

THE WHITMORE MURDER TRIAL.

Only Circumstantial Evidence So Far.

Whitmore Says He Has an Alibi.

Great Crowds at Wife Murder Trial.

New York, May 28.—To-day is expected to bring to a close the case of the prosecution in the trial of Theodore S. Whitmore in Jersey City, the Brooklyn man who is charged with having murdered his wife and thrown her body into Lampblack Swamp in Harrison. Already all the principal witnesses for the State have been heard with the result that the network of evidence that has been wound around the accused man is purely of a circumstantial nature. Much interest centres in the plan which will be adopted by the defense to meet the case set up by the State.

Whitmore has declared that he has absolutely no doubt whatever of the outcome and that when his turn comes he will convince the jury beyond question that he had no part in the crime which is charged against him. His attorney at the same time has declared that a perfect alibi has been found accounting for Whitmore's presence every minute for hours before and after the time the tragic death of Mrs. Whitmore is known to have occurred. As the trial has progressed public interest in the case has increased rapidly. The court room is filled to its capacity at every session and often the streets outside the building are jammed with hundreds unable to gain admittance.

The prosecution brought its case to a close soon after the opening of to-day's session. Counsel for Whitmore immediately made a motion for the dismissal of the indictment on the ground that the State had not proven its case. The motion was dismissed.

Alexander Simpson then began the opening argument for the defence. George Dickinson, the woman with whom Theodore S. Whitmore is alleged to have been infatuated, was expected to appear as a witness for the prosecution at to-day's session of Whitmore's trial. Miss Dickinson was taken into custody in Boston soon after Whitmore's arrest, which followed the identification of the victim of the Lampblack swamp murder as his wife. She has been in jail since that time. When she goes on the stand Miss Dickinson will be questioned concerning her relations with Whitmore both before and after the disappearance of his wife. It has been charged that Whitmore met Miss Dickinson in New York a few hours after Mrs. Whitmore's body had been thrown into the Lampblack swamp and made her a present of some of his wife's jewelry.

Justice Swayze announced to-day that he would admit as evidence the "Lena" telegram, which was identified yesterday by Mrs. Schmitter, a sister of the murdered woman. The telegram is alleged to have been sent to Mrs. Schmitter to mislead her as to her sister's whereabouts. Henry Siegel, conductor on an elevated train in New York on which Whitmore was formerly motorman, told of various conversations he had with Whitmore, both before and after the murder. ARE BECOMING SICK OF DELAY.

ANOTHER POSTPONEMENT OF THE WHOLESALE GROCERS' CASE.

Crown Seeks Enlargement Until September—Guild Has Been Trying to Have the Trial Proceeded With.

To the great annoyance of the wholesale grocers, and against their wishes, the long delayed suit of Rex vs. the Grocers' Guild has once more been postponed. It was set down for trial on Wednesday next, June 3, but at Toronto yesterday Mr. Blackstock, K. C., acting for the department of the Attorney-General of Ontario, of which Hon. J. J. Foy is the head, made application to Chief Justice Falconbridge to have it postponed until Sept. 29. The reason given was that the Crown was not ready to proceed. The application was granted.

This case has been dragging for years. It is two years since it was sent up to the higher court, and almost a year since a true bill was brought in. Once the Grocers' Guild asked for a postponement because essential witnesses were absent, but since that time they have been trying to have the case brought on and disposed of, but always without success. The Attorney-General's department has three times succeeded in getting it put off.

Mewburn & Ambrose, of this city, are acting for the Guild.

A TROLLEY ROUTE.

Ottawa, Ont., May 28.—A party set out yesterday from Ottawa to look over the route of the proposed Ottawa & Brockville Electric Railway. They inspected four water powers, and now are looking over terminal facilities at Brockville.

DR. CHAPMAN HAS DECLINED

To Come to Hamilton on Conditions Stated.

Prefers to Bring All His Own Workers.

Meeting To-morrow to Consider the Situation.

Dr. Wilbur Chapman, the noted evangelist, who carried on remarkably successful campaigns in some of the large cities of the United States and Canada during last winter, and who has been invited by the evangelical churches of this city to come here for a similar campaign next autumn, has written to Rev. W. H. Sedgewick, secretary of the local committee, declining the invitation upon the terms named.

It has been the practice of Dr. Chapman to provide his own workers and have complete charge of the campaign. The idea of the Hamilton Ministerial Association was to get Mr. Chapman and some of his lieutenants to carry on a series of meetings simultaneously in a number of the churches of this city, but the ministers thought local church people could be provided to do a large proportion of the work, under Dr. Chapman's direction, and so specified in the invitation to him.

The Ministerial Association was to have met yesterday afternoon to consider Dr. Chapman's reply, but Rev. Mr. Sedgewick had not received it in time for that meeting. It arrived this morning, however, and a meeting of the association has been called for to-morrow afternoon at 5 o'clock to consider it.

The meeting will discuss the advisability of sending an invitation to the great evangelist to come and bring his entire band.

FROM HIS MAJESTY.

King Edward Pleased With Success of the Unveiling.

Mrs. John S. Hendrie, President of the Queen Victoria Memorial Statue Committee, has received from His Excellency, the Governor-General, a copy of a cable message sent to him from His Royal Highness, King Edward VII., in reply to a message sent to the king informing him of the unveiling of the statue here on Monday. The message reads:

I thank you for your telegram to me. Glad to hear that the ceremony of unveiling the statue of Queen Victoria went off so successfully. Edward R.

WAS DEAR TO HIM.

Is Owen Sound Murderer Too Crazy to be Hanged?

Port Huron, Mich., May 28.—Professing his love for the wife he murdered, James Creighton, of Owen Sound, Ont., who also killed his two step-children and attempted to put himself out of existence, wrote Judge Harris, his father-in-law, two weeks ago referring to his victim in gushing terms. How, after writing an epistle of this kind, Creighton could so terribly mutilate those whom he said were so dear to him is a puzzle to Judge Harris. The latter can only account for it on the theory that Creighton must have been insane. The daughter, Mrs. Creighton, had been expected to visit her relatives in this city within a few days.

19TH INVITED.

Regiment May Spend Dominion Day at Rochester.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) St. Catharines, May 28.—The officers and men of the 19th St. Catharines Regiment have been invited to spend Dominion Day in Rochester, N. Y., as guests of the regiment stationed there. No action has as yet been taken in the matter, pending information regarding transportation, which is being secured. If the invitation is not accepted, an outing of the regiment will be arranged for that day at some other point, perhaps Niagara-on-the-Lake.

SAW WHALES.

Big Fellows With Big Heads Traveling in Pairs.

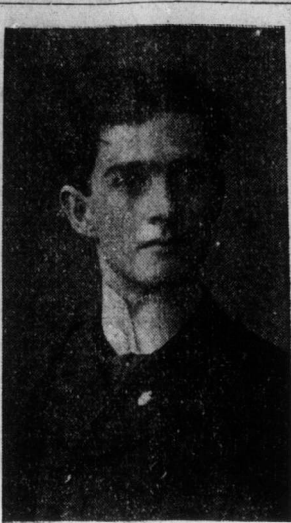

New York, May 28.—A large school of whales, some of them more than 60 feet in length, were sighted between the Banks of Newfoundland and Sandy Hook lightship by the crew of the Russian steamer St. Petersburg, which arrived during the night from Libau and Rotterdam. Capt. Salsky, of the St. Petersburg, said six of the whales were seen after Nantucket lightship was passed. They were big fellows, with very large, blunt heads, and were traveling in pairs.

NO WAGES.

Foster Holding Up the Salaries of Government Officials.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) St. Catharines, May 27.—Owing to the obstruction being carried on at Ottawa by the Opposition, thus preventing the passing of supply, the post office officials, as well as the men on the customs staff, have not yet received their last month's salary. The new letter carriers are among the sufferers. They have been notified of the acknowledgment by the department of their status as civil servants, but feel it a great hardship to be kept waiting so long for their wages, especially when there seems to be no prospect of receiving their pay in the very near future.

THIEF GOT IN.

Stole Patent Medicine at Hennessey & Bro's.

There is a disappointed thief some place in the city to-day, and the police would like to have a talk with him. He walked into J. P. Hennessey & Bro's drug store last night, by the back door, from the alley, and appropriated $5.35 worth of patent medicine. A cigar box was standing beside the medicine, and the unknown took that also, in anticipation of a good smoke. The cigar box contained little slips of paper, called stickers, which are used on bottles, and it is likely the thief's profits will be nil as he will find no market for them.

MAN AND DOG

Found on River Bank Killed by Lightning.

Plattsburg, N. Y., May 28.—Search for Caleb L. Chesbro, a well-known farmer of West Beekmantown, who disappeared last Tuesday, revealed the fact last night that he was killed by lightning. Chesbro went fishing early Tuesday and when he did not return at night search was begun by the family and neighbors. Last night his body and the body of his dog, both badly burned, and disfigured by lightning, were found on the bank of the stream, under a clump of trees. The trees were splintered and torn by the lightning. Chesbro left a widow and five children. He was 46 years old.

BLAMED COMPANY

For Not Supplying Aprons and Sufficient Light.

The inquest into the death of Frederick Sutton, who was run over and killed as a result of falling from a gravel car on the B. & H. line a week ago, was resumed last night. The evidence was the same as the story already published. The jury brought in a verdict as follows: The deceased, Frederick Sutton, came to his death by being run over by a gravel car on the B. & H. line. The company are to blame, in that they did not supply aprons and lights sufficient to prevent a man falling from the car or to see his footing.

MYSTERIOUS MAN STOLE IT

And Poor Michael Baxter Gets the Blame.

Bicycle Thief Goes Down For 23 Months.

Boys Accused of Illtreating a Horse Acquitted.

Michael Baxter, 19 Locke street south, provided no end of fun for the backbenches in the police court this morning. He is the man who was arrested by Constable Tuck yesterday at noon on a charge of walking into Mr. Mellroy's house at 125 Victoria avenue north and appropriating a rain coat. The excuse he offered up was a poor one, to say the least, and one that Magistrate Jelfs had thought he had put an end to as it was particularly prevalent in this city a few years ago. "I got it from a stranger who wanted me to get him some money on it. He told me it belonged to his wife," was what he told the court, and this was greeted with grins of amusement by those who knew Magistrate Jelfs' plan with these individuals. The owner positively identified the coat. The constable told of arresting the prisoner as he was trying to dispose of the coat in a John street south second hand store. Baxter took the stand this morning and said he met a man on King William street, near John, and this strange individual gave him the coat and told him to sell it and meet him at the corner later.

"What was this strange man like?" asked Mr. Washington.

"He was short and wore a white collar and a tie," said Baxter, without a stop.

No Record.

London, May 28.—The Cunard Line steamer Mauretania, which left Liverpool yesterday, four days later than her usual sailing schedule, owing to her disabled propeller, passed Fastnet at 6.19 o'clock this morning, Irish time. The vessel is going direct to New York, without calling at Queens-town.

The officials of the Cunard Co. say there is no possibility of the Mauretania making a record on this trip as the repairs to her propeller were not finished up to the time she left Liverpool. They declare that only three propellers will be used during the voyage, with which an effort will be made to keep up an average speed of 22 knots.

SCANLON CASE.

Defendant Gives His Mother House and $300.

(Special Despatch to the Times.) Guelph, Ont., May 28.—The case of Joseph Scanlon, who was arrested at Hamilton some time ago for trying to get money from his aged mother on a worthless cheque, gained under misrepresentation, was finally settled in the non-jury High Court sittings here in an action, Scanlon vs. Scanlon. At the conclusion of the hearing the defendant, Scanlon, made a proposition by which he is to give his mother the house and lot on Perth street west, which was gained on a questioned deed, and to pay the plaintiff, his mother, the sum of $300.

For Encouraging Toronto Boy to Steal Gloves.

Toronto, May 28.—In the police court to-day John H. Zorofonitis, a Greek, was charged with receiving stolen property from Robert Taylor, 14 years old, who was employed by Saunders & Rowan, 121 King street west. The lad was remanded for sentence in the children's court for stealing gloves, etc., and was used as a witness against Zorofonitis. To Mr. Corley, young Taylor, who lives in Cowan avenue, said that Zorofonitis, who sold candy from a push-cart, gave him sweets in return for the gloves.

MIXED MARRIAGES.

Bishop Dowling Warned Girls Against Such Alliances.

Brantford, May 28.—Bishop Dowling, of Hamilton, conducted confirmation services in St. Basil's and St. Mary's Churches here to-day. There was a record number of candidates to receive confirmation. In his address the Bishop warned the girls against mixed marriages. He stated there were a lot of girls in Hamilton who were not wise enough to see the folly of marrying a man in a state of mortal sin. These were what he called "Dolly Vardens" and they were Merry Widow hats.

City Solicitor Waddell discovered this morning that there is a special clause in the power by-law passed last January by the ratepayers which authorizes the Council to sign a contract with the Hydro Commission without submitting the question to the people again. He recalled that this clause was put in to cover the ground because the contracts were not in the hands of the municipalities at the time, and thinks this a strong argument against submitting the by-law again. The opinion is practically unanimous in municipal circles that the recommendation made last night by the Power Committee, that the form of contract be submitted to the people, will be sanctioned by the Council to-morrow night. Mayor Stewart to-day expressed the opinion that if the aldermen who favored making a deal with the Cataract voted for submitting the Hydro contract to the people again it would carry in the Council. This, however, he says will necessitate a delay of a month, as four weeks' notice has to be given before the by-law can be submitted. Some of the aldermen think there is little chance of the Cataract Company making any change in the tariff for private and commercial lighting, because it held that under the old flat rate people were getting the power in many cases for less than it cost.

Mrs. John S. Hendrie and Mrs. W. F. Ballard, of the Queen Victoria Memorial Statue Committee, called on Mayor Stewart to-day to see if the council would make a grant of $500 for the monument in repair, and place a wreath on it on January 22 and May 24 each year. The idea was to invest the money and use the interest. The Mayor said he was quite sure the council would pass a by-law undertaking for the city itself to take care of the statue for all time to come and place the wreaths on it. It will cost about $15 a year.

SUDDEN CALL TO A CARLUKE LADY.

FELL DEAD IN G. W. ROBINSON STORE THIS MORNING.

Mrs. Geo. Clelland Came to the City and Expired Without a Moment's Warning.

Death came in all its grim suddenness this morning to Mrs. George Clelland, of Carluke, who while in G. W. Robinson's store dropped dead, without the slightest warning. Mrs. Clelland had come to the city this morning on the stage from Carluke and it was not known that she had been suffering, except from the intense heat. About 10.30 she walked into Robinson's and sat down at the ribbon counter, asking for a drink of water at the same time. The young lady who was proceeding to wait on her hardly had time to turn her back when the deceased was seen to fall off the chair. Drs. McGillivray and Griffin were hurriedly called, but Mrs. Clelland was beyond assistance. Blackford & Sons were communicated with and the body was removed to their morgue. A gentleman who drove in from Carluke this morning with farm produce called at Blackford's not long after the death occurred and identified the body as that of Mrs. Clelland. At the time the doctors made the examination a letter was found addressed to Miss A. Harvey, Carluke, and it turns out that Miss Harvey is a niece of the deceased. Mrs. Clelland had relatives in the city, one being Mrs. Neill, Wentworth street south, and Mr. Somerville, Bay street south. The deceased was about 60 years of age. Heart failure was the cause of death.

FATED TO LOVE HER

"Ah! she'll learn for herself. Never fear. Gradually, bit by bit, she will learn all in the right school—will learn all.

He was lost in a dream, and Charlie, with her parochial way to do, thought it a good opportunity to slip away.

Charlie, unwilling to disturb him, passed the room without entering, and went quietly upstairs to dress.

There, his back turned, Mr. Morris still sat. This doze was uncommonly heavy.

There was no answer. The young man approached the chair, and standing behind it, saw that at length, on this very afternoon, the introduction had been completed.

"Even so," ran the final sentence, "may we hope that a day will come when these lost ones will be reasssembled; when He who gathereth together the outcasts of Israel, will gather them, and reunite them in one home, each to each—to part no more."

They carried him upstairs and laid him on his bed, facing westward. And through the closed blinds, evening by evening, during the solemn week that followed, the rays which he had loved stole in, and hovered round him as if to lay so quietly, his conflicts ended at last.

CHAPTER XVII. June—the second June after Mr. Morris' death—was opening brightly. The soft, grey haze of the early mornings, the long, hot days that followed, the fey evenings, so fragrant and so still, all gave promise of an ideal summer.

Toward the close of one of the most radiant of these radiant days, James sat at the chapel organ playing the "Benedictus" of Beethoven's Mass in C, and while he played his upturned face and expression of rapt attention showed that he was also listening, drinking in the sounds, as though another were the performer.

Finishing at length, with a half sigh, he was conscious of a hand upon his shoulder, and a voice murmuring: "Oh, James! I wish it were not done. I could hear it forever."

"So you are back at last! How long you stayed!" "Did you miss me, dear? I hope not. I came away as soon as possible after tea. I have been at home some time, only I went straight upstairs to get my dressing over, before joining you."

"And how about your dinner?" "Oh, severe teas are the fashion at Meddiscombe, you know; Olivia, Charlie and I had a very cozy one together. But, James, you don't ask after the baby. Such a duck!"

"I don't know. Cissy declares he grows sweeter every hour." Gypsey is quite superannuated, and as for Spiffire—she is sure that she will never care to look at him again."

"So Cissy is very happy with her baby?" "Oh, yes. And James, you should see the pride of Charlie in his son and heir! Dear Charlie—he deserves to be happy, doesn't he?"

"He does, indeed. And Olivia? We shall get her here, I hope." "I extorted a promise of at least a fortnight. You don't think, James, how bright and cheerful she looks, and she is so comfortable at Enderby. Philip and Annie, she says, and the children, declare that they could never get on now without her. She has her own sitting-room, in a quiet part of the house; and, altogether, she confesses that she is happier than, in this world, she ever expected to be."

"That's pleasant to think of. And how about the child's name?" "Cissy's child? They talk of Charles Gordon. Do you know—is it not strange?—Charlie says he would rather have had a girl!"

"Well—a girl will come, some day, no doubt." "Yes, as I tell Cissy, I am looking forward to six children, at least, of hers to pet—boys and girls. By the by, James, as I drove to Meddiscombe—that very narrow lane—I heard a clatter of wheels, and a clatter of voices, so that I felt the ponies almost into the ditch, and what do you think rushed past?"

"A very smart wagonette, with Lord Joseph Postlethwaite and two headed small boys—twins, I fancy, upon the box. And behind, looking sadly uncomfortable, poor Theo—so faded and pale! A fat little girl upon her lap, another at her side, the nurse opposite, with a baby."

"What a tribe! I wonder how she likes it?" "Cissy, who knows all about her, says not at all. She is quite overdone, and declares that her married life has been one continual worry, and press of 'brats.' Lord Joseph, who is as obstinate as an obstinate can be—like most foo-men of his genus—insists on taking his children about with him, always. So the is never free."

"Well, she brought it on herself, poor thing! I am sorry for her, but thankful—so thankful that I escaped her, Gabrielle," and he drew her closer. "How much I have escaped, when I deserved to escape nothing! How wonderfully, in spite of myself, I have been guided—I can call it nothing less."

"Yes," she answered, gently, looking toward the stars. "I was thinking to-day—re-creating the last few years. It seems to me that a mind higher than our own has certainly been with us, as I do now recollect on our way to-day, my prayer that God would bless you, and in you, your husband, forever!"

"Yes, I recollect; and how it seemed to sanctify my joy." "As for me, it has sanctified my whole life. God has answered that prayer. He has blessed thee, and thy husband in thee. Yes, Gabrielle—in thee."

"Dearest, there is something else that I should like you to remember. One day, when you had accused me as you did, sometimes of coldness, I told you that it was not in me to express my love as you expressed yours; but that, if ever an opportunity were given me, of bearing something, of doing something, for you, you would see that the love was there. And, indeed, I prayed that such an opportunity might come. James, it has come. You do not think me cold, now?"

"I think that your warmth was the warmth of heaven, my darling—and mine, of earth." "I don't think, James—but I won't try to answer you. One thing more: you know how heavy a trial I felt it, once, to have no children! Well, since your blindness, I have almost been glad of it. If we had children, I should be obliged to devote a good deal of time, and thought to them; as it is, I am free to devote all to you."

"Serve you, live for you. Yours and yours only be." "Yes, James, I can look up and thank God for withholding from me everything—everything earthly—that might divide my heart with you; that might prevent my spending my whole life, and every power in my life, under Him for you alone."

"Gabrielle, my child, when you talk so, I can hardly bear it—or myself!" "How do you mean, James?" "All the time I think: 'What am I, that I should hold a being so unselfish, so pure, so devoted to my heart—mine—and call her my wife, and my daughter! He only crept the closer—close as she well could—to that same heart which, unworthy as it deemed itself, was yet her highest earthly glory.'"

"James, don't," she whispered, "don't do that! I am in a low, rather dreamy mood, as though that last speech had been a pause in a low, rather dreamy mood, as though that last speech had been a pause in a low, rather dreamy mood, as though that last speech had been a pause in a low, rather dreamy mood."

rouse some inward reminiscence, he said: "Gabrielle, a few hours ago, as I sat alone, the past arose before me, and tude is when I saw."

"I saw a young boy, just awaking to a consciousness of his own powers, to a conviction that they were no common powers, and that his path in life must be no common path—but one far above the common."

"I saw him, led by that ambition, become, by degrees, a proud, apparently a stoical, philosopher; isolating himself in spirit, and resolving that to himself alone should be the glory of the success which he regarded as certain."

"I saw him, thus inflated by the fire of self-worship, choose his own way, and pursue it; despising every external aid, whether of God or of man. I saw him, guided solely by the light in his own breast, erect a standard and press toward it, never asking if it were a true standard, or a false one—because, so to speak, would be to confess that he was not, as he had resolved to be, in all things sufficient to himself."

"That's pleasant to think of. And how about the child's name?" "Cissy's child? They talk of Charles Gordon. Do you know—is it not strange?—Charlie says he would rather have had a girl!"

"Yes," she answered, gently, looking toward the stars. "I was thinking to-day—re-creating the last few years. It seems to me that a mind higher than our own has certainly been with us, as I do now recollect on our way to-day, my prayer that God would bless you, and in you, your husband, forever!"

"Yes, I recollect; and how it seemed to sanctify my joy." "As for me, it has sanctified my whole life. God has answered that prayer. He has blessed thee, and thy husband in thee. Yes, Gabrielle—in thee."

"Dearest, there is something else that I should like you to remember. One day, when you had accused me as you did, sometimes of coldness, I told you that it was not in me to express my love as you expressed yours; but that, if ever an opportunity were given me, of bearing something, of doing something, for you, you would see that the love was there. And, indeed, I prayed that such an opportunity might come. James, it has come. You do not think me cold, now?"

"I think that your warmth was the warmth of heaven, my darling—and mine, of earth." "I don't think, James—but I won't try to answer you. One thing more: you know how heavy a trial I felt it, once, to have no children! Well, since your blindness, I have almost been glad of it. If we had children, I should be obliged to devote a good deal of time, and thought to them; as it is, I am free to devote all to you."

"Serve you, live for you. Yours and yours only be." "Yes, James, I can look up and thank God for withholding from me everything—everything earthly—that might divide my heart with you; that might prevent my spending my whole life, and every power in my life, under Him for you alone."

Washington," but what time did you say you got the coat?" "He gave it to me just about 1 o'clock or a few minutes after," said Baxter, with a profoundly thoughtful look on his face as he glanced at the police court clock, which was never known to run.

"That's funny," commented the Crown Attorney, "you were arrested about 12:20. I guess you had better keep quiet." Baxter was found guilty and was remanded a week for sentence.

Street wanted to get in on this conversation and butted in with an offer to go out to the country and do some hay. "You want to do haying do you," said Magistrate Jells, "You're too fond of Barton street for that, but I'll only give you two months and there'll be plenty of time to do haying when you get out."

Edward Near and James Niblock, who have been in jail since Monday on a charge of ill-treating a horse, were acquitted this morning, and, if what they believed is true—and Magistrate Jells believed it to be—will be free to ride their horses as they please.

MUIR WON PITCHERS' BATTLE.

Hamilton Took a 11-Innings Game From Guelph.

It Was the Fourth Successful Victory From the Maple Leafs—Yesterday's Scores in the Big Leagues.

For the fourth time this week at the Barton street ball yard, the Hamilton Tigers defeated the Guelph Maple Leafs, in the International League race. The game yesterday was a pitchers' battle, and it lasted eleven innings. The opposing pitchers were Harvey Muir, a home brew, who did the heaving for Hamilton, and Fenske, the clever little twirler, who was released by Manager Paige a few days ago, and was signed by Guelph on Tuesday. Although victory went to Muir, Fenske did the better work of the two, and the visitors should have won the game. If Murray had been in his proper place in the outfield in the ninth inning, when McMillen hit to the left garden, he would have gained the fly, and McMillen's run would not have been scored. Fenske pitched a rattling fine game, although his arm is not yet well, and up to the ninth inning only one hit was made off his delivery. This hit was made by the first man up—

SAYS PAT POWERS IS NASTY. Toronto, May 27.—President Powers, of the Eastern League, has notified the Toronto Club that he has thrown out the opening game here with Jersey City, which was won by Toronto in the twelfth inning.

Manager Joe Bea, of the Sketers, protested the game on the ground that DeGroff's hit to the top of the bleachers the tenth should have been a home run, as well as the hit Phyle popped into the bleachers. De Groff was thrown out at third, but here President Powers claims Kilroy, who was umpiring behind the bat, should not have given the decision, but, as Messon on the bases, in the heat of the argument De Groff walked off the bag and was tagged by Coker and called out by Mason.

President Powers, taking Umpire Kelly's opinion of those right-hand bleachers, thinks a hit to the top of the bleachers should also be a home run. Toronto are given ten days to name a date for the second game, but this, according to President McCaffery, they will refuse to do, and when President Powers appoints a date, which he will, the local club will refuse to play and will take the matter before the league directors. However, not to mislead the fans, the World this morning prints the correct standing, according to one Patrick Powers.

George S. Lyon Was Beaten. London, May 28.—Colt beat George S. Lyon, of Toronto, 5 and 4 to go in the Olympic golf games yesterday.

Johnson is Out for Tommy. Britons are taking Johnson's claim to the heavyweight title seriously. On this side of the Atlantic, however, we take a different view of things. Johnson hurled challenge after challenge at Jeffries, but the latter always refused to recognize the negro. But we never permitted Johnson to claim a championship because Jeffries drew the color line.

Short Ends. Listowel, May 28.—An intermediate W. F. A. game was played here this evening between Listowel and Milverton. The visitors played a good game, but Terry McGovern Bewildered. New York, May 28.—Terry McGovern has gone away back. The former featherweight champion of the world met Spike Robson, of England, in a six-round bout at catch weights before a large crowd in the arena of the National A. C. in East Twenty-fourth street last night, and when it was all over McGovern's many friends shook their heads dubiously.

Comment and Chat

Guelph was in hard luck yesterday.

Today will tell how bad the baseball bug has stung the Hamilton fans. If a crowd pays the increased price this afternoon this city is ready for the Eastern—or a major league.

How will the Olympic team compare with Jack Miller's "Barn Stormers"? somebody asks. Well, from here it looks as if the Olympics would give the Millerites a worse wallop than they got in Westminster.—Toronto Telegram.

Toronto Globe: Governor Hughes sees the writing on the wall. Three of his pet measures—the public services, Wall street and unemployed commission bills—were rejected by the Assembly on Tuesday, and in the message he sent yesterday he made no mention of his anti-racing measures. The Legislature will probably adjourn about the end of next week until January, and the Percy-Gray law will still govern racing in the State of New York, in spite of the unsupported efforts of the Governor to have it repealed.

Tourenne comes in for a raking over by critics on account of his victory at Belmont Park on Tuesday in the Cosmopolitan Handicap. The New York American said yesterday: "Tourenne faced the barrier last week in a mile and a sixteenth handicap and finished in the rear. That day the track was sloppy and the excuse was that Tourenne could not untrack himself under these conditions. Yesterday everything was different. The talent went to Tourenne as one man, and from the opening price of 12 to 1 sent the Oddfellow colt to the post at 6 to 1. Jack Atkin set the pace until the turn for home, when Musgrave brought Tourenne alongside the Schreiber colt and sailed to the front. The cruel drive to the wire told on Atkin and he was forced to drop back beaten."

Despite the difference in track conditions, the race run by Tourenne was a startling improvement over his last outing, continues the American. A few days ago he worked a very fast mile at the Bay the reverse way, and his backers were confident that he could win the Cosmopolitan without any trouble. According to many horsemen, there should be a rule about running horses short to confuse the players. They point to such trainers as Rowe, Joyner and others, who win with horses in their first outing. This makes the public, which supports the game, have the greatest confidence in these reliable stables. They know that they are not going to bet their money and then see their coin-carrier get what is termed a qualifying race.

Unless the excuse given out yesterday the valid Shimonese cannot go up on the pedestal with War Whoop and Photographer as the best of their King's Plate years. At least one follower of the Valley Farm gave it as his opinion that they were loosing the Marlmas fully for next year's race.—Toronto World.

While the English Derby conditions permit an owner to start more than one horse in the race, it is the spirit of sportsmanship across the water to give the chances on the stable's best, scratching the others that may have been entered.

Connie Mack knew pretty well what he was doing when he let the notorious George Edward Waddell go to St. Louis this season, for the eccentric Reuben has already performed one of his annual stunts by jumping from the St. Louis team and signing with an outlaw organization.

This Waddell is one of the freaks of baseball. Possessed of an arm that is worth barrels of money, he has a head on his shoulders that is not worth a bag of peanuts. He is unstable and disregardful of his own and the rights of others. A contract means no more to him than a piece of waste paper. He knows he can win games, and he thinks that he can do anything he wants to in the meantime. Waddell's genius is misplaced. He ought to be breaking stones under daily employment, instead of getting a good salary under a liberal contract.

LARRY BURKE.

The popular and efficient International League umpire, who has officiated at all the home games so far this season. Mr. Burke is a Hamilton old boy, but has been away from Hamilton for many years. Last year he umpired in the Indiana and Ohio League, and in 1907 he held the indicator in the Indiana and Pennsylvania League.

Brennen—in the first innings. Not a run was scored by the Tigers till the ninth, when McMillen led out with a nice lift to the left garden, right over Red Murray's head. He reached station two on it. Bradford followed with a nice sacrifice. Finmore hit to the pitcher and Curtis made a safety, which brought McMillen home. Curtis was caught trying to steal third, retiring the side.

During the regulation period of the game, the visitors scored only one run also, in the second. Brushard was given a walking ticket and was advanced by Red Murray's sacrifice. Perkins fied out to second base and Fenske was given a base on balls. McGuire made a hit and Brushard reached the plate. Allen fied to right and the side was out.

There was nothing out of the ordinary in the play in the tenth and the Maple Leafs got a man to second and one to first in the eleventh, two hits being made—by Faatz and Perkins. Two fied out and with two on bases Muir caused the third man to fan.

Brennen was the first man up for the Tigers, and he was given a charity. Connors, the batting leader of the locals, followed, and he slashed out a two-bagger, bringing Mister Brennen home. The winning run was therefore scored with none down.

Maxey, in the seventh inning, shoved up his bat just as Catcher Perkins threw the ball to the second baseman. Although the runner was mailed, Umpire Burke declared Maxey out for interference. He was the third down. At the beginning of the next inning, Maxey again went to bat, but the umpire said he was the last man out. Although Maxey is not a strong willow wielder, Capt. De Rohn foolishly started an argument, to the effect that it was the base runner who was out. Mr. Burke very properly stood his ground and Long went to bat.

Following is the score of the game: Hamilton, A. B. R. H. P. O. A. E. Brennen, 2b, 4 0 0 1 4 0 0 Connors, 3b, 5 0 1 4 4 0 0 McMillen, rf, 3 1 2 2 0 0 0

RING WAS "STUNG."

Shields' King Avondale Beat Denham Yesterday. Toronto, May 28.—The fourth day of the Ontario Jockey Club's spring meeting saw another great crowd in attendance for a splendid afternoon's sport in the same pleasant weather that has prevailed since the gates were opened last Saturday. The Governor-General and Lady Grey and their suite attended the club luncheon at 1 o'clock, and the gathering in the members' enclosure was like one of the big days. The brilliance and beauty of the spectacle at Woodbine are renowned among outdoor gatherings, and this year's displays quite keep up to the high standard of the past.

The racing opened with the sensational defeat of the Valley Farm's flying colt, Denham, by Will Shields' maiden, King Avondale. Denham has never been considered a horse of great class, though possessed of extreme speed, and the ridiculous price of 1 to 3, at which the ring wanted to do business on him, kept off many of his supporters. A legitimate 1 to 3 chance rarely occurs in racing, and the man who accepts such odds does not exercise much common sense when he does so. In this case the attempt to get the money in at an unjustifiably short price resulted in many of the bookmakers being "stung." It was said that owner Shields won about seven thousand dollars on the victory of his colt. King close quarters, when Robson consented to mix it with him. Terry had a good punch in either hand, however, and for that reason was always dangerous. Still he could not hit with the old time power that knocked many an aspiring featherweight out in his time, so that Robson was not afraid to take chances in the last round, which produced a red hot mixup.

Robson's cleverness made McGovern look like a green amateur at times. The Englishman, in excellent physical trim, was fast on his feet, and always keeping a cool head he feinted and jabbed until McGovern was clearly bewildered. When they stepped into the ring McGovern looked as if he weighed about 136 pounds, while Robson was perhaps close to 130.

McGovern was not the clever, swift-footed, rushing slugger of the days gone by. Instead he was fat, slow, cautious and erratic. He had no speed to his rushes, missed countless wild swings and showed to an advantage only at Avondale opened at 30 to 1, and was played also by many who would not accept the Denham price. The offer of 2-1 to 1 against the field, with Denham out, was another that tempted many spectators. The issue was not in much doubt after the barrier went up, for King Avondale immediately outran his field, and Denham could not catch him. The leader opened up a big gap on the favorite, and Herman Johnson stuck pretty close to Denham. At the top of the stretch Denham weakened and Herman Johnson beat him home, but King Avondale did not have to be ridden out to hold his front position. The first quarter was run in :23 2-5, and the half-mile in 48 seconds.

King Avondale was a maiden till this performance, just as Denham was when he ran his sensational mile at Fort Erie last summer. His only start this year was at the recent Baltimore meeting, and yesterday was the first time he had run since Shields became his owner. His work was very good, and his owner backed him with considerable confidence.

Mr. J. Burton Holland came home with the cup for the rider of the winner of the Thornecliffe Hunters' Flat Handicap. He had the mount on Kumsaw for "Mr. Chetland," otherwise Mr. A. Henry Higginson, of Boston, and clearly out-ride the favorite, Mr. Dion Kerr, on his own mare, Firefly, who finished third, running wide in the stretch. Mr. Tommy Wright, of Baltimore, was on Liesse, the mare that won the King's Plate at Quebec two years ago for Mr. C. S. Campbell, of Montreal, who still owns her. She was given a good ride, and Kumsaw had to do his best to stand her off at the finish.

STAMINA'S LADIES' STAKES. New York, May 28.—Stamina, the 2 to 5 favorite, easily won the Ladies' Stakes, one mile, for three-year-olds, at Belmont Park yesterday, defeating a good field. Stamina and Jersey Lightning were coupled in the betting, as the Whitney entry, and they so overwhelmingly outclassed their field that they were held at a prohibitive price. Anonyma, for the Keene stable, finished second. She opened at 6 to 1, but went back in the betting to 2 to 1, while Laughing Eyes, an added starter and at 30 to 1, landed the Stamina seat to the front at the start, but Anonyma raced up to her on the turn and was then joined by Jersey Lightning. Stamina continued to show the way to the stretch by one length, where she drew away and won by three lengths. Anonyma was three lengths before Laughing Eyes. The latter was last nearly all the way, but closed with a great burst of speed. Jersey Lightning acted badly. Sanctus, favorite, won the International Steeplechase. Superman has been retired to the stud.

SADDLE AND SULKY. Two bookmakers at the Chatham trotting meeting were fined $50 each yesterday, and the other men were discharged. Fred Cook's three-year-old, Lawrence P. Daley, will be shipped from Belmont Park to Hamilton and started in the Derby there, which is the feature event of the opening day at that meeting. After falling in the Hamilton engagement the colt will be shipped to Kenilworth and started in the Buffalo Derby.

M. Daly, trainer for J. W. Colt, wired Steeplechase Jockey McLenery, who is at the Woodbine, to return at once to New York. McLenery will ride Thistleclade at Belmont Park on Friday and Agent in the Grand National on Saturday.

Jockey Shilling left Toronto for New York last night, but will return on Saturday to ride for J. E. Seagram in the Toronto Cup. Shilling will have the mount on Inferno in that event.
