Austria Hungary Replies to United States Note on Submarine Warfare

Blockade of Central Powers by Britain Illegal, Austria Pleads to Justify Her Attitude on Question of Submarine Warfare

By Courier Leased Wire London, March 6.—The American ambassador at Vienna has been handed the reply of the Austrian Government to the American note enquiring as to the position of the Austrian Government in regard to unrestricted submarine warfare, according to a Vienna despatch to Reuters by way of Amsterdam. The reply declares that neutrals are responsible for losses they suffer by entering territory where warlike operations are taking place.

MUST BEAR LOSSES The American note which was despatched to Vienna on February 18, asked specifically whether the Austrian assurances given following the sinking of the Ancona and the Persia had been nullified. The reply was that whatever attitude the Washington cabinet may take as to individual questions raised here, the Austro-Hungarian Government is "essentially in accord with the American Government in regard to the protection of neutrals against endangering their lives."

BRITISH BLOCKADE ILLEGAL After a lengthy discussion of the British blockade, which it declares is illegal, the memorandum continues: "The principle that neutrals should enjoy in war times the advantages of the freedom of the seas refers only to neutral vessels and not to neutral persons aboard enemy vessels."

ANCONA CASE The Austrian memorandum referring to its note on the Ancona case says it "strictly adheres to the assurance already given."

among the poorer classes in Austria is extremely serious, according to comments in the Austrian newspapers on Premier Clam Martini's announcement that the government has appropriated millions of kronen for the destitute. A Rotterdam despatch to the Exchange Telegraph Company says that the Austrian press declares that poverty is so great that the gravest evils are expected unless immediate help is given.

that they had plotted under the direction of Wolf von Igel to invade India by way of China. Von Igel, indicted but never tried for alleged complicity in an alleged plot to destroy the Welland Canal, is with Count von Bernstorff, former German ambassador to the United States, who is approaching Copenhagen on the Steamship Frederik VIII.

Weather Bulletin Toronto, March 6.—The disturbance which was over Ontario yesterday morning now covers Nova Scotia causing heavy gales and snow in the Maritime provinces. It has also caused heavy snow in the Ottawa Valley and in Quebec. Another depression is now centered in Kansas. Forecasts: Fresh southerly winds, fair with rising temperature followed by some light falls of snow or sleet on Wednesday.

APPEAL TO THE NATION TOO SERENE AND LOFTY TO DENY

General Sympathy and Approval Greet Inaugural Speech of President Wilson on Entering Second Term; Like the Pronouncement of Lincoln Upon His Re-Election

By Courier Leased Wire London, March 6.—President Wilson's inaugural address and his statement in reference to the obstructive tactics employed in the Senate, fill an important part of the news columns of the morning papers, and are commented on with general sympathy for the president's difficulties in the present crisis. The situation is compared to that in which Lincoln delivered his second inaugural address.

Wilson Triumphs The Post, which sees a triumph for President Wilson in the readiness of a great majority of congress to confer the powers which he asks, says: "President Wilson has proven that with all his tact and caution, he can act with instant resolution when occasion requires."

Inspiration to Allies The Express says that the president's call to his fellow countrymen is an inspiration to the Allies, and the Times, while expressing approbation of President Wilson's definition of the things for which America stands, thinks, nevertheless, that "elevated as they are, they need a great deal of definition and explanation before they can serve even in outline as the foundation of a practical world policy."

A SERIAL STORY

On Saturday next The Courier will publish the first installment of one of the most sensational serials of modern times, "This Woman to This Man," written by the well-known collaborator C. N. and A. M. Williamson, and conceded to be the best of their many works. The exclusive rights to the publication of this story have been obtained by The Courier from the Frank A. Munsey publishing company, and it will appear daily after next Saturday, being the first of a series of high class serial stories which The Courier with its customary enterprise, is securing for the benefit of its readers. Do not miss "This Woman to This Man," on Saturday next.

UNITED STATES SENATE IN SPECIAL MEETING TO PREVENT FILIBUSTERING

Fourteen Hundred Presidential Appointments to be Passed On; Senator Martin, Virginia, Leads Democratic Party—Legal Limits of Wilson's Ship Arming Proposal

Washington, March 6.—The Senate of the Sixty-fifth congress, to-day held the first business meeting of this special session called primarily to pass on 1,400 presidential appointments, with indications of a determined fight to change the rules to limit debate and prevent filibusters such as that which prevented passage of the armed neutrality bill. Democrats held a caucus before the session to determine their party program and choose a majority leader. Senator Martin of Virginia, was unopposed as a candidate.

Neutrals Themselves Responsible For Risks Taken by Entering Danger Zones in War Time, is Defiant Retort of Dual Monarchy

By Courier Leased Wire London, March 6.—The text of the Austrian reply to the United States is quoted as follows in a later Vienna despatch to Reuters: "From the memorandum of February 18 of the American ambassador the Austro-Hungarian foreign minister has concluded that the Washington cabinet, in view of statements made on February 10 of last year and on January 31, 1917, by the Austro-Hungarian government is now in doubt regarding the attitude which Austria-Hungary will henceforth observe regarding the submarine war and as to whether the assurance given by the Austro-Hungarian government to the Washington cabinet in the course of negotiations about the Ancona and Persia papers have not been nullified by the aforementioned statement. The Austro-Hungarian government is ready to make a clear and definite statement so that these doubts may be solved."

The Austro-Hungarian government may be allowed first of all to discuss briefly the methods employed by the entente powers in waging submarine war, because they are the starting point for the intensified submarine war begun by Austria-Hungary and her allies and also throw a bright light upon the attitude which the Austro-Hungarian government has taken hitherto in regard to the questions which have arisen.

Lofty Appeal The Chronicle concludes its comment on the situation in the Senate with these words: "President Wilson's virile pronouncement exposing in a common sense light the unpatriotic mischief wrought by the wreckers in the Senate comes with a calming and composing effect, as of an appeal to the nation too serene and lofty to be denied."

an endeavor to cut off the Central Powers from supplies from overseas, she enlarged, step by step, the list of contraband until nothing was missing in the list of things which today mean want for their subsistence. "Then Great Britain proclaimed what she called a blockade of the coasts of the North Sea, which form also an important commerce route for Austro-Hungarians, in order to prevent goods which were still missing in the list of contraband from entering Germany and in order to prevent all sea traffic by neutrals to those coasts as well as all exports through neutrals. That this blockade was in flagrant contradiction to the customary principles of the right of the blockade, as established by international agreements, was explicitly declared by the president of the United States of America in words which will continue to live in the history of international law.

By the illegal prevention of exports from the Central Powers, Great Britain aimed at paralyzing the countless factories and works which the industrial and highly developed peoples of Central Europe had created and, by forcing workmen to be idle, to incite them to rebellion.

"When Austria-Hungary's southern neighbor joined the enemies of the Central Powers his first act was to declare as blockaded all coasts of the enemy, following of course the example of his allies in ignoring all the legal rights in the creation of which Italy had taken an active part a short time before. Austria-Hungary did not neglect to inform neutral powers at once that the blockade was not legal.

JUSTIFIABLE DEFENSIVE ACTION SAYS ZIMMERMAN OF PLOT

NO BREAD FROM HOLLAND TO BELGIUM Export From Netherlands Is Prohibited Because of Shortage

SUBMARINE WARFARE Causes Restrictions; Belgium Hard Hit

By Courier Leased Wire London, March 6.—The German government's plan for involving Mexico and Japan in war with the United States in the event of hostilities between Germany and America was defended in an address before the reichstag by the foreign secretary, Dr. Alfred Zimmermann, as quoted in a Reuters' despatch from Amsterdam, replying to objections raised by a Socialist member to the Mexican proposals, Dr. Zimmermann said:

Looking Out for Selves. "We were looking out for all of us in the event of there being the prospect of war with America. It was a natural and justified precaution. I am not sorry that, through its publication in America, it also became known in Japan. For the despatch of these instructions a secure way was chosen which at present is at Germany's disposal. How the Americans came into possession of the text which went to America in special secret code we do not know. That these instructions should have fallen into American hands is a misfortune, but that does not alter the fact that the step was necessary for our patriotic interests.

Deep Suspicion. "Least of all are they in America justified in being excited about our action. It would be erroneous to suppose that the step made a particularly deep impression abroad. It is regarded as what it is—justifiable defensive action in the event of war."

"INTOLERANCE" IS MAGNIFICENT

Far Surpasses Even the "Birth of a Nation"

A Movie Picture Presentation Which is Beyond All Parallel

When Mr. D. W. Griffith presented to the world his "Birth of a Nation," it was supposed that the last word had been said with regard to a moving picture production. Not so "Intolerance," his latest production...

These words cannot depict the marvellous nature of the presentation which thoroughly enthralled and delighted two good audiences at the Grand Opera House yesterday...

There are no less than four stories running concurrently—a drama of to-day, a story centred about St. Bartholomew's Eve and the massacre of the Huguenots, scenes from the life of Christ, and the tragedy of Belshazzar and the fall of Babylon...

Mr. Griffith deserves a great deal of credit for the obvious sincerity with which he has tried to turn the film-drama to purposes higher than mere sensationalism. The new art of the camera must be made to serve these higher purposes...

The accessories are all in keeping. There is a magnificent orchestra and a choir of Canadian and English singers.

The production is presented by Mr. Basil D. Courtney, who brought the "Birth of a Nation" to Canada.

CROWN PRINCE CHECKED BY FRENCH AT VERDUN

Haig Strengthens Gains on Western Front; British Triumph in Many Air Encounters; French Retake Much Ground from the Enemy

London, March 6.—The troops of the Crown Prince swung forward again north of Verdun Sunday afternoon in a sweeping attack along a two-mile front between Chambrettes Farm and Besoisyvaux.

A curtain of fire from the French guns checked the onrushing columns at every other point and inflicted severe casualties on the attackers.

The Berlin official account of this operation states that the French outpost position skirting Courrières Wood on the north was stormed over a front of three-quarters of a mile, and that 572 prisoners were swept into the German ranks.

Does this Verdun thrust furnish an explanation of the German withdrawal on the Ancre front? This was the first question asked in military circles here last night.

Admitting the fatal fascination Verdun holds out for the Germans, despite their previous suicidal losses there, the military view leans to the idea that this is a local assault.

Withdrew their promise of $150, that they might use it according to their own judgment.

The splendid contribution is due in no small measure to the efforts of the District President, Mrs. S. O. Kitchen, St. George, who received the loyal support and hearty cooperation of the branches of the W. I. in North Brant.

To Stop the Mud Nuisance. The Board of Works was requested to give some temporary relief to patrons of the L. E. and N. Railway by putting a cinder covering on the portion of Robinson street between the "skew" bridge and the depot.

The report of the municipal auditors was tabled and laid over for discussion. The Mayor observed that there was pretty nearly an even break in the Hydro Electric finances and that the Waterworks, besides carrying the sewerage expenses had given over to the town $4,723 to take care of the payment on debentures, leaving a good surplus which was being devoted to the installation of a 50 h.p. This acquiescence on the part of the provincial authorities was necessary before the appointment could be considered valid. The application of Mr. McVicar was accepted at the last meeting of the county council, and their decision was communicated to the Ontario Government, with the above satisfactory result.

OBITUARY

The Death of Mr. John T. Hewitt

There fell asleep last evening Mr. John T. Hewitt, eldest son of the late Mr. S. Hewitt and in his passing, Brantford loses a well known citizen of many notable attributes.

He was born here in November of 1866, and after attending Public School and Collegiate Institute, he studied for the law, securing his Barristers' robe at Osgoode Hall. He was for a time with the well known law firm of Hardy, Wilkes and Hardy, and later went into partnership with the late Sheriff Watt, under the firm name of Watt and Hewitt. When Mr. Watt was appointed Sheriff, he continued the business alone. He enjoyed a most successful practice, his shrewd common sense and trustworthy advice earning for him a large clientele. He was active politically and was for some time Secretary of the Liberal Association. Some eighteen years ago he was appointed Registrar of the Surrogate Court, Registrar of the Supreme Court of Ontario and Clerk of the County Court. Throughout his discharge of these varied duties of these offices with conscientious fidelity and that urbanity of manner for which he was always distinguished. His health in later years had been far from good but the stability and force of his nature was never more clearly demonstrated than in the plucky manner in which he combated physical disability.

In his earlier days he took a keen interest in cricket and was a prominent member of a club which used to practice on Mr. Kerr's property at the corner of Dufferin and Chestnut Aves. Later he took up golf and became President of that club. It was during his regime in that capacity that his foresight resulted in the purchase of the present fine golf grounds, a scheme which at first met with opposition, but which he carried through with characteristic energy and the subsequent satisfaction of all the members. He was also a member of the Brantford Club and when he reached the position of President inaugurated by his taste and energy many lasting improvements. As a member of the lawn bowling club of that institution, he was at one time also active. In religion he was a Presbyterian and belonged to Zion church.

His demise removes a man of literary and musical tastes, and one of great intelligence. He was a firm friend and in the family circle his consideration and affectionate concern will indeed be sorely missed. Mr. Hewitt was never married. He leaves to mourn his great loss, two sisters, Miss Hewitt and Mrs. Logan Waterous, and one brother, Mr. Harry Hewitt, of the law firm of Jones and Hewitt. To them the deepest sympathy of a very large circle of friends will be extended.

Infant Mason
The W. F. Mason, of the 125th battalion and Mrs. Mason, Jane St., are called upon to mourn the loss of their month old son Herbert Francis, who passed away yesterday. The funeral will take place to-morrow to the Mohawk church.

Mrs. Donovan
A well known former resident of this city, Mrs. Mary A. Donovan, wife of Mr. Patrick Donovan, passed away this morning in Toronto. In addition to her bereaved husband many relatives survive her in Brantford. The remains will be brought here for interment on Thursday in St. Joseph's cemetery.

Laid at Rest

D. McKinnon
The remains of the late Daniel McKinnon, who formerly resided on the St. George Road, were conveyed for interment to St. Joseph's cemetery for burial this morning. The mass had been conducted at St. Basil's church by the Rev. Father Dogorski, who officiated at the church and graveside.

SAVE YOUR HAIR! 25 CENT BOTTLE STOPS DANDRUFF

Thin, brittle, colorless and scraggy hair is mute evidence of a neglected scalp; of dandruff—that awful scurf. There is nothing so destructive to the hair as dandruff. It robs the hair of its lustre, its strength and its very life; eventually producing a feverishness and itching of the scalp which if not remedied causes the hair roots to shrink, loosen and die—then the hair falls out fast. A little Danderrine to-night—now—any time—will surely save your hair. Get a 25-cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderrine from any drug store or toilet counter, and after the first application your hair will take on that life, lustre and luxuriance which is so beautiful. It will become wavy and fluffy and have the appearance of abundance, an incomparable gloss and softness; but what will please you most will be after just a few week's use, when you will actually see a lot of fine, downy hair—new hair—growing all over the scalp. Danderrine is to the hair what fresh showers of rain and sunshine are to vegetation. It goes right to the roots, invigorates and strengthens them. Its exhilarating and life-producing properties cause the hair to grow long, strong and beautiful.

Forced in Winning Run in Two Successive Games

Giants Did That Away Back in Season of 1910, Giving the Pirates Two Charity Games and Spoiling New York's Chances for Pennant

One of the most important incidents in baseball is when a pitcher forces in the winning run. The bases are filled, and the spectators, deeply interested and keenly alert, watch the combat between the pitcher and the batter with breathless interest. They are ready to shout at a hit or yell at a strikeout according to the status of the situation and the angle from which they view the struggle. But whether it is the home team or the visiting team that benefits by the win, the spectators are certain to leave the grounds with a disagreeable taste in their mouths, and with a feeling that things are not what they should be.

Forcing in the winning run is a risky performance, but when a team wins two games in succession by this method it must be classed among the most remarkable.

This is what happened on July 14 and 15, 1910, at Pittsburg, when the Pirates twice won from the New York Giants by this easy process. For the Giants, the result of these games had a most important bearing in the race. Before coming west on their second trip they were regarded as almost sure pennant winners. Then they fell into a slump, from which they did not entirely recover until near the end of the season. They won 12 of their last 17 games and were thus enabled to finish in second place, 13 games behind the Chicago Cubs, who had profited by the slump and practically walked away with the championship.

In the game with the Pirates on July 14 the Giants had it all their own way for eight innings. The great Mathewson was on the rubber and appeared to be at his best. Only two hits were made off him. Tommy Leach getting a single in the fourth inning, and George Gibson one in the eighth. Only one Pirate had reached first base on balls, and he was speedily forced at second. When the Pirates took their last turn at bat, in the ninth inning, the score was 2 to 0 against them. The Giants were a 100-to-1 shot.

Matty paced the ninth inning by giving Fred Clarke a base on balls, and then there was an awakening of interest. A fumble by Arthur Devlin put Hans Wagner on base. Ham Hyatt's outplayed Clarke on third and Wagner on second. Two singles in succession, by Jack Flynn and Owen Wilson, tallied Clarke and Wagner and brought the score within one run of a tie. On a grounder by George Gibson, Flynn was caught at the plate. Now there were men on third and first with two out. Matty, to the astonishment of the onlookers, filled the bases by giving Pat O'Connor, pinch hitter for Deacon Phillippe, a pass. Matty was also given a base on balls, forcing Wilson across the plate with the run that tied the score.

Then the spectators remembered reading about Matty being afflicted with vertigo. But Big Six held his ground and resolutely faced Tommy Leach, the ninth man to come to bat in the inning, and pitched two balls to him. Both were hit. While the spectators were raising all kinds of hubbub, Matty left the rubber and Leon Ames sprang into his place. Ames promptly sent two more wide ones to the batter, and Leach trotted to first, while Gibson jogged home with the winning run. The spectators, to the number of twelve thousand awed and mystified, scattered to the four winds.

The next day, July 15, not half of these spectators returned to the grounds. But the 5,000 who did saw a repetition of the performance of the day before, although some of the sensational features were lacking. The score was tied 7-7 when the Pittsburgers went to bat in the ninth inning. George Wiltze was on the rubber for the Giants at the start of the game, but was forced out after the first inning, in which he was hit for a triple and three singles, giving the Pirates three runs. Bugs Raymond followed him, and was so well supported by the Giants, especially with their bats, that at the end of the third inning the score was 7 to 5 in favor of his team.

The bats of the Giants damaged the effectiveness of two Pittsburg pitchers, Nick Maddock and Sam Leever. Both were compelled to retire and make room for Red White, a young man who, in April of that season, had been secured from the Boston National League club in exchange for Sam Frook, pitcher and Bud Sharpe, first baseman. White entered the game in the fourth inning, and not another run did the Giants get. He not only pitched well, but routed the Giants single-handed, by the good use of his bat. In the sixth inning he drove in two runs with a two-bagger and tied the score. During his stay on the rubber the Giants got but one man as far as third base, the result of two hits in succession, the only hits made off him.

White was the first man to face Raymond in the ninth inning, and at once rapped out a single. Vincent Campbell, a speedy recruit from the Alton team of the Northwestern League, was ordered to run for White. Byrne bunted to Raymond, and beat the throw to first, and Leach put a short single into right. This filled the bases, with nobody out, and Clarke at bat. Raymond, like Matty the day before, lost control of the ball and could not find himself, although incessantly beset by his fellow players to "keep his noodle." He flung the balls wide of the mark, and the fact that the spectators greeted each wide pitch with yells of delight and derision, did certainly not make him less nervous. The last yell was the loudest and most frightful of all, for it followed the fourth wide pitch, which gave Clarke his base on balls and shoved Campbell over the plate with the winning run. It was only the second pass issued by Raymond during his eight innings of work on the rubber.

White, the hero of the second game, had but a brief existence in the big league. He was drafted by the Chicago National League club from Lancaster club of the Tri-State League in 1909. He never wore a uniform. Waiters were asked on him, and the Boston refused to waive and so got him. He was with Boston until April 28, 1910, when he was secured by the Pittsburg club in a trade, as mentioned. With Pittsburg he remained until June 5, 1911, and was then released to the Indianapolis club of the American Association and this ended his career in first-class company. In May 1912, he was sent to Sioux City of the Western League. He pitched his last game for Sioux City in 1915. Last year his name appeared on the list of Indianapolis players, but he was sent back to Sioux City before the opening of the season. However, he never pitched a game for the Soos.

DARKEN GREY HAIR, LOOK YOUNG, PRETTY

Hair that loses its color and lustre or when it fades, turns gray, dull and lifeless is caused by a lack of sulphur in the hair. Our grandmother made up a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur to keep her locks dark and beautiful, and thousands of women and men who value that even color, that beautiful dark shade of hair which is so attractive, use only this old-time recipe.

Nowadays we get this famous mixture improved by the addition of other ingredients by asking at any drug store for a 50-cent bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which darkens the hair so naturally and so evenly, that nobody can possibly tell that it has been applied. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that besides beautifully darkening the hair, after a few applications it also brings back the gloss and lustre and gives it an appearance of abundance. Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound is a delightful toilet requisite to impart color and a youthful appearance to the hair. It is not intended for the cure, mitigation or prevention of disease.

CLUB WHICH BEATS GIANTS WINS PENNANT

New York Looked Up to as a Powerful Factor in National League Race for 1917—Brooklyn Cannot Repeat

New York, March 5.—News from the South of baseball practice in hot, blistering weather, is music to the ears of the baseball fans up here, where it looked to-day as if winter had just started. With all the clubs at their training camps, preparing for the season's campaign, speculation has already started about the chances of the various clubs. In another short month the clubs will be back home.

In the National League, there is every reason to believe that the club which beats the Giants, will win the pennant. Just what club will be able to accomplish this feat is a mystery, says The Times. Brooklyn is not expected to be able to repeat last year's extraordinary occurrence. Brooklyn, by the way, is the only one of the major league clubs which has any of its best players outside the ranks. Zach Wheat and Ed Preffer are still holding out.

With the addition of much promising new material, the Giants should be even stronger this year than last. There will be trouble, however, from the Boston and Brooklyn clubs because of their strong pitching staffs. Philadelphia will bear watching for the same reason, but none of the western clubs look formidable enough to cause the Giants serious difficulty. As a fielding and batting commission, it is doubtful if the New York club has an equal. It seems probable that there will be a new pennant winner in the American League this season. The Boston Red Sox have now occupied a high place in the game so long that it is only natural to expect them to slip back. The retirement of Mabe will take some time before he can install the confidence and spirit into the men that Carrigan did. The game has never had a cleverer leader than the retired Boston pilot. He had that rare faculty of getting the best out of his players at all times. Carrigan would never admit defeat, a trait which he also imparted to his players. There are several veterans on the Boston club and veterans, no

THIRD DIVISION WAS IN ACTION

Losses of Ontario Battalion Are, However, Reported Light

Ottawa, March 5.—Indications that the 3rd Canadian Division at the front has been in another fight are furnished by cables received at the department of militia. In the action on March 1st in which Lieut.-Col. Beckett was killed there were losses affecting Ontario battalions, but they were not heavy. A number of officers besides Col. Beckett are believed to have gone down, but the list will be forwarded through the usual channel of the Records Office. Other cable despatches state that the casualties sustained, mostly on Thursday, are said to number about 200, and are considered comparatively light, especially if the entire division has been engaged. It is said that the 3rd Canadian Division has been following up the retreating Germans in the vicinity of Gommecourt. This is believed by some to be the action in which Lieut.-Col. S. G. Beckett of Toronto was engaged, though it had not been supposed that his battalion was in the 3rd division.

To Assist British.
Douglas S. Robertson, in a cable from London to The Evening Telegram, Toronto, yesterday, says: "Once again, after months of routine warfare, the Canadians have been in heavy fighting, the heaviest for them since the Somme offensive. Though very local in extent, for in this latest 'strafe' against the Germans of several battalions only one of the Canadian divisions were engaged.

The attack took place on Thursday. To assist in the general forward movement the British troops have been making of late over ground abandoned by the Huns in their retreat, the Canadians launched a strong assault against a particularly formidable German position on high ground, well-fortified and heavily manned by the enemy.

Gas Attack Failed.
After vigorous bombardment of the Hun position by artillery, the Canadians turned on gas following up with an infantry advance in waves.

Owing to unfavorable atmospheric conditions (it has been damp and foggy), and the uncertainty of the wind, the gas clouds were not as effective as usual. The Germans met our advance with a heavy fire, but the Canadians inflicted severe losses upon the enemy before returning to their own trenches. Our artillery did particularly effective work.

LENTEN RECIPES FOR HOUSEWIFE

Clam Fritters
One-half cup of clam water, 1-2 cup milk, 1 egg, small piece of butter, a pinch of soda, flour to make thick batter; fry in hot fat.

Baked Fresh Herring
One-half dozen herrings, 1 teaspoonful butter, 1-2 teaspoonful salt, 1 cup vinegar. Take the bones out of herrings, roll up herrings, sprinkle with salt and bits of butter; put in oven and bake about 20 minutes; take out when cooked and pour vinegar over, and eat when cold.

Baked Fish
After cleaning the fish thoroughly, let stand in salt water 2 hours; rub well inside and out with pepper; sprinkle with salt and bread crumbs, 1 tablespoonful of butter, 1 small onion (chopped fine), pepper and salt to suit the taste; stuff the fish with this dressing and sew up; put in pan with water to cover, sprinkle over with flour and put in a small piece of butter. Bake slowly one hour. Garnish with hard-boiled eggs.

Stuffed Mackerel
Take two mackerel, large or small as needed, wash, and lay one in a baking pan. Put on enough stuffing to round up. Lay the other mackerel on top; press down a little around the edges. Have the skin side out. Bake until done, which will take half an hour or more, according to the heat of the oven. If it browns too fast lay another pan over it.

For the stuffing I save small pieces of bread that do not look nice to put on the table, also the crumbs found in the box of shredded biscuit. If the bread is put in the oven and dried until brown it will keep a long time until needed.

LADY'S BUNGALOW APRON.

By Anabel Worthington.

There is a strong natural instinct implanted in the healthy minded woman to make the most of herself and on every occasion to dress herself most becomingly. Even though she be engaged in preparing the meals, or in putting the house in order, she wants to look well and to be dressed in a way suitable to her labors. Let the work be ever so light, to avoid unrest and friction an apron on neat and becoming lines, with some show of response to Fashion's whims, is an absolute necessity to the woman who looks after the household affairs. In the illustration you see just such a garment, made in the bungalow style. The fullness of the garment is held in place by a belt at normal waistline. The body part may be in simple style by rolling the bands back to form revers and facing them with contrasting color goods, or the right front may be lapped over to the left side and the collar dispensed with. The sleeve just turns the elbow and when the apron is made to supply as a house dress the cuff finish of contrasting goods will be appropriate to match revers and collar. The pocket, of course, is a detail that belongs to an apron. Lunen, chambray, gingham, percale, drill, galatea and similar materials are suitable for developing. Making the garment is really a pleasure. The apron, pattern No. 8,149, cuts in sizes 36 and 40 bust. To make in size 36 requires 3 yards of 36 inch material; 1 1/2 yards of contrasting material. To obtain the pattern send 10 cents to the office of this publication.

THE CLOTHES-PEG DOLL.

Ellen had a clothes-peg doll, and if you don't know what one is, no more did I until I saw this one. Ellen's father painted a face on the head of the peg and Ellen dressed her and she seemed such a well behaved doll in the daytime that nobody dreamed what a mysterious doll she was, after all. Ellen knew it first when she woke up one night and found her gone. She jumped out of bed and looked all over, but just as sure could be, that doll was nowhere to be found. Stranger still, when the morning came, there she was back again, as if she'd never been anywhere at all. It was most mysterious.

Night after night Ellen found her gone. Morning after morning she was back again, and then, one very bright moonlight night, Ellen herself solved the mystery. For, peering out of the window, she saw that foolish clothes-peg doll had gone out and phoned herself on the line! What more, the cat was talking it over with her.

"You're mighty foolish," said the cat, "to come out here every night like this and pin yourself on the clothes line."

"I'm a clothes-peg," said the doll firmly. "All my ancestors were clothes-pegs, and if I work all day as a doll I've a right to a little pleasure of my own."

"Some night," said the cat, "you'll get caught in a storm out here and the rain will wash your face off. What then?"

"Pooh," said the peg. "I don't need a face, I got along very well without one for a long time." And she went on bobbing foolishly in the wind and sitting on the line.

Now, though it didn't seem to bother the doll at all that she might lose her face, it did bother Ellen, and she thought and thought of schemes to keep that clothes-peg doll in the house at night. She wanted to speak to the cat about it, but when she picked him up and whispered in his ear he gave her such a stupid stare that you'd honestly think he didn't know a thing about it. But one night he broke all rules, stroled into Ellen's bedroom and cut up on the foot of her bed.

"Put a clothes line up in your bedroom!" he purred. "Put a clothes line up in your bed room. It never rains here!"

And do you know, Ellen did. After that, that foolish, peg-headed doll worked as a doll all day and pinned herself on the clothes line in Ellen's room at night. And that was how they managed to save her face for her.

OTHER PEOPLE'S MONEY.

How other people spend their money is always an interesting subject. Here are two more frank statements:

"I earn $1100 a year and support myself and widowed mother and save for a rainy day. OPEN CONFESSION

I think Bill Shakespeare dry as dust; his books, untouched, stand on the shelf; and I could take my pen. I trust, and write much better junk myself. Long o'er his pages I perspired, and sickened 'neath the grievous strain, his noisy bombast makes me tired. His style obscured gives me a pain. But when I'm in the social swim, I do not dare to talk like this. The Avon bard! I worship him! To read him fills my soul with bliss! I hate the dismal, horrid daubs Old Masters painted long ago; They look to me like misfit jobs, the pigments spread with broom or hoe. At these old works I gaze and stare, and fall to find a pleasing thing—fat cherubs loafing here and there, and corned angels on the wing. I tell the truth here in my den, where no rebuke can make me smart; but when I'm with my fellow men, I whoop it up for ancient Art. I'd like to meet a man so bold that he would say just what he thinks, hand out the truth, severe and cold, about the haloed, worshipped ginks. Alas the man has not been born, who dares to hoot the goldbrick sage, who has the nerve to laugh to scorn the chromos of a by-gone age.

The American schooner John G. McCullough has been captured on this charge of attempting to run the blockade. She was taken to Falmouth, where her cargo is being removed for the prize court.

No American schooner John G. McCullough is listed in available records. The American steamer of that name was reported in marine advices, received in this country on Feb. 23, as having arrived at Falmouth the day previous from the Azores.

A despatch from Berlin states that the German Admiralty announces today that one of the returned submarines encountered off the south coast of Ireland, a tank steamer fitted up as a submarine trap with four well-concealed broadside guns. The ship's boats were in use to throw bombs against submarines. After emerging, the submarine had an artillery engagement from 3 p.m. until dark, against this submarine trap and against a submarine destroyer of the Fox Glove type, which joined her. At least three hits were obtained on the Fox Glove.

New York, March 5.—Official figures from the British Admiralty made public here today at the office of the Consul-General of Great Britain, show that during February 94 British merchant ships were destroyed by mines or submarines. Of this number, 61 ships were of 1,600 tons or over, and 33 were under 1,600 tons. In addition to the merchant ships, 29 fishing vessels of British register were sunk. It was also reported that during the month 67 British merchant vessels were unsuccessfully attacked by submarines, as shown by reports on file with the Admiralty up to and including March 4.

"If advertising space in newspapers could be sold at standardized rates—based upon a fixed price per line for each thousand of circulation—space buyers would rejoice. At least, some of them seem to think that they would. But advertising space does not have a standardized VALUE, therefore cannot be sold at a standardized rate. IN THE CASE OF NO OTHER COMMODITY DOES QUALITY PLAY A STRONGER PART."—Editor and Publisher.

The Courier rightly claims "Quality" circulation in Brant County. Its subscribers are people of real purchasing power.

KILLED BY ROBBERS
By Courier Leased Wire.
Rochester, N. Y., March 7.—Ray B. Webster, 32, who conducted a night lunch eat at North and Illinois streets, was shot to death this morning by two men who robb the cash register. He chased the men from the eat, a large knife and was shot as he returning to his duties. He died the way to a hospital.
