HON. T. A. CRERAR'S RESIGNATION IS ACCEPTED

ALLIES WILL PUT FIVE-DAY LIMIT ON GERMANY TO ACCEPT OR REJECT TREATY CONDITIONS

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau To Proceed To Berlin To Confer With the Chancellor, Who Will Return To Versailles If Conditions Are Accepted.

Paris, June 6.—When the Germans are handed the Allied reply to their counter proposals they will be informed, according to French circles, that the discussion has been finally closed, and will be given no less than three or more than five days in which to accept or reject the conditions.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, the head of the German peace mission, is expected to leave immediately for Berlin to confer with Philipp Scheidemann, the German chancellor. If it is decided that Germany shall sign the treaty, the count will return to Versailles. If Germany refuses to sign, notification of her refusal will be sent from Berlin, it is said.

FINANCE MINISTER OF GERMANY ASSAILED BY HAMBURG CITIZEN

Berlin, June 5. — Reports that Dr. Karl Helfferich, former vice-chancellor, had made a severe attack on Dr. Bernhard Dernburg, minister of finance, in connection with the German counter-proposals, are denied by the Vossische Zeitung. The newspaper says that the person who was assailed by Dr. Helfferich, was a Hamburg citizen who was a member of a sub-committee of the peace delegation at Versailles, and who is said to have been responsible for persuading the cabinet and peace delegation to offer an indemnity of 100,000,000,000 marks.

GERMAN DELEGATION PROTESTS AGAINST FRENCH ACTIONS

Berlin, June 5.—The German peace delegation yesterday entered a formal protest against alleged French machinations in the Rhineland, pointing out the danger of disturbance of the peace negotiations since Germany will be unable to meet her obligations if the Rhineland district is lost.

ALLIES LIKELY TO STATE SUM THAT ENEMY MUST PAY

Paris, June 6.—It is probable that the allied and associated powers will comply with the German demand to state approximately the maximum sum which Germany must pay in reparation, under the peace treaty, according to the Matin. This sum, it states, will be from 200,000,000,000 to 250,000,000,000 francs (the larger sum named, on a gold valuation, would not be far from $50,000,000,000).

PHOTOGRAPHIC COPIES OF TREATY SENT BY FOE TO U. S. SENATORS

Paris, June 6.—It is understood here that the Berlin Government is sending photographically reproduced copies of the peace terms to every United States senator and representative.

The British correspondents in Paris have begun an investigation as to why their first dispatches regarding the discussion of the necessity of peace treaty changes by the council of four were held up for thirteen hours. The dispatches reached the newspapers too late for publication in the current issues.

BESSARABIA OBJECTS TO BEING ABSORBED INTO RUMANIA

Vigorous Protests Are Being Made Before the Peace Conference.

Paris, Wednesday, June 4.—Bessarabia, with a population of nearly three million and an area larger than that of Denmark or Belgium, is making a vigorous effort to avoid absorption into Rumania and to secure the determination of its own future through a plebiscite. Alexander Kroupensky, former president of the Bessarabian Provincial Zemstvo, is at the head of a delegation in Paris, which is striving to win some recognition from the peace conference and assure Bessarabia's right to self-determination under the League of Nations.

Montreal, June 6.—F. R. Maxwell of Toronto was elected president; H. Mahoney, Guelph, vice-president, and T. J. Minnes, Brantford, vice-president for Ontario of the Canadian Society of Domestic, Sanitary and Heating Engineers in final session here yesterday.

HALIFAX WANTS TO KNOW WHY BREAD COSTS SO MUCH

Action Against Master Bakers and Merchants Is Urged.

DEPARTMENT IS LAX

Fails To Take Action On the Recommendation of Cost of Living Commission.

Ottawa, June 6.—Action against the master bakers and retail merchants of Halifax with regard to the high cost of bread has been recommended by Dr. R. J. McFall, the cost of living commissioner, but has not yet been acted upon by the justice department, according to evidence given the cost of living committee of the Commons this morning.

The suggestion was made that the Deputy Minister of Justice and the Deputy Minister of Labor be summoned before the committee to explain why no action had been taken to enforce the recommendation.

The people of Halifax have for some time been paying 13c a small loaf.

The committee decided to inquire into the packing industry on Tuesday. Representatives of Gunn's, Swift's William Davies Company and Matthews Blackwell will be asked to appear and give evidence as to cost of producing goods and price at which they sell.

MINISTER OF LABOR EXPECTED TO RESIGN

Hon. Gideon D. Robertson To Quit Public Life, Is Report.

Regina, Sask., June 6.—It is expected in some quarters that within a short time Hon. Gideon D. Robertson, minister of labor, will resign public office and drop out of public life in Canada. Hon. Mr. Robertson intimated this in a letter read at the biennial convention of the Order of Railway Telegraphers, held in St. Louis, Mo., recently. At the convention he was elected third vice-president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers for two years, with salary of about $5,000. Mr. Robertson held this position before entering public life.

MINISTER DENIES REPORT.

Ottawa, June 6.—Hon. Senator Robertson, minister of labor, denies the current report that he is about to resign from the Government in order to resume his duties as vice-president of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers.

"The position is this," Senator Robertson said, "I resigned my position as vice-president of the railway telegraphers, but although I had sent in my resignation I was re-elected vice-president. I have, however, been given leave of absence by the order of railroad telegraphers so long as I hold office in the Government. My re-election to the vice-presidency does not affect my position in Ottawa."

FOUR WOUNDED AT IRISH CELEBRATION

Dublin, June 6.—One gird and three policemen were wounded last evening by shots which were fired when the police dispersed a crowd which had gathered in front of the Mansion House to celebrate the birthday of James Connolly, commandant-general of the Irish republic, who was executed in May, 1916, following the Irish revolt. The gathering had been forbidden by the city authorities.

MAYOR ORDERS STOPPING OF ALL PARADES

Formal Proclamation Issued At Winnipeg This Morning.

NO MORE CROWDS

Congregating On the City Streets Is Strictly Forbidden.

Winnipeg, June 6. — In a formal proclamation, published this morning, Mayor Charles F. Gray ordered the stoppage of all parades and forbade the congregating of crowds on the city streets.

Mayor Gray said he acted in the interests of law and order and with the hope of preventing bloodshed. It is understood the mayor learned that a clash between parades of strikers and of returned soldiers was considered inevitable.

Officials at the city hall and executives of the Winnipeg citizens committee, commented upon the action of local strike leaders in sending a national call for men prominently identified with the "one big union" movement to come to Winnipeg.

Fear "Big Five."

"Scores of men have come to my office, and hundreds have told various city officials that they are anxious to return to work, but that they fear the wrath of 'the biz five,' said Mayor Gray. "Men with tears in their eyes at bread and milk plants told me they wanted to stay on the job but that they were afraid."

This announcement was authorized by the citizens' committee.

The national call for help by the local labor leaders seems to be the beginning of the end. Following the collapse of various general strikes in different provinces and the failure to precipitate strikes in a number of cities, it seems quite plain that the Winnipeg agitators realize the fate of their one big union movement is hanging in the balance.

Winnipeg merchants and manufacturers know that thousands of union workers are ready to return to their jobs. Fear of violence has halted them.

Soldiers on Duty.

Returned soldiers are on duty today. For the first time since the strike began May 15, squads of street cleaners were in action. Newspapers again were sold in the business district. Milk was sold at municipal stalls in the city schools.

MONTREAL UNIONS ASK FOR REINSTATEMENT OF POSTAL EMPLOYEES

Montreal, June 6.—A change in the sentiment of the Montreal Trades and Labor Council with regard to the labor situation in the West was noticeable last night when that body, after hearing the reading of a communication from the Winnipeg Trades and Labor Council and others from the Vancouver Trades and Labor Council, the local central labor body passed a sympathetic resolution which follows:

"Be is resolved that the Montreal Trades and Labor Council tender its moral support to all organized workers fighting for the principle of the 44-hour week and collective bargaining.

"Be it further resolved, that the council request the Federal Government to reinstate the postal workers who have been on strike."

This resolution was passed unanimously and showed a complete revulsion of the sentiment of a few weeks ago, when the same body went on record with only three dissenting votes in condemning the "one big union."

ARMISTICE TERMS ARE PRESENTED TO AFGHANS

"Tariff Cat Is Out of Bag And It's About the Kind of Angora Promised."--Expositor

Brantford, June 6.—Commenting on the budget of Sir Thomas White, the Expositor says: "The tariff cat is out of the bag, and it is pretty much the kind of angora that had been promised.

"Summed up, the finance minister has attempted to carry out his promise to introduce a budget to 'please everybody,' and as is customary with such attempts, he had not succeeded.

"He has probably satisfied the manufacturers of the east, who are assured of 'adequate protection,' but he has certainly failed to satisfy the demands of the west, and as a result, we may expect the resignation from the Government of Hon. T. A. Crerar, the minister of agriculture, while the names of many other Unionists from the west are given as being certain to oppose the tariff proposals, if not to go on the 'cross benches.'"

WINNIPEG STRIKER ATTEMPTS TO HIT MAYOR OF CITY

Chief Magistrate's Guard Is Arrested by Policeman.

HAD A REVOLVER

Weapon Accidentally Exploded When He Was Cranking Car.

Winnipeg, June 6.—When Mayor Gray left the city hall yesterday with his bodyguard to enter an automobile, one of his men bent down to crank the machine, and a pistol in his hip pocket was exploded. The weapon was immediately seized by a man said to be a striker. A policeman arrested the mayor's guard.

The mayor proceeded to the police station and obtained the guard's release. A belligerent crowd gathered in front of the station, and the mayor's guards were obliged to shoulder their way through the gathering. One man struck at the mayor.

Despite the fact that yesterday passed without serious trouble, the tension has not been lessened.

COASTWISE SHIPPING NEARLY SUSPENDED AS RESULT OF STRIKE

Vancouver, June 6.—The ranks of Vancouver strikers were swelled yesterday when the metal trades workers, carpenters, sugar refinery employees and a number of small local unions walked out. Coastwise shipping has been almost completely tied up by the strike, as rapidly as the coast steamers reach the union men walk off and join the strikers. The Canadian Pacific Railway Company announced today it intended to continue passenger boats to Victoria.

UNION RAILWAYMEN AGAINST JOINING GENERAL STRIKE

Calgary, Alta., June 6.—Union railwaymen employed here by the Canadian Pacific Railway Company have voted against joining the general strike. Striking painters today returned to work. Twenty-four mail delivery routes are being operated by the Calgary postoffice. According to postal and police officials, no cases of interference have been reported by postal employees, most of whom were recruited to do the work of strikers.

NEW C. P. R. LIMITED CUTS 24 HOURS OFF CROSS-COUNTRY RUN

Trans-Canada Train Makes Fast Run, Montreal To Vancouver.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Vancouver, B.C., June 5.—Sharp on the hour of 10, the first C. P. R. trans-Canada train came into the Vancouver station, 93 hours and 30 minutes running time from Montreal. The splendid new train left Montreal at 3:30 Sunday afternoon with nearly a hundred passengers on board, and picked up others en route. The highest number of passengers was 125. There were but three C. P. R. officials on board, George Hem of Montreal, Mr. C. E. McPherson of Winnipeg and F. W. Fox of Montreal.

The passengers on the cross-country flight of the train consisted largely of Americans from Boston, New York, Washington, D.C., and San Francisco. Some left at Banff, but the majority came through. Those who were interviewed here expressed extreme satisfaction with the train and especially with the dining car service. One experienced traveller who has been crossing the continent on C. P. R. trains since 1886, declared that the service on this train was superior to any he had travelled on. Nearly six million dollars were expended in equipment for this train. It requires in the cross continent service as sleeping cars, fifteen fully equipped dining cars, twelve observation cars, five compartment cars, twelve baggage cars and twenty-four locomotives. The train absorbed twelve train crews and twenty-four engine crews.

Never Behind Time.

Mr. George Ham stated, when interviewed, that the journey was one of the most pleasant he had experienced in his many trips on the line. The train was never behind time, and in fact at some places was exceeding itself; had it not been scheduled to arrive at Vancouver at 10 o'clock this morning, it could have comfortably reached here long before.

The time schedule of the trans-Canada limited shows running time of 93 hours 30 minutes west from Montreal, and 92 hours 15 minutes east. From Toronto to Vancouver, 59 hours 45 minutes are required west and 88 hours east.

Cuts 24 Hours off Run.

The new train cuts 24 hours off the run from Montreal to Vancouver. It is particularly appreciated by the business men of the East and the West reducing as it does the period of direct communication. Its average speed across the continent was 35 miles per hour, and the passengers state there was less vibration noticeable than on ordinary trains. All the trains of the trans-Canada limited are manned by the oldest and best-trained and experienced men on the entire list.

In spite of the strike and the cessation of street car service, there was quite a crowd at the station to greet the new flyer as she came in.

The moving picture operators who accompanied the train on their cross continent trip and took pictures of mountain and rural scenery along the line report splendid results from their efforts.

Saskatchewan Premier Condemns Budget Proposals, Calls On the Western Members In House To Vote Against Government

CONDEMNS BUDGET PROPOSALS AS OF NO USE TO WEST

Advertiser Illustrations
PREMIER MARTIN of Saskatchewan.

Premier Martin of Western Provincial Government Declares That Slight Tariff Reduction Means Practically Nothing At All to the West and That People Are by No Means Satisfied.

Regina, June 5.—Premier Martin, Hon. C. A. Dunning and Hon. S. J. Latta expressed great dissatisfaction with the budget proposals, declaring that the western members in the House should vote against the Government, as the reductions mean practically nothing at all to the West, and they certainly will not be satisfactory to the people of this country.

INCREASED INCOME TAX LIKELY TO BE BURDEN, NOT BENEFIT

Ottawa, June 6.—The Citizen today says: "Sir Thomas White's latest budget is likely to have one stimulating effect—it should cause the people of Canada to study their economic position in the world with an intense personal interest, more than ever before. It is a Conservative budget. High protection is still maintained as the finance policy of Canada. The finance minister proposes no substantial step towards a low tariff policy. . . . . Sir Thomas White is entitled to credit to the extent that he has substituted income taxation for the customs tax. But the change is so slight, it is so little calculated to reduce living costs, the increased income tax is liable to be felt rather as an additional burden on the average citizen."

FOUR CANADIAN UNITS ARE HOME ON MAURETANIA

Giant Liner Docks At Halifax Early Today.

MADE FAST TRIP

Maj.-General Burstall Praises Conduct of Canadians Since Armistice.

Halifax, N.S., June 6.—The Cunarder Mauretania, with 182 officers and 3,507 other ranks, including the 87th Battalion for Montreal, the 75th and 102nd battalions for Toronto, and the 54th Battalion for Hamilton, arrived here early this morning from Liverpool, and docked at pier 2 at 7 o'clock.

The steamer made the voyage in 4 days and 18 hours. Major-Gen. Burstall spoke glowingly of the behavior of the 11th Infantry Brigade throughout the voyage, stating that the men had been especially complimented by the commander of the Mauretania on the neatness in which they had kept their quarters.

Praises Canadians.

He said the behavior of Canadian troops since the signing of the armistice, on the continent and in England, had been magnificent. Men had been killed at Kinmel, but apart from these casualties, the outbreak there had been relatively unimportant. The general praised the generosity with which the people of England had praised the deeds of the Canadians, and said that any misunderstandings of the spirit which had developed during the past few months had been due to the practice of some English newspapers of featuring incidents involving Canadians which were really too trivial to mention at all.

Helped Make Unit.

The general praised the work of Col. C. C. Harbottle of Toronto, acting brigadier of the 11th Brigade, on the Mauretania, saying that he was one of the officers who had helped to make the work of the Canadian corps as a whole of so outstanding a character.

Major-Gen. Archibald MacDonnell, K.C.B., C.M.G., D.S.O., Legion of Honor, of Alexandra, Ont., who went overseas in command of the Strathcona Horse, was promoted to the command of the 7th Infantry Brigade, and in June, 1917, to the comamnd of the 1st Canadian Division, was accompanied by Lady MacDannell and daughter.

Officers for Toronto arriving on the ship were: Lieuts. E. T. Brownridge, G. M. Cunningham, C. T. Croutcher, T. M. Grover, R. R. Harris, C. H. Morris, A. Smith, F. H. Watson and C. M. Wood; Capts. A. E. Grant, R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, E. M. Pease and D. Stripe; Lieut.-Col. C. C. Harbottle, Major W. L. Baynes-Reid.

PARIS TRANSPORT STRIKE SITUATION REMAINS UNCHANGED

Strikers Protest Against the Statement That Bolshevism Is Behind the Move.

Paris, June 6.—The strike situation was stationary this morning. Transport workers at meetings held yesterday, pledged themselves to remain out until their demands were fully satisfied, and subway employees passed resolutions expressing contempt for "persons who have been insinuating that Bolshevism is behind the strike."

The metal industries have made virtually no progress toward a settlement as yet. A meeting to consider the situation was held late last night by the executive committee of the general labor federation.

The prefect of police, the principal officials and the commander of the staff of the military governor had a long conference at a meeting which, according to the Journal, lasted from 3:30 o'clock last night until after 1 o'clock this morning. Several police measures were decided upon and fresh detachments of infantry and cavalry will be called in this morning to cooperate with the city officials. Numerous patrols of cavalry will be sent out and military auto-trucks will be posted at different points ready to rapidly concentrate troops wherever they are needed. In a statement published today, the more powerful railroad unions declare that they have decided that they are not called upon to take any measures in connection with the present disturbance.

SPECIAL MEETING.—For the purpose of conferring with the street railway company officials regarding Sunday cars to Springbank, the Public Utilities Commission will hold a special meeting this afternoon.

MONTREAL GAZETTE SEES REASONS FOR ACCEPTING PROPOSALS

Montreal, June 6.—Commenting on the tariff announcements, the Gazette says: "The tariff proposals should receive general acceptance. Sir Thomas White has succeeded in some degree at least in satisfying the demands of northwestern farmers without weakening the stability of industries. The protection principle is retained as the basis of the financial policy, concurrently with a not insignificant reduction of customs taxation and the promotion of empire trade."

It is expected that during the course of the budget debate Mr. Crerar will further outline his position.

BUSINESSMEN HAVE LITTLE TO SAY ON BUDGET PROPOSALS

Have Not Had Time To Digest Them.

WILL CHEAPEN CLOTHES

Yet Leaves Enough Protecton For Manufacturers, Is One Statement.

Although Sir Thomas White's budget proposals are the main topic of conversation today, inquiries among manufacturers and other businessmen tended to show that the majority of people had not had time to digest the details thoroughly, and consequently did not care to say much for publication.

Will Cheapen Clothes.

Major Gordon Ingram of Smallman & Ingram believes that the only effect will be a reduction in price to the consumer. "If woolens, cottons, etc., are to be 7½ or 5 per cent cheaper to us, it is certain the consumer will gain by that much. I do not think there is any likelihood of the change causing heavier buying in the United States."

Not Much Affected.

John McClary, president of the McClary Manufacturing Company had little comment to make on the budget. He remarked that "The changes do not seem to affect us much. As for buying in the United States anything we want, it is almost out of the question, since the wages are so high there as to be out of all reason, and the prices go up, too. No doubt the implement men will be hit, and I don't think they were sufficiently protected before."

Robert Greene, president of Greene-Swift Limited, is not perturbed because of the tariff changes affecting his business. He says: "Of course, it will give American manufacturers of clothing an opportunity to send in goods, but the remaining duty is about sufficient protection. I think we need this protection, and a little more taken off would let the Americans get too much of Canadian trade, especially along the border. We expected what has been proposed, which simply puts us on a pre-war basis."

Arthur W. White of the George White & Sons Co., Limited, had not been able to find time to go thoroughly into all the changes, but made the following statement:

"I think it is a very courageous budget, considering the pressure brought to bear by the west and other parties. One thing, though, I see nothing about gas tractors. These have been on the free list as a war measure, and it seems as if they are to continue to be free, thus preventing our manufacturing them here.

"During the time tractors have been free of duty we have been purchasing them in the United States and distributing them in Canada through our agents. This we will have to continue to do while they are on the free list and the duty remains on the raw material entering into their construction.

"The other tariff changes don't affect us very greatly. We do not know as yet how far there will be drawbacks and allowances on the raw materials entering into the construction of machinery, as there are no details given on these. On this much will depend."

"Did you notice that the reduction of tariff in lines affecting you is 2½ per cent greater than that proposed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier in the reciprocity pact, which you opposed?" asked the reporter.

"Oh, well, these are not along the same lines. They are divided differently and I cannot compare them," replied Mr. White.

EARLY MORNING FIRE DAMAGES PRINCESS THEATRE BUILDING

Origin Unknown—Loss Placed in Neighborhood of $5,000 by the Fire Chief.

Fire caused $5,000 damage to the Princess Theatre at 1 o'clock this morning. The cause of the blaze is unknown. It started at the back of the building, underneath the stage and spread rapidly through the scenery, completely destroying most of it.

When the firemen arrived the smoke was pouring from the second and third story windows. When the windows were broken, intense heat greeted the "fire-eaters." Other lines of hose were run into the rear of the building from Carling street, and the blaze was subdued after half an hour hard work.

H. Fralic, acting manager in the absense of Manager G. Vaughn, lives on the second floor, but he was out at the time. An employee named Reid, stated that he had made a tour of the building at 10:30 before they closed up, and that everything was all right.

In the afternoon lightning struck the sky-light and smashed it, but this is not believed to have had any connection with the early morning blaze.

The alarm was turned in from the box at Dundas and Richmond streets. A scenery painter who does his work on the top floor, where the moving picture machine is situated, had considerable of his apparatus damaged by fire.

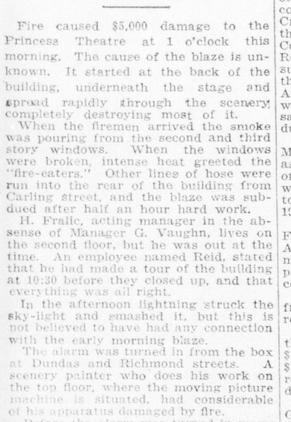

Before the alarm was turned in many pedestrians stood on the street in front of the building and conjectured whether the smoke was issuing from a chimney or the upstair windows.

The place is inundated with water, and the plaster is dropping from the ceiling.

The smoke filled the London Crockery Company's store and also the cellar of Oak Hall, but no damage was done.

As soon as the firemen from the central station left they were called back to the rear of the theatre, where the blaze had broken out again in the scenery. It was soon got under control. The manager of Eddy Bros. was called out to open up the office, but there was no damage.

The building is owned by the Grafton Company.

Wind Does Damage To Tent At Park; Trees Also Suffer

The wind almost wrecked the hospital tent of No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John Ambulance Brigade, Thursday afternoon during the rain storm. It upset the instrument table and the washstand, but some of the veterans came to the rescue and the tent was saved.

During the heavy wind and electrical storm yesterday afternoon, a large branch off one of the beautiful maple trees in front of St. Martin's Church, Cathcart street, was blown down, narrowly missing a large church window. One of the trees across the street was similarly damaged.

ERECT MONUMENT ON COURTHOUSE SQUARE, SAYS COUNTY COUNCIL

But Leaves Proposal Over Till They Meet Again in December.

After hearing the report of a special committee regarding the erection of a monument in memory of the Middlesex soldiers, who fell in action, the county council in session on Thursday afternoon left the matter over until the December session, so that more information could be obtained. The committee recommended that the monument be built on the courthouse square, and that County Clerk John Stewart secure a list of all the Middlesex men, who died in the service of any of the allied armies or navies.

"Lucky is the organization that receives a grant from the county council," remarked a visitor who was there. Several requests for grants have been made at this June session, but all of them have been refused. At Thursday's meeting the councillors agreed on the recommendation of the finance committee, and turned down the Red Cross, the twenty public libraries of the county, and the Western Ontario Consignment Sales Company. The Red Cross request, which was for a substantial amount, was left over from the January session to be dealt with at this session. The libraries each were asking for a $25 grant, and the sales company was asking $200 to conduct a cattle show in the city.

Assessment of the municipalities of Middlesex will be the same this year as last. This was the recommendation of the equalization committee, which was approved of by the council. The total assessment of the county is $39,192,750.

Warden John Currie, Councillors E. F. Reycraft, David Smith, S. Okes, and A. Holman, were appointed as a committee to supervise the granting of partial support to the destitute of the county.

Strathroy Hospital asked for a grant from the council, and their request was referred to the finance committee.

From January 1, 1919, until June 1, the receipts of the county totalled $132,131.82, and the disbursements $117,068.86. Receipts from the county road system amounted to $3,740.59, and disbursements to $8,097.79.

Councillors A. J. Wright, W. E. Grieve, Alton Ryckman and Warden Currie were elected as a committee to attend to the insurance of the county building and to report at the December session.

COLLEGIATE CADET CORPS SHOW UP CREDITABLY

Large crowds of children and passing public witnessed the inspection of the Cadet Corps of the London Collegiate Institute on Thursday afternoon by Col. W. A. McCrimmon, O. and I. C. C. of Military District No. 1.

The cadets, numbering 64, with 4 officers, making a total of 68, looked very trim in their navy blue uniforms with red stripe. According to merit, the Hutchinson challenge cup will be presented to the best corps inspected. Lieut. Will Alford was in charge of Platoon No. 1, Lieut. E. Killingsworth of Platoon No. 2, and Lieut. Widowson of the signaling section.

All orders were carried out with decision, and Lieut.-Col. McCrimmon expressed himself as being well pleased with the corps, although no decision as to the winning corps of the cup will be made yet.

PUBLIC LIBRARY BOARD

The public library board met last night and then adjourned to the first Thursday in September. The librarian's report showed a circulation of books during May totalling 24,768. The circulation of books at the branches is holding up well. The reference department was used by over 2,400 people during the month, and a total of 411 pictures were loaned out to teachers and others. For those desiring special lists of books at the library there are reading lists available of the books on gardening, municipal government, business, and a selection of books on the Great War.

SUPERINTENDENT RESIGNS.

After three years faithful service, Miss M. F. Walker, superintendent of Victoria Home, is resigning her position on the staff of that institution. Next week will see the end of her term of service. Regrets at her leaving are heard on all sides, especially from the patients who declare that she always was kind, faithful and obliging.

NEW SUBSTATION TO SUPPLY POWER FOR NORTH SIDE

Utilities Commission Authorizes Securing of Location For Plant.

The utilities commission will erect a new substation in the north part of the city for the supply of electrical power to the factories in that section. General Manager Buchanan reported to the commission yesterday afternoon that the cost, including cables, would be about $14,000. He was authorized to try to secure a good location, and to report at the next meeting. The voltage carried over the substation cables will be 15,000.

Mr. Buchanan also pointed out that the feeders for the east end, situated at the corner of Queen's avenue and Colborne street, would have to be replaced by heavier ones. He suggested that it would be a great improvement if they could be put underground, but stated that to do this would involve a cost of approximately $40,000. No action was taken.

The draft of an agreement for the pumping of water for the Grand Trunk tanks was submitted by Mr. Buchanan, who stated that the company had asked for this service and had sent in an agreement, which was not satisfactory, as it embodied a clause providing for the supply of city water for drinking purposes at the same price as river water for generating steam, etc. Such a request, said Chairman P. Pocock, was equivalent to asking the Grand Trunk for passenger fares at the same rate as freight tariffs.

Mr. Buchanan stated that the railway company now pumped its own water from the river, and to do so had to maintain three shifts of men, involving a big cost. If the agreement were entered into it would be a very good thing for the company, and at the same time it would be an excellent proposition from the point of view of the commission, which would not have to employ any more men than at the present, and would simply have to install pumps and pipes. The general manager was instructed to send the draft agreement back to the company, and it could be ratified later if it were satisfactory to the company.

Tenders For Transformers.

Tenders for two transformers were opened, but no action was taken. The commission referred them to the general manager to tabulate and report on them. The firms tendering on their prices were as follows: Canadian General Electric Company, $15,466; Crocker-Wheeler Company, $13,000, or $14,000 for transformers with a guaranteed temperature rise less than was called for in the specifications; Packard Electric Company, $13,960; Westinghouse Electric Company, $17,500; Maloney Electric Company, $12,900.

A report from the parks board was submitted by Commissioner Jared Vining and was adopted. It included a recommendation that the $3,500 to be paid by the military authorities to the parks board as indemnity for the use of Queen's Park be utilized in restoring the roadways and grounds at Queen's Park. The report also suggested that Mr. Buchanan be instructed to find out on what terms war trophies could be secured for London. He will do this.

Other recommendations from the parks board which the commission approved were that payment of $2,215 taxes for parks should be refused; that an offer of Flanders poppy seed be declined with thanks, and that the Independent Labor Party, which had asked permission to use Victoria Park for Sunday evening meetings, be notified that the park was already fully engaged for Sunday evenings.

A communication was received from the Ontario Hydro-Electric Commission stating that a 10 per cent reduction in power rates had been authorized, but the light rates would remain as they are. The reduction in power rates will mean a saving of about $3,500 to local users.

Accedes To Request.

The commission acceded to a request from the Soldiers' Wives' League for free light at the hostel on King street. It declined an invitation to became a member of the Ontario Safety League, and authorized acknowledgment of a communication from the city council notifying the commission that No. 1 committee of the council had been appointed to confer with the commission with a view to securing an early arrangement for Sunday street car service to Springbank. An application from the Sparks Shows for water during their visit to the city was left to Mr. Buchanan.

W. R. Wadsworth and Wallace Mariam of Byron appeared to ask the commission to sell the property adjoining the Methodist Church, on which the congregation desired to build a parsonage. The commission promised that the matter should have consideration, and that the general manager would visit the site and make a report.

The commission will attend in a body the convention of electrical engineers and hydro municipalities at Niagara Falls on June 19. The Ontario Hydro Commission has invited the local commissioners to take advantage of the convention to visit the new development plant.

IN POLICE COURT

John Haman, David Armstrong and Walter Daniels were released on $250 bail and Charles Wood was released on $500 bail when they appeared in police court this morning, charged with a breach of the Ontario temperance act. The case was adjourned for one week.

Charles H. White, H. Wintherin and N. J. Griffith paid fines of $5 with costs for breaches of the motor vehicle act. J. E. Kidd and Frank Windsor paid $2 and costs for breaking traffic rules, while the cases against Samuel Gray and J. T. Ross were adjourned until June 9.

George Francis failed to present himself at police court on a charge of being disorderly, and instructions were given to police to arrest him.

CRUSHED IN ACCIDENT AT FREIGHT SHEDS

Francis Webb, 362 Horton street, was taken to Victoria Hospital late yesterday afternoon following an accident in the Grand Trunk freight sheds, when a piano he was attempting to move slipped and crushed him to the floor, with the result that he was severely hurt, receiving internal injuries.

This afternoon, the hospital authorities stated that the injured man was in very great pain, but that his condition was not regarded as serious.

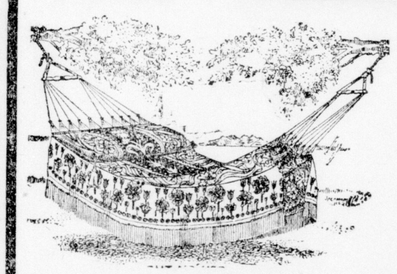

FINISHES HOUSECLEANING AND CAN BEGIN AGAIN, THANKS TO LIGHTNING

Housecleaning season is just starting for the second time this spring for Mrs. R. T. Bremner at 486 English street.

During the storm yesterday afternoon, a lightning bolt struck the chimney of the house and knocked several bricks down the chimney leading into the kitchen. The brick smashed the stovepipe and sent a cloud of soot and debris into the room. There was no fire and little damage.

Firemen helped to straighten out the stovepipes and replace them.

Safety First

Passing Talbot Street School at noon yesterday we came within six inches of knocking down a lad who stepped off the sidewalk directly in front of our car, without looking to the right or left. Only for the fact that we were traveling very slowly that boy would today be either dead, or in the hospital, badly injured. Would it not be wise for the Board of Education to instruct all the leaders to take a little time each day to impress on the pupils the idea of "Safety First" and "Watch Your Step"? The city of Detroit is conducting a huge campaign along these lines, and have already reduced their accidental death rate over one-half. They have spent close to $15,000 on "Safety First" propaganda, and they are getting results in life-saving.

With the multiplicity of automobiles on our city streets, we must do somethink in educational work, and if it only results in saving one life we will be richly rewarded. —OLD-TIMER.

GRAND JURY FINDS PUBLIC INSTITUTIONS IN GOOD CONDITION

Inmates All Contented and Fairly Happy.

CHANGE ASYLUM NAME

Recommendation Is That It Be Called the Ontario Hospital.

The report of the grand jury in the general sessions of the peace was received by Judge Talbot Macbeth at the County Buildings today. The jury inspected the county jail buildings, the Hospital for the Insane, and the Byron Sanatorium, reporting all three institutions to be in first-class condition. The inmates in these institutions were satisfied with conditions, and the jury complimented the staff administering to returned soldier patients numbering 221 at the Byron Sanatorium. The preventorium for children at this place was also an object of compliment, there being 30 young patients receiving treatment there.

Would Change Name.

The members recommended that the name, Hospital for the Insane, be changed to "Ontario Hospital, London," and that electric fans be placed in the washing and ironing rooms at this institution, and on the verandas for sick patients. They found 1,189 patients in the Hospital for the Insane, 630 females and 559 males.

Favors Electrocution.

The grand jury also recommended that capital punishment be carried out in a central penitentiary, electrocuting being favored as a means of inflicting the death penalty, instead of hanging as at present, which was condemned by them. In reviewing the report, Judge Macbeth complimented the jurors, under Foreman F. E. Harley, for their good work, and promised to forward the recommendations to the proper authorities for consideration. He stated that he was glad that capital punishment had not been carried out in this county for years, and hoped that it would never be necessary to again inflict the death penalty in this district. Having completed their duties for the June session of the county court, the grand jury was then discharged by Judge Macbeth.

LOCAL NEWS

WRIT ISSUED.—James Cowan & Co., through their solicitors, Meredith & Meredith, have issued a writ against Goodwin Bros. of Niagara Falls for $157.78 for goods sold and delivered.

CHIMNEY FIRE. — A defective chimney flue caused a small blaze at the residence of R. T. Bremner, 486 English street, at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Little damage was done, and the fire was extinguished by firemen.

TO SPEAK ON MINIMUM WAGE.—Dr. L. A. Wood, professor of economics at the Western University, will address the Men's Brotherhood of Askin Street Methodist Church next Sunday morning at 10 o'clock on "The Minimum Wage in Industry."

BIG PARTY ON WAY.—Veterans for this district off the Empress of Britain left Moncton at 10:40 o'clock last night. Included in the party are 22 officers, 1 baby, 2 ladies, 3 staff and 439 other ranks.

NOT THE MAN.—William H. Hines, photographer, 666 Dundas street, wishes it understood that he is not the young man found guilty yesterday of assaulting a boy. It was another of the same name who was fined.

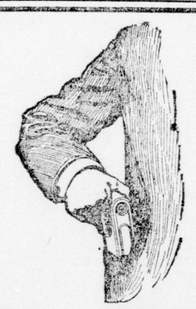

WAS NOT THEFT.—The charge of theft of a motor car laid at the police station against Ivor Johnston was withdrawn yesterday when commitment papers to the asylum were made out by the police magistrate. Johnston, it is said, merely made use of the motor car in question for a longer time than his instructions called for.

TAKEN HOME UNCONSCIOUS.—Nine more casualties were handled at the tent of No. 4 Nursing Division, St. John Ambulance Brigade, at the carnival at Queen's Park Thursday afternoon. One young woman who, it is said, fell from the merry-go-round, was removed to her home in an unconscious condition.

SISTER SUES BROTHER.—In the general sessions of the peace at the courthouse today, Elizabeth J. Clampitt is suing her brother, B. G. Clampitt, and Mary Donoghue for possession of land and damages for trespass in respect of property willed by her father, now dead. The case is being heard by Judge Talbot Macbeth, and was still in progress this afternoon.

WRIT AGAINST CHINAMAN.—Owen & Co. of this city have issued a writ against John Juhn, a Celestial, because, they allege, he failed to make good a promissory note which he and Lee Chong, another Chinaman, made. It appears that Chong had no property to back him. He told the plaintiffs that Juhn, who manages the Crown Cafe, is intending to sell his business and return to China without paying his debts. An order was secured for his arrest, and he will be held by the sheriff until he makes good the note, which amounts to $102.99.

ENTERTAINING CADETS.—Principal W. H. Liddicoat and the girls of the eighth grade of the Talbot Street School are holding an ice cream social this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the kindergarten-room in honor of the school cadets. The cadets have put in a most successful year's work under their captain, Capt. George Mitchell, and the instruction of Sergt.-Major Green, and it is in recognition of the fine spirit they have shown that the entertainment has been arranged. The kindergarten-room is decorated for the occasion in the school colors, purple and gold, carried out with iris.

Tickets Four For a Quarter, Is Plan.

ALTERNATIVE IS OFFERED

If Increased Fares Given During Week, Will Accept Five Cents.

Manager C. B. King of the London Street Railway will submit proposals for Sunday service to Springbank to the utilities commission today. It will be an alternative proposition, suggesting that the company must secure a rate of four tickets for a quarter for Springbank Sunday service, unless the city council will implement, by bylaw, its resolution to permit of 6 for 25 cents tickets in the city generally. If the council will agree to the 6 regular and 7 limited ticket rates being put into effect the rates on Sunday will be the same all round, both for city and Springbank operation.

If the terms suggested by the company are agreed to, Manager King says Londoners will be able to spend next Sunday at Springbank, riding on tickets sold at 4 for 25 cents, or a rate of 6¼ cents each way. This, Manager King says, will mean a charge of 12½ cents for a round trip ride of more than 10 miles from Dundas and Richmond streets. The rate is 25 per cent higher than the week day charge of 10 cents for the round trip, made necessary, according to the manager, by the payment of 33 per cent higher wages to the company's employees for Sunday work.

The suggested rates will provide for the sale of one round trip ticket for 15 cents, or for a charge of 10 cents cash for a one-way trip.

Manager's Theory.

Manager King, who will present the company's proposals to the public utilities commission, declares that Sunday operation of the Springbank line will be expensive, and lacking in attractiveness for many reasons in addition to the extra cost of wages on Sunday. There will be perhaps ten good summer Sundays in each year, and against them will be forty bad Sundays, on which there will be light travel or none. Furthermore, he claims that on the summer Sundays the people will all move each way at about the same time, thus creating aggravated peak loads, in which it will be necessary to bring out numerous cars, which at other times will be practically idle. The sale of tickets at 6¼ cents will give a Sunday rate a cent and a quarter higher than the present week-day rate. The company also draws attention to the fact that in 1906 the Ontario Railway Board determined that a fair charge for the distance between London and Springbank would be 10 cents each way.

Comparison.

"In those days, thirteen years ago, the cost of operation was comparatively low," Mr. King stated to The Advertiser. "Still we are prepared to offer the people a rate of 6¼ cents now in the face of the fact that we have passed through a war period that has driven operating costs to abnormal levels."

Mr. King added that the company will present with its proposal an offer bearing on the rates on both city and Springbank lines. The council on April 7 passed a resolution endorsing fares of 6 regular or 7 limited tickets for 25 cents instead of the present rates of 7 and 9 for 25 cents. He said the company at once restored a full service on all city lines, and believing that the relief which the council had sanctioned would be made available without delay, continued to run on the increased schedule until Monday last. On that date the company was compelled to resort again to measures of economy and to this end schedules were once more revised.

New Rates Are On.

Meanwhile the new Sunday rate of 5 cents straight on city lines has gone into effect.

Now the company is prepared to accept the proposed 6-for-25-cent tickets on Sunday on the city system if the council will take action on its own resolution.

Such an increase in week-day rates would also enable the company to give Sunday service on the Springbank line for the same fares charged on week days. Manager King will inform the public utilities commission.

If the utilities commission accepts the suggestions of the company there need be no further obstacle in the way of an immediate commencement of Sunday cars to Springbank.

TWO MONTHS JAIL FOR AUTO THIEF IS COURT'S SENTENCE

Magistrate Takes Into Account Previous Character.

ATTEMPT BRINGS MONTH

Robert McArthur Tried It On Spur of the Moment.

"Motor cars have become articles of such general utility that if the owners of cars cannot leave them on the street unattended as has become the custom, their utility will become greatly hampered," Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon told Harold Williams of St. Thomas in police court this morning in sentencing Williams to two months in jail for the theft of a motor car on May 26.

Counsel for Williams presented a pile of references to the magistrate from prominent St. Thomas citizens vouching for the prisoner's previous good character, including commendations from the present mayor, two ex-mayors, three ministers and prominent business men.

The Theft.

On Monday, May 26, Williams came to London from St. Thomas, and noticed Stanley Meredith's car standing in front of the Patricia Theatre on Clarence street about 10 p.m. with the mechanism locked.

Williams then called at the McLaughlin garage and told the clerk on duty that he had just bought a new McLaughlin car, but could not start it because he had lost the key. A mechanic drove Williams to the Patricia Theatre, unlocked Meredith's car, and Williams climbed aboard and disappeared. He was arrested in St. Thomas the following day when he attempted to purchase a key for the car at the Spackman Garage there.

Williams is 20 years old, the son of a respectable St. Thomas family.

In handing down sentence, the magistrate explained that the theft of the motor car had not been committed on the impulse of the moment, but had been planned deliberately, and shrewdly carried out. In view of Williams' previous good character, his references and the fact that his parents were highly respectable people, he made the sentence of two months in jail a lenient one.

Gets One Month.

Robert McArthur was given the same warning regarding the necessity of safeguarding motor cars left standing on the street as had been handed down to Russell by the magistrate. McArthur was sentenced to 30 days in jail for an attempt to steal a car on May 16, owned by Thomas Edwards.

On May 16, in company with John Russell, who received a similar sentence of 30 days in the county court today, McArthur was caught by P. C. Louis McCaughley after an exciting chase, when Russell and McArthur had tried to escape with Edwards' car.

"Unlike Williams, you evidently committed this crime on the impulse of the moment. You had been drinking, but that is no excuse. I've taken a great personal interest in your family, and have sympathy for your children. You are fortunate in being sentenced to only 30 days in jail," magistrate told the prisoner.

McArthur has four small children.

GENEROUS RESPONSE TO TAG DAY FOR BABIES ON SATURDAY ANTICIPATED

Following the big child welfare exhibit of this week and the clinics at which nearly four hundred little ones were examined within a period of three days, it is anticipated that there will be a generous response Saturday for the tag day in the interests of saving London's babies, and to make possible the carrying on and extension of the work.

The mothers' clubs have undertaken the responsibility of the management of the Child Welfare tag day campaign, and most thorough organization has been effected, under the convenership of the president of the Union Mothers' Club, Mrs. A. P. Tutt.

Sixteen school district mothers' clubs are each canvassing their own districts while strong teams will be placed down town to look after the business section.

Tag day supplies are being given out this afternoon in the Child Welfare Association headquarters in the Western Fair offices, Dominion Savings Building.

MUST GO TO JAIL FOR ONE MONTH ON CHARGE OF THEFT

John Russell Admitted He Was Guilty.

Had No Intention of Taking or Stealing the Auto.

Thirty days in the common jail was the sentence imposed on John Russell by Judge J. C. Judd in the county court this morning, the prisoner having pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to steal an auto recently. The judge stated that he would be glad to suspend sentence on Russell, but this was impossible under the circumstances.

"The newspapers are right," he said, "when they state that there is an epidemic of auto thefts throughout the city. They must stop, and the fact that you served four years overseas under discipline should have prevented you from committing this rash act. I will impose upon you the same sentence as the police magistrate has imposed upon your companion this morning. It is not a long sentence, but it should stop this foolishness."

The prisoner is a married man, and a member of the original first Canadian contingent, having served at the front. In addition to character references from his superior officers in the army, Judge Judd reviewed a largely-signed petition from Walkerton, Russell's former home, which testified to his previous good character.

Before sentence was passed, Russell stated that he had no intention of stealing the car, but was under the influence of liquor at the time, and consequently did not realize the seriousness of his offence. Judge Judd admitted that this was likely true, and stated in court that his purpose in imposing the light sentence upon Russell was to punish him, and also to make it serve as a deterrent to others contemplating similar action in the future.

Cocoanut Oil Fine For Washing Hair

If you want to keep your hair in good condition, be careful what you wash it with.

Don't use prepared shampoos or anything else, that contains too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and is very harmful. Just plain mulsified cocoanut oil (which is pure and entirely greaseless), is much better than anything else you can use for shampooing, as this can't possibly injure the hair.

Simply moisten your hair with water and rub it in. One or two teaspoonfuls will make an abundance of rich, creamy lather, and cleanses the hair and scalp thoroughly. The lather rinses out easily and removes every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves it fine and silky, bright, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get mulsified cocoanut oil at most any drug store. It is very cheap, and a few ounces is enough to last everyone in the family for months.—Advt.

CURIOUS SITUATION IN CONNECTION WITH ESSEX JUDGESHIP

Will Senior Be Appointed or Not?

NO TIME TO LOSE NOW

M. P. McDonough and Lieut.-Col. E. S. Wigle Are Mentioned.

The recent death of Judge J. C. Dromgole, senior judge of Essex County, and formerly of this city, has caused the mention of several names in connection with his successor, and the problem of whether the new regulation abolishing the junior judgeships will affect the appointment is being discussed.

The name of M. P. McDonough of this city has been mentioned in connection with the vacancy, and the name of Lieut.-Col. E. A. Wigle, former commander of the 18th Battalion, and a well-known Windsor lawyer, is also advanced.

Need to Hurry.

But the law which abolished the junior judgeships in all but a few counties may be effective unless the appointment is made soon. The law is to go into force 60 days after being passed by the Legislature, and as Judge Dromgole died within a few days of the passing of the act, little time is left in which to name the judge. Hon. Mr. Doherty, minister of justice, is absent from the country, and in the event that no one is named the position would naturally fall to Judge Smith who is now junior judge.

Want Senior Judge.

The Windsor bar is said to be anxious to have a senior judge named, and if the powers that be can be persauded to act before the two months' notice has elapsed, either Mr. McDonough or Col. Wigle will be appointed.

The situation is regarded as one of the most interesting that has been noticed in connection with judgeships. Both the gentlemen mentioned for the bench are well known in their communities, Mr. McDonough being known as a Conservative, and a prominent Catholic, while Col. Wigle is a Conservative and a Protestant. Mr. Doherty's absence may mean that Essex County will have to get along with one judge.

BODY FOUND IN CANAL IDENTIFIED AS THAT OF ROSA LUXEMBURG

Berlin, June 6. — The body of the woman found in the Landwehr Canal on June 1 has been positively identified as that of Rosa Luxemburg, the radical Socialist leader, who, with Dr. Karl Liebknecht, was assassinated early in the year by a mob in this city.

The fact that it was Fraulein Luxemburg's body was definitely established when her former secretary recognized a medallion found on the person, and parts of the clothing. The remains will be buried by the side of Dr. Liebknecht.

CHARGE DISMISSED

A. Neil Not Evader of Military Service Act.

George A. Neil, manager of the Canadian Smallware Company, in this city, was dismissed on a charge of evading the Military Service Act when he appeared today in police court.

Neil came to Ontario from Halifax in December, 1918, after claiming that he had notified military and postal authorities there of his change of address. He had previously been classified as being in category C3, and said he was told he would not be required to report to military authorities until this draft was called. He had heard nothing with regard to his appearance before a military tribunal until he was summoned to appear in police court today.

COULD HAVE SAVED THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS

Brown Sorry He Didn't Know About Tanlac Sooner—Gains Seventeen Pounds.

"If I had had Tanlac five years ago I could have saved not only a world of suffering but more than a thousand dollars besides, said W. F. Brown of 132 Yorkville avenue, Toronto, Ont., Canada, recently.

"I had a terrible case of stomach trouble," he continued, "and would bloat up with gas something awful. I would suffer with agonizing pains in my stomach and was never free from headaches. For nine months I was on a light diet, and became so weak that I could hardly dress myself. I lost weight until I was little more than skin and bones and was so nervous I could hardly sleep. I took every kind of treatment and spent months in hospitals, but only got worse and was so bad off that I was given up to die.

"One day my brother-in-law suggested that I try Tanlac, and I did so, and I am feeling a thousand times better. I have already gained seventeen pounds, my appetite is fine, the gas and those awful pains have disappeared, and I can eat most anything without suffering afterwards."

Tanlac is sold in London by Standard Drug, Limited, and by an established agency in every town.

STOMACH TROUBLES ARE DUE TO ACIDITY

Tells Safe, Certain, Speedy Relief For Acid Indigestion.

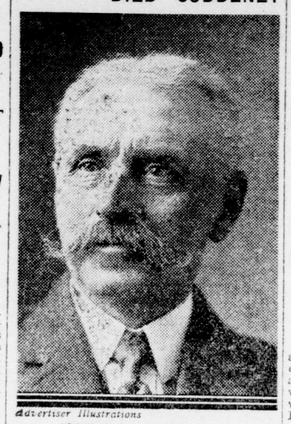

So-called stomach troubles, such as indigestion, gas, sourness, stomach-ache and inability to retain food, are in probably nine cases out of ten simply evidence that excessive secretion of acid is taking place in the stomach, causing the formation of gas and acid indigestion.

Gas distends the stomach and causes that full, oppressive, burning feeling sometimes known as heartburn, while the acid irritates and inflames the delicate lining of the stomach. The trouble lies entirely in the excess development or secretion of acid.

To stop or prevent this souring of the food contents of the stomach, and to neutralize the acid, and make it bland and harmless, a teaspoonful of bisurated magnesia, a good and effective corrector of acid stomach, should be taken in a quarter of a glass of hot or cold water after eating, or whenever gas, sourness or acidity is felt. This sweetens the stomach and neutralizes the acidity in a few moments, and is a perfectly harmless and inexpensive remedy to use.

An antiacid, such as bisurated magnesia, which can be obtained from any druggist, in either powder or tablet form, enables the stomach to do its work properly without the aid of artificial digestants. Magnesia comes in several forms, so be certain to ask for and take only Bisurated Magnesia, which is especially prepared for the above purpose.—Advt.

COUNTY REGISTRAR DIED SUDDENLY

JOSEPH H. MARSHALL.

COUNTY REGISTRAR DIES SUDDENLY IN THE EARLY MORNING

J. H. Marshall, Ex-M. P., Succumbs To Acute Indigestion.

WAS POPULAR OFFICIAL

Associates Pay Glowing Tributes To Him and Regret His Death.

Joseph Henry Marshall, county registrar of deeds died at midnight on Thursday very suddenly. He retired to bed about 9:30 o'clock apparently in perfect health except for a slight attack of indigestion. Prior to that hour he had been in the garden tending his flowers, of which he was a great lover. "Cedar Terrace," the old homestead, on which he was born 66 years ago and on which he died, is beautiful at this time of the year, he looking after the flower gardens. A coincidence is that he died on the anniversary of the death of his old chieftain, Sir John A. Macdonald, who used to speak of Mr. Marshall as "one of my boys."

Educated Here.

Joseph Marshall was educated at the old Hellmuth Boys' Grammar School, afterwards staying home on the homestead and engaging in dairy farming. He entered municipal politics in the seventies, and was reeve of London Township, which position he held for five years without opposition. In 1881, he was elected warden of Middlesex County, the council at that time consisting of 52 members. He was the youngest warden in the province, and elected to represent the largest county in 1887. Mr. Marshall was elected representative for East Middlesex in the House of Commons by a majority of 787, the largest ever given to a member at that time. He was re-elected, and continued until dissolution in 1896. He was given the nomination of the Conservative party in that same year without opposition, but withdrew in favor of the late James Gilmour.

To Dairy Farming.

He then went into active dairy farming, and by his method and care was a help in raising the standard of the whole city milk supply, as well as making a financial success of the business.

He continued in this business until his appointment as registrar for East and North Middlesex in 1911. Mr. Marshall married Miss Amy Crump on September 1, 1885, by whom he is survived, and has two sons—Athol, assistant engineer of highways in Toronto, and Corp. Harry Marshall, who returned from overseas a week ago, and one daughter, Mrs. E. M. Hawkins. These all survive him, together with one grandson and one grand-daughter.

The funeral arrangements have not yet been completed.

The funeral will be held under the auspices of the Masonic Lodge, St. John's, No. 20, of which he was a past master.

Capt. Tom Robson, county treasurer, was a lifelong friend of the dead official, and when informed of his death by The Advertiser this morning, he was greatly shocked.

The death was the chief topic of conversation among the members of the county council in session here this morning, and all spoke in glowing terms of the good work and genial manner, characteristic of Mr. Marshall, while engaged in his public duties as county registrar.

BOYS TO SEE FILM ON "LIFE'S BEGINNINGS"

A special meeting for boys has been arranged for 10 o'clock on Saturday morning in connection with the series of lectures on sex education to be given over the week-end by Dr. J. Oswald, C. J. Withrow, M.B., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P., in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium.

Moving pictures will be shown, a film entitled "Life's Beginnings" having been chosen for the boys. It is stated by those who know the lecture that it is one which every boy will be the better for hearing, and that parents should make a special effort to have their boys attend. The story of "Life's Beginnings" is told in a manner that is absolutely free from unwholesomeness.

Dr. Withrow, who is physician of the department of psychiatry, Toronto General Hospital, addresses a meeting of women only in the Y. M. C. A. Auditorium Saturday evening at 8 o'clock, and of men only on Sunday, when his subject will be "Fit To Fight."

DEATHS AND FUNERALS

DEATH OF MISS HALLIDAY.

Miss Agnes Halliday, one of the best known and most highly respected of London's nurses, died suddenly at her home on Richmond street, north. Since the death of her father, Miss Halliday had come to her home only when not engaged on a case, and she was alone in the house when death occurred, apparently some time before she was found by relatives yesterday. Miss Halliday had intended moving from the city and selling her home. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John C. Halliday, and is survived by one sister, Mrs. J. E. McConnell. The funeral was held privately today.

BURIED AT MOUNT PLEASANT.

The funeral of Harry Johnson, who died in Detroit, was held from the residence of his brother, Joseph Johnson, 19 Cathcart street, Thursday afternoon, services being conducted at 2:30 by Rev. B. L. Hutton. The pallbearers were his four brothers, Joseph, Alfred, Thomas and George Johnson, D. McAlpine and R. Brock. He was a member of Court Forest Queen, A. O. F. Interment was made in Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

FIREMAN'S FLYING LEAP PREVENTED WOMAN'S SUICIDE

Chicago Fireman Adopts Unusual Method in Emergency.

SAT ON WINDOW SILL

Of Tenth Story of Hotel, Threatening To Throw Herself Out.

Chicago, June 5.—Timothy Fitzgerald, former army lieutenant, and now engineer of Engine Company 24, took an unusual measure yesterday to prevent a woman from jumping from a window on the ninth floor of the Hotel Bossert, in Brooklyn. Fastening a short rope about his waist he leaped straight out from a window on the tenth floor, and his body, swinging back, knocked Mrs. M. M. Canda from the ledge on which she had sat most of the night and morning, threatening momentarily to let go and fall. Mrs. Canda was sent spinning back into her room. The fireman followed, loosing the rope to grapple with her. At the same time Mrs. Canda's husband and a number of hotel employees opened the door of her room and helped to overpower her.

Mrs. Canda, suffering from the effects of worry over the fate of her son in France, left her home at 121 English avenue, Brooklyn, Tuesday evening. During the night Mr. Canda was summoned to the hotel, but his wife refused him admittance. She said she was poised in the bathroom window, and would jump if anyone unlocked the door and entered.

Stretched Life Net.

Assistant Fire Chief Martin was summoned shortly before noon. He called Truck Company 11 and Engine Company 224. While Mr. Canda and the hotel employees kept up conversations with the woman on the windsow sill Martin and his men stretched a life net in the court under the window. Fitzgerald then proposed using his body as a human battering ram.

Comrades fastened the rope to his life belt and he jumped. He had calculated the leap nicely. Mrs. Canda, who was sitting in the window with her back to the court, saw nothing of the preparations and was unprepared for the blow. Mrs. Canda's son, Greenman, recently returned from the war zone. The mother had become convinced he had died in battle, and when he came home she thought she saw his ghost.

G. T. R. LOOKING OUT FOR PLACE TO ESTABLISH ITS RECLAMATION YARDS HERE

Intends to Set Up Rail Saw, and So Practice Economy.

The fact that some officials of the Grand Trunk have been in town during the past week, looking over property located on the east side of the fair grounds as far as Eleanor street, has given rise to much speculation in regard to their business and intentions. One story which has reached The Advertiser is to the effect that the Grand Trunk station will not be in its present location for any length of time, in other words that the G. T. R. is planning to spring a joke on the downtown section by building the long-awaited station to the east of the exhibition grounds.

When asked about this rumor this afternoon, the local superintendent of the Grand Trunk, Charles Forrester, laughed before he answered.

"The solution of the mystery is very simple when you know it. Some of our officials have been in town, and they have been looking over the grounds to the east of Queen's Park. They have been looking for some ground that the company owns on which to pile up some of our rails. The putting of reclamation yards there is under consideration for the salvaging of slightly-damaged rails. The company is thinking of putting a rail saw there to cut off the ends of rails damaged at the ends, which will then be fit for service on branch lines and on sidings. We will be bringing in a large number of such rails, and that is the reason we need the ground to pile them up."

NOW IS OPPORTUNITY FOR CHRISTIANITY TO EVANGELIZE WORLD

Strong Missionary Appeal Is Made To Conference.

MORE PENSIONS NEEDED

Church in Danger of Committing Fault It Condemns in Others.

[By Staff Reporter.]

Goderich, June 5.—The first day of the London Methodist Conference was devoted almost entirely to addresses from general conference officers laying the needs of the various departments of work before the assembled delegates. All the committees are still busy making preparations. Last evening, a big missionary rally was held under the direction of the lay association. The subject of missions was brought before the meeting by the Rev. Lloyd Smith, assistant secretary of home missions.

Urging the great need of a world-wide evangelism, he pointed out that now was the opportunity for the united churches to go in to effect this. The war has brought the world so closely together that it is now spoken of as a huge tenement house, he declared. Places on the earth not thought of before the war are now impressed on men's consciousness and more than that, the heathen world whose representatives have been helping the Allies in Europe is coming half-way.

Real Apostles.

These Hindus, Chinamen and others are going back to their own countries to speak there as citizens of a new world. Perhaps the most outstanding feature in this regard is the situation in the Mohammedan world. The Moslem in his defeat has been hit in his most vital spot, and is ready to find new life and hope in a forgiving Savior. The door of entrance to Mohammedanism is wide open. "Are we going to let them take our industry and our commercialism without our Christianity."

Rev. R. J. Simpson, newly-appointed treasurer of the superannuation fund, placed the needs for such a fund very forcibly before the conference. It is the fund which has the paramount claim on Methodism at the present moment. The church is beginning to realize that the minister has the biggest and most permanent claim on the community.

Same Old Crime.

In urging that the church more strongly support this cause, Dr. Odell says that the church is in great danger of committing that crime which she condemns everywhere. The crime of unfair employers and corporations, when they do not pay a living wage. The speaker pointed out the untold benefit which the missionaries and preachers of the church had been to civilization, showing how from an economical standpoint, it was well not to make conditions so hard in the ministry that recruits would become less. He instanced how a railway president had considered it a good investment to give $10,000 towards the bringing of a Billy Sunday revival among the employees as they were twice as efficient after such a revival had taken place.

"When the church is asking a man to make a sacrifice, and take less for his labors than in almost any other profession, that church must make a commensurate sacrifice to provide him with means, when the days of his labor are over," concluded the speaker.

SAILORS TESTIFY SKIPPER ALLOWED DECK HAND TO DIE

Tales of Utmost Cruelty Are Heard in New York Court.

CHAINED TO PUMP

"Water Cure" of Old Seafaring Days Alleged To Have Been Used.

New York, June 5.—Tales of cruelty alleged to have been perpetrated on the high seas aboard the American barkentine Puaka, were told in Judge Hough's court in the Federal Building yesterday by four seamen.

Each of the stories in harrowing detail dovetailed into the other. The stories were told from the witness stand in the trial of Captain Adolph C. Pedersen and his son Adolph Erle Pedersen, who are charged with the murder of Axel Hansen, a seaman of the Puaka on August 6, 1918, while the vessel was at sea.

William Jones, a Welsh miner, who shipped aboard the Puaka at Victoria, B.C., just before the sailing ship left that Port for Cape Town, South Africa, declared Captain Pedersen had struck him across the back with a club so hard that he was rendered unconscious for more than an hour and a half.

Asked by Benjamin Matthews, assistant district attorney, to describe the water cure alleged to have been used by Captain Pedersen and his two sons, who were officers of the ships, Jones testified:

Chained to Pump Hold.

"I was chained in the pump-hold with another man for three days and three nights. We were chained to the pump. The gasoline pump with hose attached was started and bilge water was pumped on us for half an hour at a time, as long as there was any water in the bilges. The captain and the two mates were present."

At this point an objection was raised by Dudley Field Malone, counsel for the defendants, was sustained by Judge Hough and the narrative ended.

Jones had previously testified that this treatment was meted out to him because he had refused to sign a statement he alleged was drawn up by one of the mates at the dictation of the captain. This statement, which he declared he signed eventually under duress, was that he had received $1,000 from a German agent to blow up the ship.

His story of being beaten with a club was developed by Mr. Malone under cross-examination. Mr. Malone, however, won a point in the captain's favor when Jones, who suffers from "miner's consumption," admitted the captain had given him medicine when his own supplies ran out.

Told Harrowing Tale.

James Campbell of Kingston, Ont., another member of the crew, told a harrowing story. He testified that last July he was called into the cabin by the captain to witness a statement that Hansen was compelled to sign. This incident lasted two and a half hours, during which the captain, both mates, the cabin boy and Campbell were present.

In relating the incident from the witness stand Campbell said: "Hansen was handcuffed. His face was swollen and his eyes almost closed. There was a big gash down his cheek.

"The captain said to me: 'I want you to witness this statement of Hansen's.' He then handed the statement to Hansen and asked him if it was true. Hansen said 'No.' The captain said: 'Confess, you ——, confess.'

"Hansen said 'No' again, and then the captain said to the mates: 'Wake him up.' The second mate got a big stick and hit Hansen over the head. The first mate began dictating and the second mate took it down in writing. Hansen wouldn't confess fast enough, so they hit him again. At last the statement was finished and Hansen signed it, and I witnessed it."

"Did you read it?" asked Mr. Matthews.

"No, sir, I never did," replied Campbell.

The two other witnesses were Edward Reilly, a native of Ireland, and Jack Joe, a Chilean, Hawaiian born. Their testimony corroborated that of the previous day.

Campbell will continue his testimony today.

THE PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

Being a resident of the township of Aldborough, Elgin County, and as there is a possibility of the minister deciding on the southern route for the provincial highway, which would be through the municipality of Aldborough, I trust this article regarding what this road means to the farmers of Aldborough may be interesting to your readers.

Mr. McDiarmid has stated there will be about 200 miles of concrete road, 175 miles of macadam and the balance gravel. Any kind of road constructed by the Government would be expensive, but supposing the minister decided to construct a concrete road through Aldborough, the cost would be about as follows:—Concrete road capable of carrying heavy truck traffic could not be built for less than $50,000 per mile; Aldborough would have about twelve miles, which would cost about $600,000. The Government would pay 70 per cent, $420,000; Aldborough would pay 30 per cent, $180,000, for construction and possibly very much more as the 30 per cent paid for by the municipality is not all. The municipalities have to pay 60 per cent of part of the construction and alterations on bridges and approaches and the municipalities may have to pay large sums of money to furnish drainage for the provincial highway, provided for in the provincial highways act under the ditches and watercourses act.

In order that a municipality may be able to raise the necessary money, see clause 14-2 in the provincial highways act, as follows:—"The proportion (30 per cent) of expenditure on repair and maintenance to be paid by the municipal corporation shall, in all cases, be provided for out of the general funds of the municipality, but expenditure for construction may be met by the issue of debentures under the provisions of the municipal act." Clause 14-3:—"The council of each municipality may pass bylaws for issuing and may issue its debentures payable within such period as the department may approve but not exceeding twenty years." Before a municipality can legally issue debentures, a majority vote is necessary, according to the municipal act. Providing the Aldborough Council would pass a bylaw to provide $180,000 to pay for the construction of twelve miles of provincial highway through Aldborough, every voter in Aldborough would vote it down. When the minister has decided where the road is to be built and the kind of road each municipality should have, it would be a good scheme for the Government to furnish each municipality with an estimate of the cost of the road through each municipality and have the councils pass the necessary bylaws and have the majority vote of the municipalities before the road is gone on with.

The farmers of Aldborough are not market gardeners or fruit growers and would derive no benefit from the provincial highway in marketing their products. The staple farm products, such as cattle, hogs, grain, hay, etc., are delivered to the nearest shipping points over roads that, in many cases, are nearly impassable at times.

I want to ask our Government and thinking people in Ontario if it is within reason that the farmers of Aldborough or any municipality should have to pay 30 per cent and other costs referred to as well as their share of the 70 per cent Government, which is simply giving us our money back for a road that is absolutely no use as a producing proposition. The 30 per cent would give Aldborough approximately $1,300 to spend on every mile of road in Aldborough. If this $1,300 per mile were spent in Aldborough by the Aldborough council, together with the statute labor, any road in Aldborough would be good enough for a provincial highway.

If the provincial highway is to be built, the motor licenses should furnish the money without other Government money or the municipalities paying any tax. The farmers and small towns would then be paying more than their share in motor licenses. We are supposed to be living in a democratic country. Would it not be well for the Government to have the whole matter of provincial highway explained and placed before the people of Ontario, and have the people of Ontario sanction the provincial highway before plunging into a scheme that nine-tenths of the people of Ontario would oppose. ALFRED E. ALDRED.

Crinan, Ont.

RELATING TO B. C. SALMON AND OCEAN FREIGHT.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

What sympathetic synchronism seems to be in evidence at Ottawa!

The B. C. Canners have kept a bonny lot of salmon in cold storage for high prices, and now the Fifty-fifty Government has come to the rescue, and has done worse than increasing the tariff on these goods, having declared an order-in-council ban against "needless importation of salmon and sardines" into the Dominion.

This is indeed a prolific method of increasing H. C. L.; just the moment an undue accumulation of a line of foodstuff develops, with a prospect of lower values obtaining, we find that autocratic protection is meted out to Flavellites. Lapointe, M.P., was dead right when he said in the Commons the other day, "there is no wonder that there is a general opinion in the country that the Government was directed by the profiteers."

Mr. Lapointe and other independent thinkers like him in Parliament should probe the high ocean freight proposition. The Government have built a lot of freighters, but up to the present, war rates still are exacted, which same are six times greater than in 1913, which condition, along with tariff manipulation, is keeping our sugars (an extremely important living necessity) two cents per pound higher than it should be, and the query is, what "interest" has control of our ocean freighters? Has the Order-in-Council Government parcelled them off to the Canada Steamships, Ltd. and the C. P. R. SS. Lines on a fifty-fifty basis?

Victoria, June 3.

THE LABOR UNREST AND THE TARIFF—PART I.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

The industrial world is in turmoil, and many industrial workers would seem to have lost their sense of proportion. This statement may also be applied to many of those who furnish the money, without which labor would not be effective.

It is at a time like this that the necessity to get down to first principles and from those principles to reconstruct, is made evident.

It has lately been pointed out that whilst the world is dependent upon labor, labor is also dependent upon capital, and upon expert direction and management, and that all three, in turn, are dependent upon the consumer.

At the moment the claims of labor are many and insistent, and some are being made without due consideration to the equally just claims of capital and management, and without any regard to the necessities of the consumer, to which class labor also belongs.

Profiteering the Cause.

The knowledge that out of the disturbance, hardship and the multitude of miseries caused by the war, certain citizens have accumulated immense wealth, combined with the enormously increased cost of living, has forced large sections of those that labor to make extravagant demands.

That man is born to labor is indisputable, that honest productive labor should be rewarded with the wherewithal to enable those that so labor to live healthy lives, under reasonable conditions as to comfort, and further, also, to be able to put by provision for the time when it is not possible for them to labor, is equally incontestable. That to secure such provision, it should not be required to toil so as to be quickly incapacitated from all work is unquestionable. Human labor, in the interest of Canada and humanity, must be conserved. Nor can any exception be made to the claim that, if any man can make two blades of grass to grow where hitherto one blade only existed, such a man should be correspondingly recompensed. Nor can objection be made to the claim that capital, which even under conditions most ideal could only have been accumulated through the exercise of unusual talents or of thrift and self-denial, should receive an adequate return. Were such a return denied, there would be no sufficient inducement for the accomplishment of difficult adventures and the world's progress would be retarded. Nor can objection be made to the demand that when the chance of success is uncertain and the risk of failure is great, that capital is entitled to an extra recompense, so special skilled labor has its right to be recompensed, so special skilled labor has its right to a reward, commensurate with the skill exercised. It is not of consequence whether the special skill be found in mechanic or manager, such special skill has a right to receive and should be given a recompense.

Some Vital Factors.

Bad laws, errors and neglect in administering such laws as exist, the greed of those already in high places and the greed of those who are ambitious of gaining high places, the foolishness of those who have had money to invest, the desire of many to live a life of ease, not to say of sloth and dissipation, all have aided in the production of the prevailing discontent.

Nor must it be forgotten that the desire to live without work is to be found amongst men and women in all grades of life, the percentage of "lazy bones" is probably as large amongst the industrial classes as it is amongst those better endowed with this world's goods.

The wealth of all nations consists of the labor of its citizens evidenced in the results of that labor, when applied to the land and to the water of the country owned and occupied, and to the products of land and water. In countries long occupied there may be the accumulated savings of those who have gone before. It matters not whether the land yields agricultural products, timber or mineral (with the raw materials associated with minerals), or whether the waters are made to yield power (energy), fish or sea weed, the wealth consists of the value of natural products made available by labor together with the labor expended thereupon.

Of this labor it cannot but be allowed that the labor making available the food by which life is supported is of principal importance. Life can be supported and can be transmitted under very primitive conditions, so long as food is available, but without food life is impossible. Hence farm labor is a primary necessity in the scheme of life, and is the base for the supplies that alone make possible the whole industrial fabric. This must be understood and always remembered, because in certain quarters it seems to be the desire to ignore this truth, so that other classes of the industrial world may secure for themselves an improper and unwarranted proportion of life's good things.

The Farmer's Just Share.

It must be admitted that the labor expended upon the cultivation of land, upon the harvesting and marketing of the produce of such cultivation, and upon the care of the cattle raised and supported on such lands, is entitled to a wage compensation equal to that claimed by labor requiring equal knowledge and intelligence, but expended upon other industrial operations. It must also be admitted that the money risked by the farmer in the purchase of a farm, in improvements, in the purchase of horses, cattle and implements, is also entitled to receive a monetary return at least equal to that he would receive had the money been invested in a mortgage. The justice of these claims cannot but be admitted, and if admitted, it is evident that the farmer must receive for the products of his farm prices that will leave him, after the legitimate expenses of the industry have been paid (not of course including personal or household expenses), an amount sufficient to provide a fair recompense for his own labor, for the labor of such of his family as may be required to help in farm work, together with the interest that is due to him from the money invested. When this is received, the farmer only receives the recompense demanded by every industrial worker, even by the day laborer.

In the past, in Canada, and until the established condition of affairs upset by the war, few farmers received such recompense. Had such recompense been received, the cost of living in Canada would have been much higher than it was.

Disaster May Be Result.

The demand of the industrial worker today is that he be paid higher wages, because the cost of living has increased. If this demand be acceded to, the farmer may with equal justice demand that he also receive higher prices for the products of his farm, so that his recompense be made equal to that received by other industrial workers. This demand being reasonable, being granted, the cost of living is at once increased with the recurrent demand for increased wages, owing to the increased cost of living. Where the end will be no one knows, but those who study the question can but surmise that unless a state of sanity be quickly reached the end must be disaster.

The continued demand for increased wages and shorter hours of labor, can but end in one result, viz.: that the produce of Canada's farms, forests, mines, rivers, seas and factories will cost more and more, until the time arrives when the surplus cannot be consumed in Canada and customers will not be found who will pay prices high enough to provide for the production cost, and for transportation and marketing. When this point is reached, and it can be shown that were all present demands granted, the end is not far distant, the bottom would be knocked out of the export market, production would have to be curtailed, many would be ruined, and labor would have to accept very greatly reduced remuneration. Labor never has and never can long oppose with success the laws that govern these evolutions.

The European Influence.

Is it not time to stop and think? Is it not wise to consider first principles, and then to base concerted action upon those principles? How can a mechanic in Canada expect to receive double the remuneration paid to a mechanic in England, doing the same work fully as well and quite as speedily, and yet expect that his employer will be able to sell in competition with the English employer? The rate of wages paid in Canada should bear some relation to the wages paid in Europe. Not that the rate of wages paid in Canada should be the rate, as paid, even in that part of Europe where the highest rates exist, but if Canada hopes to secure an export business some reasonable understanding will have to be arrived at. The future settlement of Canada requires that the rate paid will have to exceed that paid in Europe, otherwise immigration into Canada, let alone selected immigration could not exist.

This truth was the basis upon which the national policy of Canada, promulgated in the year 1879—40 years ago, was founded. The emigration of French-Canadians to the factories of New England having greatly influenced the legislation.

Special Skill and Long Hours.

To return to the agricultural worker: if a street laborer is entitled to 35 cents or more per hour, surely the farmer is entitled to more. The farmer, to be a successful farmer, has to be a man of intelligence and of information. He must know how to plow, cultivate and drain the land, how to choose, prepare, and sow seed. He must know when to cut and harvest his crops, and in this connection must be prepared to work very hard during the harvesting season and even work considerable overtime, for which he is equally entitled, with the artisan, to extra remuneration. He must know how to look after and take care of horses and cattle, of which also he must be more or less a good judge. He must be able to doctor their minor ailments and attend to them when they bring forth their young, even if this means staying up all night. He must be able to milk cows, take care of the milk, and see that it goes to the market in a sanitary condition, and must be able to keep accounts. He must hand feed and bring up calves. He also has to understand, operate and repair machinery, which yearly becomes more complicated. His work is not for six days only, but from dawn to dark for six days a week (meal hours off), and on the seventh day he works from four to five hours, working upon Sunday as many hours as the very advanced labor advocate claims labor should work upon week days, whilst resting entirely upon the seventh day. For this Sunday work the farmer is surely entitled to extra compensation. Because the children of other workers are allowed to range the streets, disturb the neighbors and generally cultivate bad habits, there is no valid reason why the work done by the farmers' children should not be paid for. The work done by children for parents, other than their parents, has to be paid for. It is therefore just that a value be placed upon this work, when done upon the farm.

Are Trying To Grab.

When the public become informed as to the cost of raising and of marketing agricultural products, such cost being based upon a fair remuneration for the labor given and the capital invested, the public will begin to appreciate the rights and the difficulties of the labor question. At the present each and every section is trying to grab all they can, and those that are the best organized and are the most unscrupulous enjoy peculiar advantages. In thus acting they put themselves into the class of war profiteers.

Those who have made an extensive study of this question and have a wide personal experience of industrial affairs are satisfied that if wages unduly high, compared to other industrial centres, have to be paid in Canada, with a concurrent shortening of the hours of labor worked, disaster will result.

To Canada the question is not so much whether labor should be rewarded by the payment of 3, 4, 5 or 10 dollars per day, but whether with such remuneration labor can enjoy a reasonable and comfortable living and still have a balance to invest against old age. Wherein then is the advantage, if wages be doubled when the cost of living is more than doubled?

The advantage is more than doubtful, whilst the disadvantage should be obvious. By doubling the rate of wages the cost of production is so increased that any export trade is endangered and curtailed, work becomes difficult to obtain and eventually labor, whilst being paid advanced rates may actually receive no more per year than was received before.

Make no mistake, those who are going to hold the markets of the world are those who can produce and lay down goods at the lowest cost. Such costs include many items other than wages, but wages is by far the most important. If Canada desires to hold a place in the markets of the world (and it is only by so doing she can hope to pay off her debts and make progress), the present ill-advised efforts to boost the already very high prices paid for labor will have to cease. If labor still desires an amelioration in conditions, such amelioration must be sought rather in lowering the cost of living than in an increase in the remuneration received, and this leads up to the important question of the influence of the Canadian customs tariff upon the cost of production.

A REPLY TO MR. LUSH.

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I have read the recent letter in your columns under the caption: "The Bible and Modern Literature," and also the moderate but convincing reply to a similar letter in the other daily by Rev. George Mackenzie of Stratford, Ont.

Mr. Lush, in his superficial way, tries hard to injure the credibility of Holy Scripture, as an inspired Book and reduce it to the commonplace level of heathen religious literature and modern European classics. He evidently has not a very high opinion of the mental alertness and probity of your readers when he ventures to impose such a medley of distorted fact, erroneous citation and specious, though clumsy, misrepresentation on them as the real thing, dolling up his erratic ideas in stilted, metaphysical and theosophical verbiage to disguise the very poverty of his thought.

His grossly inaccurate and slanderous assertion regarding the origin and worth of our English Bible would at once, I fear, put him out of court equally as a Christian gentleman and a critic. He writes: "A few of the old Jewish classics were bound together in the sixteenth century by a board of English bishops, scholars—and donkeys, and this collection was called the Bible." Why, sir, this letterwriter, who would pose as an authority, evidently cannot distinguish between the canon of the Bible and an English version of it styled the Authorized, or King James' Version! Does this "muddler and mixer" really think that the canon of our Bible was determined then? And were there no New Testament books included in this "collection" along with the "Jewish classics" he refers to? Has he never heard of the early translations in Latin and English of Jerome, Wycliffe, Tyndale, Bede, Coverdale, etc.? Has he never heard of the "Great Bible" and the "Bishops' Bible," both of which long antedated the Authorized Version? It might be news to one whose knowledge of the versions and canon of the Bible seems so limited to learn that the extent of the canon of the whole Bible was settled as early as A. D., 691, by the Quinisext Council, which confirmed the decrees of the third Council of Carthage (see Hastings). As to the charge of this writer that our Bible is "a tangled mass of forgeries, interpolations," etc. I would like to cite the opinion of real critics and Christian gentlemen, the committee of learned exegetes who had national reputations to maintain and who for ten years had the English Bible under minute and painstaking scrutiny in the preparation of the Revised Version of 1881. "We," so they tell us, "have had to study this great version, line by line; and the longer we have been engaged upon it the more we have learned to admire its simplicity, its dignity, its power, its happy turns of expression, its general accuracy, and, we must not fail to add the music of its cadences and the felicities of its rhythm."

The English Bible then, in the judgment of literary savants, is the great religious and literary classic, the European classics Mr. Lush eulogizes and tries to play off against the Bible are but dim reflections, good as they are; the Bible, through the purity and universality of its appeal having itself created the very religious and mental atmosphere which made other gems of literature possible. It is useless then for this writer to speak in stilted theosophical verbiage of "the spiritual consciousness of the modern mind which is the present incarnation of Jesus Christ" —after denying the plenary inspiration of the Holy Scriptures, and which was taught by Jesus Christ himself. There is no such illumination in the world as he speaks of apart from the light and liberty which has come to us through the preaching of the gospel and cross of Christ, and the reverent study and use of Holy Scripture. Christ has promised to be with his church in the person of the Holy Spirit to the end of the world, but he has not promised the Holy Spirit to men or associations of men who would divert the water of life into channels of their own making, and while ever harking back to Christ and the Holy Spirit in support of their newfangled heresies, yet would trample the Holy Scriptures, which are "the very vehicle of the spirit and the divine testimony to Jesus Christ, into the mire. Christ himself said: "He that entereth not in by the door into the sheepfold, but climbeth up some other way, the same is a thief and a robber." Christ explained that he himself is the door. But can we accept him as such and entirely disengage him as an historical personage from the stream of prophetic testimony regarding the coming Messiah, coming down through the centuries, and which culminated in himself?

PAINT FOR PRESERVATION

Property waste due to deterioration and decay in Canada constitutes a problem of paramount and far-reaching importance.

Continuation of the present tremendous loss vitally affects the economic future of the country. If with the cessation of the war we are to enter successfully upon a period of reconstruction and expansion it is imperative that conservation go hand in hand with development. It is as necessary to conserve created wealth as it is to prevent waste of national resources. Nature in time may restore devastated forest areas, but it takes human labor to raise anew or repair property that has decayed from lack of protective paint. This work absorbs energies that would otherwise be devoted to industrial and economic progress.

Paint for preservation is absolutely essential to the Conservation of Property.

Cost of Living Probe May Prove To Be Farce

The first session of the high cost of living commission resulted in the passing of resolutions that give little promise of affording relief to the people oppressed by high prices. The committee will proceed to "pass the buck" to the boards of trade of municipalities, supported by the representatives of other organizations, such as the trades and labor councils and the G. W. V. A.

It appears that the committee is anxious to perform its duties before the present session has ended. It is realized that the formation of the committee was a kind of hurry-up call by the Government for a life line designed to rescue it from the rising tide of discontent that sweeps up to the doors of the House of Commons. Members stated that it would be impossible for the committee to cover a wide range of investigation "during the remaining days of the session," and as a consequence the members will search for whatever loose ends of information that may be picked up throughout the country by municipal committees.

In the first place it is ridiculous to suppose that the average board of trade has members with either the time or inclination to enter the lists against the dragon of high prices. And the average board of trade will not be inclined to assume the responsibility of attacking local concerns which might be suspected of influencing the costs of products, nor will it undertake to examine the problem of middlemen or food hoarding, or any of the other national issues which affect every community from coast to coast.

This committee, if it is to accomplish anything worthy of the name, must call on the best economists the country affords and enlist their efforts in getting at the truth. Such men as O'Connor, former cost of living commissioner, should be brought to the witness-stand to testify as to the reason for the present state of affairs. Men like J. Lambert Payne, who recently wrote an excellent series of articles on the subject, could at least lead the committee toward the fields where the quarry lies. Those dealing with incomes and excess profits could throw some light on the subject, while the country has many financial and agricultural experts who could give more information in ten minutes than all the boards of trade in the country.

Every line of food dealing should be examined. Such a man as Mr. Matheson, a wholesale grocer of Montreal, who declared that the foodstuffs of Canada were in the hands of the speculators, should be asked to give his testimony, and the best men labor can secure should be asked to bring facts rather than opinions to the meetings.

Recently Mr. Robb, M.P., chief Liberal whip in the House of Commons, charged that certain Montreal interests had taken advantage of "inside" information to sweep the Canadian market clear of its butter supply and make a huge profit for themselves out of the manipulation of so important an article of diet. Mr. Robb is not the kind of man who makes reckless charges. What better work could be done by this commission than to probe the charge to the bottom, and recommend punishment, if possible. It would at least indicate that the members were alive to get at concrete facts rather than to garner a mass of abstract jargon from all quarters.

The Liberal members of the committee have a huge responsibility. Let it be hoped they will make the present investigation a practical probe of the question, and that they will fearlessly attack wrong where they see it. McCoig of Kent and Euler of Waterloo should be men who will listen to any information that may be given them, and go deeply into the whole problem.

The Budget Speech

Describing 1919 as a war year because of the expense of demobilization, which will bring the cost of the struggle's aftermath to at least $300,000,000 for the year, and predicting that Canada for the fiscal year ending March, 1920, would find it necessary to spend $620,000,000, to meet which the revenue could not be more than $280,000,000, Sir Thomas White yesterday presented the country with its annual statement of finances and the outlook for the future.

Certainly the country has a debt that would be regarded in any pre-war conception of finances as staggering if not ruinous. We have at the present time a debt of $1,950,000,000 or $220 for every unit of the population. The interest and charges to be paid annually will be $115,000,000.

The ordinary revenue of the country will not commence to meet the payments for the demobilization period, and these and any other charges that will be called "capital expenditure" will have to stand over, in other words, be met by another domestic loan, which is foreshadowed in the budget speech. It is pointed out that our trade has doubled, that we have unlimited natural resources, that our citizenship has become more thrifty than ever before, and that we owe ourselves a large proportion of our war debt.

Insofar as the budget speech is designed to reveal the financial condition of the country, and to sound a note of healthy optimism for the future of the country, despite the war debt, compared with practically all other countries, it is a well-reasoned document, but it reaches no radical stage of tariff reform when the actual proposals are considered.

The effect of the 7½ per cent reduction of the tariff on foodstuffs, linen, cotton and woolen clothing, boots and shoes, fur caps and clothing, hats, gloves, collars, cuffs, agricultural implements, hides, leather harness, petroleum and mining machinery and bituminous coal will be to restore the tariff existing before the changes brought about in 1915 in the name of the war. The consumer will benefit to a certain extent, for it has been proved that American imports will increase considerably even on so small a decrease as 5 per cent. But many other manufacturers will be able to maintain the present prices without fear of any competition excepting that which might come as a result of the restoration of the British preference of 5 per cent.

Probably the greatest concession of the budget is the adoption of the Liberal policy of 1911 for the free exchange of wheat, wheat flour and potatoes with all countries that do not impose duties on such articles. This is the very essence of the reciprocity agreement offered to Canadians in 1911. Wheat was the big issue of the campaign. Waving the old flag once again, and making of it a convenient shelter even for such a staunch Imperialist (?) as Mr. Henri Bourassa, the Conservative party proclaimed that it was disloyal to suggest free trade in natural products with the United States. It was on this specious cry Sir Wilfrid Laurier was defeated and Sir Robert Borden elected. Yet there is perhaps less need, with the hungry world clamoring for food, to give the west free wheat today than in 1911, when a few cents a bushel meant a great deal to the western farmer.

It is obviously an effort to placate the extreme free trade element, which is on record for complete abolition of duties on all those articles which the west requires to grow its grain. It is wholly a matter of expediency.

The Government might well have abolished duties on foodstuffs at this time without regard to the attitude of other countries. It would have meant that the United States would have opened her gates and encouraged production enormously by establishing within the continent one vast home market for everything that is grown and will be grown. It would have had a levelling effect on living costs. Nothing could have given such a stimulus to intensive cultivation in Ontario, and to an enormous increase in land values. More population means more industries, but this Government is too much tainted with old Tory economic notions to take a broad policy, calculated to build the whole country by attracting population of superior calibre and offering to the masses unrestricted opportunity, as was intended by nature and by the Creator. From the land must come our war payments. To the land we must look for our future.

The taxation of incomes is justly increased so as to secure a greater share of the incomes of the wealthy for the use of the state. Swollen fortunes, especially during the war, were never earned by any principle of service rendered. Such inflated values could never have existed but for the fact the world was fighting for its life. As a building is burned to check a fire, so were resources eaten up and money squandered. The fortunate few received the benefit. They should never have been allowed to make so much money, but many, taking every cent they could secure, regarded themselves as patriots for so doing. Since the floating of Victory Loans, the men of huge incomes have been buying the non-taxable bonds. They will continue to do so, unless the bonds are made taxable, and the refuge of the big tax dodger demolished. The Government pays high rates of interest, which should be ample return for anyone investing in the name of aiding one's country. Until the non-taxable feature of Victory Bonds is removed, and the next domestic loan is made taxable, many big incomes will escape payment of a just share of the country's debts.

Prospecting By Airplane

The aeroplane is rapidly being established as an economic force. Five years ago it was a medium solely for hair-raising circus stunts. Today in many directions the heavier-than-air flying machine is securing a permanent position in commercial and trade circles, with limitless possibilities of expansion. In parts of Europe, England and America the aeroplane is being used regularly as a carrier of mails, speeding up business in the community it serves because of its quick deliveries. In some sections of New York an aerial police patrol is prepared to pounce, hawk-like, on criminals; in Montana ranchers are using the flyer to locate cattle; and in both Canada and the United States forest protection forces have been supplemented by aerial guardians and inspectors.

One of the most recent developments of the aeroplane for commercial purposes is an aircraft designed to be used by the "cruisers" of a great American and Canadian timber company. Equipped with these machines vast tracts of timber in northwestern Canada and rich mineral deposits can be promptly investigated and turned to the uses of trade and industry. For transportation into the interior wildernesses of the Dominion the aeroplane or hydro-aeroplane is the easiest, quickest and cheapest method. At present the method of searching out Canada's field of natural wealth is by slow-moving prospecting parties generally afoot. So arduous and delaying is this way that only minute areas are reached during the seasons when prospecting is possible.

Colonel Girouard, a Canadian engineer flyer, has demonstrated to the aeronautical convention at Atlantic City that for the above-mentioned purposes the aeroplane is the logical means of mapping out the wilderness for industrial and commercial exploitation. Here appears to be an opportunity for the Government to initiate a new department that would greatly aid in the country's general progress.

SEWING CHEVRONS.

By Dorothy Douglas.

"My fingers are positively calloused from sewing," remarked Agnes Hope, as she plied her needle over a brilliant red and green division emblem for a waiting soldier.

"And mine," supplemented her sister worker. "I thought we were done with this sort of work two years ago."

"Oh—no, dear, peace is fully as exciting as war nowadays, and provides even more work for the Red Cross, I should say," Agnes said, wisely, nodding her prettily capped head.

The two girls with a half dozen others were dressed in the soft grey uniform worn by the guides in the big base hospital on Long Island. They came through the Red Cross organization to act as guides for visitors who might wish to visit their boys in the many wards of the great institution. But the work of sewing on chevrons for the discharged patients as they came into possession of the complete new uniforms the government provided for them when they were able to leave became too heavy for the regular workers and the guides were pressed into this service.

It seems to me it must have taken all the creative energy of a young staff of swivel-chair officers to design all these emblems, Agnes," Louise ventured, as she picked up a bizarre symbol which had white streaks dashing from it every direction. "Just look at this one, for instance!"

Agnes smiled. "It must be some radio division," she replied.

There was a line of soldiers waiting so the girls kept on sewing busily.

Each girl was engrossed in her own musings as she sewed on these emblems as the last duty she could perform for the lads who had suffered in battle for them and theirs. Some of the discharged patients were pale and unsteady; others seemed entirely well. The Red Cross workers had learned to feel an especial interest in each and every one of them and bade them all good-by with a smile and a good wish.

Agnes could not take her mind entirely away from the memory of a soldier who had smiled at her two days before, when she had handed him his overcoat with the chevrons all sewed in place. He had looked wistful and lonely and as if he would as soon have remained in the big hospital as not.

Perhaps, thought Agnes, he had no one to go to; no one who could give him the nourishing food, the tender care, the cheery companionship that he needed after the long illness he has passed through since leaving France and the battlefields. He had been in the pneumonia ward and had been convalescing too slowly to suit the nurses who were caring for him. But his time had come to leave and he had gone. Agnes had hated to see him leave.

"Are you Miss Agnes?" a voice asked at her elbow.

She looked up into the face of another guide who held a card. "Yes—Agnes Hope."

"There is a young man outside who would like to speak with you for a moment. 'This is his card,'" the guide said, handing Agnes the slip of paper. The girl was entirely new in the hospital and did not recognize the soldier outside as the patient who had been so long in the hospital.

Agnes went at once to the reception room, where she found Sergt. Harrold Moore waiting for her, his cap in his hand.

She shook hands with him warmly. "How do you do? I was wondering about you even as I got your card—stronger," she hastened to add, while a faint pink stained her own cheeks.

"It was good of you to think of me—when you have so many patients to wait on," he said, simply.

There was a pause of an instant when neither seemed to know just what to say.

Harrold hesitated; then he put his hand on the emblem Agnes had sewn on the shoulder of his overcoat. "I—it seems that this should have been put on at a forty-five degree angle, and—"

"So it should," interrupted Agnes, laughing. "I made the mistake, I suppose, having so much to do."

"I haven't any one to fix it for me, here in the East and—and——"

"And so you brought it back to the ever ready Red Cross, eh?" Agnes helped him out.

"I took the liberty of bringing it back to—you," he corrected.

"And I'll change it as soon as I finish the one I'm sewing on now. Come with me."

Harrold followed her and was soon standing beside her while she ripped out her former stitching and was readjusting his division chevron. His service stripes and his one wound stripe remained as she had first placed them on his sleeves.

While she sewed, he told her of how his mother had died while he was in the service, of how she had been all he had in the world and of how lonely it seemed to him to be returning home, to the old office, the old circle of neighbors, the old life—without her.

"Must you return?" Agnes asked.

"Yes—my business, the business my father left me, is there. But I am remaining in New York for a week or so until—until——"

"Until you are stronger, perhaps?" Agnes asked. "And feel more nearly able to take that long inland trip?"

Sergt. Moore nodded, but not convincingly. "That's part of it," he admitted.

Agnes looked down at her sewing. "And the rest?" she asked.

"I—I wanted to see if perhaps I might not come to know you better. This mistake in the angle of the emblem furnished me with what I interpreted as a providential excuse. Am I ungrateful?"

"Why—no," Agnes said, quickly.

"I'm not much of a mixer, as the boys say, and I've met no one but the boys whom I can call friends. I am girl shy, they say. Even in France they twitted me about never having a girl to chum with or dance with at the canteens and recreation houses. But—you seemed different. I—I wondered if you had a home and if you would let me come to see you, perhaps." It was a long and difficult speech for Harrold, but he felt that it was vitally necessary, as the last few stitches were being put into his blessed chevron.

"I not only have a home, but I have a dear little mother who will welcome you and put you in front of our big wood fire and help you to get back to strength, if you'll let her. We—we had a boy of our own before the war," she added softly. "Come home with me this afternoon and have dinner. Mother will love to have you, and—and don't mind if she cries a little—the sight of the uniform and your youth may make her remember so poignantly."

"Your brother was killed in battle?" he asked gently.

Agnes nodded.

And after a while, when she had finished sewing, she took the pale young soldier home to her mother.

It may have been Providence, it may have been propinquity, but in time the soldier took the place of the boy who had fallen in battle, and Agnes's mother was just like on to Harrold, whose own had left him so suddenly while he fought abroad.

EXPLANATION WON'T DO.

[Ottawa Citizen.]

If butter or other prices were influenced by articles in the press and "scare heads," as alleged by one official in giving evidence before the committee on agriculture, it would be expected that such articles would appear first. But newspaper comment on rising prices does not proceed but follows the fact. Daily newspapers report rising prices, and while these reports may cause a run on the commodities mentioned, it is clear that the rise which occasioned the articles was inspired by some other cause. Incidentally, it may be said that if the daily newspapers did not protest against rising prices the consumers would today be in infinitely worse position than they are. As far as federal officialdom is concerned prices could attain any heights without disturbing the mental poise of those whose business it would seem to be to attempt to keep prices within reason.

IN WHICH A PERSPICACIOUS ORIENTAL FORESEES THE FINISH OF BOMBAY.

[Times of India.]

I tell you truly, Mr. Editor, if suffragists allowed in House of Parliament they make the world top-side down. First of all they make Mrs. Pankhurst viceroy of India, and Mrs. Pethick governor of Bombay. I know you are laughing, Mr. Editor, because I say this, but all womans is like that and do more foolish things. Your St. Paul is very clever fellow. He knows all the foolish things of the womans. He says very strongly womans must shut the mouth. No talking about business or anything. Everything must ask to the husbands and he will tell you. Shame, shame, for womans to talk. But what the womans care for St. Paul. So they become proud and fight to go in the House of Parliament. Europe people say we Indian people treating our womans like servant and animals. That is not true. We teach woman to do home work properly. Clean the house, make food, wash dress, make dress and make jolly all the people of the house. Therefore, my dear Mr. Editor, I fold hands and kiss your feets and ask you to tell all the men to stop this mischief of the suffragists. If man will not stop it God will stop it. I like you very much to put this letter in your Times of India, because in Bombay also some foolish men allowing womans to do wrong things by which they become afterward slowly, slowly suffragists. Then finished with Bombay.

Will a Slaughter of Jews Be Next European Horror?

While the sporadic persecutions and massacres of Jews in Russia, Poland, Rumania and the Ukraine, already reported, are disturbing in themselves, they are but scattered sparks compared to the conflagration some observers foresee. Thus William G. Shepherd, in a Paris dispatch to the New York Evening Post, says that not only leading Jews in France, but even notable Russian authorities, including Kerensky, "admit the possibility that the next Russian horror will consist of attacks on Jews." In the course of a dispatch from Paris, a correspondent to the New York Day, a Jewish paper, says regarding the massacres in the Ukraine, that "the purpose is apparently to exterminate the entire Jewish population."

Regarding the reported persecution of Jews in Poland, Rev. Dr. H. Pereira Mendes of New York, declares that that country "is now at the bar of the world's judgment, for the world has to choose between Turkish atrocities in Armenia, German atrocities in Belgium, and Polish atrocities in Poland."

Poles in New York, and the new Polish Premier Paderewski, deny that pogroms have occurred in Poland, and characterize these charges as anti-Polish and pro-German propaganda. To substantiate these denials the Polish information bureau cites Dr. Vernon Kellogg, recently returned to New York from Poland, who in an interview published in the New York Times stated that while "there were constant rumors of difficulties of one kind and another between the Jews and the Poles," he did not find evidence of any widespread massacres.

WINIFRED BLACK

Writes About "A Tragedy Over a Trifle."

Copyright, 1919, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Winifred Black

She killed herself, the poor little bride. And all the neighbors are whispering about the husband.

"What had he done?" they ask one another.

Was there some terrible secret in his life, and did she just find out about it, and was it too much for her to bear?

Or had he suddenly turned unkind and broken her heart with his cruelty?

Did he drink? Was he a drug fiend? Those quiet men sometimes—you never can tell.

Were his people unkind to her? Did they show her that they didn't think she was good enough for the young husband she adored?

Husband Was Human.

Well, perhaps he was of a little better family than she—his grandmother was a Somebody or Something, you know, and her people—didn't her grandmother keep a boarding house once forty years ago somewhere? And her mother—wasn't she a teacher or something?

Maybe it was about that brother of hers. Weren't there some stories about his being a little wild?

Yes, the husband's sister is peculiar, always has been; she's been there a good deal lately—maybe she had something to do with it.

Whisper, whisper, surmise, suspect, wonder, gossip—and all the time the little bride killed herself because the linoleum on the kitchen floor wasn't the pattern she thought it was going to be, and that's all there was to it.

Oh, of course, she thought there was something else the matter. She complained about the linoleum when her husband came home tired. He told her to stop talking about it, and she said he didn't love her any more, and he said, well, maybe he didn't, and poof!—she was gone into the other room, and in another minute she was dead by her own hand.

Perhaps the husband ought not to have said that maybe he didn't love her any more, and, of course, what he ought to have done was to have taken her in his arms and comforted her, and told her who cared about the old linoleum, or anything else on earth, so long as they were together, just they two alone in the world.

And she would have cried and he would have kissed her, and then she would have dried her eyes and they would have laughed together—and the whole world would have laughed with them.

But husband was a human being—not an angel.

His nerves were ragged—and the little bride talked about the linoleum, and he had all he could do to keep from running out to the kitchen and tearing the linoleum up off the floor and burning it into shreds, just to get rid of it once and for all. So he said what he did say, and the little bride did what she did, and there is an end to the whole silly, tragic, miserable, unhappy, useless story.

Now, if the little bride had only realized what a nuisance she was making of herself with her repetition of her woes about the linoleum—if she had only understood that her husband had something to think of besides her and the little household affairs—if she had only been taught common sense and self-control at home before she married at all, she and the poor dazed young husband would be taking a walk together in the moonlight this very minute, and thinking how sweet it was to live and to love, and to be practical and sane, and sensible and generous to each other's little faults and charitable to each other's little failings.

Love and Love.

What a lot of suicides there are over nothing these days.

I wonder if it means that we're losing sight of the plain, everyday, common sense balance of things.

I'm getting tired of plays where no one can live a minute unless they have everything exactly the way they want it.

I'm getting sick of books that try to make us believe that unless you can run away with some particular man on some particular moonlight night you might as well go and jump in a bay and be done with it.

Romantic love is a fine thing, a beautiful thing, and sometimes a noble and glorious thing, but it isn't the only thing in the world. And some of the happiest and most contented women in the world have never been really desperately in love in their lives, and never want to be.

The love that leads to suicide isn't love at all. It's just a fever in the blood, a madness, a hideous, driving, lashing fury that should be controlled and made to take its proper place in life.

Poor young husband! I hope the next time he marries—for, of course, there will be a next time—he'll explain to his new wife about what happened before, and maybe it will be a warning to her.

Daily Bible Question Club

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE UNIFORM LESSON FOR SUNDAY, JUNE 8, 1919.

ONE GOLDEN TEXT SUGGESTION. By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D. D.

Obedience.—Genesis, xii., 1-4. Matthew, vii., 16-23, John, xiv., 21-24.

QUESTION FOR TODAY.

14. Verses 21-23, HOW DO YOU ACCOUNT FOR THE SELF-DECEPTION OF MEN, WHO, ACCORDING TO THE TEACHING OF JESUS, WILL WALK UP TO THE GATE OF HEAVEN, THINKING THEY ARE SAVED, BUT TO BE TURNED BACK AS WORKERS OF INIQUITY? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by the members of the club.)

15. Verse 24. If a man loves God and his fellows, and lives to do good, what reason is there to believe that he is building upon an impregnable rock?

16. John, xiv., 21. Do all who truly love God keep his commandments?

JESUS SAVES SINNERS; BUT CHUMS WITH SAINTS.

Jesus was called the friend of publicans and sinners, and although his enemies said this about him in derision, Jesus never denied it. It was to a sinful world that Christ came, and he mingled with sinners just as a doctor visits and prescribes for his patients. Jesus has a sovereign remedy for a sin-sick soul, and all who are persuaded by him to take this remedy are saved from their sins. Jesus saves sinners, but he chums with saints. He is the intimate friend of all those who keep his commandments; he does not chum with either sinners or hypocrites, but with all the sincere of heart, and all those whose chief purpose in life is to love God and minister to the wants of their fellows prompted by their love for them.

Red Cross News

A Heated Discussion.

It is to be feared that nobody will want to read about anything so warm as wool, in these days of torrid heat, with the housecleaning scarcely done, and the ice-man passing your door with a haughty aloofness. But nevertheless this first piece of Red Cross news is about that very heating subject. Wool is tremendously important just now, wool yarn that is lying piled up at headquarters waiting to be made up into sweaters for the men at Byron. These Byron boys of ours need especial care, and after this unseasonable heat we are certain to have some unseasonable cold. And our lads, who are fighting tuberculosis so bravely must be guarded against chills. The hospital visitors, who look after Byron are saying that they must have sweaters, many of them, and they must have them soon. And the only way to produce them is just for all our veteran knitters to get out this wool that is waiting, and rush off a few from their swift needles. It won't take long if we each make one. Never mind if it is hot, it was a great deal warmer in the place where these sweaterless boys got gassed and wounded. Let us get to work and see how many nice cosy, sleeveless jackets we can turn in, in the next few weeks.

Something More Cooling.

But if sweaters are an unseasonable subject, flowers and fruit and pleasant evening drives are not. The desert spaces of our hospital wards are blossoming like the rose these days, thanks to the good friends who remember,—yes and they are bearing fruit too, and what a treat it is these scorching days. It was very refreshing the other day to turn off the blistering street into the cool of Red Cross headquarters, and find a fragrant heap of pineapples topped by a glowing mass of tulips and dainty lily-of-the-valley, waiting in a dim corner to be taken up to the hospital. There cannot be too many of these gracious gifts these days, please keep on doing the good work.

And as for drives! Think what it means to leave the heat and glare of the Heights to go, spinning along our shady avenues in a car these tropical days and evenings. Let your car get the habit of running up Rattle street, until it will turn there of its own accord, when you are going out for an evening spin. And you can train it too, so that it will stop automatically when it sights a wounded soldier limping along the street. A really nice self respecting car ought to balk if you tried to drive it past a sight like that.

For Your Vacation.

To return to that warm subject, if you are going away for the summer months, do not forget to take some of this wool that is piled up at headquarters. There ought to be a great many sweaters made this holiday season, so that when a rush order comes from the Hospital Visitor, there will be plenty on the shelves.

THE SECOND TABLE.

Some boys are mad when comp'ny comes to stay for meals. They hate
To have the other people eat, while boys must wait and wait.
But I've about made up my mind I'm different from the rest.
For, as for me, I believe I like the second table best.

To eat along with comp'ny is so triflin', for it's tough
To sit and watch the victuals when you dassen't touch the stuff;
You see your father serving out the dark meat and the light,
Until a boy is sure he'll starve before he gets a bite.

And when he asks you what you'll have —you've heard it all before—
You know you'll get just what you'll get and won't get nothing more;
For when you want another piece, your mother winks her eye,
And so you say "I've plenty please," and tell a whopping lie.

When company is a-watching you you've got to be polite.
You eat your victuals with a fork, and take a little bite;
You can't have nothin' till you're asked, and 'cause a boy is small
Folks think he isn't hungry and he's never asked at all.

Since I can first remember, I've been told that when the cake
Is passed around, the proper thing is for a boy to take
The piece that's nearest to him, so all I ever got
When comp'ny's been to our house was the smallest of the lot.

It worries boys like everything to have the comp'ny stay
A-setting round the table like they couldn't get away.
But when they've gone and left the whole big shootin' match to me
Say, ain't it fun to just wade in and help myself? Oh, gee!

With no one round to notice what you're doin'—bet your life—
Boys don't use forks to eat with when they'd rather use a knife;
Nor take such little bites as when they're eatin' with the rest,
And so for lots of things, I like the second table best.

Cold Cream Formula.

Dear Miss Grey,—Would you please tell me how to make cold cream at home? Do you think cold cream is good for the skin? What is the best way to get rid of small pimples? Thanking you in advance, I remain, BOBS.

Ans.—A very good formula for homemade cold cream is this: Half-ounce white wax, half-ounce spermaceti, half-ounce lanolin, one ounce cocoanut oil, two ounces oil sweet almond, one ounce orange-flower water, 30 drops tincture benzoin, five drops oil of rose. Heat first five in a double boiler. Beat until cold. Mix liquids and slowly cream, a few drops at a time.

2. Yes, if used in moderation. I do not think there is any harmful ingredient in the above formula, and many of the patented creams are also good.

3. For the pimples, a reader recommends this: Put two tablespoons of Epsom salts into a cup of boiling water; let stand until dissolved; then apply to the face, letting it dry in, doing it as often as possible until the eruptions disappear. In addition, of course, see that the bodily organs are in good working order.

Sunny Alberta Again.

Dear Miss Grey: It has been quite a while since I wrote to your box, so as I have a few minutes to spare from my lessons, I thought I would write a few lines. There is a large fire up north from our place, and the smoke the last few days has been terrible, but today the smoke is nearly all gone as the wind has blown it back.

I write to "Gerla" and like her letters fine; they are very interesting.

Will close with a riddle—Why are soldiers always tired the first of April? Answer—Because they have just finished a March of 31 days. The same

M. F. P. (Alberta).

Ans.—That is quite an odd riddle to be sure. I wonder how you would account for one's being tired on the first of June? Perhaps you are not having this midsummer heat in Alberta. Glad you have found such a nice correspondent through the Mail-Box.

RAIN PREVENTS TWILIGHT BALL GAME WITH FLINT

Local Club Is Expecting Several New Players Today—Pitcher Tanner, a Londoner, Has Reported to Club.

BY BERT B. PERRY.

London needed a ball game last night, but the country needed the rain worse, so nobody's sorry that the Flint and Tecumseh clubs could not stage the twilight fixture over in West London. Perhaps the local club will be all the better for a rest. At any rate, it can't be much worse.

A Local Boy Signed Up.

The team will be strengthened for today's game. Gordon Tanner, the local lad, has been signed up to pitch. Tanner has just been discharged from the American army. He was at Camp Custer in Battle Creek. Before going to the States he was employed on The Advertiser, and at one time pitched for The Advertiser Demons. He is a lefthander, and in the past few years that he has resided in Detroit has been fast developing into a crack hurler. His recent performances in Camp Custer have attracted considerable attention.

Gurney to Join Club.

Frank Gurney, who played for the Saints in the old Canadian League, has been wired for, and will likely be in today's game. He will fill in until Donnelly, who went to New York because of his wife's serious illness, returns. Madison, an outfielder, will also join the club today, it is expected. Pitcher Ed Scott has notified the club that he will report immediately.

LOOKING THEM OVER

The London club is after a new outfielder, as well as a pitcher and catcher, if present plans carry, the line-up will show two or three new players by Saturday.

Harry Howick, the St. Thomas boy, will likely pitch today's game for Flint against the locals. Malloy will probably be on the mound for the locals.

The Brantford club played to over 3,000 people in the three games this week with Saginaw. The Telephone City is becoming a real live ball town.

One of the pitchers that Manager Mason is after has a reputation as a coacher. His antics on the base lines generally make a big hit with the fans. He is a comedian after the Nick Altrock style. A good coacher is an asset to any club, especially when he can go out and take his turn in the box with the rest of the hurlers.

This bird Kaylor, who plays right field for the Battle Creek, is a mighty good ball player. He uses his head a lot and is a great little "kidder." Before the game at London on Wednesday he went up to Umpire Anderson and said: "Say, Andy, let you and I get together today. You were doing fine until the eighth inning yesterday, then you called a couple of bad ones on me."

Smykal, the speedy shortstop of the old Ottawa Canadian League champs, may break into the Mint League. Shaughnessy is trying to get him with the Hamilton club.

Bobby Heck, who used to pitch the London Canadian Leaguers to victory, is going good with Toronto. Bobby is not only pitching well, but he manages to come through with a bingle now and then that helps mightily.

Shaughnessy is trying to corral a lot of ex-Canadian Leaguers for the present Mint League Hams apparently. His latest addition to the team is "Petie" Powers, who was with Ottawa. Powers broke into the league with London originally, then went to St. Thomas, and later to Ottawa. He was a nice ball player, too.

BOSTON, June 5.—Catcher John Henry was given his unconditional release today by the Boston American League club.

Henry was for several years with the Washington club and later played with the Boston Nationals.

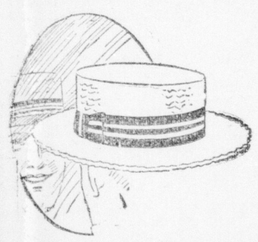

SOME "BALL GAME"

[Brantford Expositor.]

The other day the London golfers on their return from a match at Hamilton dropped off at a local restaurant for supper. As they were coming out, golf bags over their shoulders, a "first - in - everything" newsboy, seeing the bags, reflected that they were ball players. The conversation ran somewhat as follows:

"What team do you play on?"
"London."
"Did you play today?"
"Yes, at Hamilton."
"What was the score?"
"Hamilton 43, London 7."
"Aw, 'h——, who pitched?"
And the golfers vanished.

The best part of the story is that it actually happened. Iden Champion heard the whole examination, with the expostulatory

DEMPSEY HAS STOPPED MEN JESS COULDN'T

There is a small chance to draw a true line of comparison between Jess Willard and Jack Dempsey.

In the first place, the men are entirely different in style and temperament. Willard is slow, takes lots of punishment, and is not the heavy puncher that Dempsey is. He fights because that is his business.

Dempsey is fast, punches with pile-driving power and fights because he likes it.

Records considered as matters of prowess show four men who have faced each principal in Tex Rickard's big bout. They are Arthur Pelkey, Gunboat Smith, Charley Miller and Carl Morris.

Of the lot there isn't one who could last with Dempsey, and Willard didn't stop one of them.

Pelkey and Willard boxed ten unsatisfactory rounds in New York, and there was no decision.

He lasted less than a round with Dempsey in Denver.

Gunboat Smith, at that time at the very top of his career, gave Jess a fine cuffing in San Francisco, although the big champion always has claimed the decision was wrong. This was a 20-round go.

Dempsey met Smith twice, once getting a decision over him in a four-round bout in California, and the second time stopping him in two rounds in Buffalo. Smith was floored nine times in the latter bout before he finally stayed down.

Charley Miller and Willard fought four rounds to a draw in California.

It required less than a round for Miller to sleep when he met Dempsey.

Carl Morris and Willard staged a very tame bout in New York, the show going ten rounds.

Morris once lost to Dempsey on a foul in six rounds, after taking a beating. The next time Dempsey gave big Carl the usual one-round dose.

WHAT STAR BATTERS DO AT THE PLATE

TY COBB: Always approaches the plate swinging three bats. Stoops to rub dust on his hands. Knocks dirt from spikes with his bat. Stands nearly erect, feet together, with head slightly bowed. Swings bat slowly, more rapidly as ball advances. Occasionally arranges cap.

TRIS SPEAKER: Always draws line with his bat beside the plate. Assumes a crouching position and swings bat continually back and forth parallel with the ground.

FRED LUDERUS: Always draws a right angle around the plate with the end of the bat.

BOB VEACH: Knocks dirt from his spikes with the bat. Fixes his cap several times, fusses continually with his belt, and rubs hands up and down bat nervously.

CASEY STENGEL: Taps ground continually with left foot. Always digging feet into the dust. Very nervous.

HAPPY FELSCH: Taps plate occasionally. Swings bat powerfully backward and forward somewhat like Tris Speaker or Harry Hooper. Has a perfect mania for touching his cap, tightening belt and rubbing his hands on his trousers.

WALTER HOLKE: Stands with a pronounced crouch, feet wide apart. Usually holds bat nearly motionless until he swings to meet the ball.

GEORGE CUTSHAW: Stands erect. Chokes up on the bat, hands wide apart. Shifts continually from one foot to the other.

CACTUS CRAVATH: Stands swaying about like an elephant. Swings bat in an aimless fashion. But he gradually digs spikes into the ground for a solid position and as he meets the ball he grips the bat hard, and swings forward with his full strength.

GEORGE SISLER: Stands erect at the plate. Goes through fewer false motions than almost any other batter. Merely swings the bat easily to and fro.

Hamilton Defeats Battle Creek by Score of 5 to 1

Game Called in the Sixth—Weincke Pitched Good Ball, But Given Poor Support.

HAMILTON, June 5. — Hamilton won the first game of the series from Battle Creek here today, the score being 5 to 0 when the game was called, after two men were out in the locals' half of the sixth. Weincke pitched winning ball for the visitors, but was given poor support, and two walks he issued in the sixth proved disastrous, as both men scored.

Glasier was in a tight corner on two occasions, but good support pulled him through. There was a fair crowd present, despite the threatening weather, and rain started during the fifth, but Umpire Myers did not call the game until the sixth was nearly over. The score:

Boys! Ride a Cleveland Bicycle

Say, boy, won't it be just fine to have a dandy, husky, easy-riding Bicycle to take you to school—to here, there and everywhere? If you're a real boy, you want a wheel that will stand the bumps as no other wheel can, and that is the very reason why we so heartily recommend the

Cleveland Bicycles

It's just like riding on velvet when you are on a CLEVELAND. It runs smoothly, not only at first, but year after year. It doesn't get out of order or break down easily like ordinary wheels do. It is made strong—extra strong—to stand more than the usual hard bumps.

That is the right kind of a wheel for a live boy, isn't it? And that is just what CLEVELAND Bicycles are like.

Besides, a CLEVELAND always has the famous HERCULES COASTER BRAKE. Say, you can feel right at home on a steep hill. Press your foot on it and it answers your slightest wish. Press harder and it stops the wheel easily and surely. At the bottom of the hill you start going again with no trouble at all. The clutch engages easily.

90 per cent of the parts of every CLEVELAND Bicycle are made in Canada by the Canada Cycle and Motor Company, Limited, and each machine is fully guaranteed by them.

Dad will simply have to admit that exercise and lots of fresh air are good for any boy. Show this advertisement to him now and get him to come and see the CLEVELAND. We gladly show it, whether or not you are ready to buy just now.

How many colds or other diseases do you catch riding in the inclosed car?

CRERAR HANDS RESIGNATION IN TO BORDEN

Correspondence May Be Read Today.

BEGINNING OF BREAK-UP

Others Said To Be About To Quit the Union Cabinet.

(Special to The Advertiser.)

OTTAWA, June 4.—It is authoritatively stated tonight that Hon. T. A. Crerar is in the vanguard of those who will sever allegiance with the Union cabinet, and that his resignation is in the hands of Sir Robert Borden.

The correspondence, it is understood, would be read tomorrow afternoon.

Today the absence of Mr. Crerar from the House while the budget was delivered was remarked by all.

In the meantime other western Liberal Unionists are conferring together and will hold a caucus with regard to the budget proposals either on Saturday or Monday.

Dissatisfaction among them is rife.

ONE MAN GIVEN MORE TALENTS THAN ANOTHER

Lord Made Them With Varied Capacities, Says Goderich Conference Speaker.

LABOR PROBLEM AGAIN UP

Another Speaker Says Employers Should Organize and Meet Men in Peace.

[BY STAFF REPORTER.]

GODERICH, June 5.—Representatives of the Town of Goderich attended the conference this afternoon, in the persons of Reeve T. L. Davis, acting for the mayor, and R. J. Megaw of the board of trade. They were presented to the conference by the Rev. W. L. Rutledge, minister of the conference church, and extended a welcome from the town to the visitors.

Several speakers filled the afternoon program, the first being Ernest Thomas of the army and navy board, who spoke before the laymen's association last night. He offered some very interesting figures in regard to the contribution of the Methodist Church to the war.

"Almost 500 Methodist ministers were engaged in active service and 75 per cent of these in combatant service," he declared.

"Twenty-nine of these will never return. The sum of $15,000 was collected for the army and navy fund and sent overseas, and $4,500 of that fund is still to be got to wind it up."

Labor and Capital.

He again touched extensively on the labor and capital question, declaring that all men are not born equal, and that the leaders of corporations as well as their employees must be enlisted in the service of Christ.

"We know that all employers should be organized, and all employees should be organized, and then that the two great bodies come together and settle their difficulties in peace, not strife," he said.

Dr. W. J. Graham of Victoria College spoke on the educational work of the church, referring to the loyal way in which the London conference had stood by Victoria College.

"I think that Toronto University as a strong vital power for democracy, is the greatest institution of learning in the British Empire," he declared.

"The acute problem just now, however, is that of secondary education, and it will be noticed that a large sum is asked for this work during the educational campaign.

Referring to the accusations being made against the Methodist Church, he said: "I am glad for one thing that they are saying these things against us, and I hope we never shall strike palms with the liquor traffic."

Band of Missionaries.

Capt. Edwards, M.C., was the last speaker, addressing the convention on behalf of the men who went overseas.

"I believe that the greatest band of missionaries was that band of the Canadian corps which went forth from Canada to fight for the principles of liberty and the existence of weaker nations. In my own life the days under fire were the richest days, and although I was there not as a chaplain, I have been a minister of the gospel these three years, and have come back with a deeper knowledge of God than ever before."

"There is great need of patience and every avoidance of criticism of the men who have come back and remember they are expecting a new church that can rise to the ideals of the age in which we live,' he said.

The subject of capital and labor cannot even keep itself away from the devotional sessions of the conference. This morning in referring to it Dr. Aitken of Ottawa said in dealing with this question it must always be remembered that the Lord made men with different capacities to fill different positions in life. He cited the parable of the talent to bring this home.

OMMITTEE DECLINES TO TACKLE CHARGES FOR FARM TRACTORS

r. McCoig's Proposal Is Not Concurred In.

ME SHORT, IS EXCUSE

ttention Will Be Particularly Devoted to "Spread" in Prices.

TTAWA, June 5.—The proposal by B. McCoig of Kent to make in- y into the prices charged for cer- tain lots of farm tractors sold in Canada, met with some opposition in the special parliamentary committee to deal with the high cost of living at its session this morning.

G. B. Nicholson, chairman, said he was in the hands of the committee, but that not much could be accomplished if the committee undertakes to inquire into specific matters of this kind.

Mr. McCoig maintained that the cost of tractors to the farmers has an important bearing on the matter of the cost of living.

Donald Sutherland argued that the cost of tractors has but a small bearing on the cost of production, as comparatively few farmers use them.

McCoig retorted that an increased use of small farm tractors would tend to decrease the cost of production. "If thousands of dollars too much are being charged farmers for tractors," he said, "this is a legitimate subject of inquiry by the committee."

In view of the short period before prorogation members of the committee should be devoted to ascertaining the "spread" of prices, rather than the cost of production. Mr. Nicholson doubted if Mr. Coig's proposal was covered by the committee's instructions.

Owing to the exigencies of our winter climate the Rideau Canal is drained each fall, and filled again each spring. The latter process has just recently been completed. Proper Care For "Their Majesties"

Did you see the "model nursery" this week out at the London Child Welfare exhibit in the Technical School? It was a fascinating corner for the young mothers, who watched and watched and watched the expert graduate nurse give a demonstration of the correct way to bathe a baby, and the quickest, most efficient manner of dressing it.

The grandmothers, too, looked on with interest, even if they wouldn't admit they had anything to learn about proper care of children.

No, it wasn't a real live baby that was dressed and undressed, bathed and rebathed, bless its little heart! If it had been, there would have been no baby by the end of baby week.

But there was a substitute for a baby, a most lifelike looking "dummy" which smiled serenely on, never raising the least objection to the treatment accorded to it, apparently perfectly well satisfied that the nurses knew their business.

By the way, said nurses were carrying out the directions of Dr. W. J. Tillmann, convener of the clinic committee for the exhibit.

Occasionally there was a real baby by way of variety, and to add very much to the interest.

Great stress was laid upon the choice of soap. It must be perfectly pure, and for demonstration purposes the choice had fallen upon pure castile.

DRY HIM ON A PAD.

On the table, right beside the sanitary bath tub, was laid a rubber pad, covered with flannelette. On to this King Baby was popped as soon as he had been thoroughly soaped and soused in the tub.

No drying of the modern baby on the nurse's knee, while he wriggles and squirms. The flat pad is the only rational way, according to the demonstration.

The importance of "preparedness" was emphasized when it comes to bathing and dressing the baby.

The mother or other nurse was warned to have everything ready for the operations to be performed before introducing the baby at all. Beside the drying pad, in the order in which they were to be picked up, were placed the little garments.

But first the tot was sprinkled from head to toe with talcum powder of an approved brand for babies, sprinkled just as the eloquent advertisements advise.

SAVE HIM FROM BOW LEGS.

After that the band is snatched up and adjusted, then the tiny vest, next the diaper, square folded.

"Note the folding of the diaper," said the nurse. "The doctor is very insistent about this, in order that bow legs may be prevented."

Next came the stockings, turned down at the top, so that they would slip on easily.

"The stockings should always be long, right up to the knee, excepting in very warm weather," declared the nurse.

The grandmother who had brought up several children of her own, and supervised, as far as she was allowed, the welfare of several little grandchildren, looked decidedly superior. She announced to a friend in an aside, "That is nonsense. I always have pinned up the end of the barricoat."

"LET HIM KICK."

Just as if she knew exactly the question raised in the grandmother's mind, though she couldn't possibly have heard it, nurse explained: "When the barricoat is left loose, it gives the baby freedom to kick and develop his legs."

Even when the baby was thoroughly washed from head to foot, the nurse didn't consider that satisfactory. She picked up a toothpick, to the end of which was attached a swab of absorbent cotton, dipped it in a 25 per cent solution of borax and water, and proceeded to show how a baby's mouth should be washed out, just as well as the tender ears and plump little neck.

After this, similar toothpick swabs were used for washing out the eyes and nostrils.

The band and shirt, said the demonstrator, should be changed every night, and if the tiny baby is delicate, it should be rubbed all over with olive oil every night until it is two months old.

WEIGH IT OFTEN.

In order to make sure that the little one is thriving all right, it should be weighed twice a week, the first two weeks of its life; after that, once a week until a month old, then, if it seems to be getting along well, once a month will do for the weighing.

Referring particularly to the care of the eyes of babies: "As soon as the little ones are born in the hospital," related the nurse, "the very first thing we do is to put a drop of argyrol in the eyes of the new-born babe. This effectually prevents any infection, and doubtless saves many babies from eye trouble."

Since so much of the baby's after welfare depends upon the amount and quality of sleep of the first year of its life, special attention in the model nursery was drawn to the baby's basket or cot.

WARM, INEXPENSIVE COVERLET.

The baby basket in the exhibit was a thing of daintiness and luxury, in a color scheme of pink and white. "Pure wool" blankets were advocated, which caused some mothers to shake their heads over prohibitive prices. The blankets, the nurse pointed out, were lined with cotton sheets. In other words, baby should be placed between the smooth cotton sheets.

"Isn't the coverlet pretty?" nurse wanted to know. Dainty and pretty as could be, visitors agreed, and at the same time inexpensive.

"The very best material that can be used," announced nurse, is cheese cloth, and you can't find anything much less expensive than that. Between the cheese cloth is placed layers of cotton batting, and the little, light, warm, sanitary comforter is knotted to suit the fancy. Apart from other reasons, such a comfotter is the ideal one, because it can be so easily cleaned."

The story of the model nursery at the Child Welfare exhibit has been especially written for the benefit of mothers and others who have the care of young children but who were not able to visit London's second annual Child Welfare exhibit.

Smiting the Flies.

The sudden arrival last week of regular "dog days" weather, caused housewives and househusbands to sit up and get busy thinking seriously about their annual summer season problems. They had been so worried a brief time before in regard to whether the tulips would freeze or not, that they had scarcely realized that fly time, mosquito time, June bug time was liable to arrive almost any time.

The amazing part has been "Where in the world could those flies have come from?" And still, screens are missing on some of the windows, and the repairing of old ones has been left to the eleventh-hour and fifty-fifth minute. Indeed, the housefly has put in an appearance just as unheralded as it is unhonored and unsung.

As far back as March, the Kansas State Board of Health was beginning an aggressive "Anti-Fly" campaign. The March issue was devoted to phases of the fly menace, and among other seasonable advice offered was the following prescription for getting rid of flies, a prescription which might be dubbed "Safety First," or "Harmless to Humans, Poison to Flies."

"HARMLESS TO HUMANS.

The bulletin says: "This fly poison has the advantage of being harmless to human beings while poisonous to flies, and is therefore recommended as a safe and effective way to rid a place of flies."

This is the "Flies Only" poison:

A solution of sodium salicylate sweetened with a pinch of brown sugar will be a lure for the average house fly's destruction. Dissolve one and one-half teaspoonful of salicylate of sodium in a half pint of water, adding a little brown sugar; partially fill the tumbler with the solution. Place a piece of blotting paper over the top, the size of a saucer, and on top of the blotting paper place a saucer. The whole is then quickly inverted, a toothpick placed under the edge of the glass, and the container is ready for use. As the solution dries out of the saucer, the liquid seal at the edge of the glass is broken and more liquid flows into the saucer, thus the blotting paper is always kept moist.

CAMPAIGN HOSTS.

Here are "Six Strategical Moves to Use in Your Campaign Against the Fly," as given by the Kansas State Board of Health:

1. Get after the breeding places early. See that your backyard is free from filth and that manure is hauled away weekly from stables that may be in your neighborhood.

2. Keep the fly out of your kitchen. The female cannot lay her eggs until after she has had a full meal of rich foods, such as butter, cream and sweet stuffs.

3. Keep the fly away from baby. Thousands of germs cling to the feet and sucker of a fly. A fly leaves a trail of these on the skin of any person it touches.

4. Keep your garbage can tightly covered. The fly breeds and feeds in the refuse such cans contain.

5. Place traps in your yard some distance from the house. Then you can trap the pests before they have a chance to get into your home.

6. Keep tab on your grocery and meat market. If there are flies buzzing about you may rest assured the store is not clean. By keeping the store and its surroundings spotless, and by using traps the proprietor can practically eliminate flies. If he doesn't, take your trade to one who does.

Candy For Kiddies

Should children be allowed to eat candy? Beside a plate of homemade candy, which was an item of the exhibit of "Meals for Children" of the Victoria Hospital Alumnae Association at the Child Welfare Exhibit this week, was a card on which was written the following bit of scientific advice (it's poetry!)

CANDY.

All the kiddies love the sweets,
Any time and all the time;
But don't forget it's not a treat
For any time and all the time.
Wait until the dinner's eaten,
Then make it more complete
With some home-made candy,
Which really can't be beaten.

HUGE WELCOME PLANNED FOR 47TH BATTALION; IS COMING THIS AFTERNOON

London's Last Chance To Cheer an Infantry Unit—Arrives at 4 p.m. on the G. T. R.—March Through Streets—Same Program as For the 18th.

Londoners will turn out to a man today to welcome home the boys of the 47th Battalion, the last complete infantry battalion that will be dispersed in this city. The boys arrive at the G. T. R. station at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

The most strenuous efforts are being made by the soldiers' aid commission, and other organizations, including the city council and the military authorities, to make this last to equal, if not eclipse, all other receptions, even those given the good old 1st, and 18th Battalions. This is the last chance Londoners will have to show their gladness at the coming home of a full battalion, and no stone is being left unturned to make it the best ever.

The same program will be followed, as was used for the 1st, and 18th Battalions. The men will arrive at the down-town G. T. R. station at 4 p.m., and detraining there, will march through the streets to Carling Heights' camp. The military headquarters' staff and the members of the city council will take the salute at the armories, and addresses of welcome will be delivered at the Heights. Local public school pupils will congregate at points along the line of march nearest their respective schools.

The men will then be guests of the ladies of the Red Cross at a supper at Tecumseh Barracks. They will then leave for their home throughout the district.

The party includes 51 officers and 442 other ranks, and they are travelling on special train No. 2017.

The 47th Battalion, was originally a British Columbia unit, but was later reinforced with drafts from this district, until its now practically a Western Ontario unit. There is scarcely a place in Western Ontario, but has its representatives in the 47th. A number of the men go to homes in the United States.

They docked at Quebec Thursday, on S. S. Empress of Britain, and left at 11:30 a.m. Thursday for London. The list follows:

NATION-WIDE STRIKE ABOUT TO BE CALLED ON WESTERN UNION CO.

President of Company Says It Will Have Little Effect.

WASHINGTON, June 5.—Employees of the Western Union Telegraph in Florida, Alabama, Georgia, South and North Carolina, West Virginia, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, Mississippi and New Orleans, La., who are members of the Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America, were ordered to go on strike immediately tonight by S. J. Konenkamp, president of that organization.

President Konenkamp said the strike order was issued in support of Atlanta telegraph and telephone operators, who went out several days ago, and asserted that it would unquestionably be followed by a nation-wide strike within a few days.

WILL HAVE LITTLE EFFECT.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, declared tonight that the strike of the Western Union employees in ten states ordered tonight by S. J. Konenkamp, president of the Telegraphers' Union of America, would have virtually no effect on the Western Union.

"Of more than 40,000 employees of the Western Union, eligible for membership in the Commercial Telegraphers' Union," he said, "only about 700 are members of the organization. In the territory covered by Mr. Konenkamp's order less than 400 of our employees are members of that union."

WOMAN'S HAIR REACHES TO KNEES

A Year Ago Was Threatened With Baldness, Tells How She Made Her Hair Grow.

Mrs. Esther Emery, now visiting friends in the city, is the fortunate possessor of marvelously beautiful hair, which, when loosened from its coils falls to her knees. Moreover, it is of soft, silky and fluffy texture, and in color a glorious glossy gold. Yet just one year ago she was threatened with baldness. Urged to tell how she had obtained this wonderful growth in so short a time, she said: "Had anyone told me such marvelous results could be accomplished so quickly, I positively would not have believed it. Twelve months ago my hair, which then reached barely to my shoulders, was falling out at an alarming rate and growing very thin, actually exposing the bald scalp in several spots. It was dull and lifeless in color, turning grey in patches, and very dry and brittle. My head was covered with dandruff and itched like mad all the time. I tried fully a dozen different hair tonics, but they were all the same and never did me a bit of good. One day I chanced to read in my home paper of a simple home prescription to make the hair grow that was recommended by a well-known physician. It said that by taking ordinary Lavona de Composee and mixing with Bay Rum and Menthol Crystals and applying to the scalp each night with the finger tips that new hair would grow very rapidly. I decided to try it, and I had my druggist mix 2 ounces of the Lavona de Composee with 6 ounces of Bay Rum and ½ dram of Menthol Crystals, and started to use it. My, how quickly my hair did grow. First the hair stopped falling, the itching ceased and the dandruff disappeared. Then tiny little hairs appeared all over my scalp. These grew and grew as though nothing would ever stop them. They are growing yet and, while, of course, I have used the treatment steadily and expect to continue it, at least until my hair reaches the floor; I might have stopped and been perfectly satisfied at the end of three months. I think that any woman can get long, thick, beautiful hair by using this prescription, as I have recommended it to several friends and all are delighted with the result. The prescription is very inexpensive and any druggist can fill it.

Those who use it should be careful not to get it on the face or where the hair is not desired.—Advt. F.14,26

SIR THOMAS WHITE PROPOSES TO MEET ENORMOUS DEFICIT BY ANOTHER LOAN AND HEAVY INCREASE IN INCOME TAX

Canada's Net National Debt Will Be $1,950,000,000 at End of Fiscal Year, or $220 Per Head of Population, Involving Annual Interest Burden of $115,000,000, Aside From $35,000,000 Annually For Pensions.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

OTTAWA, June 5.—The mountain has labored and brought forth a mouse. The budget for which the country has wearily waited since the beginning of the session and over which the Government has toiled painfully for the same period was made public in the Commons by Sir Thomas White this afternoon. From it the consumer and the laboring man who has been struggling against the increasing cost of living can derive no comfort, in fact the reverse. It provides no tariff relief worthy of the name. On the other hand it provides for increases in the income tax, which, in the lower categories are about double the tax at present i nforce. But which in the higher categories are not as great as in the United States.

The agriculturalist has been demanding at least a loaf of bread. He has been given a dog biscuit instead. Relief from the burdens of taxation under which agriculture production is rendered expensive is almost lacking in the budget.

FEATURES OF BUDGET SPEECH

Net national debt, $1,584,000,000.

Ultimate debt end of fiscal year, $1,950,000,000, or $220 per head of population, involving an annual interest burden of $115,000,000, exclusive of pensions, which will cost about $40,000,000 annually.

Increase in national debt since 1914, $1,614,000,000.

Cost of war to March 31 last, $1,327,273,848, of which $275,943,977 has been paid out of revenue.

Demobilization this year will cost $300,000,000.

Total expenditure this year, $620,000,000.

Total revenue will not exceed $280,000,000.

TAXATION CHANGES.

Incomes from $1,000 to $6,000 of persons without dependents taxed 4 per cent.

Incomes from $2,000 to $6,000 of married persons taxed 4 per cent.

Incomes exceeding $6,000 taxed 8 per cent.

Surtax will commence from $5,000, instead of from $6,000, increasing by graduation until incomes exceeding $1,000,000 will pay materially increased taxes.

TARIFF PROPOSALS.

Tariff proposals are:

To repeal the British tariff rate of 5 per cent imposed under the customs tariff war revenue act of 1915, and to remove the intermedite and general rate of 7½ per cent from foodstuffs, linen, cotton and woolen clothing, boots and shoes, fur caps and clothing, hats, gloves, collars, cuffs, hides, leather, harness, agriculture implements, petroleum, mining machinery, bituminous coal.

There will be reductions in the duty on coffee and tea.

Wheat, wheat flour and potatoes, from countries which do not impose a duty on such articles, are to have free importation into Canada.

There will be alterations from ad valorem to specific duties on soda ash, and on copper, lead, zinc and spelter.

Reduction on agriculture implements will in some cases mean a duty of 15 per cent instead of 27½ per cent under the old tariff, and on other classes 17½ per cent.

There are also reductions on cement

These reductions will cause a loss in revenue of $17,000,000, and, with an expected decrease in customs on imports of probably $25,000,000 to offset this deficit, a heavy increase is proposed in the Income tax.

Western M. P.'s Disgusted.

Western members especially are frankly disgusted with the new proposals, and as a probable indication of this disgust, the fact that Hon. T. A. Crerar, minister of agriculture, didn't bother coming to the House to hear the finance minister's pronouncement, is of interest. On the other hand, the high protection members of the Government are tonight complaining bitterly at the fact that the Government touched the tariff at all.

The new budget, first of all, waves the Union Jack by removing the 5 per cent war tariff from the British preferential. That is about all it does for British trade, however. With the exception of certain insignificant reductions of three or four cents per pound on tea and coffee ground within the Empire, it does not remove the 7½ per cent war increase in the general tariff excepting in the case of items including foodstuffs, boots and shoes, cotton, woolen and linen clothing, agricultural implements, bituminous coal, etc.; but inasmuch as the cost of these articles have very materially increased since the war tax was first imposed, the removal of it is not of much consequence.

Agricultural Implements.

In addition to the removal of the war tax on the above list of items there is an average reduction of 4 per cent in the duty on agricultural implements. This leaves the duty now at about 15 per cent, which is about the standard proposed under the reciprocity pact of Sir Wilfrid Laurier. Because of the increased cost of production since that time, however, the average now will be proportionally far higher so far as it affects the consumer than it would have been under the reciprocity pact of 1911.

The decrease in the duty on agricultural implements was granted in consideration of an agreement on the part of the railways to reduce their freight rates on agricultural implements from Eastern to Western Canada, to the same standard as those between Eastern United States points and Western Canada. That the western purchaser of such implements will not benefit by the decrease in freight rates, however, may be gathered from the fact that the implements are sold for western points.

"Jacks Up" Income Tax.

The minister estimated that the treasury would lose $17,000,000, because of these insignificant reductions in the tariff. So he proposes that the income tax shall be jacked up. As a result of the increase the single man with a $2,000 income will now pay $40 instead of $20, while the man with a family will pay the same amount on a $3,000 income. From the millionaire will be taken away some 64 per cent of all that he has over the million, with graduated confiscation on amounts below.

In this connection, however, that portion of the minister's speech which dealt with the financial conditions of the country is interesting. It was, to say the least, a fearsome statement. As a result of the improvident policy adopted during the war by the Government of paying for the war by borrowing, the Dominion is faced at the end of the present year with a net debt of two billion dollars, or about $220 per head of population. The total cost of the war has been $1,327,273,848 and of that amount the Dominion only paid about 50 millions as it went along when all domestic liabilities had been met. This is six per cent, as against over 40 per cent by the United States, and over 30 per cent by Great Britain. The remaining amount was borrowed.

Billion and Half Tax Free.

But the main trouble with Canada's borrowings is that a total of one billion and a half of them are represented by tax-free Victory bonds. The greater portion of these are held by the "big fellows," who, in so far as the income derived from them is considered, may laugh at Sir Thomas White's increases in the income tax. It is estimated that to certain of the heavy holders of such bonds they are worth from 20 to 30 per cent to them as a consequence of the tax exemption feature.

When the war has all been paid for, the Dominion will be faced with fixed charges in interest and pensions approximating $155,000,000. These must be paid out of revenue before another cent is disbursed for the ordinary running expenses and capital expenditures of the county, and yet the Government is this year proposing a total expenditure of $680,000,000. Part of that is for demobilization purposes, part for capital outlay, and $270,000,000 is for ordinary expenditure. Of the latter amount, $102,000,000 is required to meet interest, and $30,000,000 for pensions. This leaves an amount of $138,000,000 for simply running the country.

Unbridled Extravagance.

It is over 50 millions more than was needed for the same purpose in the prosperous days of the Laurier regime, which was bitterly blamed for extravagance by men who are in the present Government, and it is ten millions more than was needed during the free spending days of Rogers just before the war. It would, therefore, appear that not even the prospect of the appalling debt with which the country is faced will deter the Government from its own extravagance and wasteful methods of living.

Out of the $680,000,000 of expenditure planned for the current year, only $280,000,000 can be raised by revenue, according to the minister's estimate. That means that $400,000,000 must be raised by borrowing, and, in addition, there are $148,000,000 worth of bonds floated in the United States which come due and must be redeemed by the end of the present year.

In fact, the finance minister has practically made no provision in his present budget for meeting the burden under which the country now labors. His slogan to the people is "produce and save;" his own motto appears to "wait and spend."

Probably the most interesting statement made by Sir Thomas was that the ultimate debt of the Dominion when all expenditures are met will be $1,950,000,000, or $220 per head of population, and involving an annual interest burden of $115,000,000. This is exclusive of pensions which will cost the country from thirty-five to forty million dollars per and in more detail, than has been my annum. While impressing upon the House the fact that the burden to be borne is heavy, Sir Thomas said Canada was in a much better position than many other countries, and there was no reason why we should be discouraged.

The cost of the war up to March 31, the close of the fiscal year, was $1,327,273,848. For the fiscal year it was $450,000,000, as compared with $60,750,475 for the first year of the war. During the war period, $275,943,977 of its principal cost was paid out of revenue. With pensions and interest disbursements the amount paid out of revenue was $438,293,848.

The finance minister told the House that demobilization costs for the current year will be not less than $300,000,000, and total expenditure $620,000,000. Revenue, on the other hand, will not exceed $280,000,000 or about sufficient to cover ordinary expenditure. There would have to be at least one more loan to cover demobilization and capital expenditure.

For the past fiscal year, Sir Thomas was able to announce that revenue had exceeded ordinary expenditure by seventy million dollars, of which forty-eight million dollars had been devoted to war expenditure. In order to successfully cope with the financial situation, the finance minister said there must be agricultural and industrial development. We must adopt the motto: "Produce and Save."

Sir Thomas' Speech.

Sir Thomas spoke as follows:

"This motion affords me the opportunity of presenting the budget for the consideration of the House. It is usual in such presentation to deal with the important topics of the financial position of the Dominion, the condition of our trade, domestic and foreign, the state of our revenues, and expenditures for the past and, so far as can be estimated, for the coming year, and to submit the fiscal measures which the Government deems essential having regard to the situation disclosed.

"This is the general course along which my remarks of today will proceed, but in view of the special circumstances in which Canada in common with the rest of the world finds herself, I hope I may be pardoned if I dwell upon the various subjects which I have mentioned at somewhat greater length, custom in previous budgets which I have had the honor to present to Parliament.

"The war is over and all nations are engaged in counting the cost, estimating the condition in which their finance and trade have been left after the fiery tempest which has passed over the world, and devising ways and means to repair the ruin which has been wrought.'

A Complete Review.

"It seems to me that what the House and the people of Canada will first desire to learn from the budget speech will be what has been the cost of the war to Canada, what is our present financial position, what it will be when demobilization has taken place, and our war expenditure is completely at an end, and what are the additional annual charges which must be met as the result of the war.

"To these topics I shall first address myself. The fiscal year of the Dominion closes on March 31. According to our system some time is required for the completion of the services and bringing into account of all items attributable to the year closed on that date, but a fairly accurate forecast may be given of what the completed accounts will reveal.

"With regard to the cost of the war to the Dominion, the books of the finance department show as of March 31 last, a total principal war expenditure of $1,327,273,848. The portions incurred in respect of the several years during the continuance of the war are as follows:

$60,750,475	for 1914-15
$166,197,755	for 1915-16
$306,488,814	for 1916-17
$343,856,801	for 1917-18
$450,000,000	for 1918-19

Current Outlay $832,757,589.

"Over the same fiscal period, namely, from April 1, 1914, to March 31, 1919, the total expenditure upon ordinary account, that is to say the current outlays of the Dominion, in respect of its

THIN, NERVOUS PEOPLE NEED BITRO-PHOSPHATE

WHAT IT IS AND HOW IT INCREASES WEIGHT, STRENGTH AND NERVE FORCE IN TWO WEEKS' TIME IN MANY INSTANCES

SHOULD BE PRESCRIBED BY EVERY DOCTOR AND USED IN EVERY HOSPITAL.

Says Editor of "Physicians' Who's Who."

Take plain bitro-phosphate is the advice of physicians to thin, delicate, nervous people who lack vim, energy and nerve force, and there seems to be ample proof of the efficacy of this preparation to warrant the recommendation. Moreover, if we judge from the countless preparations and treatments which are continually being advertised for the purpose of making thin people fleshy, developing arms, neck and bust, and replacing ugly hollows and angles by the soft curved lines of health and beauty, there are evidently thousands of men and women who keenly feel their excessive thinness.

Thinness and weakness are usually due to starved nerves. Our bodies need more phosphate than is contained in modern foods. Physicians claim there is nothing that will supply this deficiency so well as the organic phosphate known among druggists as bitro-phosphate, which is inexpensive and is sold by most all druggists under a guarantee of satisfaction or money back. By feeding the nerves directly and by supplying the body cells with the necessary phosphoric food elements, bitro-phosphate quickly produces a welcome transformation in the appearance; the increase in weight frequently being astonishing.

Clinical tests made in St. Catherine's Hospital, N. Y. C., showed that two patients gained in weight 23 and 27 pounds, respectively, through the administration of this organic phosphate; both patients claim they have not felt as strong and well for the past twelve years.

This increase in weight also carries with it a general improvement in the health. Nervousness, sleeplessness and lack of energy, which nearly always accompany excessive thinness, soon disappear, dull eyes become bright and pale cheeks glow with the bloom of perfect health.

Physicians and hospitals everywhere are now recognizing its merits by its use in ever increasing quantities. Frederick Kolle, M.D., editor of New York Physicians' "Who's Who," says: "Bitro-Phosphate should be prescribed by every doctor and used in every hospital to increase strength and nerve force and to enrich the blood."

Joseph D. Harrigan, Former Visiting Specialist to Northeastern Dispensatory, says: "Let those who are weak, thin, nervous, anaemic, or rundown, take a natural, unadulterated substance such as bitro-phosphate and you will soon see some astonishing results in the increase of nerve energy, strength of body and mind and power of endurance."

Bitro-Phosphate is made entirely of the organic phosphate compound referred to in the National Standard Dispensatory as being an excellent tonic and nervine and a preparation which has recently acquired considerable reputation in the treatment of neurasthenia. The standard of excellence, strength and purity of its substance is beyond question, for every Bitro-Phosphate tablet is manufactured in strict accordance with the U. S. Pharmacopoeia test requirements. Bitro-Phosphate is therefore not a patent medicine and should not be confused with any of the secret nostrums, so-called tonics or widely-advertised "cure-alls."

CAUTION—Although Bitro-Phosphate is unsurpassed for relieving nervousness, sleeplessness and general weakness, owing to its remarkable flesh-growing properties it should not be used by any one who does not desire to put on flesh.

Hundreds of Men Thought

Regent Tailors Suits

Well Worth Waiting For

These have been very busy weeks at the Regent Tailors' shops. Never did orders pour in so fast, from both city and country, as during the days preceding and following Easter and up to the 24th of May. For a time we were almost overwhelmed with work. Old customers came back and brought new ones—scores of new ones came themselves—and hundreds of soldiers getting back into civies came to us for their outfit because they realized they were sure of getting a square deal. Of course, many had to wait for their order to be filled, but in nearly every case they did so willingly and cheerfully. They considered the Suits well worth waiting for.

Needless to say, this generous appreciation by the public of Regent Tailors' service was extremely gratifying to us. We decided to increase our facilities in order to give even better service and, as our present tailoring shops could not be enlarged, we secured two smaller ones. Now we are in a much better position to take care of all orders and ensure prompt delivery. We can now promise customers their suits in reasonable time.

SIR THOMAS WHITE PROPOSES TO MEET

various services aggregated $832,757,589. The expenditure upon capital and other accounts for which by the practice of all our Governments provisions might properly be made by borrowing and for which assets of equivalent value were created for the permanent benefit of the people of Canada, amounted during the five years in question to $180,277,873.

"Leaving capital expenditure aside, and applying the surplus available from our revenues over and above the amount required to meet current outlays, it will appear that we have met the principal cost of the war from taxation to a total aggregate amount of $275,943,977. If we take into account the amount contributed during the five years for interest upon war debt and for pension charges, the total paid from revenue on account of the war to March 31, 1919, is $438,293,248.

"Now let us approach the subject from another angle. Aside from the cost of the war and how that cost was met, the vital question before us today is what is the amount of the total net national debt of Canada, and how does it compare with the net debt at the end of the fiscal year immediately preceding the war?

Net Debt $1,584,000,000.

"On March 31, 1914, the net national debt was $355,396,856. On March 31, 1919, the net national debt was $1,584,000,000.

"There remains to be considered what further increase in the national debt will be made during the present fiscal year which will end on March 31, 1920.

"The war, so far as actual fighting is concerned, was terminated by the armistice of November 11 last; but the expenditures connected with the maintenance of the Canadian corps in Continental Europe, their gradual return, first to England and then to Canada, their demobilization here, and the provision made by the government by way of war gratuities to enable members of the Canadian expeditionary force to bridge over the period of their reabsorption into civil life, have still continued, and will continue over the greater part of the year.

"In reality the present year is, so far as expenditures is concerned, a war year. It is impossible to estimate accurately what our demobilization expenditure for 1919-20 will be, but we may be sure that it will not be materially less than $300,000,000.

"There is a further important item of our war expenditure which must be taken into account, but which at present it is not possible to estimate with accuracy. I mean the additional cost to Canada of our share of the increased expenditure for ammunition at the front from September 1, 1917, to the close of the war.

Debt Increased $1,614,000,000.

"Assuming that we shall not be able, in view of the magnitude of our reconstruction program, to pay any substantial part of our demobilization expenditure from revenue, we may calculate that when demobilization is complete, and no further outlays are necessary on what I may call the principal of our war expenditure, the total net debt of Canada will stand at not less than $1,956,000,000. This contrasts with $355,396,856, the net debt of Canada at the end of the fiscal year 1914. The increase during the five years war period is thus shown in round figures at $1,614,000,000.

"This, then, is the financial position so far as relates to the national debt. While the amount is large, and averages over $220 per head of the population of Canada, it will be remembered that Canada was in the war from the first day, and that by comparison with the present net national debts of European governments, including its entire length, our position having regard to relation of debt to number of population, and to national resources must be regarded as distinctly more favorable.

"I do not in the least desire to minimize the gravity of so great a debt as now confronts us on the threshold of the new era upon which we are entering. It will constitute a burden upon the people of Canada for generations to come. Fighting for the principles for which we stood we could not and did not count the money cost which is really the least part of our sacrifices in the war. The realization that at the greatest crisis in all history, when the fate of world freedom was trembling in the scale of destiny this gallant country of eight million people put its all to the hazard in the mightiest of conflicts for the cause of truth and justice, will be lofty inspiration to greater effort which will enable Canada to carry and ultimately extinguish the heavy obligation entailed by the war.

Something From Enemy.

"What portion of this indebtedness and of the obligations we have incurred with respect to pensions and other services arising out of the war, we shall be able, under the peace settlement, to obtain by way of indemnity from Germany and her allies, I am unable to say; but it would be imprudent to treat expectation in this regard as an asset upon which we may with certainty depend. It is better to face our debt and other war liabilities as they stand, and assume that we must be prepared to bear their full burden by our own strength and from our own resources.

"In considering the subject of our national debt, an important aspect from the viewpoint of its bearing upon our financial standing and credit, is whether it is owed to our own people or abroad. While national debt, no matter where owed it is debt, it makes a great difference to national strength, whether it is held within the country itself—that is to say, whether people regarded in the aggregate owe it to individual members of the community, holding their own government's securities—or whether it is owed to citizens of other nations. From the national standpoint a public debt owed to a nation's own people is not nearly so serious an obligation as if owed abroad. The interest paid upon it is disbursed at home, and remains part of the national resources. When the principal is paid, there is a transfer of wealth from the government to its own citizens, which still remains an asset of the community viewed as a national unit. But if the debt is held abroad, every interest and principal payment diminishes the resources of the debtor nation and increase those of the creditor nation. In this respect, and bearing especially in mind the fact that before the war Canada's borrowing for federal, provincial, municipal and business purposes was principally in Britain and in the United States, and not in Canada, the situation as to our national debt may be regarded with satisfaction. In round figures the total outstanding securities of the Dominion Government are held as follows:

Great Bulk Held at Home.

"In Great Britain, $362,700,000.
"In the United States, $150,875,000.
"In Canada, $1,310,000,000."

Sir Thomas went on to say that a gratifying feature of our finance is that the majority of our securities constitute long date obligations, and after giving details of all outstanding war certificates, debenture stocks and loans, he proceeded:

"From this statement the House will see how necessary it was to issue long date securities, even at war rates of interest. If we had to face the maturity of so vast a principal amount as it represented by our war borrowings in Canada within a period of five or ten years after the war, I may frankly say that the solution of such a problem would tax to the utmost the resources of any minister of finance. But with the various maturities spread over so long a period of years, ample time is afforded to adopt whatever measures may be needed to meet the redemption of each loan as it matures.

"On account of this being as respects expenditure a war year, we shall have to float at least one further loan in Canada for purposes connected with the war and demobilization. Any necessary external financing to meet loans maturing outside of Canada will receive timely attention.

"As the aggregate of our war issues exceeds our net war expenditure, it is to be pointed out that during the war we were enabled to make advances to Great Britain for her purchases in Canada to a greater extent than we availed ourselves of advances from the Imperial Government to meet our war expenditure in England and on the continent. The result is that there is owing to us of the Imperial Government a balance after making the necessary set-offs for about two hundred and thirty million dollars. This is subject to reduction by the unascertained amount which we shall pay in respect of increased charges for ammunition at the front since September 1, 1917. An inquiry is now being made for the purpose of adjusting this charge.

"A comparison with the note issues of Great Britain and the other allies, including United States which was less than two years in the war, is such as to cause satisfaction to Canada with respect to the post-war conditions of our currency.

World Currency Inflation.

"The policy will be to gradually restore our note issue to the statutory condition, which requires us to hold in gold 25 per cent up to fifty million dollars of note issues, and dollar for dollar for any further issue. This can be done by buying gold on the one hand, or on the other, by retiring the outstanding notes from time to time from the proceeds of loans or from revenues. It will be a long time before the currency inflation of the world will be abated.

"The figures which I have given show the increase in the national cost of Canada due to the war. Interest must, of course, be paid annually upon this debt, and I have had a careful estimate made as to the yearly burden which this will entail. Assuming the total debt of Canada on March 31, 1920, to be $1,950,000,000, the estimated annual interest charges will be approximately $115,000,000. This compared with $12,293,504, which was the interest charge upon the national debt as of the fiscal year ended March 31, 1914. But the added annual burden due to the war does not rest there. There is the further responsibility for pensions to our soldiers and their dependents. For the past fiscal year the amount paid on this account was $17,460,000. For the present fiscal year it may reach $30,000,000. For a generation or more to come we may look forward to providing say $55,000,000 to $40,000,000 per annum for pensions. In addition there will be the annual expenses for maintenance of hospitals, convalescent homes and other services established for the aid and comfort of our soldiers. No national expenditures will, I am sure, be more gladly borne than these by the people of Canada, who will never fail to appreciate the sacrifices made on their behalf by those who fought for Canada in the great war.

How to Carry the Load?

"Having indicated the extent of the financial burden which the war has imposed upon us, it seems advisable to pause to inquire how that burden is to be met. What are the resources upon which Canada must depend to carry this huge national debt, and the annual charge for pensions and other services which I have mentioned? We are today a prosperous community of high average productivity. I am not prepared to say that even without extraordinary effort we should not be able to merely carry along the extra financial burden imposed by the war. If its magnitude must not be minimized and it is for us to decide and put into effect such policies as may be appropriate to counteract the disadvantage under which we shall labor in this regard and to insure the continued prosperity of our people, notwithstanding this great national handicap upon their exertions. In this connection, we should undoubtedly have in mind the gradual extinction over a long course of years of the debt by a sinking fund provision to be put into effect as soon as possible after the conclusion of the present year. With this I do not intend to deal further for the present.

"What are our resources actual and potential from which we can carry the interest, pensions and other war charges, and gradually extinguish our indebtedness due to the war?

Must Extend Markets.

"We have a country of almost unlimited natural assets, vast stretches of cultivable lands, magnificent forest regions abounding in mineral wealth, and fisheries—the most valuable in the world. We have a highly intelligent, energetic, enterprising people of great stability of character and ardent aspiration for national and individual success. To develop our natural resources there is required the application of enterprise, capital and labor. To sell our products we require markets, domestic and foreign.

"Let us, for a moment, consider some of the policies which are essential for the realization of the development I have outlined. Our ability to meet and retire our war obligations will depend upon our power to increase our production of natural and manufactured commodities and to economize individually so as to bring about each year substantial increase in domestic wealth and savings and a more favorable balance in our international trade. In other words, the motto for the future as it was for the war must be 'Produce and Save.'

"As evidencing what can be done by Canada in the way of national saving, Sir Thomas quoted figures showing that deposits in Canadian banks have increased from $998,191,367 on March 31, 1913, to $1,604,649,934, on March 31, 1919, remarking that there should also be taken into consideration the subscription by the Canadian people to the war loans floated in Canada, and paid for by withdrawal of their deposits in our chartered banks and other financial institutions.

Need More Population.

He continued:

"To greatly increase our production we need more population and particularly that class which will engage in our basic industries. Our immigration policy is therefore of prime importance. We must fill up our vacant cultivable lands. In the past we have not been sufficiently selective in our immigration. We are so amending our laws as to insure that the destinies of this country will always be controlled by those who may be depended upon as loyal and patriotic citizens of Canada, ready at all times to take up arms in her defence, no matter from what source aggression may come.

"As a great food-producing country, Canada is bound always to enjoy agricultural prosperity. It must be many years before Europe is able to recover agriculturally from the effects of the war. In the meantime, the hungry millions must be fed, and it would seem certain that Canada's agriculture will not lack for profitable markets for all it can produce.

"The yearly exportable surplus of the Dominion's grain and foodstuffs should go far towards insuring most favorable trade balances for the future. For the reconstruction work in Europe, our raw materials and their products must also be in demand. Every effort must be made to develop and expand our export trade in manufactured articles as well as in the immediate products of our fields, forests, and mines. The more highly finished the commodity, the greater the price which it will bring to the Dominion. Our policy should be directed to insuring so far as practicable the completion within Canada, in Canadian shops and mills, of manufacturing processes in order that we may obtain the benefit of the greater value of finished products as compared with that of raw materials or partly manufactured articles.

In World Competition.

"No doubt we shall be subject in this to the keenest international competition, and to succeed we shall require to avail ourselves of every assistance which can be legitimately afforded by the Government in obtaining information respecting, and access to, foreign markets, as well as transportation and financial facilities.

"One most important asset which we possess as a result of the war is the increased capability of industrial production which was turned during the war to such remarkable purpose in the manufacture of munitions and other materials. This higher capability among all classes should prove of the greatest value in enabling us to deal with our after-war problems and burdens.

"As illustrating the vast strides made by our foreign trade during the war, the following statistical information is submitted:

"In 1913 the balance of trade against us was $300,000,000. In 1914 our total international trade was $1,073,000,000, of which $618,000,000 was in imports and $455,000,000 in exports. For 1918 the total was $2,550,000,000, of which $962,000,000 was imports, and $1,586,000,000 exports. For 1919, the unrevised figures show a total of $2,169,000,000, of which $916,000,000 was imports and $1,232,000,000 exports. It will thus appear that from an adverse balance of $300,000,000 in 1913 and of $150,000,000 in 1914, we had doubled, while for the year 1918, $600,000,000 in 1918, and of $240,000,000 for 1919. At the end of the five years period from 1914 to 1919 our total trade had doubled, while for the year 1918 which marked the highest point, it aggregated 2½ times the trade of 1914.

High Prices Obtained.

"It must be kept in mind respecting these figures that the higher prices of our grain, food stuffs and other exports and of the goods which we imported, is a most important factor for consideration, and further that of our exports for 1918 and 1919 the estimated amount of ammunition, explosives and other war materials aggregated $418,000,000 and $260,000,000 respectively. The cessation of the manufacture of these articles, and any fall in the price of commodities generally, are bound to make serious offset by increase production."

After placing before the House detailed statistics of our trade with the United Kingdom and the United States, the minister of finance proceeded:

"Having dealt with the financial and commercial position of the Dominion, I now proceed to the consideration of the important problem of our estimated expenditure for the present fiscal year 1919-20 and the fiscal proposals which the Government has to make in connection therewith.

"It will be advantageous in assisting us to reach a conclusion with respect to these matters if I first briefly review the result of the last fiscal year which ended on March 31, 1919. During that year, the expenditure of the Dominion upon account of the ordinary services of the Government amounted to $240,000,000. The outlay upon capital account aggregated $22,000,000. For war the total expenditure for the year is estimated at $450,000,000. On the other side of the account, we estimate a total revenue for the year 1919-20 of $310,000,000. As emphasizing the importance of this figure, I may point out that for the fiscal year before the war, the total revenue was $163,174,394. For the fiscal year which ended on March 31, 1905, the revenue was only $85,093,404. On this total of $310,000,000, $147,000,000 was received from customs; $30,000,000 from excise; $21,000,000 from postoffice; $33,000,000 from taxation under the business profits war tax act; $10,000,000 from the income war tax act; $14,000,000 from other war taxation; and $55,000,000 from other miscellaneous sources, including $58,000,083 from railways.

Surplus, But for War.

"If we follow the practice which has been hitherto adopted in treating as surplus the amount of revenue received in excess of the ordinary expenditure, it will appear that for the past fiscal year the Government had a surplus of $70,000,000 which was devoted to war expenditure. If, on the other hand, we first appropriated our revenue to the payment of both ordinary and capital expenditure, the surplus which was used for war expenditure was $48,000,000.

"I have already stated the estimated war expenditure for the past year to have been $450,000,000. Of this expenditure, therefore, $48,000,000 was paid out of revenue, after meeting all other outlays on the part of the Government, including capital expenditure.

"In connection with our expenditure during the past year, and generally throughout the period of the war, I may observe with respect to both ordinary and capital outlays that they have been kept well in hand, and that the increased expenditure under this revenue and outlay of the present year is heading is attributed principally to interest upon war debt and pensions.

Heavy Expenditures.

"I now proceed to estimate the Main estimates totalling $437,000,000 have been laid before the House, with supplementary estimates still to be brought down. Embraced in these estimates are certain considerable representing investments. I refer particularly to the estimate of $25,000,000 appropriated for the purpose of soldiers' land settlement; $35,000,000 loan to Canadian Northern Railway Company; $35,000,000 for railway equipment purposes; and $25,000,000 to be advanced by way of loans to the several provincial governments for promoting better housing conditions. The estimate for expenditure on ordinary account for the coming year is $270,000,000. Of this, the sum of $102,000,000 represents interest on the national debt. This figure contrasts with $12,893,000, representing interest charges upon the national debt before the war. It includes also the sum of $30,000,000 for estimated pension expenditure for the year. It is these two items of interest and pensions which will particularly constitute the burden of the war upon the taxpayers of the country for a great many years to come; until, in fact, the national debt is materially reduced and pensions gradually run their course. The estimated expenditure on capital account for the year, we place at $50,000,000.

$92,000,000 War Gratuity.

"This is a war year, and it is necessary also to add the estimated expenditure which has been and will be, incurred on account of demobilization. This will aggregate the large sum of $300,000,000, including $92,000,000 for war gratuity. The entire estimated expenditure, therefore, of the year on ordinary account, capital account and for demobilization, will reach the large total of $820,000,000.

"Assuming that we maintained, without change, existing fiscal legislation, and that the yield of the various services would be upon the same basis as for 1918-19, our estimate of revenue for the present year would be as follows:

"Customs, $145,000,000.
"Postoffice, $18,000,000.
"Business profits war tax, $35,000,000.
"Income Tax, $20,000,000.
"Other War Taxation, $14,000,000.
"Excise, $30,000,000.
"Miscellaneous sources, $18,000,000.
"Totals, $280,000,000.

"In this estimate we have, owing to the change to be made, commencing with this year, in the mode of financial administration of the Intercolonial and other government railways, omitted $30,000,000 of revenue from that source. That revenue will henceforth be received by the Canadian National Railway Company, and applied directly against its working expenditures. In our estimate of ordinary expenditure for the year we have allowed for a corresponding reduction.

Revenue Only $280,000,000.

"While from the statement which I have just made it will appear that our total expenditure, ordinary and capital accounts and for demobilization, will amount to $620,000,000, our estimated revenue on the present basis will reach only $280,000,000. Putting it another way, our revenue would enable us to pay only our ordinary expenditure, and leave a small amount to be applied to other purposes.

"The question which now arises is what shall be our policy in the matter of taxation for the present year. It is a year of great industrial instability and business uncertainty. If the war were still continuing, it would be necessary to recommend heavily increased taxation in order that we might pay a substantial portion of the principal of our war expenditure. If it were not for special circumstances arising out of this transitional period from war to peace, that course should be adopted, notwithstanding the ending of the war, because we shall have this year so heavy a volumn of what is really war expenditure, that is to say, our outlay for demobilization and all that it involves. We must, however, bear specially in mind the anxieties and burdens of the general public at a time before purchasing a baking powder that may possibly contain injurious ingredients. Many food scientists claim that baking powder containing alum is unsafe for use in food. The mere fact that some brands of baking powder have the words "No Alum" on the label is not sufficient proof that they are what they are represented to be. Our chemists find a good many have "No Alum" on the outside, but large quantities of it inside.

"And then the black, seal-grain case is so dignified—so appealing to any man who is particular in his appointments. I suppose you are asking a pretty price for that set".

of dislocation, unrest and high prices, and endeavor to wisely bridge over this troubled period by giving such measure of relief as may be practicable, having regard to the heavy financial obligations devolving upon us and our national credit in the eye of the outside world.

Meet It by Borrowing.

"The cost of living in Canada has, in common with all other countries, gradually increased during the war and is causing hardship to a large portion of our population, especially those of limited means and slender incomes. I am of opinion that for this transitional period we are justified in adopting the policy of meeting only our ordinary expenditure and borrowing for our capital and demobilization expenditure.

"In considering the question of reductions and increases in indirect taxation most careful attention must be given to their effect upon established industry and the employment of operatives dependent upon its success for the maintenance of themselves and their families, and upon the domestic trade and commerce which it supports.

Heavier Income Taxes.

"The total estimated loss in revenue from the tariff reduction, which we have proposed aggregates seventeen million dollars," said Sir Thomas. "Owing to estimated reduction in the total volume of imports into Canada, due to diminished purchasing power during the current year and probable decline in prices as well, we may expect that, including the loss due to the reductions now proposed, we shall sustain a total loss in customs revenue for the present fiscal year of at least 25 million dollars. To partially offset this loss and close the gap of the deficit of fifteen million dollars between revenue and current expenditure which it would cause, we propose a heavy increase in income taxation.

"We propose that all corporations shall pay ten per cent on their net income in excess of $2,000. Shareholders shall be given credit for the normal tax to which they are liable upon dividends received from companies subject to this taxation.

"In the case of individuals, we propose that the normal rate of four per cent shall be levied upon all incomes exceeding $1,000, but not exceeding $6,000 in the case of unmarried persons and widows or widowers without dependent children, and upon all incomes exceeding $2,000, but not exceeding $6,000 in the case of all other persons.

"We propose a normal tax of eight per cent upon all income exceeding $6,000.

"We propose that the surtax shall commence from $5,000, instead of from $6,000, as at present, and shall increase by graduation, applying first to incomes between $5,000 and $6,000 and to every $2,000 between $6,000 and $100,000. Upon incomes in excess of $100,000 materially increased rates are levied.

Repeal Preferential Tariff.

"Under the customs tariff war revenue act, 1915, a British preferential tariff rate of 5 per cent and an intermediate and general tariff rate of 7½ per cent were imposed upon, with certain exceptions, all imported goods.

"We propose to wholly repeal this British preferential tariff rate of 5 per cent. Further, we propose to partially repeal the intermediate and general tariff rate of 7½ per cent at present in effect under the customs tariff war revenue act referred to by making it no longer applicable to the following classes of articles, namely:

"Foodstuffs, linen and cotton clothing, woolen clothing, boots and shoes, fur caps and fur clothing, hats, caps, hoods and bonnets, gloves and mitts, collars and cuffs, hides, skins, leather, harness and saddlery, agricultural implements, petroleum oils, mining machinery and bituminous coal.

"So much for the reductions from the tariff rates established by the customs tariff act, 1919. We have certain other reductions and modifications to propose in respect of the ordinary tariff rates. The resolutions presented in this regard will provide for a reduction of 5 cents per pound in the British preferenaitl, intermediate and general tariff rates on roasted or ground coffee and 3 cents a pound under the British preferential tariff on British-grown teas. This latter reduction gives a substantial empire preference where no preference at present exists.

Free Importation of Wheat.

"We shall provide for the free importation into Canada of wheat, wheat flour and potatoes from countries which do not impose a customs duty on such articles grown or produced in Canada.

"We shall also provide for an alteration in the rates on soda ash from 5 per cent under the preferential tariff and 7½ per cent under the general tariff, to one-fifth cent a pound under the British preferential tariff, and three-tenths of a cent a pound under the general tariff. We shall provide further for specific instead of ad valorem rates of duty upon pig lead, zinc, spelter and copper ingots. On certain products made from these materials there will be an increase in duties.

"I come now to the consideration of agricultural implements. I have stated that we propose to take off the customs war revenue duties. But for an arrangement we have been able to make for the equalization of Canadian freight rates with those enjoyed by American competitors of our industries engaged in the manufacture of these implements, it would not have been practicable to make any reductions in the ordinary tariff schedule covering these articles. Under the ordinary tariff rates of duty upon manufactured products are closely related to duties upon raw material, coal, machinery and other equipment used in their manufacture, and any reduction except upon an occasion of general revision when the tariff as a whole can be dealt with would necessarily lead to most serious consequences.

Freight Rate Obstacle.

"Desirous as we were of providing for as low a duty as might be practicable upon these implements of agricultural production so essential to Canada at this time, the problem before us was how to make it possible to reduce the ordinary tariff rates. The business of manufacturing agricultural implements is almost wholly confined to Eastern Canada. So far as concerns their great market in the west, Canadian firms and companies engaged in this industry have been handicapped as against their American competitors by higher freight rates. The freights charged by Canadian railway companies upon shipments from eastern points to Winnipeg, Brandon, Regina, Saskatoon, Calgary, Edmonton and other western points have been higher than the rates from Chicago to the same points. This has been caused by the fact that the manufacturing centres of the eastern provinces are separated by great distances from the consuming and distributing centres of the west. The American manufacturer of agricultural implements is not only closer to the American consumer and American distributing points, but he is also nearer to the western distributing points of Canada.

"In view of these circumstances, it appeared to us that we should seek assistance in freight reduction to enable us to reduce the ordinary tariff upon these implements.

"The proposal which we made to the rail carriers was that they should reduce their rates from the eastern manufacturing points of production of agricultural implements, Montreal, and east of the Great Lakes, to prairie points, to the rates charged by the American lines with shorter mileages from Chicago to the similar western destinations, stating if the railway companies could see their way to do this they would be assisted to the extent that relief would be extended them by the abolition of the seven and one-half per cent war duty on bituminous coal.

In the first instance, the railway companies claimed that in view of their financial obligations, it was entirely impossible for them to sacrifice any revenue whatever, but that their existing revenues were, as a matter of fact, insufficient.

"I am glad to be able to say that the railway companies have recognized the large overlying national interest, and have consented to put in tariffs as asked. The new tariffs will give the Chicago rate on agricultural implements from producing centres in the East, west of Montreal and east of the Great Lakes, to prairie points for car lot movements, loaded to a minimum of 24,000 pounds.

Reduction on Implements.

"In view of arrangements for freight reduction made with the railway companies, we are enabled to make the following proposals for reductions in customs duties on agricultural implements:

"Including the 7½ per cent war duty reduction, to which I have already referred, our proposals, if adopted by the House, will provide for a total reduction under the general tariff from 27½ per cent to 15 per cent on cultivators, harrows, horse-rakes, seed drills, manure spreaders and weeders and complete parts thereof, and from 27½ per cent to 17½ per cent of plows and complete parts thereof, windmills and complete parts thereof, portable engines and traction engines for farm purposes, horsepowers and threshing machine separators, and appliances therefor.

"On hay-loaders, potato-diggers, fodder or feed cutters, grain crushers, fanning mills, hay tedders, farm, road or field rollers, post-hole diggers, snaiths and other agricultural implements, the resolutions will provide for a total reduction in the rate from 32½ per cent to 20 per cent, and a similar reduction on farm wagons.

"In the case of cement, the war customs duty will be repealed, and the general tariff rate will be reduced to 8 cents a 100 pounds. This is a reduction of 2 cents from the present general tariff rate.

Taxing of Incomes.

"In addition to the normal tax rates mentioned payable on incomes in excess of $1,000 in respect to unmarried persons and widows and widowers without dependent children, and $2,000 in respect to all other persons, a surtax will be payable of 1 per cent of the amount by which the net income exceeds $5,000 and does not exceed $6,000, then 1 per cent more on each additional $2,000 of net income until it reaches 48 per cent, on income exceeding $98,000 and not exceeding $100,000. On net income exceeding $100,000 and not exceeding $150,000, the surtax is 52 per cent; between $150,000 and $200,000, 56 per cent; between $200,000 and $300,000, 60 per cent; between $300,000 and $500,000, 63 per cent; between $500,000 and $1,000,000, 64 per cent, and over $1,000,000, 65 per cent.

"Several amendment which the administration of the income tax act has shown to be desirable will be submitted. The question of double taxation has given considerable difficulty. In view of the time which would be required to make international agreements respecting the matter we have thought it advisable to take the lead and provide for a deduction from the sum payable by a resident of Canada under our income tax legislation of the amount paid by him elsewhere in the British Empire upon income thence derived. We shall also provide for a similar deduction in respect of income derived from a foreign country extending similar exemption upon income derived from Canadian sources.

Business Profit War Tax Stays.

"As this is a war year, so far as public expenditures are concerned, and it is most desirable that we should maintain so far as possible our revenues, the business profits war tax act will be renewed for the current calendar year so as to make it apply to accounting periods ending on or before December 31, 1919. The rates of the business profits war tax act which we are thus extending are as follows:

Businesses having a capital of $25,000 and over, but less than $50,000, profits in excess of 10 per cent, to be taxable at 25 per cent thereof.

Businesses having a capital of $50,000 and over (exemption for incorporated companies), 7 per cent; others than incorporated companies, 10 per cent; profits in excess of exemptions, but not exceeding 15 per cent rate of taxation, 25 per cent; profits from 15 per cent to 20 per cent, inclusive, rate of taxation 50 per cent; profits in excess of 20 per cent, rate of taxation 75 per cent.

Sympathetic Towards Profits.

Continuing, Sir Thomas said that Canada had to be careful that the taxation of income profits was not such as to place a barrier against either, since the country was inviting immigration for settlement and capital for investments. In some provinces there was three sets of income taxes, municipal, provincial and federal, and the result was exceedingly heavy taxation upon individuals and business enterprises. Business profits taxation, unless repealed as soon as war conditions terminated, would have an adverse influence upon the investment of money in Canada. At present there was a world-wide tendency to severely tax profits, and within bounds such a policy was not open to criticism, but carried beyond a reasonable point it could only defeat its purpose and prove detrimental later to labor, capital and the community.

Wants Tariff Commission.

Speaking of general tariff revision, Sir Thomas said it should be thoroughly done every six or eight years, and such a revision was now long overdue, but war conditions rendered revision for the time being out of the question. He suggested the appointment of a commission to inquire into the needs of the various parts of the country in regard to such revision, the commission to begin as soon as conditions were sufficiently settled to make such inquiry worth while, probably next fall. He closed with an appeal to all citizens for patriotic co-operation to tide over this critical period of Canada's national life.

WALL STREET.

New York, June 6—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Buying of shares went on vigorously on the stock exchange again this morning, many popular issues reflecting both resumption of pool activity and public interest. Leaders in yesterday's rise were again prominent, including tobacco, food, motor and oil shares. United States Steel reached a new high point at 111, and top figures were scored also by other representative issues. Mercantile Marine preferred declined 2⅜, attributed to opposition to the plan of liquidation. Reading and Texas and Pacific each ruled a point higher, while gains in the specialties ranged from 1 to 3 points.

CHEESE.

[Special to The Advertiser.]

Stirling, June 6.—At the regular weekly meeting of the cheese board 700 boxes were offered; 230 sold at 29c, 210 at 28 3-6c, and 240 at 28⅞c.

GRAIN.

Chicago, June 6.—Opening: Corn—July, $1.69¾; September, $1.60⅜. Oats—July, 67⅜c; September, 65⅛c.

Chicagoo, June 6.—Auspicious weather conditions tended to give the bears an advantage in the corn market. Lower quotations on hogs operated likewise against the bulls, and so, too, did liberal receipts. Selling, however, was not of an aggressive sort. Opening prices, which ranged from ⅜c to 1⅛c lower, with July at $1.69½@1.70, and September at $1.59⅞@1.60½, were followed by a material further setback. Oats weakened with corn. After opening ⅝c to ⅝c off, including July at 67⅞@67⅝c, the market continued to sag.

Secrets of Health and Happiness

What Boils Really Are and How They May Be Avoided

By DR. LEONARD KEENE HIRSHBERG,
A. B., M. A., M. D. (Johns Hopkins University).

DR. HIRSHBERG

These several things are an abomination unto your anatomy. Pain, soreness, ugliness, deformity, misshapen flesh, irritability, discomfort, restlessness and loss of sleep are physical misdemeanors, any one of which would suffice you with the other "dear charmer" away. Boils are the guilty authors of one and all of such symptoms. Painful, angry, swollen hills of upheaved tissue—that is the truth about boils. Especially painful and inconvenient are these erupting volcanoes of human lava when located upon the nape of the neck.

Why, you ask, do boils and carbuncles have a penchant for the cuticle of the back of your neck? The explanation is not far to seek. Upon the skin there the pores are large, open, tender and not weather-toughened. Short and long hairs abound as landmarks and guide-strings along which germs and bacteria find their way to the tempting morsel of stuff in the surface fabric which feeds and delights them.

When the tissues and blood are overladen with sugars, starches and sweets the bacteria of the air and water, called staphylococci and streptococci, make their way thither and begin to flourish like green bay trees.

Bacteria, after all, are nothing but miniature, microscopically small vegetation. They bud, grow and multiply over the area invaded, and replenish and feed themselves at the expense of the nourishment contained in the blood and other textures.

Why They May Spread.

The vanguard of human defenders, the white corpuscles, rush into the fray and give battle to the invaders. Ruin and devastation of the flesh is the result.

The battleground on the back of the neck becomes like a mound, called a boil or carbuncle, according to its size and viciousness. Its contents is the debris and damage left. Wounded, dead and injured crusaders and invaders, maimed warriors of the bacterial hosts and the defenders strew the field.

The matter in a boil is alive with hungry cocci. It is, therefore, a menace to tough, healthy skin, wherever it touches.

This tells you why boils often come in crops, the contents of the first pimple or boil, when it opens, comes in contact with other areas, and the mischief spreads sometimes like a prairie fire.

Obviously, the plan of proper treatment for boils, pimples and carbuncles is one which must take into account this danger.

The diet must be studied and corrected; the skin, especially the nape of the neck, must be hardened, invigorated and made resistant to the ever-present air-born bacteria, the tissues of the individual are to be vaccinated or made immune in some way to the staphylococci and streptococci, and the epidermis must be protected against any leakage or moisture from a boil or pimples already there.

Ways to Avoid Them.

Those who are victims of the blood sugar malady, diabetes, are peculiarly subject to boils. Indeed, the blood and kidney fluids ought to be diligently searched for traces of sugars and starches whenever boils, pimples or carbuncles appear more than once.

The popular notion that these troublemakers are more prone to assail you in the spring than at other times is occasionally supported by the fact that berries, sweets and other rich pabulum begin to be marketed in abundance.

How ever that may be, if soiled linen and collars, unwashed hands or unsterilized objects come in contact with the skin infection may be spread. This, as well as too much rich eating, may be the source of boils at any time, summer or winter.

As a means of avoiding boils have the back of your neck shaved with a sterilized razor. The skin in turn should be disinfected with a good lotion, such as white precipitate ointment, which also serves to increase its resistance.

MY HEART AND MY HUSBAND

ADELE GARRISON'S NEW PHASE OF

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE

What Kenneth Stockbridge Did To Control His Wife.

Milly Stockbridge's eyes were glittering with a light that betrayed the frailty of the thread upon which her sanity hangs, while her slender figure was fairly shaking with the violence of the emotion consuming her. There was no mistaking the passion of jealousy that was swaying her. It was in every line of the malevolent face she turned toward our table.

"I mean you!" she called raucously. "You over there with your baby face—"

Kenneth Stockbridge's sinewy hand darted out, seized his wife's arm in a grip that must have hurt her, at the same time saying something to her in a low, controlled voice. We couldn't catch the words, but there was something about the passionless, measured tones that made me shiver. It was as if I had seen the gentlest, kindest of house dogs suddenly turn with bared fangs upon a tormentor.

Her father bent forward, anxiously scanning his son-in-law's face. I heard him say something, of which the only word I could distinguish was "cheek," uttered with a questioning inflection, and I conjectured that the elder man wished to leave the cafe with his family at once.

But Kenneth Stockbridge shook his head, his eyes, grim, compelling upon his wife's face. Another minute, and she had lifted a cowed face to his, while her stiff, white lips muttered something that was evidently a promise to control herself. As she did so he released his grip upon her arm, and sank back into his former attitude of weary despondency.

"By Jove!" Dicky exclaimed under his breath. "That's the prettiest little exhibition of animal training I ever saw. Bet a fiver he punishes the everlasting daylights out of her when he gets home. Any takers?"

He glanced around our table with a merry smile, and I realized with a throb of relief that he had not grasped the real significance of Milly Stockbridge's outburst. I didn't see how he could have helped doing so, for her eyes had been fixed directly upon me. In fact, I had been compelled to exert all the self-control I possessed to keep from visibly quailing at the hatred in the glance my principal's wife had shot at me.

Bess Dean Explains.

"You are mistaken, Mr. Graham," Alice Holcombe spoke hurriedly, eagerly. "Mr. Stockbridge is gentleness itself to his wife. It is only when she outrageously offends that he ever exerts his authority. You see I speak as one having knowledge," she added with a deprecating little smile, "for I have been a friend to both of them since childhood."

"They are lucky," Dicky returned gallantly, but I noticed that his eyes had a speculative gleam as they rested on my friend and knew that his brain was busy with conjectures concerning her, and her relation to the Stockbridges. The next moment he turned to Bess Dean.

"I infer that you are the cause of our fair neighbor's little exhibition," he said, smiling, and a thrill of surprise ran through me. Dicky had seen nothing of the real situation, had jumped to the conclusion that Miss Dean was the object of Mrs. Stockbridge's jealousy.

Why? I wondered.

I had no opportunity just then to answer my own question, for Dicky was still speaking.

"Aren't you ashamed of yourself to cause such ructions?" he demanded.

I held my breath for Miss Dean's answer. It came promptly, as I might have expected, with laughing flippancy.

"My fatal beauty," she said, lowering her eyelids for a moment—I strongly suspected that she knew how effective were her eyelashes—"I really can't help it."

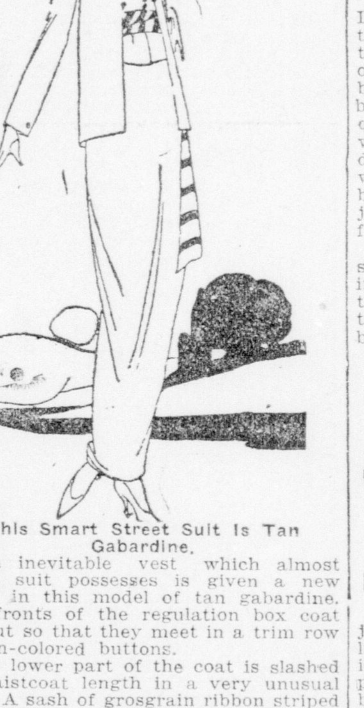

Madge Is Piqued.

Her answer, her ready acceptance of Dicky's theory, gave me much food for thought during the rest of our stay at the cafe, which held no other incident out of the ordinary, for Milly Stockbridge, who with her party, left shortly before we did, preserved the same frozen quietude into which her husband's words had plunged her. But I pondered deeply over Bess Dean, wondering whether she really believed herself to be the object of Milly Stockbridge's jealousy, or was trying to shield me from Dicky's suspicions.

And I think any woman will understand that I experienced a distinct feeling of pique that Dicky should have thought Bess Dean the only woman attractive enough to arouse Milly Stockbridge's jealousy.

This Smart Street Suit Is Tan Gabardine.

The inevitable vest which almost every suit possesses is given a new touch in this model of tan gabardine. The fronts of the regulation box coat are cut so that they meet in a trim row of tan-colored buttons.

The lower part of the coat is slashed to waistcoat length in a very unusual line. A sash of grosgrain ribbon striped in blue, tan and yellow is run through the slashes and hold the waistcoat snugly to the figure. Two embroidered arrow heads finish the line on either side. The sash ends fasten on the left side and hang beneath the coat, which is faced with sand-colored charmeuse. A turnover collar of sand charmeuse finishes the demure line of the neck.

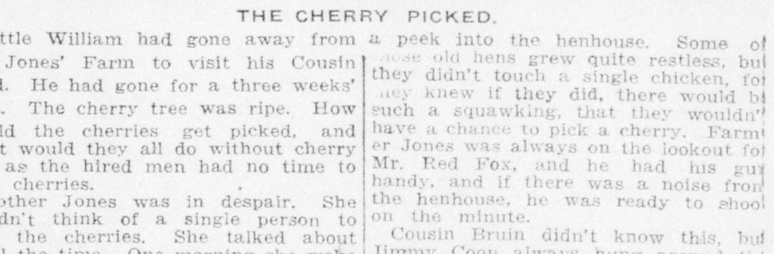

The plain sleeve is cut up for two inches and is held by linked buttons, run through bound buttonholes. The narrow skirt is gathered at the waistline.

The planetary promises for this day justify a forecast of important, brilliant and gainful achievement. There is prospect of great activity with important and profitable change with both business and all other interests strongly favored and encouraged by benefic positions of the several planets in both lunar and mutual aspects. The so-called malefics are also operating for advantage and gain in several directions, giving impetus and prosperity both to the professional and commercial activities.

Those whose birthday it is may expect an important and progressive year with financial and other increase and growth. A child born on this day will be quick, clever, energetic, industrious affectionate and should prosper.

THE CHERRY PICKED.

Little William had gone away from the Jones' Farm to visit his Cousin Fred. He had gone for a three weeks' visit. The cherry tree was ripe. How would the cherries get picked, and what would they all do without cherry pie, as the hired men had no time to pick cherries.

Mother Jones was in despair. She couldn't think of a single person to pick the cherries. She talked about it all the time. One morning she woke up and half of the cherries were picked. She woke up the next morning, and not a single one was left on the tree.

Now who do you suppose could have been the cherry picker? You will never guess. It was Cousin Bruin and Jimmy Coon.

Cousin Bruin loves cherries, and one dark night, he and Jimmy came softly up to the cherry tree. They saw that Ranger was not there. Then they took a peek into the henhouse. Some of those old hens grew quite restless, but they didn't touch a single chicken, for they knew if they did, there would be such a squawking, that they wouldn't have a chance to pick a cherry. Farmer Jones was always on the lookout for Mr. Red Fox, and he had his gun handy, and if there was a noise from the henhouse, he was ready to shoot on the minute.

But Cousin Bruin thought it was a good thing to have a peek at those chickens, to make sure that they were all safe and sound when the cherries gave out.

Softly they drew near the house. Cousin Bruin climbed the cherry tree in a minute, and then how he did enjoy himself. Jimmy Coon didn't care a rap about cherries, and so I am sorry to say he looked about for some scraps of food. Perhaps he would have turned over the garbage pail, only he found a plate of Ranger's food, and a dish of water left for Ranger, which just suited him.

Jimmy Coon, as you know, is very particular about what he eats, but not so much so about what he drinks. He washed every bite of food he ate, and then, he did an awful thing, he drank all the water out of the dish where he had washed his food.

An awful thing to do, but Jimmy had never heard of germs. This was his habit and it had never hurt his health a single bit.

Tomorrow—The Cherries Picked.

He found a plate of Ranger's food.

"THE THIRD DEGREE," A THRILLING DRAMA, AT THE PATRICIA

Alice Joyce Appears in Leading Role—Also Comedies and Vaudeville.

Lacking none of the dramatic intensity and heart interest that made it one of the greatest stage successes of its day, "The Third Degree" was presented at the Patricia Theatre yesterday with Alice Joyce in the stellar role. Miss Joyce never was more beautiful or displayed to better advantage her splendid dramatic power than in this picturization of the late Charles Klein's drama, and she is supported by a cast of exceptional strength and balance. Tom Terriss directed the picture, and his work, especially in the handling of lights, make the dramatic headlights of the story stand out with strength and boldness.

"The Third Degree" created a sensation when produced in New York in February, 1909. Aside from being a great drama, it accomplished a mission—that of exposing methods used in police departments in convicting persons, regardless of guilt or innocence, because somebody had to be convicted. The play tore away the veil shrouding the viciousness of such a system, and led swiftly to far-reaching reforms.

Vitagraph's version of the play pictures these evils, especially the workings of the "sweating process" no less graphically. The picture is swift of action and abounds in scenes of gripping intensity, the sort that grips audiences and holds them until the last foot of film.

Miss Joyce Has Brilliant Supporting Cast.

In the supporting cast are Gladden James, Anders Randolf, Miss Hedda Hopper, Herbert Evans, George Backus, J. T. Wade, L. Rogers Lytton and Edward McGuire.

In addition to this thrilling drama of the screen, two comedies, both laugh producers of the best kind, are presented. One is a Big V, and the other a Mutt and Jeff animated cartoon.

In vaudeville, Whitney's operatic dolls, four people, provide an excellent act.

The above program will be repeated today and Saturday.

Iron For Strength

You need iron in the blood! Every healthy man or woman should have about as much iron in his or her body as there is in an ordinary railroad spike. To gain this iron, the best way is to take Tonal-Iron Capsules, a combination of iron in its most soluble form, recently discovered, and now having a marvelous sale. Tonal-Iron Capsules are a form of iron readily taken up by the blood. The blood cells get round, rich red in color, the cheeks are pink, the appetite improves, and one feels full of "snap"—"pep"—"vigor"—instead of tired before the day is half done. The eyes take on a lustre and the body feels that tingle which one gets from a cold bath.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE

DOES THE EXPERIMENTAL FARM EXIST FOR THE PUBLIC SERVICE?

To the Editor of The Advertiser:

I think the correspondence given below will probably be of interest to some of your readers, as it will explain why requests for information sent to the Experimental Farm at Ottawa have been treated with such scant courtesy.

The first letter, dated May 20, 1919, is addressed to the acting director (E. S. Archibald), Central Experimental Farm, Ottawa, and reads as follows:

"20 May, 1919.

"Sir,—As you are aware, this is now the sixth week during which, for no sufficient reason, I have been left without anyone to type the correspondence connected with my line of work. In the meantime, inquries dealing with a considerable variety of subjects have been steadily accumulating. For example, a letter was received on 12th April from a man who wanted information on the growing of chicory; another correspondent writing on the same subject on 9th May, wanted a reply by return of post; a sample of seeds suspected of poisoning poultry was received on 26th April, with a request for information regarding them, the letter accompanying which was marked 'urgent'; a farmer wrote on 30th April concerning a market for the roots of quack grass. These have not been answered, and by the time a reply is received the information will probably be useless to those concerned.

"Although it is no part of my regular duties, I have on several occasions during the illness or holidays of the stenographer typed the correspondence myself. But a person with university training can spend his time much more profitably than in typing and filing letters and in doing other clerical work when there is no necessity for it under a proper system of administration. I have more scientific work to look after at present than I can attend to with efficiency, and repeated requests for additions to the scientific staff have received no attention.

"According to my interpretation of the civil service act of 1918, the director of the experimental farms branch has no power to transfer a clerk from one division to another. Even if he had such power, it is obvious that the disorganizing of the work of one division in order to carry on that of another division, is no way to conduct the business of a public institution. As the work of this division is, to a large extent, semi-technical in nature, at least several months' experience are necessary before a clerk can handle it in an efficient manner.

"In view, therefore, of the fact that the people of this country are entitled to an answer to their legitimate inquiries at as early a date as is convenient, and as the experimental farms branch was established largely for this purpose, I have to request that my stenographer be allowed to return forthwith to carry on the work of the division to which she was appointed. If clerical help is required by other divisions, the proper remedy is the appointment of a temporary assistant.

"J. ADAMS."

To this letter a reply was received from the acting director, dated May 21, 1919, which is too long to quote in full, which may be summarized as follows:

1. The reasons given for my being left without clerical assistance were:

(a) "It was found that a great deal of her time was being taken up by doing unofficial work for you, having nothing to do with your duties as an officer in this branch," and (b) "The very small amount of official correspondence which you receive and send out did not warrant us in any longer granting you a stenographer for your special use."

No actual references or facts were given in proof of statement "a"; while figures were quoted for April and part of statement "b."

2. The heads of some other divisions, and even the director himself, frequently typed their own correspondence, and why could not I do the same?

3. That he was willing to grant me stenographic assistance if I could tell him how much time would be required to do my correspondence.

4. My reference to the civil service act of 1918 was brushed aside by the words, "It is perhaps fortunate that your interpretation of the act does not carry any special weight."

In my reply, dated May 26, which is also too long to quote in full, I stated that the charge against me of doing unofficial work in official time was a very grave one, and asked him to state exactly to what he referred. I stated also that the figures he quoted for the total letters sent out during the month of April were incorrect (as I kept my own records); that in any case, the figures proved nothing, since the letters were allowed to remain unanswered during the half of April and May, and that his system of reckoning was absurd, since under it a letter of three lines counted for as much as one of three foolscap pages. I gave figures of the actual number of letters received and sent out by me for the whole financial year, and pointed out that a clerk had many other duties besides writing letters, such as filing, indexing, mailing bulletins and packages of seeds, typing bulletins, circulars and press articles for publication, and much other work of a miscellaneous nature.

With regard to the heads of other divisions doing their own typing, I stated that that was their own affair, and that I considered it to be more profitable to spend my time on scientific work than on typewriting, which could be done much more rapidly by a stenographer.

On the question of estimating the amount of time required to type my correspondence, I pointed out that only a person with prophetic vision could give an answer, and that the estimate would vary from week to week, and that in any case letter-writing was only a small part of a clerk's work, and that I had enough work to occupy her whole time.

Regarding the Civil Service Act of 1918 I asked him to quote the particular section or clause of the act giving him the powers he claimed, and expressed my willingness to lay the matter before the Civil Service Commission for their judgment.

My letter concluded with the words—"I must therefore again request that my clerk be allowed to return to the work of the division to which she was appointed. In the meantime, while all this hair-splitting is going on, the correspondence from the people of Canada continues to accumulate and some of them have written for the second time."

As no reply has been made by the acting director to this letter I conclude that he was unable to sustain the charges made against me and preferred to remain silent.

I feel that an apology is due to the people of Canada for the way they have been treated in this matter. I do not think the attempt to set up Prussian methods in the control of the public business of Canada is likely to be a success. The Experimental Farm was founded and exists for the benefit of the general public, and it is they who pay the salaries of the staff. I wish therefore to point out that the responsibility for the legitimate inquiries of the people of Canada being treated with contempt does not rest on my shoulders.

Assistant Dominion Botanist.

MARGUERITE CLARK AND EUGENE O'BRIEN IN DELIGHTFUL PLAY

"Come Out of the Kitchen" Is Showing At Majestic.

SENNET'S BATHING GIRLS

Featured in Comedy "When Love Is Blind."

An excellent bill is presented at the Majestic Theatre this week, both in vaudeville and film features. "Come Out of the Kitchen," Marguerite Clark's latest photoplay, proved the drawing card for a capacity audience last evening.

Beautiful Marguerite Clark plays the part of Claudia Daingerfield, who belongs to an aristocratic but impoverished Virginia family, whose father becomes ill, and it is imperative that he go to New York to be treated by a specialist. Assisted by her sister and two brothers, she manages to secure funds necessary for the journey, but there is no money left to maintain her father and mother in the city. Randolph Weeks, who loves Claudia vainly, informs her that Burton Crane, a wealthy northerner, desires to lease the Daingerfield home for a season of shooting for $3,000, the only condition being that the negro servants be replaced by white servitors. Claudia agrees to this, but when she learns that the white servants refuse to go to the country, she arranges with her sister and brothers to assume the roles of servants. Crane arrives with Solon Tucker, his lawyer; Mrs. Faulkner, a sister of the latter, and her daughter Cora, who is urged by her mother to "catch" Crane for a husband, she being unaware that her daughter is engaged to another man.

Claudia is introduced to Crane as his cook and he instantly falls in love with her. This odd situation provokes numerous complications, and Claudia falls desperately in love with Crane. Claudia, whose knowledge of cuisine is quite limited, smuggles an old negro mammy into the house to do the cooking, and Crane suspects that she is concealing a sweetheart. At a dinner given by Crane to some friends, Claudia learns that her parents are coming home and she forgets to serve the various courses. Crane finds her in the kitchen and when he avows his love for her, she confesses the truth, whereupon he leads her out of the kitchen and takes her to his palatial home.

In addition to a very funny Mack-Sennett Comedy, "When Love Is Blind," Mack Senett's famous bathing girls are also featured. The vaudeville act is both novel and high-class. This program will be repeated today and Saturday.

GRAND'S ALL-STAR BILL A HEADLINER; VARIETY AND FILMS

Program of Vaudeville and Mary Pickford Vie For First Honors.

Too bad this city can't have more vaudeville like the bill presented at the Grand Theatre last night, which will continue today and Saturday.

It is by far the best that has been seen in this city since vaudeville became the rage, and the headline attraction, "On Manila Bay," is the latest scenic playlet produced by Chester Pollard with a cast of seven, including Teddy McNamara, the noted young comedian who has starred in several New York musical comedies within the last few years.

The scenic background for the playlet is a remarkably realistic panorama of Manila Bay, at twilight, with waves rolling on the beach, steamships with smoke issuing from funnels, with many other electrical and mechanical effects, beautiful and amusing. The finale of the act comes with gun flashes and noise of battle, in a reproduction of the naval battle of Manila Bay. The plot of the playlet is full of humor, and Teddy McNamara has a new antic for every playful minute, from the time he poses as a guide to an English duke, his daughter and a party of guests, who are making a tour of the world until the duke hires him, because he's so likable. The audience thought he was too, and the playlet was given hearty approval.

It was so good that the entire cast deserves mention. Here it is:

Applause in fact was louder and longer last night and more frequent than theatre managers ever expect from Londoners reputed to be the most conservative theatre-goers in this respect on the circuit.

"The Great Friscoe" took encores and then some. He plays a xylophone so well that when he is not touring he produces phonograph records for the Edison company. Friscoe plays selections suggested by the audience. Last night somebody asked for "Humoresque." He played it first as the composer meant it to be played, and did it well, then he did it in ragtime. Friscoe is the first xylophonist to successfully manipulate four hammers and plays four-part harmonies without the aid of any mechanical device whatever. The Barcarole from "Tales From Hoffman" displayed his ability as a talented musician, while his transposition of ballads into ragtime and fox trots set the crowded theatre a-swaying to syncopated melody. "The best I've ever seen," was the decision of numbers among the audience heard after the final encore.

Verci and Verci open the bill with "Bits of Vaudeville," a novel little bit of almost everything, well performed.

Smith and Troy play a return engagement after the elapse of two months. Chris Smith and Henry Troy are a pair and colored song writers and singers with a comedy and singing and piano number which they call "Somewhere in the Philippines." Smith has many dig song hits to his credit, among them: "The Ball and the Jack," "The Monkey Rag," "When Old Bill Bailey Plays the Ukulele," and "Memories." Troy has a really good voice which he displays advantageously in several numbers.

Clever juggling—remarkably clever juggling—new and novel, is the feature of the closing act presented by Burke Bros. and Kendall, a young woman. It is an ideal closing act to a splendid bill.

Mary Pickford in "Daddy Long Legs" delighted the audience hugely. The "darling of the screen" in her characterization of Judy Abbot, who grows up in an orphanage, is sent to college by an unknown benefactor with whom she falls in love, not knowing she has been his protege, surpasses her previous efforts in screen productions.

Special music by the Grand orchestra and theatre cooling apparatus help to increase the effectiveness and comfort of the house.

ALLEGED TELLERS OF FORTUNES NOW CHANGE ELECTION

Lady Jean Hooper and Mrs. Mary Lane Elect Trial by Judge.

Lady Jean Hooper, and Mrs. Mary Lane, charged with unlawfully telling fortunes in this city, through their solicitors yesterday afternoon changed their election for trial, both asking to be tried by a judge without a jury. Bail was renewed in each case, Lady Jean providing $300 cash, and Mrs. Lane furnished her own surety for $300 in addition to a surety of $300 furnished by Joe Daker. Mrs. Lane will appear for trial at 9:30 a.m. standard time on Wednesday, June 25th, while Lady Jean Hooper will be tried at the same hour Tuesday, June 24th.

Plead Not Guilty.

Both of the accused pleaded not guilty to the charges, and there was a large crowd of spectators present in county court yesterday afternoon, as the cases were slated to be tried by jury at that time. However, after the accused changed their election, Judge Macbeth discharged the jurors, and these two cases will be tried by him. J. M. McEvoy, when arranging for the date of Lady Jean Hooper's trial, said, "My client would rather be tried first of the two," to which Crown Attorney McKillop replied, "There is method in your madness."

Secures Judgement.

In the final jury case yesterday afternoon, in the sessions of the peace, Clayton Dean was awarded $80 from the London Free Press, the plaintiff alleging that the defendants misrepresented a car that they sold to him. Through his solicitor, T. W. Scandrett, he sued for $500, but was awarded damages as above. H. S. Blackburn acted for the defendants.

THREE-DAY WELFARE EXHIBIT IS CLOSED WITH BABY SHOW

Baby Hugh Bentley Lands the Initial Prize From Approximately 400 Contestants.

The last day of the second annual child welfare exhibit closed after a most successful three-day exhibit, and it was a pleasant sight for onlookers last evening to see the mothers with their tiny tots going home after a strenuous day of weighing and inspection. Little fair curly heads and solemn-eyed brunette babies of every type, tired and sleepy.

The baby winning the first prize out of approximately 350 to 400 babies was Baby Hugh Bentley, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Bentley of Cathcart street, a fat and chubby little boy. Baby Oram, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oram, 971 Elias street, captured second prize, and made his debut to the public when his mother received his certificate. Baby Jack W. Gaton was winner of the third prize. For the best record in the Chesley avenue school clinic, Baby Margaret Wilson received the prize. Baby Wesley Robinson of 18 Charles street secured the prize for the Riverview school clinic, and Baby Hazel Turner and Baby Marion Mann captured the prizes in the Talbot street school clinic. Each mother was presented with a certificate in this case.

Dr. Brown Evening Speaker.

The special speaker of the evening was Dr. Allan Brown of Toronto, introduced by the chairman, Dr. A. H. McCallum, dean of the faculty of medicine at the Western University. Dr. Brown read an interesting paper, giving statistics of the infant death rate in some of the larger cities and telling of the wonderful advancement being made along the lines of child welfare in the States. "I really shouldn't keep quoting things from the United States, but just a few cities in Canada have this child welfare movement organized, like London and Toronto, and London is surely making great strides in the interest of its future citizens. I know that if a few women from all the cities got together upon this great movement, we would soon have a federal institute of health established." This met with hearty applause from the women. Dr. Brown strongly advocated and said it was most necessary for future generations, that a pre-natal clinic be established, and also a maternity clinic. The child needs absolute care from the second it is born, he said, and should be constantly examined by a physician or taken to the baby clinic. "Babies are born and babies die, and no one ever knows about it, because they are not registered. Every baby should be registered immediately that it is born. It really is not a citizen unless it is. In Toronto, when a baby is registered a little card is sent to the little bundle of humanity, welcoming the new little citizen and telling about the places for sick babies, including the clinics and the Sick Children's Hospital. The mother then knows where she can take her baby for first-class medical advice," said Dr. Brown. He also spoke about the various diseases which children mostly fall heir too and how these should be dealt with.

Dr. Brown is a specialist in Toronto on children's diseases, and his paper covered every phase of the baby's life thoroughly. Dr. Spence tendered him a vote of thanks, seconded by Dr. H. A. McCallum. His paper was afterwards open for discussion. Dr. Tillmann then made the awards to the lucky baby prize-winners. Miss Eula Kennedy, accompanied by Charles Percy, sang two solos nicely, closing the evening program.

On Saturday a tag day will be held for the Child Welfare Association. A tribute was paid by Dr. McCallum to Dr. H. W. Hill and the late Mrs. Hill, who did so much last year in the interests of child welfare.
