Kappa Alpha Dinner Song

1. Of old the wits of genial heart,
In festive conclave joined ;
For eating doth alone impart.
True pleasures to the mind.

CHORUS.

Then let us banish hence the bowl,
For Bacchus hath no part
When wit and feasting rule the soul,
And friendship warms the heart.

2. Ambition is a foe to rest,
And loves a wasting fire ;
But peace and friendship rule the breast
When eating clogs desire.
3. Should fame or honor chill the heart,
And Reason's self be blind,
Still eating hath a charming art
To soothe and calm the mind.
4. Then be the chord of union strong
That ties our social band ;
While eating doth dull life prolong
We'll pledge the heart and hand.
