General Joseph Gallieni Died This Morning Ambassador Gerard Thinks Peace is Near French Re-take Portion of Cumieres Village

GENERAL JOSEPH S. GALLIENI, FORMER FRENCH WAR MINISTER, DIED TO-DAY AT VERSAILLES

Man Who Was in Command of Paris During the First Great German Rush in 1914 has Passed to his Reward—At the Battle of the Marne he Turned the Scale in Favor of the French

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Paris, May 27.—8.25 a.m.—General Joseph S. Gallieni, former minister of war, died at Versailles to-day.

Of all the French generals in the European war, few had a better life than General Gallieni who, on the outbreak of the great war in August, 1914, was appointed military governor of the entrenched camp of Paris. Born of a military family at St. Beat, April 24, 1849, he had reached the age limit for retirement in 1913, but was maintained in active service, by decree, the minister of war holding that the services he rendered as governor of Madagascar justified an exception generally made only of generals, who have held a supreme command in the face of the enemy.

CAREER IN THE EAST.
During the forty five years of his military career, Gallieni participated in some of the dramatic episodes of the war of 1870, explored the Upper Niger and imposed a French protectorate over the region; pacified the colony of Indo-China, deposed Queen Ranavaloa of Madagascar and conquered and developed the colony. Between times he had written four notable books on exploration.

CARRIED MEN IN TAXIS.
After the notable part taken by General Gallieni in the battle of the Marne, when he pushed the 80,000 troops of the Paris garrison to the battle line in taxicabs at the crisis of the struggle and thereby turned the tide of victory in favor of the French, he was appointed minister of war in the reconstructed cabinet.

GOOD WAR MINISTER.
As war minister General Gallieni devoted himself with remarkable energy to the elimination of red tape in the administration of the army. He also dealt with a heavy hand with officers who had secured posts through favoritism or political influence. Like General Joffre he was relentless in forcing the retirement of old officers whose activities or abilities were not equal to the demands of the war. By revision of the exempt lists he added 40,000 men to the army.

AVIATOR GENERAL.
In February of this year General Gallieni took over the direction of the department of aviation, but shortly afterwards he was taken ill with kidney trouble and was compelled to resign on March 6. Since then he has been fighting a losing battle with death.

IDOLIZED BY PEOPLE.
The death of General Gallieni, while not unexpected, created a profound impression as he was idolized by the French people, particularly the poor, who regarded him as the saviour of Paris during the critical days of August, 1914. His funeral will be the occasion of a notable military and civil demonstration.

Shortly before his death an operation for transfusion of blood was performed, but it had little effect. The general was extremely weak and was unable to take nourishment. His son and daughter were at his bedside.

SCENE OF IRISH REBELLION, WHICH FIGURES IN SIR ROGER CASEMENT'S TRIAL

VIEW OF DUBLIN LOOKING WESTWARD UP THE RIVER LIFFEY, SHOWING POSITIONS HELD BY THE SINN FEINERS. Here is shown the scene of the Irish rebellion which figured in the capture of Sir Roger Casement, who now faces trial for high treason and a possible sentence to death. With him on the same charge will be tried Daniel J. Bailey, the Irish soldier who landed on the Irish coast with Casement from a German submarine. The date of the trial has not been set, but it probably will take place in the near future.

NO DYESTUFFS FROM GERMANY TO AMERICA

Britain Will Not Relax the Blockade to Aid U. S. Industries.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
London, May 27.—(Montreal Gazette)—Lord Robert Cecil, minister of war trade, amplified yesterday his recent statement in the House of Commons when he said Great Britain would be obliged to deny the request of America that cargoes of dye stuffs from Germany be permitted to go through as a relief to the industries of America.

"Our answer to America's request must be no," he said. "When we agreed over a year ago to allow two cargoes of dye stuffs to pass through from Germany to America, it was stipulated by America and Germany that these cargoes were to go in exchange for a cargo of cotton from America to Germany, which had been contracted for before March, 1915. The matter was allowed to run along by Germany and America until finally the American shipments for Germany came over, and we permitted them to go through to Germany, presuming they were intended for exchange for the dye stuffs. But it developed later that Germany paid for the cotton cargoes in cash, while not shipping the dye stuffs."

HAVE GOT ALONG FOR A YEAR.
"On April 22, nearly a year later, the American government asked us if we could not arrange to allow the dye stuff cargoes to go on. We were informed that American industries were suffering from want of dye stuffs, which same argument was used a year ago, when we gave permission for the exchange of cargoes. Our attitude is that if American industries are able to get along a whole year without German dye stuffs cargoes, some way must be found to overcome the difficulty that might be applied now. In other words we don't feel an urgent necessity exists that ought to cause us to allow the dye stuffs to pass at that late date. In any event, the conditions under which we allowed the exchange of cargoes were not observed when Germany paid cash for cotton instead of shipping dye stuffs, so it must be admitted that whatever the failure was to carry out the agreement, it is no fault of ours."

DOES NOT WANT MUCH.
"It must also be borne in mind that while Germany only expected to get two cargoes of dye stuffs to America a year ago, now according to figures given to the House the other day, she is trying to get $50,000,000 worth to America. It is easy to see what a huge advantage it would be to Germany to reopen any of her markets. Great Britain does not intend to allow her to do it. We are trying to keep all of Germany's goods out of the world's markets while this war is on, and it is only in rare cases, such as shipments of drugs, where we feel like making exceptions to any market."

To Meet Demand for More Gold, Added Facilities to be Given.

Ottawa, May 27.—The Mint at Ottawa is to be extended and enlarged in its operations. To meet the demand for more gold, additional facilities are to be acquired. It is understood that this extension will be of a temporary character, but of considerable magnitude. The work is to be got under way at the earliest moment possible.

The new building will be built in close proximity to the permanent structures. Some difficulty is being experienced in securing the men for the work, and prominent organizations have been asked to help obtain them. The demand on the Mint is a wartime phenomenon, and is to produce more gold coins to be used for war purposes. A greater amount of Canadian gold will be refined than hitherto.

AUSTRIANS CLAIM A BIG SUCCESS

Say They Have Taken an Extensive Mountain Ridge.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Vienna, May 27, via London.—Twenty-five hundred Italians, four guns, four machine guns and a quantity of war material have been captured by the Austrians who stormed an extensive mountain ridge on the Trentino front, according to an official statement issued by the War Department here.

The text of the Austrian statement follows: "We have gained a new great success on the Italian front, capturing the entire mountain ridge from Cornoicampe Verde to Maata. The enemy suffered sanguinary losses. We captured over 2,500 prisoners, four guns, four machine guns, 300 bicycles and much other material."

Rome Reports a Severe Reverse For Austrians in the Lagarina Valley

Italians, However, Abandoned One Position on the Astico River.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Rome, via London, May 27.—A serious reverse for the Austrians in the Lagarina valley is announced in an official statement issued by the war department to-day. The statement follows: "In the Lagarina valley the enemy committed yesterday its impetuous attacks on our lines between the Adige River and the Arsa valley, and met with another sanguinary defeat. After the usual violent preparations, masses of infantry in close formation began an attack on us at Coni Sugana and Col di Bole. They were exterminated by the cool and precise fire of our troops."

"Between the Arsa valley and Posina, the situation is unchanged. Between the Posina and the Astico river after an intense concentrated bombardment by the enemy, our troops, having repulsed one attack, evacuated an advanced position on the Astico River."

"In the Asiago sector, fighting continued during the whole day with varying fortunes, and was still proceeding at night, the enemy attacking our position east of the Assa valley."

"In the Sugana valley, the enemy on, but were repulsed each time with heavy losses. One of our columns of infantry and Alpines, by a brilliant surprise attack, drove the enemy from the approaches to our positions on the left bank of the Maso."

"On the remainder of the front there was the usual artillery fire. We repulsed various minor attacks on the Podora heights, in the Monte San Michele sector. Enemy airmen threw bombs on Caltrano, Thiene and Latina, inflicting some casualties and light property damage."

"One of our Caproni squadrons dropped bombs on the enemy positions between the Toora and Arsa valley, and one of our aeroplanes compelled an enemy machine to descend precipitately at the Castagnavizza height."

Ambassador Gerard Says Peace is in Sight

Settlement of the Differences Between U. S. and Germany Prepares Way for Wilson to Take Up Question of Peace.

By Special Wire to the Courier.
Berlin, May 27, via London.—United States Ambassador Gerard is convinced that peace is in sight, according to an interview published in a Munich newspaper to-day from its Berlin correspondent. Mr. Gerard is quoted as saying: "Nothing can shake my confidence that peace is on its way."

The ambassador referred to the settlement of the differences of the United States and Germany as preparing the way for President Wilson to take up the question of peace. "President Wilson," he said, "has much greater freedom of action now to deal with the immense world problem, which will determine the future attitude of nearly all the countries of the globe. It is useless to discuss at this moment the question as to whether President Wilson's intermediation is desirable or probable. In this instance facts alone must speak, and one of the most important facts is that the neutrals are probably as much interested in bringing about an early peace as the belligerents. America urgently desires peace, and for this reason alone the American government is under an obligation to its citizens to do and support everything that serves the cause of peace. A fact of chief importance is that my government is really the United States."

Referring to the recent crisis in German-American relations, the ambassador said: "I hardly know from what quarter the present good relations between the United States and Germany could be disturbed. The establishment of the good relations with Germany is one of the most important factors of the diplomatic situation now confronting the United States."

The announcement has been made of the engagement of Prince George of Battenberg and Countess Nada Torby. Prince George is a sailor like his father, an Englishman to the core of his heart, and has taken part in one of the few naval engagements of the war. He is manly and modest, and liked by all who know him; and Countess Nada Torby, like her sister, enjoys an enormous popularity. Lorne McElhannon, Mrs. Allan MacKenzie, Mrs. Ernest Stuart, Mrs. Melville Davis and Mrs. Mitchell-Henry.

The marriage is announced in London of Miss Muriel Dodd, champion lady golfer Canada, to Captain MacBeth. Mrs. MacBeth won the championship in 1913, and as no tournaments have been held since, she still retains the title. The charming bride will wear the same gown as her husband's sword. Golfers throughout Canada will join in hearty congratulations.

A delightful entertainment was given at the Hotel Biltmore, New York, on Thursday evening in aid of the Allies Hospitals Relief Commission. Lady Bordet presided. Many prominent actors and actresses gave their services and an excellent varied program was given, at the close of which dancing was the order of the day. The affair was one of the most successful held recently and a large sum was realized for this most worthy cause.

One of the most interesting and successful of the charitable functions given in New York this season was the entertainment at the Ritz-Carlton on Wednesday evening of this week for the benefit of the Permanent Blind Relief War Fund in aid of the British, French and Belgian soldiers. Many dinners preceded it and many more supper parties followed. Sir Herbert Tree and his daughter, Miss Iris Tree and Lady de Bathe all contributed to the program. Lady Colbrook, who is visiting in New York, took part in the tableaux appearing as Britannia in armor.

The marriage of Miss Irene Heintzman, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Heintzman, to Lieut. Gordon Bryant Gibson, A.D.C., Colonel-in-Chief, 3rd Canadian Artillery Division, son of Mr. and Mrs. Goodwin Gibson, of Toronto, was solemnized in London, England, on Tuesday, May 23rd, the day after the arrival of the bride in England. The service was taken by the uncle of the groom, J. Monro Gibson, D.D., LL.D., a famous Presbyterian divine. The bride wore a suit of black tulle trimmed with white and black, and white hat. Mr. Monro Gibson was best man. The bride is very well known in Brantford, having visited here on several occasions.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

BY JOHN W.S. McCULLOUGH, M.D., D.P.H., CHIEF OFFICER OF THE PROVINCIAL BOARD OF HEALTH.

FLIES AS CARRIERS OF DISEASE
THE OPEN SEASON for the house fly is at hand. Flies are the filthiest and one of the most dangerous enemies of man. Every summer they kill more people in Ontario than are killed during the entire year by murderers, lightning storms, mad dogs, angry bulls, street and railway cars, and motors. How do they do it?

By carrying the germs of typhoid fever, dysentery, infant diarrhoea, tuberculosis, and many other diseases to our food. How could the fly with its disgusting habits do otherwise than carry disease? The frequenter of every filth this insect boldly invades our homes, and with a nonchalant air and impudence unequalled by anything or anyone, he roams about among the daintiest dishes, wiping his dirty feet wherever he alights. Flies breed chiefly in manure piles and lay about 120 eggs at a time. If stable manure is not convenient, the female fly lays her eggs in garbage, human excrement, decaying vegetable matter, rubbish, or any available filth. In warm weather the eggs become full grown flies in from eight to ten days. Perhaps some of you have seen the Provincial Board of Health's moving picture film illustrating the growth of the fly. If you have not already done so you may see this interesting film at the next Canadian National Exhibition in the Ontario Health Exhibit.

The fly is a great feeder. He has an enormous appetite. When full grown his first impulse is to obtain a square meal. He is not particular about the quality of food he eats. It may be manure, or filth of any kind. Then he starts out to visit the immediate neighborhood. A conveniently open kitchen window attracts him, and soon he is revelling in the sweets of the kitchen. If screened windows prevent his entry to the house he is latent upon he takes a few meals from the garbage pail or spittoon. If there is plenty of food near their breeding places flies may travel but short distances. If, however, the supply in the immediate neighborhood is scanty they travel considerable distances, even half a mile or more.

We used to regard the fly simply as a pest, an enemy to one's rest and comfort. This is particularly so when one desires to sleep, read, or remain quiet in his presence. When we began to study his breeding places, habits of life, and the possibility of his carrying nauseating filth and disease on his feet and legs from stables and privies to our food, the fly assumed much more importance and was soon recognized as a danger to one's health. Flies are now known to carry many diseases. Flies cannot breed without filth, and their number is a measure of the filth about a place. They serve as a perpetual tormenting disgraceful reminder of our own filth, and they serve to teach us a lesson in cleanliness.

To solve the fly problem is simply to remove, destroy, or screen all manure and other filth in the community. Manure should not be allowed to remain about stables for a longer period than four or five days. It should always be kept in a tight-fitting box so that flies cannot reach it. In cities, towns, and villages this is the law. It is no great hardship for the man who keeps a horse or a cow to construct such a box, especially since it is in his own and his neighbor's interest from the point of view of health and comfort that he should do so.
People fail to keep their premises clean—
First, because they don't know any better. After such people read this, that excuse is removed.
Second, they don't care. There are not many of this class, but those who belong to it are guilty of criminal negligence, and the police court is their proper destination.
Third, they don't think it worth while unless their neighbors do the same thing. Co-operation and example is the way to deal with these.

Boys and girls should learn of the habits and danger of flies early in life. It is for them particularly that these lines are written. Boys and girls are the best asset of the Nation, especially if they are well trained and educated. It is to them that the health officer looks for the future prevention of disease. So to the boys and girls I say: learn habits of cleanliness of every kind. You will be the better for it.

Ottawa, May 27.—Canada has sold her giant ice-breaker, launched only two weeks ago from the yards of the Canadian Vickers, Limited, at Montreal to the Russian Government. It will be completed during the coming Fall, and it is hoped, will be delivered in time to aid in the work of keeping open Russia's winter port of Archangel.

This is the third Canadian vessel of the same kind to be turned over by the Government to the Czar's empire during the last two years. The Minto and the Earl Grey have been similarly disposed of, and have been sent across the seas to enter the service of Britain's great ally. They have al-expression of the Russian Government's gratitude for the transfer of the vessels it was emphasized that they have paid for their value many times over in the facilities they have afforded for the landing of cargoes of munitions at the Russian Sea Port.

The Latest Word.

The Minto and Earl Grey were small vessels, however, compared with the J. D. Hazen, as the new boat is the greatest ice-breaker in the world and represents absolutely the last word in this class of construction. It will cost, roughly, a million dollars, and is being turned over to the Russian Government for exactly what it cost. It develops 8,000 horse-power and is of exceptionally powerful construction. It is designed that certain charges in construction will be made to meet the wishes of the Russian authorities before it is turned over to them, which will enable the vessel to be used for the carrying of a certain number of passengers, as well as for ice-breaking purposes proper. The boat was designed by Mr. C. F. M. Dagnid, Naval Architect of the Marine Department.

The aim of the movement is twofold: An adult organized bible class in every Sunday school; an attendance of at least 100 men a Sunday. An evangelistic committee composed of J. F. Schultz, A. E. Day and G. L. Good, who together with representatives from each Sunday school, is at work on this important matter, and developments in the near future of interest to every Sunday school may be expected.

NOTHING DOING
Brantford is developing into a dangerous rival of Toronto the good, and the wringing of that title from the capital city is receiving serious consideration at the local police station, where another day of crimeless quiet was enjoyed by all this morning.

NOTES OF THE 125th.
Officer of the day, Major Shultis; next for duty, Capt. James, Subaltern of the day, Lieut. Smith; next for duty, Lieut. Preston.

It has been brought to the attention of the Commanding Officer, that companies and units using the Y.M.C.A. marsh-bled and also on muddy weather and thus carry a great deal of dirt into the building. Any company or unit detailed to the Y. M. C. A. will take the sidewalk on Queen street while the street is in this condition.

A certificate of partial military qualification for the rank of lieutenant, attained by Hon. Lt. Col. W. F. Cockshutt, has been received at the battalion headquarters.

The 125th has now obtained a full complement of rifles for training purposes. These rifles are very similar to the active service weapons, differing only in the arrangement of the sights and the method of loading.

A supply of brooches, embodying the regimental crest, has been received at headquarters, the brooches being now on sale in the canteen.

The 125th Battalion is in need of a large Union Jack for the purpose of draping the dums at open air drum head divine service.

SHES

Sergt. E. F. Waters, made his first appearance last evening at the home of Lt. Col. Harry Cockshutt, Dufferin House, when the following musical programme was rendered: "O Canada" (Waldron); "King Cotton" (Souza); "Keep the Home Fires Burning" (Novello); "The Phantom Brigade" (Mydleton); "Sons of the Brave" (Bidford); "Good Luck to the Boys of the Allies" (Manley); "Battalion March," "God Save the King."

Refreshments were served by Col. and Mrs. Cockshutt to all present, and Capt. Andrews on behalf of the band committee conveyed the thanks of all to the host and hostess, and called for three cheers, which were heartily given. Lt. Col. Cockshutt responded suitably, praising the bandsmen upon their first appearance, and expressing the wish that the 215th Battalion band might be second to none which ever left Canada, a wish which the officials of the band committee are confident will be fulfilled, all expressing themselves as highly satisfied with the progress being made by the band. Cheers were also given for the officers of the 215th battalion, and a fitting reply was made by Major Snider.

NOTES OF THE 216th.
Admiration is expressed at the local recruiting office at the splendid physique of the recruits who are being obtained for the Bantam battalion. All have proved to be men of excellent proportions in all respects, only their small stature having debarrered them from enlisting before the present. Three recruits were obtained in the city yesterday, while a number of prospective recruits were discovered by L. McKissock in Paris. Three of them are expected in the city to-morrow. The ever alert and vigilant methods adopted in recruiting by the Bantams is evidenced by the fact that a recruit was secured for the Bantam office at 10:30 last night. The early bird gets the worm, but the Bantams are up and scratching both early and late, and obtaining magnificent results, both here and elsewhere.

Seized Opium

Nearly Five Thousand Dollars' Worth Taken by Montreal Police.

Montreal, May 26.—Between four and five thousand dollars' worth of opium in one hundred tins that had been smuggled into Montreal from Liverpool on the Allan Liner Scandinavian was seized by the police yesterday. The opium was seized at the home of Thomas Griffiths, 222 St. Andre street, where it had been located by a special inspector of the Customs department who had been sent down from Ottawa to make an investigation. Griffiths was taken to police headquarters and locked up, but later was admitted to bail in bonds of $500.

Rev. D. S. E. Large has received a unanimous call, which he has accepted, to the pastorate of the McLeod street Methodist church, Ottawa. The total British casualties last week were 9,977. A cargo of French war trophies reached New York for the Entente Bazaar. Mauna Loa, the volcano which was in eruption last week, has broken out again.

Wedding Bells.

HICKRIDGE-LEFLER
On Wednesday, May 17th at 5:30, Robert Hickridge of the 125th and Miss Lizzie Lefler of this city were united in marriage by Rev. L. Brown.

OSWALL-REID.
The marriage took place on Wednesday, May 24th, at the First Baptist parsonage, of Viola Maud, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jno. Reid, Burford street, to Robert Hunter Oswald of this city. The bride, who was unattended, looked charming in a suit of Russian green taffeta, with a leg-horn hat, and corsage bouquet of sweet peas and lilies of the valley. After the ceremony the bridal couple and immediate relatives of the family returned to the house, where a dainty dejeuner was served. The young couple left later for Detroit and points west amidst showers of confetti and best wishes of their many friends. They were in receipt of many costly and beautiful gifts. On their return they will reside in Brantford.

Mr. Broadbent from time to time will have a showing of his high grade novelties.

A BUDGET OF NEWS FOR THOSE INTERESTED IN LABOR IN THE WORLD OF LABOR
 GLEANED FROM THE EXCHANGES AND OTHER SOURCES

Street car men have accepted the compromise offer of the Cleveland, Ohio, Railway Company. Wages are increased 2 cents an hour this year and one cent an hour next year.

As a result of the great forward movement now being waged, the International Teamsters, Chauffeurs and Stablemen expect to add thirty thousand new members to their organization.

The Asbestos Workers' Union of Cincinnati, O., has signed a three years' agreement with employers. The new rates are: First year, 55 cents an hour; second year 57 1/2 cents; third year, 60 cents.

The McKinley lines in Galesburg, Ill., have signed a three year agreement with the Street Car Men's Union. Wages are raised 2 cents per hour for the first year and an additional 1 cent an hour each for the other two years.

High school teachers in Washington, D.C., have organized a union and will affiliate with the bona fide trade union movement. It is stated that nearly one half of the 230 high school teachers in this city have already joined the union.

A record volume of business was transacted during the month of April by the factories of New York State, the number of employees being 21 per cent, greater and wages paid 37 per cent, higher than for the corresponding period in 1915.

The American Federation of Labor has issued a charter to the American Federation of Teachers. Charles B. Stillman is president and Margaret Snodgrass is corresponding secretary, with offices at 116 West Washington Street, Chicago.

Through the good work of the American Federation of Labor all the silk mills in Easton, Pa., Philipsburg, N. J., nineteen in all, have reduced hours to nine per day and put into effect a ten per cent. increase in wages. It is said that Allentown, Pa., where 17 mills are located, will follow suit.

News from Buffalo is to the effect that the twenty-five hundred employees of the International Railway who are members of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees' Union, have rejected the amendments to the agreement between the company and the carmen, and negotiations are at a standstill. The only step now open to avert trouble is to have the differences adjusted by an impartial board of arbitration.

The great organization campaign which is sweeping the continent is at full flood in Minneapolis, where in one night recently the carpenters initiated over four hundred new members, and the meeting was so large that it was necessary to secure the big court house assembly hall to accommodate the crowd.

In Winnipeg 53 1/2 per cent. of the voters are owners, and 46 1/2 per cent. are tenants.

Things have taken a slump in the C.N.R. shops at Dauphin, Man. Short time came back in April, with no improvement in May, and not a very favorable outlook ahead either.

The Saskatchewan Provincial commission on agricultural credit has handed down a report to the effect that eighty per cent. of the farm land of province is mortgaged, the average indebtedness of the farmers being in excess of $5 per acre.

The International Association of Machinists is putting up a great organization campaign in Montreal, and as a result are in better shape than at any previous time in their history. During the last two months in particular large numbers of non-union workers have got right and are now doing their bit with a paid-up union card in their pocket.

The Montreal Trades and Labor Council at a recent meeting declared that a special session of the Trades and Labor Congress ought to be convened in order to take action in regard to the betrayal by the Government of the interests of the workers of the country, more especially in regard to their exploitation upon war munitions and war supply work.

After a close down of over five months the M. P. and J. T. Davis Co. of Riviere a Pierre, Que., has again started up its granite cutting plant. It has a large amount of work to get out, which will be used in the construction of the Lewis dydock. A large number of hands will be employed, but there are enough granite cutters, and more, on the spot to take up all the jobs.

Quite a number of machinists who left Calgary to work in munition plants in Great Britain are now on their way back home, and so far as can be ascertained none of them are extra enthusiastic in regard to what happened to them over the briny, and appear to be mightily glad to get back to Canada. Times were very bad here when they left, and they see a big improvement in regard to conditions in Western Canada. Calgary looks awfully good to them now.

An order for thirty locomotives has been awarded to the Canadian Locomotive Company for the Canadian Government systems, the amount involved being $1,000,000. It is understood that the letting of this order is preliminary to other orders for railway equipment from Ottawa, and that negotiations are under way at present for another $2,000,000 contract, the closing of which may be announced in a few days.

Granite cutters in Iberville, Que., are very busy at present. The firm of James Brodie and Son, who generally employ a large number of men, have more orders on their books than they ever had at one time before. Norcross Brothers are also getting out the interior work for several large buildings, and are putting on new men. There will be five months' work for three gangs of men, and the place will be livelier this summer than it has ever been at any previous period in its history.

Motormen and conductors, employed by the Pittsburg, Pa., Railways Co., have rejected a two days' strike. The new rates are: First six months, 27 cents an hour; old rate 23 1/2 cents. Second six months, 29 cents; old rate 25 cents. Third year, 33 cents; old rate, 28 cents. Fourth year, 34 cents; old rate, 30 cents. After fourth year, 35 cents; old rate, 30 cents.

The organization of the women workers in the United States is making splendid headway these days. The sentiment in favor of unionism is everywhere apparent, and the spirit of organization is strongly in evidence. In many factories the battle for short hours has met with unprecedented success, and in this work the women's Trades Union League is doing splendid service. The movement is assuredly coming into its own.

Reducing Expenses
 THE war has increased the cost of living. The housewife must, therefore, make her money go farther. By using a tea, like Red Rose, which is largely composed of Assam Indian teas, she can reduce her tea bill considerably. The rich Indian strength requires less tea in the tea pot.

FOURTEEN STRAIGHT; GIANTS WIN AGAIN
 Boston, May 27.—The Braves were unequal to the task of stopping the climbing Giants and went down to Tyler in a rout yesterday after the Giants had battered many lives for extra bases being recorded. Tetreau started for New York, but a liner from Tyler's bat in the second inning, which injured the little finger of his throwing hand, disabled him, and Stroud went to the mound in the third. Score: R.H.E. New York...102020214—14 14 1 Boston...001000000—1 11 3 Tetreau, Stroud and Kariel, and Dooin; Tyler and Gowdy, Transgressors.

A VARIED CAERER.
 Col. Charles Coventry.—The British Empire Covers such an extensive territory that there are engagements taking place in a dozen or more centres during the present world conflict. Recently Colonel Charles Coventry, second son of Lord Coventry, was surprised and taken prisoner while on a reconnoitering expedition some fifty miles east of the Suez Canal. He has been arrested of to prison where it is presumed, he will be kept until the end of the war. This is not the first time he has seen the inside of a military prison. As a young lieutenant he took part in the Jamieson Raid, was captured by the Boers, lodged in prison and doomed to death. He was later sent out of the country and returned to England, where he was sentenced to six months in jail for violating the laws of neutrality in taking part in the Jamieson raid. Later he saw service in West Africa, where he distinguished himself by the gallantry of his conduct. He is a particularly effective officer, and his capture by a superior Turkish force is greatly to be regretted.

LOSS OF APPETITE
 Most Successfully Treated by Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.
 Loss of appetite is accompanied by loss of vitality, which is serious. It is common in the spring because at this time the blood is impure and impoverished and fails to give the digestive organs what is absolutely necessary for the proper performance of their functions. Hood's Sarsaparilla, the old reliable all-the-year-round medicine, is especially useful in the spring. Give it from your druggist. By purifying and enriching the blood and giving vitality, vigor and tone, it is wonderfully successful in the treatment of loss of appetite and the other ailments that are so prevalent at this time. It is not simply a spring medicine—it is much more than that—but it is the best spring medicine. Hood's Sarsaparilla makes the rich red blood that the stomach and digestive organs need. "PRINCESS PAT" TUNEFUL COMEDY
 Large Audience at Grand Delighted With Its Presentation.
 With music that was tuneful and haunting, with principals that could act, and with a whole company that could sing, the "Princess Pat" came to the Grand Opera House last evening, and not only came but conquered. Nearly every seat in the house was occupied, and the fact that every song was applauded, not perfunctorily, but so heartily that encore was necessary, tells its own story. A better performance has not been witnessed in Brantford for years.
 The music was tuneful and beautiful, every number seeming to be an improvement on the preceding one. Charlotte Le Grande as the "Princess Pat" showed herself the possessor of a splendid singing voice, and Effie was a ton of genius under his characterization of the hackneyed country constable, and his depicting of his pleasure at drinking "hard cider" as worth going miles to see.

REVELATIONS OF A WIFE
 By Adele Garrison
 Mrs. Smith Tries to "Put One Over"
 HERE she comes!" The whisper ran from one to another of the crowd of women in the assembly rooms of the Lotus Study Club as Mrs. Helen Brainerd Smith, secretary of the club, made her belated entrance.
 To me, chafing in my corner at her rudeness, her manner of coming into the room seemed insolently condescending, majestic, even regal, as her progress down the aisle was.
 When she had engaged me to give the course of lectures on history to the club she had asked me to be at the clubhouse a half-hour before the meeting time on the day of my first lecture. By taking her at her word I had been uncomfortablely waiting a stranger and alone, while the members of the club, unaware of my identity, chattered freely of me and my work.
 "See the conquering hero—she comes," I acted as if she owned the place and its inhabitants," returned the woman beside her.
 "My dear, she actually does!" said the first speaker. "She was born in this house, and it belongs to her from chimney to cellar." She practically gives us use to the club—it's the price she pays for being absolute dictator of the organization."
 From their remarks before Mrs. Smith entered the room, I had discovered that the women behind me were newspaper writers, and I shamelessly listened to their revelations.
 "Fretty sits still for being dictator of this outfit."
 "Much she cares about this. She'd drop it in a minute, if it had served her purpose. She has an insane ambition to be the queen bee of the big crowd, the Federation, you know. The fact that she's the whole thing here gives her a chance to get into the papers and to corde her a certain amount of prestige in the state organization. She's a fox. She'll never take the presidency of this club, 'wants to serve in a humble capacity' and that sort of rot. But she things things with an iron hand, and the president is always her puppet. Look at the speeches up here now."
 "Poor little rabbit!" said the other woman, and I agreed with her as she watched the limited, appealing-looking little woman who stepped to the speaker's desk, and looked hesitatingly over the assemblage.
 Mrs. Graham on inspection.
 "Is Mrs. Graham here?" she asked. "It is she come up here, please."
 My face was white with anger and embarrassment as I stepped out from my seat and passed up the front, with the consciousness that every pair of eyes in the room was focused on my back. I had a primitive desire to strike the patronizing smile from Mrs. Smith's face, as standing by the president, and watched my progress toward her. I have always had a dread, amounting almost to an obsession, of having people stare at me. It was hard enough for me to undertake the lecture without having this ordeal thrust upon me.
 But I knew that this, my first appearance before the women whom I had been engaged to instruct, was no time to show any resentment, so I steeled myself to calmness, and presented a courteous if unsmiling demeanor to Mrs. Smith's smile of greeting, and introduction to the president, Mrs. Bennett.
 "So sorry to have been unable to greet you," she said with mechanical courtesy. But Mrs. Bennett, who was Really, however, there was nothing for

Three Minute Journeys
 WHERE BUN AND TREACLE CONTESTS ARE A FAVORITE SPORT.
 SOUTH AFRICA is a land of many surprises and a place of innumerable odd happenings. The natives are really childlike in their appreciation of simple things, as their belief in witchcraft would seem to prove. But the convincing case, if one were really needed, is to be found in the sports they love.
 In Mashonaland I once came across an odd game which delights the Umteah and to eat it.
 To make the stunt more difficult the buns were smeared with a liberal amount of golden syrup. To add to the humor of the contest the competitors were prohibited from touching the buns with their hands. And that there could be no "fouls" in the game, each contestant had his arms tied behind him.
 At a given signal the contestants took their places, each before the particular bun he was to try to conquer. Then the rope was slackened by the referee, who was a most dignified native in whose opinion the contest was of much else. The buns began to wobble at the ends of their cords. The first one to touch his bun touched it with his nose and there it stuck. He backed away and shook himself loose from the syrup-covered bun. Then the man next him made a mighty lunge at his bun, and it caught him on the forehead. At this point I lost all feeling that the buns were inanimate—they seemed alive. They swung and pluck and clung, and seemed determined to escape the contest that bit at them.
 To add to the hilarity of the occasion one of the men on the "side lines" suddenly leaped forward the center of the game. His hand caught in the air, and from it there came a shower of seeds which sprinkled the nearest contestant with white that attracted treacle-covered faces. This seemed the signal for those near to pelt the "players" with flour. The entire population of the little town turned out to see the fun. And while the onlookers laughed loudly at the comical capers the contestants out, the players themselves had enough of a sense of humor to laugh loudly.

me to say to you. Of course you have your talk all ready, and as soon as the business meeting is over the members of the history course will come forward. Mrs. Bent will introduce you and you can go right on with the work. Is there anything you need for your lecture?"
"I must have a large blackboard, a pointer and some white and colored chalk," I said with decision. I had made up my mind that the best way to deal with Mrs. Smith was to be as uncompromising as she was. "I can get along without them for the opening lecture, but I must have them before the next. The necessary maps I will provide. A school publishing house I know will lend them to me, deliver them here and take them away again, provided they can be safeguarded while here."

When Check-Time Came.

I sank into the seat she indicated, and tried to collect my scattered ideas in order to be ready when the time came for me to speak.
"The meeting will please come to order," quavered the president, striking a feeble little blow with a bandsome avel upon the desk, and then turning to Mrs. Smith deferentially: "The secretary will please read the minutes of the last meeting."
Mrs. Smith rose, and in a carefully modulated voice read the minutes, which to do her justice, were written in remarkably clear and concise fashion. They were adopted with the usual mechanical formula, and then there followed the regular routine business of the club. But there appeared to be an endless amount of it, entailing a good deal of discussion. As soon as her minutes were read, Mrs. Smith had moved toward the rear of the room. I saw her arrest the newspaper women and then disappear with them mysteriously into some other part of the clubhouse. I really believed that she could would have expedited matters if he had been in the room. But in her haste to slip without a rudder, the minutes slipped by, the half hours followed and when Mrs. Smith came back to the room, the hands of the watch indicated a 9 o'clock, and the business minutes just being concluded.
Mrs. Smith's face showed her displeasure, but her voice was as cool and as calm as ever as she spoke to me: "We certainly owe you a check, you for being you waiting so long. Mrs. Graham, I think it would be better now, in view of the lateness of the hour, for me simply to greet the club after my introduction, and outline the books or apps you wish them to consider for the next meeting. Then you can give at week the talk you have prepared for today."

ARMED TRADERS ON THE HIGH SEAS WERE NOT UNKNOWN BEFORE THIS WAR BROKE OUT

Instance After Instance Can be Recorded From History Where Merchantmen in Time of War Resisted the Attention of Warships—In the 18th Century All Merchant Ships Not Conveyed Were Armed—Even the Whalers Carried Guns For Protection

By the decision not to recognize the claim of Germany to torpedo armed merchant ships without warning, the United States Government acknowledges the right of trading ships to carry weapons for their own protection.

This attitude is entirely in accordance with American precedent and international law. It would, however, be most unfair if, while admitting the principle, such alterations were made in American harbor rules as will deprive this right of the merchant seaman of its value. Against the latest types of submarine, nothing less than a six-gun can be of much use. No restrictions were placed upon the quantity or calibre of the armament carried by merchantmen of the United States in the past. As it was with the American armed traders, so it was with the commercial ships of other countries. There are also scores of instances in the history of sea adventure in which armed traders have offered resistance to war vessels and privateers, usually without waiting to be attacked.

A CENTURY OLD PRECEDENT. The classical instance of the kind is the engagement which was fought between the East Indian, under the command of Commodore Nathaniel Dance, of the Company's service, and a French squadron composed of one line-of-battle ship, three frigates, and a brig, under Admiral Linois, on the early 14, 1804, off Pulo Aoro. By his skillful disposition and combatant attitude, the commodore deceived his opponent into mistaking the British ships for merchantmen. He was so confident that the enemy hesitated. Dance promptly attacked, and this bold manoeuvre had the effect of causing the French squadron to withdraw. The rich convoy was thus preserved, and on returning to England Dance was knighted for his courage and resource. The East Indian, indeed, while perfectly ready to fight, as they so often did if necessary, were equally prepared to gain their object by a bluff when possible. In August, 1800, the Exeter, an East Indian, ranged up alongside the Medea a 36-gun frigate, and demanded her surrender. "It being dusk, the French Captain believed his vessel to be under the guns of a line-of-battle ship and, considering defence fruitless, complied with the demand of the trader."

Many similar instances in which the armed merchant ships of the East India Company were able to successfully resist war vessels or privateers occurred. But it was not only the Company's ships—in which discipline resembling that of the Royal Navy was maintained—but merchant vessels of all descriptions, which were armed. In the 18th century, it may be said that there were practically only two methods of commercial sailing in war time. One was that in which a number of merchantmen met and proceeded under the protection and convoy of a suitable force of men-of-war; and the other, usually practised by the faster sailing vessels, was that of going well armed and manned, and of relying upon on their own strength and speed to avoid capture. As a rule, such ships carried a valuable cargo, and their captains were prepared to fight in their defence.

Another case very much in point is that of the Atlas, an American privateer from the Delaware, which in 1812 met two English merchant ships, and was attacked by them as soon as she showed her colors. Nothing could be clearer, indeed, from a perusal of the accounts relating to armed merchant ships than that they seldom waited to be summoned by any ship once her hostile intent was perceived or even suspected.

WOODEN GUNS. Even the whalers were obliged to carry guns. James Choyce, a seaman, who in 1793 was an apprentice in the South Sea whale fishery, describes how, on the homeward passage, after leaving St. Helena, his ship being a dull sailer was left behind by a whaler with another slow vessel. The whaler carried 14 six-pounders and four wooden ones, and with paint she was made to look as warlike as possible. The other ship had only two real guns, but she made 14 of wood and mounted them. The seaman also knotted up rope yards round a gunpowder cartridge. One of these, tied to the muzzle of a wooden gun, made all the noise and had the appearance when fired of being an actual discharge from the piece. By these means they hoped to frighten any small privateer, and did, indeed, when attacked by a strange brig, manage to escape safely into port.

OTHER EXAMPLES. These examples might be multiplied. It could be shown how the Mount Vernon, Captain Darby, an American merchantman sailing from Salem to Gibraltar in 1799, had several engagements with French and Spanish privateers, and in every case beat them off, the actions generally beginning by the trader opening fire before her assailants made any show of summoning her to stop. Captain Darby never hesitated, but realizing that it was a case of successful defence or capture, he attacked on sight.

PEACE THIS SUMMER IS IMPOSSIBLE President Wilson Should Make No Attempt to Intervene.

New York, May 27.—A Berlin despatch to a news agency here to-day says:
President Wilson should make no attempt to intervene in the European war at present, two well-informed neutral ambassadors told to-day. Peace this summer is impossible, they agreed. The recent exchanges between the belligerent capitals and confidential information obtained through diplomatic channels convinces them that each side is too confident of its ability to win military victories this summer to listen to peace proposals.
One ambassador said he thought fighting would cease in October, apparently basing his opinion on the conviction that this summer's fighting will only emphasize the deadlock. Peace negotiations, he suggested, would then be carried on throughout the winter, taking at least a year for their conclusion.
Both ambassadors, however, believe that as matters stand now some neutral other than the United States will have a better chance of succeeding in peace proposals.
Bathing suits with socks will be the prevailing style for women at the beaches this summer, New York fashion experts declare.

INVENTS "HOSE OF DEATH" FOR ALLIES

LIEUTENANT COLONEL ISAAC N. LEWIS. Colonel I. N. Lewis, U. S. A., retired, is the inventor of a machine gun which is being used by the Allies with wonderful effect. Its killing power may be gauged from the fact that in one trench recently one of these guns, manned by a crew of two men, accounted for 330 Germans in half an hour. It has been described as the "Hose of Death," and whether in advance or retirement it is going to be the supreme battle arbiter of the coming year, according to British military opinion.

FABULOUS SUMS ARE SAID TO BE STORED BY THE TURKS IN VAULTS IN CONSTANTINOPLE

Should Russia Break Through to Islam's Capital the Treasure Would Rightly be Hers—Turks Very Uneasy, are Thinking of Placing Them For Safe Keeping With the United States—In the Meantime the Guards Around the Treasure Have been Doubled.

Of all cities in the Mohammedan world most imposing in mosques, palaces with the relics of ancient civilizations, Constantinople vies with Athens, Rome and Jerusalem in monuments, palaces, and archaeological features of rare historic interest.

And if the final objective in the Asia Minor campaign of the Grand Duke Nicholas is to replace the colors of the Crescent at Constantinople by the flag of All the Russias, then a very unique aspect of that campaign may arise, should the daring in fact succeed.

The usage in war is that to the victor belongs the spoils. Germany is exacting with Shylockian callousness, that toll by virtue of its temporary subjugation of Belgium, Napoleon stripped Rome and Milan of some of their rarest art treasures, but Germany penalizes the very blood of the poor and reduces the nation's mines and treasurers to mere military adjuncts of the war machine. If Russia breaks through the opposing forces arrayed against her as she has so far done, it is within the bounds of the possible that she may compel the Sultan and his Pashas at rldiz. Kiosk to give guarantees of an indemnity by holding the vast stores of jewel wealth that are at present guarded with care and night with unexampled rigor and vigilance. And Russia by so doing would be then setting Germany an example in leniency.

STORES OF UNTOLD WEALTH. The splendor of St. Sophia Cathedral, the beauty of the Chalice—the great gate of the Imperial Palace—aye, and the worth of the Imperial Museum itself, are—so it is believed—as nothing compared with the wealth that is represented in the treasure that is stored in the Great Vaults of Constantinople. Sold at their historic value they would realize enough money to pay off the entire debt of the Turkish Empire, and that is no small item indeed.

It is true that a rumor found some credence twelve months ago that the Sultan, fearing the success of the British Expedition to the Dardanelles, had arranged for the transfer of his harem and the jewels of the Green Vaults to the ancient capital of the Caliphs in the desert. It is also well known that Prince Henry the brother of the Kaiser, assured the Sultan that in the event of such a calamity, the jewels and other treasure could be safely entrusted to the care of the House of Hohenzollern.

The treasures still remain at Constantinople. The Council of State at Stamboul held that the danger from siege passed away with the retreat of the Allies from Gallipoli; but now, with Turkey bleeding at the heart through the failure of the Kaiser's aid to stop the march of Russia at Trebizond, and the stealthy approach of her troops toward Baghdad, the Pashas are again alarmed. The Council is divided as to the best measures for maintaining the safety of such priceless possessions as the gem studded divan and footstool, incrusted as it is with diamonds and rubies, and decorated with a thousand precious pearls. CARE OF RICHES STATE PROBLEM.

Two propositions have been discussed. One is to retain them in the capital, trusting to the honor of the allies not to use them as pawns at any peace conference or seize them as bond for the payment of an indemnity. The American Ambassador was "sounded" as to whether before resorting to other methods, he would employ the power of his neutrality in this direction. But, of course, he could tender no advice to the Sultan or his ministers on such a matter. The second suggestion is that the jewels should be placed at once in the care of one of the neutral powers, the United States preferred. There can be no doubt, therefore, that the Turkish Ministry are not quite at ease in their minds as to what course to follow in the event of further calamities overtaking them.

It has been whispered that the value of the treasure is considerably over-estimated, in fact that this depreciation has been brought about owing to the impending condition of the exchequer at Yildiz-Kiosk. There may be more truth than romance in the rumor, for it is not so long ago—shortly after the late war with the Bulgarians—that the Sultan had to disgorge some millions of dollars to his personal staff and Ministers of State as part payment of overdue salaries. The soldiers who successfully endured that campaign are not all paid yet for their services. The rumor had this double edge to it: The Sultan was driven to offer the treasure as a first mortgage for a big loan. If Mine Herr of the Deutsche Bank was his banker, the Sultan may find that the question of the care of the stuff is very ruthlessly settled.

But all this is conjectural. The guards around the Green Vaults have been doubled. An electric light of extraordinary brilliance flashes from the top of the main entrance to the vaults, and the guards on night duty are selected from the Sultan's own troops, historically loyal to the successor of the Prophet Allah is over all. NO ADMISSION EXCEPT SULTAN AGREES.

There are other guards. No visitor, no matter how distinguished, is allowed to see the first passage to the secret chamber of wealth without an Imperial Trade. If his illustrious presence himself, the Kaiser, were to seek admission, the red-sealed document would have to be produced. The guards in normal times number twenty-four. These are supposed to spy on each other; (Continued on page ten.)

"THE BRAVEST OF THE BRAVE"

Napoleon's Designation of Marshal Ney Was These Words.

MET DEATH BY FIRING SQUAD

Refused to Have His Eyes Bandaged During His Last Moments.

"The bravest of the brave," Napoleon's designation of Marshal Ney, who perished in front of a firing squad because his devotion to his chief overcame his loyalty to the Bourbon king, Louis XVIII. Ney proved his right to the title more than once. He commanded the rear guard on the disastrous retreat of the Grand Army from Moscow in 1812, and saved that shattered force from utter rout. At Waterloo it was Marshal Ney who led the Old Guard in its last charge. And he died in front of a firing squad.

Ney was of humble birth, the son of a cooper. At 19 he joined a Hussar regiment, and four years later had managed to make himself a lieutenant. France was at the beginning of an era of world war.

Republican France went to war in order to thrust the blessings of liberty down the throats of her neighbors, whether they wanted them or not. Imperial France continued to fight quite a while after the blessings of liberty had been forgotten. The rest of Europe banded together, as determined to crush France as Europe to-day is determined to crush Germany.

MADE A MARSHALL Ney, who had become a general of division by the time Napoleon became first consul of France, fell under the Corsican's sway. Napoleon made him a field marshal and married him to a daughter of an old aristocracy.

The young woman hesitated some time before agreeing to the marriage, for she was reluctant to marry a man who was so frequently in the fore-front of battle.

While she was still considering the matter, a guest at dinner one night mentioned Ney's name. He was a young man of high promise, the visitor said, and in one battle had had seven horses killed under him.

"What do you say, sir?" said the object of the great soldier's attentions. "It is thirteen."

The girl's father sent word to Ney that he might consider the match made.

THE SAME AS NOW One of Ney's estates was Courlevaux, on the road to Tours. When Prussian soldiers evacuated this place in 1815, they stripped the French leader's chateau. They only got two leagues away, to the town of Chateaudun, when they were ordered to load the plunder from their wagons, which were needed for other purposes.

The soldiers offered the effects of the chateau for sale at ridiculous prices, but not one inhabitant of the country-side would buy anything. A stranger, who the villagers were careful to point out, lived six leagues away, bought a cauldron. The other things the Prussians had to leave behind, and the people of the town carefully collected the property and sent it back to Ney's chateau.

Ney entered the service of the Bourbon king after the downfall of Napoleon, in 1814, and when the Corsican came back from Elba in March, 1815, Ney was sent out in command of an army to overthrow him. He found the country in a furore of enthusiasm over his old chief, and all Ney's loyalty to Napoleon came flooding back.

HIS MESSAGE He sent a Napoleon a message, saying that he was his prisoner rather than his partisan; that if Napoleon continued to govern tyrannically, he could not support him, and so on. "The brave Ney is deranged," said Napoleon easily and tore up the note. Thereafter they fought together.

Aiter Waterloo, Ney had still an army of 60,000 left. He capitulated under the walls of Paris on condition that general amnesty for all offenses, both military and civil, be granted him and his followers. The Bourbon government agreed, and broke its word as soon as it had its hands on Ney. He was tried and sentenced to death.

THE FIRING SQUAD Ney was put to death in the Luxembourg gardens. He drove there with two lieutenants and the priest, chatting pleasantly. He gave the priest a gold snuff box, to be given to his wife and some coins to the poor. They wanted to bandage his eyes and have him kneel in front of the firing squad, but Ney scorned the suggestion.

"Do you not know, sir," he exclaimed to the officer in charge of the firing squad, "that a soldier does not fear death?"

He faced his executioners, many of them soldiers of his own army in "times past."

"And there," wrote an eyewitness, "in an attitude I shall never forget, it was so noble, calm and dignified, without any nervousness he took off his hat, and, profiting by the moment, the adjutant gave him while stepping to one side and giving the signal to fire he pronounced these few words, which I heard distinctly: 'Frenchmen, I protest against my condemnation. My honor—At these last words, as he placed his hand on his heart, the shots were heard. He fell dead."

The spectators rushed forward, and one man dipped his handkerchief in Ney's blood—Kansas City Times.

Swearing he would never wed again, Henry Willis, of Atlantic City, three times a widower, put a written oath to remain single in his third wife's coffin.

SOME NEW RELEASES

For the month of June the Famous Players Film Company will release five productions. These five photoplays are of especial interest because the list contains the names of several players who, though celebrated on stage or screen, are appearing for the first time under the banner of the Famous Players—namely Peggy Hyland, the celebrated British star, who makes her American debut in an adaptation of Henry Arthur Jones' "Saints and Sinners."

Another new-comer is Ann Pennington, the celebrated Ziegfeld "Follies" star who makes her first appearance on the screen in "Susie Snowflake." Louise Huff, star of many productions by other concerns, whose delightful work in the Famous Players adaptation of Denman Thompson's great rural classic "The Old Homestead," has won her a permanent place on the "Destiny's Toy" roster, is featured in "Destiny's Toy." The list in detail is as follows:—"The Evil Thereof," a powerful morality play written by Channing Pollock and Remond Wolf, is released June 6th. Chief in a notable cast is Frank Losee, whose work in many Famous Players productions, notably in Denman Thompson's own role in "The Old Homestead," has made him one of the most popular figures on the screen. Grace Valentine, Crawford Kent and others of equal prominence are in the cast. The story deals with the evils of money and will teach a powerful moral lesson.

On June 12th Marguerite Clark will star in "Silks and Satins," a delightful combination of comedy and drama which opens in the present and goes back to mediaeval times. The latter portion of the play is invested with all the romantic glamour of the days of old when the rapier settled all disputes. The story blends swift action and thrills with delicate romance.

Appearing with Louise Huff in "Destiny's Toy," which is to be released on June 15th, is John Bowers, who has been seen recently with Mary Pickford in "The Eternal Grind." The exterior of this play of romance and adventure were taken on picturesque Block Island. As the locations of the settings suggest, the picture opens as a sea story. The action later moves to the city, where it develops into a thrilling drama. "Susie Snowflake," Ann Pennington's introductory vehicle, will be released June 22. This is a delightful comedy-drama of musical comedy life which is peculiarly suited to the diminutive star, in view of the fact that her whole theatrical career has been devoted to this branch of stage activity. Susie is a little country girl whose musical comedy success does not exactly meet with the approval of her family. Pauline Frederick stars in "The World's Great Snare," an adaptation of the well-known novel by E. Phillips Oppenheim, on June 26th. This is one of the most powerful dramas in which Miss Frederick has yet appeared, dealing as it does with the elemental life of a western mining town. Of the many big scenes, perhaps one of the greatest is the fight in the Montana Cabaret in which Irving Cummings and Riley Hatch engage.

COLONIAL

The Princess Players will start the ninth week of their engagement at the Colonial Monday by presenting for the first time here an intensely interesting comedy drama entitled "The Power of Love." The popularity of this successful little band of players does not wane, in fact it seems to increase as each week rolls around and they have made many friends not only on the stage, but also by their deportment in private life. Miss Helene Reid will be seen in the leading role in the Power of Love, assuming the character of Mercy Baxter. Fred Miller plays the lover, Jack Henderson; John Higgins in the funny old farmer Jethero Baxter; Lloyd Neal as the eccentric Philander Potts, and last but not least, Iona Jacobs in the dual role of Edith, and Mrs. Henderson, Jack's mother. A very interesting and especially selected series of photo plays will also add to the excellence of the entertainment, that its patrons can always count on at the Colonial.

AT THE BRANT "FOR THE DEFENSE"

No star of legitimate stage, who has entered the greater field of photoplays acting, has achieved within so short a time, the extraordinary success that has come to Fannie Ward, the famous American comedienne. She is now the star in the Paramount picture, "For the Defense," produced by the Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company and written by Hector and Margaret Turnbull.

This will mark Miss Ward's fourth Lasky production. Her first was the comedy photoplay, "The Marriage of Kitty," and then in succession followed "The Cheat," the sensation of the year; "Tennessee's Partner," and now "For the Defense." In this production Miss Ward will appear as a petite French girl, who, coming to this country as a stranger, is suddenly thrown into the midst of a great tragedy. By an accident she becomes sole witness to a murder for which a young man, unknown to her until he later assists her, is accused. When this man, who has kept secret from her his true identity, is later accused of crime none but the French girl is able to prove his innocence. The scenes of "For the Defense," are laid in New York and the beautiful West. It is a story of great suspense from beginning to end. At the Brant Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 1, 2, and 3.

AT THE BRANT "NEARLY A KING"

"Nearly a King," one of the most novel screen comedies ever conceived, gives John Barrymore a wider field for the display of his unique comedy talents and amazing versatility than any other photoplay in which he has ever appeared, because it combines with screamingly funny situations, moments of the tenderest romance and scenes of gripping, thrilling suspense. The story embraces every phase of the playwright's art, from forces to melodrama, from sentiment to adventure. It contains a plot that is fascinating in its varied appeal, and is further distinguished by the fact that for the first time since his association with the screen, Mr. Barrymore interprets two characters simultaneously. The fact that one is an American and the other a Prince, whose romances become confused, add to the interest. In the end, however, each marries the girl of his heart, but not before the most startling and humorous series of trials and adventures possible to imagine. At the Brant Monday Tuesday and Wednesday.

By Special Wire to the Courier. Berlin, May 27.—By wireless to Sayville.—The probable sinking of the Baltic of a submarine which was rammed by the Swedish Steamer Angermanland, on May 23, is reported to-day by the Overseas News Agency which adds, however, that competent German authorities state that the submarine could not have been German. According to the news agency account, the submarine suddenly appeared on the surface at the bow of the Angermanland off Svaricklubben, and was rammed by the Swedish steamer. The submarine immediately submerged and is believed to have sunk.

It is possible, it is declared, that isolated patrolling parties may have reached approach trenches south of the fort, but none of them ever emerged except as prisoners. Since Fort Douaumont was first reported taken on February 25, it has been continuously in German possession, it is asserted.

The foundation is not the most important thing

True, you can't have a good barn without a good foundation, but don't forget either that the roof has to stand most of the punishment. Upon it falls the burden of resisting the destructive influences of weather and changing seasons. Now, the question is "Where am I going to find a roof which will meet these conditions?" Certainly not in wooden shingles which have rapidly deteriorated during the past few years. Not in anything so perishable as wood, nor yet iron, which lets in driving rain, but rather in a permanent mineral composition such as Brantford Roofing.

Now, let us look at a section of Brantford Roofing. First, you notice it has a pure, long-fibered felt base. This is thoroughly saturated with a filler coat of asphalt or mineral pitch. Then it is given another coat. Finally, the surface is thickly covered with crushed slate. You can imagine what a job rain, snow, fire or heat would have penetrating a roof like that. As for comparing with shingles on the score of permanency, or protection, or appearance, or even economy, there is no comparison. You put a Brantford Roof on once, and it will last as long as the building; it will always look well and it will never need repairing. Why not let us send you samples, also a copy of our booklet which explains how Brantford Roofing is "always on the job." Or, if you will give us the dimensions of your barn or house roof we will gladly submit estimates without charge or obligation. Brant County's Own Battalion

In the course of a very few days, or weeks at most, the 125th's sojourn in Brantford will be a thing of the past, and a matter of history, while the battalion will have gone forth to make more history for itself. In view of the circumstances, a brief review of the regiment's career from the time of its inception to the present, might prove of interest to readers of the Courier.

WHEN IT FIRST STARTED
It was in August of 1915 that the idea of a battalion to be recruited entirely and exclusively in Brant County was first mooted. The system previously followed had been that of recruiting a company or perhaps two platoons of men, together with a few officers, in each of a number of cities of Ontario, and to unite this quota into a battalion. In this manner the men from each city found themselves among strangers and under the com-

Battalion to-day, if you like." Immediate advantage was taken of the opportunity. On November 1, the first recruiting meeting for the benefit of the Brant Battalion was staged by the Recruiting League at Glenmorris.

LT.-COL. CUTCLIFFE.
Two applications for the position of lieutenant-colonel of the Brant Battalion were made, and on Nov. 13, came the announcement that Major Cutcliffe of the 38th Dufferin Rifles had been appointed lieutenant-colonel and commanding officer of the 125th Brant Battalion. More than twenty i.c.o.'s of the Dufferin Rifles immediately volunteered to serve under him, and active recruiting was commenced by Capt. P. A. Shultis. On Nov. 21 the first Sunday night recruiting meeting was held under the auspices of the Brant Recruiting League in the Brant Theatre. On Nov. 23 came the closing of the Brant Recruiting depot, through which recruits had formerly been obtained for active service squads of the 38th Dufferin Rifles, the 3rd Battery, and the 25th Brant Dragoons. It was announced that henceforth all recruits obtained in Brant county would join the 125th Battalion.

Captain Hanna, M.O.

SIR SAM NOT IN FAVOR
The idea met with favor from all the senior officers of the Dufferin Rifles and the prominent men of the city, and a deputation from Brantford was sent to wait upon Sir Sam Hughes, asking his sanction for the purpose. This was refused, the Minister of Militia being but little impressed with the plan, and so for a time no more was said.

'GO AHEAD WHEN YOU LIKE.'
The matter was not forgotten locally, however, and in October it was learned that permission had been given by the City of Hamilton to raise a battalion. Prompt action was taken, a resolution favoring a Brant County Battalion being drawn up at a meeting of the Brant Recruiting League on Oct. 27. Mr. W. F. Cocksburn was waited upon by a deputation from the league, and agreed to use his influence with the Minister of Militia, which he did to such good effect that on October 30, Sir Sam wired to Brantford:

"Start recruiting a Brant County Battalion."

THE HONORARY COLONEL.
On December 11, Mr. W. F. Cocksburn, M.P., for South Brant, who had done so much in the organizing of the 125th, was appointed honorary lieutenant-colonel, a title which he has borne worthily ever since. During the month of December and January recruiting was carried on at a record pace, it being a usual occurrence to obtain twenty-five men or more over a week end, and so well did the battalion thrive that in February a grand week's recruiting campaign was attempted with the purpose of bringing the battalion up to full strength, after less than three months of active recruiting. Through the campaign did not accomplish this, a total of over 150 recruits were obtained during the week, which is believed to be a record for Brant county.

MR. LAVELL AS CHAPLAIN.
On February 2, the appointment of Rev. A. E. Lavell of Brant Ave. Methodist church, as chaplain of the battalion was announced, the popularity of this selection being at once evidenced by the showers of congratulations which were poured in upon Mr. Lavell. The latter received the usual rank of captain, and has since qualified for his position. Since his appointment the battalion has been prominent in social and sporting events, and has won tremendous popularity with all ranks.

"S.-M." OXTABY.
A history of the 125th Battalion, however, brief or haphazard, would not be complete without mention of Sergt.-Major Oxtaby, for many years regimental sergeant major of the Dufferin Rifles, which is the parent regiment, so to speak, of the 125th. Sergt.-Major Oxtaby left Brantford in March, 1915, with the 36th battalion, and became later brigade sergeant major at Shorncliffe camp, England. In Feb. 1916, it was announced that, through the efforts of Lt.-Col. Cutcliffe and others, Sergt.-Major Oxtaby would return to Brantford and receive a commission in the 125th. On March 11, "S.-M." Oxtaby will follow will be that upon which the 125th will receive its baptism of fire at the front, and the triumphant day when the battalion will return in triumph to Brantford, when the hordes of Prussia have been hurled to the dust, and the peace and liberty of the world ensured forever.

Major H. J. G. McLean

MANY IN KHAKI.
The past six months have wrought many changes in Brantford. Over 1,200 of the men of the county now wear the khaki and whereas in November last it was predicted that the 125th would never reach full strength, not only has this been approximately accomplished, but a second Brant county battalion has been organized and has reached a present strength of over 300 men. Two of the ablest and most popular subalterns of the 125th, Capt. A. D. Slemin and Lt. R. Gundy are now members of the 125th.

RECORD GOOD.
Of the morale of the 125th Battalion, as a whole, and its individual members, too much cannot be said. It is seldom, indeed, that such a gallant body of men have been gathered together as the first Brant Battalion, and to the officers, non-commissioned officers and men, the highest praise and commendation is due. It is not too much to say that when the 125th goes forth from the city the hearts of all of us will go with it, and, confident in this knowledge, the men of the battalion will go forward for the defence and honor of king and country.

SUNDAY SCHOOL.

Lesson IX.—Second Quarter, For May 28, 1916.

THE INTERNATIONAL SERIES.

Text of the Lesson, Acts xv, 1-38. Memory Verses, 32, 33—Golden Text, Gal. v, 1—Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. M. Stearns.

This lesson tells of a lot of trouble which certain people caused by teaching that faith in Jesus Christ was not enough to save any one unless they were also circumcised. These people are spoken of as "Pharisees who believed" (verses 1, 5). The Lord Jesus did not believe in all who said that they believed in Him, for He knew all men (John ii, 23-25). Any one who does not see a full salvation in the finished work of the Lord Jesus for all who receive Him, apart from any works of ours, does not understand God's way of saving people and cannot be a true believer. Ever since the devil taught Cain that the best he could do or bring was sufficient without any sacrifice or shedding of blood he has continued so to teach, or else that the blood of Christ is not sufficient without some works of ours, as a Sunday school superintendent once told me that he could not know that he was saved till he had done his part. From that day the devil lied to Eve and made God a liar he has been on the same line to the present time. The argument in Rom. iv is full and clear—that salvation is wholly apart from any works of ours and that Abraham was a righteous man before God, apart from circumcision, and the teaching is the same in all the epistles. Yet the false teachers continue to this day.

We might think that the testimony of Paul and Barnabas as to what they had seen the Lord do in the way of saving uncircumcised gentiles would silence these disturbers at Antioch, but the devil is very persistent and can make a lot of trouble, and the Antioch believers decided to refer the matter to the apostles and elders at Jerusalem by sending Paul and Barnabas as their committee. See how along the way as they journeyed they caused great joy unto the brethren as they declared all things that God had done with them (verses 3, 4), and thus this seemingly unnecessary journey was made to glorify God. Rom. viii, 28, is always helpful.

When they appeared before the council at Jerusalem there was much disputing there also, so it would seem that the false teachers had not all left the city. When Peter found his opportunity he told, or reminded them, how God had sent His Spirit upon the uncircumcised company gathered in the home of Cornelius (verses 6-11; Acts 2, 34-48). Then Paul and Barnabas declared what they had seen along similar lines in their missionary tour, telling of the wonders and miracles God had wrought among the gentiles by them (verse 12). We may imagine how profound the silence was as the council listened to the record of what we have been recently studying in chapters xiii and xiv. Then James, who seemed to be presiding at the council, summed up the matter and gave the decision that the believers among the gentiles must not be troubled about circumcision or anything unnecessary for them, but prove, by a life separated from all idolatry, that they were true followers of Jesus Christ. This was indorsed by the apostles and elders and by the whole church and sent by Paul and Barnabas and two of the chief men among the brethren, Judas and Silas, to the believing gentiles in Antioch, Syria and Cilicia (verses 22, 23).

Notice in verse 28 that the Holy Spirit was really the presiding one at the council and led them to their right decision and thus brought joy and comfort to the brethren at Antioch (verse 31). I am often impressed with the fact that the Spirit seems to make so little of a voyage on a journey, and to the time occupied or the incidents by the way or the places visited or passed through. Note in verse 30 they were dismissed from Jerusalem and came to Antioch, and so it is always, as a rule, no matter how long the voyage or the journey. Time and distance and many things that get much attention here seem not to be noticed in heaven whence the angels come and return as a flash of lightning and where 1,000 years are but as yesterday when it is past or as a watch in the night (Ezek. i, 14; Ps. xc, 4). The speech of James gives a most concise summary of the purpose of God in this present age and in the age to come.

Now, God is gathering out from all nations a people for His name. His church, the called out ones, the body and bride of Christ, who shall reign with Him when He sets up His kingdom on the earth. His church being completed and caught up to Him in the air. He will return with them to restore to Israel all that the prophets have foretold and to occupy the throne of David; then shall all nations be won to Christ through Israel, who shall be the first righteous nation upon earth, for Israel shall blossom and bud and all the face of the earth with fruit. From the beginning God saw clearly His eternal purpose which He has purposed in Christ Jesus, our Lord, and which He will in due time accomplish (verses 13 to 18; Eph. iii, 11; Isa. lx, 1-3).

OLD COUNTRY NOTES

Rattray Head, where a German airship dropped some bombs, has rather an unenviable reputation. The rocky promontory on the coast is extremely dangerous when one of the fierce north-eastern gales blows. A bar or long stretch of sharp granite rock lies hidden in the sea, and except when the ocean is in a peaceful mood it is difficult for passing ships to escape destruction unless their skippers are experienced. A native, watching the airship pass over it, remarked, "When your submarines come this way they won't get away so well. Let them come near to this shore, and our most natural submarine will make short work of ye, and ye'll no hae time to say your prayers." Over one hundred ships have been wrecked there.

Last rain in Dundee is causing some commotion. Madame Currie presented some time ago a piece of radium valued at $720 to the Royal Infirmary. It was enclosed in a glass tube about the size of a pin. How it has disappeared is wrapped in mystery. A reward has been offered to the finder, who has been duly cautioned that while the radium has immensely valuable healing properties, it is also merciless in its attacks upon flesh tissues unless carefully handled. Madame Currie is greatly interested in the loss and cannot understand how anything so valuable could get out of a Scotsman's hands.

A gallant rescue was effected by Private Donnelly, of the Royal Scots Fusiliers, at Ayr Harbour on a recent Saturday evening. Donald Macfarlane, a cooper, belonging to Glasgow, was cycling in South Harbour street, close to the quay wall, when his bicycle swerved and fell into the river. Donnelly jumped into the water at once, and with great difficulty kept Macfarlane afloat till the pilot's motor boat arrived and picked up both men.

A fine was imposed on a merchant in the Sheriff Court at Ayr the other day for failing to notify the authorities that a French maid was in his employment. He said that neither his wife nor he was aware that she was French, as she spoke with a "strong Scottish accent."

A grocer in Aberdeen pleaded guilty recently to 294 offences against the liquor control regulations. He had rendered himself liable to fines amounting to the enormous sum of £19,600 and 12 years imprisonment. He escaped with a fine of £43.

ALLIANCE BETWEEN RUSSIA ONE FOR ALL

Russian Foreign anoff, Gives In Time's Corres—Russia Notious and No Sl

By Special Wire to the Courier.

London, May 29—"The absolute cord between Great Britain and Russia means that the alliance formed time of war against a common enemy has become an alliance for all time. Thus spoke Sergius Sazonoff, Russian Foreign Minister in an interview with The Times' Petro correspondent.

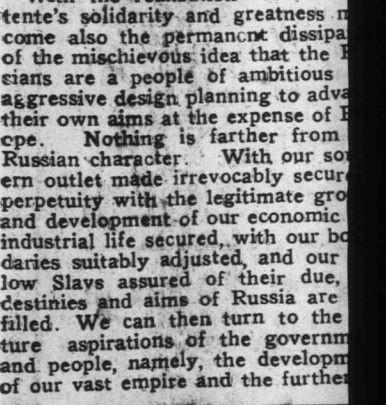

"The alliance made by the government has now become an alliance of the hearts of the people," continued M. Sazonoff.

"In this friendship I see the realization of the fondest dream of my career, for in true friendship of England and Russia the peace of the world is assured for many generations. I have this potentially won the peace, although the struggle itself may come. I have this potentially won the peace, although the struggle itself may come. I have this potentially won the peace, although the struggle itself may come."

NOT AGGRESSIVE.

With the realization of the alliance the solidarity and greatness of the empire also the permanent disappearance of the mischievous idea that the Russians are a people of ambitious aggressive design planning to advance their own aims at the expense of other peoples. Nothing is farther from the Russian character. With our solemn outlet made irrevocably secure perpetuity with the legitimate growth and development of our economic industrial life secured, with our borders suitably adjusted, and our low Slavs assured of their due, destinies and aims of Russia are filled. We can then turn to the true aspirations of the government and people, namely, the development of our vast empire and the further
