THE HEIR OF Lancewood

CHAPTER XXIX.

"I should like to see it," she said musingly.
 His face flushed under her simple, unconscious gaze.
 "I hope you will some day. You will admire it."
 "Have you seen Lancewood?" she asked.
 "Yes—that is, I have seen the towers and turrets of the Abbey from between the trees. Miss Neslie, will you let me speak to you as a friend—as an old friend? Try to imagine that we have known each other for many long years—that we are trusted, true, loyal friends."

"I can easily imagine it; it is not difficult with you," she replied, dreamily.

"Then let me talk to you. In common with every one else, I hear unpleasant stories about Lancewood—are they true?"

"I will tell you just how much is true," she replied; and she told him exactly what had happened—how the place was crowded with strange French visitors, people whom her father would not have admitted.

"And you can do nothing to put an end to it?" he said.

"No, my interference makes it worse; that is the sorrow of my life," she said—"the sorrow that takes the brightness from my days, the sleep from my nights—the sorrow that seems to hang over me and hide all hope from me. To see degraded the home that I have loved with such passionate love, to imagine the shameful future of a race that has never known dishonor—this has produced a sorrow for which there is no cure."

"I feel keenly for you," he said, gently.

"No one knows what I suffer," she observed. "If I could save Lancewood by sacrificing my life, I would do so. I would do anything to restore it and make it what it was in my father's time."

"But these friends of Lady Neslie—who are they?" he asked.

"I cannot tell you. There are two or three military men—French captains, who play at billiards and drink cognac all day. The ladies—well, they are quite unlike any other ladies I have seen; they quarrel a great deal amongst themselves, but in one thing they all unite—in flattery and praise of Lady Neslie."

"Why do you not leave the place?" he said. "It must be very uncomfortable for you?"

"It is uncomfortable," she replied; "but I cannot leave it, Lord St. Just, because my father confided the honor of his house to my hands." And then she told him of the will.

"If your father uttered such words as those, he must have had doubts about his wife," said Lord St. Just.

"I often fancied that he had, but he was too true a gentleman to breathe them. I am like one chained to a rock; I long to get away, yet I know my duty lies there."

"And the boy who is to inherit Lancewood, what is he like?" asked Lord St. Just. "How old is he?"

"He is nearly six—very clever, but wanting in truth and honesty. Hard discipline, good training, might have prepared him to be a good man; as it is, he is simply ruined. His mother considers his wickedness cleverness. Heaven help Lancewood when it falls to him!"

"It is a sad story," said Lord St. Just, thoughtfully; "the ruin and decay of many an ancient house could be traced to a foolish marriage, I believe. I wish I could think of some way to help you, Miss Neslie."

She raised her beautiful face to his, and he was struck by its expression of patient devotion.

"I see no way in which I can be helped; my only hope lies in patient endurance."

"But," he said, gravely, "you do not surely intend spending the whole of your life in a place and in society that must be hateful to you?"

"I must obey my father. He wished me to remain at Lancewood until Oswald was of age. Only Heaven knows what would become of the house if I left it."

"But you may marry, Miss Neslie," he said, with a flush on his face.

"No," she replied, gravely. "I never shall—I could not; because I could not leave Lancewood—and I have never thought of marrying."

"How is that?" he asked, amused at her simplicity.

"Before my father died all my love and all my thoughts were given to him and to Lancewood. Since he died I have done nothing but grieve over it."

"I see. You have had no time for thoughts of aught else?"

There was not the least consciousness in her face as she answered—

"No, I have had neither time nor inclination. See, Lord St. Just—the shadow of the trees is falling over us—the sun is setting—we must go."

He walked by her side through the Park. They trampled the wild flowers under their feet; they stopped to listen to the low song of the birds; they talked of the setting sun and the distant hills, of the wheat-sheaves, and the bloom in the hedges; they admired the same views; they often gave expression to the same thoughts; yet, while Adrian St. Just vowed to himself that he would win the beautiful, imperial dark-eyed woman for his wife, Vivien never dreamed that she was in love.

Lord St. Just made no secret of his devotion; he became Vivien's shadow; every one perceived it long before she herself knew what it meant. She had promised to remain for three weeks at the Park, and she fancied that the new, vague, delicious happiness was the result of peace.

She had been so unselfish all her life; she had thought so much of Lancewood, of her father, of her ancestors, that she had never given her mind to girlish dreams of romance and sentiment. Another girl would have known what this new feeling meant—she did not. She thought Adrian St. Just very kind, very clever; she was thankful to have so true a friend; she knew that she liked to be near him, to listen to his voice, to watch his face; but she did not know that she loved him, came when he knew that life without

CHAPTER XXX.

Vivien was now in the sweetest phase of her love-story. Life was all different—the world was a thousand times more fair. She wondered why the sunshine seemed more golden, and the flowers of brighter hue. What caused the new and beautiful light that had fallen on everything? What was the music always rising from her heart to her lips? Why did the world seem full of strange, sweet melody? She grew more beautiful; the proud expression of her face had given way to one of tenderness, the light in her eyes was softened and sweet, the beautiful lips curved more graciously.

Was this the same dreary world that so lately had seemed to her all sorrow, all darkness? Not that her sorrow had grown less, but that this beautiful light seemed to have absorbed it. The Neslies did nothing by halves—when they loved at all, they loved deeply, truly, and well. Vivien had begun to love unconsciously, and when she awoke to full and complete knowledge of the fact, it was too late for any change.

It was three weeks of love, poetry and romance. There could be no more charming companion than Lord St. Just. He had traveled—he had studied, read, and thought. He had resolved quite early in life that, though fortune had favored him with plenty of money, with a fine estate, an ancient title, he would not on that account fritter his life away. It should not be spent in a round of senseless amusements. It should not be passed in dissipation and folly. He cultivated his mind by reading the choicest books—his intellect by travel and the society of clever men—his taste for art by working hard at it. One thing he had never done—he had never indulged in the idle flirtations that so often lead to ruin and sorrow. He was heart-whole, fancy free. He had a fervent admiration for the sex, but not for any one woman in particular. He had never made love, played at love, or imagined himself in love. The first time his heart or fancy was touched was when he met Vivien Neslie. He carried the memory of her beautiful sorrowing face with him, and that memory was dearer to him than the living presence of any other woman. He thought so much about her that she grew into an ideal love for him.

He resolved to find her out as soon as he returned home. It would not be difficult to discover the whereabouts of the heiress of Lancewood. True, he might find her married—she might even be dead; but, if she were living and well—if she were unmarried and to be won—he would win her.

He remembered that it was with Lady Smeaton she had been staying. He did not have much difficulty in making the acquaintance of the kindly-natured woman, and in securing an invitation to the Park. There he met Vivien again, and there he heard her sorrowful story. His love increased with every moment that he spent in her presence, until the time her would be blank and dreary to him. He had some little hope; but she was so unlike other girls that he could hardly judge whether she loved him or not. She was above all coquetry and affectation, above all little acts of meanness. He saw that her face brightened for him as it did for no other, that her voice took another tone in addressing him, that her eyes had a deeper light when they met his; but in her proud, noble simplicity there was something which half frightened him. She seemed too lofty in her aspirations; the woman who was so ready to lay down her life for the honor of her house could hardly care for love as other women did.

It was a noble love that he had to offer her—noble in its simplicity, its integrity, and purity; it was the one love of his lifetime—he was never to know another. Would she accept or reject it? He was a brave man, but he trembled for the answer to that question. Day by day he said to himself that he must ask it, yet the bright days passed on, their golden calm unbroken. He was so truly happy that he dreaded to interrupt his happiness. He was aroused from his dream by hearing that Miss Neslie would return to Lancewood in two days—her three weeks' visit had drawn to a close. He must wait no longer—back to that wretched home, if he could help it, she would never go.

Dinner was over at Smeaton Park; the visitors, availing themselves of the warm, balmy night, had gone out on to the lawn instead of remaining in the drawing-room. Vivien was standing watching the light fade in the western sky thinking of the dreary lot to which she was returning, when Lord St. Just went to her. From one look at his grave, handsome face Vivien knew by instinct what was coming.

"Miss Neslie," he said, "I have something that I wish to say to you. Will you come away from these people? Come through the rosary."

Without another word he took her hand and laid it on his arm.

"I want you," he said, "away from all the world. Sit here amongst these roses, and let me tell you something."

She sat down, and he knelt amongst the fallen crimson leaves at her feet, clasping her white hands in his. He looked up into the lovely face.

"How am I to speak to you?" he said. "Kneeling here at your feet, you seem as far above me as the darkening skies. How am I to tell you that I love you with all my heart and so pray you to be my wife?"

She did not rise in wonder, nor turn angrily away. She sat perfectly, passively silent. He went on:

"It is the whole love of my life I have to offer you, Vivien. You will let me say 'Vivien'! It is the sweetest of all sweet names. I have never given even one thought to another. I loved you the moment I saw you lying on the grass, my darling, your face white with despair. I loved you through all the months I spent in travel. I love you now more dearly than words of mine can tell. My question, will you accept my love, and give me yours in return?"

She made no answer—there was no movement in the silent figure—he could not read the expression of her face.

"I have longed to make you happy. I have longed to brighten your life. Oh, my darling, give me the power! Let my love brighten the dark clouds that hang over you. You shall know no more trouble, no more sorrow, if you will love me."

She raised her face to his, and he saw that the dark, proud eyes were filled with tears.

"My darling," he cried hastily, "let my love bring you happiness, not sorrow! I see tears in your eyes. I want to save you from sorrow, not to bring it to you. Tell me, will you try to love me?"

THE BALKAN POSITION ACUTE.

 The importance of the Balkan situation is emphasized by the morning papers, which point out particularly that events there may reach a crisis within twenty-four hours. King Charles, of Roumania, called a special meeting of the cabinet at Bucharest yesterday, to meet leaders of all political parties, as well as influential members of the chambers who were summoned. The Serbian Skupstina National assembly will reassemble at Nish to-day to receive a statement from Premier Pachitch on Bulgarian negotiations. Simultaneously the Greek parliament will meet at Athens to oust the present cabinet, with the supporters of former Premier Venizelos as powerful as ever. The analysis of the morning papers point out that Austria meanwhile is gathering troops on the Danube, and that German writers are advocating openly an advance to the Aegean Sea. The Daily News says that Roumania may make a sudden move which will solve the Balkan deadlock. The force of events, the paper says, may cut the knots at which diplomatic fingers have been Drudgery.

By the adoption of modern gas appliances you may abolish drudgery from your home.

GAS COOKERS eliminate the drudgery of lighting fires, the handling of coal and ashes, and enable you to prepare meals in half the time required with old-fashioned appliances.

GAS WATER HEATERS are indispensable in every well-regulated household.

GAS LIGHTING is best for the eyes and the pocket.
THE PERFECTION GAS IRON is a recent addition to labour, time, and money saving appliances. This nickel-plated Gas Iron may be had complete with stand and a length of metallic tubing for the small sum of $3.00, and should be in every household.
 With the "PERFECTION GAS IRON" a whole day's ironing may be done at a cost of five cents, give better results, and do more work in half the usual time. It is always hot and ready, clean and smooth. Send post card, or phone 97, and the Gas Company will send a man to give practical demonstration of any, or all, up-to-date household appliances.

NOTE.—It is important that Gas Cookers and other appliances be kept perfectly clean and free from grease. The "SO-CLEAN" enamel cleanser. It will quickly remove all stains and grease from metal or enamel. 25 cents per packet.—J23,tf

REGENCY FOR TURKEY.
 LONDON, Aug. 16.
 An Athens despatch to the Daily Telegraph says that at a recent meeting of Young Turks, the question of a regency was discussed on the ground that Sultan Mohammed V is far from well, and incapable of attending to the affairs of State. The situation is complicated by the knowledge that Crown Prince Vusud is lukewarm in his attitude towards the war. In the hope of convincing the Crown Prince that all is going well, party leaders recently persuaded him to pay a personal visit to the Dardanelles front.

PLAYING FOR EFFECT.
 ROME, Aug. 16.
 Telegrams from Nish give the impression that the Serbian Government does not look for any serious movement against the country by Austria and Germany in the near future. These advices say that Serbian officials consider the reported concentration by Austrians and Germans at Orsova in Hungary are merely for political effect. By this move, according to the Serbian view, the Teutonic allies hope to impress Roumania, Bulgaria and Greece, and to encourage Turkey to redouble efforts at the Dardanelles.

A VENIZELOS VICTORY.
 ATHENS, Aug. 16.
 The Greek Chamber of Deputies assembled to-day. Mr. Zavitzaus, an adherent of former Premier Venizelos, was elected president. The majority of the Venizelos party, as the result of its victory at the recent general election, was vindicated by the vote. Mr. Zavitzaus received 132 votes as compared with 93 for the candidate of the government.

PAYING HEAVY PRICES.
 PARIS, Aug. 16.
 A delayed despatch by the Havas News Agency filed at Bucharest on Saturday, says that Austrian and German ports along the Roumanian frontier are paying three times the normal prices for wheat, corn, hay, fax, peas, and beans exported from that country. This is the result of heavy export taxes placed upon Roumanian agricultural products on Saturday, following the action of the Government on the previous day in removing the prohibition against the sending of certain food supplies out of the country. The export tax amounts to from $80 to $200 on a carload.

CONSCRIPTION.
 SINGAPORE, Aug. 16.
 The Straits Settlements is the first part of the British Empire to ordain compulsory military service, by a bill passed by the Legislature here on Saturday. All men between the ages of 18 and 55 are ordered for training.

FRENCH OFFICIAL.
 PARIS, Aug. 16.
 The French War Office this afternoon gave out a statement as follows: There was intermittent cannonading last night in the vicinity of Souchez and on the plateau of Nouron, to the north of the River Aisne. There were also engagements with bombs and hand grenades in the section of Quenervieres, and in the western part of the Argonne. In the Vosges the explosion of a mine against an enemy trench located between Burnhaupt and Amarswiller made it possible for us to take some prisoners and to capture two bomb throwers and a machine gun.

FIVE KILLED BY EXPLOSION.
 EMPORUM, Penn., Aug. 16.
 Five were killed at the Gelatine Aetna Explosive Co.'s plant at Grove Run, near here, which was blown to pieces to-day. Two other buildings were badly damaged, and the entire country side shaken. The dead men were the only employees in the buildings, when the explosion occurred.

The company officials said that the cause would probably never be known. The company has been engaged in filling war orders, it was stated.

NORWEGIAN STEAMER SUNK.
 LONDON, Aug. 16.
 The Norwegian steamer Albia, 1,331 tons, was sunk by a submarine. The crew were saved.

SILVIA PANKHURST.
 LONDON, Aug. 16.
 Silvia Pankhurst will not comply with the National Registry regulations, she asserts. I am not going to register, that's all I know about it," declared Miss Pankhurst to-night at a meeting followed by a demonstration of East London Suffragettes. "For my part I think it merely a ruse to get more power out of the workers. I am not a man so they can't take me to the war, but they won't send me to a munitions factory. They know there will be trouble. They pay two shillings eightpence a dozen for soldiers' khaki shirts, and even must fight for better conditions for women."

EMPLOYED AT KRUPP WORKS.
 GENEVA, Aug. 16.
 Official figures show that on June 1st about 5,000 young women were employed at the Krupp works at Essen as compared with 1,329 on January 1st.

BOMBARDED BY SUBMARINES.
 LONDON, Aug. 16.
 The ports of Hartington and Whitby, in Cumberland, England, on the Irish Sea, were bombarded to-night. British official statement to-night has announced some fires were caused but the damage was slight. There were no casualties.

COMMITTS SUICIDE.
 DUBLIN, Aug. 16.
 David Johnston was found dead this morning underneath the window of his house in Lygan, County Armagh, in which for two days he withheld the constabulary. A bullet wound through his eye, and an empty revolver clutched in his hand indicated that he had spent his last cartridge to cheat the police of their booty.

Football Season Closed Last Night.

The final game of the League football schedule for this season closed last evening by the Stars and C. E. L. Fieldians. The Stars won by 7 goals to 3. The high wind prevailing made it unpleasant for both players and onlookers, a very small gathering of the latter being present. The game, however, was considered to be one of the fastest and best for the season. A marked feature was that for the first fifteen minutes of play the C.E.L. Fieldians had matters in their favor, while during the last quarter of an hour of the game the Stars easily outclassed their opponents.

What Are You Doing for that Eczema?

"Nothing; I've about given up trying to cure it."
 "That is not wise. Do as I did and you will probably be cured in a short time." I used Zylex and Zylex Soap with it and my Eczema began to improve at once. A couple of boxes cured. You can get Zylex at your druggist's.

 Pitchers—King, Simms, Carew.
 Catchers—Ford, Clouston.
 1st base—Hiltz.
 2nd base—Wm. Callahan.
 3rd base—Britt.
 Short stop—McLeod.
 Right field—Hartnett.
 Centre field—McGrindle.
 Spares—Ellis, Hocken, Lehr.
 Capt. Montgomery was reappointed manager of the team for this year, and Mr. Arthur Hiltz was chosen as field captain. Mr. F. Chesman was again appointed umpire, and Mr. P. E. Outerbridge will be the only scorer. The Grand Falls team will arrive in the city on Sunday next and the first game will be played on Monday afternoon. It is reported that the Grand Falls representatives are a strong combination and the contest will be looked forward to with much interest.

Foreign Fish Market.

Appended is an extract of a letter received by the Board of Trade from Messrs. Lind & Couto, Oporto:
 "The market has lately received large quantities of fish from Newfoundland and Norway, and stocks are now heavy for this time of year, when demand usually falls."
 "It seems a pity that shippers did not send forward more fish earlier in the year instead of holding it back until this poor season. As a natural result of the accumulation of supplies prices have now commenced to recede, and we think that under selling pressure the decline will continue for the present."

The Balkan Crisis
 The meeting of the Greek Parliament yesterday has been the occasion of a revival of interest in the formation of a new Balkan League. The result of the quarrel was that Serbia and Greece obtained part of the territory Bulgaria wanted, and Turkey was able to recover Adrianople and the province around that city. Bulgaria was naturally disappointed, as she bases her claims on racial affinity. She claims that these lands are occupied for the most part by Bulgars and that all Bulgars should be united under sovereignty. This is the bone of contention between Bulgaria and her rival states. On the other hand, she is at one with them in their historic hatred of Turkey and the desire to free the Bosphorus. Turkey from the last vestige of the 500 years' dominion of the Turks. The Greek King, however, is married to a sister of the German Emperor, and the jealousy of Greece and Bulgaria as to the disputed territory to prevent the re-formation of the League against Turkey. The effect of this German influence has been felt for the past twelve months. A few months ago, the then Greek Premier, M. Venizelos, favoured active intervention on the side of the Allies. The Court party opposed him, not openly in favour of Germany, but rather on the pretext of terms, particularly in regard to Bulgaria. M. Venizelos resigned and obtained an appeal to the electorate. The new Government did not find favour with the electorate, and the Opposition came back twice as strong as the new Government. Using the King's illness as a pretext, the new Government tried at first to keep power and succeeded in postponing the meeting of the new Parliament until yesterday. A trial of strength took place yesterday on the election of the President of the Chamber of Deputies, or on what we should call the Election of Speaker. The Government was badly defeated. M. Zavalinas was elected by 182 votes against 92 for the candidate of the Government. The result of this vote which is tantamount to a vote of want of confidence in the Government is awaited with interest. The question is whether the Government will resign and permit M. Venizelos to form a government, or whether an effort will be made to follow up the tactics of delay which would be in the interest of Germany. It is clear from the German despatch on the Greek crisis that an effort is being made by the German element in Greece to influence King Constantine to keep out of power M. Venizelos, unless he will play the German game of delay by pledging himself to neutrality FOR THE PRESENT.

Allan Line Will Not Be Wiped Out by Merger.
 STATEMENT ISSUED BY C. P. R. TO-DAY. SAYS NAME WILL REMAIN.
 The following statement was issued at 1 o'clock to-day from the offices of the President of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company:
 "Through the new steamship company organized for the purpose of acquiring the Atlantic Pacific fleets of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company, as well as the Allan Line fleet, is the 'Canadian Pacific Ocean Services, Limited,' with head offices in Montreal.
 "Under the arrangement, the Allan Line will not be obliterated, but will be continued under the same name standing in the same relation to the Ocean Services, Limited, as the White Star Lines does to the International Mercantile Marine.
 "Although there have been some changes in the personnel, the firm of H. & A. Allan will continue to be the traffic agents of the Allan Line as heretofore.
 "The new steamship company will deal with all land and water transportation companies with whom it has traffic relations on a like basis and all its patrons will have unlimited freedom.
 "Through the Ocean Services Limited the Allan Line will have financial backing to provide for the enlargement and improvement of its fleet, that it did not have before it established the changed relations that are now going into practical effect. The operations of the new steamship company will not become effective before October 15 or November 1."
 C. P. R. AND ALLAN MERGER.
 London, August 11.—Hugh Allan, chairman of the Allan Line Steamship Company, informed us to-day that with reference to that company's combination with the Canadian Pacific Steamship Company, that as far as the services in which public interests are concerned, these will be conducted as formerly under the management of the Allan Brothers in Great Britain and H. and A. Allan in Canada.—Montreal Star, August 11, 1915.

Prohibition.
 One of the things we need to pray for in connection with the temperance question is deliverance from false logic and crooked reasoning. Our saloon statesmen are masters of this art. The multiplication table in their hands will make two times two anything you like. They can prove by figures that drinking intoxicants is the most wholesome and morally elevating habit a human being has ever contracted, and clinch it with the maxim that "biggers won't." But since liars will "figger," especially saloon liars, we need to be on our guard and look well into the moral character of even the multiplication table when it is in their hands. When you are puzzled about the claims made in the whiskey literature, the constantly flooding the country, write to the Temperance Board of your Church for information, or to the secretary of any temperance organization. In these days when the battle is waxing fierce and hot we need to keep clear minds, for the adversary will leave no stone unturned to lead us astray.—Westminster Adult Bible Class.

CONTEMPORARY OPINION.
 It is said that prohibition would throw many people out of work, and it is true. It would throw out of work thousands of workhouse and prison and asylum officials, and would make busier thousands of people who make bread and boots for little children and shells for our brave troops. The truth is that trade would right itself in an amazing short time under prohibition and our industry would be stronger and cleaner and healthier without this poison for ever sapping its foundations.—The Little Paper.

The welcome and encouraging news that the liquor traffic in the North-West had received a stunning blow was hailed on all sides by our social leaders with delight. There are many different points of view with regard to prohibition. It may or may not be the final word in liquor legislation but a vast number of the men and women employed in fighting the drink traffic with its corroding filth and damning influences have grown tired of the legislation that promises much and gives little, and have turned to prohibition as the Mecca of their desire. This attitude of mind may be opposed to the principle of individual liberty, but the desire and aim of prohibitionists to wipe out a traffic which has proved to be a curse is most commendable. Broken homes, ruined lives, wasted hopes, blasted children, weakened wills, full asylums, crowded jails are some of the results of indulgence in strong liquor. This list is too long and too painfully bitter to pass over in silence. All honor to those who are striving with time and talent to fight this rampant octopus, Alcohol.—Church Life, Toronto.

THE SUBMARINE.
 (From the Record.)
 As an instrument of terror the submarine is a tremendous success. As a means of destroying an enemy's commerce it has so far proved a total failure. The difference between the German and English figures of vessels destroyed may be due to the grousing of trawlers, by the Germans, and their exclusion by the English. If all the trawlers were swept from the sea it would have no appreciable effect upon British resources.

FINDS 'EM EVERY TIME.—A small silver watch lost on Friday evening last, and advertised in yesterday's issue of the Telegram, was returned to its owner last evening. Our advertiser in a note to us this morning is deeply appreciative of the honesty of the little boy Thomas Bennett, of Cuddihy St., who found the lost article. Tommy after finding the watch waited to see an advertisement in the Telegram, "the paper that finds 'em every time."

TUG RAMMED AND SUNK.
VINEYARD HAVEN, To-day.
The tug Lackawanna owned by the Reading Railway was rammed and sunk in South Handkerchief Shoals last night by the barge Naticoke in tow of the tug Triton. The mate and cook of the tug were drowned. Eleven survivors including the chief engineer greatly exhausted after being in the water four hours were brought here by the tug Scramton to-day.

FIFTEEN THOUSAND CANADIANS FOR DARDANELLES.
VANCOUVER, To-day.
Hon. T. Chase Cosgrain announced at a Canadian Club banquet at Vancouver to-day that he had been officially advised by the Minister of Militia, that fifteen thousand Canadian soldiers now in Britain would be sent to the Dardanelles.

NO CASUALTIES FROM BOMBARDMENT.
LONDON, To-day.
The submarine bombardment is the text of a statement as follows: A German submarine had been officially reported on a portion of Harrington and Whitehaven between 4.30 a.m. and 5.20 a.m. to-day, but no material damage was caused. A few shells hit the railway embankment in the north portion, but the train service was only slightly delayed. Fires were caused at Whitehaven and Harrington which were soon extinguished. No casualties are reported. Whitehaven, which lies near the entrance of the Solway Firth, has a population of about 20,000. In the town are numerous factories for manufacture of cordage, sail cloth and other commodities, together with iron and brass foundries and shipyards. Harrington is a small town 5 miles north of Whitehaven, its population being about 4,000. Porton is another small seaport town a mile and a half from Whitehaven.

NOT USING POISONOUS GASES.
PARIS, To-day.
The Ministry of War this evening issued a note saying the published statements that the Germans are using poisonous gases is untrue.

ITALIANS ADVANCING ON THE NORTH.
BRESCIA, Italy, To-day.
The Italian advance East of Condo, thirty miles S.W. of Trent, towards Riva at the head of Lake Garda is being continued, notwithstanding the stormy weather and terrific hailstorms. Reports say the trenches captured by the Italians are full of water in which bodies are floating.

GERMANS DEMAND EXPANSION.
BERLIN, To-day.
Resolutions calling for the extension of German frontiers as a result of the war were adopted by the executive committee of the National Liberty Party, which met yesterday at the Reichstag. The resolutions made the following declaration: "The outcome of the present war can only be peace which by expanding our frontiers East and West and overseas will protect us militarily, politically and economically against new attacks and compensate us for the enormous sacrifices which the German nation has already made and is determined to continue to a victorious conclusion."

GALLANTRY IN THE NAVY.
LONDON, To-day.
A record of deeds of gallantry performed by officers and crew of British ships in the Dardanelles during the bombardment of forts subsequent to the landing of troops is given in a report by Vice-Admiral Robeck. The Admiral devotes the greater part of his report to the officers and men whose work was particularly noteworthy. As a result of the report five Victoria Crosses and numerous other decorations have been awarded.

THE DACIA CONDEMNED.
PARIS, To-day.
The decision of the Prize Court in the case of the former Hamburg American line steamer Dacia which was granted an American registry in January, and seized by a French cruiser in February, while bound with a cotton cargo for Bremen, was made public to-day. The court finds the transfer "tainted with fraud" and orders the steamer to be seized as a prize.

LONDON BUDGET.
LONDON, To-day.
The left wing of the Bavarian army under Prince Leopold fought its way across the Bug River near Drohiczyn which lies East Sokow on its some fifty miles northwest of Brest Litovsk, according to an official Berlin report. This move forms a slight wedge on the Russian front which had been virtually straight since the Warsaw salient was abandoned. Field Marshal Von Mackensen is also reported to be pushing back the Russians along the Bug where the Germans are advancing along the Eastern bank of that river. Further west Field Marshal Von Hindenburg is credited with a successful attack on the advanced defenses of Koryniew well as a successful attempt to break the Russian line between Narew and Bug. After Narew River has been crossed by the Germans the most important critical military movements of the day but they attract less attention here than the diplomatic negotiations in the Balkans where a crisis has not yet been reached. The most significant phase of to-day's news concerning the near Eastern situation was contained in a brief despatch from Athens stating former Premier Venizelos had won a decisive victory over the Government organization in the Greek Chamber of Deputies. The withdrawal of the Bulgarian delegates from Constantinople caused much speculation here. The consensus of opinion being that Turkey is so confident of her present position, she does not feel under any compulsion to make the concessions Bulgaria demands. The usual grenade and mine fighting is reported on the Western line. There has been some activity along the coast of England, several fires were started by the shells from the underwater boat. The railroad was damaged and there were no casualties as the result of the attack. Except in their financial columns newspapers pay little attention to the decline in sterling exchange, the Government has given no hint of any plans it may be considering to relieve the situation, which leading financial authorities here regard as decidedly serious.

GREEK CABINET RESIGNS.
LONDON, To-day.
King Constantine of Greece has accepted the resignation of the Gulari Cabinet, according to a despatch from Athens. Eutheros Venizelos, leader of the Opposition, was invited to consult with the King to-day.

BRITISH TRANSPORT SUNK—NINETY HUNDRED SOLDIERS AND SAILORS LOST—609 SAVED.
LONDON, To-day.
The British transport Royal Edward has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine. An announcement to this effect was made officially to-day. Six hundred men were saved out of 1,550 troops and 220 other persons on board. So far as has been reported officially, this is the first instance in which a British transport has been attacked successfully by a submarine. It has been a matter of pride with the British Government that it had transported hundreds of thousands of troops across many seas without loss of life. It is probable that the number of troops sent to France and Belgium since the beginning of the war is considerably in excess of 700,000.

GERMANS FIND COMMUNICATION DIFFICULT.
ROTTERDAM, To-day.
No point is yielded by the Russians to the advancing Germans until railway bridges and everything else of military value have been destroyed, according to German reports received here. The Cologne Gazette admits the difficulties confronting the invaders where railway bridges have been destroyed an incredible amount of work has to be done. Only by fabulous expenditures have we been able to carry supplies for our armies over the Vistula.

RUSSIANS RETIRING ORDERLY.
LONDON, To-day.
The Times' military correspondent, dealing with the warfare in Russia, says, in conformity with the general plan of retirement, Grand Duke Nicholas has now withdrawn his forces from Poland to points west of the line of Ossowetz, Bialystok and Brest.

correspondent adds: "The question now is whether King Constantine regards these views as a proper basis for entrusting the future of Greece to M. Venizelos as Premier."

SERBIA MORE CONCILIATORY.
LONDON, To-day.
Telegraphing from Nish Serbia, the Times Balkan correspondent promises a speedy agreement between the Balkan disputants. If a conciliatory attitude on part of Serbia will effect this prospect of adjustment of difficulties between the Balkan States, the correspondent says the prospects have grown brighter the past few days. So far from the attitude of the Serbian Government being irconciliable, assurances have been given to-day which make it evident that the way is open for a quick settlement. This, however, will be more of general character than a mere ratification of frontiers in one particular locality.

A STRANGE EXPLANATION.
LONDON, To-day.
The key to the Balkan situation may be in the shortage of ammunition in Bulgaria, suggests the Daily Mail, in an article which deals with Germany's anxiety to ship ammunition to that country. In support of this view the Daily Mail cites the alleged statement of the German military attaché at Bucharest who is pleading with Rumania to allow ammunition to pass through that country. He declares these were not intended for Turkey, but destined for Bulgaria which was neutral.

How Can The Afford It?

By RUTH CAMERON.

RUTH CAMERON

On the day last week I received a printed folder from a shop where I trade, advertising a summer sale. The next day I went to try and avail myself of some of the mark-downs listed in that folder. There were several gowns marked down from twenty-five to twelve dollars and I asked the gracious saleswoman who smiled towards me where I could find these gowns.

How I was Rebuked For Answering That Advertisement.

The graciousness, the smile and the sale simultaneously disappeared. She led me languidly toward the rack and with a supercilious gesture indicated the gowns. She did not inquire my preference; she did not in any way try to serve me. She simply stood back and eyed me indifferently, giving the rack a casual whirl now and then. I had asked for mark-down goods. I was plainly in her eyes a person not worthy of courtesy or attention.

Now this incident if it were unique would not be worth mentioning. But it is not unique. On the contrary, it is characteristic. Much this sort of thing has happened to me again and again when I have shown my interest in mark-downs advertised in either the newspapers or the printed folder.

How Can The Employers Afford It? What puzzles me is how the employers can afford to let their employees act that way.

The advertising folder which I had received was a ten-page affair. It had several cuts and must have cost hundreds of dollars to set up, print and send out. And yet here was the invitation nullified by the reception the customers were in danger of receiving if they accepted it.

The employer was beckoning customers with his right hand and pushing them away with his left—surely a costly proceeding.

I am a Great Admirer of The Saleswoman. Mind you, I am not criticising saleswomen as a class; on the contrary, I have the greatest admiration for their patience, their courtesy and their marvelous taste and ability in contriving to gown themselves so well. Moreover, I know that they are often exasperated by customers who are out to shop rather than to buy. Nevertheless, as I have said before in this column, I think that there are a great many of them who lack the sympathy they ought to have with the woman who has to consider the pennies.

And if I were an employer I should explain very clearly to my employees that I did not want the drawing power of the money that I put into advertising nullified by the superciliousness toward the customers who respond to that advertising.

BRITISH THEATRE.

Despite the counter-attractions, the above Theatre was attended by splendid audiences last night. Madame Olive Timmons was (as is usual) in great form and sang "Gondola Dreams" magnificently following with a superb rendition of the beautiful Irish ballad "Believe Me if all those endearing young charms." The pictures were of the highest class. Special mention may be made of Emil Gaborian's great French detective story in two parts, entitled "File Number 113." Madame Timmons sings promptly at 3.30, 8.30 and 10 o'clock.

AT THE CRESCENT.

To-day's show at the Crescent Picture Palace is a very fine one and caused most favorable comment from the large number of Crescent patrons who attended yesterday. The two-reel feature "The Imposter" presented by the Lubin Company, is a very interesting story. Anita Stewart features in "Mildred Wood and Shadows." The photography of this picture is superb, besides two fine comedy subjects. Mr. Collins sings "Acushla Macnere" and "A Weary Y for You," two very pleasing numbers. Go to the popular Palace to-day and see this fine show.

"OURS" IN THE WEST END.

There is a delightful show at the Rossley West End Theatre; good pictures and new original songs. Cool and cosy is the little West End Theatre. Anita in dainty costume delighted the large audiences.

THE MERRY MAKERS' HUGE SUCCESS.

Rossleys opened up to a big house and a very delighted audience. The Russells are without a doubt the finest English performers ever brought to this city. Jack Russell in his single act was applauded to the echo for he has a beautiful voice and his great songs last night beat anything ever heard here; his patriotic song about the "Lads of Newfoundland" helping to bear the brunt, sent the large audience into raptures. Jack Russell is an actor and singer of high standing and the St. John's people applauded as they have never done before at Rossleys, and when he brought in his trained dog Don, dressed as a Charlie Chaplin, then the house simply went wild. The sketch "Robbing a Burglar" was something very original and had the audience in roars. The Australian Merry Makers have lots of good acts, good songs and novelties. There will be a matinee with Punch and Judy for the children on Wednesday under the distinguished patronage of Lady Davidson and the Misses Davidson.

The British Navy in Action.

Before one of the largest gatherings seen at a lecture in this city, Sir Herbert Ames, M.P., of Canada, lectured at the Methodist College Hall last night. The subject of the discourse was "The British Navy in Action," one that appealed to the loyalty and patriotism of everyone present. His Excellency the Governor who presided, introduced the lecturer of the evening in a few well chosen remarks, after which Sir Herbert entertained the large gathering present for upwards of two hours. His broad imperialism, together with his extensive knowledge of the British Navy, qualified him to deal with a subject of so much interest to Newfoundland, because of her indebtedness to the Navy for her safety, and also because of the number of her brave sons who are now serving on board His Majesty's ships. Besides giving a discourse on the work of Admiralty, Sir Herbert gave a valuable lesson in loyalty, and his description of the growth of the fleet from the days of the Victory to the days of the super-dreadnought was most interesting and instructive. The story of British supremacy of the seas, was told in a masterly and fluent manner, and was punctuated by applause from the audience, as the lecturer now and again touched the chords of deepened patriotism and drew forth responsive notes from all present. At the close a vote of thanks, proposed by Sir Edward Morris and seconded by Sir Joseph Outerbridge, was tendered to the lecturer by His Excellency the Governor. During the evening Mrs. W. C. Job sang Rule Britannia in her usual graceful manner, the audience joining heartily in the chorus. The C.L.B. band was present and rendered several patriotic and national airs which added much to the enjoyment of the evening. Lantern slides illustrating the lecture, were shown by Mr. Leslie Curtis, and were highly instructive. His Excellency, Sir Herbert Ames, brought the enjoyable evening to a close.

Our Volunteers.

The total number of volunteers enrolled to date is 2,172, the following having enlisted since Saturday last: William Hennebury, Quidi Vidi, John Gosse, Torbay. Yesterday morning was spent at skinning, general marching and physical exercises, and the afternoon was taken up with section drill at the Armoury. One platoon had rifle practice at the Southside Range, where some very good scores were made.

BICYCLE ACCIDENT.

Shortly before seven o'clock this morning a young man named George Voke, an employee of the Martin Hardware Company, and a companion named Dicks, met with an accident. They were on their way to work on a bicycle together and came over Prescott Street at a fast clip, reaching the foot of the incline and going into Water Street at the corner of the Atlantic Bookstore, the coast-guard of the machine was applied to reduce speed before turning, but it did not act. The cycle capsize and the young men were thrown into the street, falling violently on the curbstone. Dicks was badly scared, bruised the legs and arms and was more fortunate. He escaped with a cut arm and a few scratches near the knee.

If Catarrh Keeps You Hawking Use 'Catarrhzone'---The Quickest Cure

NOTHING KNOWN SO SURE FOR THROAT WEAKNESS, BRONCHIAL TROUBLES, ETC.

No doctor attempts to-day to cure a genuine case of catarrh or bronchitis except by the inhalation method. Stomach dosing has been discarded because useless medicine so taken affects only the stomach---never reaches the seat of catarrh.

The advanced physician recognizes that only air can be sent into the lungs and bronchial tubes. Fill this air with healing medicaments and you solve the problem. No combination of antiseptics is so successful as Catarrhzone. It contains the richest pine-balsams and the greatest healers known.

One breath of Catarrhzone instantly circulates over the area that is afflicted with catarrh. Relief is instant---suffering stops at once---germs are destroyed---every taint of disease is removed. Think it over seriously. Here is a remedy that clears the throat, relieves hoarseness, coughing and bad breath. Irritating phlegm is cleared out, inflamed bronchial tubes are healed, throat and voice are strengthened.

Catarrhzone is pleasant and certain. You breathe Catarrhzone---you don't take it. Large $1.30 size is guaranteed; smaller size 50c., and trial size 25c. at all dealers everywhere.

Donations of Machine Guns

HAVE EXCEEDED REQUIREMENTS.

Some Action Will Likely Be Taken by the Militia Department to Check the Donations and Divert the Money to the Patriotic Fund or Other Purpose.

Ottawa, Aug. 10.—The continuance of the offers of machine guns, though diminishing in quantity during the last few days, has created not a little embarrassment in military circles where it is realized that the offers so far made have far exceeded the requirements of the situation or their effective use. A decisive stand in this matter must soon be taken by the Government. Though having suggested the advisability of the donations the Government are now loathe to speak as authoritatively as they should. What will likely impel action on the part of the Government is the impression now created that the Militia Department has not provided enough machine guns for the contingent already sent across the ocean and in not doing so have placed our boys at a disadvantage.

The fact is the Government long ago placed orders for machine guns at the factories but it will not be able to get delivery for its orders for about six months to come. When the guns will be available which are now being so generously offered by private contributors is a question. Not in any event until after those now ordered are delivered. The Government can secure all the money desired from British financial sources to pay, equip, transport and in every way provide for the army. While the Government does not wish to deprive citizens of the privilege of sharing individually in this expenditure, yet it is obvious that it would be wrong to encourage giving in a direction which has been more than sufficiently provided for and to lock up money that cannot be used, if at all, for months to come.

The British army, it has been frequently pointed out, is defending a thirty mile front. Of this the Canadian sector is about four miles. Suppose it to be five miles, that would mean a frontage of 26,400 feet. Without taking into account the regular establishment of eight guns to the battalion, if 1500 guns were offered from private sources, it would give a gun for every 17 feet, a manifest absurdity and an equipment which could not be handled to advantage.

Or, taken another way, there are, roughly speaking, 25,000 Canadians in Flanders, not more than half of whom are at any one time on the firing line, the others being in billets. For these 12,500 men, there would, therefore, be 1500 guns or eight men to a gun. Supposing the contingent at the front were doubled, the rate of a gun for every 16 men would be ridiculous. Machine guns are excellent defense weapons but men must be ready for forward movements who are not hampered by having to handle these guns, and all our men cannot be operating them. Another consideration seems to be overlooked, that machine guns are tremendous users of ammunition. The Government cannot possibly provide sufficient ammunition to feed the supply of guns even were they manufactured and were the British War Office disposed to allow such a disproportionate number to be sent to France for any of its forces.

Many gifts of guns have come from patriotic citizens who could not go to the front. Now that popular subscriptions for this purpose are being sedulously boomed it is feared that some may excuse their hesitation to volunteer by saying they have "done their bit" in subscribing for a gun. That excuse should not be available in view of the fact that their guns will not in most cases be procurable for a long time to come.

It is felt, too, that the spontaneous wish of the people having expressed itself, their loyal zeal may now be diverted to other and more useful channels. The Patriotic Fund will have much heavier drains upon it this coming winter, especially since the disability many men are laboring under has been removed. Married men, who have been restrained by wives will be going in increasing numbers and the families of most of these will require assistance. Hence it is all important, if recruiting is to be maintained at the required standard, that this fund shall not suffer by having its sources of revenue unduly tapped.

In view of all these circumstances some pronouncement must shortly be made by the Militia Department that will put an end to the donations of machine guns and direct private funds into proper channels. As a matter of fact at least one member of the Government has expressed it as his opinion that all money received by the Government for machine guns should at once be turned over to the Patriotic Fund.

THE BLUES.

Presentiments of ill sometimes oppress a gent; his heart receives a chill, he's full of discontent. All things, he grimly feels, are going to the dogs, and in his head t'ady wheels are badly slipping cogs. To perish in the ditch predestined are; is no use to hitch his wagon to a star. Vague fears depress his soul, and naught can comfort lend; the poorhouse is his goal, the Potter's Field his end. The good old sun may shine and lighten up the globe, but still he will repine, and fret and tear his robe. The birds may sing their songs—he hears not the refrain; his sorrow brooding o'er his wrongs, his sorrow and his pain. He sulks around his home until his wife could wish to bat him on the dome with some old chafing dish. A widespread gloom he breeds, he makes his fellows sick; and all this mortal needs is one swift, well-placed kick.

Wife's or Parents Objection Will Not Keep Men From Front

Ottawa, Ont., Aug. 9.—Objections by wives to their husbands enlisting for overseas service will no longer be regarded by the Canadian military authorities. Neither will the objections of parents to minor sons serving, providing the sons are of eighteen years or over. It will not be possible hereafter for an enlisted Canadian to buy his discharge for $15. When war opened and the Canadian enlistment began, General Hughes as minister of militia had regulations made under which the written consent of a wife was required to legalize a husband's enlistment and that of the parents for minor sons. Many capable men were refused places as a result of this regulation. With General Hughes in England the government has changed the regulations, and to-day any man in Canada of eighteen years or over is a free man at liberty to put on a uniform without consulting wife or parents. The change in the regulations is expected to add considerable numbers of men to the corps which are being raised in Canada.
