He is survived by his parents, two brothers William of Redbank and Leonard of Newcastle and four sisters Mrs. Edward Dalton Mrs. Alvin Dalton Newcastle Mrs. Oliva Chatham and Miss Dora Burns of Redbank. The body will be brought home for burial.

MOOSE HUNTERS

The number of visiting sportsmen this year has not been nearly as large as that of previous years but all report abundance of game in the woods one party reporting no less than one hundred Partridges in a short stretch of woods near town.

Some of the visiting hunters who have been successful are:

H. A. Casner New York; one moose one deer
Mrs. H. A. Casner New York one moose.
J. A. Lavole Montreal; one moose two deer.
F. B. Holden Master Rock; one moose two deer.
E. J. Hart of Ashburnham, Fredericton; one moose.
J. J. Desnoyer New York one moose one deer.
E. A. Benedict East Orange N. J. one moose.

Mrs. Martha Hill returned last week from a visit to her daughter Mrs. Wm. Laprade of Fredericton. Mr. N. T. LeBlanc has returned from a business trip to Montreal.

More Heroes Fall In Freedom's Battle

Lieut. George V. McInerney and Pte. John Connors Make Supreme Sacrifice—Other Casualties

The flag in the square was again hoisted to half mast last week denoting that another of Newcastle's brave sons had given up his life on the fields of France achieving victory for Canada and old England. The hero this time was Private John Connors the only son of Mr. Patrick Connors, the official word having been received on Wednesday that he died of wounds received on Sept. 27th. Pte. Connors enlisted with the 6th Mounted Rifles in 1915; but was later transferred to the "fighting 26th" and has been on the fighting line with that unit for over three years. He was about thirty years of age; and besides his father leaves a widow; formerly Miss Lillie Bird; and a little daughter Margaret who have the sympathy of the whole community in the loss of a heroic husband and father.

LIEUT. GEORGE V. McINERNEY

The sad news was received in Rexton this week that Lieut. George V. McInerney had died from the effects of wounds received in battle. Lieut. McInerney composed of the Newcastle's quota to the first contingent going overseas with the old Eighth Battery. Before enlisting he was teller in the Royal Bank of Canada here; and one of the most popular young men of the town and the news of his death will be heard with regret on all sides.

TROUT BROOK SOLDIER DIES IN ENGLAND

Mr. and Mrs. Albert McCoombs of Trout Brook have received word of the death in an English hospital of Sept 20th of their son Private William McCoombs from spinal meningitis.

The deceased soldier was only about twenty years of age and went overseas during the present year. Besides his parents he leaves four brothers: Fred Warren Major and Albert all of Trout Brook also three sisters Gertrude of St. Stephen N. B. Caroline and Bessie at home.

MILITARY MEDAL MAN WOUNDED

Mrs. Annie Brooks received official word on Wednesday that her husband acting Corp. George Brooks M. M. had been admitted to the fifty-sixth general hospital at Etaples on Sept. 23rd suffering from gunshot wounds in the right arm.

Corp. Brooks went overseas with the 132nd. Battalion and won his Military Medal for dressing a comrade's wounds under heavy shell fire.

PTE HAROLD BATE WOUNDED

Rev and Mrs W. J. Bate received a telegram from Ottawa on Saturday informing them that their son Pte. Harold Kingston Bate infantry was officially reported admitted to No. 4 General Hospital Danes France September 29th suffering from gunshot wounds in left hand. Pte. Bate whose brother George Bate was recently killed in action enlisted with the Canadian Engineers in May 1917 volunteered for the Princess Patricia Light Infantry and on account of the latter being over-strength was transferred to the 38th Battalion. He went to France in May 1918 and has been in the trenches ever since.

Services will be conducted at the house commencing at 3.00 o'clock and interment will be made in the Miramichi Cemetery.

Agricultural Fair A Grand Success

Large Number of Exhibits and Good Attendance at Fair Here on Wednesday Last

The Agricultural Fair and Sale held here on Wednesday last under the auspices of Agricultural Society No. 122 proved to be a grand success.

The day was a most perfect one and there was a large attendance while the exhibits far exceeded expectations upwards of five hundred entries being placed on show all of which were of the highest order.

The display of vegetables and farm produce was the best seen for many years, and judging by the keen competition there is nothing like the old Time County Fair to give the farmers greater impulse to breed better stock and grow better crops.

The Red Cross society had charge of the catering and that the inner man was well supplied goes without saying.

Messrs W. W. Hubbard of the Experimental Farm and Adam Moore of Fredericton were the judges the former judging the live stock and latter the Farm Produce etc.

The Hauling contest which took place in the evening was keenly contested and won by a team belonging to the Miramichi Lumber Co. with Ald. Sergeant's team in second place.

The Tug of War went to a team captured by Alvin Dalton with Burk White as Anchor man.

Much interest was taken in the Auction Sale which started about five o'clock Mr. J. R. Lawlor ably handling the hammer and as the result of his effort a large quantity produce changed hands. Since of the exhibitors making donations of their exhibits to the Red Cross hospital to swell the funds of that organization as well as a guessing contest on a barrel of potatoes which was won first by Mr. George Couds who donated it to the Red Cross again and second winner was Miss Laura Williston who followed a like course and the potatoes finally went to Mr. Stafford Linco by auction.

The Committee in charge Messrs H. Williston W. M. Johnston G. G. Stothart George Stables J. R. Lawlor John McCoom Charles Sargeant and Edward Dalton have every reason to feel proud of their efforts.

Mrs. Jas. Duffy, who has been spending the past year in Bangor has returned home she was accompanied by her daughter Mrs. Wm. Ryan and son Gordon who will spend a few weeks here.

With Acknowledgments to Luke Fildes, R.A.

To every home there comes a time when every thought, every hope, every prayer for the future centres on the recovery of one loved one. In that hour of anguish, every means to recovery is sought—the highest medical skill, trained nurses, costly treatment. Does the price matter?

It may be so great as to stagger the imagination—a sum beyond the possible.

But does anyone ask, "Can we do it?" Money or no money, they do it. And somehow they pay.

It may mean doing without things they think they need. It may mean privations, sacrifices, hardships. They make unbelievable savings, they achieve the impossible, but they get the money to pay.

To-day in this critical period of our nationhood, there is imperative need for MONEY—vast sums of money. Only one way now remains to obtain it.

The nation must save, every community, every family, every individual Canadian must save.

If anyone says "I cannot save" let him consider to what extent he would pinch himself to relieve the sufferings of a loved one at home; and surely he would not pinch less for our fighting brothers in France.

Without suffering actual privations, nearly every family in Canada can reduce its standard of living, can practice reasonable thrift, can make cheerful sacrifice to enrich the life-blood of the nation.

You who read this, get out pencil and paper NOW. Set down the items of your living expense. Surely you will find some items there you can do without.

Determine to do without them.

Start TO-DAY. Save your money so that you may be in a position to lend it to your country in its time of need.

Strong People Needed

The need for people to be healthy is urgent. Those whom illness has put outside the ranks of robust men and women feel their position keenly. They are handicapped in every walk of life and weak men and nerve-worn women need more earnestly than ever to put their health right and become active and strong. Many who began "patching" months ago are as ill now as on the day they began vainly tinkering with common drugs. Every ailing man and woman should remember that the ills of debility, nerve exhaustion, indigestion, sleeplessness, neuritis and depression come from a faulty blood supply. Worry, over-work or other causes have impoverished the blood and left the life-stream impure. The nerves thereby are starving and the whole system is languishing for new blood. In this condition many thousands have won back strong nerves and new health and strength through the new, rich blood Dr. Williams' Pink Pills actually make. In a weak or bloodless condition it is not only a waste of time and money but also a further menace to your health to tinker with common drugs. Follow the example of so many thousands by giving Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a fair trial and they will transform you into healthy active men and women.

You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine or by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co Brockville Ont.

PROVIDE THE GOODS THEN ADVERTISE

(St. John Globe)
Frank Stockdale in his address at the Board of Trade rooms Tuesday evening discussed the cooperation between the merchant and his sales force. He said the man who isn't trying to lift up his help shouldn't be in business and an employe should be willing to uplift his employer. Mr. Stockdale said the customer comes before the clerk and the way to bring custom was to study their needs from past experience and keep their posted through the medium of advertising as to what they could procure to meet their wishes.

The clerk should be of the greatest assistance in knowing the goods and where to find them readily. This meant proper classification and intelligent display.
Mr. Stockdale advised merchants to cater to the needs of the people. He suggested that at this time druggists should advertise special preventions for Spanish influenza and should have a list prepared of the best remedies. Mr. Stockdale gave his audience many practical suggestions on business methods and answered many questions.

Capt. March Takes Sackville Bride

Popular Commandant at Wireless Garrison Wedded on Wednesday Last

An event of unusual interest took place in the Sackville Methodist church Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock when Miss Marie Desbarres daughter of Prof. and Mrs. F. W. Desbarres became the wife of Captain John Edgar March of Newcastle.

Rev. W. C. Watson, B. D. officiated in the presence of a large number of relatives, friends and acquaintances. The church was prettily decorated for the occasion by girl friends of the bride and the wedding was one of the most pleasing that has taken place in Sackville for many a day.

The bride who was prettily gowned in white georgette crepe with veil and orange blossoms carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. She was given away by her father Prof. Desbarres. A quartet consisting of Mrs. Duncan Mrs. Burns Mayor Wood and R. Tritts sang "O Perfect Love" Miss Burchell presiding at the organ. Misses Nora Desbarres and Edith Hinton were bridesmaids little Misses Bettle and Joe March pieces of the groom were flower girls while Major Fairweather Sussex acted as best man.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. About sixty-five guests were present. After the wedding Upper Captain and Mrs. March left on the Ocean Limited for a trip through Nova Scotia followed by good wishes of a host of friends.

SKILLED RIDERS CAST IN 15-CHAPTER PICTURE

Excelling in heart-interest and adventure thrills any preceding serial, the 15-chapter serial, "The Woman in the Web," Vitagraph's latest production, will be shown in the Happy Hour Theatre. It is announced by the management. The first chapter will be seen Friday and Saturday 18th and 19th, a chapter to follow each succeeding week.

Albert E. Spith, president of Vitagraph, and Cyrus Townsend Brady who collaborated in "Vengeance—and the Woman," are authors of "The Woman in the Web," and unhesitatingly stamp it as their master effort. It is totally different in theme and coloring, but not lacking in action. It is the story of the young girl bound by royal blood to a noble suitor, but whose heart is given to a young American. A great misadventure is forced upon her, and in carrying it out she is opposed at every turn by powerful influences reaching around the globe.

Hedda Nova, a young Russian actress of rare brunette beauty and exceptional talent is the heroine, and J. Frank Glendon, hero of many O. Henry pictures plays opposite her. Both are accomplished athletes and skilled in horsemanship.

HONEST OPINION

The Rev. "My personal opinion of Zam-Buk is that I know of nothing like it! Moving amongst sick people of my charge, I have proved it an absolute fact that for old wounds, cuts, eczema, and skin diseases, Zam-Buk is really marvelous."—Rev. A. D. MacLEOD, Harcourt, N.B.

The Magistrate "Eczema was my trouble, and I suffered for years. Tried practically everything, in vain! Zam-Buk cured me; and from the day the last sore was healed there has been no trace of return of the disease."—J. E. ARSENAULT, J.P., Wellington, P.E.I.

The Nurse "Speaking professionally, I would apply Zam-Buk to all cases of eczema, ulcers, abscesses and allied diseases. I have proved Zam-Buk able to cure the worst cases."—NURSE KEITH, Olds, Alta.

THE MOTHER "Give me Zam-Buk! It is the finest all-round healer known. It cured me of a poisoned hand, my 3 children of bad scalp sores, and my husband of a badly crushed finger. No home should be without it."—MRS. VILLIERS, Stadacona St., Montreal.

DANGER LURKS IN EVERY ONE OF US

We Are As Full of Deadly Poisons As A Germ Laboratory.

AUTO-INTOXICATION OR SELF-POISONING

"FRUIT-A-LIVES" Absolutely Prevents This Dangerous Condition.

The chief cause of poor health is our neglect of the bowels. Waste matter, instead of passing from the lower intestine regularly every day, is allowed to remain there, generating poisons which are absorbed by the blood.

In other words, a person who is habitually constipated, is poisoning himself. We know now that Auto-intoxication, due to non-action of the bowels, is directly responsible for serious Kidney and Bladder Troubles; that it upsets the Stomach, causes Indigestion, Loss of Appetite and Sleeplessness; that chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Pain In The Back, are relieved as soon as the bowels become regular; and that Pimples, Rashes, Eczema and other Skin Affections disappear when "Fruit-a-lives" are taken to correct Constipation.

"Fruit-a-lives" will protect you against Auto-intoxication because this wonderful fruit medicine acts directly on all the eliminating organs. 50c. a box, 6 for $2.50, trial size 25c. At all dealers or sent on receipt of price by Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

SCORN TO WEAR CHEVRONS.

They Say "Safety Firsts" Have a Similar Privilege.

The Canadian Associated Press understands that an effort will be made while Gen. Mewburn is in England to enlist his co-operation with Sir Edward Kemp in attempting to secure from the British War Office better orders of the war regarding the wearing of chevrons. Briefly, the present regulation is that members of any branch of the forces, Imperial or Dominion, are entitled to chevrons for service overseas. In the Dominion troops a special provision was made that service overseas should count from the date of their leaving their own country. This means that Canadians who have only done service in England are entitled to the same mark of distinction as those who spent whole winters in the trenches.

There are many Canadians in England, of course, who have got no further to the actual fighting through no fault of their own, but the following is a glaring example of the present anomalous position: At Argyl House, in London, at this moment there are certain men wearing one red and three blue chevrons, also the order of the British Empire and a Russian decoration, and yet he has spent his whole time at clerical work in England.

There is also a young captain who came over as a private, was wounded three times, earned his Military Cross in France, and yet, following the example of Gen. Turner and others, declines in sheer disgust to put any chevrons on his sleeve.

A recent letter from the War Office intimates that some men of no less than yours, earn chevrons very cheaply. For instance, all those officers in overseas garrisons at the beginning of the war are entitled to chevrons, although they may never have been moved since, and officers of the Indian army on duty in London are similarly entitled.

Catching Up to Us.
The New York Commercial states that the United States is second to Canada in supplying farm machinery to Australia and its position in the trade is steadily improving. Eleven million dollars' worth of such machinery is required annually by Australian farmers, of which seven million dollars' worth is manufactured at home and four million dollars' worth imported.

While the present demand for farm machinery is substantial the fact is that in the normal course of events Australia is destined to become a much more attractive market for such articles. The increasing efficiency of farm tractors should eventually prove a most important factor in developing the agricultural resources of the country. In spite of the present difficulties in the path of the average American manufacturer, the market deserves the utmost attention, especially on the part of those who produce a fair number of the machines most favored by the Australian farmer.
The home manufacturers are favored by the fact that much of the land is not cleared of stumps, so that a stump-jump feature is a necessity in most implements. Canadian and American manufacturers have never been obliged to specialize on such a feature, whereas the Australian manufacturer has given it attention for years. This and other disadvantages and advantages are discussed at length in an American Government report for the benefit of manufacturers and exporters who are planning to extend their Australian and New Zealand trade as soon as normal conditions are restored.

A GREAT FIGHTER.

Sergt.-Major Robinson has been Forty Years' Service.
Sergt.-Major "Jimmie" Robinson enjoys the distinction of being the first Canadian to win the D.C.M. in the Great War. He is a veteran of veterans, for despite the fact that his abundance of black hair, his ruddy health-betokening face and his alertness and vigor, mark him as a sturdy man in the early forties at most, he is in reality considerably older, with a service record covering about forty years of military campaigning with the colors.

He was through the Zulu War of 1879 with Lord Chelmsford's 94th Regiment, the 2nd Connaught Rangers. He fought also in the Sekakunia campaign of the same year under Sir Garnet, afterwards Lord Wolseley. He went through the first Boer War of 1881, including the siege of Pretoria, with Gen. Buller. He was in the South African war of 1899-1902 with a Natal Indian regiment, with the Imperial Light Infantry and with the Prince of Wales' Light Horse. His peacetime service includes soldiering with the 2nd Royal Dublin Fusiliers in India, from 1884 to 1889; in the Rocky Mountain Rangers at Nelson, B.C.; with the 104th New Westminster Fusiliers; and with the Hart-McHarg Company with the 6th, Duke of Connaught's Own Rifles at Vancouver.

He went out for the first time in the present war with the 7th Battalion of the 1st British Columbia Regiment, 1st Canadian Expeditionary Force, under Hart-McHarg, succeeded by Brig-Gen. Odium. He was also with George McSpadden, 11th Irish Fusiliers of Canada, being twice in France and in the thick of events. His D.C.M. was won at Ypres in April, 1915, two months prior to which he was mentioned in despatches, Feb. 15, for conspicuous daring and gallantry.
"The Old War Horse," as Sergt.-Major "Jimmie" Robinson is affectionately christened in the West, was born on Oct. 31, 1857, at Port a' Down, in the County Armagh, being the oldest son of the late John Robinson, and, like his father before him, he has been prominent in Orange circles all his life. He was first a member of No. 417, Lord Ranfurly's Purple Banner Lodge, and later with Britannia L.O.L., Vancouver, B.C., which has been the principal speaker at this year's 12th of July gathering, the associated guest of honor being Gen. John Robinson, the distinguished

(1) View from the Chateau verandah.
(2) Giant Steps in the Paradise Valley.
(3) At Lake Louise.

Nobody ever gets accustomed to Lake Louise. You come down in the morning, thinking of canteloup and coffee. And at the stairhead you have your first—yes, it is a smashing glimpse of the lake. No water could be so greenly-blue, so shot with amethyst half-shadows, so blent with undersurface diamonds and banded agates and shivering sapphires. The slender cliffs to the left make a frame for it—the jade slopes to the right give it fire by their sombre contrast. But that dazzling, unbelievable whiteness that froth over the top of the world at the lake's end—that soaring, singing, living wonder that somebody tethered to the earth by the process of naming it the Victoria Glacier—it's unrealer than Louise itself. But the artist looks at it with just the same, worshipful hopelessness, at least so says Walter D. Wilcox, P.R.G.S., who got his first sight of Louise in 1891, and has been an annual pilgrim ever since. It was just an annex of Banff then, this wonder-lake, and there weren't a hundred people in the east who had ever seen it.
"You can't paint it," declared Mr. Wilcox this year, out of twenty-seven season knowledge of its dancing medleys. "You get your clouds and your rock colors in. Then you try for the water. But the clouds you painted are gone and this lake is quite different in tone from the lake that went with your light effect. You might work for years and never see the precise combination repeated that you tried to get—and got a maddening half of."
Mr. Wilcox made his second visit with some college friends in 1893, and this time he brought a camera, a little 5 x 7, that laid the foundation for all his future reputation in the world of films and plates.

In addition to the delicacy and correctness of his photographs, Mr. Wilcox can claim to have taken the largest picture ever achieved in Canada at a height of 10,000 feet. This is his panorama from Mt. Niblock with an IXX 14 camera, and so real looking that a hot day makes you want to put it up beside the electric fan as a chill-producer.
Mr. Wilcox's famous Lak' O'hara study in another bit of wizardry. "It took me just four years to get that one," he told me. "I believe I brought the camera back at least ten times, and when I finally had a promising day, I waited from eight till twelve o'clock for the psychological moment that brought the light I wanted on the water and the mountains."
Another scene the picture-maker coveted was the sparkling Giant's Steps in Paradise Valley. "You worked on that falls for two days and I had a man to help me. We cut down a tree that interfered with the camera and we tied up heaven knows how much rubbish. I don't believe in making a scene artificially—but I do believe in making it artistically natural."
The beginner doesn't get one plate of your job.

ALLIES WILL NOT GRANT AN ARMISTRICE

Request of Germany that Allies Talk Peace Will be Rejected--Victorious Advance on all Fronts

Tuesday
British troops last night continued their closing in movement on Cambrai. They captured Provillo and Tilloy.

Further south on the front between Cambrai and St. Quentin the town of Vendhuile has been taken by the British.

North of St. Quentin the British wedge has been thrust still further into German held territory and the town of Levevignes has been captured.

The battle was resumed this morning in the Cambrai-St. Quentin sector.

Continued progress along the whole front in Belgium yesterday is recorded in the Belgian official statement. Amersweld and Oostnieuwkerke have been carried and Belgian troops have crossed the Zaren-Roulers and the Roulers-Menin roads at several points.

French troops this morning were pushing ahead again on the front between the Aisne and Vesle rivers.

French attacks in the Champagne are continuing with an important advance scored in the Aisne valley. Binerville and Condes-Audry have been captured.

The French have taken more than 13,000 prisoners on the front between the Sappe and the Argonne since September 24 and have captured more than 300 guns in the same period. A great number of the guns were of heavy calibre.

"On the Bulgarian front Austrians evacuated after local engagements a strip of territory immediately west of Lake Ochrida.

The town of St. Quentin upon which the Germans had so firmly built their hopes of proving an insuperable barrier to the Allies has been entered by the French and the gateway is open for a swift advance eastward.

During September the British took 66,300 prisoners 700 guns of all calibres and thousands of machine guns in addition to inflicting heavy casualties on the enemy and in August and September took 123,513 prisoners and 1400 guns.

Wednesday
Wide gaps have been torn in the German line between St. Quentin and Leccatlet by Field Marshal Haig's forces.

The text of the statement follows: "After maintaining strong pressure on the enemy throughout the earlier part of the day in the afternoon the 32nd Division attacked the center of the German defensive line which runs from Fossommes to the neighborhood of Beuvreville. The attack was successful. The village of Sequehart and the hamlet of Preselles-Besurevoir line breached.

"North of this point Jaccourt was cleared of the enemy and the Australians completed the capture of the enemy's defence south of Leccatlet and the Douy.

"In the sector south of Cambrai a fierce struggle all day was terminated by a successful attack at dusk as a result of which New Zealand and Anglo-Scottish troops drove the enemy from Crevecoeur and Rumilly and established themselves on the high ground east and north of these villages.

"Several hundred prisoners were taken by us in this operation."

In the Argonne Forest Americans made progress today. East of the forest they are operating north of Clefles and hold positions on the road from Gesmes to Exmontant. In this district there has been stiff fighting, local positions repeatedly changing hands, until the Americans today established their supremacy. Since Sept 26 the American aerial force has bagged one hundred enemy planes and twenty-one balloons.

Paris, Oct. 2--Heavy fighting took place in St. Quentin last night. Resisting stubbornly, the Germans were driven back to the east bank of the canal according to the war office statement today.

West and north of Rheims the French have made further important gains. The entire massif of St. Thierry is now in French hands.

Northeast of Rheims the French have taken Focillon and Tott and have pushed the southern outskirts of Villers-Franqueux, north of Rheims they have pushed forward their line to the outskirts of Beony. There was no change on the Champagne front during the night.

The French troops have now passed east and southeast of the town, according to the Havas Agency, they hold a line running along the Somme from Tronquoy to Rouvroy, and then along the St. Quentin-la-Fere road to the River Oise at Vendhuile.

Paris, Oct. 2--The Germans are moving their heavy artillery away from the Belgian coast, according to reports here today.

The Belgian army, co-operating with the British army of General Beuquet, successfully renewed today their heavy attacks on the Flanders front.

"British aerial squadrons bombarded Lichte aide, causing a fire at the railway station. They also broke up several enemy convoys."

The towns of Menin and Roulers, railway junctions in Flanders, have been set on fire by the Germans in face of the advancing Belgians, British and French troops. French guns now control the railway line running from Ostend through Thourout and Roulers to Courtrai.

British monitors are co-operating actively in bombarding the German lines and near the coast.

Thursday
British troops this morning resumed their attacks north of St. Quentin. The Germans are continuing their rearward movement on the front from Lens to Armentieres. They are evacuating highly organized positions in that area, along a ten mile line.

In pushing after the retreat of the enemy, the British have reached the general line of Cite St. Auguste, Douvrin east of La Bassee east of Aubers and west of the Grenier Wood. The advance is continuing.

A German attack last night on the British positions to the north of Cambrai was repulsed.

Heavy fighting continues in the region north of Rheims and the French have continued their advance capturing Lohve.

The railway junction of Challerange; Champagne, has been captured by General Gouraud.

East of Challerange the Germans made determined efforts to drive the French from the wood southeast of Orfoull, but were driven back with heavy losses. The French attack in Champagne was continued today.

General Plumet's army, fighting on the Belgian front is reported to be two miles from Turcoing.

General Debeney, attacking on the 15-mile front between St. Quentin and La Fere, is nearing Bethencourt on the Oise, five miles southeast of St. Quentin, and is rapidly outflanking La Fere. The latter town is the northern outpost of the great St. Gobain massif.

Between the Vesle and the Aisne and the Aisne main canal, General Berthelot has cleared out all the Germans excepting a small area south of Berry-au-Bac on the north bank of the Aisne, 11 miles northwest of Rheims, where French advanced elements are progressing.

Lens, the heart of the great coal region in Northern France, and Armentieres, almost equally important as a manufacturing centre, have been evacuated by the Germans; the German fortified positions between Cambrai and St. Quentin have been definitely smashed and the Austro-Hungarians in Albania, forsaken by their former allies the Bulgarians, are in full retreat northward toward their border from the Adriatic Sea to Lake Ochrida.

Friday
British forces pursuing the retreating Germans in the Lens region, have reached the railway east of Lens. To the southeast the British have made progress between Opy and Mericourt.

More than four thousand prisoners were taken yesterday by the British in their operations north of St. Quentin.

The point of the British wedge in the region north of St. Quentin has been pushed at the end of yesterday's fighting to the high ground a mile northwest of Sequehart.

German forces last night delivered counter-attacks on Gouy and Leccatlet, midway between Cambrai and St. Quentin. The enemy assaults had been beaten off.

British, American, and Italian warships have destroyed the Austrian naval base at Durazzo and the warships anchored there, according to an announcement made by Premier Orlando.

Burning villages marked the trail of the retreating Bulgarian army in Macedonia, according to telegrams received here from the front. Bodies of slain civilians were found in the smoking ruins at many places by the advancing Allies. Advises state that this work of destruction surpassed even that which has been reported from districts in France and Belgium from which the Germans have been driven.

Saturday
The Allied armies continued to advance on all points along the Western front but the fierce resistance of the enemy somewhat retarded progress.

Sunday
The outstanding feature of Sunday's news was the speech of Prince Maximilian the New Chancellors of Germany who declared that he had sent a note to President Wilson requesting an Armistice while peace was discussed along the lines laid down by President Wilson in 1917.

A like request was made in behalf of Austria Hungary but the Allied Governments have declared that there can be no peace until Germany is beaten and makes an unconditional surrender.

On the Western front the city of Rheims has fallen to Franco-American forces and an advance made on a 23 mile front on the Vesle, battle ground. The British also took the town of Drenoy and captured 1000 provinces north of St. Quentin.

Monday
The British made further progress between Lens and Cambrai while French troops in crossing the Sappe River met fierce resistance. The town of Berry-au-Bac near Rheims is now in Allied hands.

In Palestine the city of Beirut has been taken from the Turks amid the enthusiasm of the population.

Field Marshal Hindenberg has resigned as Chief of the German General staff.

Chatham Boy Returns From Germany

Private Albert Haley After Eight Months a German Prisoner Arrives Home

Albert V. Haley, a Chatham boy who joined the 52nd Battalion in Port Arthur and went overseas in 1915, was captured by the Germans at Hill 70 and spent eight months a prisoner in Germany. He is home again.

He has lost his left leg below the knee, but otherwise is in excellent health and is as bright and cheery as though war was but an everyday pastime. He brings home word that the British Red Cross parcels are the salvation of the prisoners in Germany. Without them they would starve, and his one boast is for the Red Cross and its wonderful work.

"People need not be afraid," he said "to help along the work for fear they are feeding the Germans. While every parcel and every can is opened by the Germans, the contents are passed along to the British soldier they are never taken to feed the Germans."

Pte. Haley would not express his opinions of the treatment that the German hospital give patients or the authorities give prisoners, but it was not hard to guess them. His eight months experience started on Sept. 4th, 1917 and he was not sorry when it came to an end. His battalion was at Hill 70 and as a result of a raid on the second of September he was wounded and lying out in No Man's Land. For two days he lay there, unconscious most of the time and four brave fellows made valiant efforts to bring him to the British lines. Two of these were killed and one wounded before they desisted. It was on the fourth that the Germans picked him up and made him prisoner. He was wounded badly in the leg and had some minor scratches, as he would say, on other parts of his body.

His exchange came through Holland and for a time he was in England.

Pte. Haley's brother, Pte John J. who went overseas with the 28th Battalion, and for the past two years has been undergoing treatment for serious wounds, also came home with him from Frederick where he is undergoing treatment. It is a coincidence that John returned home from England on Oct. 3, 1917, and Albert on Oct. 3, 1918.

These boys are sons of Mr. and

Local Red Cross Gather Sphagnum Moss

Make First Shipment To St. John on Saturday—Abundance in Northumberland.

The local branch of the Red Cross Society made its first shipment of Sphagnum Moss to St. John on Saturday when two large bags were forwarded to the Central Committee for shipment to the hospitals of the Allied Armies overseas. The Moss was gathered on Friday near the Brown Road at Chatham Head where it is stated a large amount of the moss can be secured as well as many other points in the County.

Sphagnum Moss is one of the oldest of surgical dressings and was used as far back as the Napoleonic wars but the extensive demand did not materialize until the spring of 1916 when after an experimental test it was found to be one of the most highly absorbent dressings obtainable and after the bogs of Great Britain were stripped of all their moss the attention was then turned to Canada and the United States where it was ascertained that Sphagnum Moss was found in abundant quantities. In New Brunswick much good work has been carried out by the St. John Branch of the Red Cross in gathering the moss and the local branch are the second to take up the work. As all the moss must be gathered before the ground is frozen the Committee expect a strenuous time for the next few weeks.

Victory Loan Campaign Going With Swing

Meetings Addressed at Different Points Last Week by Mayor Troy and Others

The Committee in charge of the Victory Loan Campaign are getting things lined up in the County at the present time so that Northumberland will do her share when the time comes on Oct. 28th to subscribe for the Fifth Canadian War Loan and the Second Victory Loan.

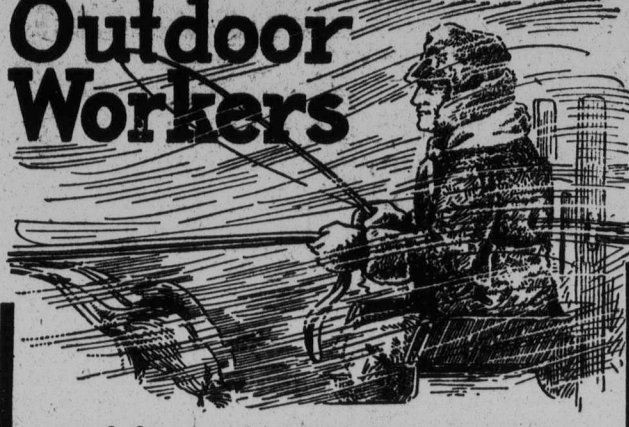

On Wednesday evening at Doaktown Mr. Frederick McNeil of St. John who is supervising the work in the county addressed a large audience that had been gathered to hear the talented actor Mr. H. Price Webber and was accorded a very hearty reception. The speaker was introduced by Mr. Webber who spoke in glowing terms of the victorious advance of the allies Mr. McNeil dwelt on the need of subscribing generously to the loan and there is no doubt that Blissfield will make a good showing when the final returns are counted.

On the same evening at the County Fair his Worship Mayor Troy took the opportunity of drawing the attention of the large gathering to the need of every effort to make the loan a success. His short address was listened to with rapt attention and loudly applauded at several times.

On Thursday evening Mayor Troy and Mr. McNeil addressed a large gathering at Blackville and were accorded a good hearing.

Tomorrow Mr. Frank Stockdale the well known efficiency expert will address a meeting at Chatham at 3.30 and one at Newcastle at 8.30 in the evening in the Town Hall.

Humor of Soldier's Wives

One of the duties of the officials of the War Risk Insurance Board at Washington is investigating into the complaints of women who for one reason or another have failed to receive their husbands' pay from the U. S. Government. These women know quite well what they want but often have unconventional ways of expressing themselves. The following are bona fide extracts culled by a lady whose duty it is to examine such letters of complaint.

"I ain't received no pay since my husband has gone no where."

"My husband has gone away from crystal palace. He got a few days furlow and has been in the mind sweepers."

"We have your letter. I am his grandfather. He was born and brot up in this house according to your instructions."

"You have changed my little boy to a girl. Will it make any difference?"

"Will you please send my money as soon as possible as I am walking the streets of Boston like a bloody pauper."

"I do not receive my husband's pay I will be obliged to live an immortal life."

"Please let me know if John has put in his application for a wife and child."

"He was the best I ever had and you have taken my man to site."

LIGHTEN YOUR WASHDAY LABOR

Comfort and convenience count on washday, perhaps more than on any other day of the week. Anything that will lighten the work is doubly welcome then.

EDDY'S INDURATED FIBREWARE

are labor lighteners. They save time and strength. Incidentally they cost no more.

Eddy's Fibre wash-tubs are easy to lift and easy to carry. They keep the water hot a long time because they do not radiate heat as galvanized iron or tin will do. They cannot leak, because they are made in one piece, without joint or seam. And the cost is actually less because they will outlast several of the old-fashioned kinds of wash-tubs.

Eddy's Twin Beaver Washboards save time by the special crimp which loosens the dirt easily. A washing surface on each side gives them double the efficiency of the ordinary washboard.

A Lustrous Finish for Wood Work and Floors

PUT into your home the cheerful appearance that only sparkling freshness can give. Bring back the lustrous, youthful beauty of the woodwork; make your furniture gleam like new. All this can be accomplished with ease. A brush, a pair of hands and your spare moments—and you can give your home the brilliant appearance of a new interior, by the use of the perfect household finish. Producing a lasting finish that will resist wear, its colors will not fade. The surface may be washed with soap and water; the lustre of China-lac remains undimmed.

For stairways, doors, baseboards and all interior woodwork, China-lac comes in suitable shades. There is also gloss white (a hard washable white enamel) for kitchen and bathroom—and flat white where a soft white finish is desired.

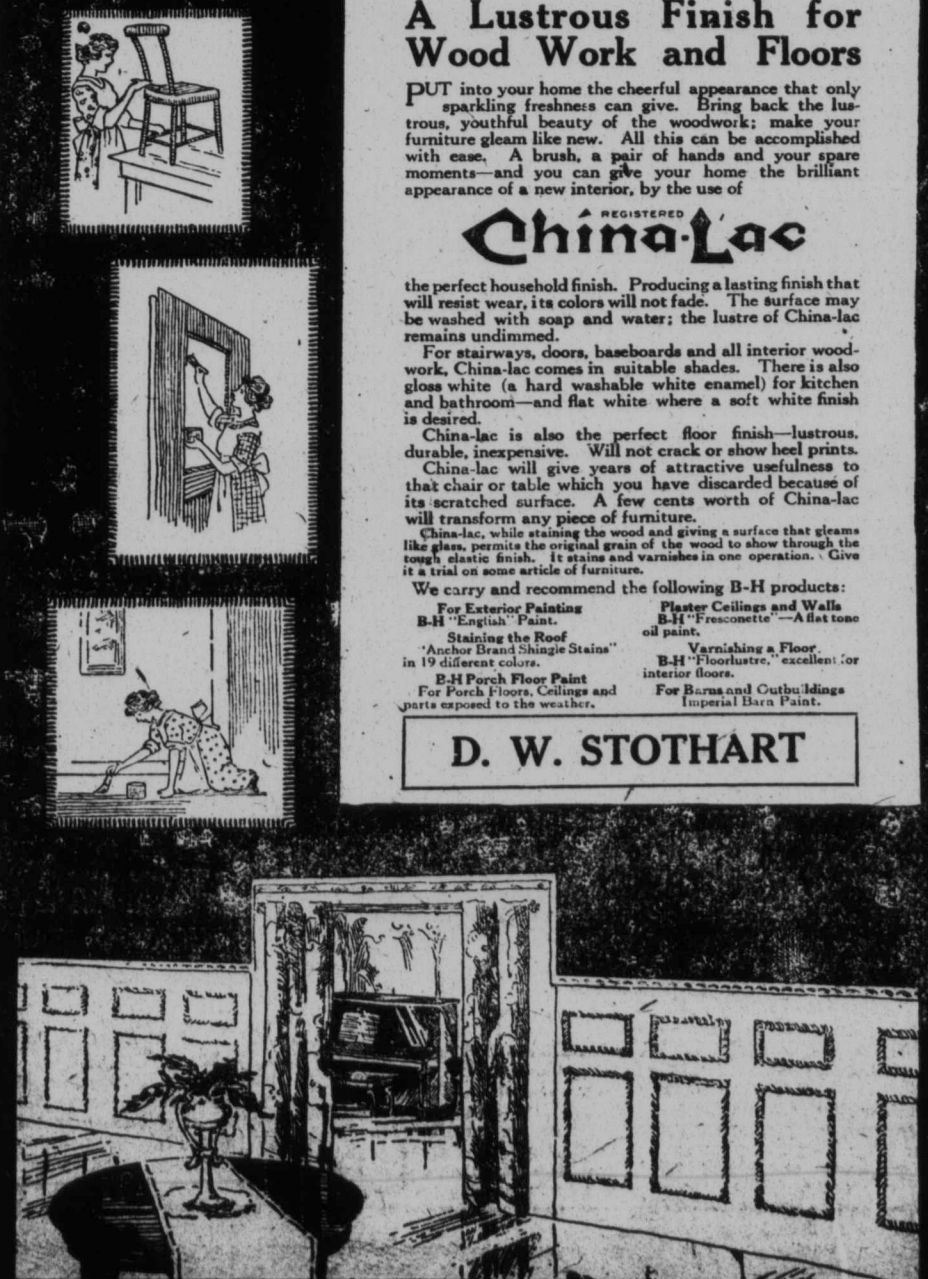

China-lac is also the perfect floor finish—lustrous, durable, inexpensive. Will not crack or show heel prints. China-lac will give years of attractive usefulness to that chair or table which you have discarded because of its scratched surface. A few cents worth of China-lac will transform any piece of furniture.

China-lac, while staining the wood and giving a surface that gleams like glass, permits the original grain of the wood to show through the tough elastic finish. It stains and varnishes in one operation. Give it a trial on some article of furniture.

D. W. STOTHART

The Kaiser as I Knew Him For Fourteen Years

By ARTHUR N. DAVIS, D. D. S.

(Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

"It's a good advertisement for you, Davis," he said. "The people see me waving to you and they know you must be a good dentist or I wouldn't come to you. It will help your business!" In every act, he was conscious of the public.

During that period of my career in Berlin, he showed the utmost interest in my progress and frequently inquired how my practice was developing.

The first bill I rendered him, as I have mentioned, he doubted. On a number of subsequent occasions, he paid me more than my bill called for. These overpayments never amounted to very much, but they impressed me because they were so out of keeping with the stinginess the Kaiser displayed in other directions.

From time to time the Kaiser sent or brought me autographed pictures of himself or others. At the time of the one hundredth anniversary of Frederick the Great, he gave me a picture of that monarch. On another occasion, he presented me with a group picture of himself surrounded by his family and dogs. I remember his bringing to me a large unframed picture in celebration of his silver wedding. It was about twenty-four by eighteen inches in size. It showed the Kaiser and himself in a sort of cloud floating above a birdseye view of Berlin, with the palace and the cathedral dimly seen below.

"I don't know just what this masterpiece was meant to signify, but I had it framed and placed it in my office. It evoked from a little boy who entered the room with his mother the following astonished remark: "Oh, mother, look at the Kaiser in heaven!"

A post-card picture of the Kaiser, signed by his own hand, was in his own estimation one of the most priceless gifts he could bestow. I remember his donating one of them to an American charity bazaar in Berlin to be auctioned off. He thought that the fact that the card came from his imperial majesty gave it a value which could not be measured in dollars and cents. A piece of jewelry or a sum of money might have been duplicated or even excelled by a gift of similar character from any American millionaire—for whose wealth the Kaiser frequently expressed the utmost contempt—but what could surpass the value of an autograph of the Kaiser!

No doubt the royal banquets were prepared much upon the same principle, for it was a common saying among the German aristocracy that one had better feel well before going to a banquet at the palace.

I happened to mention to the Kaiser the reputation his banquets held among his people. He was not at all taken aback.

"That's good," he commented. "The Germans are too fat, anyway. A majority of the people eat too much."

Long after automobiles became more or less general, the Kaiser still employed a horse and carriage for ordinary travel, relying upon his free use of the railways for longer distances. When, however, the Reichstag passed a law compelling royalty to pay for their railroad travel, the Kaiser took to automobiles. They charged him 11,000 marks, he told me, for the use of a train on one of his shooting trips, and that apparently was more than he could stand.

"Anton was expensive," he declared, "but he don't cost me that much!"

The Kaiser speaks English with but the slightest trace of a foreign accent. His diction is perfect. He speaks French, too, very fluently, and, I believe, Italian. He is widely read on almost all subjects and knows the literature of England, France and America as well as that of Germany. Mark Twain was one of his favorite American authors and Longfellow his choice of American poets.

He prides himself on his acquaintance with history and has little respect for the political opinions of others whose knowledge of history is less complete.

Shortly after Carnegie had donated five million marks to Germany to further world-peace, I happened to be talking to the Kaiser of American millionaires and the steelmaster was mentioned.

"Of course, Carnegie is a nice old man and means well," remarked the Kaiser, condescendingly, "but he is totally ignorant of world history. He's just advanced us five million for world-peace. We accepted it naturally, but, of course, we intend to continue our policy of maintaining our army and navy in full strength."

Indeed, there is hardly any subject to which the Kaiser has devoted any considerable attention in which he doesn't regard himself as the final authority.

should be left vacant. He always resented very much the acquisition by American millionaires of art treasures and antiquities which their wealth enabled them to buy, but which their limited acquaintance with history and their lack of culture and refinement made them unable to appreciate—in the Kaiser's estimation.

Of his own taste in art little need be said. The monuments which he caused to be erected to his ancestors and their advisors and which adorn the Sieges Allee, the street he had opened through the Tiergarten especially for them, are at the same time a monument to the Kaiser's ideas of art. They are the laughing-stock of the artistic world. They have been so frequently defaced by vandals whose artistic taste they offended that it was necessary to station policemen in the Sieges Allee to guard them. Not long ago a burglary occurred in the vicinity. The burglars were observed while at work, and a startled civilian rushed to the Sieges Allee to summon one of the officers who were known to be on guard there.

"If you hurry," exclaimed the civilian, excitedly, "you can catch these burglars red-handed."

"I'm sorry," replied the policeman, "but I cannot leave the station."

Realism is the Kaiser's idea of what is most desirable in dramatic art. When he put on "Sardanapal," a Greek tragedy in pantomime, at the Berlin opera house, he sent professors to the British museum to secure the most detailed information available regarding the costumes of the period. Every utensil, every article of wearing apparel, every button, every weapon, in fact, every property used in the play were to be faithfully reproduced, particular pains being taken to produce a most realistic effect in a funeral pyre scene in which a king ended his life. The Kaiser sent me tickets to see it.

King Edward attended the performance at the Berlin Royal opera and I asked the Kaiser how the king of England enjoyed it.

"My gracious," the Kaiser replied, unable to repress his satisfaction at the effect the pantomime had had on his royal uncle, "why, the king was very much alarmed when the funeral pyre scene came on. He thought the whole opera house was on fire!"

Perhaps the Kaiser's love for details might be attributed to his keen observation. Nothing, no matter how trivial, escaped his attention.

A couple of years before the war I had the empire furnished in my waiting room upholstered. On the very first occasion of the Kaiser's calling at my office after the change he noticed it.

"My, my, how beautiful the chairs look!" he exclaimed. "Good enough for Napoleon himself!"

On another occasion, between two of the Kaiser's visits, I had had put up in the waiting room a new portrait of Mrs. Davis. The Kaiser noticed it the moment he came into the room and made some complimentary remark about it.

The Kaiser frequently accused the Americans of being dollar-worshippers and the English of being ruled by Mammon, but that he himself was not totally unmindful of the value and power of money was clearly revealed by the manner in which he catered to people of wealth in recent years.

The richest man in Berlin and one of the richest in Germany was a Hebrew coal magnate named Friedlander. The Kaiser ennobled him and made him Von Friedlander-Fuld. Another wealthy Hebrew to whom the Kaiser catered was Schwabach, head of the Bleichroeder bank, one of the strongest private banks in Germany, and he, too, was ennobled, becoming Von Schwabach.

A number of other wealthy Hebrews in Germany were also honored by the Kaiser in another way. Although he was averse to visiting the homes of private individuals who lacked social standing, he departed from his rule in their favor and visited their mansions ostensibly to view their art collections, but actually to tickle their vanity.

Shortly after Leishman became ambassador to Germany, the Kaiser called on me.

"Your new ambassador's daughter is the best looking young lady who has attended our court in many a day," he declared. "Half a dozen of my young staff officers are very anxious to marry her. Can you tell me, Davis, whether these Leishmans have money?"

If the Kaiser despised the American propensity for money-making, he was certainly not averse to acquiring American dollars.

"The Kaiser was very fond of listening to and telling stories with a point and he frequently invited me to tell him any new one that I might have heard. Some of the stories we exchanged were more or less risqué and would be out of place in these pages, but I do not mean to intimate that there was anything very much amiss with them. They always amused him very much and he was quick to catch the point.

The Kaiser's sense of humor frequently exhibited itself. He told me of a conference between representatives of all the powers regarding the selection of a king for Albania after the Balkan war. Some of those present thought the incumbent ought to be a Catholic, others insisted that a Greek Catholic was essential, still others maintained that a Mohammedan would be most logical.

It seemed quite impossible to come to any agreement as to just what religion the king of Albania should profess, and the Kaiser had ended the discussion, he said, with the suggestion:

"Well, gentlemen, if a Protestant won't do, and a Roman Catholic won't do, and a Buddhist is out of the question, why not select a Jew and call him Jacob the First? He'll have his throat cut, anyway, in three months!"

The powers did not select a Jew, but the prince of Wales, the Kaiser's nominee, was put on the throne, and within a month or two afterwards had to flee for his life.

In referring to Roosevelt's patriotic offer to lead an army in France, the Kaiser declared that he admired him for his courage and zeal.

"I hear," he said, "that he is now on his way to Italy. It is too bad we did not postpone our offensive there. Perhaps we might have captured him. Wouldn't Teddy look funny in a gas mask?"

Shortly after the U-boat Deutschland made its successful trip to America, the Kaiser called on me, and he was in a very jocular frame of mind.

I happened to mention to him that I planned to go to America the following summer in connection with the porcelain I had patented.

"Well, it won't be necessary now," he said, "but we can send the Deutschland over and bring back a boatload of teeth!"

"Fix my teeth well, Davis," he declared on another occasion, "so that I can bite. There are lots of people I would like to bite!" and he snapped his jaws together in a way that would have done for me had it not been in my mind, although his remark was evidently more facetious than vicious.

The courtesy and affability which the Kaiser almost invariably displayed in his relations with me did not prevent him on one occasion from showing his indignation at touching upon what was evidently a very sore point—the part that America was going to play in the war, although he always claimed to be unperturbed about the American situation.

He had pointed out that America at that time had only 30,000 men in France and he believed that the U-boats would effectively prevent any great addition to our forces abroad, if, indeed, they ever left our shores.

"As a matter of fact, however," he added, "your countrymen would be very wise, no doubt, to fight for their country to the uttermost, and I am not at all sure that you would be any more successful in your efforts to leave home to fight abroad. America will really be a very small factor in the war, Davis!"

"Your majesty is underestimating the power of America!" I replied. He turned to me indignantly, and in his most imperious manner exclaimed: "We underestimate no one! We know exactly what we are doing!"

How seriously he was mistaken in this respect has since been sufficiently proved.

No matter how gloomy the outlook for Germany, the Kaiser seldom showed concern. It is true that whenever things were going wrong, as when the Russians in the early part of the war were sweeping everything before them in their advance on the Carpathians, he and the rest of the royal family, kept as far in the background as possible, whereas when the German cause was triumphant, as in the case of the offensive against Italy, he could not make himself too conspicuous at the front.

But even when Germany's adversity was greatest, the Kaiser always set on a brave front. At such times I have seen him stop in the street, after leaving my office, and before the hundreds of people waiting outside to greet him, ostentatiously put a cigarette in his mouth and light it, that everyone might see how steady his hand was, and how little he was worried by the grim things which were taking place.

At the same time, on one or two occasions after the war started, I noticed that he acted differently when in the street and lighted a cigarette, as when everything was quiet.

The Kaiser once invited me to see that a building was erected in Germany, not a bridge built, not a street opened, not a park laid out, but was the project was first submitted to him. He kept posted on everything that was going on, not only in Germany, but in the world at large, and, as far as he was able, he endeavored to have his finger in every development of world-wide importance. I cannot imagine that he was less interested in what his countrymen were doing in connection with the war than he was in their achievements in time of peace.

If he did not actually order the sinking of the Lusitania, therefore, I am convinced that he was thoroughly aware of the plan to blow it up and sanctioned it. That he could have averted it if he had been prompted to do so is clearly indicated by another incident which left a very deep impression upon me.

I was informed by one of the German aviators that plans had been made to drop gas bombs on London which contained a deadly gas which would penetrate the cellars of houses in which civilians were in the habit of hiding during air raids.

Shortly before this hideous idea was to be put into effect the papers announced that the bombs of this character had been dropped by the allies on Baden-Baden, but that, fortunately, they had fallen in a clump of woods in the center of the town and had failed to explode, which had given the Germans an opportunity to take them apart and ascertain their nature.

The purpose of this announcement, of course, was to forestall the storm of condemnation which the Germans knew would follow their use of the bombs on London—a ruse which they had invariably employed whenever they contemplated some fresh violation of the rules of international law and the dictates of humanity.

It happened that one of my patients who resided in Baden-Baden called to see me the day after the bombs had been dropped on her town, and she told me all about it.

"The airplanes which dropped the bombs had been flying over the city all the morning," she declared. "We thought they were our own machines out for practice and paid no particular attention to them. Then they dropped the bombs and they landed in the woods, and we knew we had been attacked. What a dreadful thing for them to do!"

What a foolish thing for allied airplanes to do—to spend a whole morning studying the layout of the town and then to drop those deadly bombs on a clump of woods where they could not possibly hurt anyone, and how careless of the Germans not to meet them while they were engaged in their devilish work!

But the point I wanted to bring out was this: these gas bombs were never used on London!

"Just as everything was in readiness for the raid," the officer told me regretfully, "we received orders direct from the Kaiser to hold off—I saw his signature to the order. Of course, there was nothing for us to do but comply, but if we had had the Kaiser there, I believe we would have strung him up by the neck! We still have those bombs, however, and you may be sure they will yet be used!"

For some unknown reason the Kaiser stopped the use of those lethal gas bombs for the time being. Why didn't he move to save the women and children on the Lusitania?

When I went back to Berlin in the fall of 1915, after a visit to the United States, the Kaiser was very anxious to ascertain from me just how America felt towards the war.

I told him that before the sinking of the Lusitania, American opinion had been divided. There had been many who were strongly pro-ally, there had been others who were openly pro-German and there had been still others who maintained an absolutely neutral attitude. After the Lusitania tragedy, however, there had been a distinct change in public feeling. I told him, practically the whole country having become decidedly anti-German.

"Perhaps if the U-boat commander had known so many women and children were on board," was the Kaiser's only comment, "he might not have sent for the torpedo which sent the vessel to the bottom, but what he was thinking of most, of course, was the 5,000 tons of ammunition on board which were destined to slaughter my people!"

Of course the Kaiser knew that if the U-boat commander's orders were to sink the Lusitania, disobedience upon his part would have left but one course open for him: suicide. If, on the other hand, the Kaiser meant to intimate that the U-boat commander sank the Lusitania on his own initiative or without special instructions from his superiors, the fact still remained that the Kaiser could undoubtedly have prevented the tragedy and didn't.

But if there can be any doubt as to the Kaiser's direct responsibility for the sinking of the Lusitania, certain it is that he fully approved, openly defended and even exulted in the murder of women and children by Zeppelin raids of London, Manchester, Liverpool and other non-military cities and towns.

Undoubtedly there are degrees of flavor. Take Fruit for instance—you select an orange, and on eating it you find it to be flavorless, certainly, but sharp—acid; choose another, a ripper more matured fruit, and it is luscious, the flavor is mellowed and rounded—it is FLAVOR-FULL. Nature made a better job of the second orange. Exactly the same is true of Tea. Nature is not equally kind to all. It requires expert knowledge and continual care to select and combine FLAVOR-FULL Teas to produce the delicious cup obtained from KING COLE Orange Pekoe. A NEW ARRIVAL
Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Stothart are receiving congratulations on the arrival of a new daughter on Thursday morning.

STALE EGGS WERE EXPENSIVE
Two local young men who became the possessors of a quantity of stale eggs rather cheap last week found that they were rather expensive play things before long. Not satisfied with having them in their possession they began to decorate the community with them and for this offense they were haled before Magistrate Lawlor on Saturday and assessed $20.00 and costs.

WAR VETERANS TO ORGANIZE
A meeting of the War Veterans of West Northumberland will be held in the Town Hall on Thursday evening for the purpose of organizing a branch of the Great War Veterans Association. Mr. Charles Robinson secretary of the Returned Soldiers Aid Commission will be present and address the meeting.

CHANGES AT ROYAL BANK
Mr. Reginald H. Lockward who for the past eighteen months has been the efficient and obliging accountant of the Royal Bank of Canada here left last week for Bethune Saskatchewan where he has been appointed Manager of the Bank's branch. His place here has been taken by Mr. J. E. Cullen late of Charlottetown P. E. I.

NOTICE

Monday being General Thanksgiving Day, the Management of the Miramichi Hospital are making an appeal for Contributions for the Hospital on that Day or any following days of vegetables or produce of any kind.

BLACKVILLE W I
In our last week's issue there was in the account of Red Cross contributions through the Blackville Women's Institute two omissions and one other mistake. The correct list should include the following:
Mrs. Millet Underhill $.50
Miss Ethel Underhill .25
Mr. Cully Schofield 1.00

BAD STORM
One of the worst wind and rain storms for some time visited the Miramichi on Sunday setting in early in the morning and continuing all day. The heavy wind did considerable damage about town and numerous signs were blown from their positions and a barn on Pleasant street owned by Mr. John Brander was raised to the ground. The wind being from the east one of the highest tides for some time came in on Sunday evening and it flooded many of the wharves and low cellars.

NEWCASTLE WOMEN'S INSTITUTE
The members of Newcastle Women's Institute met at Mrs. C. C. Hayward's Friday afternoon and made over 300 trench candles, two of which will be placed in each of the more than 150 Xmas boxes they are sending to the Newcastle boys overseas. The candles are made of old newspapers rolled tightly and soaked in paraffine wax. These last much longer than the ordinary wax candle.

BISHOP OF CHATHAM
In his way home to Halifax from Quebec Very Rev. Paul Le Courtois Superior of the Seminary of the Holy Heart Quinpool Road visited Bishop Barry of the Diocese of Chatham to his surprise and pleasure he found the aged prelate very much better—hope is now entertained of his complete recovery although he has been twice appointed for death—Halifax Herald.

GOING OVERSEAS
Mr. and Mrs. Morrison, who have been spending the summer at South Nelson, return to their home in Lower Newcastle this week. Mrs. Morrison's sister, Miss Amy Clarke who has been taking a nursing course at Boston, is visiting her sister. Mrs. Homoc Kethro here, and is on her way to visit her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, of Lower Newcastle. Miss Clarke will shortly go overseas with an American unit.

CATARH CANNOT BE CURED WITH LOCAL APPLICATIONS, as they cannot reach the seat of the disease. Catarh is a local disease, greatly influenced by constitutional conditions, and in order to cure it you must take an internal remedy. Hall's Catarh Cure is taken internally and acts thru the blood on the mucous surfaces of the system. Hall's Catarh Cure was prescribed by one of the best physicians in this country for years. It is composed of some of the best tonics known, combined with some of the best blood purifiers. The perfect combination of the ingredients in Hall's Catarh Cure is what produces such wonderful results in catarh conditions. Send for testimonials free.
