THE NEW COMBINATION.

THE GRAND TRUNK AND NORTHERN PACIFIC AS ALLIES.

The Syndicate's Great Rival Getting Stronger and Stronger—If Not the Northwest by Duluth Then by the Southern Boundary.

The Grand Trunk is bound to get into Manitoba and it is useless to prevent it. The interests of Canada and the interests of that great railway corporation alike demand it. A powerful road, with plenty of money, is not to be baulked in its desire to extend its connections with its own money. All it asks is for the permission to do so, and sooner or later the syndicate and government will have to give way in their opposition. To force the thing it is reported that the Grand Trunk has taken aggressive measures. One of these is it alleged the Grand Trunk is as good as in connection with the Northern Pacific now; when this latter line is extended and put in better shape the two roads will be practically one extending throughout eastern Canada, through Michigan, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and then away along the southern side of the 45th parallel to the distant west and ultimately to the Pacific coast. This great trunk line is bound to tap the Canadian Northwest, if the government try to baulk it in crossing the boundary line west of Emerson then the attempt will be made by the Ontario, Sault Ste. and on through Michigan and via Duluth to the southeastern corner of Manitoba, and once into this province on to Portage La Prairie and through to Canadian fertile belt.

THE ST. P M & M.

It was reported a few days ago that large lumps of the stock of the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Manitoba railway, now the property of the syndicate and its American allies, had been bought up by parties such a "sinister object." The only interpretation is that the Northern Pacific and the Grand Trunk have put their heads together and the former acting for the latter, and with the latter's money having been, buying up the stock of the St P M & M, which was thrown on the market in the recent tumble in that stock. It just may be that Hill, Angus & Co'rt more of it to than they imagined and that it was "picked up" by the Northern Pacific. The forced sales were something enormous. Immense amounts of this stock were carried in Canada, and most of this has been sold.

Shrewd men like Hill and Angus would take care, one would think, to keep the balance of power in their hands, but at all events it seems certain that their rivals have scored no small portion of the stock of the road. Perhaps in another deal they may get more and than there will be a passing of the control.

A GREAT COMBINATION.

By itself the Grand Trunk is now the most powerful railway corporation in the world; with the Northern Pacific it would be of gigantean proportions. It is making such strides in gobbling that the fear is that it will swallow the syndicate. So far it has beaten the latter at every point. Its latest acquisition is the North Shore of Quebec. And still bigger deals are on the carpet.

THE BUDDLE McCRAE TRIAL.

Dr. Pynchon Pronounced Not Guilty by the Direction of the Judge.

BUFFALO, Dec. 12.—Dr. Pynchon's trial was resumed this morning. Dr. John S. Halbert was cross-examined in regard to the probability of abortion being brought about by the use of electricity. The examination was tedious and Judge Sheldon finally asked Mr. Hatch what was to be gained by continuing the question. "I am getting a little knowledge on the subject of electricity" said Mr. Hatch. "I am afraid both of you [the counsel] are getting too much knowledge on the subject," said the judge with a smile. The only remaining witness of the defence not being in court the people called Dr. Fowler to testify in regard to evidence given at the inquest. Counsellor Clinton objected to all the testimony. Dr Henry Hopkins thought an abortion could be produced with a milder powerful electric battery. This afternoon the court assembled at 3:30 o'clock and Dr Bernard Barlow was briefly examined on the subject of electricity. The testimony of Dr Nicholas Hopkins of Dansville and Mary Layman was read. Counsel announced that all the evidence was in. Judge Sheldon then briefly reviewed the case and instructed the jury to render a verdict of not guilty, which they did without leaving their seats.

A WORD WITH THE PROPHET OF BOND STREET.

Let me ask you a question, dear doctor,
A straightforward question or two,
Let me put you a few simple queries
'Bout some things that I cannot see through;
I haven't much learning or knowledge,
While you, as you know, are D D,
And these things, though they puzzle me greatly,
May to you be like A B and C.

When we deemed that you'd carefully show us
The true and the excellent way,
Was't wise to confront us with Egypt,
And the image whose feet were of clay?
Are there no forlorn souls in our city,
Groping blindly for truth and for light,
That yet speak of indiscreet wonders
Or rehearse Arms-geddon's great fight?

When you tell of the mystical virtues
Of three, or of five, or of seven,
Do you think there are in many stones
Seeking vainly the road up to heaven?
When, tired of grief's heavy burden,
They turn their worn faces to you,
Do you think it will lighten their sorrows
To hear they are kin to the Jew?

You've discoursed on pre-Adamic man in state,
On the only true measure for corn,
You can figure the weight of behemoth,
Or the length of the unicorn's horn;
Is this food for our innermost nature,
Will it lay the grim spectre of doubt?
Illumine the dark shadowed pathway,
Or our fears and uncertainties rout?

We have climbed to the pyramid's summit,
We have crossed all its expanse of woe,
Yet the nerve of our life are as bitter,
And our future as dark as before.
We have measured the old celestial,
With plummet and tape-line and square,
But you've somehow neglected to teach us
The way to a residence there.

When the wretched, the weary, the sinning,
Ask a haven of rest to be shown,
For a fish will you throw them a serpent,
And for bread will you give them a stone?
Will it lay the grim spectre of doubt?
Will you raise many souls, my dear doctor,
If you preach that three threes will make six?
Will you make many converts from Satan
By preaching a gospel of tricks?

The past prandial proceedings commenced with the toast of the queen, which of course was heartily honored. Then came the glee sung, for He's a Jolly Good Fellow.

ONTARIO TRADE BENEVOLENT ASSOCIATION.

First Annual Meeting at Albert Hall—Banquet at the Walker House.

The first annual meeting of the Ontario Trade Benevolent association (one the licensed victuallers) convened at Albert hall yesterday afternoon. The president, Mr. J. S. Hamilton of Brantford, occupied the chair. After discussion it was decided to make the session an open one. There were about fifty delegates from different parts of the province present. Matters pertaining to the trade were discussed, but there was nothing said in reference to the politics of the association. All the old officers and committees were re-elected, with the exception that James Lemon of Toronto was placed on the finance committee in place of Thomas Brown. A G Hodge, the secretary, reported that the total receipts of the year were $3450 and the expenditure $1873, cash in bank in treasurer's name, $1167, cash in secretary's hands $619. There are 317 branches in the province with an aggregate membership of 1147. Secretary Hodge's salary was placed at $800 per annum. The session will be continued today.

BANQUET TO THE DELEGATES.

The Toronto branch gave a banquet in honor of the delegates at the Walker house last night. The speakers dining-room of mine host Walker was occupied to its fullest capacity, there being a table across the the east end and three running down therefrom. The tables were elegantly laid, and the menu was faultless. Mr. Wm. Armstrong, the president of the Toronto association, occupied the chair, the vice chairs being filled by Mr J G Coleman and Mr Thos Wilson. Among the invited guests present were Rev Dr Wild, Mr Robert Bell, M P P, Major Bennett, Major Gray and Mr John Armstrong. The secretary, Mr George Mitchell read letters of regret from Sir John A Macdonald, Hon Edward Blake, Hon Oliver Mowat, Hon Alex Morris and Mayor McMurrich.

The post prandial proceedings commenced with the toast of the queen, which of course was heartily honored. Then came the general toast, accompanied by the well-known song, For He's a Jolly Good Fellow. The chairman next gave the toast of the president of the United States, coupled with the name of Rev Dr Wild. The toast was enthusiastically honored, and Rev Dr Wild thanked the audience for the honor conferred upon him. He was pleased to be present at the Trade' Benevolent association dinner, and looking at the members present he could truly say they were a fine-looking body of men and showed no signs of dissipation. He was a temperance man himself, but he could not altogether agree with some of his temperance brethren. The licensed victuallers, whose trade had been so long recognized by law, had a vested interest which should be recognized, and he had no sympathy with any legislation that proposed to deprive the trade of their vested rights without compensation. The rev doctor next referred to the pleasing unity that existed between Capital and the United States, a unity that was becoming people cemented from one common stock. He admired the United States and left that country in the most friendly manner for Canada, preferring to move to a better land, a land above which waved the glorious union jack. The army, navy and volunteers brought Major Gray, Major Bennett, and Mr. Wm. Fakey to their feet, and they made suitable replies. The dominion parliament and local legislature was responded to by Mr. Robt. Bell, M.P.P. The toast of O.T.B.A. was then proposed and duly honored. Mr. Hamilton, the popular president, responded. He spoke of the sound basis upon which the association was established and said the principal object was to elevate the standard of the trade. The commercial and manufacturing interests were ably responded to by Mr. John Cosgrave and Mr. George T. Robinson, the latter gentleman's speech being the best of the evening. Mr. Nesbitt, Mr. Armstrong, president of the Trades' and Labor council, and others replied to the toast of our guests. Several other toasts were proposed. The proceedings were interspersed with songs Mr Armstrong made a good chairman, and Mr Coleman was in his happiest vein as accompanist of the vice chair. The committee paid the best of attention to the guests, and the unanimous verdict of the company was that the banquet was a great success.

A Toronto Artist Abroad.

The New York Sun, commenting on the black and white exhibition of the Salmagundi club, says, in reference to the inability of most engravers to give an adequate translation of the artist's drawing: "Even with us, work done with full reference to the engraver's requirements, such as the Gaspe Headland of Mr. Fraser is by no means of adequate treatment." And again: "Landscape is generally held to be the art of the future, yet we are but producing many new landscape artists. The best of those we are now to see is Mr. John Fraser, whose Gaspe Headland has already been mentioned. He is a Canadian well known to his native haunts." Mr. Fraser, a well known citizen of Toronto, should feel flattered at this high praise in the metropolis of America.

A FIGHT OVER A RAILWAY

WHO WILL CONTROL THE TORONTO, GREY AND BRUCE ROAD.

The Case of Hendrie vs Grand Trunk Railway at last becomes a Hearing—Opening of the Case Yesterday.

The celebrated case of Hendrie vs. the Grand Trunk to decide who shall control the Toronto, Grey and Bruce railway, which has been pending for about a year and a half without being heard, came up at the chancery divisional court this morning before Judge Proudfoot. Mr. Dalton McCarthy, Q. C., Mr. C. Robinson, Q C and Mr. E. Martin appeared for Mr. Hendrie, and Hon. E. Blake and Mr. Cassels for the Grand Trunk. The pleadings set forth that the company was in difficulties in 1874, failure following endeavours to resuscitate the company's affairs, and allege that Mr. Beatty, in April, 1881, was making a secret agreement with the Grand Trunk railway company with the object of leasing the Toronto, Grey and Bruce railway to that company, at a rental, and upon terms far below the value of the line. The plaintiff Hendrie protested against this agreement, and desired at a meeting of the board of directors of the Toronto company to have the consideration of the question postponed, but a majority of the directors refused, rejected the delay and insisted on the terms of the agreement being carried out. The proposal of the Grand Trunk was that they should have the line on the following terms: A rental of 27½ per cent of the gross earnings up to $500,000; 25 per cent of all the gross earnings from $400,000 to $500 000, and 12½ per cent for all over $500,000. The proposal was rejected, however, and an agreement was entered into on the 12th of May. At a meeting of bondholders held on the 28th June 1881, to ratify the agreement, it is contended that the plaintiff was not permitted to vote on account of the bonds he held. He also charges that the agreement was hastily and improperly entered into at the instigation of the defendant and without independent legal advice or due consideration, and it was unfair and unjust to the plaintiff in its terms and that it should not be enforced against the plaintiffs, and that the said agreement is of such a nature that specific performance shall not be decreed. At the annual general meeting of the shareholders of the plaintiff's company, held in Sept. 1881, the term of office of the directors expired, and Messrs. Beatty, Worts, Lee, Gooderham, McKay, then ceased to be directors of the said company and other persons opposed to the said agreement were elected in their place. The plaintiff prays that it may be declared that the agreement were and are null and void so far as they relate to the agreement of May 13. That it may be declared that the votes on 1561 bonds were improperly rejected and ought to have been received. That the defendant may be restrained by the order of this court from taking over the Toronto, Grey & Bruce railway, and entering into possession or otherwise acting on or carrying into effect the said agreement of May 13, 1881. Mr. W H Beatty was examined, and detailed the various negotiations which had taken place in reference to the leasing of the Toronto, Grey & Bruce railway on a paying basis. All full however till a scheme was propounded for getting the Grand Trunk railway to lease the road, in consideration of which the municipalities through which the road runs had agreed to give a bonus towards altering the gauge, etc. The offer of the Northern & Northwestern was rejected because they opsidered that the company could not carry out the agreement. There was a legal difficulty in the form of a clause in the Toronto campacter act preventing such an arrangement. There was a proviso that the assets of the lt-tenant-governor in council should be first obtained. Another difficulty was the fact that in order to an agreement with the Northern company the Grand Trunk company could "squeeze" them. The latter company, however, had never done so. The guarantee or the Grand Trunk would have the effect of enabling them to pay 5 per cent on the preference bonds of $1,000,000, and nearly 22 per cent on the sums of $2,000,000. He did not think anything about the agreement being ratified by the bondholders, though he went to England in order to get the assent of the bondholders to the scheme.

DARING ROBBERY.

$50 Snatched from a Lady on Victoria Street.

Another daring highway robbery was perpetrated in the city on Monday evening. Miss Burnett, a well-known milliner on King street west, Storrell's block, left her place of business for her home on Victoria street about 7 p m, carrying a satchel containing $50 with several letters and papers. When on Victoria street a little north of Queen, a skulking individual who had quietly approached from behind, suddenly seized the satchel, wrenched it from her grasp, and before she was fully aware of what had happened she of all full speed towards Queen street. He slipped and fell once but quickly picked himself up and turning the corner of Queen and Victoria, fled eastward. Miss Burnett immediately gave the alarm, "Stop thief!" but to no effect as the street was almost deserted at the time. One gentleman gave chase, but only with the satisfaction of seeing the thief disappear in a lane between Victoria and Bond streets where he was lost sight of. He was, as far as could be seen, a young man of medium size and fair complexion. It is supposed that there were accomplices and that Miss Burnett was watched and followed from her shop. The police were at once notified of the matter but as yet no arrests have been made.

The First Carnival.

The first carnival of the season was held in the Spadina avenue rink last night. The attendance was very good, there being about 700 skaters on the ice, though very few of these were in costume. Anderson's band furnished the music, the ice in good condition appeared to enjoy themselves. A number of new gas jets have been added. There is great improvement over the former lighting.

THE ONTARIO LEGISLATURE.

The last session of the present Ontario parliament opens to-day at 3 o'clock. There are not very momentous times with respect to the initiating of public projects, for our civilization has now reached such a stage that we rather from year to year develop what we have already begun than originate anything new. Thus in the olden time when the provinces had but begun to travel in civilized ways, each session developed a number of new measures not heard of before. Now we hardly ever hear of a new act, but rather the annually-recurring phrase of "An act to amend an act." It has, we believe, been the aim of Mr. Mowat and his party to create wherever a need for legislation has been found to exist, and the record of their administration shows a creditable share of such original legislation. Perhaps an original member may be regarded as the first verdict of the public. Carlyle says the people are ever revising their opinions, and that the ultimate result of this process is crystallization and the essence of what is aimed at. There is the record of Mr. Mowat's parliament, not a little revisory legislation, but that it has yet reached "crystallized perfection," perhaps even our worthy premier himself is too modest to contend.

The landlady who has only a given number of fowls and a limited quantity of vegetables from which to select from meal to meal, after sustaining her table for a number of years, finds the continual drain upon her for variety must eventually overtax her capacity and compel her to repeat her bill of fare. To-day it devolves upon Mr. Mowat to furnish a bill to a lot of hungry critics, with stomachs so hard to please and out of tone, that we have to serve up nightingales' tongues or real turtle it is doubtful if he would succeed in giving satisfaction. It may be taken for granted, however, that he will present a program exhibiting a very fair array of subjects for the consideration of hon. gentlemen during the session.

It is not unlikely that the address will open by his excellency extending a welcome to the young members who have now reached their first laurels at the bye-elections.

He will likely refer to the continued prosperity of the province, attributing the plenitude of good things to the abundant harvest, and the great activity of the lumber trade.

It will no doubt also appear that the receipts from crown timber and lands for the year have reached the handsome figure of $1,000,000.

Our agricultural industry is moving ahead by strides, and there will doubtless be a paragraph referring to the fact, and to the success which has attended the working of the bureau of agricultural statistics established last session.

Nor will mention of the attitude of the dominion government towards the award made by the arbitrators settling the boundary question, be omitted, but deep regret will doubtless be expressed at the said government's attitude, and the legislature urged to take the matter up again. Allied to this question is that of the disallowance of the Ontario streams bill, and the house will unquestionably be asked to resume the consideration of that question.

A number of measures will be promised, and these will likely comprise bills consolidating the jury laws, the acts relating to municipal institutions, and the public and high schools, also general measures for the incorporation of companies for the construction of street railways, gas works, and to make provision for public parks. Bills relating to the division of the farm insurance, the inspection of steam boilers—also acts respecting private asylums for the insane, for simplifying the practice of conveyancing, and in relation to the law of property, may also be expected.

With much reason the promise will, doubtless, be congratulated upon the success which has attended the establishment of the provincial board of health. There will also probably be a paragraph referring to immigration, the license laws, the public accounts and the estimates. Upon the whole the bill will be no meagre one, and the house will find itself not idle by any means during the session.

It has always been a marked courtesy of the crown to bring young talent to the front. It graciously gives the defence of a crown culprit who has no defender of his own choice to some young barrister who has not yet won the bays; and so likewise when the address to the speech from the throne in the legislature is to be moved, a young member is generally called upon to do it. In this case the practice will not be departed from and Mr. Balfour, editor of the Amherstburg Gazette, member for Essex, will move the address; and Mr. O'Connor of Walkerton, member for Bruce, will second it. Meanwhile we suppose Mr. Meredith is loading his cannon, and giving edge to his steel.

"MONTREAL MARGINS."

The "commercial capital," as Montrealers love to have it called, is and has been for many years back a great place for speculation. The corner of St. Francis Xavier street point with pride to the fact that it is the Wall street of Canada; and they spare no pains to make it deserve the reputation. Compared with Montreal, Toronto is but of yesterday as a centre of speculation, the charter of the Toronto stock exchange dating back only to 1878. Of course there were dealings in stocks here long before this, and pretty large transactions too, sometimes; but not through the medium of an incorporated stock exchange. Since Toronto did make a regular beginning in this line, however, she has gone ahead in the business very rapidly, and now counts among her residents many able professors and many apt pupils in the art and mystery of making money by betting on stocks. Toronto may be pictured as being rather ashamed of her backward position in the business as contrasted with Montreal, but there is a good deal of pluck in our Queen city of the west, and she may before very long show that as a rival and competitor in stock exchange "deals" she is not to be record at.

If what Montreal is. How be that which we are to be by-and-by, it may interest us just to glance at what they are doing down there. The Montreal Gazette had an article the other day on the Pennsylvania oil craze, by which some twenty million dollars or more are estimated to have been transferred from the pockets of many foolish individuals to those of a few wealthy and wide-awake operators. Those who have opportunities of knowing say that no matter who lost, the big winners in the oil speculation were Keene and Hill of New York, and the head men of the Standard Oil company, which controls the whole American market for petroleum. After going over the story of the Pennsylvania oil craze, our contemporary thus concludes: "But some people might innocently ask, what has Montreal to do with crude petroleum in Pennsylvania? To that question we would simply answer that, wherever speculation is rampant, whether in wheat, corn, pork, lard or coal oil, Montreal margins are sure to find their way." Rather a remarkable statement this, but still a true one, as there is every reason to believe. The Gazette's narrative of what happened recently in Pennsylvania ought to be interesting reading in Toronto just now, and we therefore reproduce it entire for the benefit of The World's constituents.

Speculation by Canadians in American markets and exchanges may be said to have begun in earnest about twenty years ago, when the issue of a war currency over the border sent gold up to a premium. Beginning in gold, Canadian transfers thought they must dip in too, which they did pretty heavily. Mr. King, then at the head of the Bank of Montreal, showed them all the way and took the lead in this business; and it may be no exaggeration to say that he made millions by it, for the bank, for himself and for his associates all together. A million dollars, it was soon demonstrated, would make money in three months, if placed in New York on Chicago, that is might make to Canada in a year. Other banks followed suit, but Mr. King made his bank the actual "leading bank" in this business, and it came to be felt as a first-class financial power in the States as well as here. Since greenbacks came up to par gold speculation has vanished; but it seems as if Canadian operators, having once got an appetizing taste of what New York and Chicago provide for the venturesome, are loath to follow the thing up. Gold it cannot be any how; but crude petroleum will do just as well. There are Montrealers now, we believe, who are heavily interested in some large Chicago pork and lard "deals," of either present or very recent date. Business in Canada, financial and commercial together, is not big enough and has not ups and downs enough for some of our operators, and they must needs seek a larger field in which to risk their money and show their skill. "Montreal margins"—perhaps we may say "Canadian margins"—are not to be counted in as forming an important element in many American speculations in stocks and produce. We may wish it were not so, but the fact that it is so is becoming a very prominent one these days.

THE DANGER OF HIGH TAXATION IN TORONTO.

(To the Editor of The World.)

SIR: Whilst all of our citizens are anxious for the improvement and progress of Toronto, there is a constant danger of running into too much debt, and of increased taxation. This year, comparatively speaking, our taxation has been reasonable, all told for common taxes only, about 15 mills in the dollar. Yet whilst this has been the rate of our taxation nominally, it has really been more—for this reason—that our properties have been assessed too high on account of a supposed increase in their value by the putting down of block pavements and sewers.

All the property along Yonge street was raised in the assessment of 1882 at least from 5 to 10 per cent over the estimate of 1881, although it was worth no more in 1881 than in 1882, unless the increased value was caused by putting down the block pavement, which is owned by and was paid for by the owners of the real estate improved. The owners were told "if you put this pavement down you will not be taxed any more than you were, but less on account of certain allowances to be made for the usual past repairs." Yet whilst this has been told the people, assessments have been raised. This is a curious way of lessening taxation! If the assessment commissioner were to say your property shall pay only at a certain rate, (say 10 mills on the dollar) yet in a few months after assessing that property at a rate much higher than it was valued at in the prior year, where would be the saving to the taxpayers. Now is it not the case all over the city (I ask the question only) that wherever sewers and pavements are put down that the properties are immediately put up in value—so the owners are paying two ways.

Then it is not worth enquiry, whether if we are to take in such suburbs as Yorkville, Parkdale, Brockton, Riverside, and others perhaps into the city in 1883, we will not be obliged at the same time to greatly increase the taxation of the citizens, for increased police constables, for increased lights, sidewalks, drains, fire alarms, telephones, and increased payment to the fire brigade by its enlargement to numbers and efficiency; also, it may be, on the water works do not as yet pay their own costs, there will be increased taxes for them. Then if the park system is to be carried on as agitated, is it at all certain that his movement will not cause a large increase in our taxation? It is a great injury to a city

"interest is in itself, whatever lies just out of that is wrong; beyond that again all is incomprehensible, and as far as he knows might as well be non-existent." He has never cultivated his faculties of reason or imagination, having had all his opinions supplied by his leaders, hence his mind is in a very feeble condition indeed. His structure is of the simplest order; what Mr. Spencer would call homogeneous, having never worked its way from the simple to the complex. With this structure of mind it is simply impossible to go through the complicated processes required for obtaining a comprehensive view of any complex subject. Independence of thought is altogether beyond the range of Mr. Henry-head's vision and beyond the power of his conception. He has often heard the word "principles," used in connection with politics, so he thinks it is all right and he says, "Oh, I see, you have not adopted any principles yet." Principles, indeed! Bah! this old fellow does not know the difference between a principle and a parallelogram.

WHO CAN WEAR A COCKADE?

SIR: A correspondent drew attention to the fact that a number of professing christians wore in the habit of using their carriages to drive to church on Sunday, and amongst others he referred to a prominent methodist whose coachman wore a cockade. Now, Mr. Editor, as yours is the representative paper of this city, and as you have editors for all branches, perhaps you will be good enough to inform me to what classes the privilege of wearing a "cockade" belongs. Is it the successful man who has piled up money and reputation? Is it the "generous" whose father made money? or is it the man who marries money? or is it outside the money question altogether? Has, for instance, a managing director of a railway any more rights than the man who sits only by the chart? I am glad that your paper is giving attention to these matters, and as we are all getting more or less rich and consequently desirous of putting on more style, we wish to be posted, and if this "cockade" business is not limited to any particular class, then there is no reason why I should not be pompous and try and look wise and important and have a "cockade" as well as the swish and well-bred methodist before referred to.

The rule with regard to cockades is that they can only be worn by her majesty's officers of state, members of the diplomatic corps, and officers of the army on actual duty. In England a breach of this etiquette would be regarded (as much a social enormity that the delinquent would be tabooed. Here in Canada a bad example has been set, by a few people who should have known better, in introducing a custom at once invidious and foreign to the simplicity and equality of colonial life.

HUDSON'S BAY SCHEMES.

Although two or three charters have already been granted for the building of railways between Winnipeg and St. James' bay it still remains an unsettled point as to how long navigation is open in the bay. When the route that depends on the charters by speculating in gold, Canadian financiers thought they must dip in too, which they did pretty heavily. The wild scenes enacted at the various oil centres which are said to have baffled description, need not, therefore, be wondered at, and from the manner in which the oil mania has again raged during the past few days, we would not be surprised to witness a repetition of the wreckage which recently strewed this maelstrom of chance. At Pittsburg, Pa., on Friday the market was considerably agitated, being marked by frequent fluctuations. Opening strong at an advance of several cents upon the price of the day previous, it moved up to $1.15), fell back to $1.13), then up to $1.17½, and closed 42) lower at $1.12), the total sales being 2,496,000 barrels. On Saturday the market was weaker, opening at $1.14 and closing at $1.10) per barrel, from November 9th to the 25th the price of crude oil fell 50c per barrel, and since the latter date it recovered 20c. Now the total shrinkage and appreciation of prices from November 9th to date is estimated at fully $20,000,000, but despite this almost fabulous displacement of values, the actual stocks during that time have barely but little, except in the imagination of operators, thereby demonstrating the purely speculative character of the whole scheme. But some might innocently ask what has Montreal to do with crude petroleum in Pennsylvania? To that question we would simply answer that, wherever speculation is rampant, whether in wheat, corn, pork, lard, or coal oil, Montreal margins are sure to find their way.

JERSEY CITY is about to set a good example to other municipalities, and betake herself in the matter or taxation of church property. It seems that church property to the value of $3,000,000 pays not one dollar of taxes, although much of the property is used for private schools, halls for fairs, and other purposes from which a direct profit is derived. There is no equitable reason why that or any other church property should be exempt from taxation.

Should the Brethren Be Refreshed.

From the Hamilton Times.

The Toronto Freemason is opposed to having intoxicating liquors served up at lodge festivals. It says there has been too much of this kind of thing, bringing the order into disrepute. In Hamilton, we are informed, there is no cause for complaint. The entertainment supplied on festive nights is usually of a teetotal character, and those who desire to have refreshments of a different kind are left to go for them where retailed. This is as it should be.

What Was Worn by Women During the Last Century and Before.

From the Boston Record.

Undoubtedly there is much idle talk about the wonderful extravagance of ladies of the present day, their pursuit of constantly changing styles and luxuries of dress as they now do, or think they can, afford the expense. One would be led to suppose, in the absence of knowledge to the contrary, that these were things of modern growth. But just look at the "style" they used to put on in early ages and their enormous extravagance.

We are told that the ladies of Lebos slept on roses whose perfume had been artificially heightened. And in those times court maidens powdered their hair with gold.

Marc Antony's daughter did not change her dress half a dozen times a day, as do the Saratoga graces, but she made the lamperys in her fish pond wear ear-rings.

The dress of Lollia Paulina, the rival of Agrippina, were valued at $2,664,480. This did not include her jewels. She wore at her supper $1,862,000 worth of jewels, and it was a private citizen's supper. The luxury of Popæa, beloved by Nero, was equal to that of Lollia.

The women of the Roman empire indulged in all sorts of luxuries and excesses, and these were received under Napoleon I. in France. Mme. Tallien bathed herself in a wash of strawberries and raspberries and had herself rubbed down with sponges dipped in milk and perfumes.

Oriol says that in his day girls were taught to smile gracefully.

The beauties of ancient times were just as vain as modern belles, and spent the greater part of the day at their toilet. The use of cosmetics was universal among them. Aspasia and Cleopatra (models of female beauty it is said) both used an abundance of paint, and each wrote a treatise on cosmetics. Cleopatra used heavy greens to keep her hair from falling out. Roman ladies were so careful of their complexions that to protect them they wore masks. The Athenian women of antiquity were very studious of their attitudes and actions, and thought a hurried and sudden step a sign of ill-breeding.

We have certain styles of beauty nowadays; so had the Greeks. They went wild over the "ideal color"—neither sharp nor blunt, but gently undulating in its outline and losing itself gradually and almost insensibly in the fullness of the neck. The union of the two eyebrows they esteemed as a beauty. It is said they admired the air of dignity it gives to the face.

An Albanian belle of to-day presents a rather striking appearance. She is, as a rule, coifed with seed pearls and coins, and enveloped in a black serge pelisse. She uses paint on her face profusely, and her taste runs to cherry lips and cheeks and jet black eyebrows strongly drawn. An Albanian bride discards paint for a while, and if wealthy, wears a suit resembling this; Rose-colored under robes, with an over-robe of dark-green velvet, the idea being taken from a rosebud half opened in its season. Thus arrayed, the girl of handsome features is said to look really bewitching.

The Tartars despise prominent nasal appendages, and the women who have the smallest nose is esteemed the most charming, but to outside barbarians she is a perfect fright.

The women of Spiti, in India, wear tunics and trousers of woollen stuff, with large boots, partly of leather, partly of blanket, which came up to the knees, and which they are very fond of taking off at any time. In order to get greater warmth, they often put a quantity of flour into those boots beside the legs. Their taste in regard to ornaments runs much to all sorts of rings, including nose-rings.

A typical woman in the interior of Africa is thus described: "Her naked negro skin was leathery, coarse and wrinkled; her figure was tottering and knock-kneed; her thin hair hung in greasy locks; on her wrists and ankles she had almost an arsenal of links of iron, brass and copper strong enough to bind a prisoner in his cell. Here her neck were hanging chains of iron, strips of leather, strings of wooden balls and heaven knows what more besides."

A Fight With Three Bears.

From the Evansville (Ia, Renfrew) Enterprise.

One of our Wilberbros young men, who is at present still-hunting on Round lake, went out the other day to hunt deer. He had not gone far when he spied at a short distance away a large buck. Sam immediately drew a bead on the deer and dropped him, and then went to work to take the entrails out, and while thus employed the cracking of limbs in front of him attracted his attention, and looking up he saw three large bears coming towards him. Sam sprang to his feet, seized his rifle and commenced to shoot and pelt the bear with sticks and stones to frighten them away; but it was all of no avail, for they kept advancing. Sam, nervous and excited, retired back a short distance and dropped behind a log and opened fire on the bears. They seemed to have "charmed lives," for none of his bullets took any effect. After eating what they required of the deer they quietly raised their heads, sniffed the air, and with a satisfied grunt retired the way they came. When Sam emerged from behind the log and came up to the spot where he had left the buck, all he could find was the head and antlers, four feet, and the skin torn into pieces.

Investigating the Banks.

From the Monetary Times.

A rumor came the other day from Montreal, where it was said to have considerable effect on the stock market, to the effect that some new legislation is contemplated on the subject of loans on bank stocks. It is no secret that the minister of finance has a strong opinion on the subject; and we are quite prepared to believe that whatever may be necessary to make the present law effective will be done.

Thurlow Weed's Religion.

Whether previously a christian or not, Mr. Weed openly avowed himself as such on the occasion of the Moody and Sankey campaign in the hippodrome. He was a constant attendant at their meetings, and has since been a familiar figure at Mr. Sawyer's gospel temperance gatherings in Cooper union, and at Jerry McAuley's mission. Of late his time was largely spent in administering charity. He had an ample fortune, and his benefactions were generous and discriminating.

No, sir-ee.

"No, sir-ee," remarked the old resident, "my wife won't bring me a cent. But it was all my fault. I wouldn't have it ready for it. The morning of the day we were married I says to her, says I: Maria, how much money have you got? Says she, John, I've got just 25 cents.' Then,' says I 'come with me!' And I took her down to the canal and bid her throw that quarter in. I wasn't going to have no woman twitting me about spreadin' around on her money. I Loer Este is always good silks."

MONEY AND TRADE.

Canadian stocks were a little stronger.

The Duke of Manchester rose to 40 to-day, from which surprised every one. The lenders evidently determined to put a peg, that is not to let it go any lower, and as a consequence the market rapidly turned the other way.

Hudson Bay is 21, a decline of 1. It may sympathise with N W L.

The New York market was very strong, though the railway war is not yet settled.

Making Room for the Mayor.

From the Freeman.

St. Andrew's lodge, Toronto, has a very peculiar method of encouraging young masons to take an interest in the craft. All and well qualified officer—one who has discharged the duties of assistant secretary faithfully for the past two years—was thrust aside in order to give Bro. W. B. McMerrich, mayor of Toronto, the secretaryship. The members of St. Andrew's lodge have no cause to rejoice over the defeat of Bro. T. Mitchell, and the wire-pullers who successfully violated every principle of masonic justice may rest assured that they will hear further about this outrage.

THE BISHOP ON GIVING.

(To The Editor of The World.)

Sir,—I notice in your account of the bishop of Algoma's sermon in Holy Trinity on Sunday evening, that his reverend divine, while attacking some christians for an irreverent interpretation of scripture, himself advances an unscriptural doctrine as to giving money. He does not like precarious incomes for his clergy, though his divine master told His servants to go forth without scrip or purse, receiving hospitality only from those who were worthy. The apostle Paul expressly enjoins christians "to lay by on the first day of the week according as the Lord had prospered them," that is to say, to give from that which they had received—not to mortgage the future by engaging to give a fixed annual amount for a number of years as the bishop enjoins. There is no scripture for mortgaging the future, though there is for laying up treasure in heaven by dispensing of earthly possession. If only scriptural doctrine were followed in regard to giving, there would be no engagements for the future, as to amount of giving, only as to method. Nor would there be any debts on churches, or attempts to clergymen, for christians would expend only from what they had received not from what they expected in the future.

It is hoped that their flocks astray, as to scriptural doctrine, what can be expected but that if the blind lead the blind both should fall into the ditch of debt.

CORPORATION NOTICE.

Waterworks By-law.

$75,000.

Property Owners and others interested are reminded that the By-law for $75,000 for water mains will be voted upon on

THURSDAY, December 14th,

This amount is urgently required to meet the cost of renewing certain mains laid down many years ago during the Fire management, which, owing to increased consumption, are now too small and insecure for the service demanded from them; and also for mains much needed in the newly opened districts of the city, which are at present without any supply for domestic purposes and fire protection.

It must not be forgotten that ever since the works have been in the hands of the city, the property in the unsupplied sections has been taxed for its share of the expense of maintaining the Waterworks and Fire Departments, without receiving any benefit therefrom, and now that this outlying property is being rapidly built up and settled, it is but justice that it should be supplied with water in common with the rest of the city.

Should the By-law fail to meet with the support of the Property Owners, it is difficulty will arise, of which there seems but one solution, viz, the placing the amount in the estimates of next year, thus making an addition of at least a mill and a half to the rate of taxation.

It is confidently presumed that the fairer course will be sustained of spreading the payment of the amount over forty years by the issue of debentures.

On these views, therefore, your support of the By-law is requested.
