Venus will be Evening Star until July 23—then Morning Star the remainder of the year.

The Sun is in his apogee and perigee respectively, or at his greatest and least distance from the earth, once a-year—and the Moon in hers almost every 27½ days. When the sun is in perigee his distance from the earth is about ninety-three millions eight hundred thousand miles; and when in apogee, about ninety-six millions nine hundred thousand miles. The moon's distance from the earth is still more variable. When in her apogee on the 16th of May, she will be farther from the earth than at any other time during 1844; and when in perigee, on the 9th December, she will be nearer than at any other time during the year—at the former time her distance will be two hundred and fifty-three thousand miles, and, at the latter time, two hundred and twenty-two thousand miles nearly.

☞ The Tables are calculated for the Latitude and Longitude of Toronto.

ECLIPSES IN 1844.

There will be three Eclipses of the Sun, and two of the Moon.

1. A Total Eclipse of the Moon, May 31st: Opposition in Right Ascension at 5 hours and 36 minutes afternoon—Invisible here. This Eclipse goes off 23 minutes before the Moon rises.

2. A Partial Eclipse of the Sun, June 15th. Conjunction in Right Ascension at 7 hours 2 minutes afternoon—Invisible here. Visible in the South Pacific and Great Southern Oceans.

3. A Partial Eclipse of the Sun, Nov. 10th. Conjunction in Right Ascension at 5 hours 17 minutes forenoon—Invisible here. Visible only in a small portion of the Great Southern Ocean.

4. A Total Eclipse of the Moon, Nov. 24th. Visible at Toronto as follows:

Beginning 6 min. after the Sun sets, and 13 min. after the Moon rises, on the Southern edge of the Moon, at 4h. 44m. afternoon.	Middle of the Eclipse, at 6h. 39m. afternoon.
First total immersion, at 5h. 52m. do	Oppos. in R. Ascen. at 6h. 41m. do
	Last total immersion, at 7h. 25m. do
	Ending, at 8h. 34m. do

5. A Partial Eclipse of the Sun, Dec. 9th. Conjunction in Right Ascension at 2h. 51m. afternoon—Invisible here. Visible in the North Pacific Ocean and the North Western part of North America.

LORD BACON'S RULES FOR PROGNOSTICATING THE WEATHER.

1. If the new moon does not appear till the fourth day, it prognosticates a troubled air for the whole month.

2. If the moon, either at her first appearance or within a few days after, has her lower horn obscured and dusky, it denotes foul weather before the full; but if she be so discovered about the middle, storms are to be expected about the full; and if her upper horn be affected, about the wane.

3. When on her fourth day the moon appears pure and spotless, her horns unblunted and neither flat nor quite erect, but between both, it promises fair weather for the greatest part of the month.

4. An erect moon is generally threatening and unfavourable, but particularly denotes wind; though, if she appears with short and blunted horns, rain is rather to be expected.

ALMANACS.

An Almanac, in the modern sense of the word, is an annual publication, giving the following particulars:—1. The civil divisions of the year. 2. The moveable and other Feasts. 3. The times of the various astronomical phenomena; including, in the latter term, not only those which are remarkable, such as the Eclipses of the Sun and Moon, but also those of a more ordinary and useful character, such as the places of the Sun, Moon, Planets, and principal fixed Stars. 4. The times of High Water and Low Water on the sea coasts. 5. Also, such information on Weather as observation may have furnished.

The first printed Almanac that appeared in Europe was probably the "Kalendarium Novum" of a German astronomer, Johann Müller, or Regiomontanus [his adopted name], and was published for the year 1475, 1494, and 1513, the interval being an entire cycle of 19 years. The King of Hungary rewarded Müller with a present of 800 crowns of gold. The Almanac sold for 12 gold crowns. Yet the demand was so great, that the edition was speedily disposed of in Hungary, Italy, France, and England. Since that time, a chain of such productions can be traced. It is to be regretted that some of them have much encouraged, and largely disseminated, the absurd art of astrology; and it is only within the last few years that Almanac prophesiers have begun to lose their reputation. Now, the religious public discard the opinion that "Partridge," or "Francis Moore," or any other Almanac author, can predict the deaths of princes, the occurrence of wars, or the falling of rain; and believe, that, not the stationary stars of heaven, or the wandering planets, decide or influence the nativities or mortalities, the adversities or prosperities, the dispositions or characters of the children of men, but that God's providence is over all, and that "the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men."

[The present publication (begun last year, and which obtained a very large sale) is designed to supplant those vulgar, indecent, and otherwise vicious Almanacs imported largely from the neighbouring country, by persons more intent on gain than morals; and to afford, not only to the Methodist denomination, but (at the suggestion of many persons during the past year) to the Religious public generally, in the United Province of Canada, a neat, cheap, and useful little book of reference.]

TEMPERANCE SOCIETIES.—These Societies have greatly prospered, and now enrol a large part of the population of the Province. The Montreal Society has been especially zealous to promote temperance principles, by employing agents and diffusing publications. The 9th vol. of the "Canada Temperance Advocate" is now publishing, semi-monthly, at 3s. 6d. a year. A Temperance Depot is kept at No. 31, St. Francois Xavier Street, Montreal, for the sale of Temperance publications.

ANECDOTE.—Nelson, a water-bailiff, once went for advice to Mr. Abernethy, the celebrated and eccentric surgeon, having found that his stomach required some other application than that which he had been in the habit of taking. "Well," said Mr. Abernethy, who supposed that Nelson was a farmer, "what's the matter with you? you look big enough to be well." "Oh!" said the water-bailiff, "I'm very bad, indeed, doctor." "I'm no doctor," said Mr. Abernethy, "I'm a surgeon; if you want a doctor, you must go somewhere else." "I'm told as you know how to cure bad stomachs, Sir; and I'm very bad indeed; you see how swelled I am," said Nelson, holding out his paunch. "I can't cure your great guts," said Mr. Abernethy with his hands in his pockets, "you must do that yourself; don't be stuffing yourself with beer and brandy, but exercise yourself well at your farm: eat a fourth part of what you now eat, and take salts; walk about in the fields." "In the fields!" exclaimed Nelson, "bless your soul, what have I to do with the fields—why, I'm Nelson, the water-bailiff!" "Water-bailiff!" said Mr. Abernethy, "brandy-bailiff you mean,—the devil a much water goes into that body of yours—you're a good friend to the public house." "No, Sir," replied Nelson, "never since my son Jerry—him what kept 'the Sawyers,' died; I never goes nowhere to smoke my pipe." "I tell you," said Mr. Abernethy, "that if you don't stop blowing yourself out, you'll soon go and smoke your pipe with your son Jerry." Nelson then told his adviser that he would exactly follow his prescription. "Indeed! I don't expect that you will," observed the surgeon; "and if you wish to live, don't swill nor devour so much as you have done; go and buy my book, and you'll know how to get rid of your big belly, Mr. Water-Bailiff." "What, won't you let me have my pipe and pint of beer, or my glass?" said Nelson disconsolately. "You may do as you please—I can't stay with you any longer," said Mr. Abernethy; "if you do as I desire you, you'll have health."

MILITIA OF CANADA.—In Lower Canada, in 1833, the return was as follows:—88 battalions, 1,040 companies, 94,377 militia-men, from 18 to 59 years of age, and 80,004 muskets.

In Upper Canada, the following have been the returns of the sedentary Militia:—For the year 1837, 76 regiments, 43,227 men; 1838, 107 regiments, 60,807 men; 1839, 112 regiments, 66,120 men; 1840, 113 regiments, 72,475 men; showing, on the 4th June, 1840, an increased organization of 37 regiments of sedentary Militia, and 29,248 men, since December, 1837, notwithstanding the decrease occasioned by the effect of the Militia Act passed in May, 1839, which directed that the Militia of Upper Canada should be composed of men from the ages of 18 to 60, instead of from 16 to 60.

DUTIES ON IMPORTATION INTO GREAT BRITAIN.—To encourage the importation of articles of food from the Colonies into Great Britain, the Imperial Parliament has made a difference in the duties payable by the Colonies, compared with duties payable by Foreign countries. By giving Colonial produce the advantage in importation, a traffic is encouraged, which, says the Montreal Board of Trade, “promises to be of very considerable advantage” to Canada. The following are the duties payable on the principal articles:—

The Act 3 Vict., cap. 17, levies an additional charge of 5 per cent on the above duties.

Also, to encourage the Canadian traffic in Wheat and Flour with England, the duty on importation has been fixed, and made almost nominal. The following are the terms of the Act:—“Whereas, on the 12th October, 1842, an Act was passed by the Legislative Council and Legislative Assembly of the Province of Canada, and reserved by the Governor-General for the signification of her Majesty’s pleasure, imposing a duty of three shillings sterling money of Great Britain on each Imperial Quarter of Wheat imported into Canada, (except from the United Kingdom or any of her Majesty’s Possessions,) and being the growth and produce thereof: Be it therefore enacted, that from and after the 10th October, 1843, and thenceforth during the continuance of the duty so imposed by the said Act of the Legislature of Canada as aforesaid, there shall be levied and paid upon all Wheat and Wheat Flour, the produce of the said Province of Canada, which shall be imported thence into the United Kingdom, the Duties following, namely, for every Quarter of such Wheat, one shilling, and so in proportion for a less quantity. For every Barrel, being 196 lbs. of such Wheat Flour, a duty equal in amount to the duty which would hereby be payable upon 38¹/₂ gallons of Wheat, and so in proportion for a less quantity.”

CANADA SUNDAY SCHOOL UNION.—This Society is for encouraging Sunday School exertions in the Province, and keeps on hand a supply of Sunday School Books, but holds no supervision over any school, further than that a Report from such school is required annually. The excess of this charge above the proceeds of the Clergy Reserve Fund is defrayed out of the Consolidated Revenue Fund of the Province, with the exception of the sum of £469 18s. 4d., for which the Imperial Government has become liable during the year 1842, under the 8th section of the Act 3 and 4 Victoria, c. 78, guaranteeing a certain amount to the Churches of England and Scotland within the Province.

In a Letter addressed to Lord Stanley, by the late Sir Charles Bagot, it is said,—No appropriation has yet been made for "Public Worship" and "Religious Instruction," under the 3rd and 4th Victoria, c. 78, no investments having yet been effected under the said Act. The total number of Clergy Lots under lease in Canada West is 1,147, at an aggregate annual rental of £4,096 17s. 2d. Of this amount, there would only be collected, in the year 1842, including arrears for previous years, the sum stated in the above Returns, viz.:—£1,108 0s. 7d. In Canada East there are 78 Clergy Lots under lease, at an annual rental of £258 8s. 9d., of which no portion was received during the year 1842. There have also been sold, in Canada East, 8,400 acres of Clergy Lands on quit-rent, amounting, altogether, to £1,690, which, at an interest of 5 per cent., should yield annually £84 10s.; but of this amount no portion was received during the year 1842.

The following Statement shows the Amount of the Investments in the Public Funds of the United Kingdom, on account of the Sales of the Clergy Reserves in Canada, together with the Amount of the Annual Interest and Dividends derivable from those Investments:—

	Stocks, 3 per Cent.	Consols.	Annual Interest.
Investments on account of Sales in U. Canada,	£119,283	4 10	£3,578 10 0
Ditto in Lower Canada,	47,259	14 11	1,417 15 10
	£166,542	19 0	£4,996 5 10

The Reserves are now in the course of inspection, by persons appointed by the Government; and, when inspected and valued, will be offered for sale. To the present time, let the public remember, no denomination has received any benefit from the fund but the Episcopalian, Presbyterian, and Roman Catholic Churches.

DIVISIONS OF CANADA EAST.

Last year the divisions of Western Canada were given. The divisions of Eastern Canada (taken chiefly from Bouchette) are now inserted.---In Canada East there are twenty-four Municipal Districts.

Rev. Rowland Hill.—The venerable Rowland Hill, in his younger days, preaching at a village Meeting House, never failed to adapt his language and similes to the capacities of his hearers. In those days, calf-skin waistcoats were considered the most fashionable wear by country beaux, and they produced a gay effect when set off with silver buttons, an extravagance that would be satirised in this flippant and superficial age. Daniel Bath, though only a chapman and dealer, wore a calf-skin waistcoat on Sundays, and displayed it, in the capacity of clerk, in an old-fashioned chair under the pulpit, in which the Rev. Rowland Hill was preaching. "Talk of the Wesleyans being saved by their new-fangled works," said the Minister, in an audible voice, "ye might just as well tell me our friend Daniel, sitting under the pulpit, has not a calf-skin waistcoat on." After the service, Daniel declared he would rather have been in the den with the lions than so smartly illustrated; for his modesty was never before so strongly put to the proof.

The Venerable Bede says "He that cometh not willingly to the House of God, shall, one day, go unwillingly to Hell."

Secretary Walsingham,—an eminent courtier and statesman in the days of Elizabeth, in his old age, retired into privacy in the country. Some of his former gay companions came to see him, and told him he was melancholy. "No," said he, "I am not melancholy; I am serious, and 'tis fit I should be so. Ah! my friends! while we laugh, all things are serious round about us. God is serious, who exerciseth patience towards us; Christ is serious, who shed his blood for us; the Holy Spirit is serious, in striving against the obstinacy of our hearts; the Holy Scriptures bring to our view the most serious things in the world; the Holy Sacraments represent the most serious and awful matters; the whole creation is serious in serving God and us; all that are in heaven and hell are serious; how then can we be gay?"

God a Respector of Persons.—In the memoirs of the Marquis of Anjou, it is said, that the Marquis being in conversation with another about the vicious life of Prince Philip, of France, (died 1693,) and the other expressing great doubts of his salvation,—said, "God always thinks twice before he damns people of his quality."

Mr. Abernethy, the Surgeon.—In page 5 is inserted an anecdote of this eminent yet eccentric professional man. A few other anecdotes of him are here given: When consulted on a case by the ordinary medical attendant Mr. A: would frequently pace the room to and fro with his hands in his breeches' pockets, and whistle all the time, and not say a word, but to tell the practitioner to go home and read his book.—“Read my book,” was a very frequent reply to his patients also, and he could seldom be prevailed upon to prescribe or give an opinion if the case was one which appeared to depend upon improper dieting. A country farmer of immense weight came from a distance to consult him, and having given an account of his daily meals, which showed no small degree of addiction to animal food, Mr. Abernethy said, “Go away, Sir, I won't attempt to prescribe for such a hog.” He was particular in not being disturbed during meals; and a gentleman having called after dinner, he went into the passage, put his hands upon the gentleman's shoulders, and turned him out of doors. He would never permit his patients to talk to him much, and often not at all: and he desired them to hold their tongues and listen to him, while he gave a sort of clinical lecture upon the subject of the consultation.

A loquacious lady having called to consult Mr. Abernethy, he could not succeed in silencing her without resorting to the following expedient:—"Put out your tongue, madam." The lady complied. "Now hold it there till I have done talking." Another lady brought her daughter to him one day, but he refused to hear her or to prescribe, advising her to make the girl take exercise. When the guinea was put into his hand, he recalled the mother and said, "Here, take the shilling back, and buy a skipping-rope for your daughter as you go along." He kept his pills in a bag, and used to dole them out to his patients, and on doing so to a lady who stepped out of a coroneted carriage to consult him, she declared they made her sick, and she could never take a pill. "Not take a pill! what a fool you must be," was the courteous and conciliatory reply to the Countess. When the late Duke of York consulted him, he stood whistling with his hands in his pockets, and the Duke said, "I suppose you know who I am?" The uncourtly reply was, "Suppose I do—what of that?" His pithy advice was, "Cut off the supplies, as the Duke of Wellington did in his campaigns, and the enemy will leave the citadel."

Use of the Arts and Sciences.—"Scripture is of itself abundantly sufficient for us, but we are not sufficient for it without the help of arts and liberal sciences.—We cannot sufficiently conceive or declare the works of God without natural philosophy, nor law of God without moral, nor his attributes without metaphysics, nor the dimensions of the ark without mathematics, nor the songs of Zion without music and poetry; we cannot interpret the text without grammar, analyze it without logic, press and apply it without rhetoric. These it hath seemed good to the Holy Ghost to use in the penning of scripture, to show their usefulness in their opening; and who can understand or expound prophecies already fulfilled, and to be accomplished, without insight into profane history? As for knowledge of the tongues, he deserves to have his tongue cut out that dares but mutter a word against it."—(Preface to Trapp's Commentary, 1654.)

Eternity.—"I pant for eternity," said Zeuxis.—"We all, whether we think so or not," said an old writer, "pray for eternity, weep for eternity, read for eternity, hear for eternity, and act for eternity."

Original Anecdotes.—Some years ago, not many miles from Toronto, a minister, at the close of his sermon, notified his congregation that he 'published the banns of marriage between M., a man of colour, and N., a white woman,' and immediately gave out the first two lines of the Hymn,

"Let heaven and earth agree,
Angels and men be joined."

The ludicrous association created in the minds of his hearers, was very clearly expressed in their countenances.

The same minister, on another occasion, came down from the pulpit to baptize a child, and called on the parents to bring it forward; but after twice making the request and no person answering, he went up into the pulpit again, and hurriedly announced the first two lines of his Hymn,

"Thou, Lord, hast blest my going out;
O bless my coming in."

Unhallowed Curiosity.—When Augustine was once asked, what God was doing before the Creation, he answered, "Preparing Hell for impertinent querists."—Luther was wont to pray thus, "From a vain-glorious doctor, from a contentious pastor, and from unprofitable questions, the good Lord deliver his church!"

Bradford, the martyr, was wont to say, "I count that hour lost, in which I do no good by my pen, my tongue, or my purse."

"Self," said the old puritan Brookes, "is the only oil which makes the chariot-wheels of the hypocrite move in religious concernments."

Quaint, but true.—Every man—said an old writer—is to his body, a fool or a physician; and to his soul, a devil or a divine.

That divine man, Mr. Philip Henry, when he felt the most acute pain from a complicated fit of the stone and colic, said, "I am tormented; but, blessed be God, not in His flame. I am on fire; but, blessed be God, it is not the fire of Hell!"

Ignatius was wont to say, whenever he heard the clock strike, "Now I have another hour to answer for at the judgment-seat."

Eye versus Heart.—There was once a contention between the Eye and the Heart, as to which of them was the cause of sin. After long discussion, it was agreed that the heart was the cause, and the eye the occasion, of sinning. The eye being thus proved to be the most ensnaring sense, it was condemned to be the seat of tears.

Idleness.—"He that labours hard," said a hermit, "is tempted by only one devil; but he that is idle is tempted by all the devils." "Be always employed," said the laborious Greene (the old nonconformist) to a woman who complained much of the assaults of Satan, "when the devil comes to tempt me, I tell him plainly, I am not at leisure to hearken; and thus I resist him."

Pray for infidels; but never give up thy creed in compliment to them.
 If thou hast knowledge, let others light their candle at thine.

Wholesome Counsels for Persons of every Class, Sex, and Age.

A seasonable gathering, and a reasonable spending, make a good housekeeping.
 Judge not a man by his income, but by his expenses.
 Think a day before thou promisest any thing of moment.
 Money in your purse will credit you; wisdom in your head adorn you; and both in your necessity will serve you.
 Balance your expenses by the just weight of your own estate, and not by the poise of another's spending.
 A fair flower without scent, is like a fair woman without grace.
 A good word is an easy obligation; but not to speak ill requires only our silence, which costs us nothing.
 Prodigals may be compared to fig-trees growing upon a precipice, whose fruit men taste not, but crows and vultures devour.
 Make use of time if thou lovest eternity; know yesterday cannot be recalled, to-morrow cannot be assured; to-day is only thine, which if once lost, like thy soul, is lost for ever.

Be slow to choose a friend, and slower to change him; courteous to all, intimate with few; scorn no man for his meanness, nor humour any for his wealth.
If we do not subdue our temper, it will subdue us. It is the second word that makes the quarrel.
The spider's web is a net for a fly; and a flattering tongue is a trap for a fool.
If you can abide your wife's tongue, you need not fear any company.
A cat may lose a mouse and catch it again, but he that loseth time can never recover it.
In repentance of sin, sorrow bringeth comfort.
He that least sinneth is the best man, and he that never repenteth is the worst.
Into the mouth of a bad dog falls many a good bone.
Many knowing professors of religion, are like a frosty night in December, very clear but very cold.
If the counsel be good, no matter who gave it.
If thou wouldst not fear death, live a good life.

For the amusement of the juvenile readers of our Almanac, we insert

A RIDDLE—BY LORD BYRON.

I am not in youth, nor in manhood, nor age,
But in infancy ever am known;
I'm a stranger alike to the fool and the sage,
And though I'm distinguished in History's page,
I always am greatest, alone.
I am not in the Earth, nor the Sun, nor the Moon,—
You may search all the sky—I'm not there;
In the morning and evening, though not in the noon,
You may plainly perceive me; for, like a Balloon,
I am midway suspended in air.
I am always in riches, and yet I am told
Wealth ne'er did my presence desire;
I dwell with the miser, but not with his gold,
And sometimes I stand in his chimney so cold,
Though I serve as a part of the fire.
A poetic reply is requested for next year's publication.

I often am met in Political life,
In my absence no Kingdom can be: [strife,
And they say there can neither be friendship nor
No one can live single, no one take a wife,
Without interfering with me.
My brethren are many, and of my whole race
Not one is more slender and tall;
And though not the eldest, I hold the first place,
And even in dishonour, despair, and disgrace,
I boldly appear 'mong them all.
Though disease may possess me, and sickness and
I am never in sorrow and gloom; [pain,
Though in wit and in wisdom I equally reign,
I'm the heart of all Sin, and have long lived in vain;
I ne'er shall be found in the Tomb!

There are only three Monasteries in England, namely, in the Central District.

"The Laity's Directory" for 1832, gave for England 384 chapels, Wales 8, Scotland 54; showing a total of 446 chapels ten years ago, and a consequent increase up to the present time of 110 chapels, or eleven places per annum. When the progress of the population during the last decade is considered, and the advances that have been made by almost every other section of nonconformists, it may be safely affirmed that the Roman Catholics have made less direct progress than any other denomination in the kingdom.

The only public Society for home purposes amongst the Roman Catholics is "The Catholic Institute of Great Britain," established July, 1836. Its plan embraces both civil and ecclesiastical matters, as the Committee not only publish books and tracts in vindication of popery and grant sums of money to their clergy in aid of public controversies, but also engage to vindicate the civil rights of the Roman Catholics. Their receipts for these combined objects in 1842 were only 1,231/ 5s. 1d.!

ROMAN CATHOLIC SOCIETY FOR THE PROPAGATION OF THE FAITH.

The Ceuvre de la Propagation de la Foi was formed in 1822, at Lyons, by some lay members of the Romish Church, and it has now spread over nearly every country in Europe. Its objects are to assist, by prayers and alms, the Romish missions in various countries. "The bond of union amongst its members is, simply to recite a very short prayer every day, and to subscribe a half-penny a-week to its funds. Numerous indulgences have been granted by several Pontiffs to its members."

The following are the amounts collected in 1841, in the several parts of Europe on its behalf; and though their combined efforts scarcely exceed the receipts of one of the leading Protestant Missionary Societies of Great Britain, yet, when the poverty of the subscribers is considered, and the economy of their celibate missionary priests is remembered, such a result is not only expressive of a growing zeal for Popery, but may supply the means of its wide diffusion.

POST-OFFICE—GENERAL REGULATIONS.—A letter with one enclosure is double; and with two or more, if it does not weigh an ounce, is treble. Letters weighing an ounce are chargeable with four single rates; and for each quarter of an ounce above, a single rate. Letters mailed for the United States must be paid to the lines, and those intended for Europe, via New-York or Boston, must be paid to those places respectively.

The postage on letters intended for England to go by the Halifax Steamers, can be paid or not, at the option of the sender: due notice is always given at the Post-Office, and in the public Papers, of the time of closing the mail by these steamers. The mail for them that goes by way of Boston, [and on which the postage to Boston must be paid,] is in general made up a week after that which goes by Halifax. Newspapers, Magazines, and other printed papers not subject to letter-postage, must be paid at the time of mailing at the rate of one penny per sheet, or for every 16 pages: otherwise they will be charged full letter postage.

Newspapers published in the Colony can be sent to Great Britain either by way of Halifax, Boston, or New-York; by Halifax they are free of postage if sent within seven days from the date of publication,—by New-York, or Boston, the sender must pay two pence on each paper. It is recommended that the name and address of the party for whom they are intended should be written on the margin of the Paper as well as on the wrapper or cover in which they are enclosed,—this ensures their delivery in case of the cover becoming destroyed; but it is to be particularly observed that newspapers intended to go free via Halifax, must have no mark, initials, or date, but the address merely, or they will be charged full letter postage.

CASE OF PREMATURE INTERMENT.—A case of premature interment is recorded in the Apology for the Life of Mrs. Bellamy, as follows:—"Upon our arrival in Dublin," proceeds Mrs. Bellamy, "my mother and myself were very kindly received by Dr. Walker. The doctor, at this time, was writing a treatise against the Irish custom of burying the dead within a few hours after their decease. When my mother heard on what subject he was writing, she related to him the story of Mrs. Godfrey; and as soon as she had concluded it, she promised that if she should be in the same kingdom with him when he died, she would attend to the corpse, and take care that it was not entombed whilst there was the least probability of return to life." The sequel of the story is, that, some time after, Dr. Walker fell ill of fever, and "one afternoon, sending to inquire after him, the servant returned and informed her that he had died during the night, and that they were going to bury him; she added, that as they were about to shroud the body, the orifices which had been made in the arms for letting of blood had bled afresh." For reasons which are stated neither Mrs. Bellamy nor her mother could go to the doctor's that night, and they therefore sent the servant in a coach, directing that if the body was interred, to have it taken up at all costs, for they had learned that Mrs. Walker had been persuaded by her sister to leave the house and retire with her to Dunleary. The servant, while on her way, either from apprehension or love of company, contrived to take several persons with her, and, on arriving at the doctor's, found the body had been interred immediately after she had left, lest the disorder of which he had died should be infectious. She also learned, that, Mrs. Walker being a Dissenter, the body had been interred in the Anabaptist burying-ground, at the other end of the town. She proceeded, therefore, in search of the sexton, still accompanied by her friends; but, as they could not find his house, they clambered over the gate, and got round the grave, where the servant alleged she heard a groan. About day-break, by means of some labourers who informed them where he lived, they found the sexton, who, after considerable hesitation, disinterred the body; and on opening the coffin—"I shudder while I relate the horrid scene," says the authoress—"they found the body now totally deprived of life, but observed that the doctor had endeavoured to burst it open, had turned upon his side, and the arms had bled afresh. The family, however, hearing of the circumstance, the body was ordered to be re-interred, and the affair was hushed up."—Biens on Sleep

Glory not in making others drunk; what joy canst thou take in that victory where the devil wears the garland, and the reward is hell.

Drive away and never endure talebearers; whoever entertains thee with the faults of others, designs to serve thee in the same kind.

Assist the afflicted with something real, if thou canst: as for tears, they are but water; what good can they do?

In the morning think what thou hast to do; and at night ask what thou hast done.

Keep thy eyes open before marriage; and half-shut afterwards.

Look upon thy life as a stream that continually runs, and never returns.

DIRECTIONS FOR MAKING A WILL.—A Will cannot be made in language too simple or concise; must be written with Ink, on Paper or Parchment, and signed at the end by the Testator, in presence of two or more Witnesses (1), who must also add their Signatures, as in each other's presence attesting the same. The following form may suffice:—

I, George Jones, of Merton Hall, near Bradford, in the county of Wiltshire, Farmer, declare my last Will and Testament to be as follows.—That is to say, I will and bequeath into (2)..... also to (2).....&c. And as to the Residue and Remainder of my Estate and Effects (3), not hereinbefore mentioned, after payment of all just debts, Funeral and Testamentary expenses, and the aforementioned Legacies,—I will and bequeath the same to (2)..... And I hereby nominate and appoint (2)..... and (2)..... to be Executors for carrying this, my last Will and Testament, into effect.
 And, finally, I revoke and make void all other Wills and Testaments made by me at any time heretofore.

Witness my hand this present..... day of 18....
 Signed by the said George Jones, the Testator, in the presence of us, present at the same time, and in his presence subscribing our names

A Codicil in addition to a Will is subjected to precisely the same regulations as the Will itself, and may proceed thus:

This is a Codicil to my last Will and Testament, bearing date the..... day of 18., and which I direct shall be annexed thereto, and deemed a part hereof: that is to say, I will and bequeath, &c.

- Dated this day of 18.... &c.
- (1) These should be parties not interested in the Will, or their claim to such interest becomes forfeited.
 - (2) In all cases where a name is given, describe clearly the Christian and Surname, residence, and trade or profession.
 - (3) Unless otherwise provided for, the residue becomes the property of the Executors.
- Obliterating any portion, or interlining a Will, is attended with much danger; but when resorted to, should be signed by the Testator and Witnesses in the margin, or as near to the alteration as possible.

BRIEF DIRECTIONS TO EXECUTORS.—Having caused the property to be described and valued, take the Inventory, with the Will, to your executor (this should not exceed six months after decease of Testator). You may then collect the debts and satisfy all demands upon the Estate; the latter in conformity with the following order, which shows the precedence required by law:—

1. Funeral, Testamentary, and all other expenses incurred in the due execution of the Will.—2. Debts due to the Crown, on record or specialty.—3. Debts which by particular statutes are given precedence over others.—4. Mortgages, judgments, Decrees of Chancery, &c.—5. Special Contracts, as Leases, Bonds, and the like.—6. Bills of Exchange, Book Debts, and so forth.—7, and last, usually about twelve months after decease, as the Executor is liable to the claims of all Creditors, who seldom fail to declare themselves before that time,) the Legacies thereon. Great care should be taken not to pay them to parties unqualified to give a proper discharge, a Minor for example, (for whom the Legacy Act provides it may be paid into the Court of Chancery,) or a married Woman; in the latter case, the joint receipt of Herself and Husband must be taken, unless the legacy is left for her separate and especial use.

Registering Wills.—There are some persons in the Province who are not aware that every Will intended to devise real estate must be registered in the County Registrar's Office, or it is liable to be set aside by the heir-at-law giving deed of the property, and having it registered. A case was tried, at the late assizes for the Talbot District, 1843, before Chief-Justice Robinson, in which property was lost by this neglect.

POSTSCRIPT.—Since we went to press, the following gentlemen have been added to the Legislative Council:—Rene Joseph Kimber, Louis Massue, Pierre Boucher deoucherville.—For the County of Champlain, Henry Judah is returned.
