Wednesday was a big day in town. The crowds commenced to gather early in the morning and by ten o'clock the streets were lined with people who came to see the parade and attend the circus. Throughout the day a large number under the influence of liquor got quarrelsome and were arrested, otherwise the day passed quietly off.

The concert given in the Presbyterian church, at Grand Pre, on Tuesday evening was a most pleasing success. The ladies of the congregation deserve great credit for the treat in a musical and literary evening. One of the most pleasing features was the numerous selections given by the Harpers of Halifax.

This was a great expense but that little band of workers have lots of pluck and seemed determined to please the audience whether they made any money or no. Miss Patriquin who always delights the Horton people gave two readings which were thoroughly enjoyed. Miss Annie Murray of Wolfville sang a solo which proved her to be one of the rising soprano singers of that town.

Rev. E. M. Dill, the pastor sang "Jerusalem;" he excused himself on account of hoarseness but the chairman W. H. Chase, Esq., gave him a very witty remedy. The choir sang two selections nicely. All present pronounced the evening one of the most enjoyable and a great credit to a country church.

To Serve Shamrock II.
As the Yacht's Tender

New York World

David Barrie, Sir Thomas Lipton's American agent, has chartered a tender to Shamrock II, an ocean steamer with a brief but unique history. She is the Porto Rico, one of the only two lake built steamships engaged in colonial and foreign trade from this port.

She is the steamer that in November, 1899, dedicated the Soudan Canal, built by the Canadian Government. She was built by the Craig Shipbuilding Company of Toledo, O. The Porto Rico is of steel and her single screw is driven by double-decked and equipped with electric lights and auxiliary engines for handling capstans, windlasses, hoists and other services.

Her gross tonnage is 1,257 and net 1,070. She is 215 feet long and 82 feet beam. All the spare gear of Shamrock II, such as sails, spars, cordage, furniture and the manifold odds and ends necessary for the outfit of a racing yacht will be stowed aboard the Porto Rico, as well as the fittings and superfluous outfit when Shamrock II, is stripped for her supreme efforts.

Under the command of Captain Harvey the Porto Rico has proved an admirable salt water sailor, and instead of being confined to Porto Rican waters, she has run regularly between New York and San Juan and Mayaguez.

The fact that Sir Thomas, conducting all his enterprises on a princely scale, has chartered a first-class ocean steamer as sleeping quarters for his crew and riggers, pilots and stewards and special secretaries and as a storehouse for supplies, shows to what extraordinary expenses he is ready to go to try for the cup.

It will have been the first instance of an ocean liner serving a cup challenger.

The Captain Harvey mentioned above in charge of the Porto Rico, is Capt. W. A. Harvey, formerly of Hantsport, son in law of Capt. Wm. Folker of this place.

Pan-American Home

This is the name given to the Canadian building at the Pan American Exposition. The formal opening was held yesterday. It is described thus.—It is situated at the east side of the grounds, just off the Mall, near the dairy building. In a plot surrounded by flower beds and artistic shrubbery lands. Its exterior is of Swiss style of architecture, with flowering vines and plants on the roof and balconies. The main hall of the ground floor is devoted to a comprehensive agricultural exhibit, all the grains and wheats of Canada being shown either in glass cases or else fashioned in quaint designs, in the border around the wall near the ceiling. In the centre of this large hall is mounted, under a glass case a monster stuffed buffalo, owned by the Canadian government. It is claimed to be the largest specimen of buffalo ever known and is highly prized by the dominion government. Its appearance at the Pan American is the first outside of Canada. It has never before been loaned for any exhibition. As oil painting that attracts considerable attention is one by Paul Wickson, a noted Canadian painter, called "The story of the great north-west." It illustrates the retreat of the red man with his pony, his gun, and his tepee, before the Scotch settler, with his agricultural implement and his plough horse. There are exhibits in the mine building, forestry, fine arts, live stock, etc., as well. The building is called "The Pan-American Home."

On Magnetic Healing

Much is spoken and written during these times about this mysterious method of treating disease. The most truly remarkable cases of magnetic healing which have come under the notice of the writer have been those in Dr. Chase's Ointments was used. This preparation seems to have magical powers in stopping the dreadful itching, burning sensations of Salt Rheum and when used regularly makes the cure thorough and permanent.

There'll be kicks about the heat, Later on;
There'll be growls from all we meet, Later on;
Every fellow will declare That's it's mighty hard to bear, And will wish for chilly air, Later on.
They will oft ex-ress regret, Later on;
When their brows and cheeks are wet, Later on.
That rude gibes they need to fling At the backwardness of spring, And they'll learn for wide that sting, Later on.
High the mercury will rise, Later on.
And Old Sol blaze in the skies, Later on;
All electric fans will whizz, And the soda fountains will fizz, And the heat will fairly sizz, Later on.
They'll be sorry that they growled, Later on.
And a fuel dealer, scowled, Later on;
For the man who sells them ice, Will exact a heavy price For a measly little slice, Later on.
Bear in mind that 'twill be hot, Later on;
Comfort vainly will be sought, Later on;
So when springtime days are cold, Don't a-out the weather scold, For there'll be heat uncontrolled, Later on.

HATS OFF

The recent action of Bishop Courtney in knocking off a man's hat in the Empire Theatre, Halifax, is meeting with severe criticism both by the press and public. It was during a meeting at that place that the performance was acted. All had risen and as the band struck up God Save the King a man started to go out with his hat on his head. In going out he had to pass the above named Reverend gentleman. He being a true patriotic gentleman his patriotism got the better of him and he deliberately knocked the man's hat off.

It is now being asked, was this the right thing for his Lordship to do? It is our opinion that it was not as there was no occasion for it. It was an ungentlemanly act. There are other methods that could have been used, for instance, detain the man and give him a good patriotic lesson. This would in our view have as much effect on him as the knocking off his hat did. It would have looked better on the part of both. We are all of the idea that heads should be uncovered at the commencement and throughout the playing or singing of the National Anthem.

Some will say that he was right in doing what he did but we can hardly justify the action. We cannot say that the man meant to be discourteous toward the King. It is not always because a person keeps his hat on that he means it as an insult or an act of disloyalty.

If it is so, then Kentville has many such people. At most every concert given here it is always seen, that when the National Anthem is played, people begin to put on their wraps and start for the door, without singing or waiting until the piece is played. Can it be said that we are disloyal? No! We are just as loyal to our King and country as can be found any where. It is not disloyalty that we start for the door when this piece is being played, it is forgetfulness and carelessness.

To teach our people to be loyal, it does not mean that if a person keeps his hat on that some one should go and knock it off. Patriotism should be taught us in the schools and home and that done, in the right way. But we hardly doubt if knocking people's hats off will do it.

JACKSONVILLE AND THE RACE QUESTION

Interesting Letter from T. H. Blenus, Jacksonville, Florida, June 27th, 1901.

Mr. ADVERTISER.—It is not an easy matter to write even a short and disconnected letter, with the mercury toying with 100 in the shade, and we have never yet been able to find any intimate relationship existing between perspiration and inspiration. We usually have our most extreme heat here, from the middle of June to the middle of July. We very sadly miss our beautiful shade trees here this summer. Jacksonville, for many years, has been sedulously caring for its streets, lawns and evergreens, and now we can find none of these cooling and comforting blessings except in the suburbs.

Like magic our town is building again. More than three hundred substantial buildings have already arisen from the ashes, and many more are being projected. Before the conflagration which came near wiping us out of existence, work had begun on the State Fair to be held here in the fall.—It was thought by many, that some arrangements should be made for some sister city in the state to take this matter off our hands, for this year at least. But our citizens said no, and we are to have the Fair.

Instead of erecting buildings the whole exhibit will be under canvas, which to say the least will be unique. The colored people of the state have appointed three commissioners, something brand new, representative men to take charge of their exhibits. The fair is intended to represent the development and progress of the State in all lines. The colored race in Florida are to be reckoned with of course, as it is doing its share in the work of advancement. Many representatives of this race are prosperous and deserve their success, and it is safe to predict that they will make a good showing at the coming fair. The colored department will occupy separate tents though those who make exhibits will compete for prizes that are offered just as if the displays were grouped together.

The Fair Association I am informed is receiving splendid encouragement every day from all parts of the state, and the prospect of assembling a splendid exhibit grows brighter as the time passes.

I noticed, either in your paper, or in some periodical from the provinces recently, a little squib on the negro question. In every country where white and black men live side by side their interests are bound to become identical. The rain falls, the wind blows, and the seasons come and go to the one as well as to the other. The price of cotton, or wages, of melons vs pineapples is not established by the color of the cultivator. From laws, whether of God or man, black and white must face alike. And yet it seems almost impossible to avoid race antagonisms. Considering the relative population of the negro in the two sections, these antagonisms are much more common in the North, than in the South. In Kansas, for instance, not long since a negro was burned by an infuriated mob of white men. Ever since, so much bad feeling has existed there, that there is more danger of race trouble in Kansas than in any southern state. Kansas, while not the cradle of the abolition movement, is the state in which the fight in slavery was characterized by force, instead of reason. The dispute over its admission to the Union, whether with slavery permitted or forbidden, assumed so bitter a phase that the state was called "bleeding Kansas."

The most cordial relations exist between individuals of the two races in the South. It is only when they act collectively that the antagonism manifests itself. The better class of both races deplore this antagonism. A negro man commits a grave crime. No one can deny the fact that many white men are more ready to punish him, than they would have been if he had been white. No one can deny that many negroes will shelter him because he is a negro and some even will approve of the crime he commits seeing that white men are injured by them. So long as this condition of affairs exist we are bound to have race antagonism.

I close this with a little incident of the fire told to me by an eye witness. While the fire was raging, and thousands were rushing hither and thither, and everything was in confusion on a street corner. Suddenly a young man ran up to the instrument and took off his hat opened the piano and amid the roar of flame, and through the stifling smoke came the notes of "There's a hot time in the old town tonight." He played on till the smoke and flames drove him away.

Fire at Lakeville

Last Sunday evening about six o'clock the house of Mr. Freeman Morton's at Lakeville was burned to the ground. About a quarter to six Mrs. Morton started a fire in the stove to get tea. Not long after a neighbor discovered the roof on fire. The alarm of fire was given and assistance was soon at hand. The fire had made such a headway that it was impossible to save the building. To keep the fire from spreading to the wood pile and barn, which were near, the porch was torn down. During the conflagration a heavy wind prevailed and sparks were carried to the house of Mr. Perry Corbett's, which was several times set on fire. Most of the furniture was saved. The fire is believed to have caught from a spark from the chimney falling on the roof.

Lieut. A. H. Ross of the 68th Battalion left yesterday for Ottawa where he will take a course of military instructions.

Unanimous Verdict

From our many articles the past few weeks received from various sources it will be seen that the comedy farce, "A Wise Woman," is a strictly first class attraction with more originality and novel features than any company that has yet visited us. It remains to be seen how they will be appreciated.

WEDDING BELLS

Parker-Holland

A quiet wedding took place at the residence of the bride's uncle, J. W. Follet, Dorchester, Mass., on Monday morning, June 24th. The contracting parties were Merton E. Parker and Sadie L. Holland both of Aylesford, N. S. Rev. C. W. Holden, pastor of the First Dorchester M. E. church performed the ceremony. The bride was prettily attired in dove colored cashmere, trimmed with pink silk and wore white roses. After the ceremony the happy couple started for their future home at Milford, Mass.

DEDICATION

The dedication of the new Baptist Church at New Ross Road was held last Sunday. Appropriate services were held throughout the day. The day being fine they were largely attended, many being obliged to stand outside. The speakers of the day were Rev. Mr. Coburn of Wolfville and Mr. Baker of New Minas. The former spoke in the morning and the latter in the afternoon. The singing was excellent being furnished by visitors. Services have always been held in the school house and the thanks for holding divine worship in such a neat little church as the one just erected are due in a measure to the persistent efforts of Miss Maggie Frail who spent a large part of her time in collecting funds. The organ was presented by Mrs. Heckman, Wolfville, and the Bible by a Miss Eaton of Canning. It is expected that special services will be held here in a short time by Mr. Baker.

The Canning Baptist church will hold a Strawberry and Ice Cream sociable on the lawn of Mrs. Daniel Bigelow, Thursday July 11th. Canning band in attendance. Proceeds for renovating church.

The Pan American circus gave one performance on the Exhibition grounds on Wednesday. Some parts were excellent but was not up to last years standing. The trapeze work was excellent. One of the amusing features was the horse race.

Mr. James Sarsfield of the Audit Office D. A. R. is spending a few days at Digby.

The company which will present "A Wise Woman," the latest musical farce at the Opera House in the near future has a really wonderful array of well known people enlisted in the ranks of the organization. The Trustees of the Upper Perceux Cemetery having decided to place a substantial fence around the same, have decided to hold a Strawberry Festival on the famous Look Off on Saturday afternoon July 6th. It is most injurious to sit for an hour or two and be compelled to inhale bad air, and injure the health. Let us have fresh air and plenty of it. A GIRL OF GRIT.

BY MAJOR ARTHUR GRIFFITHS.

COPYRIGHT, 1901, BY R. F. FENNO & CO.

I shadowed him the evening of the first day, now just 48 hours ago, following him to the Hyde park, to his club, to his house. In Hyde park only one person spoke to Mr. Wood. I knew him by sight and name, a half American, Jimmy Lawford, having crossed with him once in the same Cunarder and taken a hand in the same game of poker in the smoking saloon. He passed then as an ocean drummer, although some said he was engaged in the secret service of the federal government. Now, I take it, he just loafed around—just the sort of chap to be in this crowd against Wood. I did not hear what he said to Wood, but when leaving by the park gates I noticed Jimmy in close talk with a hansom cab man who had got off his perch and was very particular to hear what Lawford said.

I only caught the last word or two: "Any time tonight or tomorrow night. You'll get the office; mind you're on the quee-vee."

I shadowed the captain all that blessed night, to the opera, out west, to several parties, and spoke to him, or rather he spoke me, roughly, too, at the door of a house in Prince's Gate, when he was seeing two ladies to their carriage. That was not quite the last of him, for somewhere near Knightsbridge he was picked up by a cab, and next thing it comes back, ten miles an hour, ebbly standing up and flinging his horse like mad. It was so near daylight that I got a view inside the hansom as it passed, me full tilt. I caught sight in that short moment of a mass of people inside the cab, two or more men struggling and fighting with some one underneath them.

Of course Captain Wood was being kidnaped and carried off. I reckoned that up on the spot, and gathered myself together then and there to give chase to the cab. I followed it steadily,

He was seeing two ladies to their carriage, down the Kensington road, losing my distance, of course, very fast. By the time I reached High Street I had lost the cab.

But a man at an early coffee stall had seen it pass, holding straight on the main road toward Holland House. I heard of it again at St. Mary Abbott's terrace, and was told that it had turned up Addison road. I traced it by Holland road to Shepherd's Bush Green, and there a herring was drawn across the street.

I was on the track now of two cabs, one going by the Shepherd's Bush or Uxbridge road, the other by the Starch Green road. I followed the first, and few blank. It was a night hawk working home to his stables, and where, by and by, I caught the chap settling into his crib. He swore he hadn't had a case for the last two hours, and I could see he was speaking truth, for his horse had not turned a hair.

I went back then to the Starch Green road, asking all and several for my galloping hansom cab. There were very few people about at this early hour, only the policemen, and they looked very shy at my tramp's clothes, giving no answer. At last a couple of decent farm folk bringing in milk told me they had passed a hansom with a worn horse on the far side of Hammersmith bridge, in the district of Barnes.

By the time I reached the Strathallan road it was broad daylight. I found a long road of detached villa houses, each in its own garden, many with stables adjoining. I figured it out, as I walked up and down this road twice, that one of these cottages was just suited for the purpose of sequestering Captain Wood, if he could be got to it. He could be driven straight into the stable yard; the cab would be no more seen when the coach house door closed behind him, and no one, neither the neighbors nor the police, would be a bit the wiser as to what mischief was being worked inside.

It took me just two hours to examine the entrance gates of every villa house with stables in that road. In three of them there were the new tracks of wheels marked plainly in the thick lying summer dust. I could not discover which were the most recent, but I carefully noted the numbers of these houses, meaning to put a watch upon them all.

I called up the boy Joseph Vials, a very smart young squire, too, from the office in Norfolk street, as soon as I could get a telegram through. By the time he arrived I had narrowed my investigations to a single point for further observation.

The day had so far advanced that the business of life was well begun. I saw the blinds drawn up in two of the houses, the front doors opened, the women helps busy shaking the mats and washing down the stoops. Presently some of the young folks ran out into the gardens, and I could see the family gatherings round the breakfast tables, from which on the early morning air came the smell of hot coffee and English breakfast bacon, with the temptation of Tantalus for a starving man who had been out all night. All this while the third house remained closed, hermetically sealed. It was closed up, tight shuttered, not a sign of life in it. When I reached my lodgings in Norfolk street I was pretty well washed out. But I turned in for an hour and at 10 a. m. woke much refreshed. As I dressed with care I pondered deeply over this business and the course that I should adopt. My first and most urgent duty was to secure the release of Mr. Wood, always supposing that my gentleman was the person actually carried off in the cab. At present I had no certainty of this, only a bit more than strong suspicion. Yet if I could ascertain that he had not returned home I should be justified in taking surmise for fact.

First I went to Clarges street. The man there remembered me, but looked strangely when I inquired for Captain Wood.

"You have not heard the news, then?" he said.

"What in thunder is there to hear more than I have to tell you?" I asked, nettled at thinking some one was before me.

"Why, that the captain has met with an accident. He slipped up somehow last night or early this morning and hurt himself badly."

"Who told you that story? Do you believe it?"

"I believe the captain's own handwriting."

"What did he say exactly?" I was quite taken aback, as you may suppose, but did not want to show it too much.

"Here, read it for yourself. It's not all his own, of course, and you will understand why. But that's his name at the bottom there sure enough."

It was written on good gray note paper in a fair running hand, and it said:

Savory, I've come to grief driving home. Horse slipped upon the curb, and I was thrown out of the cab. Some kind people picked me up and are taking good care of me. But I shan't be able to move hand or foot for some days. Send me by bearer postmaster's bill—dressing gown, slippers, checkbook, letters, papers and the rest. Yours, W. A. Wood. 17A Laburnum Street, Harrow Road.

"And you sent them? How?"

"By the cab that brought the letter."

"Why didn't you go with them yourself?"

"I thought of it certainly, and I wish I had."

"You may well wish that. And now, if you will be guided by me, you'll go and find out 17A Laburnum street right away, if there's any such place at all."

"Oh, but there is. It's in the directory."

"Is that so? Well, if you come across Mr. Wood there I'll run you for next president of the United States. You've got just the face for a postage stamp."

"What in the name of conscience d'ye mean? What's 'appened to him, then?"

"It's my opinion that Captain Wood has fallen among thieves, brigands, worse—ruffians, who'll hold him to ransom!"

God knows what, unless some of us can circumvent their blackguard maneuvers. And I am going to try. I don't believe in cab accidents and Laburnum streets. You may, so you'd better go and judge for yourself."

But he was not going to find him in Laburnum street. I was pretty sure of that, but it was right to look there on the off chance that this story was true. For myself I was more than ever persuaded of foul play, and I considered I was bound to lay the whole matter before the London police.

I was not very well received at Scotland Yard. They told me to get proper credentials, a certificate from the American consul. I was terribly rolled, but not to waste time I took a cab straight to Great St. Helen's, where of course I was perfectly well known. One of the senior clerks came to me directly.

"What can we do for you, Mr. Snayzer? What an introduction to the metropolitan police? Why, certainly. Reckon it's no use asking what you're after? Big case?"

He was a friend and had often given me information in a small way. I thought perhaps he might help me now, for I'd heard from you they were mostly Americans working this conspiracy, and it was likely enough they'd know at the consulate whether any big "toughs" and "bunko-men" were in London just then.

Feeble, Wasted Nerves Aroused to New Life.

A Sufferer For Years From Weak Heart, Exhausted Nerves and Sleeplessness Cured by Five Boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Whether weakened and wasted by overwork, worry or disease, the result of exhausted nerves is felt in neuralgic pains, nervous headache and dyspepsia, serious functional derangements and ultimately in paralysis, epilepsy, locomotor ataxia, prostration or insanity. The remedy is found in Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It is proven in the case referred to below:

Mrs. Chas. H. Jones, Pierceton, Que., writes: "For years I have been a great sufferer with my heart and nerves. I would take shuddering spells and a dizzy feeling which would come over me. Night after night I would never close my eyes, and my head would ache as though it would burst. At last I had to keep to my bed, and though my doctor attended me from fall to spring, his medicine did not help me."

"I have now taken five boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and it has done me more good than I ever believed a medicine could do. Words fail to express my gratitude for the wonderful cure brought about by this treatment."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Company, Toronto.

Sir Thomas Galt, late chief justice of common pleas, died at his residence last Saturday morning.

Bent Nearly Double With Bright's Disease.

A Severe and Torturing Case of Bright's Disease—A Justice of the Peace Certifies to the Cure by Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Mr. James Dellhunt, a much respected resident of Concession, Ont., states: "I was a sufferer from Bright's Disease for several years, and at times the tortures of mind and body were almost beyond endurance. The pains were in my head, between the shoulders and down the whole spine, concentrating across the kidneys, where I was never entirely free from pain. When I got up in the morning I went about bent over nearly double. It gave me great pain to urinate, and at times the water was very scanty. Medicines seemed to have little or no effect in my case, until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. The first dose relieved me, and five boxes entirely cured me. I have no pains in my kidneys, and can now go a good day's work as I ever did."

Mr. J. J. Ward, J.P., of Concession, certifies that he knows Mr. Dellhunt's statement of his cure to be correct and true and without exaggeration. It seems foolish to trifle with new-fangled medicines when you can get the tested and proven cure, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, one pill a dose, 25 cents a box, all dealers, or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Toronto. Agents wanted for Dr. Chase's last and complete Receipt Book.

God knows what, unless some of us can circumvent their blackguard maneuvers. And I am going to try. I don't believe in cab accidents and Laburnum streets. You may, so you'd better go and judge for yourself."

But he was not going to find him in Laburnum street. I was pretty sure of that, but it was right to look there on the off chance that this story was true. For myself I was more than ever persuaded of foul play, and I considered I was bound to lay the whole matter before the London police.

Advice to Mothers

If your boy or girl comes home with a sore throat, the first thing to do is to rub the throat and chest with Polson's Nerviline. Don't be afraid to use Nerviline freely—a whole bottle full wouldn't burn or blister the tenderest skin. Rub in until all taken up by the pores, and just before the child goes to sleep give him a glass of hot water, into which 30 drops of Nerviline has previously been stirred. This is a sure pleasant and speedy cure. Large bottles 25 cents.

How Judicious and Inexpensive Advertisements can be Made to Pay by Using a Selected Medium

The Brooklyn Daily Eagle is the ideal resort medium. It reaches the people you want to reach. Its circulation is the largest in Brooklyn, and goes into the best homes in the entire City of New York. Its name stands for excellence, quality, fairness and an unparalleled advertising reputation. Its resort rates are equitable; its monthly rate so low that you can afford to keep before the public every day.

The Eagle maintains two free information Bureaus for Resorts—one in Brooklyn and one in the heart of the shopping district of Manhattan. They distribute your circulars, tell visitors about your house, and in every way further your interests. An advertisement in the Eagle, supplemented by the free service of its bureaus, is almost a sure investment.

Crutches Discarded

Mrs. Wells, of Mochelle, Annapolis, Annapolis Co., writes:

May 8th, 1900

"I am an old woman, nearly eighty years of age. Sometime ago I fell and injured my hip. I was afterwards troubled with Sciatica; at times my sufferings were intense; I could not get about my room without the aid of a pair of crutches. I tried many remedies; none did me any good; some of them made me worse. At last I read of Egyptian Rheumatic Oil and tried that. I am happy to say that it has given me great relief, removing the pain and enabling me to move around much better than I could. I think Egyptian Rheumatic Oil a splendid liniment for use in cases of Rheumatism.

WEDDING BELLS

Harris-Dickie

The home of Mr and Mrs. James B. Dickie of Lower Canada, was the scene of a very pretty and interesting event on Wednesday morning. It was on the occasion of the marriage of their daughter, Miss Avora Beatrice Dickie to Mr. Howard G. Harris, editor of the Advertiser and Acadian Orchestralist of this town.

At precisely half past nine Mrs. Harris Dickie commenced playing the wedding march to which the bridal party entered the drawing room and took their places under a large floral bell of daisies which hung from the ceiling.

The impressive words were pronounced by the Rev. J. E. Hatt pastor of the Upper Canada Baptist church.

The bride was handsomely dressed in white brocade silk en train, with tulle veil caught up with sprays of orange blossoms. The bridesmaid Miss Marion Alice Forrest of Halifax, wore cream brocade silk with chiffon and black velvet trimmings. The little maids of honor were Miss Elmore Blanche Eaton and Miss Dorothy Agnes Dickie. Little Miss Eaton looked very dainty in a blue chiffon frock and carried a basket of forget-me-nots and daisies. The other little maids Mrs. Dickie wore pale pink chiffon and carried a basket of moss-rose buds.

Mr. E. B. Newcomb of Kentville, supported the groom.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, after which the happy couple drove to Kentville, where the Bluenose was boarded for an extended wedding tour to the large Upper Canadian cities and Buffalo.

The bride was the recipient of many valuable and useful gifts.

Tupper-Cox

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Ebenezer Cox, Kingsport, was the scene of a very interesting and happy event on Thursday evening last, it being the occasion of the marriage of their daughter, Florence E., to Mr. Chas. M. Tupper of Sydney, C. B. At the appointed hour 7 o'clock, the bridal party entered the parlor, which had been beautifully decorated for the occasion, to the sweet strains of the wedding march, excellently rendered by Professor L. Johnson. The groom was supported by Mr. E. Bigelow and Miss Louise Cox attended the bride who looked charming, attired in a travelling dress of cadet blue with hat to match. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. Coburn in the presence of a number of invited guests. After congratulations and refreshments, the newly wedded left for Kentville thence to Truro and Sydney where they will make their home, followed by showers of rice and best wishes of their many friends. The bride was the recipient of many pretty and useful presents.

Pte. Henry Redden Drowned

A despatch from Fredericton, N. B., dated July 2nd says:

All doubt as to the fate of the soldiers, Harvey and Redden who disappeared from the R. C. R. 1, here Saturday night, was set at rest by the discovery of Harvey's body floating in the river, near the railway bridge. They had gone out in a sail boat at eight o'clock Saturday night.

The boat was found Sunday morning on the St. Mary's shore and in it were the tunics, helmets and belts of the soldiers.

The impression was that the men had deserted. When it was known that their time had nearly expired and medals and money were due to them, this idea ever since for their remains, but only Harvey has yet been recovered.

Both men were Nova Scotians, Redden hailing from Windsor and Harvey from Advocate, Cumberland. Both were members of the First Canadian Contingent in South Africa, and were heroes of Paardeberg. Harvey also served with the force in the Yukon. Neither was married.

Redden mentioned above was the son of Mrs. Benj. Redden of Kentville and was 22 years of age. On his return from South Africa he spent several weeks in town after which he returned to the military school at Fredericton. He volunteered to go to S. Africa and enlisted from Fredericton and was spared to return with only a bullet wound and has now met his death by drowning.

Rev. C. H. Day pastor of the Baptist church spent Sunday in Halifax. Mr. Steadman occupied his pulpit.

Capt. D. A. Saunders and Miss Ethel of Yarmouth have been spending a few days with Mr and Mrs John Lloyd.

THE GLASS OF FASHION.

Bashes of all kinds and descriptions will be a feature of summer dress.

The prettiest, most becoming face veil for mourning wear is made of brussels net with a scalloped edge, a hemstitched border or a crape band.

Embroidered batiste of the finest texture and the daintiest biscuit tint is to be very much worn this season for entire gowns, waists and trimmings.

French knots are quite as popular as ever as a means of trimming, with the difference of using heavy instead of fine silk. On gauze materials they are very effective.

Spring hats have blossomed out to a very realistic way with flowers in the lead for decoration. Roses are first on the list, but all sorts of exquisite floral designs are in evidence on the new hats.

The new leather belts are the same straight around bands so long worn, but are covered with rows of stitching or combined with velvet, showing a narrow line through the center, the leather overlapping and being attached on.

Single faced velvet ribbon is promised as one of the trimmings for foulard gowns, and it is to be stitched on at the upper edge. Graduated bands of piece velvet were stitched on to the skirts of the winter models, so it is only the same idea differently expressed.

Gentlemen,—Last November my child struck a nail in his knee, causing information so severe that I was advised to take him to Montreal and have the limb amputated to save his life.

A neighbor advised us to try MINARD'S LINIMENT, which we did, and within three days my child was all right, and I feel so grateful that I send you this testimonial, that my experience may be of benefit to others.
