Comment.

We congratulate our able contemporary the Fair Play of Chicago, upon the completion of its fifth year of existence. Fair Play being conducted on the principles signified in its title deserves to go on and prosper, and we trust that it will.

It is stated that Manitoba Prohibitionists are not pleased at the treatment they have received at the hands of the Dominion and Provincial Governments, particularly the latter, and are now engaged organizing a separate political party.

The Boston Pilot compares the editor of the Wine and Spirit Gazette to the bull that kicked the bee-stomach, and it opines that he will find very few allies within or without the church in his foolish attempt to belittle the courageous archbishop of New York.

On another page we give many expressions of opinion on Monsignor Satolli's decree. We have refrained from quoting any trade journals, because naturally they in the aggregate would be pretty well all of the one way of thinking. We also quote the view of a number of the Roman Catholic clergy.

The Catholic Total Abstinence Society of America was in session at St. Paul, Minn., last week, and it entirely disregarded St. Paul's advice to Timothy to take a little wine for the stomach's sake. But the members of the society attended church and took a little of the same for their consciences' sake, thus atoning for their neglect of the scriptural injunction in the other case.

GOFFERSON TILLMAN, of South Carolina, not only resigned his dispensary saloons on August 1st, but he gave notice to all hotel-keepers to close down their bars within fifteen days. It is said that the other will be totally disregarded and that Governor Tillman will himself be yanked before the courts for disregarding the decision of the State Supreme Court that his dispensary law was unconstitutional.

Some time ago we mentioned the fact that Mr. W. W. Bushman, of the Traveller, Hamilton, intended to publish in serial form a book entitled "Men of the Movement." We hadn't seen anything more than the bare announcement then. We have now seen the first of the seven numbers that the work is to comprise, and we should think it would command a ready sale among the followers of the "Men of the Movement."

A MOVEMENT is on foot at Montreal among the hotel men to organize themselves into a society similar to the Dominion Alliance, their object being to fight the latter on its own grounds. It is argued that at present the Alliance has paid officials who are ever on the aggressive, who are ever prepared to fight liquor men, and that the latter being entirely without such organization are often beaten. This is a common-sense view of the situation.

Those people who have reviled the Dominion Government for appointing a commission to inquire into the liquor trade will be interested in knowing that the U. S. Senate has passed the following: "The Commission of Labor is authorized to investigate the alcoholic liquor traffic, its relations to revenue and taxation, and its general economic, criminal, moral, and scientific aspects in connection with pauperism, crime, social vice, and the public health and general welfare of the people."

AN American hotel proprietor, Mr. Charles Coen, proposes to make an artificial island in the Atlantic ten miles off the coast of Long Island, in order to build a summer hotel on it, thus securing sanitary conditions, and avoiding the mosquitoes. The spot is marked with a flag carrying a white flag with a red star. The water is 70 feet deep there, and the foundations are to be made by sinking sixty iron caissons, each 15 feet in diameter. The spot is beyond the jurisdiction of any nation, and the owner will have to pay neither rent nor taxes, and can make his own laws. The island is to be called Atlantis, and it is estimated, will cost a million dollars.

The licensing laws are very strict in Western Australia. The penalty for serving a drink on Sunday is £50. An hotel-keeper at Perth was recently mulcted in the sum of £150 for illegally refreshing a party of three on the Sabbath, the court refusing to regard the three drinks as constituting a single offence. Another singular feature of the licensing law in Western Australia is that the licensee must not absent himself from his house for more than 28 days in the year, except by special permission of the stipendiary magistrate, a restriction on personal liberty, that has long been the source of much irritation and indignation to the trade.

THE Times is anxious to find out how the decisions of the License Commissioners regarding the decapitated license holders could have been improved on. One important improvement would have been to announce the names of the victims three months ago instead of keeping them dangling like Mahomet's coffin between earth and heaven until the last moment, almost, for reasons that were apparently of a purely political complexion.—Herald. Our contemporary says correctly. Those who have had their living taken away should have been given the usual three months' notice and not have first been deluded with vain hopes and then suddenly decapitated. In fact, when there is to be a wholesale lopping off of licenses, and holders are to be sacrificed on the mere whim of a council, and not to be closed down because of any offence on their own parts, a year's notice would be all too little to give. It is terribly hard and unjust for a man to spend his life perhaps in building up a business and then, by the wave of a hand, to have it taken away from him. Aldermen and others in their anxiety to curry favor with the temperance crowd are too apt to forget that license-holders are men, and are liable to be heads of families the same as others, and that for them to be thrown on the world all of an instant, losing at the same time probably everything they own, is quite as great a hardship as it would be to throw out any of our big wholesale merchants or bank managers. In fact, comparing the resources of the latter class with the resources of the former, it is an even greater and severer hardship.

The beer boycott in Germany does not appear to flourish. A correspondent writing from Berlin under date of July 28th says: "The Social Democrats in Brunswick, who, for some time past, have been waging a war against several of the breweries in that town, finding that a partial boycott has not answered their expectations, have now decided to boycott all the breweries in the same way as has been done in Berlin, in the hope of thus being able to force the breweries to come to terms. Judging by accounts from various sources the general boycott in Berlin is proving as ineffective as the original boycott levied against the seven breweries which incurred the displeasure of the Socialists in the first instance. The attendance of the public at beer houses and restaurants supplying boycotted beer is reported to be the same as if not greater than, in ordinary times. On the other hand, the number of hall-proprietors who have refused their establishments for Socialist meetings in consequence of the boycott increases from day to day. Another measure has, moreover, now been taken against the Social Democrats consisting in the rejection of the Forward newspaper at public houses. Thus 101 restaurant keepers at Rixdorf, a suburb of Berlin, have unanimously resolved to stop taking in that paper."

LIKE all measures intended to improve upon the regular channels of trade the Gothenburg system threatens to become a thing of shreds and patches by reason of many changes and so-called amendments. One of the arguments of the people who believe in the honesty and purity of nothing has been that as the profits derived by the Gothenburg plan are largely applied to purposes which would otherwise be destroyed by taxes, there must be, and often has been, a tendency on the part of local governments to encourage the sale of liquor in order to increase the profits, which would lessen the taxation. Through the changes made by the Norwegian legislature only 15 per cent. of the profits will now go to the town or city treasury, 20 per cent. to the company, for distribution among temperance and other charitable institutions, after providing the legal rate of interest on the capital, while the balance—that is, 65 per cent.—will be paid over to the state for the formation of a special fund. It is not yet determined how this fund shall be employed, but it is generally understood that it will be ultimately devoted to the creation of a system of old age pensions—that is, each citizen in Norway who arrives at a certain age, say 65, will be entitled, if he cares to advance the claim, to a moderate pension to support him during the remainder of his life. It is really very hard to see where this method is any improvement upon the licensing system. The old-age pension scheme could be just as easily formed out of the money paid for licenses as out of the profit derived from the sale.

DIFFERENCES OF OPINION.

What Some of Our Contemporaries Have to Say about Monsignor Satolli's Decree.

"This very rigorous act does not seem to us calculated to help the cause of temperance nor to render justice to a class of traders quite as respectable as any other. To touch of a good thing is equal to nothing." - Le Monde.

"The selling of liquor is as much a legitimate business as the selling of dry goods or groceries. That liquor is an abused article does not make it saleable, nor reputable any more than the occasional use of dynamite by anarchists affects the character of the dynamite manufacturer. There is a great deal of nonsense spoken and written regarding the liquor traffic. Perhaps Mgr. Satolli has nibbled some false views of American sentiment regarding liquor." - Albany (N.Y.) Standard.

"The question has been raised in Baltimore as to how far the authority of the apostolic delegate goes in such matters. It is said that his reply to the appeal could be merely in personal approval of the temperance bishop's action, and that he could have no authority to enforce his ideas, this prerogative being possessed by the bishop of a diocese, to whom the apostolic delegate's opinion would come as a suggestion and not as a command." - Gazette, Elmira, N.Y.

"There are men in this city who are conducting the liquor business as much in the lines of Christianity as a dealer in groceries, diamonds or any other legitimate branch of trade. Why, some of our leading business men have sold liquor with the money derived from the business, and they are as strict Catholics as any that can be found. If the mandate turned out to be official, it would have a serious effect upon the Catholic associations, for the reason that the friends of the saloon-keepers who were officers would withdraw when the officers resigned." - N.Y. World.

"The St. Vincent de Paul Society is strong also in Chicago. Thus far it has taken no action that we are aware of in the matter. This may be in accord with the wishes of the venerable metropolitan of this archdiocese, who has chosen to believe that Mgr. Satolli's decision applied only to Bishop Waterson's diocese." - Chicago Post.

"Monsignor Satolli's sweeping interdiction upon liquor dealers of all kinds, prohibiting them serving as officers of all Catholic societies, does not agree with American ideas of fair play. Many of these dealers are men of good character and faithful Catholics. To put such fearful stigma upon them is a very severe proceeding, and it will probably be reversed by many, notwithstanding their reverence for the church and its authority." - Times, Buffalo, N.Y.

"After all the question is not so much what is the position of the church as what is the position the saloon-keepers themselves will take. They are Americans. Mgr. Satolli is an Italian who does not even speak our language. There is a decided antagonism or at least a decided prejudice among American Catholics in the laity against foreign priests and bishops. What action will the saloon-keepers take? Will they remain in and continue the business, or will they remain in and close up the business? Or will they fight the Monsignore as a foreign prelate who has no right to interfere in American affairs? Will they take the position that the church has no right to dictate to them in any matters except those which are purely spiritual?" - Chicago Tribune.

"Mgr. Satolli's withdrawal of approval from the liquor dealers in the Catholic church will please a certain class of people; but the question is the step, or perhaps open to question. Putting a whole order of business men under the ban without qualification is too sweeping a proceeding to be accomplished in perfect fairness; and the contribution to the church by some of its wealthy members are not likely to be stimulated as a result. But the discretion of Satolli has never been remarkable." - Journal, Providence, R.I.

"Cardinal Satolli's endorsement of Bishop Waterson's crusade against the liquor interest, and the positive command of the church that no manufacturer of and dealer in liquors must be allowed to be an officer of any Catholic society, or even a member, will have a curious effect upon the rich brewers of the country, a majority of whom are Catholics, and who have always lavishly furnished money for building churches, etc. In fact there is hardly a Catholic church in this country to the erection of which the manufacturers of and dealers in spirituous liquors have not been the chief contributors. No such contribution will be possible in any European country, and we do not think that it is good policy to puritanize the Catholics in America." - Sentinel, Washington, D.C.

"The question has been raised in Baltimore as to how far the authority of the apostolic delegate may go in such matters. It is said that his reply to the appeal would be merely in personal approval of the temperance Bishop's action, and that he could have no authority to enforce his ideas, this prerogative being possessed by the bishop of a diocese, to whom the apostolic delegate's opinion would come as a suggestion and not as a command." - Baltimore Times.

"Mgr. Satolli's recent decision condemning the liquor traffic and disbaring dealers from membership in Catholic societies and orders has caused the saloon-keepers of Milwaukee, Wis., to take action in the matter. A mass meeting of saloon-keepers was held in the South Side Turn Hall for the purpose of founding a 'Wisconsin Saloon-Keepers' Benevolent Association.' The Satolli order is one of the reasons for organizing this association." - Milwaukee Sentinel.

"The Wine and Spirit Gazette has, to use a trite and homely phrase, 'bitten off more than it can chew.' Its challenge to Archbishop Corrigan to sue, etc., if he dare, the decision of Monsignor Satolli on the liquor question, brought out a prompt, manly and dignified reply from the Archbishop, who said he had yet 'to learn what fear was' when he 'had a duty to perform. The course of the Gazette in this matter has met with the severest condemnation from Catholic liquor dealers almost without exception, all of whom, while expressing no opinion as to the sweeping and radical character of Monsignor Satolli's decree, are well satisfied with the attitude of the Archbishop." - New York Daily Mercury.

"The great commotion aroused by Mgr. Satolli's order on the liquor question, the unbridled alarm of the liquor-dealers, and the approving comments made from hundreds of Protestant pulpits and in scores of religious journals of all denominations, are somewhat premature, for we are not wholly warranted by the facts." - Buffalo Express.

"The attitude of Archbishop Corrigan toward Mgr. Satolli's decision is as wise as it is manly. The Roman Catholic church has taken a position in regard to the liquor dealers which means a great deal, but the hierarchy do not propose to provoke a needless conflict." - Boston Herald.

"Now that the Catholic Church has gone into the business of promoting temperance, a new field and a great career seems to be opening up for the decaying Prohibition party. After it has succeeded in its present efforts to capture the Papulists let it form an alliance with the Pope." - New York Advertiser.

WHAT SAYS OF THE CREEPY SAY.

"Bishop Ludden, of Syracuse, N.Y., says that Mgr. Satolli's decision in regard to Catholic saloon keepers and liquor dealers will not have the slightest effect in that city."

"Father Bloomer says in the Elmira, N.Y., Gazette, that the issue must be considered as a party one, and will not affect liquor dealers all over the country. He says the liquor business is a legitimate one, and the policy of restricting Catholics from engaging in it, instead of decreasing the different religious beliefs, is for it to men of different religious belief."

"Bishops have certain rights in their own dioceses. Bishop Waterson in pursuance of these rights, made this order about liquor dealers. He clearly had the power to do this, and Monsignor Satolli sustained him. The decision only applies to the diocese of Columbus, and is in no sense binding upon all dioceses." - Bishop McQuaid, of Rochester, N.Y., in the Post-Express.

"Vicar General McManara, of Brooklyn, N.Y., says: 'In Brooklyn there is less drunkenness in proportion to the population than there was twenty years ago. There are many good Catholics in the liquor business. They would be glad to close on Sundays and restrict the business in other ways. As far as the Bishop's attitude is concerned, it is a matter that has given a great deal of thought to, and, as I said, what is necessary in Ohio is necessary in Brooklyn.'" - Brooklyn Journal.

"There are different kinds of societies connected with the church. Some, as the sodalities, are purely spiritual and under the immediate direction of the church. Others, such as the Catholic Order of Foresters, the Catholic Benevolent Legion and the Knights of St. John, are only quasi-spiritual societies. They have temporal sides to them, and while only Catholics can belong to them, there are matters involved in them that do not come within the jurisdiction of the church. The decision affects only the diocese of Columbus. Its effect here is limited to the moral influence it might have. I know of no theologian who maintains that the sale of liquor is an evil distribution of liquor is, per se, wrong. Liquor may be used for a good purpose. Selling liquor is wrong when it becomes the occasion of sin." - Father Mulhollon, Chancellor of the Diocese of Chicago.

"It would not do to go to extremes on the liquor question, and I think fanaticism on the subject is quite as much to be avoided as too liberal a view in the matter. I don't think it the part of wisdom to crush liquor out of existence altogether. Certainly it would not have been given to us for our destruction. Proper restrictions should be placed upon the sale of liquor and then the evil will be done away with or will be vastly lessened. The liquor seller himself can throw some sort of respectability about his business if he follows restrictions that lawmakers cast around him. The apostolic-delegate's ruling will incline to make the saloon keeper look more carefully to the right and wrong he does." - Rev. Father Dougherty of the Church of the Holy Family.

CATHOLICS AND THE TRADE.

An Admittedly Representative Journal Speaks Authoritatively on the Subject.

(From the Catholic Register.)

A RECENT pastoral letter of Bishop Waterson of Columbus, on the liquor traffic in his diocese, has caused wide-spread comment. He refuses to acknowledge Catholic organizations which ban liquor dealers among their officers, and orders confessors to urge on all men engaged in the sale of intoxicants to conduct their business without scandal, or "get out of it and keep out of it." An appeal was made to Monsignor Satolli, who answered by upholding the Bishop's authority in his own diocese. Through this censure on the liquor business does not apply to any other diocese, such as Canada. It has created great interest, and is viewed in Catholic temperance circles as a great victory for their cause.

There can be no doubt that the number of Catholics engaged in the selling and drinking of alcoholic liquors has subjected serious alarm. We have nothing to say against the liquor business as such, especially as it is conducted in Canada. The man who sells beer is perhaps conducting a more honest business than the one who sells pills or coffee. A good-looking, honest exhibitor more true Christian than the man who revile him most. But the nature of the saloon business, as conducted in large cities, does not invite the best mode to enter it, and the numerous in-groups bring disgrace on the whole trade.

Though the Bishop's attitude may appear harsh and unjust, he probably had good reasons before he issued his letter. This is borne out by the approval of the Delegate. Monsignor Satolli is a man of original thought, who would not be led by a mere desire to satisfy the Bishop. He comes from Italy, where there is little saloon business, and a good temperance movement, so he is not a temperance crank. When a man of his stamp thinks such severe measures are justifiable it is time for Catholics to ponder seriously on the evils of intemperance, and to seriously consider means of meeting the difficulty.

We do not believe that the remedy can be found in attacking Catholic liquor dealers in such a general way. Many of them are fine, honest men who wish to remove the unavoidable evils of their occupation, and endeavor to conduct their business honestly and well. But we earnestly advise them, if they can engage in a business less dangerous in its consequences, that they should hasten to do so.

The traits of character which fit Irish men for success in the liquor traffic are certainly honorable to the race. A good liquor dealer must be witty, genial, generous, and at the same time a shrewd and successful business man. It is not among the Irish, however, that we find the natural fitness for dealing with men in their humors is that Irishmen are criticized in many of the other branches of the trade, such as the hotel trade. They are firm and easy fellow who wants to trade a trade does not stand to see if mine host is an Irish name; while more precise people on their shopping tours, would think that goods commensurate with the price paid through the hands of Hibernians. It is not people like those who drive Irishmen embarking in business into the liquor business.

Catholics should be encouraged by this fallow to enter on lines of trade not honorable to the race. There is no doubt that with many of our neighbors the number of our people engaged in this traffic is a cause of great scandal. All Catholics should unite to create a more honorable trade, and we have no doubt that, as the days of Father Matthew, the Irish hotelkeepers will be the warmest supporters of such a movement.

Trade AND OTHER Notes.

Mr. W. SIMPSON, formerly a hotel-keeper in Toronto, has bought the Lake View Hotel, Niagara.

There are 45,000 liquor dealers in New York State and two-thirds of them are Roman Catholics.

It is claimed that a stream of valuable mineral water, closely resembling the famous Apollinaris water, has been found at Balmer Forges, Que.

A brewery has been established at Bellevue, the capital of the territory now ruled over by King Loebengha. A turf club has also been formed there.

The St. James hotel, of this city, has been sold to Jno. Soby, owner of the Royal hotel, Picton, and Walter Nolan, of this city. The price paid was $10,000.

Mr. Jas. MAURER, hotelkeeper, Clinton, has a fine bred jet black pointer dog, which is considered by fanciers to be the only pure specimen of that animal in Canada.

Mr. SAMUEL RICHARDSON, proprietor of the Richardson house at the corner of Spadina Avenue and King Street, and Miss Mabel Richardson, sailed for Ireland and England from New York on Wednesday.

A coroner of Messrs. Phil and John Jones, of Brown's hotel, corner of Simcoe and Wellington Streets, Toronto, formerly the Avondale, died last week. A large number of friends and acquaintances testified to their esteem for the deceased, and for his most popular brothers, by anxious enquiries during his illness and by attending the funeral.

WARRIO to an Irish Temperance Association, Lord Wolsley says:—"I am glad to say that we have now but little drunkenness in the army, less, indeed, of it in our ranks than in any other of Her Majesty's subjects. To this fact I consider we owe much of the improvement in every respect that has been steadily going on amongst us for the past twenty years."

Messrs. D. J. McARTHUR, of the Grenville Brewery, Prescott, and George Lamb, of the Prescott Brewing and Malting Co., being in town last week attending a meeting of brewers, seized the opportunity to go over to see the Falls of Sagan for the first time in their lives. They took it all in, including Brother Joe Mackenzie's electric railway, and were delighted.

It is claimed that a leading hotel of Boston has paid to one market in that city over eight millions of dollars for prices during the regime of the present government, which covers forty years. Those who still imagine that hotel keepers do not take a front rank among the business industries of the country will find some useful education in this brief note.—Held World.

The will of the late Alfred Oxford, a bookkeeper of Toronto, who died at Malton, was probated at the Surrogate Court last week. It disposed of $12,416, $5 cash and $450 in other personalty, as follows: $10,000 to Oxford's widow, and $50 each to John Oxford, Lavinia Woodhouse, Fanny Carlo, Catherine Oxford and Charlotte Winter. The residue of the estate goes to the executrix, deceased's wife.

JOHN HARRIS, proprietor of the Fort View Hotel, Windsor, had a lively time with a burglar who attempted to force an entrance to the hotel at about 1 o'clock the other morning. From a window Mr. Harris detected the intruder in the act of entering, and on being ordered away draw a revolver. This was the signal for Mr. Horn, and three shots were fired in quick succession after the retreating burglar. Blood stains on the ground were evidence that the man had been wounded.

Our West there is a drink which has a peculiar effect, as the following from the Advertiser, published at Saltcoat's, N.W.T., indicates: "This paper has now issued five numbers. From the first week we have received regularly from a gentleman from Fishing Lake a letter enclosing one dollar for a year's subscription. It would appear he goes into town once a week and loads up, and while under the influence of the beverage for his paper. We have him now credited up for four years. Will Corp. Jones please investigate and find out the particular brand of whiskey used, for we would like to introduce it to the notice of our local hotel-keepers."

At a special meeting of the Liquor License Commissioners, of Toronto, W. E. Loney, who keeps a saloon at the corner of Queen and William Streets, was permitted to sell out to W. H. Hoskin. A like privilege was granted to John Simpson, corner of Bay and Queen Streets, who has sold to Thomas Hall. The application of Eddie Bond to remove the Woodbine saloon's license from Yonge Street to King Street west, adjacent to the Academy of Music, was refused, as was H. J. Waller's request for a transfer from George Street and the Esplanade to Queen and Victoria Streets. A decision on the application of Mrs. Burns for a transfer from Adelaide and Church Streets to Queen and Cameron Streets was deferred.

The laying of the corner stone of Rev. Father McSperrit's new church at the Gore of Toronto last Sunday, was a most successful function. His Grace Archbishop Walsh performed the ceremony and Rev. Father McAnn addressed the assemblage in a most eloquent manner. Rev. Father McSperrit also spoke with unusual effectiveness. People were gathered from all parts of the district. Among those from a distance noticed were Mr. Matthew Lawless, formerly of Clamberg but now in business in Toronto, and Mr. Vincent T. Bero, of the Bero House, Toronto. These gentlemen drove out. The church will be a very pretentious structure, the farmers about having contributed liberally in work and material. The collection taken up at the Sunday services was very large.—Baldton News.

TILLMAN'S LAW.

GOVERNOR TILLMAN having succeeded in electing his creature to the bench of his state has, by the following proclamation, reopened the dispensaries, and, by a subsequent decree, has ordered all hallkeepers to close down their bars on August 11th inst., and keep them down:

Whereas, under the provision of an Act to prohibit the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors as a beverage within this State, except as herein provided, approved December 24, 1889, the State assumed control of the legal liquor traffic in South Carolina, commencing July 1, 1893, and

Whereas, the said policy and purpose of the State to permit the sale of liquor by and through the State's officers only, was reaffirmed by an Act, approved December 23, 1893, entitled "An Act to Declare the Law in Reference to and Further Regulate the Use, Sale, Consumption, Transportation and Disposition of Alcoholic Liquors Within the State of South Carolina and to Police the Same," and

Whereas, the Supreme Court of the State of South Carolina, by a decision rendered April 19, 1894, declared the first-act above mentioned unconstitutional, except one small proviso of one section, the executive, in obedience to what he conceived to be the will of the Court, closed all the dispensaries and discharged the constabulary; in a subsequent decision the Court, still ignoring the act of 1893, above mentioned, construed its decision to mean, "there can be no legal sale of liquor by license," but has seemingly on purpose omitted to construe the act of 1893; and

Whereas, the State of South Carolina, acting in good faith through the executive branch of the government, and relying upon the decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Hooper vs. The Town Council of Chester, in which it was declared that the act of 1892 "was in effect an act to regulate the sale of spirituous liquors, the power to do which is universally recognized," has invested large sums of money in liquors for sale under the provisions of the two acts mentioned.

Whereas the liquor is being held at heavy expense, while the State is flooded with contraband whiskey, sold without authority of law.

Now, therefore, I, B. R. Tillman, Governor of the State of South Carolina, in exercise of my discretion as executive, do issue this, my proclamation, and declare that the said Supreme Court, having adjourned without, and, in any wise, given expression in regard to the act of 1893, and the said act is of full force and effect, and will be enforced in accordance with its oath of office, until the court shall have passed upon the same, or until the Legislature shall have repealed it.

The county dispensers in the various counties will upon their dispensaries on Wednesday, August 1. All persons interested, including public carriers, are notified that importation of liquors will be at risk of seizure and prosecution, and all contraband liquors found in the borders of the State will be seized and confiscated according to law.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto attached my hand and caused the great seal of the State to be affixed, at Columbia this 23rd day of July, A.D. 1894, and in the one hundred and nineteenth year of the independence of the United States of America.

B. R. TILLMAN,

By the Governor,

J. E. TINDALL,

Secretary of State.

Independence of the United States, indeed! So far as any foreign power is concerned our neighbors are doubtless independent too; but what can or must be thought of a state whose law is made and controlled by the head of one political party? If he can control a judge for this particular law, he can control him for all things else. Yet people sneer at the trade and denounce it when it tries to exercise its united power in its own defence. It is not after all for themselves that our friends are fighting; it is for right; it is for justice; it is for liberty. They are a power for good, not for evil, for liberty is the grandest possession of civilization. And it is of liberty their opposition would deprive them.

Governor Tillman brought on bloodshed before by the enforcement of his obnoxious law, by the exercise of his tyrannical power. Will he do so again? It is to be hoped not, but he is risking a great deal in face of such opposition as he previously experienced, and in view of the fact that the people, whose supremacy he is usurping, have the law on their side.

A judge of a particular stripe sits on the bench and declares the law invalid. His term of office expires and a judge of another stripe is elected in his place. Of course the judge of the first part was a party man, but he was not elected on any specific grounds other than the general policy of his friends. This man who has succeeded him is pronounced a follower and a heeler for Tillman, and Tillman by his proclamation has declared that he holds him in the hollow of his hand and proposes to keep him there and use him as he desires. Such is freedom, such is justice, such is law in South Carolina!

WHAT SHALL WE DRINK?

WHAT we are to drink is fast becoming a most grave question and if the Prohibitionists had their way it would be narrowed to such proportions that the danger of certain diseases would be vastly increased. While the number of people who indulge in deep potations is becoming beautifully less and the people are getting more and more temperate in their habits, insanity shows a large and staggering increase. From 1882 to 1892 the annual increase in England and Wales was 1,309. In 1893 it was 2,245. The increase is not among middle-class people, or among the upper and better class, or among those who are free livers. It is almost entirely from the farming or rural class, from an especially temperate class, so far as intoxicants are concerned. What has caused this increase? The Commissioners in lunacy after reviewing the various causes which lead to insanity declare their opinion that "the excessive consumption of tea by the agricultural community in preference to the more robust drinks of former days has much to do with the prevailing state of things. That of itself is a sufficiently hard nut for our opponents to crack; but it becomes worse when it is stated that insanity shows a more rapid increase in Canada among the rural people and people who totally abstain than it does among temperate users of liquor. If anybody doubts this statement the official returns from the public institutions are open to him to investigate."

A big question of public policy like this of to drink or not to drink must, and should be, governed by facts and not by sentiment. Facts show us that there is not a beverage under the sun that is not at times deleterious. Tea produces insanity and insomnia, coffee nervous disorder, chocolate biliousness, milk constipation and biliousness, too, impure water various fevers and other ailments, and the free use of mineral waters a variety of complaints that are appalling. What then shall we drink? Finding a definite answer it appears to us that we should each be allowed to go our several ways and drink anything that, in our judgment, we consider wholesome. Drinking by decree except in cases of disease is virtual enslavement.

THE SUNDAY CAR QUESTION.

MORE and more are our liberties being circumscribed, and the people simply look on. If such things had occurred in England as have recently occurred here indignation meetings would have been held all over the land. There the people have a method of making themselves heard between elections that is absolutely wanting here. There public opinion is easily aroused. Here it remains dormant until the opportunity has passed and then comes in the yelling. When Mr. Blake cunningly put that clause in the Toronto Street Railway bill providing that cars should not be run on Sunday except by vote of the people, he became intricate in curtailing the rights and liberties of the public for which there was and is no warrant. The clause went through without being questioned because its import was not understood, and counsel was too wise to explain. Now Chief Justice Armour has declined to interfere on appeal by Busman Kelly from his conviction by the magistrate for driving a bus on Sunday. Yet another Judge not long ago quashed the conviction of a cabman for a like offence. Chief Justice Armour is a man of much erudition and usually sound judgment. He is, moreover, a most upright judge, but we doubt his law in the present case. But, for want of funds, it will probably have to stand. Thus do the people suffer; hence the reason why every piece of promised legislation should be closely watched and keenly scrutinized, not only on party account, but on behalf of the populace. In fact we don't know but what it wouldn't be a good idea to appoint counsel to watch legislation in the interest of the public. Partyism is too apt to forget the sovereignty of the people and to vote for its own chief.

Another hardship under which the apparent minority—that is the minority of nearly two years ago—suffer, lies in the fact that the city council, ruled by a faction, has decided to defend Inspector Archibald in the action taken against him by Mr. Kelly for illegal arrest. It is not denied that Mr. Archibald exceeded his duty, but because he is a policeman, a servant of the people, he is to be defended against one of the people, who will have to defray his own costs, while at the same time helping to pay those of his persecutor. Absurdity could no further go. By rights this is a question that should not come before the courts in its present shape at all. Inspector Archibald is not directly responsible to the public. He has a chief, and that chief, Lieut.-Col. Grasset, is the man who should first be called upon to pronounce upon the conduct of his subordinate, and then that subordinate should either be acquitted or prosecuted according to his superior officer's judgment. Col. Grasset is simply shirking responsibility by not appearing in the present crisis. Still, if the action is to go on, Mr. Kelly should be given every opportunity and facility to pursue his inquiry. No obstacle, legal or otherwise, should be placed in his way. If the costs of one side are to be paid by the city the costs of the other should also be met, seeing that it is a citizen who claims that his rights as a freeborn man have been wantonly trampled upon. We do not know, as a matter of fact, whether Mr. Kelly would not be justified in impeaching Col. Grasset. As Inspector Archibald is under him he must either uphold or condemn his course. If he upholds it, then he is the man to be proceeded against. If he condemns it then Inspector Archibald should, as we have said, be punished as the law and the regulations allow. Under every and any circumstance sight should never be lost by the mayor, the aldermen, the magistrates and the police commissioners, that they are in office as much to enforce the rights of the people as they are to uphold law and order, and emphatically are not there to defend the action of narrow-minded fanatics.

WITH an invitation to Prohibitionists to preserve the statistics for future reference, the French correspondent of Bonfort's Wine and Spirit Circular remarks that in Paris the inhabitants drink very little water, and that which is drunk is mostly taken from the river Seine, where in last year the following objects were found: 5,652 dogs, 3,307 cats, 9,108 rats, 1,720 chickens and pheasants, 3,942 birds of various species, 4,209 rabbits, 789 pigs, 7 calves, 4 hedgehogs (??), 3 horses, 15 sheep, 3 cats, 13 monkeys, 5 serpents and innumerable human beings. Even in mentioning all these delightful ingredients the correspondent fails to include the most important of all the sewerage, which outside of Paris finds its way to the picturesque stream in gigantic and never-ceasing quantities.

Several contemporaries ascribe to Mr. F. S. Spence the saying that in the entire Province during the recent Ontario elections not five hundred votes were changed to Sir Oliver Mowat's side in consequence of the support of the Prohibitionists. The fact is that the Globe made the assertion and Mr. F. S. Spence contradicted it. But the more the Globe looks into the matter the more evidence it finds to confirm its opinion.—Toronto Globe. As we printed the item with our own comments and credited it to the Montreal Gazette, we present the Globe's correction with the remark that if temperance people ever doubted that Mr. Spence was using them for political purposes they surely have a confession from him that this is the case when he ventures to contradict the Globe's statement that although they tried very hard Sir Oliver Mowat and his friends made little capital out of their Prohibition pledges and promises. If the Globe is incorrect how does Mr. Spence know so unless he works with a political object in view?

MARYLAND'S ABSURDLAW.

It will be recalled that the city of Baltimore lately undertook to contest the validity of a law passed by the last Legislature of Maryland providing that an habitual drunkard could, with his consent and an affidavit of three taxpayers, be committed to an institution for the cure of drunkards at an expense of $100, to be paid by the city or county from which the patient came. Several persons have been sent to the Keeley Institute under this law. The last application, however, was contested by the city of Baltimore, the city authorities contending that the court did not have jurisdiction to send a man to such an institution. It was claimed that if the law was allowed to stand as passed, the State would be burdened with a number of habitual drunkards unable to support themselves, who would be sent to the institution at the expense of the taxpayers. The case has now been decided against the city in the first instance, but there are more law points yet to be argued, so that the point raised by the city is not yet definitely settled. Meanwhile, however, the gold cure seems to be ahead.

OUR COUNTRY'S REVENUE.

This revenue of the Dominion for the fiscal year ending June 30th amounted to $53,382,000, against $57,183,000 for the previous year. The customs yielded $19,119,000 of the total sum, as against $20,707,000 in 1892-93. The particulars by departments are:

	1892-93.	1893-94.
Customs	$20,707,000	$19,119,000
Excise	1,812,000	1,925,000
Postoffice	2,818,433	2,933,750
Public works, including	3,741,183	3,690,503
Patents	1,620,700	1,560,000
Miscellaneous
Total	$37,183,213	$35,382,800

The expenditure for the year, while showing an increase, is not yet fully made up, so that it is not yet known whether there will be a surplus or a deficit. The expenditure on capital account amounted to $4,738,000 against $3,284,000 the previous year. The total net debt on June 30, 1894, was $240,328,000.

ENGLISH CHAMPAGNE DRINKERS.

Some Notable Points in Which They Differ from Americans.

SINCE the time when, in merry old England, Dr. Johnson declared "port" to be the only drink fit for men, the taste of the British wine bibber has undergone a considerable change. Some about-hearted old county squire may still keep up the habit of "passing the bottle around the board, but the "six-bottle men" have long since died out. It may be the tendency of modern life, which has brought about the habits and pursuits of the English gentry, and driving them from the hunting fields, the stage coach, and rural sports in general into city life, has forced the sturdy port to give way to the milder claret and the sparkling champagne.

With characteristic thoroughness, the Briton has cultivated and perfected this new taste till it can well be said that the buying, the keeping, the serving, and the drinking of wine have become an art with him. This is particularly evident in the importance the English give to the purchase and treatment of champagne. Not satisfied if the label bears the name of one of the well-known champagne houses, the Englishman gravely sets about to investigate the merits of the different brands and vintages offered to him, and will have none but the best. Thus each year, when the great champagne firms send their vintages to the English auctions, which are such a notable feature of the English wine trade, the leading wine merchants and the purchasers with established reputations for fine palates meet in solemn conclave, and after many tastings, decide as to which wine the palm should be given. So subtle is their knowledge and judgment that their opinion is held, and finds its expression in the prices paid for the different brands at these sales, which give the keynote for prices throughout the English markets.

The English wine drinker is always willing to pay the highest price for what he considers the best wine, but even at that he gets his champagne much cheaper than Americans can get the same thing. For instance, we find in a recent number of Kidley's Wine and Spirit Trade Cir- cular the following quotations per dozen of familiar brands of champagne of the vintage of 1889: Pommeroy, 83 to 88s.; Mout, 75s.; Perrier—Jouet, 72s.; and G. H. Mumm, 70s. to 75s. These same brands would cost the American consumer in his home market nearly double the price paid in England, a fact largely due, of course, to our duties on champagnes. But another peculiar thing about the champagne market in America is the lack of distinction in price in purchasing. The consumer here pays about the same price for all brands of reputable champagne, and thereby creates the impression that one wine is about the same as another to him so long as it is a reputable champagne.

And yet we live in our country as good connoisseurs as there are in England. But the average American wine drinker will rarely take the time and the trouble to try the relative merits of the different brands, and too often leaves it to the knight of the far of the garcon, who to not to his own self-interest, to influence the choice of the brand.

The Englishman, once in the possession of the brand he prefers, stores it with judicious care in his cellar, which is admirably adapted for keeping the wine for years in the best of condition. The English climate also favors wine preservation. Any good cellar in England will not show a greater variation in temperature than a few degrees throughout the year. In America we are at a disadvantage. In our climate, even in the best of cellars, the temperature varies thirty degrees and more. This makes it impossible to keep so delicate an article as champagne from leaking.

The Englishman also serves champagne differently from the manner in which it is served in our country. True to our predilection for ice-cold drinks, we insist upon the bottle being as cold as Greenland, and some even go so far as to have the champagne "frappé," and are not satisfied unless the liquid is turned into a frozen mass. To the Englishman this process seems a wrong done to the subtle flavor of the wine, which is destroyed by intense cold. He is careful to leave the champagne in the ice cooler only a short time before it is consumed, and believes that thus he loses none of the delicate bouquet of this prince of beverages.—N. Y. Recorder.

TO A BREWERY FOR WATER.

The Chicago Tribune says:—It probably would appear odd to most persons to suggest that they go to the brewery for water, yet every day hundreds of Chicagoans go to a larger beer factory for water to drink. It is a big brewery on the north side, not far from Lincoln Park, and every day from early morning till long after darkness has set in there is a constant stream of people with pitchers, buckets, bottles and jugs going to and from the place where the German national beverage is brewed, but not one of these leaves the place with anything stronger than rich mineral water. Whether it was to escape paying water taxes or whether the old brewer deemed "Chicago water" unfit for his purposes is not of interest now. Whatever was his purpose he sunk an artisan well and struck a voluminous flow of water. It is literally "sparkling" and almost as good as beer—this from an individual point of view, of course. The well yields a great deal more water than is needed by the brewers, and any one is welcome to enter the place and help himself or herself to as much as he or she can drink or carry away. Practically everybody in the neighborhood avails himself of this opportunity to get good water for table use. The water has a commercial value, and is made ready for its use in the manufacturing of beer. The small boys thereabouts have their little "routes" and regularly supply customers with "brewery water," receiving for it 10 or 20 cents a week. Nor is that all. There hangs by the "pump" a sign to this well a cup, and the famous "brewery and its water is such that hundreds drop in for a draught of this refreshing "Adam's ale." Whistlers and tennis players meet and women who have been for an outing at Lincoln Park go to the brewery for the drink that cheers but does not inebriate.

RIGHT YOU ARE, MY HEARTY.

(From the Hamilton Times.)

The Maine liquor law is said to be in danger, a revival of opposition to it being in progress. It is pointed out that one of the inconsistencies of the law is that seized liquors are not destroyed, but are disposed of to States where Prohibition is not in force. This sees of itself to be a serious objection. We have never been able to see the wisdom of the destruction of "good liquor" by pouring it into the sewers, simply because it has been shown, while its value in the arts, sciences and medicine is conceded by all rational opponents of the beverage traffic, and while hospitals and other institutions supported at the public expense must have a certain quantity of it. The closing is a survival of the days when smuggled goods were always burned upon seizure. The pouring of liquors into the ditches of cities and the smashing of the receptacles which they were seized, like the burning of confiscated fishery nets, remain as a demonstration of how absurdly a sane nation can act when it makes the effort.

THE SITUATION IN MAINE.

EX-GOVERNOR ROBBE, of Maine, has made the following statement regarding the exposure of the manner in which the Prohibition law has been enforced in Portland:

"I was never more surprised in my life. I never dreamed that such things were going on in Portland, right in our midst. But now that it is known, I should like to see a full and fair investigation into the facts of the case, and give both sides a chance. Yes, I am in favor of hard option and high license, and am of the opinion that it would be much more of a benefit to Portland than the present prohibitory law, which is nothing more than a farce as enforced.

"I think the country people are waking up to the fact that a law that meets the needs of their own villages is hardly the thing for the cities, and that the taxpayers of the cities should have the privilege of saying at the polls whether or not they want liquor sold in their own city.

"As it is now a liquor seller seems to be paying a license to private individuals instead of to the city.

"I think that the question of re-submission will be brought before Legislature this winter and acted upon."

The theory that inebriety is largely due to inheritance has long since been exploded. As a matter of fact, the nations addicted to the use of intoxicating liquors through continued generations have reached a condition of immunity that practically protects them against its ravages, while people of recent or untrained descent are destroyed by an amount of liquor that would have no effect upon the English, French, or Germans. This is illustrated by the destruction of our Indian tribes, and by the like fate of the native races of Polynesia, who are being commercially wiped away by the introduction of alcohol.—Mala's Criticism.

VAGABONDIA.

It is a country of the sun.
Full of forgotten vestiges.
When Time takes Summer in his care
And fills the desolation of her zone.
It stretches from the open sea
To the blue mountains and beyond;
The world is Vagabondia,
To him who is a vagabond.
In the beginning God made man
Out of the western dust, men say;
And in the end his life shall be
A wandering wind and blown away.

There is a tavern, I have heard
Not far and frugal, kept by One
Who knows the children of the Wood,
And welcomes each when day is done.
Some say the house is lonely set
In Sorb's night, and snow-drifts keep
The silent door, the hearth is cold,
And all my fellows gone to sleep.

Had I my will? I fear the sea
Thunders a welcome on the shore;
I know where lies the lonely
And who should open me the door.

RUSS CADEMAN.

NOTES.

THERE have been 161 additions to the 2.20 trotting list, and 17 of the new ones have beaten 2.20 since the Grand Circuit opened. Of the side-wheelers 128 have done the trick, and 37 have taken records better than 2.20.

THE New England Association of Trotting Horse Breeders has offered a purse of $15,000 for a race for stallions who have marks better than 2.10, to take place at Mystic Park, September 25 to 28. Only six stallions are eligible, and of that number three of them, Directum 2.051, Arion 2.071, and Kremlin 2.071, have already been entered. It is expected that the others who are qualified, Nelson 2.09, Allerton 2.091, and Moquette 2.10, will soon be heard from.

UP to the end of last week the yachts Britannia and Vigilant had sailed thirteen races, of which the former had won nine, and the latter four, as follows:

Sept. 5	Royal Western of England regatta, Plymouth.

Particular interest was taken in the race on Saturday last, as it was a specially arranged match for a hundred guinea cup. It was a Vigilant day with a stiff westerly breeze blowing, and the Yankee boat won by 6 in. 50 s. actual time, and 4 in. 46 s. corrected time, the Vigilant having to allow the Britannia 2s. 4s. The Vigilant took 2hrs. 57m. 40s. to go over the course of fifty miles, that being roughly speaking at the rate of 12 miles an hour. Thus the Britannia was beaten by something over a mile and a quarter.

The programme for the fall meeting of the Montreal Hunt Club, to take place on Sept. 1 and 3, is out. Close upon $2,000 is to be given in purses, including $400 for a farmers' race. The other events are a half-bred handicap steeplechase for $200; a hunters' handicap steeplechase for a silver cup and $150; an open heavy-weight handicap except-stakes of $15 each for $200 added; a three-mile steeplechase for a silver cup valued at $300, known as the Hunt cup, for horses owned and ridden by members of the Montreal Hunt; an open handicap steeplechase for $300, and a mile and two furlong race on the flat for maiden hunters, the purse for which is $100. Four races are to be decided each day.

It is stated that during the earlier part of the Grand Circuit trotting meetings now in progress the horse of "doubtful" camp followers, known as "outsiders," "heelers," and "hustlers," exceeded in number anything ever before known in the history of the summer pilgrimage with the harness races. Many of these are clever knaves, who have been driven from the running tracks at Chicago, St. Louis, and other western points. They did not find Saginaw very profitable, but at Detroit and Cleveland they had a richer field in which to ply their nefarious trade. Their methods are well known to the patrons of the gullepers, but somewhat novel on the trotting turf. One trick that was employed frequently is illustrated by the experience of a speculative but unsophisticated countryman at Cleveland. While the free-for-all pace was on he was approached by a young fellow of quiet address, who casually inquired what he thought of the race. The first heat was over and Robert J. had made no move for it, a fact which was patent to everybody.

"I don't see how they can beat Robert J.," replied the unsuspecting Buckeye rustic.

"That is what the bookmakers think," said the soft-voiced tout, "but I believe they are mistaken."

Just then a tall, well-groomed youth passed, with field glasses strapped on his shoulder in regulation form, and the tout called him, saying to his victim: "This is Mr. Hamlin's son, he can tell us whether Robert J. is good." The newcomer, with considerable dignity, condescended to say that he had just consulted with his father and Geers, both of whom assured him that Saladin could win the next heat. This valuable piece of information impressed the Ohio man so strongly that he counted out $50 and asked the friendly young chap to invest it for him.

"Mr. Hamlin's son" was gracious enough to remain for a few minutes and engage his new acquaintance in conversation till the confederate returned. The latter handed over a ticket marked "150 to 50, Saladin," and then both excused themselves.

"The country sport" turned to see the heat on which he had so good a tip, and to his great delight Saladin rushed through the stretch and beat Robert J. by a trifle in 2:06 $\frac{1}{2}$ . Taking his place in line he presented his winning pastebord to the cashier, when the latter, after a brief glance at his book, said: "This ticket only calls for \$20."

"Why, no, it is $200," replied the astonished plunger; "the odds were 1 to 1, and I gave a friend $50 to put on for me."

"No use, we only bet 15 to 5 on this ticket," insisted the cashier, and the dismayed victim had to be content with the $20. The tout had put up $5 of the money entrusted to him, and while "Mr. Hamlin's son" held the attention of the quarry, the ciphers were added deftly to show that the $50 had been bet. This was the only occasion in which the horse that could surely beat the favorite did come off, though "Mr. Salisbury's son" and other well-posted personages were introduced to glibbie patrons of the Cleveland meeting. The police service there was wholly inadequate to stop the invasion of these parasites at the Glenview track of the new one at Detroit, but detectives were specially assigned to the work at Buffalo, and fewer people were freed.

LAST year most of the sensations at the Buffalo meeting occurred during the first week, and the programme fell short one day for want of entries. This time enough events have been arranged to keep the horses busy until next Friday, and some of the best things were referred for this week. The free-for-all pace, with most of the stars, is down for Thursday, Pateh J., Mascot, Saladin, Online, Joe Patchen and Guy are to battle for a purse of \$5,000. The danger is that Mascot will not go, as Robert J. gave him a pronounced beating at this same place last week, but then so he did Saladin at Cleveland, and both may want to fight the battle over again. Robert J. has a weak spot and if he is kept going one of the lot may find it. It, however, promises to be a great race, as does the free-for-all trot on the previous day, when Alix and Ryland T., the record makers at Cleveland, will meet for the first time this year, along with Lord Clinton, Pansley, Pixley, Phoebe Wilkes, and Belle Vara. If Ryland T. is in good shape and on his good behavior he should give Alix most excellent argument, but he is fast, fighty and frofl. Our most excellent contemporary the American Sportsman gives the following sketch of this horse, who is, undoubtedly, an uncertain winder. He broke into the 2.20 list at Grand Rapids, Mich., in 1891, with a record of 2:27 in a fourth heat. He had been, as our contemporary says, to the scene before that. In 1890 he started the times, was three times and acquired a streak of 2:20. He might have gone faster, but history saith not. The books did not know his age and but little of his breeding, by Ledger Jr., dam by U. Brown, is the whole thing. What did you think of a Range bred, branded, and what not, but a pace nag for all that. He was lively, erratic, etc. They knew that, of the horse showed it. Sam Taylor, of Eagle Rock, Ida., bred him and was probably sorry. When Ryland T. didn't feel as good terms with himself he used to "leave his feet," as the racing man has it, and it was "all day" with him. The distance judge used to look up the string for him, and there was never a question about his being out. The only question — one of curiosity merely — was how he was "out." As he grew older he travelled, Ryland T. improved in temper and manners. But he was never a liable gambling tool. The Stewards of Kansas City got him. Johnny, the diamond bearing son of the family, took him into the group. Bob tried to drive him and Pat to beat — and win — on the yellow bay gelding with false notions and Western manners. None of them succeeded. The Stewart family had learned to stand grief of the harness racing kind and persevered. Thus a star comes into the harness racing firmament. But it is an erratic kind of star. Ryland T.'s false ideas are not gone. Scott McTighe still snafed out a few of the kinks in his skill, still he is likely to be distanced in any heat of his one or more of his races the season. But his performance at Cleveland last Thursday was none the less a great one. It dimmed that of Alix. His 2:08 $\frac{1}{2}$ , 2:07 $\frac{1}{2}$ , 2:08 is formidable.

THE entries for the free-for-all at Terre Haute, Ind., include Alix, Pixie, Belle Vara and Ryland T. The purse and stakes for this meeting amount to $91,000, the largest amount offered in the history of harness racing. The Terre Haute Trotting Association has secured the $22,000 Clark's Horse Review stake for the September meeting, bidding $25,000 for it. The stake is for the best stallion representatives, 3-year-old trotters, and will be trotted for September 11, with a consolation September 14.

THE entries for the Epsom Derby of 1896 include fourteen made by American Mr. Pierre Lorillard has three entries, and the Keene stake five. Foxhall Keen has also two on his own account, August Belmont has three, Col. Payne three and Eugene Leigh one. The total number of entries is 296, including seven from the Duke of Westminster's stable and three each from the Duke of Devonshire, the Duke of Hamilton, Lord Rosbery, the Prince of Wales, Lord and Mrs. Hugh M. Calmont. Lord Dunmore has one entry. The entries for the Oaks of 1896 include six American horses. The Kent

The latest report about the Ontario Jockey Club dispute is that if the Hamilton party win, the men on the other side, who are among the wealthiest and most influential in the city, will form a Toronto Jockey Club and will run in direct opposition to the Ontario Jockey Club, which organization would then undoubtedly go to pieces, for its prestige would be gone, and while the Toronto division make up about thirty per cent. of the daily attendance at the Hamilton Jockey Club's meeting, not even that number could be got to attend races held in Toronto under Hamilton control when there was a rival gathering going on. It is also said that the Queen's Plate would be transferred to Hamilton. The plate now not being movable that is out of the question. Under any circumstances it is apparent that there are lively times ahead.

An English exchange in commenting on the race characteristics of British breeds of draft horses, says: "The characteristics return with wonderful persistence. The look of hair hanging from the knee of an old-fashioned Shire comes into prominence not and then in spite of our refining tendencies. As if a purely English bit of character? It does not seem to appear in horses which may fairly claim to be of long traced Scotch descent, but it is occasionally seen in Clydesdales which have Shire back breeding. A white blaze on the face and one or more white feet are not easily bred out of our draft horses. But given average conditions of breeding, with no special run on dark colors, the white does seem to spread. The blaze on the face is succeeded by an all white countenance, and the marking comes at times to the lower jaw, where it does not by any means improve the general appearance. The white on the legs reaches up to the hocks and may show itself by streaks in front of the thighs, a splash on the belly, and a spot on the knee. Reasoning from what is seen, it is probable that light colors and piebalds have a strong tendency to appear in a state of domestication. Color appears to run riot once it ceases to be used as a protective agency, and the marking which would be destructive in a state of nature asserts itself freely under the sway of man."

The talk about pugilism, which has sprung up since champion Corbett's return from England, has taken a new turn. It is now stated with apparent authority that Jackson has become unmanageable and cannot be held to anything. It is no secret that Peter drank pretty hard in the early part of the winter, and it was said yesterday that he had recently begun again, and that though he was tractable in his manager's hands, in other respects "Parson" Davies had great difficulty in keeping him in anything like fair condition. It should be remembered that Jackson has passed his fortieth year, and that indications count against him with double force at his age. He finds it difficult to work off the effects of dissipation, and there seems to be a belief that things will be manoeuvred so that he will be withdrawn and Fitzsimmons pushed up in his place. Some months ago Corbett was asked why he did not treat with Fitzsimmons. The champion said that when Fitzsimmons had beaten Choyuski, or some man of his class he would be ready to talk to him. Fitzsimmons defeated Choyuski in no doubtful manner, and he will before long push his claim vigorously for recognition by Corbett. The champion looks fit to defeat any man who ever stood on two legs. He is as strong as an ox, clean cut, hardy, and vigorous. The ring cranks grin broadly when Corbett talks about being tired and out of condition. So far as form goes, no other fighter in the world is, in their judgment, to be compared with the American champion.

But for the mere chance the great gelding Azote that has been winning all down the line in the 2.15 class at the Grand Circuit meetings might never have been heard of. He was working a plough on the Vica ranch in California when Orrin Hickok happened along and, having been disappointed in one reported phenomenon, wanted to know if there were any more wonders round those dog-dings. A bystander said there was a gelding o'er hender that would astonish them. Orrin looked where, and was directed to a big horse in an adjoining field. Orrin looked him over with a dubious, contemptuous air. "My God, man," he exclaimed, "I want a trotter, not a lobster." The old fellow at the plough looked pityingly at the great Mr. Hickok and said "Have him out and try him; he will paralyze you, or my name's not Mush Williams." He was hitched up and the famous driver tried him. Getting out of the sulky he acknowledged that the creature was faster than he had expected, but he doubted whether he was any more than "a straker." The ploughman protested that he was a wonder and Hickok at length on hard terms consented to handle him and give him a show. Last year at Fleetwood he chased Directum out a half in 1:02 and then went off his speed altogether. This year not to go beyond the Grand Circuit he has accomplished the following feats:

EVERYONE is looking forward with interest to the opening of the Toronto Industrial Exhibition on the 3rd prox. The entries are far in excess of those of any previous year. Nearly every corner of the Main Building, Machinery Hall and musical pavilion is taken up, and notwithstanding the rearrangement of the buildings so as to increase the amount of space at the disposal of exhibitors, many who failed to apply at a sufficiently early date will be disappointed. Very favorable terms have been made with the leading railroads so as to enable visitors from a distance to see the fair at greatly reduced rates. The number of American visitors this year promises to be very large, arrangements having been made for cheap excursions from Washington, Philadelphia, Baltimore, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Buffalo, Syracuse and points en route. The entertainments in front of the grand stand each day will be specially attractive and interesting. The trotting, racing and and pacing programme is an excellent one and sure to attract numerous competitors. A dog trotting match for a purse of $500 has been arranged between the famous trotting dogs "Doe" and "Victor," owned by M. P. Ketchum and J. A. Perry respectively, which will be continued from day to day, the dog winning most heats to take the prize. On Wednesday the 8th September five bicycle races will be run for liberal premiums, which will be interspersed between the heats of the horse races so as to make the occasion one of continuous interest. These events will be one mile, quarter mile, half mile and one mile tandem races, all open and with flying start, and a one mile 2:50 class race which is likely to prove a specially close and interesting contest. The bicycle races are under C.W.A. sanction and rules, and will attract much attention among bicyclists.

THERE is high betting on the turf as well as high play about the tables at Saratoga this season. One of the shrewdest and most successful men on the turf says that there has been no such betting on horse races in years as there is at Saratoga at the present time. Hard times makes no difference with the plungers, except, perhaps, to make them more desperate. The tighter the times the heavier they plunge.

THE fifth annual regatta of the Canadian Association of Amateur Oarsmen was held on Friday and Saturday last the 3rd and 4th inst. There were splendid fields for nearly every event and everything passed off most satisfactorily. Owing to rough weather on the first day two preliminary heats in the senior fours and the pair-oared race were rowed, the trial heats in the singles and the finals in all races but the pairs being left for decision on Saturday. Toronto carried off pretty well everything as will be seen by the following list of winners:

Pair oars—Vespers, Philadelphia; Argonauts, Toronto, second, time 10:37. Senior fours—Argonauts, Toronto, first; Toronto R. C. second; Don third, Leander fourth; time, 9:30. ARC LIGHT, 2:24, is receiving regular work at Mooseport Park, St. John, N. B., with a view to trotting him in the New England fall circuit over Mystic, Franklin, Rigby and the Old Orchard tracks.

The associations at Port Huron and Windsor have decided to hold meetings on consecutive weeks this month. Port Huron will offer $6,200 for four days' racing, while Windsor will offer $5,500.

The fast black filly Rosedale, four years old, has been purchased by Major S. T. Dickinson, of New York, as a mate to his race and a Canadian horse which was under bond in the States, in races in Canada. He said that he was innocent of any wrongdoing.

H. T. MOORE, of Ottawa, had to pay the custom officials $300 last week at Rome, N. Y., because he some time ago raced a Canadian horse which was under bond in the States, in races in Canada. He said that he was innocent of any wrongdoing.

BELLINGHAM, the Duke of Westminster's three-year-old colt by Melton, out of Shoter, and who ran second to King-glass, in the Princess of Wales 10,000 guinea stake, beating out Ladus and others, died last week. He injured himself in his stall.

WITH the end of the Brighton Beach race on Tuesday, the ban has been removed from Willie Shields and he can once more ply his avocation of piloting horses. He was set down for his poor riding of Lassota. There was no charge against him.

All racing associations that surround the control of the American Jockey Club have been directed not to receive any entries from W. C. Daly, as it is considered he was a party to the suspicious running of the mare Lizzie at Brighton Beach on the 23rd of July. This is hard on "Father Bill." But the way of the transgressor is and should be hard.

IMPORTERS of American trotting horses to Europe should remember that the Technical Commission at Berlin, Germany, has decreed that all American horses having no record of 2:20 or better must start as having a record of 2:28, regardless of the distance of the race. The cost of certificates of importation has also been raised, it is said, from $2 50 to $25.

The Eclipse Stakes of 10,000 sovereigns, will be run for at Newmarket instead of Sandown in 1897. Eclipse, the horse after which the stake is named, was racing in 1769. The stakes in those days were of a very insignificant nature when compared with the magnificent stakes of the century. The City Bowl, which was won by Eclipse in 1769, had only 30 guineas added.

WINONA, by Hermand, won the two-year-old stake race at Calgary, Alta., on July 19th, getting a record for the mile of 2:52. This is understood to be some fifteen seconds faster than any previous mile recorded as made by a two-year-old in Manitoba or the territories, and is a grand performance so early in the season for so young a colt. Winona is a full sister to the handsome young mare Eg-berteta, 2:38, believed to be easily able to enter the list.

The sterling, native horse of Canada is found on the stock brought to the country during the years England maintained a military government there. Cavalry and artillery were constantly arriving and departing. Each troop brought its horses into the country and sold them before embarking again for home. The "artillery mares" have been especially valuable as producers. They are great, strong, sixteen-hand horses, who imparted courage and substance to their offspring. Prior to 1865 the sales were held so often that the market was glutted and the stock brought only a few dollars a head. Of later years the produce has risen for thousands.—George Horrocks.

Wit and Humor.

One on the House.

SEEDY STRANGER—“Yes, sir; I got an’ blashed an’ an’ all through the war.”
 BARK FINNER—“Have a drink! What fights were you in?”
 SEEDY STRANGER—“Oh, I wasn’t in no fights; I was a tailor then! May I Canada?”

A LOTTERY.

A SCOTTISH minister made the following announcement from the pulpit: “Well, friends, the kirk is urgently in need of siller, and as we have failed to get money honestly, we will have to see what a bazzar will do for us.”

WRINKLES TO SPARE.

Elder Sister—“Oh, you fancy yourself very wise, I dare say, but I could give you a wrinkle or two.”
 Younger Sister—“No doubt—and never miss them.”

Pale Youth (to dusky brother)—“Wouldn’t it be a good idea to fight with you, anyhow? If I gave you a black eye it wouldn’t show.”

“PAPA,” said a little boy, “ought the teacher to whip me for what I did not do?”
 “Certainly not, my boy,” replied the father.
 “Well,” replied the little fellow, “he did to-day when I didn’t do my sum.”

HEART WHOLE.

The Summer girl from day to day
 Acts cheerily her part;
 Though she is very oft engaged
 She never loses heart.

An advertisement reads as follows: “A young man, sober and reliable, who has a wooden leg and cork arm, is willing, for a moderate salary, to allow his false limbs to be manined by wild boasts in any reputable magazine, as an advertisement. No objection to travelling.”

A JUDGE once remarked, when a prisoner had received a good character, “Gentleness of the jury, this is a case of a very honest gentleman who has stolen a horse.”

Head of the Profession.

CANADA MAIL—“Whatever I do I do well. I heard that in the militia.”
 BRITAIN TRADING—“But what do you do?”
 CANADA MAIL—“I do nothing—and do it to the Queen’s taste too.”

TWO HEADS WORSE THAN ONE.

Spencer—“Did you know that Musleigh is being tried for bigamy?”
 Ferguson—“Good Gracious, no! Why, he married a museum freak a week or two ago; you don’t mean to say he is married again?”
 Spencer—“No; not exactly. You see, he married a two-headed albino girl and one of them got jealous and had him arrested.”

IT MAKES A DIFFERENCE.

H’fe—“You seem worried.”
 Great Editor—“Another great strike has commenced, and I don’t know what to do.”
 “Nothing could be simpler. Just say that the solution of all such problems can be found in arbitration. That’s the course you always take.”
 “Yes; but this is a printers’ strike.”

A WAY TO STRAIGHTEN THINGS.

Mike—“Sure, toimes is moighty har-rud! There’s him no wur-runk at the mill for a mont.”
 Pat—“Why don’t yez go on shtrike?”

BROTHER-IN-LAW TO THE DUKE.

Carker—“Young Goslin claims to be related to the British nobility.”
 Cunn—“How does he figure it out?”
 Carker—“After Miss Scodals promised to be a sister to him she married the Duke of Mudlanks.”

THE GENTLEMANLY BURGLAR.

Sophonia—“Yes, when the burglar broke into my room I was almost undressed.”
 Angelina—“How very embarrassing; what did you do?”
 Sophonia—“Oh, he was a perfect gentleman, he at once covered me with his revolver.”

HER IMPRESSIVE SILENCE.

“Arrah, dother, an’ may th’ saints bless yer fer yer kindness th’ meck ky! Shure he’d be as dead as a shillakey if I bent fer yez.”
 “Don’t mention it, my good woman; don’t mention it.”
 “Shure, dother, O’ll never tell a soul.”

For the Seaside Season.

A suggestion of the Manner in which the Big Shave may be Utilized. If made of the proper material and inflated the wearer’s head will always be above water.

HE MEANT WELL ENOUGH.

Mrs. O’Beilly—“Ye’re a nice-looking by! Didn’t th’ tell yez not ‘g’ over t’ play wid thim Flannigans agin’?”
 Patsy O’Beilly—“I didn’t. I went over ter scrap wid ‘im.”

SHE KEPT THE PRESENTS.

He—“Instead of a bunch of promise suit, suppose we mutually call it off. You return me my letters and presents.”
 She (after reflection)—“Well, I’m willing to meet you half way. I will return the letters.”

AT THE KEELEY INSTITUTE.

Rounder (dead broke)—“Do you treat drunkards here?”
 Manager—“Yes, sir.”
 Rounder—“Well, I’m one. Gimme a whisky sour.”

A SLIGHT OMISSION.

Cobb—“Have you seen Plankington’s black eye? I ask’d his wife about it and she said she threw a lump of sugar at him in fun.”
 Nabb—“Yes; but she didn’t add that it was in a cup of coffee.”

TWO OF ‘EM.

A CERTAIN maiden lady, Miss Cocker by name, and her niece, who bore the same cognomen, went one evening to a reception at the house of a friend.
 “What name, please?” inquired the footman.
 “Miss Cocker,” answered the elder lady.
 “Miss Cocker, too,” joined in the niece, hurriedly.
 Whereupon the man of pluck and buttons opened the drawing room door, and with all the dignity of his profession ushered them into the midst of the company with the convulsing announcement: “Miss Cocker and Miss Cockatoo!”

WITH GLITTERING SUCCESS.

Popper (testily)—“For heaven’s sake! What’s that baby howling so for?”
 Mrs. Popper—“I just spanked him to make him stop crying.”
 Willy—“Old Dobbs is dead!”
 Willy—“I’m not surprised. More than forty years ago he told a girl that if she refused him he would die, and she refused him.”

NOT ELIGIBLE.

Miss Faith Cure—“Now, Mrs. Blunt, after hearing the experiences of my brothers and sisters and what divine mercy has done for their salvation do you think you would like to join us?”
 Mrs. Blunt—“No, thanks. I’m afraid I’m not bad enough.”

THEORY AND PRACTICE.

Mrs. Scoid—“The marriage relation needs reform. Don’t you think that both parties should have an equal voice in regulating their joint affairs?”
 Mrs. Grammore—“What! let my husband have as much of a say as I have? Not much!”
