CASCARETS

"They Work while you Sleep"

Knock on wood! You're feeling fine, eh? That's great! Keep the entire family feeling that way always with occasional Cascarets for the liver and bowels. When bilious, constipated, headachy, unstrung, or for a cold, upset stomach, or bad breath, nothing acts like Cascarets. No griping—no inconvenience. 10, 25, 50 cents.

Happiness At Last; Loyalty Recompensed.

CHAPTER VII.

Her father had already breakfasted and gone to his laboratory, and Bobby was dashing wildly through a course of eggs and bacon and marmalade, preparatory to his morning grind with the "coach," who lived in the town, three miles distant.

"You'll be left to your own devices all day, Decie. What shall you do?" Decima smiled rather nervously.

"I am going to interview the cook and Sarah Jane," she said. Bobby grinned.

"Well, if you live though it, you shall, as a reward, go fishing with me at Leafmore this evening. I generally take a rod down before dinner, and to-day's a good day. Meet me at the gate—you know—at five o'clock. Going to interview the slaves, are you, my poor child? If a brother's blessing and deepest sympathy—I've been there myself—are of any service to you, pray accept them. I'm off. Five, by the gate, remember."

After breakfast, Decima went all over the house, and then "interviewed" the cook and Sarah Jane. The former at first met her timid remarks about the dinner of the preceding evening with a bland contempt which gradually developed into a reluctant respect and civility, for there was a certain something at the back of Decima's innocent blue-gray eyes which had its effect. As for Sarah Jane, she was instantly moved to tears, and remarking that she was an orphan, and had been "brought up by a charity," assured Decima that she would be more careful of the crockery in the future. A portion of the morning Decima spent in the laboratory, where

Pains About the Heart

ANY derangement of the heart's action is alarming. Frequently pains about the heart are caused by the formation of gas arising from indigestion.

Relief from this condition is obtained by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

Chronic indigestion results from sluggish liver action, constipation of the bowels and inactive kidneys.

Because Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills arouse these organs to activity they thoroughly cure indigestion and overcome the many annoying symptoms.

her father submitted to her presence in an absent-minded way. She "lured" him into lunch at one o'clock, and in the afternoon she wrote to Lady Pauline a full account of this first chapter in her new life.

Then, at a quarter to five, she went down to the gate through which she and Bobby had passed to the Leafmore avenue.

Bobby was sitting on the bank, awaiting her, a pipe in his mouth and his fishing-rod by his side. "Good girl!" he said. "Always be in time, though, for that matter, half an hour later wouldn't have mattered, for it's too bright for trout. But there's a cloud coming up, and I can start presently. Meanwhile, as you see, I am hard at work."

"Hard at work?" "Yes; smoking. Come and sit down." She went and sat beside him, and examined his fly-book with some interest for a few minutes; then she got up and wandered down the avenue, picking the wild flowers which grew along the border.

Bobby lay back with his eyes closed and half asleep, until suddenly he was aroused by a clinking sound. He looked up, and saw a gentleman shaking the big entrance gates.

Boy-like, he watched him for a moment or two with bland enjoyment; then he shouted:

"Hi!" The gentleman looked round, saw the recumbent figure, and said: "Well?"

"Gate's locked," remarked Bobby in his concise fashion. "There's a door here"—he indicated the gate—"if you want to come in."

"Thanks," said the gentleman; and he came along to the wall, passed through the gate, and stood beside the lad, looking down at him.

"That gate's always kept locked," said Bobby.

"Indeed?" said the gentleman. "I am a stranger here; I didn't know." Bobby looked at him casually.

"Are you going to see the house?" he said. "It's worth seeing, the carving and pictures especially."

"Are they?" responded the gentleman. "Do you live here?"

"Oh, no; that is, not at the house. I live in the village; but I know it very well."

"You are going to try your luck with the trout, I see. Is the sport good?" "Oh, yes; it's a capital river," said Bobby. "Been neglected and a good deal poached, but there are plenty of fish in it still."

"Will you let me look at your flies?" said the gentleman. "I'm a fisherman also."

Bobby handed him the book with an angler's promptitude.

"I'm going to put on a blue upright and a march brown."

"Yes," said the other. "And a 'coachman' an hour two later. You have some good flies. I hope you will have good sport."

"Thanks. I think I'll get down to the river; it's just below here."

"Yes; I saw it as I came up the hill."

Bobby nodded and gave him good-day, and, rod in hand, crossed the avenue, calling to Decima.

"All right," she called back; "I will follow you. Here are the loveliest cow-slips! I must get a bunch."

"Very well; follow the track," he shouted back, and went on his way whistling.

The gentleman looked after him, then sat down on the bank, took out his cigar-case, and lighted a cigar. The match was still in his hand when Decima came, like Diana, with light, feet steps down the avenue.

She was arranging her flowers as she came, and did not see him until she was close upon him. Then she paused a moment and glanced at him with a faint surprise, and was passing on again, when he rose and raised his hat.

face inquiringly, as if he were half-curious to see what she would do. He had not long to wait. With a touch of color in her cheeks and a coy, embarrassed expression in her eyes, Decima looked at him, then looked beyond him, over his head, and passed on without a sign of recognition.

Gaunt smiled grimly, and stood, like a soldier, erect and unbending, his eyes fixed on her, as if the cut direct amused rather than wounded him.

As she passed on, her lovely face set and cold, she continued the arrangement of her flowers, and—perhaps her hand trembled, for it was trying business, this cutting of a man who had been kind to her—she let a large number of them slip through her fingers.

She stopped, and, biting her lip softly, began to pick them up; and Gaunt stepped forward and assisted her.

As he handed the yellow blossoms to her, he said, very quietly: "Have you forgotten me?"

"No," she said. "Not forgotten me? And yet you would not bow to me? Why was that?"

Decima looked from side to side. "I—I can not tell you," she said.

"But—forgive me—don't you think you owe me some explanation? Let me put the case the other way. If you had deigned to bow to me, and I had declined to respond; if I had cut you, would you not think an explanation due from me?"

"Yes," said Decima, her brows coming straight, her lovely eyes growing dark-blue.

"Be just, then. Do unto others as you would that they should do unto you," he said. "There was a suspicion of banter in his tone, and at the same time a grim kind of appeal which touched Decima."

"Must I tell you?" she said in a troubled voice.

"Yes, I think you ought."

"Then—oh, I wish you would not ask me!—my aunt does not wish me to—to know you."

"Why?" he asked, very quietly. "I admit that it is a sufficient reason for the cut, but I am curious to know her reason."

"Because—because you are—Oh, I can not tell you," she broke off, scarlet to the very neck.

"Too bad for you to know?" he said, with a smile.

Decima hung her head.

"Thank you," he said. "I am answered. Good-bye."

She turned and went a few steps from him, then she swung round and came back, her innocent soul shining through her eyes.

"Why are you so wicked?" she said, painfully, as if the question were forced from her. "You were so kind to me."

His face grew hard and set, then he smiled grimly.

"That would take a lot of answering," he said. "Wait a moment until I decide whether I can tell you."

CHAPTER VIII. "Wait until I decide whether I can tell you," said Gaunt.

And Decima waited, her innocent gray eyes on his face with a kind of troubled patience.

He looked beyond him fixedly, with a grave thoughtfulness, and was silent so long that Decima almost thought that he had forgotten her; then he looked at her with a grim smile.

"I have decided that I can not tell you, Miss—" He hesitated.

"Deane," said Decima—"Decima Deane. You have forgotten my name!"

"I had," he said. "It was unpardonable. But, you see, when a man has need of so much forgiveness, a small shortcoming or two more or less scarcely counts. No; I can't answer your question, Miss Deane. But, all the same, I should like to make a short statement in my own defense. Every criminal is allowed to cross-question and palaver before the judge passes sentence, you know."

"Yes," admitted Decima.

"Very well, then. Shall we sit down? This bank will serve for dock and bench."

"My brother is waiting for me," said Decima.

"If I know the angler, he has completely forgotten you by this time," said Gaunt. "And I will promise not to detain you many minutes. Will you not sit down? Let me remind you it will not be the first time we have taken a rest together, and—well, I trust you suffered no harm on the last occasion."

Decima sunk down on the mossy bank, and he sat beside her, but not too close. Then he looked at her in an absent-minded fashion, and mechanically realized that she wore a white linen dress, and that the dark-blue bow at her throat was the only spot of color. From her bow he looked to her eyes, and the depth of their hue struck him at the moment as strangely beautiful. Something in the face, above and beyond its loveliness, smote him, as it were, softly. Then, as he turned his eyes away, he asked himself if it were worth while to attempt to change this girl's—this child's—estimate of him. Was it worth while? What did it matter? Let her think him the monster Lady Pauline had no doubt painted him.

"Skippers" are Breding with Good Points.

Bedrooms & Beds

There's nothing more important to the bedroom than the Bed itself, is there? From the point of usefulness or ornament it ranks first. Does your Bed suit your taste? Does it harmonize with your room? Does it give you the sleep-comfort you need? No? Well, then it's time to discard it and get another, quick.

We are showing All-Brass, Brass and Enamel, and All-Enamel Beds in all sizes and very fine designs. Each and all of which Beds can be fitted with Springs and Wool or Felt Mattresses if desired.

Prices quoted on request.

Great Britain Will Take Action Against Russia.

Warships and Submarines to be Sunk on Sight--Germany Formulates New Proposals--Albania Overrun by Serbs--Oil Tanker Explosion will be Investigated.

BRITAIN'S THREAT TO RUSSIA.
LONDON, Oct. 8. Great Britain has threatened to take "certain action" against Soviet Russia if steps are not taken by October 10 for the release of British prisoners held by the Bolsheviks, says the Herald, the organ of Labor, in reply to his threat, Leonide Krassin, head of the Bolshevik Trade Mission here, said that the Bolshevik government will promise to fulfil the conditions required when Great Britain carries out her part of the bargain made last July for the mutual release of all prisoners and the cessation of all hostilities.

ULTIMATUM TO RUSSIA.
MONTREAL, Oct. 9. A London cable to the Montreal Herald says "a British ultimatum to Russia, threatening to sink Russian warships and submarines on sight if they appear in the vicinity of Newfoundland on the Black Sea, has been handed Leonide Krassin, Bolshevik emissary in London." The note, according to Krassin, was from Earl Curzon, British Secretary for Foreign Affairs. The message is regarded in some quarters as a declaration of war. "The note," said Krassin, "declared that it has been reported to the British Government that a Russian submarine has been sighted by Nikolaleff, and further states that if this is so it will be sunk as will all Russian warships on sight." Krassin has forwarded the note to Moscow.

GERMANY'S PROPOSAL.
PARIS, Oct. 8. Germany has reiterated her request for naming of definite sum of reparations, and a new proposal has been brought from Berlin to Paris this week by Charles Laurent, French Ambassador to Germany. Correspondents learned this to-day in German official circles, where it was also pointed out that Laurent had emphasized the necessity of immediately fixing the total indemnity to prevent the economic and political collapse of Germany. The French Government, it is now believed in German circles, concerning the latest request,

"Here's your salt, mother."

REGAL
FREE RUNNING
Table Salt
THE CANADIAN SALT CO. LIMITED

will give a decision within a few days. The German proposal also asks direct negotiations between Germany and France on all reparations questions.

SERBIAN ATROCITIES.
MONTREAL, Oct. 8. A cable received to-day in Montreal from Colonel Fred Burnham, of Winnipeg, director of the Canadian War Hospital Fund in Siberia, and who recently left that country on account of the hostile attitude adopted towards his mission by Serbian authorities, reads as follows: "Terrible atrocities are being committed by Serbians in Albania and Montenegro. In one district alone fifteen hundred houses have been burned and one half the population has disappeared."

INSISTS ON CONFERENCE.
PARIS, Oct. 8. An early summoning of the Franco-co-British Financial Conference is insisted on by Earl Curzon, British Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs, in an important note on reparations received by the French Foreign Office yesterday, says the Echo de Paris. The note also suggests a "veritable international conference," declares the paper.

CONFERENCE ON BANKING MATTERS.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8. Sir Auckland Geddes, British Ambassador, and Sir Charles Addis, London banker, conferred to-day with Under Secretary Davis at the State Department, regarding the consortium in which United States bankers are associated with those of Great Britain, France and Japan. Progress on the plans to make the consortium effective has not been as satisfactory as was hoped when the agreement was formulated, and it was understood that to-day's conference was arranged with a view to hastening those steps.

INVESTIGATING CAUSE OF EXPLOSION.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. An investigation to determine whether any "culpable negligence" caused the explosion in the British tanker G. B. Crowe, yesterday, which killed five and injured more than a score of workers, was begun to-day by District Attorney Lewis, of Brooklyn. The trio of missing men who it was believed had been killed by the blast, were located to-day when a force of workmen reported for duty. Only three of the injured remained in hospital and these were out of danger.

LLOYD GEORGE ON THE TREATY

LLANDUDNO, Wales, Oct. 8. Premier Lloyd George in a political speech here to-day declared that "conflict of parties in America has led to the result that they have not yet signed the Treaty of Peace with Germany." He asserted that if there had been conflict like that in Great Britain the latter would have had no peace, and there would have been no treaty. There are some who criticise the Treaty of Versailles, the Premier said, but better that than a state of war going on for years and nothing doing. Lloyd George added that there were some people who imagined that to ignore disagreeable facts was proof of exalted principles.

EARTH TREMORS IN ITALY.

LONDON, Oct. 8. Two violent earth tremors were felt at Mantua, Northern Italy, at midnight, Wednesday, according to report from Rome. Some property damage was done.

NOON BULLETIN.

LONDON, Oct. 8. MacSweeney was suffering from trouble with his heart and was unable to hold conversation with relatives, said the League bulletin at noon.

MILITARY LORRY BOMBED.

CORK, Oct. 8. Irish civilians bombed a military lorry on Barrack Street this morning. One soldier was killed and three dangerously wounded. Two men and a woman were shot in the legs when the soldiers opened fire on the attackers.

EXPLOSION REPORTED.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8. A loud explosion is reported in the vicinity of Newark. No details.

PASSED OVER TO THE FRENCH.

PARIS, Oct. 8. Togo territory, a former German possession in Central Africa, was turned over to French authorities by the British on October 1st, according to advices received here.

GOVERNMENT CANDIDATE WINS.

LONDON, Oct. 8. The Government candidate, Fred Wise, was elected in the bye-election at Ilford, rendered necessary by the death of Sir Peter Griggs, M.P.

KILLED IN RAILWAY COLLISION.

LONDON, Oct. 8. Twenty persons were killed and thirty others injured in a collision in which the Venice-Milan express was involved, to-day, according to an Exchange despatch from Rome, based on advices to the Gironale D' Italia. The three rear cars of the express were smashed in the collision.

COVERED EIGHT HUNDRED MILES.

OTTAWA, Oct. 8. Completing eight hundred miles of flight across Canada, Col. Robert Leckie and Major Hobbs, with mechanics Heath and Palmer, in a flying boat, reached the Rock Cliff air-drome of the Air Board at 1 p.m. They left Riviere Du Loup this morning passing over Quebec, Three Rivers and Montreal.

Side Talks by Ruth Cameron

WHAT SICKNESS OFTEN DOES.

A friend of mine had a little daughter who used to be the best behaved child I ever saw. I met this friend the other day and spoke of the little girl and how exceptionally well brought up she seemed to be.

My friend smiled, a half rueful, whimsical smile.

"I wouldn't think so if you could see her now," she said. "She was sick almost all winter and of me humored her and petted her and I'm afraid we've spoiled her."

I suppose that it's to be expected though. The doctor says all mothers complain that that's sickness does to children.

"I wonder the doctor limited his statement to children, don't you?" I thought so easily have added that sickness has its effect on parents, too.

There are certain conditions which are very hard on the character. One is intense poverty, another is sudden prosperity, a third is prolonged illness.

They Get the "Taking" Habit.

It is like to be waited upon and be made much of, to enjoy talking about one's feelings, to want to hold the centre of the stage, are human instincts. Illness gives us a chance to indulge them; and when once we get the habit, it is hard—oh very hard to give up.

Of course one is often unconscious of the habit. It gets to be an expectation rather than a conscious habit. We don't realize that we are expecting to receive rather than to give out. We just accept it as our due.

The Illness, But Not the Habit.

Know a woman who was once a very normal person, but who has a good deal of illness. She is not now, but she is not sick—and she still has the "taking" habit. She tells you, as a matter of course, what aches and pains or troubles she has endured since last met you. If she goes into a chair she always makes for the most comfortable chair. If she comes into the house and sees you busy at a desk she sits down and watches, never any chance asking to help. If she saw her in her sister's house the day. Her sister was shelling peas. She sat down at the table be-

Household Notes.

When putting in a wide hem by hand, mark it by running the material through the unthreaded machine. Never iron lingerie ribbons while wet. Pull into a smooth condition and when they are dry press with a cool iron.

Flake left-over fish; combine with shredded cabbage and mayonnaise; serve on lettuce with cheese sandwiches.

Stuff green peppers with minced corn beef mixed with an equal quantity of boiled rice. Bake in a moderate oven.

Never wash stained or polished floors with water. Once a week wipe over with a soft cloth and apply a good floor polish.

To save time when frying boiled potatoes, put them in a pan and chop with the sharp edge of a half-pound baking-powder can.

If you have trouble with ants, wash shelves where they appear with borax, washing-blue and turpentine. Ants despise these things.

If you spill ink on a carpet, soak up with blotting paper, wash out with warm water and a clean flannel and dry with a soft cloth.

Combine 1 cupful cooked rice, 3/4 cupful peanut butter, 2 cupfuls bread crumbs; season, make in a loaf and serve with tomato sauce.

To whip evaporated milk heat it to a simmering point, remove from fire, set on ice until very cold and whip in a bowl packed in ice.

BUTTER.

When giving a dose of castor oil, rub the rim and inside of the glass with orange juice. Put the oil between two layers of cracked ice.

A delicious rice pudding is flavored with grated lemon rind, sweetened with honey, and served with cooked prunes, milk and honey.

Macaroni boiled until tender and cut into very small pieces makes a delicious salad. Marinate with French dressing and add chopped onion.

Swiss eggs are delicious. Butter a pie dish, cover bottom with slices of cheese, break eggs over cheese and sprinkle with breadcrumbs. Bake.

If the housewife works in rubber-heeled shoes, the heels will not be always running over and she will not be as tired after the day's work as over.

To distinguish between boiled and unboiled eggs, spin them; the boiled ones will spin round quite fast, while the uncooked ones will hardly spin round once.

Left-over mashed potatoes may be made into a mound, pressed in at the top and the hole filled with cheese-sauce. Pour sauce over sides, also, and you have a delicious luncheon dish.

This is an excellent way of measuring butter: If you wish a fourth of a cup of butter, fill cup three-quarters full of water and drop in small pieces of butter until water comes to brim of cup. Pour off water and you have left the desired amount of butter.

JOY RIDERS.

I'm seated in my first car's shade, beside the public flies assail me unafraid—which is the silly fly way. And all day long the autos scoot, in heedless haste before me; and all day long they honk and hoot, and throw the gravel o'er me. In luxury the riders bask upon the seats of satin; "Does no one ever work?" I ask, in Choctaw, Greek and Latin. Old age is riding there, in sooth, in limousines that glitter, and at the wheel is gilded youth—and I'm the only quitter; for now and then I park my boat and strive to earn a dollar—a scheme from reason so remote that all the passers holler. Oh, all the autos travel forth, I hear their motors sizzing; they journey south, they scamper north, and east and west they're whizzing. The roads are black with fine sedans, and all the world is playing, except some tinhorn also-rans who labor at their haying. The roads are black with limousines, on idle errands going, and wilted are the useful beans—there's none to do the hoing. The world is busy blowing kale, and thrift's a thing to banish; "Does no one ever work?" I wall, in German, French and Spanish.

Old photograph needles are excellent for cleaning small-necked vessels. After soaking them with warm water and ammonia, pour out most of the liquid, put in the needles and shake well.

PARENTAL DIFFERENCES.
My Pa will give me anything I ask him for that he can buy. Oh, he is awful good to me an' I just hope he'll never die. My Ma thinks that I git too much an' she says no, but Pa will say "Aw let him have it anyhow." Pa's awful funny just that way. But when I fall an' hurt myself I go to Ma right then, coz she is always tenderer than Pa, an' knows jus' what to do for me.

My Pa says: "Aw now be a man! Don't let the neighbors see you cry!"

I know it hurts, but never mind, it will feel better by and by. I'm sorry, but in life, you know, there is a lot of pain to bear. An' men jus' take the falls they git an' act as though they didn't care."

But Ma jus' holds me in her arms an' lets me snuggle on her knee. An' seems to know an' understand how much the pain is hurtin' me.

My Ma says Pa won't see my faults or punish me for bein' bad. She often tells to him at night, "You're much too easy with the kid!"

But jus' the minute I git hurt Ma runs to help me if she can. An' Pa comes out an' says to me, "Now stand an' bear it like a man."

I like my Pa for lots o' things an' I just hope he'll never die. But when I'm hurt I like Ma best, coz she don't tell me not to cry.

What Is Ramie?

The announcement that spinners in England are now able to produce a very good yarn from ramie, through having wrested a trade secret from the Germans, has puzzled many people as to its meaning. Ramie is obtained from the fibres of a plant closely allied to the stinging nettle family, with leaves not unlike those of the nettle in character, but lacking the stinging property. In Assam it is known as rhea, while another variety widely used is recognized as Chinese grass. Two to four crops per season can be gathered, and as much as four tons of stems can be collected from an acre of ground. The leaves and branches are stripped off, and then follows the difficult and laborious process of separating the vast fibres from the bark. In many places this is done by hand, for machinery, no matter how delicate, is apt to destroy the fibre. For a long time, however, the main difficulty in obtaining ramie in a proper state for spinning was the inability to get rid of the very adhesive gum with which the fibre is permeated. Various chemical processes were tried, but all were more or less unsatisfactory, till German chemists solved the problem. In England, ramie has been most commonly seen in certain types of gas mantles, but the variety of uses to which it can be put are almost endless.

Honor for Heroic Women.
Names of such women as Joan of Arc and Edith Cavell are written indelibly upon the hearts of people for all ages. Generous and well-deserved tributes have been paid lastingly to others, but so much have their names become a part of our daily lives that many who frequently pronounce them are unmindful of their significance. Cities, rivers, provinces and islands bear the names of women of distinction. Lady Franklin Island, near Baffin Island, in the Arctic Circle, is named for the wife of Sir John Franklin, the explorer, who lost his life in first finding the Northwest Passage through the great ice of the polar regions. There is, perhaps, no more beautiful story of untiring devotion and persistent effort than that of Lady Jane Franklin, who, after the failure of many attempts, fitted out a ship which, though it brought back to her the definite proof of her husband's expedition, established the achievement of his object.

The Tragedy of the West Coast.

Both the prosperity and industry of Channel, Port aux Basques and the surrounding fishing settlements have been seriously crippled by the Fish Regulations, and no man, be he exporter or fisherman, has a good word to say in favor of these enactments. Channel and Port aux Basques have long been distributing and collecting centres for Margaree, Fox Roost and Isle aux Mortes to the Eastward: Mouse Island, Grand Bay and Cape Ray to the Westward, all of which places depend solely on the produce of the sea for the maintenance and upkeep of their populations. With the exception of a number of men who work at the railway terminus and others employed on the Reid steamboats, the bulk of the male population of the two towns and settlements named prosecute the fishery all the year round, the quantity caught comparing favorably with that from other parts of the district. There are no banking schooners fishing out of Port aux Basques. The industry was carried on by motor skiffs and small schooners, during summer and winter, though in the warmer months many skiffs were laid up and punts and dories took their place. In recent years most of the voyage was disposed of in salt bulk to American purchasers, at remunerative prices. Such of the summer catch as was made brought ready sale at Halifax, Nova Scotia, where prices were always slightly in advance of St. John's, beside which there were the extra facilities offered by the direct connection of the Farquhar Line of steamers. Thus the prosperity and growing importance of Channel and Port aux Basques as factors in the chief industry, was something of which the people were proud. By their indefatigable industry they had built for themselves a reputation as makers of good fish, the quality of which was ever its own recommendation.

The unparalleled change which has within the past few months taken place in Channel and Port aux Basques, and from them communicated to the neighboring settlements is directly traceable to the imposition of the Fishery Regulations. When free trade, not only with the European and American markets, but with the markets of the neighboring Canadian provinces, was denied, there was no alternative for the fishermen but to abandon their sailing, and if possible get away to some other parts where employment could be had. Those who could afford to leave home did so. Those who through circumstances could not get away, were obliged to hold on and chance the future, gloomy and all as it looked. All the months of August and September there was nothing doing. No one was catching fish: no one was buying fish. Such as had not been previously disposed of out of salt bulk was being held by the owners, and but few transactions were taking place and these for barter only. The firm of Gorton Pew, so long established on the West Coast, with ramifications extending from Bay of Islands to Harbor Breton, had given us purchasing, and the few occasional who came the way for cargoes, were daunted by the Regulations. So bad were local conditions that one of the principal fish buyers addressed a letter of protest to a government newspaper in St. John's, strongly condemning the regulations and asking that they be relaxed somewhat. But his letter was not given publication. Branch houses of St. John's firms were taking fish to pay accounts, but no cash whatever was being offered. Things may or may not have changed since September, yet it is very unlikely. As the matter stands therefore, the Fish Regulations have stricken Channel, Port aux Basques and neighboring places most severely, and the blow will be felt for many a month.

Notes and Comments.

The Ohio man who recently beat his wife because she refused to sing is, of course, hopelessly insane. It may be quite true that every man has his price, but the one who is bought usually turns out not to be worth it. When those three hundred schooners with their crews, get here from the North with fish cargoes, demanding $10 a quintal, lively times may be expected.

The phrase "Between the devil and the deep sea" has probably no reference to the ancient fighting between the Picts and the Britons, though undoubtedly it has long been in use in Scotland. Its origin would appear to be lost in obscurity, though possibly it may have some reference to the New Testament story of the swine of Gadara.

"Lost, stolen or strayed—the Salmoner motor ferry. When last seen it was being towed by a dory from Old Ferry to the King's Wharf." Note from a correspondent.

Another correspondent suggests that milkmen are no longer putting water in the lacteal fluid, but something stronger. If this is correct then it explains the reason for the early rising of many males anxious to meet the milkman.

On this date, 1822, at St. John's, John Holden, for stealing money from the house of James Shea, pleaded guilty and was sentenced to death by the Court, but at the same time was recommended to mercy. Money stealers get off with lighter sentences these days.

Germany's plea about bankruptcy is not taken seriously by the Wall Street Journal, which says that she is "steadily moving toward solvency and lying about it."

A travelling man one night found himself obliged to remain in a small town on account of a washout on the railroad, caused by the recent heavy rain, which was still coming down in torrents. He turned to the waitress and said, "This certainly looks like the Flood."

A correspondent asks the following question of Hon. H. J. Brownrigg, Minister of Finance and Customs: "Are Government positions in Newfoundland still apportioned along denominational lines? If so, will the Minister please explain why, out of seven paid Government positions lately given women for teaching basket work, etc., to invalid soldiers, only one was received by a member of the Roman Catholic Church?"

Father Matthew Anniversary.

T.A. & B. Society Will Attend Mass in Cathedral.

The 180th anniversary of Father Matthew's birth will be celebrated on tomorrow (Sunday), Oct. 10th. Every year the anniversary of the Apostles of Temperance has been celebrated by the St. John's T.A. & B. Society in a manner befitting, and on tomorrow the society will attend in a body eight o'clock mass at the Cathedral and receive Holy Communion.

Two years before the St. John's T.A. Society was formed (1858), Father Matthew had passed away to his eternal reward; but the mighty temperance movement which he had started was nevertheless working its way amongst the masses.

Father Matthew became therefore, an exemplar, whose unwavering adherence to the principles of Total Abstinence and whose energy and persistency in the advocacy of those principles were worthy of emulation. He consequently became a patron of the Society. His portrait adorns the Society's banner. The annual celebration of his anniversary is, therefore, a most appropriate recognition of the character and virtues of a great reformer.

New Express Warehouse

Plans of a temporary warehouse for the Reid Newfoundland Express Company are now being prepared and will be ready for submission to the Civic Commission's approval in a few days. The building will relieve the congestion of packages on the platform, and will give the public more efficient service.

Roller Skating Starts.

The Princes Rink will be opened for roller skating on Monday next. This is the first time since the war that the rink has opened for roller skating, and no doubt quite a number of people will avail of the opportunity of enjoying themselves at this healthful exercise. It is expected that the C.C.C. Band will supply the music during the season.

Schr. Nevis, from Dominio, bound across, arrived in port last night. The schooner intended calling at Catalina with some fishing crews she was bringing from the Labrador, but met heavy weather, losing some of her sails and had to run for this port.

Atlantic Sugar Further Declines in Price.

Montreal.—As was natural with a further decline in sugar prices by the refiners, Atlantic Sugar eased off a little this week. These lower prices for sugar do not indicate actual loss for the refiners, but only lessened profits as compared with what they would be had the decline not taken place. There is a disposition to believe that the plans for splitting up the stock will be delayed somewhat on account of the unsettled condition of the commodity markets.

NO STOCK REPORT.—There has been no Oporto stock report received by the Board of Trade since the 27th September.

For Special Occasions.

I have headed this article with a phrase that one may hear any day and from anybody. In fact I overheard it recently myself, and the connection in which it was used has led me to employ it as a text for this article.

I was returning from a business visit to the West End and among the people in a somewhat crowded car were two happy, high spirited girls, who, judging from their conversation, were making a special journey down town for shopping purposes. "I've got to buy some bargains at The Royal Stores," said one. "Mother is not very well to-day and she has given me a shopping list as long as your arm—stockings and things for the kiddies; and besides, I want to buy some things for myself." "You're getting more extravagant every day, Mary," said her friend. "Surely you're not going to buy more clothes after the regular trousseau you bought only last week?" "Well, I'm not exactly going to refit like a ship, but there are one or two things I must have—for special occasions you know; we're going to have any number of little parties during the Fall and Winter."

New that phrase "For special occasions" came back to me when I walked through the store yesterday. There are going to be a good many little parties in many other places besides the homes of those two young ladies. In fact visitors to this store at present will realize at once that many people—besides selecting their Fall Coats, Costumes or Hats—are making preparations and buying odds and ends of wearing apparel for just such "special occasions."

That The Royal Stores is St. John's every day shopping centre is generally acknowledged. Take a look into the different departments at any time during the day. Upstairs in the Showrooms are charming Evening Gowns and Afternoon Frocks—each one a Paris Model and only one of its kind—beautiful Silk Blouses, Dainty Neckwear, Smart Silk Skirts—one and all of them "just the thing" for the special occasions for which throngs of customers are preparing. Hosiery, Gloves, Footwear and all the accessories of Dame Fashion's wardrobe are in great demand, and nowhere in Newfoundland is the selection of fine merchandise more complete than at The Royal Stores.

THE GLEANER.

Princely Donation to His Alma Mater.

Mr. J. P. Hand of Bermuda has arranged to give annually ten scholarships ranging up to $50 to the pupils of this school, St. Patrick's Hall, and he has also made provision to present the boys with a field for their various games. This is indicative of his marvellous success as a business man, of his love for his Alma Mater, and of the high standard set by a school which can produce men of Mr. Hand's type. By his munificent donation he has set an example of the truest patriotism, which ought to be productive of much good to the youth of the Dominion.

To-day at Wood's he gave a farewell dinner to his classmates who feted him right royally a few evenings ago at Brennock's. To-morrow he leaves for his home at Bermuda, carrying with him the good wishes of a host of friends.

Raising the Price.

As far as can be learned the recent advance of 2-6 per quintal, ordered by Royal Proclamation for sales to Portugal will not mean any increase for the fishermen. In fact it is the consensus of opinion that the opposite effect will likely be felt, as the consumption will be checked. It is rumored that the sales price to Brazil, now 100/-, will be increased to 105/- despite the fact that a current cable from there received by a large exporter says prospects are bad all round, and sales can not be made.

Halifax Marathon Official Time.

Mr. Jack Tobin received the following message from Halifax this morning: "Official time for Halifax Marathon, 62 min. 15 sec.: too bad Bell was sick."

Who is Responsible?

We wonder who is suggesting that the sales price to Brazil be increased to 105/-. Of the seven members of the Advisory Board, only two have business connections there. Are Messrs. Barr and Job leading Mr. Coaker?

Musical Service.

AT KIRK TO-MORROW.
The following programme of special numbers will be rendered by the choir of St. Andrew's Church, under the direction of W. Moncrieff-Mawer, on Sunday evening. This will be the first of a series of monthly musical services which the choir propose to give during the coming winter:
Organ Prelude—"Seraph's Strain" Wolstenholme.
Anthem—"Ye shall go out with Joy" Barnby; Soloist, Miss Ida Glendenning.
Solo—"Like as the Hart Desireth," Allitson; Miss Marguerite Mitchell.
Anthem—"Hark! Hark! My Soul," Shelly; Soloists, Mrs. C. Garland and Mr. W. L. Woods.
Anthem—"To Thee Great Lord of All," Rossini; Soloists Messrs. D. McIntosh and A. R. Stansfield.
Offertory—"Barcarole," (from 4th Concerto), Bennett.
Solo—"Guard While I Sleep," Warrington; Mrs. E. Campbell.
Solo—"Just for To-day," Abbott; W. L. Woods.
Anthem—"By Babylon's Wave," Gounod.
Organ Postlude—"Festive March," in D. Smart.

Twenty-Seventh Session

C.M.E.C. OPENS TO-MORROW.
After the long summer vacation the Cathedral Men's Bible Class re-opens to-morrow in its twenty-seventh session. The services will be held at the Cathedral. At 8 a.m. there will be a celebration of the Holy Communion, which the members of the Class will attend. The special service will take place at 3 p.m., and by the kind permission of the Colonel Commanding, will be attended by the Church Lads' Brigade who will parade in full force, C. Co. and Old Comrades also being present. The address will be given by the Bishop. The Class will again be under the leadership of the Rev. J. Brinton, who for the past seven years has been in charge of this branch of the parish work. Although the Class itself has been closed, the Harbor and Wharf Mission has been continued in a very vigorous manner, some hundreds of schooners having been already visited and large quantities of religious literature distributed among our hardy toilers of the deep. Every Sunday morning, regardless of weather conditions—and sometimes it is by no means pleasant—the little band of volunteers, go from wharf to wharf and vessel to vessel delivering their message of light and life; and the motor launch, floating in the breeze the Flying Eagle, the banner of the Missions to Seamen, may be seen on the Harbor, boarding the vessels that lie in the stream and supplying the crews with tracts, prayer cards and books. These men are indeed casting their bread, the true bread, upon the waters, and in due course, according to the promise of the Master, they will find it again in lives cheered and assisted and grown up in Christian character. On the following Sundays the Class will meet as usual in the Synod Building and men visiting the city from the outports or elsewhere will always be cordially welcomed.

A Bear Story From Rock Harbor.

Editor Evening Telegram.
Dear Sir,—Please allow me space in your most highly esteemed paper for a few words from Rock Harbor. During the past month we were greatly aroused by visits from bears, and everyone seems to have had worry and anxiety on account of them, as when chased they will turn and attack their pursuers. Lately a number of sheep have been killed or torn to pieces and the owners were unable to account for this destruction. However, a resident, who had been on a journey through the woods, reported he saw a bear. The people then began a hunt. The hunters saw the animal several times but it was too far off for a shot, though several tried without effect. Late Saturday evening, Sept. 25th, four bears made their appearance, and the men who were on the lookout gave chase, but did not succeed in shooting any of them, as night had set in. However, on Sunday evening while again on the lookout in the neighboring hills, five bears were sighted, and the men immediately rushed home for their guns. Returning to the chase, a man named Hooper, overtook them. The animals paused in their retreat and turned on the man, who luckily, was an expert shot, for with steady aim he fired at the nearest bear which he hit and killed. With the report of the gun the other bears made off and have not since returned. It is thought that they were cubs and the one shot was the mother. When pulled out of the woods all the people came to see it, as bears are not plentiful here. The animal was all black with the exception of one little white spot under its throat. It was about five feet long and weighed nearly 300 pounds. If any of the young bruisers pay us another visit we hope to give them the reception that the old lady received.
Thanking you in anticipation,
I am, sincerely yours,
L. G. H.
Rock Harbor, Sept. 28.

You can taste the delicious oriental fruits and spices, so perfectly blended.

Fashion Plates.

AN ATTRACTIVE GOWN FOR SLENDER FIGURES.

Pattern 3333 is illustrated in this style. It is cut in 3 Sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. An 18 year size will require 6 1/2 yards of 44 inch material. The width of the Skirt at its lower edge is about 1 1/2 yards.

The Pattern provides a body lining for the waist, over which the outer portions are draped. This style is good for silk cloth or woolen. As here illustrated, figured crepe was used. A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15 cents in silver or stamps.

COMFORT WEEK

Marking the Second Stage in the "Back to '14" Campaign.

Here! Take These Umbrellas for $3.60.
Worth $4.00 and $4.50.

Men's Smart Spats

Lowered to $3.00.
They keep your shoes always neat-looking and clean, protects the leather from rain, mud and sharp winds that crack boots and shoes so easily. These were $3.50.

When Rainy Days Come Your Overcoat Won't Do This!

Won't keep out the rain and keep you snug and smiling in any weather.

The BLIZZARDEEN and his master pal, the comfy lambs-wool fleece lining solves the problem of overcoat prices. It does all you want an expensive overcoat to do, and more, it keeps out the rain. Two durable pals sworn by the Kearney Guarantee to give you lasting service. Linings are sold separately.
And your tailor won't do this.

$60.00 Combination, $50.00 To-Day.

The Labels Teach You to Expect Value Even at These Prices.

JAEGER and STANFIELD'S UNDERWEAR, $17.50 and $9 Suit Cut to $15 and $7.50 Suit.

Low prices are sometimes used injudiciously. They often give an impression of inferior quality. Just odds and ends picked up to serve as eye catchers. That's why we want to assure you of the importance of these reductions. The names tell the tale. Jaeger 100 per cent. pure wool, unshrinkable and guaranteed by the makers. Stanfield's, the famous Canadian product, and positively the best value for the money to be found anywhere, even if you bought at the factory. We've had these goods in stock since last season, and cut even the old prices—that's why.

Skating Time Will Soon Be Here.

"Cutting Figures" in Sweater Coats.

Add to the joys of the iced floor by adding to your comfort.

Wool Sweater Coats in plain White, Brown, Khaki, Reseda and Heather; V necks, sleeves and pockets. Wear them under your coat; no overcoat necessary. No, you can't buy them elsewhere, because they're Jaeger Pure Wool; and even if you could you wouldn't buy them for less. Our mania for price cutting this week has Reduced them from $10.00, $12.50, $15.00, to $8.50, $9.00 and $12.50.

All That is Left of Last Week's Offerings.

Arrow Collars . . . 3 for $1.00
40c. each elsewhere.

Soft Collars, silk striped, pique and plain, 40c. to 60c. each.
To-day, 3 for $1.00.

Christy and Swan-Russell Soft Felt Hats, dropped from $7.50 to $5.00.

Those Scotch and English Home-spun Tweed Caps met with great favor. Not many left at $3.50. These were $4.50.

Men's Negligee Shirts, a widely varied assortment of patterns, woven on the Eagle Shirt Co.'s own looms. Guaranteed colors, guaranteed wear. Were $4.00, three for $10.00 to-day.

Winter Hosiery Without a Peer Cut Without Fear or Favor.

Here's an offering that men will welcome with a chorus of approval. What part of a man's winter wardrobe is more necessary than Socks? And when we mention such reductions as below, it will be the early bird that will get the picking of the lot.

Jaeger Heavy Wool Hose, Green, Grey and Heather mixtures. You'll warm up to these. Lay in a stock for the winter.

Marked $2.00 pr., cut to 3 pairs for $5.00

This is Unprecedented! Marking Down the World's Best Hat.

$12.50 STETSONS for $10.00.

Stetsons—need we say more? Except that we've a wonderful range of styles, and the sizes are complete from 6 3/4 to 7 1/2. Don't be persuaded into buying a hat that is not a Stetson by the inducement to spend a dollar or so less. It's worth it to pay a little more for the double wear that Stetsons give. Increased value at the new price.

FALL VELOURS AT A FALL IN PRICE.

Distinctive Winter Hats, styled differently, Glassy Pearl Grey & Olive. You'll not get such an opportunity again.

These will sell quickly, and others will charge more. Worth $13.50 for $12.00.

Save $1.50 on These Mascot Caps.

Famous—yes, sir, no other word describes them. These were the first caps dressy men wore, and will be the last ones they will wear so long as Mascot Caps are sold. Leather sweat-band, silk lining.

Worth $4.50.

$3.00 Comfort Week

GLOVE WEATHER IS HERE. "Comfort Week" Saves You $1.00 on Every Pair.

These Gloves combine smartness with warmth and durability. Dent's and Perrin's names on Gloves guarantee you quality. If they don't, we will.

Buy a few pairs now for Christmas gifts. Others will charge more when you need them.

Elastic wrist, wool-lined, sold last year for $6.00; $5.00 pair Comfort Week.

Fine selected Kid Glove, with button wrist, extra heavy reinforced palm that makes these gloves adapted to hard wear.

Stylish, snug fitting, comfortable. You couldn't buy the equal of these last year for $6.00.

COMFORT WEEK PRICE, $5.00.

ENGLISH TWEED CRUSH HATS FOR FALL. Choose Yours for $3.00.

You can't excel a Tweed Hat for long wear, and it's so adaptable to every use. Carry it in your pocket. These were $4.00 and $4.50.

HAVE YOU SEEN THESE DOLLAR TIES?

If you haven't you missed seeing the greatest neckwear value that ever drew a dollar from your pocket. Buy three or four for Christmas gifts. You won't get this opportunity again. These were $1.50. . . . . $1.00

Mothers! A Sweater for Your Boy at a Saving of $2.00.

Son's little chest needs to be protected against the chilly winter weather. Give him one of these for school days. Jaeger Pure Wool is your guarantee that they can't be better. Fine knit, pull-over style, in neat looking heather color. Why not buy his Christmas present now? More useful than toys and nick-nacks. No, they'll be gone long before Christmas comes.

$8.50 cut to $6.50.

ALL-WOOL JAEGER VESTS $7.50 cut to $6.00.

People begin to realize that we are earnest in our reductions when we cut the price of such a wanted Jaeger product. Good value at the old price. Wonderful value for $6.00, and the best $6.00 worth that ever gave you a warm feeling inside your coat. Don't be tricked into buying a cheaper article. It's wear you want to buy not just flimsy "look."

COLD NIGHTS ARE COMING. Pure Flannel Pyjamas, $12 cut to $10.

These will give you such a warm, comfortable night's rest that you'll beat the alarm clock to it next morning. No flimsy imitations, pure flannel in every shred. Various striped effects, with pocket, and any size.

Boosting a Town And a Town's Business

By "The Community Spirit"-- A Great Example Given By Halifax's Great Commercial and Sports Carnival.

For Evening Telegram

Sir,—I have not noticed any particular mention in our local papers (not even in our local "Thurston") of the big event Halifax is going through from Oct. 4th to 9th. It might interest you more particularly in that it appears to be fostered by the Fourth Estate, the Halifax Herald and Evening Mail. I think if you would publish an elaborate programme that is being pulled off it might be an incentive to St. John's and Newfoundland in doing what a town, city, or province can do to give a Boost to Business, Art, Education, Athletics, Amusements and so to the city or province itself through "Community Spirit."

Some of us in business, reading Canadian and American Business and other publications, can appreciate a good proper Community Spirit for a town, and know, where villages become towns, and cities. However, to those of us who have not heard much of it,—it might be as well to explain that it is a movement undertaken by a Community, as a whole, which selfishly boost that Community, the good of the Community, which selfishness works out ultimately for the good of the individual. It may times appear to be worked up by Business Firms in a city to bring business into a town, assisted by the papers who gain increased advertising. Even if this were all attained would not be a bad thing for the town as it would help to lessen unemployment. One might not see so many men, Longshoremen and Laborers around idle, and one might not of hands being paid off from factories and others likely to be. But the "Community Spirit" to be successful, it entirely interested in boosting business or material things,—it aims at the town as a whole on as high a line as possible. The movement is really one led by the Business of a town and its press. They appreciate the fact that the more work business there is in a town, the more everybody in that town is directly or indirectly, also that the town is to live in, more people will want to live in it, and less die, or leave it. A larger population, larger business to a town, and better living conditions in a town, a better educated, healthier and up conventions, etc., and our new association.—"The Elks" (which we trust will flourish—being non-demonstrational), might have a big drive for increased numbers. Those ladies who are planning deeds of daring, if necessary, to promote Woman Suffrage in Newfoundland, could arrange a big convention, and I think could further their objects that way.

Possibly it is late for sports, but no doubt indefatigable like Billy Higgins, the Vinnicombes, Nuddy Outerbridge, Doc Power, Fred Chesman and J. B. Orr, et al, could arrange some stunts. The Board of Trade could have a big convention of Outport merchants, and we might reach some conclusion that would be helpful. We always have a Poultry Show each fall. We might have an Agricultural Show too. I don't see why the good ladies of the W.P.A. could not arrange a Baby Show, and do a lot of good by having a Child Welfare Convention. I would suggest some stranger leaving the country next day act as judge at the baby show.

The weakest spot in getting off a real big show this fall, from a standpoint of a consideration of our outport guests is lack of hotel accommodation in St. John's. Perhaps Ben Stafford and the boys will have their's ready next fall. Anyhow we wish them luck. Still it would be good to start something this year. It is a long time since St. John's has had an Art Exhibit. We might start some Literary Competitions (with prizes) on vexed questions. It would be to the welfare of Newfoundland and also educative to discuss, say from the standpoint of Education, "When is an Education not an Education?" Anyhow it would do a whole lot of good to the country if the people of Newfoundland would get together often to boost their country and their native towns. Thanking you for the privilege of your valuable space, I am

Yours sincerely,
K. M. BLAIR.

OTHER TABLETS NOT ASPIRIN AT ALL

Only Tablets with "Bayer Cross" are Genuine Aspirin

If you don't see the "Bayer Cross" on the tablets, you are not getting Aspirin—Remember this!

Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" are now made in America by an American Company. No German interest whatever, all rights being purchased from the United States Government.

During the war, acid imitations were sold as Aspirin in pill boxes and various other containers. The "Bayer Cross" is your only way of knowing that you are getting genuine Aspirin, proved safe by millions for Headache, Neuralgia, Colds, Rheumatism, Lumbago, Neuritis, and for pain generally.

Aspirin is the trade mark (Newfoundland Registration No. 761), of Bayer Manufacture of Monocetate-diesters of Salicylic acid.

Handy tin boxes of 12 tablets—also larger sizes "Bayer" packages can be had at drug stores.

Superior Two Pants Suit!

"The Extra Pair--Doubles the Wear."

A Suit with two pairs of pants will last twice as long as a suit with one pair—that's logical. For ordinarily the trousers of your suit will wear out long before the coat; you discard the coat and buy a new suit, though the coat is still in splendid condition.

We want you to get the maximum wear out of your clothes, and for that reason we are making suits to your measure with "two pairs of pants."

You want one of these two pants SUPERIOR Suits, your logic and common sense tell you so. Come up and get one.

Mr. Arthur Murray of the firm of Edwin Murray, St. John's, was in town on Tuesday, after having spent a few weeks rest at Spaniard's Bay. His friends here were pleased to see him once again; and hope that his little time off from business has greatly improved his health.

The Danish schooner "Maagen," Captain M. S. Mortensen, came off dock on Thursday morning, repairs having been completed. She will leave port, when favorable, for Fogo to load there for across.

Mr. A. French representing Messrs. Standard Oil Co. and Soper & Moore of St. John's, was in town on Tuesday last.

Messrs. Munn and Company's schooner "James O'Neill," went on dock yesterday afternoon to undergo repairs.

S.S. Seal arrived here from the Labrador on Wednesday last, with a large amount of freight, and a number of passengers. She left port again same day.

Mr. Robert P. Munn, son of Dugald Munn, Esq., of St. John's, arrived from around the Bay by motor car on Wednesday; and after a short stay left again for the city on Thursday. Mrs. R. S. Munn accompanied him. All Mr. Munn's old friends were much pleased to see him.

Schooner Barbara Barr, John Snelgrove, master, came off dock this morning, all repairs being effected, and she is now in A. 1 condition. This ship has been on dock about six weeks and no doubt, many have benefited by the job being done here, that is, in the labor line, and especially now that labor is so scarce around here.

Schooner Mary Cashin went on dock this morning to undergo repairs.

What Is An Epigram?

(Letters to Gog and Magog, by John O'London.)

Gentlemen,—I have been taking epigrams in the last few days as a tonic; they are safer than tablets and more easily swallowed. What is an Epigram? The epigram says:

What is an epigram? A dwarfish whole; Its body brevity and wit its soul.

Coleridge wrote that. It is but a thin account of a literary form which has great antiquity and has been put to every kind of use from the most sacred to the most trivial. At root an epigram is simply an inscription, and it may be an epitaph. It was to be cut in stone or metal, hence its brevity. To the Greeks an epigram was really an epigram on a tomb. Plato's lines, exquisitely translated by Shelley,

Thou wert the morning star among the living
Ere thy fair light had fled;
Now, having died, thou art, as Hesperus, giving
New splendour to the dead.

was to them both epigram and epitaph; in either case it was a beautiful poem in one stanza. But Coleridge was thinking of the old Latin epigram which some have attributed to Martial without warrant:—

Omne epigramma sit instar apis: sit aculeus illi;
Sunt sua mella; sit et corporis exigui,
which has been rendered:—

Bees and epigrams should, if they are not to fail,
Have honey, small frames, and a string in the tail.

On this definition Mr. Aubrey Stewart, in his delightful little anthology, "English Epigrams and Epitaphs," remarks justly: "It is not applicable to the classic Greek epigram, but well describes the Latin method, the French, the Italian, the Spanish, and with a stretch, the not very pointed work in this line of some classic German authors." The English epigram has a wider range. Mr. Stewart's little volume is a treasure of pre-war publishing. It was issued by Messrs. Chapman and Hall twenty-three years ago. I picked up a copy the other day in its limp leather binding, and was caressing its beautiful pages and type when a friend proposed to give me a fifty per cent. profit on my bargain. As I had paid only a shilling, this munificent offer did not tempt me.

When Adam Deived.
The first English epigram quoted by Mr. Stewart is the famous fourteenth-century couplet:—

When Adam deived and Eve span,
Who was then the gentleman?

Is he right in attributing it to that "mad priest of Kent" who engineered the insurrection of Wat Tyler, John Ball? It seems to have had a Latin original, which Ball may have translated as above. Mad as he was called, "it was in the preaching of John Ball (says Green) that English first listened to the knell of feudalism and the declaration of the rights of man. . .

A spirit fatal to the whole system of the Middle Ages breathed in the popular rhyme which condensed the levelling doctrine of John Ball: "When Adam deived and Eve span, who was then the gentleman?" It is certain that these words obtained a permanent lodgment in English ears, and to-day many people know them who have hardly heard of Magna Charta. The Epigram, then, can be a social gospel.

Epigrams of Revolt.
Indeed, it is often a gospel. Not very different in tone is the couplet written by Sir John Harrington—"that saucy poet, my godson," as Queen Elizabeth called him:—

Treason doth never prosper. What's the reason?
If it doth prosper, none dare call it treason.

a truth which has lost none of its application in recent years. It was Harrington, by the way, who wrote one of the first, if not the first, English epigram on the enclosure of commons:—

A Lord that purposed for his more avail,
To compass in a common with a rail,
Was reckoning with his friend about the cost
And charge of every rail and every post;
But he (that wished his greedy humour crossed)
Said, "Sir, provide your posts, and without failing
Your neighbours round about will find you railing.

This is exactly what is happening to-day on the South Downs, though there the railing is provided rather by visitors than the Down-dwellers. The true form of the well-known modern epigram on the same subject appears to be this:—

'Tis bad enough, in man or woman,
To steal a goose from off a common;
But surely he's without excuse
Who steals the common from the goose.

This is marked Anonymous My Mr. Stewart, and I doubt very much whether it can be traced to Ebenezer Elliott, the Corn Law Rhymist, to whom my confrere, "Jackdaw," was inclined last week to attribute it. As early as 1804 it was being quoted, and Elliott was then only twenty-four; his "Rhymes" did not appear until 1831.

Dr. Johnson considered that Dr. Doddridge's family motto, "Dum Vivimus Vivamus" (while we live let us enjoy life), was not very suitable for a Christian divine, but that his rendering of it was one of the finest epigrams in the English language.

Live while you live, the epicure would say,
And seize the pleasure of the fleeting day;
Live while you live, the sacred preacher cries,
And give to God each moment as it flies.
Lord, in my view let both united be,
I live in pleasure while I live to Thee.

On a less exalted plane of philosophy are the well-known lines:—

'Tis an excellent world that we live in,
To lend, to spend, or to give in;
But to borrow or beg, or get a man's own,
'Tis the worst world that ever was known.

This has been attributed to "Hudibras" Butler, and to the Earl of Rochester. The epigram has played an interesting and mordant part in literary criticism. Dryden used it nobly in the lines that he wrote to appear under Milton's portrait:—

Three Poets, in three distant ages born,
Greece, Italy, and England did adorn.
The first, in loftiness of thought surpass'd;
The next in majesty; in both the last,
The force of Nature could no further go;
To make a third, she joined the former two.

In his fine collection, "The Epigrammatists" the Rev. H. P. Dodd remarks that Dryden probably knew and developed a Latin couplet, written by

HERE are four riddles for boys and girls with wise heads. We told the artist to draw the pictures to represent the riddles, but he guessed the right answers—and put them in their right order to spell the right words, you will have the right answers. It isn't an easy task. Good thinking, patience and perseverance may find you the answers. Try it.
If you think you have found the answers, write them carefully on a sheet of white paper. Put on nothing but your four answers and your name and address in the upper right-hand corner of the page. Handwriting, spelling, punctuation and general neatness will count if more than one answer is correct.
We will write and tell you immediately if you are correct, and send you a handsome illustrated list of all the prizes that you can win.

What Others Have Done YOU Can Do

Salvaggi, which has been rendered:—

Greece boasts her Homer, Rome her Virgil's name,
But England's Milton vies with both in fame.

It was Pope who wrote:—
Sir, I admit your general rule
That every poet is a fool;
But you yourself may serve to show it
That every fool is not a poet.

Mr. Stewart, however, points out that this is really a translation of an old French epigram.

Mr. Leach Made a Speech.
The Law and the Universities have been hot-beds of epigram. A very curious example is Sir George Rose's "Record of a Case." It originated in the request of a law-reporter who, when called away from the court, asked Mr. Rose to make a note of anything important that might occur in his absence. On his return he found the following in his note-book:—

Mr. Leach made a speech
Angry, neat, and wrong;
Mr. Hart, on the other part,
Was learned, dull, and long;
Mr. Trower spoke for an hour,
And then sat down quite hot;
Mr. Bell spoke very well
Though nobody knew about what;
Mr. Parker made the case darker,
Which was dark enough without;
Mr. Cooke cited a book,
And the Chancellor said, "I doubt,"
The Chancellor was Lord Eldon, and "I doubt" was his favourite expression. Mr. Leach afterwards became Master of the Rolls and Mr. Hart Vice-Chancellor of Ireland. The peculiarities of all the men named are faithfully recorded. When this epigram became public it was repeated everywhere, and soon came round to Eldon, who a few weeks later dismissed a case which Rose had argued very earnestly before him with the waggish remark, "The judgment must be against your clients; and here, Mr. Rose, the Chancellor does not doubt."

One of the best of all Oxford epigrams is anonymous, and concerns the inexhaustible personality of Dr. Jowett:—

I am the Reverend Benjamin Jowett,
What there is to know I know it;
I am the Head of Balliol College,
And what I don't know isn't knowledge.

The writing of epigrams is one of the finest of literary exercises.
I am, gentlemen,
Yours faithfully,

The Sailor's Chantey.

The term "chantey" is given only to the work-songs used on a vessel. It is admitted to have been taken from the French word "chanter." The man elected a leader, a "chantey-man," was expected to extemporize and to give the passing events in rhythm to the song. The true chantey is a folk-song. It is difficult to trace the melodies. Cecil Sharp declares the sailors' chantey to be the last of the labor songs to survive in England. Every country has its group of sea songs, but England has the greater number. The sea-chantey does not possess the historical value that is admitted the folk-song of the soil. There is marked rhythm and melody, but the words are as a rule nonsensical. In many of the songs they are in keeping with the early times when grog was king, and the humor is rough and the text vulgar. A large number are found, however, in a sentimental vein.

The Oldest I. O. U.

An unpaid note for four shekels in silver, bearing 40 per cent. annual interest for nearly 4,000 years, was found recently among the clay tablets at the University of Pennsylvania Museum. The note, was given by a man named Bur-Mama to Il Sinnutum, in October, 1922 B.C., the year in which King Im-Sin occupied the town of Dur-Damigilisha. There were four witnesses to the note. Instead of signatures the witnesses placed their seals on the document, and were not liable for payment unless it was shown they knew the character of Bur-Mama was bad when they swore it was good. A shekel of silver at the time the note was made was equal to about $100 at the present time.

Poverty in Australia.

Water will not run up hill, and every tradesman and shopkeeper raises his prices, as his wages bill increases. Some people might say that in such circumstances the only real remedy is economy. But such people evidently do not grasp the depth and intensity of

Why, Indeed!

Youngsters have curious ideas about age—rather surprising to their elders. Little Marie was sitting on her grandfather's knee one day, and, after looking at him intently for a time, she said: "Grandpa, were you in the Ark?" "Certainly not, my dear," answered the astonished old man. "Then why weren't you drowned?"

Which Explained It.

The Vicar was addressing the children at the village school. "This morning, children, I propose to offer you an epitome of the life of St. Paul. Now, children, can anyone tell me what an epitome is?" There was an awful silence. The word had paralyzed the youngsters, so the good man went on:—"Epitome, children, is, in its significance, synonymous with synopsis!"

Wanted Them at Last.

An old couple had saved hard all their lives and with the money had bought a beautifully furnished house. One day the old woman missed her man and called out to him:—"Where are you, Thomas? Not on the couch, I hope!" "No, on the floor!" "Not on that carpet!" came in tones of anguish. "No; I've rolled it up!"—Western Veteran.

Have You Tried an Adjusted Gillette Shave?
This is an exclusive extra-comfort feature of the Gillette Safety Razor. Have you taken advantage of it? Some Gillette users never do, because even without it they get so good a shave they never think of looking for a better one. Others, though, get still greater comfort, by adjusting the blade to suit the skin and the closeness of the shave they want. So can you.
If the beard is soft or the skin tender, screw the handle up tight, drawing the edge of the blade close to the guard, so that it slips lightly over the face.
For closer work on a heavy beard loosen the handle an eighth of a turn. The blade gets more hold and shaves extra clean, leaving the face as smooth as can be.
You'll quickly find the adjustment that just suits you—and then you'll enjoy your Gillette more than ever.
Whatever adjustment you like best, be sure to use the Angle Stroke, drawing the edge of the blade across the beard. This is a very simple feature, and one that makes the adjustable Gillette shave really perfect.

Mr. John W. Currie, of Britannia, was a passenger from Quirpon to Trinity by the Prospero of Wednesday last. Mr. Currie represents Mr. John T. Currie, of Britannia, and has been at Quirpon all the summer in the interests of the firm. Mr. Currie reports a poor trap fishery, but a good hook-and-line fishery. The catch of the season has been an average one, and is represented by 5,000 quintals secured by their own dealers. One vessel the "Emily Selig," has left with 2,500 quintals, to call at Gibraltar for orders. Another vessel will go down later to take the balance of the fish remaining, and that which will be caught in the meantime. Mr. Currie could have bought at least 1,200 qts. of fish, but the outlook did not warrant his doing so.

Capt. Bellman and crew of the schooner Portia, belonging to S. Short & Son, Hunt's Harbor, were passengers by the Prospero. The Portia, a first class schooner of fifty tons, was bound up the Straits for planters, but she mistayd beating out of Raleigh, struck the rocks, and became a total wreck. The schooner was sold by the Commissioner, it is reported, for $180.

Magistrate Somerton paid an official visit to King's Cove and Catalina this week.

Mrs. Earle, nee Miss Gertrude White, and children, passengers by Prospero from Fogo to St. John's, motored from King's Cove to Trinity on Tuesday night; spent the night with friends here, and joined the Prospero again here on Wednesday morning. We were glad to see them.

devoted my article of last week to Trinity East, regretfully leaving much that would have been interesting. If reliable information and correct data could have been secured, Mr. Reginald Mills is, I think, of house, and that of Charles Field, and John Newhook were always spoken of as on Elder's Hill. The guns referred to by Mr. Gent as having been mounted by the crew of the Egeria, probably were two of those that had been mounted on Gun Hill, but which had been thrown over and were lying amongst the rocks between the two hills. To-day there is no trace of any mason work of the foundation on which those guns were erected by the Egeria's men, and no one ever seems to have heard of "Fort Nicholas," though two guns are still there.

Under date of October 3rd, 1896, is the following—"The Egeria's men are erecting a fort at Fort Point"; and on October 13th—"Fort Egeria finished at South Side to-day." The guns of this fort are still in evidence, but the naming of this fort as "Fort Egeria," like that of "Fort Nicholas" does not appear to have been taken seriously by the general public, and was not perpetuated.

Guests at Garland Hotel: Hon. D. Ryan, St. John's; Mr. P. Clarkin, Sydney; Mr. N. J. MacInnis, Sydney; Mr. Tuff, St. John's; Mr. Findlater, St. John's; Mr. Cunniff, Bay of Islands; Mr. Currie, Britannia; Mr. Gilbert Christian, Harbor Grace.

Fifty years ago when the land upon which the Parish Hall now stands, was occupied by the old Cook House, and carefully fenced, the western fence on Garland Road, and the eastern fence on the road leading from the Government Wharf met, and came to a point opposite to where the new Rectory stands. A large stone on the premises was rolled into this point, and served for years as a convenient spot on which old Mr. Cook might be seen on a fine summer evening, smoking his pipe, leaning over the fence talking to the neighbors as they passed to and fro. When the Parish Hall was built the fences were removed but the big stone remained on the property, and many a strictly sober man, stumbled over it at night. During the recent past, the stone was removed by the road board—and thus another old landmark has gone. It was, of course, a private landmark of church property.

Rev. E. and Mrs. Hunt and child, of Twillingate, spent a pleasant vacation at their old home, and returned to Twillingate by the last Prospero.

Mrs. John White has closed her Hotel for the winter, and has gone to live with Doctor Cross at Brooklyn, Bonavista Bay. She and her good offices to the public are equally missed.

Mrs. Malcolm Jenkins and children, of Bonne Bay, have taken up their residence for the winter in Mrs. Lockyer's house. Mr. Jenkins will join them in January. Glad to have them with us.

The good work of improving the appearance of the properties in Trinity, which became so popular last summer, is still being carried on with excellent results. The Parish Hall, Mrs. Hiscock's house, the Post Office, the Royal Bank, Mr. Erickson's house and shop, the "Old Doctor's" House, and several other properties have been painted and otherwise improved. Still there's more to follow.

Mr. Alonso Coleridge, of the Royal Bank of Canada, St. John's, spent an enjoyable holiday in Trinity.

The old sail boat ferry on the South West Arm has been discontinued, and has been replaced by a motor boat.

Mr. Mosher, the Manager of the Royal Bank of Canada during the last year, has been transferred to Canada, and has been succeeded here by Mr. Eric Rankin, of St. John's. Mr. Mosher gave many evidences of efficiency as a Bank Manager, and will always be kindly remembered in social circles. Mr. Rankin needs no higher recommendation to the good

Take Twillingate for instance: with its hoary past as the northern capital; with its early settlement from the motherland; with its varied extensive business operations; with its folk lore; with its carefully written old diaries now in possession of some of its people, and with so many intelligent old people still living—all this and other fine material in its possession, it is, in my opinion, a thousand pities that some one does not undertake the work of writing it up.

have before me, as I write, a manuscript book of "Occurrences" kept by Mr. Samuel Augustus Gent when he was a clerk in the employ of Robert Stada. The first entry is dated January 1st, 1815, and the last entry is dated May 11th, 1820. My first impulse was to find out what had taken place here a hundred years ago, say Oct. 1st to Oct. 15th, 1820. The entry of October 1st—"Wind N.N. West, blowing fresh, and some small symptoms of water falling." October 2nd—"H. M. Egeria's men are erecting a two battery on the summit of Elder's Hill, which is to receive the name of commander, accordingly will call for the future—Fort Nicholas."

those days, and when I was at the rising ground beginning with my father's house stood (now belonging to Capt. Robert Fowlow) ending with the first high ridge rock, was known to everybody as Elder's Hill. It was quite distinct in the line from the higher ridge behind which was known (as it is to-day) Gun Hill. To-day, Elder's Hill is known to ever referred to by that name, and both ridges are wrongly known as Gun Hill. My father's

Unlucky to Walk Under a Ladder.

While it is true that there is a stupid superstition about a ladder, some saying that a person who walks under will not be married for at least a year, yet there are good and wise reasons for going round instead of under a ladder.

A small boy once walked under a ladder wearing a new cap of which he was very proud, but as he passed beneath, a painter up above dropped a spot of paint on the cap and for ever ruined its beauty. It was a lesson not to pass under a ladder on which men are working.

Some time ago a workman let a hammer fall on the head of a person passing underneath, causing serious injuries; and not long ago a man was killed in the same way. Unlike most superstitions, therefore, the idea that it is unlucky to pass under a ladder has a real basis in common sense.

Of course, if the workmen are not on the ladder it does not matter so much, but it is wise to get the habit of going round a ladder, rather than

Dr. Tanner's Long Fast.

The hunger strike of the Lord Mayor of Cork recalls many feats of voluntary abstinence from food, the most famous of which perhaps was that of Dr. Henry Samuel Tanner, who, in 1889, ate nothing for forty days. Doctor Tanner lived to be eighty-eight, dying December 30, 1918, thirty-eight years after his remarkable performance. The fast began June 28, 1889, and lasted until August 7. Doctor Tanner broke it in Koster & Bial's Hall, New York, with a dinner that included a porterhouse steak, half a watermelon, two pies and three quarts of milk, or, perhaps, of coffee. That meal in itself was startling, for physicians all over the world telegraphed to Doctor Tanner that he must be most careful when he started again to eat.

Back to Tennis.

By F. O. D.
(In Saturday Night, Toronto.)

Though golf is admittedly a very beautiful game, full of leisurely science, quiet thought, and unusual opportunities for enriching the vocabulary, there are times when its devotees must think rather wistfully of the more active and adventurous games of their youth.

Only the other day we were watching an extremely stout middle-aged man heave in an agony of effort at the ball, top it, and send it about ten yards away into the rough. It was a pathetic exhibition of human helplessness. Then the fat man stepped into the long grass after it, and with the aid of a deadly nibble and about seven strokes managed to get the ball out on the fairway again accompanied by a couple of holes of loose hay.

"Say, I wish you fellows would go through," he said. "I never can play when I'm pressed." He also made some lurid remarks about the ball.

Of course, we did not take his excuse very seriously—it is the sort of thing we say ourselves in similar circumstances—but we murmured, our thanks and went on. There is no use stopping to talk to a man when he is in that frame of mind—and with a nibble in his hand—but we had a certain feeling of melancholy. It seemed a sad way for a man to spend his later years. We wondered if we ourselves—but no, we'll take to tidilywinks first.

"And to think," said our partner, "that that chap was once the best football tackle and plunger in Toronto!"

Here he was slashing around like a harpooned whale, and alleging that he couldn't play because someone was standing near him—a man who had been in the habit of leaping through the air at flying forwards, or laying the ball against his diaphragm and ploughing head first through a line of padded ruffians intended to kill him. Did he ever think of it?

Even we have our regrets. Not that we were ever a distinguished practitioner of the gentle art of tossing opposing Rugbyists through the air or sitting on their face and removing the ball from the hole it had made in their chest. We were not built for that game—there is too much of us for the other fellow to grab. But we have not always spent our leisure moments creeping up on a sitting ball and clouting it with iron-shod clubs. Time was when we used to leap across the clay court like a young gazelle and smash short lobs with maniacal fury—usually we knocked them into some neighboring yard. And there are moments even now when we long for those sterner joys.

That is why we were so strongly tempted when a friend called us up a few days ago and suggested that we should go out to his tennis club and have a game with him. It aroused old memories and ambitions. Our hand tingled for the rough grip of the old racket, and ear yearned for the sharp and pleasant ping of the clean-hit ball.

Of course, we evaded at first. We said that we hadn't played in a couple of years or more, that it would be a terrible ordeal for him—you know, the usual sort of rot one talks when one is waiting to be coaxed. We really felt in our heart that if we once got a racket in our hand, our old skill would immediately come back to us, greatly enhanced by the scientific training acquired from golf.

That is one of the pathetic fallacies of golfers—the notion that golf is the finest preparation in the world for every other form of sport.

"You learn to keep your eye on the ball," the devotees will tell you. "Besides, you get a proper understanding of the value of form and the follow-through."

We have talked the same sort of bosh ourselves. And then we have gone right out on the course, and every time we have swung at the little white ball our eyes have been gazing far away like a shipwrecked mariner looking for a sail. And as for follow-through——but let us not go into this sad theme.

We forgot all about these dismal experiences, however, when our tennis friend invited us out. Just for the moment we felt that there might really be something in this talk of the value of a course of golf in training the eye, and that we might play better tennis than ever before. All we needed was a little urging. We got it.

"The trouble with you is that you're getting flabby messing around with a lot of caddies and old men," said our friend. "Come on out and play a live man's game and loosen up your poor old arteries."

Naturally we could not refuse such a challenge as this—our manhood revolted at it. Caddies and old men, eh? Poor old arteries, what? We resolved to go out and teach this bumptious tennis-player the superb physical condition that resulted from golf, the keen eye one got and the alert mind. We decided to show him what a real follow-through meant. A man who has driven a golf-ball two hundred yards over and over again—well, three times, to be quite accurate—need have nothing to fear from a soft woolly sphere and a bat like a banjo.

Grimly we announced that we'd be there—meaning in more ways than one—and grimly we dug out the familiar flannels and the old racket from its press. We must admit that the flannels showed a distressing tightness about the waist, and the strings of the bat were a little inclined to sag. But what cared we for such trifles as that? We were out to do execution. Had we not beaten this hardy upstart many times in the days before the war? We had, and we were resolved to do it again.

We would like to be able to give the reader a very glowing account of our performance in this game. In fact, we would do it, only the other fellow is likely to see this and we feel that a certain regard for historical accuracy must obtain. We would like to tell of the long, low drives we got away from the tee—no, no, we mean the base-line—and of the lovely approach shots we lobbed over his head, as he came rushing to the net. We would like to describe how again and again we laid our putts dead in the corner of the court, and holed out from almost impossible positions. All this we would like to be able to say, but, doggone it, the facts are against us.

In the first place there is something distressingly active about a tennis-ball. It refuses to wait for you. It comes skimming across the net, and before you can get your eye properly on it, it has cut off at some hopeless angle and is bouncing merrily against the fence. Golf trains a man to keep his eye on the ball, it is true, but that implies a nice tame little ball that will sit up politely on its little throne of wet sand and wait to be hit. But that sort of sedateness bears about as much resemblance to the conduct of a tennis ball as the decorum of Queen Victoria to the goings-on of Cleopatra of Egypt.

And then all those splendid golf rules about "slow back" and keeping the head still—of what possible use are they in tennis? They are about as applicable as the directions for making plain and purl stitches. Only unfortunately, we insisted on applying them. Every time our eye lit on the ball—except, of course, the time when the ball lit on our eye—we instinctively tried to take up the proper stance, and hold our head perfectly still, and bring the club slowly back, and—well, by that time the other fellow counted "forty-love."

Another thing that bothered us was running after the ball. We have got out of the way of doing anything so undignified. We expect the ball to lie there till we saunter up and find it—or drop another. This business of chasing violently from one side of the court to the other in the vain attempt to get to the place ahead of the darn thing can easily be overdone. We are not so young as we were, and our weight has increased with our years.

Our friend and enemy seemed to discover this disinclination on our part for undus activity, and he did his best to hasten our movements as much as possible. He kept getting his shots farther and farther apart, until he finally reached the point where he was putting them outside the court altogether—this naturally was not without its compensations for us. But, in the meantime, our pulse went up to two hundred and sixty, and we were breathing only with the extreme upper lobe of our lungs—in fact, on two or three occasions we had only one lung in action.

The reader, however, must not think that we made a complete show of ourselves. Every now and then we would forget all about golf and its restrictions. We would throw form and stance and all the rest of it to the winds, and would overlook everything but the necessity of hitting the ball as hard and as straight as we knew how. Old habits instinctively reasserted themselves in such moments, and there were rallies in which we found ourselves burning our shots over with something of the old freedom and determination.

But this never lasted very long. A man can't talk and think and play golf as devotedly as we have done for a couple of years without the iron getting into his soul—the mid-iron, that is. Just about the time we stood a chance of winning a game, introspection seized upon us and claimed us for its own. We would start wondering whether we were getting our wrist properly under the shaft, or if perchance we were not pivoting too much on our left toe. And you know what that sort of thing leads to.

Finally the ball took us in the eye—the one we were trying to keep on it. We might have known that if we held our head still enough the other fellow would hit it sooner or later. But it was largely our own fault. We had rashly ventured up to the net to do a little volleying, and volleying is something that no practising golfer should attempt. It unsettles one's form. It unsettles ours on this particular occasion. After our friend had helped us to our feet and with many expressions of regret brushed the dust off the back of our shirt, and we were able to pick the ball out amid the new constellations floating around, we went pluckily on with the game. It was heroic, but it wasn't tennis.

Fortunately, the affair was soon over. We would rather not mention the score—some shreds of self-respect still cling to us. Then we adjourned for a dish of tea. As we drank and tried to forget the past and the swelling on our eye, our friend asked us very sympathetically about our golf. He seemed anxious to know how we were getting on with it.

"I think you ought to make a fine golfer," he said. "You have the style, you know, and all that. I can tell it from the way you play tennis."

We tried to find some consolation in this statement, but not very successfully. It was a little like telling the Kaiser that, judging by the way he waged war, he would make an excellent wood-cutter. But we encouraged ourselves with the reflection that perhaps golf really was the game best suited to our temperament and natural genius.

The very next day we hastened up to the golf club, feeling that there at least we would be the embodiment of ease and efficiency. But we hadn't played for ten minutes before we realized the folly of mixing one's games—it is even worse than mixing one's ice-cream sodas. We kept swinging at the ball before it came to rest, and playing our shots with a deliberate cut on them. The result was disastrous.

"By the way," said our partner after a particularly lamentable attempt, "have you ever thought of going back to tennis? Something in your stroke suggests that."

Then we crawled into the bunker and lay on our stomach and ate sand.

BOOTH-SNELGROVE.

On Thursday evening, Sept. 30th, Ven. Archdeacon Armitage, Rector of St. Paul's, joined in marriage, Thomas Booth, of Halifax, son of George Booth, of Stalybridge, Lancashire, England, and Miss Florence Snelgrove, of Halifax, daughter of Samuel Snelgrove, of St. John's, Nfld. The groom was supported by Everard Hiram Langille, of No. 50 Dresden Row, and the bridesmaid was Miss Annie Josephine Ryall, of Prince George Hotel. The bride wore a handsome travelling costume of dark cloth with autumn hat, and the bridesmaid a light gown with turban effect. Mr. and Mrs. Booth will reside in Halifax, where the groom, who is an old service man of long experience, has many friends. The interesting ceremony took place at No. 90 Spring Garden Road.—Halifax Chronicle.

OLIVER-ROCHE.

Powerscourt, Manuela, was the scene of a quiet but very pretty wedding on Wednesday, Oct. 6th, when Miss Gertrude Oliver, daughter of Mrs. Carter, of Topsall, was united in the holy bonds of matrimony with Mr. Philip Roche, of Brigus. The bride was very prettily attired in a handsome dress of grey silk with hat and veil to match and grey fox fur, the gift of the groom; she also carried a magnificent bouquet. The bride was attended by Miss Winnie Duff, who wore a dress of navy blue silk with black picture hat; the flower girl, little Miss Gertrude Carter, looked very dainty in white silk. The groom was attended by Mr. Alban Duff. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Fr. Kelly. After the ceremony a dainty supper was served at the home of the bride's mother. The health of the young couple was proposed by Mr. Lloyd Fowler and responded to by the groom in very happy terms. At 6.30 the happy young couple left by motor for the railway station where they joined the train for Carbonear where the honeymoon will be spent. The groom's present to the bride was a birthstone pin and to the bridesmaid a gold stick pin. The presents received were many and costly, testifying to the popularity of the young couple.—Com.

Personal.

Miss Annie Moore, of Freshwater, Bay-de-Verde, is at present staying with relatives in the city.

Mr. Mortimer Pike, Anglo operator at Carbonear, is in town on a vacation and business trip. Mr. Pike will shortly be joining the army of Benedict, and will link his future fortunes with those of an estimable young lady of Freshwater.

Capt. John Lewis, who was down the Straits inspecting fish cargoes and returned Thursday night, left for Holyrood by yesterday afternoon's train.

Miss Nance Adams, of Milton, T.B., is in the city and is the guest of Mrs. E. J. Coyell, 271 Southside. On Miss Adams' return home she is to be married to Mr. H. T. Garrett, of Port Blandford, at present lumber contractor with the A.N.D. Co. at Grand Falls. For the past seven years the bride-to-be has been saleslady with D. Pelley, at Port Blandford, during which time she was held in the greatest esteem by all with whom she came in contact, and her numerous friends join in hearty congratulations on the event to come.

Mr. R. M. Wolvin, the new President of the Dominion Steel Co., arrived in the city Thursday evening from Bell Island, and is the guest of Mr. H. D. Reid. He was accompanied by Mr. E. M. McDonald, K.C., of Pictou, N.S., one of the company's legal advisers, also Mr. G. H. Merrill, now General Manager of the steel plant at Sydney, and Mr. Tempton, private secretary to Mr. Wolvin. Mrs. Merrill and Miss Merrill are also with the party. They will remain in the city for a week or more and it is expected that during that time the matter of the Bell Island ore tax, now in dispute, will be taken up with the government and a settlement arrived at.

Miss Edith Bright leaves by the next Sagona for Labrador, where she will resume missionary work for the fourth year. Her many friends wish her success and a safe return.

The engagement is announced of Miss F. H. March (Floss), youngest daughter of the late N. March, Esq., and sister of Major J. W. March, M.C. (Nfld. Regt.), and Mr. James H. Timperley, of Manchester, England. Wedding takes place in England, early next month.

One thing essential in your Winter Coat is QUALITY. One has to wear their Winter Coat for many months, and to stand against this you require the best of material in it.

We have carefully selected our stock of Winter Coatings and feel we have goods that merit your approval. You can purchase enough excellent material to make a coat for $24.00, and if you wish we can make it up for you, and deliver the finished garment in a week or less if necessary. The material is equal in quality to that in coats which retail at $70.00 to $90.00.

We ask you to come in and see the goods, examine them, get samples and prices, compare with others, and come back and purchase the goods.
