The copy filmed here has been reproduced thanks to the generosity of:

Canadiana department
North York Central Library

The images appearing here are the best quality possible considering the condition and legibility of the original copy and in keeping with the filming contract specifications.

Original copies in printed paper covers are filmed beginning with the front cover and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression, or the back cover when appropriate. All other original copies are filmed beginning on the first page with a printed or illustrated impression, and ending on the last page with a printed or illustrated impression.

The last recorded frame on each microfiche sheet contains the symbol \rightarrow (meaning "CONTINUED"), or the symbol ∇ (meaning "END"), whichever applies.

Maps, plates, charts, etc., may be filmed at different reduction ratios. Those too large to be entirely included in one exposure are filmed beginning in the upper left hand corner, left to right and top to bottom, as many frames as required. The following diagrams illustrate the method:

L'exemplaire filmé fut reproduit grâce à la générosité de:

Canadiana department
North York Central Library

Les images suivantes ont été reproduites avec le plus grand soin, compte tenu de la condition et de la netteté de l'exemplaire filmé, et en conformité avec les conditions du contrat de filmage.

Les exemplaires originaux dont la couverture en papier est imprimée sont filmés en commençant par le premier plat et en terminant soit par la dernière page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration, soit par le second plat, selon le cas. Tous les autres exemplaires originaux sont filmés en commençant par la première page qui comporte une empreinte d'impression ou d'illustration et en terminant par la dernière page qui comporte une telle empreinte.

Un des symboles suivants apparaîtra sur la dernière image de chaque microfiche, selon le cas: le symbole \rightarrow signifie "A SUIVRE", le symbole ∇ signifie "FIN".

Les cartes, planches, tableaux, etc., peuvent être filmés à des taux de réduction différents. Lorsque le document est trop grand pour être reproduit en un seul cliché, il est filmé à partir de l'angle supérieur gauche, de gauche à droite, et de haut en bas, en prenant le nombre d'images nécessaire. Les diagrammes suivants illustrent la méthode.

The Blood Lilies

By W. A. FRASER

Author of "Mooswa and Others of the Boundaries," "Thoroughbreds," etc.

THE greatest thing in the world is love; and the grandest love of earth is mother-love. It is the link that is broken last when a man cuts himself off from humanity and God.

Read in "Blood Lilies" of the Cree Indian woman's love for her son, Waskisis, of the dreaded disaster, and learn how this love makes beautiful the homeliest face.

A story that is dramatic and pathetic to a remarkable degree, and that paints a vivid picture of the life of the Western country.

With illustrations by Frank E. Schoonover.

Two Little Savages

By ERNEST THOMPSON SETON

Author of "Wild Animals Known," "Bird Portraits"

THIS is Mr. Seton's latest and best book for boys, telling in story form just how to camp out, how to build dams, how to know the animals and birds, how to make and shoot bows and arrows—and all the other facts of "woodcraft" which the author has learned in his lifetime of outdoor work and study. It is an interesting and permanent work. The details of the book have been designed by Mrs. Seton, and it is altogether original and practical. Over 300 illustrations by the author. Cloth, $2.00

VOL. I. NOW READY

Types of Canadian Women and of Women who are or have been Connected with Canada

By HENRY JAMES MORGAN, LL.D.

Author of "Canadian Men and Women of the Time," etc.

"A work unprecedented in conception and in execution, marked by characteristic and conscientious care. The first thing that strikes one in reading it is a conviction of the vast labor of research and correspondence which such a work demanded. . . . The arrangement, with the admirable indexes, makes consultation a pleasure as well as a profit."—Montreal Gazette.

"In the half century that Dr. Morgan has devoted to the preparation of works of reference on Canadian men and affairs, he has acquired a knowledge of the family history of the country such as no other man possesses, and that knowledge is reflected in the matter of material that is presented in this handsome volume, the first of a series which is certain to be much appreciated by the people."—Ottawa Free Press.

"The latest fruit of Dr. Morgan's indefatigable industry is a handsome volume entitled 'Types of Canadian Women.' As the author says, the work represents four years of almost uninterrupted labor. . . . In turning over the super-calendered leaves of the book one is struck with the thought that Dr. Morgan and his public owe much to the craftsman who perfected the system of photogravure. The portraits are, almost without exception, capitally executed."—Toronto News.

A splendid volume of 382 pages, 7½ by 11 inches in size, with 354 superb half-tone portraits, accompanied by admirably condensed biographical sketches, printed on heavy plate paper, and most attractively bound.

Cloth, gilt top, $5.00. Full morocco, gilt edges, $7.50

The Two Vanrevels

By BOOTH TARKINGTON

A STIRRING and wholesome love story of Indiana, laid in the time of the Mexican war. Mr. Tarkington knows how to enlist our sympathies, not only in his heroes and heroines, but even in his scamps, whom it is his kindly wish that we should rather laugh at than abhor.

The Manitoba Free Press, in an extended review of the book, says: "We know of no current book to be preferred to 'The Two Vanrevels.'"

Public Men and Public Life in Canada

By HON. JAMES YOUNG

"Mr. Young's book has the merit of presenting the picturesque and anecdotal side of history without losing sight of the stream of tendency by which a small and obscure province grew into a nation."—The Globe.

"If one were limited to an exceedingly brief review of the volume, I should say its most salient points are its tolerance, conciseness and clear portrayal of events."—Mail and Empire.

"Mr. Young's narrative will always be prized by students for its moderation, fairness and the authority imparted by personal testimony."—Canadian Magazine.

"Mr. Young has produced a book that will be read when much of the so-called literature of a stormy period has been forgotten, and its success lies . . . in the singularly picturesque, discriminating, life-like portraits which he gives of the large political figures of his generation."—Montreal Herald.

"Mr. Young's narrative is rich in personal reminiscences. He has described with accuracy and brilliancy the events which led up to the Union."—Quebec Mercury.

"What Justin McCarthy has done for modern England, the Hon. James Young has accomplished for that important period of Canadian history from 1853 to 1867. . . . No volume gives such a luminous glimpse into the inner life of that period; and no historian has hitherto traced so clearly and so interestingly the course of the struggle for constitutional government, or given such a compact story of Confederation."—The Canadian Teacher.

The Red-Keggers

By EUGENE THWING

"It is a substantial story, full of action, local color and love, and teeming with episodes characteristic of the lumber industry—an epic of the ax—the sort of book one welcomes heartily for its strenuous out-door atmosphere."—Brooklyn Daily Eagle.

"The story is as full of nature as the forests themselves."—Nashville American.

"The Red-Keggers' is a book worth reading. It has all the interest of the novel of the day, but it possesses a greater moral worth than all but a very few."—Baltimore Sun.

"Powerful and dramatic, 'The Red-Keggers' keeps the interest at an acute pitch with no wavering until the last word is read."—Providence Telegram.

"The book is like Ralph Connor at his best—strong, virile, wholesome. Eugene Thwing has a vivid style, direct and powerful. He has humor, too."—Pittsburg Gazette.

THE TWO GREAT BOOKS
OF ALICE HEGAN RICE

Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch

"MRS. WIGGS of the Cabbage Patch" is one of the most delightful, as well as one of the most successful, books ever issued in America. It is the story of a brave Christian woman who, under the most discouraging circumstances, still keeps a smiling face toward a confident to-morrow." It is called a "sure cure for the blues." It is a book that cheers one up—full of common sense and healthy philosophy,—a book that one reads and then buys half a dozen copies of to send to one's friends, thus carrying out the idea suggested by Mrs. Wiggs herself when passing around the cake, "Somehow I never feel like good things b'long to me till I pass 'em on to somebody else."

6mo., 155 pages.

Cloth, 75 cents

Lovey Mary

"LOVEY MARY," the latest book by Alice Hegan Rice, is a worthy successor to "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch." Lovey Mary is a poor little waif who runs away from an institution with a baby boy, and finds a refuge in the "Cabbage Patch," one of the poor quarters of her city, where dwell Mrs. Wiggs and the characters of the author's first book. Humor, pathos, and a sound philosophy pervade the story, from its first chapter to the end, when Lovey Mary leaves her friends for a journey to Niagara Falls, and Mrs. Wiggs rushes up to her breathlessly with an empty bottle: "Fill it full of Niagry water,—I want to see how them Falls look!"

Illustrated in black and white. 6mo., 197 pages.

Cloth, $1.00

Some Sayings of Mrs. Wiggs

"I've made it a practice to put all my worries down in the bottom of my heart, then set on the lid an' smile."

"You never kin tell which way any pleasure is a-comin'. Who ever would 'a' thought, when we aimed at the cemetery, that we'd land up at a first-class fire?"

Newest Publications

"If you git knocked out of one plan, you want to git yerself another right quick, before yer sperrits has a chance to fall."

"The way to git cheerful is to smile when you feel bad, to think about somebody else's headache when yer own is 'most bustin', to keep on believin' the sun is a-shinin' when the clouds is thick enough to cut."

Presentation Edition, with water color drawings, by Florence Scovel Shinn, reproduced in their original colors, also with sketches in black and white—twenty-four illustrations in each book; twelve in color, twelve in black and white. Square, 12mo. Uniform in size and binding. Cloth, the two in a box, $4.00. Sold singly at $2.00 each.

Emmy Lou

Her Book and Heart

By GEORGE MADDEN MARTIN

"It is the simple story of 'Emmy Lou's' school days. Any one who has been near enough to a little girl to be friends with her during her climb from grade to grade will appreciate how true the tale rings."

"Not since 'The Golden Age' has any book about children shown the charm, the grace, the insight, the humor of Mrs. Martin's 'Emmy Lou.' . . . We believe that 'Emmy Lou' will be a great success, and that she will have as many admirers as she deserves—we could not say more."—New York Evening Sun.

The Story of the Trapper

By A. C. LAUT

Author of "Lords of the North,"
"Heralds of Empire," etc.

THE trappers and fur traders of Canada were pioneers of progress in the Western Hemisphere. Miss Lant, who has followed the pathways of the Hudson's Bay Company, and has become familiar by study and by experience with the life of the North, has also traced the career of the trapper, giving a graphic view of this little-known phase of our early history, while the adventurous flavor of this outdoor tale gives it all the zest of a romance.

"This is easily the best of Miss Lant's books. It takes rank alongside White's 'Selborne' for closeness of observation, and alongside of 'The Jungle Book' for interest of incident. This is high praise, but not more high than is merited by 'The Story of the Trapper.'"—Manitoba Free Press.

The White Chief of the Ottawa

By BERTHA WRIGHT CARR-HARRIS

WITH SEVEN FULL-PAGE ILLUSTRATIONS
FROM PAINTINGS BY MR. JOHN INNES.

IN this interesting volume Mrs. Carr-Harris has given the story of the settlement of Bytown (now Ottawa). The White Chief of the narrative is the pioneer "Lumber King," Philemon Wright, whom Morgan describes as "the father of civilization in the Ottawa Valley." The adventurous life of the settlement is depicted in many graphic scenes; indeed, as a picture of pioneer life the book could hardly be excelled. Among the well-known figures of that period here introduced are Sir John Franklin, David Thompson and Simon Fraser, the explorers; Joseph Papineau and his distinguished son, Hon. Louis Joseph Papineau; Colonel By, after whom the young town was named; Thomas Mackay, the builder of Rideau Hall; John McTaggart, the historian of the period, and others whose names are associated with the foundation of the City of Ottawa.

With Brief Biographical Notes

SELECTED AND EDITED

By THEODORE H. RAND, D.C.L.

Author of "At Minas Basin, and other Poems," "Song-Waves," etc.

"Mr. Rand's collection is one that will delight the lover of poetry, whatever his nationality. . . . The work may safely be said to contain the creme de la creme of Canadian verse."—Literary World (London).

"Into this book Dr. Rand has gathered the very flower of Canadian poetry."—Toronto News.

"This book might be called a grove of songsters who have caught their inspiration from the joy and the light and the life of Canada. . . . Subjects of the most varied kind have here a place, and we see proof that waves from many shores have broken upon the people of Canada."—McMaster University Monthly.

The Banner of Blue

By S. R. CROCKETT

Author of "The Baiders," "The Stickt Muister," etc.

IN "The Banner of Blue" Mr. Crockett offers a new version of that most wonderful of parables, "The Prodigal Son." Against the sombre background of the Disruption Period in Scotland he draws with a master hand two brilliantly colored love stories, the one intense to its tragic end, the other delightful in its quaint Scotch humor. The character-drawing possesses in particular the quality of nearness and reality, and he who reads must suffer with the proud Lord of Gower in the downfall of his idolized son, laugh with Veronica Caesar in her philosophical bearing of domestic burdens and tyranny, and share with John Glendonwyn his love for the will-o'-the-wisp sweetheart, Fairlie Glendinning. That part of the story dealing with the separation of Church and State calls forth not only the strongest but the most picturesque traits of the Scottish people.

In the Days of the Red River Rebellion

Life and Adventures among the Indians of the Canadian West, 1868-1872

By JOHN McDUGALL

Author of "Saddle, Sled and Snowshoe,"
"Pathfinding on Plain and Prairie,"
"Forest, Lake and Prairie," etc.

"This is Dr. McDougall's fourth volume descriptive of his early life and experience in the West. It is the equal in interest, instruction and picture-spokenness of anything that he has written. Few men know better how to tell a graphic story. His picture of the stirring life of the missionary in the West thirty and forty years ago is very realistic and thrilling, while his description of wild life, of nature, and of the Indian, and his history of an important epoch in Canadian history, are all accurate and well done. The series is the best of the kind that we possess, and we predict for the new volume a great popularity. There are several good illustrations and portraits, and the book has an appropriate cover design."—Christian Guardian.

Life in Canada

By THOMAS CONANT

Author of "Upper Canada Sketches."

"The early days of the settlement of that flourishing agricultural province provide an inexhaustible fund of interesting facts and details, and Mr. Conant has seized upon these with no lax grip, and now presents them with a frankness that will open the eyes of some of his readers."—Vancouver News-Advertiser.

"An insight into the pioneer life in Upper Canada and the Family Compact are prominent features of the book. It is a valuable contribution to our literature."—London Advertiser.

"Mr. Conant is evidently a man of independent mind. He thinks for himself. One might expect his reminiscences of the U. E. Loyalists to be tinged with sharp feeling about the United States; on the contrary, he has only the kindest things to say. . . . In a chatty, pleasant way the author strolls around the Ontario countryside, noticing conditions of nature, and of the existence of farmer, bird and beast. He has an affectionate pen for our Canadian life, and the noble soil and climate of Ontario."—Ottawa Evening Journal.

In Many Keys

A Book of Verse

By JOHN WILSON BENGOUGH

"'In Many Keys' is a volume of verse from the pen of the well-known J. W. Bengough. Illustrated in the author's own inimitable style, filled with the tuneful jingle of merry verse, containing poems on all varieties of subjects, 'In Many Keys' can scarcely fail to become a prime favorite. Bengough has the rare faculty of touching alike the fountains of laughter and of tears. You never pause to ask which power you admire most, but just read on to smile and to sigh, as the humor of our author dictates. Bengough will long live in the hearts of Canada's people. The Story of My Life

By HELEN KELLER

SOME little time ago the Liverpool Post called the attention of its readers to a book entitled "The Story of My Life," by Helen Keller, and in the course of the review made the following statement:—"If this work is really by Miss Keller, and if what she states is true, it is one of the most wonderful books in the world." The writer of this extraordinary autobiography—which is assuredly absolutely true to fact, and the work of Miss Keller herself—is a young lady who, although totally blind and deaf, has learned to communicate with friends, to read, to "see" statues by feeling, to write on the typewriter, to speak French and German as well as English—in a word, to break down the terrible barrier between herself and the outside world. The story of Miss Keller's profoundly interesting life is indeed "wonderful," and perhaps the most remarkable record of the triumph of human endeavor over physical affliction that has ever been written.

The Papers of Pastor Felix

By ARTHUR JOHN LOCKHART

Author of "The Masque of Minstrels,"
"Beside the Narraguagus," etc.

"This is a charming book. It touches with infinite tenderness the chords of the soul, and cannot fail to evoke the sweetest music."
—Christian Guardian.

"In an idle moment we have slipped into his essays, which have a touch of John Burroughs in their studies of nature, and some of the pathos of Nathaniel Hawthorne. . . . We have read on and on, and still would read the easy-flowing sentences, the fine descriptions of nature in her wildness and human nature with its foibles and fancies, and then in a whisper we cannot help saying, as a tear glistens in the eye, 'That is a splendid book.'" —Halifax Westman.

"The writer has not only a choice appropriateness in quotation, but an alluring style—poetic and dreamy, not hasty in movement, but lovingly pausing to elaborate beauties; perhaps, indeed, occasionally using too many strokes of the brush, but giving us low-toned, delicately lined pictures, and having the true poet's power of touching our emotions." —Miss Sara Mickle.

William Briggs'

Our Own and Other Worlds

By JOSEPH HAMILTON

Author of "The Starry Hosts."

A PRIZE BOOK OF THE SCIENCE AND ART EDUCATION
COUNCIL OF LONDON, ENGLAND. WITH INTRODUCTION
BY REV. W. H. WITHROW, D.D.

"This book is exceedingly well written and instructive. Mr. Hamilton has thoroughly mastered and digested the literature on astronomy, and interprets its technical information into the language of common life. He gives the results of the latest thought and discovery on this subject. . . . The argument in favor of other worlds being inhabited is exceedingly strong and cumulative, and has won the commendation of eminent astronomers. . . . The book is highly educative in its character, as well as fascinating in its interest."

Hephaestus and Other Poems

By ARTHUR STRINGER

The London Times remarks upon Mr. Stringer's book as showing more original thought than any of the recent volumes of verse it has reviewed, with the one possible exception of Mr. Zangwill's.

Dr. Beattie Crozier, author of "History of Intellectual Development," declares: "In my judgment the poems are perfect of their kind, and if an English Stephen Phillips can make a great reputation through his, there is no reason why a Canadian Arthur Stringer should not do the same, for in no respect do we find his work inferior."

Another English critic remarks: "Mr. Stringer's blank verse is the best that has come out of money-mad America in many a day. Canada may well call him the 'Keats of the Dominion.'"

Summer Songs in Idleness

Poems by KATHERINE H. McDONALD JACKSON

"'Summer Songs in Idleness' is sure to attract more than usual attention on account of its graceful sentiment and charming form. The scent of flowers, the songs of birds, the rippling of waters and the spirit of the beautiful Canadian summer pervade the book and reveal the author as a close observer and a true lover of Nature. The opening poem is 'A June Idyll,' in nineteen cantos, and a delicate bit of imagery it is, replete with true poetic intuition. Then follow many shorter poems, and it is probable that the shorter poems will become more generally popular. The last section of the book is devoted to 'Sleepy Time Songs,' a delightful collection of children's songs. Rudyard Kipling says that 'Only a woman thoroughly understands children,' and Mrs. Jackson has certainly gained admittance into that fairyland so seldom penetrated by grown-ups. Her eyes have been opened by the magic of childhood or she could never have penned these charming glimpses into the enchanted realms."—Brockville Times.

Tecumseh

A Drama, and Canadian Poems

By CHARLES MAIR

"The dramatic conception itself is enough to give the work a permanent place in our native literature; but the exquisite poetry in which the larger portion of the lines are set will win for it a wider sphere of usefulness and commendation."—Ottawa Free Press.

"The action of the play is marked by dignity and effectiveness. . . . Mr. Mair is at home with Nature in all her varying moods. His graphic descriptions of woodland scenery are exquisite in their chasteness and beauty. The whole drama abounds in passages of sustained beauty and strength."—Toronto World.

"The characters of Brock, Tecumseh and the Prophet are carefully portrayed. . . . The language is elegant and expressive, the style lucid, and many passages display the genius of a poet and the fervor of a patriot."—Halifax Herald.

With an autograph portrait of Mr. Mair and excellent portraits of Tecumseh and Sir Isaac Brock.

Poems of the New Century

By ROBERT S. JENKINS, M.A.

Professor of Modern Languages,
Trinity University, Toronto.

A VOLUME of verse of quite exceptional quality. Professor Jenkins has felt the force of the tendency in literature to-day to turn from the contemplation of nature to the study of humanity, and this is strongly reflected in his work.

The Poetical Works of Alexander McLachlan

SELECTED AND EDITED, WITH AN INTRODUCTORY
ESSAY BY REV. E. H. DEWART, D.D.; BIOGRAPHICAL
SKETCH BY ALEX. HAMILTON, M.A., M.D., NOTES, GLOSSARY, AND INDEX TO FIRST LINES.

"It is but sober truth that some of his pieces are not greatly inferior for wit, humor, sparkling imagery and original thought, to the best pieces of Burns, while the moral tone of his productions is far superior to much that came from the pen of the Ayrshire Bard. In fact, McLachlan bids fair to be the poetical Burns of his day. . . . It will, we think, admit of no question that McLachlan is by far our best and sweetest singer. The address to Garibaldi is, all national predilections apart, equal to 'Scots wha hae wi' Wallace bled,' and we cannot help thinking that were this soul-stirring lyric turned into good Italian, and sung through the streets of Rome and Venice, it would be no feeble auxiliary to the cause of liberty in Italy."—The late Prof. George, Vice-Principal Queen's University, Kingston.

The Gospel of the Home

By REV. D. C. HOSSACK, M.A., LL.B.

"A beautiful volume. In its printing and binding the work compares favorably with the best products of the American publishers. But the supreme charm and value of the book will be known only by those who read it, and read it carefully. Every page is packed with suggestive thought beautifully expressed. The six chapters deal with The Home, The Father, The Mother, The Son, The Daughter, and The Teacher, and the true place of each in the family circle is clearly and strongly presented. One could wish that a copy of Mr. Hossack's book was found in every home in our land."—The Canadian Baptist.
