ILLINOIS SHAKEN BY EARTHQUAKES.

The Most Severe of Any in Recent Years.

Houses Cracked and in Many Instances the Occupants Rushed Out in Terror—Was Not Felt in Chicago.

CHICAGO, Aug. 22.—Illinois was shaken by an earthquake shortly after 11 o'clock last night, the most severe in recent years. The shock, in the southern part of the state especially in the region surrounding east St. Louis was severe enough to rattle dishes and furniture. Houses creaked and in many instances their occupants rushed out in terror fearing that the straining beams and joints would give away.

As far north as Springfield, the shock was distinctly felt. Further north it grew less perceptible, until in the region of Chicago it was not noticed.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 22.—St. Louis was visited by an earthquake shortly after 11 o'clock last night. Three distinct shocks were felt by thousands of persons in St. Louis and St. Louis county. The trembling earth was accompanied by a dull rumbling noise resembling the passing of a distant train.

TRAMP KILLED ON I. C. R.

Belonged to Montreal and Was Stealing a Ride When He Fell Off the Train at Truro.

A tramp stealing a ride from Halifax last night on the night express to this city, fell off the train and was so badly cut up that he died this morning.

The man, who gave his name as Joseph St. Amour, of 235 Visitation street, Montreal, was stealing a ride with two others on the front end of the baggage car on No. 9 express, and while within the town limits of Truro, as the train crossed a switch, he was thrown off and fearfully cut up, losing an arm and leg. The other two tramps did not give word of the accident, but on the arrival of the express at London-derry they were discovered, and they told of their companion's accident.

Meanwhile the injured man was found in the Truro yard and carried to the hospital, where he was conscious for a while, but gradually sank, passing away at 6:15 this morning.

The coroner, Dr. Tupper, held an investigation on the arrival of the maritime express today.

AUTOMOBILE RUNS WILD IN PARIS.

Rendered Driven by Shock of Collision, It Spoke Terror on Its Route.

PARIS, Aug. 22.—A remarkable accident happened early this morning in the Rue de Rivoli, where an automobile overturned three vehicles and broke in a shop front.

The automobile was passing along the Rue de Rivoli toward the Place de la Bastille when it was struck by the ends of some long beams on a wagon. The shock was so violent that the chauffeur and a commercial traveler seated beside him were thrown out of the automobile and were picked up injured on the head and chest.

The automobile, left without a guiding hand, continued on its course. It struck a van, overthrowing it and flinging the driver to the ground. He was severely bruised.

At last the wheels of the automobile passing along the grove of a tramway rail caused the vehicle to make a sudden turn. It bolted into a bar, smashing in the front and covering with debris the people drinking there. Fortunately for them, however, they were more frightened than hurt. Here, however, the automobile was brought to a halt by the wall.

PEACE CONFERENCE.

Meeting to Have Been Held This Afternoon Has Been Postponed Till Tomorrow.

PORTSMOUTH, Aug. 22.—It has been decided to postpone until tomorrow the meeting of the peace conference which was to have taken place this afternoon. The failure of the secretaries to complete the protocols is given as the reason.

TOKIO, Aug. 22.—The Jij, in commenting upon the proceedings at the Portsmouth peace conference today says:—

"The cessation of the Island of Sakhalin and the reimbursement of the cost of the war are the vital points of our demands, and leave no room for any compromise. The moderation and reasonableness of these demands will be admitted by France. Should the attempt to promote peace fail, the responsibility will rest with Russia, not with Japan. The Russians refuse to accept the proposed terms it will be advisable for our delegates to withdraw and tell them that the next meeting will be in Tokyo."

The Ashai says:—

"The war has won a constitution for the Russian people." It declares that Japan is fighting the Russian government and does not entertain any ill-feeling toward the oppressed subjects of the Russian. It expresses the belief that all true Russians must hold some appreciation for what Japan has accomplished for them."

MASONIC GRAND LODGE.

Opened This Afternoon—The Grand Masters Address—Election of Officers Tonight.

The annual meeting of the Masonic Grand Lodge of St. John, N. B., opened this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. The regular preliminary business of the grand lodge meetings first occupied their attention.

A large number of members of other provincial lodges were present, the St. John lodges being especially well represented.

The grand master, C. J. Everett, gave his annual address and traced the happenings of the year in this first term of his grand mastership.

He referred to the increase which the society had met with, both in its financial standing and in the number of its membership. He referred to the visits which he had made during the year to the lodges of the North Shore and Albert county and other parts of the province, and expressed his approval of the custom of the grand master getting an intimate knowledge of the different lodges.

During the year application for admission has been made by two new lodges. A new lodge at Grand Manan has already been organized and will be followed by one at Grand Falls.

This evening the election of officers for the ensuing year will take place. It is probable that the present grand master, C. J. Everett, will be elected for a second term.

COUNTY COURT

OPENED TODAY.

Only One Criminal Case on The Docket.

Several Interesting and Important Civil Cases to be Tried—His Honor Judges Address to the Grand Jury.

The county court opened at 11 o'clock this morning, with His Honor Judge Forbes presiding.

The grand jury empaneled was as follows: Stephen S. deForest, John Edgcombe, Henry Finnigan, G. Fred Fisher (foreman), Frank H. Fiewelling, James S. Gibbons, William H. Nass, Theodore H. Estabrook, Henry D. Robinson, J. L. Thorne, Samuel J. Richey, George A. Horton, Myles E. Agar, Charles S. Everett, James E. Stanton, Percy B. Evans, Frank E. Williams, Richard P. Ratchford, Edward A. Smith, James A. Estey, Frank Fales, Edward L. Rising.

The list of the petit jury were as follows: Wellington Green, Henry Dolan, Alexander M. Phelps, William S. Bowman, George A. Chamberlain, Harry R. Coleman, Edward J. Harrison, William H. Dunham, Caleb Bell, G. O. Estabrook, Frederick C. Melick, R. Daniel Coles, James Rogers, Andrew Myles, Michael T. Whalen, M. L. Savage, R. Bartlett, John Rhea, Wm. H. McGuire.

The docket which occupies the attention of the court is as follows:

The King vs. Frank McDermott, Criminal Cases.

Civil (Jury).

Bustin vs. Byrne—E. T. C. Knowles for the plaintiff and (by proviso) D. Mullin, K. C. for the defendant.

Methodist Church vs. C. Flood & Sons—J. King Kelly for the plaintiff, with A. A. Stockton, K. C., as counsel. No appearance was made this morning by the lawyers for the defendant, Hamilton, Teed & Hamilton, and the full claim of $108 was allowed by default.

Clark vs. Monahan—Barnhill, Ewing & Sanford for the plaintiff and Curry & Vincent for the defendant. Fred. A. Jones vs. Carter et al.—W. B. Wallace for the plaintiff and Scott E. Morrill for the defendant.

In his address this morning Judge Forbes said that in all the business which comes up in this court he was glad there was so little of a criminal case. He referred to the case of the King vs. McDermott, and said that if the defendant had acted within his right as would seem on prima facie evidence, Hamilton only got what he deserved. If on the other hand the case proved to be one of aggravated assault then a true bill could be found. The case had been before the police magistrate and it was to be regretted that the expenses of such a case should now be borne by the defendant.

ADVANCE IN GRAIN RATES.

The Source of Much Unfavorable Criticism—Produce Exchange Will Take the Matter Up.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Journal of Commerce says:—

The advance in grain rates by the eastern trunk line (at and east of Buffalo) to take effect on Sept. 1 are the source of much unfavorable criticism in local grain circles. The advance of a cent in the rate for rye is regarded as particularly arduous and is virtually cutting the eastern seaboard off from this class of business during the coming season. It is understood that strong pressure will be brought to bear upon the transportation committee of the New York Produce Exchange to take his matter up in a vigorous manner with the trunk line grain port and show the necessity of making a change before, it is argued, the business is diverted into another channel. Attention is drawn to the fact that the Great Northern and Northern Pacific have just announced severe reduction in rates from all northwestern sections to the head of the lakes and the conditions are good this year for an active business through the port of New York.

YELLOW FEVER EPIDEMIC.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—A Washington despatch to the Tribune says 111 yellow fever deaths in forty days is the record of the scourge in Honduras, according to reports received by Surgeon General Wyman, of the marine hospital service.

Although several American colonies have been visited by the disease most of the deaths were among the natives of the Honduras consulate here it was stated yesterday that in the interior conditions were much improved and that at Tegucigalpa, the capital, owing to the firm manner in which President Bonilla is handling the situation, no fear of the spread of the fever is felt.

AUTOMOBILES BARRED OUT

Directors of the St. John Horticultural Society Decide they and Auto Cycles Must Be Kept Out of the Park.

A meeting of the directors of the St. John Horticultural society was held this morning at eleven o'clock. Those present were J. D. Hazen, president, Senator Ellis, Joseph Allison, William Hawker, Jas. P. Robertson, Hurd Peters, W. Frank Hatheway, Silas Alward, Thos. A. Rankin, C. P. Clark and H. B. Schofield.

A by-law was passed on the motion of Senator Ellis, seconded by Mr. Hawker prohibiting the use in park of automobiles, and auto cycles. The resolution will be submitted to the common council for its approval.

An amendment moved by Mr. Schofield that automobiles be allowed in the Park in the mornings up to one o'clock was voted down by a large majority. A letter was read from Col. Armstrong—an absent director—suggesting that automobiles might be allowed to use certain roads.

It was reported that progress was being made with the improvement of the entrance to the park from Mount Pleasant and that Judge Barker had donated a piece of his land to the society for this purpose.

OVERDUE STEAMER SAFE.

NEW YORK, Aug. 22.—The Donald Steamship Company's steamer Athos, which was disabled at sea and was long overdue, arrived off Scotland lightship during the night in tow of a steamer from the West Indies. When off the lightship the tow line parted, and it was impossible to successfully run another line in the darkness. The Athos anchored and request was sent to the city for tug to tow her to her dock. The eight passengers from the Athos were brought to quarantine by the towing steamer, the Altai, of the Atlas line.

FELL FIVE STORIES

TO PLAY WITH DOLLS.

Boy Topping Off Fire Escape Lands Unhurt in Mud Pile Near the Girl He Envied.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Frank Wagner, aged three, stood on the fire escape on the fifth floor of No. 1483 First avenue yesterday afternoon, and with tear filled eyes, because he was forbidden to join her, saw Grace Kraus playing with her dolls in the yard next door.

The little girl looked up and smiled. It was a very inviting smile, and it was Frank's smiling. He climbed to the top of the railing, slipped and fell, landing in a mud pile, waist deep, within a few feet of Grace.

Mrs. Wagner shrieked with terror, and ran to the yard, expecting to see the mangled form of her darling, but saw instead the boy calmly removing the mud from his Sunday clothes, and the voracious neighbors even assert that his first words were "Grace, me come down to play with dolls."

For precaution, lest he has internal injuries, he was taken to Harlem Hospital. When he heard that, after all, he was not going to play with Grace and her dolls Frank again cried bitterly.

DETECTIVE KILLEN

AFTER MURDERER.

Has Been at New Mills, Restigouche Co.,

Where a Man Was Found Near the Railway Track Badly Cut Up—Detective Skeffington Now Has the Case.

The mystery surrounding the absence from the city during the past ten days of Detective Killen has been solved by the Star. The detective has been located at New Mills, Restigouche County, where he was entrusted with the unravelling of the mysterious death of a man, who in June last was found lying near the I. C. R. track, dreadfully mutilated. The supposition is that the man met with foul play, and after being brutally murdered was placed across the track for the purpose of making it appear that he was knocked down and run over by a passing train.

For some time past the feeling has been growing that the man was murdered, and it was resolved to engage the services of a smart detective to see what could be done in the matter. The choice fell on Detective Killen, who with the approval of the Chief of Police, left for the scene of the supposed murder where he has been ever since, prosecuting enquiries into the affair.

It is understood that all Mr. Killen's efforts have met with little or no success, and he is returned to town yesterday. The I. C. R. authorities however have determined not to let the matter rest where it is, and yesterday sent Detective Skeffington, of their own police, to take the matter up at the point where Detective Killen has left it.

The answer to the many enquiries of the police authorities here as to the whereabouts of Detective Killen, has been that he is away. This morning the Star was given a little more information, being told that he had been spending the rest of the holiday due to him, but neither the detective himself or anyone else would say how or where.

ANOTHER MOOSE.

The streets are teeming with moose this morning, as a full grown bull moose was seen down Grand street, Cranston, chased by a number of boys and dogs. No one seemed to observe from whence it had come, but one boy bent on making a closer inspection of the animal was sent flying into the roadway, howling from a kick from its hoofs. When opposite the bandstand, City square, it turned and retraced its steps towards Fairville, followed by a crowd of some hundred men, women and children.

Its appearance is supposed to be due to the forest fires raging near Spruce Lake.

McArthur & McVay Will Get $15,000 if They Finish on Time. But Not a Cent if They Are Late—They Must Release the City From All Claims to Date—Lengthy Discussion By the Water Board.

A special meeting of the water and sewerage board was held yesterday afternoon to deal with present conditions regarding the water works contracts. The matter had been considered by a sub-committee, and the report of this committee was presented. It was decided to recommend that McArthur & McVay get $15,000 bonus if the work is done on time under the conditions set forth in the resolution adopted.

There were present, Mayor White in the chair, Ald. Lewis, Hamm, Tilley, Holder, Sproul, Vanwart, McGoldrick, McArthur, Pickett, Christie, Macrae, Bullock, Frink, Baxter, Recorder Skinner, Director Cushing, Engineer Murdoch and Common Clerk Wardroper.

THE RESOLUTION FAVORING THE BONUS.

The recorder presented the resolution of the sub-committee. It set forth that:

"Whereas, McArthur & McVay entered into a contract with the city for certain work in bringing water to the city;

"And whereas, McArthur & McVay have given notice that they are unable to carry out their contract;

"Whereas, that firm give as a reason for their inability that they signed the contract while laboring under a mistake;

"And whereas, the engineer informed the board that these contractors could not do the work at the prices named but that it would cost more than $15,000 more, than the contract price to complete it by the first of November;

"And whereas, McArthur & McVay state that for $15,000 additional they can complete the work and that they will not require payment of any part of this amount if the work is not finished on Nov. 1st;

"And whereas, the board having considered all questions connected with this matter, believe it will be most to the interest of the city that this $15,000 be paid to the contractors;

"Be it therefore resolved, that McArthur & McVay be paid by the city on the completion of the contract fifteen thousand dollars extra to such contract price provided that the contract is completed to the satisfaction of the engineer by the first day of November next, but that no part of this sum shall be paid until the contract is completed; that if at any time the engineer considers that McArthur & McVay are not proceeding with the work at a sufficiently rapid rate the city may engage as many more men or additional machinery as are necessary to have the work finished by the first of November, such cost to the city to be charged against the contractors, and that the bondsmen of these contractors agree to this resolution and any further contracts between the city and McArthur & McVay, and that the firm of McArthur & McVay hereby release the city from all claims they may have against it at the present time.

ALD. PICKETT CHARGES LOOSENESS IN BUSINESS METHODS.

Ald. Pickett thought this was not will be an incentive to them, but it is no guarantee that the work will be done. And I am most strongly opposed to the principle of the thing. We have no right to do it. Money will be along next to make a claim, and in equity we cannot refuse to recognize it. I don't want to see these contractors lose any money, but let them do their work, and when it is done let them come to us and they will be fairly dealt with. Public opinion urges us to keep them to their contract, but this is easier said than done. We may fall back on the bondsmen—that is one way—but meanwhile valuable time is being lost. I am not prepared to make a motion just now, but the resolution presented is the report of the committee of which I am chairman. I cannot agree with the principle in this report, and this being the case I cannot vote for the resolution. It is all nonsense to say that we might have given the contract to the American tenderers. We might not. The Americans wanted all the work or none. Their lowest tender was eighteen thousand dollars higher than Mooney's, and McArthur & McVay's on certain sections was lower than Mooney's. We had to give the contract to the local men, and we had to give it to McArthur & McVay, for if we had not done so we would have been thrown over the wharf."

Ald. Christie did not think it was any part of the committee's duty to report on this Hamilton Junction business. He did not care a snap for Hamilton's influential client, whose name is not mentioned. He thought that after the written reports of the engineers, it was not to ask for a full report of the proceedings of the committee.

Ald. Macrae reviewed the events leading up to the letting of the contract, and was of the opinion that the method advised by the committee was the best one possible for finishing the job. The question of injunctions should not be considered by this committee.

THE MAYOR FAVORS THE BONUS.

Mayor White did not attempt to defend the principle involved in the resolution, but it is to the advantage of the city to let the water to the city in the least possible time. The question of high insurance rates is to be considered in this. The proposed payment to these contractors is not really a bonus. When the contract was given, Mr. Barbour said the work could not be done for the money. He has since stated that the city is now getting work for nothing, as the contractors are now lost money. These contractors were not experienced, but their tender was $10,000 lower than the Boylston Construction Co.'s, and if we had given the work to a higher American tenderer, to the detriment of our local men, what would have been the opinion of the public, seeing what a fuss was made when a Boston engineer was brought here? To take over this contract would mean a total disorganization of the whole system of work now existing. The men would be scattered, the work would be held up, thousands of dollars would be spent in putting the trenches in a shape to withstand the winter, and many other thousands of dollars would fade away in the spring.

Again, there is one condition in the resolution which must be kept in mind. The city will not pay over one cent until the work is done, and there is no such thing as the city being so soft as to pay any of this money if the work is not done. Besides that, the resolution provides that the work must go ahead at a rate which will guarantee its completion on time. The contractors who take up the requirements of the engineer, and if they do not, then the city will force matters by engaging more men and machinery; and this will be paid for by the contractors. He felt that the work must be done, that the city cannot do it in time, and that the pre-

CHILD WAS NEARLY DROWNED BEFORE HIS MOTHER'S EYES.

But Morton McLaren Got There in Time, and the Little Campbell Boy Was Saved.

A considerable excitement was created in Carleton yesterday afternoon among the people living near the east end of King street, when a little boy, the four-year-old son of Fred Campbell, took a tumble over the wharf there into about ten feet of water. The child was playing near the edge of the wharf, which is not protected in any way, and while throwing stones into the water, lost his balance and went head foremost over the wharf and landed with a splash in the water below. The child's mother and another woman were near at hand at the time and ran to the wharf, but as the side was quite steep, they were perfectly helpless and stood terror-stricken watching the child struggling in the water below and clutching for safety at everything around it. The alarm was soon spread and Morton McLaren, son of Officer Jas. McLaren, who was passing by, rushed to the rescue. Seeing that the danger of the child's drowning was imminent and that there was no time to be lost, he jumped into the water with his clothes on and by diving, succeeded in rescuing the little fellow to the surface and placing him safely on a float that fortunately was near at hand. The child was nearly gone when rescued, but recuperated somewhat after a little and was handed up to his home, a short distance away.

JOHN HYDE TALKS ON COTTON REPORT.

LONDON, Aug. 21.—John Hyde, former statistician of the United States department of agriculture, who at present is in London, has been under the care of a physician for several weeks and is still prohibited by his physician from attending to business, gave the following statement to the Associated Press:

"I have just seen for the first time the revised cotton acreage report issued by the United States department of agriculture on July 6. The cotton estimating board reduces the estimate of June by more than 100,000 acres and even goes so far as to say that I made the estimate lower than the reports received from official reporters employed by the bureau warranted. To this statement I give the unqualified denial and assert that the most trustworthy of the various sets of figures on which the report of June 2 was based, afforded the most ample warrant for my estimate."

Mr. Hyde says that he has forwarded an affidavit to Washington covering his connection with the cotton report. He says that he expects to return to America about October 1st.

sent plan is by far the best one that can be suggested.

Ald. Tilley wanted some guarantee that there would be no more claims for extras.

Ald. Christie said this matter was final. If the board will not accept the resolution, then go ahead and force the contractors, make these men lose their connection with the cotton report. He says that he expects to return to America about October 1st.

ALD. BAXTER THINKS THE BONUS IS BEST.

Ald. Baxter agreed that each member should decide for himself what is best to be done. He should do right, irrespective of public opinion. Members of the board who have visited Loch Lomond appreciate the problem better than do the public at large. The underwriters forced the hands of the city in this extension, and the position now is that the sooner the water reaches the city the sooner will the citizens be released from the extra cost of the extension. Should the city exact its pound of flesh it would get only $15,000 from the bondsmen of the contractors, and this after probably lengthy litigation. Ald. Baxter would not in his own private business take advantage of a contract with a man by which that man would be a heavy loser. The city should act as fairly as would a private citizen. In the consideration in committee the discussion is restrictedly narrowed down to this one bonus. If it is sufficient incentive to the contractors to finish in time, will be cheaper than the city could do for. If the bonus is not sufficient, and the work is not done, then the city will not pay a cent.

Mr. Baxter asked that the bonus be made payable on Oct. 31st instead of Nov. 1st. This proposition is absolutely the last that he will consider in any way.

Ald. Bullock was opposed to the proposed resolution. He claimed that the comparisons made between McArthur & McVay's tender and that of the Boylston Construction Company were not correct and that the latter was only between $6,000 and $7,000 higher than the former. Why, then, he contended, pay $15,000 more? Personally he had the best of feeling toward the contractors, but he felt that a principle was involved in this matter and that any alteration of the contract would establish a dangerous precedent.

There was a change proposed for the resolution which provided that the city should not be liable for any extras at any time not ordered by the board, the idea being to wipe out all possibility of dispute with regard to the measurement of the trenches, etc.

ELEVEN TO THREE FOR THE BONUS.

Upon the vote being taken the resolution which, in the form of a recommendation will go before the council, was carried on the following vote: Yes—McArthur, Sproul, Vanwart, Tilley, Holder, Hamm, Lewis, Christie, Macrae, Baxter, McGoldrick, Nays—Frink, Bullock, Pickett.

It was stated that a letter from Messrs. Mooney regarding the lowering of water in Lake Latimer had been referred to the recorder.

A committee was chosen to put the resolution in proper phraseology consisting of the mayor, recorder, and Ald. Pickett, Frink and Tilley.

The board adjourned.

MEMORIAL FROM RUSSIAN JEWS

Presented to M. Witte and Baron Rosen.

PORTSMOUTH, N. H., Aug. 21.—A memorial was presented today to M. Witte and Baron De Rosen, the Russian chief plenipotentiaries, from the Russian Jews of Lawrence, Mass., by Walter E. Rushforth. It was as follows:

"Will you condescend to accept the hearty greetings of the Jewish residents of the industrial city of Lawrence, also the following resolution subscribed to by the undersigned:

"Whereas, it has pleased His Imperial Highness Nicholas, Emperor of all the Russias, to delegate His Excellency M. Witte and Baron De Rosen to represent the fatherland at the peace conference with the imperial envoys of Japan, be it

"Resolved, that we, Jewish residents of Lawrence, extend to them a brotherly welcome, and devoutly pray that success may follow their efforts in the high and noble service you have rendered your country and humanity in the past. Though Americans, we have the natural love of all people for the land of their birth and it is our earnest, our constant prayer and hope that the white dove of peace shall find an abiding place as the result of your deliberations, and that prosperity and happiness shall take the place of bloodshed, riot and discontent, not only at home but abroad everywhere.

"Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions, duly signed, be presented in person to their excellencies, M. Witte and Baron De Rosen, through our friend, Editor Rushforth, of the Lawrence Journal."

The memorial is signed by about 600 Russian Jews of Lawrence.

KNIGHTS OF PYTHIAS Will Observe Thursday as Decoration Day.

The Knights of Pythias will hold their decoration day on Thursday next, when the graves of the departed brethren in the different burying grounds of the city will be beautified with garlands of flowers. The Knights will form up at two o'clock, the afternoon at their hall. THE G.T.P. SURVEY. POLICE ARRESTED TEN OF THE LEADERS.

Line Now Being Located From Chipman.

Descended on Meeting of Professional Men in St. Petersburg.

The work of locating the line which is to be adopted by the Grand Trunk Pacific from Chipman to Moncton was begun yesterday morning at the Chipman end. The work is in charge of Engineer H. M. Balcom, who has a staff of about fifteen men with him.

As previously announced in the Star, work was commenced from the Moncton end on Monday by surveying party in charge of Engineer Paul Weatherbee. The parties will work until they meet, and the line then located is supposed to be the one which will be finally adopted from Chipman to Moncton, whether the central or the valley route from Grand Falls to Chipman is selected. Chipman is a point common to both of these routes. The line which was found in the preliminary survey from Chipman to Moncton is only fifty-eight miles, which is only three miles longer than an air line between the two points.

The route which has been surveyed through the centre of the province, and which is called the "central" route, is from Chipman to a point about ten miles west of Boiestown, where the Canada Eastern is crossed. From this point it runs to Plaster Rock, where the Tobique is crossed, and from there to Grand Falls.

The "valley" route is from Grand Falls to Woodstock, from Woodstock to Fredericton, and from Fredericton to Chipman. Chipman's interests will be equally well served by either route.

PRINCE HENRY WILL VISIT OTTAWA.

OTTAWA, Aug. 20.—The Canadian Club today received a telegram from Prince Henry of Battenburg, stating that his serene highness will be in the capital on Thursday, and accepting the club's invitation to luncheon for that date.

ATTENDED "AT HOME" ON FLAGSHIP "DRAKE"

QUEBEC, Aug. 21.—Their excellencies and party attended a naval service of song at the Auditorium yesterday afternoon, and today were present at an "at home" on the flagship Drake. They left for Ottawa direct by special train on the I. C. R. this evening, some of the household having preceded them last night.

H. R. H. Prince Louis of Battenburg left here by special C. P. R. train and about two hundred blue jackets and marines of the C. P. R. this evening for Montreal.

Now, why not have a Pandora?

Now we have shown you that the Pandora is a good range, —that it is easily managed, —that its grates are easily taken out and replaced without expense, —that you can cook on the top and bake in the oven equally well at the same time, —that it is the only range with a single piece enamelled steel reservoir, —that it has the best broiling door, —that it has an absolutely reliable thermometer, —that it is most economical, because it does its work with least coal.

Now, why don't you have a "Pandora" and be certain you have the best range?

THE EXTRA $15.00.

The city council has followed the line of least resistance in the adjustment of the McArthur and McVey contract. The contractors get $15,000 more than the contract price. Whether that is more than the amount of the next tender above theirs will not be known until the quantities are worked out. On the present estimate of the contractor there would be very little difference between the contract as amended and that of the Doyleston Company. There is no other authority for the quantities or for the cost of the work, than the engineer's report and the statement of the contractors themselves. According to their evidence the work will give the contractors no profits with the increased allowance and will cost the city no more than a fair price.

It is altogether an unsatisfactory business. But that is not the original fault of the city council, for no one would have justified the rejection of the lowest tender. It would have been considered wrong to pass over a firm of responsible local contractors and to pay a foreign firm ten or twelve thousand dollars more for the same work. The people who are paying the bills should be so afraid of the contractors losing money. It would have been pointed out that the tenders knew their business, and that if they took the job too low it would be so much the better for the city.

It appears now that the lowest tenders did not know this particular business. It is clear now that the low price was not so much the better for the city. Hereafter when the tender is very low it will be well to consider when the contract is made the possibility that he will not go on with the job.

RUSSIA AND SAKHALIN.

Russia holds that the transfer of Sakhalin to Japan would create an impossible situation, because that island commands for six hundred miles along the coast of Siberia approaching in places within four miles of the mainland. The power holding this island would command the whole coast and would be forever a menace to Russia. In the opinion of Russia this situation would be much the same as if a foreign power held Long Island.

It is natural that Russia should wish to hold this territory if she could. But she has allowed it to be taken almost without resistance, while she fortified at immense cost, and defended at great sacrifice her position in Manchuria. The way to keep Sakhalin was to keep it, and it will probably be found that Japan will retain the island, by force of arms if diplomacy fails to secure it to her.

After all the geographical situation with Sakhalin belonging to Japan need not be regarded as absolutely intolerable. If Sakhalin commands Siberia, Siberia threatens Sakhalin. Cannot Russia imagine herself inspiring with dread the Japanese dwellers on that narrow island?

Should M. Witte look for a parallel case to the foreign ownership of a territory commanding his coast frontier he might visit that portion of North America formerly owned by Russia. For much more than six hundred miles that strip of foreign country reaches down the Pacific coast of Canada. It shuts the Yukon from the sea, it thrusts its promontories in the face of British Columbia. Its islands haunt the mouth of our sea ports, and cluster round the terminus of the next transcontinental railway. Yet Canada exists and tries to be happy.

Russia will probably find it necessary to do the same. She has already agreed to the Japanese control of Korea, which is a near neighbor. She accepts the neighborhood of Japan itself. On the east coast she has Sweden facing her at striking distance across the water. She herself, has approached within threatening distance of India. Most other states have foreign countries near them. England is not far from France and the lower countries. Spain endures Gibraltar. Austria-Hungary is surrounded by possible foes. Geographical isolation is not permitted to nations at this period of the world's history. When this condition occurs there will be only three or four nations on earth.

REFORM ON THE INTERCONTINENTAL.

Mr. Emerson says that he will now "decentralize" the Intercontinental. He will impose larger responsibilities upon the heads of departments. There will be savings and economies. Also look out for greater efficiency and better results.

This sounds well. But has Mr. Emerson given his heads of departments control of the patronage? Will they be allowed to buy supplies at one price from the dealers who offer the best value? Will they be permitted to discharge incompetent or unsatisfactory men? Is the party leader out of a job no longer to find the government railway a testing place and source of livelihood? Has the end come to the management of the railway as a campaign machine and a party convenience? If so Mr. Emerson has himself undergone a remarkable transformation.

It is announced that the transcontinental railway location surveys between Moncton and Chipman have begun. But was not stated that the shortest central route crossed the country thirteen miles from Chipman? If the road is to be diverted for local reasons what is the matter with the valley route?

A new Central Railway contract which will probably involve expenditure of $30,000 to $100,000 has been made. But this does not supply the required rolling stock or the new buildings. That will be another story.

DR. BAYARD.

Dr. Bayard is in years one of the oldest practicing physicians in the world. In his spirit, his sympathies, his hospitable welcome to new ideas and to fresh knowledge he is among the juniors. It is only the physical part of a man like Dr. Bayard which can ever grow old. Most of the old fogies of his profession are less than half his age.

A few years ago a gentleman charitably interested in the open air treatment of tuberculosis, then not so familiar as it is now, visited this city. He expressed a desire to discuss the subject nearest his heart with some of the more advanced and open-minded doctors of St. John. The younger ones were preferred. It did not seem to him worth while to try to convince hardened old practitioners. The writer of this article did not quite agree with the view of old age since expounded by Dr. Oiler, and suggested that a call be made upon Dr. Bayard, who then held an influential position on the provincial board of health. In reply to the visitor's doubtful enquiry it was admitted that there were younger physicians in the town than Dr. Bayard, but the recommendation was not withdrawn. Finally the call was made. After an interesting conversation the stranger came away declaring that in his travels he had not anywhere found a doctor more keenly alive to the importance of the matter discussed, or more fully abreast of modern knowledge of the question, or generally more alert and enthusiastic. "I wish," he said, "that the young doctors in my own province were as wide awake and as public spirited as you Dr. Bayard." The St. John doctor then long past four-score. Yesterday he was ninety-one, and the same testimony might still be given concerning him.

THERE SLUMBER ENGLAND'S DEAD!

A lady just returned from San Sebastian, thus describes the graveyard of English soldiers killed in the siege of 1813:

"It is a pathetic sight," she says, "of these neglected graves on the hillside under the fort, the palisades of the enclosure broken in places and disfigured, the memorial stones defaced and overgrown, everything betokening neglect and oblivion. What makes the sight more painful is that the inscriptions on the officers' tombs give the names of some of our best families. One would think that the keeping up of these graves would be regarded not only as a sacred duty but as an honor. About a hundred English soldiers are buried here.

Appropriate are the lines of that pretty and most patriotic poetess quoted above—

The warlike of the isles,
The men of field and wave,
Are not the rocks their funeral piles,
The seas and shores their grave?

In the Wellington despatches regarding this siege occurs a striking passage. In reply to his brother, Sir Henry Wellesley, who was still residing at Cadix, as ambassador, the duke, at that time Lord Wellington, said: "In regard to the plunder of the town by the soldiers, I am the last man who will deny it, because I know that it is true. It has fallen to my lot to take many towns by storm, and I am concerned to add that I never saw or heard of one so taken by my troops that it was not plundered."

The great Spanish novelist, Galdos, in his "National Episodes," ("Episodios Nacionales"), pays a high tribute to Wellington's humanity, but of course the great commander could not achieve the impossible.—Westminster Gazette.

CLEVER HORSES AND MULES.

"Anyone anxious for a change of amusement from comedy, tragedy, or variety, should this week pay a visit to Cooke's Circus, where an interesting entertainment is provided by Professor E. K. Crocker, with his stud of performing horses, ponies, etc. The animals, thirty in number, are trained, or, as the programme has it, educated to perfection, and the clever display given by them says much for the patience, skill, and originality of their instructor. A feature of the performance is that the animals appear not in the orthodox ring, but upon the stage, and so perfectly trained are the performers, that the comparatively limited space at the theatre tends to enhance the cleverness of the entertainment."—Edinburgh Evening Dispatch, June 2nd, 1903.

FIRE ON BATTLE LINER.

The coal burning in the bunkers of the Battle Line steamer "Erebus" was extinguished. The fire was discovered on Tuesday last, when some distance east of Sable Island, on the way from Liverpool. The crew combated the fire as best they could, but on Thursday, when docked at Pettigill wharf, the real work of fighting the fire commenced. The coal above the fire was removed, the men at times working waist deep in water. On Saturday morning the fire was extinguished. Damage estimated approximately at $5,000 was done.

FIRE AT SUSSEX.

SUSSEX, N. B., Aug. 22.—At 12.45 this morning the fire department was called out to a rather stubborn fire in Nelson street in the residence of William Griffiths. Mr. Griffiths was asleep at the time and had to leave through a window to save his life. Fortunately his wife and children were away from home.

The fire had gained good headway, the flames leaping from all the windows before the alarm was run in, but owing to the promptness and good management of the department the fire was confined to the building. The contents were destroyed and nothing remains except a shell. There was no insurance.

Mr. Carrier, who was assisting the department, was severely burned on the legs.

A policeman found them engaged in a rough-and-tumble fight at Market and Cherry streets.

Steinburg told Magistrate Moss he was standing in front of his home when the little "Jap" came along, snatched his fingers under his nose, said "You look like a Russian," and hit him in the eye.

IT IS A UNIQUE TRICK.
In beating the Giants in Chicago, 7 to 2, the Cubs worked a trick which baseball men who have grown gray in the business say is most unique.

It happened in the seventh inning, and gave Bill Mahoney a chance to beat all his own records for speed on the bases. The score was three to two in favor of the Cubs, and three of Mahoney's men were on the bases when the manager himself faced "Iron Man" McGinnity, who had replaced Ames.

Chance had made three hits, a hit every time up, and he again smashed the ball to a safe spot over Sammy Strang's head, up against the right field fence. All the base runners began tearing for the plate. Wicker was on third, and of course scored easily. But Mahoney who was on first, got to third almost as quickly as Slagle did from second, and they turned the base for home on almost even terms.

Strang fielded the ball in to Gilbert in record time, and the throw to plate beat the two runners. However, Slagle, slightly in front, and Mahoney both slid at Bremanah at the same time, and of course the catcher couldn't touch them both out at once. He tagged the first one, Slagle, but umpire O'Day ruled that Mahoney was safe. The two Chicago runners started to slide simultaneously, and Mahoney spiked his own team mate on the arm in the scramble for the plate.

Bremanah, McGinnity and the whole New York team surrounded the umpire and tried to argue him into calling Mahoney out, but they had no grounds for a case and the unique feat of a score being made on an out at the plate was recorded.

ATHLETIC.
At a largely attended meeting last night, a new athletic club was formed, having for its object at present the formation and entry of a football team in the Intermediate League the coming season. The club was organized as the Beaver A. Club, the following being chosen as its officers: President S. H. Taylor; vice-president, J. Alfred Clark; secretary-treasurer, F. Godfrey Kenney. These with H. C. Simmons were constituted a committee of management.

The club decided to adopt green and red as the colors; the football sweaters to be of green body, with red facings and a green sash, the monogram to be a beaver in red. The stockings will be green with one red band around the centre. A letter was ordered to be written to the league executive with reference to the club's team entry into the league. The new organization is composed principally of players of last year's Neptunes and Trinity teams.

THE TURF.
AMHERST RACES SEPT. 4 and 5. The entries for 2.40 and 2.30 classes, purses $300, both for trot and pace, will close August 24, with J. R. Lamy, secretary. The two stakes, $500 each, on same dates, closed with ten nominations fully paid.

THE FIN.
A HOT CONTEST.
A hot fifteen-round fight took place at Chester, Pa. Friday night between Jack Blackburn, of Philadelphia, and Sam Langford, of Boston, before the NEPTUNES DINE COATES.

William J. Coates of the Neptune Rowing Club arrived from Halifax yesterday morning, bringing with him one of the most beautiful trophies that has ever been brought into this city. The cup which Mr. Coates won in the races at Sydney is of solid silver, stands about two feet high, and is about six inches in diameter at the middle. It sits on a heavy ebony base and on the top has a figure of a man bearing an oar.

A dinner was given in Mr. Coates' honor last evening at Whites' restaurant by the Neptune Rowing Club. Roland Frith, president of the club, presided. After an excellent dinner, various toasts were drunk. The one to the guest of the evening was responded to by Mr. Coates, who told of his experiences in Sydney and Halifax. The principal speakers in response to other toasts were Senator Ellis, President Frith, Hober Vroom, Vice-president Kenneth Macrae, 2nd Vice Fred Hamilton, and Mr. Johnston.

At the close of the toasts Harold Robinson of the Street Railway Company was called on to give some information as to the prospects of having the railway extend to Millville. Some time ago the club had a memorial to the Railway Company asking that the line be extended to Millville, as they wished to move their boathouse to that locality and keep their rowing boats there. Mr. Robinson could give nothing definite as to the company's intention in this regard, but assured them that personally he would do his best to further the club's interests.

Prof. Collinson presided at the piano and gave a number of selections.

Leiperville A. C. Both men were on their feet when the final gong sounded and although no decision was given the fight was conceded a draw.

RYAN'S TACTICS.
Tommy Ryan, the middleweight champion, denies that he has any intention of disputing the heavyweight championship with Marvin Hart, of Louisville. "Hart is a big, strong fellow, and he is coming all the time," said Ryan. "If he keeps on studying and working the game, he will be a champion for a long time. As a fighter, I believe my days are over. I have been devoting most of my time to my fruit farm and have found it profitable."

Ryan, as is well known, was one of the cleverest and brainiest boxers in the ring. It was he who made a champion out of Jeffries. Ryan knew all about Fitzsimmons' style of fighting, and taught Jeffries how to whip him. Under Ryan's handling Jeffries improved 50 per cent. Ryan is a past master of the art of boxing and recently told important points which earned him success in the ring.

"I fought three nights before I saw a fight," said Ryan, "and I got what I had naturally. I never blocked in my life. I never used my hands to whip a punch by me. I let the other fellow do the blocking and the leading. When I fought Needham out here he was cleverer with his hands than I was. I was green and awkward then, but I had better footwork, and I tired him out. Instead of blocking, I always used the head slip and ducked."

"I seemed to take naturally to the same crouch I taught Jeffries. I also taught Jeffries to watch a fighter's left knee. When he fought Fitz he was crouched over, with his eyes on the other's knee. Every time Fitz led Jeffries made him look foolish. No man can stand a punch without moving his left knee, and if you watch that and let your punch go the minute that knee moves you beat him to it. What if the other fellow is feinting? The chances are that he opens up enough to let your punch in. I always crouched over, and, coming in sideways, watched that knee, and the minute he opened up I let go. I never looked into a fighter's face except occasionally to see what I was doing to him. That ducking may be the old English style of the game, but I think it is a good one. The high block is all right, but when you are blocking high the other fellow may come in below. By ducking I was never hurt in a fight. I have had my face marked and all that, but never was hurt in the body or where I felt it afterward."

"Take, again, the fighter who is always leading. He gets 90 per cent. the worst of it. I figured that out long ago, and I never led unless I had to. I know the referee wants a man to lead in a short fight to get the decision, but most of my fights went the distance, and then it was a case of the winner getting the decision honestly. To get the best out of the game, start your punch a little before he starts his. Then you meet him coming in and beat him to it, and the damage is all on the other side. You'll find, and I think that it is the right way, that it is not advisable to block everything and then to get set and lead yourself. It is a rule of the game that no fighter should lead with his right. He leads with his left and lets the right follow, one-two."

SIR HENRY MORGAN, BUCCANEER

By CYRUS TOWNSEND BRADY,
Author of "The Southerners," "For Love of Country," "The Grip of Honor," Etc.

COPYRIGHT, 1905, BY C. W. DILLINGHAM COMPANY

Sir Henry Morgan, a notorious buccaneer, who has been made vice-governor of Jamaica, was deposed by King James and ordered with arrest. Morgan, however, with the help of Benjamin Hornigold, is once more able to hoist the black flag. Hornigold aids him with the hope of getting Morgan in his power and exacting revenge for his brother whom the old buccaneer had hanged. On the morning of the 10th, Morgan sails south and attacks two Spanish frigates conveying a heavily loaded galleon. The convoys were destroyed and also the heavy Rose Morgan, however, sails south in the galleon where he is wrecked off the coast of Caracas.

Captain Dominique Alvarado, commander of the port of La Guayra, loves the daughter of the Governor of the Spanish colony of Venezuela, and his love is secretly returned. The governor, however, chooses De Tobar as Donna Mercedes' future husband. The governor has sent Alvarado in charge of a party to convey Mercedes to La Guayra and they set out. On the way Donna Mercedes poured out her love story to Alvarado. He holds to duty and she attempts to jump her horse over a cliff. He seizes her from the saddle, the horse goes down and she is killed. Morgan and his band reach the shore in safety and bury their treasure. They decide to march against La Guayra and Caracas, ravage these places and seize the first ships that come into port. On the march Morgan's men encounter Alvarado's little party and kill everyone except the captain and the two women who were taken prisoners.

The rising moon flooding the white strand made the scene as light as day. They kept good watch on the walls of La Guayra, for the sound of the shots in the night air had been heard by some keen sentry, and as a result the garrison had been called to arms. The firing had been too heavy to be accounted for by any ordinary circumstances, and officers and soldiers had been at the guns for some time. However, to take precautions were wise, and every preparation was made as if against an immediate attack. The drums were beaten, the ramparts were manned, the guns were primed, and such of the townspeople as were not too timid to bear arms were assembled under their militia officers.

The watchers on the west wall of the fort were soon aware of the approach of the buccaneers. Indeed, they made no concealment whatever about their motions. Why they were and what they were the garrison had not discovered and could not imagine. A prompt and well aimed volley, however, as soon as the buccaneers came within range apprised them that they were dealing with enemies, and determined assaults at that. Under cover of the confusion caused by this unexpected discharge Morgan deployed his men.

"Lads," he said, "we'll board you fort with a rush and a cheer. The ladders will be placed on the walls, and under cover of a heavy fire from our musketry we'll go over them. Use only the cutlass when you gain the parapet and ply like men. Remember what's on the other side. Who'll plant the ladders?"

"The priests and the abbess," said Morgan grimly. "I saved them for that."

A roar of laughter and cheers broke from the ruffianly gang as they appreciated the nastiness of the old buccaneer's scheme.

"It's an old trick," he continued; "we did the same thing thirty years since at Porto Bello. Eh, Hornigold? Knows that leg of yours?"

"Ride here then with the musketeers. Teach you shall take the walls under the cliff yonder. L'Ollonno, lead your men straight to the fort. De Lusan, let the curtain between be your point. I shall be with the first to get over. Now, charge your pieces all, and Hornigold, after we have started, by slow and careful fire do you keep the Spaniards down until you hear us cheer. After that hold your fire."

"But I should like to be in the first rank myself, master," growled the old boatwain.

"Be, ha!" laughed Morgan. "That's a right spirit, lad, but that cut leg holds you back, for could they do? They picked up the Spaniards," bowing toward Alvarado with a sardonic countenance. "You can be of service here. Watch the musketeers. We would have no firing into our backs. Now bring up the rear, to the front. The Spaniards were firing at them now, but with no effect so far. The distance was great and the moonlight made aim uncertain, and every time a shot was fired it showed itself over the battlement it became a target for the fire of the musketeers, who, by Hornigold's orders, ran forward under the black shadow cast by the high cliff, where they could not be seen, and from this point of concealment, taking deliberate aim, made havoc among the defenders.

"Now, good fathers," began Morgan, "you have doubtless been curious to know why you were not put to death. I saved you not because I loved you, but because I needed you. I had a purpose in view. That purpose is now apparent."

"What would you do with us, senior?" asked Sister Maria Christina, the ab-

ess.

"A little service, my sister. Bring up the ladders, men. See, there are seven all told. That will be four apiece to four ladders, with one priest over for good measure and to take the place of any that may be struck down."

"What are we to do with them, senior?" asked the leader of the priests, Fra Antonio de las Casas, drawing nearer to the captain.

"You are to carry them to yonder wall and place them against it."

"You do not mean," burst out Alvarado painfully, for he could scarcely speak from his wounded cheek, "to make this holy woman and these good priests bear the brunt of that fire from the fort?"

"Do I value the lives of women and priests, accused Spaniards, more than our own?" questioned the captain, and the congenial sentiment was received by a yell of approval from the men. "But if you are tender hearted I'll give the defenders a chance. Will you advise them to yield and thus spare these priests?"

"I cannot do that," answered Alvarado sadly. "Tis their duty to defend the town. There are twenty here; there are hundreds there."

"D'ye hear that, mates?" cried Morgan. "Up with the ladders!"

"But what if we refuse?" cried one of the priests.

"You shall be given over to the men," answered Morgan fiercely, "whereas if you do as I order you may go free—those who are left alive after the storm. Do ye hear, men? We'll let them go after they have served us," continued the chief, turning to his men. "Swear that you will let them go! There are others in La Guayra."

"We swear, we swear!" shouted one after another, lifting their hands and brandishing their weapons.

"You hear?" cried Morgan. "Pick up the ladders!"

"For God's sake, sir, unsay your words! We cannot place the ladders which will give you access to yonder helpless town!"

"Then to the men you go!" cried Morgan rudely.

"Death," cried the abbess, snatching a dagger from the nearest hand and driving it into her breast, "rather than dishonor!"

She held herself proudly erect for a moment, away back and forth and then fell prostrate upon the sand, the blood staining her white robes about the site of the wound. She writhed and shuddered in agony where she lay, striving to say something. Fra Antonio sprang to her side and before any one could interfere he was dead.

"I—I have sinned," she gasped. "Mercy, mercy!"

"Thou hast done well. I absolve thee!" cried the priest, making the sign of the cross upon her forehead.

"Death and fury!" shouted Morgan, livid with rage. "Let her die unshriven! Shall I be balked thus?"

He sprang toward the old man, stooping over the woman, and struck him across his shaved crown with the blade of his sword. The priest pitched down instantly, a long shudder running through him; then he lay still.

"Harry Morgan's way!" cried the buccaneer, recovering his blade. "And you?" turning toward the other priests. "I have had enough? Pick up those ladders, or—"

"Mercy, mercy!" screamed the frightened ecclesiastics.

"Not another word! Drive them forward, men!"

The buccaneers sprang at the terrified priests with weapons out. First

"Death rather than dishonor!"

"It's an old trick," he continued; "we did the same thing thirty years since at Porto Bello. Eh, Hornigold? Knows that leg of yours?"

"Ride here then with the musketeers. Teach you shall take the walls under the cliff yonder. L'Ollonno, lead your men straight to the fort. De Lusan, let the curtain between be your point. I shall be with the first to get over. Now, charge your pieces all, and Hornigold, after we have started, by slow and careful fire do you keep the Spaniards down until you hear us cheer. After that hold your fire."

"But I should like to be in the first rank myself, master," growled the old boatwain.

"Be, ha!" laughed Morgan. "That's a right spirit, lad, but that cut leg holds you back, for could they do? They picked up the Spaniards," bowing toward Alvarado with a sardonic countenance. "You can be of service here. Watch the musketeers. We would have no firing into our backs. Now bring up the rear, to the front. The Spaniards were firing at them now, but with no effect so far. The distance was great and the moonlight made aim uncertain, and every time a shot was fired it showed itself over the battlement it became a target for the fire of the musketeers, who, by Hornigold's orders, ran forward under the black shadow cast by the high cliff, where they could not be seen, and from this point of concealment, taking deliberate aim, made havoc among the defenders.

"Now, good fathers," began Morgan, "you have doubtless been curious to know why you were not put to death. I saved you not because I loved you, but because I needed you. I had a purpose in view. That purpose is now apparent."

"What would you do with us, senior?" asked Sister Maria Christina, the ab-

ess.

"A little service, my sister. Bring up the ladders, men. See, there are seven all told. That will be four apiece to four ladders, with one priest over for good measure and to take the place of any that may be struck down."

"What are we to do with them, senior?" asked the leader of the priests, Fra Antonio de las Casas, drawing nearer to the captain.

"You are to carry them to yonder wall and place them against it."

"You do not mean," burst out Alvarado painfully, for he could scarcely speak from his wounded cheek, "to make this holy woman and these good priests bear the brunt of that fire from the fort?"

"Do I value the lives of women and priests, accused Spaniards, more than our own?" questioned the captain, and the congenial sentiment was received by a yell of approval from the men. "But if you are tender hearted I'll give the defenders a chance. Will you advise them to yield and thus spare these priests?"

"I cannot do that," answered Alvarado sadly. "Tis their duty to defend the town. There are twenty here; there are hundreds there."

"D'ye hear that, mates?" cried Morgan. "Up with the ladders!"

"But what if we refuse?" cried one of the priests.

"You shall be given over to the men," answered Morgan fiercely, "whereas if you do as I order you may go free—those who are left alive after the storm. Do ye hear, men? INFERNAL MACHINE SENT THROUGH MAIL

Disguised as Cigar Box—Was Received by Police Capt. O'Reilly.

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—Guncotton enough to kill a man, arranged in an infernal machine and disguised as a cigar box, was received today by Precinct Police Captain Miles O'Reilly. This is the third deadly explosive instrument of similar construction sent through New York mails in the last four days, the other two being received last Friday by Jacob H. Schiff, the banker, of H. M. Guggenheim's Bank. Captain O'Reilly received a clear box by mail today which in weight and every other detail misled him into taking it for a genuine present. Unsuspecting he opened the box, and found a heavy and tenacious nail fastening down the cover caused the first suspicions. When the box had been carefully opened at the ends, the cover was found to have matches glued to its inner surface in such a manner that they would be ignited on emery paper by effort necessary to raise the lid.

The police quickly secured proofs that the flare of merely one out of the half dozen matches would have caused the death of Captain O'Reilly.

BOSTON VISITORS.

A party of sixteen tourists under the personal direction of Rev. Frank H. Palmer, of Boston, editor of Education, a well known magazine, arrived in the city yesterday, and are guests at the Dufferin. These comprising the party are: O. T. Tuffman and wife, Mrs. J. A. Chandler, Schenckstadt, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Leiding, Miss Margaret Leiding, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Merrin, Cincinnati, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Reed, Miss H. Sheppard, Miss Annie Reed, Fairhaven, Vt.; Miss Margaret Pendleton, Miss Kate Pendleton, Bangor, Miss Alice Burrill, M. D., Washington, and Miss Sarah Knell, Westfield, Mass.

The party left Boston three weeks ago, and have been touring through Nova Scotia, having visited Halifax, Digby, Wolfville and the Land of Evangeline. Their pleasure was somewhat marred during the week spent at Digby by the almost constant fog. They enjoyed the trip immensely, however, and all speak in the highest terms of the manner in which Rev. Mr. Palmer mapped out the tour. The party will stay at Boston today by the Calvin Austin.

The Social Duties of the Ladies of the Cabinet

BLUE ROOM AT WHITE HOUSE WHERE THE LADIES OF THE CABINET ENTERTAIN

Mrs. Cortelyou

BY WALDON FAWCETT.

Summer and winter the wife of a member of the president's cabinet is never permitted to forget for long her social responsibilities, and this will be especially true this year. For one thing, the St. Louis Exposition is bringing to our shores great numbers of distinguished foreigners, many of them persons of rank and official position, to whom formal hospitalities must be extended, and then again a presidential campaign, with the Chief Magistrate a candidate for re-election, necessitates social activity rather beyond ordinary standards.

In what might be termed the official social circle of the nation the wife of the President is as pre-eminent as is her husband in the political realm. For instance, her preferences in the matter of social usage are universally respected. But, just as at foreign courts, the gaiety of a social regime is often more dependent upon the ladies of the court than upon royalty itself, so, too, in this greatest of republics fate has placed the balance of power in the hands of the wives and daughters of the members of the president's cabinet.

The feminine members of the cabinet households constitute, with the possible exception of the president's wife, the greatest single factor in official social life. The leads of the various executive departments constitute the official family of the chief executive, and from a social standpoint the ladies of the cabinet bear much the same relation to the first lady of the land. One reason for their influence is found in the fact that the social duties of a cabinet member's wife are obligatory. To be sure, the wives of United States senators also have social responsibilities that are supposed to be compulsory, but there is far less shirking of such duties on the part of senatorial women than by the four members of the cabinet circle.

The social importance of the presidential cabinet is no new thing. But has existed from the earliest days of the republic. It was during the administration of Thomas Jefferson that ladies of the cabinet first became especially prominent in entertaining. Mr. Madison was then secretary of state and his wife, the famous Dolly Madison, and her sister, Miss Payne, afterward Mrs. Eaton, were very active hostesses. James Monroe was in turn, Madison's secretary of state and his wife proved herself admirably fitted to act as the first lady of the cabinet. The next turn of the wheel of political fortune made John Quincy Adams, secretary of state in the cabinet of President Monroe, and Mrs. Adams, who was born, educated and married in London, was the moving spirit of a very brilliant series of cabinet functions.

Early in the last century there first appeared those vexing social problems which in one form or another have confronted all the women of the cabinet circle to this day. Even at that early date the tangle was such that during the time John Quincy Adams was secretary it became necessary to discuss it at cabinet meetings. The first turnoff was occasioned by the fact that all ladies arriving at the National Capital as members of the cabinet should take the initiative in calling upon them. This the cabinet women absolutely refused to do. They were perfectly willing to return all visits, but they would under no circumstances make "first calls" upon strangers who arrived.

The indignant newcomers complained to the wife of the President and she interceded with the cabinet ladies, but all to no avail. Then the Cabinet took up the matter one day, but after discussing it for more than two hours they wisely concluded to allow each lady to follow her own inclination. At the conclusion of this memorable Cabinet conference Secretary of State Adams issued a formal declaration, setting forth his position and that of his wife. They took the ground that to visit all strangers was impossible and that to visit some of the newcomers would imply a slight upon many other ladies.

Perhaps the earliest of the great social events which was distinctly a Cabinet function was the ball given by Mrs. John Quincy Adams in honor of A. J. Jackson, on January 8, 1821, the anniversary of the battle of New Orleans. The gentlemen present were all in full state reception dress, consisting of blue coats, gilt buttons, white or buff waistcoats, white neckties, high chokers, silk stockings and pumps. In this connection it may be mentioned that although political feeling ran very high at the time—as it may again in the autumn—no exclusions were made in invitations during the eight years Mrs. Adams presided at the head of the Cabinet circle because of differences in sentiment as to public affairs.

The most sensational episode or rather series of episodes in the social history of the Cabinet occurred during the administration of Andrew Jackson, when Mrs. John H. Eaton, the wife of the Secretary of War, but a woman unfortunate in her antecedents, was openly slighted by the other ladies of the Cabinet, who exerted all their influence to have the President remove Mr. Eaton simply that his wife might be deposed from the social position to which her husband's post entitled her. President Jackson not only refused to accede to these requests, but openly added to General Eaton and his wife, of whom he was a great admirer.

How satisfactorily the ladies of the Cabinet can, upon occasion, meet grave responsibilities was strikingly attested during the administration of President Van Buren. Mrs. Van Buren had died many years before her husband attained to any degree of political prominence, and the ladies of the Cabinet literally saved the administration from going down to history as a social failure. During President Johnson's incumbency the position of Chief Magistrate the ladies of the Cabinet inaugurated the regular weekly public receptions which have ever since been held at the Cabinet homes in Washington each winter.

Possibly the Cabinet circle which in the entire history of the country has been most memorable for lavish hospitality was that formed as a result of the election of Grover Cleveland to the presidency. It included such hostesses as Mrs. William C. Whitney, whose husband was Secretary of the Navy, and Mrs. Manning, a descendant of Chancellor Livingston, who administered the oath of office to President Washington. When ill-health compelled the retirement of Mr. Manning from the Cabinet he was succeeded by Assistant Secretary Charles Stephens Fairchild, and Mrs. Fairchild became the first lady of the Cabinet after the death of Mrs. Bayard, wife of the premier. An important event in the Cabinet circle during the Cleveland administration was the marriage of Mary C. Endicott, the daughter of the Secretary of War and Mrs. William Crowninshield Endicott, to Hon. Joseph Chamberlain, of England.

A broader sphere of social activities was opened to the ladies of the Cabinet when, during the Cleveland administration, Congress repealed the old law, whereby the president pro tem, of the Senate or the speaker of the House of Representatives succeeded as chief executive in the event of the death of the president and vice president, and, instead, regulated presidential succession by precedence of members of the Cabinet. Not only did this give the members of the Cabinet added importance in the eyes of the law and the public, but it established a line of succession according to which Cabinet members and their wives now rank at all ceremonial and social affairs. This order of precedence is as follows: Secretary of state, secretary of the treasury, secretary of war, attorney general, postmaster general, secretary of the Navy, secretary of the interior, secretary of agriculture and secretary of commerce and labor.

One of the first women who was obliged to give up social life because of ill health, supposed to have been due to the latter-day responsibilities of a Cabinet member's wife, was Mrs. William Freeman Vilas, the wife of the postmaster general under Cleveland. Since then there have been several similar cases. To the fatigue induced by arduous social duties was attributed the death of Mrs. Lyman Gage, wife of the secretary of the treasury in the McKinley administration, and the daughter of ex-Secretary Long, of the Navy, and other feminine members of Cabinet households have also within the past few years suffered from nervous prostration and other serious consequences of the severe strain imposed.

One of the conditions which play havoc with the health of many Cabinet women is found in the unwritten law which requires that the wife of a Cabinet member shall return every call made upon her, not merely by her personal friends and other prominent people in official life, but by the throngs of curious folk who attend her public receptions. As a result of this custom there are Cabinet women who, at the height of the social season, average over 2,000 calls a month. Then, too, a Cabinet hostess must assist the President's wife in all the big card and public receptions at the White House, and at least once each year the wife of each member of the Cabinet entertains at her own home the President and his Cabinet, together with the ladies of their households.

The daughters of Cabinet officers have frequently vied with the older ladies of the circles in popularity and weight of influence. A notable example was afforded by the famous Kate Chase, whose father was at one time secretary of the treasury. This beautiful woman was one of the most powerful of the powers behind the throne during the Civil War, and it was largely her influence which kept General McClellan at the head of the Union Army.

In quite a number of instances, the daughters of widowers in the Cabinet have acted as mistresses of their fathers' households. This is the case in the home of the present Secretary of Agriculture. His daughter, Miss Wilson, is one of the most admired young women in official life and she recently came off victorious in an animated social contest with the daughter of another member of the Cabinet, who claimed that Miss Wilson should not be entitled to rank with the wives of the other Cabinet members at official and social functions. However, the persons in control decreed that inasmuch as she was presiding over her father's household she was entitled by virtue of that position to all the privileges which would be accorded to his wife were she living.

The World's Biggest Grain Elevator.

Canada has rightly been termed the world's granary, and it is not surprising to learn that some monster elevators are to be seen in that country. By elevator is meant a building specially designed for the storage of wheat.

What is probably the largest ever erected is that recently completed in Montreal. It was built to the order of the Harbor Commissioners, after plans approved by the Minister of Public Works for the Dominion, so Canada's greatest elevator may be said to be a government building.

The edifice is particularly interesting, not so much on account of its gigantic size as the improvements it embodies over existing structures of this kind. It is built of steel and concrete, and is fireproof. Most elevators are of wood, and, being liable to destruction by fire, a heavy insurance premium is demanded.

The new Montreal elevator has a total storage capacity of 1,000,000 bushels of wheat. The grain is kept in bins. They are cylindrical in shape and built of steel plates. Alongside the structure is a movable tower, which runs on four steel rails along the dock. It is 22 feet wide, 23 feet long and 150 feet high. It moves on 20 pairs of car wheels. The total height of the whole structure is 135 feet.

The building is lighted throughout by incandescent electric lights. All the machinery is driven by electric motors, while it is needless to add there is a complete dust collecting and burning system. The cleaners are entirely of steel, and therefore fireproof.

It is in these buildings that farmers store their wheat, often for months at a time. The grain on being received at the elevator is examined and graded, all of the same quality being kept together. The farmer or merchant who brings it receives an acknowledgment for so much grain of such a quality, and the grain which is delivered from the elevator on his account is grain of that quality, and not the same as he brought. The elevator under notice can receive from boats at the rate of 15,000 bushels an hour. Grain can also be taken in from railway trucks at the rate of 20 cars an hour. By means of its conveyors it can load ships with the precious wheat at the rate of 8,000 bushels an hour.

James McKenna has been reported for allowing his horse to run at large in Riverview Park, on Douglas avenue on the night of the 20th inst.

Officer Merrick was called into Mrs. Olive Lewis' house, 2 Moore street, to prevent a breach of the peace while James Rodgers was trying to get a sewing machine.

The engineer on the Fredericton branch railway reports that yesterday they met half a dozen moose around the track and that one of them was killed by the engine.

Rev. David Lang returned this morning from Boston by the Calvin Austin. Mr. Lang preached in Boston last Sunday and last week attended the conference at Northfield, where there were about two thousand present.

Premier Tweedie arrived in the city last night to confer with Mr. De Laramie, representing the Credit Foncier, in reference to the sale of bonds to replace the temporary loan recently negotiated with that bank. No decision will be reached at this meeting.

Late last evening a window in the Boston Restaurant, Charlotte street, was broken accidentally, and a man's hand badly cut. The parties breaking the window paid for the damage, and Dr. Berryman was called to dress the injured hand. The man hurt was named Bell.

Petition was presented in probate court by Mr. Scott, J. Morris Robinson and George Coster, the executors and trustees of the last will and testament of Edward G. Scott, for the partitioning on the accounts of the estate. Citation was granted returnable 2nd of October. H. H. Brittain proctor.

Rev. A. W. Currie has resigned charge of the F. B. Church, Lower Millstream, and will close his labors there in October. It is rumored that he is strongly inclined toward the far west, where there are now some very inviting openings. He recently spent a few weeks touring that country and was very favorably impressed with its advancement and its unlimited possibilities, but nothing definite has been decided upon as yet.

POLICE COURT.

Business Was Quiet This Morning—Fined Twenty Dollars For Assault.

This morning Magistrate Ritchie was at the police court long before the people whose business takes them into that kaleidoscope of human life arrived, for was not his honor going to join the young men of St. Joseph in the annual outing to Waters' Landing. There were only three prisoners requiring attention and at eight o'clock they received their due reward. One ordinary drunk being fined four dollars or ten days. James McDonald, a seaman, had to pay eight dollars for being drunk, and also for other behaviour, which was hardly in keeping with the conduct of a man.

John Quigley, aged twenty, arrested last night on a warrant issued a month ago for assault, was fined twenty dollars or two months, and remanded on a charge of breaking windows in the house of Mr. Holland, the corner of Clarence and St. Patrick's streets.

A number of hackmen appeared later in the morning for driving without a license, and were told to come again on Monday morning next.

RIVER TRAVEL FAIRLY HEAVY.

River travel would be rather slack if the transportation companies had to depend upon the country folk, for farm work is causing a general depression along this line of business. Tourist and vacation travellers are many, however, and the larger boats claim to be doing quite well. The Star liner Pokanoket brought about 200 passengers to Indiantown from Fredericton and other points yesterday.

N. B. CENTRAL RAILWAY.

Understood That the Contract With Messrs. Brown Was Signed Today.

It is understood that the contract for the Central Railway which has been in abeyance for some time was signed today. The amount which goes to Brown Brothers covers repairs to bridge ballast and renewing the ties and ties. The contract for repairing the telephone lines, water tanks and making improvements to the station houses will be either done by day's work, under the direction of the commissioners, or awarded separately to other parties. No provision has been made for the purchase of rolling stock. Work will be commenced immediately, and the commissioners hope to have it well advanced before cold weather sets in.

The contract was prepared by A. P. Barnhill, K. C., on behalf of the government, and Hon. H. A. McKeown for Messrs. Brown. The commissioners have agreed to furnish the contractors a steam shovel for use in their work. W. C. Hunter, manager of the road, went west yesterday to secure one. Senator King says that with the exception of about four miles the ties on the road are all in first class condition, practically new, in fact. The contract only calls for $500 new ties. Senator King is confident that the road will pay when the repairs contemplated are completed. He anticipates a large amount of traffic when the work of construction on the trans-continental is under way.

DON'T READ THIS.

Anyone interested in the study of human nature would find it interesting to pass an hour or two in the office of the Penobscot Natural Sulphur Spring Co., 24 Waterloo street, where ever since the company started business, an extraordinary number of sufferers from rheumatism, indigestion, dyspepsia and kindred complaints, have sought relief for their aches and pains. Already a large number have returned for more and have gratefully expressed their appreciation of the benefit derived from taking a single gallon of the now famous sulphur water. The government analyst, W. F. Best, gives the composition of the water as 6 grs. of carbonate of soda; 4 grs. carbonate of magnesia; 1 1/2 grs. carbonate of lime; 1/2 gr. of the volume is carbonic acid gas, and one tenth of the volume sulphuretted hydrogen. Sufferers should lose no time in calling or writing for particulars.

RACE FOR A CIVIC JOB.

The Indiantown harbor-mastership is still a matter of much uncertainty. The appointment will probably be made next month. George Gosham, the bridge street tailor, is at present discharging the duties of the office to satisfaction, but it is understood the other aspirants for the job are very active to secure the appointment. One of these is a leading Indiantown merchant known to the chief, movers in the proposed action, and will be prosecuted if the warnings given out from time to time prove insufficient incentive to serve pure milk.

MILK DEALERS AND WATER.

A short time ago the Star made mention of the complaint of many householders regarding the poor condition of milk sold to them. This condition, they claim, is not one whit improved; if anything it is worse. Some of the milk sold for pure milk is actually blue with water. The matter takes on a serious aspect, inasmuch as hundreds of St. John children are being made sick by it, and it is considered dangerous to change the food of infants during hot months. The dealers who are selling the watered milk are known to the chief, movers in the proposed action, and will be prosecuted if the warnings given out from time to time prove insufficient incentive to serve pure milk.

ALL IS NOT HARMONIOUS.

The firm of Messrs. McArthur & McVey are not altogether in accord. Mr. McArthur has been known to have expressed the opinion that the firm could have gone ahead with the work without waiting for any special bonus as has now been granted by the council. It will now be necessary for this firm to forego all claims for extras either on work now completed or still to be performed. It is said that the firm agreed to these conditions when before the sub-committee. If they are not willing to forego extras no practical result will follow the resolution lately adopted by the water and sewerage board.

MOOSE IN MILFORD STREET.

About ten o'clock this morning a large moose was seen in the river by some men at Milford who set out in a boat to try to effect its capture. The moose easily eluded them and effected a landing near the old Miller mill, and taking a short cut through the fields was seen trotting up Milford's principal street. In the meantime the news had got around and every person in the vicinity was out looking at the large animal. Having leaped a few fences, to the enjoyment of the by-standers, it finally took French leave and departed at a smart gallop for the woods near the Temple hall.

SUBSCRIPTIONS UNSATISFACTORY.

ST. PETERSBURG, Aug. 22.—It is announced from Moscow that subscriptions there to the new internal loan are unsatisfactory. The subscriptions thus far amount to only $100,000.

An imperial ukase will be issued on August 17th authorizing the issuance of a new internal loan of $100,000,000 at five per cent.

DREDGING WILL BE DELAYED.

A despatch from Ottawa announces that the tenders for dredging St. John harbor were regarded as excessive, and that new offers have been invited for September 5. This will greatly delay the work and leaves little hope that the new wharf will be available before the winter port closes of 1906. No official word in regard to the matter reached City hall this morning.
