TRACY IS DEAD

The Notorious Outlaw Rounded Up His Life in His Own Wild Way

Fatally Wounded, He Put a Revolver to His Head and Blew Out His Brains.

Game to the End, the Slayer of Many Men Defied all Attempts at His Capture and Allowed No Man to Get the Brop On Him.

SPOKANE, Washn., Aug. 6.—Harry made a leap for the barn door. The pursuers stepping a bit closer commanded in Davenport. SherMs posses and others are disputing the ownership first placed the farmer and his horse first placed the farmer and his horse for two days Tracy had terrorized the occupants of the Eddy ranch in the Lake Creek country. Then five determined oitizens of Creston went after him. The posse found cover behind a large rock and for a while it looked like a siege. Then Tracy loke for a large boulder on the edge of a small wheat field, and this dash was his undoing, for just as he came to the occupants of the Eddy ranch in the Lake Creek country. Then five determined citizens of Creston went after him. The posse found cover behind a large rock and for a while it looked like a siege. Then Tracy hoke for a large boulder on the edge at a small wheat field, and this dash was his undoing, for just as he came to the rock he fell forward, a rifle bullet having broken one leg. He plunged into the wheat and his bloody trail there shows the savage determination of the man, for after receiving the wound he crawled 75 yards on his hands and knees in order to reach a spot where he could pour a merciless fire upon them. But once only was he tried to staunch his wound, falled, and with his revolver sent a bullet through his brain.

out from Creston yesterday afternoon about 2 o'clock. They were working on the information of a Goldfinch youth who had been forcibly made the companion of the Oregon convict for over 24 hours at the ranch of T. B. Eddy, on Lake Creek, about three miles south from Fellowes station on the Washington Central Railway. The party made all possible haste in get-ting to the ranch. When within a few hundred yards of the farm they encountered farmer Eddy mowing in one of his fields. While engaging him in conversation they saw a man issuing

"Is that Tracy?" asked one of the

"It surely is," replied Eddy.

The party separated, Lanter and Smith accompanying Eddy in the direction of the barn, while the other two men swung around to the other side. Two of the hunters stepped behind the barn on a slight eminence, from which they could watch everything that went en, and Eddy continued on up to the door. Tracy came from the barn and began helping his host unhitch the horses. He carried no rifle, although he had his revolvers in place.

The fugitive finally saw the men carrying rifles and turned sharply to Eddy and said:

between himself and the pursuers. He commanded the farmer to lead his horse to the barn and remain under cover, moving toward shelter. When cided to surround the place and wait for daylight.

In the meantime Sheriff Gardner with Policemen Stauffer and Gemmerin of Spokane, Jask O'Farrell of Davenport and other reinforcements had arrived on the scene, and they went into camp around the field during the night.

Shortly after Tracy disappeared a shot was heard from the direction of the wheat field. No investigation was made, however, until this morning. As soon as dawn came an entrance was made into the wheat field.

Tracy's dead body was found lying amid the grain with his face turned toward the sky. His left hand thrown over his head held a revolver, which had inflicted the death wound. The thumb of his hand was on the trigger of the pistol. His right hand, thrown acros the lower part of his body, firmly grasped the barrel of the famous rifle. Death was inflicted by a revolver held close to the forehead. The top of his head was badly shattered.

Two bullet wounds on the left leg Two bullet wounds on the left leg showed the cause of the man's despondency. One shot had broken the leg between the ankle and the knee. leg between the ankle and the knee. The other cut the tiblal artery, which of itself was sufficient to cause death. It is believed that both of these wounds were received after the convict left the shelter of the rock and made his break for the wheat field. The fugfitve had taken a strap and buckled it tight around his leg in an attempt to stop the bleeding. Despite the tightly fastened strap, the bleeding continued until he probably realized his hopeless condition and ended the struggle. He was dressed in blue overalls, a white shirt, and wore no coat or vest. He wore a bicycle cap and a pair of rough shoes. He had one rifle and two revolvers.

Sheriff Gardner of Lincoln county and his assistants arrived at the scene in time to help in the discovery of the remains, and it is said that he maintained that he and his deputies The fugitive finally saw the men maintained that he and his deputies carrying rifles and turned sharply to Eddy and said:

"Who are those men?"

"I don't see any men," said Eddy.

Tracy pointed out the two men on the hill. Eddy informed his compansion who the men were, and the outlaw the body with the understanding that

During the day the outlaw wanted his other weapons, which had been left with his bedding and travelling outfit. He sent Goldfinch after the weapons and proudly passed them around to the awe-stricken workmen. Tracy left no opening for the farmers to get the drop on him. Monday evening Tracy told Goldfinch he might go. He was cautioned, however, on pain of death not to tell what had happened until Wednesday. It was this very display of nerve that had heretofore made the outlaw apparently safe, that this time caused his ruin. Goldfinch, instead of being sufficiently terrorized to keep peace, soon spread the news and aroused a posse.

In addressing this communication to the home secretary, the King is following the traditions observed by the sate Queen Victoria when she addressed personal messages to the nation. King Edward did not drive out today. A large crowd had gathered outside Buckingham Palace in expectation of their Majesties taking a drive, and the King, who was lunching in one of the front rooms of the building, came to a window in full view of the people, who cheered him enthusiastically. The King bowed his acknowledgements.

STARTLING EVIDENCE.

Into Alleged William Doherty Seen Going Towards the Park Friday Afternoon.

All that afternoon.

Now there is a young man, John Baifd, about 19 years old, son of Charles Baird of 17 Brunswick street, picked in daylight, and it is known that while Doherty was home to din-ner on Friday he was not home to tea. The berries were, of course, eaten after dinner, and were not eaten at home. Again it is contended that in the darkness of Friday night it would have been impossible for anyone to have placed four pistol bullets so accurate-ly in Doherty's back at the distance

The police are on their mettle and are working on this case in good style. Deputy Jenkins and Detective Killen are on the go night and day tracing down every rumor and taking every step that might lead to the discovery of any evidence.

They have another witness They have another witness of Doherty's presence in the park Friday afternoon, one who not only saw him but spoke to him. At the time Doherty was rumbling about the side of the hill near the bear pit, picking berries as he went, and eating them as he picked. The man who saw and spoke to him is not in any doubt regarding the day or time, but is absolutely certain that it was on Friday afternoon.

On the other hand, those who state that they saw Doherty on Friday night are by no means certain that they are right. He is said to have been in the Opera House, but the ticket taker, who saw him, is not sure that it was Friday night. It might that it was Friday night. It migh have been Saturday. One of the polic officers also states that he saw Doher ty around the Opera House on Friday

SHOT TO DEATH

Evidence at Inquest Tells of Four Fatal Bullet Wounds in Wm. Doherty's Back.

The Wounds in His Head Were Inflicted By a Sharp Stone After Death-Evidence Points to Murder on Friday Night or Later - Letter Found Makes Possible Clue—One Theory.

Four bullet wounds in the back, each of which, save one, would have been sufficient to cause death, were discovered at the post mortem. Within the body the corresponding bullets were found. All had evidently been fired from the same pistol, one of 38 calithe murder was committed near where the body was found, the police were unable to discover any blood stains, for the bullet wounds would bleed only very slightly, and from wounds in the head indicted after death there would be no hemorrhage at all.

Act all this is of little assistance to the police in their tangled task of locating the murderer, though it has caused changes to be made in theories which had been followed. The evidence shows that it was possible for the murderous shots to have been fired close to the spot where the body was found. It also tends to put the murder at a later period than many have fixed upon.

Much has been made of shots heard by several people in the park Friday afternoon. Among others C. W. Bell states that while he was driving to the north of the lake he distinctly

The inquest began shortly after even o'clock in the county court room, which was filled with an interested crowd. The fury was impanelled by Coroner Berryman as follows: Fore-man, J. S. Armstrong; Fred Melick, Richard Rogers, David Watson, S. T. Golding, W. H. Arnold and R. B. Gil-

A. Geo. Blair appeared on behalf of Harry Beckwith of Short street, the first witness sworn, told of leaving Market square for the park about two o'clock Monday afternoon, going out by Gilbert's Lane. About 2.30 he went along Lover's Lane about 150 yards then turned off a path to the right and went in about 25 or 30 feet, where and went in about 25 or 30 feet, where he noticed a buzzing swarm of flies hovering around a pile of wood and shrubs. Opening the heap a little he saw some clothes and a man's hand. Went immediately down to a field where a man was mowing and told what he had seen. The man sent him to Mr. Henry, who came up with a cart and cart and

To Juror Watson—The body was fully covered, and the coverings were evidently placed there with intention.

Joseph Doherty, father of the murdered boy, said his son would have been 17 years old Oct. 15 next had he lived. been 17 years old Oct. 15 next had he lived. He had last seen him on Friday last at noon, when he brought witness his dinner. Was not home Friday night and had not been there since. Once last summer he had remained away from home 3 1-2 days without letting his parents know of his whereabouts. What kind of a youth was he?

"What kind of a youth was he?" asked the coroner.

"A nice, quiet, unoffensive boy, sir," was the earnest reply. "He was a queer sort of a fellow in a way. He would never tell me and his mother much about himself, and we didn't used to know much where he was or who he went with. He generally used to get home nights betweeen 11 and 12 o'clock at the latest. When I saw the body in the dead house I recognized it as that of my son by the clothes upon it. I have no idea how he came by his injuries.

Further questioning elicited the following interesting anidence.

As he did not turn up at tea time I made en-quiries and some boys on the street told me they had seen him and young Higgins in the cemetery that (Friday evening. I KNOW WHERE HE IS.

I questioned Alexander further, but he vouldn't tell me anything. Sunday came, foggy kind of a day. His mother says to me in the house that morning, "It's very queer about Willie." I said, to comfort her, "No it isn't. He's not out of town." I was not particularly uneasy, because he had been away like that he went to the transfer of the went with I didn't know areasy the History. with I didn't know except the Higgins boy. Sunday I enquired of a police-man about the boy and he said, "Oh, he'll turn up all right." To my knowledge he was always sober and never of him having any scraps with any of the boys at all.

Harry A. Knox of the Rockwood Park police said he was attending to his duties as usual on Monday. About three o'clock he was informed by Mr. Henry that the body of a man had went out to the place referred to.
When he first came off the patch he could see nothing. Then he observed a man's hand protruding from under a pile of sticks, logs, brush, etc. One of the sticks had been lifted so as to expose the hand. On the body were also heaps of broken rasphery bushes and shrubs. Continuing, the witner told of the removal of the sticks after the coroner had arrived. Under the head were several Witness had been policeman there about three months. He was on duty from 1 p. m. till 10 p. m. if everything was quiet. If there was anyone around he stayed up later. It was not uncommon to see people walking out Lovers' Lane. He had never heard any pistol shots out there. He would not necessarily know if shots had been fired. Friday afternoon he shot a crow out back of the pheasant house. He was not out the military road either Friday or Saturday. Had fever had any trouble with men or women out that road. He was sure that no cart had gone up Lovers' Lane either Friday or Saturday evening.

To Mr. Blair—The place where the body was found was outside of his beat. It was about 300 yards beyond the park line. By the look of the path outside the park it had evidently been considerably used. He had warned two or three persons whom he suspected of following couples in the park, and had not seen anything like that for months.

Dr. John Francis Macaulay, called and sworn, told of making a post mortem examination of the body of the deceased assisted by Dr. W. L. Eilis. Reading from his notes he said: The body was that of a young man I should think about 20 years of age. He was well developed, muscular, and by the appearance of his face had never shaved. At the time of his death he had been in vigorous health. Post of the body was in a fair state of pre-servation. There was evidence of com-mencing decomposition, showing the man had evidently been dead 48 or 50 hours from five o'clock Monday after-noon, when I first saw him. Upon ex-ternal examination of head and face 12 or 14 wounds were revealed, only two of which were deep. Most were only just through the skin. There was one large wound on the left side of the forehead one inch long piercing the fiesh and fracturing the bone. It exflesh and fracturing the bone. It ex-tended from over the eyebrow to the roots of the hair. The wound was harp and cleanly cut and in the fracture of the skull was found

The bones of the nose were broken and a large number of superficial wounds were all over the face. Turning the body four penetrating wounds on the back were seen, one at the angle of the left shoulder blade, another just to the left of the median line and a little he median line on the border of the last rib, and the fourth in the region over the crest of the right hip bone. These wounds were all similar and ap-parently due to bullets. Two of them

Upon probing, the probe would only penetrate any considerable distance into the second wound. There was extravasation of blood in the tissues about the wounds, showing they had certainly been inflicted before death. Then the body was opened at the chest. The left lung was perforated by a wound and a bullet was found in the lower lobe of the lung. It had penetrated about 4 inches into the subice of the lung. Removing the intestines a large hemorrhage was found in the abdomen. The next bullet was found free in the abdominal cavity just in front of the kidney, which it had perforated. Another bullet was found in the clot of blood in the abdomen. One of the bullets had passed right through to the hip bone

The burnt poles and roots and shrubs which were heaped upon the remains were thrown at one side and showed a smoothed depression where the body had lain. Blackened trees, with withered arms stiffly presented, stood in a sentinel circle around. Lone underbrush, stout weeds of all kinds, raspberry bushes with their red fruit, and tail fireweed in ranks, with gaudy purple covered the neighborhood. That was all there was to see, but those who had walked away out there started at it with awed interest.

The police and the coroner had possession in the morning and made a thorough search of every foot of the wilderness for a half mile around the scene of the crime in search of anything that might prove a clue. A special watch was kept for a revolver, or empty cartridge, but without result. The only article of any interest discovered in the morning was

A FRAGMENT OF A LETTER.

A FRAGMENT OF A LETTER, written in lead pencil, and evidently meant to convey expressions of love, as far as could be interpreted. Later in the day several more pieces were found, which when pieced into the main body made it possible to decipher a few disconnected words. The names "Joe," "Jennie" and "Winnie" were mentioned several times. The address on the envelope was written in ink, but was so torn as to be undecipherable. The post mark was East Boston, Mass. Through the afternoon the police were busy following out possible clues and interviewing anyone who might by the remotest chance be connected with the tragedy, but without any definite result.

A POSSIBLE THEORY.

The body of Doherty was found just at the foot of a mound, the other side of which sliped into a deep ravine. Down this side about 20 feet searchers yesterday found a nook which from the smoothed appearance of the grass and shrubs bore EVIDENCE OF BEING FREQUENTED more than occasionally. The branch path from Lovers' Lane led over the mound almost directly to this spot.

So some of the police hold to the theory that some man, perhaps not too sober, was down there not alone Friday or Saturday night. Doherty, in attempting to spy, makes some noise that betrayed his presence. The man who was watched, enraged at the interference, draws a reyolver, and as Doherty turns to run away, fires, and pursuled drops dead. Then in a fit of furious rage the murderer seizes a heavy fragment

A HANDSOME GIFT.

There is at the Custom House, addressed to Hon. A. T. Duon, a beautiful little organ. It is to be placed in the new Episcopal Church at Prince of Wales, and is a gift to the pastor and congregation from Hon. H. E. Cobb of Newton, Mass. The gift was sent through Hon. A. T. Dunn, who is acting for Mr. Cobb in seeing that it reaches the congregation and is placed in position free of all expense to the people. Hon. Mr. Cobb is an annual visitor to this province, having a beautiful summer place at Inglewood on the Musquash Lakes. There he hospitably entertains many friends. He has been brought in constant contact with the people of Prince of Wales, and the pastor, Rev. Mr. Bacon, has frequently held service at the camp.

Letters of administration of the estate of Alex. Morrison, who died a few months ago in the asylum, have been granted to Hon. H. A. McKeown, one of the commissioners of the asylum.

Ninetenths of the ailments we have can be traced to constipation. The bowels are for no other earthly purpose but to cleanse and keep clean and in working order our systems. Constipation is more prevalent among women than men, but it is too common in both. You may imagine you have dyspepsia, or chronic headache, or rheumatism, or heart affections, or bad blood causing eruptions—you may feel dull and ambitionless. Unless your case has been diagnosed and you know otherwise, the chances are your trouble is constipation. Laxa-Cara Tablets, if taken after meals, draw nature into her natural course and keep the bowels regular and in healthy action. Ordinarily a short treatment will prove sufficient. In stubborn cases several boxes may be needed. It is only a question of a short time, however, when the whole intestinal system will be made strong and naturally active. Then Laxa-Cara Tablets should be stopped. They come in small, checolate-coated form, easy to take and palatable. From the first day you will feel their gentle but sure effect. "On 1st day of June, 1901, we had 153 subordinate courts in this province and three companion courts. Since then we have prganized three subordinate courts, namely, Court Red Rapids, at Red Rapids, Victoria County, and another at St. Leonad's, Madawaska County, by the high secretary; and Court Campo, at Wilson's Beach, in Charlotte County, by Bro. Referring to the fact that he had been a member of the high executive since 1895, except for one year, Mr. Chapman pointed out that in 1895 there were 101 courts with a membership of 3,850; now there are 171, with nearly 7,000 members. Then there was a large indebtedness, now practically none, and there is now a substantial surplus. The

"Our record is not all bright howevery, for the mortuary statement attached to the report of the high secretary will show you that our death rate is still too high, much higher than the average death rate of the order. You will observe that forty-six of our members have died, carrying $54,000 mortu-ary benefit, less $1,500 which had already been paid in total and permanent disability benefits, and the sum of $1,500 is still unpaid pending approval.

The net amout of mortuary benefits paid amount to $50,976.20. This is considerably less than last year, when it amounted to $67,239.96. The promptness with which these benefits have been paid and the comfort and consolation that have been administered by the members gives some idea of the good our order is accomplishing. But good our order is accomplishing. But we can never know of all the good it has done, so far-reaching are the benefits in the families of our deceased

The chief ranger next referred in eloquent terms to those who have passed away, alluding especially to the late William Kinghorn, D. S. C. R. and P. H. C. R. He extended his thanks to all members of the high executive and to the members for their confidence and co-operation during his two years in office. A specially high compliment was paid to High Secretary Emmerson, for his eighteen years of able and faithful service. In conclusion Mr. Chapman urged all to labor earnestly for the extension and growth of the order.

HIGH SECRETARY'S REPORT.

High Secretary Emmerson in his report joined in welcoming the distinguished visitors to high court. Referring to the financial statement he said:
"In my opinion it was never my pleasure and privilege in the eighteen years I have had the honor of being your high secretary to submit such a satisfactory statement as the No. 4 statement annexed hereto.

"But while our finances as a high court are in such a fine state, I believe the time has come for us to adopt some measures to awaken (shall I say) the interest in so many of our courts who either allow their membership to decrease or at the best to remain practically the same year after year. It is attendance of delegates. The reports were submitted.

HIGH CHIEF RANGER'S ADDRESS.

The high chief ranger, E. R. Chapman, delivered his annual address. He welcomed in felicitous terms the S. C. R., Dr. Oronhyatekha; the P. S. C. R., Judge Wedderburn; and M. L. Durgin, H. C. R. of Maine. He then said:—

"The report to be presented by your representatives will show us that we have cause for greater confidence than ever in the principles and management of our order. On the 31st day of May, 1901, our membership was 179,472, and on the corresponding day of this year 200.181. In the same period our surplus of our order. On the 31st day of May, 1901, our membership was 179,472, and on the corresponding day of this year 200,181. In the same period our surplus has grown from $4,708.042.52 to $5,525,411.78, while there has been paid out during that time to members and their beneficiaries a sum equal to about $6,000 every day.

"I am glad to inform you that the work has been progressing favorably and from conversations I have had and from conversations I have had with the efficient high secretary of that high court.

"On 1st day of June, 1901, we had 153 ubordinate courts in this province"

The high secretary, referring to the mortuary statement, paid a warm personal tribute to the late William Kinghorn, who had attended every high court since 1889, and nearly every session of the supreme court. "His sterling maniliness and tender, loving disposition made him respected and lived by all those with whom he came in contact."

Baby's Own Tablets For Weak, Sickly Children in Hot Weather.

Thousands of children die during the hot weather months, because summer complaints and stomach troubles come suddenly, and mothers do not have the means at hand to promptly check and cure them. In homes where Baby's, Own Tablets are used, these precious little lives can be saved, and no home where there are infants and young children, should be without them.

Baby's Own Tablets will promptly cure all stomach and bowel troubles, and are a great relief to teething children. The Tablets are sold under a positive guarantee that they contain neither opiate nor harmful drug. Crushed to a powder they can be given with absolute safety to a new born babe.

Mrs. R. Ferguson, 105 Mansfield St., Montreal, says:—"I have used Baby's Own Tablets and have found them the best medicine I have ever given my children. My baby has always been small and delicate and suffered so much last summer with his teeth that I did not think he would live. Then he was attacked with dysentery, a feverish skin and a cough. As the doctors' medicine did not help him I sent for Baby's Own Tablets and they did him a wonderful amount of good, and he is now getting on splendidly. I gladly give my experience for the benefit of other mothers."

If your druggist does not keep these Tablets they will be sent by mail post paid at 25 cents a box by writing direct to

The British Institute of actu ries openly declares this fact, a he London Saturday Review in regula the London Saturday Review in its last issue declared the L O. F. to be the best of the fraternal societies and to have carried the cheapening of insurance perhaps to the utmost extreme. Referring to the organization of the Union Trusts Co. to invest the surplus funds of the order, he said Hon. Geo. E. Foster, managing director, had managed its affairs with extraordinary ability, investing all the funds placed in his control in gilt edged securities at an average of overseven per cent. (Great applause). Over half a million dollars have been so invested by the Union Trusts Co. The supreme chief said that from January 1st to July 31st over 23,000 applications for membership in the order were received. Over $800,000 had been added to the surplus, and he kooked forward to seeing the surplus soon reach ten millions.

The supreme chief ranger confered on High Secretary Emmerson the Grand Cross of the Legion of Honor amid great applause in the high court.

ST. STEPHEN, Aug. 5.-A vast audience gathered in the skating rink to hear addreses by prominent Foresters. TROUBLE AT DURBAN.

An Official Explanation of the Row Into Which Some of the Troopers Got Themselves.

DURBAN, Natal, July 4, 1902.

To the Editor of the Montreal Star:

Sir—I hope the friends and relatives of our Canadian volunteers in South Africa were not unduly alarmed when they heard that some hysterical burghers of this pretty little town had been greatly exercised by charges of rioting and other disreputable conduct made against some of their number by the newspapers. Indeed, 95 per cent. of the citizens would not have known of the pocurrence had it not appeared in double-leaded type in two contemporaries. The facts are simply these: A dozen or less of Canadians, with the assistance of as many Australians, celebrated Canada's national holiday by imbibing a little too freely of a beverage called "African punch," which the licensed and unlicensed groggeries here supply for a shilling a pot. Afterwards some of them hired rickshas, drawn by the most awful looking specimens of black humanity, horned and feathered, that the world has ever seen. These Zulus enjoyed the fun, received their poor bahs and uniting their peculiar "war whoops" with the "Won't so home till DURBAN, Natal, July 4, 1902. bahs and uniting their peculiar "war whoops" with the "Won't go home till morning" of the soldiers, convulsed the street at the time, and had it not for the "official red tape" of placing a Canadian and a New Zealander under arrest in charge of negro police the tempest in a teapot would never have happened. This naturally inhave happened. This naturally in-censed the Canadians, who attempted to rescue their comrades, when the fire hose was quickly brought out, and deluged several soldiers and a civillan or two with water; the men, being hu-man, retaliated with a few brick-bats, but did not, as charged, use firearms. Some pistol shots were fired by hooligans standing on the opposite side of the street, who did their best to pro-voke a breach of the peace by encour-aging the colonials to attack the Kafaging the colonials to attack the Kar-fir corps, but fortunately a couple of Canadian officers had arrived by this time, and at once the privates obeyed their commandants and marched to the vessel chartered to take them home. Have we not seen, sir, a hun-dred times were horseless of Royal dred times more horseplay on a Box-ing or Paardeberg nights in the streets of London, by women as well as men? The last contingent to arrive I have had the pleasure of seeing frequently, and it is generally conceded that a finer body of young fellows, as a whole, have not been seen out here. I venture before closing to add the words of a leading citizen of South Africa to a few of us the other day: "Had it not been for the splendid work of our colonial troops at a terrible orlisis in the nation's history the people in some parts of South Africa rible crisis in the nation's history the people in some parts of South Afric would be today in a very unenviable position. ENGLISH GIRLS ROMANCE

LONDON, Aug. 4.—Miss Kate War-len, whose parents reside at Pullham, St. Mary, Norfolk, while staying with some friends at Henham, who had re-latives in Canada, by way of a joke added a postscript to one of her friends's letters.

This resulted in a correspondence be-ing commenced between a young Can-adian farmer and Miss Warden, which was carried on regularly for a year, and ended in the Canadian offering marriage to his lady correspondent, whom he had never seen. whom he had never seen.

Miss Warden went to Canada, and the mail just received announces her marriage to Daniel Joseph Coston of New Brunswick.

But the that Australia is in financial straits prospect is otherwise. This is said not The immediate symptom of this state in the way of reflection on the lad who of affairs seems to be the resignation has been so cruelly murdered, and of the Governor General, Lord Hope weak lad whom his parents mourn so deeply there is a universal feeling of Our New York namesake concludes sorrow and for the afflicted family the most tender sympathy in their unspeakable grief.

But there are other lads who do not go to school and do not work, who are out late at nights, acquiring undue familiarity with a stage be yond and below them. Once in a while one of the more advanced of these commits a petty offence, and is arrested. Occasionally one of them is convicted-of a serious crime. Some go to the reformatory, and some to the penitentiary, and the ranks that are thus thinned out are recruited from the companions who have been work ing toward the inner ring. Such incidents no doubt are accepted by some of the more serious boys of the circle as a warning. The lesson of this week may prove a more effective lesson both to boys and parents. If the industrial apprenticeship no longer exists there is still the more alluring apprenticeship to ways of fully and idleness, from which too many graduate into the criminal or dependan class of the population.

THE MARRIAGE LIMIT.

The policy of a leading bank in im posing upon its staff a $1,500 marriage limit has been hastily criticized as a hardship and injustice to the em ployes. The order may be viewed in another and more agreeable light. It may be assumed that the bank does not intend to discourage matrimons and make celibacy a necessity to permanent employment. The directors would not think of denying the privilege of marriage in early life to ar ordinary man who is intelligent and industrious, and a competent work-

An ordinary mechanic may reason ably expect to be in a position to marry between the ages of twenty-pne and twenty-five, or within a year of two after he has learned his trade. Now if we take the city of St. John as a basis of inquiry we shall find by yers at any age earn more than fifeen hundred a year, and no doubt a a large majority marry on less. The average salary of married clergymen in this city is far below this figure, and throughout the province it is probfrom these facts and the new departure of at least one bank is that the bank intends to establish its sphere of influence to a higher standard of omfort and income than prevails in a right to do, so long as it is willing to pay for it. It would not be right for a bank to say that preachers or the congregation to which the preacher ministers might properly see that he has that income at the time when a bank which has the adjustment of the salaries of its staff, may well fix a marriage limit, since it has the bringing the salary to the required

But when after his appointment he asked for a larger allowance than the cor stitution provided, and then resigned because the government refused to take up the question, he showed how utterly unfit he was to represent the sovereign in the new Commonwealth Lord Hopetoun ought to have seen that the government which had undertaken to organize the administration was sufficiently embarrassed over the question of framing a common tariff and adjusting the public service to the conflicting traditions and interests of the various provinces. One would have expected from him more sympathy with the serious tasks of states ship going on before his eyes, to refrain from intruding a matter of personal or class interest. Besides, if the people of Australia chose to establish their central administration on the same moderate scale that prevails in Canada, it was assuredly not the place of the Governor General to try to lead them in the direction of more extrava gant pomp and ceremony. It sho rather be on the side of simplicity and

The New York Sup proceeds to explain the reason of the Australian financial straits. It points out that the colonies comprising the Commonwealth having a population of less than four millions, are burdened with a debt of $970.000.000. This is in proportion to population some three times the debt of Great Britain. It is nearly fou times the debt of Canada, which has larger population. The New York Sur wants to know what the state of New York, with nearly double the population of Australia, would think of debt of a thousand millions. All this illustrates the danger of suthe irrigation and other water we rule the railways pay interest on the cost. In fact, as there is no private petition, the gover

TAKE YOUR CHOICE.

The esteemed Fredericton Gleaner ccused the Sun of calling the provincial claim to the fishery award "a hazy claim." The Sun has made no such suggestion. This impartial paper has quoted with due credit the statements of Dr. Pugsley and Prenier Peters that the dominion govnment had taken some importan teps toward the settlement of this claim. It has also quoted, with due credit, the statements of Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Fielding that the doinion government has done nothing of the kind and that the matter is in he same position as at any time in the last ten years. The expres "hazy claim" is Mr. Fielding's, no ours, and the Sun does not take the sibility of Mr. Fielding's utterances. MORE TALL TIMOTHY.

J. J. MacFarland, of White Head, called at the Sun office last Saturday with a bunch of timothy stalks, the longest of which was 6 feet 2 inches. The longest brought in from Nauwige. wauk last week was 5 ft. 8 1-2 inches. White Head now has the lead, and the man who brought in a 5 foot 6 inch stem from the Sandy Point road has another trial coming to him. A man from Gondola Point is said to be going around among the tall timber on his farm looking for a 7 foot stalk, but piece of mahogany, inlaid.

Why are Jas. Buchanan & Co's Scotch Whiskies in great demand by the leading connoisseurs of the world?

Because they have been pronounced by Royal Commission to be ABSOLUTELY PURE

Because they are a perfect blend of the very finest Highland malt.

Because they have a delicate, smooth flavor, owing to the skill in blending and the maturing effects of storage for years in wood.

Because of the total absence of all traces of fusil oil. Every bottle guaranteed.

A room was immediately fitted up, although in the most humble manner, dry goods boxes serving for a platform, a washstand for a pulpit, and with a borrowed Bible he and F. W. McKenney, an evangelist, began their work. The work at once took on an impetus which led to an increasing interest and the successful maintenance of the mission with Mr. Pearson at its head, a position he had practically held up to the date of his death.

In 1886 Mr. Pearson went to Europe, remaining there nearly a year, doing revival and temperance work, securing 10,000 names to the pledge.

In politics Mr. Pearson was a republican from 1863 to 1878, and since then has been a prohibitionist.

[The campaign for the election of sheriff of Cumberland county, Me., in 1899, resulted in the election of Mr. Pearson. On assuming the duties of the office in January, 1961, Sheriff Pearson at once began a vigorous enforcement of the Maine liquor law, and from this line of action he never swerved a hair's breadth.

The confessed bribe taking of one of the deputies and the alleged bribe taking of another of them, which brought about an investigation before the municipal court, cast no stain upon the personal record of Sheriff Pearson. After the public hearing of his deputies, Sheriff Pearson was unanimously re-nominated by the prohibitionists as their candidate for sheriff, and his death leaves them temporarily without a standard bear-ex.

HEAVY RAINS

Do Many Thousand Dollars of Damage in Colorado.

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 5.—A general rain has fallen all over Eastern Colorado. In many places it amounted to a cloudburst, washing out the railroad tracks. At Torcio, forty miles from Trinidad the Colorado and Wyoming railroad depot was moved from its foundation. At Mamitou the damage from a cloud burst amounted to $10,000, while near Pueblo the damage will amount to $25,000. The rain was of inestimable benefit to crops and will reamount to $25,000. The rain was of in-estimable benefit to crops and will re-lieve the water famine in Denver and other Colorado cities for a time at least.

A PROL AND THE WALLEY OF THE RESERVE

SERMON.

A Message of Reverence and Appreciation for People Who Have Passed Life's Meridian is Contained in This Discourse by the Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage.

CHICAGO, Aug. 3.-A message of re- he forgot about those prayers he verence and appreciation for people who have passed life's meridian is contained in this discourse by Rev. Frank De Witt Talmage on the text Paalm xcii., 14, "They shall still bring forth the cold age."

fruit in old age."

Old age is a haunting specter. It has terrorized the generations past more than even the fear of death. The most hated and feared of all the Grecian philosophers was he who used to stand upon the street corners of Ath-ens frightening the passersby with these solemn words: "You will be an old man. You will be an old woman." He frightened the passersby because most people do not want to become old. They are afraid of coming to the time when they will be a burden to their children and their friends. They are afraid of the time when their earning capacity shall cease, for then, in the race of life, they will be jostled and left far behind by the speed and the strength of the younger generation. They are afraid of the years tion. They are afraid of the years when they will have to walk with a cane or a crutch or sit in an invalid chair walting for the time when the coffin maker will finish their casket and the undertaker will order their grave to be dug. To show how depressed some people are over the fact of growing old I would read a letter which I received some time ago from one of my people: one of my people:

Dear Mr. Talmage—Last night in

Dear Mr. Talmage—Last night in your sermon you stated that this is the age for young men. You did not have time to speak one word in favor of the usefulness of the old people. I was sorry. I knew of some sitting near to me who would be heavy hearted on account of their old age. This morning an aged member of your church called upon me. He said he was so depressed over your remarks last night that he upon me. He said he was so depressed over your remarks last night that he could not sleep. With tears in his eyes he said, "I wonder if old people will be wanted in heaven." Now, my dear pastor, I would like you, if possible, to preach a sermon to cheer up those who have passed the zenith of their earthly life and are sliding down the other side and nearing the landing place of eternity. You will, will you place of eternity. You will, will you letter that I am going to speak this morning to the old folks. I will gladly try to refute the popular fallacy that old age for the Christian is merely a time for tears, for physical and mental pains, and for depressing helplessness. It was a true thing that an aged minister said to Jacob A. Riis, the New York reformer, "My son, I am on the sunshiny side of 60, because I am near to the glories of heaven." The words of my text do not state than an aged Christian's twilight of life upon earth is a gloomy and a sullen sunset. ly life should be among his happiest and most useful days. Those days should be compared to the time when the orchard's branches are bending un-der the heavy load of the ripened au-

OLD AGE'S TESTIMONY.

The aged Christian is able from his own experience to testify of the pro-tecting care of a Divine Father's love. of an old man and a very young man is the difference between the words of a veteran who carries the scars, the sword cuts and the bullet wounds of many battlefields and the words of the ruddy faced youth who has not yet won his shoulder straps or seen any-thing but the recruiting officer's pathing but the recruiting officer's pa-pers. It is the difference between the experience of an old pilot of the Hugli river ,the most dangerous navigable river in the world, who has for many years guided the boats up to the wharves of Calcutta, and the experience of the cabin boy who has not yet learned how to handle a wheel. It is the difference between the diagnosis of the old, gray haired physician who has prescribed for hundreds of fever patients and the diagnosis of the young medical graduate who has just received his diploma. It is the difference between the words of the young statesman just elected to congress and the words of the first president of the United States when he was about to leave the presidential chair for the last time. When George Washington delivered his farewell address at the inauguration of John Adams, the American people did not reverence his wharves of Calcutta, and the experierican people did not reverence his words because he wielded a more tren-chant pen than Thomas Jefferson or because he was a more impassioned because he was a more impassioned orator than Patrick Henry. They reverenced his words because he spoke as one having authority. He spoke as one who had led the American armies during the darkest days of the revolutionary war. He spoke as one who had stood at the helm when the ship of state was just launched. He spoke as one who had been willing to offer his life as a sacrifice for his country's good. The American people listened to him in the same spirit with which the French audience heard the aged patriot Lafayette when the chairman introduced him with these beautiful words: "Fellow citizens, I would have words: "Fellow citizens, I would have you listen reverentially to the speaker of the day because sixty years of a noble life are about to address you."

GOD'S PROMISE TRUE.

My aged Christian friend, there may be other brains just as keen as yours.
There may be other hearts just as willing to make sacrifice for their Dord willing to make sacrifice for their Dord and Master as yours, but no Christian can as powerfully testify of the protecting care of a Heavenly Father as you can testify unless he can truly speak out of his own experience. The saint who is nearing the end of life has the clearer view of heaven. You can speak about the goodness of God from personal experience, as my father spoke to me a few years before his death by telling me this remarkable incident. When he was a young minister he used to keep a diary, in which he made a record of all the requests he a century before he found out that God had answered every one of his prayers. God had answered them with better results than even his faith at that time had dared to hope. So the aged Christian opens the book of memory. As he fingers the many soiled leaves of that book he testified how God cared for him, when he was a young man. He testifies how God cared for him when he was middle aged, and he testifies how the love of God is protecting and caring for him now that he is an old man. He testifies just as the aged psalmist testified of God's goodness when he wrote, "I have been young and now am old, yet have I not seen the righteous forsaken nor his seed begging bread."

Never let any one tell you that the ged Christian's influence is a useless influence. The Bible distinctly says, They shall still bear fruit in their old ge." No better fruit can it bring than he personal testimony of God's faith-ulness, which your children will never forget. When skeptics assail them with doubts, they will be able to say, "My father put God's promises to the proof, and he declared that he had

SUSTAINED BY THE GOSPEL.

One night in a large infidel meetin an old gray haired Christian woman arose and addressed the speaker in these words: "I would like to ask the speaker what his infidel beliefs have ever done for him? My gospel religion sustained me when I was left a poor widow with six fatherless children to support. My religion has given me hope and courage when I have had to stand by the brink of an open grave. My religion has made me a purer, truer, woman to face the struggles of life. That, sir, is what my faith in Jesus Christ has done for me. What have your infidel beliefs done for you?" The infidel could not answer. The whole audience realized that the Christian woman was speaking out of her own life's experience. So the mightlest witnesses for God are those whose Christian testimonies are the outgrowths of the many, many years that speaker what his infidel beliefs have growths of the many, many years that are gone.

The aged Christian influence for goo The aged Christian influence for good those who are near to him because he is able to lavish upon them a wealth of boundless, fervent, tender Christian affection. While we are young and even middle aged we spend most of our time doing for others rather than in showing the sweet manifestations of our affections. We are like Martha, who went into the kitchen to cook for our affections. We are like Martha, who went into the kitchen to cook for Jesus a dinner, rather than like Mary who sat at the feet of Christ.

When Jesus, sad and weary, longing

For love's sweet service, sought the sisters' door,
One saw the heavenly, one the human guest,
But who can say which loved the Master best?

While we are young or middle aged we are like the busy merchant, who spends most of his time in the store and the office in order to earn money enough to support his children, rather than like the old grandfather and the grandmother, who spend most of their says: "Father and mother, I believe you love my children better than yeu ever loved me when I was young. Anyway, you pet them far more than you ever petted me." Many a mechanic has but little time to fondle or caress his own children. He has to leave home for work before the children are out of bed. He does not return until late at night, when the babies have again been tucked away in their cribs.

A MIGHTY INFLITENCE.

Editor Brown said that it took him nearly a fifth of a century to find out how much his father loved him. When he was a boy at home, his father was always busy earning money to support the family. Sometimes he was softabsorbed, gruff and stern and seemingly harsh. But after awhile his ather's health broke down. Then the e were to many mouths to be filled there were to many mouths to be filled from his father's scant savings. The morning he left the old man walked down the road with him. Then the feeble old father put his hand upon the young man's shoulder, and tears came into his eyes and his lips quivered as he said: "My boy, I don't want you to leave home. As long as I have a crust of bread, my child, I am ready to share it with you. You had better crust of bread, my child, I am ready to share it with you. You had better come back." "Then," said Editor Brown, "for the first time in my life I realized the immensity of my father's loye. All that day a sweet throated songster kept singing in my heart: He loves me. Yes, he loves me. And when, some years later an avangelist loves me. Yes, he loves me.' And when, some years later, an evangelist compared God's love to a father's love I arose in that meeting and gave my heart to God. I knew that my earthly father loved me. Yes, I knew that he loved me." So the Christian's old age is the time when he can best demonstrate the wealth of his affection for those who are near and dear to him and when he can best influence them for good.

good over the lives of those who are nearest and dearest to him is especially true if those dear ones in turn have children of their own. I do not believe a man ever fully appreciates the love of a parent until he himself is married and has babies about his own family table. It is only after a man has had the worries and the anxieties of his own home troubling his heart, it is only after he has stood by the side of the cradle and nursed his baby boy through the awful sickness of diphtheria, it is only after he has got his own family burial plot and has dug therein a ittle grave for one of his own babies that he begins to fully appre-

THE SPIRIT OF REVERENCE,

The aged Christian is able to inspire the spirit of reverence in the hearts of many with whom he comes in contact. This spirit is a growth, and not an act. It is a germ seed which often takes years and years to develop, and not an entity which springs into being at a bound. It generally starts away back in the nursery. If the child learns to respect his mother, then it is very easy for him to learn as a boy to respect his teachers. If a boy learns to respect middle aged han respects God's aged Christian servants, then it s very easy for him to learn to respect the God whom those Christians serve and to communicate that respect to others.

Thus God uses your physical weak-nesses and your mental helplessness for a purpose. When we see you a aged Christian parent, being tenderly cared for in your old age by a loving son; when he sees that son giving you the best room in the house and the easiest armchair and the softest bed; when he es that son trying to make your l mother, by my grace, will always be true to me. I will honor him because he has honored one of my aged servants." Did not God say in his Ten Commandments, "Honor 'thy father and thy mother, that thy days may be long in the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee?"

HONOR OLD AGE.

A beautiful German story relates how one day a little girl named Jean-nette witnessed a great army review. Thousands upon thousands of specta-tors crowded round the stand, before aich the emperor was to watch the ssing regiments. While Jeannette was ated in the stand, she saw an old seated in the stand she saw an old feeble woman trying very hard to get where she could see. The little German girl said to herself: "It is not right for me to sit here when I am strong and well and can stand, while that poor, feeble old woman can see nething. I ought to honor old age as I want some one to honor me when I am old." Then she gave an her seat to the want some one to honor me when I am old." Then she gave up her seat to the old woman and went and stood in the crowd. But while Jeanmette was standing upon her tiptoes trying in vain to see a courtier of the emperor, covered with gold lace, elbowed his way to her side as he said, "Little girl, her majesty would be pleased to see you in the royal box." When the abashed child stood before the empress, she graciously said: "Come here, my daughter, and sit with me. I saw you give your seat to that old woman, and now you must remain by my side." So God honors those who honor his servants. God especially honors those who honor the aged and seemingly helpless disciples whose earthly pilgrimages are nearly ended.

The aged Christian is a living evidence that for most of us earthly life is to be very short. Therefore what we are to do for Christ we must do soon or we shall never be able to do it at all. Sixty or seventy or eighty years are a very long time to live, but most of us will never live so long. Aye, most of us will never reach even middle life, If you speak to an aged Christian, you will find that he is like a November leaf haging almost solitary and elegan leaf, haging almost solitary and alone after the thousands and the tens of thousands of autumnal leaves have been torn from their branches by the equinoctial winds. You will find that most of his contemporaries died when he was comparatively young, that near-ly all the rest died while he was in middle life and that only a few compan-ions of his youth are alive to walk by his side. The statisticians declare that a third of the human race die in infancy. At least one-third of the remainder die before 21 years of age has been reached and only six or seven per cent.
of the human family live to be 60 years of age or over. So the mere presence in this world of an aged Christian, with 93 or 94 per cent. of his contemporaries gone, is a perpetual warning that we must be about our Father's business or the death-summons will come and we shall find that we have accomplished nothing.

THE PRESENT IS THE TIME.

The PRESENT IS THE TIME.

The aged Christians pught to appeal to us in the same way that the final review of the Potomac army appealed to the spectators in Washington in 1865. In that passing army the places of the dead were kept vacant. As regiment after regiment and brigade after brigade marched past the president of the United States there were in some lines only ten or fifteen men. The vacant places showed that hundreds upon hundreds and thousands upon thousands of soldiers who went forth to battle never came back. Those ragged lines and those torn battleflags showed that there was another great army on the Potomac that day sleeping in its grave trenches. As the liftle band of aged Christians marches past us today we see that it is a mere remnant of a great host which once started out marching side by side. The white lips of the dead as well as the trembling lips of the living Christian white lips of the dead as well as the trembling lips of the living Christian veterans beside us are speaking entirely different words from those with which the Grecian philosopher frightened the trembling Athenians. The dead lips of the aged Christian contemporaries are saying to us: "Most of you will never be old men. Most of you will never be old women. Most of you will die in your youth or in middle life. Therefore, what you are to do for Christi you must do soon or you will never do tt at all"

ant to hunt up my dear wife. I all give to her your love. Then I all want to rest for the first thoushall want to rest for the first thousand years in the green pastures by the side of the still waters, with my head in the lap of my Mary."

And if some of our aged Christian friends are waiting for awhile in order to carry the latest gospel news to the dear ones on the other side of the Jordan, what will they be able to tell our fathers and mothers, our brothers and sisters, our wives and little children, who have gone beyond and are awaiting our coming? Will they be able to tell them that you and I love the Lord Jesus? Will they be able to he Lord Jesus? Will they be able to ell our loved ones that they must teep a place by their side for us in one of the heavenly mansions? Oh, my he heavenly mansions? Oh, my her and sister, I see by the tears eyes that you are anxious, aw-xious, in reference to the mesous, in reference to the mes-th our aged Christian friends all have to bear. Shall we plead ith God that our dear aged friends ay be allowed to live just a little nile longer so that we all may, hear d now give our hearts to Jesus? nen, ye aged Christian friends, carry e news as soon as you may to that right and happy land. Carry the ews that, by the blood of Christ, we en cleansed from sin. Tell n that we have all been purged with sop until we are clean, that we have en washed until we are whiter than That was a significant experience hat Archbishop Leighton had in one his illnesses. It was thought that a was dying, but in answer to the rayers of his friends, he was raised. m the threshold of the grave. But so good man did not share the glad-so of his friends. He said: "I did year t want to get well. I am an old an, and most of my friends are on e other side. In my last sickness I et I was like a weary mariner sailing ver the sea. I was coming near the arbor of peace, I could see a great ost of my departed loved ones coming down to the shore and waving to ne, and I was waving back. I could accoming their different feet. ist as I was about to enter the harbor of peace a great storm arose and I was driven back. The storm drove me far out of sight of the heavenly land. Now I must sail the weary voyage of life over again." And so, my aged Christian friends I believe that you are the favored ones. You are the Christians who will carry the message to our dear ones as well as to your own. When you go, I want you personally to take to my mo-ther and father my love, just as my father sent his love to his boy. Tell them for me that by the grace of God we all want to meet them soon.

Thus, ye aged Christians, I want you realize that the words of my text were written for you. "They shall still bring forth fruit in their old age" means that your work and usefulness will not be finished until you draw your last breath, until you take your glorious departure. I want you take your glorious departure. I want you to re-alize that your work in life is just the same kind of work as was that aged, farmer's who was planting some young farmer's who was planting some you trees one day, when a neighbor came along and said: "What are you plantng these trees for? You will never live long enough to see them grow up."
"No," answered the old man; "L never expect to see them grow up, but my grandfather planted yonder aged trees so that I could play under them and pluck their fruit, and I want to plant se trees so that my children and my children's children can eat of their fruit after I am dead." So, aged Christians, as your aged parents sweetened your life when you were young, you, by the blessing of God, are sweetening ours. May your work be to you a happy work until at last the angel of the resurrection comes to call you to your eternal reward. May we be as faithful to our trust as you, who are still faithfully bearing fruit in your old age.
