TWO MEN KILLED NEAR PILOT BUTTE

Head-on Collision between Passenger and Freight Trains--Fireman and Express Messenger Dead--Two Injured Men in Hospital

Regina at 7:35 this morning and met the freight on a curve about six miles out. The two trains came together before their speed slackened to any extent. The engineers did not see each other till it was too late, and they reversed their levers and jumped. The firemen did not know that anything was wrong and one of them, Bret, of the passenger train, never knew what happened, for he was hurled under his engine, his life being crushed out in a minute. The express messenger lived until ten minutes to ten when he died in a sleeper in the yards at Regina. The engineer and mail clerk were taken to the hospital several of the city doctors being in attendance, with Dr. Nyblett in charge. It is not known yet who was responsible for the wreck. There were some Regina people in the smashup, but no one was hurt. Mr. and Mrs. H. Mytton were en route east and were badly shaken up, but otherwise came through safely. A wrecking train was brought from Moose Jaw.

WEYBURN FARMER LOCATES DAUGHTER

Girl Leaves Home and Comes to Regina--Discovered by Father at Lumsden

A prominent farmer of the Weyburn district reached Regina on Friday last in quest of his fifteen year old daughter, who had been working at Weyburn, but who after some trouble with her mistress had taken the train to Moose Jaw, where she fell in with a woman of questionable character named Belle, who enticed the young girl to Regina. They parted here after the homesick girl refused to become a party to the arrangements of her older associate, and the former got work for a few days in the Palace restaurant, but leaving there she could not find employment, and she left on the delayed Friday's train for Lumsden, hoping to have better luck in the valley town. She had gone north when her father ar-

VERY LITTLE CONTRACT WHEAT

Mr. Snow says that only twenty per cent. of Crop in this Province will grade above feed--Car Shortage

Only about twenty per cent of the present crop is contract wheat, said Mr. Snow, assistant warehouse commissioner, to The West Monday. He was in the city on his way through the country making enquiry into the car shortage question. Mr. Snow says that throughout the growing season things looked very blue in Manitoba, but the dry weather was the salvation of the crop for it ripened and came in early, thus escaping the frost. The farmers are therefore much better off than those in this province where the grain growing until the cold nights came. About eighty per cent of the Manitoba crop is contract wheat, but in Saskatchewan the average grade falls away down this year. There are cases, however, where farmers have yields of forty bushels grading No. 1 Feed. If this grain had matured it would have been a marvellous crop. Regarding the car shortage, Mr. Snow said that there are complaints all over the country and he is now investigating for Mr. Castles and the matter will be taken up through their office as soon as he reports. At Regina he learned that there were 25 orders booked that day and nineteen applications had been filled. In some towns the merchants detain cars and pay one dollar demurrage rather than unload them, and this ties up a lot of rolling stock. It is plain that there is not much co-operation in this respect and the railway companies get all the blame.

BRADSHAW WILL YET WIN THE SEAT

Only by Throwing Out a Poll can Mr. Turgeon be Elected--Ballot Boxes in Jail with Seals on

Prince Albert, Oct. 29.—There is no change in the political situation. The returning officer declared Mr. Turgeon elected by 65 majority, after Ex-Chief Justice had appealed one hundred and four ballots to the judge on behalf of the attorney general, and twenty-seven by Mr. Bradshaw's supporters. This looks at present like a victory for the government, but if the judge is at all consistent with the decisions of the magistrates, Mr. Bradshaw will be declared elected and will sit at the coming session for this city. Out of 104 votes tied up by Mr. Turgeon many will no doubt

NATIONAL HOUSEKEEPING

(By Donald Macmaster, K.C.) At the opening luncheon of the season of the Canadian Club in Montreal, Mr. Donald Macmaster, K.C., was the speaker, and took for his subject National Housekeeping.

After a brief introduction by the chairman, Mr. Macmaster gave his address as follows, being received with loud applause: "I will divide my remarks under various headings, and briefly discuss each. The first of these is the highways. It has been said: 'Let me make the ballads of a nation, and I care not who makes it laws.' I will append to that, 'let me' makes the common roads—the highways of the country—and I care not who makes its railways. The railways have to a certain extent superseded the King's highways but they can never be a complete substitute for the highways of the common people.

The Scotch warrior exclaimed: "Oh, far an hour on Dundee." Well might we say, "Oh for a year on MacAdam." There is no greater self imposed tax on the people of a nation than the loss that results from bad roads. (Applause)

"It has also been said: 'Manners makes man.' Winchester and Oxford have engraved this truism over the portals of two of their most important seats of learning. Manners, too, have a great deal to do with the making of a nation. They are a capital asset, and their absence is a fatal liability. 'Higher manners purer laws,' exclaimed the late poet Laurence, and all the British lands approved in vocal assent. But are we true to the present in practice? I have heard it said that there is a decay of manners in this land of promise. I trust that it is not so; I trust I have been misinformed; I trust that the blench of bad manners will never stain the fair name of Canada, for just as sure as a soft answer turneth away wrath, so good humor and polite speech will dignify behavior, and contribute to the happiness of ourselves and the stranger that journeys in our midst.

"Let us look at some of our material assets. Our spruce forests are the greatest on the globe. What are we doing with them? Are we conserving them as property in trust should be considered and protected? The world's paper supply is dependent upon these. The supply of pulp in other lands is gradually becoming exhausted. The forest fire takes his annual toll—a heavy invasion of our natural wealth. But he is not the only vandal. Our own laws permit the foreigner for a nominal hire to plunder our forests, and rob us of the wealth with which our bountiful nature intended to endow us and those for whom we are trustees—our children and our children's children.

"How long shall we willing submit to this state of things? With the numerous rivers and lakes that bedeck our heritage, and by a system of cutting open spaces and conserving the water by dams, is it not possible by fire breaks under careful supervision, to arrest the destroyer on the one hand, and to countermand the vandal by enacting laws that will preserve our forests for our own people and for the building up of the industries that will give more labor and better wages to the industrious, and greater prosperity to our people as a whole? (Hear hear.)

supply his own deficiency, without contributing anything to the permanent settlement or wealth of the country. An export duty on pulp wood, or pulp, if not actual prohibition of exportation, is urgently called for in the national interest. A like policy in the province of Ontario with respect to the exportation of logs has been followed with most beneficial results. The sawing formerly done in Michigan and Wisconsin was transferred to Canada to the great benefit to Canadian trade and labor. From another point of view, if we have a surplus of a thing that foreign nations must have, we can very well put an export duty on it, and thus make the foreigner contribute to lightening the taxation on the people of this country.

"As to other questions, I must be brief even more, and general. Immigration—a nation requires to be careful of the class and kind of immigrants it permits to settle on its lands. There may be too much haste in giving away the lands. They are a solid asset; they will not run away, and there will be more demand for them in the future and at greatly enhanced prices.

Foreign policy—We must give heed to this and set the national house in order to meet the condition of trade imposed upon us by reason of our own capacity for production, and the restrictions which our own products meet with when they seek the markets of the world.

"Our wheat and cheese products—And we shall see that our products reach the world under their proper names, that our excellent cheese is not palmed off as English Cheddar, and that the wheat of the country is not to the extent of one-half denationalized from the fact that a portion is shipped abroad from American ports, and thereafter classed as 'American' in the English trade returns.

"During the winter a large portion of the Canadian wheat is shipped from Canada through the States to American ports and thence to England. When it arrives there it is classed as an American export, and thus Canada is deprived of credit for this production. As the old settled portions of Europe and Great Britain, especially, are dependent upon the rest of the world for wheat and flour, it is most important that our actual output should be correctly stated. I personally made same representations in this respect to the British Board of Trade which I trust may not be without effect, but I think that an effort should be made by our government to see that the official output is properly stated and credited.

"As to our position in the world let us not be overproud. 'We are what we are, and not what we would be,' as Owen Meredith says. We call ourselves a nation; but really it is a great boast to be a part, a great part, with complete autonomy, of the greatest nation the world has ever known. Kipling has truly classed us: 'Daughter am I in my mother's house but mistress in my own.'

Moose Jaw, Sedley, Craik, Weiburn, and Saskatchewan. These grains weighed from 5 to 62 pounds to the bushel. The samples were then mixed on the floor and by a unanimous vote No. 5 grade was established, samples of which will, incidentally, set the price for No. 4 wheat all over the west.

The work of the standards boards is to set the grades below those provided for in the act. Of late years it has been necessary for the board to meet on any such business, but this year owing to the quantity of damaged wheat it was found necessary. No. 6 grade will be established too, although this is getting down pretty well to grain fit only for feed.

A THREE-EDGED SWORD "A strong man armed keepeth his house." Labor is strong and it is armed. Why, then, should it submit to the pillage of the spoiler? If workmen scatter like sheep and cringe like cowards, they become an easy prey to those who would live in splendor upon the sweat of their fellow. The fellow who deserts a good cause and hides away from danger because he is afraid of being hurt in battle, richly earns the contempt of his men. Numbers avail not, and strength is of little value without courage and devotion to nerve the arm and steel the heart for victory. It is the strong brave man who arms himself and offers his all upon the altar of the cause that he knows to be right, who is the pride and glory of his race. And we rejoice to know that labor has just such heroes. Their blood has dyed with crimson glory every battlefield on earth. They were as ready to face suffering and torture in the dark dungeons and meet obscure and ignominious death as they were to win glory amid the clatter of battle.

Labor has still these heroes—millions of them. But, as they are as patient and enduring in peace as they have been brave and self-sacrificing in war, the same class that has led them to slaughter and bondage in the past is now striving to bind and hold them in industrial bondage. But the brightness of a better day is dawning upon the eastern skies. The giant labor is waking, and the workers are beginning to see that what they have been doing for their self-constituted masters may be as well done for themselves.

"To arms! to arms! Light with the fire of liberty the martial fires upon a million hilltops. Let the bugle call the sons of glory once more to earth's great battlefield. Labor is strong and brave, is thrice armed, not only because it hath its quarrel just, but because of its power, and third, its voting strength. United it is in position that capital can bring against it. All it has lacked in the past has been intelligent, experienced leadership. We now have that, and the world is about to witness a complete industrial revolution.—Roanoke Industrial Era.

have twenty-five million in their yards at present. They consequently have only four camps in the bush now were they expected to have eight. The financial stringency is felt in many ways, but the lumber industry feels it keenly through an exceedingly dull market this season.

Destroyed Mail Contract What have the Liberals done since they came into power? To what can we look as a tribute to their capacity. The first thing they did on gaining power was to destroy the contract which Sir Charles Tupper had made for the last Atlantic mail service, and instead thereof they broached the "Bottle Neck Service." The bottle neck service came to naught and the last Atlantic service, has remained in embryo. It is true Sir Wilfrid has talked of an All-Red route, but up to the present we have had no details of his project. As to preferential trade within the empire, the policy laid down and established by the Right Hon. Jos. Chamberlain was a policy which would have made every acre of land in eastern and western Canada alike more valuable than it is today.—R. L. Borden, in his speech before 5,000 people in Brandon.

Mother and Son All the fashionables in Burlington, N.J., an old and aristocratic town, are laughing at the recore which a matronly widow, who lives on Federal street forced upon herself. The widow although well known is best described by this personal which she placed in a Philadelphia newspaper.

"A lady of mature age, but looking young and feeling so, a tall blonde, imposing and graceful, and at the same time well-to-do, desires to marry. Address,—" "The lady who is no older than she feels, chide my affinity from the writers of many letters she received. Quickly an interview was arranged—she, wearing a bunch of lilies-of-the-valley in her corsage, was to wait at the Pennsylvania railroad station; he with a red rose in his coat lapel, was to arrive on the 9.37 a.m. New York express, eastbound.

The widow looking extremely youthful and handsome, waited at the station; the express stopped; from a car dropped her stalwart son. "Hello mother," he cried, "what are you doing here?" Next instant he saw the bunch of lilies-of-the-valley; she, the rose, he wore. She blushed, far sadder than the rose and was seized with an opportune fit of coughing, which could not hide her confusion, however.

Laurier and Preference

Sir Wilfrid endorsed it, of course, but he went over to the city of London within two years and declared to the people of Great Britain that Canada desired no preference in Great Britain, saying that Canada did not want to see the mother country injured, and at the very same time he was maintaining protection in Canada. In answer to an inquiry in the English House of Commons Mr. Ritchie stated, "I do not intend to exempt Canadian goods because Canada does not desire a preference." This was when England drained by the expense of the war in Africa, had placed a tax upon certain food stuffs. I say that a preference for our Canadian products would be the greatest possible advantage to this country, especially to the farmer and the rancher, and by its platform laid down in Halifax the Conservative party stands committed to that great project which will serve to bind together all portions of this great empire.—R. L. Borden, in his speech before 5,000 people in Brandon.

NEW GRADES ESTABLISHED

Wheat on Sample from Five Different Points--Grade Six Is Getting Close to Feed

Winnipeg, Oct. 24.—The standard grain board resumed their meeting this morning in the J. I. Case warehouses, corner Princess and James. The work of the morning was to establish a commercial grade of No. 5 wheat, which selection will be selected by the milling interests all over the west.

The board formed itself into various committees, and five pairs samples were chosen for examination and inspection. Samples No. 4 and 5 were very closely scrutinized, and they appeared to be about on a par, judging from the vote registered. A second vote was registered to decide which of the two samples should set the grade, and No. 5 sample secured the vote. No. 5 sample was taken from five different bags of wheat from Alameda, Indian Head, North Battleford, Arcola, Lumsden, Glenora,

LUMBER GLUTS THE MARKET

Big Mills in Prince Albert Cut Operations Down This Winter--Money Stringency the Cause.

Prince Albert, Oct. 28.—The glut of the lumber market in the west is being felt here this season for the operations in the lumber woods are only half as great as they were last year. This is due to the fact that the money stringency crippled building operations all summer, and consequently the lumber market became overloaded, and the mills have decided to lessen production till business brightens up, as it will no doubt do with the opening of spring.

The mills shut down here with a great many logs in the river and the operations are only half what was anticipated. The Prince Albert Lumber Co., cut nearly forty five million feet of lumber this season and they

No Withdrawal

A dispatch to the Scott organ from Prince Albert states that The Times has withdrawn the insinuation that a deputy took a ballot box to the Liberal committee rooms on the night of the election.

All through the day the deputy acted absolutely fair and did his duty well, except that in error he dropped a few ballots for both sides in the box that were contested and should have gone into envelopes.

Now, there is no charge against the deputy, but the other men must explain why they took that deputy to the Liberal committee rooms, and when they were accosted they made no reply, but hurried away to the right place in such a manner.

The above is the extent of the charge regarding the taking of the ballot box to the Liberal committee rooms.

Walter's Own

The personal organ of Premier Scott contained yesterday one of the well known screeds under the heading of "A Summing Up," in which he dealt in his "clear as mud" style with the history of the Prince Albert elections.

They have the same bunch which the government hope to gain by prolonging their agony. It is certain that no improper votes got through Sam McLeod's sieve at the court of revision, and yet it is from his decision that the appeals are taken.

attorney general's department has protected in their crime. The judgment of the people is something however, from which they cannot escape, but they are prepared to die hard, as the desperate tactics of the Prince Albert city election shows.

The Wolf Cry

The government's mouth piece in this city has ascribed to Mr. Bradshaw's supporters the wolf cry, but that organ cannot mislead the people of the province much less the citizens of Prince Albert with regard to the action of the beaten coercionists, who are trying to steal another seat.

No doubt the paramount issue which Blip MacLean raised in the London election on behalf of the labor candidate was: "Where can the Hired Man Wash his Feet?" The bitter feelings engendered in Prince Albert by the Turgeon interests playing a low down game all through the elections and especially their attempt to steal the seat by appealing so many of Mr. Bradshaw's votes, will permeate the social and business life of the city for some time.

Mr. Turgeon's Position

By declamation and posing gestures Alphonse Turgeon, standing before an audience of his citizens, asking for their support, stated that he was not in any way to blame for the northern poll outrages. He could not help what was done in the interests of his party, although he never did satisfactorily explain why he accepted a nomination from his party to try and further the crime against the electors of Prince Albert District and against S. J. Donaldson who won the seat at the general elections.

The draft bill proposed by the Royal Insurance Commission is a copy of the New York law which has worked badly in the United States, and there is no reason whatever why a thoroughly Canadian law should not be framed instead of one that is copied from an admittedly bad system. This question will engage the attention of parliament during the coming session.

Editorial Notes

Ex-Judge McGuire held up "The West" to the court of revision as a "respectable paper" and cited the certificate of character which we gave Magistrate McLeod at Erwood two years ago when he sat with the deputy to adjudicate on the contested ballots. Of course we had reference to the one poll, and Mr. McLeod gave satisfaction on that occasion. The public will note that "The West's" comments are highly prized when they are favorable to the government or their supporters, yet Mr. Scott and his organs meet our fair criticisms with personal spleen.

The Free Press remarks editorially that it will likely be many years before a large proportion of the western people will be able to think in English, which invites the reply that they will never think at all so long as the government officials stand over them with a club as they have been doing since the present government took office.

The bitter feelings engendered in Prince Albert by the Turgeon interests playing a low down game all through the elections and especially their attempt to steal the seat by appealing so many of Mr. Bradshaw's votes, will permeate the social and business life of the city for some time.

As the Canadian senate is not a political body in the party sense of the word, the election of Senator Fete Talbot, therefore, as president of the Alberta Liberal association referred to has no serious party implications, and is merely of the club order with only social features.

The Ottawa government press devote columns of editorial to the abuse of Mr. Borden for not meeting the expectations of the people of Canada as a constructive statesman. According to these organs the Conservative leader is strengthening the Laurier government, every meeting he holds, but the funny part of it is they show their gratitude for this by daily publishing columns of abuse of Mr. Borden.

The Dominion government has just announced a surplus in the post office department of five millions for the past nine months. This is a cruel blow to the settlers in the western provinces who have to endure such an inadequate postal service. This department of the government above all others should not be used for revenue purposes. Mr. Borden has met the wishes of the western people in his announcement on the postal service and his words will have further weight in view of the latest announcement of the government.

The draft bill proposed by the Royal Insurance Commission is a copy of the New York law which has worked badly in the United States, and there is no reason whatever why a thoroughly Canadian law should not be framed instead of one that is copied from an admittedly bad system. This question will engage the attention of parliament during the coming session.

Press Comments

In the early days when much of the land in South Saskatchewan was owned by Anglo-Canadian interests, perhaps, little objection to the law which allowed stock to run free after the grain was threshed. Today, however, these lands are more fully taken up and the farmer's stock, if allowed to run, is sure to do more or less damage on his neighbor's farm. It is a recognized fact that no man should have to fence his land to keep out his neighbor's stock, but many do not fully realize the contra proposition that any man allowing them to run is responsible for the damage done by them. The time appears to be at hand when all animals should be safely enclosed the year round or kept in charge of a herder.

Farmers with straw or grain stacks have now to fence them to save them through the open season. Then, too, the carrying of weed seeds from one farm to another by stock, is an injury not fully appreciated. The owners themselves would save time and money in hundreds of cases by enclosing stacks, the loss of time in searching for strays, the money spent in advertising for them or in paying for their return, not to mention the loss incurred by animals never being found, are items that should weigh with the farmers in favoring a close season the year round.

MAY BURN CROPS

Pheasant Forks, Oct. 20.—Threshing has commenced, in fact in some cases it is nearly through. The department of agriculture has long been asking for a crop report, but correct information on the output could not be given until it had gone through the separator, and now it is found in most cases, the crop, both as to quality and quantity was over estimated. The sample of oats and barley in many cases is very poor and wheat on the whole is not worth threshing, as it would not even make feed for pigs. We shall have some big fires shortly, as most of the farmers did not cut their wheat and are going to burn it on the field, this being the best way of getting rid of it.

Engineer O'Donnell died at Port Arthur hospital as a result of injuries received in an accident at Kamamisistiqua. He was in charge of a westbound passenger, and the accident was caused by an open switch at Kama. Conductor McCarthy, Brakeman Anderson and Engineer McLean are said to be responsible for the switch being left open. McLean has left the city since the accident and has not been arrested. Remember this is the greatest undeveloped country on the globe and we have the same class of sturdy men and women here who developed eastern Canada, capable of taking every advantage the country affords. Our prosperity is due to causes entirely beyond the control of any government. Why, if these men had had their way this country would have stayed undeveloped for many, many years. For these are the men who told us that the west was only good for the men and the bear and that British Columbia was simply a sea of mountains. They have recanted. But remember this, the Conservative party in Canada is that party which has added every foot of soil it now enjoys and which has been added to the four original provinces since they first joined themselves together. A Most Valuable Agent

The glycerine employed in Dr. Pierce's medicines greatly enhances the medicinal properties which is extracted from native medicinal roots and holds in solution much better than alcohol would. It also possesses medicinal properties of its own, being a valuable demulcent, nutritive, antiseptic and emollient. It aids greatly to the efficacy of the Black Cherry bark, Bloodroot, Golden Seal root, Queen's root and Queen's root, contained in "Golden Medical Discovery" in all chronic, or lingering, venereal, scrophulous, throat and lung affections, for all of which these agents are recommended by standard medical authorities. In all cases where there is a wasting away of flesh, loss of appetite, with weak stomach, as in the early stage of consumption, there can be no doubt that glycerine acts as a valuable agent. It aids the Golden Seal root, Queen's root, Black Cherry bark, and Bloodroot, in promoting digestion and building up the flesh and strength, controlling the cough and bringing about a healthy condition of the whole system. Of course, it will not cure constitutional cases, but it will cure chronic, or lingering, venereal, scrophulous, throat and lung affections, and it will cure chronic, or lingering, venereal, scrophulous, throat and lung affections, and it will cure chronic, or lingering, venereal, scrophulous, throat and lung affections.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional. But both are important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the Local. Dr. Shoop's Restorative, the Constitutional. The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical mucous membrane suppository remedy, while Dr. Shoop's Restorative is wholly an internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the root of all nerve, all tissue, and all blood ailments. The Night Cure—as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, sees to the excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, brings about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—the healthful general tonic—to the system. For positive local help, use as well.

FINEST SPECIMENS OF THE INDIAN RACE

New Reserve Located by Inspector Graham This Summer--Natives Ask Protection Against Missionaries--Superior Band True to Old Traditions

Secluded from the haunts of the white man through the inaccessibility of their solitude, and where fish and game abound, a band of Cree Indians are preserving the best traditions of their race and resent the intrusion of the settler and ask protection against missionaries.

The reserve referred to is situated south of Star City, on the Melfort line of the C.N.R. Inspector Graham of the Indian department related to the West his experiences during a forty day trip across the country to locate these Indians. This summer he received word from Ottawa to proceed north to find Indians who were supposed to live on a reserve the proper survey bounds of which had never been given them. He consequently had a caravan fitted out consisting of five teams and vehicles which was in charge of his assistants. Mrs. Graham accompanied him and they took their Indian servants with them. Proceeding from their home at File Hills they made their way north through a very inhospitable piece of country and at times were driven almost to the point of despair so frequent were the obstacles to team travel. Big muskegs had to be crossed and the spruce forest was alive with flies. The roads were poorly indicated, and were not travelled, in the summer season. The horses would often get down and the vehicles were for miles axle deep in mire. Bent on accomplishing his mission however, Inspector Graham, supported by his plucky wife, stayed with the trail and finally reached the native haunt which they set out to locate. The Indians were surprised at the approach of the caravan but Inspector Graham addressed the chief in Cree and friendly greetings were exchanged. Presenting his credentials together with a survey map of the reserve, the head of the band knew that the official meant business, and matters pertaining to the interest of the Indians were at once taken up. The chief was pleased to know that the government had taken sufficient interest in his people to send an emissary to their haunts on a friendly and beneficent mission, and he reciprocated with the best hospitality that he was capable of.

After the chief had listened to the inspector as to the wishes of the government, he made but two requests. The first was that the reserve should be free from the intrusion of the settler, and the second that they be guaranteed that missionaries would not interfere with them. The chief said that they had their own religion, which suited them and that they lived up to a high standard of morals. They would not harm anyone and they wanted to live according to the old traditions of their people. The inspector assured them that the settler would be violating the law to come on their reserve; to either encroach for the purpose of settlement, or to cut timber. The government would protect the Indians to the fullest extent. As to the exclusion of missionaries, however, he could give no assurance, for the government had nothing to do with missionary work, and it was beyond their control.

One evening after the relations of the Indians and the official were fully established and after the inspector had successfully impressed them with the good intentions of the government, the chief called his counselors together and entertained Mr. and Mrs. Graham. He said he never before sang a song, but he intended to do so on that occasion. He first recited the early traditions of the band and their final location at their present reserve. He expressed his gratitude to the official, whom he recognized as their White Father, for what he had told them and the assurances he had given them for the future. Then the old chief sang in Cree a verse of Thanksgiving, after which he made a brief speech. He told his counselors that the occasion was the brightest day in his life, for now he had no fear as to the future of the little band of his noble race surrounding him.

Mr. Graham says that the old brave was very poetic at times, and was most interesting. The Indians on that reserve are the finest specimens of the native race that he has seen; they are free from sickness and have a high standard of morals. Old religious rites are observed and they are truly a happy people. To show how respectful they are with regard to property that is not their own, Inspector Graham related that a short distance from them he came across three big leather trunks that had evidently been abandoned by some old country fellow who had lost his way in the forest. These were just as they were left, all locked and they were packed full of clothing and other goods. The goods had grown up around them, but the Indians had not meddled with them. Mr. Graham believes that the finest band of Indians to be found in the Canadian west today are on the reserve which we have referred to, and which he did not know existed until this summer.

GERMANS WON BALLOON RACE

Greatest Aerial Event in History--Most of Machines were Out Forty Hours--Story Full of Interest

St. Louis, Oct. 23.—The second international balloon contest is over, the cup going to the German navigators of the Pommer, Oscar Erbstor and Professor Clayton, who landed this morning at Ashbury park, 890 miles on an air line from the starting point.

Intense interest in the race was evident throughout the two continents and the result was in doubt up till a late hour this afternoon.

Great sympathy is expressed on all sides for the unfortunate circumstances which compelled Griffith Bromer and Lieut. Claude Brabazon to make a landing in Ohio, only 375 miles from St. Louis. Brabazon showed signs of illness shortly after the start and his condition was such that his companion deemed it advisable to secure medical attendance for him without any unnecessary delay. In spite of the protests of Brabazon, Bromer made the landing, fully realizing at the time that the action meant his losing all chance of winning the cup.

The most interesting part of the race will really come when the various teams debate their journeys. Major Hersey, who landed near Caledonia in Canada, had the following to say regarding the trip. Our flight has been of inestimable value. We passed over Illinois state, Michigan lake, over Ontario, above lake Erie and back again to Caledonia, and were heading for Lake Ontario when it was thought advisable to land.

the operations at various heights and winds diminishing our supply of ballast gas so that it was thought by Mr. Aberholte and myself that it would be too dangerous to try the night ride over the length of Lake Ontario. We had a very pleasant trip, comparatively free from incidents out of the ordinary in a balloon flight, the wind was fairly steady and there was no danger until we found ourselves near Lake Ontario. We had crossed lower Ontario and were blown out over Lake Erie. When we were over the middle of Lake Erie the wind shifted and drove us back over Ontario towards Hamilton. It was growing dark very rapidly and with the increasing wind which, from its direction, we judged was likely to drive us on a lengthwise trip over Lake Ontario, we thought it better to land, especially as our balloon had lost some of its buoyancy, there was practically no difficulty in making the landing. We are both feeling well and as soon as we can get our traps packed we will start for Chicago.

The distances where the competing balloons landed are as follows: (Air line distance) Pommer, German Ashbury Park, New Jersey, 890 miles. Forty-one hours out. Dusseldorf, German, landed near Dover, Delaware, 790 miles, about forty hours out. America, American, landed at Patuxent, Maryland, 790 miles, about forty hours out. St. Louis, American, landed near West Minister, Maryland, 730 miles, thirty-eight hours out. Anjou, French, landed near Arminius Mines, Virginia, 675 miles, about forty hours out. Abercon, German, landed at Manassas, Virginia, about 800 miles, thirty-nine hours out. United States, American, landed near Hamilton, Ont., 655 miles, in the air twenty-five hours. L'Isle D'France, French, landed near Sandy Hook.

GOVERNMENT TO RESCUE

Financial Crisis in States Relieved by National Funds--Rockefeller Puts Up Small Sum of Ten Millions

Pittsburg, Oct. 24.—The financial situation here improved steadily today. A government deposit of five million dollars placed in the local banks as a precautionary measure materially aided in restoring confidence in all quarters. The clearing house announced that none of the banks had requested assistance. The employees of the Westinghouse Co. were assured today by the receivers that there would be no suspension of operations, and the semi-monthly wages were paid promptly. Taken as a whole, conditions here are spoken of as being brighter and more substantial than during the past week.

New York, Oct. 24.—The Trust Co. of America continued to pay all demands up to the close of the banking day at 3 p.m. John D. Rockefeller deposited ten million dollars with one of the city's oldest trust companies to be used in extending aid to such trust companies as might require it as the result of the stringency in the money market.

The failure of three small banks had but small effect on the situation. The New York, Harlem and Bronx are in an uproar today. Depositors have been flocking to the various banks and drawing out their funds.

The closing of the Hamilton and Twelfth Ward banks was a severe blow to business men who have running accounts in them, and it is feared that several mercantile establishments will be in difficulties as a result.

The run on the Trust Co. of America continued unchecked, depositors being paid off at the rate of one per cent. The clearing house committee is in permanent session to consider applications for aid that may be made.

New York, Oct. 24.—Efforts of Edward R. Thomas, of the Hamilton bank last Sunday, came too late to save the institution from a run that compelled the officers to close its doors today.

Heroic efforts had been made to get cash to meet the run during the last few days.

These attempts resulted in the selling of some of the securities at a tremendous sacrifice. The suspension of the bank, which has five branches in Harlem and the Bronx, may be only temporary. Not only did the officers insist that it will be perfectly solvent today, the state banking department which took charge, also made a similar statement.

Suspends for Thirty Days. New York, Oct. 24.—The first savings bank in this city to take advantage of the law and requires depositors to give notice of withdrawals, was the Empire City savings bank. Depositors who reached the bank today with their pass books found this notice on the door: "This bank has suspended payment for thirty days on account of heavy withdrawals of depositors."

The notice was posted up on the direction of President Isaac A. Hopper, who decided it was the wisest thing to do under the circumstances. "The bank is perfectly solvent," said President Hopper to a reporter. "We are simply doing this as a precautionary measure on account of the present conditions."

CAPITALISTIC INTEREST

Seek to Encourage Race Suicide by Offering Inducements to Girls to Remain at Loll-Mo-e, First, The Nation Last.

Is the percentage of marriages in the Fox River Valley, Wis., to be lessened through the influence of the wealthy paper manufacturers? It has often been asserted that the paper makers discourage their young women employees' intent upon matrimony, but the first direct evidence of this came recently when S. R. Wages, superintendent of the Fox River paper mill, raised the wages of the cutter and finishing girls with the stipulation that they stay single. Fourteen girls employed in cutting paper struck and the wages they requested were granted. Following this action Mr. Wages called the ten finishers to his office, informed them that their pay was increased fifteen cents a day, and that their hours would not be lengthened.

"Girls," said Mr. Wages, "you have all been faithful employees, and I want to show you I appreciate it. Now I like the work you are doing and I have increased your pay. You can make enough to be independent and can care for yourselves better than many men can care for you. Just when you are able to count and finish well I don't like to see you go and get married, so I hope as long as we make it an object for you to work here, you will be tempted to undertake married life."—Labor Tribune.

Another way to encourage race suicide.

A BREAK IN GOOD LUCK

Small Wreck on C.N.R. Line near Chamberlain—Show Company in the Mix-up—Supt. Abbot brings Relief

The first wheel off the north line since spring occurred three miles this side of Chamberlain on Thursday afternoon at 4:15 when an extra freight bringing a show company from the north left the rails owing to a defective wheel. Three cars including the passenger coach and the caboose plowed into the centre of the track tearing up about a hundred yards and spreading the rails badly. There was no one hurt, but the southbound passenger train was delayed, and the show company billed for Regina that evening could not keep their engagement.

Supt. Abbot was south when he was notified of the accident and he hurried to the scene with the only passenger coach available. He gathered up all the section men along the line.

On reaching the wreck the show company and the passengers of the regular train were transferred and stowed into the coach which he took north. The people looked like sardines, but they reached Regina without further mishap.

The people on the passenger train were run back to Chamberlain for supper, but the show company stayed with their detailed car and the only refreshments they got was fresh milk. In one of the wrecked cars were settlers' effects, a farmer being bound from Davidson back to South Dakota. He had two cows with him and when night came he milked, and gave the nourishing fluid to the belated troupe.

Supt. Abbot stayed with the wrecked train till everything was cleaned up, which was accomplished in time for the passenger train to reach Regina and leave again the next afternoon.

THE CABLE HAS A JUBILEE

Fifty Years Since Telegraph Cable Was Laid--What the Great Triumph Has Done for Commerce

In addition to its being the centenary of the ocean steamship, which the voyage of the Lusitania appropriately marked, the present year is also memorable as the jubilee of the submarine cable as the world knows it today. At the present time with 250,000 miles of telegraph cable submerged beneath the seas and connecting every civilized region of our globe, as well as such remote outposts as Iceland and Polynesia, it seems difficult to credit that half a century ago the submerged electric wire was unknown as a factor in international intercourse. Prior to 1857 some short lengths of cable had been laid in shallow water and with indifferent results, but then enterprising scientists and captains of industry attempted the herculean task of linking together the two continents by this novel and to many awesome method.

They chose, for their initial experiment, to connect Newfoundland with Cape Breton, then the end of the land line system of the United States and Canada. This was a stretch of one hundred miles, and a sufficient quantity of cable was manufactured for the purpose. A first trial was made in 1856, to lay this cable, but a sailing craft being employed, she became in danger of foundering in a storm that beset her while so engaged and the cable had to be cut to save her. Then a steamer was taken and by her aid the cable was laid in 1857, since which time, almost without interruption, the island of Newfoundland has been in telegraphic communication with the American continent.

Incidentally, this proved that a submarine cable across the Atlantic was possible, and this was then resolved upon. Cyrus Field, an American capitalist, and Charles Bright, a British electrician, were the projectors of this remarkable enterprise, while Professor Morse, the inventor of the electric telegraph, and Lieut. Maury, the famous hydrographer, both among the leading American scientists of that period, assisted with their expert knowledge, the result was that after a series of cruel disappointments the mighty undertaking was carried to a successful issue, and the world provided with one of the most beneficently revolutionizing projects of any age or clime.

An Orphan, without Home or Means
DR. A. E. HANNA, PERTH: I have a patient here, a young fellow in whom I am greatly interested. He has tuberculosis. He is a poor young fellow, an orphan, out of home, without any means. If we sent him up would you take him in and do the best you can for him? I know how difficult it is to accommodate all who require treatment, but this is a special case.

It is always encouraging to have a letter from friends who kindly contribute. For the convenience of those who have not time to write, the following blank may be used.

"DO IT NOW"

Is a business motto of this strenuous age that applies with tremendous force when it is a good act you should do.

"A child's kiss set on thy sighing lips shall make thee glad."
"A sick man helped by thee shall make thee strong."
"Thou shalt be served thyself in every sense of service which thou renderest."

"DO IT NOW"

At the concert held in the Methodist church last Thursday evening, Harold Jarvis again proved himself a favorite. His rendering of "The death of Nelson" as an encore was particularly appreciated, each verse being heartily encored. Two anthems were well rendered by the choir, although the tone was noticeably poor. It was rather unfortunate that Mrs. Sharon should have been selected to sing the duet "Love Divine" with Harold Jarvis, and this item could with advantage have been omitted from the program.
