STORM HOVERS OVER CITY HALL, IS PREDICTION

Joint Conference Aims To Break Deadlock Over School Cuts.

IS STILL HOPEFUL

Mayor Thinks Trustee Will Change When Financial Straits Are Explained.

A state of deadlock exists between Mayor Wilson and the board of education over the estimates of the latter body.

This has resulted in the mayor sidetracking his city commission and calling in the finance committee of the council to try and bring pressure to bear upon the school board.

The two bodies are scheduled to meet this Friday afternoon. There are those who predict a stormy session.

The gathering is to be what is termed "a star chamber" one. The press has been invited to stay away.

The mayor some time ago issued what has been referred to as an ultimatum that all bodies should cut their estimates as low as those of 1921. On top of that salaries were to be reduced in the aggregate by 10 per cent.

Indirectly the mayor threatened to resign and go to the electors if the boards did not meet up with his demands.

The Board's Cut.

The board of education estimates were $102,000 above 1921. A meeting was held to reduce them as per the order of the mayor. All the trustees would take off was $7,500, leaving the total $94,500, or one and a half mills in excess of the total fixed by the mayor.

The mayor has negotiated quietly with Chairman Smith, but to no end.

The new commission had one fling at the school board on Wednesday, and some hot shots were fired by commissioners at the methods which the board has in vogue.

There are some members of the school board who are no more reluctant to firing hot shots than are the critics of the school board, and the danger of an open breach, if these two warring factions met, evidently caused Mayor Wilson to abandon his commission to fall back on the finance committee.

The mayor has been warned, however, to hope for little from the board of education when it meets.

The commission met Thursday night, and during the discussion T. W. McFarland of the utilities asked, that providing the school board can't or won't cut its estimates, if it was fair that other bodies should be cut to the bone? He asked if these other bodies should not get a crack at the estimates again after the final decision with the board, that they might increase theirs if the board does not cut.

Shatter All Hopes.

Chairman Smith of the board started in to shatter all hopes, including those of the mayor, in regard to further reduction by the board, when he was interrupted. However, he did say: "Gentlemen, there is no use of figuring on that."

The attitude of the chairman has been one of conciliation and hope, and officials interpreted his few words to mean that he has found it impossible to bring the other members of the board around to seeing things the mayor's way.

It was Mayor Wilson who interrupted the statement of Chairman Smith. He stated that the members of the board of education might be made to see things in a different light when the finance committee laid before the board the financial position of the city.

Ald. John Ashton, one of the council representatives on the commission, cannot see how the board of education will be able to do anything in regard to the mayor's demand for a salary cut, if as is reported, all the teachers are hired on a yearly contract.

"To endeavor to break those contracts would be just as bad as the effort of Ald. Ashplant to break the annex agreement, and we all know how vigorously the mayor contends that that agreement should not be made a scrap of paper. There is no

Sink Million Gallon Water Well In City

FIVE TESTS CONDUCTED

Commission Pleased With Flow in East and South-east London.

On thirteen acres of city property just east of the Vauxhall bridge, south-east London employees of the Ohio Well Digging Company have commenced to sink a well guaranteed to produce 1,000,000 gallons of fresh water daily.

This is the first report to be announced by the public utilities commission since the American experts commenced operations in this vicinity last August.

With water already reported to be flooding the lowest section of the property three feet in depth, the drillers and the commissioners express undisguised pleasure with the result.

While favorable reports of progress had been made from time to time in past weeks, no details were divulged in accordance with the agreement between the city and the Ohio company.

Now, it is explained, there is no further need for concealment. It has been declared most fortunate that, while the experts tested considerable private property, it finally developed that abundance of fresh water is to be had on land already owned by the city.

This will naturally obviate the necessity of paying increased rates for any land that might have been desired.

Intended for Sewerage.

The location in question was originally purchased for a sewer farm, but the project was subsequently abandoned for the present site near the proposed Dakin Street School.

Five tests were conducted at this point, and water is now flowing from three holes. The commission has another site under contemplation, which it is practically admitted will also yield 1,000,000 gallons daily. With these two locations the Ohio company will have adhered to the provisions of their contract, that 2,000,000 gallons be guaranteed daily.

Had they failed the burden of expenditure was destined to rest upon them.

Hold Optimistic View.

Despite all opposition to the undertaking from its very inception the commissioners have maintained an optimistic attitude throughout, confident that beneath London was sufficient fresh water to supply its citizens for years to come. Today with operations commencing upon a 1,000,000-gallon yield in East London, and another in the course of a few weeks, they witness the fulfillment of their plans.

As Manager E. V. Buchanan terms the result, "Everything has measured up to our expectations."

While considerable comment emanated at frequent intervals from certain quarters, condemning the expense of the testing activities in the city and district, the commissioners point out that millions of dollars would otherwise have to have been expended to bring water, as was first suggested and is still advocated, from either Lake Erie or Lake Huron, miles away.

Others had urged that the water be obtained from the River Thames. In any event water obtained from either of these three sources would have necessitated the construction of filtering plants at enormous expenditures.

ADVISE PIGMY SKYSCRAPERS

London, March 24.—London will not emulate New York in the matter of erecting skyscrapers, if the ideas of the Royal Institute of British Architects are carried out. The architects have voted against a report of their building act committee advocating alteration of the London regulations to allow the erection of buildings 120 feet in height instead of 80 feet, as at present.

Claims Spiritualism Has Pierced Walls of Great Beyond!

Special to London Advertiser.
(Copyright, 1922.)

LONDON, March 24.—"After 30 years' investigating, I am as convinced of the truth of spiritualism as I am of my own existence. I myself have experienced communication by direct voice with 23 deceased friends and relatives, including my mother and my son whom I lost in the war."

This is the statement of Sir Arthur Conan Doyle, famous English novelist and creator of Sherlock Holmes, who is sailing for Canada and the United States to spread the gospel of spiritualism.

Sir Arthur sails April 1, accompanied by his wife and three young children. Lady Doyle assists her husband in talks to large crowds.

Sir Arthur will deliver his first lecture on April 12. He expects to deliver about 11 others. Then he will take his family for a rest in the Adirondacks, sailing for home in June.

"Death is merely a wall between the people we call 'living' and those we call 'dead,'" says Doyle.

"Spiritualism has pierced this wall. It is widening the gaps. After a while the wall will be down and there will be free communication between the 'living' and those who have passed.

"It will make this a different world. It will reinforce all religions except the purely materialist.

"It will diminish sin, because who would sin when the spirit of his beloved mother was at his side, communicating with him, showing him her grief?

"I began the study of spiritualism in 1886 and since then have read everything I could find on the subject, keeping an open mind, and experimenting with mediums wherever possible.

"I am absolutely certain of the possibility of communication with those who have passed. I have had such clear and definite evidence that I would consider myself insane if I did not accept it and a moral coward if I did not proclaim it.

"My wife and I realized early in wartime that the world urgently needed this message and that the only way to break through the mixture of levity and stupidity, with which people had met the nearer approach of the spirit world, was to speak face to face with audiences and give them our own personal experiences.

"We determined to devote the rest of our lives to that object and I needn't say we take no money for so doing, all profits being handed over to the cause.

"I have spoken to more than 200,000 people in Great Britain and have every reason to believe that I have convinced many materialists of the continuity of life and brought consolation to a great number of stricken people who felt they had lost their dear ones forever."

FOUR ARE KILLED BY CLOUDBURST

Burlington, Kas., March 24.—Four persons were killed, and property damage estimated at $750,000 done at Burlington last night by a cloudburst which flooded Rock Creek and sent it swooping down upon the city without warning.

Ten inches of water fell last night between 5 o'clock and midnight, sending through the streets in the business section streams which at the crest ran ten to twelve feet deep. For several blocks storefronts caved in and about 25 homes were swept away.

Much damage was done also to stock and crops in this district. Streets here were piled high with debris.

Although several other towns near here reported heavy rains, none is believed to have suffered much damage. Burlington is the seat of Coffey County, and has a population of about 3,000.

BANK DEPOSITS OFF IN FEBRUARY

Ottawa, March 24.—Canadian Press.—A slight decrease in both current loans in Canada and savings deposits during February, is shown in the bank statement issued by the finance department today. Deposits outside Canada increased from $254,777,696 at the end of January to $267,435,578 on Feb. 28. Current loans outside Canada rose from $148,733,747 on Jan. 31 to $155,706,861 at the end of February. There was an increase in the total of call loans outside Canada from $157,913,228 to $172,530,600. The note circulation, which stood at $162,645,115 on Jan. 31, increased to $164,490,301 by the end of February.

TREAT INDIGENT SICK IN HOMES

New System Will Save City $20,000, It Is Estimated.

BLAMES MEDICAL MEN

Mayor Claims Patients Sent to $3 Rooms in Unnecessary Numbers.

A revolution of the system of taking care of the poor and sick of the city is under way. Instead of sending them to occupy $3 a day rooms at the hospitol, an effort will be made to treat them at their homes.

In 1921 free patients spent 23,650 days in the hospital, occupying rooms, the charge for which is $3 daily. In the same period patients occupied semi-private rooms for 22,000 days at a cost of $1.50 a day.

To cut down this heavy toll on the ratepayers, it is proposed to have all such cases reported to the medical health officer. If it is possible, these patients will be treated at home instead of being sent to the hospital.

Mayor Wilson stated that the medical men of the city were in the main responsible for the present situation.

Poor patients called them. Perhaps they lived a long way out. There was no money in it for the doctors to treat them. It would save the doctors much time and traveling to have them in the hospital, and so they ordered them to the hospital.

When the new system is put into effect the doctors instead of ordering these patients to the hospital, will report them to Dr. Downham, the M. O. H. This city official will then find time to visit these people in their homes and will, if possible, treat them there instead of sending them to the costly and palatial hospital.

The mayor says the new scheme will save the city close to $20,000 a year. It may mean that Dr. Downham will have to be given an assistant, but at that there would be a large saving.

CHILDREN COACHED PARENTS.

London, March 24.—(Canadian Press Cable).—A statement issued by the registrar-general on the recent census shows that the working class schedule was better prepared than that of the middle class. This is attributed to propaganda in the schools, which enabled the school children to advise their parents as to how to fill up the forms.

NEED ONLY SIX MORE TEACHERS

WOULD SOLVE CONFUSION

Patriotic Attitude by Industrial Firms Urged by Educational Authorities.

That six classrooms with six additional teachers will suffice to handle adequately the "part time" classes for adolescents which the department of education, Toronto, declares must be inaugurated next September, was the announcement Friday morning by V. K. Greer, senior school inspector, after a careful survey of the situation.

"Although the report has gone abroad," explained the inspector, "that we would need at least fifteen teachers, we have given the matter consideration and believe that six teachers will be ample."

"While Major Cowel, the provincial attendance officer, has estimated that London will require two attendance officers and a competent stenographer, this does not necessarily mean that it will actually be an added expense to the city, since the efficiency in school attendance effected by these officers will result in a vast saving in the other departments of the board's expenditures."

"There are two chief reasons why the adolescent attendance act should be enforced. First, the apprenticeship system has broken down within the past few years, and for that reason the danger of a child drifting into a line of work that he or she is not prepared for is greatly enhanced."

"These 'part time' classes will enable adolescents, those between the ages of 14 and 16 years, who have not attained a matriculation standard, to make a fair living, incidentally receiving such education as will enable them to get into the right groove later on should they find their present occupation unsuited to them."

Questioned as to the possible confusion as to the hours of labor and school, as the department absolutely refuses to recognize night tuition in the same schools, the inspector held that the industrial concerns should be willing to adopt a certain patriotic attitude and co-operate with the

COSTS $11 HEAD FOR PRIVILEGE OF BEING SICK

CONTRASTS IT WITH WAR

Latter Is Harmless Pastime When Compared With Ravages of Disease.

"We are paying $11 a head in London for the privilege of being sick every year," was the startling message of Dr. H. W. Hill, of the Institute of Public Health, to the Kiwanis Club at their weekly luncheon Friday.

Speaking on public health, Dr. Hill said that in the old days when the matter of public health was referred to, people thought that it only meant to clean up the backyard or to clean off the streets, and the question had been solved, but today it had been proved that public health had to do with the health of every individual in the country, and that the cause of the disease was not outside a person but inside.

"It costs the city of London in money alone $1,800,000 every year in sickness, and we still have the sickness. If we could pay the money and not be sick it would not be so bad.

"The British Empire lost through the war 765,000 men, and Canada lost more than that number in disease alone for the some period. Compared with preventable disease war is a harmless pastime.

The only way to stamp out any disease is to get hold of all the people that are suffering from it and prevent them from coming into contact with others, and that is why I recommend that a regular annual medical inspection be given every person.

Medical men know that in nearly every case of cancer they have to deal with that they are not consulted until a year too late, and the same thing applies to tuberculosis and other diseases.

Through humane intervention since 1909 typhus has been reduced by 78 per cent, and in Ontario to 90 per cent, there is only 10 per cent typhus now as compared with 13 years ao.

Since 1918 infant mortality in London has been reduced from 116 in ever thousand to only 80, and when the pasteurization plant is put into operation, as I believe it is going to be next fall, another big cut will be made.

Of all the men examined for the army during the war, 30 per cent were rejected, but that was not all who should have been turned down, but we could not turn them all down as physically unfit because in reality 75 per cent were unfit, and the same is true of other countries.

"Canada is just getting down to work on the school question and the medical inspection of the pupils. 15 years ago Mexico had a more up-to-date medical inspeccion for the schools than we have anywhere in Canada."

Most of the sickness that is prevelant today could be prevented of the proper measures were adopted.

D. George Clarke outlined the work of the various clubs who are interested in the work among boys for the Boys Week that is to held during the week of April 17. A committee was appointed to attend to the details for the London Kiwanis Club.

The doctors of the club were the boosters for the day and provided the speaker and the entertainment.

WILL INQUIRE INTO SUBMARINE LOSS

London, England, March 23.—In the House of Commons tonight, a dispatch from Gibraltar was read announcing that a court of inquiry had been ordered to meet on Friday to examine into the sinking of the submarine H-42 in the Mediterranean.

Details of the disaster show that the submarine came to the surface 30 or 40 yards ahead of the destroyer Versatile, which, steaming at 20 knots, rammed the submarine at right angles in the region of the conning tower.

The government has received a list of the H-42's crew, but is withholding publication until the relatives are notified.

THREE SLAIN IN IRISH ATROCITY

ACT IS IN REPRISAL

Bloodshed Occurs On Tyrone Border Following Recent Terrorism.

Belfast, March 24.—Three murders were reported today from the Fermanagh-Tyrone border. The victims were Frank Kelly, Edward McLoughlin, and William Cassidy. All were found shot to death. It is believed the murders were in reprisal for the recent terrorism at Trillick, County Tyrone, in which Samuel Laird, an Ulster special constable, was shot and killed, and two Unionist houses were burned.

Joseph Campbell, a Belfast city official, was shot and killed by a sniper in New Lodge Road this afternoon.

A six-hour running fight occurred between Ulster special constables and Sinn Feiners in the vicinity of Carrickmore, County Tyrone, yesterday.

The fighting started when 50 of the police in two motor lorries, were ambushed outside the town. The ambushing party was concealed behind a gorse bank on the roadside and opened fire at a distance of 1,000 yards.

Repulsed Attack.

The police immediately jumped out of their cars and engaged the attacking band, which retreated across the hills, leaving a small party to halt the pursuit which continued for several hours, nevertheless, with frequent exchanges of shots.

At least five Sinn Feiners are believed to have been hit. One, with a bullet in his leg, was found under a bed in a house which was raided during the chase. Bullets pierced the capes of several of the specials, but none of them was wounded.

A quantity of equipment dropped by the ambushing party was captured.

A band of men forced their way into the home of Owen MacMahon, a Belfast saloon-keeper, early this morning and shot several members of the family. News of the raid has profoundly stirred the entire city.

MacMahon and three of his sons were killed outright, another son died of his wounds, and two others are near death. The crime is thought to have been in reprisal for the shooting of a number of special constables in May street yesterday.

Riddled With Bullets.

At about 1:20 o'clock this morning the raiders, who are reported to have worn uniforms, smashed the door of the MacMahon home in the north end of the city and rushed upstairs, where the occupants of the house were sleeping. The male members of

SIR H. MONTAGU ALLAN SERVED WITH SUMMONS

FACE DIFFERENT CHARGES

One Is "Concurring" In and Other "Making" Deceptive Returns.

Montreal, March 24.—After consultation between representatives of the federal departments of finance and justice, Judge Victor Cusson, district magistrate, this morning issued summonses to Sir Hugh Montagu Allan, president of the defunct Merchants Bank, and D. C. Macarow, general manager of that institution, to appear in the police court to answer charges in connection with the October report, made under the bank act, on behalf of the Merchants Bank.

Both Sir Montagu and Mr. Macarow appeared with their lawyers before Judge Cusson in the course of the day. N. K. Laflamme, K. C., M. P., is acting for Mr. Macarow, and Aime Geoffrion, K. C., for Sir Montagu Allan. Mr. Macarow's case was set for March 31, and Sir Montagu Allan's for March 29. C. A. Wilson, K. C., is acting for the government departments.

The charge against Sir Hugh Montagu Allan is for having "falsely and negligently concurred in the preparation of the October financial statement made by the Merchants Bank to the department of finance," which did not show that the bank's reserve fund was impaired.

The charge against Mr. Macarow is for having "falsely and wilfully made a deceptive return to the federal government on the bank's standing."

The Merchants Bank was compelled to accept an offer from the Bank of Montreal to sell out when it was found that owing to enormous bad debts incurred in loans made to the brokerage houses of Thornton, Davidson & Company, and Fairbanks, Gosselin & Company, and a number of commercial concerns, its reserve of $8,000,000 had been seriously impaired.

The sale was ratified by the shareholders of both the Merchants and the Bank of Montreal and also by the minister of finance.

The complaint against Sir H. Montagu Allan reads: I am credibly informed, have reason to believe, and do verily believe, that Sir H. Montagu Allan, of the city of Montreal, district of Montreal, being then and as such president of the Merchants Bank of Canada, a chartered bank having its head office in the city of Montreal, said district, in contravention of the provisions of section 153 of the bank act and other provisions, negligently prepared, signed, approved and concurred in a monthly account, statement, return, document and report for the month of October, 1921, respecting the affairs of said bank containing false and deceptive statements relating to current loans and overdue debts, and as to the asset, financial position, condition and affairs of the said Merchants Bank, the said return made and sent by the said Sir Montagu H. Allan as such president aforesaid to the minister of finance and receiver-gen-

DEAD SCIENTIST "ATTENDS" ANNIVERSARY BANQUET IN SPIRIT

LOS ANGELES, March 24.—Dr. James Martin Peebles, physician and scientist, who died in Los Angeles on Feb. 15 last, was present in spirit last night at a banquet to celebrate the 100th anniversary of his birth, it was announced to 300 men and women who assembled to honor Dr. Peebles' memory, by Dr. Guy Bogart, head of the Longer Life League, who arranged the gathering.

Standing beside a chair left empty in a row otherwise occupied by speakers of the evening, Dr. Bogart announced the arrival "from beyond" of the departed scientist.

"He is with us, sitting in this chair," Dr. Bogart said. "Some of you who are clairvoyants may be able to see him. He has been under the care of nurses and teachers since he left us in the flesh, and is not yet able to communicate with all of us."

Later, Dr. Bogart read a message, he stated, he had received from Dr. Peebles since the latter's death, through the late Herman Kuehn, publisher of Chicago. He explained that because of Dr. Peebles' short life "beyond" he was unable to communicate directly.

"A word to Guy and the Longer Life League friends," the message said. "I knew in my innermost vision that I would celebrate my centennial beyond the gates—but that I would be with the Longer Life League 'in the spirit' as well. It made little difference to me on which side of the gate I made the celebration. Guy recalls that I told him a couple of years ago that I was anxious to explore the moon and go journeying among the stars. Well, I am getting my wishes gratified. And the old rheumatism is a thing of the past.

"In the service of love you will find excuse for living. It will make your life full and overflowing. Watch the physical side—the diet and exercises—to lengthen the years.

"It is a crime to die under a hundred years.

"This one word more; I am glad to add my testimony to the fact that there is no death."

Dr. Peebles before his death told friends he intended to attempt to communicate to them, as he had been deeply interested in various forms of psychic research.

A memorial service for Dr. Peebles was held last night at a Los Angeles auditorium. During the day his ashes were scattered, according to a request in his will, over a rose garden, the location of which was kept a secret.

FINANCE BOARD CUTS TAX RATE THIRD OF MILL

Commissioners Reduce Estimates of Victoria Hospital by $18,000.

REFUSE SALARY INCREASE

Advanced Cost of City Lighting Adds $2,881 to Expenditures of No. 1 Committee.

The city commission, on Thursday night, got the tax rate down nearly a third of a mill by paring off $18,000 on the hospital account and $1,300 on the board of health estimates and eliminating $4,000 from the police estimates for a new patrol.

Cut By $1,300.

It was a quiet session. There were nine representatives on the commission present besides the city clerk and finance commissioner.

The board of health estimates slashed by the board before being submitted, and later increased by $550, were cut by $1,300.

"It's a shame," said Chairman Seabrook, to grind the board down to such a point, less than half the city will spend on parks."

The main item cut off the board's estimates were $500 off the $1,000 appropriation for the Isolation Hospital and $500 salary increase to Dr. Downham, M. O. H.

There was quite a discussion on this point. Mayor Wilson said that to have the net return which Dr. Downham had, he would have to make $7,000 to $8,000 in general practice.

Ald. Childs said it was a bad time to make an increase and he moved that it be struck out.

There was some discussion on the $1,000 grant to the Institute of Public Health, but the majority of the members seemed to agree that the institution was worthy of the aid. Chairman Seabrook said that the city got a wonderful return for it, go it was allowed to stand.

Increased Cost of Lighting.

The increased cost of lighting will add $2,881 to the estimates of No. 1 committee, Mr. Pocock explained, and the increase was ordered by the hydro commission. The auditor found that the light was being sold below cost, and ordered the increase. If it was found at the end of the year that the increase was more than the cost there would be a rebate made. The mayor said that other items could be trimmed on No. 1 estimates to keep the total to the 1921 level.

Supt. Heard of the hospital said he had gone over the estimates carefully with the trust and said that $11,500 had been pared off. He had also reduced the salaries by $4,000. The mayor cut another $2,500 for some new fire fighting equipment, bringing the hospital total cut to $14,000. The hospital asked for $198,000. Of this total $47,000 was for overdraft from last year.

Hard to Economize.

Supt. Heard said that it was hard to economize on a hospital. Indirectly he laid the blame on the medical profession in a measure. He cited two experiences of the day. In one case a doctor wanted to get a woman into the home of incurables. He wanted to send her to the hospital, thinking he could achieve his object more easily with his patient a charge on the hands of the city hospital.

During the day three women were sent to the hospital, a charge of the city. No mention was made by the doctor that there would be babies along with them. This meant an additional charge. He said that it was a hard task to cut wages.

Mayor Wilson said that the hospital could reduce the 10 per cent on wages by reducing the staff. Plans with this end in view are in the making.

It is expected that the commission will meet again early next week.

Chief Justice Meredith Finds Agreements Made by Driller Binding.

As a result of contracts made by Frank Stover, oil driller, with four young men to proceed to the Fort Norman oil district, acting on behalf of F. E. Davidson, manager of the McKenzie River Oil Co., the company will have to pay these men wages, although they did not actually work one day for the company, totalling $5,881.50, according to a judgment handed down by Chief Justice R. M. Meredith at the spring assizes Thursday afternoon.

Harry G. Lucas of Middlemiss will receive $1,185.50; Floyd Hutto, Middlemiss, $1,805.50; Serle Lucas, Watford, $1,105, and George Rice of Fletcher, Ont., $1,785.50.

The case will be appealed, T. R. Ferguson for the defence stated.

Frank Stover, in the witness box, stated that he was employed last April by Mr. Davidson, who instructed him to hire men for operations in the Fort Norman district. He got the written forms on which the contracts were signed from Davidson, he declared.

Witness stated that the men were to be paid from the first of May, and he told them to hold themselves in readiness to proceed north. The men had gone to Toronto once and were told that they would make the trip later.

Witness Cross-Examined.

Questioned by T. R. Ferguson of Toronto for the defence, Stover stated that he went north to work for the Fort Norman Oil Company and not for the McKenzie Company, which was not ready to proceed with operations. Witness told Mr. Ferguson that he knew the latter company was not ready to go on, but hired the men because Mr. Davidson had ordered him to do so.

"Didn't you think that he (Davidson) was insane to do this?" questioned Mr. Ferguson.

"Yes," was the reply.

"So do I," said Mr. Ferguson.

"I don't," observed the chief justice.

Serle Lucas said he was employed from May 1, at $250 a month and board, by Stover. He got word from Stover to report in Toronto on May 15, and did so. He saw Mr. Davidson in the McKenzie River Company office, and was told that the party would not leave till later, and that Mr. Stover would notify him. Witness was told that his pay would start May 1. He had called Mr. Stover on the phone, asking about the delay, and was told that he shouldn't complain about receiving money for doing nothing.

Worked on Farm.

Lucas said that he gave up a job of $30 a week to go on the expedition. He came to the conclusion that the trip was called off about the middle of June and tried to get work but couldn't. He worked for his father on the farm all summer for his board.

George Rice, a well driller, was working in Chatham when he signed on with the oil company for $400 a month. On July 4 he got a job at $7.50 a day.

Wm. Carr, solicitor of Chatham, told of the agreements being drawn up in his office. He was paid by the McKenzie people.

Charles Millar, barrister of Toronto, was the only witness for the defence. He had been a director of the company for a year, he said. The contracts had never been before the board of directors, the only men employed, so far as he knew, being Stover and a geologist. The company had not purchased a drill, and did not have money to pay these men. It would cost $75,000 to transport a drill to their property. When he heard that drillers had been hired he thought somebody must be crazy.

Holds Defendants Liable.

The board of directors appointed Davidson manager of the company, on March 10 last, according to the minutes of the company. Mr. Ferguson submitted that the board did not have power to make the appointment because Mr. Millar was not there.

"The law says these companies shall be protected from fool managers," stated Mr. Ferguson.

"I don't know that law," replied the court.

In giving judgment his lordship stated that he held the defendants liable to the plaintiffs for breach of contract.

W. R. Meredith appeared for the plaintiffs.

FRUIT GROWERS TO CO-OPERATE

London Branch Association Hears of Niagara Marketing Experiment.

MADE USE OF TELEPHONE

Members of Organization Received Shipping Directions Every Morning.

Members of the London branch of the Ontario Fruit Growers' Association heard an interesting and comprehensive report on the work accomplished by the Niagara Peninsula Growers in 1921, their maiden year as a co-operative selling organization, by David Elliott, B.S.A., a member of the sales force, in the office of the department of agriculture here, Thursday night.

Mr. Elliott reviewed conditions which led to the growers organizing, stating that in 1920 only two-thirds of a $5,000,000 crop had been marketed. The same year, $32,000,000 worth of fruit was imported from the United States, showing that it was a lack of proper marketing facilities that was to blame for the fact that one-third of the Niagara fruit went to waste.

Limit Shares To Five.

Mr. Elliott next explained that no grower could hold more than five shares. A small grower held one share in the association and the larger the acreage under fruit the more shares could be held. All the profits went back to the grower, the speaker declared.

The association started with 456 members, and while half the growers of the district were not members, the larger fruit men were and this meant that over $1,500,000 worth of fruit had been disposed of by the association in its first year.

The district was divided into 13 divisions, each under a director. From 8 till 10 a.m. each day during the season, every member in the various districts was called over the telephone and asked for an estimate of his day's picking. These reports were passed on to the head office and the fruit was sold by the Carpenter boys and their assistants. About 11:45 each district was notified where to bill their fruit to, the prices quoted being f.o.b. shipping point.

The fruit train started out at 1 o'clock, and in busy weeks two fruit trains were run each day. Berries that would not stand shipping were sold to the canning factories, so that there was no waste.

Explains Plan Fully.

Mr. Elliott explained fully the method used in keeping track of fruit brought to the shipping sheds, each grower getting a book with his number on it. Triplicate forms were used, and the number of baskets, kind, variety and grade noted. The growers kept the original, and the others were sent to the head office. Growers received checks twice a month, with 20 per cent being held back till the end of the year. It cost 2c per cent to do business last year, the members receiving checks for 8 per cent of what was held back last month.

The members were kept informed as to the daily pool price for each variety, and could compare it with their own returns.

Mr. Elliott stated that if the season had been more favorable to shipping berries and the growers had the standard American boxes to ship in, many cars would have been sold in the States.

Only 15.8 per cent of the fruit was actually sold on commission, although a number of commission men had purchased fruit outright from the association.

The average prices received for the various fruits as given by Mr. Elliott were: Strawberries, 11.65c per box; raspberries, 17.24c per box, and 19.14c for black raspberries. Sour cherries brought $1.20 per 11-quart basket, peaches 85c, plums 97c, Barlett pears 78c, other pear varieties 60c, with the exception of Keiffers, which brought 40c an 11-quart basket.

1,636 Cars Handled.

A total of 1,636 cars of fruit were sold during the season.

Mr. Elliott was in favor of shipping tomatoes to the West in two-layer flats. He stated that people on the Prairies had come for the most part from Ontario and naturally preferred Ontario fruit, which was of superior flavor to British Columbia and United States fruit. It was up to the growers to put up better packages so that when plums were purchased the consumer would find them of the same size and quality in each package.

"Give the buyer what he wants, he is paying for the fruit," advised the speaker, who stated that apples should be packed in boxes or half barrels.

Select Uniform Package.

"We must have a suitable package and then advertise it," said Mr. Elliott. "You can't put anything across without advertising, and we know it.

It was hoped to standardize varieties in the future, and have a survey made of the number of trees and their ages, variety, etc., recorded so that when a crop was estimated at 50 per cent it would not be hard to figure just how many cars of fruit would be handled.

ADJOURNMENT OF SENATE EXPECTED

OTTAWA, March 23.—Adjournment of the Senate until after Easter will, it is expected, follow passage of the interim supply bill, which the government is expected to introduce in the commons tomorrow. The Senate is being kept open in order to pass this vote before adjournment in order to give the government funds with which to carry on business after the opening of the new fiscal year.

SHOWS NEED OF RUSSIAN RELIEF

DEPICT FAMINE HORRORS

Slides Give Idea of Suffering of People in Land of Death.

That the Russian Relief Fund is not merely a philanthropic enterprise but a decided duty, devolving upon all mankind, was amply evident at the mass meeting held in St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Thursday evening, in the interests of the save the children fund. Canon Gould, of the Church of England eastern mission fields, had no need of going into any of the gruesome details of the famine. The slides, which accompanied his talk, pictured the absolute misery and helplessness of the Russian people throughout the famine area better than mere words. The pictures are indescribable in their tale of want and helpless hunger. All hope has been abandoned of saving the millions of adults. Every effort is being spent now in a desperate attempt to save the lives of the millions of starving children.

Canon Gould, explaining one slide, which showed a child huddled up in the corner of a cellar, prostrate from want of food, told of the manner in which the Russian peasants in their mad flight from the famine regions toward the Volga where they hoped to gain food, had become destitute of every vestige of physical resource and becoming possessed of the mania of desperation had pressed forward as best they could, abandoning their children by the wayside. These children have every appearance of mummies. Nothing even faintly resembling a smile, or even a childish expression, could be found on the pinched faces. Their faces were aged with the misery they had endured, and their bodies were emaciated to a hideous degree. In many cases the bodies were bloated to an abnormal size, the after effects of a diet of grass.

"In Canada," said Canon Gould, "we cannot comprehend the misery these people are enduring. They are reduced to scouring the barnyards for wisps of grass in their craving for food. Inhabitants have been found lying in their houses in a state of coma from exhaustion, and the only food to be found was a horse's hoof which they had been boiling. The babies are all dead from eating clay. A small proportion of the children may yet be saved, but the effort of the whole world combined could not save the lives of the millions of adults who must die.

Seals Are Unbroken.

Canon Gould showed slides which illustrated the efficient manner in which spplies were got to the sufferers. As soon as sufficient funds have been raised in Canada to load a relief ship and it has set sail from a Canadian port, another ship bearing the same amount of supplies sets sail for the port of Riga, and from there relief is sent overland with the greatest dispatch possible. The seals of the Russian and British governments are placed upon the cars, and are unbroken until the time of its arrival at the relief stations. A dollar a month is sufficient to keep a child and for five dollars a child can be kept till next May, when it is expected that the crisis of the famine will have been passed. Canon Gould stressed the scientific manner in which relief is being carried out.

"Where funds are provided to finance a kitchen to support one hundred children, one hundred only are supported—not one hundred and one or one hundred and two. The feeding is done in a scientific manner. One meal a day is provided, and this is well-balanced, enough to keep the child alive and well. Many church congregations and other organized bodies have undertaken to provide $500 to support a kitchen for a hundred children until next May.

The pictures emphasized not only the misery of the famine sufferers, but the ravages of the dread disease of typhus, which follows in the wake of a plague, and showed the horrible death carts going through the streets and the cry of "Bring out your dead." Then, the carts were shown continuing their dreadful mission and emptying hundreds of

Mayor Says Estimates Must Be Ready By Wednesday Night

MAYOR Wilson declared today that the estimates must be finally passed, and the tax rate arranged in time for the city council to strike the tax rate at a meeting on Wednesday next.

This means that the school board and other estimates must be settled at once, and salaries cut, if such is going to happen by Tuesday at the latest.

INTEND TO HALT ILLEGAL FISHING

An appeal has been made by William Smith, president of the Western Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association, and J. P. Bowman, both deputy game wardens, calling the attention of all people residing in the towns and villages, and the farmers, in the Thames River district, between the cities of London and Chatham, to observe the law in regard to illegal fishing this season. They strongly advocate that everyone comply with the regulations, and not leave themselves open to prosecution.

The Western Ontario Fish and Game Protective Association has been engaged for several years in an effort to have the river replenished with fish of all kinds, and fully expects that the people in the district through which the river runs, will help to accomplish what the members have been striving to do for the benefit of the people as a whole.

A THOUGHT FOR TODAY

I had fainted, unless I had believed to see the goodness of the Lord in the land of the living.—Psalm 28:13.

REAL greatness has nothing to do with a man's sphere. It does not lie in the magnitude of his outward agency, or in the extent of the benefits he produces. The greatest man may do comparatively little abroad. Perhaps the greatest in our city at this moment are buried in obscurity. Grandeur of character lies wholly in the force of soul, that is in the force of thought, moral principle and love.—William Ellery Channing.

SEVERAL NEW members were brought in at the regular meeting of Forest City, L. O. L., No. 762, on Thursday, March 23. After the routine business was dealt with, Bros. Neeley, Oxford and Colter gave short addresses on the "School Question."

AT A MEETING held by members of Kilwinning Lodge, No. 64, in their clubrooms, Queen's avenue, on Thursday, March 23, it was decided to hold an "at home" in the Masonic Temple this evening for the members and their friends. The program will consist of cards, dancing and refreshments.

JUST WHAT PRICE should be charged societies, clubs and the like for the use of the auditorium of the collegiate institute will be considered by the members of No. 3 committee of the board of education in regular session Friday afternoon. FIVE GROUPS of the Ki-Y Club, under their leaders, Jack Hutchinson, Leslie Gray, Morley MacGregor, Alf Truman and Doug. Walker, assembled in the local "Y" Thursday evening for their weekly supper. Several of the boys made five-minute speeches, and judging from the quality of the oratory London should produce "phenoms" in the art of Domosthenes in the near future.

A LARGE ATTENDANCE is expected at the Y. M. C. A. tonight when Lloyd Houlding, B.A., will lecture on "The Problem of the Underprivileged Boy," in conjunction with the special course in social service which is being given under the auspices of the Western University Extension Department. Through the courtesy of the London Young Men's Christian Association these lectures are being given in the association building on Tuesdays and Fridays from Feb. 21 to April 11, 1922.

.76 MILLS CUT IN ESTIMATES

All Bodies Have Pared Costs, But Rate Is Stubborn.

$25,000 IS ADDED

First Estimate Did Not Include Children's Hospital Expenditure.

That the tax rate for the year is not sinking as rapidly as expected by Mayor Wilson, is evidenced by a calculation made on the estimates of the various bodies as they stand, after all have been cut down somewhat.

When the problem was first tackled the rate stood at 36.51 mills. Mayor Wilson says this did not include $25,000 for the Children's Hospital. This added would have made it 37.03 mills.

Deductions from estimates to date are:

| | |
|---|---|
| No. 1 committe | $68,300 |
| No. 2 committee | 21,200 |
| Police | 4,000 |
| Board of Health | 750 |
| Hospital | 14,000 |
| Parks | 13,467 |
| Total | $121,667 |

The total general estimate to be raised in taxes is cut from $1,378,367 to $1,256,000 or 21.29 mills.

The board of education cut its estimate from $881,191 by $7,500 to $873,691, which means a school rate of 10.08 mills.

Patriotic tax means a rate of .4818 mills, and if the Children's Hospital must be provided as yet this will add another .42 mills. This rate stands today at:

| | |
|---|---|
| General | 21.29 mills. |
| School | 14.08 |
| Patriotic | .4818 |
| Child Hospital | .42 |
| Total | 36.2718 |

On an expenditure the same as 1921, with the news assessment, the rate would be 32.75, or nearly four mills less than the present figure.

GETS INCREASE, BUT 10 PER CENT CUT CANCELS IT

Plumbing Inspector's Increase of $100 Reluctantly Allowed to Stand by Mayor.

In the face of the demand of Mayor Wilson that salaries of all municipal bodies be cut ten per cent, James Young, plumbing inspector of the city, is in a unique position.

Young was voted $100 increase by the board of health, and though reluctant to do so, the mayor on Thursday night agreed to let the $100 remain in the estimates.

What will happen to Young when the salary cut comes, if it ever does? asked one official after the meeting.

The plumbing inspector's salary has been increased, in face of the decree that there should be no increases. If the inspector is now made to share the ten per cent cut, he will not only lose his increase, but more than half as much again.

WATER COLOR EXHIBITION PLEASES LOVERS OF ART

M. Chauvignaud Portrays Naive Charm of Continental Scenes and Virility of Canadian Landscapes.

Quaint scenes of the continent and England as well, as the more virile scenery of Canada are the subjects of the water-colors now being exhibited by M. Geo. Chauvignaud, in the Theosophical Hall. Each picture has a naive charm and distinctiveness of treatment.

There are scenes of the cottages of Brittany in their picturesque settings; pictures where not a whit of the quaint beauty of the Dutch windmill has been lost in transferring it to canvas; scenes along the banks of the quiet streams of France; scenes of the old-fashioned cottages of England, which breathe all the romance of an historical background, and best of all scenes of the beauty and magnificence of Canadian hills and valleys.

None of the water-colors have any exalted theme. They are all landscapes, but they are all beautiful because the artist has caught the spirit of nature itself and each picture is a revelation of the beauty and charm of the quiet countryside. They carry a direct appeal to a nature-lover and are well worth seeing, not only by those to whom the beauty of a canvas alone appeals but by those who understand as well, the technique of good painting.

Woman Facing Court Charge Wants Her Husband To Come and Get Her

Mary Mancuso, 31 years old, a Greek, appeared in the police court Friday charged with vagrancy. She was remanded a week in order to give Dr. James Wilson, the jail physician, time to examine her. She was deported from the United States and was brought to London by an officer with an order that she be committed to the Ontario Hospital.

D. Cusolito, an interpreter, could get only incoherent statements from her, but she thought she had been in an asylum in Windsor. Her husband, she declared, was in the Border City, and she wanted him to come and get her.

Her memory was vague as to how she came to London, but she thought it was in an automobile. She kept her hands moving, and mumbled continually throughout the examination, and tried to evade any question put to her by the interpreter.

Her condition was such that Chief of Police Birrell cleared the court of spectators before the case was heard.

Five citizens contributed small fines for violations of the Motor Vehicle Act, and two were fined for being caught riding their bicycles on the sidewalk. One inebriate paid $10 and costs for his night's lodging in the Carling street station.

TUSCAN LODGE TO CONDUCT FUNERAL

Late J. B. McKillop, K.C., to Be Laid To Rest Saturday in Woodland Cemetery.

BODY WILL LIE IN STATE

Members of Middlesex Bar Association Will Attend Burial in Body.

The funeral of Crown Attorney J. B. McKillop will be held from A. L. Oatman's Funeral Home, Colborne street Saturday afternoon. The body will lie in state there from 9 a.m. until 2 o'clock in the afternoon.

At 2 o'clock a short Masonic service will be conducted at the funeral home by Rev. Dr. Waller, chaplain for the Masonic Tuscan Lodge. Immediately after the service the funeral cortege will proceed to St. Paul's Cathedral, where a public service will be held at 2:30 o'clock. The service will be conducted by Rev. Canon Tucker. Interment will be made in Woodland Cemetery.

There will be a large number of representatives from outside Masonic lodges present.

The active pallbearers will be A. E. Cooper, C. H. Ziegler, C. H. Beard, H. C. McBride, John MacPherson and B. N. Campbell.

Law Pays Tribute.

At a meeting of the Middlesex Law Association, held in the law library at the court house Thursday afternoon, the following resolution was passed regarding the death of J. B. McKillop, K.C.

Moved by T. H. Purdom, K.C., seconded by T. G. Meredith, K.C., that the Middlesex Law Association records with the depest regret the death of James Black McKillop, K.C., which occurred on the 23rd day of March, 1922, at the age of 67 years.

Mr. McKillop was born at Aldborough, in the county of Elgin. He was educated at Dr. Tassie's school at Galt. He came to London in the year 1876, and became a student in the office of the late Warren Rock, Q.C. He was called to the bar in 1881, and entered into partnership with Charles Hutchinson, county crown attorney, which continued until Mr. Hutchinson's death in 1893. Mr. James Magee was appointed county crown attorney, and Mr. McKillop formed a partnership with him, the firm being Magee, McKillop & Murphy. This continued until the year 1904, when Mr. Magee was appointed a judge of the chancery division of the high court of justice. Mr. McKillop was then appointed county crown attorney, a position which he filled until his death.

Appointed King's Counsel.

Mr. McKillop was appointed king's counsel in the year 1921, and was president of this association in the years 1916 and 1917.

He formed a partnership with Thomas J. Murphy, K.C., and John M. Gunn, which lasted until recently, when he formed a partnership with Mr. A. R. Douglas.

Mr. McKillop's death is believed to have been hastened by too close attention to his duties, which were arduous. In addition to his work as county crown attorney, he enjoyed a large general practice, and had the confidence of everyone.

During his whole life he was recognized as a man of sterling integrity and more than average ability. He was a well-read lawyer, and conducted his practice on conscientious principles.

The bar of Middlesex has changed very much in recent years. Death has thinned its ranks, and the bar realizes that

Grows strange with faces new.
And milestones into headstones change,
'Neath every one a friend.

Extend Sympathy.

The members of the bar extend to his widow and family their heartfelt sympathy in their irreparable loss.

It is moved that as a mark of respect to Mr. McKillop's memory the bar attend his funeral in a body.

LONDON BONDS BRING HIGH BID

An offer above par for city of London 5½ per cent debentures, the highest bid in the history of the city, has been received by James Bell, finance commissioner.

The issue being tendered on is one for $257,500 London and Port Stanley Railway debentures, and the finance commission points to the fact that two dozen tenders were received, as another evidence of the popularity of city of London issues.

The debentures are for twenty years and 5½ per cent interest.

The Finance committee will go over the tenders on Friday afternoon and award the sale.

The committee at the same time will make plans for the initial visit of Canada's new governor-general to the city on April 15.

PREDICTS DEFEAT FOR SILVERWOOD

Commissioner Pocock Sure People Will Size Up Situation Regarding Estimates.

NOT TRYING TO DICTATE

Tells Board of Education To Alter Attitude As There Is No Holding "By The Throat."

"Allow this question of expenditure to go to a vote of the people, and I am of the opinion that Trustee A. E. Silverwood will find himself in a hopeless minority."

So declares Philip Pocock, member of the public utilities commission and chairman of the civic playgrounds' board.

"It is my firm opinion," continued Commissioner Pocock, "that the citizens as a body will size up the situation properly, and realize that the commission is not endeavoring to take the board of education, or anyone else, 'by the throat,' as Trustee Silverwood terms it."

"I might say, 'how about the ratepayers, those who are compelled to foot the bills?' The vast majority of them consider, I daresay, that somebody has them 'by the throat.' Now I don't want to criticize any person, but it would seem to me that Trustee Silverwood stands with the minority in what he is asking."

"The commission, in my opinion, is not trying to dictate to the trustees or anyone else for that matter. It is really an honest effort by all the spending bodies to reduce expenditures in 1922 to the minimum. We on the utilities commission realize that times are none too promising. Of course our electrical and waterworks expenditures will not interfere much with the tax rate, and this year we honestly anticipate an increased revenue over 1921 at the same rate to the consumer."

"I believe that the board of education should alter its attitude and come in with us in a frank wholehearted manner. We are all working for the city, irrespective what board we have been elected on. Thursday night every board but the school trustees lowered their estimates to the 1921 level, or below it, with the exception of the school trustees. While the latter show the greatest increase in estimates, $102,000, they decline to do anything further."

ST. GEORGE'S A. Y. P. A. HEAR RADIOPHONE CONCERT

Listen In On Lecture in Schenectady, N. Y., Long Island Queries and Pittsburg Opera.

On Thursday evening St. George's A. Y. P. A. held a novel event in the form of a radiophone concert. The concert was given by Mr. Ronald Gurd, of this city. Mr. Gurd, as one of Canada's best known radiophone amateur operators, provided a unique program, and was ably assisted by Mr. Frank Patterson.

The concert began at 7:30 and from 7:30 to 8 music was received from a local station. At 8 o'clock a speech, given by Dr. Steinger in the auditorium of the General Electric Co., at Schenectady, New York, was heard. Later a station on Long Island was heard quite plainly. Pittsburg was then listened to and a couple of grand opera selections enjoyed. Mr. Gurd then gave a short talk on wireless. A recitation and encore by Miss Isabel Mortimer were much appreciated. Miss Violet Andrewes then obliged with a solo and was heartily encored. Mr. Fred Henshaw, who proved an admirable chairman throughout the evening, congratulated Mr. Gurd on behalf of the audience.

Credit for the success of the program was due to the literary committee under the leadership of Mr. Harold Bending.

COUNTY WILL GET $92,746 CHECK

Middlesex County officials received a notice Friday morning in a letter from the department of highways, Toronto, that a check for the subsidy on county roads for 1921, amounting to $92,746.13, was being forwarded to the county in a few days.

The total expenditure on provincial county roads last year totalled $22,532.16, while $192,042.80 was expended on county roads proper.

SHOWS SCHOOL SALARY GAINS

Local Educational Department Reveals Small Percentage Increase.

REFUTES OTHER FIGURES

Hamilton Shows Smallest Advance, and London Next, of Seven Cities.

Feeling that a comparison of salaries of public school teachers for 1915 and 1921, which appeared in a local organ quite recently, would tend to create an improper impression among the taxpayers, the local educational department has complied the following table, submitting it to The Advertiser, Friday morning, as follows:—

"Comparisons were made a couple of days ago between the public school salary expenditures of London for 1915 and those for 1921.

"Lest ratepayers might feel that the public schools of London have increased salaries at a more rapid rate than elsewhere, the following figures, prepared at the public school inspector's office, may prove interesting and instructive to the London ratepayer desirous of studying the question in a fair manner.

"In arriving at the percentage given below a large school was selected in each city, and the salaries paid the whole staff in each case for 1915 and 1920 were compared. The percentage given is the increase in 1920 over 1915 in each case.

"Owing to the fact that the reports of the education department are not yet available for 1921, the comparisons could not be extended so as to include last year.

| | |
|---|---|
| Windsor | 113% |
| Toronto | 87% |
| Brantford | 68% |
| Peterborough | 62% |
| Ottawa | 55% |
| London | 51% |
| Hamilton | 43% |

"It will be seen that, with the exception of Hamilton, London has made the smallest percentage increase in salaries over this period.

"The highest public school principal's salary in each of these cities for 1920 was as follows:—

|---|---|
| Windsor | $2,500 |
| Toronto | 3,500 |
| Brantford | 2,250 |
| Peterborough | 2,150 |
| Ottawa | 3,100 |
| London | 2,250 |
| Hamilton | 2,550 |

"The salaries of other teachers on the public school staff of these cities for 1920 would bear a similar proportion to that of the principals."

Discharge of 4 City Hall Officials Will Not Cut Tax Rate

If the four officials of the engineer's department who have been given notice that their services may be dispensed with are let go it will mean a saving of $5,100, but the saving will not affect the estimates of the department, and so will not decrease taxes.

The engineer's department has a special salary account. Many of the employees of the department, including those given notice, are engaged on local improvement work, and their salaries are paid for out of local improvement charges, and not out of taxes.

OLD PATROL GOOD ENOUGH FOR HIM

"The present one is good enough for me to ride in," said T. W. McFarland of the utilities commission discussing the proposal to spend $4,000 for a new patrol for the police force.

This remark of Mr. McFarland's caused general laughter and paved the way for the slaughtering of the hopes of Chief Birrell that he would get a new combination and ambulance and patrol for his force this year. The item was dropped from the police estimates by the new commission on the suggestion of Mr. McFarland.

G. W. V. A. OFFICIAL TO TALK IN CITY

Secretary H. Paulger of the G. W. V. A. announces that the presidents, secretaries and executives of all the local branches of soldier organizations in this city, as well as all returned men who are not affiliated with any society, are invited to hear an address by C. G. MacNeil, Dominion secretary-treasurer of the G. W. V. A., in the club rooms of the local command on the evening of Monday, March 27.

Mr. MacNeil is touring Canada in order to stimulate interest among returned men in soldier organizations. It is probable that the members will take up with him the subject of amalgamation of all returned soldiers' societies.

CONTROVERSY IS NEAR CRISIS

Mayor To Make Final Appeal To Education Board To Cut Estimates.

MAY ASTOUND RATEPAYER

Chairman Smith Submits He Does Not Know School Principal's Salary.

"I do not know what salary the principal of the London Technical and Art School receives, and I am chairman of the board of education." Trustee Edwin Smith declared on Friday morning, when discussing briefly the controversy between the board and the other civic bodies, which is rapidly approaching a crisis.

Indications are that the special meeting of the school trustees, called for Friday at 5 p.m., which Mayor Cameron Wilson and the finance committee of the city council are to attend, will prove to be the most important session of the board held this year.

The scheduled gathering is recognized as the final effort by the mayor and his colleagues to induce the trustees to reduce their estimates, and it was announced on Friday morning that revelations of a startling nature concerning educational affairs would be forthcoming.

It is admitted that the technical, as well as other school departments, will be subjected to a close scrutiny, and assurance has been given that certain facts will be disclosed "that will astound not only the ratepayers, but members of the board of education themselves."

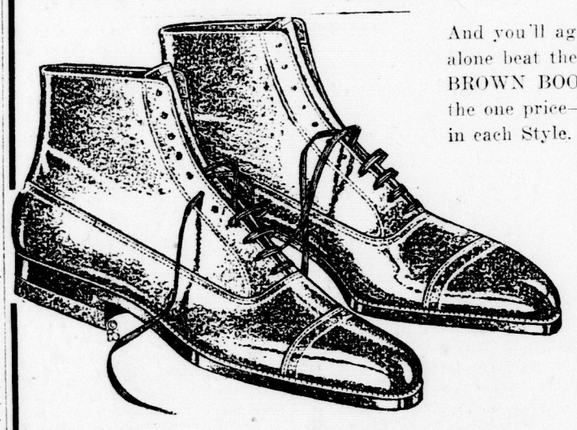

Chairman Smith explains that the trustees are meeting with the councillors more as a matter of courtesy to Mayor Wilson, who has requested a joint session. He is at a complete loss, he says, to define in what manner the school estimates can be reduced, and frankly asserts that in his opinion the low level has been reached.

He stresses the point also that the board is governed by the statutes, and not by the city council.

TAKES ACTION IN SCHOOL MATTER

Guelph, March 24.—President Reynolds, of the Ontario Agricultural College, has taken action in reference to the controversy in which Prof. Crow, of the horticultural department, recently figured by requesting him to hand over the keys of office without waiting for May 31, the time mentioned originally for his resignation to take place. March 31 is the date now set for Prof. Crow to sever his connection with the college.

URGES LIFTING RESTRICTION ON NICKEL TRADE

Sudbury Member Declares Wartime Impositions Have Crippled Industry.

DRURY DEFENDS STAND

Answers Casselman, Who Would Bonus Private Hydro-Electric Enterprises.

TORONTO, March 23.—Provincial finances were discussed by four members of the Legislature this afternoon and tonight at the sessions of the Ontario Legislature, and at 10:30 the house went into committee to fill out the day.

Outstanding in today's debate was the demand of Charles McCrae, Conservative member for Sudbury, for the lifting of wartime impositions on the nickel industry of the north country, which Mr. McCrae pointed out was in almost dormant condition. Before Ontario nickel could regain its status among items of potential wealth, the Sudbury member said, new usages adapted to peace conditions must be found for it.

For the government, J. M. Webster (U. F. O., West Lambton) followed with a defence of Provincial Treasurer Smith's bookkeeping methods and his surplus, and declared that the attacks thereon were simply a reiteration of the annual opposition criticisms.

Arouses Storm.

W. A. Crockett (Labor, South Wentworth) aroused a small storm when in defending the government and Hon. D. Carmichael from criticism in regard to Chippawa expenditures he intimated that the minister, an honest man, was associated with others of a "different calibre."

Another interesting item in Mr. Crockett's deliverance was a statement that the government would no doubt soon deal with the question of Sir Adam Beck's resignation. Premier Drury and Hon. D. Carmichael both stated afterwards that the statement had no significance, as far as the government was concerned, and could not be regarded as an official intimation of pending action.

Mr. McCrae said he hoped that the government would take a deeper and bigger interest in the north country whose potentialities in mineral wealth were greater than any other section of the world.

Points To Quebec

In pointing out the dangers of retarding north country developments by excessive taxation, Mr. McCrae stressed the competition which the province of Quebec was now affording Ontario in the matter of industry. It was a fact, he said, that Quebec was attracting industrial capital more readily than was the province of Ontario. Instability in the matter of taxation, he declared, had a very deterrent effect upon capital.

Concluding, Mr. McCrae expressed the conviction that the people were everywhere concerned over the increasing expenditures of the province.

J. W. Webster took no stock in the "blue ruin" shouts of the financiers in discussing rural credits. He quoted the provincial treasurer of Manitoba to the effect that the Prairie Province had not lost a dollar in connection with its advances to rural sections and did not expect to do so.

It might be, he said, that in the years to come, long years, he rather thought, another government might supplant the present one. But in any event, the working people of the province, the farmers and the laborers, would never again consent to leave their parliamentary representation in the hands of individuals not intimate with their industrial needs.

Absolves Government.

W. H. Crockett, dealing with Chippawa matters, absolved the government from responsibility in connection with expenditures, and intimated that Hon. D. Carmichael, who was honest and straightforward, had had to accept the representations of other members "of a different calibre." Objection was taken by Dr. Forbes Godfrey and M. M. MacBride to the last remark, but the Speaker finally ruled that there was no implication of dishonesty on the part of anybody in Mr. Crockett's remarks. The matter dropped after one further interesting passage, when, in reply to Dr. Godfrey's question as to whether the government had not the right to demand Sir Adam Beck's resignation, Mr. Crockett said that "there is no doubt that some such action will be taken, probably in the near future."

C. Mageau (Liberal, Sturgeon Falls), who spoke briefly before moving the adjournment of the debate, declared that so far as he personally was concerned, he had received fair and generous treatment from the government of the day. He contrasted their non-partisan attitude toward North County necessities to that of the Conservative party when in power.

Seemed To Disagree.

So long and interesting a discussion broke forth over what seemed like a mild disagreement or misunderstanding between Premier Drury and one of the government supporters, W. H. Casselman from Dundas, that the debate on the budget did not get started until after 5 o'clock, when Charles McCrea of Sudbury continued his criticism of the government's financing for the last year.

The misunderstanding was in regard to a bill Mr. Casselman proposed to introduce, making the government grant given to low-power transmission lines carrying hydro electric energy to the farmers also apply where the current is supplied by a private corporation.

He claimed the hydro was not in a position to compete in most sections of Eastern Ontario with the private companies, and that unless the grant applied to private companies it would be of no use in that section of the province. He claimed the premier had promised the government would get behind this bill, but was now failing to come to its support.

Premier Drury replied that he had not promised to come to the support of the bill, that he had told Mr. Casselman that he was in sympathy with the bill, but had not satisfied himself that it would not result in government grants going to swell the profits of private concerns. The bill will be printed and come before the house, but the Speaker has intimated that it will be ruled out of order when it does come, not being a government measure.

Mr. Casselman said he had had several conversations with Premier Drury, and had explained that a private company operating in his part of the province was in a position to offer electric service at a very much lower rate than that offered by the hydro commission, and on a five-year contract which bound both sides, instead of a 20-year hydro contract, which bound the farmer and not the commission.

Would Bonus Private Firms.

He therefore had prepared a bill which would provide that the same 50 per cent bonus on the construction of transmission lines given where the hydro electric commission supplied the power, should also be given where a private company supplied the power.

He blamed the premier for not coming to his assistance and making it a government bill, and asked the premier what he was going to do about it, and whether he was prepared to introduce a government bill along that line, for only by such method could any grants in transmission lines help the farmers of Eastern Ontario.

He argued that the farmers of that section of the province had been neglected in regard to government assistance in getting electric services.

Premier Drury said he was in sympathy with the bill, but until he made sure that adequate safeguards could be made, he would not promise to introduce such a bill and seemed to think that there was small hope of such a bill being introduced by the administration this session.

Mr. Ferguson claimed there was a marked difference between the premier's promise to Mr. Casselman that the government would "get behind" his bill, and the present statement that he was sympathetic, but would not say whether the government would introduce one or not. He claimed the premier was trying to ride two horses. He thought the premier's action had put Mr. Casselman in a very embarrassing position in introducing his bill.

Repeats Explanation.

The premier repeated what he had said regarding the government considering the introduction of the bill, and Mr. Casselman repeating that his understanding was the premier in conversation had definitely promised to get behind the bill.

Hon. F. C. Biggs and other members of the government side pointed out that Western Ontario farmers also suffered from high rates.

Hon. D. Carmichael explained that the 50 per cent grant had already been of great assistance in bringing electric energy to farmers, giving figures of the mileage, which brought the comment from G. S. Henry that he was glad to see that Col. Carmichael was evidently still acting on the hydro commission, and must have withdrawn his resignation.

The latter did not reply.

The attorney-general announced that he proposed to have the bill ratifying the agreement in connection with the Shevlin-Clark litigation discussed in the house next Tuesday. H. H. Dewart pointed out that he considered the agreement an iniquitous one, and warned the government that it would be strenuously opposed.

Corrects Report.

J. Joynt (Conservative, Huron South) took occasion to deny a report in the Farmers' Sun, in which, after congratulating Minister of Agriculture Doherty as a live wire he was quoted to have said if there had been such a live wire as minister of agriculture in 1917 and 1918 the British embargo against Canadian cattle would have been lifted. He explained that what he did say was that if the Dominion of Canada had had a live wire as minister of agriculture at that time the embargo would have been removed. He wished it understood that he referred to Hon. T. A. Crerar, not to the provincial minister, Hon. G. S. Henry. He claimed that was the opportune time for the removal.

Viennese Miracle Man Pits Tender Cunning Against Nature and Wins

DETROIT, Mich., March 23.—The supreme skill of Dr. Adolf Lorenz, Viennese miracle man, was put to the ultimate test in the Receiving Hospital here today.

Dripping perspiration and with tousled grey hair, he pitted his tender cunning and terrific strength against nature gone awry—and he conquered.

Thrilled spectators defied silence orders and chattered excitedly when the great surgeon, after an hour of unceasing effort wiped his beaded brow and said in commonplace tones:

"It is like a sculptor working in clay—we are all clay anyhow—you see, now it is fixed."

Before their eyes he had taken the pitiful club foot of Ruth Coons, 13, of 8201 Livernois avenue, and had molded it into a foot both straight and perfect.

Ruth will have a good reason long to remember Dr. Lorenz. She came into his workshop a sad little cripple; she left it mended and whole.

The operation upon Ruth Coons was complicated by the adhesions of three or four prvieous oprations in which the knife had been used in a vain effort to correct her deformity.

After completing four other operations, two of which were duplications of the Lolita Armour operation for congenitally dislocated hip, he took a recess of twenty minutes, during which he smoked cigarettes. Then he hitched up his homely police suspenders and prepared for his next patient.

MOUNTED POLICE EXTEND ACTIVITY

OTTAWA, March 23.—A marked increase in the work of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police is noted in the report of the force just made public by Commissioner A. E. Perry.

The total strength of the force, all ranks, is 1,680 men, an increase of nine over the year previous. The scope of the work in the report covers the entire Dominion. Particular importance is attached to activities in the Arctic regions.

DEFINES IDEALS OF LIONS' CLUB

E. E. Linger Declares Principle of Organization Is Practice of the Golden Rule.

ADDRESSES LOCAL BRANCH

Appoint Committee to Assist in Work of "Boys' Week" Movement.

The principles and ideals of Lionism formed the subject of the address given by Ernest E. Linger from Hamilton, district governor of the Lions' organization for Western Ontario, to the London Den at their weekly meeting in the Tecumseh House yesterday.

Practice of Golden Rule.

"To put the principles of Lionism into a single sentence would be to say that it was 'the practice of the Golden Rule,' and when a man comes into contact with an organization that practices what it preaches he cannot help but become a better man," said the speaker in opening his address.

"To be a success the Lions Club must back up the ideals with the deeds, and all the finest speeches, eloquent though they may be, are of little or no use if they do not bring results that are of some benefit both to the club and to the community in which it is situated."

Speaking of the conference that was held in Chicago in January, and to which Mr. Linger was the representative from Canada, the speaker told the members that since the beginning of the first Lions Club in 1917 they had grown in less than five years to 500 clubs all over United States and Canada, and had on their roll 30,000 members, who were divided into 27 districts.

Appoint Deputy Governor.

The report from all the clubs was that they were all going strong, and that new clubs were being organized, so much so, that it would be necessary to appoint a deputy governor in order to give the new clubs the assistance that they would require.

The international executive is putting on an attendance campaign, to be conducted in all the clubs throughout the country for a period of ten weeks, and the club gaining the highest percentage of attendance during that time would be presented with a silver cup at the international conference, to be held in Hot Springs this summer.

Speaking to the cubs present as individuals who were interested in the success of their own particular club, the governor said that if they wanted to make it the success that it might be everyone should attend all the meetings and at all times be a booster. "If you want to wreck a club I don't know of any better way of doing it than to stay away from the meetings. The more you study the ethics of lionism the more you will be filled with the desire to make lionism a still greater success than it already is," said the speaker.

Asks Co-operation.

D. George Clark, president of the Advertising and Sales Club of London, spoke to the members on "Boys' Week" that is being put on by the various clubs of the city, and asked their co-operation.

Each club is to undertake to supervise the work for one day during that week, and along certain lines, so that there will be no duplicating of the work. A program will be arranged for the whole week by a general committee made up of representatives from all the bodies in the city interested in boys' work.

A committee was appointed from the Lions Club, consisting of Cub Parsons, as chairman; Cubs Graham and Keene, to look after the work allotted to the club by the general committee in charge.

The week of April 17 is set aside for the boys on account of it being a holiday in the schools, when the boys will have more freedom.

Cub Brisco of the Chatham den of lions, extended an invitation for the London club to visit the Chatham den, and also outlined the work done by the club among the boys in Chatham and its good results.

PACIFISTS TO KEEP POSTS.

LONDON, March 23.—(Canadian Press.)—The parliamentary committee appointed some time ago to inquire into the case of 230 conscientious objectors during the war, these all being civil servants, has decided to recommend their retention in office. The majority of these men who refused to take up arms are employed in the postoffice.

CHICAGO, March 23.—The United States "is of more service outside of the League of Nations than she would be in, for, as a non-member, she can referee," Col. Charles Repington, British writer and military expert, said in a speech yesterday. He expressed the belief that a great statesman some day would consolidate the treaties of Washington, the League of Nations and the international court of justice at The Hague into one organization for general arbitration.

TO SPEND $500,000 FOR GOOD ROADS

Kent County Council Notified by Highways Department of Proposed Improvements.

WILL APPORTION COST

Governor-General Lord Byng To Visit Chatham April 17.

Special to London Advertiser.

CHATHAM, March 23.—The department of public highways has notified the Kent County Council that it will spend $500,000 on road improvements on the provincial highway in Kent County during this year. This information was given out at a special meeting of the county council here this afternoon, in answer to a query sent in to the department in January last.

The council is in session regarding a number of contemplated road improvements in various parts of the county and to apportion the cost thereof. Road improvements for the municipalities of Thamesville and Bothwell were submitted to the council for approval, and in turn were handed over to the roads committee to investigate and report.

R. J. Wilson, who for the past four years has been secretary of the U. F. O. Club at Charing Cross, has resigned his office in order to superintend a proposed scheme of co-operative marketing for the benefit of Kent county farmers.

For the present Mr. Wilson's work will be devoted to the better marketing of hogs, cattle and sheep. He has made a close study of the scheme, and in choosing him to supervise this important work county farmers are confident that he will show excellent results.

President E. W. Beatty, of the C. P. R., passed through the city this morning en route to Montreal after a business trip in the middle Western States. He spent several days in Minneapolis on business in connection with the "Soo Line." He is being accompanied as far as Toronto by General Superintendent Grout of the Ontario Lines.

According to an advice received by city officials this morning their excellencies Governor-General Byng and Lady Byng will visit this city on the afternoon of April 17. The city council will hold a special meeting on Friday evening next for the purpose of discussing a suitable reception for their excellencies.

HOLD WAGE CONFERENCE

Delegates of British Shipbuilding Unions and Ministry of Labor Discuss Reduction of Bonus.

LONDON, March 23.—(Canadian Press Cable.)—A conference was held today between delegates from the shipbuilding unions and the ministry of labor on the notice given by the employers that there would be a reduction of the war bonus. The men's leaders found themselves in a dilemma today owing to a decision arrived at last week by union shipbuilders not to take a ballot on the employers' proposals for the taking off of the bonus of 26s 6d per week in two installments. There is not time now in which to take a ballot before the first cut becomes operative.

The proceedings at today's conference were very lively. A sharp division of opinion was revealed among the delegates, but the majority of them were not inclined to face the possibility of a stoppage of their employment. The conference was adjourned two hours in order to give the men opportunity to settle their differences, but the adjournment came without the desired result.

THE COUGH WITH THAT TICKLING SENSATION

A little tickling in the throat; now and then a dry, hacking cough; you think it is not bad enough to bother about, but every hack makes a breach in the system, strains the lungs and prepares the way for more serious trouble.

How many people have lost a good night's rest by that nasty, tickling, irritating sensation in the throat? The dry, harsh cough keeps you awake, and when you get up in the morning you feel as if you had had no rest at all is just the remedy you require to stop that irritating, tickling cough on account of its soothing, healing and expectorant properties.

Mrs. P. Johnson, Port Alberni, B. C., writes: "I have suffered for years, off and on, with a tickling cough. I could not sleep nights and had to sit up in bed to get relief, in fact, I coughed so I used to vomit. I tried different doctors' prescriptions until I heard of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I tried it and found great relief after I had taken the first bottle and have not been troubled since. I shall always keep it in the house."

Be sure and get "Dr. Wood's" when you ask for it. Price, 35c and 60c a bottle; put up only by The T. Milburn Company, Limited, Toronto, Ont.

James B. McKillop, K.C.

THE DEATH of JAMES B. McKILLOP, K.C., removes one of London's foremost citizens.

Over 45 years ago MR. McKILLOP came to London from the township of Aldborough, and entered the office of WARREN ROCK, Q.C., to study law. MR. ROCK was one of the leading jury lawyers in Western Ontario.

MR. McKILLOP was called to the Bar in 1881, and has been diligently and faithfully practicing his profession in London ever since.

He became a partner of the late CHARLES HUTCHINSON, then county crown attorney, and with MR. JAMES MAGEE, his successor until MR. MAGEE was elevated to the Bench, when MR. McKILLOP became crown attorney of the county of Middlesex.

The duties of his office, coupled with the cares of a large general practice, required great ability, and were quite sufficient to tax the energies of one man. MR. McKILLOP was successful in both, and performed more than the work of one man. As a lawyer he was faithful to his clients' interests, careful, painstaking and exact. As counsel he took a leading place.

He did not confine his energies to law, but took an active part in the social life of the city. The qualities that made him popular with his brethren of the Bar made him equally popular in the social life of the city.

He was genial, kind, fair-minded and honest.

In the Masonic fraternity he held the highest degrees. He regularly attended and enjoyed its meetings. No Mason in London was held in higher esteem.

In St. Andrew's Society, of which he was president at the time of his death, there will be many Scotsmen genuinely sorry that JAMES B. McKILLOP has been ferried o'er death's dark stream."

He was respected by all.

In the Motor League, the presidency of which he a short time ago resigned, he was equally popular.

In his every-day intercourse with his fellow-men, in the family circle, and in the many homes in which he was welcome, he will be most missed.

The home and all its varying phases was dearest to his heart. It was the centre of his life, the centre of an active, busy, useful, manly life. He died at what is now a comparatively early age.

We bow to Heaven that willed it so,
That darkly rules the fate of all.
That sends the respite or the blow,
That's free to give or to recall.

How "Tariff" Grows.

HOW MUCH money has the Canadian consumer to pay in order that the government coffers may be enriched to the extent of $1? ARCHIBALD M. CARMICHAEL of Kindersley brought the matter up in the course of his address in the House of Commons recently. His claim was that it took $5.65 of real money to put 1.50 in the treasury of the Dominion.

Here is how he made out his case, on the basis of a suit of clothes bought in Great Britain:

"We will suppose," he said, "that a suit is bought in Great Britain costing over there the sum of $10. The tariff duty on fabrics entering Canada is 30 per cent, which means that when that suit enters Canada its cost is $13. It goes into the wholesaler's hands, and he adds one-fourth to the cost of $13 to him, which is an addition of $3.25 to the $13, making the cost to him for selling $16.25. The suit goes into the retailer's hands. He adds 50 per cent to the cost price to him, which is $8.15 added to $16.25, making $24.40. Now, if a person went into the store and bought this suit of clothes he would have to pay $24.40 at the present time.

"Let us suppose," contined MR. CARMICHAEL, "there was no tariff. The original cost would be $10. It would go into the wholesaler's hands, and he would add one-quarter, $2.50, making $12.50. It would then go to the retailer, and he would add 50 per cent, or $6.25, bringing the cost up to $18.75. Notice the difference. In one case it is $24.40, and in the other, $18.75. That means that the customer pays out $5.65 for a tariff of $3. But does that $3 tariff all go into the Dominion coffers? I think not. It is estimated on very good authority to keep up all the expenses in connection with the collection of the customs tariff it takes fully one-half, so that out of the $3 not more than $1.50 actually goes into the Dominion coffers for the payment of the public indebtedness. That means, Mr. Speaker, that it takes $5.65 to put $1.50 into the Dominion treasury. It costs $4 to collect $1."

As far as MR. CARMICHAEL'S case with the suit of clothes is concerned, his figures are fairly correct, although there is very little, if any trade done in that way. Nearly everything that enters Canada in the way of clothing comes in the piece, and is made up here. But take MR. CARMICHAEL'S way of figuring. He takes a $10 suit, on which the duty is 30 per cent to Britain, or $5 to other countries. The man who buys the suit has to put up that $3 in the first place. It is, to all intents and purposes, capital that he is putting into his business for a period of time, depending on the speed with which he can move his stock. When he comes to sell he marks up for a turnover of 25 per cent, and the $3 becomes a bill of $3.75 to the man running the retail store. Dealers tell us that a 50 per cent mark-up would be quite possible in many parts of the West, where a dealer has to put a lot of money into a slow-moving stock. So the dealer figures his 50 per cent on the $3.75, which is $1.87½, making in all $5.62½ that the original duty of $3 has grown to by the time it reaches the consumer. The more times the goods are handled the greater this amount will become. There is no flim-flam about it; simply a straight business transaction, but one that gives a mistaken idea of what the government is getting from the tariff in the way of taxes.

Dealers and manufacturers who understand the clothing trade thoroughly point out that the case cited by MR. CARMICHAEL might give a wrong impression, because it ignores the fact that right now the Canadian mills are turning out the greater part of the goods used in many of the establishments. This is especially so in the case of woolens, and even in worsteds the old country mills are finding the Canadian competition very stiff. Many of these mills in Canada have been able to strengthen their position in recent years, and now have become large industries with a worth-while payroll.

Fake or Real.

INDUSTRIAL TROUBLE that is springing up in various parts of the world prompts the question: Where is it all coming from, and why?

With the troubles and grievances of the man who is working under conditions that are not fair, or who is not receiving a return for his labor in keeping with the service he is performing, the public is ready to sympathize.

With the sullen revolt of the man who is dominated by the idea of conducting a strike while still remaining on the payroll, or of doing a half-day's work for a day's pay, or who goes from some secret meeting to his work with the idea of making trouble, the public is not going to have any sympathy at all, once it arrives at the stage where it can discern between one and the other.

Just when the world is in its present state there is no time to tamper or temporize with these matters. The paid agitator, the man who is out to raise hell and nothing else, has got to get kicked out.

The man with a real grievance can have a good chance to state his case. There are these two classes, and the public is coming to the stage where it is going to be very quick to discern between one and the other.

The School Question.

WE HAVE on a former occasion pointed out that there should be no ill-will caused by the question raised respecting the share that should be paid to Protestants and Catholics of school taxes.

The first thing to do in this and all other questions is to ascertain the facts, and then apportion between the parties fairly. The fact that Catholics are in a minority in this province should cause the government to be anxious to decide justly. The late EDWARD BLAKE, when advocating home rule in Ireland, said he believed with home rule, the "Protestants would be the spoiled children of Ireland."

The late CARDINAL GIBBONS, when summing up the virtues of the Catholic religion at the parliament of relions at the World's Fair at Chicago, said: "She has founded asylums for the training of children of both sexes and for the support of the aged poor. She has established hospitals for the sick and homes of various kinds. She has exerted her influence toward the mitigation and abolition of human slavery. She has been the unwavering friend of the sons of toil."

If we look at the record of Protestant churches they are very similar.

If we go further and examine the record of the government of the province, whether under a coalition, Liberal, Conservative or United Farmers' party, the record covers the ground stated, and includes many other benevolent features, such as asylums for insane, deaf and dumb, blind and other benevolent purposes. One fact we are very apt to forget: All these benefits were given to the people of this province until recent years without one cent of taxation. That day is over.

That governments of every shade of politics united without question in these good acts should go a long way towards eliminating all feeling from the question now up for decision.

We have entire faith in the just desire of the DRURY government in the settlement of all such questions. First, ascertain the facts, then deal justly.

Counting Costs.

GALT IS not going to be outdone, and is now to do a little investigating to find out whether the overhead charges for civic government are too high.

There is scarcely a city where something of this kind has not been suggested or undertaken. In London we have a demand for a horizontal cut of 10 per cent in the civic wage bill.

Why? For several reasons, one in particular. For a few years everything went and went easy. Money seemed to be very plentiful. Charges were high, but people were able to meet them, and expenses were incurred that were going to run on into the lean years, as well as through the fat ones.

The orgy of easy money passed away some months ago, and people are demanding of their spending bodies the same tactics they have found it necessary to exercise in their own business and their own homes.

Simple. There's nothing mysterious about it. Fiddlers' bills must be paid, even after the people get tired of dancing.

Theory and Fact.

THERE WAS a double funeral in Galt a few days ago, owing to the fact that a foreigner there had possession of a weapon of some sort. In Hamilton there will be a funeral of another foreign couple, man and wife, all because the husband had in his possession a rifle and ammunition.

Of laws and ordinances against all this sort of thing there is no end, and yet what have we? Every time a good-sized dispute turns up a weapon is produced, and the artillery goes into action with deadly effect.

As long as we have loaded revolvers tucked away in hiding places all over the country people are going to get shot with them every now and then.

A man will have to do some pretty hard thinking to put up a good reason for having a revolver in his possession.

As things stand we have laws against having or carrying or buying arms, while in actual practice we have gunmen in action every time a good-sized dispute gets under way.

LITTLE 'TISERS

St. Thomas has been looking over the winter fair idea, and is at the point now where costs are wanted in detail. Toronto has one half-baked that they might get a pretty close price on.

Sister Mary runs a neat little section on one of the pages in THE ADVERTISER, and just now she is starting to crank up the rhubarb season by telling how to cook the stuff in 17 different ways.

Sympathy will be extended to two premiers. HON. MACKENZIE KING and HON. W. M. MARTIN of Saskatchewan. The premier of the Dominion lost a brother, and the mother of PREMIER MARTIN has passed away.

Hamilton has a case where a foreigner shot his wife and himself over the operation of a still, where liquor had been sold for some time past. The officers should tiptoe down there now and raid the place.

France claims she understands Germany better because she lives beside her. It is a fact that a man who has his farm next to the field where there is a large bull understands the need for the top rail on the fence better than the man whose farm is over on the next concession.

Police officials in some cities are issuing warnings against the use of spot lights by autoists. Would it not be much better in the first place to have a definite ruling so that there would be no doubt in the matter? If a spot light is not allowed by law, why permit them to be put on cars at all?

Quite a number of lines report an improvement in business conditions, and claim there is a distinctly better feeling than there has been for some months past. Orders are coming in to a number of London factories in a way that gives confidence for the future. The country is not in for a quick come-back, but one that will be very certain and very welcome.

The London Street Railway should see to it that their overhead wiring along the streets of London is in better shape. On several occasions lately live wires have fallen on the streets near the center of the city, but fortunately no one has been seriously hurt. The frequency with which these accidents are occurring indicates that there are defects which, in the interests of public safety, should be attended to.

In several parts of the province school trustees are being found who are ready to fight against any more of what they term frills or fads being tacked on the ratepayers. The stop must come some place, as it is out of the question to continue indefinitely putting on additions in the way of new ideas. The trend is turning more than ever for simplicity and efficiency in our educational institutions.

A German specialist has been called to Moscow to treat LENINE, who has something wrong inside of him. If there's half as much wrong with him as with Russia, he's sure to be a pretty sick man with poor chances for recovery.

Apparently some of the stories about the SMALL case have got under the skin of the chief of police in Toronto, for he has issued quite a statement in which he refers to the "many inaccuracies contained in articles in the press recently." The press may produce some inaccuracies about SMALL, but the police have so far produced no accuracies as to what became of him.

TO THE EDITOR

RURAL EDUCATION.

Editor Advertiser:

Since the trustee convention in London on Feb. 10 and 11, I have become much interested in the consolidated school question. I cannot see what is to be gained by the rural people scrapping their school house and taking on consolidated schools. One of the speakers at London convention gave as evidence of the success of consolidation a school in Wexford County, Northern Michigan. Since then there has come to my hand a copy of the Michigan Business Farmer, published at Mount Clemens. I am copying an article from this publication, "Rural Education," from a correspondent in Shiawassee, which I trust you will publish.

"I have read the article written by a Taxpayer in Genessee County, in Dec. 3 issue, on the consolidated school, and he has my views exactly. I cannot see for the life of me what has caused these highly-educated people who are clamoring for the consolidated schools to have so much sympathy all at once for the farmers' children. They have always tried to make the farmer the under dog. Now, why so much fuss over his offspring? And what are they going to do with the farmers after they have driven them off the farm by taxation? It takes a mighty good farm and a mighty good farmer to make a go of it now.

"It will be the consolidated poorhouse that will be needed in a few years, if I am any judge. Around Perry and Morrice, where they have consolidated schools, their taxes run from $27 to $33 per $1,000. But what does Mr. Johnson know or care about that? He gets his salary paid whether the farmer lives or not. That is just the trouble with this country: there are too many bosses, trying to show the farmer how to spend his money, whether he has got it to spend or not.

"But to come back to the 'am I my brother's keeper' part. I was educated in a village high school, having been reared in a village, and I know what it means to the children to enter school who cannot dress properly or appear properly. Now they are trying to rake up these poor, ragged kids from all the byroads and absolutely make them go to town to school whether they want to go or not, and whether their parents can afford to dress them in a manner that will not make them a laughing-stock or not. How much rather would these children, who are unfortunate in worldly goods, stay in their own districts than to be poked fun at by the town smarties?

"It seems to me that each district is doing its bit in paying a larger part of the tuition for high school training when the children are finished at 'the little red school house,' and if they cannot take advantage of such a means to get their education, it seems to me it would be something like President Sperry of Albion College used to say, 'Putting a $1,000 education on a 10 cent boy.'

"Then to the idea of conveyance: The way the Genessee taxpaper described it was sure food for thought. How much better for a child to walk along the country road in the pure, fresh air (that the city folks rave so much about), than to be packed like sardines in those busses along with children who are not taught to cough or blow their noses properly, to say nothing about keeping clean? I would much rather know that a child was walking home on a country road than to be hanging around town waiting for the older ones to get out and the bus to start. If temptations ever reach the young mind it is when they are hanging around with nothing to do.

"To make a long story short, I cannot see why, if the rural districts can afford to hire a competent teacher, keep up their school houses and educate their children to the eighth grade, then pay their tuition to high school, they cannot be allowed to do so without so much howling. If the local school boards could have the privilege of running their districts unhampered by these salaried guys, there would not be so much discontent, and no clear-minded farmer would want consolidated schools. But the commissioner comes around and tells the teacher in the rural school to tease the school board for everything she can think of, then tells the board to get along with just as little as they can (even to try to get along with one toilet), as we are soon to have consolidated schools, and it won't pay to incur any expenses.

"It is O. K. for the guy in the easy chair to tell the farmer 'Atta boy! stick to the plow and grub out that tax money,' so that he can hold down his job or get a better one; but put him behind the plow for one season, and I'll bet you dollars to doughnuts that he'll be singing 'How dear to my heart is the little red school house,' and he'll forget it's out of date too.

"There is nothing that will drive the children from the farm any quicker than this burden of taxation. While the young man and woman are trying to make a living on the farm, let's give them a chance to make a life, and not always keep their nose on the grindstone and a laughing-stock for their dependents. — L. Z. S., Shiawassee County, Mich."

READ YOUR CHARACTER

[By Digby Phillips.]

NO. 170—RISING WRITING.

Are you hunting for an optimist, for a person who refuses to be discouraged, for the kind of a person who, if he does not at first succeed, "tries, tries again?"

The sign of this mental characteristic lies in handwriting. If the written lines slant upward to the right, you have found the man or woman you are hunting for.

The people whose writing rises in this manner are of naturally cheerful and hopeful disposition. They look upon the bright side of life. They keep their thoughts fixed upon the chances of success, not upon the fear of failure.

This does not necessarily mean that they are such innocent, hopeful optimists that they discount the chances of failure too much, that they lack common sense or judgment. Their optimism is the result of ambition and determination. There is a constant, irresistible urge in these people to keep on trying to do better. They are never quite satisfied with any piece of work they have done. They always feel that given the opportunity to do it over again they would do it better, and they welcome the opportunity to prove this to themselves as well as to others.

It is only when the upward slant of the writing is very marked and unusual that you want to watch out for such an excess of optimism and ambition as makes a person impractical, visionary and extravagant in his ambitions.

COMMON SENSE WAYS TO KEEP WELL

Spitting and Influenza

WHATEVER causes are chiefly responsible for the large number of cases of influenza and grippe and their arch-ally, pneumonia, it is certain that the great amount of promiscuous spitting does not help in preventing the spread of these diseases.

It may be that the malignant effects of spitting are not exceedingly great, yet, since we cannot estimate the number of cases due to this cause, it would be a wise thing for all communities to become strict about this matter.

Most towns and communities have anti-spitting ordinances, which are persistently broken thousands of times daily.

It is a common sight to see people, old and young, of both sexes, spit on the sidewalk.

It is not only an indecent habit that rather grates on the finer sensibilities of right-minded people but it is palpably a dangerous menace to the health of us all.

The germ of tuberculosis is present in millions in the spit of a consumptive. It is almost entirely through the spit of consumptives that the germ of this dread disease is communicated to others.

It is reasonable then to state that much "flu" and grippe could be prevented by public health officials if they would start an active campaign against spitting in public places.

Promiscuous coughing is also a public menace, especially in street cars and motor buses.

25 YEARS AGO TODAY

FRIDAY, MARCH 24, 1897.

Weather—Fair and cold.

London members of the Canadian Order of Chosen Friends were greatly elated today upon receiving word from Hamilton that Mr. T. G. Davis of this city was elected grand chief councillor of the order.

Among the representatives at the grand council are the following Londoners: Thomas G. Davis, G. V. C.; A. M. Legg, G. S.; D. A. Donaldson, S. Baker, East London; David Wilson, London West; R. Butler, A. Kirkpatrick, D. A. McDonald, G. S. Nash, W. G. Pepper, R. H. Cullis, E. R. Stonehouse, Lobo.

A choice and rare concert was given last evening at the Asylum, under the direction of Miss Baldwin. The following is the program: A vocal duet, "Echoes," by Misses Moore and Baldwin; two soprano solos, "Forget Me Not," and "Kentucky Babe," by Miss Moore; two contralto solos, "Two Marionettes," and an intermezzo, with violin obligato, by Miss Baldwin, and a piano solo, "Flattery," by Miss Morphy.

The following will play in London's baseball team this year under the management of Mr. Holman:

Pitchers—Lute H. Johnston, North Choctaw, N. Y., and William Kershaw, South Lawrence, Mass.

Catcher—James Walsh, Ft. Wayne, Mich.

Shortstop—O. L. Conn, Decatur, Ill.

First base—Arthur Sippi, London.

Center field—William Hynd, London.

Messrs. Hardy, Ross, Gibson, Dryden, Davis and Harcourt, Toronto, were present in the council-room yesterday to receive the brewers and maltsters. The deputation included Messrs. Blake, Cosgrove, Davies, Reinhardt, O'Keefe, Ross, Kormann, Gibson and Dickie, Toronto; John Labatt and T. H. Carling, London; F. D. Brooks, Stratford; John Bott and C. H. Griggs, Walkerville; J. Holliday, Guelph; G. T. Labatt, Brockville; T. F. White, Port Colborne; P. Heiser, Sarnia; G. Heiter, Waterloo; L. Bauer, Waterloo; T. H. Simpson, Barrie; W. Stevenson, Kingston; W. R. House, Hamilton; J. McCarthy, Prescott; W. Woodhouse, Port Hope; W. R. Bettles and H. Neil.

A meeting of the jubilee committee was held last night in the city hall, when the committee which formerly consisted of the members of the finance board of the city council was joined by representatives from the following organizations invited to appoint delegates:

National Council of Women—Mrs. Boomer and Mrs. E. N. English.

Ministerial Association—Revs. M. P. Talling and W. M. Walker.

Hospital Trust—Col. Lewis.

St. George's Benevolent Society—Messrs. E. T. Essery and W. H. Bartram.

Board of Education—Trustees Dr. Wilson and W. T. Strong.

Trades and Labor Council—Messrs. F. Plant and W. A. Hunter.

The following were present at a meeting of the water commissioners yesterday: President C. E. A. Carr of the London Street Railway; Chairman Cowan, Commissioner Judd, Secretary Ellwood, Superintendent Moore and Inspector Plastow.

About 260 members of the Order of Chosen Friends gathered in Association Hall, Hamilton, yesterday at the opening session of the 10th annual grand council. Grand Councillor W. P. Bell was in the chair. Grand Vice-Councillor T. D. Davis of London conferred the past councillor's degree on several Friends, and the grand councillor made a brief address of welcome.

EARLY DAYS IN WILLIAMS

By J. B. McLACHLAN, High Park Ave., Toronto.

WILLIAMS was peculiarly laid out.

The eastern part was divided into six concessions, running north and south, then on the south side from the town line of Adelaide commenced the seventh concession running east and west, thirteen concessions north to the town line of McGillivray, and finally on the west was the 21st concession, extending to the River Sauble, which formed the township line between Bosanquet and Williams, with a center road dividing it east and west. Later the township was formed into two municipalities, East Williams and West Williams, with the center road as town line.

The I. O. G. Templars, a society for the suppression and curtailment of the liquor traffic, was about this time forcing itself on the attention of the friends of teetotalism. Lodges were being organized all over the province, both sexes being eligible for membership. This was a step in advance of the Sons of Temperance which were then, and, I believe yet, confined to male membership. Although there was no organized society on Glasgow street, yet we were not altogether neglected in the matter of education on the temperance question. Mr. Daniel Waters, father of the late Rev. Daniel Waters of St. Johns, N. B., John Waters, who later represented North Middlesex in the Ontario Legislature, Dr. George Waters, already referred to, and William Waters, but all have passed away.

Mr. Waters was for many years reeve of the township; a man of a wide field of information, a forcible and powerful speaker who espoused the cause of temperance with the ardour of youth and often addressed the people of the neighborhood, young and old, in the school house on his favorite theme, a Liberal in politics and an ardent admirer of the Hon. George Brown. I had the pleasure years later to listen to him deliver a stirring and eloquent address before the convention which nominated young Thomas Scatchard (as he was familiarly called) for the parliament of Canada.

The prohibition of the liquor traffic was also being advocated and petitions addressed to the two branches of parliament, asking that a measure of prohibition be granted in reply to the prayer of the petitioners. James Donaldson and I canvassed a large portion of the township for signatures to such a petition, going from house to house, in the depth of winter, being entertained by the hospitable Scotch Highlanders when night overtook us by a real Highland welcome, and soothed to sleep by the music of the Gael which makes the wearied forget his weariness, or on the field of battle makes the soldier forget everything but "how to kill twa at ae blow" and his family in his family in his heather hills. In a certain locality not very distant in which the elder generation was more or less addicted to drinking, the young folk conceived the idea of starting a Good Templar lodge. Shortly after it was organized young McTavish spoke to his father somewhat after this wise. "Father, you are well thought of in the settlement, especially by the young folk, and if you would join the lodge your influence would be felt in the neighborhood and help our lodge." The elder McTavish felt the force of his son's logic and soon became a member of the order. So, after his initiation as the custom was, and still is, a ring is formed around the lodge room and every one of the members salutes the new-made members with a hearty shake of the hand and the words "Welcome, brother" and along with the rest came young McTavish, who, as heartily as the others addressed his father "Welcome, brother." That being over the old gentleman shortly ventured to approach his son with the query "Dougall, have you forgot your own father?" he, no doubt, thinking it was a strange place to bring him to where his own son was so far gone as to forget his father.

WILD pigeons were very numerous 60 or 70 years ago, but now and for many years past they are scarce, if not entirely extinct. Some years ago several thousand dollars had been offered by the United States government for a wild pigeon's nest. I have seen immense flocks of those birds flying overhead and extending from one side of the sky to the other, and so thick as to eclipse the very sun and the farmers had the greatest difficulty to protect the grain they were sowing from being picked up by the pigeons. They literally covered the ground and in self-defence nets were spread to snare them. For amusement I tried my hand one Saturday to catch some of those proud marauders when a neighbor by the name of Jackson came over to see me. He was an elderly old gentleman, but very much given to exaggeration, and he told me that when he lived in the township of Walsingham he made a net of immense size and the pigeons lit on the very spot to suit him so that he caught millions and millions of them and the people came from all parts and carried them away in wagon loads, for which he charged 50 cents a load. Fancy the twisting of necks that must have happened that day.

BILL Streeter, already referred to as a school boy, now grown to man's estate, enlisted in some federal corps during the American civil war. Having smelled powder and in other ways experienced some of the realities of the field of battle, his mind would naturally wander back to his old haunts on the banks of the Sauble to the school ground and call to mind some of the tricks and capers common to nearly every school boy. When perchance he lay beneath the southern sky his thoughts might revert to the time when he removed the caseing behind the teacher's desk and concealed the dead squirrel, replacing the casing, meanwhile watching from day to day the effect likely to have on the olfactory nerves of the Dominie. Well, after an absence extending over many moons, his father on looking down the road, saw the returning soldier "Having left the lines and tented field," calls excitingly to his wife, "Mother! mother! Come and see Bill. Here he comes home from the war and he isn't killed yet!"

Donald McIntosh, who occupied the next lot west from father, and living there alone about 1845, wisely took to himself a wife in the person of Miss Mary Dunbar of the town of London. Having always lived in the town it was considerable of a trial to go out in the bush among strangers. After spending a week with her husband's people her sister-in-law proposed that on the morrow they would visit Donald on his claim. Isabel informed her at the same time that it would be well as they were going down Glasgow street to put on her best dress. The morrow came and having a walk of over three miles the two started early and after two miles or more, and being in swampy places, Mary said, "Isabel, when will we get to Glasgow street?" Isabel replied "This is Glasgow street now." Mary dropped down in the water and wept, upbraiding her sister-in-law for having deceived her. Time and time again have I heard her relate the adventures of that day. Isabel shortly after married Lewis Cruickshanks and settled just across the Sauble from Mary and her brother. Mrs. McIntosh generally once a year visited her mother in London, walking all the way, and often carried a child in arms. On one of those occasions she left home in the morning and reached the Ross home, opposite Dr. Hanson's, as Mrs. Ross went out to blow the horn for dinner, and Mary called out "Granny Ross, I hope you have a good cup of tea ready." Mrs. Ross, as you may well suppose, was amazed, for their stood Mary Varack, with a baby in her arms, having walked 25 miles over a Middlesex road, of 70 years ago, some parts of it through the woods. Grandmother, mother, Mary and Isabel living close together, became firm and fast friends and remained so as long as they lived, and I cannot see a better termination of this tribute and deep appreciation and heartfelt admiration as friend and neighbor of this noble, self-sacrificing woman who, with her husband and my parents, dwelt side by side in the wildwood where roamed the wild animals and the red men, some of them wilder still, inspired me many years ago to respectfully dedicate to her memory the following lines:

In London town there lived a lass,
Who for grace and beauty did surpass
All others in that place by far;
This maiden's name was May Dunbar.

For carriage gay and graceful mien,
No fairer personage could be seen,
Faultless and fair with naught to mar
The elastic step of May Dunbar.

Young Donald came and won his bride,
In forest depths they did reside;
She was indeed his gulding star,
The lovely Mary of Dunbar.

By Sauble's bank they made their home,
Where savage tribes the wilds did roam;
From city haunts remov'd afar,
Lived Donald and his May Dunbar.

But years roll on to leave their trace,
And mar each noble brow and face,
While sorrow left its stamp and scar
On her who once was May Dunbar.

Now both have pass'd from earth away,
To live as one in endless day,
And like Robert Burn's "ling'ring star,"
She still shines on sweet May Dunbar.

J. B. McLachlan.

HIS LAST LETTER

To the Editor of the New York Times:

I was deeply interested in the "Last Letters" written by gallant young Frenchmen and published last Sunday in the Magazine Section of the New York Times. I am inclosing a copy of a remarkable letter written by a young British officer "to be delivered to his father in the event of his death." It was delivered. I cannot refrain from adding that if the captains of industry and labor were only as willing to serve their country now as did these young men during the war, a service which to them meant sacrifice, the dark mists which have beclouded the economic horizon so long would surely and speedily lift, and national confidence take the place of the past despondency.

"To My Father:

"This is a final message for you to read when I am dead. There will be so little else—just the brief official notification, 'The secretary of state for war regrets . . .;' maybe a belated letter or two, speaking only of the small happenings of the day; perhaps a tale of a brother officer as to how I fell; beyond that, nothing. And therefore now, beforehand, I say farewell.

"There is no need of many words. But I want first to thank you as your son. You have been to me the best father a fellow could wish. I want to thank you for the gift of a clean and strong and vigorous and healthy body, straight limbs, and thews that could serve England at her need. For the gift of a powerful intellect and a discerning mind—thank you. For the long years of self-denial that made my education possible; for the guidance and teaching that kept me straight in the days of youth; for the counsel and help ever freely proffered when I asked; for all noble things in your example—again and most earnestly, thank you.

"Secondly, as to my death. Inasmuch as we be men together, there is little need for words. It is in a good cause that I lay down my life. All the things that I hold dear in life I willingly give up since it is required of me. I am proud and glad to be one of those whom England takes, one of those who in their bodies pay the price of her honor. And though in your heart there will be sorrow, you will also be proud, and you will not grieve overmuch.

"All good things be unto you. May the coming years bring wider fields of service, honor and honorable work, strength and wisdom to perform it, and in the end peace and contentment, and quiet rest. Your son, a soldier of England, salutes you! Farewell!

"R. L. H.

SIDE LIGHTS AT OTTAWA

By JOHN J. McLELLAN.

HOUSE OF COMMONS, Ottawa, March 23.—Last to speak in the debate on the speech from the throne was John L. Stansell, member for East Elgin riding.

After accomplishing the formality of associating himself in the congratulations tendered by other members to the newly-elected Speaker, and referring to the fact that he was a new member and ignorant of parliamentary precedure, Mr. Stansell complimented the government on their prompt action on two questions which he said were pressing at the moment.

"I refer," he said, "to the extremely critical railway situation, and the tariff policy. My congratulations are the more hearty and sincere because so far as we have been enlightened—and in this I refer to the remarks of Prime Minister King, the honorable minister of justice (Sir Lomer Gouin), the honorable member for Brantford (Mr. Raymond), and others—in so far as we have been enlightened on those question, congratulations are due, because the cabinet evidently is going to carry out the policy of the late government."

* * *

CONTINUING, Mr. Stansell said that what he was concerned in, and what most of the people were concerned in, was not the name of the parties, but their policies.

He declared that he was a farmer, and could sympathize with the farmers of the West, adding:

"Now, perhaps because I am a farmer it may seem to members to the left that I could not be a protectionist. Well, I think I can explain my position in a very few words. I am a protectionist for this reason: I have given some study to the question, and the solution I have arrived at is applicable to conditions now prevailing. Since coming to this house I have been confirmed in my conclusions because the leaders of all three parties have expressed themselves along the line that at least some basis of protection is necessary."

* * *

PROCEEDING, Mr. Stansell stated that in being a protectionist, and possibly taking a selfish view on tariff matters, he was only doing what he believed to be the duty of every member who owed it to himself to fairly represent the views of his constituents.

He believed the defeat of the former government was due to the fact that the last administration was a war government, and he said: "In my belief no government would have fared better at the hands of the electorate when the election took place."

He urged upon the government economy, and said it should be practised not only in the municipalities of the country and in the provinces, but also in the federal arena.

* * *

OF the cattle embargo, the East Elgin member said that it was unfortunate that the matter was in the hands of the British government and not the Canadian, but if it were possible for the present house to raise the embargo an unanimous decision to do so would soon be reached. Continuing, he said that to those who were so pleased with the work of the Hon. Manning Doherty in Ontario "I would suggest that the provincial minister of agriculture be sent to Washington to bring about a removal of the Fordney tariff."

Concluding, the speaker spoke of the reference that had been made to racial differences. "Such a condition will exist just as long as honorable members of the house continue to use that for political purposes," and lastly Stansell urged a greater effort for unity in Canada to eliminate race prejudice.

* * *

IT was learned today that next Wednesday a deputation of tobacco growers from the counties of Essex and Kent in Western Ontario and from several of the tobacco-growing counties of Quebec, namely Montcalm, Joliette, Berthier, L'Assumption and Beauce, will wait upon the government to petition it concerning, it is understood, tariff protection for the tobacco growers.

It is also understood that the Hon. Manning Doherty will accompany the deputation of tobacco growers.

For the past few years, it is claimed, the position of the tobacco grower in the counties of Essex and Kent has been a condition of comparative hardship. This is a result, however, that can be attributed to falling prices, it is claimed.

The tobacco growers may not immediately petition the government, it is understood, but may attempt to find support in the ranks of the Progressives, members of the farming profession, before presenting their case to the government.

This will be one of the considerations when the tariff problem is dealt with by the government that will have an effect on Western Ontario.

* * *

CONSIDERABLE time has been taken in the house to date by British Columbia members recounting the dangers of the yellow peril on the Pacific coast. Members of Liberal, Progressive and Conservative affiliation in turn have risen to deplore the usurpation of the land, fishing industries and lumbering industries by the aggressive Jap in British Columbia. What the members from the Pacific coast would do to prevent conditions there from growing worse has not been stated by them.

When immigration problems face the government it will have to decide the question of the entrance of Asiatics, but so far nothing which would assist them in that problem has been thrown out by the respective speakers.

Today Alfred Stork (Liberal, Skeena) and Charles Herbert Dickie (Nanaimo, Conservative) dealt with the problems of the Orientals on the coast. Each took very little cognizance of the international aspect.

It would seem that they would wish the exclusion of Asiatics regardless of the attitude Japan might take, and paid little attention to the fact that the problem is in the nature of a two-horned dilemma.

* * *

IT is noted that though most of the Western Ontario members have been reluctant to participate in the debate on the speech from the throne, two have done so, W. G. Raymond and J. L. Stansell. The latter had the honor of being the concluding speaker, and the remark was heard tonight after the adjournment that after Elgin county had done nothing more was left to be said.

Milton Campbell (MacKenzie, Alberta), the man who defeated Michael Clarke of Red Deer in the last election, was the second last speaker in the debate on the speech from the throne. It was understood that this member was one of the most advanced of the Progressive party and thoroughly imbued with the tenets of the Progressive doctrine to the farthest degree. But his effort tonight did not betray any great divergence of views from those held by the other members of the Progressive bloc.

In stressing the need of economy the above-mentioned speaker said that he had calculated the time that a certain member from Toronto, supposedly T. L. Church, had taken in his address, and that during the time the said member was speaking the interest on the national debt had increased $125,000. He thought that in the light of what the member said that the bill for this amount might be presented to him at the end of the session.

* * *

T. L. CHURCH, it might be noted, occupied 51 columns in the pages of Hansard, nearly as many columns as the government members altogether occupied.

There is a light order paper scheduled at the present time so that the questions and motions now on it will be almost entirely cleared away in the Friday session. Estimates will be tabled tomorrow, and considerable discussion may ensue. It will be a welcome practicality after the elocution of the last few days.

There was an amendment to the speech from the throne. This was expected. Next week when the estimates are passed there will be the county council manner of discussion attending. The mace is placed under the table and any member is allowed to speak as long and as often as he wishes without any notification to anyone. But there is one stipulation. It is that the member who has the floor must confine what he has to say to the matter in hand, namely, the estimate that is being taken up at the time.

Estimates and appropriations for the carrying on of the civil government salaries for civil servants and so forth, have precedence.

These must be passed within the next few days, for the carrying on of the departments of the government. Parliamentary procedure in these matters being new to a great number of the members, it is anticipated that only a few of the older parliamentarians will have much to say, even though the opportunity is there for anyone and there is a fair field.

UNABLE TO FIND MOTIVE FOR GALT DOUBLE TRAGEDY

Authorities Unable to Trace Any New Developments in Slaying of Russian.

Special to London Advertiser.

GALT, March 23.—The inquest into the death of Sergie Klasztorny, one of the Russian victims of Saturday night's double shooting, was resumed this afternoon, and while a dozen witnesses were called, there were no new developments, and a verdict finding that deceased had been killed by a bullet fired from the hands of Joe Verun was returned in a few minutes. Still the reason for the slaying is unknown.

The inquest attracted great interest, the council chamber of the city hall being packed to the doors.

Word was received this morning by Mayor S. E. Charlton that Lord Byng of Vimy, accompanied by Lady Byng will visit Galt on Thursday, April 13, stopping here from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. The civic reception committee will be called together immediately to make arrangements for the entertainment of their excellencies while here.

FISHERMEN PREPARE TO OFFER STRONG DEFENCE

Retain Services of J. M. McEvoy, K. C., of London, To Conduct Case.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, March 23.—J. M. McEvoy, K.C., of London will conduct the defence of the seven fishermen of Port Stanley, who have been summoned to appear in the county police court Friday morning, charged with fishing without licenses.

The fishermen, who it is claimed fished before their 1922 licenses arrived, although they had made application for them, are preparing to fight what they believe to be an injustice, until the last ditch. The retention of Mr. McEvoy as their counsel is but their first step.

Mr. McEvoy has requested County Magistrate F. Hunt to adjourn the case one week, but Mr. Hunt referred Mr. McEvoy to Colonel R. Emmerton of London, under whose orders the charges were laid.

LONDON MAN RE-ELECTED

Col. Robert McEwen Again Heads Wool Growers' Co-operative Firm.

TORONTO, March 23.—Col. Robert McEwen of London, Ont., was re-elected president of the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers, Limited, at the first meeting today of the new board of directors elected at the annual meeting on Wednesday. J. W. Renton of Calgary was chosen as first vice-president, and S. A. Logan, of Amherst, N.S., as second vice-president, while additional members are: J. A. McClary, Lennoxville, Que.; John Bayne, Maple Creek, Sask., and George Gordon, Oak Lake, Man.

Announcement was made at the meeting that it was fully expected handling costs would be reduced this year.

LONDON FLORAL FIRM OPENS WINDSOR STORE

W. W. Gammage & Son Extending Business to Border Cities.

At 101 London street, Windsor, on Saturday, W. W. Gammage & Son, "The House of Flowers" will open a branch store under the management of K. G. Clark, who has been connected with the London store for the last ten years.

The same excellent service as is maintained in London will be given to the people of the border cities.

All the flowers and plants sold by the firm are raised by them in their extensive greenhouses situated at the north end of the city, and the supply for the Windsor store will be shipped fresh every morning, and be delivered in Windsor by an up-to-date motor delivery service.

No extra charge will be made for patrons of the London store who wish flowers delivered in the border city. The orders can be sent into the London store at the same prices as if delivered in this city.

TALKS ON COLOR EFFECT FOR SOLDIERS' UNIFORMS

Many attended the lecture given under the auspices of the Western University extension department in the public library Thursday evening, when Dr. E. E. Prince of the federal department of marine and fisheries, Ottawa, lectured on the subject of "Color of Animals."

The slides showing the fishes which inhabit the various seas of the universe were especially interesting.

Dr. Prince declared that it was quite probable that should occasion arise when Canada again would equip soldiers for war, that instead of the khaki now used, a uniform of broken stripes and spots would be utilized which would render the men almost invisible under certain circumstances.

This method of camouflaging the men was suggested during the late war by Dr. Prince, but was not adopted.

Dr. Prince suggested that many people who had leisure time to spare could take up research work at the university on the subject of biology in order that science could benefit from the result of their labors.

The field of research, especially in the work among fish, was just as wide open today as it ever was; there were thousands of fish forms that had never been minutely studied, which gave anybody interested a wide scope in which to work.

Many late comers were forced to stand, which is an indication of the growing popularity of the extension lectures.

UNDER BANK ACT.

Ottawa, March 24.—Section 153 of the Bank Act, to which reference is made in the complaints against Sir Montagu Allan and D. G. Macarow, formerly president and general manager of the Merchants Bank respectively, reads as follows:

153A—The making of any wilfully false or deceptive statements in any account, statement, return, report or other documents respecting the affairs of the bank, or

B—The using of any false or deceptive statement in any account, statement, return, report or other document respecting the affairs of the bank with intent to deceive or mislead any person, is an indictable offence punishable, unless a greater punishment is in any case by law prescribed therefor, by imprisonment for a term not exceeding five years.

2—Every president, vice-president, director, auditor, general manager or other officer of the bank or trustee who negligently prepares, signs, approves or concurs in any account, statement, returns, report or document respecting the affairs of the bank containing any false or deceptive statement shall be guilty of an indictable offence punishable, unless a greater punishment is in any case by law prescribed therefor, by imprisonment for a term not exceeding three years.

KNOX BOYS FAIL TO ENTER DEBATE

The debate, "Resolved, that the organization and maintenance of labor unions should be encouraged," which was to have been held between the Nikators of Dundas Centre Church and Knox Presbyterian boys in the former's club rooms, was defaulted to the Nikators owing to the inability of Knox Presbyterians to have all their speakers present.

The Nikators, after holding their weekly supper, assembled in the club rooms, where C. E. German, mentor, gave a brief address. Then the junior, intermediate and senior boys held separate group meetings, after which the Junior Tuxis and the Hawks played basketball.

GIVE CLEVER RECITAL AT FIRST METHODIST CHURCH

Organ Selections, Violin and Vocal Solos Are Artistically Rendered.

All London music lovers who gathered at the First Methodist Church Thursday evening were treated to a superior recital, artistically rendered, under the direction of A. D. Jordan, the organist.

Perfect technique, combined with a delightful manner of rendering, was displayed throughout the program. The latter consisted of organ selections, violin solos and vocal solos of a high rank. Mrs. Edward Wyatt, the talented soprano soloist, and Ferdinand Fillion, the clever violinist, proved equally happy in their choice of selections for the evening, when eight numbers were played with grace and skill.

The first section of the program began as follows: "Hear My Prayer," Mendelssohn; Allegro Maestosos, Cesar Franck; Concerto in D Minor; Giuseppe Tartini; Sicilian Suite, consisting of the Christmas Song; Arabesca and Sicilian Love Song by Merchiorre Mauro Cottone.

A trio of songs, including "Morning Hymn," by George Henschel; "When Love Is Done," by Maclean, and "The Year's at the Spring," by Mrs H. H. A. Beach; Rubenstein's "Reve Angelique"; and the "Prize Song," from the Mastersigner, and Francoeur-Kreisler's "Sicilian and Rigaduden," concluded the second part of the program, while Rosini's overture, "Semiramide," rendered by the organist, A. D. Jordan, was a fitting and pleasing close to a successful recital.

SUGGESTS CLUB FOR NEWSBOYS

About fifty newsboys congregated in the Y. M. C. A. on Thursday evening as guests of that organization. After indulging in gym games and a swim in the pool the boys held a sing-song, following which Mr. Blay, circulation manager of the London Advertiser, addressed the boys. He spoke on the organization of a club and the problem of getting men or boys together for the purpose of forming one. He stated that with the purchase of motor cars for the circulation of newspapers many of the boys did not have to call at headquarters for their paper, and as a result did not have as great a chance to get together as formerly. On account of these conditions he urged that the boys should try to meet as often as possible, and also they should realize the fact that they form an important part of a big concern.

ETHICS MUST WORK SAYS MR. LEICHLITER

Impresses Importance of Constructive Occupation in Twentieth Century.

RULES OUT DANCE HALL

Spiritual Consciousness of City's Needs Necessary for Effective Service.

On a few hours' notice, Rev. G. A. Leichliter substituted Thursday evening for Mr. Christianson as speaker at the meeting of the Federation of Girls' Clubs of the Y. W. C. A., delivering an inspiring address on "Social Ethics" to aid the membership in evolving a social code.

"Ethics," said Mr. Leichliter, "is the philosophy of morals, but if it does not eventuate in better living and thinking it is an empty sort of vessel." Continuing, he impressed the importance of right living and right thinking for young womanhood in the twentieth century, so far as those who are living are concerned, the greatest century the world has ever seen, "a century," he continued seriously, with the glints of humor which are irrepressible, "of horseless carriages, girlless telephones, boneless hams, brainless politicians, $1,000,000 steel trusts, and a million others getting ready to steal; a century in which the social life of the world has been revolutionized, the century of the awakening from its age-long lethargy of the celestial empire, and the beginning of new ideas among the black men of the little continent of Africa; a century of the awakening of great forces, of the evolving of new standards of judgment, new ideals of righteousness and truth. Some say that ideas are higher than ever before, some say that they are disintegrating."

Should social ideas be considered merely with reference to the lighter exchange of life, or the better social ideas that work out in the quietness of individual lives and in home relationships? Mr. Leichliter chose to deal with the latter.

Friend Is Inestimable.

Friendship may be named as one of the greatest factors in making men and women realize their highest possibilities. History was full, he stated, of matchless pictures of friendship. The value of a true friend was inestimable. But friendship, either between individuals or nations that was impelled by legislation and not brotherly love was rank treachery. "If we are to have a warless world," said the speaker, "it will not be due to legislation, but to enduring affection between people."

Attention was next turned to the use of time in leisure, the "occupying of time." Mr. Leichliter's verdict was that occupation which did not give a new grip on self and new ideal in life, that did not directly contribute to physical, moral and spiritual integrity of life was dangerous. Amusement, in his estimation, should contribute to the physical, mental and moral well-being. Where did the dance hall come in on this count? He considered the organized institution of the dance not only useless, but dangerous, owing to lack of supervision.

"Remember," he said in this connection, "I am not discussing dancing as an amusement in itself. I am talking about the organized dance hall with relation to physical, moral and spiritual equipment."

Clever Woman Discovered Radium.

Turning attention to the development of the intellectual as an asset in holding a worthy place in the social scheme of so important a century as the twentieth, the speaker reminded that women are taking places of great prominence in the world of today, and must be equipped accordingly. "It was a clever woman who discovered radium," he said.

Finally, the ideal was left with the federation, "He who would be great among you, let him be the servant of all." In order to efficiently serve, he pointed out, the spiritual consciousness is necessary of the needs of others, of the community's need.

Sooner or later, life has its serious side for all. To be strong in Gethsemane required a close communion with the source of all power and strength.

After the "thank you" of the large group of girls had been extended to Mr. Leichliter and he was edging out the door, he was called back to give, by special request, a recitation, "The Possum Hunt." A few minutes later, the ethical teacher, who had held the rapt and soul-stirred attention of his audience of young women, was convulsing that same audience with laughter as he recited, in negro dialect, the thrilling epic of the hunt, in which Former President Taft was alleged to have participated.

During the progress of the meeting, the popular president of the federation, Miss Lucas, was presented with a Girls' Club Federation Pin, the first to be worn in London. The presentation was made with an appropriate little speech by Miss Beatrice Lyons.

Following the program, the young-est member of the federation circle, the "Echoes" Club, was put through the solemn rites of initiation.

WITH THE BRIDES

BRADBURY—CROMWELL.

A quiet wedding took place Wednesday evening at the Wellington street Methodist parsonage, when Mrs. Harriet A. Cromwell was married to William Bradbury, both of this city. Rev. G. T. Watts performed the ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Bradbury will reside on Ridout street.

McFALLS—WORRALL.

A very pretty wedding took place Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock at the Church of the Redeemer, when Thelma Elaine Worrall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Worrall, was married to Boyce Lakeman McFalls, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McFalls of Bryanston, Rev. A. S. H. Cree officiating. The church was decorated with spring flowers, and as the bridal party entered the wedding march was played by Miss Mabel Tidball. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a graceful gown of white crepe de chine, with panels of French embroidery, trimmed with wide frings. Her veil of tulle was caught with orange blossoms, and she carried a shower bouquet of Ophelia roses and sweet peas. Mrs. Lloyd Sprague of Toronto was her sister's bridesmaid, wearing a smart frock of grey georgette, with touches of fuchsia, and a large grey hat and a corsage of Ophelia roses. Mr. William Worrall was best man. Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the bride's home, Brook Lodge, Mrs. Worrall wearing a handsome gown of black satin, trimmed with salmon shade, and a small black hat. Mr. and Mrs. McFalls left later on a honeymoon, the bride traveling in a smart suit of tricotine, a grey hat, and seal scarf. On their return they will reside on the groom's farm near Granton. The groom's gift to the bridesmaid was a set of French ivory, to the best man a pearl tiepin, and to the organist a handsome brooch.

DRENNAN—HACKETT.

A pretty wedding took place Monday, March 15, at 5:30, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hackett, Ashfield Township, when their daughter Janet was married to Wilfred Drennan, also of Ashfield Township, Rev. C. W. De Witt Cosens, M.A., B.D., of Lucknow, officiating. The ceremony was performed under a white arch, from which hung a large wedding bell. Miss Winnifred Hunter and Miss Eileen Treleaven, nieces of the bride, acted as ring-bearer and flower-girl. The bride, who was given away by her father, wore a graceful gown of white satin, with a bodice of silk lace, and wore an embroidered veil, caught with orange blossoms to form a cap. Her bridal bouquet was of Ophelia roses. Only the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were present. The wedding march was played by the groom's sister, Miss Violet Drennan, and Mrs. Herbert Stothers, sister of the bride, sang "The Bells of St. Marys," during the signing of the register. Many handsome gifts were received by the young couple, who will reside at Crewe. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold wrist watch, and to the flower-girl and ring-bearer gold band bracelets.

Personals

Mrs. E. H. Johnston is spending a few days in Toronto.

Mrs. C. B. King has returned home after visiting in Detroit.

Mrs. King of Stratford, is the guest of her daughter, Mrs. Randle Brown, Marley Place.

Miss Winnifred Thomas of Toronto, national girls' work secretary of the Methodist Church, is the guest of Miss Bessie McCamus.

Friends of Mrs. Jeffrey Lockyer of 163 Wharncliffe Road, South, will be glad to know she is recovering after a severe illness.

"Lenmore," the King street residence of the Y. W. C. A., will be the meeting place on Monday next of the Lord Roberts Chapter, I. O. D. E.

Following the organ recital, given by Ferdinand Fillion, in the First Methodist Church, Wednesday evening, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Jordan entertained in his honor.

Among the hostesses who have recently given informal little farewell teas for Mrs. J. W. Firth, who is leaving for Toronto, are Mrs. C. K. Bluett and Mrs. G. L. MacDonald.

Mrs. T. G. Davis, William street, entertained informally at the tea hour, Thursday afternoon, in honor of Mrs. (Rev.) Archibald Graham, who is leaving shortly for her new home in Chesley.

Mrs. Eric Reid, Hyman Court, was the hostess of a delightful kitchen shower, Thursday afternoon, given in honor of Miss Gladys Croden, a bride of next month. At the tea hour, Mrs. Turner presided at a table attractive with spring flowers.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Joyes, of "Hillcrest," Lambeth, Ont., announce the engagement of their youngest daughter, Eva Belle, to Albert W. Holmes, only son of Mr. James Holmes of Southampton, Eng., the marriage to take place quietly in the near future.

Mrs. E. C. James, Piccadilly street, was the hostess of the weekly meeting of the Ladies' Guild of the Church of St. John the Evangelist Thursday afternoon. Thirty members were present, and the afternoon was spent in sewing, followed by tea. Mrs Cousens presided at the attractive tea table.

J. W. Firth, since Christmas a member of the Toronto Normal School staff, has arrived in town to assist Mrs. Firth with final preparations to remove the family to the Queen City, where they have taken a house on Grenadier Road, Parkdale. Mrs. Firth and children are leaving for Toronto in a week or ten days.

A successful bridge, given under the auspices of the Isabel Hampton Chapter, I. O. D. E., was held Thursday at the home of Mrs. James Stapleton, Bruce street, under the joint convenership of Mrs. D. C. McFarlane and Mrs. Stapleton. The rooms were bright with spring flowers, and nine tables were in play. Following high tea, during which the hostess was assisted by Mrs. Ross Thomas, bridge was played late into the evening. The proceeds are in aid of the Chapter's fund for the War Memorial Hospital.

Hon. W. M. Martin, premier of Saskatchewan, and Dr. Beattie Martin of Regina, who are coming East owing to the death of their mother, are expected to arrive in London Friday night, accompanied by their sister, Mrs. J. Gunn, wife of Lieut.-Col. (Dr.) J. Gunn of Calgary. Mrs. Gunn purposed coming to pay a visit to her father and mother the beginning of March, but was prevented doing so owing to illness. Mrs. Cranston, another daughter of Rev. W. M. Martin and the late Mrs. Martin, arrived with her husband, Rev. Mr. Cranston, from Trenton Thursday. Mr. and Mrs. Alex. Martin of Kitchener have been here for some days. Interment will take place at Mount Forest, the former home of the Davidson and Martin families.

Mrs. J. Gordon Thompson was the hostess Thursday afternoon, of a smart reception, when she received for the first time since her marriage, at her home in Elmwood avenue. The hostess, wearing a gown of canton crepe in henna shades, and carrying Sunset roses, was assisted in receiving the many callers by Mrs. John Stevely, gowned in grey panne velvet with an orchid hat, brightened by a corsage of violets. Mrs. Robert Glover ushered to the tea-room, which was attractively decorated with roses and daffodils. In the other rooms, spring flowers were used. The tea-table, centered with a graceful arrangement of roses, sweet peas and lily-of-the-valley was presided over by Mrs. Alfred Talbot and Mrs. Charles Norris, wearing a French gown of Diana crepe, with a large black hat, and an ermine stole. Assisting in the tea-room were Mrs. Stuart Thompson, Mrs. William Thompson, Miss Joan Rowat and Miss Mary McLean.

LADIES' AUXILIARY ENTERTAINS.

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the G. W. V. A. held a successful social evening in the club rooms this week in which about forty participated, enjoying games, singing, dancing and the dainty refreshments served. The committee in charge included Mrs. J. F. Thomson, Mrs. M. Summers, Mrs. L. Martin and Mrs. Ball.

For What We Are Is Service Too

Club's Work Is Determined by Spirit of Club, Says Miss Thomas.

"Discussion of Club Work," was the subject of a most interesting lecture given by Miss W. Thomas, B.A., national girls' work secretary of the Methodist Church, at the Thursday afternoon meeting of the social service study week under the auspices of the London Girls' Cabinet.

Miss Thomas spoke of the ways in which girls may serve the community. "Girls often lose their charm in the home, by not cultivating the habit of seeing what should be done and doing it," stated Miss Thomas. "It is very important," she said, "that you should find out what is really needed along the social service line, and serve intelligently. Don't just do what might be termed 'busy work,' just to occupy your minds. You don't want this conference to stop here, but take back to your clubs what you have learnt, and in this way all appeals will be met."

Continuing, Miss Thomas stated there were two ways in which girls may serve. "The first is to serve in a personal way, but the second is much harder and difficult." To explain the second method, the speaker quoted the following: "For what we are is service, too." "The work of a club is determined by the spirit of the club, and the girl life of London will be just as fine as the individual girls it is comprised of." "The greatest service any girl can render to a community is to be the best girl she can be at all times. It is the life we contribute to the community that counts the most."

Miss Thomas explained that girls in thinking of social service work, should think of the help they can be to girls and little children. "As you grow older, it will be older people that you will have to help," she explained.

In speaking of the Big Sister Movement, she stated that under this movement the girls share the deeper things of life—strength of knowledge and ideals. "It is the strong girl standing with the weaker one," she stated.

In conclusion Miss Thomas told the girls that it costs to be a strong person who is able to help. "But if you don't learn to be a good member of your club you will never be a good citizen," she added.

Miss Ruth Hill, associate field secretary of the American Association for organizing social family work, gave a short address.

Following Miss Hill's address tea was served, after which Professor A. G. Dorland of Western University gave a most inspiring address on the value of Bible study.

CLUB NEWS

What Women Are Accomplishing In London.

PLAN HISTORICAL PAGEANT.

A Canadian historical pageant is the ambitious undertaking which the London Girls' Canadian Club is considering for the fall. Tentative plans for this were made at a supper meeting of the executive held at "Lenmore," the King street residence of the Y. W. C. A. The program for the remainder of this season was outlined and will be ready for distribution in the course of a few days, and the policy of the official organ, "The Clarion," discussed. Miss C. N. Welsh was appointed editor for the next issue, and was granted the privilege of selecting her own staff.

BAZAAR AT LAMBETH.

The basement of Lambeth Methodist Church looked very pretty and dainty with its decorations of green and white, when the "Ever Ready" Bible class (Mrs. J. E. Hunter's class of young ladies) held a very successful bazaar.

The cafeteria table was in charge of Miss Alice Carley, while Mrs. Parsons and Miss Pearl Wadsworth had charge of the tea tables.

The following conveners looked after various booths: General convener, Mrs. Hunter; candy and ice cream, Mrs. J. Copeland and Miss Delight Kilborne; homemade cooking, Mrs. (Dr.) Colling; white elephant, Miss Pearl Page; mystery, Miss Eva Vandelinder; apron and cap, Miss Ethel Winters; fancy work, Miss McGugan.

After all had enjoyed a social time together a program was given in auditorium of church, with Rev. J. E. Hunter chairman.

CLOSING SEASON WITH CARNIVAL

After a season of serious study and fine achievement, during which standards for husband and wife, home, business, dress and social ethics have been drawn up, the members of the Girls' Federation of Clubs of the Y. W. C. A. are planning a grand carnival for the evening of April 6 to wind up the season. The use of Lenmore, the down-town residence of the Y. W. C. A., has been granted for the occasion, and the event promises to be one of unadulterated fun. Everything that is flat, stale, dull and uninteresting will be banished from proceedings. Those participating will wear carnival costumes, and there will be a continuous concert from beginning to end of the evening, to be held in the dining-room, each of the clubs contributing to the program and putting an amusing "stunts." Tea and light refreshments will be "on tap," and it is stated the latch spring will be out that the public may drop in and enjoy the fun.

Social Cases Need Trained Worker Just As Sick Need Skilled Doctor

"Financial relief is just like a drug—all right when you are sure when you can stop. Drugs have their place to stop acute distress. The needless continuing of relief work is just as demoralizing and pauperizing as the needless continuing of drugs." The foregoing was, in effect, a quotation given by Miss Ruth Hill, associate field secretary of the American association for organizing social family relief work, in an address delivered at a special meeting of the Union Mothers' Club in the technical school Thursday afternoon, to illustrate the point that the supplying of material needs is only a very small part of the scheme of work of modern social service. In all cases, she emphasized, the desirable end to be achieved is to bring about better adjustment and develop the latent possibilities of the family.

In this connection, the supreme importance was urged of trained social workers in all communities where relief work is required, able to diagnose the social case as accurately, and to set in operation the forces that will bring about recovery as the thoroughly trained physician is able to diagnose a medical or surgical case and prescribe the most effective remedies.

The neighbor or agency, as a rule, she stated, sees only the need for financial relief. It is up to the social worker to discover the exact circumstances, then call in doctor, minister, judge, the agents most required to bring about readjustment.

"People can always visualize an empty pantry, but not family misunderstanding," she said.

In the minutes of the early charitable organizations established in Great Britain and on this continent the aim was to avoid duplication and prevent begging, working towards efficiency in giving, said Miss Hill. The new ideal is to increase the efficiency of service, to discover the resources of the family, and to bring about conditions where the natural sources of income for the family will provide this rather than charity.

Get "Case" to Help.

An important first step in bringing about better adjustment and improvement of conditions, according to the speaker, is getting the confidence and co-operation of the "case" in the same way a doctor endeavors to get the co-operation of his patient. In typical instances related of case work the lesson Miss Hill endeavored to point out was that the families had been let in as far as possible as parties in the plan.

Asked by a member of her audience under whose jurisdiction the trained social investigators work in other places, Miss Hill's answer was, "Under a board of directors made up of citizens."

She added that the relief end is a comparatively small part, for which ample funds can always be found. Frequently a big task is to lead parents to a sympathetic understanding of their children, to get families, including all relatives, to work together as a unit.

In answer to a point raised by Mrs. John Rose, president of the London Union Mothers' Club, that individual clubs doing relief work this winter, in co-operation with the chamber of commerce, have endeavored to go about quietly, not letting right hand know what left hand is doing, Miss Hill said, "That is very well to a certain extent, but it is possible to get more far-reaching service by telling the right person capable of diagnosing the case and investigating in a scientific way. And this does not involve shouting it from the housetops."

While the association with which Miss Hill is connected bears the name "American," it functions in Canada as well as in the United States, such welfare clearing-house organizations as the Neighborhood Workers of Toronto, Charities Organization of Montreal, Public Welfare of Wi... etc., working in co-operation. ... social service council is also a... and it has been to consult with ... McCullough, secretary of the soc... service council for Western Ontario, that Miss Hill has come to London at this time.

The enormous and imponderable world awfully unbalanced. Upside down. Extraordinarily unreal. Furiously real.

Life, which had been a thing of the clock and of the calendar, became a thing of events in which there was no time, only events.

Things began one day very shortly after the declaration of war when, passing the barracks on his way home, Sabre was accosted and taken into the Mess by Cottar, a subaltern of the Pinks.

"You must come along in and have a cup of tea," young Cottar urged. "We've got a fine jamborino on. At least we shall have tonight. We're just working up for it. I can't tell you why. You can guess."

They were at the door of the anteroom. Cottar swung it open. The room was full of men and tobacco smoke and noise. A very tall youth, one Sikes, was standing on the table, a glass in his hand. "Hullo, Sabre! Messman, one of those very stiff whiskies for Mr. Sabre—go on, Sabre, you must. Because—" He had not Cottar's reticence. He burst into song, waving his glass—"Because—

"We shan't be here in the morning—"

They all took it up, bawling uproariously:

We shan't be here in the morning,
We shan't be here in the morning,
We shan't be here in the mor-or-ning,

Sikes from the table. "Ah, Papa Otway! Three cheers for Papa Otway in very discreet whispers. Messman, one of those very stiff whiskies for Captain Otway."

Otway laughed pleasantly. "No, chuck it, I'm not drinking. Hood, I want you; and you, Carmichael, and you, Bullen." He saw Sabre and came to him. "Hullo, Sabre. You've heard now. We've managed to keep it pretty close, but it's all over the place now. Yes, we entrain at daybreak."

Sabre felt frightfully affected. He could hardly speak. "I say, Otway, do you remember predicting this nearly two years ago? You said this would find us all unawares. You were one of the people every one laughed at."

Precisely the same Otway who had spoken with such extraordinary intensity outside the Corn Exchange eighteen months before began to speak with extraordinary intensity now. "That? Oh, I don't care for any of that now. This is our show now, Sabre. The army's show. I don't care for what happens at home now. This is our show. Sabre, you don't know what this is for me. I've lived for this, dreamt about it, thought about it, eaten it, drunk it ever since I was a kid at Sandhurst. Now it's come."

The same Otway! Positively the little beads of perspiration were shining about his nose. His eyes scintillated an extraordinary light. He said, "Sabre, you ought to have seen the battalion on parade this morning! They were magnificent. They're the finest thing that ever happened. There's nothing in the army list to touch us. When I think I'll be in action with them perhaps inside a week—I—"

An orderly approached and spoke to him. "Right. Right. I'll come along at once." He was swiftly away. "Patterson, I want you too. There's a man in your company says his wife—"

And, stilled during his presence, babel broke out anew with his departure. Some one, standing on a sofa, caught up Otway's last word into a bawling song—

I've got a wife and sixteen kids,
I've got a wife and sixteen kids,
I've got a wife and—

A cushion whizzed across the room into his face. A tag began. Sikes on the table was laying down laws of equipment at the top of his voice. "Well, I'm going to take nothing but socks. I'm going to stuff my pack absolutely bung full of socks. Man alive, I tell you nothing matters except socks. If you can keep on getting clean socks every—I'm going to stuff in socks enuogh to last me—"

II.

The blessed gift in the war was to be without imagination. The supreme trial, whether in endurance on the part of those who stayed at home, or in courage on the part of those who took the field, was upon those whose mentality invested every sight and every happening with the poignancy of attributes not present but imagined. For Sabre the war definitely began with that visit to the Mess on the eve of the Pinks' departure. The high excitement of the young men, their eager planning, the almost religious ecstasy of Otway at the consummation of his life's dream, moved Sabre, visioning what might await it all, in depths profound and painful in their intensity. His mind would not abandon them. He sat up that night after Mabel had gone to her room. How on earth could he go to bed, be hoggishly sleeping, while those chaps were marching out?

He could not. At two in the morning he went quietly from the house and got out his bicycle and rode down into Tidborough.

He was just in time. The news had been well kept, or in those early days had not the meaning it came to have. Nevertheless a few people stood about the High street in the thin light of the young morning, and when, almost immediately, the battalion came swinging out of the Market Place, many appeared flanking it, mostly women.

"Here they come!"

Frightful words! Sabre caught them from a young woman spoken to a very old woman whose arm she held a few paces from where he stood. Frightful words! He caught his breath, and, more dreadfully upon his emotions, as the head of the column came into sight, the band, taking them to the station, burst into the Pinks' familiar quickstep.

The Camp Town races are five miles long,
Doo-da! Doo-da!
Doo-da! Doo-da! Day!
Gwine to run all night. Gwine to run all day.
I bet my money on the bob-tail nag,
Somebody bet on the bay!

He never in his life had experienced anything so utterly frightful or imagined that anything could be so utterly frightful. His throat felt bursting. His eyes were filled. They were swinging past him, file by file. Doo-da! Doo-da! Day! He scarcely could see them. They were marching at ease, their rifles slung. They seemed to be appallingly laden with stupendous packs and multitudinous equipment. A tin mug and what else beside swung and rattled about their thighs. The women with them were running to keep up, and dragging children, and stretching hands into the ranks, and crying—all crying.

. . . Doo-da! Doo-da!
Doo-da! Doo-da! Day!

He thought, "Hang that infernal music." He wiped his eyes. This was impossible to bear . . . . Doo-da! Doo-da! A most frightful thing happened. A boy broke out of the ranks and came running, all rattling and jingling with swinging accoutrements, to the old woman beside Sabre, put his arms around her, and cried in a most frightful voice, "Mother! Mother!" And a sergeant, also rattling and clanking, dashed up and bawled with astounding ferocity, "Get back into the ranks!" And the boy ran on, rattling. And the old woman collapsed prone upon the pavement. And the sergeant, as though his amazing ferocity had been the buttress of some other emotions, bent over the old woman and patted her, rattling, and said, "That's all right, Mother. That's all right. I'll look after him. I'll bring him back. That's all right, Mother." And ran on, jingling. Doo-da Doo-da! Day!

III.

He turned away. He absolutely could not bear it. He walked a few paces and equally could not forbear to stop and look again. The men were nearly all laughing and whistling and singing. . . . This bursting sensation in all his emotions! It was beyond anything he had ever experienced before. But he had experienced something like it before. His mind threw back across the years and presented the occasion to him. It was when he was a very small boy in his first term at Tidborough. The Christmas term and he was on the Strip, trying frantically behind a crowd of boys to get a glimpse of the match in progress—one of the great matches of the season, vs. Tidborough Town. One of the boys against whose waist his frantic head was butting turned and said in a lordly way, "Let that kid through," and he was roughly bundled to a front position. The boy who had commanded his presence jolted him in the back with his knee and said, using the school argot for to cheer or shout, "Swipe up! Can't you see they're pressing us?"

Couldn't he see! He felt that the end of the world was coming at what he saw. The enormous, full-grown town men were almost on the school goal-line; the school team clinging to them and battling with them like tiger-cats. He had only been at Tidborough a month, but he felt he would die if the line was crossed. He swiped till he thought his throat must crack. When his cracking throat incontinently took intervals of rest, he prayed to God for the school, visioning God on his throne on the school goal-posts and mentioning to Him the players whose names he knew:

Doo-da! Doo-da! Day!

THE GARDENER

ARTICLE NO. 1.

MRS. LUTHER BURBANK ILLUSTRATES HER HUSBAND'S GARDEN TIPS.

BY LUTHER BURBANK.
World's Greatest Scientific Agriculturist.

BEFORE the garden comes, of course, the gardener. And to the fortunate man, woman or child who is to enjoy the companionship of growing things—particularly if this be a first adventure—a few thoughts are suggested.

BURBANK

Remember, first, that plants are living things like you and me.

They respond quickly to intelligent care given them. They are sensitive to such care. And while there is no hard and fast set rule for growing things it is well constantly to remember if you would get the best results, even as an amateur, that you must use your head as well as your muscle.

Anyone who has passed the amateur stage realizes the element of study and intelligent effort required. But what a pleasant avenue of future rewards is offered!

In all too many cases the beginner considers his garden merely a plot of ground in which seeds are placed and water poured. Hence he gets indifferent results and few of the possible pleasures.

Keep this in mind: the plant is a factory manufacturing sunshine into food and beauty. Like humans the plant is striving to reach out and needs intelligent help.

When the gardener begins to realize these things the growing things become more human—and so does he. He finds rest and relaxation in his garden after a busy day and this no matter how small his plot of ground or the types of plants he may grow.

Tomorrow Burbank discusses "The Garden."

POLLY AND PAUL AND PARIS

CHAPTER LIV.—THE ABYSS.

By Zoe Beckley

AT Polly's question, "Where have you been?" a sudden resentment came over Paul. He had come home filled with clear-burning loyalty to his wife. The conceirge's well-meant prevarication had been a slap in the face. Polly's hesitation in clearing up the matter was another, and sharper one. Now she was looking at him with annoyance, if not suspicion, in her eyes. . . . And something within him hardened and chilled.

So, too, felt Polly. It was evident that something was troubling Paul, something he had got from another source than herself, her mind leaped to Violet. Always Violet! Incessantly she came between them. Forever vexing and harassing. . . . Hot anger blazed in Polly's heart. She had been patient long enough.

"Yes—where were you?"

Polly and Paul stood there, eye to eye, so close, yet with an abyss opening between them. It was Paul who broke the tension.

"Please don't take that tone. . . . I've been to see Miss Rand. I've no reason whatever to conceal it." He turned, went into the bedroom and began a fussy hunt for his slippers. It added a fresh stab, his walking away indifferently. Had they reached the stage, Polly wondered bitterly, where sullen silence took the place of healthy spats? Well, she, at any rate, could not keep silent. Her anger against Violet burst forth.

"And she has given you her version of the Crassards' party! She has dared to lie to you—yes, lie, for the telling of a half truth can be a lie! Whatever she has told you, it is evident you believe."

"Why don't you tell me then?" Paul spoke from the other room.

"There is no need. You have accepted her tale."

"On the contrary—" he came back, standing close to her and speaking with strained distinctness, "there is all the more need for you to give me the story in detail. Violet stated what she said were facts. It is strange you shouldn't want to tell me the whole thing without this urging. Why, even your good friend, the concierge, felt it necessary to insist you had been at home every single night by 10 o'clock! * * * Come, Polly, this has gone far enough. It's getting absurd. Why don't you tell me how you came to be out until 7 in the morning?"

"Because—" Polly was blazing now. "I refuse to defend myself as though I were a child afraid of a whipping. It is your place to defend me. I'm disgusted with the whole thing. I refuse to defend myself!"

The taut-strung nerves were at the point of snapping. Polly pressed back her tears, rushed into the bedroom, shut the door and locked it.

Paul stood a minute staring as if to see it open again, but it stayed closed tight. He tapped softly—"Polly!" But to his repeated calling no answer came. He went slowly to the couch and sat down, his head bowed in his hands. . . .

PARLOR FUN FOR EVERYONE

MATERIALS: Long-necked bottle, banana, match, paper.

PROBLEM: To make the banana peel itself.

SOLUTION: Slit the banana peel from end to end in about four divisions, start peeling at the open end. Light the paper and throw it into the bottle. Then place the banana, open end down, into the mouth of the bottle. Suction will draw the banana into the bottle while the skin stays out.

You'll Cry and Laugh At "PayDay," Chaplin's Latest

BY JAMES W. DEAN.

NEW YORK, March 23.—The high light of "The Kid," Chaplin's greatest comedy, is reflected in "Pay Day," his latest. That high light is the pathos of poverty.

Chaplin is the greatest tragedian of the screen today. That is why he is the greatest comedian. He creates laughs through the psychology of contrasts.

Chaplin is writing his own film stories. He is expressing himself in them. That self is a hyper-sensitive soul that reacts positively and quickly to the sorry plight of another.

I have seen tears start in Chaplin's eyes as he stooped to chuck a baby under the chin. The baby was in the visitors' room at Sing Sing. The English comedian had gone there to rub elbows with the prisoners.

This reaction of misfortune is evidenced throughout his account of his recent trip to Europe and the scenes of his childhood. The drab side of life engaged him more than the glittering.

"Pay Day" has been heralded as a return to the old style of his slapstick comedies. Chaplin will never make a comedy such as he was making five years ago. He is a different man. He has achieved wealth and fame. He can now devote himself to doing what it pleases his whim to do.

And that whim, as I see it evidenced in "The Kid" and "Pay Day," is to call the attention of the fortunate to the unfortunate and to make the unfortunates, the great legion of us, laugh at themselves.

By its very title "Pay Day" proclaims itself as a document for the laboring man.

The film opens with Chaplin late at his task with pick and shovel. He brings a lily to placate the boss.

Chaplin doesn't shovel enough dirt, so he is transferred to the brick-laying squad. If you have ever tried to catch bricks when they've been thrown to you, you may conceive what a ludicrous spectacle Charlie is in this.

The foreman's daughter is the object of Charlie's attention. His lovemaking proves unsuccessful, but he succeeds in getting the boss' lunch in devious and comic ways.

Charlie walks off the job with the whistle before he realizes that it is pay day. He gets back in time for his envelope, but finds his pay isn't just right. When he asks the boss about it the latter agrees with him—and takes some of it away from Charlie.

CHARLIE CHAPLIN CAUGHT NAPPING IN THE BATHTUB BY HIS WIFE IN "PAY DAY," HIS LATEST. OTHER SCENES SKETCHED BY ARTIST E. R. HIGGINS AT A PREVIEW OF THE PICTURE.

Charlie hides a bill in his hatband. His wife catches him at that. Later when she is taking the money from his hat Charlie picks his wages from her purse and sneaks off to the bachelor's club.

Charlie sings tenor in a quartet. (You can tell Charlie is singing tenor by the grimaces he makes.) Rain puts a stop to the concert. A fellow had asked Charlie to hold his overcoat. He walks away without it when Charlie pulls up his undercoat collar.

When the rain starts, Charlie gets one arm in the sleeve of his newly-acquired overcoat and one into the sleeve of another man's coat. Buttoned to the big fellow, Chaplin is dragged down the street.

When the rain starts afresh Chaplin helps another fellow put up his umbrella. He hands his cane to the other man and retains the umbrella.

Charlie arrives home at daybreak. He oils his shoes so they will not squeak and then tiptoes to his bed. He has just taken off his coat when the alarm rings. As his wife awakens he puts on his coat, stretches, yawns and looks out the window to see how goes the weather.

Still craving sleep he goes to the bathroom and climbs into a bathtub filled with clothes. The clothes are floating on top of the water. Once wet, Charlie turns on the hot water so he will be comfortable and goes to sleep. That doesn't last long. His wife finds him and sends him out to work.

Sydney Chaplin, Charlie's brother, appears as "a mere friend" in the cast. He is a pantomimist of no mean ability. Mack Swain, the giant roughneck, is the boss. Edna Purviance, Chaplin's leading woman for a number of years and now to be starred in her own right, is the boss' daughter. Phyllis Allen is the wife, whose size dwarfs the hero.

Chaplin made only two comedies last year, "The Kid" and "The Idle Class." Although "Pay Day" is only 1,900 feet long, requiring 22 minutes to run, almost seven months were spent in its production.

"If I had to make pictures today just on a schedule I should feel a cog in the huge machine of production," says Chaplin. "The fact that I am able to express ideas on the screen as they come to me, that I am able to produce in accordance with my ideas as to how things should be produced, has given me the impetus to do my best—even though it takes time.

"It is the life of the artist and brings with it the responsibility of creating artistic work. Whether my pictures conform to such standards is something that the public will have to judge for itself."

BALANCED DISHES

Too much emphasis cannot be placed on the responsibility of the woman who is planning the spring time meals. The health of her family depends on her in the spring more than any time of the year. Nourishing, easily digested food is very essential to the building up of the tissues.

Asparagus With Eggs.

Six hard boiled egg, 1 large bunch asparagus, 3 tablespoons butter, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 dessertspoons flour, 1½ cups asparagus stock, buttered bread crumbs.

Cut the eggs in halves lengthwise. Trim and wash asparagus and cut in inch lengths, discarding the tough portions for this dish. Use the stringy tough ends for soup. Cook in an uncovered pan in slightly salted boiling water for 15 minutes. Drain and save the stock.

Butter a baking dish and put half of the eggs in yolk side up. Add asparagus and cover with remaining eggs, yolk side down. Melt butter, stir in flour and slowly add asparagus water. Cook until thick and smooth and pour over eggs and asparagus in baking dish. Cover with buttered crumbs and bake in a hot oven for 15 minutes. Serve at once.

Dried Lima Beans and Carrots.

One cup dried green limas, 1 medium sized onion, 1 small green pepper, 6 new carrots, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1½ tablespoons flour, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ¼ teaspoon paprika, 4 thin slices bacon.

Wash beans and let stand in cold water to cover for six hours. Drain and parboil in water to cover with one-fourth teaspoon soda. Drain and rinse under cold running water. Put on to cook in boiling water to cover once and a half. Simmer slowly for two hours.

If the beans are freshly dried they will cook more quickly than old beans. When the beans are almost done and the water has boiled away about half add the carrots scraped and cut in small dice, the onion sliced and the salt. Cook 20 minutes, uncovered.

The water should be cooked away as much as possible without burning the vegetables. If the vegetables are not dry drain and use ½ cup of the liquor and ½ cup milk instead of one whole cup milk. Melt butter in a smooth sauce pan, stir in flour and slowly add milk and vegetable stock. Cook, stirring constantly until the sauce is thick and smooth. Put vegetables in a well buttered baking dish, pour over sauce and put the slices of bacon on top. Put in a hot oven fifteen minutes to cook the bacon. Then put under the flame in the oven to crisp.

Scalloped Rice.

Two cups boiled rice, 1 cup milk, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 cup finely chopped cheese, 2 eggs, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon mustard, ¼ teaspoon paprika.

Beat eggs till light and add milk. Mix salt, mustard and paprika and add to milk and egg mixture. Melt butter and add to rice. Combine mixtures and add cheese. Mix well and turn into a well buttered baking dish. Bake half an hour in a moderate oven.

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

MYSTERIOUS BASKET

[By Olive Roberts Barton.]

KIP helped Nancy and Nick to find the path again on Electric Mountain, and then he left them. "I'd like to stay with you," he said, "but I can't. You see, Princess Therma, in her Castle of Mirrors, sees everything. She can see all the trouble you are having, although she cannot help you. Besides you must make the journey alone. She is likely looking at me with you now, but that's allowed. I'm only talking to you. Goodby now."

"Goodby," said the Twins. "We're ever so much obliged. We won't hunt for any more brooks."

"That's right," said Kip, "and take the advice of your red feather. If you had closed your eyes when he wrote his last message you'd have been better off."

Kip stamped on the ground three times and disappeared.

"My!" yawned Nancy. "I'm glad that's over. Now we can take our goloshes off. There's no electricity here and my feet are getting tired. I wonder what Elderdown Mountain is like."

"It sounds like a good place to spend the night," said Nick. "I'm getting dreadfully hungry, too. I wish we'd asked Kip where to find—Why, hello, what's this?"

Right before them on the ground appeared a little basket with a nice white napkin over the top.

"It look like our supper," said Nancy, peeping in. "Yes, it's sandwiches and a bottle of milk and fruit, too. Isn't that lovely!"

The red feather jumped out of Nick's pocket at that and began to write on the magic paper again.

"Oh, shucks!" declared Nick. "More trouble, I suppose. I almost wish the old feather had stayed at home. It's always telling us not to do things."

But this time the pen wrote, "The Magical Mushroom sent you this basket. Eat out of it all that you wish. Whenever you are hungry it will appear with more food."

"Dear Old Mushroom!" said Nancy. "Nick, the red feather is our best friend."

RED PEPPER FOR RHEUMATIC PAIN

Red Pepper Rub takes the "ouch" from sore, stiff, aching joints. It cannot hurt you, and it certainly stops that old rheumatism torture at once.

When you are suffering so you can hardly get around, just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known. Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you will feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Pain and soreness are gone.

Ask any good druggist for a jar of Rowles Red Pepper Rub. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.—Advt.

BOOKS

EDITED BY CABR.

GUEST THE ONE-EYED. By Gunnar Gunnarson. Original Title Af Borgslaegtens Historie. Translated from the Danish by W. W. Worster. New York: Alfred A. Knopf, $2.50.

WHY IS it that Russian and Danish writers can produce books which excel in the beauty of description, in the portrayal of characters, in the psychology of life itself and in the ability to make characters breathe throughout the pages of their books?

Is it that they write deeply of the great things in life, of the deep emotions of hate and love, sorrow and failure and repentance?

Gunnarsson has given a book which is a fine example of the skill of a writer in Danish. He is an Icelander, whose story was first written in Danish in four volumes, and now appears in English under the name of the title to "Book Three."

Few readers are acquainted with Iceland. The scenes in Denmark may be familiar to them, but Iceland is almost a closed book—until you have read "Guest the One-Eyed"—then Iceland is a strange land no longer.

In the pages you view the country in every season through the eyes of the Danish bride who goes there to live, through the "chief" who spends his entire life there, through young Ormarr who lives there until fifteen, then goes to Copenhagen for ten years, only to return to his home for a visit, and then after thirteen year's absence to return to spend the remainder of his life in the country whose beauty calls so intensely that he cannot resist.

Unlike the usual European novel, this story is in four parts, which covers many years and gives the life of father, sons and through the days of the courtship of the grandson.

So clearly are the thoughts, emotions and acts depicted that each character seems living, and the reader seems to be sitting or standing, as the play of emotions demand, peering into the life of this town in Iceland—watching life unfold its quota of joy, sorrow, hate, love. If the author wished to give this impression when the last page of his book had been read, he admirably succeeded.

WILL DIRECT STORY HOUR.

WATERLOO, March 22.—At the regular meeting of the Waterloo Library Board here today it was decided to appoint a directress of the story hour. This is the first step taken by the board in connection with the inauguration of a story hour for children as a department of the Waterloo library. The position of directress was accepted by Miss Ruth Bechtel, who will assume her duties on the first Saturday in April.

DO YOUR BOWELS

Move Regularly, or Do They

BECOME CONSTIPATED

There is no medium through which disease so often attacks the system as by allowing the bowels to become constipated, and there is no other trouble which flesh is heir to that is more liable to be neglected, because material inconvenience may not be felt, at once, from irregular action of the bowels. When there is not regular action the retention of the decayed and effete matter, with its poisonous gases, soon poisons the whole system by being absorbed into it, causing violent sick and bilious headaches, internal bleeding or protruding piles, heartburn, jaundice, etc.

MILBURN'S LAXA-LIVER PILLS.

will regulate the flow of bile to act properly on the bowels, thus making them active and regular, and removing the constipation and all its allied troubles.

Mr. Samuel Buckler, Tatamagouche, N. S., writes: "For over a year I suffered with constipation. I took several different kinds of medicine, but could only get temporary relief. I was told to try Milburn's Laxa-Liver Pills. I procured two vials of them, but after I had taken one I found that I was relieved of my trouble. I do not hesitate to recommend Laxa-Liver Pills for any kind of constipation."

Head Stuffed By Catarrh or Cold? Use Healing Cream

If your nostrils are clogged, your throat distressed, or your head is stuffed by nasty catarrh or a cold, apply a little pure, antiseptic, germ-destroying cream into your nostrils. It penetrates through every air passage, soothing inflamed, swollen membranes and you get instant relief.

How good it feels. Your nostrils are open. Your head is clear. No more hawking, snuffling, dryness or struggling for breath. Get a small bottle of Ely's Cream Balm from any druggist. Colds and catarrh yield like magic. Don't stay stuffed up. Relief is sure. —Advt.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a good, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 50 grains of acid and waste, so we can easily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness. Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also drink up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—

KEHOE TO FACE PERJURY TRIAL

DETROIT MAN RELEASED

Special to London Advertiser.

SARNIA, March 23.—Peter Kehoe, a well-known farmer residing in Sombra Township, accused of perjury and "framing" a charge of robbery, which resulted in a jail sentence for Rex Bush of Detroit, was committed for trial in the county police court here this afternoon, after a preliminary hearing lasting four hours. Bail was increased, Kehoe entering into a personal recognizance of $6,000, with two other securities of $3,000 each.

A number of witnesses for the prosecution were heard, including Carmen Mitchell, awaiting trial on a charge of robbery at Port Lambton, who testified to having dealings with the accused on and around May 19 last, which culminated in the purchase by Mitchell of Kehoe's stock of liquor, for the robbery, of which Bush was sent to jail on June 3. Receipts for $1,600, alleged to be signed by Kehoe was produced in court.

Frame-up Alleged.

The case has wide ramifications and promises to be one of the most extraordinary cases arising out of the Ontario temperance act. The prosecution claims not only that the charges against Bush where a deliberate and diabolical frame-up, but also that the factor which influenced the conviction of Bush more than any other was a direct result of a mistake on the part of crown authorities in making inquiries from Detroit employers named by defence witnesses to establish their veracity.

Evidence was brought in to show that the inquiries were made at the wrong addresses and replies were naturally received saying that the parties named were not known. Magistrate J. J. Jarvis, who brought in the conviction against Bush, stated in evidence that the letters received disowning the witnesses who swore an alibi for Bush had influenced him considerably in convicting the man.

Released On Bail.

Bush was in court, having been released on bail following notice of stated case made by Haney and McNally when he had undergone three or four weeks of his sentence. In the witness box he claimed to have been in Detroit until 3 a.m. of the morning of the robbery, his evidence on this point being corroborated by Guy Cotton of Detroit.

The defence seeks to show that Kehoe framed the charge against Bush in order to avoid a charge being laid against himself of disposing of his liquor contrary to the provisions of the Ontario temperance act.

WILL REQUEST OPINION ON CONTROL OF NATURAL GAS

Representatives of Municipalities of Western Ontario Interested To Meet in Toronto March 30.

TORONTO, March 23.—All municipalities of Western Ontario interested in natural gas distribution and conservation will be asked to express opinions as to whether they want provincial government control or not. The call has gone out that such representations be made at a meeting in Toronto on March 30, Minister of Mines Mills told a deputation representative of the Natural Gas and Petroleum Association of Canada, which waited on the government this afternoon.

The position taken by the natural gas interests is that there be either complete government control or no control at all. They asked that either natural gas conservation act extended to give complete control, or all legislation governing the industry be wiped off.

The members of the deputation strongly protested against the bill recently introduced by R. L. Brackin (West Kent) which, they claim, is wiping out the effectiveness of the national gas conservation act, and going back largely to the conditions that prevailed in 1919, kills any advantage of contracts that gas companies have, while holding them to others that were not so favorable to their interests.

WILL MOVE REPEAL OF MILITARY SERVICE ACT

J. S. Woodsworth Would Also Restrict Activities of Mounted Police.

OTTAWA, March 23.—(By Canadian Press).—J. S. Woodsworth, Labor, has given notice that he will move in the Commons "an act to repeal the Military Service Act, 1917." Mr. Woodsworth has also given notice of his intention to move a resolution which would confine the activities of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police to territories not included in any province of Canada.

W. J. Kennedy, Progressive, Glengarry-Stormont, has given notice that he will ask the government to state in the Commons what sums have been advanced or what is the amount of loans guaranteed to the Canadian Northern, Grand Trunk, or Grand Trunk Pacific, since the time that such loans or advances were authorized during the last session of parliament.

Hon. W. R. Motherwell, minister of agriculture, has given notice of a motion in the House of Commons to refer the memorandum presented to the Canadian government by the Canadian Council of Agriculture regarding the establishment of the Canadian wheat board to the committee on agriculture. Some days ago the prime minister announced that this course was intended.

Pay Tribute At Bier of Premier's Brother.

TORONTO, March 23.—Many friends of Premier W. L. Mackenzie King gathered at the union station here this afternoon, when the prime minister, accompanying the body of his brother, the late Dr. D. MacDougall King, reached the city from Denver.

The premier was met by his brother-in-law and sister of Barrie, and Mr. and Mrs. George S. Lindsay, his cousins.

F. W. Heard, St. Thomas, Whose Store Was Recently Robbed, Has Disappointing Trip.

Special to London Advertiser.

ST. THOMAS, March 23.—F. W. Heard, whose tailor shop on Talbot street, this city, was robbed of more than 100 bolts of cloth early Tuesday morning, failed to identfy as his any of the goods held by the police in Toronto, when, accompanied by his wife, he made a special trip to that city, for the purpose Thursday.

Mr. Heard was disappointed to learn when he reached police headquarters there that the goods which the police found on a veranda in that city consisted entirely of silks and linens. Not a piece of wool cloth could be found among the lot.

A wire was received from the chief of police in Toronto by the local police Thursday morning asking that Mr. Heard come to that city to identify the cloth which had been found. Up to the present time the police have been unable to find any trace of the thieves.

SOVIET OFFICIALS CALL PHYSICIANS

BERLIN, March 23.—"Doctors Klemperer and Foster, German medical authorities, who have been called to Moscow, are to examine the leading personalities of the Soviet regime to determine whether a vacation at some foreign resort is necessary," says a Soviet announcement published here today as a denial that the physicians have been called by Premier Lenine only.

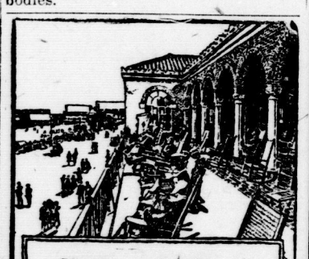

The Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, commenting upon the great honor to German medical science in being asked to determine if the leading Soviet officials should leave the country for their health, asks if Russia is so short of doctors that foreigners are necessary to decide this question.

ALTER PERSONNEL OF COMMITTEES

OTTAWA, March 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Extensive changes in the personnel of select standing committees of the house are shown in the list of names submitted by the striking committee and approved by the house today.

The committees are drawn upon a basis of five government members to four combined opposition. Chairmen will be chosen at the organization meetings, which will probably be called next week.

Some of the committees are very large, notably railways and canals, with 126 members; agriculture and colonization, with 105; banking and commerce, 82, and private bills, 63. Twenty-five members constitute a quorum of the railways committee, and 21 members of the other large bodies.

EXPECT ADVANCE IN WINDSOR TAX RATE

Finance Commissioners Surprised at Auditors' Announcement of 35 Mills.

TO PRUNE ESTIMATES

Fail To Reduce Expenditure Proposed By Police Department.

Special to London Advertiser.

WINDSOR, March 23.—Windsor's tax rate will be 35 mills, the highest in city's history, unless finance committee succeeds in pruning estimates.

Finance committee of city council, in special session Thursday, was staggered by Auditor Holton's announcement that the tax rate would not be less than 35 mills. It was expected that it would be above 30 mills, but not more than 32 mills.

Members of the committee gasped, and some shouted, "What will people say?"

Last year tax was 28 mills, in 1920 it was 34 mills, but the assessment was approximately $20,000,000 less than it is now. The budget that faces the finance committee totals in the neighborhood of $1,750,000. The committee was so surprised at the auditor's announcement that it failed to carry out its threats to "trim to the bone" the estimates of the police department. Not a single dollar was cut from proposed expenditure, and Chief Constable Thompson made a convincing plea for additional officers. The rate will be struck Monday night, but some reduction in estimates may be made tomorrow night by the finance committee.

WOMEN'S LABOR PARTY BACKS JUVENILE COURT

Pleased City's Fish Market Retained; Say Prices Reasonable, Quality Excellent.

Members of the Women's Labor Party, which the president, Mrs. Fred White, states is "going ahead by leaps and bounds," are rejoicing over the announcement that the city fish market will be kept open. Wednesday evening at their weekly meeting, where, following a weekly precedent, new members were received, a vigorous protest was registered against the shutting-up of the municipal fish stall, declared to be an inestimable boon to families with small incomes. Talking to The Advertiser Thursday, the president said: "People in better circumstances might not patronize the fish stall, but members of laboring people have been in the habit of buying there, finding the fish always of good quality and reasonable of price.

"The thing we couldn't understand was a move to close up the stall when it was shown it had been run on a paying basis, something like $2,000 profit since it was opened."

Another question on which the members of the Women's Labor party have very decided views is that of the juvenile court. They are strongly for it. They believe London needs a real, properly-constituted court, entirely disassociated with anything that looks like the long arm of the law. They want it with all the equipment that will make it thoroughly efficient, probation officers particularly, associated with a juvenile court judge. And, talking of probation officers, one of these, they hold imperatively, should be a woman. Who else could deal so understandingly with girls?

They placed themselves on record with regard to their attitude concerning the juvenile court at the meeting Wednesday evening, at which they discussed the municipal fish stall.

Plans were made for the euchre and dance which they hold jointly with the Men's Labor Party on the evening of Tuesday, March 28, and which they are leaving no stone unturned to make a huge success.

mbers of British Commons Renew Controversy Over Canadian Beef.

SK REPORT BE HEARD

inister of Agriculture Evades Argument On Findings of Commission.

LONDON, England, March 23. — Canadian Press Cable).—A question sked in the House of Commons today pertaining to the embargo gainst Canadian store cattle started lively discussion.

The minister of agriculture, Sir . Griffiths-Boscawen, said he was atisfied that there was no foot and outh disease among the Canadian erds, but it was prevalent in other ountries. He could not agree that he free importation of store cattle rom Canada would reduce the cost f living, and he added that if store attle were imported from Canada here would be fewer store cattle red in Great Britain.

The minister was asked as to when he government would allow discussion in the House of Commons on the report of the royal commission which investigated and recommended emoval of the embargo. He replied hat he was quite willing to have the report discussed, but the question was one for the leader of the house to answer.

A member wanted to know how the British farmers would be affected as suggested by the minister, if the importation of Canadian cattle would not lower the price of meat, but the question was stopped by the speaker.

DO NOT EXPECT NEW WAR.

LONDON, March 23. — Austen Chamberlain, the government leader, stated in the House of Commons this afternoon, in answer to a question, that nothing was known of any intention on the part of the Russian soviet government to launch a new war.

Mr. Chamberlain said a slight increase in the number of troops was believed to have been made since the beginning of the year in western Russia where one class had been partially mobilized. But this would not necessarily signify a warlike measure, he added, as this class was due to be called up in the spring.

CONCLUDE REPORT STAGE.

LONDON, March 23.—The report stage of the Irish free state bill was concluded in a short session of the House of Lords today.

Several amendments were withdrawn or rejected and the only change made was the addition of a new sub-section proposed by Viscount Peel in behalf of the government, making clear that the one month allowed for Ulster to contract out of the agreement would run from the date of ratification of the new constitution. This was agreed to without a division and in deference to Lord Carson's wishes the third and final reading of the bill was postponed until Monday.

Symbol of Liberalism Presented To Hall.

TORONTO, March 23.—Before the Legislature opened this afternoon a large vase of pink carnations was placed upon the desk of R. Reece Hall, Liberal member for Parry Sound, and champion of the north country's right.

These flowers, which have come to be regarded as the symbol of Liberalism in Ontario, were presented to Mr. Hall on the occasion of his 65th birthday.

Before the orders of the day were called, Charles Swayze Niagara Falls, solemnly inquired what was the significance of the great floral display across the house. He felt that possibly the member for Parry Sound had been chosen as either a new Liberal leader or a new whip.

In reply Mr. Hall confessed to all of his 65 years, although he added that he felt no more than 30, and hoped that many years might be left him for service to the empire.

Allied Foreign Ministers At Paris Conference Discuss Evacuation of Asia Minor.

WOULD NOT HELP PEACE

Confident Greeks and Turkish Nationalists Will Accept Armistice Terms.

PARIS, March 23.—The question of peace in Asia Minor again took up the greater part of the conference of the foreign ministers of Great Britain, France and Italy, who appear to be going ahead in confidence that the Greeks and Turkish Nationalists will accept the armistice terms proposed in the communication dispatched yesterday by the conferees to the Greek and Turkish Nationalist capitals.

It was decided at this forenoon's session to ask Marshal Foch and other allied military experts to give their opinion of a plan prepared by the military experts of Constantinople for the eventual evacuation of Asia Minor conditioned upon acceptance by the Turkish Nationalists of the general peace terms to be fixed later. The allied experts were to report to the ministers this evening.

Not Quite Confident.

The remainder of the day session was given over to the study of measures for the protection of the minority elements in Asia Minor—that part of Cilicia which has been evacuated by the French, and the regions of Anatolia which eventually may be evacuated by the Greeks.

French public opinion, however, does not appear quite as confident as the foreign ministers that the armistice proposition will be accepted.

"It is not a question of stopping the war between the Greeks and the Turks," says the Temps, "but between the Turks and the British. The Greek army landed at Smyrna because the British were anxious to prevent the occupation of the town by the Italians. It advanced into the interior because the British desired the execution of the treaty of Sevres. The armistice proposals do not offer sufficient guarantee for the pacific restitution of Asia Minor, and would not facilitate peace."

The Turkish Nationalist government, by action of its assembly at a recent session, repudiated the principles of Bolshevism as contrary to Islamic prescription, and decided that no restrictions should be placed upon the entry of foreign capital into Anatolia.

Should Not Be Bought.

These were the principal points of a declaration of policy passed after a stormy debate in the Nationalist assembly, it is announced in Angora advices.

The declaration was based on a decision that peace should not be bought at the price of a renewed offensive, and that a peaceful settlement consistent with the dignity of the independent state should be accepted.

Turkey, the resolution declared, was neither plotting against her neighbors, nor seeking to destroy the security of the British possessions in Asia, but would direct all her energies towards the peaceful development of the country.

The pact with Russia, it was set forth, was due to the rejection of the Nationalist claims by the allied powers. The rights of minorities, it was added, would be adequately guaranteed.

ARREST STATE GOVERNOR.

OKMULGEE, Okla., March 23. — Governor J. B. A. Roberts of Oklahoma, submitted to arrest here last night on a charge of accepting a bribe to permit operation of the Guaranty State Bank of Okmulgee, while it was in an alleged insolvent condition. The governor immediately gave bond of $5,000 for his appearance at trial.

WORLD NEWS CUT SHORT

ADVERTISER SERVICE

KINGSTON, Jamaica, March 23.—The Chamber of Commerce has passed resolutions urging the government to obtain from Canada a double preference on imports of Jamaican sugar, the view being to offset the effect of the Fordney bill's proposed sugar duties upon imports into the United States. The Chamber expressed itself in favor of increasing the preference upon imports of Canadian flour and fish stuffs into Jamaica.

WARSAW, March 23.—National censorship of motion pictures has been established in Poland. It is hoped in this way to check the crime wave which has kept the police busy for some time.

Motion picture houses of the lower class were flooded with the cheapest kind of old-fashioned "Wild West" films; and the police say the youths of the land have been emulating the "bad men" of the screen.

PARIS, March 23.—With the magnolias and rhododendrons along the Champs Elysees in blossom, and the street vendors dotting traffic with their pushcarts full of brilliant spring flowers, Paris was visited today by snow flurries.

They came after a month of extremely pleasant weather, which had sent furs into storage and brought out light spring suits, and, alternating with bursts of sunshine, left Paris puzzled for once as to its costumes.

BERNE, March 23.—An extraordinary session of the Swiss Parliament was convened yesterday to deal with the unemployment problem. Reports have been made showing that there are 100,000 persons actually out of work, and an additional 50,000 working part time.

The parliament also will study reorganization of the national railway administration. It is expected to remain in session at least three weeks.

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 23.—The police have taken the names of the leaders and organizers of last Friday's procession in celebration of St. Patrick's Day, which was carried out in defiance of the city council's order. The names include those of Archbishop Mannix, two members of parliament and several city councillors.

Archbishop Mannix in his speech at the celebration said he was glad there were people in Ireland who were protesting against the Anglo-Irish Treaty, which he declared was not a final settlement of the Irish question.

PARIS, March 23.—After an all-day session and another lasting until after midnight, the commission on reparations announced early this morning an agreement on the sums Germany must pay this year, and on the conditions under which reduced payments are agreed to.

In 1922 Germany must pay on reparations account 720,000,000 gold marks cash, of which 280,000,000 has been already paid, and 1,450,000,000 marks gold value in materials. This sum includes a 220,000,000 marks payment for the armies of occupation of England, France and Belgium.

BERLIN, March 23.—The police today raised a restaurant in the Russian quarter and took into custody 80 persons, among them a Russian prince and princess, a baron, formerly a high officer in the imperial regime, and a number of officers of the Bolshevist army.

The prince and princess, according to the police report, were playing balalaikas, asserting that they had to work in this manner because they had lost their fortune in Russia. Only a few of the prisoners had proper identification papers, and they will be deported to Russia. No names were given in the police announcement.

BERLIN, March 23.—Sweeping denial is made here that the Germans are fostering Alsace-Lorraine autonomy propaganda.

The Berlin Zeitung Am Mittag says that it is known there is such propaganda, but the "French underlings are hoodwinking the foreign press with the announcement that the Germans are backing the movement, when in reality the French are responsible."

The paper denies participation by the German government, as has been alleged, saying that the authorities are in ignorance of the movement, and that "French banking circles are reported to be connected with the American end of the propaganda."

BERLIN, March 23.—Comenting on the summoning of Dr. Felix Klemperer, widely-known German specialist, to attend Nikolai Lenine, the Russian soviet premier, the Russian newspaper published here states today that Premier Lenine has been ill off and on for a considerable time, partly as the result of a wound inflicted when an attempt was made to assassinate him.

His condition, however, has recently become worse, the newspaper adds, and a telegram asking Dr. Klemperer to come to Moscow was dispatched last Saturday.

BELGRADE, March 23.—The wedding of King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia and Princess Marie of Rumania will take place the middle of July, according to information obtained today.

The wedding was originally set for May, but May is popularly regarded in Serbia as an unlucky month; so the king, although he is not superstitious, was obliged to defer to the general idea. The event was then fixed for June 4, but the Patriarch pointed out that this was a period of fasting for the church. July then was finally agreed upon by the king and the family of the princess.

The Jugo-Slavs are immensely pleased with the match, which is considered a step in the direction of peace in the Balkans. Work is being rushed on the new royal palace in Belgrade, so as to have it in readiness to accommodate such of the European monarchs and other notables as attend the ceremony.

The royal couple will probably spend their honeymoon on the Dalmatian coast.

BERLIN, March 23. — The Berlin secret police yesterday discovered an elaborate radio plant concealed in an attic in the home of a mechanician named Walter Ahrendi, who, they said, was known to be a leading correspondent of the Russian communist party. Discovery of the outfit, they said, was a result of increased activities in ferreting out Bolshevist propaganda, which is alleged to have been filtering in through the poorly-defended eastern frontiers.

In addition to confiscating a large amount of modern wireless apparatus, the police also seized complete copies of official secret instructions to radio plant operators, a list of wireless plants, cable and telegraph routes and other data declared to have been copied from the records of the ministry of posts and telegraphs. The officials said they also discovered lists of confidential agents of the communist party.

Ahrendi fled before the raid was carried out, but a communist leader named Grylewiez, a radical member of the Berlin city council, was arrested on a charge of high treason.

U. S. SOLDIER BONUS BILL PASSES HOUSE

WASHINGTON, March 23.—The four-billion-dollar soldier bonus was passed tonight by the House of Representatives by an overwhelming majority. It now goes to the Senate, where its fate is regarded as uncertain.

The vote was 333 to 70, or 64 more than the two-thirds majority necessary.

CLAIMS FARMERS ARE NOT SELFISH

TORONTO, March 23.—Edgar Watson, M.L.A. for North Victoria, addressing the Lions Club here today on "Some Ideals of the Agrarian Movement," said the farmer was not so selfish as many city persons thought. He had been relegated to the backyard in politics, commercial progress and economics for the last 40 years, but now he is awake and no longer a slave to the big interests.

A Better Way Than Diets and Exercise For Reducing

Diets and exercise are sometimes helpful for reducing. But they are inconvenient and unpleasant, and usually produce only temporary results. Then, too, they are merely corrective measures. A better way is to aid the digestive organs to turn food into muscle, bone, and sinew, and not into corpulent tissue. This method allows you to eat many kinds of food which others eat and does not require strenuous exercise.

Thousands have found that Marmola Tablets give relief from obesity in just this way. Marmola Tablets are made from the same formula as the famous Marmola Prescription If taken after meals and at bedtime, they retard the development of fat by helping the digestive system to obtain full nutriment from food. When the accumulation of fat is checked, reduction to normal, healthy weight soon follows.

All good drug stores the world over sell Marmola Tablets at one dollar per box. Ask your druggist for them, or order them direct and they will be sent in plain wrapper, postpaid.

Toronto, Ontario. — "I suffered from the time I was a school-girl, until I had taken your medicine, with pain in my left side and with cramps, growing worse each year until I was all run down. I was so bad at times that I was unfit for work. I tried several doctors and patent medicines and was only relieved for a short time. Some of the doctors wanted to have an operation but my father objected. Finally I learned through my mother of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and how thankful I am that I tried it. I am relieved from pain and cramps and feel as if it has saved my life. You may use my letter to help other women as I am glad to recommend the medicine."—Mrs. H. A. # COAST CHAMPS BLANK IRISH 3--0 IN THIRD GAME OF WORLD'S SERIES

GIVES MILLIONAIRES GOOD HOLD ON CUP

First Two Goals Were Earned, But Last Was Gift to Oatman—St. Pats Were Weakened.

TORONTO, March 23.—By capturing tonight's game, the third of the series, the Vancouver "Millionaires" took a good hold on the Stanley Cup, and while the St. Patricks may come to life and stage a victory on Saturday night, the opinion of the majority of the spectators at tonight's game was that the westerners are the better team and will win the world's championship. The two teams entered the game on even terms, each having won the games played under their opponents' rules, but after the sixty minutes, from which the coast champions emerged with a 3 to 0 victory, they looked the better team. They beat Roach once in each of the three periods, and two of the goals were clearly earned, but the third was a gift more than anything else, though the stick-handling that Oatman displayed deserved a goal. However, the three-goal margin is not too great to give a correct indication of the play, as the Westerners played a strictly defensive game in the last period, and were more content with preserving their two-goal lead than in increasing it.

Without detracting any credit from the winners, it must be said for St. Patricks that they were not at full strength for the game. Cameron came out of hospital to play, and his foot prevented him from going the distance and he had to take a number of rests. In addition, he favored the member when on the ice, and his rushes did not have the usual speed. Stuart was also forced to take a couple of rests, and for the main portion of the game the defence consisted of Randall and one or other of the two regulars. When Stuart and Cameron were both on, Randall relieved on the line, but he was greatly missed as a relief when Dye and Denenny showed signs of distress. In the last period Randall sustained a fractured thumb, but continued after getting it temporarily bandaged.

While the locals were not in the best shape to do battle for the world's championship, the visitors showed enough to substantiate the claim that they would likely have won if the locals had been at their best. The Millionaires gave their best exhibition of the series, and towards the end of the game the individual members of the team showed some beautiful stick-handling, but Oatman was the only one to get a reward.

The line-up:

St. Patricks—Roach, goal; Stuart, right defence; Cameron, left defence; Randall, center; Dye, right wing; Noble, left wing; Denenny and Smylie, substitutes.

BIG ENGLISH TURF CLASSIC DUE TODAY

92 Horses Were Nominated This Year, But Many Have Withdrawn.

LONDON, March 23.—(By Canadian Press.)—The Grand National Handicap, to be run tomorrow over the famous Aintree course at Liverpool, comes so honestly by its reputation of being the most severe test of the thoroughbred that there is perennial discussion in 'chasing circles as to whether or not the conditions under which the race is run are too severe.

The race itself is an exceptionally long one, covering as it does some four and one-half miles, and it is a well-known fact that the 30 fences that the horses have to negotiate are much more formidable than those encountered in any other 'chasing event in the country. Those in favor of alterations in the way in which the fences are built point to the disastrous race of a year ago, when only one horse, Shaun Spadah, finished without mishap out of a field of 35 horses that went to the post.

Nor Overlook.

Nor do they overlook the race of some ten years ago, when out of a field of 26 starters Glenside was the only horse that did not fall, refuse or meet with some mishap. In other years a very large percentage of the starters at Aintree have been unable to go over the route, and there is the additional danger from horses running wild after losing their riders.

Members of the National Hunt committee, however, do not accept this view. They state that the fences at Aintree are built up to afford a special test, because it is intended that the race shall be unique. Too often they say, the strong type of horse is allowed to compete, and add that many of the runners have been inadequately schooled for what is admittedly an exceptional task. While accidents are plentiful, a serious one is a rare occurrence, and it is a long time since anything worse than a fractured collar-bone has been reported.

Serious and all as the test may be, 92 horses were nominated for the blue riband of the 'chasing world, and the owners of these horses obviously do not consider that the race is hopelessly beyond the capacity of the animals they have nominated. Eighteen of these declared forfeit when the weights were announced, and there have been many withdrawals since, but it is possible a record number will start tomorrow.

The largest field that has ever started in this race was that of a year ago, when 35 horses faced the starter. Shaun Spadah, the winner of that race, was entered again this year.

Following are the probable starters with jockeys:

Shaun Spadah (F. Rees); Southampton (H. Brown or Kelly); Wavertree (Bletsoe); Music Hall (L. Rees); Norton (I. Morgan); Clonree (F. Morgan); St. Bernard (R. Pulford); Clashing Arms (J. Anthony); All White (Chadwick); Sergeant Murphy (Hawkins); Taffytus (Leader); Dunadry (J. Hogan, Jun.); Ashwood (Black); Turk II. (I. Anthony); Arravale (Writtaker); Funeral Saxham (Dennis); Gay Lochinvar (Croney); Anytime (Wall); Square Up (Rennison); A Double Escape (Capt. Bennet); Arabian Knight (Spares); Confessor (Trudgill); Awbeg (Hammett); Dunstan Burgh (Watkins); Grey Dawn V. (Newey); Drifter (Watkinson); Vaulx (Escott); Sudan II. (Calder); Merito (Braithwaite); Super Man (Burford); Mask On (J. Burns); Masterful (Blair); The Inca II.; Tinker II.; Such a Sport; Bad Minton II.

ST. LOUIS, March 23.—The Brooklyn Nationals and the St. Louis Americans meet this afternoon in an exhibition game at the Browns training camp at Mobile, Ala. Today's game is the final in Mobile for the local Americans, who break camp Friday.

The St. Louis Nationals today returned to their training camp at Orange, Texas, from Beaumont, where yesterday they won an exhibition game from the Beaumont team of the Texas League. The Nationals break camp Saturday.

* * *

CHICAGO, March 23. — Today was moving day for Chicago clubs of the American and National Leagues. The White Sox were to pack up after the practice program at Seguin, Texas, this afternoon and go to Austin, where a game against the university there is scheduled for Friday. The Cubs were to pull stakes at Catalina Island, Calif., after a morning workout and leave for the mainland, where they are scheduled to start their homeward journey with a series of exhibitions against coast league clubs.

* * *

DETROIT, March 23. — The Detroit Americans and Rochester Internationals staged a home run exhibition for fans at Columbia, S.C., yesterday. There were six circuit clouts, of which the Tigers made five, and extra base hits outnumbered the singles. The Tigers won 8 to 6.

* * *

NEW YORK, March 23.—The Yankees, laboring under the eye of Charley O'Leary, acting manager, lost yesterday's game against the St. Paul American Association team. Baker slammed out two homers, while Ruth, Murray and McMillan each contributed a circuit smash, but the boys from the northwest found Southpaw Jim Jolley's offerings just to their taste and won, the score being 7 to 6.

The Giants, favored by good pitching by Barnes and Benton, beat the Indianapolis team, 9 to 2. The whole team looked better than it had for several days.

* * *

What will the harvest be from the crop of baseball recruits that is now blooming in the South?

* * *

Major league club owners have invested thousands of dollars in promising young ball players in a hope that one or two will show enough merit to be classed as big leaguers.

* * *

Already it is apparent that some of the highly touted youngsters will not do. In a good many cases the managers have just about decided what players really have a chance to make the grade.

* * *

The weeding out of the recruits in the spring is a big proposition. Sometimes snap judgment is necessary, and in baseball snap judgment often goes wrong. A manager hates to cut loose from some youngster and later see the recruit come back with some other club and develop into a star.

* * *

Such a mistake is quite a slap at the managerial judgment of the leader who so errs. For that reason the recruits who appear to have a chance are carefully nursed along. Often the most promising are carried for a month or six weeks of the regular season before being shunted back to the minors.

* * *

While the recruit problem is the big issue there are others facing a number of major league managers. They deal with the veteran players rather than the recruits, and the success of these veteran players really means more to the chances of various clubs in 1922 than do the work of the recruits.

* * *

The addition of Roger Peckinpaugh to the Washington club has rounded out that team. The club has been greatly strengthened at its one weak spot. However, for a club to be in the running it must get good pitching.

* * *

In a measure the Washington pitching staff hinges around Walter Johnson. Walter is, of course, the ace of the staff. He must go good for the club to get anywhere. If Walter is able to win say 25 games, the Nationals must be reckoned with.

* * *

The success of Johnson is not an individual matter. It has a direct bearing of the greatest importance on the rest of the team. With Johnson pitching bang-up ball, the morale is improved 50 per cent. The confidence of every other pitcher is also greatly increased.

* * *

For Manager Zeb Milan, Walter is a bigger issue than any of the recruits. Walter at times looked as good as ever last year. At the finish he was going great guns. If he can start in where he left off it is going to mean a great deal to the chances of the Washington team.

* * *

The case of Grover Cleveland Alexander of the Chicago Cubs is very much similar to that of Johnson. If Alexander regains the form that made him famous in days gone by, the chances of the Cubs will be much improved.

* * *

It is the same with a number of other teams. Will Urban Shocker have another big year for the St. Louis Browns? What about Babe Adams at Pittsburg? Can Jim Baghy come back on 1920 fashion when he won 31 games? Thus it is apparent that the veterans are as big a problem as the recruits.

VETS MEET R. C. R. ON SATURDAY

The Army and Navy Vets will play a game of soccer against the R. C. R.'s on Saturday afternoon at 3:30 p.m. Corporal Carr will referee the game.

The Army and Navy line-up will be chosen from the following: Isoms, Combs, Sheard, Simmons, Woodward, Faulkner, Leigh, Duncan, Fraser, Travernor, Quigley, McKay and Dalgetty.

London Five Are Eliminated From O. B. A. Semi-Final

Puzzle Answers Must Be In by March 25.

FANS who have not sent in their answer to the Evans baseball puzzle, the best three solutions for which The Advertiser is offering free admission tickets to the opening game of the Mint League, are reminded that Saturday, March 25, is the last day on which answers will be accepted.

From every corner of Western Ontario and the city answers have come in, showing that the fans, next to seeing a game, like something in the nature of a stove league world's series.

Billy Evans' solution to the puzzle will be published as soon as it arrives, probably on Tuesday. Meantime a committee of two, Mr. Ed Stein, official scorer for the Mint League for several years and since chief statistician of the circuit, and Mr. Charles Case, Canadian Press operator, and a well-known London baseball enthusiast, will go over the solutions sent in and select those which hit nearest the mark.

LANDIS HASN'T HAD CHANGE OF HEART

Tells Newspapermen Ruth and Meusel Suspensions Will Stand.

NEW ORLEANS, March 23.—Babe Ruth and Bob Meusel, outfielders of the New York American League Club, must serve out the suspensions placed on them last fall by Judge K. M. Landis for disobeying the rules of baseball.

Judge Landis gathered visiting newspaper men around him today during a game between New York and the New Orleans Club, and in the presence of Colonel Jacob Ruppert of the New York Club, said:

"There is nothing more to add."

"Does the suspension of last fall stand as it is?" he was asked.

"Nothing more to add," said the judge, as he returned to watch the game.

Ruth and Meusel are under suspension until May 20 for having violated a rule of organized baseball, which prohibited them from participating in games with outside teams.

ASSERTS CLAIM FOR ARMY COST EQUITABLE RIGHT

U. S. Expresses Conviction That It Should Be Paid for German Army of Occupation.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Expressing the conviction that its right to payment of cost of maintaining troops in Germany on equal footing with the Allied powers was "not only a clearly equitable right, but is free from any technical objection," the American government, in identical communications addressed to the governments of Belgium, Great Britain, France, Italy and Japan, has informed them that it would welcome suggestions "for the reasonable adjustment of this matter."

Asserting the United States government is unable to conclude that the justice of its claim is not fully recognized, the notes, made public in text there late yesterday, stated that the United States, "upon receiving assurances of payment," would be only too happy to proceed to the consideration of suitable means by which its just claim may be satisfied pending such adjustment, the notes said, the United States government hopes that the allied governments will be disposed to refrain from giving effect to any arrangements for the distribution of cash payments received from Germany to the exclusion of the claim of the United States.

MANITOBA TORIES TO ELECT LEADER

WINNIPEG, March 23.—Manitoba Conservatives will formulate a platform and elect a new leader to succeed R. G. Willis here on April 5, it was decided late yesterday afternoon at a conference of representatives from all over the province. The general political situation in the province was discussed, the Conservative members of the Provincial Legislature being present, with W. J. Tupper, K.C., in the chair.

Mr. Willis will tender his resignation as head of the party at the coming convention, he announced yesterday, and it is expected in political circles that the leadership will be offered to J. T. Haig, M.L.A., leader of the party in the Provincial Legislature.

OUIMET IS INTRODUCED.

OTTAWA, March 23.—(Canadian Press.)—Rodolphe Ouimet, who was recently elected by acclamation in Vaudreuil-Soulanges, Quebec, was introduced in the House of Commons this afternoon. Ouimet is a Liberal, and succeeds Gustave Boyer, who was elevated to the Senate.

WINDSOR ADDS TWO TO 14-POINT LEAD

GAME WAS ROUGH

Delayed Hour Over Referee Difference, and Mix-Up Interrupts First Half.

London O. B. A. five were eliminated from the intermediate semi-finals last night when Windsor added a 22—19 win to a 29—15 count at Windsor last Saturday, winning the round by 17 points. It was a clash that had innocent spectators thinking O. B. A. was short for "Ontario Boxing Association" — a novel hodge-podge of concentrated T.N.T. and a quiet Belfast Sunday with a little of the Borneo head hunter's finesse topping it off. But the setting was all wrong. The props man forgot the water pails, sponges and towels.

The game was delayed first for nearly an hour over a referee mix-up. Mel Blake of Western was notified yesterday that he was to handle the game, but A. C. Forman of Guelph appeared on the scene last night with orders that were dated some time hours later. The teams spent an hour in friendly discussion of this point, and some of the speakers had the floor so long, they went into the game already fatigued.

Finally Started.

Then the game finally started. It hadn't been going five minutes before four or five penalties had been handed out, and the referee had delivered several brief and unappreciated addresses in the general direction of the crowd and players.

Forman wasn't in Windsor last Saturday night when the Londoners claim they received a raucous deal from a home referee, so he was neutral when it came to reparations, and the London team were getting the worst of the penalty deal. Incidentally up to this stage, the visitors, while they showed a versatility in mat tactics, also exhibited much better team work all round than the Londoners. They eluded checks at will and had a pass out from the wall to centre that had the Londoners beaten.

Londoners Off.

Added to this, the Londoners missed several good chances to score. The Windsor centre man, who showed signs of an emery disposition from the time he wasted several minutes examining basketballs and delaying the game before the toss-up, egged on an incident which produced a general mix-up of everything but basketball. Somebody turned out the lights, and the more experienced among the spectators with razors in mind slipped to the floor. Play was resumed after Secretary Jenkins had warned both teams, the court was for basketball only. They resumed play, with Reid off, and Mellon refusing to admit he said the endearment that started the fracas. London locked much better after this and played the period out to a 13—12 finish and 15 points down on the round. They were down 9—7 at the end of the final period, but held the Windsor attack down, even though unable to get any edge on the visitors' defence. Shaw, who subbed, scored eight points without a personal penalty, and turned in one of the best games of the night.

The line-ups:

| Windsor. | | London. |
|---|---|---|
| Shanahan | L. F. | Gillies |
| Dowd | R. F. | Duffield |
| Mellon | Centre | Lightfoot |
| O. Murphy | L. G. | Reid |

| Tueller | Subs | Shaw |
| L'Heureax | Subs | Jackson |

Referee—Forman, Guelph.

Preliminary Games.

Thistles and Elks won the games which kept the biggest crowd which has yet crushed into the "Y" gym, in patience waiting for the main event. Thistles beat C. A. C., 16—8, and Elks won from Hoodoos, 10—7.

PARIS SPORTS ARE ON BOOM

PARIS, March 23.—A meeting of the Hockey Club is called for Tuesday evening. Arrangements will be made for next year. A report of this year's work will also be given.

At the annual meeting of the Paris Cricket Club the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: Honorary president, Senator Fisher; president, James Smiley; vice-presidents, J. K. Martin, F. Smoke, Dr. Gould and Dr. Munro; captain, Fred Oldham; vice-captain, Wm. England; committee, G. Hambleton, Sr., E. Thurman, W. England and E. Bradley; secretary, Fred Drake. The report for the past season was read, which showed that the club had a very successful year, and are looking forward to an even better season this year.

The prospects for the rural baseball teams seem to be very bright. Two dozen or more will be battling for the U. F. O. cup. Scotland last year won the championship cup, besides a group cup. Middleport, St. George and Oakhill also captured group cups. A meeting is called for around April 1 for organization purposes. This year there will be a junior and a senior league.

The ladies of the U. F. O. clubs are also organizing for soft ball. It is expected that there will be about twelve teams represented.

The Interscholastic Athletic will take place in Hamilton on March 25. The Paris athletes are practising faithfully, and will endeavor to bring some trophies home to Paris.

Shamrocks Are After Another Title

Saturday night at the armories the local Shamrocks, provincial champions last year of girls' basketball, meet Toronto girls in the L. O. B. A. final game. The teams played a 16-all tie at Toronto Saturday night, but the Colleens are confident of victory on the home court. Two others games are on the evening's bill. Those in the picture, left to right, are:

Sitting—Lottie Garrett, Helen Woolley, Carrie Blackwell (captain), Edna Holland and K. McAvoy.

The cups are the Lady Beck Trophy, emblematic of the provincial championship, and the Mayor Little Trophy, which goes with the girls' city league championship.

With a runner on first and one out the batsman hits a grounder to the second baseman. The runner holds first base. The ball is thrown to the first baseman, who receives it about a foot from the bag. He touches the bag, then touches the runner standing on first. The team in the field claims a double play. Is that correct?

* * *

ONLY one man was out. When the first baseman, after receiving the thrown ball touched first he removed the force. The runner standing on the base was exempt from being put out. If the player before touching the base had touched the runner standing on the bag with the ball, and then touched the base, he would have completed a double

PLAY 4--4 GAME AT GUELPH ARENA

Guelph Picked Team Came Back for Thrilling Finish in Third Period.

GUELPH, March 23.—One of the fastest hockey games of the season was played at the Guelph arena tonight between the St. Marys juniors of Toronto and a picked team from the city, composed of both juniors and intermediates, resulting in a tie, each team scoring four goals.

The ice was in good condition for fast hockey, and both teams worked hard all the way. The visitors were the first to score, when Smythe drove one past Hayes from center ice after three minutes of play, and the locals evened up a few seconds before the end of the period, when Corrigan and Jones combined, the latter beating Kells with a fast one.

In the second period the St. Marys team scored twice, Burke and Smythe doing the trick, and the locals were blanked. In the final period the fastest hockey of the game was seen, and the Guelph team displayed a brand that almost bewildered the visitors. They scored three goals in as many minutes, two of them clean-cut, while the third was the result of a scramble in front of the nets, with Kells lying full length across the face of the net, but the referee allowed the goal to count. Just before time was up the visitors evened the count on a long rush by Frost. They scored another just as the bell was about to ring, but the referee declared it was an offside, and he refused to allow it. Neither team was anxious to play off the tie.

The teams:

| Frost | " | Jones |
| Smythe | Center | Mitchell |
| Turner | Wing | Brill |

HAMPION NEEDS MORE THAN SIZE

BY HARRY GREB.

FIGHTER doesn't need to be a giant to be a champion.

cause I am shy of the six-foot by several inches, and don't weigh he neighborhood of 200 pounds. I ose a lot of people are not taking seriously as a heavyweight con- der.

There was Bob Fitzsimmons, he didn't igh much more than I do, yet he was ckoned as one of the greatest fighters e ring has ever produced.

Fitzsimmons made the big fellows like m Jeffries, Tom Sharkey, Gus Ruhlin d the rest like it.

Joe Walcott measured only a few ches over five feet, yet Walcott conantly gave away from 15 to 30 pounds n weight and often as much as a foot height.

Despite his size Walcott was certainly a fighter if there ever was one.

I have no desire to compare myself with either Fitzsimmons or Walcott. I simply speak of these two great fighters to prove that one need not be a giant to be a fighter or a champion.

When Jack Dempsey was matched to meet Jesse Willard the bout was ridiculed by a lot of fight critics. Most of the fight fans thought Willard was too big for Dempsey.

In the Toledo bout Dempsey, who was a little man compared to Willard, proved that size wasn't the only thing needed to be a fighter. Willard probably still remembers the lacing he took that evening.

When I was matched to fight Gibbons the public viewed the bout in much the same manner as it did the Willard-Dempsey go.

Gibbons, with an advantage of 10 pounds in weight and four inches in height, was regarded as far too husky for me to have a chance with him.

I feel that I demonstrated the folly of size being a fighter's most important asset.

There are a few other things a fighter must have besides size, among them being aggressiveness, footwork, cleverness and courage.

25 WILL SCRAMBLE FOR BRANT BERTHS

Mickey Lalonge Has Ten Hurlers Signed Up, and More in Sight.

START ON APRIL 16

Squad Will Use Grounds Behind Dykes As Training Camp—Get New Uniforms.

BRANTFORD, March 23.—By all accounts the 1922 Brants are not going to be shy of twirlers. Manager "Mickey" Lalonge has at least ten of them signed up so far, and will likely add another to the string just for good measure before the season opens here on May 3. One of the string is John P. Wesley, who pitcher for last year's Brants. He'll be back again in a Red Sox uniform, together with Elmer Wenstrum in the outfield.

Leonard Hartline and Frank Hess, backstops, T. L. Sullivan on second and Oscar Beecher on third, all played ball last summer with the Brants.

Manager Lalonge's nine other twirlers besides Wesley will include Alvin Dahlin, John Gruber, Ollie Schwartz, Paul Smith, George E. King, Wayne Dickinson, James C. Barrett and Leo Johnston.

For the catching staff there's "Mickey" Lalonge himself, to say nothing of Hartline and Hess, while Ted Anderson, Whitney, Dewhirst and Jack Smith will try out for a position on first sack. For second there will be Robert Prysock and our old friend Sullivan, and for short there's Beecher and a lad named James L. Ryan. Willis Butler is slated for third, while in the outfield Lalonge will be able to put Jack Shaefer, E. Peth, Burcheil, McGuire and friend Wenstrum. This makes about 25 players available so far.

Jim O'Neil, secretary of the Brants, said today that contracts were out for two more infielders and some outfielders. Lalonge is doing some scouting around these days, and will be back again in the city about April 1.

"He'll have several more lined up by that time, I expect," O'Neil remarked.

April 16 is the day upon which the Brants will report for duty. By that time Agricultural Park will be in good shape, and regular practices can be held, so that the team can be ready for the season which starts on May 2 in Hamilton. New uniforms will be issued to the Brants.

Billy Evans Says

* * *

* * *

Umpiring in the bushes is a job that no one should envy. Frank Wilson, who umpired in the American League, came up from the Western League.

* * *

Wilson tells this interesting story of a happening which took place in a minor league game over which he presided:

* * *

Jack Holland was managing the St. Joe club. This fellow Holland is one of the minor league leaders who has a lot of color. He furnishes plenty of copy for the newspapers.

* * *

The St. Joe club had been going poorly, and Holland was much peeved. The club had been in a long losing streak. In the game in questi after getting away badly, his team ca rom behind and tied up the game, overcoming a six-run lead.

* * *

The contest was forced into extra innings, and at the close of the thirteenth inning it was getting pretty dark. Umpire Wilson, knowing that Holland's team hadn't won a game for a week, thought he might be satisfied with a tie.

* * *

Turning around and facing Holland, Wilson shouted to him: "Well, Jack, what do you say? It is getting pretty dark; maybe you would be satisfied with a tie game. That would break your losing streak. Will I call it?"

* * *

Rumors had been going the rounds that the St. Joe club was not paying much attention to training rules. It had been hinted the club was losing because of lack of condition rather than lack of ability. Holland knew it, and when Umpire Wilson suggested calling the game, he replied:

* * *

"Call nothing! This team of mine doesn't really get started until the bright lights are turned on. Keep 'em going."

* * *

Wilson got the sarcasm. It also must have been absorbed by the players. The game was kept ging. St. Joe won in the fifteenth.

* * *

* * *

What often seems a wise bit of baseball strategy is made possible simply by the use of a bit of common sense plus keen observation.

* * *

I have always regarded Bill Carrigan as one of the greatest managers in the history of the game. Any ball player who has ever worked under Carrigan entertains much the same opinion.

* * *

I happened to be one of the umpires in the 1915 world series between Boston and Philadelphia. After losing the first game, the Red Sox, under Carrigan,

* * *

After the series was over I happened to be discussing a certain play with Carrigan. I remarked that I was surprised that Boston won in five games, as I had expected the series to go the limit.

* * *

Carrigan simply smiled and said a little inside dope had aided them considerably in the victory. The next year I learned what that inside dope was.

* * *

According to the Bosto players Carrigan always had a couple of bench warmers do nothing but look for some act on the part of a certain player that would tip them off to some valuable information.

* * *

It will be remembered than in injury kept "Red" Dooin out of the 1915 series, Eddie Burns, his understudy, was forced to do all the catching. Burns had been developed by Dooin. According to the players, Dooin had certain peculiarities that tipped off certain plays.

* * *

Carrigan had a couple of players watch Burns in the first game to see if he used the methods peculiar to Dooin. It was soon discovered that Burns had exactly the same style as Dooin. During the rest of the series that information as to certain signals was used to decided advantage.

* * *

It seems Tris Speaker liked the idea as used by Carrigan, and it is a part of the Cleveland team's strategy. I understand it worked to advantage in the 1919 series with Brooklyn.

* * *

According to the dope I gather George Burns, recently traded to the Boston Red Sox, was the Sherlock Holmes. Burns, looking for some visiting player doing the unusual, noticed that Pete Kilduff on certain pitched balls would pick up some dust in his hand and scatter it.

* * *

He called the Cleveland players' attention to the fact. It seems that act on the part of Kilduff was the tip-off to the rest of the infield and outfield as to what was going to be pitched. The Cleveland team soon worked out the program. That may account in a way for the freedom the Indians took with Brooklyn's great staff.

GODERICH WILL HAVE GOOD NINE

GODERICH, March 23.—The baseball club claim that this season will be the best they have had for a long time. A number of players have arrived already. They will be known this year as the Purities of the Western Canada Flour Mills. The club claim that they will be on top when the season closes. Zurich were the winners last year, but the boys say no chance for the Dutchmen this season.

A new grandstand is to be built around the diamond from home to first and from home to third, which will be appreciated by the baseball fans.

The club is also trying to form a town league, including Goderich Township and Colborne Township, which will make baseball in Goderich very interesting this season.

BROTHER MIKE IS TO MEET GREB

ST. PAUL, March 23.—Mike Gibbons, middleweight boxer of St. Paul, will meet Harry Greb of Pittsburg May 1, according to terms accepted by Gibbons' manager today. The bout is scheduled for twelve rounds, no decision, at Boyle's "thirty acres," Newark, N. J.

COMMISSIONER LARKIN SAILS.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Peter C. Larkin, Canada's new high commissioner to England, sailed on the S. S. Empress of Britain for Liverpool. Rene Du Pont, Belgian consul in Quebec, and his family, who are to visit their homeland, were also among the passengers.

LEWIS CHARGES 'BIG BUSINESS' MENACES LABOR

A. F. OF L. TO AID STRIKE

Delegates From Gompers Give Assurance of Their Utmost Co-operation.

NEW YORK, March 23.—Charges that "big business and so-called Americanism organizations" of the country are engaged in a deliberate attempt to crush organized labor were made here today by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America.

Mr. Lewis' statement came at the close of a three-day session of the mine owners and workers' wage arbitration committee, which ended without any agreement which would halt the impending strike of 600,000 anthracite and bituminous miners April 1.

Agreement of miners and operators upon a wage scale for the 3,000 anthracite miners who will maintain colliery properties while the strike is in session was the sole result of today's session.

The committee of eight adjourned tonight to permit Mr. Lewis and the dozen anthracite chiefs chosen as district representatives to attend a conference of the general policies committee of strike ways and means scheduled to begin at Cleveland tomorrow.

Mr. Lewis' charges that organizations throughout the country were working to overthrow the unions was made in connection with announcement that the Rail and Miners' Protective Alliance had been formed to combat such an attempt.

"The protective alliance, with a present membership of 275,000 railroadmen and miners, is an organization to preserve the integrity of the associations attacked," Mr. Lewis asserted. "It will seek to promote the welfare of the unions and to fight influences which threaten to destroy or jeopardize their continuation."

A. F. OF L. PROMISES AID.

NEW YORK, March 23. — The general strike of anthracite and bituminous coal workers, set for April 1, will be prosecuted "with the fullest and most effective co-operation of the American Federation of Labor, it was announced here today after a visit to mine officials of envoys of Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor.

Mr. Gompers' delegates came here shortly before midnight, and after a short conference with John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, left early today for Washington.

URGES INVESTIGATION.

WASHINGTON, March 23.—Investigation of conditions in the United States coal mining industry by a special commission to be appointed by the president, is called for in a bill introduced today by Representative Bland of Indiana.

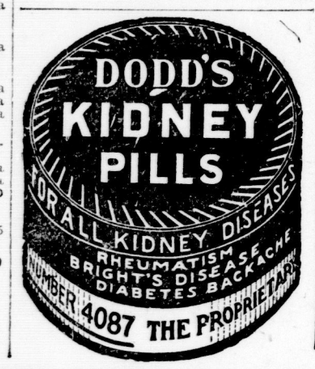

The commission, which could have three members, would be instructed to make inquiry into wages, hours and working conditions, and into the causes of the present unrest.

The investigation would embrace both the anthracite and bituminous fields.

PRESENTS MINERS' CASE.

GLACE BAY, N. S., March 23.—J. B. McLachlan, secretary-treasurer of district 26 of the United Mines Workers of America, has addressed a letter to every member of the Dominion House of Commons, in which he presents the case of the coal miners of Nova Scotia in their opposition to the British Empire Steel Corporation. He brings the charge of "watered stock" against the corporation, stating that to pay dividends on this the miners are paid starvation wages.

Mr. McLachlan says he is writing "in the hope that you can take some action that will result in mine workers in this land of plenty receiving enough to live on for honest work performed." He asserts the determination of the miners to fight the present wage scale, and refers to the policy of "cutting the output" as having been adopted by large sections of the miners.

REQUESTS LIST OF BANNED PAPERS

OTTAWA, March 23.—(Canadian Press.)—In th eSenate today Hon. Mr. McMeans asked for a list of the magazines and newspapers denied entrance into Canada.

Hon. J. A. MacLean asked a number of questions regarding the passenger traffic on the Intercolonial Railway.

Senator McDonald gave notice of a resolution calling for the appointment of a committee on the unemployment situation similar to that which dealt with the same question last session.

In answer to a question by Hon. Mr. Green, Senator Dandurand said that Canada had received through British authorities the sum of $6,314,500 in payment of the cost of the Canadian army of occupation in Germany. The total amount to be received from the German reparations commission had not yet been determined.

THE WEEK IN THE WORLD

QUEER WEDDING WAYS

LONDON, March 23.—Wedding ceremonies among the "simpler" peoples of the world, from which our own are derived, show a remarkable uniformity of practice, from which their principles may be inferred. Incidentally, they are mostly very picturesque, joyous, and full of human kindness.

The subject, psychologically, is of special human interest; and the way in which the love-instinct of primitive men and women crystallized into these beautiful ceremonies, quite unconsciously at first, is a very wonderful piece of social evolution.

The pioneer in the subject, J. F. McLennan, made a logical error in claiming that capture and carrying off of the bride was the earliest marriage ceremony. He based his argument on a multitude of instances from various parts of the world; but nearly all of these are pantomimic, not serious.

The groom gallops away with her, and they are wedded. If this is not a "survival" of the custom (known in Australia in a few instances) of knocking your chosen on the head and carrying her off, what is it?

It can be proven that most of these merry abduction ceremonies symbolize not the stealing of the bride from her tribe or family (as McLennan thought), but the taking of her away from their control and from her own natural coyness of girlhood.

This latter point is brought out in cases where at the wedding the girls trounce the bridegroom soundly. It is also brought out by the frequent custom of "the false bride." A girl is "made-up" to represent the bride, and the deception is carried on to the last possible moment.

A similar feeling of the seriousness of the act and of the more or less "supernatural" dangers attending it is expressed in the Indian ritual in which the bridegroom is first married to a tree.

The origin of bridesmaids is shown in many customs, in which the bride attempts to hide among a number of girls dressed up to represent her. Here there is also the idea of blind man's buff, as if to put the male on his mettle—to find her.

When primitive man has an important piece of business to carry out he initiates it ceremonially beforehand. This "rehearsal" is supposed to (and, of course, does) facilitate the success of the business.

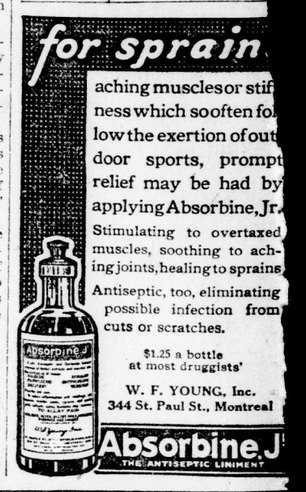

Similarly with the greater portions of marriage ceremonies, the idea is to facilitate the harmonious joint life of the pair; not to make them "of the same tribe," but "one flesh," man and wife.

This idea underlies the world-wide ceremony of eating or drinking together of the same food or drink, off the same plate, out of the same cup (we have this last), mixing drinks (not in our vulgar sense)—we have this in the taking of communion together; "communion" is the principle, "union" is the fact.

In all human life it is extraordinary how the act of two persons eating or drinking together is not only a mark or symbol of association, but also an actual factor in it.

Clasping hands is obvious; so is the wedding kiss. The ring binds; modern sophistication says tha ring-finger connects with the

But the most amazing of we ceremonies is the same as th of blood brotherhood—each par a vein opened and their blo mingled, or each drinks the o blood.

SCHOOL BOARD MAY BE ASKED TO LEVY RATE

Mayor Arranges For Meeting of Finance Committee and Trustees.

BRINGS IN ANNEX TANGLE

Alderman Ashplant Criticizes Attitude of City's Chief Executive.

That the school board demand the city levy the school rate on all the rateable property of the city, including the annex, will be urged upon the school board by Alderman H. B. Ashplant when it meets in joint session with the finance committee on Friday afternoon to consider the school estimates.

In arranging for the finance committee, instead of the new commission, to meet the board, the mayor has opened the door for the bringing of the annex school tax question into the estimates tangle, and Mr. Ashplant says he will take advantage of this situation.

The alderman says that he does not want to interfere with the new commission, which was appointed to do certain things. He expressed wonder that the mayor has gone back on his "pet" so soon. "Of course, said the alderman, "if the mayor cannot get his commission and the board to agree, that's his lookout."

"I also notice," he said, "that the mayor shows a peculiar aptitude for hitting at the teachers' agreement by demanding that their salaries be cut, while at the same time he is obstructing the raising of school revenue from perfectly legitimate sources as provided by the statutes.

"The teachers have a real, definite, tangible agreement that can be produced. The mayor is willing to tear it to pieces.

"The other matter, the annex tax question, is in legal doubt. The mayor cannot produce documentary evidence that there is an agreement, and yet it is held sacred. It looks to me like gallery play," said the alderman.

ANIMALS NOT TO BE ELECTROCUTED

London Humane Society Decides Method of Execution Is Not Devoid of Pain.

DESTROY DISEASED DOGS

Local Branch to Hold Rummage Sale to Secure Funds for Purchase of Car.

At the regular meeting of the London Humane Society held in the city hall, Thursday evening, delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Humane Society held in Toronto, submitted a report that the work of the local branch had received high praise and commendation from the Ontario Association, not only for the humane work in the city, but for the manner in which it was carried out in the county.

The idea of using a little chamber to electrocute animals was abandoned by the society, on the ground that the manner of execution was not painless. It was decided that the killing of animals should be carried on as usual at the shelter, until the society can provide a lethal chamber in which gas can be used.

Fourteen a day has been the average number of cases with which the Humane Society have had to deal during the past month. The inspector gave the following figures in his report for the last month: 416 cases dealt with, 412 horses examined and three killed; 212 cattle examined; 72 dogs admitted to the shelter and 63 destroyed on account of disease; 47 cats admitted and 11 destroyed and 6 warnings issued where inhuman treatment of animals was evident.

The society have decided to hold a rummage sale in order to raise funds for the car which they intend to buy in order that the work may be carried on more effectively. Final arrangements for the sale are not yet complete.

Twenty-five names have been added to the membership roll of the Junior Humane Society from Simcoe Street School. Of this new branch of this Juvenile Humane Society, O. George is president, E. Parkinson, treasurer, and F. Faunt, secretary.

ACTION TO RECOVER $1,227 FROM BANK IS DISMISSED

Chief Justice Disposes of Last Case On Assizes Docket Friday.

The action of Brown, Sons & Co., acting on behalf of the creditors of John F. Lindsay, a farmer, near Parkhill, against the Canadian Bank of Commerce and Mr. Lindsay, to recover from the bank $1,227 in sale notes given to the bank by Mr. Lindsay after a sale in June last, was dismissed by Mr. Justice Meredith at the spring assizes Friday afternoon. It was the last case on the docket.

The point involved was whether Duncan Forbes, manager of the bank, knew that Lindsay was insolvent at the time the notes were paid into the bank. The manager declared in the witness-box that he thought Lindsay was all right at the time.

Mr. Forbes explained that Lindsay had told him the previous fall that he was going to have a sale in the spring, and that if he would renew his notes to him he would pay these off from the proceeds of the sale. This was agreeable, and the notes had been renewed.

F. P. Betts, K. C., appeared for the Bank of Commerce, N. F. Newton, Parkhill, for Lindsay, and W. R. Meredith for Mr. Brown.

CITY REFUSES GRANT TO AID LABOR TEMPLE FUND

Finance Commissioner Bell Says There Is No Authority to Make Grant.

The trades and labor council's hopes of a $5,000 grant from the city towards their new $20,000 Labor Temple have been shattered by the report of Finance Commissioner Bell that he could find no authority in the municipal act allowing the city to make such a grant.

Mr. Bell reported the result of his investigation to the city commission, when Mayor Wilson presented the request which the labor men made to the finance committee, that such a grant should be considered with the estimates.

Ald. Ashton pointed out that the city had power to make other grants to the trades and labor council, and asked why it had no power in this particular connection.

Mr. Bell said that the council had authority to make a grant to the labor council to assist in the entertainment of distinguished guests, but there was nothing which would allow of a building grant.

On the grounds of "no power," the application of the trades and labor council was refused.

CANADIAN GOOSE IS INTELLIGENT

SAYS ONLY MAN IS WILD

Lecturer To Return To Give Address For Tuxis Boys of Talbot Baptist Church.

That birds possess a lot of intelligence, an intelligence which he who has not studied the habits of birds is apt to overlook, was pointed out by Mr. Jack Miner, of Kingsville, Ont., in his entertaining address on "The Intelligence and Migration of Birds," delivered at the Masonic Temple on Thursday evening.

Speaking to a large audience in a fashion that was picturesque and interesting, Mr. Miner addressed his hearers as "girls and boys," for as he said: "We never really grow up; man is just a grown-up boy.

"This is especially true of the man, who like myself, has lived amongst the feathered creatures, and has realized that they, in some cases, have an intelligence superior to a man who thinks he really knows life and has survived its trials."

Goose Is Intelligent.

In referring to the goose, the speaker regarded her not as "the silly goose," but as the "intelligent goose," that scents danger when it is a long way off, and migrates every year to return to precisely the same place whence it left the previous autumn. The same seven geese with which the lecturer was personally acquainted, returned to his home spring after spring, as he had only to realize from the evidence that the flock of birds wore the aluminum bands on their feet, and were not the least bit timid about eating their corn on the first day of their return, close to the feet of their northern friend.

"The geese are not wild," continued the speaker, "man only is wild." One of the geese in the flock became maimed, and though it could not fly like the rest, was not left alone to die, but was able to enjoy continually the companionship of the other six which talked with her in the real goose language which may be interpreted by the lover of wild life who understands the tones and combines them with the circumstances under which they are uttered. Another goose of the same flock was heroic enough to give up life in order to protect the maimed one from the attacks of an owl.

Birds Attend Burial.

A gosling hatched in the same family met with a fatal accident and when the time came for the speaker to bury it, the entire remainder of the family was present to witness the sad proceeding. And whenever an eagle whizzed through the sky, those very same geese honked towards Mr. Miner's home for shelter.

When one wild goose honks in a highly-pitched key, all the tame ones around immediately become wild, for they scent danger and begin to think their way out of any possible distress.

Metal bands bearing Biblical inscriptions, Mr. Miner sometimes attached to the feet of his most intimate winged friends which visited his home year after year. For example, one of the inscriptions was, "Have faith in God," and the speaker said that those self-same words traveled with good effect, into the land of the Eskimo and through the bars of a murderer's cell.

After the address, several pictures of unusual birds, some of which the speaker knew for years, were exhibited on a screen and proved interesting to the appreciative audience. Mr. Miner will return to London to repeat his address chiefly for the benefit of those who were refused entrance to the hall in the afternoon on account of the overflow house. The Tuxis boys of the Talbot Street Baptist Church, under whose auspices he spoke, have announced that Mr. Miner's return visit will be in the near future and also will be for the benefit of the children.

Washington, March 24.—Article one of the four-power Pacific treaty was approved by the Senate in committee of the whole, 74 to 15, after proposed reservations had been voted down. The Senate then began voting on reservations offered to article two.

Opposition leaders said the division on article one did not represent the strength that would be shown on final ratification.

FIRE CHIEF IS ON TRAIL OF CULPRIT

Charges Criminal Negligence in Furnace Installation in St. John's Church Vestry.

TOOK FIRE THURSDAY

Unprotected Wood Partition May Be Basis of New Law Against Faulty Workmanship.

Fire Chief John Aitken is looking for the person who installed the pipeless furnace in the vestry of St. John the Evangelist Church, and in the meantime wondering, if he finds him, whether he will be able to prosecute him for criminal negligence.

"It was nothing more or less than criminal, the work which was done there," said the chief. "The furnace was installed under part of a partition, and the woodwork protected in no way whatever."

The chief's department was called to put out a fire there on Thursday afternoon.

Some women workers of the church entered the vestry and found that the partition had taken fire. Had they not gone to the church when they did the whole edifice would likely have been destroyed, said the chief.

"You can imagine what might have happened had such a fire taken place when the building was full of children," said the fire department head.

"I am going to bring this matter before the new chiefs' convention with a view of getting the proper machinery together so that those who do such faulty workmanship may be prosecuted," he added.

The damage done to St. John's Church totalled $200.

the family were taken down to the living-room, lined up against the wall and riddled with bullets. The shootings were heard by occupants of a nearby house, who notified the Glenravel street barracks. Mrs. MacMahon and her daughter rushed down to the living-room when the attackers departed and found the seven lying on the floor in pools of blood, three of the bodies in a heap.

When the police arrived they found the women in a state of collapse. Ambulances took the victims to the hospital, where it was found that four already were dead. The matron of the hospital reports that the two wounded sons are very weak.

Another son, who was ordered into the room escaped by throwing himself under a lounge and was uninjured, although two shots were fired at him.

Battle With Typhus.

The Red Cross workers were shown getting the victims of this disease into their trains for treatment. Every effort is being made by Red Cross workers to cope with the situation, but even their best efforts are miserably inadequate. Such great advances has the plague made that Red Cross workers are concerned with not only stopping it in Russia, but from spreading throughout the western hemisphere.

"Canada has a superabundance of food," said Canon Gould, in conclusion. "The food which will save the lives of millions of children will cause no hardship or privation to Canadian children. The Canadian Government is doing all in its power to help this cause, but funds cannot be provided without the co-operation of the people."

Rev. W. R. McIntosh, who spoke at the close of the meeting said: "It is hard to imagine cause for the existence of such misery as this, but one thing is evident, that here is not only the opportunity but the necessity of Canadians as a whole throwing off the grip of materialism in which we find ourselves and getting back to a kindlier spirit of humanity."

David Ross, T. H. Yull, Rev. A. E. Norton and R. R. Smith, who acted as chairmen, also spoke briefly, each emphasizing the need of immediate action in relieving the misery of Russian children.

CANADIAN CLUB TO HEAR FAMOUS HISTORIAN

Dr. Shotwell, Editor of Carnegie Institution's War History, to Talk on Central Europe.

Dr. James T. Shotwell, who is to address the Canadian Club next Wednesday on "Central Europe After the War," is a Canadian who since the peace has had exceptional opportunities of seeing at first hand the countries that were at war. He was one of the historians attached to the American delegation at the peace conference, and saw much of that great historic gathering.

After peace had been concluded, Dr. Shotwell was appointed by the Carnegie Institution of Washington as general editor of the great social and economic history of the war, which it intends to publish. This work will run perhaps to 150 volumes, and will be the most extensive study of the effects of war that has ever been attempted.

In the course of his duties in connection with this, Dr. Shotwell has visited most of the European countries that were at war, and within the last year has been in both Germany and Austria. He brings first-hand impressions of these countries and an opportunity will be afforded at the luncheon for questions from the members.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

HAY PRICES RISE ON GOOD DEMAND

Oats Quality Is Poor in Some Cases, But Inquiry Active, Also For Wheat.

Hay was higher in price on the local market on Friday, selling at $17@19 per ton. Sixteen loads were offered for sale, with the demand active.

Oats are scarce, and offerings are bringing 44@52c per bushel and $1 30@1 55 per cwt for new, and $1 80@1 85 for old oats, according to quality. The grade of some of the new oats offering is poor.

Wheat is scarce, but the price remains firm.

Live hogs are quoted at $12 75 per cwt for selects.

Potatoes are slow in demand. They are quoted at $1 40 per bag wholesale and $1 50 retail.

GRAIN

Winnipeg, March 24.—Opening: Wheat—May unchanged to ⅜c lower at $1 35¼ @1 34⅞; July, ⅛c up to ⅛c lower at $1 32½@1 32.

Oats—May unchanged at 47¾c; July, ⅛c up at 40c.

Chicago, March 24.—Opening: Wheat—May, $1 32; July, $1 17⅝.

Corn—May, 59⅝c; July, 62¼c.

Oats—May, 36⅜c; July, 38⅝c.

Chicago, March 24.—Wheat averaged lower in price today during the early transactions, with liquidations of May holdings a feature. It was asserted that European buyers are hampered owing to financial conditions, and that the domestic millers' trade is disappointing. Initial quotations, which varied from ¼c decline to ⅛c higher, were followed by slight general gains, but then set-backs all around.

Corn was easier, in line with wheat. After opening unchanged to ⅝c higher, the market receded to below yesterday's finish.

In oats there was absence of selling pressure, and prices were relatively firm, starting unchanged to ⅛c higher, and later hardening a little more.

PROVISIONS

STANDARD EXCHANGE

Toronto, March 24.—While trading continued good, more than 400,000 shares being sold, prices eased off considerably and in some cases a heavy setback was suffered. McIntyre lost 65c on the early trading, and closed at $20 15; Lake Shore droped 15c to $2 25, Porcupine Crown lost 3c to 29½c, Schumacher lost 2c to 58c, Kirkland Lake 1c to 44½c, and Atlas 2c to 24c. Teck-Hughes was still in favor, and gained 1½c to 49c, and Holly 1c to $9 86.

In the silvers La Rose lost 13c to 35c, Beaver was down 1¼c to 34¾c, and Temiskaming ½c to 38½c.

NEW YORK STOCKS

New York, March 24—Wall Street, 10:30 a.m.—Reports that a merger of several of the secondary railroads of the Middle West is contemplated, imparted strength to several of those issues at the opening of today's stock market. Ann Arbor common and preferred made early gains of 1¼ and 1? respectively, and Pere Marquette common and preferred also improved, but major rails were dull and irregular. Changes among leading industrials and specialties were mainly downward. Beet Sugar, American Ice and United Drug forfeited 1 point each, and steels, equipments and oils continued to ease. Coca-Cola was strongest of the specialties, gaining 1 point.

NURSES GIVE MORE TIME TO STUDY THAN TO WORK

Victoria Hospital Superintendent Says Under Old Condition Could Cut Staff by Third.

Young women are not entering Victoria Hospital Training School for Nurses "to be exploited by the city," as was the case of yore, according to Hospital Superintendent Thomas Heard.

James Gray, of the hospital trust, states that the young nurses used to do a lot of things, dusting and sweeping, that they do not do now.

That there has been quite a revolution in the work done by the nurses in training in the past ten years, was shown by Mr. Heard, who told the new commission in going over the hospital estimates, that if the members of his staff would do as much today as they did ten years ago the staff could be cut one-third.

Now, according to Mr. Heard, the nurses and students have gone to the other extreme. They enter the training school for education and give their time to study rather than work.

DECIDE STRIKES NOT JUSTIFIABLE

MEMBERS TAKE PART

Mock Parliament Will Be Held on Thursday—O. Rechnitzer Is Elected President.

The members of the Oracle Debating Society conducted an interesting debate at their weekly meeting on Thursday, the subject being: "Resolved, that strikes are justifiable." The speakers on the affirmative side were L. Glass, leader, and G. Underwood; the negative, P. Pococke, leader, and Dr. J. L. Duffy.

Mr. Glass, the first speaker, declared that strikes were labor's only weapon against the oppression of capital, and that far more benefit than disaster was obtained for the laboring class by strikes. Capital can hire or fire at will, but the unions control capital to an extent by the strike, or the prospect of it. If the laboring class could not find expression for its grievances this country would soon be like Russia, the speaker stated. He concluded by saying: "Strikes are the safety-valves for the feelings of the people."

P. Pococke, leader of the negative side, introduced his argument by giving a definition of the word "justifiable"—anything which is proper, right or lawful. He argued that strikes were not always declared for lawful purposes, and also objected to the strikers taking measures to prevent the employer from obtaining help through any other quarter, a "dog in the manger" attitude, he said. If the government, after a thorough investigation, decreed that strikes were unlawful, as far as government institutions were concerned, surely this would show that strikes were inadvisable in the case of business institutions.

The negative side won by 10 votes to 7.

After the debate, the chairman, P. Bartlett, called upon different members for criticism, and later announced that a mock parliament would be held next Thursday, the subject for discussion to be: "Resolved, that there should be a reciprocity pact between the United States and Canada."

The leader of the government side will be A. Tennent, and of the opposition, A. Rechnitzer. H. White will be the other member of the government, and J. Crowder the second member of the opposition.

The Oracle Debating Club has been in existence since November, 1921, and is making rapid progress.

The officers elected are: C. S. Hyman, honorary president; O. Rechnitzer, president; W. Laut, vice-president; V. Cronyn, treasurer; C. Bell, secretary.

The aims of the club are:

1. To develop in the members interest and proficiency in public speaking through participation in debates and through the delivery of addresses.

2. To give its members instruction and practice in the conduct of public meetings.

3. To impress upon its members the duties and responsibilities of citizenship, and, if authorized by a three-quarters vote of its members, to engage actively as a body in any municipal activity in the city of London for the purpose of improving existing conditions.

SEIZE DIAMONDS AND ARREST MAN

New York, March 24.—Diamonds, whose wholesale value was estimated at between $85,000 and $110,000, were seized today by customs officers. Francisco Chami, 40, a rubber dealer of Para, Brazil, alleged to have illegally imported the gems, was arrested while trying to dispose of them in a West 23rd street jewelry shop.

PROHIBIT NATIVES BEING FLOGGED

London, March 24.—Canadian Press Cable. New ordinance recently issued by the Australian federal government, Reuter's Melbourne correspondent cables, provide for the strict supervision of the recruiting of native labor in New Guinea and prohibit flogging absolutely under penalty of a fine of £100 and six months' imprisonment.

RESPONSIBILITY---

The protection afforded the investor by the services of an investment banking house may be measured by their conception of their responsibility to the investor. Do they interpret it merely in terms of buyer and seller, or do they conceive it as an intimate relationship between client and themselves—a trust based on confidence never to be shaken? Every recommendation of the Dominion Bond and Debenture Corporation, Limited, is made with this sense of deep obligation and responsibility to the investor.

Life and Character Reading.

MARCH 24.

People of this birthdate are wonderfully loyal and make splendid friends and companions. The magnetic qualities of this cusp give the natives great power as healers and comforters. Their tact is something to be emulated. They do not shine as logicians, for in their eyes there is something far above logic. This is intuition, and it seldom fails them.

Many precocious little ones are born on this date and under this sign, and while these children are affable, kind-hearted, and exceedingly sensitive, they illustrate one of the chief weaknesses of this date, the desire to give.

The governing sign of this date is the combination of Pisces-Aries, governing the head and the feet. The governing planets are Neptune and Jupiter.

Application to Parliament

Notice is hereby given that an application will be made by the Corporation of the City of London to the Legislature of the Province of Ontario, at its present session, for an act;

1. To authorize the Council of the Corporation of the City of London to pass a bylaw, without obtaining the assent of the electors thereto, for the issue of $141,000 debentures, for the purpose of erecting a dam in the River Thames at Springbank Park, and to authorize the payment of the sinking fund and interest upon the said debentures by the public utilities commission of the City of London, out of the park's rate from time to time paid to the said commission.

2. The existing debenture debt of the City of London is as follows:

| | |
|---|---|
| General debentures | $2,681,794 87 |
| War purposes debentures | 174,111 77 |
| Waterworks debentures | 1,199,828 09 |
| Electrical department debentures | 809,720 40 |
| London and Port Stanley Railway debentures | 1,265,445 37 |
| City's share of local improvement debentures | 465,067 29 |
| School debentures | 1,686,319 42 |
| Housing commission debentures | 697,000 00 |
| | $8,979,287 21 |

3. The reasons for requiring the issue of the said debentures are:

To build a new dam in the River Thames.

To increase the facilities for the use of the public by Springbank Park, and to provide opportunity for the citizens of London for boating.

To reduce the menace to public health by the present condition of the river.

Dated at London, Ontario, this 22nd day of February, A. D. 1922.

S. BAKER, City Clerk.

CANE FIRES WILL CUT SUGAR CROP

Havana, March 24.—Havana trade papers, basing their estimates on press reports from the interior, are predicting that the 1921-22 sugar crop will suffer heavily from the cane fires which have been in progress since March 1.

Reports to the department of the interior on the losses in January and February gave a total of 50,000,000 arrobas (an arroba is equal to 25 pounds) of cane burned. February showed the greater total of the two months. Press reports since March 1 have told of several cane fires each involving the destruction of millions of arrobas. These reports express the fear that the total of cane destroyed in March will exceed that for both January and February.

HOUSE ADOPTS ADDRESS AFTER 9-DAY DEBATE

End Comes Suddenly Without Amendment and Without Division.

STANSELL LAST SPEAKER

Members Cover Widely Dissimilar Topics At Evening Sitting.

OTTAWA, March 23.—The address was adopted in the House of Commons tonight without amendment and without a division.

There was a general understanding that it would end tonight, but none expected that an evening sitting of merely a couple of hours would see the last speech and the adoption of the address.

The last day's fare was one of dissimilarities. It covered topics as diverse as railways, immigration—both Oriental and otherwise—natural resources, pensions, tariffs, women's suffrage, Prince Edward Island potatoes and even the ghosts of Nova Scotia.

Dr. Murray MacLaren, Conservative, from St. John, N. B., and Alfred MacLean of Prince, P. E. I., were at one in presenting the Maritime claim that Moncton shall again be the headquarters of the I. C. R.

A Conservative from British Columbia, C. H. Dickie of Nanaimo, came back with the sharp remark that there was too much sectionalism in the debate. He spoke of "those spooks" of Nova Scotia, sending the house into laughter by remarking that perhaps the shades of eminent statesmen of the past were walking nightly as a protest against political actions of the present.

Best in Dominion.

Alfred Stork (Liberal, Skeena) emphasized a point not previously raised in the debate—the resources of the country tapped by the Grand Trunk Pacific. He claimed that the population along the G. T. P. was greater than that along the C. N. R. The country of the G. T. P. was the best in the Dominion.

Another point was brought up by Milton Campbell of MacKenzie, Sask., the Progressive, who, in the general overturn of the general elections, defeated Dr. Michael Clark, himself once the leading debater of the Progressive group.

Mr. Campbell had some suggestions for finding the way out of the "railway wilderness." One was the introduction of winter and summer freight rates, that the movement of heavy freight in the summer might be encouraged; another, that the National Railways should have the most competent manager on the North American continent.

Gets Marked Papers.

John Stansell (Conservative, East Elgin) informed the house that since his election he had received copies of newspaper articles marked with red pencil, in favor of private ownership of railways.

"I do not suppose," observed Mr. Stansell, "that this propaganda is financed by any great-hearted patriot."

In resuming the debate on the address in the House of Commons this afternoon Leon J. Ladner (Conservative, Vancouver) expressed the desire that the government fulfil a promise which, he said, had been made by the prime minister when he spoke on the address and gave the house definite information in regard to the railway policy. There was a grave doubt in the minds of the opposition as to just what the government policy was, and Conservatives wished to know it before the debate closed. If there was one thing that the house should consider in a non-partisan way it was the question of re-establishment of returned men. He was satisfied that there must be substantial alterations in the present pension and land regulations. He referred to a case in which pension had been refused because cancer developed some time after the return of a soldier, and it was difficult to prove that it was due to war service.

Return of Resources.

Mr. Ladner returned to what he said was the real subject he wished to discuss, namely the return of the natural resources to the prairie provinces. All of the provinces, he said, had rights in regard to these natural resources. The Dominion government had been in control of them as a trustee. Any policy which purported to make an agreement with the prairie provinces without considering also the claims of other provinces was calculated to increase differences rather than remove them. British Columbia had very real claims in regard to natural resources. The railway belt in that province had been given to the Dominion in trust. The trusteeship had failed, and the province was entitled to a return of the land.

The Government could not proceed to deal with the Prairie Provinces alone. British Columbia had well defined rights in the matter.

If Progressives succeeded in making a special deal with the government because of their strategic political position and secure the return of the natural resources to the Prairie Provinces, it was to be hoped that they would remain true to the high ideals which they expressed in the house and give the older provinces fair treatment.

Counted Out in 1917.

Alfred Stork (Liberal, Skeena), said he was late in arriving to represent Skeena, and was really elected in 1917, being counted out on that occasion by the soldier vote. It was regrettable that he was not able to take his seat before, because a great deal of misrepresentation had been made about the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway. This should be corrected. A great deal of energy had been spent in attempting to discredit the road, and it was stated that the Canadian Northern Railway should have been extended into Vancouver instead of the Grand Trunk Pacific. The population along the G. T. P. was far greater than along the C. N. R. The country through which the G. T. P. was constructed was rich in natural resources, and short spur lines would open areas rich in minerals and suitable to agriculture. This was the best country in the whole Dominion.

When British Columbia entered the Confederation in 1871 there was nothing in the agreement to indicate that the province was to support a large Oriental population. "British Columbia," said Mr. Stork, "does not wish to be a sacrifice on the altar of international goodwill." Orientals controlled the fish industry and the truck farming industry of British Columbia; were making heavy inroads into the timber industry, and controlled 30 per cent of the manufactures of the province. Returned soldiers were idle where Orientals were carrying on the work of the country. Members of Parliament should travel in their own country in order more fully to appreciate actual conditions.

Should Visit Prairies.

J. L. Brown (Progressive, Lisgar) thoroughly agreed that members should visit all parts of Canada, and he intended to do so. He was going to the Maritimes to look over the Intercolonial Railway, and invited other members to visit the prairies and investigate the livestock industry.

Mr. Brown urged that United States millers wanted Canadian wheat, and Canadian cattle were also wanted south of the line. The market to the south of the line was chiefly cattle in an unfinished state, while those required in Great Britain were in a finished condition. It was foolish to think Canada or any other nation could become self-contained. It was the feeling that farmers should buy Canadian apples and Canadian machinery, and sell Canadian wheat only to apple-growers and machinery men that had helped to create the Progressive group.

Much credit for the efforts to remove the embargo on Canadian cattle must go to Hon. Manning Doherty. Organized farmers did not agree that Canadians were indifferent toward the embargo question, and urged that the official attitude of the government should make this clear. He urged the government to express itself on the embargo question along the same lines as the farmers had done.

Denies Baxter Claim.

A. E. MacLean (Liberal, Prince) stated that Hon. J. B. M. Baxter, speaking on the address, had intimated that some of the electors of Prince would have been as well satisfied if the prime minister had been defeated in North York. This he denied. If there was one constituency in which Mr. King was well regarded it was that of Prince, and his election in York had been hailed with delight.

Mr. MacLean referred to the difficulties under which the farmers of the Maritime Provinces were laboring. The natural market for the Maritime Provinces was the New England States. Prince Edward Island had a large potato trade, but the emergency tariff of the United States forced the farmers to pay a 25 per cent duty on every bushel before shipment across the line. The farmers of Prince Edward Island raised lambs in large numbers, and could get a better price in the American market, even after paying $1 a head duty. If there was ever a section of Canada which would have profited by reciprocity it was the Maritime Province, he said. It was all very well to say that trade in Canada should be encouraged to flow east and west, but the natural direction in the Maritime Provinces was north and south. The home market was of little value.

Other eastern members who united in a demand that the headquarters of the Intercolonial Railway must be transferred from Toronto to Moncton were absolutely correct.

Worst End of Deal.

Since the headquarters were removed from Moncton the Maritime Provinces had received the worst end of the deal.

C. H. Dickie (Conservative, Nanaimo) said he was formerly opposed to women's suffrage, but when he saw the vote given to men opposing Canada's war effort he changed his mind. Women were much more entitled to the vote than agitators. He hoped the government would be able to absorb the Pacific and Great Eastern Railway into the national system, as requested by Premier Oliver recently. He was not in favor of government ownership in general, however, because it never secured the loyalty and one hundred other different things which came from employees of a privately-owned system. He hoped that "if a magnificent corporation came along the government would let the railway system go" because so long as the right men were in Parliament the companies could be made to obey the will of the people.

If the whole of farm machinery were placed on the free list it would make very little difference to the prosperity of Canadian farmers. The Fordney tariff was forced on the United States by a body of farmers such as the Progressives.

Mr. Dickie was very sorry to hear the member for Comox-Alberni (A. W. Neill) suggest the removal of the mounted police from British Columbia. If it had not been for the mounted police there might have been trouble between the whites and Japs in British Columbia during the war.

J. A. Denis (Liberal, St. Denis, Montreal) declared that something should be done at the present session for the unemployed. If the government proposed to encourage any immigration to Canada it should see that the immigrants were agriculturists.

On the tariff he declared that the Laurier-Fielding policy had given general satisfaction in the past.

Money and Skill Fail To Save Armour's Heir.

CHICAGO, March 23.—Gwendolyn Armour, six-year-old daughter of Philip D. Armour, died early today at the family mansion on Lake Shore Drive.

Ten doctors and a corps of nurses fought all night to save the life of the heir to the Armour millions. All traffic was diverted in front of the home.

Gwendolyn died of peritonitis after an illness of several days. Her father is the grandson of the founder of Armour & Co.

KILLS WIFE AND SELF AT STAYNER

NO ONE HEARD SHOOTING

Had Recently Sold Business, and Is Presumed To Have Been Worrying About It.

COLLINGWOOD, March 23.—The town of Stayner, nine miles south of Collingwood, was the scene of a terrible double tragedy last night, when Thomas Watson, aged 40 years, shot and killed his wife, aged 35, and afterward killed himself.

The shooting occurred in their home on the main street, to which they had moved but yesterday, and it is thought to have taken place between 11 and 12 o'clock last night. No one heard the shooting, the four children of the dead man and woman being asleep, and it was not until this morning that the tragedy was discovered by the eldest of the family, a 12-year-old boy. Upon rising he was horrified to find his mother lying dead on her bed, with the side of her face shot away. The father's body was found in the bathroom, with a double-barrelled shotgun, which evidently had been used, lying on the floor beside the body.

Watson was a druggist and had been in business for a number of years. He recently disposed of his drug store, and it is said that he had been worrying over the matter. Mrs. Watson was a daughter of S. J. Clark, former Grand Trunk station agent at Stayner.
