General Leman Writes Letter to His King

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 11, 9.30 a.m.—General Leman, the Belgian commander, who gained fame for himself by his defence of the Liege forts when he was made a prisoner, sent the following letter to King Albert of Belgium, according to an Amsterdam despatch to the Central News: "After the honorable engagement of the 15 and 16, I considered that the Liege forts could only play the role of forts of arrete (probably arrest or stoppage). I nevertheless maintained the military government in order to co-ordinate the defence as much as possible and exercise a moral influence on the garrison. "Your Majesty is not ignorant that I was at Fort Loncin on August 6, at noon. You will learn with grief that the fort was blown up yesterday at 5.30 in the afternoon, the greater part of the garrison being buried under the ruins. That I did not lose my life in that catastrophe is due to my escort who drew me from the stronghold whilst I was being suffocated by gas from exploding powder. "I was conveyed to a trench, where I felt a German gave me a drink and was made a prisoner and taken to Liege. "I am certain that I have shown carelessness in this letter, but I am physically shattered by the explosion of Fort Loncin. "In honor of our arms I did not surrender the fortress. I desire to ask your pardon, sire. In Germany where I am proceeding my thoughts will be, as they have always been, of Belgium and the King. I would willingly have given my life the better to serve them, but death was not granted to me!" (Signed) Lieut.-General Leman.

PURE BLOOD MEANS HEALTH

Pure Blood Can Best Be Obtained Through Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.

If people would realize the importance of keeping the blood rich and pure there would be less sickness. Blood is the means through which the nourishment gained from food reaches the different parts of the body. If the blood is impure the nourishment that reaches the nerves, bone and muscle is tainted with poison and disease follows. The blood is also the medium by which the body fights off disease. If the blood is thin and watery this power of resistance to disease is weakened. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills build up the blood. They increase the ability of the body to resist disease. They strengthen the nerves, increase the appetite, cure headache, backache, and any disease caused by thin or impure blood.

If you are suffering from rheumatism, or if you are suffering from indigestion, or if you are suffering from any of the ailments mentioned above, it is a large probability that your condition is caused by the condition of your blood. You should study your own case. If you lack ambition, are short of breath after slight exercise, are pale or sallow, have no appetite, are not refreshed by sleep, if you have backache or headache, or if you are suffering from any of the ailments mentioned above, it is a large probability that your condition is caused by the condition of your blood. You should study your own case. W. F. COCKSHUTT BACK FROM TENTED CITY

Brantford Member Slept in Camp With Soldiers-- Remarkable Place is Valcartier Just Now.

Imagine a vast city of tents, situated in a picturesque valley, surrounded on all sides by finely wooded and rugged hills stretching away far into the distance, and you have some little idea of the sight which greeted Mr. W. F. Cockshutt when he looked down upon the great military camp of volunteers at Valcartier on Monday last. Row after row of tents, lined up for miles in the valley, subdivided into divisions, and each division housing hundreds of Canada's best, was the first impression of the largest gathering under canvas which has taken place in this Dominion in modern times. Mr. Cockshutt did not see things from an outer standpoint all the time. He got in among the soldiers, he dined with them and slept upon their camp beds—he was for the time one of them—and to-day he is back and reports that the men are feeling fit, happy and well satisfied, but anxious, and having, apart from their drills, a good time. There are 33,000 men at Valcartier, and Mr. Cockshutt was lucky to find his son, Lieut. Ashton Cockshutt of the 10th Battalion, among the many, for the Hon. W. S. Fielding was 36 hours in camp and could not find his son. Lieut. Cockshutt was in the best of condition and ready for any work. Together father and son slept upon the little camp beds in use, and Mr. Cockshutt had some experience of camp life as it is to the volunteer. Among the Brantford contingent Mr. Cockshutt met Colonel Howard, who is second in command of the 6th Battalion, and he was, as usual, the one who gives a splendid account of the local boys in action. They have behaved well. A pleasant little function eventuated when the men from Brantford were assembled in the Colonel's tent. Mr. Cockshutt took advantage of the occasion to present Lieutenants Percy Jones with an engraved signet ring, a little tribute from the officials and members of the Brantford Golf Club. The pleased recipient made a happy and brief reply, expressing his debt and sincere gratitude. Colonel Howard spoke of his high appreciation of Mr. Jones' ability and of his showing at the camp. He was a credit to the city of Brantford.

Among the officers whom the visitor met were Hilton Wilkes, Harry Watson, Dick Thompson and Captain Colquhoun. Fred Miller and other officers' quarters were visited and many hearty handshakes were given. Perhaps the most regrettable feature of the camp was the wet weather. It caused mud to a depth of nearly 18 inches. It soaked everything and caused much discomfort, but the men remained cheerful. They made the best of a bad job. Mr. Cockshutt had the pleasure of seeing the men in action on more than one occasion, and he recalls Jim Mounce and Billy Dawson in the woods clearing a space for the tethering of the horses. At noon they started to fell the trees, and soon the whole space was cleared and everything in readiness. Jim showed himself to be an expert backwoodsman. There was a great variety of work to be done, as was only to be expected when a colony of men suddenly takes up habitation. Five thousand men were digging ditches and draining the land, while hundreds were employed upon smaller jobs, for the situation of the camp was a veritable forest before the authorities took over the land and decided upon it as the headquarters of the Canadian contingent. There were one or two farm houses around, but these have been taken over by the Government. The progress made has been wonderful and the activity seems to be never-ceasing. An old Brantfordite, Lieut.-Colonel Charles M. Nelles, is at the head of the 2nd Cavalry Brigade, and he has two sons at the front. Mr. Cockshutt was impressed with the admirable advantages of Valcartier as a camping ground, and he keenly appreciated the work of selection. There are about 60,000 to 100,000 acres under government control, and it is now almost like a well-established town. Modern roadways have been cut, electric lamps strung up, and everything done for the benefit and convenience of the soldiers. The population is greater than that of Brantford. The food supply is enormous, and the traffic is somewhat congested. There is a little out-of-the-way station, the place has become the centre of a great city, and it can be seen that the little station is at a great disadvantage. Nevertheless, the congestion is as bad as might have been the case, and a large staff of assistants help to expedite matters. The reveille of the morning and the various duties of the day strike a stranger in a peculiar manner, and form quite a novelty, which is distinctly quaint. The meals of the officers and men are but little different, the service being the only distinction. The visitor found all well satisfied with the food, and he heard no complaint on that score. There were complaints, however, the 25th Dragoons complained bitterly that they had not been allowed to bring their whole equipment and were without water bottles. The men were drinking out of one canteen. Health in the camp is excellent, but two men have died since its formation, and one of these was a suicide and the other a case of heart failure. Valcartier as a camp, concludes Mr. Cockshutt, is a magnificent success. On the return journey Mr. Cockshutt came via Ottawa, where he transferred some of his business in connection with his visit.

Mrs. Alfred Hunt, Bedford street, who was in England on a visit with relatives at the time war broke out, has returned home. She arrived on the Royal Edward. Mr. and Mrs. Roy Walker, 11 Bedford street, who were recently injured in a motor accident at Pontiac, Mich., where they were visiting friends, have returned home. The Golf Tea hostesses of the Brantford Golf and Country Club, for to-morrow, is as follows: Mrs. G. Kippax, Mrs. P. James, Mrs. A. D. Hardy, Mrs. Chester Harris, Mrs. J. H. Oldham, Mrs. Geo. Heyde, The Misses Kippax, Hardy and Hartley.

The monthly business meeting of the Philatelia class of the Riverdale South End was held on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. H. H. Kitchen, Edwin street. After business a pleasant social time was spent, a limousine china shower was tendered to Miss Minnie Smith. Mrs. Ritchie, the teacher, made the presentation, and the recipient replied in a few well chosen words. After the refreshments and a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Kitchen for her hospitality, a very pleasant gathering dispersed.

F. Cockshutt when he looked down upon the great military camp of volunteers at Valcartier on Monday last. Row after row of tents, lined up for miles in the valley, subdivided into divisions, and each division housing hundreds of Canada's best, was the first impression of the largest gathering under canvas which has taken place in this Dominion in modern times.

Mr. Cockshutt did not see things from an outer standpoint all the time. He got in among the soldiers, he dined with them and slept upon their camp beds—he was for the time one of them—and to-day he is back and reports that the men are feeling fit, happy and well satisfied, but anxious, and having apart from their drills, a good time.

There are 33,000 men at Valcartier, and Mr. Cockshutt was lucky to find his son, Lieut. Ashton Cockshutt of the 10th Battalion, among the many, for the Hon. W. S. Fielding was 36 hours in camp and could not find his son. Lieut. Cockshutt was in the best of condition and ready for any work. Together father and son slept upon the little camp beds in use, and Mr. Cockshutt had some experience of camp life as it is to the volunteer.

Among the Brantford contingent Mr. Cockshutt met Colonel Howard, who is second in command of the 6th Battalion, and he was, as were all the boys, in the best of spirits. The Colonel gives a splendid account of the local boys in action. They have behaved well.

A pleasant little function, eventuated when the men from Brantford were assembled in the Colonel's tent. Mr. Cockshutt took advantage of the occasion to present Lieut. Miller and Percy Jones with an engraved signet ring, a little tribute from the officials and members of the Brantford Golf Club. The pleased recipient made a happy and brief reply, expressing his deep and sincere gratitude. Colonel Howard spoke of his high appreciation of Mr. Jones' ability and of his showing at the camp. He was a credit to the city of Brantford.

Among the officers whom the visitor met were Hilton Wilkes, Harry Watson, Dick Thompson and Captain Colquhoun. Fred Miller and Percy Jones's quarters were visited and many hearty handshakes were given.

Perhaps the most regrettable feature of the camp was the wet weather. A pleasant little mud to form to the depth of nearly 18 inches. It soaked everything and caused much discomfort, but the men remained cheerful. They made the best of their situation. Mr. Cockshutt had the pleasure of seeing the men in action on more than one occasion, and he recalls Jim Mounce and Billy Dawson in the woods clearing a space for the tethering of the horses. At noon they started to fell the trees, and soon the whole space was cleared and everything in order. Jim showed himself to be an expert backwoodsman. There was a great variety of work to be done, as was only to be expected where a colony of men usually takes up habitation. Five thousand men were digging ditches and draining the land, while hundreds were employed upon smaller jobs, for the situation of the camp was a veritable forest before the authorities took over the land and decided upon it as the headquarters of the Canadian contingent. There were one or two farm houses around but these have been taken over by the Government. The progress made has been wonderful and the activity seems to be never-ceasing.

An old Brantfordite, Lieut. Colonel Charles M. Nelles, is at the head of the 2nd Cavalry Brigade, and he has two sons at the front.

Mr. Cockshutt was impressed with the admirable advantages of Valcartier as a camping ground, and he keenly appreciated the work of selection and government control, and it is now almost like a well-established town. Modern roadways have been cut, electric lamps strung up, and everything done for the benefit and convenience of the soldiers. The population is greater than that of Brantford. The food supply is enormous, and the traffic is somewhat congested. Front of the camp is the railway station, the place has become the centre of a great city, and it can be seen that the little station is at a great disadvantage. Nevertheless, the congestion is not as bad as might have been the case, and a large staff of assistants help to expedite matters.

The reveille of the morning and the various bugles of the day strike a stranger in a peculiar manner, and form quite a novelty, which is distinctly quaint.

The meals of the officers and men are a case done near the benefit and convenience of the soldiers. The visitor found all well satisfied with the food, and he heard no complaint on that score. There were no complaints, however. The 25th Dragoons complained bitterly that they had not been allowed to bring their whole equipment and were without water bottles. Fifteen of them were drinking out of one cup.

Health in the camp is excellent, but two men have died since its formation, and one of these was a suicide and the other a case of heart failure.

Valcartier as a camp, concludes Mr. Cockshutt, is a magnificent success.

On the return journey Mr. Cockshutt came via Ottawa, where he attended some official business in connection with his visit.

Other leading staples, too, all underwent a severe net decline, corn 1/2c to 3/4c, oats 1/4c to 1/2c, and provisions 3/8c to 1 1/2c.

Weather conditions today were greatly improved, also rains were local near the numerous points in Manitoba and Alberta. At Portage in Prairie 2.30 was recorded. Receipts continue climbing. The number of cars inspected yesterday was 1180, and in sight were 1380. The cash demand was somewhat poor and much quieter than some days previously, and offerings were more plentiful than usual. Exporters were doing nothing; practically all bids are said to be about six cents out of line. At noon October wheat was $1.14 1/2, Dec. $1.15 and May $1.21 1/2. This showed a gain of 1/4c to 3/8c from the low points of the afternoon. The local market was 1/4c to 1/2c lower and oats 1 1/2c to 2 1/2c lower.

MONTREAL, Sept. 10.—The demand from foreign buyers for Manitoba spring wheat was better today and sales of a few loads were made for October-November shipments. The market was quiet for Canadian western oats as firm on account of small offerings, but an easier feeling has developed. Heavy market for new crop Ontario oats, and prices for such have declined 1/2c to 2c per bushel since the 1st of the month. The falling off in the demand for the same. There continues to be a steady demand for spring wheat for export account, and further sales of some round lots were made for October-November. The local trade continues fairly active. Demand for mill-feed is good. Butter is firm under a fair demand. Cheese is quiet and easier, prices in the country to date being 1/2c to 3/4c per pound lower than this day last week.

Treaties of Peace With the U.S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—In the midst of the European war, Great Britain, France, Spain and China have agreed to sign peace commission treaties with the United States. One effect of the new convention would be to prevent the United States from being drawn suddenly into the conflict. Germany, Russia and Japan have signified their acceptance of the principle of these treaties, though negotiations have not advanced to the point of drafting conventions. Similar agreements with Turkey and Greece are almost ready for signature.

THIS WILL HELP.

CHICAGO, Sept. 11.—A fund of $100,000 to aid widows and orphans of British soldiers killed in the present European war will be raised by the British Empire Association of Chicago. Several thousand dollars were subscribed at a meeting last night.

WASHINGTON.

First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen, he was second to none in the humble and endearing scenes of private life. Pious, just, humane, temperate and sincere, uniform, dignified and commanding, his example was as edifying to his equals as was comforting to his inferiors and to the objects of his affections exemplarily tender. Correct throughout, vice shuddered in his presence, and virtue always felt the fostering hand. The purity of his private character gave effulgence to his public virtues. His last scene comported with the whole tenor of his life. Although in extreme pain, not a sigh, not a groan, escaped him, and, with undisturbed serenity, he closed his well spent life. Such was the man America has lost. Such was the man for whom our nation mourns.—Henry Roy Lee's Funeral Oration on Washington.

FORGET THEE!

"Forget thee" if to dream by night and muse on thee by day.
If all the worship, deep and wild, a poet's heart can pay;
If prayers in absence breathed for thee to heaven's protecting power.
If winged thoughts that flit to thee a thousand in an hour;
If busy fancy blending thee with all my future lot—
If all this thou call'st "forgetting" thou indeed shalt be forgot!

Keep, if thou wilt, thy maiden peace, still calm and fancy free,
For God forbid thy gladsome heart should grow less glad for me,
Yet while that heart is still unwon, oh, bid not mine to rove,
But let it nurse its humble faith and uncomplaining love.
If these, preserved for patient years, at last avail me not,
Forget me, then, but never believe that thou canst be forgot!

—John Moultrie.

BEAUTY OF WORK.

The beauty of work depends upon the way we meet it, whether we arm ourselves each morning to attack it as an enemy that must be vanquished before night comes or whether we open our eyes with the sunrise to welcome it as an approaching friend who will keep us delightful company all day and who will make us feel at evening that the day was well worth its fatigue.—Lucy Larcom.

O LITTLE MOTHER OF MINE.

Sometimes in the hush of the evening hour,
When the shadows creep from the west,
I think of the twilight songs you sang
And the boy you lulled to rest;
The we little boy with the tousled head
That long ago was thine—
I wonder if sometimes you long
For that boy,
O little mother of mine!

And now he has come to man's estate,
Grown stalwart in body and strong,
And you'd hardly know that he Was the lad
Whom you lulled with your slumber song.
The years have altered the form and the life,
But his heart is unchanged by time,
And still he is only thy boy as of old,
O little mother of mine!
—Walter H. Brown.

TORPEDO BOAT GONE

ROME, via London, Sept. 11.—8.50 a.m.—According to The Tribune, an Austrian torpedo boat has been blown up near Fasana, 52 miles south of Trieste, in Istria, after striking a mine. A number of wounded Austrians, who have arrived in Trieste, state that during the battle of Lemberg all the officers of three battalions fled, leaving the battalions in the woods where they were annihilated. Only fifty men escaped.

Twenty-seven new citizen rifle companies have been organized.

THE SITUATION

The news from the front during the last few hours cannot be regarded as otherwise than gratifying. The German forces will not only fail to reach Paris, but they are now in full retreat from the point some thirty miles from there to which a portion of them had attained. It is all up with the Kaiser—there need be no mistake about that. At the same time, very much work of an arduous nature still remains ahead of the Allies. The enemy is a good fighter, well equipped, and he will struggle very hard on his own territory. Meanwhile his present lines of communication are threatened, and he has to fight along a constantly-narrowing front, which will prove a cumbersome and costly job for such masses of men.

Austria is so badly broken that it were very long she sued for peace. In such event, the Emperor's troops will have to meet the full brunt of the Russian legions, in addition to the terrible task they now have on hand against two powers alone. It can't be done to any extended length. Generally speaking, the position of affairs is good, and can hardly fail to spell the beginning of the end.

CANADIAN JAM FACTORIES BUSY

The embargo on the exportation of jam from the United Kingdom will increase the demand for Canadian-made jams. During the fiscal year ending March 31, 1914, over $500,000 worth of jams, jellies, and preserves were imported from the United Kingdom into Canada. The deficiency created by the shutting off of these imports under the embargo instituted by the British Government must be made up by the Canadian jam factories.

As a result of these conditions there is greatly increased activity in the jam factories throughout Canada. Dominion Canners Limited, is operating its jam factory at Hamilton at maximum capacity, night as well as day shifts being employed. E. D. Smith and Sons, Limited, has increased the staff in its jam factory at Winona, Ont., and will have a record output this season. In the plant of Lindners, Limited, at Toronto, for example, where, under ordinary conditions, about forty-five hands are employed it is expected that night as well as day shifts will be employed for the next six or seven months. These conditions are typical of those that obtain throughout the entire industry.

SERVIA—THE PEASANT NATION

Servia has gained a bellicose reputation, but the Serb is not naturally warlike, although he can fight well if necessary, as witness the present time. He is a man of primitive emotions and tastes, for whom town life seems to have little or no attraction. Servia indeed has been aptly described as the Peasant State of Europe. With the exception of Belgrade, there are few towns in the country worthy of the name. Practically the whole population dwells on the land, and husbandry and pig-rearing are the staple industries. A system of peasant proprietorship prevails, and the land and the frugality and industry of the people must be ascribed the fact that Servia has practically no poor. Every grown man can claim five acres from the government, and this land and its produce are exempt from all claims for debt. The poorest Servian in every district has always five acres to his credit.

The kingdom Servia, as we know it to-day, began in 1878, when the much harassed principality received its complete independence by the Treaty of Berlin. Many years before this, in the early years of the nineteenth century, the people rose against the Turks and elected George Petrovich, "Black George," as commander-in-chief of the forces and leader of the nation. The country was cleared of the Turks, and from 1804 to 1813 the Serbs governed themselves as an independent nation. The Turks conquered Servia, but in 1817 she became autonomous, under the Sultan. The Treaty of Adrianople in the year 1829 is an important landmark in Servia's history. Under that instrument she was granted full autonomy. Belgrade, from which it has been necessary to remove the government, owing to the present war, has lost much of its former semi-oriental appearance. Broad streets, modern buildings, handsome villas and gardens, electric trams, a national museum, and a library of about a hundred thousand volumes, and many good schools have made the town a well-appointed capital.

Only the multitude of small gardens, planted with limes, acacias, and lilacs, and the bright costume of the Servian and Hungarian peasants remain to distinguish it from a western capital" is the description of one writer.

THE WAR AND THE PRESS

Perhaps one of the most striking things about the war so far has been the veil of secrecy thrown over the operations of the campaign thanks to official censorship and the co-operation of the press. In no country has the silence been more significant or more useful than in Great Britain. The supreme usefulness of this national silence was so apparent in connection with the despatch of the Expeditionary Force to France that the recent efforts in some quarters to secure a relaxation of the regulations respecting the publication of news would cause surprise. At even this time, however, the circumstances of the case not taken into consideration.

The British public is more than most communities in the world, jealous of the least infringement upon the liberties of the press and has grown up to rely absolutely upon the press for its daily news. At such a time of stress and excitement as that now existing this reliance and the hunger for news is intensified many fold. The fact must be borne in mind, that the British Empire has been engaged in a great European war for such a great number of years that the public is unaccustomed to restrictions on the news supplied to it by the press. And the public has been accustomed to have its news hot after the event, the wonderful progress in means of communication—railways, telegraphs, telephones and wireless, having enabled newspapers to serve their public with such promptitude as would never have been dreamt of a century ago.

It has to be remembered that the facilities in the way of communication which under normal conditions serve the press so well are open to the eyes of the enemy when they wish to communicate with their superiors, and consequently the precautions to be taken to prevent news of advantage to the enemy reaching him will have to be much greater and more careful and more rapid in their effects. Undoubtedly the numerous small wars in which Great Britain has been engaged since the Crimean campaign are in some respects responsible for the impatience manifested in certain quarters over the strict censorship now being enforced in the mother country. While Great Britain was engaged in campaigns against Afghans, Ashantis, Mooris or Soudanese there was no object in closely censoring news, even that transmitted from the front by newspaper correspondents. The enemy had no facilities for getting any useful intelligence which might have been published in time to be of use, and if they had obtained it, its value from a military point of view would have been more or less limited.

The situation in the present war is very different from that which existed during any one of Britain's small wars of the past century. The enemy is one especially alive to the value of military intelligence, one that has reaped inestimable benefits from its possessions in the past campaigns; and that by the establishment and careful maintenance, regardless of expense of elaborate intelligence and spy systems in every corner of the world has equipped itself to promptly gather in every scrap of news calculated to be of direct military value. It is a well known and universally admitted military axiom that the success of a nation which appeals to arms depends to a great extent upon the concealment of its plans and their operations. On the other hand ample and accurate information about the enemy is the best guarantee for success and an absolute essential to security. Napoleon said that a general who was ignorant of the enemy's goings and intentions was ignorant of his profession.

Information is essential to the success of both strategy and tactics. The acquisition of accurate information is one of the most difficult tasks of the military staff, as well as of the commander in the field. The mood and bearing of the hostile population, the accumulation of armaments and supplies, as well as the numbers, the dispositions and the movements of the enemy are veiled in an obscurity which has been aptly named "the fog of war," an obscurity which the opposing headquarters staffs endeavor by every artifice to deepen. Newspapers are among the sources of information most carefully watched by the military intelligence authorities, the German cavalry, for instance, being specially instructed that spies, patrols and outposts are to keep their eyes open for copies or fragments of an enemy's newspaper found anywhere and forward them at once to the nearest intelligence officer.

There are many instances of news which had been published in newspapers having led to disaster in the field. Sir Henry Hozier in "Lloyd's" general report, mentioned a case in point. He wrote "In the War of 1866 (Germany versus Austria) I was with Prince Frederick Charles of Prussia, who had to advance on Vienna, and his great duty was to hold the Austrian army on the Bistritz, in order to allow the development of the attack of the Crown Prince on its flank and rear. It was of the utmost importance to Prince Frederick to know what Austrian force was in front of him, since, unless the whole force was there, it would be imprudent to hazard a general attack. On the morning of the battle he could not find out what the force was, but about 10 a.m. a telegram reached him from London announcing that that morning an official intimation had appeared in a Vienna newspaper stating that the whole Austrian force was concentrated under Field Marshal Benedek on the Bistritz. The telegram had been sent from Vienna to the German embassy in London, who at once despatched it from London to Prince Frederick Charles in Bohemia, and within half an hour his army attacked all along the line. The result of that telegram was the loss to Austria of the leadership of Germany and the ultimate establishment of the present German Empire under a Prussian emperor."

During the Franco-German war of 1870, after the decisive defeat of MacMahon at Woeirth and elsewhere, he gathered together his shattered forces, and retreated westward in the direction of Chalons, as it was thought with the intention of falling further back on Paris. The Germans pursued on a frontage of 40 miles, but through the supineness or otherwise of their cavalry divisions, they lost touch with MacMahon, and, as a matter of fact, at last really did not know where he was. Thus, enveloped in the "fog of war," they continued their westward march on the assumption that he was retiring on Chalons and Paris, till one day headquarters received a telegram from Berlin, which had been forwarded from London transmitting an item from the Daily News indicating that MacMahon had changed his line of route, and instead of retiring on Paris was doubling back on the Meuse with the intent to relieve Ranzans at Metz. This intelligence had originally been published in the Temps at Paris, and both sides are still operating to the east of Paris on a huge scale, but without that impetuosity which characterized the first month of the war.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

We belong to some Empire—what? If the Kaiser hasn't a pocket map of St. Helena, somebody ought to send him one.

The Von Moltke of this struggle is quite evidently not the Von Moltke of 1870.

Because of the war, Canadian jam factories are now finding themselves jammed.

Those plucky little Belgians are already commencing to take back some of their own again. Horoo! Horoo!

The German Emperor—He had a myriad men. He marched them into France; He'll march them out again.

German soldiers have been scribbling on buildings, "William, Emperor of Europe." That will soon have to be changed to "The Discarded of Europe."

And amid it all, don't forget that John Bull is not in this thing in order to grab other countries, but to see that other lands are not mauled and bullied.

Unbelievable Almost These War Atrocities

[By Special Wire to the Courier.] NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A partial list of alleged German atrocities in Belgium, against which the Belgium king has made a protest, was made public to-day by Count Lictverdelde, secretary of the Belgian commission bearing the protest. The commission reached this city to-day on its way to Washington.

"At Linsweert, when the Germans entered the village, two irregular police attacked the Germans," the Count said. "In revenge the village was invaded on the night of August 10. Two farms were destroyed, the crops were destroyed or carried away, six houses were burned, and all the men were compelled to hand over their arms."

"It was found that none had been discharged recently, and finally the men were separated into three detachments. Two of the detachments disappeared, a third consisting of eleven men, was driven at the point of the bayonet back to the site of her ruined village, the German soldiers set upon them and battered their brains out with the butt ends of their rifles. The eleven Belgian bodies were found later by Belgian troops."

"On August 12, after the battle of Hainaut, the Belgian army was lying wounded on the battlefield. He was unable to move. Several German soldiers found him, and mangled their revolvers against his mouth, blew his head off."

"At Boucelles, the German troops went into battle carrying the Belgian flag. On Aug. 8, the German cavalry raided the town of Verme, while the inhabitants slept. One instance of what they did may be cited in the case of a man named Degimue, whose house was fired. He and his wife were taken from the house half naked. He was dragged away in one direction, she in another. She was released, when two miles away and told to run. When she ran the German soldiers fired at her, but she escaped the bullets and staggered home in a pitiable condition. Her husband also was released and fired upon when he ran. He was found mortally wounded next day on the road outside the town."

Count De Lictverdelde said he had read the statement attributed to the German emperor in which it was said that harsh treatment of Belgium was made necessary in some cases because Belgian civilians fired on German soldiers. "I do not see how it is possible for a man to lie so," Count De Lictverdelde said.

POINCARÉ PROTESTS

WASHINGTON, Sept. 11.—President Poincaré of France has cabled to President Wilson a reply to the protest of Emperor William which charged that the allies had been using dum-dum bullets. The French president in his message says that Emperor William was attempting to shift the responsibility for the use by Germany of dum-dum bullets practically since the outbreak of the war.

SUMMARY OF ALL THE WAR NEWS

(Continued from Page 1) A careful scrutiny of the news from France and Germany leads English observers to the conclusion that both sides are still operating to the east of Paris on a huge scale, but without that impetuosity which characterized the first month of the war.

Enough damage already has been inflicted to give the antagonists a wholesome respect for the power of each other.

Laconic official announcements declare that the Germans have been driven back 38 miles or more from the line which they had reached to the east of Paris, but no indication is given of the breaking of the powerful battle array which swept through Belgium and northern France.

Berlin admits that its forces have retired before the attack of the allies, but the invaders have been strengthened by the arrival of fresh troops from Belgium, and they may resume the offensive.

The allies also are said to be preparing for German reinforcements by bringing up reserves. A French offensive is now expected by military experts, as the French lines occupy ground that has been used for many years for manoeuvres, consequently every inch of it is known to the French officers.

There are indications here that the reported extremity of the Austrian forces in Galicia is exaggerated. The Russians apparently have halted their attack either because of exhaustion or because the Austrian and German forces were found to be unexpectedly strong.

On the east Prussian front neither side seems to have been able to hold its positions. There is a possibility, however, that Russia is awaiting the advent of winter, which will freeze the marshes before making a serious attack in this direction.

Germany has about 500,000 men along the eastern Prussian border, and will doubtless make a stubborn stand there, to prevent the opening of the most direct road to Berlin.

Nish reports the capture of the Austrian stronghold of Semlin. If this is confirmed, it means that Belgrade is relieved from investment after stubbornly resisting an Austrian bombardment since the beginning of the war.

The supposed retirement of the Germans from a portion of the territory they occupied in Belgium has apparently led to tentative efforts on the part of Belgian troops to assume an offensive movement from their strong base at Antwerp.

BOMBARDED TOWN

ANTWERP, Sept. 11, via London 4:05 p.m.—It is officially announced here to-day that the town of Waerghe in the Belgian province of West Flanders was bombarded by Germans yesterday for thirty minutes. There were no casualties and only a few houses were destroyed by the German fire.

The first cheques from the Patriotic fund have been sent out to the families of volunteers who went to the front.

KINGSTON, Jamaica, Sept. 11.—The Hamburg American Line Steamer Bothania, was captured by a British Cruiser Monday morning when she was two days out from Charleston. The prize, which was brought here last night had aboard 600 tons of coal and a six months supply of provisions for the German Cruisers Dresden and Karlsruhe. The Bothania had been equipped as an auxiliary cruiser, but threw her armament overboard yesterday for thirty minutes. There were no casualties and only a few houses were destroyed by the German fire.

He leaves early to rejoin the camp. When his wife returned she did not know that her husband had joined the ranks of the volunteers and was at Valcartier.

Was Not Correct. In the report of the Red Cross of the Brant Chapter of the O. D. E. at the residence of Mrs. F. Muir, it was erroneously stated that Mrs. E. C. Ashton was asked to conduct the report that too many supplies were being secured. The chapter is working along its individual lines and is busily engaged. The supplies got ready will be forwarded according to requirements.

Want to Fight. The Russians of this city are anxious to go to the seat of war to fight for the Allies, and Mr. Sheehan has been endeavoring to find a means by which they can be taken to the front. These men are for the most part trained soldiers, and they are simply aching to get to grips with the enemy. Every day their interpreters besieged for news of the activities of the men and clamor for him to do best for them. Some of them are officers in the Russian army, and they would join a British regiment if a Russian officer to give them orders could be appointed. Some of the anxious to serve are Cossacks, the best class of soldiers that Russia possesses.

Many Out of Work.
There were many applications for work at the office of the city engineer this morning. Italians, Maltese and Poles were most prominent among those applying for relief. In all there were about fifty men who put down their names upon the book.

Meet His Wife
Sergeant Dockray obtained special leave from the Valcartier camp to come to Brantford to see his wife, who has just returned from a visit to England, and he arrived in the city yesterday. He leaves early to rejoin the camp. When his wife returned she did not know that her husband had joined the ranks of the volunteers and was at Valcartier.

Was Not Correct.
In the report of the Red Cross work of the Brant Chapter of the I.
O. D. E. at the residence of Mrs. M.
F. Muir, it was erroneously stated that Mrs. E. C. Ashton was asked to contract the report that too many supplies were being secured. The Chapter is working along its individual lines and is busily engaged. The supplies get ready will be forwarded according to requirements.

Want to Fight.
The Russians of this city are anxious to go to the seat of war and fight for the Allies, and Mr. Shalit has been endeavoring to find a means by which they can be taken to the front. These men are for the most part trained soldiers, and they are simply aching to get to grips with the enemy. Every day their interpreters are besieged for news of the activities and the men clamor for him to do his best for them. Some of them are officers in the Russian army, and they would join a British regiment if a Russian officer to give them orders could be appointed. Some of those anxious to serve are Cossacks, the best class of soldiers that Russia possesses.

Wants a License
Ernest Belwood, writing from Almonte, asks permission to run a shooting gallery and penny bazaar in the city. He promises a good law abiding place and is anxious to have a license.

Pay Bills
The sewer department pay sheet for the past month amounted to $925.47, while the street watering pay amounted to $204, and the streets pay bill totalled $2,098.04.

Got Their Money.
The sewer wives of the volunteers were to be seen in the City Hall this morning, where they were receiving certificates for the amount vouchsafed to them by soldiers at Valcartier.

Chestnut Avenue Widening.
Messrs. Wilkes and Henderson write to Major Leonard with regard to the widening of Chestnut Avenue and they advise that it be advertised at once and they submit a copy of the advertisement.

Agreement Filed
Messrs. Wilkes and Henderson enclosed an agreement between the Brantford Realty Company, Limited, and the City of Brantford for filing purposes, to the city clerk this morning.

Guelph at a Loss.
Guelph apparently is at a loss as to exactly what course to take with their patriotic funds, for they write to City Clerk Leonard and ask what Brantford are doing with such funds, whether they are sending a percentage to a central organization or distributing all locally. They also ask the ways and means of raising the patriotic funds and several questions relative to the question of relief.

A Kick Coming.
Jos. Balazos of 127 Charlotte street, has a complaint to make. He is out of work and went to the office where work was given out in the City Hall, and he was refused work because he was a Hungarian. He says he is a naturalized Canadian and is a Brantford ratepayer, owning his own house, and supporting his family. In a letter to the City Clerk he points this out and again asks for work.

Regret His Departure.
At a meeting of the Ministerial Alliance held in the Y. W. C. A. yesterday a resolution was tendered to Rev.
C. W. Rose, who has accepted a call to Nova Scotia. The President, Rev.
Mr. Kelly, presided. Rev. McClintock presented the resolution which expressed sincere regret at the departure of Rev. Mr. Rose, and high appreciation of his splendid work and citizenship in Brantford. Mr. Rose responded fittingly. There was an air extending good fellowship throughout
the whole proceedings.
Residents of Guelph at a meeting last night decided to make an effort to get Hydro and, accordingly
petitions will be gotten out. About 45 lights are needed for the district. The meeting was addressed by Councillor Seace, E. Boudler, E. W. P. Jones and others.

REVENGE NOW
FOR THE FRENCH
SAYS DESPATCH

No Longer Retreat but Advance - Germans are Defeated.

[By Special Wire to The Courier.]
LONDON, Sept. 11, 4.37 a.m.
The correspondent of The Times at Bordeaux, sends the following

It is now beyond doubt that the German turning movement to the southeast of Paris has been defeated and there is a dawning hope that the allies' left which has borne a rain of the enemy's blows since the fighting at Mons began, is now about to take its revenge.

The Germans have been fighting desperately to guard their line of communication which is in considerable danger from the allies' left. They have been forced to retreat before the onslaught of the British and the withdrawal of the German right is bound to assist the French in forcing back the centre, unless the Germans desire again to find themselves obliged to follow the Imperial Chancellor's advice and "hack their way through."
The German check in front of the Meaux and Verdun line has had its echo throughout the field of operations. On the extreme French right the enemy's division bearing down upon Nancy has been thrown back behind the forest of Chacpenoux.

TWO FORGERIES

Believed That Local Police Have Made Important Arrests.

Two men, independent of each other, were charged with forgery at the police court this morning. They were Harold C. Brown and Frank A.
Roberts, alias Frank A. Richards alias
A. C. Anderson.
According to J. P. Ryan, he and Roberts had a business deal, and Roberts said he would pay with a cheque for $67, which he had. The deal amounted to $32, and Ryan gave in exchange for the larger cheque one for $35. This good cheque Roberts cashed with Mr. Fraser of the Belmont hotel, and he was an air extending good fellowship throughout
the whole proceedings.
Residents of Guelph at a meeting last night decided to make an effort to get Hydro and, accordingly
petitions will be gotten out. About 45 lights are needed for the district. The meeting was addressed by Councillor Seace, E. Boudler, E. W. P. Jones and
others.

The Patriotic Committee and Social

Primarily the meeting was called was present and discoursed upon the

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 11.—The hero of Belgium to-day is the Boy Scout Leysen, who has been decorated by King Albert for his valor and devotion to his country.
This young man, who was born at Liege, is described by The Figaro as of almost uncanny sharpness.
Leysen made his way through the German lines from Antwerp for the tenth time last Sunday, carrying despatches to secret representatives of the Belgian government in Brussels.
He has discovered and announced 11 German spies in Belgium, and performed a variety of other services, and all without impairing his boyish simplicity.

OPEN NEGOTIATIONS. BORDEAU, Sept. 11.—1.35 p.m.— Advices received here from an authoritative source in Antwerp declare that Field Marshal Von Der Goltz, the German military governor of the occupied portion of Belgium attempted yesterday to open negotiations at Antwerp. To this end he made use of a member of the Belgian cabinet who had remained behind at Brussels.
No importance is attached to this effort and the Belgian Government ignored it.

The admiralty reports that most of the prisoners aboard the Hamburg-American Line Steamer Bethania, aica, a prize of the British, are from the crew of the Kaiser Wilhelm Der Grosse, who escaped in a collier when the liner was sunk by a British cruiser.

The New Fall and Winter Coatings Come

We don't know why, precisely, but people are asking for coatings much earlier than usual this year.
These are very soft and thick, and when they are not in bright colors they have touches of it.
Some are double faced with brilliant plaids inside and a dark tone, a dark plaid or a two-toned effect outside.
Some are novelties in which colors are brokenly mingled,
with little nubs of the brighter shades.
Some show indistinct stripes or boucle effects or black and white checks.

black and tan, black and mahogany, tango and green, blue

GREAT WORK THIS

Onondaga Barley Wins $100 Prize and Gold Medal at Toronto.

That the Township of Onondaga grows the best barley in the world, is evidenced by the great award just secured by Mr. George Simpson, executive of the township, from the Canadian National Exhibition. The sheaf of barley which Mr. Simpson placed on exhibition, won the $100 prize and gold medal for him, and it makes the fourth year that he has cleaned up. If Onondaga barley is not the best in the world, it is the best on the continent of America, and the farmers of the district are naturally proud of Mr.

Simpson's achievement.

Thirty Germans Hadn't Had Any Rest for Three Days.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]
PARIS, Sept. 11.—During the third day's fighting in the battle of the Marne, a detachment of the French, which had chased the enemy out of a village, was held by an old woman who led them to a barn where there was still thirty Germans, telling them to make no noise as they were asleep.
A man crept noiseless into the barn and found the Germans sleeping so soundly that it took half an hour and a tremendous amount of shaking to wake them. One explained that he had not slept for three days.
They had been harassed by the French and English, and the evening before had entered the barn where all fell asleep from sheer exhaustion.

Joffre and the French army on the brilliant successes gained in co-op-sing the Germans to the east of Paris.

These successes are described by the minister as assurances of definite vic-

THE PROBS

TORONTO, Sept. 11.—Showers have been general in the Lake Superior district since the weather in Canada has been fair. Forecasts: Moderate to fresh winds, mostly east and northeast, cooler with occasional showers to-day and on Saturday.

Wants Street Opened. A number of firms upon the south side of the canal, have complained to the city that Walter street entrance to Colborne street has been closed unduly long and now they think that it might again be opened up as it causes their carters much extra haulage. They have now to travel along Precourt street and over Victoria Bridge, and this causes great delay. The firms who have signed the petition for the opening up of the west end of the street are Hartley Foundry Co., Brantford Ice Co., Scarfe and Co., and Thornton, Ltd.

German Press Agents Are Working Overtime All Over the World. NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—A London cable to The Tribune says: The Standard will publish on Saturday an editorial by Sidney Low, in which he says: Efforts are being made by the German Government to influence opinion in neutral countries is growing more persistent, and even desperate as the war goes on. They suggest that the Kaiser and his courtiers are keenly conscious of the weakness, both of their cause and of their case. The Prussian camarilla know well enough that the longer the war continues, the more the struggle will be, they will sooner or later be defeated. "In the end the resources of two great empires and a repair and a repair machine which the German general staff uses with such ruthless resolution. It looks very much as if Germany would win the inevitable struggle and was preparing for it by endeavoring to arouse sympathy for herself and create prejudice against her opponents in those countries which are standing out of the contest. The undertaking is pursued by German diplomacy with the same disregard for the laws of honor which their stratagems have shown for the laws of war. People who burn open towns and lay floating mines are not likely to be over scrupulous in a cotemporary. The German campaign abroad has been conducted with immense industry, some ingenuity and unflinching effrontery. The press bureau of Wilhelmstrasse apparently is of the opinion that no falsehood is too absurd to be believed by somebody if it is put forth boldly enough. THIS IS OMINOUS. COPENHAGEN, Sept. 11.—Via London.—The Vossische Zeitung, of Berlin, declares that previous to the outbreak of the war, Germany and Austria-Hungary agreed, as a condition of the triple entente, not to make peace separately. ARE LEAVING ALSACE. LONDON, Sept. 11, 4.50 p.m.—A Central News despatch from Rome says that telegrams from Berlin state that the evacuation of Upper Alsace by the Germans continues. They are withdrawing to Strassburg and Metz. It is admitted that the German army in France is extremely fatigued, whereas the enemy is continually receiving fresh troops. SAIL FOR CANADA. NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Three large trans-Atlantic liners have cleared from New York during the past 24 hours for Canadian ports. The Saxonia and Ivernia of the Cunard Line steamed out late last night for Montreal. The Lapland of the White Star Line to-day received clearance papers for Quebec. It was said she would leave late to-day. Both the Cunard and White Star lines disclaimed knowledge of the purpose for which the ships had been ordered to Canada. NO PEACE POSSIBLE JUST NOW

Issues Must be Settled for all Time is True British Feeling.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Washington despatches received here intimating that the recent visit of Count Von Bernstorff, German ambassador to the United States, to Secretary of State Bryan was for the purpose of getting President Wilson to make another tender of his good offices as mediator in the present war have been read with interest in London official circles. The Foreign Office is without any further communication than the first received from Secretary of State Bryan concerning peace negotiations and English diplomats are expecting the United States to take additional steps to negotiate peace at this stage of the conflict. English officials state that they exerted every effort to avert war and now being in the field the allies must fight until the issues are settled for all time. The British Government is said to be so firm that even the extreme peace advocates of England are giving their hearty support to the army and navy in the present conflict and are unwilling that the English should give serious thoughts to peace overtures until they are positive there is a genuine desire for peace on the part of their opponents.

MANY WILL TURN UP TO FIGHT AGAIN

Those Reported Missing in Sir John French's Report are Safe.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 11.—The correspondent of the Daily Mail at Rouen has great hopes that many of the British numbered in General Sir John French's list of casualties will turn up again. He has every ground for expecting, he says, to see 4,000 or more of these men soon back in the firing line. "For the past two days," he says, "I have been informed while on my journey towards Paris that the 11th Hussars no longer exist, yet it is certain that half of their 700 will soon reappear. At night of September 2, the 11th Hussars, exhausted after four days of fighting, made an effort to obtain permission to be sent to the day camp at Compeigne. They had experienced ill luck early in the day when taking 50 Uhlans prisoners. Through this they expected to get some remounts, but the Germans were worsted in the end. "The 11th were to have a night's rest screened by 10,000 fresh troops, but at five o'clock in the morning they were ordered to shell burst over them and their horses stampeded, but to assert that the regiment was annihilated is to stretch the imagination. The same applies to the Dorset Regiment. "Meanwhile many hundred stragglers have given good accounts of themselves. At Cantigny, sixty of them of all regiments, laid a quick-firing trap for a patrol of Germans. The enemy was allowed to pass one Maxim concealed in a hedge and to ride on to the muzzles of two others ahead. They were caught by the British mowed them down. "The survivors were taken prisoners. "The correspondent quotes other incidents to prove that stragglers are a force to be reckoned with.

GREAT RESCUE OF THE CREW FROM OCEANIC

Captain Was Last to Leave Stranded Liner on North of Scotland.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Captain Armour of the Aberdeen trawler Glenovik, told the following story of his rescue of the crew of the White Star liner Oceanic, to the Aberdeen correspondent of the Central News: "It was misty and very dark Tuesday morning off the north coast of Scotland, when our attention was aroused on our homeward way by signals of distress in the direction of the coast. "It required skillful seamanship, which would have been impossible to a larger boat than ours, to bring the Glenovik near enough to discover the Oceanic on the rocks. "Finally after a long and hard tussle in the nasty sea, we brought ourselves off—we could hold no more—tossed over the side of the liner down which the crew scrambled and tumbled to the deck of our boat. "In a short time practically every available inch of floor space was occupied by men from the big boat. We got four hundred of them and then steamed off—we could hold no more—and emptied them on a larger steamer which was standing off in the distance unable to get any nearer than the dangerous rocks. "After transferring our human freight we returned quickly but cautiously and took on board the remainder who were similarly transferred to the boat in the offing. "The rescue was attended with great loss of life and property. The captain of the Oceanic was the last to leave his ship. He paid us a high compliment and thanked us warmly. "More stories of the passage of Russian troops through England came in with the Celtic. All passenger traffic on railroads leading to Southampton had to be suspended for a time to speed the trains bearing the Czar's troops to their transports, her passengers said. The shades of the windows in the coaches, they said, were drawn and the soldiers were carefully shielded from observation. "Several of the steamers reaching here to-day had room to spare in their cabins and steerage, indicating that the high tide of westbound trans-Atlantic traffic had passed. One of the vessels, the San Giorgio was hardly half-filled. An increase in the rates of fare, it was said, brought about this condition. "In nearly every case British cruisers were sighted on the trip across the Atlantic. "BUYS ICE BREAKER. PORT WILLIAM, Ont., Sept. 11.—The Russian Government have bought from the Great Lakes Towing and Wrecking Company, of Port Arthur, Ont., the big icebreaking tug, J. T. Horne, which will leave immediately for Montreal to cross the Atlantic. It is surmised that the icebreaker is required to assist the Ermake in keeping open the Russian White Sea port.

BODY FOUND OF AN INFANT ONE-DAY OLD

County Constable Kerr Has Serious Case to Unravel.

The body of an infant girl, believed to have been born Wednesday night, was found to-day in the barn at the first toll-gate on the Paris road. Mrs. Scott, who lives at the toll-gate, notified County Constable Kerr this morning of the discovery, and with the coroner's aid a search was made of the place. The remains were brought to Reid and Brown's undertaking establishment, and an inquest will be held. The authorities have a clue that the child was born Wednesday night, the mother having been driven to the toll-gate by a conveyance from the city. The infant probably died from exposure. The investigation is being continued this afternoon.

Five Liners Dock at Port

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

NEW YORK, Sept. 11.—Five trans-Atlantic liners had 2,662 passengers aboard. Among the vessels was the Southern Pacific liner Creole, chartered by the government for the relief of Americans in England which arrived with 162 persons from Liverpool late last night (but did not dock until to-day with 1,901 passengers); the Anchor Line's Ansonia from Glasgow with 308 passengers; the Italian steamer San Giorgio from Naples with 106 passengers; and the French liner Flandre from Havre with 95 passengers. "More stories of the passage of Russian troops through England came in with the Celtic. RECRUITING DEPOT IN GERMAN OFFICES

Government Makes Use of Place, Which Had Been Locked Up.

LONDON, Sept. 11.—Since the war began the officers of the Hamburg-American Line in Cockspur Street have been closed, the window shutters have been utilized for the display of posters urging volunteers to join Kitchener's new army, much to the amusement of the passers-by. A step further has now been taken, the office being seized by the military authorities as a recruiting depot. The current issue of the Naval Gazette announces that naval officers have been appointed to the command of the Allan Canadian Pacific and Cunard Line steamers, which the Government requisitioned, indicating that they are likely to be used for more belligerent purposes than the transportation of troops and stores.

PARIS, Sept. 11, 3.17 p.m.—News from the fighting line to the east of Paris is to the effect that at some points the Germans have retired from 60 to 75 kilometers (from 37 to 46 miles).

Eight French Medical Officers Tell of Their Experience.

[By Special Wire to the Courier]

ROTTERDAM, via London, Sept. 11.—4.15 a.m.—The eight French medical officers who were captured by the Germans in Ynamur, but who later were released and are here on their way back to France by way of England, gave some interesting sidelights on the situation in the field from their standpoint as surgeons.

"We were obliged to work with the Germans," one of them said. "Most of the wounded were anxious to return to the fight as soon as possible. We saw no evidence of men wounded by dum-dum bullets on either side. The Germans and the allies excellent, but we regret that the German wounded often were discharged from the hospitals too early. In some cases their wounds had not sufficiently healed and after their discharge the wounds would open again and complications set in."

The approach of the close of navigation is indicated by the Noronic, flagship of the Northern Navigation Company, having made her last trip and going into winter quarters.

LATIN PROPHECY DATED 1600 TOLD OF ANTI-CHRIST'S COMING

Said He Would Be a Monarch, a Son of Luther, With Innumerable Armies, Whose Device Would be "God is With Us".

PARIS, Sept 11.—The Figaro prints the commencement of a Latin prophecy dated in 1600. The author is not known. The monk Johannes has written the verses like a chapter of the Bible:

Verse 1 says: "It is true that anti-Christ will be a monarch, a son of Luther, invoking God and calling himself 'God is With Us'."

Verse 2 says: "He will have only one arm, but innumerable armies whose device will be 'God is With Us'."

Verse 3: "He will use craft and felony for a long time with spies throughout the world."

Verse 4: "He will have learned men in his pay proving his mission to be Divine."

Verse 5: "War will provide an opportunity to raise the mask. It will not be a war against the French monarch, but another, which will be recognizable by becoming universal in a fortnight."

Verse 6: "All Christians and all Mussulmans, and even the most distant nations will partake. Armies will be formed in the four corners of the world and eight angels will open men's eyes to understand by the third week that if they fight not anti-Christ all will become his slaves."

Verse 7: "Anti-Christ will be recognizable by his massing priests and monks and women and aged persons. No mercy will be shown. He will pass, torch in hand, like the barbarians, but invoking Christ."

Verse 8: "His words will be Christ-like, but his acts Herod-like. His coat-of-arms will contain an eagle, as also will the coat-of-arms of his acolyte, another evil monarch."

Verse 9: "The latter, by the malediction of Pope Benedict, who will be elected at the commencement of anti-Christ's reign."

Verse 10: "Priests will no longer confess and absolve the combatants, because the priests will be fighting in the ranks and Benedict will curse anti-Christ, proclaiming all fighting against him to be in a state of grace, ascending to heaven like the martyrs if killed."

Verse 11: "A Papal bull proclaiming this will have a tremendous effect in rallying courage and the death of anti-Christ and his ally."

Verse 12: "The conquest of anti-Christ needs more men killed than Rome ever contained. All realms must participate, for the cock, the leopard and the white eagle cannot exterminate the black eagle unless the prayers of the whole of humanity assist them."

Verse 13: "Humanity will never run such a danger because the triumph of anti-Christ would be equivalent to the triumph of the demon in whom he is incarnated."

Verse 14: "For twenty centuries after the incarnation of the world it will have prophesied that a beast would be incarnated, in turn threatening the earth with many evils and as the Divine incarnation brought favors."

The Figaro adds: "The foregoing is only part of the prophecy, the remainder promising France and the world an era of peace after a terrible vengeance surpassing even French desires."

What London is Seeing of War in Her Large Parks

(By a Special Representative of the Westminster Gazette.)

When the small fry of to-day become the great of tomorrow they will probably have retained some sense-impression of these exciting days, although the Kaiser has not been exalted to that height of bogeydom enjoyed once upon a time by Boney. In London the poorer children will have had a sufficiently sharp reminder of untoward happenings by the abrupt closure of their summer holidays. If for no other reason, they will remember the year 1914 as that in which they were called back to their classrooms when their holidays was but half run!

But this apart, there is just now the nearest juxtaposition of the Games of War with the Games of Childhood. In St. James' Park, for instance, the military have picketed and keep guard upon a number of horses, and they have chosen a spot right in the middle of the enclosure where a board announces that:

THIS GROUND IS FOR CHILDREN ONLY!

Close at hand, under the plane trees, the children continue to dig in their sand garden, but they are always ready to desert this at the summons of the bugles and drums. And just over the way, across Birdage Walk, the drill sergeants are teaching their men the cunning of warfare.

No Rules Learned.

They are not practising the art of elaborate ceremonial in the drill-ground of Wellington barracks, the rule of deportment at coronation of funeral, but rather the best and quickest mode of dropping into cover and firing from cover. They fall prone upon the gravelled yard and point their rifles at non-combatants who are looking so open-eyed at them through the railings.

In Green Park there is the same contrast. Men in khaki flutter flags; children flutter kites and air balloons. While in Kensington Gardens an encampment has been pitched almost on the edge of the Round Pond, so that the babies can launch their navies with an armed force on the cliffs behind them. Here are stationed motor-transport corps, and a fleet of private automobiles lines the private road to Kensington Palace.

This is one contrast. The other—and it is equally striking—is the incessant movement of troops against the quiet activity of everyday pursuits. The long queue of recruits, the hawkers of penny national flags, "all made of silk," the ceaseless accumulation of curious crowds who watch the War Office and the Admiralty and Downing street—these are the more monstrous creations of the war alarm. A more normal variety of energy underlies that scurrying to and fro of soldiers in motors, in wagons, on horses; even, perhaps of the little boy scouts on their bicycles.

Hub of Things

If you want to feel the sensation of being at the hub of things (whether you really are or not) you should stand for a while near Buckingham Palace, or take a walk in Hyde Park. For the first time, I believe, the changing of the guard at the palace has ceased to be a daily ritual. A much diminished cavalcade sets out now for the Horse Guards, and as for the palace, the function is observed but three days a week. The soldiers are engaged upon more urgent and vital work. Route marching seems almost continuous, and whole Territorial battalions go tramping by in the laudable endeavor to get hardened. A good old grunting some of them have.

You may see in Hyde Park a battalion of Guards in full marching order with all their camp paraphernalia behind them; another comes almost upon the heels of it; there is massed khaki where, not long ago, the great Ulster demonstration took place; a line of khaki moves across the Serpentine bridge; Dragoons are engaged in sword drill outside their barracks at Knightsbridge.

Go By Singing.

Men of fine physique, seasoned-looking reservists go by you singing. Wonderfully cheerful fellows who seem to be enjoying themselves to the full. Reservists of the Irish Guards passed through the Park yesterday without a hand, and pearly cack'coner. One company was whistling a sea shanty.

"A-rovin', a-rovin'!"

"For rovin' been my ru-in, I'll go no more a-rovin' from you, fair maid."

And a composite body of horse guards—on foot—stepped out gaily to the music of a drum and an accordion! Two men in the ranks helped with mouth-organs!

Not only in the centre, however, does this steady, cheerful, business-like, military organization proceed; the outskirts and suburbs take their share in it. The Oval has been taken over by the authorities for many days past (the sacred cricket pitch protected carefully with hurdles) and half of Kensington Park is now occupied by Territorials. Troops are in the Alexandra Palace, and it is said that the Crystal Palace is to be turned into a hospital. All over London the necessary work is being done with a strange smoothness, and however grim may be some of the remembrances which the war has in store for us, we shall probably remember always these days—when most things happened as usual, but England got ready to fight.

The children will certainly remember.

TREME

By Richard G. Conover.

TITTLE deeds to the colony contingent of the big gun muzzles of two hundred English, German, French, Russian and Austrian warships. These many more than stand ever ready to erumble or seize any point of the 15,000 miles of coast line fringing the dark and covered land. No matter how or when the present war may end the victor will claim his pound of color.

That the spoils of war will be of every calibre in the main one of the contestants, Germany, has indicated plainly. England forced an answer from the Kaiser, just before she cast her lot with France, as to what she would do in the event of triumph. She was unmistakably revealed as the field of German expansion.

"If we keep out of this what do you promise with respect to France?" asked the British government. "Do you see to work havoc with your navy along the French coast? Do you purpose annex another strip to the west of France and Lorraine and make everything German east of the Meuse and the Rhine rivers?"

"France on the Continent we would not lessen by a single foot of land," was the grim reply of the Kaiser's spokesman. "Her colonies and possessions. That's quite another matter."

Thus answered, England gave the German Ambassador his passport to the British associates of the Triple Entente, for, like the young man Scripture who came seeking salvation she has great possessions herself and concerned accordingly.

Colonial expansion thus smoked as a prime factor in the present war, close following bullets from the East made it clear that none of the detached possessions of the nations conflict were in danger of transfer, except those in Africa. The hollow came from Japan and its purpose, it should be clear, was that whenever an Allied garrison at an Eastern British position was shifted to fight on the Continent such possession would be protected by the navy of the Mikado.

Supplementary to this came the announcement that Japan, in becoming policeman of the Pacific, would extend its powers and duties so as to embrace allied with those of Great Britain.

POSSESSIONS OF ALLIES ON WESTERN HEMISPHERE.

By Richard G. Conover.

TITLE deeds to the colony contingent of Africa bulge from the big gun muzzles of two hundred English, German, French, Russian and Austrian warships. These mammoth armaments stand ever ready to crumble or seize any point of the 15,000 miles of coast line fringing the dark and covered land. No matter how or when the present war may end the victor will claim his pound of colony flesh.

That the spoils of war will be of colony calibre in the main one of the contestants, Germany, has indicated plainly. England forced an answer from the Kaiser, just before she cast her lot with France, as to what his territorial demands would be in the event of triumph. Africa was unmistakably revealed as the field of German expansion.

"If we keep out of this what do you promise with respect to France?" asked the British government. "Do you seek to work havoc with your navy along the French coast? Do you purpose to annex another strip to the west of Alsace and Lorraine and make everything German east of the Meuse and the Rhine rivers?"

"France on the Continent we would not lessen by a single foot of land," was the grim reply of the Kaiser's spokesman. "Her colonies and possessions? That's quite another matter."

Thus answered, England gave the German Ambassador his passports and joined her associates of the Triple Entente, for, like the young man of Scripture who came seeking salvation, she has great possessions herself and is concerned accordingly.

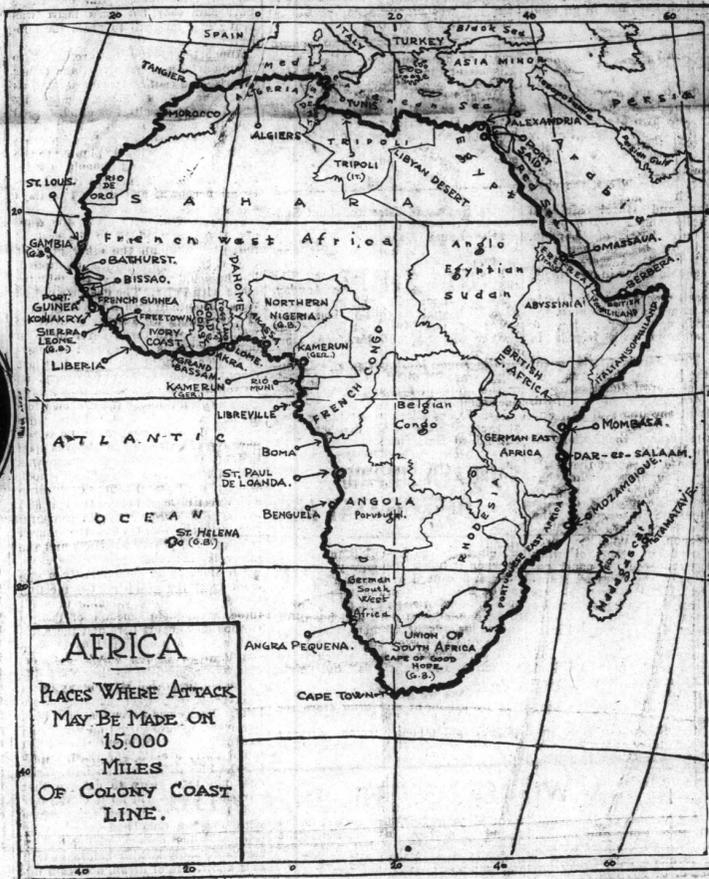

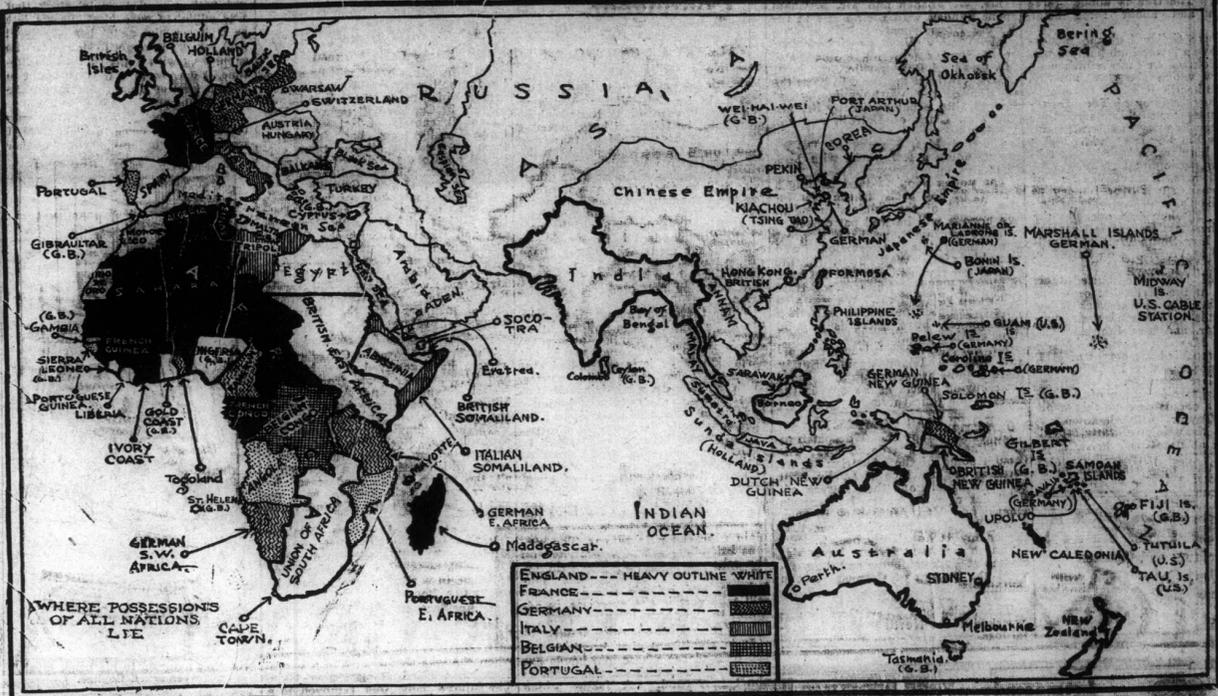

King Albert of Belgium.

ified the situation by informally declaring that it was prepared to use a fleet and ten thousand men to attack or defend at any point necessary to preserve Pacific possession as it stands. This Japanese patrol would naturally extend into the Indian Ocean on a hurry call and thus include British India in its protective zone. So, by the process of elimination, Africa stands out as the logical and worth while sphere of attack.

The coast lines proper of the warring nations may be truly battered, of course, aside from the operations directed against colonial territory. If Germany is defeated, almost certain France will demand that her frontier map be redrawn so as to restore to her the beloved provinces of Alsace and Lorraine. There may be some minor transfers of soil not strictly colonial, but the toll for this outpour of blood and treasure in this biggest of all wars will probably be paid in African land.

The immense extent of seacoast to be watched makes it practically impossible to prevent the landing of troops anywhere on the dark continent. Under the cover of the great guns pointing shoreward thousands of men conveyed by battle ships may be disembarked and soon placed in effective battle array. True, if only the ports of trade could be used for landing, then they might be guarded by the vessels of the nations concerned, and an entry gained only after a naval battle.

It is likely, too, that operations will be confined to the regular ports, because the jungle nature of the country right up to the boundaries of the coast towns would make a march along an unbeat track practically impossible. Still, troops might be landed a few miles outside the limits of a port, and with extraordinary effort, led successfully against the city or town to be taken. Just how valuable an acquisition would each of these colonies be to a nation other than the one which now possesses it? In many instances possession carries

TRADER and treasure to the value of billions of dollars annually come to the mother countries now fighting from their distant colonial children. For decades the statesmen and diplomats of these countries have fixed covetous eyes on the far away possessions of one another. The area of land embraced within these colonial prizes holds a strong appeal, but the commercial value is of such superior importance and temptation to national brigandage that armies, it is said, are often maintained not to preserve peace or wage war, but to pounce down on the colonial prey at the psychological moment. The following figures show the "dollars and cents" importance of the possessions of the countries now or likely to be at war, as apart from their mere territorial desirability:

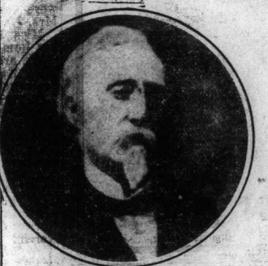

Imports Annually.		Exports Annually.
Great Britain's colonies	$7,000,000,000	Great Britain's colonies	$6,000,000,000
Germany's colonies	30,000,000	Germany's colonies	23,750,000
France's colonies (Tunis, Algeria out)	151,000,000	France's colonies (Tunis, Algeria out)	157,500,000
Belgium's colonies	23,000,000	Belgium's colonies	28,500,000
Italy's colonies	9,800,000	Italy's colonies	3,000,000
Portugal's colonies	19,900,000	Portugal's colonies	18,500,000
Japan's colonies	$1,750,000	Japan's colonies	67,150,000 with it a sentiment dating back to the time and the circumstances of the acquisition. But in the main it is the trade and commercial value of these colonies and dependencies that enhances the value of the prize. This is deemed by great extent. There are those who declare that the open condition of the dependencies so naturally invites invasion that the opportunity rarely is missed by a power. On the other hand, it is pointed out that, while minor conflicts or threatened bombardments may be possible, none of the nations now in a death grapple will plan a campaign of large magnitude against any African point except along the adjacent northern coast, where a short steam across the Mediterranean will not take war vessels away from a zone where they can do the most good, and likewise the most harm.

It is a voyage of 11,245 miles from London to Cape Town. South Africa, and twenty-five days are consumed in the transit under ordinarily favorable conditions for fast commercial vessels. If war ships are not in the vicinity of the most distant African coast to bombard African ports and are sent there during the present war the fighting strength at the nearer and more intense battling points will be appreciably weakened, and the best part of a month may be needed to get to an effective point, and the same amount of time needed for a return voyage. Two months are thus consumed in transit, with the amount of time necessary successfully to operate against a weakness for a matter of great uncertainty. In the meantime how badly will the war ships sent to Africa be needed closer home?

There is a large African zone that would likely prove a death trap for invaders, without a shot being fired. The equatorial section is the least place in the world to be attacked. The partition begin?

pect them to survive the day, and the fever laden air. The "regular" Europeans at these spots keep going, only through liberal doses of quinine and other drugs that could sterilize a large body of soldiers, sailors or marines. It is natural to conclude that such points, while they will be surely argued for in the partitioning after the peace, will not be worth while for holding or occupying during the war. And supposing such places taken by a nation at war with the present protectorate power, what percentage of the war will it be to occupy and hold until the end of the struggle? No matter who is in possession at the time the treaty is made, the siding will settle future territory will move in. This is the case of those who believe all of the nations engaged at war will elect to confine their battling to the Continent of Europe and leave the division of the African task until it is seen who is to eat it.

On the other hand, those who believe the fight will be carried into Africa point out to support their contention that it would be folly for Great Britain, not to employ the 80,000 soldiers she has in South Africa and the 250,000 troops in India in making war upon her adversaries. German Southwest Africa's frontier joins that of the English Union of South Africa.

And then the money cost to the losers? There will be a sum haggled over, without a doubt, that will stagger mankind because of its immensity. But in the way of land compensation the defeated nations will be tapped in Africa. The colonies will pay for the fatherlands' quarrel.

What the war will bring forth in Africa before it closes man may predict but man cannot now reveal. An eleventh hour battle or expedition may change the fate of the nations involved as often as it has in the past. Napoleon abdicated, went to Elba, returned, deposed the Bourbon King, rallied his army about him, fought Waterloo and abdicated again, all in one hundred days.

Africa will be the spoils, but what battles will be lost and won before the spoils are gathered no political philosopher can tell. England rang the African reveille by occupying German territory near the Gold Coast colony. When will the next and the partition begin?

JERSEYVILLE

Rev. Isaac preached as usual a good sermon in the Methodist church on Sunday morning. A short fellowship meeting was held after the service, it being the custom on the first Sunday of the month.

Harvest Home Service will be held in the Methodist church Sunday, Sept. 20th and a Harvest Home supper is to be held on the following Monday evening after which an excellent program has been provided.

An apple tree owned by Charles Morris and on his lot in the village, is something out of the ordinary. It usually requires a tree ten years old to bear fruit, but this tree was set out in May this year and has perfect fruit this year.

Mr. W. Foaden and Mr. S. Chant spent Sunday with their uncle at the Revere House.

Mr. Wesley Warboys of Brantford spent Sunday with his mother, also Mr. Orser of Burgessville.

Mrs. Warboys has gone to be at the reunion of the Warboys family at Burgessville, accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Clark of Detroit, and son Wesley.

Dr. and Mrs. Knags of Detroit are spending a few weeks with Mrs. Read.

The young people intend holding a concert or box social in the near future in aid of the soldiers' hospital. We hope it will be well patronized.

Some of our boys have a great hankering after watermelons and pumpkin pies. Wag, boys, till the melons get ripe, and you will not have to plug so many, and George will treat you to all you can eat.

We will also have a pumpkin pie social, so wait a little longer, boys, there is a good time coming.

Mr. Sol Aulsebrook leaves to-morrow for the Island again. Surely there is some attraction up there more than buying stock, as he spends the most of his time there.

ROUT WAS COMPLETE LONDON, Sept. 11.—A despatch to The Times from Petrograd says: "Although some of the Austrian army corps in the province of Lublin will probably make good their retreat, official describe the rout of Generals Danski and Von Auffenberg in such a way to warrant the inference that the enemy is hopelessly beaten."

Large German forces have been detected at Tohestochow and the eastward stream of German troops continues.

The White Star Line Oceanic was wrecked in the North Sea and is a total loss.

CATHCART

We were pleased to see Rev. Mr. Cameron able to be in his pulpit on Sunday. Rev. Mr. Frid preached a very interesting sermon in the evening. He will also preach a special sermon next Sunday evening to the young men, and he will also favor us with some special singing. Come out and hear him.

The Women's Institute held their annual "At Home" last week at the home of Mrs. Ferrington and had a very nice time. After the opening exercises and a short address by the president, a good program was given by the Misses Secord, Farrington and Polley, which was very much enjoyed by all. A dainty lunch was served at the close.

GOOD CONDUCT MUST BE ORDER FOR TROOPS

Our Men at Valcartier—Drunkenness Will Not be Permitted and Offenders Will be Discharged From Overseas Contingent.

VALCARTIER CAMP, Que., Sept. 11.—"No booze" is now the slogan of Valcartier camp. It was plainly stated last night by Col. Victor Williams, the Camp Commandant, that drinking would not be tolerated here, and that strong measures would be taken to stop intemperance. It has been decided that men who misbehave themselves through drunkenness or otherwise will be discharged as volunteers for the Canadian overseas contingent and sent back to their homes without more ado. This decision on the part of the Commandant is the sequel to reports that men who have been granted passes to visit Quebec and other places have behaved in a manner that reflected no credit upon the camp.

While there are few men here who are not a credit to the uniform they wear, there are apparently some "black sheep," which perhaps is not surprising when it is considered that there are some 3,000 under canvas. With a view to minimizing misconduct officers commanding brigades have been instructed to take any action considered necessary.

Increased Activity in Training Drill and shooting are proceeding with increased activity, and next week will be the commencement of training work on a much larger scale than has characterized the camp thus far. Brigade exercises will be carried out by each infantry brigade on a great plain near the rifle ranges. The various brigades are now working on the schemes proposed. The field artillery, divisional cavalry, and other units will take part in the exercises, in addition to the 20,000 infantrymen.

Health Phenomenally Good It is significant that hospitals are the only places where ill hands are found. The health of the camp is abnormally good. A factor which contributes largely to this satisfactory state of affairs is the fact that the men receive their rations in all kinds of healthful exercises.

Accident to Mrs. McBain Mrs. A. E. McBain, sister-in-law of Lieut.-Col. W. McBain, of Toronto, sustained a fractured shoulder to-day when she was thrown out of a buggy. The horse shied at a passing train. The injured lady was removed to a Quebec hospital.

Perchlorate Tested Before Minister Sir Lom Housewives have reached the members' Company, at Highlanders from a number of Toronto ladies. Both visits were much appreciated, especially the sweater coats which arrived at a time when all the other clothing possessed by the men was raining wet as a result of the heavy rains of Sunday and Monday.

Accident to Mrs. McBain Mrs. A. E. McBain, sister-in-law of Lieut.-Col. W. McBain, of Toronto, sustained a fractured shoulder to-day when she was thrown out of a buggy. The horse shied at a passing train. The injured lady was removed to a Quebec hospital.

Perchlorate Tested Before Minister Sir Lom Housewives have reached the members' Company, at Highlanders from a number of Toronto ladies. Both visits were much appreciated, especially the sweater coats which arrived at a time when all the other clothing possessed by the men was raining wet as a result of the heavy rains of Sunday and Monday.

Health Phenomenally Good It is significant that hospitals are the only places where ill hands are found. The health of the camp is abnormally good. A factor which contributes largely to this satisfactory state of affairs is the fact that the men receive their rations in all kinds of healthful exercises.

THE STORY OF Waitstill Baxter

"Well, there's something terrible queer 'bout this marryin' business," and Cephas drew a sigh from the heels of his boots. "It seems 's if a man hedn't no natcher drawin' towards a girl with a good farm 'n' stock that was willin' to have him. Seems jest as if it set him agin' her somehow! And yet, if you've got to sing out of the same book with a girl your whole lifetime, it does seem 's if you'd ought to have a kind of a fancy for her at the start, anyhow."

"You may feel dif'rent as time goes on, Cephas, an' come to see Feeble-I would say Phoeb—as your mother would prove a valuable convert, Phillip thought, one who would reflect great credit upon him if he succeeded in inducing her to subscribe to the stern creed of the day.

Phillip was a very strenuous and slightly gloomy believer, dwelling continually on the wrath of God and the doctrine of eternal punishment. There was an old "penyroyal" hymn much in use, which describes the general tenor of his meditation—

My thoughts on awful subjects roll— Damnation and the dead. What horrors seize the guilty soul! Upon a dying bed!

(No wonder that Jacob Cochrane's lively songs, cheerful, hopeful, militant and bracing, fell with a pleasing sound upon the ear of the believer of that epoch.) The love of God had, indeed, entered Phillip's soul, but in some mysterious way had been ousted after it got there. He had intensely black hair, dark skin and a liver that disposed him constitutionally to an ardent belief in the necessity of hell for most of his neighbors and the hope of spending his own glorious immortality in a small, properly restricted and prudently managed heaven.

He was eloquent at prayer meetings, and Patty's only objection to him there was in his disposition to allude to himself as a "rebel worm," with frequent references to his "vile body." Otherwise and when not engaged in theological discussion Phillip liked very much. His own father, although an orthodox regular standing, had "doctored" Phillip conscientiously for his liver from his youth up, hoping in time to inculcate in him a sunnier view of life, for the doctor was somewhat skilled in adapting his remedies to spiritual maladies. Jed Morrill had always said that when old Mrs. Burton, the champion convert of Jacob Cochrane, was at her worst—keeping her whole family awake nights by her hysterical fears for her future—Dr. Perry had given her a twelfth of a grain of tartar emetic five times a day until she had entire mental relief, and her anxiety concerning the salvation of her husband and children was set completely at rest.

The good doctor noted with secret pleasure his son's growing fondness for the society of his prime favorite, Miss Patience Baxter. "He'll begin by trying to save her soul," he thought. "Phill always begins that way, but when Patty gets him in hand he'll remember the existence of his heart, an organ he has never taken into consideration. A love affair with a pretty girl, good but not too pious, will help Phil considerably, however it turns out."

There is no doubt but that Phil was taking his chances and that under Patty's tutelage he was growing mellowed. As for Patty, she was only amusing herself and frisking like a young lamb in pastures where she had never strayed before. Her fancy flew from Mark to Phil and from Phil back to Mark again, but at the moment she was just a vessel of emotion, ready to empty herself on she knew not what. Temperamentally, she would take advantage of currents rather than steer at any time, and it would be the strongest current that would finally bear her away. Her idea had always been that she could play with fire without burning her own fingers and that the flames she kindled were so innocent and mild that no one could be harmed by them. She had fancied up to now that she could control, urge on or cool down a man's feeling forever and a day if she chose and remain mistress of the situation. Now, after some weeks of weighing and balancing her two swains, she found herself confronting a choice one and for all. Each of them seemed to be approaching the state of mind where he was likely to say, somewhat violently, "Take me or leave me, one or the other!" But she did not wish to take them, and still less did she wish to leave them, with no other lover in sight but Cephas Cole, who was almost, though not quite, worse than none.

If matters by lack of masculine patience and self-control did come to a crisis what should she say definitely to either of her suitors? Her father despised Mark Wilson a trifle more than any young man on the river, and while he could have no objection to Phil Perry's character or position in the world, his hatred of old Dr. Perry amounted to a disease. When the doctor had closed the eyes of the third Mrs. Baxter he had made some plain and unwelcome statements that would rankle in the deacon's breast as long as he lived. Patty knew, therefore, that the chance of her father's blessing falling upon her union with either of her present lovers was more than uncertain, and of what use was an engagement if there could not be a marriage?

If Patty's mind inclined to a somewhat speedy departure from her father's household she can hardly be blamed, but she felt that she could not carry any of her indecisions and fears to her sister for settlement. Who could look in Waitstill's clear, steadfast eyes and say, "I can't make up my mind which to marry?" Not Patty. She felt, instinctively, that Waitstill's heart, if it moved at all, would rush out like a great river to lose itself in the ocean and, losing itself, forget the narrow banks through which it had flowed before. Patty knew that her own love was at the moment nothing more than the note of a child's penny flute and that Waitstill was perhaps vibrating secretly with a deeper, richer music than could ever come to her. Still, unable of some sort she meant to feel "Even if they make me decide one way or another before I am ready," she said to herself, "I'll never say 'yes' till I'm more in love than I am now!" There were other reasons why she did not want to ask Waitstill's advice. Not only did she shrink from the lov-
