CHAPTER XIX.

Alone in the deep woods, with the darkness falling around her, she gave way to the mighty sorrow which had come so suddenly upon her. She could not doubt that she had heard. She knew that it was true, and as proof after proof crowded upon her until the chain of evidence was complete, she laid her head upon the rain-wet grass, and shudderingly stopped her ears, to shut out, if possible, the memory of the dreadful words, "I, the shriveled, skinny hag who tells you this, am your grandmother." For a long time she lay there thus, weeping till the fountain of her tears seemed dry; then weary, faint and sick, she started for her home. Opening cautiously the outer door, she was gliding up the stairs, when Madam Conway entering the hall with a lamp, discovered her, and utter an exclamation of surprise at the strangeness of her appearance. Her dress, bedraggled and wet, was torn in several places by the briery bushes she had passed; her hair, loosened from its confinement, hung down her back, while her face was so white and ghastly that Madam Conway in much alarm followed her up the stairs, asking what had happened.

"Something dreadful came to me in the woods," said Maggie, "but I can't tell you to-night. To-morrow I shall be better or dead—oh, I wish I would be dead—before you hate me so; dear grand—No, I didn't mean that—you ain't; forgive me, do," and sinking to the floor, she kissed the very hem of Madam Conway's dress.

Unable to understand what she meant, Madam Conway divested her of her damp clothing, and placing her in bed, sat down beside her saying gently, "Can you tell me now what frightened you?"

A faint cry was Maggie's only answer, and taking the lady's hand she laid it upon her forehead, where the drops of perspiration were standing thickly. All night long Madam Conway sat by her, going once to communicate with Arthur Carrollton, who, anxious and alarmed, came often to the door, asking if she slept. She did sleep at last—a fitful feverish sleep; but ever at the sound of Mr. Carrollton's voice a spasm of pain distorted her features, and a low moan came from her lips. Maggie had been terribly excited, and when next morning she awoke, she was parched with burning fever, while her mind at intervals seemed wandering; and ere two days were passed, she was raving with delirium brought on, the physician said, by some sudden shock, the nature of which no one could even guess.

For three weeks she hovered between life and death, whispering oft of the "horrid shape which had met her in the woods, robbing her of happiness and life." Winding her feeble arms around Madam Conway's neck, she would beg of her most piteously "not to cast her off—not to send her away from the only home she had ever known—for I couldn't help it," she would say. "I didn't know it, and I've loved you all so much—so much! Say, grandma, may I call you grandma all the same? Will you love poor Maggie?"

THE PATIENT BRAIN

A tireless worker so long as supplied with rich, red blood. The brain is one of the most patient and industrious organs of the body. It can be induced, by good treatment, to perform prodigies of work. But it is sensitive and will not brook abuse. It responds to the lash at first, but if the lash is laid on too hard it balks. Nervous trouble is generally brain trouble, and no suffering is to be compared to mental suffering, with the accompanying dread, suspicion and melancholy. One-fifth of the blood in the human body is consumed by the brain, so make the blood rich and red by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and you will overcome diseases of the nerves. Headaches will disappear, irritability will go, digestion will improve, and weakness and despondency will give place to new hope and courage, new vigor and energy. Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food will enable you to avoid such extreme nervous trouble as prostration and paralysis. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

a little?" and Madam Conway, listening to words whose meaning she could not fathom, would answer by lying the aching head upon her bosom, and trying to soothe the excited girl. Theo, too, was summoned home, but at her Maggie's refusal to look, and covering her eyes with her hand she whispered scornfully, "pinned and pale, and pale; that's the very look, I couldn't see it when I called you sister."

Then her mood would change, and motioning Theo to her side, she would say to her: "Kiss me once, Theo, just as you used to do when I was Maggie Miller."

Forward Arthur Carrollton shied from the first manifested fear, shuddering whenever he approached her, and still exhibiting signs of uneasiness if he left her sight. "He hated her," she said, "hated her for what she could not help; and when, as he often did, he came to her bedside, speaking to her words of love, she would answer mournful, 'Don't touch my love. You will hate me when you know it all.'"

Thus two weeks went by and then with the first May day, reason returned again, bringing life and strength to the invalid, and joy to those who had so anxiously watched over her. Almost her first rational question was for Hagar and if she had been there.

"She is confined to her bed with inflammatory rheumatism," answered Madam Conway, "but she inquires for you every day; they say; and once when told you could not live, she started to crawl on her hands and knees to see you, but fainted near the gate and was carried back."
"Poor old woman!" murmured Maggie, the tears rolling down her cheeks as she thought how strong must be the love that half-crazed creature bore her, and how little it was returned, for every feeling of her nature revolted from claiming a near relationship with one whom she had hitherto regarded as a servant. The secret, too, seemed harder to divulge, and day by day she put it off, saying to them when they asked what had so much affected her, that "she could not tell them yet—she must wait till she was stronger."

So Theo went back to Worcester as mystified as ever, and Maggie was left much alone with Arthur Carrollton, who strove in various ways to win her from the melancholy into which she had fallen. All day long she would sit by the open window, seemingly immovable, her large eyes, now intensely black, fixed upon vacancy, and her white face giving no signs of the fierce struggle within, save when Madam Conway, coming to her side would lay her hand caressingly on her in token of sympathy. Then, indeed, her lips would quiver, and turning her head away, she would say, "Don't touch me—don't."

To Arthur Carrollton she would listen with apparent composure, though often as he talked, her long tapering nails left their impress in her flesh, so hard she strove to be indifferent. Once when they were left alone together he drew her to his side, and bending very low, so that his lips almost touched her marble face, he told her of his love, and how full of anguish was his heart when he thought that she would die.

"But God kindly gave you back to me," he said; "and now, my precious Margaret, will you be my wife? Will you go with me to my English home, from which I've tarried now too long because I would not leave you? Will Maggie answer me?" and he folded her lovingly in his arms.

Oh how could she tell him "No," when every fibre of her heart thrilled with the answer "Yes!" she mistook him—mistook the character of Arthur Carrollton, for though pride was strong within him, he loved the beautiful girl who lay trembling in his arms better than he loved his pride; and had she told him then who and what she was, he would not have deemed it a disgrace to love a child of Hagar Warren. But Margaret did not know him, and when he said, "Will Maggie answer me?" there came from her lips a piteous, wailing cry, an enduring her face away, she answered mournfully, "No, Mr. Carrollton; no, I cannot be your wife. It breaks my heart to tell you so; but if you knew what I know, you would have rather thrust me from you, for indeed I am unworthy."

"Don't you love me, Maggie?" Mr. Carrollton said, and in the tones of his voice there was so much of tenderness that Maggie burst into tears, and involuntarily resting her head upon his bosom, answered sadly, "I love you so much, Arthur Carrollton, that I would rather die a hundred deaths could that make me worthy of you, as not long ago I thought I was. But it cannot be. Something terrible has come between us."

"Tell me what it is. Let me share your sorrow," he said; but Maggie only answered, "Not yet, not yet. Let me live where you are a little longer. Then I will tell you all, and go away forever."

This was all the satisfaction he could obtain; but after a time she promised that if he would not mention the subject to her until the first of June, she would then tell him everything; and satisfied with promises which he knew would be kept, Mr. Carrollton waited impatiently for the appointed time, while Maggie, too, counted each sun as it rose and set, bringing nearer and nearer a trial she so much dreaded.

CHAPTER XX.

THE RESULT.

Two days only remained ere the first of June, and in the solitude of her chamber, Maggie was weeping bitterly. "How can I tell them who I am?" she thought. "How bear their pitying scorn when they learned that she whom they called Maggie Miller has no right to that name?—that Hagar Warren's blood is flowing in her veins—and Madam Conway thinks so much of that! Oh, why was Hagar left to do me this wrong? Why did she take me from the pine-board cradle, where she says I lay, and make me what I was born not to be?" and falling on her knees the wretched girl prayed that it might prove a dream from which she would ere long awake.

Alas for thee, poor Maggie Miller! It is not a dream, but a stern reality and you who oft have spurned at birth and family, why should you murmur now when both are taken from you? Are you not still the same, beautiful, accomplished and refined, and can you ask for more? Strange that theory and practice so seldom should accord. And yet it was not the degradation which Maggie felt so keenly, it was rather the loss of love she feared; and without that, the blood of royalty could not avail to make her happy.

Maggie was a warm-hearted girl, and she loved the stately lady she had been wont to call grandmother with a filial, clinging love, which could not be severed, and still this love was naught compared to what she felt for Arthur Carrollton, and the giving up of him was the hardest part of all. But it must be done she thought; he had told her once that if she were Hagar Warren's grandchild, he should not be riding

THE NEW FRENCH REMEDY THERAPION

This excellent and highly popular remedy, as employed in the Continental Hospitals by Ricord, Roussin, Robert, Velpeau, and others, combines all the desiderata to be sought in a medicine of the kind and surpasses everything hitherto employed.

THERAPION No. 1 maintains its world-renowned and well-merited reputation for the treatment of the kidneys and bladder, pains in the back, and kindred ailments, affording prompt relief where other well-known remedies have been powerless.

THERAPION No. 2 for impurity of the blood, scurvy, pimples, spots, blotches, rashes and swelling of the joints, gout, rheumatism, and all diseases for which it has been too much a fashion to employ mercury, arsenic, iodo, etc., to the destruction of sufferers' teeth and ruin of health. This preparation purifies the whole system through the blood, and thoroughly eliminates every poisonous matter from the body.

THERAPION No. 3 for nervous debility, and all the distressing consequences of dissipation, worry, overwork, etc. It possesses a surprising power in restoring strength and vigour to those suffering from the enervating influences of long residence in hot, unhealthy climates.

THERAPION is sold by all Chemists and Merchants throughout the World. Price in England 3/6 & 1/6. In the United States, which of the three numbers is required, and the name of the dealer, should be given. Write for a free trial, and a full description of the medicine, to the Proprietors, Messrs. J. J. St. John, 37, Abchurch Lane, London, E.C. 4, England.

THERAPION may now also be obtained in Drages (Tasteless) form.

MEDICINE Versus NATURE

with her—how much less, then, would he make that child his wife! and rather than meet the look of proud disdain his face would wear, when first she stood confessed before him, she resolved to go away where no one had ever heard of her or Hagar Warren. She would leave behind a letter telling why she went, and commending to Madam Conway's care poor Hagar, who had been sorely punished for her sin. "But whither shall I go, and what shall I do when I get there?" she cried, trembling at the thoughts of a world of which she knew so little. Then, as she remembered how many young girls of her age went out as teachers, she determined to go at all events. "It will be better than staying here where I have no claim," she thought, and nerving herself for the task, she sat down to write the letter, which, on the first of June, should tell to Madam Conway and Arthur Carrollton the story of her birth.

It was a harder task than she supposed—writing that farewell; for it seemed like severing every hallowed tie. Three times she wrote "My dear grandma," then with a throbb of anguish she dashed her pen across the reversed name, and wrote simply "Madam Conway." It was a rambling, impassioned letter, full of tender love—of hope destroyed—of deep despair—which she shadowed forth no expectation that Madam Conway or Arthur Carrollton would ever take her to their hearts again. It begged of them most touchingly to think sometimes of "Maggie," when she was gone forever. Hagar was then commended to Madam Conway's forgiveness and care. "She is old," wrote Maggie, "her life is nearly ended, and if you have in your heart any feeling of pity for her who used to call you grandma, bestow it, I pray you, on poor old Hagar Warren."

The letter was finished, and then suddenly remembering Hagar's words, that "all had not been told," and feeling it her duty to see once more the woman who had brought her so much sorrow, Maggie stole cautiously from the house, and was soon walking down the woodland road, slowly and sadly, for the world had changed to her since last she trod that path. Maggie, too, was changed, and when at last she stood before Hagar, who was now able to sit up, the latter could scarcely recognize in the pale, haggard woman the blooming, merry-hearted girl once known as Maggie Miller.

"Margaret," she cried, "you have come again—come to forgive your poor old grand—No, no," she added, as she saw the look of pain flash over Maggie's face. "I'll never insult you with that name. Only say that you will forgive me, Miss Margaret!" and the trembling voice was choked with sobs, while the aged form shook as with a palsied stroke.

Hagar had been ill. Exposure to the damp air on that memorable night had brought on a second severe attack of rheumatism, which had bent her nearly double. Anxiety for Margaret, too, had wasted her to a skeleton, and her thin, sharp face, now of a corpse-like pallor, contrasted strangely with her eyes, from which the wildness all was gone. Touched with pity, Maggie drew a chair to her side, and thus replied: "I do forgive you, Hagar, for I know that what you did was done in love; but by telling me what you have, you've ruined all my hopes of happiness. In the new scenes to which I go, and the new associations I shall form, I may become contented with my lot, but never can I forget that I once was Maggie Miller."

"Margaret," gasped Hagar, and in her dim eye there was something of the olden fire. "If by new associations you mean Henry Warren, it must not be. Alas, that I should tell this! but Henry is your brother—your father's only son. Oh, horror, horror!" and dreading what Margaret would say she covered her face with her crumpled, distorted hands.

TWO WAYS OF USING MONEY.

BY RUTH CAMERON.

Two young women in my acquaintance are earning a about the same salaries, but they use their money in very different ways. One of them spends as little as possible on her daily needs. She walks to save car-fares; she eats at cheap places; she denies herself any amusement which costs anything; she thinks twice before she spends a quarter; she is always saying she cannot afford this or that little thing and she religiously jots down every penny in her account book. With the money that she thus accumulates, she buys very expensive big things—a handsome set of furs, a costly vacation trip, a mahogany dresser for her room, etc. People are always saying: "What a lot Mabel does get out of her money!"

The other girl always has plenty of money for little things. She goes to the theatre or to some lecture almost every week; she gratifies her love for pleasant surroundings by eating in one of the most attractive restaurants in town, despite her friend's horrified protest that everything costs five or ten cents more there. She never thinks about car fare or any of the little expenses, and she despises account books. Consequently, she never has big things like her friend. She has only enough to help her family, save a reasonable amount and buy fairly presentable clothes. The people who praise her friend are always saying: "Isn't it strange that Lucy doesn't have more to show for her money with the good salary she has?" Now this point of view is so familiar as to be a truism, but there are times when I quarrel with it. May I recall to your mind a sentence which I think I have quoted before? "The right use of money is to accomplish what you wish with it."

Presumably both these girls want the largest amount of happiness possible for their money. The question is: which gets it? The first girl is always tied down to thoughts of money. Spending a quarter bothers her. She scripps herself and denies herself to save a dime. She gets big things for her money and is proud of it and boasts of it, but is it worth while? If some of the money which she put into that mahogany dresser—she scrippled for it six months—had been distributed over that six months as she would make the machinery of her daily living run more smoothly, wouldn't she have been happier on the whole?

The second girl never thinks of money. She allows herself plenty to oil the machinery of daily life and she gets as much as she can out of the rest, and is content. To be sure, she has an oak bureau in her room instead of a mahogany dresser, but I wonder if her peace of mind and her freedom from money worry do not make the balance pretty nearly even.

Now please do not think I am advising you to spend all your money on little things. I'm not advising any extreme. I'm just trying to get the opposite point of view from the conventional one.

It is good to get the full value of your hard earned money, but in trying to do that, do not forget that peace of mind and freedom from money worry are some of the precious things of life, as well as costly furs and mahogany dressers.

Remember that there is such a thing as thinking too constantly of saving money and consequently chaining yourself down to continuous thoughts of money. To my mind, nothing but duty or necessity can make that worth while.

NATURE'S ESSENCE... Extracted From Forest Plants.

Nature's laws are perfect, but disease follows if these laws are not obeyed. Go straight to nature for the cure, to the forest; there are mysteries here that we can fathom for you. Take the bark of the wild cherry tree, the root of mandrake, stone, Oregon grape root, queen's root, bloodroot and golden seal, make a scientific, non-alcoholic extract of them with just the right proportions and you have

Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery.
 It took Dr. Pierce, with the assistance of two learned chemists, eight years of hard work experimenting to make this pure glyceric extract and alternative of the greatest efficiency and without the use of a particle of alcohol.

Just the sort of remedy you need to make rich, red blood, and cure that lassitude and feeling of nerve exhaustion. Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery bears the stamp of Public Approval, and has sold more largely in the past forty years than any other blood purifier and stomach tonic.

"Some time ago I got out of health—my stomach seemed to be the seat of the trouble," writes MR. EZRA WILLIAMS, of Belleville, Kan. "I commenced to doctor with all the doctors at home as well as with other specialists on stomach and digestive organs. None seemed to do any good—in fact, most of the medicines did me harm. Finally, I wrote to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., who replied, saying that I had liver complaint with indigestion and constipation, and advised Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and Pleasant Pellets. The Discovery and Pleasant Pellets have 'put me on my feet again'—seemed to be just what I needed. I could not have recovered without them."

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are for liver ills.

Fads and Fashions.

Shot taffeta scores highest in silks. Many lace collars are worn with tailor-made suits.

Fichu draperies are much used on the girlish frocks. The vogue for earrings is more noticeable than ever.

Buttons are still very important in the decorative field. Shades of tan and champagne are again in great favor.

Tan-colored leathers are the correct thing for street wear. Coat and dress sleeves are frequently finished with a frill.

Rosettes, flowers and other fancy effects are strongly in favor. Black-and-white parasols of every description have the front rank.

The Ladies of St. John's May Now Have Beautiful Hair—McMurdo & Co. Have the Article and Guarantee It to Grow Hair, or Refund Your Money.

McMurdo & Co., Chemists, backed up by the manufacturers of SALVIA, the Great Hair Grower, guarantees it to grow hair. SALVIA destroys Dandruff in ten days.

The roots of the hair are so nourished and fed that a new crop of hair springs up, to the amazement and delight of the user. The hair is made soft and fluffy. Like all American preparations SALVIA is daintily perfumed. It is hard to find an actress who does not use SALVIA continually.

Ladies of society and influence use no other. SALVIA is a non-sticky preparation, and is the ladies' favorite. A large, generous bottle, 50c. The Scotch Drug Co., St. Catharines, Canadian distributors.

Low-hung panniers are more practical than hip-line draperies. The simple one-piece morning frock of linen is more charming than ever. For evening wear, satin slippers matching the color of the gown are worn.

Picot-edged taffeta ribbons have returned to favor along with the panniers.

Ribbon velvets in all colors are a marked feature of the summer costume.

The pink-and-lavender combination is one of the color notes of the season.

The separate skirt of cotton corduroy rivals linen for summer sportswear.

The popular short taffet jackets are trimmed with buttons of exquisite workmanship.

A parson of black-dotted net over yellow satin is beautiful with a deep border of velvet.

Black and white foulard will be greatly in favor for little morning frocks for outing.

Revels from the crinoline period are making their appearance in the hats of the moment.

Slippers for less formal wear feature the military heel in preference to the Louis Quinze.

The extended shoulder line is the only fashionable remaining remnant of the kimono sleeve.

A charming gown of cerise charmeuse has a broad girde of mahogany-colored velvet. Taffets, crepes, satins and Turkish toweling are equally in the foremost march of fashion.

Mechlin lace is very much worn just now and appears on many of the smartest evening gowns. The new novelty parasol, called the "dome" or "barred" parasol, is rapidly gaining in favor. There is quite a penchant for blue in millinery circles at present, chiefly of the vivid shades. There is a slight increase of fullness in the skirt. Tunics, double and triple skirts are to be worn. Cordings, ruchings, puffings and pleatings are much used for trimming the frocks of sheer material. Stockings are frequently inset with real lace and this again even embroidered with beads or jewels. Long wraps of taffeta are displayed to wear with one-piece frocks of chiffon, taffeta or mousseline de soie. The craze for colored stockings shows no abatement. They match the gown and are worn with black slippers.

There are times when the pitcher becomes light-headed and can't tell the plate from a swinging target. This is the reason why so many batters carry around deep, perpendicular dents in their port side. According to the government reports, the head of a pitcher who leads the league will assay only 4 per cent ivory, while the cranium of a twirler who throws three cut curves in succession is the nearest approach to an elephant tusk this side of the African jungle. Every pitcher has a collection of curves which he lets go of with a plaintive and sepulchral grunt. The most deceptive curve is the spit ball, which never knows where it is going until it has removed a few hard-pine splinters from the batter's physique. Next to this is the fade-away, which staggers up to the plate in a trance and whistles for air at the crossing. Between innings the pitcher writes articles for the magazines and conveys the idea that the umpire is a low-browed crook with a deep-dyed criminal record. In the winter he indulges in some light occupation like uttering vaudeville sketches or driving a tray, in the meanwhile dressing like a butterfly of fashion.

The Pitcher.

BY H. L. RANN.

The pitcher is a high-salaried c o n tortionist who is usually padded with self-esteem and $1 bills. He earns a living by posing as the human windlass and striking o u t somebody with the bases full. Every successful pitcher has a wind-up that resembles a rat terrier with the duplex vertigo. It takes some pitchers so long to wind up that the batter becomes dizzy and can't hit anything but the intervening atmosphere or a wild pitch. Some pitchers rely upon headwork, while others put their trust in a spring of perennial and night-blooming hope. This latter class usually fade away about the third inning and back into the brush league, where there is plenty of company. The most discouraging moment in a pitcher's career is to have somebody who couldn't hit the water if he was thrown out a bridge connect up with a wild pitch and tie the score.

Chest Pains of Bronchitis

IT is the tendency of every cold to develop into bronchitis, consumption or some form of lung trouble. Bronchitis is most dreaded, because it has a tendency to become chronic and return again and again, until the patient becomes worn out. If the cough is dry and hard; if there is pain, soreness or tightness in the chest; if breathing is difficult and causes pain in the chest, you have every reason to suppose that you have bronchitis and should promptly begin the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Cough mixtures that may help an ordinary cold have no effect on bronchitis and asthma, but Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has won its enviable reputation on account of its wonderful success in curing these ailments. 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmondson Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Prescription 'A.'

Is the one and only genuine preparation that cures Indigestion and Dyspepsia in all its forms.

It is quite a daily occurrence to hear a person say: "Oh, what a feeling of distress I have after meals, fullness of the stomach, heaviness and headache. I feel too tired to do anything. I have no heart to exert myself, and at times I care for nothing."

I often have a pain in the pit of the stomach after eating, that is (if I am able to eat). My heart beats rapidly on the slightest exertion, and I am just as tired when rising in the morning (even worse) than when retiring at night. I often awake in my sleep and imagine that I am going to suffocate, and very often afraid to go to sleep again. I have to take particular good care of what food I eat. All these symptoms make my life not worth living."

So, why do you insist on suffering from all these unnecessary symptoms when STAFFORD'S "Prescription 'A.'" will do the work.

This genuine preparation is manufactured by DR. F. STAFFORD & SON, St. John's, Nfld. Price, small size, 25 cents, postage 5 cents extra. Large size, 50 cents, postage 10 cents extra.

STAFFORD'S "Prescription 'A.'" will do the work.

MONDAY, May 13th, 1912.
A Distinction
Without a Difference.

Tom Mann, the President of the Industrial Syndicalist Education League, has been sentenced to six months imprisonment on the charge of inciting troops to mutiny during the Miners' National strike. The proprietor and printers of the Journal, Syndicalist, were sentenced some time ago on a similar count. The fact on which the charge was based was the publication in the Journal of a letter to soldiers, asking them not to shoot strikers if they should be called out during a disturbance and ordered by their officers to fire, as provided by the Riot Act. In addition to the publication of this circular, Mr. Mann continued to make speeches of a similar tenor. He expected to be convicted, and once the prosecution was begun it is difficult to see how conviction could be avoided. There was, however, some difference of opinion as to the expediency of instituting a prosecution for an expression of an opinion, even though it bordered on an exhortation to soldiers to disobey their officers and offend against the provisions of the Mutiny Act. But the Attorney General, Sir Rufus Isaacs, had decided and strong opinions as to the necessity of this course and he stood firmly to his policy, when heckled in the House of Commons by Labour and Radical members. Why then have Trade Unionists been angered over the sentence? It was expected, and exception can hardly be taken to the justice of it. The resentment, however, lies deeper than this. It is felt that all men have not been treated as equals by the Law Officers of the Crown. It is notorious that Tom Mann offended and deserved punishment, and is to be punished, because it was felt expedient to institute a prosecution. It is equally notorious that in and out of Parliament men of the highest social standing have been guilty of using language calculated to foment dissent in Elster in the event of Home Rule being enacted, and which cannot be construed in any other way than an exhortation to both officers and soldiers to mutiny against authorities which might be constituted in Ireland. The ordinary man argues that if it is expedient to punish Tom Mann, why is it not expedient to punish Sir Edward Carson? Is it because the latter has been solicitor General for Ireland twice, that he is held immune? Does high office render innocuous suggested breaches of the law?

Supreme Court.

Donald M. Browning, Admr., vs. Wm. Snow.
Mr. McNelly for plaintiff moves for a day. Motion was withdrawn.

Geo. Hodder et al., vs. D. M. Brown.
This was a motion for an order granting leave to the plaintiff in the above action to enforce their equitable lien upon certain mining rights of the defendants described in the Statement of Claim by a sale of the said mining rights upon such terms and conditions as the Court or a Judge thereof may prescribe. Mr. McNelly was heard in support of the motion. The Court takes time to consider.

The Police Court.

Two labourers, drunk and disorderly and fighting, were each fined $2 or 7 days.
Three drunks were each fined $1 or 3 days, and one drunk was discharged.

Four drunks were fined $2 or 7 days, it being the second offence in each case.

Two men charged with being drunk and disorderly and fighting were fined $5 or 14 days.
A third case of disorderliness was postponed in order to summon a party who was also fighting.

Paralyzed.

Word reached the city Saturday night conveying the information that Police Inspector Bailey of Harbor Grace was paralyzed. We learn that Mr. Bailey was attending to his duties in the Court House there when he was stricken suddenly and for a time his condition was critical. Friends of the genial and popular Inspector both in St. John's and the Metropolis, will be sorry to hear of his affliction, but express the hope that his recovery will be speedy.

FIRST BOAT FOR SEASON. — ss. Simbad, the first steamer to come down the St. Lawrence River for the season, arrived in port at 1 o'clock to-day. She came from Montreal direct; the passage occupying five days. Fine weather was met until yesterday when it became a little rough. The Simbad brought a full cargo including hay, oats, meal, etc. She will ply between Montreal via gulf ports during the season.

Indians on Run Kill One and Wound Four.

VANCOUVER, May 4.—A force of constables and a posse of armed citizens are to-day in pursuit of two Indian fugitives, who, yesterday, shot at least one officer to death, and perhaps three others and wounded a fifth. Provincial Constable Kindless, one of the five officers, in pursuit of the Indians, was shot and killed, and Constable Loring was shot in the arm. Three other constables in the party are missing, and may have been picked off by the Indian marksmen. The two Indians, last summer were jailed at Clinton on suspicion of murdering a white cook and a Chinaman, in a camp near Ashcroft. Shortly afterwards, they broke jail, and throughout the winter kept in hiding. Lately the Provincial police obtained word of their whereabouts and organized a pursuit. It is believed at Ashcroft, they will be surrounded in a few days, and taken dead or alive.

The High Cost of Living.

By WALT MASON.
Granddad wore his whiskers till they hid his vest; in that heard the robin used to build its nest. Granddad, in the springtime, sat upon a chair; grandma, with her scissors, pruned his flowing hair. That was in the golden time of long ago, when the waste of money meant a store of woe. That was in the happy, good old frugal times, when our sires far-seeing, salted down the dimes. Father seeks the barber when he's - run to hair, stretches out in comfort in a padded chair; while the smiling artist through his lilac bows, energetic bootblacks decorate his shoes, and the manufacturer monkeys with his hand—all these vain proceedings cost to beat the band! Granddad saved and sweated all his days on earth; when he made a finish, how much was he worth? He had eighty acres—quite a farm, you say, and some hundred dollars tucked away. Father spends his money like a soused marine, such a dazzling spendthrift never yet was seen. Well he can afford to blow in coin with zest; he owns banks and buildings till you cannot rest. Where's the helpful moral of this tale of men? Hunt it with a lantern—guess there isn't one!

Keen Cuts.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir.—The keen thrusts delivered day after day by the "People's Paper" are waking people, just as a gentleman on Water Street put it the other evening, "get onto things generally." Extravagance is rampant, people are having a hard time to make things square, a bad sealing voyage has just ended, and there is general unrest and discontent. Can this only be accounted for in the one way? While the common people pine in poverty, others, no better as a rule, wallow in wealth at the expense of the unfortunate public. I've been watching public events pretty closely lately and notice that accidents and other causes are bringing into once happy homes sorrow and trouble and still there are men of affluence and with plenty and to spare going on picnicking trips under the guise of State missions. Some special antidote, antioxine, call it what you will, to use metaphorical language, must be invented for the cure of or the prevention of the diseases that seem to affect the body politic at present. Anything done must be at once drastic and of a nature to have palliative effects immediately. I have been watching things of late though I've not written much. However, I sometimes think and occasionally write, and for the present sign myself your humble correspondent PUBLICUS.

Here and There.

Mr. Thos. Armstrong, of the R. N. Co. electrical department, after several days of depressing illness, is able to be about to-day.

HERE FROM SYDNEY.—The S. S. Wasia, 3 days from Sydney, reached port at 3 a.m. to-day bringing a cargo of coal to Mullaly & Co.

ANOTHER UNION.—The farmers of the city intend forming a union and will hold a preliminary meeting in the rooms of the L. S. P. U. Those men, like the clerks, are determined to form up.

PHOTOS OF AVALANCHE.—Members of the Prospero's crew have in their possession photographs of the fearful avalanche that occurred at Tilt Cove a few weeks ago and killed several people.

IN NASTY POSITION.—Captain Bob Bartlett, of the S. S. Neptune, relates an incident that occurred while at the Gulf seal fishery. While caught in the ice on the north western side of the island one dark night the ship was in a serious position. To set Capt. Bartlett right the light keeper at Long Point, Port au Port, struck up the light which was greatly appreciated by the Capt. Bob.

By the shore train to-day we learn from people who arrived from Carbonear that an accident which might have been attended with loss of life occurred there. One of Udell's schooners was hove down for repairs when suddenly some of the tackle sprung. The ship uprighted and both masts came out where the men were working and they had a miraculous escape. Fortunately no body was hurt. The schooner will have to get new spars.

Cable News.

Special to Evening Telegram.
HALIFAX, May 12. The second class cruiser Sirius arrived here to-day from the West Indies and will proceed to Newfoundland in a few days on the fishery service. She is commanded by Capt. McMaster.
LONDON, May 12. Trade unionists are aroused over the sentence of six months imprisonment for Tom Mann on a charge of inciting troops to mutiny during the coal strike. A monster meeting of protest will be held in Trafalgar Square.
LONDON, May 12. The recently enacted Minimum Wage Act has already broken down and another crisis threatens. South Wales is the storm centre. The colliers object to the decision of Lord Staudrom, chairman of the local wage board, which gave less than five shillings minimum. At a conference on Saturday at Cardiff, the South Wales Miners' Federation decided not to participate in further work of the district wages board until the whole situation had been reviewed by the National Conference in London this week. Stanton, a Socialist leader, again leads the revolt, and indications point either to repudiation of the Minimum Wage Act or a split in the miners' ranks. Stanton threatens to bring out all the transport workers in support of the miners.
LIVERPOOL, May 12. A big crowd awaited the arrival of Bruce Ismay on the Adriatic and cheered him as he walked down the gangway with his wife, who had gone aboard at Queenstown. Ismay lifted his hat in acknowledgment of the reception but excused himself from making any statement to the press, saying he was still suffering from the strain of the disaster and had already given a plain unvarnished statement of facts to a responsible and adequate commission. He thought his evidence to be given before the British court of inquiry should not be anticipated. He expressed gratitude for cablegrams and letters received from public societies and private friends, conveying sympathy and confidence during the greatest trial of his life. Ismay was pale and haggard and appeared much touched by the reception.

NEW YORK, May 12. A London cable says that everybody is talking of Winston Churchill's sensational journey to London to vote for the Home Rule Bill on Thursday, and his return to Weymouth next morning in time to join the King in his inspection of the fleet and to witness the target practice. Churchill left Weymouth with Balfour by the 6 o'clock train, arriving at 10. After taking part in the Home Rule division he returned by automobile to Bournemouth, where he left the car and was rowed to the destroyer Swift, one of the fastest vessels in the world. She dashed through the early morning mists of the channel at racing speed, nearly 40 knots, and reached the fleet at Weymouth in ample time to join the first squadron. His all night journey of 300 miles by train, automobile and warship forms a record. The Home Rule vote incidentally cost the Unionists a lot of money. The second reading was carried by 101 votes, the odd vote cast by Churchill meaning the difference between winning and losing countless bets in political clubs and other circles that the majority would not exceed 100.

LONDON, May 12. Lady Tupper, wife of the venerable Sir Charles Tupper, Baronet, died here yesterday.
CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I., May 12. On Saturday the firemen and trimmers on the Earl Grey and Minto struck for higher wages and reduction of length of watches. After a conference with the marine department the demand was granted. Firemen will receive $32 and trimmers $29 per month, and the watches will be of four hours' duration.
Large Funeral.
Yesterday afternoon all that was mortal of the late Mr. Patrick Haurahan, ex-member of the Constabulary, was consigned to mother earth at the family plot in Mt. Carmel Cemetery. Mr. J. T. Martin was the undertaker, and the funeral was very largely attended, many present members and ex-members of the police force including Supt. Grimes and Inspector Collins being present. Rev. D. O'Callaghan gave the final oblation at the R. C. Cathedral, and sympathetically words to the little boys of the deceased before they left the church.
THE BRUCE HERE.—The S. S. Bruce arrived here at 3:45 p.m. yesterday after making a run 35 hours from Sydney. She came here for a general overhaul and repairs.

Two Very Sad Accidents.

OLD WOMAN DROWNED — CHILD BURNED TO DEATH.
From Chief Steward Moyst, of the S. S. Fogota, we get particulars of two sad deaths which occurred last week. On Monday morning last, the 6th inst., a poor widow woman named Morgan was drowned in a brook at Seldom Come By, under sad circumstances. The woman arose about 7 o'clock and went tending the sheep which she owned and in crossing the pool of water near her home, it is believed became stricken with heart failure and falling into the water was quickly drowned. Her body was found floating in the pool which was not extra deep. When the body was found Dr. McLean viewed it and found that death was caused by drowning due to an attack of heart failure.
The second harrowing accident told our representative related to the burning to death of a little girl named Reid. This occurred at Indian Islands on Tuesday morning last. The little girl had started the fire in the kitchen stove and liberally applied kerosene oil but the wood and coal with which the stove was filled did not quickly ignite, she then added more oil, and taking off the covers of the stove she applied a match to the fuel. Instantly almost she was enveloped in the flames which shot up and the light material which she wore was soon on fire. She ran outside the door screaming for help, and thus sealed her death warrant. A stiff breeze was blowing and this so fanned the flames that she was burned badly; she died at 8 o'clock the same evening.

A Titanic Claim.

An Incident of the Recent Disaster.
Another incident in connection with the loss of the Titanic which will bring some degree of comfort to the afflicted widow, and bring home to many the wisdom of providing against the uncertain, is the fact that Mrs. Frank H. Mayberry, of Moose Jaw, Sask., whose husband lost his life on the Titanic, was totally unaware of her husband having taken out a ten thousand dollar policy prior to their going to England, and in her favor. It was only through the efforts of the company in locating Mrs. Mayberry that she was first made aware of the fact that ten thousand dollars was lying to her credit at the head office of the Railway Passengers' Assurance Company at 64 Cornhill, London, Eng. This is only one of the many losses now being paid by the company as a result of the above disaster.
The fact that the Railway Passengers has paid out over thirty-two millions in claims, and that ample funds are provided for such catastrophes, fitly illustrates the importance of insuring in a company granting adequate security to meet such contingencies. HENRY C. DONNELLY, Agent for Newfoundland, may 7.81

Beautiful Singing

Yesterday at St. Patrick's Church last Mass was celebrated and a very eloquent sermon preached by Rev. J. Pippy. A large congregation attended and many were animated by pleasurable expectancy knowing that Miss MacKenzie, of the Selman Stock Co., would give a vocal selection. She sang as an offertory Gounod's "Ave Maria." The prelude was expressively given by Prof. McCarthy on the organ, and a violin accompanied this talented songstress, whose melodious notes none who were in the church will soon forget.

T. A. & B. Society

The regular monthly meeting of the T. A. & B. Society was held yesterday afternoon. There was a large attendance of members and eight applicants were elected to membership. President Ellis in a brief speech congratulated the new candidates. Rev. Dr. Kitchin, Spiritual Director, who was present, gave an address on "Thrift." The discourse was listened to closely, particularly as the subject applied fittingly to the Society's proposed establishment of a Savings Bank scheme, which will come up for further consideration of the Executive on Thursday evening next.

Icebergs Are Everywhere.

In coming south this trip the Fogota was beset on all sides by icebergs, this being especially the case as the ship crossed Bonavista, Trinity and Conception Bays. East, west, north and south the bergs were about the ship and in the thick weather of Saturday night Captain Barbour, of St. John's Harbour, thought it imprudent to run amongst them. The ship would have been in port at 10:30 on Saturday night but with these dangerous customers round she slowed down off port until well after daylight.

107 YEARS OLD.—A copy of the London Times, dated November 8th, 1805, or approximately 107 years old, is now on exhibition in the window of Mr. F. Chesman's store on Water St. It is a Gazette Extraordinary edition of that journal and contains an account of the Battle of Trafalgar which took place on October 21st, 1805.

IS IT NOT SERIOUS?—To the average man who looks around himself, the resigning of so many good officials from the Police Force is a somewhat serious prospective. There are none rushing to fill the vacancies, realizing that the wages paid by the picnic government is not sufficient to keep body and soul together, so that the meaning attached to the whole question is the falling-away of a necessary factor to the upkeep of public weal. The thing is serious, and unless better pay is rated to those already holding positions on the staff—worse may follow.

New Scheme of Naval Defence

Special to Evening Telegram. LONDON, To-day.

Under the new scheme of defence, initiated under Churchill, destroyers of the British Fleet commenced on May 1st a continuous patrol of the coasts of the United Kingdom. The north-east coast menaced as it is by the powerful fleet of the German empire necessarily must be closely guarded. There most of the modern powerful vessels of the Mosquito fleet, supported by submarines, have been stationed. Heretofore two battle squadrons of the Home Fleet have had attached to them a destroyer flotilla with reserve flotillas at the naval bases, Devonport and the Nore. The new scheme provides that no destroyers are to be permanently attached to battle fleets. Instead the whole available forces have been organized into 8 flotillas, four being in full commission and four in reserve with nucleus crews. Of the four reserve flotillas the first and second are composed of 36 of the newest and most powerful vessels and will have their base at the new naval headquarters at Rosyth, on the east coast of Scotland, facing directly across to Germany, besides guarding the northern exit to the Atlantic, the third flotilla will have the base at Harwich, an east coast station, the fourth at Portland in the English channel, where they will be available for work on any coast. At each base named there will be one reserve flotilla while other destroyers will patrol other parts of the coast not covered by these. 165 destroyers are included in the new organization, besides 8 fast cruisers, 8 scouts, 8 depot repair ships. Of this number a third is assigned to the North Sea so that with 24 submarines with bases at Dundee and Harwich the coasts of England should be well guarded. Naval experts estimate the new scheme doubles effective strength of the advance guard along the eastern seaboard. With the exception of the fifth flotilla all the North Sea destroyers are driven by turbines and the majority burn oil.

The Prospero brought a full freight, including 300 seals, and as passengers: Messrs. Haller, Bussey, Rose, Lambert, Rev. ### Obituary.

MR. A. H. SEYMOUR, M. H. A., PASSES AWAY.

The many who knew Mr. A. H. Seymour were shocked Saturday night to hear of his death. Mr. Seymour had been in the Royal Victoria Hospital for some time past suffering from a dangerous malady, but recent news from the patient was reassuring and the belief was that he would come through the effects of his operation successfully. His wife, however, was advised Saturday evening that her husband's illness had taken a dangerous turn and she was preparing to leave by yesterday's express when Saturday the sad news reached her of her husband's death.

Mr. Seymour was a native of St. John's, was in his 57th year. He served an apprenticeship of four years as draper with Messrs. Job Bros. & Co., and afterwards went into business for himself. In 1882 he was appointed engraving clerk in the House of Assembly and became also Secretary to Sir W. V. Whiteway, and later that same year received an appointment in the Harbor Grace Customs. In 1892 he was made Sheriff of the Northern District, and after 1897 when the Winter Government abolished that office he left his position. Some months later he was appointed Magistrate at Greenspond, and after the Liberal Government came into power in 1900, he was made District Judge of Harbor Grace.

In 1908 he resigned this office and contested Harbor Grace District and in the Spring election of 1909 he was returned as a member for Harbor Grace. He was made a member of the Agricultural Board. He resigned this last year and then proceeded to England to take charge of the exhibits of the Reid Nfld. Co. at the Festival of Empire. Mr. Seymour was well known and by his pleasing, kindly disposition was well liked all over the country. He was a member of the Masonic Fraternity and a devoted adherent of the Church of England, and with his widow, sister, Mrs. George B. Harris, and his brother Mr. H. I. Seymour, of the Reid Nfld. Co., the Telegram tenders its deep sorrow.

JAMES GERALD DOOLEY.

Death visited Pleasantville yesterday morning, and to-day Mr. and Mrs. Dooley are lamenting the loss of their fourteen year old son, Gerald. Although not robust the deceased was active, and was attending St. Patrick's School last week and was around the farm with his father on Saturday. At 4 a.m. yesterday he awoke and called his parents saying that he felt very weak. Everything that loving hands could do was done. The medical attendant was summoned and the Rev. Dr. Kitchen administered to him the consolations of his church, and at 10.30 a.m. he breathed his last. His funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon. The Evening Telegram tenders its sympathy to his parents in their sad bereavement.

ERIC ROLLS.

It is with feelings of the most profound regret that we have to chronicle the passing away of little Eric, only son of William and Selina Rolls, in the seventh year of his age. The sad event occurred on Monday, the 6th inst., when surrounded by all that love and affection could do to minister to his closing hours, the soul of the dear child went peacefully forth to rest forever with Him who said, "Suffer the little children to come unto Me." During the brief period of his life Eric was a general favorite with those of his own age, and many adult persons took more than a passing interest in him. Grief over his early demise is general to his mother and sisters, and to his father, who is at present at Sechart, British Columbia, the sympathy of old and young alike is given. The funeral takes place to-morrow. He will be borne to his last resting place by loving hands, and the body of their playmate and friend will be laid in the ground there to await the hour "When Christ shall gather the lambs to his bosom." Channel, May 8th.

The Rev. Carl N. Garland, of Maine, has been appointed District Superintendent of the Episcopal Conference and has the superintendency of thirty-six churches. Mr. Garland is a young Newfoundlander, son of Mr. Josiah Garland, former Crown Lands Officer. The clipping is taken from a paper, and shows that Mr. Garland is doing well in the home of his father.

New District Superintendent

The Rev. Carl N. Garland, of Rockland, Maine, has been appointed District Superintendent of the East Maine Conference and has the supervision of thirty-six churches. Mr. Garland is a young Newfoundlander, and a son of Mr. Josiah Garland, formerly of the Crown Lands Office. The following clipping is taken from an American paper, and shows that Mr. Garland is doing well in the home of his adoption:

"In this connection a brief word concerning the new superintendent of the Rockland District may not be amiss. Rev. Mr. Garland was born in Newfoundland 28 years ago, but has been a resident of Maine since he was 22 years of age. His education was a liberal one in every sense of the word, including courses at Bucksport Seminary, which is a Methodist institution; the University of Maine, which recognizes no particular creed; and Ban-nor Theological Seminary, which is a Congregational institution. He was ordained as a Methodist elder at Ban-nor, and became a member of the East Maine Conference. He has held pastorates in Westport, Deer Isle, Penobscot, Orland, Hampden, Bar Harbor and Rockland. His work in these several charges has been of such an energetic character and productive of such excellent results, that he was selected for district superintendent against his own personal wishes and contrary to the desire of Pratt Memorial Church. A half dozen others had sought the berth which will be one of added importance and remunerated when the three districts are merged into two, but on all sides there was a demand for Mr. Garland —Garland the indefatigable worker and organizer. That position he accepted after hours of prayer and tears. He retains his residence in Rockland for the present at least, but wherever duty calls him he will be followed by the earnest well wishes of his former Rockland parishioners."

Home Met Ice.

The s.s. Home, Capt. Harbin, had much trouble after sailing from here last week with ice while bound to Bay of Islands. The ship met a heavy floe and had to make a wide detour to reach Bay of Islands. The ice was specially heavy near Gregory Island. The portion of the ship will be ice for a few trips as she goes down the Straits, but present appearances seem to make for better conditions than last year.

Death of Mrs. Saint.

The Fogota brought along this trip the corpse of Mrs. Saint, wife of the Rev. Mr. Saint, who died at Westville a few days ago. The remains were brought to Blackhead, C.B., the native place of the deceased, for interment. The sorrowing husband of the deceased lady and their three children came on the ship with the remains.

Rambling Notes for 1911

BY I. C. MORRIS.

CHAPTER XI.

INCIDENTS ON BOARD THE ETHIE.

On board the Ethie we found everything very satisfactory, and the trip is one well worth the cost. Of course the fellow passengers, and the ship's officers have a good deal to do in making it pleasant for each other. It has been my privilege to fall in with many excellent people in my rambles, and I have always received the greatest kindness from the captains and officers of our coastal and bay boats.
 They have readily given me all the information they could about places and things, and have helped in no small degree the preparation of these notes. On the Ethie we formed the acquaintance of Capt. Gooby, and we take this opportunity of thanking him for his help and kindly counsel. We found him a worthy son of his country, and a gentleman in every respect. We watched him in the discharge of his duties, and while we noted firmness and discipline, we were gratified to see that it was without any undue noise or ostentation. During Capt. Gooby's eleven years service on this route he has had quite a few hard experiences in landing and taking on board passengers by boat.
 In some cases the very greatest care is necessary and especially is this the case at night and with a heavy swell running; but we are glad to be able to record the fact that all accident has been averted, and that everything has gone well. What these steamers and what the ability and affability of their officers mean to the travelling public can only be known by seeing for one's self. This is what I have done, and thus it is I speak.

Among those whom I have met on the deck, or in the cabin of our steamers there are none who elicit a greater interest from me than young women who engage in domestic service; they are interesting because they are our country women, interesting because they are away from home, and interesting from the standpoint of the so-called "domestic help" problem, which is annually assuming larger proportions. This problem, like others of its class, seems difficult to solve; nor is it likely to adjust itself under present conditions, which the girls claim are one-sided. Some of these young women are quite kernel when discussing this question, and some of the views they entertain could be mutually accepted there would perhaps be a solution of this problem.
 Perhaps their ideas would border on the extreme in their own favour, and then the problem would still be unsolved; however, as there is much good logic in what some of them think we will for the benefit of any concerned, lay it before our readers.

The girls think that the division of labour in the average household is not equal, and that the hours are altogether irregular, and unnecessarily long. They begin anywhere about 6 or 7 o'clock a.m. and finish at 9, 10 or 11 p.m. For meals there is little or no allowance of time, and anything is supposed to do them. The mistress of the house is sometimes unduly exact, and none too liberal, either in payment or encouraging words.

Then, again, some of them lack confidence in the integrity of their servants, and at very trivial offences they display much bad temper; others seem to lack system, and don't know when a thing is "good enough."

The idea they have of a domestic is akin to slavery, and if she is not constantly "at it" they fear she is idling. Because of this idea they keep their girls "poking" and "dabbling" at work that is not necessary, and the result of it all is that a spirit of dissatisfaction is engendered, and the girls, instead of continuing at house work, begin to feel around for a more congenial position. Thus they turn to shops and factories, and forsake the realm that by nature and right is theirs.

They think that housework can be conducted on more of a business-like principle, that is, that regularity can be carried out in the kitchen, or on wash day in the house where the mistress rules, just as well as it can be done at the office, or on the wharf, or in the store where the master works.
 They do not think that the problem of "domestic help" will ever be solved under the present management or under present usages. The average girl is too wide awake, and with the advantages of education she is seeing more and more through the mistakes which exist.

Such may be accepted as a sample of what some of the girls think. Of course they did not put it just in this language, but what they meant was about the same in principle. They were not afraid of work, but they claimed the necessity of a better system, and when the question is fairly and impartially considered, is there not much in the ideas which these statements contain that is both fair, reasonable and commendable? Is not a woman's right just as sacred as a man's? Why not she have regularly in her work at home as well as her sisters or brothers have it at work outside of the home? The adage that "woman's work is never done" may be very good poetry, but it is not the most intelligent practice. This is what young women are beginning to think, and it is along lines similar to these that the problem of "domestic help" will finally adjust itself.

Wherever one turns, the question of domestic help is assuming keen proportions. From recent exchanges I notice that the situation is reported as quite acute at Sweden, Norway and Denmark, where the servants are said to have organized, with offices at Stockholm, Copenhagen, and Christiania, with the following demands:—
 "The suppression of all night work; servants to knock off at 9 in the evening and to rest until 7 next morning.
 Extra pay for servants should they be requested to work after 9.
 A night out from 5 every week.
 Sunday off from 10 in the morning every fortnight, and a fortnight's summer holiday, the regular wage and in addition board wages to be paid.
 Increase of wages when the work of the house is satisfactorily performed.
 The servant's room to be light and warm and to be so situated as to catch the sun."

Whether any of our girls have been imbibing such views as these I do not really know; and yet there is not a very great difference between the rules of one and the opinions of the other.

Winter at Cartwright.

To the one who has never spent a winter in the cold, cold north, a word of its grandness and terrors might be one of interest.

To speak of its charms—well there are few to speak of. Nature has almost left it void of charms; but still it has a very pleasing charm for one who sees the hand of the Great Creator, even in desolation and gloom.

Winter came in in good trim on the 25th November. In three days the beautiful sheet of water known as Cartwright Harbor, and almost the whole of Sandwich Bay, became a solid mass of ice. Even while I write this the air is intensely still by frost and all nature seems to be hushed by its awful embrace. We do not fear Johnny much; our very old-fashioned rig of coosock, seal skin boots and cuffs, trousers of seal skin and even whole suits, prevent Jackie from becoming our conqueror. We can play football in this rig with the glass registering 20 below zero.

The people on this shore live by fishing summer time cod and salmon the Hudson Bay store at Cartwright.
 Winter time they try and trap furs of all kinds, which is also disposed of to the above-mentioned company, more or less. The past summer was a good one with fish, but up to date the furs caught are but small. It is the poorest catch of furs for years.

Where there was some hundreds of foxes caught last year, to date this season's catch numbers about a score.
 For some unknown reason foxes are very scarce and a poor voyage is anticipated. Fortunately the summer's produce was good and the people are well provided for the cold, long days between now and June, when we hope to see our genial captain in the good ship Solway. The sound of her whistle after 7 months' absence will indeed be glorious, and then one will realise what a blessing it is to be gained from civilization and the mother of invention.

No mail has come here since the 22nd of November, and we are now looking forward with eager anticipation to a mail this month.

Although we are so much isolated, yet we managed to celebrate Xmas in our little way by entertaining the people all round the bay with a variety of games. The company's agent gave out several prizes for shooting, running, etc., in which old and young competed with keen interest. It was amusing to see very old men exert themselves in trying to wrest the prize from the younger, and they did not feel the least disappointed when beaten once, but would return again and again to gain if possible a prize. On Xmas night Mrs. H. Kirby (wife of Rev. H. Kirby) gave us a very pleasing treat at the Parsonage by distributing some one hundred prizes from a Xmas tree. Old and young men and women, boys and girls, drew a ticket for which they received a prize. Father Xmas was there and made the distribution of prizes, and drew forth from the audience roars of laughter by his quaint sayings and very pleasing way of doing things. At the close of the stripping of the very pretty tree an address was given by the Rev. Mr.
 Kirby, followed by a vote of thanks to Mrs. Kirby proposed by C. Shears and seconded by Mr. Learmonth. Three cheers were then called for Father Xmas—such cheers never came from the throats of any audience before or since. Then the audience joined in and sang in a clear strain the National Anthem. After that all went each their respective ways, feeling thoroughly satisfied with themselves and all around them.

Nature has seen fit to isolate us from our fellow creatures by communication for seven months out of twelve, and we out of respect for that which cannot be otherwise accept the inevitable and are therewith content.
 Many feet of snow and ice now surround us, but we are looking forward to a time when we shall again commune with our fellow man and become a drop in the ocean of humanity which comprise this our world.
 AN OBSERVER.
 Cartwright, Sandwich Bay,
 Labrador, January, 4th, 1912.

Here is a Real Dyspepsia Cure.

No Indigestion, Gas, Sourness or Headache five minutes later.

The question as to how long you are going to continue a sufferer from Indigestion, Dyspepsia, or out-of-order Stomach is merely a matter of how soon you begin taking some Diapepsin.

If your Stomach is lacking in digestive power, why not help the stomach to do its work, not with drastic drugs, but a re-enforcement of digestive agents, such as are naturally at work in the stomach.

People with weak Stomachs should take a little Diapepsin occasionally, and there will be no more Indigestion, no feeling like a lump of lead in the stomach, no heartburn, Sour risings, Gas on Stomach or Belching of undig-ested food, Headaches, Dizziness or Sick Stomach, and, besides, what you eat will not ferment and poison your breath with nauseous odors. All these symptoms resulting from a sour, out-of-order stomach and dyspepsia are generally relieved in five minutes after taking a little Diapepsin.

Go to your druggist and get a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapepsin now, and you will always go to the table with a hearty appetite, and what you eat will taste good, because your stomach and intestines will be clean and fresh, and you will know there are not going to be any more bad nights and miserable days for you.
 They freshen you and make you feel life is worth living.

The Fogota Here from North

The S. S. Fogota, Capt. B. Barbour, arrived from the Northward at 6 a.m. yesterday. The ship left here on Tuesday the 7th inst., and had a fine run North making all ports of call except Gander Bay, Dog Bay and Victoria which places are still blocked with harbor ice which is very thick. She reached Change Islands at noon on Thursday last, and coming back had very thick weather and much icebergs which are alluded to elsewhere. Her saloon passengers were:—S. Waterman, T. McGinn and two sons, J. B. Wheeler, A. Barbour, W. Cranford, G. Edgecombe, Mrs. T.
 Duggan, Mrs. W. Blunden, Mrs. M.
 Wright and two children, Mrs. J. Bar-

 Cosh and 20 in steerage.

SECCOTINE!
FOR STICKING EVERYTHING.
 In patent pin-stopper tubes. Vest Pocket Size, 10 cents. Large Size Tubes, 20 cents.
SECCOTINE is an intensely strong adhesive for joining new or fractured surfaces in wood, leather, iron, delf, paper, pasteboard, cloth, glass, ivory, bone, etc. etc.
 It is unequalled for office use. Being immensely stronger than gums or pastes, a much smaller quantity is required. It replaces glues and cements in the manufacture of small fancy articles.
 The general uses of SECCOTINE are too numerous to mention. A tube goes a very long way. It requires no heating or other preparation; keeps for years, and is always liquid and ready. It sticks, binds and cements all articles of all materials.
