Miramichi Advance, CHATHAM, N. B. - JULY 12, 1888.

The Brigade Camp. We have little to add this week to what we said last week on the subject of the Brigade Camp.

We have here and in gone. Our people were interested and instructed by it, and there was, throughout the whole organization, general satisfaction expressed with Chatham as a locality in every way suited for such a gathering.

As Col. Maun was left at his post, the best word for the occasion, whether of commendation, instruction or reproach—the latter very seldom, for with the good example of all the officers of the Brigade staff before them it is not surprising that the others, as well as the men, were anxious to do credit to themselves and the service. It is conceded that Chatham will have no difficulty in sharing with such places as Sussex and St. Andrew's the privilege of being chosen for holding the Brigade Camps of the future.

Amongst the camp duties performed during the latter part of last week was the inspection of the Engineers on Thursday by Capt. Leonard. We found them in better order than they were in 1887 when they were pronounced very efficient. The commandant also inspected the corps and expressed himself most gratified with their condition.

After the inspection the company went through the manual exercises and were then broken up in squads for drill under their non-commissioned officers. The result was most satisfactory, every man being actually present on parade—a most unusual thing in any corps.

The inspection ended, they proceeded to the Camp where they dismantled the bridge constructed on Wednesday. Their work on Thursday also included profiling a field redoubt for half battery. This corps did a large amount of work during the period in camp.

Inspector Davidson and Major Vinos expressed their warm appreciation of Mr. Snowball's kindness in furnishing all the material necessary for the bridge.

Major Vinos was presented with a handsome ebony gold-headed cane by the members of his corps on Thursday. It was inscribed as a memento of Chatham, with which all the officers and men expressed themselves as delighted. The Engineers left for home on Friday morning.

The Cavalry were at skirmishing drill in extended order, mounting and dismounting, etc. In the afternoon they engaged at drill with the rest of the brigade.

Col. Cotton, inspector of artillery, arrived on Thursday. The battery engaged in target practice, and Col. Cotton pronounced the range an excellent one.

The infantry were inspected during the day, the 74th, in the morning, and the 73rd at muster parade in the afternoon.

The cavalry and infantry were engaged in skirmishing drill on Thursday afternoon. The commandant expressed his great satisfaction with the condition of the different corps of infantry.

On Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock, the School Corps pitched a tent in three quarters, and struck it in one minute. In the tug-of-war, Thursday evening, the artillery won against the 74th, and the 73rd against the Infantry School men. In tugging off the artillery won.

On Friday the troops were drawn up on the drill grounds, and were exercised at 2:30, and in column route through Chatham and towards the Lobban fields, with the customary advance and rear guards composed of cavalry, artillery and infantry. On arrival at these grounds a place was selected for bivouac, and the rear guard bivouaced with pickets and picket parties were also thrown out and converted in like manner into pickets with their sentries. The force having bivouaced at this place, the artillery was brought to the front of the approach of an enemy in the direct front from the direction of the railway station. The outpost in this quarter were reinforced, and a half battery of artillery was pushed forward to a spot selected by the inspector of artillery, from which fire was also opened.

The fighting line was also opened fire, and pushed on rapidly over every piece of open ground. The Brigade, in the meanwhile, had been deployed, and was advancing in four fronts from the right of company, the better to move through the country, partly covered with stunted spruce trees. The enemy being in force, the extended order line had to retire and assemble on the remaining front of the line of 47, serving, clearing the front of the line in turn to open a well-directed fire and, aided by the artillery, which happily had not been obliged to quit its original position, the enemy was completely routed. It was now considered desirable to fall back upon the original position of the bivouac, and the field manoeuvres were brought to a close by an advance of cavalry going through pursuing practice, followed by the infantry and artillery in a particularly steady advance in line.

About 5 o'clock on Friday afternoon the presentation of prizes won by the men of the different corps at target practice at the camp took place on the parade ground south of the park. Hon. Peter Mitchell, who was present at the manoeuvres, handed out the prizes at the request of the commandant. He made a ringing speech, commending the government and authorities for honoring Northumberland by selecting Chatham as the point for concentrating the troops of this military division in brigade camp practice. He spoke in high terms of praise of the force assembled, more particularly as to their physique and excellent conduct.

On Saturday morning the different corps struck tents and nearly all departed for their local headquarters—a few only remaining to look after the Government property. In his Brigade orders the Commandant says "the first Camp of the different arms formed in the fine County of Northumberland has been most successful in every important particular. The general officer in command highly commended the efficiency of the Brigade assembled in St. Andrew's Camp last year. It is regretted that St. Fred. Middleton was unable to inspect this Camp for the efficiency here attained in no less degree than that attained at St. Andrew's. "The site of the Camp is all that could be desired—the health of the troops excellent."

"In compliance with orders the principal care has been paid to instruction in rifle practice; 2nd to instruction of officers and men in drill in extended order. The course of target practice has been carefully carried out under the supervision of the Musketry instructor and as regards rifle in extended order there has been a marked improvement from day to day.

"The conduct of the men on the line of march and in Camp and its vicinity has been excellent."

"In view of the satisfactory state of things (on which the Commandant will report for the consideration of the Major General in command), Lieut. Col. Mansell desires to express his sincere thanks to Commanding Officers for their cordial support and assistance, and to all officers for their attention to drill and discipline."

Northumberland Municipal Council. The Municipal Council of Northumberland met on Tuesday at 12 o'clock, Warden Bette in the chair.

All members of the Council were present excepting Coun. Robinson, Derby, and Coun. Howe, Ludlow.

The minutes of last day's session in January were read and confirmed.

Mr. Cottle, on motion of Coun. Ryan, proposed Constable to attend at the present session, on Council. Adjourned for dinner.

After recess the report of the Secretary-Treasurer as to whether the Inspectors of Fish appointed by this Council have legal power, under the law, to act as inspectors. His reason for making the enquiry was that it was claimed the authority for making such appointments rested with the Dominion Government, or Minister of Fisheries, and that appointment of this Council was liable to fail for want of such inspectors.

The Secretary-Treasurer said the question was one which would require time for consideration.

Coun. Adams referring to the new jail said the same report submitted by Messrs Shirreff & Fish, of the Committee, last January session, was before Council still.

The Board of Health presented a memorial for the school which was changed so as to provide that the sum required from each non-subsisting mission will include the annual voluntary contributions in addition to the amount heretofore known as the assessment.

Provision was made for the sending of missionary deputations to various Missions for hot water heating apparatus, which might perhaps be obtained for a little less. There was also required 1725 ft. of 6 inch drain pipe to connect with the sewer, at 10c per foot. The Council was asked to purchase 100 rods of digging, say $100, $50 for laying the pipe and $50 for fittings. Looks-etc. would cost $75 or more, or in all, say $175. The Committee thought that about $1,500 would be necessary to complete the work and he thought it would be well for Council to make the appropriation.

Coun. Robinson, of the jail committee, also said that he had referred to this matter that he would be at Council this afternoon and he thought it had better be deferred until that time.

The matter was allowed to stand over. Coun. Morrison said that complaints were referred to the Police Committee in reference to noises made on the streets of Newcastle, by which horses were frightened, property destroyed and life endangered. As a member of the Police Committee he had taken the view that it was not their duty to interfere. One of the aggrieved parties—Mr. F. Morrison—was present and he moved that he have permission to address the Council on the subject.

Mr. Morrison, having been granted permission, returned his thanks for the privilege and said he came to Council as a commoner to ascertain whether the Council could not be afforded the protection to which he believed they were entitled. A few evenings ago he was driving along the street in Newcastle, accompanied by a woman, when the Salvation Army men, making such a noise with their drum and shouting as to cause his horse to become unmanageable, the result being that his buggy collided with a lamp post and his wife and himself were thrown out, the buggy being broken. He believed the noises made by the Army were calculated to annoy and disturb citizens, endanger lives and destroy their property. This was not the first time that he had been annoyed and disturbed in passing along the streets, but, unfortunately, there was no lamp post in the way, on previous occasions, when his horse became unmanageable through the Army's noises. He understood that the law authorized the Council to pass by-laws to prevent the abuses he complained of, and he hoped they would do so. If they might be able to do so, it would be a great benefit to the citizens of Newcastle, and he would be glad to see the matter in their own hands and take such steps as circumstances might make necessary for the protection of their lives and property.

It would be admitted, he thought that the making of such noises was not necessary in order to enable people to get to Heaven, and no one would blame him for saying that he objected to their being so near his home as to endanger the lives of himself and family. He neither wanted to be killed or to kill anybody in such a case, it was natural that if the authorities refused to afford protection to citizens that they should resort to means by which to protect themselves. He again thanked the Council and would leave the matter to be dealt with by them.

On motion of Coun. Adams it was ordered that a committee of three be appointed to consider what powers the Council possess under the law to deal with disturbances on the streets, and to amend the By-law on the subject—the committee to report at a future meeting.

The matter of Angus Russell's return as By-law Commissioner, Glasgow, deferred to the next session was referred to a committee consisting of Coun. Adams, Cameron and McNaughton. This Committee reported, soon after, that said return was entirely correct.

Account of $4.5 from David McLean, District Clerk, Glasgow, was ordered to be paid.

Recess for Committee work—After recess—The following accounts were submitted by Coun. O'Brien from County Accounts Committee and ordered to be paid: John Shirreff $224. John Cassidy, prisoners' board, $47.00. Jail Committee, sundries, $6.61.

Sam'l Thomson, Secretary, $27.50. For drawing bill and petition in reference to police in Newcastle, which they recommended be paid by Newcastle Police District.

W. C. Anslow, printing, $2. Do. do. $0.50. Dr. A. C. Smith, certificate in lunacy, $6.75. James Johnston taking lunatic to asylum $30.00.

J. B. Hanson, M. D., coroner, $25.34. H. A. Fish, M. D., Coroner, $17. Account of R. P. Wilkinson, Auditor, $6.

Children Dry for Pitcher's Astoria.

Orders of Trade rendered the parish financially weaker than in the past.

Ridgeway.—The Rev. C. D. Brown reported church matters in a favorable condition. Debts had been paid off. 38 persons had been confirmed in Dulois during the year, and a new organ placed in the church. At Campbellton the ladies had procured two handsome chairs for the chancel. Occasional services were held in the Metopodia district, but another clergyman was required for the work. Contributions would be about $100.

Ridgeway.—The Rev. D. W. Gwynn stated that improvements had been made and the debts paid off. The congregation had contributed $1000 during the year. 22 persons had been confirmed. The contributions to Church Society would be about $100.

Wedford.—Rev. E. B. Hooper reported $50 from this parish for the General Purpose Fund. The amount of the contributions to Church Society would be about $100.

After the receiving of reports from the clergy, the Missionary Schedule for next year was discussed and approved. The plan of the schedule was changed so as to provide that the sum required from each non-subsisting mission will include the annual voluntary contributions in addition to the amount heretofore known as the assessment.

Provision was made for the sending of missionary deputations to various Missions for hot water heating apparatus, which might perhaps be obtained for a little less. There was also required 1725 ft. of 6 inch drain pipe to connect with the sewer, at 10c per foot. The Council was asked to purchase 100 rods of digging, say $100, $50 for laying the pipe and $50 for fittings. Looks-etc. would cost $75 or more, or in all, say $175. The Committee thought that about $1,500 would be necessary to complete the work and he thought it would be well for Council to make the appropriation.

Coun. Robinson, of the jail committee, also said that he had referred to this matter that he would be at Council this afternoon and he thought it had better be deferred until that time.

The matter was allowed to stand over. Coun. Morrison said that complaints were referred to the Police Committee in reference to noises made on the streets of Newcastle, by which horses were frightened, property destroyed and life endangered. As a member of the Police Committee he had taken the view that it was not their duty to interfere. One of the aggrieved parties—Mr. F. Morrison—was present and he moved that he have permission to address the Council on the subject.

Mr. Morrison, having been granted permission, returned his thanks for the privilege and said he came to Council as a commoner to ascertain whether the Council could not be afforded the protection to which he believed they were entitled. A few evenings ago he was driving along the street in Newcastle, accompanied by a woman, when the Salvation Army men, making such a noise with their drum and shouting as to cause his horse to become unmanageable, the result being that his buggy collided with a lamp post and his wife and himself were thrown out, the buggy being broken. He believed the noises made by the Army were calculated to annoy and disturb citizens, endanger lives and destroy their property. This was not the first time that he had been annoyed and disturbed in passing along the streets, but, unfortunately, there was no lamp post in the way, on previous occasions, when his horse became unmanageable through the Army's noises. He understood that the law authorized the Council to pass by-laws to prevent the abuses he complained of, and he hoped they would do so. If they might be able to do so, it would be a great benefit to the citizens of Newcastle, and he would be glad to see the matter in their own hands and take such steps as circumstances might make necessary for the protection of their lives and property.

It would be admitted, he thought that the making of such noises was not necessary in order to enable people to get to Heaven, and no one would blame him for saying that he objected to their being so near his home as to endanger the lives of himself and family. He neither wanted to be killed or to kill anybody in such a case, it was natural that if the authorities refused to afford protection to citizens that they should resort to means by which to protect themselves. He again thanked the Council and would leave the matter to be dealt with by them.

On motion of Coun. Adams it was ordered that a committee of three be appointed to consider what powers the Council possess under the law to deal with disturbances on the streets, and to amend the By-law on the subject—the committee to report at a future meeting.

The matter of Angus Russell's return as By-law Commissioner, Glasgow, deferred to the next session was referred to a committee consisting of Coun. Adams, Cameron and McNaughton. This Committee reported, soon after, that said return was entirely correct.
