot fish and fight at the same time. He either neglects his net or his nusket. It is amazing her much time some of the fishing how much time some of the fish-ermen have to ook after other fishermen. It is more than I can do to take care of my own net. You see the wind is just right, and it is such a good time for fishing, and the fish are coming in so rapidly that I have to keep my eye and hand busy. There are about 200,000,000 souls wanting to get into the kingdom of God, and it will require all the nets and all the fishermen of Christendom wealth of thought while looking at to safely land them. Ch, brethren of the ministry, let us spend our time in fishing instead of fighting. But if I angrily erk any net across your net, and you jerk your net angrily across mine, we will soon have two broken nets and no fish. The French revolution hearly destroyed the French fisheries, and ecclesiastical war is the worst thing possible while hauling souls into the kingdom. My friends, I notice in the text that James, the son of Zebedee, and John, his brother, were busy not mending somebody else's nets; but mending their own nets, and I rather think that we who are engaged in Christian work in this opening century will require all our spare time to mend our own nets. help us in the important duty! In this work of repair we need to put into the nets more threads of common sense. When we can present religion as a great practicality we will catch a hundred souls where now we catch one. Present religion as an intellectuality and we will fail. Out in the fisheries there are set across the waters what are called gill nets, and the fish put their heads through the meshes and then cannot withdraw them, because they are caught by the gills. But gill nets cannot be of any service in religious work. Men are never caught for the truth by the by the heart or not at all. No. gument ever saved a man and no keen analysis ever brought a man in-to the kingdom of God. Heart work, not head work. Away with your gill nets! Sympathy, helpfulness, consolation, love, are the names of some of the threads that we need to weave in our gospel nets when we are mending them.

Do you know that the world's heart is bursting with trouble and if you could make that world believe that the religion of Jesus Christian and the could be seen that world be seen that the religion of Jesus Christian and the could be seen to the could be seen t is a soothing omnipotence, whole world would surrender morrow, yea, would surrender this hour? The day before James A. Garfield was inaugurated as president I was in the cars going from Richmond to Washington. A gentleman seated near to me in the cars kn w me, and we were soon in familiar conversation. It was just after a bereavement, and I was speaking to him from an overburdened heart about the sorrow I was suffering. Looking at his cheerful face, I said 'I guess you have escaped all trouble. I should judge from your countenance that you have come through free from all misfortune." Then he looked at me with a look I shall never forget, and whispered in my ear: "Sir, you know nothing about trouble. My wife has been in an insane asylum for 15 years." And then he turned and looked out of the window and into the night with a silence I was too overpowered to That was another illustrabreak. tion of the fact oat no one escapes Why, that man seated next trouble. to you in church has on his soul

When you are mending your ne for this wide, deep sea of humanity take out that wire thread of criti-cism and that horsehair thread of cism and that horsehair thread of harshness and put in a soft silken thread of Christian sympathy. Yea, when you are mending your nets tear out those old threads of grufiness and weave in a few threads of politeness and geniality. In the house of God let all Christian faces beam with a look that means welcome. with a look that means welcom Say "good morning" to the strang as he enters your pew and at the close shake hands with him and say, "How did you like the music?" Why, you would be to that man a panel of the door of heaven; you would be to him a note of the doxwould be to him and a note of the doxwould be to him a note of the ology that seraphs sing when a new soul enters heaven. I have in other days entered a pew in church, and the woman at the other end of the pew looked at me as much as to say, "How dare you? This is my pew, and I pay rent for it!" Well, I crouched in the other corner and made myself as small as possible and folt as though I had been stelling felt as though I had been stealin something. So there are people who have a sharp edge to their religion, and they act as though they thought most people had been elected to be damned and they were glad of it. Oh, let us brighten up our manner and appear in gentlemanliness o ladyhood.

The object in fly fishing is to throw the fly far out and then let it drop gently down and keep it gently ris ing and falling with the waters and not plunge it like a man-of-war's anchor, and abruptness and harshness of manner must be avoided in our attempt at usefulness. I know a man in New York who is more sunshiny and genial when he dyspepsia than when he is not sufering from that depressing trouble I have found out his secret. When he starts out in the morning with such depression, he asks for special grace to keep from snapping up anybody that day and puts forth additional determination to be kindly and genial, and by the help of God he accomplishes it. Many of our nets need to be mended in these espects, the black threads and threads taken out and he rough he bright threads and the golden threads of Christian geniality woven

Again, in mending our nets we ged also to put in the threads of faith and tear out all the tangled meshes of unbelief. Our work is successful according to our faith. The man who believes in only half Bible or the Bible in spots, the man who thinks he cannot persuade others, the man who halts, ing about this and doubting about that, will be a failure in Christian work. Show me the man who rather thinks that the garden of Eden may have been an allegory and is not quite certain but that there may be another chance after death and does not know whether or not the Bible is inspired, and I tell you that man for soul saving is a poor stick. Faith in God and in Jesus Christ and the Holy Ghost and the absolute necessity of a regenerated heart in order see : God in peace is one thread you must have in your mended net, or you will never be a suc-cessful fisher for men. Why, how can you doubt? The rottenest thread to tear out of your net is unbelief, and the most important thread that you are to put in it is faith—faith in God, triumphant faith, everlasting faith. Oh, this important work of mend-ing our nets! If we could get our nets right, we would accomplish more in soul saving in the next year than we have in the last 20 years. But where shall we get them mend-ed! Just where old Zebedee and his two boys mended their nets-where you are. James and John had time to go ashore. They were not fishing for fun, as you and I do in summer time. It was their livelisummer time. It was their livelihood and that of their families.

They mended their nets where they were—in the ship. "Oh," says some one, "I mean to get my net mended, and I will go down to the public library and I will see what the scientists say about evolution the scientists say about evolution and about the 'survival of the fit-est,' and I will read up what the theologians say about 'advanced thought.' I will leave the ship awhile and I will go ashore and stay there till my net is mended."Do that, my brother, and you will have no net left. Instead of them helping you mend your net, they will steal the pieces that remain. Better stay in the gospel boat, where you have all means for mending your net. What are they? do you ask. I answer, all you need you have where you are namely, a Bible and a place to pray. The more you study evolution and adopt what is called advanced thought, the more useless you will be. Stay in the ship and mend your net. That is where James, the son of Zebedee, and John, his brother, staid. That is where all who get there nets mended stay.

I notice that all who leave the gospel boat and go ashore to mend their nets stay there. Or if they try again to fish they do not catch anything. Get out of the gospel boat and go up into the world to get your net mended, and you will live to see the day when you will feel like the man who, having for-saken Christianity, sighed, "I would give a thousand pounds to feel as I did in 1820." The time will come when you would be willing to give a thousand pounds to feel as you did in 1901.

These dear brethren of all denominations, afflicted with theological fidgets had better go to mending their nets instead of breaking them. Before they break up the old religion and try to foist on us a new religion let them go through some great sacrifice for God that will prove them worthy for such a work, taking the advice of Talleyrand to a man who wanted to next the re-

The fond mother dreams great dreams of baby's future as she holds the sleeping little one in her arms. But the dreams will never come true unless she has given him a strong body and a healthy mind. Children die in hosts, or live to struggle through life feeble of body and dull of mind because the mother was unfit physically and mentally for motherhood. Women who use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription endow their children with strong bodies and bright minds. It is every mother's duty to give her child the advantages of a healthy body and mind. A weak or sickly woman cannot do this. "Favorite Prescription" makes weak women strong and sick

Mrs. Orrin Stiles, of Downing, Dunn Co. Wis. writes: "I have been intending to write to you ever since my baby was born in regard to what your 'Pavorite Prescription' has done for me. I cannot praise it enough, for I have not been as well for five years as I now am. In July last I had a baby boy, weight 11 pounds, and I was only sick a short time, and since I got up have not had one sick day. I have not had any womb trouble since I got up. I was not only surprised myself but all of my friends here are surprised to see me so well."

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure biliousness

new one when he said. "Go and be crucified and then raise yourself from the grave the third day!"
Those who propose to mend their nets by secular and skeptical books are like a man who has just week for fishing and six of the days he spends reading Izaak Walton's "Complete Angler" and Wheatley's "Rod and Line" and Scott's "Fish ing In Northern Waters" and Pullman's "Vade Mecum of Fly Fishing Trout," and then on Saturday morning, his last day, goes to the river to ply his art. But that day fish will not bite, and late on Saturday night he goes to his home with empty basket.

But do not spend your time fish ing with hook and line. Why did not not James, the son of Zebedee, sit on the wharf at Cana, his feet hanging over the lake, and with a long pole and a worm on the hook dipped into the wave wait for some mullet to swim up and be caught. Why did not Zebedee spend his afternoon ing to catch one eel? No, that work was too slow. These men were not mending a hook and line; they were mending their nets. So let the church of God not be content with having here one soul and next month another soul brought into the king-dom. Sweep all the seas with netsscoop nets, seine nets, drag nets all encompassing nets, and take the treasures in by hundreds and thou-sands and millions, and nations will be born in a day and the hemis-pheres quake with the tread of a ransoming God. Do you know what will be the two most tremendo hours in our heavenly existence? Among the quadrillions of ages which shall roll on what two occasions will be to us the greatest? The day of our arrival there will be one of the two greatest. The second greatest, I think, will be the day when we shall have put in parallel lines before us what Christ did for us and what we did for Christ, the one so great, the other so little. That will be the only embarrassment in heaven. My Lord and my God! What will we do and what will we say when on one side are placed the Saviour's great sacrifices for us and our small sacrifices for him; his expense. ile, his humiliation, his agonies on one hard and our poor, weak, in-sufficient sacrifices on the other. To make the contrast less overwhelming let us quickly mend our nets, and, like the Galilean fishermen, may we be divinely helped to east them on the right side of the ship.

HISTORIC CORNWALL.

Interesting Sketch of England's Southern County, its People and its Customs.

Jean M. Penfound Contribu'es an Excellent Account of der Visit There to Planet Readers.

Special correspondence to The Planet Edmund Spencer, in his "View of the State of Ireland," speaks of that land as "a sweet and beautiful country," and to a land and people not by any means dissimilar, i.e., Cornwall and the Cornish, this epithet might be aptly applied. It is a land of legends, of weird, strange relics of a by-gone race of whom it cannot be said that their memorials have perished with them." Even its original language is forgotten although a stranger here might be excused for being unable to understand English as she is spoke by some of the Cornish fishermen or rustics. However, few and far be-tween are the original Cornish words, although a tourist may even yet hear a sentence like this: "The cheeld-vean has scat the cloam buzza all to a sentence like this: "The cheeld-vean has seat the cloam buzza all to jowds," a translation of which would read, "the little child has broken the earthen butter pan all to pieces." The last person known who used Cornish as a language was Dorothy Penreath, who died in the year 1778, and is buried under a monument erected by the late Prince Lucien Boniaparte and the Rev. John Garrett, rector of the parish—Paul, where the grave exists. The misplacing of pronouns is one of the curious features of the present language, and it was only yesterday that I heard a man say. "Us bean't gawn up to see she again." No part of England is richer in antiquities of the primaeval period, in ancient historical structures or places or in strange legends and deeds immortalized in verse than Cornwall. Two miles from Bude is situated a compact town, known as Stratton, which takes its name from the old Roman phraise the straight on" or "Street Lawn," Very near this little place is Stamford Hill, where the Parliamentary Army, numbering some 4,000 men fought a battle with the place is Stamford Hill, where the Parliamentary Army, numbering isome 4,000 men fought a battle with the Royalists. The site was well suited for a point of defence. A large earth work (which is now crowned by an irregular row of seven or eight weather-beaten trees) has been thrown up around the brow of the hill, while the book is grarded by a thick wood around the brow of the hill, while the back is guarded by a thick wood which runs precipitously down to the river, which is said to have literally run with blood. The Roundheads occupied the hill, but were charged with such spirit by the Cavaliers (2,400 foot—who took the defenders by surprise by scaling the hill at the back—and 500 horse) under the command of Sir Ralph Hopton and Sir Beville Gren-Ralph Hopton and Sir Beville Grenville, that they at length gave way, fell into a panic and fled in disorder A memorial column formerly stood here, erected in 1713, by the Errl of Lunsdowne (grandson of Sir Beville Grenville) but was destroyed toward the close of the last century. The stone tablet formerly affixed to its base, was afterwards placed against the wall of the Tree Inn, the old Manor House, at Stratton, where it may be seen still, bearing this inscription. "In this place ye army of ye rebels under ye command of ye Earl of Stamford, received a signal over-Stamford, received a signal over-throw by ye valor of S.r Beville Gren-yille, and ye Cornish army, on Tuesday ye 16th day of May, 16i3."

The remains of a tumulus are to be seen on the crest of the hill, whiles bones of the dead, cannon balls-and other relies of the strife are of-fen turned up by the ploughman. An ancient cannon has been lately mount-ed on the top of the hill, and a stone ancient cannon has been lately mounted on the top of the hill, and a stone arch, with a monument on top in which is engraved a copy of the tablet on the inn wall at Stratton, has been erected. Stratton parish church, restored in 1860, contains an effigy of an armed knight supposed to be one of an armed knight supposed to be one of the Blackminsters, the ancient lords Stowe, a giant seven feet six inches of the manor, Anthony Payne, of in height, an armor bearer of Sir Ve-ville Grenville and who it is said played bowls with the 18-inch diame-tered stone balls decorating the gate posts of a Stowe residence, is buried in this church.

two miles from Bude, is noted for its quaint church and manor house once occupied by Robert de Montaigne, Earl of Cornwall, and half brother of William the Conqueror,

In the vicinity of Launceston, near what is known as the Bodmin Road, may be seen the remain of an ancient Britisk camp, and to the west of Rowtor, a granite pile 1298 feet high, are several hut circles, or the remains of tor, a gramite pile 1288 feet high, are several hut circles, or the remains of British villages. An ancient Druidic monument—a logan stone, 15 feet long, 12 feet broad and four feet thick—which may be easily shaken, but is nevertheless firmly fixed, is also here. The rockbound island of Lundy, lying some 21 miles west of Bude and which appears like a misty brown cloud against the sky, is full of romantic interest, although its extreme length is only about three miles and its breadth about three-quarters of mile. Long ago a family named Morisco were the owners of this wild and solitary spot. One of them having plotted against Henry III. fled hither for safety. Here he and his comrades for years led a wild buccaneoring life, being eventually captured by one of the king's cruisers and duly executed. Tradition tells us that Eiward II. took refuge here, and during the civil war Lord Suye and Sele occupied it with a small Royalist garrison. Those who have read Charles Kingsley's fine old historical tale "We tward Ha." will be delighted to know that it was founded entirely on facts. That the people and places mentioned are not myths, but that there are still Stukelys of Hartland, Fortescue of Buckland, and the graves of the Grenvilles may be seen at the church of Kilkhampton. The "dark, rambling house, called "Chapel," on the Atlantic cliffs is still in existence as is also Sir "Richard Grenville's at Stowe. The very window of the little mill in Combe Valley from where the pretty face of Rose Salterne peeped out may still be seen. The rocks mentioned by the author, "The Shutter," where the Spanish galleon was was wrecked, is on the coast of this island of Lundy. A very fine lighthouse, with a revolving light built in 1819, and which is 80 feet high, warns the passing mariner to beware of the treacherous rocks surrounding this island.

Near Saltash is Trematon Castle, an Those who have read Charles Kings

The rums are placed on the very brink of a tremendous precipice over 300 feet high, which forms the extremity of a promentory, commonly called the Island, owing to the rush of water which has nearly separated it from the mainland. The castle originally occupied the promontory and opposite hill—the two portions being connected with a bridge, whose massive foundations are yet visible. Arches, flights of steps cut in the native rock, walls, based on the crags and enclosing wide areas, once royal rooms but now carpeted with turf where the sheep and goat grazes, remain. Other battlemented walls, which constituted the outworks and fortifications, run winding here and there up th steeps and along the strips of green turf forming natural terraces on the heights of the promontory.

Stone by stone the once glorious palace of Tintagel is passing away, but the memory of the fair women and brave knights who in the olden times made its walls ring with laughter and song. The poets have renewed them with a strange and mystic life and the legends concerning this ancient pile and the heroes connected with it have exercised a considerable influence on English literature. About a quarter of a mile from the church (all distances in England are reckoned from the church) on a cliff 200 feet high stands an old beacon which was used in early times to signal to the inland country the approach by sen of an enemy. It is about forty feet in circumference and about seven feet high, built of round stones and cone-shaped, with a flat top. From the top of it one sees the country for 30 miles around, so, that this be con must have been useful indeed as a signalling station in the old days.

This castle was built soon after the comquest and comferred by the Conquest and comferred by the Conquerer upon the Earl of Cornwall. It was here in 1549 that Sir Richard Grenville held it against an army of Cormish miners and when by being induced outside the castle walls for the negotiation of an armistice that he was taken prisoner. At Porth Prior, a venerable and stately house, are found many art treasures—portraits by Rembrandt and Sr Joshua Reynolds. There is also in Cornwall many wells famous in tradition and ballad; the well of St. Keyne, immortalized in verse by the poet Southey possessing waters of such a remarkable property that it may be especially commended to the married tourist. It is said that the husband or wife who first drinks of this, remarkable well shall rule for life. It is arched by some weatherworn stones upon which in a fantastic manner grow three venerable ask worn stones upon which in a fantastic manner grow three venerable ash trees, a wych elm and a hoary oak.

Thelewney House (it is an ancient saying that no name can be of Cornish extraction unless it starts with Tre, Pol or Pen) was remodelled in 1701, but I can find no records of when it was built. Its two towers were built in the reign of Henry VI. and its old chapel is retained uninjured. Many curious paintings may be seen here, amongst which is a portrait of Queen Elizabeth, taken in her youth. The Trelawnys, the Granvilles and Godolph ns are notable Cornish families, and of the first named was written this verse, which still ed was written this verse, which still

In 1495 Perkin Narbech psembled his forces here prior to his march upon Exeter.

The ivied ruins of Restormel Castle, built in the time of the first Richard, is to be seen near Bodmin. Although a ruin in the time of Edward III. it was occupied during the Civil War by a force of parliamentarians, who were afterward defeated by Sir Richard Grenville in 1644. The ruins of this ancient place, hoary with age, broken by age into all, manner of fantastic shipes and covered with jvies are well worth a place in the sketch book of an worth a place in the sketch book of an

Many curiosities are to be found in "The Place," a house near Fowey, built in or about 1457. On the walls are emblazoned the arms of Edward VI., the first Eurl of Bedford, and the scutcheons of other ancient families.

In Pendennis Castle, near Falmouth, took place a siege in 1646, which has made it historically famous. Admiral Butten attacked it by sea and Col.

tions in direct line from Sir Richard and the house has never left the family since its erection.

One of the most ancient buildings and also one of the most historical is the castle at Launceston. 20 miles from Bude. In its palmy days it was 93 feet in diameter and consisted of three walls, the first about three feet thick, the second at a distance of 6 feet is protected by a rampart 12 feet thick, and the inmost by a rampart 10 feet thick and 32 high. The inner tower had a basement floor and two upper stories. A stair-case built in the wall winds partly around the tower to the first story and originally to the parapet. These ruins, which are kept in good repair, stand on a tower approached by steps. The ruins of a wall encircle the mound and as it was three feet thick and very low it was evidently used for the defenders to fight from. The south-east side of the second wall is in an excellent state of preservation, the gate-house with its early English archway and grooves for the portcullis still standing. The precincts are arranged as a public park, at the expense of the owner of the castle.

And now I come to Tintagel, from whose leg: ndary ruins Shakespeare, Chure and Gower drew inspiration and, in a later day, Bulwer Lytton and Tennyson, the latter, who in his verse sang of "many towered Camelot." Here King Arthur, the knight of the "Round Table," the hero of so many daring leads and perilous enterpries, held his royal sway surrounded by knights worthy of their king huself, a perfect model of what a knight should be—perfect in virtue and valor, chastity and generosity. Here with their king we find modest Gawain, the noble Launcelot, stained by his guilty love of Arthur's queen, Gunever, and gentle Sir Tristram.

Arthur is said to have been the son of K ng Gorlous, and again of Uther Pendragon, and was born at Tintagel Castle in 452. He had three wives, of whom Guenever was the second. His third wife betrayed him during a temporary absence and married his nephew, Mordred, who assumed the crown. At the age of minety the king was fatally wounded at the battle of Camelford, 543 A. D., or murdered, so some say, by the jealous Mordred.

The ruins are placed on the very brink of a tremendous precipice over 300 feat high which forms the extremity of a promentory, commonly called the Island, owing to the rush of THE GORDON STORE!

BEET SUGAR INDUSTRY.

The following is clipped by The Planet from the Industrial column of the Saginaw News:—
Since the first of last November mearly seven-tenths of a million dollars has been paid out by the sugar beet factories in the vicinity of Bay City. The amounts paid out by each company is as follows: Bay City Sugar Co., $227,766.00; Michigan Sugar Co., $227,766.00; Michigan Sugar Co., $162,515.78; total, $685,407.08. This vast sum of money was paid to the farmers for the crop, and not a single dollar represents any other expense in connection with the plant or its operation. This, we believe, is a greater sum than has been realized in any community, for a farm crop, in Michigan, for many years, if every before an estimate of the tonnage for the state is mot far from 300,000 tons, and and $5 per ton, which will not be far from the awerage, the state's crop would be worth to the farmer $1,500,000. Have you ever heard a poor, weak, sickly girl cough. If so, you pity her, you say she is in consumption, she will not live long; you wonder how the girl can stand up, although she goes to the factory, to the store, to the office. She must work in order to help support her family. Is this not pitiful? But, this girl may not be in consumption. She may suffer from poverty of blood. She may be simply rundown. What she needs is a rest and a remedy that can make blood, give strength and cure. Now, you may not believe us, but we can prove to you that Dr. Coderre's Red Pills

Pills have cured thousands of such girls, and it is no wonder, for they are specially for vomen's diseases. In taking hem you will not be disappointed as you would be by taking oldfashioned alcoholic remedies. Dr. Coderre's Red Pills are the modern medicine, they are the remedy of the day, they are the remedy upon which you can depend. Of course, you have been told this before. If you

That lash the sea to foam.
That lash the sea to foam.
Then with furied sciir she lies at rest
Safe in the bay at home?
For blow them fair or blow them foul,
All vainly buster they,
They cannot have the ship that lies
At anchor in the bay.

Outside the bay the wrathful waves Swift charge the rugged shore.

And like fierce barled beasts of prey
In sullen anger roar.

But 'cross their path the harbor bar
Lies to dispute their way

And safely guards the ships that lie

At anchor in the bay.

Te mariners who on life's sea. Ye mariners who on life's sea.
With storms and tempests meet,
Keep strong your hearts, ail in good time.
The harbor lights you'll greet.
And all your fears and all your cares
Will swiftly pass away
When safe at last you find yourselves
At anchor in the boy.

ART IN THE SHAVING MUG.

False Economics of Trying to Use One Article Too Many Ways. Out in one of Cleveland's eastern sul lives an ancient dame of Pennsylvania Dutch persuasion. In addition to this she is an acknowledged master of the art of housekeeping, and the evidences of her neatness are worth going miles on a Some time ago she determined to paint the woodwork in her kitchen. She didn't want a man mussing around, and so she determined to wirid the brush herseif.

She went so far as to purchase a quart can of ready mixed paint of a light blue tint. This she took home and laid aside to await a favorable opportunity. When the opportunity finally came, she had no brush. But time was precious, the near-est brush store was a long distance away, est brush store was a bing and necessity is the mother of expedients. She went up stairs and came back with her husband's lather brush.

Then the can was cut open, and she spread on the blue mixture in a great hurry. The brush from the shaving mug didn't hold much at a time, but with frequent dipping it worked fairly well. But when it came to portions of the job where she had to reach high she presently found that almost as much paint ran down her hand and wrist and arm as went on the wall. But finally the job v:as completed

In a hurried way she washed out the brush and replaced it and then set about preparing the evening meal. Her liege ord returned from his daily toil presently, but it was too dark to call his attention to the improvement. Besides she meant to go over it again and touch up the thin places.

After supper the husband went up stairs to shave, and the old lady sat down in her favorite rocker in the living room to look over the evening paper. Presently there was an agonizing cry rom the upper regions.

"Amelia! Amelia! Come quick! I haf dropped into a chair and threw her apron over her head and shricked with merri-"Vat it ees, Amelia?" cried her aston ished partner.

"It ees de paint brush—I mean the latter brush," she cried, "I painted de kitchen mit it." And she went on with her hilarity.

The husband was a good natured man, and, besides, he felt greatly relieved.

"Vell," he said, with an effort to be sarcastic, "I s'pose ven you uset my latter brush to paint kitchens mit it you will uset my razor to open lobster cans mit

Then he stared again at his ghastly re-"Vell," he slowly added, "ven I us blue paint for lattering my face I should uset a putty knife to shave me mit."

And he laughed as he said it.

"Of course I did," she replied. "You sed by letter." "What has that to do with it?"

THE AKOUND OF SWAT

HE CALLED FOR THE MOON, BUT IT DID NOT COME DOWN.

An Experiment Which Opened His Eyes to the Difference Between the Theory and the Practice of Things and Incidentally Shortened His Grand Secretary.

[Copyright, 1900, by C. B. Lewis.] One day, as the akound of Swat had returned from a trip around town, during which thousands of his subjects had knelt to do him homage, he called for his grand secretary and said:

"Remshen, I'm a good deal of a feller, ain't I?" "You are, O heaven born!" was the reply. "Would you call me the biggest thing on earth?" "Truly, but you are!" "While I'm around on this earth

there can be no other boss, eh, Rem-"All other things are but a fly on a bull wheel compared to your extra

"But how about the heavens, Remshen?" continued the akound after chuckling his satisfaction. "I am satisfied that I boss the earth, even to the mountains and rivers thereof, but I'm not exactly clear as to the sun, moon and stars. Don't they come under my rule as well?"

"Dost not remember, O mighty ruler, that your title is Akound the Mighty.

CRIED OUT FOR THE MOON TO TAKE A DROP. boss of the earth and owner of all the planets above? Your humble slave assures you that the sun, moon and every star will hustle to do your bidding."

Thanks, Remshen. I must be a daisy for sure. Not being clear on the subject, I haven't given much attention to celestial matters, but now I think I'll give them a whirl. If a feller is going to be boss at all, be might as well be a boss on wheels.'

"That is true, O akound, and when you get ready to command the moon to come off her perch I will issue procla-mation and gather the people."

Old Remshen was a fawning sycophant on skates. He had a good thing and wanted to keep it. He had said the same fulsome words to his master a hundred times over, but nothing had come of it except to make his position more solid. A day or two after the above conversation and while he was going around the palace with a molasses grin on his face the bell jingled, and he was called into the presence of his master.

"By the way, Remshen, do you remember our little conversation the other day?" queried the akound. "Can a slave forget his master's werds?" asked Remshen as he lifted his hands in protest.

"I've been thinking. I'm a heap of a feller, and you know it, and I know it, but there may be a man or two on the outside who differs with us. I want to do something big to knock 'em all out." "Will it please thee to behead a thousand men?"

"Well, yes, it would, but as it is just about tax time we'd better leave their heads on their shoulders until they have paid in the sugar. I think I'll ge for the moon, Remshen. She'll be full tonight, and I'll order her to come down to earth." "But, O ruler, she might be damaged in the fall," protested Remshen, beginning to quake with fear. "I'll look out for that. We'll spread feather bed for her to light on. Just issue a proclamation for the people to gather on the east side of my palace at 10 o'clock tonight." "The moon, O ruler, is sometimes ob stinate," suggested Remshen as he felt a pain. "She has even been known to lisobey mighty potentates." "But she'll tumble for me, or I'll know the reason why! Is it not in my title that I am owner of all the planets above? Get along, old boy, and issue that proclamation. When my subjects discover that I can wallop old Luna around at will, there'll be no more kicking about high taxes."

Old Remshen was boxed up and couldn't say another word. He went away and issued his proclamation and then beseeched the grave of his father, nes of his mother and his lucky stars to send a dark night to knock the experiment on the head. He was look-ing billous when night came and the old York state cheese arose in all her glory. Everybody in town was out, and the odds were five to one that the akound would win. At the hour named he appeared on the steps of his palace and lifted his hands and cried out for the moon to take a drop. It was a dead failure. He cried out again and Made For the Convenient Transpor tation of These Animals, The dog that is shipped by express is likely to travel in these days not only in safety, but also in comfort. There are various kinds of dog crates made especially for such use, some of them flat topped and some of those of later design gable topped and some oval topped, so that nothing can be placed on top of them. Dog crates are made in various sizes as well as styles, some with open, slatted sides and ends, some closed all around, except for the open spaces left for ventilation. Crates for bulldogs and dogs that gnaw are made with slats that, whether separated or that the dogs can't set their teeth in the edges. The dog crate is provided with a cup for water which is so constructed that the water can't spill out of it, and this cup is secured in the crate under the end of a pipe to which there is an opening in the top of the crate through which the dog can be kept supplied without opening the crate at all. Attached to the front of the crate is the dog's buffet, like a long canvas wallet or envelope, in which the dog's food s carried. THE ETHICS OF GAMBLING.

She Knew It Was Not Right to Bet on a Certainty.

"Woman," remarked Mr. Gooseling of Georgetown, "is heaven's best gift to man, but whether it means a married we man or not I am not certain. Now, there's my wife. I've known a good many wo-men in my time, and I don't think I'd be willing to change her for any woman I ever met, saw or heard of. We've been married 20 years, and in all that time we've never had a cross word that we didn't get disposed of somehow before we had many more. It's the only way to get along with a woman. I'd rather yield a dozen times a day than eat the kind of meal my wife can have brought on the table when she's a mind to. I'm willing to make as many concessions as the next man, but I really think there is a limit that any reasonable woman ought to observe. Not that my wife is not as reasonable as any other married woman. when she makes me doubt the strict ac-curacy of the time honored maxim I have quoted. Now, for instance, the other day I was doing something or oth-er around the house, like a man has a right to do on his own premises, and, just-as men sometimes do, I put my finger where I had no business to put it and hit it a lick with the hammer. it a lick with the hammer.

"'Well,' said I to myself, though my wife was sewing by the window on the other side of the room, 'I'll bet I'm the biggest darn fool in ten states.'

"All of which I had a perfect right to say, but my wife looks up from her work, and says she:
"'William, don't you know enough about the ethics of gambling to know that you have no right to bet on a cer-tainty? "That's what she said, and under the circumstances what on earth could I say but nothing, and that s what I said. But hit that nail a lick with the hammer that drove it clear in over its head and broke a pane of glass that cost a dollar to

A curious side light on the question of intemperance is contained in the report of the Scotch local government board On the north side of the Tweed, as on the south, lunacy is increasing in a rather alarming degree, especially among women, and several of the in spectors attribute it to intemperance in among women, and several of the in spectors attribute it to intemperance in tea. Mr. Penney boldly says:

"Too frequently young children are fed on 'tea and bread' to avoid the trouble of preparing porridge for them, with the result that they grow up ansemic and neurotic, with intellectual faculties easily thrown off their balance. I have in a previous report stated my firm conviction that excessive tea drinking by women accounts largely for the number of pauper lunatics. Further inquiries into this subject tend to confirm this theory. Several inspectors have assured me that they attribute several cases of lunacy in their parishes entirely to this cause."

Dr. Goodfellow, in a lecture on tea and tea drinking, spoke as follows: "Tea drinking when carried to excess may also produce (in addition to dyspepsia) in those who are predisposed to nervous complaints palpitation of the heart, hyperexcitability, sleeplessness and nervousness. When these stages are reached by a poorly nourished, confirmed tea drinker, the boundary line of insanity is easily crossed."—London Telegraph.

The evil results of this disease could hardly be exaggerated. It's effects are felt in mind and body, and as far reaching as the effects of the curse that was laid on the Jackdaw of Rheims which was cursed in "eating and drinking and sleeping, in standing and sitting and lying." The good effects of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery are most marked in aggravated and chronic cases of dyspepsin. It enables the stomach glands to secrete the necessary quan-tity of digestive fluids, and this at once removes that graving or gnaw once removes that graving or gnaw-ing sensation so common to certain forms of indigestion. It tones and regulates the stomach, invigorates the torpid liver and gives the blood making glands keen assimilative pow-er. THE ROOT OF THE MATTER.

Trouble Down to First Principles. A man of large affairs in one of ou business and finally deranging the kidneys and heart.

In his own words he says: "Teonsulted one physician after another and each one seemed to understand my case, but all the same they each failed to bring about the return of my fort mer digestion, appetite and vigor. For two years I went from pillar to post, from one sanitarium to another, I gave up smoking, I quit coffee and even renounced my daily glass or two of beer, but without any marked improvement.

"Friends had often advised me to try a well-known proprietary medicine, Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, and I had often perused the newspaper advertisements of the remedy, but nevertook any stock in advertised medicines nor could believe a fifty-cent patent medicine would touch my case.

"To make a long story short, I finall bought a couple of packages at the nearest drug store and took two or three tablets after each meal and occasionally a tablet between meals.

health and before the two packages were gone I was certain that Stuart's Dyspepsia Taplets were going to cure completely and they did not disappoint me. I can eat and sleep and enjoy my coffee and cigar, and no one would suppose I had ever known the horrors of dyspepsia.

"Out of friendly curiosity, I wrote to the proprietors of the remedy asking for information as to what the tablets contained, and they replied that the principal ingredients were aseptic pepsin (government test) malt diastase and other natural digestives which digest food regardless of the which digest food regardless of the condition of the stomach."

The root of the matter is this the digestive elements contained in Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will digest the food, give the overworked stomach a chance to recuperate and the prevent chance to recuperate and the nerves and whole system receive the nourish-ment which can only come from food; stimulants and nerve tonics never give stimulants and nerve tonics never give real strength, they give a fictitious strength, invariably followed by reaction. Every drop of blood, every nerve and tissue is manufactured from our daily food, and if you can insure its prompt action and complete digestion by the regular use of so good and wholesome a remedy as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, you will have no need of nerve tonics and sanitariums. Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets need of nerve tonics and sanitariums.

Although Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets have been in the market only a few years, yet probably every druggist in the United States, Canada and Great Britain now sells them and consider them the most popular and successful of any preparation for stomach troubles.

HOUSEHOLD LINENS!!

These Linens are the best we could find and our search has been thorough. Those who visited this linen section recently say that these are the test values and the best designs that they have seen. Sometime extravagent language is u ed by merchants in describing their wares with printer's ink, but do not think us boastful when we say that these are the best linens that have ever found their way to this noted linen store.

THE BEST TEST

s the Service and Experience of Year

The best soldier is not the new ruit of a few months' service.

The best mechanic is not the apprentire, and the best man in the line is he who has been tried by years of service and experience.

This is not only true of men but of nearly apprecially apprecially.

This is not only true of men but of nearly everything else and especially is it true of medicines for disease. New remedies must be thoroughly tested and their merit established beyond question before the intelligent public will put faith in them.

There are not many remedies which have stood the test of ten years and continued to increase in popularity eich year, but this is true of the Pyramid Pile Cure, and it is the only pile cure that has stood this test, and among the many popular medicines on mid Ple Cure, and it is the only pile cure that has stood this test, and among the many popular medicines on the market it is the only one which can be said to have no competitor; its sale has steadily increased from year to year and the result has been not so much because of judicious advertising as because it has been recommended by word of mouth from one cured sufferer to another.

Piles is supposed to be caused in most cases by a sedentary life and lack of exercise but it generally comes without any apparent excuse and often people who live an active, outdoor life are victims of the disease, a case in point is that of James Creedan, a lumberman and teamster in Northern Michigan. He says: "I suffered for eight or nine years from itching and protruding piles, sometimes so severely I could scarcely walk, then I would get better for a week or two, but the trouble always returned. I could not afford the expense of an operation and endured the disease until I was advised by my mother, who lived in Manistes, to give the Fyramid Pile Cure a trial.

I hid never heard of it but when I

I had never heard of it but when I went to town I asked my druggist about it and he told me he had sold it about it and he told me he had sold it for years and never had a complaint of its failure to cure piles.

I bought a package and found not only relief but a permanent cure after several weeks' regular use.

One of the best things about the Pyramid Pile Cure I found to be its convenience, being in suppository form venience, being in suppository form and used at night, it, did not interfere with my dully work and is simple and painless."
All druggists in United States and Canada sell the Pyramid Pile Cure at 50 cents per package.

ENJOYABLE AT HOME.

The large attendance at the At Home given by the Degree of Rebekah last night in the auditorium is only another proof of the popularity of these social events. The competition for the prizes given for progressive pedro was keen there being four competition for the prizes given for pro-gressive pedro was keen, there being four young ladies who had won the same number of games. The ladies played a game to see who should be winner, the result being n favor of Miss Ida Smith. For the gentle men's prize there were two competitors. T. Stanton and Master Harry Avichouser. T. Stanton and Master Harry Avichouser. The game between these two was closely contested, Mr. Stanton, however, proving successful. There were just two aspirants for the booby prizes, these being Miss Edith Berry and Tom Thompson. The giving of these prizes caused much merriment. Refreshments were then served, after which the light fant stic was tripped till the weesma' hours. The announcement of the sma' hours. The announcement of the possibility of another At Home in the near future closed a very enjoyable evening.

VIGOR. RENEWED

BROUGHT ABOUT THROUGH THE USE OF DR. WILLIAMS' PINK PILLS.

Mrs. Peter Beamer Tells How These Pills Released Her From Years of Neuralgiac Pains After Doctors and Other Medicines Had Failed.

Among the best known and most respected residents of the township of Gainsboro, Lincoln county, Ont., are Mr. and Mrs. Peter Beamer. For a long time Mrs. Beamest was the vic tim of a complication of disenses which made her life one of almost which made her life one of almost constant misery, and from which she nearly despaired of obtaining relief. To a reporter who recently interviewed her, Mrs. Beamer gave the following particulars of her illness, and ultimate cure:—"For some nine years I was troubled with a pain in the back, and neuralgia, which caused me unsuch table misery. The pain in timate cure: "For some n'ne years I was troubled with a pain in the back, and neuralgia, wh'ch caused me unspenkable misery. The pain in my back was so bad that whether sitting or lying down, I suffered more or less torture. My appetite left me, and I suffered from headaches accompanied by attacks of dizziness that left me at times too weak to walk. My nervous system was badly shattered, so that the slightest noise would startle me, and my sleep at night was broken by sheer exhaustion. I was under the care of three different doctors at various times, but did not succeed in getting more than the merest temporary relief. I also used several advertised medicines, but with no better results. I was finally urged to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and got half a dozen boxes. In the course of a few weeks I noted considerable improvement, and as a consequence, I gladly continued the use of the pills for several months, with the result that every symptom of the malady left me, and I was able to do my housework without the least trouble. As several years have passed since I have used the pills, I feel safe in saying that the cure is permanent, and the result also verifies the claim that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when other medicine fails." The reporter can only add that Mrs. Beamer's present condition indicates a state of perfect health, and speaks louder than mere words can do, the benefit these pills have been to her.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure when other medicine ever discovered, which in part accounts for their popularity throughout the world. These pills are sold by all dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box, or six boxes for $2.50, by addressing the Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Something About Binder Twine

Farmers who intend placing their orders for Binder Twine, shou'd not take any Twine unless they know some-, thing about its brand There will be a great deal of cheap, rough Twine on the market this coming year, and farmers should bear in mind that they have no way of discovering this until they come to use it, when they are really too busy to have any

We are selling the well-known brand "Our Superior" that we mistakes rectified. have sold here for 3 years and which has given universal satisfaction. We guarantee that the twine will be the same this year as last, hence, farmers will be perfectly safe in ordering it.

Last year some dealers sold a so-called Superior Twine. but it was not the genuine article, as Our Superior Twine is made by the Plymouth Cordage Co, and every ticket on the balls bears their trade-mark on the back, viz, a sheaf of grain. No twine that has not this trade mark on the back of the ticket is genuine "Our Superior Twine."

Farmers, remember this and do not allow yourselves to be Imposed on We are now taking orders for Binder Twine and are guaranteeing the price against any decline or advance up till the time you take your twine home. Our aim has always been to give the farmers a good working twine, and we think that considering the quantity we sell, there is no firm in Canada who receive fewer complaints.
