OBITUARY

Death of Mr. Thomas Wood-yatt.

The death occurred yesterday in Brantford of Mr. Thos. Wood-yatt, in his 70th year, after an illness of some months, borne with characteristic pluck and fortitude. He was the eldest son of the late Mr. James Wood-yatt, and was born in this city, which had ever since been his home. After attending the local schools, he entered upon the profession of a solicitor, pursuing his studies at Os-goode Hall. Later on in life, he became a barrister. He was a staunch Liberal in politics, and for many years was secretary of the South Brant Liberal Association, his work admittedly contributing much to the continued success of the candidates of that party for a term of years. Upon the death of Mr. James Weyms, he became Police Magistrate, and capably occupied that position for a long time. He was a very prominent member of the I. O. O. F., not only locally but in an Ontario sense. He had occupied all the offices of Gore Lodge, and was also Past Grand Patriarch, Past Grand Master and Past Grand Representative; the three highest honors any one man could attain in the gift of Provincial Odd-fellowship.

He was in addition a leading Mason, having been a member of Brant Lodge, and holding the 32nd degree Scottish Rite.

He was a speaker of far more than ordinary ability, and at all lodge functions of a festive nature, his witty remarks were rightly looked upon as one of the features. He took a very active part in bowling and curling circles, and in connection with the former game, his rink carried off first honors at one of the Niagara-on-the-Lake championship meets. In religion he was a member of the Congregational Church. He was married to Miss Kortum, a veritable helpmeet, who some three years ago predeceased him. He was a fond and indulgent husband and father, and he leaves a family of three sons and one daughter to mourn his great loss—James B., Montreal; Kortum, Halifax; Burnham, at home; and Loren, Mrs. Howell and Miss Jennie Wood-yatt, Brantford, and Mrs. Hay of Toronto are sisters. To the sympathy of a large circle of friends will be extended.

DANDRUFF GOES!

HAIR GETS THICK WAVY, BEAUTIFUL

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you cannot find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair and your scalp will not itch, but what will please you most will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair, fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuri-ance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.

Danderine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating, stimulating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Antigo, Wis., recently recalled its mayor.

FRENCH OFFICIAL

By Special Wire to the Courier.

Paris, Oct. 14, 2:50 p.m.—There has been a particularly violent artillery engagement in the Artois district, northwest of Hill 140, in which both sides took part, according to the statement given out by the French War Office.

There has been also active trench fighting in the vicinity of Lihons. In the Champagne district the Germans have been throwing asphyxiating bombs on the French rear lines.

A Tahure has been repulsed by the French fire.

In the Lorraine district the cannonading between the antagonists has been almost continuous.

The text of the communication follows:

"In the Artois district, the artillery fighting continued last night, both sides taking part. This fire was particularly violent to the northwest of Hill No. 140, between Souches and Givency. The fighting from trench to trench with bombs and torpedoes has continued with great activity in the region of Lihons.

"A German attack in the forest to the west of Tahure has been checked by our fire. There has been a reciprocal and almost continuous cannonading in the Lorraine district, in the vicinity of Reillon and Leintrey."

The Situation.

The centering of public attention upon the Balkans has been apt to divert public attention from the fact of how well the Russians continue to do in the Eastern theatre. They have gained a sweeping success in Galicia, and are holding their own very well indeed at other points. The Kaiserian dream of reaching even Petrograd has had to be abandoned in the same way as getting to Paris and Calais. It may be said that the enemy is now pretty well held at all former points, and for this reason a tremendous drive in the Constantinople direction may be anticipated. Very little has come through from that quarter, but developments upon a large scale may soon be expected.

Elsewhere in this issue there is the story of how London has become darkened these days, but the fact of another Zeppelin raid shows that in such a large area as that of the largest city in the world, projectiles can be dropped haphazard anywhere, and do a great deal of mischief. The absence of illuminations is probably quite a safeguard with regard to important public buildings.

The New License Regulation

This war has brought about changes in a great many directions, among others in the matter of action regarding intoxicants. In Russia the sale and manufacture of vodka (a powerful drink distilled from rye) was abolished by one stroke of the Imperial pen. In Great Britain many restrictions have been introduced, including the abolition of treating, and now in Ontario it has been decided to cut down the selling hours at night from 11 to 8 p.m.

In endorsement of this change Premier Hearst emphasizes the fact that it is dictated by need for greater economy and thrift upon the part of the people, and the necessity for fitness on the part of soldiers and citizens alike. Under all the circumstances careful consideration is likely to lead to the conclusion that a wise step has been taken. Some, of course, will think that it goes too far, and others not far enough, but during the existence of hostilities there must be all-round curtailment with regard to more than one established custom.

Lord Rosebery and the War.

An interesting ceremony was held lately in Glasgow Trades House, at which Lord Rosebery was admitted an honorary member of the Incorporation of Weavers, a philanthropic guildry dating back 400 years. In the course of his speech, Lord Rosebery said that as in the ancient fable, there was now the tramp of men not only from England, Scotland and Ireland, but from other places all over the world in every region and in every clime where the Union Jack waved. That was the unexpected result of the outbreak of that conspiracy that was meant to break up the British empire, consolidating it in a way that the most ardent imperialist could never have hoped for. At the present moment the newspapers were occupied with various topics relating to the war, and from the abundance of the material he would select three points which appeared to him to be pre-eminently worthy of notice. The first was thrift, which was not a new topic for a Scottish audience. He must say it was very delightful for him to see a British government and a British parliament advocating the cause of thrift, because for many years past they had employed all the opportunities of expenditure with such advantage and profusion that they had brought peace expenditure up to £200,000,000 a year, without, so far as he was aware, a single voice being raised in government or in Parliament, of remonstrance, or for economy. He hoped now that from this time onwards they would have not merely the preaching, but the practice of thrift in their public departments and in their House of Commons, so that at least they would reap the benefit in the calamity of war in which they were engaged. The matter did not strike him as one which ought to fill to the extent it did the columns of the press. They had established without great effort, a national government in which they put unbounded confidence, positively because it was a collection of the most able men and negatively because there was no other government to take its place. They knew also the disadvantages of swapping horses when crossing the stream, and their only course then, as it seemed to him, as patriotic citizens, was to put illimitable confidence in the government. Could they not trust Lord Kitchener to say to the country exactly the moment at which, if it ever occurred, he thought compulsory service should be imposed. Why then, the wrangling about it in the newspapers? Those who argued could not know half so much as the government, and if they did not trust in the government and Lord Kitchener, they were representing indeed a lost cause. He believed if Lord Kitchener found the moment ripe and found the need imperative, he would not scruple to ask the country to give him the powers requisite to carry compulsory service into effect. Until that time, Lord Rosebery said, he himself would hold his own judgment, more especially, and that was a point to which he attached some importance, as he had seen no mention in the newspapers as to any method by which compulsory service could be carried into effect. His other point was this: what they required, if they were to carry the war through to a successful conclusion, was unity. Of course, their attitude was eagerly watched by all the nations, and without unity victory would not be possible. It was a disheartening thing, worse than any defeat in battle, to see huge strikes proceeding in the very stress of the war. Surely now that the last of these ebullitions was over, could they now resolve to proceed with unity, men and masters. In that particular instance, could they not resolve to proceed with unity in fighting that tremendous war? As in advising thrift, the example of unity must come from the highest.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children In Use For Over 30 Years Always bears the Signature of J. C. Watson

CABINET NOT DECIDED ON CONSCRIPTION

Prolonged Discussion Yesterday—Pressed Hard for a Decision.

By Special Wire to the Courier. London, Oct. 14.—No decision on the question of conscription was reached at the cabinet council yesterday, according to The Daily News. There was a prolonged discussion and the conscriptionists ministers pressed hard for a decision, but failed to carry their point.

There is little doubt, the Daily News says, that Lord Kitchener's sympathies now are definitely on the side of conscription. The Times asserts, however, that the war secretary has declined to assume the responsibility of deciding what course shall be followed. He is reported to maintain that he entered the cabinet as a soldier, not as a politician and therefore, does not regard himself as responsible for choosing the method of raising men.

Lord Kitchener has represented to his colleagues that recruiting lately has fallen off seriously and that men must be found somehow, but that he is unfamiliar with social and industrial conditions in the country and that it is for him to state his requirements and for the country to fill them. Hence, the Times declares, the real responsibility now rests upon the cabinet. It is generally supposed that Lord Derby, when appointed director of recruiting, was given six weeks in which to show whether or not his voluntary recruiting campaign would be a success. Apparently efforts of Labor leaders to induce men to enter the army are not meeting the success expected and the likelihood of some form of compulsion is becoming stronger.

Meeting of Red Cross Committee Placed Amount as Objective.

A meeting of the Red Cross Committee took place yesterday afternoon at the Free Library. Present Rev. Mr. Woodside, (Chairman), Mrs. Laing, Mrs. Lloyd Harris, Mrs. R. H. Reville, Mrs. P. Buck, Mrs. W. Livingston, Mrs. Geo. Watt, Messrs. H. H. Powell, W. G. Raymond, T. H. Preston, F. D. Reville.

It was reported that negotiations had taken place with the Brant Recruiting League to make the meeting on the night of October 21st a joint affair. In this regard it was pointed out that the Red Cross Society did not want additional speakers, but that either Sir George Foster or Hon. Mr. Graham would be asked to emphasize the claims of that society during their remarks. The agreement was confirmed.

It was decided to fix upon the sum of $5,000 as the objective of the Association and to close the campaign on Oct. 23rd. That date (Saturday) will be a tag day and the souvenirs will be a small flag, with a red cross on it and the words "Trafalgar Day."

ALL COMPANIES WILLING BUT THE WEST. COUNTIES

Board of Works Last Night Took Up Question of Pole Removal.

Last night the Board of Works met with the representatives of the different companies who are affected by the proposed removal of poles on Colborne street, and had a general discussion of the whole matter.

Some two or three weeks ago, the Hydro-Electric Commission forwarded an exhaustive report showing the cost in every detail of the proposed change.

All of the companies fell into the idea of coming to an amicable agreement in the matter last night; except the Western Counties. Their representative wasn't authorized to give any promises, and, of course, a definite could be obtained from that company.

He was told, however, that the Board of Works and the council were quite determined to effect this change, and a hint was thrown out of an appeal to the Railway Board if the Western Counties still proved recalcitrant.

The other company chiefly affected, the Great North Western Telegraph Co. are ready to do their share.

With the Western Counties lined up favorably the work could proceed, and in order to come to a working agreement, a further meeting will be held Monday night with its representatives when it is hoped that a final solution will be reached.

LOCAL HOTEL MEN ON NEW RESTRICTIONS

A reporter on the Courier staff interviewed a few of the local hotel-keepers, this morning in regard to the new law closing the bars at 8 o'clock after Nov. 1st.

Another stated that he believed that nothing would do any good but total prohibition; that this move was bound to create more "blind pigs" and stimulate the bottle trade.

TELLS VIVIDLY OF LIFE ON FIRING LINE

Interesting Letter Received From Corp. Patte, Relating Some Experiences.

Corporal George Patte, of the 19th Battalion, sends the following very interesting letter to his father from the front.

Well, here we are back for a little rest. Have been in the firing line for seven days, coming out last night to our billets, which are about three miles from the firing line.

baths. Every man had a bath and a clean suit of underwear, shirt, socks, etc., given to him, and believe me, we need it, for we are covered from head to foot with mud.

on our right last Thursday and Friday. I suppose you have read about it by now.

We are in the most advanced place on the line at present. I think we have them buffaloed at every spot on our line.

As soon as it becomes dusk they start firing at us, continually sending up star shells to keep a watch on us.

We give them a few rounds rapid every little while, but we generally just freeze away and waste their ammunition.

They don't hurt us, and in the meantime we are saving our ammunition. Well, will close for this time; will write more later whenever the opportunity comes.
