"A little good stock"

The cookery books tell people to use it; and you know what a difference it makes to the tastiness of a soup, a stew, a hash, or a meat pie. But in summer stock is such a trouble to make. It is far better to use Bovril. Bovril gives the dish a delicious flavour. And there is more real goodness in Bovril than in the richest stock or gravy. Bovril has a body-building power of from 10 to 20 times the amount taken.

"Flatterers"

The Shadow of the Future.

CHAPTER XII. GREAT EXPECTATIONS.

And as a man can't be forced into proposing against his will, Mrs. Alwyn could only acquiesce. She bestowed, though, anything but benedictions on Mr. Chesne for his share in this further procrastination! Verily, during the next two or three weeks any one would have found a difficulty in impressing upon Sydney Alwyn that money is the root of all evil. On the contrary, it seemed the root whence flowers of delight and comfortable fruits innumerable must surely spring forth. At any rate, her share of this earthly toil was destined to a joyful career, and as it determined to lease no time in starting her income on a happy mission, Sydney actually went boldly to her mother the day after Rupert Villiers left, and begged the loan of twenty pounds, to be repaid out of the very first of those mighty quarterly receipts she was anticipating. This singular request arose out of an hour at the Gate House that noon. There Mrs. Dacie, instead of being as usual actually at work or waiting on her good doctor-husband, was reported invisible; actually and confessedly not well enough to be down-stairs, and the sunny sitting-room looked sadly empty, the master grievously hipped and lonely without her cheery presence. "She was not really ill, Oh dear, no!" Mary said, with anxious effort to believe her own words, "only tired: with the heat, perhaps." And Dr. Dacie tapped his thermometer, grumbling over the glorious weather, very ready and desirous to persuade himself that restore his good wife, deluding himself by any fiction, rather than confess that the labor of making both ends meet through many years was revenge-

ing itself now on mind and body. But Sydney could well read between these poorly deceptive lines, and began casting about how her new power could amend the situation. "If the mother had taken a holiday in the spring," fidgeted the doctor, dense as men so often are to the possibilities of the family purse, "she might have been set up for the summer," and lo, here was the rich young woman's opportunity. "Why shouldn't she go now, Mr. Dacie?" "I want her to my dear. Her sisters in Warwickshire would have her any day, but—"

"But mamma couldn't go so far," broke in Mary, hastily, the color mounting over the lines on her fair, kind face; "I don't mean—as her father began, 'Pshaw!'—'I don't mean that she is too ill—but—"

And Sydney comprehended those "but's" as well as possible. The doctor had not got all that Christmas payments in yet, few though they are. An active young man from Edinburgh had settled at Oakleigh and was diminishing the scanty list of patients every quarter. There was no hoard laid by for holidays, no fund to furnish change for the house-mistress. "Why," thought Sydney, hiding the sparkle of her swift design behind the outspread newspaper, "it seems as if I were made rich on purpose for this!" And not an hour had she lost in securing from Mrs. Alwyn that advance which was to speed Mrs. Dacie on her health-seeking journey.

That Mrs. Alwyn demurred at the loan goes without saying. But Sydney in the strength of her new position was irrepensible. Between entreaty and persuasion, backed by urgings offers, she carried her point.

"If you lend me the money, mamma," she promised, when refusal seemed imminent, "I'll give you that mirror from the Hedyngham china-shop, with yellow roses round it, for interest. Now!" And then, pretending to joke at the bribe she had every intention of accepting, Mrs. Alwyn yielded. Off went Sydney, triumphant, to Mary Dacie, and the upshot of a very April interview was preparation for Mrs. Dacie to have a whole fortnight's rest with her sisters at Chaddleby, and the arch-conspirator's only regret was that nothing could induce her friends to use more than half the sum she brought them.

"If we want more we will ask for it," Mary promised; so the solitary note went into hiding against possible requirements, and Sydney, in most infectious high spirits, haunted the Gate House till its mistress, with Mary to drive her to the nearest station, was fairly started for what St. Clair's folk called "the sheers."

"Good-luck for all of us go with you, Moll!" cried the doctor, as Punch trotted off.

"And better still come back!" cried Sydney (how often she remembered that valediction later on!) And then she hovered as blithe as a bee about the doctor, beguiling him into tales of when he and his Moll were young, and what a pretty woman she was, till by and by Mary came smiling back, reporting her mother gone off looking better already; and an eloquent clasp of Sydney's fingers sent the girl away so brimful of contentment, she could almost have cried for gratitude over her golden thousands.

An evil Noy, that was downright slander. Money was delicious. Delicious! If this poor fraction had sent such circles of relief rippling over one whole household, what might the rest do? It colored with a rosy hue even the dull, neutral tints of her home. If her mother could smile over a china-framed mirror, she should often have cause to smile!

A great joyful perspective that "Open Sesame" of wondrous coin disclosed, and the vanishing point was—love! Surely she could now do so much for so many, and that should be her payment. Such a Jubilate stirred within her as she passed the church as made the glitter of its windows seem an invitation opportune and not to be refused. A sacrilegious little male Peggs, playing surreptitious leap-frog among the tombstones, was captured and set to work at the back of the organ for the sum of twopence, and seated before the keys, Sydney herself, tears in her eyes and her heart in her voice, sung forth her gladness in a quaint psalm of Bach's setting, found (incongruous enough there) among her father's few possessions. Again and again the happy harmony rang out "Rejoice and be thankful! Rejoice and be thankful!" And perhaps in all the centuries that the wide-winged, oak carved angels had looked gravely down from the timber roof, no truer voices notes had risen from below than those of Sydney Alwyn's unselfish exultation.

"Are you as happy as you sound?" said some one close by, as she ceased singing; and she discovered that the rector, unseen, had been her audience.

"Well, I do believe I am," she answered, blinking the tell-tale moisture from her long lashes as she closed the organ and released the curly-headed Peggs. "You don't think me utterly childish for it, do you?"

"Nay," he answered, very kindly, knowing not from her something of the Gate House doings. "You have every right to revel in the present, and what it is bringing you. Only, take an old man's counsel. Don't set your heart on it too much. Riches sometimes make themselves wings and fly away."

"Ah, but," she answered, "mine shall not. I mean to be a penurious old lynx, and never exceed my income."

"Good!" laughed Mr. Vaughan; "long may this wisdom last! But," lapsing into seriousness, "if ever this money of yours eludes your vigilance, if it melts away, let the record of its use leave a pleasant memory behind. For," half soliloquizing, bachelor fashion, "to ten degrees less warmth would quite have done your best with all you had, so long as you were able, there's always comfort in that. Though," as Sydney's feature reflected his grave mood, "I ought not to doze my pupil with truisms to-day. I had been writing to that friend Drayton, and I spoke of and fell quoting my attempts at consolation. Now for something cheer-fuller. Will and Ben" (the boys had got their scholarships and were away at school) "are doing famously. The impudent lads send word they'll coach you when they come home in July!"

"So they shall," said Sydney, gladly, though the dim by-fitting of that other sorrow-tried life had made her nerves vibrate sadly for a minute, "and they shall both have Genevas with backs that won't bend and crystals that won't break for their pains. Tell them so, please."

"I shall do nothing of the sort, penurious Miss Alwyn," returned the rector, "for fear you should change your mind."

"I change my mind!" reproachfully. "But, Mr. Vaughan," stopping short in the hunched porch, "is—"

"Drayton ever coming to see you again?"

"He promised he would, but writes that this property of his is in confusion. He may turn out worth much less or much more than he expected. I suppose he is busy over that."

"I wish he would come," said Sydney, and the rector looked puzzled.

"What, even now?" he asked.

"More now than ever," said Sydney; and then went off, leaving her old friend wondering what this wish for Richard Drayton betokened, and whether it sounded auspicious for that dark-mustached young man so often at the Dale, at whom his "even now" had pointed—a hint, perhaps, too indefinite to evoke response.

But, atting license from the innuendoes sowed by Mrs. Alwyn as part of her tactics, other tongues were more out-spoken, and speeches, at first bewildering, clearer later on, greeted Sydney even as she went home that day.

"I'm wholly fearful we'll be a-lost' of ey now, miss," said old Mrs. Hills, her father's last attendant, to whom, in passing, she mostly stayed and spoke. "Tain't likely you'll be long here now."

"Why not?" asked Sydney, unsuspectingly. Some absurd version of her coming fortune must have reached the old dame, she supposed. "Why should I go away? I don't want to."

HOW WOMEN OF MIDDLE AGE

May Escape the Dreaded Sufferings of That Period by Taking Mrs. Block's Advice

Hopkins, Minn.—"During Change of Life I had hot flashes and suffered from nervousness. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers and got good results from taking it. I recommend your medicine to my friends and you may publish this fact as a testimonial."—Mrs. ROBERT BLOCK, Box 642, Hopkins, Minn.

It has been said that no woman in a thousand passes this perfectly natural change without experiencing a train of very annoying and sometimes painful symptoms. These are hot flashes, sinking spells, spots before the eyes, dizzy spells, nervousness, and only a few of the symptoms. Every woman at this age should profit by Mrs. Block's experience and try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

If you have the slightest doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will help you write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass., about your health.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

THE I-SHALL-WORRY ROD.

Is there an "I-shall-worry-er" in your family? You know the kind of person I mean—the father or mother or wife or husband who circumscribes the acts of son or daughter or husband or wife by saying "If you do that I shall worry."

I heard a woman who is of that type, talking the other day about something her son wanted to do (not an unreasonable thing I thought). "Boys are so selfish," she sighed; "he is simply determined to go though I have told him again and again that I shall worry all the time he is gone if he does. And yet he still wants to go. Of course I shan't let him, but I can't understand his persisting after I have told him how unhappy it would make me. I suppose young people are just naturally selfish. Perhaps when he is my age he will understand how a parent feels."

Perhaps he will.

May He Not Forget How a Child Feels. But I hope he will also have forgotten how a child feels and will not rule his children by the "I shall worry rod."

I think there are few more selfish words in the language than "I shall worry" used that way.

I since heard another mother explain that the reason she didn't want her husband to take a certain trip which several other men were to take and which involved but a tiny degree of risk, was that she loved him more than these other women loved their husbands and therefore she wouldn't bear to have him take the slightest risk. Loved him more! Stuff and nonsense, I say—loved herself more, she meant.

He Is Afraid HE WILL Suffer. For the more you see of the "I shall worry-er" the more you come to realize that what he is afraid of is not so much that something will happen to you as that he will have the discomfort of worrying.

Worry is an unpleasant sensation. He knows that he is apt to feel it under certain conditions and, instead of trying to decide whether this is justifiable or not, instead of trying to control his mind, he tries to control the conditions.

Of course at the other end of the scale is the form of selfishness which consists of taking foolish unnecessary risks for the sake of amusement, or to win admiration, regardless of the fact that one may be jeopardizing the happiness of others.

As Usual. One come back, as usual, to the golden mean.

The abnormal worrier is absolutely selfish unless he tries to get rid of unjustifiable worry by controlling his mind, instead of controlling other people's.

A Suit or Overcoat at Maunder's, selected from a splendid variety of British Woollens, cut by an up-to-date system from the latest fashions, moulded and made to your shape by expert workers, costs you no more than the ordinary hand-me-down. We always keep our stocks complete and you are assured a good selection. Samples and style sheets sent to any address.

PAROLED. All over town the coppers run, to pinch the man who wields a gun not wisely but too well; they risk their lives and strait their throats, and wear out—coolly cowards' shoes to put him in a cell. The gent in jail has a n k re-nown; he is the toughest thing in town, a terror to all men; he is a wolf in human guise, and it would seem a process wise to keep him in the pen. But in these mad and maddening times we would "uplift" the man of crimes, and rid his life of care; he should be jailed a hundred years, but in a fortnight he appears paroled, as free as air. And when he leaves the cooler cool, does he attend the Sabbath school, or, haply, join the "Y.M.C.A." he gets another gun, brass knuckles and sandbags by the ton, and some voter die. No wonder that cops lose heart, or that the bringer drops start, and make their bed down wet; why toil upon the miser's trail, if he, when landed upon his knees, the village pet, the comb the alleys and the slums murderous and thieving huns, masked as men, if Justice taps the on the wrist, and sees them by women kessed, and turns them by again? We have our carnival crime, for criminals don't serve the reprimand's severe, a lot of mad goops uproar, and wall to beat hand.

BABY COATES

"Once Weak and Delicate."

65, Elterale Road, Clapham Park, S.W.4.

Dear Sirs,—At three months old our baby was weak and delicate, causing us a great deal of anxiety. We were advised to try "Virol," and did so, with the result that now at 11 months of age he is as bonny a baby as any mother could wish to have; he weighs 22 lbs. 2 ozs., is firm and well proportioned. We feel confident that this is due to the regular use of Virol, and should advise all mothers to use it.

I am, yours truly,
E. COATES.

Virol is invaluable for the expectant and nursing mother herself, whilst for children it supplies those vital principles that are destroyed in the sterilisation of milk. It is also a bone and tissue-building food of immense value. Virol babies have firm flesh, strong bones and good colour.

British Press Discuss Northcliffe Sensation.

Low Comedy by Two Great Demagogues"—Time's Editor Gave Report--Newfoundlanders Need no Passport for U.S.A.

COMMENTS ON NORTHCLIFFE SENSATION.

LONDON, July 30. The sensational and unprecedented report of a British Sovereign relating to Parliament, through the newspaper interview, is given a new prominence in the British press this morning. Political circles have been able to talk of little else since the Times nor Daily Express after any further explanation of Northcliffe's share in the incident, but both devote considerable space in commenting upon the King's latest utterances in relation to his open statement to Parliament. The Times says that it is unnecessary to say that its readers regarding the "abdication" of Lord Northcliffe's press to the throne of Britain and the Sovereign who occupies it. "The King," it continues, "has done nothing else to bring about a better understanding of the Irish problem and to advance the cause of peace, but he has acted, as he has done, within the limits of his constitutional position." After referring to the "such nonsense" of the King, Northcliffe's denial was, as the words ascribed to him do not entirely out of character to the King, the Morning Post says: "Referring to the article in the Daily Mail last Thursday, describing the activity of Lord Northcliffe in the King's mind is clearly overdone. It is a case, not for politicians but for doctors." The Daily Express, suggesting that the whole affair may have been a hoax, adds that the action to be drawn will be simply "a danger of a semi-Royal progress through certain countries of peripatetic states of undefined status." The article says that Lord Northcliffe has to have gone to the United States with the intention of doing as he could to make Mr. Lloyd George unpopular there and thus "pitch" for the British Government in the coming disarmament negotiations in Washington. "In this paper," it continues, "it is such a matter not merely of politeness, but of common decency not to drag the King in the political controversy that we only read Northcliffe's alleged words with painted disbelief." Both Lord George and Lord Northcliffe are censured by the Herald, says, "it is a diverting piece of comedy, with two great demagogues as back-chat comedians. The silly equable is just a music turn put on for two purposes, to gratify the vanity of those who wish and secondly to divert the minds from things that really

The interview with Mr. Steed was written by a trustworthy reporter, who, he believes, reported accurately what Mr. Steed said. Mr. Steed has since told the Times that it contains matter which should not have been published. Mr. Steed did not have the opportunity to revise the interview.

CANADIAN PREMIER SATISFIED.
LONDON, July 29. Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, Premier of Canada, leaving London tonight, said, "although the conference has not concluded, I am leaving for Canada to-morrow. Decisions have been reached on those questions that concerned the dominions most. I go home satisfied with the trend of events generally, and with the progress made. We did not all come to London with the same views, and we may not have the same views yet but common objects were sought and a common ground was found. What is of overwhelming importance now is that the disarmament conference shall not fail. Concentrated powers of public opinion added to the infinite pains and patience of public men can alone ensure its success. The former, powerfully exerted, will produce the latter. I have been impressed with the fair position of British statesmen toward the opinion of Dominion Ministers, and with the spirit of unity and equality that was manifested in all the discussions. I acknowledge gratefully the unflinching kindness with which on this, as on every other occasion, our representatives have been received by the British people."

her from the Allies. It is a question of national dignity, and thus it is necessary to give Germany proofs of unity of the French-British front. The most rational solution, the noise says, would consist in the collective move to the meeting of the Supreme Council, inviting Germany to prepare for the passage of reinforcements through her territory, when the Supreme Council would discuss this question at its first meeting, and afterwards examine into the division of territory in Silesia. Havas Agency adds that this procedure seems about to be accepted by both Great Britain and France.

OTTAWA, July 30. Canadian exporters of fish and fish products are considerably handicapped by the new United States tariff, it is pointed out by an official of the Department of Marine and Fisheries, that there is an increase of more than one and a half million dollars in the duties which would be collected on last year's exports of fish and fish products across the border. During the calendar year 1920, Canada exported to the United States 1,882,605 cwts. of fish and 415,717 gallons of fish oil, with an aggregate value of $18,850,325, upon which, it is estimated, duties amounting to less than $100,000 were paid. For a similar movement under the provisions of the Fordney Act approximately $1,527,000 must be paid in duties.

Mr. J. P. Hand Made Executive Councillor of Bermuda.
A recent issue of the Royal Gazette of Hamilton, Bermuda, contains the following: "The appointment of Mr. J. P. Hand, M.B.E., to be a member of the Executive Council is officially gazetted in our issue of to-day. Mr. Hand was duly sworn in at a meeting of the Executive Council held in the Council Chamber yesterday morning, and when news of the honor that had been conferred upon him became generally known there were universal expressions of approval at his selection. Mr. Hand has not only satisfied His Excellency the Governor, by whom the appointment is made, but also the public as a whole, of his loyalty, integrity and ability, and we extend to him our hearty congratulations on the receipt of an honor, which, by his indefatigability and genuine worth, he so richly deserves. At present there are only two unofficial members of the Executive Council, Hon. S. S. Spurling, O.B.E., and Hon. J. P. Hand, M.B.E. Col. A. Berger, R.A.C., Senior Military Combatant Officer, since the departure of Colonel H. B. Des Voeux, C.M.G., R.E., is now a member of the Council and it is understood that when His Excellency goes on leave on August 2nd, Colonel Berger will administer the Government."
Son of the late John Hand, and a native of St. John's, Hon. Mr. Hand is principal of the firm of Messrs. J. P. Hand and Co., of Bermuda, which has branches in the West Indies and in Newfoundland. Mr. Hand was educated at the Christian Brothers' Schools, St. Patrick's Hall, from where he entered the employ of Harvey & Co. Through ill health he was compelled to emigrate to Bermuda where he took charge of Harvey's business there and later took it over for himself. Hon. Mr. Hand is one of the most prominent citizens of Bermuda and has for some time been chairman of the Chambers of Commerce of that island.

Obituary.
MRS. MARGARET FLYNN.
At 10 a.m. yesterday, at her residence, 24 Hamilton Street, there passed away an old and respected lady of the West End. We refer to the kindly wife of Mr. Joseph Flynn, well and favorably known to the whole community. The deceased lady had reached the advanced age of 78-years and had been ill but for a brief period. Up to the time of her demise she was possessed of all her faculties. Mrs. Flynn's maiden name was Coady, and she is the last of a respected and widely known family of the West End of the city. Kindly and charitable, courteous, considerate and a loyal neighbor and friend, many will miss her personality in the district where she had resided all her life. She is survived by three sons, Mr. Wm. J. Flynn, Marine Engineer and Master Mechanic of the Revere Rubber Company, Boston, Mass., Messrs. John and Nicholas, the well known coopers, as well as by two daughters, Mrs. W. D. Ryan, of Cochran Street, and Mrs. W. T. Lane, of Boston. Many expressions of regret came to the mourning relatives yesterday, and in these the Telegram sincerely joins.

Monday, August 1, 1921.

Back Up the Committee.

It is surely very regrettable that the financial report of the Regatta Committee made on Friday night last, shows a shortage of some seven hundred dollars, this amount being required to bring the total collections up to the point of meeting estimated expenditure.

Express Passengers. S.S. Kyle arrived at Port aux Basques at 7 a.m. yesterday bringing the following passengers who joined the incoming express:—Mrs. J. King, F. E. Jackson, G. J. Burke, Mrs. J. Buckley, Mrs. J. Gush, Miss J. Gabriel, Miss J. Gabriel, L. Leaver, Mrs. F. Schanberg, Dr. Leaver, Miss M. Skinner, Miss W. Sheppard, Miss G. Brown, Geo. and Mrs. Churchill, Mrs. A. E. White, Mrs. Thos. Madore, Mrs. M. and Mrs. Redfern, Rev. W. F. Kettle, R. Johnson, J. and Mrs. Guy, J. Foster, R. Elliott.

Mr. Howard Again.

In order that public attention may be directed to the class of reports on allied conditions in Newfoundland, that are being circulated throughout the United States by so-called philanthropists and would-be benefactors, we venture to reprint to-day, the following dispatch from New York, taken from the Boston Telegram of July 30.

NEW YORK.—Dr. Willard T. Grenfell, "angel of Labrador," has joined forces with William Willard Howard, and the Christian Work of New York, in the campaign to relieve destitution in Newfoundland by providing a market for the codfish, upon which thousands in that country depend for livelihood.

Hunger and companion miseries of poverty are acute in Newfoundland, because the fishermen have been unable to sell the product of their labor. Dr. Grenfell came to New York a few days ago from Labrador, whither he had gone after a conference here with Mr. Howard, director of the Newfoundland relief work, and Dr. Frederick Lynch, treasurer of the fund.

Fishermen on Verge of Famine. Dr. Grenfell reported finding deplorable conditions among the families of the fishermen, and the industry of the country in a truly sad state. He said: "I have just received a message from Ed. Grant of Blanc Sablon, Labrador, asking if I can help there, as 'great destitution prevails.' I am afraid that it will be very soon by winter. I have seen a couple of hundred dollars to fit out some few fishermen."

"At Twillingate only one-half the normal number of fishermen are fitted out. The savings are drawn steadily from most of the banks, both in the outports and in St. John's. I have that on the evidence of the bankers."

Mr. Howard, discussing the discouraging report from Labrador, commented: "Twillingate is the largest and most prosperous place in Newfoundland outside of St. John's. If Twillingate can fit out only half her fishermen for the season's fishing, it is a black outlook for the rest of the island. Blanc Sablon is an important fishing port at the entrance to the Straits of Bell Isle."

Foresees Severe Winter. "If destitution prevails there now, I hesitate to think what Dr. Grenfell will find as he goes north. 'Much of the destitution could be relieved if one of my ships could leave for the Labrador coast now filled to the beams with flour, vegetables, molasses, and fishery salt. A dollar of help now would be worth $10 in next winter's inevitable famine. Soon the suffering people are hemmed in by ice.'"

Regatta Ripples. At to-night's meeting of the Regatta Committee final arrangements for the races will be made.

The matter of the Press Race which was deferred on Friday night, will be arranged. The disagreement between the crews has not yet been settled, but there is a small possibility that satisfactory conclusion will be arrived at, as a number of the crews of the Cadet and Blue Peter are anxious to row against the New.

The final finish to the Red Cross was given on Saturday, and she will be placed on the Lake this evening. The Cadet and Guard are receiving their final overhauling and will be placed on the Lake at 3.30 to-morrow.

The C.L.B. Band will play on the South Side near the Avalon Boat Club on Wednesday. The C.C.C. Band are giving a concert on the north side tonight.

There will be over sixty tents on the bank this year. They extend right down to the C.C.C. Boat House.

During Saturday a large number of crews went over the course and those competent to judge say that the 1921 Regatta will be the most keenly contested for years.

Motor Association Meets. The monthly meeting of the Newfoundland Motor Association took place at Wood's Restaurant on Saturday, lunch being partaken of before the business of the meeting was begun.

The Secretary's report showed the Association to consist, at present, of 105 members in good standing. Other interesting information was contained in the report, the matter of giving drives to soldiers at St. John's Hospital and the Sanitarium was discussed, and all motorists who can help in this connection are asked to communicate with the Secretary.

A detailed account of road work was given by Mr. Thos. Soper. It was to be regretted that this work is now to be stopped temporarily, owing to lack of funds on the part of the Road Commission. It was decided that during August, September, and similar monthly meetings would be held and the annual dinner would take place some time in September. It was reported that the use of the Rowing Park bus on the Southside Road was dangerous, owing to the state of the bridges and the narrowness of certain parts of the road. The matter will be taken up with the owners.

Had Leg Broken. A resident of Argentea, named Meade, was brought to the city by Saturday night's train and taken to the Hospital. The man had been working on the Argentea branch line and was engaged discharging a ballast car when a quantity of rock and debris crashed into him breaking his leg and causing other injuries. On the arrival of the train the injured man was taken to hospital in the ambulance.

Ob, dear I must order those Preserve Bottles from STEELE'S to-day. I know they had quite a stock of them last week but heard they were selling them fast.—aug1.3,6

Diamond Dust.

TO-NIGHT'S GAME. Although they have tasted the bitter drugs of defeat so often this season the C.E.I. are entering the clash against the Lions to-night full of pep and hope. The past week has not found them idle and Jimmy Alderdice has made some changes after very careful study, which he feels will be effective.

Duke Winter is transferred from the initial sack to the mound, and from all reports he is not going to be a frost. Alan Churchill replaces Gabriel on third, who in turn is relegated to the outer gardens. Max Churchill goes back to his old position on first, and Harry Carter (who made his debut with the Lions) goes in the outfield with Eric Jerrett who is just entering his diamond career. It is felt that this switching around of position will be very beneficial to the team and they are making a determined effort to emerge from the cellar. They need a speedy little team and deserve much better success. To-night's line-up will therefore be:—

Table listing players for To-Night's Game: Callahan, Cahill, Hiltz, Callahan, Roberston, Munn, Ellis, Quick, Kieley.

THE AUGUST SCHEDULE. By arrangement with the Football League, all the August games will be played on Mondays and Thursdays instead of on Tuesday as in July.

Old Time Regattas.

I remember the old time Regattas, And its many a night that I spent, With the flickering light of a candle To put up the frame of a tent. I had only a saw and a hammer And a list full of old rusty nails— And the women were doing the city To borrow some old, worn out sails.

And the tents that stood on the lake-side, And the puddings well flavoured with spice, That would gasp an American hatchet To try for to cut off a slice. Where you'd gorge on the hot and cold dinners, And it's packed with civilians and tars, And her ribs in a voice quite sonorous "Mary Joe bring along those cigars."

Ah, these were the old time Regattas, The days that in memory dwell. The days of the Hawk and the Dora And Fletcher's fine old Heather Bill. The Butter Cup, Iris and Myrtle. The old boats we all thought so dear. The Avalon and old Shanandit, The Daisy and Smart Volunteer.

The crews came from Broad Cove and Flat Rock, Torbay men as well could be seen. But our strapping young Outer Cove fishermen The course rowed that time—nine thirteen. No prohibition—we'd mouthfuls of stuff for to cheer. When we'd meet an old friend at the races, We could let him have rum or spruce beer.

The good old days of the City Club And the Academia Boys, When they'd jump into the Mascot Determined on the prize. And then they'd line up to the stakes Just anxious for the smoke. They'd lift her from the water With Tom O'Neill their stroke.

Give me the old time Regattas Ah, they were the days on the green. When you'd call for your pean'ort' of pudding, And also your five cent crubeen. And then you would make down to Peter's. For an hour or two to enjoy. And then you'd get on the verandah To see all the boats turn the buoy.

Now long life to President Hiscock Many years of good health may he see. Will Higgins and also Jim Noonan And the boys of the old Committee. For without them we'd have no Regatta. When the rich and the poor can partake. Where we spend a grand day of amusement. On the banks by the side of the lake. ED. COOPER.

Fourth Test a Draw.
MANCHESTER, England, July 26.—The fourth test match between Australia and the All-England team, was drawn to-day in favor of England.

Honorable L. H. Tennyson declared the over-night score of 168 for four wickets. Australia started badly, losing Bardeley at nine runs. Bowlers held the upper hand throughout the day, Collins being the only Australian to make a long stand. He showed marvellous patience, and in an innings occupying 150 minutes, scored twenty-two runs. The Australian innings closed with 175 runs. England in the second innings, lost one wicket for 44 runs.

The match was consequently drawn, with a total for England of 408 runs against Australia's 175.

TO-DAY'S MESSAGES.

C. G. STEAMER ASHORE.

ASTORIA, Ore., July 31. A wireless message received by the Consul here to-day said the Canadian Government steamer Canadian Explorer was ashore off Willapa Harbor, Washington.

NEW SHIPPING ORDER.

WASHINGTON, D.C., July 31. Masters of vessels of all Nationalities sailing for ports of United States or any of its possessions, except Panama Canal zone, under an executive order made public to-day, must submit for visa, a list of all alien members of vessels crew to U.S. Consular Officer at the port where the voyage begins. Alien seaman who arrived in United States, and whose names are not included on the vised list will not be allowed to land.

TALK OF GENERAL ELECTION.

Ottawa, July 31. The impending return of Hon. Arthur Meighen to Ottawa, about the end of the week, revives talk of possibilities of dissolution, which it is known will be one of the matters discussed in Cabinet Council shortly. Premier Meighen's return is known to be counselled by an early dissolution and general election, while others are equally insistent on delaying an election until there is a redistribution measure put through Parliament. Considerable attention is being paid to a change of plans shown by the immediate return of Hon. C. C. Ballantyne, Minister of Naval Affairs.

GREAT BRITAIN AGREES.

PARIS, July 31. Lord Hardinge, British Ambassador, informed Premier Briand late on Saturday that Great Britain willingly agrees to proposals contained in French Premier's latest note, relative to troop reinforcements for Upper Silesia, and the British Ambassador at Berlin has been instructed to join his French and Italian colleagues in a demand that the German Government facilitate by all possible means the transport of Allied troops across Germany, whenever the situation in Upper Silesia renders it necessary. The British reply is extremely cordial.

FIRES STILL BURNING.

SYDNEY, July 31. Forest fires in north Cape Breton are still burning, but towards the interior, in a direction away from the menaced seacoast villages of Neil's Harbor and New Haven. As far as these places are concerned the danger appears to be past, but White Point, some miles to north of New Haven, was reported threatened, according to the latest word received. Communication is still difficult but as no calls have been received for assistance, it is conjectured that the danger is remote.

VOLUNDA ABANDONED.

SYDNEY, July 31. Survey was made of the stranded steamer Volunda here this morning, as result of which the steamer has been abandoned by owners, and handed over to underwriters. The diver found that the vessel's bottom was considerably damaged, and as she lies on a rocky reef, prospects for getting her off are not hopeful.

NORTHCLEFFE REFUSES TO TALK.

TORONTO, July 31. Lord Northcliffe, British publisher, on his arrival here this morning from New York, en route westward on his world tour, betrayed slight irritation when asked whether he had anything further to say regarding his clash with Premier Lloyd George. In an interview in which the King's name was used in a closed incident, said his lordship, "and was so stated in the United States papers two days ago. Americans say your papers here are weak behind them, but I would not say that." He was shown extracts of editorial comment in London papers suggesting that his lordship's mind was overstrained, and that he required the services of a doctor. He read the item hurriedly, but offered no comment, and seemed anxious to drop the subject. "I am in Canada to look into the immigration question," he said. "They tell me there are ten thousand men out of work in Toronto, and that is a matter which interests me, because we have millions of people at home proposing to emigrate."

ARCHBISHOP MANNIX HOME.

LONDON, July 31. Archbishop Mannix, over whose return from England to Australia there has been considerable discussion, landed at Thursday Island, Queensland, without hindrance, according to a Melbourne despatch to the London Times. He declined to accept an interview, remarking that this was the time for silence.

G. W. V. A. Communication.

August 1, 1921. Dear Sir—Will you kindly publish the attached letter which was addressed to all members of the House of Assembly, Friday, July 29th.

Yours very truly,
GERALD J. WHITTY,
Dominion Secretary.

July 29th, 1921.

Dear Sir—In a few days the question of the promised increase in Pensions comes before the House and it is with a view to getting your personal support that this brief letter is written. You doubtless have already received a copy of the Select Committee's report which was sent you.

When the present Government came into power, the Prime Minister held out the promise that Newfoundland Pensioners would be placed on the same scale as Pensioners in Canada. This promise has not yet been fulfilled and it rests with you now to fight a grave injustice. The increase will cost the country, roughly, between $150,000 and $200,000. This sum representing the amount which has not yet been provided for, if the increase is adopted.

The adoption of the Canadian scale will ensure that the most deserving cases will get the fairest treatment—the totally disabled, the totally dependent and the men who have been most severely wounded in war while a man with a leg off or slightly disabled men will have their pensions reduced. We point this out in order to show that we are anxious to protect those who are in a more or less helpless, and to show that the present scale is unfair in many respects.

Even if the House passes the estimates covering the increases we ask Newfoundland Pensioners will have lost almost two years' increase, since the present Canadian scale came in two years ago.

A man who lost both legs in the war draws $900 a year in Canada. In Newfoundland he gets $720. In Canada a man with a leg off below the knee gets $30 a month, and, if married, a married man's allowance as well. In Newfoundland such a man would get $20 a month only, whether married or not. And in Newfoundland, as we all know, living is higher than in Canada. These are but two instances to show where the injustice lies.

Only men who held ranks up to and including that of Sergeant benefited by the increase. Officers do not. Do not believe the malicious cry that "soldiers and sailors are always asking for something." They only ask for what is their due. A pension is not a gift, gratuity or reward for service done. It is compensation money paid as a right by the people of Newfoundland, through its Government, to offset, in a measure, the disabilities arising from the hardships and handicaps suffered in war by their fellow citizens—a debt that the country owes to our returned men and to the dependents of those who have fallen.

Remember, too, that War Pensions will decrease from now on. In the name of the blind and the totally disabled; in the name of the men who are dragging themselves through life without their limbs; in the name of the widows, the orphans and the widowed mothers; in the name of Gratitude, we appeal to you to see that Justice is done.

Yours respectfully,
J. G. HIGGINS, President G.W.V.A.
G. J. WHITTY, Dominion Secretary G.W.V.A.
H. A. ANDERSON, Chairman Pensions Committee, G.W.V.A.

Police Court.

A well known character in police circles was fined $10 or 20 days for being drunk and disorderly in the House of an Assyrian, whose wife he assaulted. A vagrant was ordered to find bonds in $100 or go to prison for 10 days. Two assault cases were postponed until Friday. Mr. G. W. B. Ayre moved for Thursday but His Honor reminded him that it was the day after the Regatta and such cases could not be dealt with on that day.

PRINCE SETS A FASHION.

LONDON, June 23rd, 1921. According to my tailor, the double-breasted coat with rather a high collar, is likely to have a renewed vogue in the Prince of Wales has, in public on more than half occasions recently in a coat of these lines. Young men keep their eye on the Prince's dress, and collar or a hat worn at an angle by him will be copied in London in less than a week. I wish he contrives to give his coat copied by middle-aged gentlemen in a church parade in Hyde Park.

AT SUNDAY IN THE PARK. The Parade in the Park on Saturday after Ascot week is always a magnificent show, and the crowds decked in the best of the season are up to Grosvenor Gate where ever they have seen. A prominent member of the Bachelors' Club, whom I met wandering vaguely assured me that "there is here," and that as a result the Park is not what it once was. He pointed to the number of people with dogs with them, and he said, "They bring their dogs to the park in the hope that they will believe, because they are with them, they are like close to the Park." "Certainly," he said, "the dresses were as smart as ever, and one woman led a monkey on a piece of string. I attracted all the attention of the pet for."

ARMY PAY.

It may be made in Army ranks a comparatively early date. The rates were settled by an order published in September. The increases were fairly substantial out of any great consideration for the soldier, but to secure reasonable wages in civil occupations. It was hinted, however, that when the laid down would be revised when the cost of living had risen.

LONDON GOSSIP.

PRINCE SETS A FASHION.

LONDON, June 23rd, 1921.
According to my tailor, the double-breasted coat with a high-roll collar, is likely to have a renewed life. The Prince of Wales has appeared in public on more than half-a-dozen occasions recently in a coat cut on these lines. Young men keep their eyes on the Prince's dress, and collar or a hat worn at an angle by him will be copied all London in less than a week. The Prince contrives to give his top-hat a copy of middle-aged gentlemen's church parade in Hyde Park.

NOT SUNDAY IN THE PARK.

Church Parade in the Park on the day after Ascot week is always a magnificent show, and the crowds that frequent the paths from Hyde Park Gate up to Grosvenor Gate were as great as ever they have been. A prominent member of the Bachelors' Club, however, whom I met wandering distantly assured me that "there is no church parade on Sunday in the Park" and that as a social gathering the Park is not what it was. He pointed out the number of people who had dogs with them, and he laughingly said, "yes," that "that's the thing about the dogs, they come from the suburbs in the hope that people will believe, because they have been dressed with them, they must be close to the Park." Certainly, however, the dresses were as womanly as ever, and one woman leading a monkey on a piece of scarlet ribbon attracted all the attention that dog had.

ARMY PAY.

It will be made in Army rates of pay comparatively early date. The Army published in September 1919, the increases were fairly substantial, but out of any great consideration of the soldier, but to secure recruits of high wages in civil occupation. It was hinted, however, that the then laid down would be the rate of revision when the cost of living fell.

RAINLESS DAYS.

Weather-makers are revelling in the sun, and the tired citizen whose annual visit to the seaside is about due is hoping and praying that the long spell of dry weather will be prolonged at least until his short vacation is over. The farmers and fruit growers and agriculturists generally, on the other hand, are anxiously scanning the heavens for a sign of rain. Already much havoc has been done in the South of England to crops especially on light land, while in the orchards the young fruit is falling to the ground in bushes. In many cases farmers are experiencing the greatest difficulty in watering their cattle, while in and around the Metropolitan allotment-holders are wringing their hands in despair at the spectacle of their carefully tended vegetables drooping and pining. Daily the position becomes more serious, and it is a certainty that local water authorities will be forced to take strong measures to conserve water supply, particularly where they see any sign of extravagance and waste on the part of the public. It is interesting to note that in London no rain has fallen on 110 out of the 165 days of this year.

MILITARY NIGHT PAGEANTRY AT ALDRERSHOT.

The massed bands military tattoo of the Aldershot command was always a feature of the Aldershot Festival.

SHOE-FITTING BY X-RAY.

The delicate art of shoe-fitting has been advanced a step by the introduction of the X-ray apparatus as a means of securing a perfect fit for the wearer, anatomically correct and avoiding all discomfort. A West End firm of boot specialists has installed an X-ray machine for the convenience of customers when selecting shoes. By its use it is possible for the customer to see whether there is sufficient room in the shoe for the bones of the foot to lie in a flat and comfortable position. No trouble attaches to this method of fitting: the foot is placed under a screen through which the foot bones and the shoe outline alike are plainly visible. Three people can see the image at the same time, so that it will be possible for a mother to have her child thus fitted in order to avoid early malformation of the feet by ill-fitting boots which cramp and distort the natural lines, and this novel method of fitting shoes is said to be proving popular.

England After World Trade.

Toronto, July 23.—G. F. Perry, President of the National Iron Corporation, who has just returned from a business trip to England, says that John Bull is getting ready to set a fast pace in the competition for world trade.

The settlement of the coal strike has enabled British manufacturers to settle down to business again. In the matter of Iron, the industry is leaping ahead in England and will soon be a strong factor in competition in Canada and other countries. The position of the iron fields in England is peculiarly advantageous, due to their close proximity to the coal mines.

France, with her iron fields of the Sarre basin, acquired under the peace treaty, does not present a serious consideration in this competition, said Mr. Perry. The advantage which she has in the matter of exchange is more than offset by the settled labor conditions which have come to England, her shipping facilities and the modern nature of her plants.

"We in Canada have not commenced to feel British competition," he said, "but business and commerce will have to prepare for it, because it is coming. Whoever thinks that England has been too strongly hit by the war and conditions following it, are making a mistake."

It is a matter of course that it is not possible to see whether there is sufficient room in the shoe for the bones of the foot to lie in a flat and comfortable position.

plesant summer ceremony. It is a matter of ten years since I was present at one. In the old days the tattoo was a comparatively small affair beside the fascinating entertainment that the development of warlike science has now made possible. On the Farnborough Downs, in a natural amphitheatre well suited to the display, the soldiers have given this week a fascinating musical demonstration. The invention of powerful searchlights turns midnight in the arena into day. In the mirror of the beams, to the splendid rhythm of the massed bands, cavalry perform graceful "rides." Artillery, belted with countless electric points manœuvre at the gallop and trot and belch "golden rain" from those same muscles that hurled shell and poison-gas. Tanks illuminated in outline attack and destroy "pill-boxes" or "worm" themselves over precipices and sunken fences, while above aeroplanes, all scintillating in festoons of electric lights, perform those tricks of air mastery that leave the spectator breathless. Perhaps the most striking feature was the first arrival of the "lantern bearers." To the sound of a fanfare suddenly appears out of a fold in the Downs the head of a column of some 300 coloured lanterns. The mystery of the alpous movement as the lights disentangled from the marching column and traced an arena in the valley below was perfect "Midsummer Night's Dream" pageantry, and worth a long journey to go and see.

OUR CAPITAL SHIPS.

A rumour has been circulating freely that the construction of Britain's four new capital ships has been postponed, and may be abandoned. I can find no confirmation of this at present. It is true, however, that Vote 8 of the Navy Estimates, that for shipbuilding, has not yet come before the House of Commons, and before it does so the deliberations of the Imperial Conference will have their influence, particularly if the Dominion Premiers favour light cruisers to guard the trade routes instead of a battle squadron. It is noted that no Power has yet followed the Americans and Japanese in building battleships since the Armistice. France has just declared against them. In 1914, fourteen Powers were building Dreadnoughts. Now there are only two.

THE MASSES WHIST DRIVE.

A correspondent who bought a ticket for one of the enormous whist drives which are being organised in London gives me her experience. Arriving half an hour before the time, she had to take her place at the end of an enormous queue of ticket-holders, but the organisation was so perfect that all the 4,940 players were in their places at the moment play was to begin. People of different classes were there. The great majority, however, were working people, who evidently came straight from shops or factories dressed in their working clothes. All the women retained their hats and coats, because with such a crowd no arrangements for 'discarding them' could be made. Orders were given by a stenographer, and were implicitly obeyed. Stewards moved about among the tables seeing that the rigour and propriety of the game were strictly observed and at the end of each game when a bell sounded the winners passed without delay to the next table, leaving the losers behind. My correspondent played at nine tables and enjoyed every game. What impressed her most was that the working men were much the best players. They knew more about the game, she thought, than any of the people she had previously played with. By the end of the evening, which came punctually to time, the shifting of partners had been so thorough that friends were hopelessly separated. When people stood on chairs to look about them the stenographer politely asked them to get down, and they obeyed.

A Great Artist.

The death of Mr. Edwin Abbey, R. A., at Chelsea, on August 1, 1911, removed one of England's greatest painters. He had for some time been engaged in the execution of decorative works which he had undertaken for his native State of Pennsylvania. Some of these pictures he exhibited privately, but with one or two exceptions, they were too large for show at the Royal Academy. The exhibitions at Burlington House were never more interesting than when Mr. Abbey was represented by the magnificent Shakespearean pictures upon which his fame largely rests. In "Richard III and the Lady Anne," he showed himself a great portraitist as well as a great colourist. His "Hamlet" and "King Lear's Daughters," that followed in close succession, won immediate recognition from the critics. When he was chosen to paint the Coronation picture of King Edward VII. everyone acclaimed the selection and there is no doubt that had he been willing to undertake the commission, he would have been asked to paint the scene in the Abbey in 1911 when King George was crowned. In a sense it was fortunate that the mission went to another artist, for his early death would have prevented Mr. Abbey from finishing the work, and it would have been extremely difficult for anyone else to have completed the canvas from his own unfinished studies. Mr. Abbey was a delightful raconteur and had a endless fund of stories, and the wit and high spirits which make a man welcome in the best company. With the sole exception of Mr. Sargent, he was probably the most distinguished artist who "came across the herring pond." One of his hobbies was cricket, and it is related that he had a wonderful butler, who was also a demon bowler; he would accompany his master to the nets and bowl until Mr. Abbey had played himself in. Though not the finest player, he was one of the most enthusiastic members of the Artists' Cricket Club. Mr. Abbey is said to have originated the slang term "chestnut" as applied to an oft-told tale. At a club in Philadelphia he was fond of telling a story about a man who had a chestnut farm, but who made nothing out of it because he gave away the chestnuts. Mr. Abbey invariably began the story in a different way, and when his fellow-members recognized it, they would cry "chestnuts." So "chestnuts" became the term for an old story.

Know How

Some men there are can talk of dates And tell what old-time sages said, And some can praise of trade rates, And spout the chemistry of bread; In education's varied lore, Is much to fill the minds of men, But when a task we stand before, It's "knowing how" that's needed then.

There are wise tongues which can expound The deep philosophies of life; Some know the laws which govern sound, But it's an art to whet a knife, Our printed pages all are rich With wisdom from the gifted pen, But when the world must dig a ditch It's "knowing how" that's needed then.

The high diploma nicely framed Is good to own and fair to see, And no man here need be ashamed To boast or treasure his degree, But lost is learning if it finds no outlet in accomplished deeds, And vain become the polished mind Unless to "knowing how" it leads.

He is an educated man Who knows his work and does it well, Who builds exactly to the plan Or welds a joint or digs a well, And though of him we little boast Nor breathe much laurel for his brow, The man we need and use the most Is he who serves by "knowing how"

Miss Jewel and her friends
"My fond father said:
A watch
like a family
depends upon

The proper number of jewels in a watch insures its time-keeping integrity. These gems, unlike metal, are not affected by the varying temperature. They are used as tiny bearings upon which the little wheels go round to meet their timely obligations of telling the truth about the hours.

Our assortment of Ladies' Bracelets, Watches and Gent's Pocket Watches, with jeweled movements, is most complete. May we have the pleasure of your inspection?
