THE MAN WHO BORES YOU

PUT HIM ON THE LIST—HE NEVER WOULD BE MISSED.

Definitions of a Bore Incorporated by One of "Geoffrey Cutbert Strange"—The Handsome Young Man and His Dog—No Was Very Knowing.

One witty writer has said that a bore is a person who, having ten minutes to spare, goes and spends them on some one who hasn't. Another has still more happily described him as "a man who persists in talking about himself when you want to talk about yourself." So I will add my mite to wards enriching the literature of my country by defining him as a person who always makes you wish you weren't there whenever you see him coming. And, if you have ever read much Scotch poetry, you will sympathize with the Scotch lad who, having kissed his lassie as he thought unobserved, discovered that the whole family had heard him do it, and felt in his confusion that he "could ha' crept into a rabbit's hole" had there been one at hand.

In thinking of a bore, the picture that generally rises up before one's mental vision is that of a stout, rubicund individual with a bald head and a very conspicuous set of shiny false teeth. But this picture is by no means certain to be correct. The most intolerable bore I ever knew was a very handsome young man, so handsome that at first sight he was most attractive—but only at first sight, the second was always sufficient to make you hope there might never be a third meeting in store for you; and to see him coming with his brown eyes sparkling in joyous anticipation of a fresh victim, whom he could talk into a brain fever, made you long for the wings of the historic dove to flee away and be at rest, for wherever he is, there will there be unrest in its most cruel form.

The bore usually possesses a horse or dog quite different from anything canine or equine the world has ever seen before, merely because they are his. The dog may be the most harmless and well behaved of his species, but in the hands of his master he becomes a terror to society in general.
There are few people who would not prefer to have the fiercest Spanish bloodhound "sicked on" at them rather than endure an hour tele-a-tele with that bore and his dog.
He tells you how he got him first, and what he paid for him, just how high he stood from the ground and how wide he was across; for if our friend has one gift above another it is for a minute description of details. Detail is his strong point, the sharp end of the gimlet, which is his instrument of torture. He tells you how he trained his dog, just what he gave him to eat and how devotedly attached the dog truly knew a bore once who had a dog that he taught to say "apple," though why neither of them had the sense to select the word "bone" is a problem I have never been able to solve. But when I asked to hear this marvel of canine intelligence and hear him "say his little piece," the bore said he was dead. He died of water on the brain. I did not wonder! I had a better opinion of that dog cold in death than I ever had of him in the zenith of his glory. He had preferred a watery grave; to life, with the society of a bore thrown in as a necessary condition.

The genuine bore is invariably self opinionated, no one knows as much about farming as he does. He never saw a farm in his life perhaps; but that does not matter; he will instruct a man old enough to be his grandfather, who has been farming ever since he began his career by chasing the chickens out of his mother's garden, con-descendingly inform him what is the best soil for potatoes, and advise him to get over his old fashioned ideas, and sow his turnips broadcast next year; drills are out of date.
He knows all about shooting, no one has ever yet brought down quite so many birds at one shot as he has, no one has ever caught so many fish at one time. I have known him to catch two fish on the same hook—but then of course in fishing one is privileged to use a very long bow and call it a rod.

He is very fond of contradicting any statement that may be made in his hearing.
Any remark that has the appearance of carrying conviction with it has the same effect on him that a scarlet cloak has on a "gentleman cow!" He lowers his head at once, and rushes at it.
You meet him on many days, and remark, in passing, that it seems to have settled down for a regular down-pour, and immediately stops short, and says that if you will take the trouble to turn round and look at the western sky, you will see that it shows every indication of clearing, and when you fall to see any sign of a weather, he settles himself on an argument, as calmly as if it were a sunny day in June. You say that you really cannot stop, as your feet are wet, and yet last always mean a cold. "Not be all," he answers; "that is all an old idea. I've had my feet wet for three weeks at a time, and I never took cold; it's drying them up suddenly that is the trouble." I have told you a great deal about the constitutional bore, and I could tell you a great deal more, nearly twice as much, for the subject is not by any means exhausted; but I had better stop now, or you will come to the conclusion that his name is

GEORGE CUTBERT STRANGE.

LA CHANCE FOR THE BOYS

Money to be Made Easily and Without Leaving School.

Progress has a great circulation in outside towns and villages, but there is only one place where it could not be increased.
In that town, one of the smallest in the province there is a little fellow who goes to school every day in the week except Saturday, which he devotes to business. In one hour he makes 50 cents selling Progress.

A few weeks ago he sent for ten papers, saying that he had customers for all of them, and mentioning the name of a gentleman whom Progress knew who promised to be responsible for payment. In a very short time he had 20 customers and he made 20 cents every Saturday. Then he had 25 then 30, then 40, then 50. And now there are 50 people in — who know that as soon as the mail arrives Saturday morning their young newsdealer will be around with Progress. He makes from two to three dollars a month in this way and is getting a knowledge of business affairs that he could get in no other way. For though a mere boy in years he writes all his own letters, remits the amount of his account as regularly as the sun rises the first of every month and is in every way a model business boy. Progress predicts a successful future for him.

But there are such boys in every town.
All of them have friends who would help them along, and if they did not want Progress for the value of reading in it—which is improbable—they would take it to help their young friend along. Here's a chance for the boys to make money. Get some older person, who knows you, to become responsible for payment and no capital is required. All that you want are customers, and there is no difficulty getting them.
The papers will be sent you for two cents each; you can sell them for three cents, and the more customers you get the more money you will make.

A SCRAP IN THE BUCKET-SHOP.

A Customer Remonstrates, Kicks, Then Hits on the Shoulder.

There was a scrap in the bucket-shop a few days ago, that afforded the frequenter of that skin den considerable amusement.
No person was expecting the encounter.
There were no seconds, no ring, no referee.
London prize-ring rules governed the fight.

It appears that one of the customers had put a considerable amount on a certain stock, and had left instructions to have it kept margined. The stock had been steady, but during his absence fluctuated outside of his margin, and he was wiped out. This was not the first instance of "wiping out" by any means; in fact, the "gentlemen of the stock exchange" have become quite accustomed to this remarkable feat, but the customer in question, when he left instructions to have his purchase remargined, felt safe, and when he found what had been done he was as mad as a March hare. He remonstrated, kicked, and then fired his fist at the gentleman in the little glass cage. He caught it and came over the counter on the jump. Then the fun began.
It was a regular rough-and-tumble catch-as-catch-can. Hitting below the belt was allowed, until the wind of the belligerents gave out. Then time was called.

Then the foolishness their impetuosity had led them into was seen. Each was willing to forgive and forget, and all presented resolved to say nothing about it. But it leaked out how that contract was settled.

A New Policeman's Experience.

One of Portland's new policemen found plenty to do during his first few days of service, if he didn't have something to show for it every morning. He kept his eye on a house three nights, waiting for a chance to arrest a disorderly character who was beating his wife, and when changed to another beat saw a woman give her husband more bad knocks than he ever saw anybody get before. Taking all things into consideration, he has concluded that the women are to blame for the greatest part of the trouble.

For an Idle Hour.

"I started to read The Frenchman, Gunter's new book, last night, and I could not drop the book until I finished it. It beat Mr. Barnes of New York and Mr.
Bates of Texas, all to pieces." This is the opinion of a gentleman who knows a good book and Progress gives it for its worth.
Messrs. McMillan have the book on sale 50 cents.

The Only Way to Be Sure.

If you would be sure of getting Progress Saturday give your newsdealer an order to say it for you. Then you can call for it as late as you please, and be sure to get it. Last Saturday hundreds went without Progress, because they depend on getting it late.

HURRAH FOR ST. JOHN.

FOUR THOUSAND PEOPLE SEE TWO VICTORIES

Taken From the Champions of Maine By the St. John Boys—A Great Opening of the Season—Queen's Weather Granted For the Day—Everybody Play Ball.

Play ball!
Morton shouted the magic words that opened the season, with more than 1,000 people at the A. A. grounds.

It was a great morning, cool and pleasant, just the kind of weather ball tossers pray for and spectators want.
If the opening ball game of the A. A. club is indicative of the season to come, the boys will be able to start a bank in the fall. Considering the opposition attractions, lacrosse, excursions and the hour of the day, the audience was a good one.

Everybody was happy, for why? The boys won, and White and Kennedy, the amateur battery, beat the club who held the championship of Maine last year, by a score of 11 to 6. What more could be wished for?

But it was a loose game and it lacked in some degree the greatest charm of base ball—life. The star players of the home club were White, Whiteneck, Parsons and Rogers. Kennedy ought also to be included if he had been more fortunate at the plate. But he did great work behind the bat.

Small was unfortunate, and some say nervous. He was at third and made two or three inexcusable muffs, which happily

Frank Small had a great interest for St. John people as he pitched hardest season. His magnetic curves took the crowd by storm, and the ball committee began to think of him as a popular professional for this year. He is here and at work.
Five feet ten inches high and 175 pounds are not bad accompaniments for a lad of 23 summers. Four of these he has spent on the diamond, winning reputation for himself and victories for his club. In 1888 he tossed the leather in at Rockland. Fortunately he has played for honest, good work. He talks but little, but puts his whole heart into the game, caring nothing for what may be said about him.

He made the greatest catch of the game though, pulling down a high throw of Kennedy's when there were two men on base.

A quieter and more gentlemanly nine than the South Portlands would be hard to find. They came to play ball and did so.
They had no loose talk, and quickly won the good opinion of the crowd. Every good play got its needed applause, and the best of good feeling prevailed.
At 10.40 sharp the agile umpire, Morton L. Harrison, appeared at the plate with Brown and Dunning as the battery of the visitors. Whiteneck held the stick and found the leather, to send it into the hands of the left fielder. Parsons had no better luck, the second and first basemen exchange-ing the ball before his arrival, and Rogers did the same act, and the first lining of the first game for the home club showed a goose egg.

The first ball of Frank White's was a strike, and McGovern, who faced him, looked at the bright amateur closely. He got first on a safe to left field, and Griffin followed him through a muff of Whiteneck's who did not seem as loose as usual. Both he and Small hung up their error score to fill view when Tilton passed his next, in a sharp clip, by both of them and McGovern scored. Small caught Dunning, Webster died at first and Griffin scored. Brown with two strikes called on him fied to Capt.
Bell.

Small faced the pitcher in the St. John's second innings, but retired with the ball in the second baseman's grip. Frank White got first and stole second and third amid thunderous applause. Then Rogers began to coach and the crowd began to laugh.
Bell failed to reach first and Kennedy's luck, an error of the second base, gave him a start and sent Frank home—the first score of the game. Jimmy Stone, second in the excitement but Holly failed to connect and he remained there.

For the Portlands, Spear, died at first, and Oliver struck out, while Capt. Tre-fethen gave Whiteneck a chance, which he did not take. He caught McGovern's fly, though, and there was another blank on the score, which was 2-1.

The third innings of St. John was a regular Waterloo, the slugging fever was on them, and there was nothing but crack, crack as the leather bounded outside.
Then the fielding and catching of the visitors were loose, and all combined to give the home club a hard lead. Barker opened the ball, and tramped on the first bag. He stole second, an example that Whiteneck followed. Parsons sustained his batting record, and Barker scored, leaving White-neck and Parsons on third and second.
Small came to the bat, and Whiteneck

Another Maine boy who will play on this diamond this season is Parsons, of Colby, who, bright, fearless face can be seen above. Just yet his majority, the crack college pitcher and second baseman of Colby will be greeted heartily by New Brunswick ball toss-ers. In his first game in the box, he held the Bowdoin down to one hit, and since that time he has curried many a victory from his opponents. He is a fine all around player—a good second baseman, a great slugger and a puzzler in the box. George White-neck will hold him, and it is safe to say that no battery of the club can give better work at the bat than these two boys.

scored on a passed ball, while Parsons followed suit on a wild pitch. Small hit for first, stole second and came home on a magnificent three-bagger of Frank White's.
Bell fied out; White got home on a passed ball, and Kennedy, who hit safe to first, succeeded in his daring attempt to steal second and third. Holly struck out, and let him. There was a tremendous cheer at the close of this inning, for no matter how bad ball is played, the crowd like to see the home club ahead.

Griffin got the first base on balls, the first of the game—and though Tilton and Dunning went down at first, Webster, Barker a fly to muff and he scored. Brown went out at first.

So many passed balls was hard for the visitors to stand, and Dunning was replaced by Webster, the crack catcher whose reputation beats Pusher, and who is to hold "Manny" Robinson at Moncton. The manager of the Moncton nine, Charlie Nevis, was behind him in the grand stand and the little catcher must have tickled him all to pieces. Barker struck out, and Whiteneck got struck, thereby getting his base. Parsons brought him in, stole second and third, caught Webster napping and scored. Rogers got his base on balls but trying to get home ran out of line and was declared out. In the meantime Small hit safe, Frank White got his base on balls and both were left, Bell failing to reach first. Spear hit safe but died stealing second, Oliver and Trefethen hit to the pitcher, and the leather was at first before them.

Kennedy, Holly, and Barker went out in one, two, three order.

White got McGovern his first on balls and he got home, while Griffin and Tilton died to connect at first. Then Dunning got Small a twisting fly which seemed easy enough to catch. He muffed it and the crowd roared, though it cost nothing.
Rogers made a magnificent running catch of Webster's sky scraper and the side was out.

Parsons was the hero of the 6th inning.
He showed his great speed and successful fielding stealing around the bases and scoring.
Whiteneck and White struck out, Small died at first and Rogers was left on the base.

Small redeemed himself in the same inning by his one hand catch, while Barker sustained his fielding reputation by catching Oliver's greatly. Spear and Trefethen went out at first.

In the seventh the old National beat out, Bell and Kennedy fied out and Holly could not get first.
McGovern, Tilton and Dunning had the same experience as Holly, while Griffin improved a safe hit and his opportunities by getting to third, and scoring on a blocked ball. It was a grand play.
Barker and Parsons scored in the eighth.
Rogers was out trying to steal third, Whiteneck fied to shortstop and Small and White, who got to third and second by line work, were left by Bell failing to find Brown's curves. Trefethen and Trefethen went out at first, and working round to third, was brought home by Spear, who failed to steal second. Parsons died and Trefethen struck out, while Oliver got as far as second.
Both nines got a whitewash in the ninth,

and the hungry crowd hurried to dinner, glad that the game was over, glad that St.
John won, and happy in thought that White and Kennedy won their first game.
They worked in great shape, and the score will tell the story of their game.

More than 3,000 people went to the afternoon game. It was the greatest rush St. John has ever seen at any game.
There wasn't a spare seat in the grand stand, and you could not get within ten feet of the ropes. Small and Rogers were the home battery, and Kelly and Webster were the visitors' stand-by.

It was a great game from first to last,

The bold ex-catcher of the Maine State College boys can't call himself 2nd yet—but on the 11th day of September he will and his majority. He son of Hon. John Rogers of Sison Me., who says that Seymour was born with his hands fashioned to play ball, and he has been at it ever since. A four year course at college, and he took every credit course for mechanical engineering, and something else—a true love for and knowledge of the great game of base ball. He was at second base at first, but his abilities as a catcher soon became known, and he was changed to back stop. Rogers' great ambition while in college was to bring the college championship of Maine to his alma mater.
Last year he succeeded, with Small in the box. He played again with Small with the Augustas, last fall, and they proved a perfect battery for the capital club.

exciting and interesting. The slugging was heavy and continued. Rogers caught the game of his life, and Small was in better form than in the morning. He made some dandy throws, and his pitching was steady, strong and puzzling. The hits of him were few.

The doubleumpire system was introduced a companion of the visitors acting with Morton. He made a bad mistake early in the game, giving a St. John man out at first when he was undoubtedly safe. The remarks of the audience and the players were not complimentary. The score by innings is as follows:

St. John.	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11	12
St. John.	2	1	5	1	0	1	0	0	1	-	-	-
South Portlanda.	3	0	1	0	0	3	1	1	0	-	-	-

The rain kept off until the last inning, when it began gently and the crowd got a drenching before it reached home.

Home Runs.

Police Magistrate Ritchie held his court half an hour earlier and took in the game.
Mr. Collier, of the Bank of British North America had a seat on the grand stand.
Mrs. Collier was one of the few ladies who enjoyed the game.

Jimmy Hawthorne, Frank Risteon, Harry Rotter and Ned Allen watched the game and smoked Havanas, at Hawthorne's expense. "Jimmy" was greatly taken with the new umpire and thought he would save them another battery if he could engage him.

But don't a St. John crowd know how to his when there's an unfair decision.
Mascoe Vennig put in an appearance on time. He waded through the crowd and got at the right hand of the press stand.
If the "mascoe" wasn't in position the club wouldn't have any luck.
Rogers' terse expression—"There's a Pickering for you" took to the hearts of the members. "I wonder how his 'lady friends' got the measure." But President Skinner was there on the presentation and the crowd howled. Mascoe Vennig was White made the first run and had the last put-out to his credit.
Charlie Nevis is longing for a 4000 crowd in Moncton. Hope he may get it.

Frank had all the pitchers' points down fine, and no man on the base could fool him.

Trefethen is a gentleman and a fine short stop, manager and captain.

Parsons is the darling of the crowd.

Applause is his when he wants it.

There was a great spread at the National afterward. Progress wasn't there and is sorry for it, but business before pleasure.
Where are the pictures of Bell, White-neck, Kennedy and White? Between here and New York. The engravers and Progress failed to connect this time, but they are coming and will be just as good looking when they do appear.

HON. WILLIAM PUGSLEY, THE NEW SOLICITOR GENERAL OF NEW BRUNSWICK.

Descended from the Legislature—On the Farm, at the School and University, and in Law and Politics—He Has Followed Success and Caught It Every Time.

Today the electors of King's county are called on to nominate a gentleman to complete their representation in the House of Assembly. Hon. William Pugsley, who resigned the speakership of the house and his membership to accept the portfolio of solicitor general, will be the nominee of the government party.

HON. WILLIAM PUGSLEY, SOLICITOR GENERAL.

large farm at Sussex Vale. He married a daughter of the late George Hayward, a resident of Sussex; in his lifetime well known and justly distinguished for his high qualities of both heart and head, and today remembered by the Nestors of the Methodist church, who speak of him in the highest terms as one who strengthened the hands of the pioneer ministers of that denomination with his sympathy and his means when Methodism was struggling to gain a foothold in this province.

It was on the farm that Dr. Pugsley was brought up, and like most country boys, he was actively engaged in the work of the farm. In conversation with the writer, he has, more than once, referred with pleasure to the days thus spent, and expressed his high appreciation of the practical benefits which he derived, and the superior equipment thereby furnished him for professional and political work where physical strength and a sound constitution are such inestimable boons, and of so great an advantage to the possessor.

Having finished his preliminary studies at the common school in Sussex, he entered the University of New Brunswick at an unusually early age, in September, 1865. A reference to the calendar of the university shows that, in the class of 1868, in which Dr. Pugsley's name appears first, there were a number of young men who have since attained to high distinction in their various walks of life. Here are the names of William M. McLean, junr., now head of the teaching profession in the city of St. John. Here also is the name of the Hon. George E. Foster, minister of finance, a native of the neighboring parish of Studholm, the close competitor of Dr. Pugsley throughout his whole university course. And it is worthy of remark, as, at least, a curious coincidence, that the two leaders of the class of '68 are today both holders of portfolios given to the representatives of their native county—the one in the dominion cabinet, the other in that of his own province.

Notable amongst the distinctions won by Dr. Pugsley, showing the brilliant university career in which, year after year, he stood at the head of his class, is the alumni gold medal, awarded in his junior year, at a special competition open to all the university undergraduates.

After graduating, Dr. Pugsley entered on the study of the law, in the office of Crawford & Pugsley. The senior partner of this firm was the Hon. J. Herbert Crawford, until the day of his death a representative of Kings county, and holder of the portfolio which today is held by his quondam student. The junior partner was Gilbert R. Pugsley, LL.B., a brother of the subject of this sketch, who today is well and favorably known as a prominent and enterprising citizen of St. John. Having been admitted as an attorney in 1871, Dr. Pugsley was called to the provincial bar in June of the following year. One year later he was appointed reporter of the decisions of the supreme court, a position which he held for ten years.

In 1877 Dr. Pugsley, who, shortly after graduating from Fredericton, matriculated with honors into the university of London, (taking second place in the competition for the Gilchrist scholarship), entered upon a special course of study in civil and constitutional law at university college, London. After successfully prosecuting his studies, under some of England's most distinguished legal celebrities, he returned to St. John, and resumed the practice of his profession, to which he has ever since devoted himself with marked success, so that, although comparatively but a young man he has already been engaged both at nisi prius and at the bar in a great number of important cases, many of which have attracted a large share of public attention. By his skillful conduct of the causes each case upon which he has been employed seems but to add to his ever growing reputation.

Not weary of scholastic pursuits, in 1878 he took the degree of B. C. L. in course, and five years later, in a similar manner, obtained the degree of D. C. L. from his alma mater.

Soon after his admission to the bar Dr. Pugsley began to show that warm interest in the politics of his native county which he has always maintained. On several occasions he stumped Kings in the interests of his late partner, Hon. Mr. Crawford, who owed no small part of his great success to his youthful colleague. In 1885 a vacancy having occurred in the representation of the county by the death of Hon. Dr. Vail, Dr. Pugsley announced himself as a candidate in opposition to the late Robert E. McLeod, a wealthy and highly respected resident of Sussex, formerly a member of the legislature, who was backed in his canvass by the two sitting members and as far as they could command it by the patronage of the government which both candidates professed to support. But though thus apparently heavily handicapped the youthful aspirant for political honors entered upon the contest with a zest and confidence born of success. After a vigorous campaign of several weeks during which he met his opponent on the platform in almost every part of the county, he was triumphantly returned by a majority so great as to surprise his friends not less than his foes. After sitting one session, during which his ripe scholarship, superior tact, and perfect mastery of parliamentary procedure combined with his own great skill as a debater marked him out as the proper man for the position, Dr. Pugsley was unanimously chosen at the opening of the second session as speaker of the house of assembly. As to the manner in which he fulfilled the duties of this office a better opinion cannot be given than that which appeared in one of the newspapers published at the capital, the editor of which has had an excellent opportunity through constant attendance on the debates, of forming a mature and reliable judgement. The Farmer says:

On the assembling of the new house, he was unanimously elected speaker, a position he has filled to the entire satisfaction of the assembly and the country. He has adorned the speakership by his impartial and successful discharge of his delicate duties; he is a gentleman of calm and mature judgment, of scholarly attainments; is a polished and attractive public speaker, and will be a source of great strength and respectability to the administration.

The Hon. R. J. Ritchie having resigned the office of solicitor-general to accept the office of police magistrate of St. John, Dr. Pugsley was offered the vacant portfolio, which he accepted, and was sworn in to the duties of his office on the 14th inst. This necessitated the resignation of the seat in the legislature, and his going back to his constituents for their ratification of his action. The nomination takes place at Hampton today.

Dr. Pugsley married, January 6, 1876, Fannie, daughter of the late Thomas Parks, of St. John, in his life-time a prominent merchant of this city, and a brother of the late William Parks, the founder of that important industry, the New Brunswick cotton mills, now being successfully carried on by a company of which Mr. John H. Parks is president and manager. Mr. Pugsley, we may remark, is one of the directors of this enterprising company which has 600 hands in its employ.

Although a resident of Rothesay, Dr. Pugsley practises his profession in Saint John, where he has long been a leading citizen, and where he has a town house which he finds convenient for the winter months. Dr. Pugsley is possessed of a good physique and a fine appearance. His manner is that of the cultured gentleman. He is a good conversationalist, and a man who commands the respect and confidence of all who know him. His tact and subtlety of reasoning, combined with his practical good sense, lead to his being listened to at all times, when he chooses to express himself on questions of public interest, with close attention by friend and opponent.

The feeling with which he inspires strangers, as well as those who know him well, that his utterances are the carefully considered views of a man distinguished for his superior ability, expressed from the highest motives, and backed by the highest principles that can actuate a human being, unites with his own pleasing manner and natural suavity to render him a powerful man in either a public or private capacity.

JOHNNY SHOCKS THE MINISTER And Has Disgraced His Family for all Time to Come.

There was a awful time in our family this week, and I guess ime goin' to be sent some where to boardin' school. When pa was mad, so's his hair wouldn't lay down he said he wished I was—somewhere what our Sunday school teacher says boys shouldn't say such about.

Anyway our minister had no business blowin' about his pictures. I suppose he thort 'cause I'm a young fellar he'd sit on me, but I guess people like him'll have ter let their hair grow longer afore they does. I don't see what their kicken' up sich a time fur anyhow, 'cause I'm only stickin' up fur our famerly, and now they say what we're all disgraced for life.

You know the minster come to our house and said what he wished to talk with the young people, 'cause he wanted to git their sympathies congregated on behalf of a nuther new kind of heathin what they'd found out, and they wanted pennies fur. He said he's appealing through the mejium of pictures which would attract the youthful eye, and what they showed the true state of the people what he wanted us to work fur. He showed me some, and the heathin's hadn't much close on. I suppose he thort he's sumthin' 'cause he had them pictures, but I guess he looked like a smashed beaver hat when I told him what they're nothin', 'cause pa had lots of photographs without much close on, and they wasn't nigger people neither.

I guess if they don't send me away I'll run away, fur a young fellar can't get on nolong, 'cause if you tell the truth they git mad, and if you don't they'll git madder. Pa near went inter highstericks, like ma does, the time what I sent the undertaker up to measure him, 'cause I said he expired suddenly. But I guess he was only perspirin'.

Our cat's got kittens, and I hope what they don't send me away afore their drowned 'cause I suppose I'll git the job. We always drowned our kittens, except the good lookin' one's, 'cause ma says their a humbug when you have too many.

JOHNNY MULCAHRY.

"JERRY" AND HIS VICTIMS. He Has an Affection For Chickens, Feathers and All.

MONCTON, May 20.—The manager of a local bank is a great lover of dogs, and rejoices in the possession of two canines, whom he regards as the very apples of his eyes, if one may manufacture a plural for the old expression. One is a spaniel of delicate constitution, and not very brilliant intellect who staggers under the appellation of "John of Gaunt" mercifully shortened into "Gaunt." The other is a Fox terrier of a sprightly disposition, and predatory habits, who bears the name of Jeremiah, but answers to "Jerry."

Shortly after he emerged from puppyhood, Jerry became impressed with the necessity of returning the tender care he had received during his infancy. And, having ascertained in some way known only to himself that the price of meat in our town was simply ruinous, he decided that an occasional contribution to the larder would be the most tangible form his gratitude could assume.

Since then it is a very poor week with "Jerry" when he does not bring home a recently killed hen or a duck, quivering in the last throes of dissolution. And terrible is the amount of chaff his devoted master has to endure from his friends, anent having stewed hen for dinner every day and roast duck for Sunday. Terrible also are the castigations this small hero undergoes, but he suffers for his convictions, and bears them all without a single lamentation of Jeremiah. He goes off, more in sorrow than in anger, and brings home a propitiatory offering of a nice, freshly-killed hen. He does not always distinguish between feathers and fur, but frequently brings in the earthly remains of a neighbor's favorite cat, to be turned into rabbit stew.

"Gaunt" is his confidant, assistant and pupil, and when I heard, the other day, of a respectable resident of the lower part of the town who was bewailing the loss of five of her best hens in one week, I said nothing, for I have a sneaking affection for the trim, bright-eyed assassin, but I knew in my own mind that if the slaughter of five hens in a single week was a capital crime, and "Gaunt" turned queen's evidence, "Jerry" would certainly end his career dancing an entirely new and original ballet at the end of a rope.

A HOME IN THE COUNTRY.

The residence built and occupied by Henry Tins, situated about one mile and a-half above the village of Rothesay, is offered for sale. The house is two stories in height and contains rooms enough for a large family, and stands upon a six-acre lot, more or less, and is admirably adapted for a summer residence, as well as all the year round. There are large barns upon the premises, and the place at present cuts about five tons of hay. The view of the Kennebecasis and its islands is magnificent. The railroad runs within half a mile of the property, and a siding might be placed in the vicinity for the accommodation of passengers.

This valuable property will be sold at a great bargain, and the owner if it now resides at a distance and wishes to get it off his hands. House can be examined any time. Apply for further information to E. S. Carter, office of PROGRESS, Canterbury street.—Advt.

THE Old-Fashioned Method of Roasting

With a Spit before an open fire gave results in producing juicy, tender meat that it has always been impossible to secure with an ordinary Cook Stove, wherein the meat is baked, not roasted.

This baking results in drying out the juices of the meat to such an extent that the nutritive properties of the meat so baked are greatly impaired. The application of Wire Grates in the CHARTER OAK line of Coal and Wood Stoves has completely changed all this, and by its use meat can now be roasted as well in a CHARTER OAK oven as with a spit before an open fire.

It is a well-known law of Nature that while the air circulates freely through the gauze, heat is not transmitted or allowed to escape thereby, and it is the free circulation of air that imparts to the meat that delicious taste that makes roasted meats so desirable.

This is a matter well worthy the investigation of all interested (and WHO are not?) in securing the best results from the food we eat. We claim that the CHARTER OAK is the only perfect Cooking Stove made, and we guarantee every one we sell to be all we claim for it in every respect.

BERCEASE. All pain, all sorrow seem to fall Behind us infinitely far. What time the sleepy robins call At twilight's dusky bar.

TALE OF THE BULL RING.

I was early in my seat, for I like, above all things, to see the motley crowd of sunburned Spaniards come trooping to their national game.

How noisy and hot and dusty they all looked as they trooped in and took their seats around me!

"He is killed!" cry the people; "he is killed!" The bull never looks at him again, passing on to attack the cloak of one of the matadors.

I turned in the direction in which he was pointing, and gazed with astonishment at one of the most lovely creatures it has ever been my lot to see.

It was time the bull fight commenced, and already the impatient Spaniards were shouting and calling, but the governor had not taken his seat in the box reserved.

Just before the fight at Williamsburg my company was on picked at the front. The man on the left of me, as I went on guard at 10 o'clock one night, was a Dutchman named Jake Klein.

"What can we do?" I asked in return. "Take 'em some prisoner, eh?" "You'd better go back and keep quiet."

"Who has those Dutchmen," said Jake. "You was." "Look out! a leddie, ole feller, or I'll knock out your head!

ELECT GOOD MEN.

One week from today the nominations for aldermen must be filed, and three days later, on June 4, the elections take place.

It has been pretty generally acknowledged that our board of aldermen last year was a good one. With few exceptions the right men were in the seats, men who performed their duties with credit to themselves and advantage to their constituents.

We have been at some pains to show that this agreeable condition did not exist in old Portland; that there the council was the best collection of undignified, quarrelsome, incapable boodlers that ever sat at that or any other board.

We cannot imagine that the people of the new wards will return representatives of the CHESLEY-MURPHY stamp to the new board. Portland writhed and suffered for years under them. The people gave them the power and could not take it away when they would.

Mr. JOSEPH W. LAWRENCE hit from the shoulder in last Saturday's Globe. He did not mince his matter or his words. His opinion of Hon. DAVID McLELLAN was certainly to the point.

ENFORCE THE BETTER LAW. The temperance citizens of Fredericton had a grand demonstration yesterday. It was a splendid show, worthy of the great order it represented.

There is no comparison between the Scott act and the provincial law. The former has been proved a failure, the latter has been more successful than any liquor legislation ever passed in this province.

Mr. JAMES ROURKE gives us his personal assurance that he will not run St. John city and county in support of the present administration. Mr. ROURKE's brain appears to travel with him.

That is an unlikely story which connects Mr. J. W. LAWRENCE's present opposition to the acts of the local government with his alleged failure to secure a seat in the legislative council.

When we think of yesterday and the base ball, excursions, races and fire crackers, the 4th of July takes a back seat.

There is only one blight on this elegant springtime—the outrageous, annihilating fish lie.

Reliable reports lead to the assertion that the "council" has not been in such continuous session this week in Mr. ENN's "hide back room."

"Boss" LON CHESLEY began his inquisitive tactics at the new board, Wednesday, and was promptly astounded. The "boss" has been the king of the Portland fire department up to last Saturday, when Chief KENT took charge.

Mayor GRANT, of New York, passed every account presented to the Centennial committee, though, he says, the prices were exorbitant. For instance, for the "breakfast" set on board the Despatch the sum of $90 a head is charged; for the rent of a building in Twenty-third street for four days $1,000 is asked, and for another building used by the committee on Thirty-fifth street, $1,100 was asked and paid.

One of the greatest difficulties the managing committee of the New York Centennial had to overcome was the lack of accommodation for visitors. But it was surmounted: the people threw open their houses. Each family who could take a lodger or two left their names with the captains of the police and in that way the visitors found places to stay.

Mr. JOHN McMILLAN had a happy thought when he said that the carnival executive was too large, and moved a managing committee into power. The hearts and heads of the carnival are now where they should be—in a position of authority, and it won't be their fault if the grand event does not succeed.

That fearless clubber and good officer, inspector WILLIAMS, of the New York police, will spend his vacation in his native place in Nova Scotia. It would be a good thing to hunt up his double and station him on Portland bridge for a few nights.

That little but lively Scotian town, Digby, is on the boom. St. John has set a good example, and all the pretty resort wants to complete its summer equipment are the missing link and a big hotel. May both arrive soon.

Let no forgetful subscriber indulge in profligacy this morning, but if his favorite paper fails to put in an appearance for want of a dollar paid in advance, let him get into a corner and try to kick himself.

The fashionable parol of today is a wonderful thing. Open or shut it commands attention and respect. The broom handle, so long the undisputed weapon of the gentler sex, is in the shade.

Mr. AUGUSTUS CLIFF, president of the City club of St. John's, Newfoundland, in a letter to a friend (A. W. Masters) in this city says: Many thanks for Progress.

REAL CHILDREN. Queer Remarks of a Bright Girl and Boy. Among my most valued friends I count a real child who, though she has reached the mature age of thirteen and lives in the last quarter of the nineteenth century, is neither pert nor forward and is not able to instruct her elders on every possible subject.

We Can Reciprocate. Mr. Augustus Cliff, president of the City club of St. John's, Newfoundland, in a letter to a friend (A. W. Masters) in this city says: Many thanks for Progress.

He is Going to Learn French. "You will excuse me this afternoon Mr. Blank, I know, when I tell you that I cannot miss my Berlitz lesson. French, today, and I like it immensely. So do all the girls. Just think what an advantage it will be to us when we go to the exposition at Paris. I really don't think I would go if I didn't know a little bit of French.

Give It No Rest. Speaking of relics, why should not the Old Burial Ground fence be placed in Mr. Jack's museum? It is a very old fence. There is a tradition that the loyalists hewed the timber.

The earliest mention of Ribbons occurs in the 14th Century, and Chaucer shows them as part of a Garment.

"Richee a robe of purple on had, Ne trow not that she had it mad, Ne by a thousand deale so riche, Ne none so faire for it full well; With or fraise laid was eney dell, And purtraid in the 'ribanings' With Duke stores and of Kings."

By Not Being On the Looking For It—A Scene in Church. "Though I was born in England," writes an occasional correspondent, "I have a very deep strain of Irish blood in my veins which has given me a sort of happy-go-lucky nature and that sense of the ludicrous which is such a blessing out of doors and such a nuisance in church and at funerals. I shall always cherish among my happiest recollections the memory of one very warm Sunday last summer when a small, stray kitten of the Maltese persuasion attended divine service by accident. She was got up for the occasion in a large blue neck-ribbon and she took a seat in the chancel directly behind the unconscious Mr. —, who was pounding the reading desk and expounding the scriptures with his usual vigor, and after scratching her left ear with a rapidly revolving hind leg, she proceeded to scrub her little brown face with an intensity of purpose worthy of a W. T. C. U. delegate. I had been a little late and so had to take an elevated seat in the synagogue, and as I laughed out loud, an unregenerate choir boy who had been watching me followed suit, but I don't think anyone else in the church saw it. People do miss so much fun by not being on the look out for it.

As Handsome as Can Be. The painter and the decorator have been at work in Messrs. A. & J. Hay's, and the evidences of their art and skill are very plain. The show-cases are stained a rich mahogany, an admirable background for such a handsome display of goods. "Rich and reliable" express better than any other words the character of Messrs. Hay's stock. The furniture and finishings of the store are not lonely in their freshness. The most fashionable goods of the spring—the choicest gems set in the latest unique designs—are there to keep them company. And they are worth looking at. Progress vouchers for that. Ladies cannot spend half an hour more pleasantly anywhere than here. If they are delighted with the appearance of the store, they cannot fail to be pleased with its contents. Many of them will be glad to know that Miss Tingey, who for so many years was in the church of England Institute, is now an assistant in Messrs. Hay's.

A False Report. There was a rush up town the other day. Somebody said that Kerr's Cream chips were almost gone, and there was a candy panic. Progress has tested their virtues again and again, and knows that they are good enough to eat. Their flavor is so delicious that once a person begins to eat them it is difficult to leave any in sight. But the chips weren't all gone and everybody was satisfied.

THE WORDS OF BOOKS

A well-known Canadian poet, Dr. A. H. Chandler, is about giving to the world a new edition of what may probably be considered his chief work, 'The Nativity,' which will be brought out in Boston at the close of the present year.

This ode, which is perhaps the most widely known of Dr. Chandler's poems, originally appeared in the Boston Sunday Herald, and was afterwards published in Lyrics, Songs and Sonnets, winning for itself at the outset a place in the literature of Canada, as well as golden opinions from such giants in the world of letters as Oliver Wendell Holmes, Prof. Owen, of Cambridge, Mass.; Hunter Duvar and our own laureate, Prof. Roberts.

Mr. S. T. Rand, in a review of this poem, says: Without in any way copying the style and treatment of Milton's 'great poem' of the same subject, it will not suffer by comparison.

Prof. Owen, in speaking of the same work, remarks: The style of this grand poem is smooth and flowing, and the metre is entirely original; even Dryden could not surpass it.

These words of 'praise from high places' were all for the old edition, from which has arisen, Phoenix-like, a newer and more beautiful creation of the poet's fancy. And if the poet-critics dealt kindly with the former effort, they will be even more lavish now in their encomiums on the later and more perfect work.

The Nativity, in its remodelled form, possesses an additional fullness, breadth and power, the lack of which I should never have observed in the earlier edition had not the author himself called my attention to it by retouching his work.

It will be illustrated by a New Brunswick lady and will contain some ten or twelve additional stanzas, a 'prologue, an epilogue and a dedicatory sonnet to Professor Charles G. D. Roberts.

Of this sonnet Dr. George Stewart, of the Quebec Chronicle writes: It is a gem, and full of sweetness, delicacy and grace.

The entire work is full of graceful imagery and combines depth of thought with power of expression, while some of the majestic periods are truly Miltonic. I regret that space will not permit me to make the extended extracts that I would wish, but I cannot more fully close this brief and all too feeble notice of Dr. Chandler's masterpiece than by giving in its entirety the graceful and charming dedication.

To my mind among all the more mature and finished work of his later years Prof. Roberts never wrote anything more exquisite than his 'Invocation to the Spirit of Song,' at the beginning of his first volume of poems. I think it is my favorite of all his flowers of song. So this dedication of Dr. Chandler's seems to stand out from all its companions with a beauty of its own, and to reflect almost equal glory upon author and subject.

TO PROFESSOR CHARLES G. D. ROBERTS, O, Laureate of Brunswick! whose sweet lyre, In Jaegers Tones, hath rung melodiously Across the land from sea to furthest sea, In strains that shall Canadian hearts inspire With patriotic hopes—filling the desire Of those who love their country faithfully— A brother poet dedicates to thee Some faint harp-echoes of the Angelic quire; And, should this poem of Christ's natal morn Direct but one soul to the immortal life, Let but the burden from one heart distress'd, (As it hath his) with heavy sorrows born Of sin and suffering 'mid this earthly strife— Then were, indeed, its mission doubly blest.

Among the readable articles in Wide Awake for June are "Relics of Torture," by Mrs. F. A. Humphrey, describing various curious "machines" for punishment in old times which she saw in England; Mrs. Claffin's "Letter from Daisy" on behavior is excellent; Miss Poulsson's "Two Sermons" is exquisite; "Sallic Joy" [White's "Volunteer Reading in School"] is of great suggestive value; "Little People in the Studio," with its eleven pictures, is charming reading for everybody. "Men and Things," the new department, is filled with enjoyable anecdotes and talks, notably "The Footsteps of Genius," "Lord Tennyson's Chalk Pits," and "Fish-Catching on the Potomac." The poems of the number are by Clinton Scollard, Mrs. Whitsonstone, Marian Douglas, H. R. Hudson, Kate Patman Osgood, Alice Wellington Rollins and Elizabeth L. Gould. Price $2.40 a year. D. Lothrop company, publishers, Boston.

The Forum for June will have an additional interest for Canadians since Mr. Blackburn Hartie, one of the leading editorial writers of the Mail of Toronto, comes out boldly in favor of political union with the United States. He maintains not only that commercial union and thereafter political union of the United States and Canada are inevitable, but also that they are desirable for Canada; and that the Canadian politicians of all parties know this, unwilling as some of them are to confess it. He points out also what he considers to be the absurdity of Canada's continuing the colonial relation to Great Britain. [The Forum Publishing Co., 253 Fifth Ave., N. Y. 50 cts.]

Notes and Announcements. George Kennan, the celebrated Siberian traveller, has returned to Washington. He will devote the summer to the preparation of his book on Siberia for the press. Mr. Robert Barrett Browning has Painted a portrait of his father, the poet. The picture represents Mr. Browning standing against a marble pillar (in Venice), with a crucifix in his hand, and in a brown coat. The picture is going to the Grosvenor gallery, London.

Mr. Frenck's novel, 'The Two Chiefs of Dunboy,' has gone into its fourth edition, and promises to be the most widely read of all the recent novels this summer.

A new portrait of John Burroughs will appear in The Book-Buyer for June, accompanied by a personal sketch of the author, by Mr. Hamilton W. Mabie.

Several popular authors will shortly have some of their works added to the "Yellow Paper Series" of the Scribners. The 5th book in the series will probably be Mr. Thomas A. Janvier's stories, entitled 'Color Studies,' and H. J. Stinson's 'The Crown of Henry VIII.' will follow. Other favorite stories and authors will still further heighten the value of this series, which already may be placed in the very front rank of paper-covered literature.

Mrs. Barnet's last story 'The Pretty Sister of Jose,' has already reached its tenth thousand with the Scribners.

The extraordinary interest awakened in England by the fascinating 'Diary and Letters of Gouverneur Morris,' has necessitated the London publishers to put forth a second edition of the work. It is likely that the American edition will also be shortly duplicated.

The increase in European travel this year is said to be noticeable in the much larger demand which the Scribners are receiving for their illustrated 'Index Guide to European Travel' than during any previous season.

Mr. Henry T. Finck's new book, 'Chopin, and other Musical Essays,' is to be brought out in London in an English edition.

IGNORABLE METHODS.

A Lay Sermon by "Amber" That Hits the Nail on the Head.

The old saw, "It takes a thief to catch a thief," has found good exemplification lately in the methods of some of our city papers. If there is no better way to run down evil than to train another evil to track it, let us leave its overthrow to heaven. To duplicate a misdeed does not abate the original. If I have one toad under my doorstep it will not rid me of the first toad to fetch another one to keep it company. The reporter who went around among the doctors hunting for an offense against morality and decency did not exterminate the existence of that particular offense half so thoroughly as she smirched her own delicacy, and cast a taint upon journalistic womanhood by her exploit. The other reporter who connived, and schemed, and lied to catch a certain lawyer in her toils, did not show him up, in the result, any more contemptibly than she did herself. If to prove another man is a schemer and a swindler I have got to stoop to very sneaking schemes and very tortuous methods myself, I don't understand what good is struck in the balance. If a man has got to convert himself into worm bait in order to catch very poor fish, I doubt the sanity of his pictorial enterprise. There are so many people in this world who go about gloating over the chance to expose foibles and vices. They are like men who go out in spring to hunt snakes. Unheeded by them may blow and blossom all the sweet wild flowers that ever were rooted on the April hills; unmarked by them the young trees put forth their leaves, the winds ruffle the lakes, and the sunshine arrows dart from between the cloudy spaces of the sky—they are out to hunt snakes, and earth holds no allurement that can outbid a rattler, tracked and clubbed to death in its covert. If the Lord made you with a passion for hunting snakes, and a method of your own whereby to track them, you are no doubt to be given the freedom of your choice of vocation, but if for one would roll aside the stones and hunt through the woods for violets and will strawberries rather than aadders. If a person has faults and blemishes, he also has good traits, and some few faint and sickly virtues. Exposing the latter to the shining of the sun may help nourish a handful of good deeds for heaven but the exposure of all that is unprincipled and unworthy in a man is not a pleasant sight for either his brother men, or the holy angels. If we went through life looking at the sweet things in human nature we would find our basket filled with a very respectable offering when we drew up to St. Peter's gate and asked to be passed through. But I don't think the old saint would be moved to leniency if all we had to show was a bundle of snake-skins and the formula of the serpentine methods we took to win them.

I am tired of the ignoble methods we deal in for the achievement of any purpose. If a body desires to be prosperous, he does not go to work to count success by strictly honest methods. He is specious, and aims at popularity, and is politic, and in that way achieves the end he has in view. Win the race by fair means or foul, everything is forgiven you so that you reach the goal. We don't do this way at the Derby. The nose that goes under the wire by ignoble methods either of riding or cheating is counted out, but in the great hustling race of human life, the devil himself takes precedence, so that he rides first at the finish. The honor is not to the honest, but to the winning one.—Chicago Harvest.

The prevalence of scrofulous taint in the blood is made more universal than many are aware. Indeed, but few persons are free from it. Fortunately, however, we have in Ayer's Sarsaparilla, the most potent remedy ever discovered for this terrible affliction.

RICHMOND.

MAY 22.—About three weeks ago, a young man, known by the name of Foster, visited our town for the purpose, he alleged, of purchasing horses. He remained three or four days, and during that time examined several horses, and said his brother would arrive in a few days and complete arrangements. Mr. Foster was unable to locate the party or parties who committed the deed.

Mr. A. J. Rowen, of Portland, was in town yesterday.

The first open-air concert of the season was given by the 7th Battalion band, last evening. There is a decided improvement in the band since the last time they played out last summer, and that their music was fully appreciated could be seen by the crowds of people that were out enjoying it.

Mr. Stanley Hoyt, of Portland, is in town today.

The members of the Lawn Tennis club had their first meeting on Saturday, and, in spite of the excessive heat, quite a number appeared on the grounds and had several closely contested sets.

The grounds are all that could be desired, and, I must say, great credit is due to the young gentlemen who have taken so much trouble to improve them.

Mr. J. W. Haye and children left today to spend a few weeks with friends in St. John.

Children's hoods done up equal to new, at Ungar's Steam Laundry.

We are not going to make comparisons, but in a general way to demonstrate our claim to the title of The Other Store we want to remind you of the stock of all stores.

Take for instance the largest stock of Dress Goods in the city. Go in to buy a dress—how much of the stock do you see?

Perhaps you do not know exactly what you want, and have yet to make up your mind as to color. Don't you find that the largest stock dwindles down to a few pieces on the counter out of which to make the selection?

Why doesn't the clerk show you that lot on the top shelf—their last season's? Clerks do not like to show goods that are a year old. What about the lot in paper?

—Fall goods—the use.

There was a gentleman in the store yesterday, one who is in a position to be posted, and is posted—he said: That is the best stock of dress goods in St. John. We considered that a pretty strong statement until we thought out the above, then it did not seem nearly so strong, and we think more of that gentleman's judgment than ever we did, of course.

MILLTOWN. MAY 23.—Miss Emma Perkins, formerly of this place, is home from Providence, R. I., on a visit to her father. Miss Perkins has been absent four years.

Mr. Samuel Butler, of Newtonville, Mass., for many years resident of Marysville, is visiting in town, the guest of his son, Mr. T. W. Butler. Mr. Butler is also one of the very first settlers of Milltown.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Todd and Miss L. M. Randall returned from St. David's City, Fla., last week.

The children of the schools, under the management of Mr. S. D. Alexander, principal of the high school, gave a very pleasing entertainment in the Academy last Monday evening. The dialogues, recitations and music were fine, and all speak very highly of the entertainment. The recitation, "The New Baby," by little Miss Florence Hinchey is deserving of special mention, as also is "The Robin," by Massey Bertie Butler. Both of these children are from the primary school, and their teacher, Miss Hanson, deserves credit for the way she had them drilled. The piano duet by Miss Marcia Black and Miss Annie Cronan, and the solo by Miss May Gates, were finely rendered and greatly enjoyed, also the piano and violin duet by Miss Cronan and James Mallin, which was deservedly applauded.

SUMMER RESORTS WILL BOOM.

So Mr. W. E. Wood of the All-Rail Line Says.

Mr. W. E. Wood, of the All-Rail Line, arrived in town this week from the west. He is enthusiastic over the prospects of St. Andrews and the Algonquin, and says that no hotel and summer resort ever opened under such brilliant auspices.

"You will see the Algonquin turning hundreds away this summer. All the hotels and private houses in St. Andrews won't begin to accommodate the rush. No place has had such advertising and everybody west of Bangor is talking of it. All the railroad and steamboat lines coming east are interested in the success of St. Andrews. It means money to them and they are bound to make it a great success.

"Bar Harbor will have a bigger crowd than ever, for, take my word for it, this summer will be a dry-roaster. Last summer was cold; last winter and this spring have downed the 'oldest inhabitant.' The hot wave is coming, and the people of the big towns are going to leave. The provinces will see a greater tourist travel than ever."

Mr. Wood knows what he is talking about, and PROGRESS is glad to hear him speak with this confidence.

Mr. F. A. Jones arrived from Boston Wednesday, and he found half a hundred applications from parties in Boston, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York, Toronto and Montreal, asking for rooms and rates. No trouble about the Algonquin—except that it won't be able to take half of the people.

"What are you going to do with the thousands who come to the carnival?" asked a prominent hotel man of PROGRESS. "Some provision should be made for them. The regular hotels are always full at that time, and I fancy that private houses will be pretty busy with country cousins and friends. Why not open Reed's castle and a couple of the inns, furnish them with hired cots and give the people a chance to sleep anyway. The committee should take the matter in hand early and avoid a rush at the last moment."

This gentleman has been in the hotel business for a long time and knows what he is talking about. PROGRESS gives his suggestions for what they are worth and the committee will find that they are of great value. Be prepared for a rush.

Halifax Girls Are Short-Sighted. The subject of pretty girls is a rather dangerous one in this city. There is quite a diversity of opinion on the points, and then there are so many claims on the part of so many girls to be ranked as a pretty girl, that if their claims are not recognized in some way imminent danger is the cry "dead ahead." There is no doubt but that, in a walk about town, very many good-looking girls are to be met with, but perhaps the majority of them would only be so in the eyes of a few. A pretty girl is always elevated to her title by the will of the majority of men, not women; because I have always noticed that girls, in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred, are utterly incompetent to pass an opinion on the good looks of another girl. There is something in a girl's optic-nerve that prevents her recognizing good looks in a female friend as quickly as a young man can. Strange! but true!

MAYOR.

Should I be honored by a majority of your vote, I will, to the best of my ability, assist in the completion of the organization of the enlarged city, carefully providing for the interests of all its sections.

To the Electors of Dufferin Ward.

At the request of a number of the electors of Dufferin Ward, I have consented to be nominated for the office of in the first council of the united City of Saint John. If, as is probable, the growth of the city is to take place in your ward, an accurate survey of the land not yet built upon should be made, in order that the confusion which is so apparent in the laying out of your streets should not be extended. A greater number of lights should be furnished, both for the convenience of the citizens and for the suppression of crime. A more efficient system should be adopted for the prevention of those accidents for which the public in the past has been compelled to pay damages in actions at law. If I should be elected, I pledge my best efforts to the carrying out of these views, and the advancement of your interests in general.
