CHAPTER X. (Continued.)

"Ah, as it is," she broke in eagerly, laying her clasped hands on his arm. "As it is, you will be silent, mon ami! Is it not so? You will not betray me? I am Lucille Valdin, Mademoiselle Natalie's governess, and you know nothing. Is not that—as it is?" There was a sudden change in Yorke's lowering face. He flushed a deep red, turned pale, and flung off mademoiselle's hands almost as tho' they had stung him, as he turned away from her. Then he seemed to recover himself, and turned back. "Well," he said, uttering each word slowly, "yes, I'll agree so far; so long as nothing is done, so long as no questions are asked me, I'll know nothing. I'll pledge myself to so much, and no more."

Delicious "Syrup of Figs" Removes All Sour Bile, Gas, Headache, Constipation.

All those days when you feel miserable, headachy, bilious and dull are due to torpid liver and sluggish bowels. The days when your stomach is sour and full of gas, when you have indigestion; the nights when your nerves twitch and you are restless and can't sleep could be avoided with a teaspoonful of delicious Syrup of Figs. Isn't it foolish to be distressed when there is such a pleasant way to overcome it? Give your inactive liver and ten yards of waste-clogged bowels a thorough cleansing this time. Put an end to constipation. Take a teaspoonful of Syrup of Figs to-night, sure, and just see for yourself by morning, how gently but thoroughly all the sour bile, undigested fermenting food and clogged up waste matter is moved on and out of your system—no nausea—no griping—no weakness. You simply can't have your liver inactive and your thirty feet of bowels constipated with sour, decaying waste matter and feel well. The need of a laxative is a natural need, but with delicious Syrup of Figs you are not drugging yourself. Being composed entirely of luscious figs, senna and aromatics it can not injure. Ask your druggist for the full name, "Syrup of Figs and Elixir of Senna." Refuse, with scorn, any of the so-called Fig Syrup imitations. They are meant to deceive you. Look on the label. The genuine, old reliable, bears the name, California Fig Syrup Company.

so near that the leaves touched my face, there arose an odd crackling and rustling, followed by a sound as though some one were trying to move away stealthily among the thick undergrowth. My heart seemed to jump into my mouth, and I felt an unpleasantly chilly sensation down my back. Then, with a sudden idea, I parted the bushes, and put down my hand, feeling among the soft crushed autumn leaves. I withdrew it feeling chillier yet, and for a moment stared blankly at the Lady's Chapel, looking like a little fairy erection as the moon, which had been obscured by a heavy cloud, shone out upon it again. The dead leaves were warm, and shaped by the form which had been crouching among them. There had been a witness besides myself of that secret interview in the Lady's Walk!

CHAPTER XI.

"Why, my goodness, Ned, you look awfully seedy, do you know?" cried Nat. She was rather fond of giving vent to this and similar expressions, a habit for which madame always avowed that I was responsible; and that was her greeting when I entered the breakfast-room the next morning. It had turned chilly in the night, and she was kneeling on the rug with her hands stretched out to the fire. It was early yet, and no one else was down. "Seedy?" I echoed, surveying my gloomy-looking visage rather consciously in the pier-glass. "Do I?" "Worse than that, you wicked boy! I believe you have been smoking half the night. You don't look as though you had a bit of sleep." Natalie affirmed, looking at me with a pair of ery inquisitive bright eyes. In truth, I wished heartily that they were not so bright, as I made her some evasive answer and turned aside to the window. She was right enough about my looking queer—I did look so, and I felt worse. The business of the previous night had banished sleep, and sent me down to breakfast feeling uncommonly perplexed. I did not know what to do, or what I ought to do. If I spoke to madame, I knew, I had a notion that I should do well to hold my tongue, since I certainly could not use it intelligibly without involving Roger Yorke. That was the consideration which kept me silent. Certainly, if I had caught anybody else in Whittlesford holding a nocturnal interview of a mysterious character, with Natalie Orme's governess, I should have spoken out quickly enough, regardless of consequences. But this was a different sort of thing. I did not care a straw about mademoiselle one way or the other, at I certainly did not chose to get rid of Roger into a scrape if I knew it. I was awfully upset to think that I should have a secret from me; but I did not mean to split it on him—not exactly; that sort of thing did not suit the Chavasse blood by any means. The conclusion I finally came to was that if I spoke at all about that interview in the Lady's Walk, it must be to Yorke himself. It would turn out madame's nest, as sure as fate, I thought, trying to make light of the matter as I stood there gloomily looking out; but I wished with all my heart that Mlle. Valdin had never caught her ill-omened black eyes to fount Chavasse.

Moir's Chocolates have an individuality that is unmistakable. We select the cocoa beans—roast, husk and clean them—add the cocoa butter and cane sugar—and flavor with vanilla beans. The WHOLE is then put through a grinding process for hours, which refines every particle and renders our chocolate coating absolutely smooth, giving it that individual delicious flavor. The chocolate is then applied to the many varieties of centers—packed in attractive boxes and offered to you as the finest chocolates on the market.

eleven, and I put on my hat and strolled off dejectedly to take my usual dismal dose of the Rev. Titus Poinsett's wisdom. Perhaps mathematics and melancholy do not go well together; for, when the infliction was over, I turned out into the sunny High Street again—the Reverend Titus had rooms over Bover's saddler's—not at all improved in spirits. I stood for a moment or two looking about me idly, and wondering what I should do next. It was of no use to go back to Chavasse—luncheon would not be due for another hour and a half, and I knew that Nat would not be free until then; it was useless going to the rectory, for a message had come in the course of the morning to the effect that Mrs. Deeping was worse than usual, and I knew that Alice would be in close attendance upon her. With a sudden resolution, I decided to hunt up Yorke. I do not think I had any definite idea of broaching the subject which was filling my mind myself; but I did feel pretty sure that, if I could only get hold of Roger quietly by himself, he would tell me of his own accord, and so prove my mare's-nest theory the right one. It wanted half an hour to the time when he usually started on his rounds, so I should be able to catch him.

Evening Telegram Fashion Plates.

The Home Dressmaker should keep a Catalogue Scrap Book of our Pattern Cuts. These will be found very useful to refer to from time to time.

9483-9400.—LADIES' EVENING OR DINNER GOWN.

Satin charmeuse in a beautiful shade of old rose veiled with white chiffon and embroidered in pastel shades, was used for this design. It is composed of Ladies' Three Piece Skirt, Pattern 9400, cut in 5 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure, and Ladies' Waist Pattern, 9483, cut in 5 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust measure. The fullness of the waist is arranged in deep tucks and the rounded yoke outline is especially graceful and attractive. The draped tunic, shows one of the latest style features. The skirt may be finished in round length or sweep. It will require 14 yards of 27 inch material to make the entire gown for a medium size. This illustration calls for TWO separate patterns which will be mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. FOR EACH pattern, in silver or stamps.

A VERY ATTRACTIVE DESIGN.

Blue velvet, with self covered buttons, or taupe broad cloth with simple stitching for a finish, would be suitable for this design, which is also appropriate for voile, cashmere, taffeta, charmeuse, panama or serge. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes: 22, 24, 26, 28 and 30 inches waist measure. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 44 inch material for a 24 inch size. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 10c. in silver or stamps.

YOUNG WIFE SAVED FROM HOSPITAL

Tells How Sick She Was And What Saved Her From An Operation.

Upper Sandusky, Ohio.—"Three years ago I was married and went to house-keeping. I was not feeling well and could hardly drag myself along. I had such tired feelings, my back ached, I had bladder trouble awfully bad, and I could not eat or sleep. I had headaches, too, and became almost a nervous wreck. My doctor told me to go to a hospital. I did not like that idea very well, so when I saw your advertisement in a paper, I wrote to you for advice, and have done as you told me. I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills, and now I have my health. "If sick and ailing women would only know enough to take your medicine, they would get relief."—Mrs. BENJ. H. STANSBERRY, Route 6, Box 18, Upper Sandusky, Ohio. If you have mysterious pains, irregularity, headache, extreme nervousness, inflammation, ulceration or displacement, don't wait too long, but try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound now. For thirty years Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has been the standard remedy for female ills, and such unquestionable testimony as the above proves the value of this famous remedy and should give every one confidence.

Psoriasis All Over Body

Doctors Said Incurable, But Now There is No Sign of Disease, Thanks to Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Mrs. N. Massey. Psoriasis is one of the most dreaded of itching skin diseases. It is a sort of chronic eczema. The itching it causes is almost beyond human endurance, and doctors are accustomed to give it up as incurable. But here is a case that was given up and pronounced incurable. The result proves that Dr. Chase's Ointment almost always cures it in the worst form of itching skin disease imaginable. Mrs. Nettie Massey, Consecoon, Ont., writes:—"For five years I suffered with what three doctors called psoriasis. They could not help me, and one of them told me if anyone offered to guarantee a cure for $50.00 to keep my money, as I could not be cured. The disease spread all over me, even on my face and head, and the itching and burning was hard to bear. I used eight boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment, and I am glad to say I am entirely cured, not a sign of a sore to be seen. I can hardly praise this ointment enough. The soothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment is truly wonderful. Eczema, salt rheum, barber's itch, ringworm and scores of such torturing ailments are relieved at once and as certainly cured if the Ointment is used persistently. Mothers find Dr. Chase's Ointment invaluable in preventing and curing the skin troubles of babies, such as chafing, irritations of the skin and baby eczema. Dr. Chase's Ointment. 60 cents a box. The Edge of Cultivation.
By RUTH CAMERON.

"It's the edge of cultivation, Ain't no use in going farther,"—Kipling.
"We wise y' speaking t' h' e other 'day about a queer little railroad built and run in a very peculiar manner."
"When the road was started forty years ago," said a man of sixty, "everyone said it would n' e' r come to anything, because it defied all the established precedents of railroad building." To-day that defiant little railroad is the best railroad proposition within a radius of several hundred miles.

There is no edge of cultivation. Every century has been taught that lesson. None has learned it. What would the men of the eighteenth century have said if some one had told them that it was possible to harness steam and make carriages go a hundred miles an hour? What would the men of the nineteenth century have said if someone had told them that men would learn to fly? What DID they say? Witness the humorous poem of Darius Greene. Or better still, ask Wilbur Wright.

And still the lesson is not learned. The men and women of the twentieth century have come to accept the wonders of steam and electricity and the flying machine as commonplaces, but if you should prophesy some new and startling possibility—say the medical miracle of limb grafting—there would be plenty of folks as certain as their predecessors that they also had reached the edge of cultivation. There is no edge of cultivation in all the world. The world is round, not flat and therefore you cannot come to any edges. You may come back to familiar country if you travel far enough, but you cannot come to any edges because there aren't any.

"It's the edge of cultivation," is the natural proverb of age. Youth knows better. Age is always telling youth that this or that cannot be done and youth is always doing it. And then alas, youth itself passes on and says to another generation about other matters, "It's the edge of cultivation."

"It's the edge of cultivation," is the word of the mediocre man. The big man knows nothing so well as that there are no edges. He recognizes that there may be limits to his ability, but there are none to the world's possibilities.

There is a certain make of candy recently put on the market which is infinitely superior to all similar candies. If you had told the manufacturers of the old product that it was possible to make anything so much better than their product they would have said, "Nonsense. We know all there is to know about this subject and we are getting out the best thing possible." In other words, we've reached the edge of cultivation.

But they hadn't, for the other fellow went far beyond, and some day some one will probably go beyond him.

There is no edge of cultivation. Don't believe anyone who tells you there is. There's always a use in going farther for the man who has the grit to do it.

And who knows but that you are that man—or woman?

NATURE'S ESSENCE. —-Extracted From Forest Plants.

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, for the forest there are mysteries here that we can fathom for you. Take the bark of the wild-cherry tree, the root of mandarin orange, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal, make a scientific, non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.

It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alternative of the Greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of PUBLIC APPROVAL and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People, I commenced to doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with any good—in fact, most of the most famous medical men of the West. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets, however, cured me. I feel better than I have done for years."

Her Letter.

There are a few immortal letters. Horace and Virgil wrote upon waxen tablets that will buty the pillars of the Pantheon. The quills of Maimonides and Talleyrand will keep ajar the doors of royal France for generations to be. So long as ink shall mark the pathways to Yesterday, the gracious sentences of Chesterfield will guide us into England's brilliant pump rooms and lead us back to Mayfair in its stately prime.

In such illustrious company the humble lines that lie upon my desk have little place. And yet they seem to me, in their simple piteousness, the saddest words that grief and heart-break ever wrote.

It was in May that the letter came. I often picture her laboriously shaping the childish script. Here and there a patiently-shaded capital is blurred, for the lined paper is a leaf from a cheap pencil-tablet.

She asked nothing—signed no name. The postmark held forth a doubtful promise. I sent to the town, but my guarded inquiry developed no clue. I dared not search far, lest should betray the confidence so plainly beseged by her anonymity, and until now her secret has remained inviolate. Where and what she is to-night, God knows, and I pray for the best.

I have met Life in many a hideous mask. I have heard souls go sobbing out to sea and strong men cry in their despair. I have looked upon the naked hearts of women marked for Hell. And once I cursed beside a cot on which a baby tossed—a handsome boy, moulded as nobly as ever mother wrought in love, my fingers aching for a struggle and upon the brute whose burked fist had beat the little face to pulp; but nothing I have ever seen or heard or read, has hurt me quite so much as this.

That morning I had watched a May Queen with her trailing court pass through the streets.

The sky was hung with azure tapestries, and the faint scent of eager grasses, bent with the sweeter strain of spring-decked orchards, crept into the room.

The world was never in a gentler mood. Spring surged in the air—Spring, all-promising!

On every twig the young leaves groped. A flock of sparrows frolicked in the yard, whirling and wheeling and chattering in sheer delight of the day.

Then I read her letter, and all the joy that had been in me, all the vital, happy forces died, and to my last hour every pitiful word of it will be burnt into my memory.

And this is what she wrote:

"Dear Sir,—I enjoy reading your sermons. I am still a young woman, who was betrayed at the age of thirteen, and having a child to support, did not know what to do. I went to work to save my life. If I go to a strange place, 'What's your name and reference?' Society forbids taking your life. Besides, I think that is so cowardly. If I didn't want to live a truly decent, honest life, I wouldn't care so much. The baby is playing with my tablet, and I am trying to write. She is the sweetest little doll on earth." "A Discouraged One."

A Christmas story is upon my desk—the work of days, a thing of polished, hard-won phrases, tinkling with the tintinnabulation of sleigh bells, telling of cracking, fule logs and puffy stockings; bright phrases with tinsel sentences, but tinsel and empty, I fear, as the decking of a rich man's Christmas tree.

Then I thought of this page to be read in two million homes and in the light of that reflection it seemed claptrap, and I wrote this instead, to be a Christmas message—a message in God's own name.

And if it reaches but you alone, little Sister of Sorrow, I shall be content.

Fight on. The world is still a House of Dreams and Justice always beats. The Star shines ever over Bethlehem to guide the Wise Men to the Manger.

If the day comes when such as you

Ostrich Farming.

One of the most important branches of South African farming is the production of ostrich feathers. Indeed, an ostrich farm is one of the best of investments, provided, of course, that the investor has a sound knowledge of the business. There are many methods of farming ostriches, says The Field, but that adapted in the eastern province of Cape Colony is the most interesting and profitable. The birds themselves vary very much in price, a wild bird, with poor feathers, being practically unsaleable at $5, whilst as much as $5,000 has been paid for a cock-bird of a good strain and producing exceptionally fine feathers. This latter sum is most probably paid for the advertisement that the ownership of such a bird affords, and it is quite possible to get a first-class pair of birds for anything between $500 and $1,250.

As the ostrich has such a voracious appetite—a pair of birds requiring as much as fifty acres of veldt—it is unusual nowadays to grow lucerne for fodder where possible. This greatly lessens the amount of land required for an ostrich farm, for it is estimated that one acre of lucerne especially if the birds are not actually kept on it, will support at least three birds the whole year round. Therefore, if a man had 350 acres of ground under lucerne, he should be able to keep 1,000 ostriches, and derive an income varying from $25,000 to $150,000 per annum from them.

Young Woman Arrested.

At 6.30 p.m. yesterday Const. Tucker with Head Peet arrested a young woman who was found on board of a vessel at an uptown wharf, and whose conduct was of a very bad character. The girl, we hear, has been under the notice of the police for some time. It appeared as if she was just beginning to go on the downward grade, and more to save her from this than to punish her she was apprehended, and will no doubt as a result avoid the pitfalls which city life place before the unwary and inexperienced.

First Gaiety Girl Dead.

Her Husband Became Premier of Hawaii.
London, Jan. 7.—Maud Hobson, the first Gaiety Girl, is dead. Her real name was Jeannie Manson. She was an Australian and the niece of John Hollingshead.
She created the title role of the "Gaiety Girl," with which production she toured America. Miss Hobson married Captain Haley of the British Army, with whom she went to Honolulu, where her husband became the Premier of the Hawaiian King Kalakaua, and she was appointed the maid of honor to Queen Liliuokalani. After the death of her husband she re-joined the English stage.

Goble, of the Ethie, will take charge of the Invermore for the present.

Woman Aids Auto Bandits.

She Falls Into Arms of the Chicago Officer About to Stop Them.

Chicago, Jan. 3.—Four automobile bandits in a spectacular robbery smashed in a jeweller's window here to-day and escaped with a tray of diamonds, after a running revolver fight with the police.

The thieves stole a car in front of a downtown business building late in the afternoon, halted in front of a Clark Street Jewellery Store, smashed in the show window with brick's seized a tray of rings and leaped into their stolen automobile.

Policeman Charles Hanson ran up, but at that moment a handsomely dressed woman shrieked and threw herself into his arms. Hanson could not draw his revolver and the men in the automobile sped away as two other policemen opened fire on them, the bandits returning the fire.

One of the robbers was seen to fall into a seat of the machine and is thought to have been wounded. The woman who had appeared to faint recovered as soon as the men had escaped.

Twenty shots were exchanged as the machine gathered speed. The chauffeur manipulated the exhaust so that it poured out a cloud of smoke which aided the men's escape.

Policemen ran after the car and at the next corner commandeered a passing highpowered automobile and ordered its chauffeur to pursue the thieves, but the latter had so good a start that they could not be overtaken.

The bandit's car was stopped later by policeman Charles Sticken in a traffic jam Sticken arrested the chauffeur for speeding, and standing on the running board told him to take the party to a police station.

The chauffeur pretended to obey but later turned into a side street. Sticken protested and received a stab wound over the left eye, a blow on the back of the head and a shot in the leg and was hurled from the car.

The thieves fired several more shots at Sticken as he lay in the street and he fired a number of times at them.

Good descriptions of the men were given by persons who saw them leap from the stolen car where they abandoned it.

If Constipated or Bilious--Cascarets.

No Billowness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gasses, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret to-night will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, general cleansing, too.

STILL MISSING.—No news as to the whereabouts of Lawrence Byrne was received up to press hour to-day, despite the searches of his friends and the police.

Notes of the Long Ago.

L. C. MORRIS.

CHAPTER I.

HAVING for several years past contributed some notes to our local Press in reference to our own domestic history, it has almost become an annual event; and now and then several friends say to me, "When are you going to have some more notes?"

Of course, to get the material for such notes means travel, and not having done much of the latter of late years, it is therefore difficult to procure matter of which one could write. However, although our travels be limited, our memory is not; and there are still a few records which will undoubtedly be of interest to the public, and will at the same time tend to keep alive the history of our forefathers, who by their enterprise and endurance pioneered our fair island home.

In the list of such events as took place a century or a century and a half ago, when Newfoundland really began to be settled, there are all sorts of experiences and adventures and no little risk and suffering; nor is this to be wondered at, when we consider how difficult it must have been at that remote date to get to the New World, and to Newfoundland. The means of transit were varied and far between, and at best it meant isolation for years, as there was no regular traffic, and of course no mail service.

Among the principal ships which conveyed people to our own shores, were those from the West of England, and also some from Ireland, and not a few from Scotland. In addition to these there were the Basque vessels and Portuguese schooners, and ships from the Channel Islands, who were known as Jerseymen. These latter ships came in quite large numbers in the first half of the nineteenth century, and the trade of Jersey has had a great deal to do in the colonization of Newfoundland. Especially was this the case on the Western shore and in the Straits of Belle Isle; for it is an established fact that such important centres of trade as Burin, Jersey H., Rose Blanche, LaPole, Burgeo, Chamel, Newfoundland; Porteau, Macadagus, and Bonne Esperance, Labrador, with many other places now forgotten, were first settled by the enterprising men from the Channel Islands; and though now most of this trade is gone, and the term "Jersey-men" is seldom heard, still the fact remains, that the early development of our Straits and Shore fishery in the places above mentioned, were largely due to the enterprise of the Channel Islanders.

To any who have travelled over these places during the last ten or twenty years, and have noted its old Jersey firms (or what is left of them) it must be evident that a very large business was carried on. But most of the names of these firms are now lost to the trade of the country, and only a few are left as reminders of what has been. Among these may be mentioned DeGruchy, LeSelleur, LeMoine, LeMessurier, LeMarquand LeBertau; also Clement, Paul, Penel, Payne, Genge and McDermott; DeGrouchy, LeGrish, Messervey, LeMont, LeDrew and LeGrow.

Of course there are other names as we have said, which are lost; even some of those are strange to the present generation; but still they played their part in the history of our country; and we sometimes wonder why more prominence has not been given to the ability of those energetic men and able sea-captains, who first came to our shores.

Judge Prowse, in his excellent history, pays tribute to some of these; and he is deserving of great credit for what he has done in this respect. His writings in general reveal to us our own country, and have told us a tale of her commercial struggles; but in these articles which I am about to write, the story of our more domestic life will be recorded; and the tale we tell will not be so much of commercial as of industrial struggle; not so much of colonization, perhaps, as of personal daring and aspiration. It will be a story of individuals, most of whom I have met; and who, though they had passed the fourscore years and ten, were very keen in their memories, and of the conditions under which they left their homes, and found their way out to Newfoundland. Some of the stories were told me twenty years ago, others of their forty years ago; so that the facts all date back about a century; and as we have met persons from different countries, we will tell a tale or two from those who came from each place. It will be, of course necessary, to alter in some degree, the phraseology of our heroes, but in the main—each story is true.

Acknowledgement.

The relatives of the late John W. Green, who disappeared from his home on the second day of September last, wish to acknowledge and express their sincere thanks to the officers and members of the different Brigades and to all who helped in the search for him. Although failing to discover his whereabouts, their efforts are none the less appreciated. The Messrs. Macpherson and employees of the Royal Stores, Ltd., no words can express their deep feelings of gratitude, the kind words of sympathy, the most beautiful wreaths, and the closing of their business so as to enable all his fellow workers to attend his funeral, will ever be remembered by the father, brothers and sisters of the deceased. They also wish to thank other kind friends for their expressions of sympathy in this their sad hour of bereavement.—adv.11

Tridium Conclud.

The Tridium for the Holy Name Societies of the Cathedral and St. Patrick's Churches came to a conclusion last night and both edifices held large numbers of men and boys. At the Cathedral over 200 new members—adults and juveniles—were enrolled and a large number at St. Patrick's also. Rev. Father O'Callaghan preached another impressive sermon and afterwards imparted Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament. The members will receive Holy Communion on Sunday morning and in the afternoon will parade to St. Patrick's Church where His Grace Archbishop Howley will preach.

Stead's Plea for Church Picture Galleries

Instead of Closing up Picture Shows on Sunday the Great Publicist Urged that they be Operated Under Church Auspices.

The British Review of Reviews prints an article by the late W. T. Stead in which he advocates Sunday Cinema shows under the auspices of the churches. In these he saw a possibility of enormously enlarging the sphere of religious activity and an educational and moral development of the very highest importance.

Taken at its worst, says Mr. Stead, the Cinema provides millions of men, women and children with a means of spending their leisure hours more pleasantly than they used to do ten years ago, with less incitement to extravagance and to vice than either the public house or the music-hall. The Cinema may be, and often is, a temptation to spend time pleasantly which ought to be devoted to study or to social service; but, as all police authorities attest, it has diminished drunkenness and immensely facilitated maintenance of law and order in the streets. The chief fault that can be found with the Cinema is that it is too stimulating. The rapid and constant succession of moving pictures leaves no time for reflection. You see life as from the window of an express train. You have not even opportunity to recollect the impressions of the scene. The Cinema public is like a child whose only literature is picture books; it is apt to be satisfied with looking at the pictures and never learns to read. The approach to the mind is solely through eye-gate; the approach by ear-gate is entirely neglected. The Cinema challenges but does not fix attention. It excites wonder; it does not allow time for reflection. "It is an eye-pleasing, mind-tickling, time-wasting thing," say its critics. To which I reply: Maybe so, maybe not; but it draws. Is it not possible to utilize what there is good in it, and to leave out what there is bad in it, so as to make the Cinema useful for instructing, inspiring and saving the people?

Instead of shutting up the Cinemas on Sunday, let them enter in and take possession of the vast field which the Cinema public offers them. In brief, what I propose is that there should be instituted at once a National Cinema Sunday Mission for the utilization of the closed Cinema palaces for ethical, educational and evangelical purposes. What scheme of Church Extension can for a moment be compared with this opportunity of suddenly exploiting in the service of religion 4,000 buildings, situated in the very heart of our densest population, which are the favorite assembling places of four millions of our people? It is not a case where we have to hunt for sites. Cleverer and smarter men than we have selected them already. The buildings are already erected. Their week-day congregations amount to millions. We have only to open the Cinemas on Sunday with the right kind of pictures presented as parts of an ethical, educational and evangelical service to reach millions who at present never "darken the doors of the house of the Lord." Is it not an almost inconceivable scandal that an opportunity so great should be offered for our acceptance, and that no one from Land's End to John o' Groat's, seems to realize what might be done if the Churches ran the Cinemas on Sunday as part of their regular machinery for reaching and rousing the people?

There are one or two indispensable conditions to be borne in mind before we consider the practical possibilities of a Cinema Sunday Mission. The Cinema should be used, not for the desecration of Sunday, but for its preservation. That entails two things—first, that the Cinema Sunday Mission Services should never be permitted for purposes of commercial or financial gain. Whatever balance, if any, resulting from Sunday Cinema shows should be handed over to some recognized local public, religious or charitable use; secondly, while it may be as necessary and as unobjectionable to hire an operator as it is now to hire an organist, no operator already employed for six days a week should be allowed to work on the seventh day; and thirdly, instead of charging so much for admission, as is done on week-days, admission should be given only to those who had bought the Cinema Sunday Program, which would contain, for the information of the folks at home and the refreshment of the memory of the spectator, a popularly written description of the pictures on show. By this means there would be secured the regular distribution of interesting reading matter to a wider public than is reached to-day by any Religious Tract Society, or Society for Promoting Christian Knowledge.

The Sunday Mission being thus financially possible, it is easy to see that a strong and vigorous Church might find it possible to relieve the financial strain upon its poor fund by a subsidy from the Cinema takings. The next question is, whether it would be possible for the Sunday Mission to run as popular, as drawing, as fetching a show as that provided on the week-day for the Cinema crowd. Let us admit at once that there are many of those who go to Cinema shows whom we could not hope to attract by anything we could serve up in the proposed Mission. Comic tomfoolery attracts many, and pictures of crime or of conjugal discord would be ruled out. Those who go to Cinemas solely as they buy a penny dreadful would not attend the Mission. But then, if we allow that they compose the Cinema crowd, there would still remain the other half who would enjoy any show that had plenty of pictures, even if the merely fantastic and sensational films were excluded. There is also, he it remembered, a very large public which at present goes regularly neither to church nor to Cinema shows. It is not anti-Christian or irreligious. It would enjoy a good hearty religious service devoid of churchness—we see this in the Wesleyan Mission halls—and it would relish pictures which were seen to be remembered, instead of being shown only to kill the time.

Dark Days.

There's nothing doing at the park, the bleachers all are bare, the grandstand's empty, cold and dark, no fans are yelling there. Where are the lads, the gifted lads, who lately played the game, and there-by gathered in the scads, and wreathed themselves with fame? Where are the men who brought distress to foes, and won the goal? Ah, some are writing for the press their dreary rignarole; which rignarole, all full of "I's," gives mankind clammy thrills; the baseball lads, if they are wise, would throw away their quills. And some are doing monologues upon the weary stage; attired in circus actors' togs, they earn their winter wage; their monologues are full of "I's," and also full of "me's"; and hearers say, with heartfelt sighs, that something smells of cheese. And some are wrangling loud and long, with energy and fire; one says that 't'other did him wrong, and 't'other calls him lyre. And thus themselves they advertise, as busily as bees, with endless jags of big fat "I's" and wag-loads of "me's." Oh, I'll be glad when spring is here, for then the players all will quit their capers strange and queer, and play the game of ball.

A Portrait!

A Portrait to be properly finished and give satisfaction demands the utmost skill of the photographer. Many photographers delight in exaggerating the image, which, when finished, is not a true portrait.

A Portrait must show the person as he or she truly is, without any artificial means of beauty, free from skin blemishes, with the exception of birth-marks or scars.

We photograph the person truly and retouch in the most approved and up-to-date way. No order too small or too large for our every attention.

Call in and we will be only too glad to show you everything—show you photos of people of whom you know.

We are specialists in child photography. Send the children along.

Photos from Stamps and Buttons up to 12 by 14 inches; all sizes, styles and finishes.

Just a Word or Two of Advice to Business Men

UNIVERSAL OZONATOR

For Air Purification in Banks, Restaurants,
Cafes, Billiard Halls,
Bowling Alleys, Etc.

The Universal Ozonator produces about 4000 cubic feet of ozonized air per hour. A motor-driven blower draws fresh air into the ozone generating units and expels the ozonized air into the room. As the ozone diffuses very rapidly, this feature assures a wide distribution of the ozone. The two-point switch produces means for varying the amount of ozone. For deodorizing purposes the ozonator will be found invaluable.

Sterilize and deodorize all rooms or halls where human beings live or congregate, as:

- Offices
- Banks
- Theatres
- Churches
- Schools
- Cafes
- Hotels
- Clubs
- Bowling Alleys
- Turkish Baths
- Steamships
- Factories
- Restaurants

To remove odors in:

- Storage rooms
- Steamship holds
- Subways
- Basements
- Kitchens
- Tunnels
- Vaults
- Cellars
- Lavatories

To destroy odors of:

- Tobacco smoke.
- Sewer gases.
- Manufacturing processes
- Decaying fruits, meats and fish.

Why "Paisley Flour" marks an advance in home baking.

It eliminates the time and trouble taken when using yeast.

Takes away the uncertainty of ordinary baking powder.

It is always fresh and pure, and retains its raising power very much longer than self-raising flour and cake mixtures.

It gives improved results in lightness, fineness and digestibility.

"Paisley Flour"

The SURE raising powder.

—is mixed one part to eight of ordinary flour.

"Paisley Flour" is packed in 22c., 14c. and 5c. tins. The 22c. tin contains 14 ozs. and will raise half a stone of flour, the 14c. tin contains 7 ozs. and will raise 3/4 pounds of flour, the 5c. tin contains 2 ozs. and will raise 1 pound of flour.
