Paragraphs Selected for the Readers of "The Gleaner." Some Funny Bits for Those Who Like Them.

Pyne in His Strongly Fortified Castle. Mr. Pyne to His Father. One of the most remarkable features of these curious and exciting times in Ireland is the real-estate of Mr. Douglas Pyne, M. P.

THE LITTLE FISH. A man finds any amount of fault with a woman, yet works tooth and nail to get her. He calls her extravagant, yet wants to pay her bills. She's nervous, but he devotes months to finding the spot where that heart should be.

A MIND NOT TO BE WOUND. A traveler, being in a coffee house with some gentlemen, was largely drawn on the credibility of the company. "Wasn't that my all those months ago, when I was in London?"

THE LAST FISH. The proudest, fattest turkey-cock, of all the birds that were fed in the yard of the baron's house.

THE FARMER, who had before destroyed this sort of baron's bird, knew the score that lay in store, and smiled, but never said a word.

THESE GUYS ARE IT. There are some men who have the faculty of being cheerful and chipper, no matter what circumstances they are in.

A LEGENDARY AND HOW THE HEATED COWARD. One of the legends at Barrow's winter quarters in Bridgeport gave birth to a cub some time ago.

FOUR BURGERS ATTACK A PRIEST. WINSTON, Nov. 28.—At four o'clock this morning four masked men visited the house of Rev. Father O'Connor, of Maldestone Cross.

IN THE COURSE of a reading lesson the teacher asked what it meant. Receiving no satisfactory response, he attempted to elicit the answer by saying:—

"Down boys, I've sure you must know it's something, for instance, which passes up your arse when you touch a galvanic battery. What is it? Well, my lad, I see you know."

"Yes, sir, I know," came an answer from another part of the class. "My mother catclod one up our Tom's sleeve this morning!"—Chambers' Journal.

IT IS IN THE FRENCH—PERHAPS. Pansy—Devilish slow affair, hay? De Twiriger—Yes. No nobility to give it tone, doucheknow. Pansy—Suppose we play a game of tennis, Gert?

DE TWIRIGER—Wouldn't really do, Aw, these. Let us stay and keep the common people in countenance. The poor devils will be pleased to know that we are looking at them.

CHOPPED OUT. Somerville Journal. People who do not believe that perpetual motion is possible never saw a Maine girl in blissful conjunction with a piece of spruce gum.

COMMERCIAL ENVOY. The New York Chamber of Commerce in Favor of the Movement. New York, Dec. 1.—At a meeting of the chamber of commerce today, the special committee appointed to consider the subject of Commercial Union with Canada, submitted a resolution expressing their earnest desire that all differences arising from the fishery question and all other differences between the United States and Canada should be peaceably and speedily adjusted on a basis of mutual interest.

WHAT HE RECEIVED. Rev. Joseph Parker and His Trip to America. New York, Nov. 28.—The Rev. Dr. Joseph Parker, of the City Temple, London, has finally made public the exact figure he received for his engagement of Henry Ward Beecher, about which the good people of Brooklyn have been so much excited. The following special dispatch from the English clergyman dated from Chicago, was received by the Herald yesterday afternoon: "To deliver the eulogy at Brooklyn I paid for six thousand miles of travel, suspended my usual work in London for five weeks, paid for the supply of my pulpit during my absence of five Sundays, and for the whole time, work and expense I received neither more nor less than $700."

HIS EXCELLENCY'S TALK. Lord Lansdowne's Remarks on the Question of the Terms of Office. OTTAWA, Nov. 30.—The statements cabled from London that Lord Stanley will succeed Lord Lansdowne as Governor-General of Canada before the fall of the present incumbent has expired, is discredited in official circles here, and, in fact, is ridiculed at Government headquarters. Lord Lansdowne in addition to stating that he will serve his full term, says he has not the remotest idea as to who his successor will be, and thinks that had the British government decided the point, or that there were any official grounds for the statement, he would have some intimation.

THE NEW YORK HERALD prints an account of the meeting in London Tuesday night, in which a fight between Sullivan and Mitchell was arranged. The backers of both pugilists were present, and the following war of words transpired: Mitchell:—What do you propose to fight for, Mr. Mitchell? Sullivan:—Five hundred pounds a side. Mitchell:—You don't fight me. Sullivan:—You don't fight me. Mitchell:—No that is enough. What I principally want is the satisfaction which I have been seeking from you for the last three years. Sullivan:—You can have all you want, Mitchell; perhaps you'll get more than you want. Mitchell:—What else ring do you propose to fight in, Mitchell? Sullivan:—Why, to fight under the new prize-ring rules, under which all prize fights are fought—16-foot ring. Sullivan:—I want to fight in a 16-foot ring. Mitchell:—Twenty-four foot. Sullivan:—Sixteen foot. This was repeated by both several times and a squabble ensued, at the end of which Sullivan said: "If you want to fight in a week, I will fight in a 16-foot ring, or if you will wait until my engagements are over, I'll fight you off in any where you like." Mitchell:—Why have you allowed me to run all over America twice after you if you think you can fight me here? Sullivan:—He wanted to take an advantage of me and interfere with me in my business as well as advertise himself. Mitchell:—Interfere with you? What can he do of you? Sullivan:—You don't want to fight me. Mitchell:—I want to arrange something else but a fight, and I hope that is the object of all connected with you. Sullivan:—Gee and Mac fought in a 16-foot ring and I want a 16-foot and nothing else. Mitchell:—Then I'll not agree to anything of the kind. Sullivan:—This amounts to nothing. You don't want to fight. Mitchell:—Don't? I have told you that is my errand here this evening. Sullivan:—We have concluded everything. You want to break up my business. Mitchell:—You have a good job, too. You have made no poor houses for poor people. You never looked for any charitable institutions. I have. Sullivan:—When? Mitchell:—For the starving miners in America, when you, after promising, failed to put in an appearance, and you know it. Sullivan:—It's a lie. I'm a gentleman. Mitchell:—You are no such. Sullivan:—I want a 16-foot ring. If you do not agree to that then I'll fight you in a 20-foot ring for as much as you can find, when I have finished my engagements. Mitchell:—You said you were coming over for two reasons—revenge and money. Sullivan:—I never challenged you in my life. Mitchell:—I am ready to back my statement. Sullivan:—You wanted poor Jack Kilrain on the stage at St. James' Hall. Mitchell:—You publicly said: "I hope Smith will beat him," and wished the Englishman good luck, and yet you are a fellow-countryman. Sullivan:—I never said anything of the kind. I wished Kilrain success. Mitchell:—That's a lie. I have Kilrain to look after. I hope he will knock the stuffing out of Smith. I have to see after Jack's interests, and if I die at the ring side I mean him to get fair play. I want to fight for satisfaction. You can do no such harm. Sullivan:—I was brought up in a better school and am a gentleman. Mitchell:—(Carcassally)—I know Dickens. You are a looking-glass fighter and never tackled a good man in your life. Sullivan:—Don't you insult me, or you'll get the worst of it. I never forget my manners. Mitchell:—What do you say, you—Come out in a back room and I'll fight you now. Mitchell (rising)—I'm your man. Come on. Editor Atkinson begged both men to desist and settle down quietly to business. Finally they did, and Sullivan, saying he would leave Mr. Phillips to act on his behalf, left the room.

I wished Kilrain success. Mitchell:—That's a lie. I have Kilrain to look after. I hope he will knock the stuffing out of Smith. I have to see after Jack's interests, and if I die at the ring side I mean him to get fair play. I want to fight for satisfaction. You can do no such harm. Sullivan:—I was brought up in a better school and am a gentleman. Mitchell:—(Carcassally)—I know Dickens. You are a looking-glass fighter and never tackled a good man in your life. Sullivan:—Don't you insult me, or you'll get the worst of it. I never forget my manners. Mitchell:—What do you say, you—Come out in a back room and I'll fight you now. Mitchell (rising)—I'm your man. Come on. Editor Atkinson begged both men to desist and settle down quietly to business. Finally they did, and Sullivan, saying he would leave Mr. Phillips to act on his behalf, left the room.

THE NEW YORK HERALD prints an account of the meeting in London Tuesday night, in which a fight between Sullivan and Mitchell was arranged. The backers of both pugilists were present, and the following war of words transpired: Mitchell:—What do you propose to fight for, Mr. Mitchell? Sullivan:—Five hundred pounds a side. Mitchell:—You don't fight me. Sullivan:—You don't fight me. Mitchell:—No that is enough. What I principally want is the satisfaction which I have been seeking from you for the last three years.

Sullivan:—You can have all you want, Mitchell; perhaps you'll get more than you want. Mitchell:—What else ring do you propose to fight in, Mitchell? Sullivan:—Why, to fight under the new prize-ring rules, under which all prize fights are fought—16-foot ring. Sullivan:—I want to fight in a 16-foot ring. Mitchell:—Twenty-four foot. Sullivan:—Sixteen foot. This was repeated by both several times and a squabble ensued, at the end of which Sullivan said: "If you want to fight in a week, I will fight in a 16-foot ring, or if you will wait until my engagements are over, I'll fight you off in any where you like."

Mitchell:—Why have you allowed me to run all over America twice after you if you think you can fight me here? Sullivan:—He wanted to take an advantage of me and interfere with me in my business as well as advertise himself. Mitchell:—Interfere with you? What can he do of you? Sullivan:—You don't want to fight me. Mitchell:—I want to arrange something else but a fight, and I hope that is the object of all connected with you. Sullivan:—Gee and Mac fought in a 16-foot ring and I want a 16-foot and nothing else. Mitchell:—Then I'll not agree to anything of the kind. Sullivan:—This amounts to nothing. You don't want to fight. Mitchell:—Don't? I have told you that is my errand here this evening. Sullivan:—We have concluded everything. You want to break up my business. Mitchell:—You have a good job, too. You have made no poor houses for poor people. You never looked for any charitable institutions. I have. Sullivan:—When? Mitchell:—For the starving miners in America, when you, after promising, failed to put in an appearance, and you know it. Sullivan:—It's a lie. I'm a gentleman. Mitchell:—You are no such. Sullivan:—I want a 16-foot ring. If you do not agree to that then I'll fight you in a 20-foot ring for as much as you can find, when I have finished my engagements. Mitchell:

OTAWA, Dec. 1.—At a special meeting of the board of health, yesterday, the further starting announcement was made by the health officer that the creek in the immediate vicinity of where the water supply to feed the city is located is filled with poisonous matter, the refuse from tanneries and breweries, and from which polluted streams people of Ottawa and those visiting the city have for years been drinking. Had it not been for the present epidemic of typhoid which now overhangs the city, this state of affairs would have gone on for years longer without investigation. The greatest indignation has been aroused against the criminal neglect of the engineer and the health officials who are responsible. The hospitals are all crowded to overflowing and patients in no number patients. Doctors are driven almost to death attending the sick, and there is no telling where the scourge will end. Students are leaving the colleges for their homes, although several have delayed departure too long.

CONFlict INEVITABLE.

Several nationalities and a Quebec-Montreal rivalry are at arms by the Ottawa.

OTTAWA, Dec. 2.—Gen. Middleton, in view of a further conflict between a French Canadian mob and the Salvation Army at Quebec, which is the question of a few days, has placed B battery and the 8th battalion under arms. The leaders of the mob state that when they next attack on the Salvationists they will have 20,000 men at their back. The Salvationists, to repel any attack, are calling on outside members from other parts of the Dominion to come to their assistance, and already, although requested to do so from the pulpit, has declined to caution his congregation against the persecution they have commenced.

The Darwinian Theory.

According to the Darwinian theory, whenever any body of animals becomes too numerous (i.e. when they threaten the extinction of some other species of animals) they are destroyed by the working of a law called natural selection. By the law the fittest survive and the weak perish. The law being in operation an infinite period of time has elapsed from the lowest forms of animal life, the highly organized and intelligent animal known as man. This process of evolution, according to theory, is still going on continually and finally develop men from the lowest of the animal kingdom to the highest of the animal kingdom.

The Manitoba Government Shaky.

St. Paul, Dec. 1.—A Winnipeg special to the Home Press says the lieutenant-governor has been requested by the cabinet ministers to summon the Manitoba legislature between January 10th and 15th. The action was taken on the advice of the lieutenant-governor himself, who desires that the charges against the government by Leacock, in connection with the Red River Valley railroad and Hudson Bay railroad be thoroughly sifted. Two members of the cabinet went to Ottawa last night to consult Sir John Macdonald, and it is said to secure the shelving of Norquay.

It is Well to be Member.

That happiness is not perfection unless it is shared is a truth which is well worth remembering.

That great possessions may bring great misfortunes.

That the foolish friend does more harm than a wise enemy.

That the hardest thing to empty out of the heart is conceit.

Killing Off Their Husbands.

Young married farmers have been dying off with dreadful suddenness in villages of Syria, in eastern Greece. These young farmers were all brand new husbands, and at last their deaths, all coming so soon after marriage, excited suspicion, and the matter was investigated. It was found that an old woman had conceived the idea of getting pretty young girls to marry farmers and poison them and divide the spoils. The old woman is now in jail, and so far seven young widows, to whom she had furnished poison with which to kill their husbands.

The Standard says: "We are sincerely sorry for Mr. Sullivan, but he is a prisoner of the fault is solely his own. The government's task is a painful one and the only effect of the present conduct of the nation will be to 'alienate the sympathy of those better than he do not look with disfavor upon his rule.'"

THE FRENCH REPUBLIC.

Sadi Carnot, Elected President of the Republic.

The Different Trial Ballots and the Result.

The Senators and the Deputies and How They Voted.

Special to Gleaner.

VERMOREL, Dec. 2 - The first trial ballot by senators and deputies of left today for candidate for president resulted: Ferry, 200; Defrenoy, 193; Brisson, 81; Sadi Carnot, 69; Lemaire, 7. During the taking of the first ballot Pellissier made an address to a number of deputies, who congregated outside the chamber, advocating the election of Sadi Carnot, thereby nullifying the republican vote. Several deputies joined that it would be better to elect the majority and allowed that the names of Brisson and Sadi Carnot were unworthy of republicans. They urged them to withdraw in favor of Defrenoy, who, after Ferry, had obtained the most of the vote. The second trial ballot by senators and deputies of left today resulted as follows: Ferry, 216; Defrenoy, 196; Brisson, 78; Sadi Carnot, 67; Lemaire, 7. The papers condemn the renegades who by their vote have nullified the republican vote. The senators and deputies of the right are divided in their choice of candidates. The Senators propose Sausser while the Deputies support Ferry. It is certain a number of members of the right will support Sadi Carnot.
