ST. JOHN, N. B., FEBRUARY 24, 1872.

The Position.

Disguise it as you may, opposition to the Government means opposition to the School Law.—Sit. Croix Courrier.

Let us clearly understand the meaning of a statement which borders on the puts so bluntly.

The Government is charged with assisting to spirit away a member of the Opposition on an Emigration mission, in order to reduce the ranks of the Opposition at the approaching Session. If this charge can be clearly established, if it can be made to appear that intimidation and corruption were employed, through the Government's "next friend," to induce a member of the Legislature to absent himself from the Province whose Government would be on trial, in opposition to the Government on this score, he would be treated as opposition to the School Law.

If the action of the Government, in sanctioning the construction of a cheap narrow gauge road, by the River du Loup Company, instead of the best grade, on the construction of which the enormous grant of 10,000 acres of the public lands per mile was based, is called in question, and the Government's conduct is condemned, as it deserves to be,—is this, too, to be interpreted as an attack upon the School Law?

If the resolutions of the past three months, in reference to the Government delegation who visited Bishop Sweeney and pledged themselves to secure aid to his sectarian schools, be brought before the Legislature; if the sentiment of the country in opposition to such schools, and the pledges of the Government to the friends of non-sectarian education, be quoted against the Government, is this to be construed into an assault on the School Act?

In short,—if it be proven that the Government have misappropriated the public funds, have purchased support by openly paying members of the Legislature, on matters not to be discussed,—Messrs. Kelly and Hatheway not to be called to account for their acts,—is the Legislature to be held in league, strings, because one or two papers exclaim, "opposition to the Government is opposition to the School Law?" The Courier intimates as much, and other journals are working to that end; but the Country, the Electors, the People will scarcely submit to have the Legislature and the Press assailed that Messrs. Kelly and Hatheway may rule or ruin" as they please and remain in blissful ease and comfort with the Government and treasury of the Province in their hands.

The Government and their friends may depend upon a searching investigation of their every act and deed, just as freely as if New Brunswick had never heard of the School Law? They will see the part of honest politicians by courted enquiry and descending themselves manfully on the issue, and scotching all such pleas as are put forth by over zealous champions based on the existence of "the School Law." It is more honorable to die sword in hand, "if needs must," than to do cowardly fear calling on "the School Law" for protection.

The True Spirit.

The following letter which we find in the Boston Journal possesses several good qualities. It breathes a prayer for peace between Britain and the United States, in which we of Canada heartily join. It presents a correct estimate of the relative positions of the two nations, and is calculated to tone down the braggadocio spirit which rises on this side of the Atlantic on the slightest provocation, but which we are pleased to note, has not been so notably displayed of late as on occasions of former disputes.—

To the Editors of the Boston Journal:—

Prayers were offered yesterday in all the churches of the City for the promotion of peace between England and the United States.—Fox's Telegram.

Within a week we have heard that "General Sheridan is in consultation with the President; that the strength of the country in a military point of view was canvassed; that 'orders have been sent to all our forts to have them put in readiness, and to the Springfield Army to increase the manufacture of rifles." And now across the ocean, from our kinsmen in England, comes the telegram: "Prayers were offered in all the churches at Sheffield for the prevention of war between England and the United States. 'Thank God for that message!' Have we not reason to join in that prayer?

We are just emerging from a domestic war, which, by the best estimates, has cost us nearly a million men, and nearly nine thousand millions of property. We have a small war, few ocean steamers, no coaling stations outside our own waters, and an immense coast lined with propensities but unprotected towers. It is doubtful whether we have one harbor whose fortifications could keep out iron-clads, and by two inventions already known it is thought that torpedoes may be made almost useless for their protection.

England is the richest nation in the world. She has the most powerful marine. Her steamships ply the waters of every sea. Her fortifications and coaling stations are found all over the world. She has been the victor in every contest by marriage to Prussia and Denmark, for the Crown Prince of Prussia, who may any day be Emperor, is the husband of the daughter of Victoria, and the Princess of Wales is the daughter of the King of Denmark, whose island of St. Thomas we concluded not to take. Spain has no love for us. Russian Cossacks are not our friends nor has the Czar made any of our citizens members of that royal and secret order which has conferred upon the magnates of other countries.

Monarchical Governments everywhere are fast concentrating hands to our institutions. They conspired to send Austrian Maximilian, with French troops, to Mexico. They would be glad to see here a Southern Confederacy, or better still, a Southern Empire.

But aside from all these considerations, war with our kinsmen, our fellow Christians, with those descended from the same ancestors, having the same language, literature and law, common interests here and common hopes hereafter, God forbid! And let all our churches join, if need be, in that prayer for the churches at Sheffield, "for the prevention of war between England and the United States."

G. T. A.

When the public mind of the United States becomes thoroughly imbued with such just sentiments, Canada may expect to hear no more of British raids from United States territory—those raids against which Canada was compelled to protect herself at an enormous expenditure, which, by the way, the United States Treaty Commissioners declined to consider in the general settlement, and the British Commissioners weakly abandoned. War between two such nations would prostrate every industry on this continent, destroy values and cripple the world's commerce to an extent that is simply incalculable. This, of course, is war on a grand scale. But even the small wars which the Fenians occasionally try on us, are most injurious to our Dominion, both politically and financially, and it will, we trust, be the earnest desire and effort of the honest-dealing and thoughtful People and Press of the United States to restrain the operations of this annoying enemy of Canadian property, and ultimately destroy it, root and branch.

Mr. D. L. Huntington's fate is a long treading in the balance for some time, but to-day the Supreme Court decided in his favor and dismissed the petition against his release.

MATTERS IN GENERAL.

A Woman Sentenced to be Hanged.

An Exalted One in the Old Bailey.—Impending a Jury of Matrons.

From the London Globe, Jan. 17.

The scene that was enacted yesterday evening at the Old Bailey, on the occasion of the execution and sentence of Edmond, was one of rare occurrence, and, for its romantic grandeur was almost unexampled, even in the annals of the Newgate Calendar. The old and dingy looking court was densely crowded to the very roof, and the benches were overflowing with the wretched-looking people of the London slums. The scene was a strange contrast to the usual proceedings of the Court, and the atmosphere was one of peculiarly gloomy and oppressive.

Mr. D. L. Huntington's fate is a long treading in the balance for some time, but to-day the Supreme Court decided in his favor and dismissed the petition against his release.

words, "let the Sheriff impart a jury of matrons forthwith," were heard. Such is the law of ancient times, and in obedience to the injunction of the Sheriff, with the sword, cocked hats and frills, filled into the body of the court, and galleries.

IN QUEST OF MATRONS.

After about twenty minutes, a dozen of well-to-do and respectfully dressed women who could have supposed to enter the jury box, into which they marched and took their seats as if it was a matter of everyday occurrence. Mrs. Adelaide Whitte, the forewoman, was sworn separately, and then the rest in a body. It was arranged that they should see the prisoner in the Sheriff's parlour. They retired, and the prisoner was removed. Half an hour elapsed, when a messenger came into Court, and an inquiry was made aloud by the Judge whether they wasan acquiescent in Court. Presently and directed to join the matrons. Half an hour more of suspense and eager interest. A messenger again comes in with whisps, and the rumour goes about that the doctor requires a stool, and that there is a fourth of comedy even in the midst of the tragic scene, for they say that a policeman has just during a murder trial presented a telescope instead. More delay; more suspense. Here they are at last. The prisoner looks at her, the matrons agree in the box. The verdict is spoken by the forewoman in a single word "Not Guilty." The humanity of the rule is well proved by this delicate matter to the decision of twelve women, actually present at the trial, and not by the jury of twelve men as usual. The result has been impenetrable, and a jury of men would have been equally divided.

A DOCTOR WAS FOUND,

LOCALS.

Want to Buy.

Several Maine gentlemen are now in our City desirous of purchasing saw milling property in or near St. John. They evidently believe in the future of the Province. Stammer "Send."

The arrival of Small & Hatheway's steamer "Soud" is looked for daily.

Mattlad Vessels.

This small Nova Scotia village has 27 vessels building at the present time.

Gadet Yachtsmen Corps.

This body of young military men are enlarging their list encouragingly. Fifty five is the number wanted, and it is nearly full. A few more sprightly youths are required.

Band at the Rink.

The Band plays as usual at the Rink this afternoon.

Personal.

The Hon. W. S. Oate of Kent County is in town. Another "new departure" will probably soon take place.

River Street Church.

Rev. W. S. McKenzie will preach in Pitt Street Baptist Church to-morrow (Sunday) at 3 o'clock.

Lectures at St. Andrews.

O. D. Wetmore, Esq., will lecture at St. Andrews on next Tuesday evening, in aid of the Episcopal Sabbath School Building Fund.

Bishop Medley's Services.

To-morrow forenoon Bishop Medley will preach in Canon Harrison's Church, Portland. Mr. Stacey presided. The notices in this morning's papers convey, as a rule, a correct idea of the gist of the Lecture. Mr. Boyd was in good voice and swayed his audience at pleasure. At the close, Thomas Maclellan, Esq., moved, and Lauchlan Donaldson, Esq., seconded a vote of thanks, which the audience enthusiastically endorsed.

The Supreme Court.

To-day, Rule Nisi was refused in the cases of Hatch vs. Taylor, Cassidy vs. Cundy.

Rule Nisi was granted in the following cases—Camby vs. Wright; Betts vs. Bacon; Milner vs. Grant & Bonall; Regina vs. Timmons.

Ex-parte Marks et al. Rule absolute for certiorari to remove assessment on the town of St. Stephen, on the ground that the Local Legislature had no power to pass the act giving power to assess.

Dever vs. Morris,—appeal dismissed.

In the Hamilton election petition case the Court decided in favor of Hamilton and dismissed the petition against his return.

The Court then adjourned, leaving a large amount of unfinished business.

New Vessel.

There will be launched from the building yard of Mr. Thomas Jenkins on Monday, a new bark named the "Ade Barton," of 60 tons. She is owned by C. W. Watters, G. McLean, Wm. F. Batt, B. Gandy, J. Devine, Esqrs., and Captain McGrath, who will command her. Her dimensions are 135 feet keel, by 39 feet, by 18 ft. 6 inches. She is fully iron keeled and sided, is built with double floors, has a frame of extra dimensions, or beyond that required by Lloyd's for a vessel of her tonnage. She is essentially yellow metal fastened and well thought out.

The managing owner, Mr. Watters, has endeavored to make her a thorough vessel in every respect, all the details having been carried out by the builder to the entire satisfaction of those interested. She will receive the highest class at English Lloyd's for Colonial vessels.

Messrs. Scammell Bros. have chartered her for Cuba.

From the Chignecto "Post".

Concerning the election row at Dorchester, Tuesday, the Post says—"A gentleman of the bruiser profession then appeared behind the orator in his shirt sleeves, and with arms akimbo a la Bayre, announced his intention to see fair play. A rash was made for the platform, and orators, bruisers, reporters of Post, Daily News and electors were all mixed up promiscuously like." A nice collision.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 23.

A CIRCULATING MEDIUM, except by Banks.

The French Arms resolution was again taken up.

Sensitors Trumbull and Morton made speeches, which had little to do with the subject.

NO ACTION was taken.

The Senate adjourned till Monday.

IN THE HOUSE,

the Diplomatic Appropriation Bill received some amendments and passed.

A Bill to reimburse College

"WILLIAM AND MARY,"

in Virginia, for damages during the war, was considered in committee of the whole.

GRANVILLE'S NOTE

to Minister Schenck, upon the case of the United States, was laid before a Cabinet meeting to-day and discussed during the entire session, nearly two hours. The terms of the note are still withheld FROM PUBLICATION, and it is stated that it is of such a confidential character that even if the Senate should call for it, it might not be considered best to comply with the request.

A REPLY

has not yet been agreed upon, and a draft of the document will be submitted and further discussed at the next Cabinet meeting.

Concomitantly the fact already stated that there is NO DISPOSITION on the part of our Government to modify the Case as made up by Counsel. There are only intimations, not well authenticated that would consent to some modification rather than the Treaty should fail. The judgment of other members of the Cabinet appears nearly unanimous to even at the expense of England's retiring from the Conference at Geneva.

SECRETARY FISH

ADHERE TO THE TREATY,

Good authority states that the reply to Granville's note will probably offer to submit to the Geneva Tribunal the latest point in controversy, and leave it

FOR THE ARBITRATORS TO DECIDE whether it can properly present a claim for indirect damages; or they can pass upon them under the meaning of the Treaty.

Charles Francis Adams represents, from his impression in a rapid passage through England, that the commercial classes of that nation would prefer to see and to pay an amount, whatever it may be, to clear off all scores.

EVERYTHING SETTLED

BUFFALO, Feb. 23.

At a meeting of the Board of Trade this morning, James H. Downer introduced a strong preamble and resolutions in behalf of the fishing industry.

OF THE LAKES,

which has suffered under reciprocity, (such as licen, gilling, twine, salt, &c.) especially by

INVADIOUS FISHING.

In favor of New England fishermen. The resolutions also set forth that the Western fishing industry under the Treaty of Washington is threatened with

ADDITIONAL BURDENS,

and promises to be utterly ruined; they urge upon Congress to extend immediate relief to Western fishermen, and request Western Congressmen to favor such an adjustment of the fishery question as will give the Lake fishermen all privileges, rights and drawbacks extended to

FISHERMEN OF OTHER SECTIONS.

The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

THE NATIONAL PROHIBITORY CONVENTION

nominated James Black, of Pennsylvania, for President, John Russell, of Michigan, Vice President.

WOMEN

were admitted as delegates to the Convention, and the platform adopted contains a

BROKE THROUGH A BRIDGE

this noon. A partial list of the casualties gives the names of one killed and ten wounded; there were 26 passengers on board.

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 23.

There was great excitement in the Convention to-day on the passage of section five of the Ordinance which agrees that the terms prescribed by Congress as a condition to admission

TO THE UNION

if ratified by a majority vote at the time and under regulations prescribed by the Convention, shall thereupon constitute a part of the ordinance. Many delegates strongly opposed the passage of the section of the ordinance.

MORMONS

are generally indignant at being forced to sacrifice the favorite doctrine of polygamy.

Resolution finally passed mainly by the efforts of Prophet Fitch and Elder Connor, who are accused by Mormons with being influenced by most necessary motives.

LONDON, Feb. 23.

The Queen has returned from Osborne to Windsor where she will remain to participate in thanksgiving services on Tuesday next.

The Prince may not be able to attend the Cathedral to-day.

The Standard this morning says that the Prince is suffering from slight indisposition which will compel him to be absent.

The Marquis of Lansdowne will probably succeed Lord Northbrook as Under Secretary of State for War should he be made Victory.

Monckton, Conservative, was elected from North Nottinghamshire to-day to fill vacancy caused by resignation of Speaker. Denison, Under Colonial Secretary, replying to inquiry said collisions between American and Canadian fishermen were in opinion of Government impossible, but precautions would be taken.

The Pope pronounced twenty-eight Bishops yesterday, including four from America.

Bishop Dupanloup, Dukes Rohan and Tremvillay arrived at Antwerp. Number of strangers constantly increasing; their presence causes much agitation in the city. To-night the streets are polluted by tumultuous crowds and the police are out in force.

Granville's note to Minister Schenck considered in Cabinet yesterday. Impatient to divulge its contents at present.

Merchants' Exchange.

The following despatches were received at the Exchange to-day—

St. Petersburg, Feb. 23.—Flour at Liverpool, 20s. 27s. Red Wheat, 11s. 8d.

New York flour market dull, slightly in buyer's favor. Common to Good Extra State, $6.80 a $7.8.

Park steady, $14.15 a $14.30 new; $13 a $13.30 old.

Grain freights, 6d.

Montreal flour market dull, in buyers favor. Western State and Welland Canal, Superior, $5.80 a $6.25.

New York, Feb. y. 24th.—Gold opened at 101.

City Police Court.

John McCollough, 42, Ireland, drunk on Charlotte St., fined $6.

Daniel Lewis, 34, Mac Indian, came to the Station for protection; let go.

George Wilson, for keeping a bar and selling liquor without being duly licensed in his shop on Brussels street.

To-morrow the war will go on between the liquor men and the law. The bar-keepers are not satisfied with working like other men, six days in the week, and making "their pile," but they must also coin money on Sunday, and thus mugs the war.

Conley deserves a word of praise. It has not contributed anything to the funds since that sixty dollar "haul" a little while ago.

Portland Police Court.

John Quinton was charged with assault on Lawrence Gohde, the constable was working together on the roof of Hamilton's Mill, Straight Street, yesterday afternoon, when an altercation took place, and the defendant was styled a quarrelsome man by the plaintiff, rushed forward and struck him on the face. The roof being rather an airy place for a set to, the parties went below for a free fight, but before plaintiff got his coat off defendant rushed upon him and pushed him backward over some lumber, fell on top, got his thumb in his mouth and commenced his evening meal. The foramen interposed and forbade any further pugilistic performances around the place. Mr. Topley finally settled the matter by seasoning some good salubrious advice by a fine of $12, and dismissed the party.

Margaret Dixon, a respectable looking woman, was charged with drunkenness. The Magistrate thinking there was something extraordinary about her, allowed a fine to stand.

Two parties from the Poor House, "Dan" and "Dr." Brown and John Taylor, had a row out there yesterday, and "Brown" hailed Taylor before the Magistrate. Fine $8 for a month's goal.

WHICH?

Grand Lady Mildred had lovers a score: Up to the castle they thronged the door. Beauty was hers, and a mine of gold; But her smile and her heart were icy cold.

Down at the village, poor little Kate Had but one lover of low estate. All that she had of wealth to impart Was a pleasant smile and a tender heart.

Came Lady Mildred's suitors—and went; And the castle they left in a trice. Haunter grew she and older still, So that all her splendor was void and cold.

In a humble home Kate passed her life, A dotting mother, a gentle wife. Not without trials and cloudy days, But peace was about her all her ways.

Grand Lady Mildred, wrinkled and old, Kate lies buried under the sod, Waiting in quiet the mercy of God.

Would you be dragging out life to the last, With a hopeless future, a barren past? Or in the church-yard tranquilly rest, Ceasing from toil, and your memory blessed?

At the recent ball de Copera at Paris, the most striking costume consisted of a black pair of stays rounded off by short, tightly-fitting black silk balling drawers covered with jet beads. In addition to this a cap and boots of the same color, slate-colored tights, and a black plume trailing from the hair.

The belle of the evening was Miss —, who was selected by the Committee as Alexis' second partner, the first being a married lady. Miss — is an exquisitely beautiful girl—very accomplished, witty and au courant with a fragment of the dual conversation may be interesting. "You know what I want to say, tell me in English," said Duke. She gave him a long hard word, which he stumbled over. "Now tell me in Russian," said she. At her Russian pronunciation he laughed heartily. "I have as much right to laugh at your English as you have at my Russian," said the lady. "That's that better," asked the Duke, making another attempt. "Um, um," replied the beauty (being a sound made without opening the lips), "Um, um," said the Duke, "and what does that mean?" "That means, my dear, 'I replied the savor bella, and at every favorable opportunity, during the evening. "Um, um" was the answer vouchsafed by the prince. He danced twice with his beauty, and took her in to supper.—Memphis Cor.
