Maritime Board of Trade

Passes Resolution at Instance of E. H. Armstrong, M.P. of Yarmouth, Urging I. C. R. to Acquire D. A. R. and H. S. W.

E. H. Armstrong, M. P., of Yarmouth, brought up the question of the I. C. R. acquiring western railroads. He said the question of transportation is becoming very important and Western Nova Scotia is not receiving the attention it should. All railway systems should be consolidated. The three systems should be one in order to accommodate trade. One management would mean one rate, more efficiency and more economy.

The principle of absorbing branch lines has been already followed by the government and the I. C. R. must gain by having feeders. Other railroads are constantly acquiring feeders and the I. C. R. should do likewise.

H. Logan, M. P., of Amherst, said that the I. C. R. should not only acquire, but should build branch lines. If it does not, it had better be owned by a private company which would expand. It is the policy of United States roads to absorb branch lines. The C. P. R. gets more freight from feeders in Nova Scotia than the I. C. R. This is not in the interests of the people.

THE UNEXPECTED MAY BE EXPECTED.

Hon. H. R. Emmerson said he had given considerable attention to the subject. The transportation question in Eastern Canada is so complicated that the unexpected may be looked for to happen. He agreed with the principle and would like to see the policy applied to every province entered by the I. C. R.

Prince Edward Island should also be connected by rail and without indulging in prophetic visions, but he believed that if the policy of acquiring feeders is not followed in eight or ten months, within five years the I. C. R. will cease to be an account of being short of its usefulness. It will become a financial failure if feeders are not acquired and built. He said he was heart and soul with the resolution, and he believed that only by adopting such a policy can the I. C. R. hold its own. Rome was not built in a day, but the scheme will be practicable within the next few years.

W. B. Snowball was in favor of acquisition and building branch lines.

THE TUNNEL SHOULD BE BUILT.

Mr. McNeil, of P. E. Island, said the tunnel should also be included in the resolution. Mr. Snowball said that solitude made brains and he was afraid a tunnel would deprive the P. E. Islanders of their solace and destroy the crop of college professors. Mr. McNeil retorted that the mainland might be badly in need of brains in mid-winter, and the island could not get them over with the tunnel. Loud applause greeted the apt remark.

The resolution was passed. It asks into the question of acquiring by purchase the government to at once ink chase or lease, the railways of Western Nova Scotia and operate them as a part of the Intercolonial system.

GOVERNMENT GRANTS FOR HIGHWAYS.

A resolution was passed in favor of large government grants for the improvement of the highways in the maritime provinces. The resolution was heartily supported by the band as a body and it was agreed that the time had arrived when some of the money spent on new railroads might be diverted to the roads.

The board unanimously favored the placing of adequate insurance on the stocks of retail merchants in order to secure wholesale creditors against loss.

THE EXPORTATION OF PULPWOOD.

B. M. Calkin, of Kentville, moved the following resolution which was recommended:

"Resolved, that this board is of the opinion that the exportation of pulp and pulp wood from Canada should be prohibited by the federal government."

Mr. Calkin said the most should be made of our forest wealth. The United States is after our forest wealth and is saving its own.

W. B. Snowball, of Chatham, seconded the motion.

It was stated that in 1905 the United States used 3,000,000 cords of pulp wood. Last year 350,000,000 cords were used, of which 1,200,000 came from Canada. We get 75 cents a cord for the cut wood, whereas $3.90 more would be expended if the pulp were made up here.

J. H. Morse, of Berwick, also spoke on the question and the resolution was passed.

RATES ON APPLE SHIPMENTS.

The following resolution was passed at the instance of the Kentville board:

"Whereas, it is known that the steamship companies are making private arrangements with speculators and foreign apple receivers at home or abroad;

"Therefore resolved, that the government be requested to compel steamship companies to advertise an equal rate for all under similar circumstances, and any steamship company departing from such advertised rate shall be deprived of their subsidy by the government."

The Pictou resolution favoring a united effort by the maritime board of trade to secure a reduction in the telephone toll rates throughout the provinces was passed unanimously.

THE TIDES OF BAY OF FUNDY.

Mr. Starr, from Wolfville, and E. M. Beckwith, of Canning, moved the following resolution:

"That the Dominion government be asked to offer a prize for the best scheme to make possible the continuous use of tidal rivers of the Basin of Minas and Bay of Fundy, for the development of power for manufacturing and electrical purposes; and that the Nova Scotia and New Brunswick governments be asked to endorse the scheme."

Professor Andrews, of Sackville, said that there were 1,000 Niagaras in the Bay of Fundy. While the direct vicinity would benefit greatly, the maritime provinces could all gain great advantage. His idea, like Mr. Starr's, was to use compressed air.

Fernie Disaster

A Colchester boy writing home from Fernie, gives a very vivid description of the recent fire.

"One of these is enough in a lifetime. I don't understand why the people didn't get nervous sooner, for right after dinner it got dark and the air was full of fire ashes. A little after three I left the office. Seeing things getting critical, I went home, fired most of my stuff into my trunks and got them out and lugged them out near the Coal Co's office, which were right near in a kind of open space. They took most of the women and kids out of town in teams right at first before the fire really got into the town. The rest of them, about four hundred, gathered around the offices, although a lot wouldn't stay there, thinking the building couldn't be saved. For a long while I didn't think it could be, and if it had gone, I imagine half the people there would have been burnt to death as the fire was all around. The wind was a perfect hurricane, coming from the west and I don't think it was more than two hours and a half wiping up the town."

SCHOONER LAUNCHED AT GRANVILLE FERRY.

Annapolis, N. S., Aug. 19.—There was launched today from the shipyard of A. D. Mills and Sons, Granville Ferry, a schooner of fast sailing lines of about 200 tons register, called the "Katharine V. Mills." The vessel was designed and built by John Wagstaff, of Granville Ferry, a well known builder and designer for the firm of A. D. Mills and Sons, and is a fine specimen of marine architecture. Her dimensions are 106 feet keel, width 30 feet, and depth of hold 11 feet. She will be commanded by Captain E. A. Sarty, and will be engaged in the West India trade.

Scottish Agriculturalists

(Wolfville Acadian.)

Our province was visited this week by a party of gentlemen, numbering twenty-five, thoroughly representative of every district in Scotland. The Scottish Agricultural Commission to Canada, as the party is known, is composed of practical farmers and others interested in agricultural education and development, and their purpose is to follow throughout Canada the course of observation and enquiry which the similarly constituted commission followed in Denmark in 1904 and in Ireland in 1906, and who intend to publish a report as was done in both these cases.

The main subjects of study are Land Settlement, the Constitution and Operations of the Ministry of Agriculture, Agricultural Education and Research, Experimental Farms Live Stock, Mixed Farming, Wheat Farming, Dairying, Rancheing, Fruit and Vegetable Farming, Agricultural Co-operation, Transit, Cold Storage and Markets, etc.

The members of the Commission are drawn from all regions of Scotland, and the gentleman who are selected by the members to be their chairman is Dr. T. Carlaw Martin an alumnus of the Edinburgh University, and Editor-in-Chief of the Dundee Advertiser, the principal Scottish newspaper in Liberal politics, and an important organ of agricultural affairs. Dr. Martin, who is perhaps the most outstanding figure of the party, visited Canada five years ago, but this was his first visit to the maritime provinces.

The party arrived at Rimouski on Thursday of last week from Liverpool, and left at once in two special pullman hotel cars for the maritime provinces, thereby starting a tour of Canada from ocean to ocean. After visiting P. E. I. and Eastern Nova Scotia, and spending Sunday at Halifax, they arrived on Monday morning at Grand Pre, where half of the party disembarked, while the rest of them went on to Kentville and Canning. Those who left the train at Grand Pre were met by Mayor Black and Mr. D. R. Munro with their automobiles and Mr. I. B. Oakes and others with teams, who drove them through Grand Pre and Gasperau to Wolfville. Several of the fine orchards were visited and the visitors expressed themselves as delighted with the general appearance and property everywhere apparent. After luncheon at the Acadia Seminary Hotel the party left for Cornwallis accompanied by citizens, and visited points of interest, joining their fellow excursionists at Kentville, in further exploration of our province and Dominion.

Young Men for the Home Market

(From Toronto Saturday Night.)

Canadians are proud of Canada. In the past ten or twelve years, the country has been making a progress second to that of no other country whatever. Before that the older provinces were raising young men and educating them for export. They were going into the western states, where many of them were extremely successful in business or in public life. But of late years it is not Chicago, St. Paul or Detroit, but Toronto, Winnipeg or Vancouver that draws the young fellow from the Ontario town or farm. At last we are raising young men for the home market. In earlier days, when our boys were crossing the boundary, they were but going where the call for young men was imperative. It is a call that will not be denied. And today it is not so much from the western states as from western Canada that the call is heard. The movement across the boundary into Canada has begun—the return movement destined to be greater in volume than the first—is already under way. The republic will pay us back with interest for the men loaned by us twenty and thirty years ago. They are coming in by rail and trail, day and night. Faith in this country grows hourly, for not a day passes but new evidence is recorded in the departments at Ottawa of the value of remote districts of the Dominion that had always been regarded as waste wilderness.

Royal Arcanum at Sackville

On Wednesday the Royal Arcanum took possession of Sackville when the Grand Council of the Maritime Provinces met in its sixth annual session in Oddfellows' Hall with Grand Regent McQueen presiding.

Some forty members gathered to attend the sitting. In the morning a considerable amount of routine business was transacted. In the afternoon came the presentation and consideration of reports and the election of officers. The election resulted as follows:—

Grand regent, Mr. Frank Powers, Lunenburg; grand vice regent, Mr. G. N. McAndrews, St. Stephen; grand orator, Mr. S. J. Huston, Moncton; grand grand regent, Mr. J. A. McQueen, Dorchester; grand secretary, Mr. J. F. Allison, Sackville; grand treasurer, Mr. C. W. Burnyeat, Moncton; grand chaplain, Rev. E. A. Hall, Dorchester; grand guide, Mr. Sydney Grey, Charlottetown; grand warden, Mr. Hiram Goudry, Yarmouth; grand sentry, Mr. T. H. Frances, Halifax; grand trustees, Messrs. J. D. McKay, Fredericton, William Crowe, Halifax, C. A. McLennan, Truro.

In the evening a large number of the members of Crystal Council, No. 480, with the members of the Grand Council and members of other subordinate councils met for the initiation of a class of new members. All together some twenty-five candidates were initiated. At the conclusion of the initiation the members of the order were entertained at a banquet at the Brunswick House given by Crystal Council. After the banquet, which was served in a manner most creditable to the hotel, a number of toasts were honored. These included The King, the President of the United States, the Supreme Council, the Grand Council, the Initiation Class, the Ladies and the Brunswick. The toast to the Supreme Council was responded to by Mr. J. Walker, of Augusta, Me., the representative of the Supreme Regent at the Grand Council meeting. During the evening a short speech was also made by Mr. A. B. Copp, M. P., who had been invited to join the members of the order at the banquet.—Tribune.

C. P. R. Running Rights Over I. C. R.

Toronto, Aug. 21.—A very significant meeting was held at the Union Station this morning, presided over by Sir Thomas Shaughnessy, President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, Mr. Osborne, General Superintendent, L. W. Leonard, General Manager of the Western Division, and some of lesser officials here. Sir Thomas arrived in his private car "Kilmurray," which was attached to the regular C. P. R. train from Montreal.

Sir Thomas after having a private conference with the other officials left on the Bruce train, in company with Mr. Osborne and Mr. Leonard. Nothing definite could be learned as to the immediate cause of the present visit of the C. P. R. President to Toronto, but the men take it as an indication that the strike situation is causing the Company's officials unwonted anxiety and necessitating unwonted activity on the part of all the officers.

There is also well grounded rumors that the question of the C. P. R. securing running rights over the Intercolonial is being discussed. Some strength is given to this theory by the presence of D. Pottinger, General Manager of the Intercolonial, in the city. Mr. Pottinger arrived early this morning, and will remain in the city for some time.

Run-down Advertising

A store's advertisements tell the people what is "doing" at that store—what is new, what is inviting, why today is a good time to visit the store. People look for the ads. to tell them these things just as naturally as they would look at a clock to tell the time.

Sometimes a clock does not run—sometimes a store's ads. does not. A "run-down" clock or ad. are about equally unsatisfactory, unserviceable, misleading.

Curious thing about it is that a merchant who would think it absurd to have a "run-down" or out-of-repair clock will, sometimes, deliberately let his ad. stop running. It's not wise, nor "good business," nor defensible on any known grounds—but, it's sometimes done.

King, Kaiser and Emperor

The Triple Alliance is a hard and fast league, the members of which are Germany, Austria-Hungary, and Italy. The Dual Alliance is a similar league of Russia and France. Great Britain some time ago arrived at an understanding with France regarding their mutual interests in Newfoundland, Egypt, and Central Africa.

More recently a similar understanding was arrived at by Great Britain and Russia regarding Persia and Afghanistan.

The philippic against Britain in the German Press show that the motive and scope of these understandings are not clearly comprehended in Germany, and now it is announced that King Edward will, on his way to his favorite watering-place in Austria, meet the German Emperor at Coburg. As he is to be accompanied by the Permanent Under-Secretary of the Foreign Office, the inference is obvious that the meeting will be at least quasi-official.

The further announcement has been made that King Edward will meet the venerable Austro-Hungarian Emperor at Ischl, in Austria. These two meetings on two successive days suggest the probability of conferences about the pending revolution in Turkey. The German Government has long taken a special interest in the Porte. Austria-Hungary has since 1878 administered, but has not possessed two large Turkish provinces, Bosnia and Herzegovina; Great Britain has held Cyprus during the same interval and Egypt for a shorter period, each being nominally part of the Turkish Empire. This condition of affairs raises some difficult and delicate questions, about which it may be useful to have some common understanding beforehand. So long as such meetings make for the effectiveness of the European "concert" and the maintenance of the world's peace the world is to be congratulated on their occurrence, the more of them the better.

IRA D. SANKEY HAS PASSED AWAY

New York, August 11.—Ira D. Sankey, known as an evangelist throughout the Christian world, died last night at his home in Brooklyn, but the news of his passing away did not become generally known until today. Mr. Sankey was 63 years old, and for the last five years he had been blind and suffering from a complication of diseases, brought on from overwork. Almost to the very last he worked at hymn writing, the gift which had brought him fame from every corner of the earth.

His tours throughout this country and Europe with Dwight L. Moody, the evangelist, brought him into wide prominence. Sankey, it might be said, wrote the gospel hymns of the world. Among Mr. Sankey's most familiar compositions are "The line-tide and nine" and "When the mist has rolled away." His songs are said to have a circulation of more than 50,000,000 copies. Mr. Sankey was a rapid composer, some of his songs being written in the afternoon and sung at the evening service.

OUR FRIENDS THE BIRDS.

It is evident that the insects of the air are well provided against if they will only encourage our aerial friends as they deserve. Birds are a most potent factor in making crop production possible. Without them we should be over-run with pests and so we should overlook their few shortcomings. They take a small amount of fruit, a few fruit trees may be disabused, in cornfields some corn is pulled up, but about the only big offence that we find it difficult to forgive is the robbing of the poultry yards by hawks and owls.

THE C. P. R. STRIKE

Management Treat Men as Dismissed Workmen.—Strikers Claim They are Holding Their Own, May Control Situation.

Montreal, August 21.—From the little likelihood of any difficulty in handling the western grain when it started moving, as by that time the company would have completely recovered from any inconvenience which was caused by so many men going out in a body.

In pursuance with its policy of treating the strikers as dismissed employees, the company today issued notices to the men to call and draw the pay for the few days they worked this month. The union, however, instructed the men not to do so, and most of them obeyed the order. This was done apparently with an idea that as long as the men did not draw their last pay they would still maintain their status as strikers instead of ex-employees.

Another despatch says:—"A large number of strike breakers have certainly been drafted into this city, but in squads of two or three, so as not to challenge any hostile demonstration. The men claim that they are holding their own, and that no strikers have gone back to work, and say that the effects of the strike are plain in the number of engines out of commission, and that the company will be greatly crippled by lack of power as soon as their operating departments feel strain of moving the crop.

The most significant feature of the situation is apparently well founded. J. H. McVety, who has charge of the strike, is working hard to organize all the various trades of the C. P. R. under a central control. Should McVety now succeed they claim they will control the situation.

Officials of the company state that they really sympathize with the men, whom they regard as misled, and regret having to permanently fill their places from outside, but that they are compelled to do so to keep the railway running, which will mean suffering for the strikers out of a job this winter. As to the strike interfering with the running of trains the company points out that since it started they have been able to take 24 special trains to the west, an average of 1,500 miles each, with 23,000 harvesters, to send cars west to handle the grain, and still to keep up with their ordinary passenger and freight business in such a manner that there have been practically no complaints.

In view of this it was stated at headquarters today that there was

Man-of-War Makes Record Trip To Save California Lumber

The great war vessel of the British navy left Quebec at 4.10 o'clock on the 24th of July and arrived at Portsmouth at 9.40 o'clock on the 2nd of August. Without allowance for difference in local time, the voyage was made in four days and seventeen hours; with the necessary time allowance it was made in four days and a half. No attempt was made to lighten the vessel for the speed trial; she carried her heavy guns, her magazines full of ammunition, and all the equipments of active service. No wonder the engineers are satisfied with the result and convinced that the steam turbine is a success. From land to land the average speed was twenty-five knots, and the voyage was the shortest ever made across the Atlantic.

The officers of the Indomitable had no unworthy motive in testing their fine vessel, nor would the Prince of Wales have been a party to any mere bluff. It was an excellent chance to test a warship that has been regarded as an experiment, and it would have been unwise to miss it. There were some risks attending the trial, of course. Fortunately there was little delay on account of fog, but many icebergs were sighted. There will now be efforts made by merchant vessels to beat the Indomitable's record, and it will be interesting to watch the results.

Fights With Animals.

From time to time we hear of thrilling fights between men who have been brought face to face with wild animals. A case occurred in India recently, when a leopard attacked the wife of Colonel Hutchinson, who being afraid to fire for fear of wounding her, tackled the brute with his bare hands.

It was a terrible fight that followed. That officer succeeded in forcing the beast away from his wife, but he was badly torn by its chisel-like claws, and he failed to reach his rifle, which lay on the ground near by. Remembering that his revolver was in his belt, he wrenched one arm free, and with a last effort, fired in the leopard's face. More by good luck than aim, he blew out one of its eyes, and then, staggering back, snatched up his rifle, and finished the beast.

No man alive has ever had so many terrible hand-to-claw tussles with wild beasts as has Mr. Charles Mayer, whose whole life has been spent in trapping wild animals.

Once, in the dense jungles of Malaya, he was unexpectedly charged by a wild buffalo, a huge creature twice as big as an average bull, with horns three feet long, and keen as spears. He stood his ground, and put three bullets into the brute as it rushed towards him. He might as well have peppered it with pellets from a pop gun. On it came, and he sprang aside just in time. Unfortunately, he tripped up and fell, and almost instantly the beast was round and at him again. There was no time to rise. All that he could do was to slash at the monster with his parang, the great, heavy razor-edged bush knife which he still held in his right hand. His aim was true, and the animal fell across the hunter, smashing his leg by its ponderous weight.

Large snakes, particularly those of the constrictor tribe, are possessed of strength almost beyond pen description. Beneath their shining scales are muscles of steel, and though boas and pythons are not poisonous, their bite is as bad as that of a wolf.

Mr. Mayer once had the luck to capture a python 25 feet long, and worth $600, and stored the reptile in his animal house at Singapore ready for shipment.

Early next morning, when he entered the house, he was amazed to see that the python had broken a board away from the top of its cage, and already a yard of its ponderous length was wriggling in the air. Without hesitation, the hunter flung himself upon the brute, and tried to force it back into its cage. As he says himself: "I might as well have tried to stop a hydraulic elevator."

The great serpent lifted him clean off the ground. He yelled for help, and three of his men came rushing in, but it took the combined strength of all four to force the monster back into its place.

Carl Hagenbeck, who is without doubt the greatest living collector of wild animals, once had a very narrow escape when dealing with a python. There were eight pythons in a cage, and Hagenbeck was moving them into a box. Six of them raved no trouble, but as he took the seventh, a ten-foot female, by the back of her neck, she attacked him.

He snatched off his hat and thrust it between her jaws, and then tried to hustle her out. But fully roused, she suddenly coiled herself around the trainer's legs, nearly paralyzing him by the terrific pressure. Then, as he struggled helplessly, the eighth python suddenly joined in.

Speaking of the fight afterwards, Mr. Hagenbeck says that the worst part of it was the foul breath of the great reptiles which steamed down upon him. He had given up hope when two of his men came to the rescue.

Another wild creature whose strength is far greater than its appearance indicates is the baboon.

INCURABLE HEART TROUBLE

LOOKED FOR DEATH IN A SHORT TIME.

Entirely Cured by "Fruit-a-lives."

"Gentlemen.—The days of miracles are not the past, and I feel that my complete recovery, from what seemed an incurable and fatal heart trouble, is a miracle. I suffered from severe indigestion and dyspepsia for nearly two years. I could not take food without fearful distress and I became almost a skeleton as the result of the suffering. I could not do any work and became so run down and weak that I could hardly walk. I was attended by two experienced doctors. They both pronounced my case heart failure and incurable, and I looked forward for death in a short time. I not only had the doctors but after they gave me up I tried many remedies and treatments but got no better."

At this time my son asked me to try "Fruit-a-lives," and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets I felt better and gradually this medicine completely cured me. I took a large number of boxes, perhaps a dozen, and now I am entirely cured and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight. I am now so well that I have sold my farm and bought 200 acres more land. I make this statement voluntarily for the sake of humanity, and I am convinced that "Fruit-a-lives" is a wonderful remedy that will cure stomach trouble where doctors and everything else fail."

(Sgd) Henry Speers, J.P.

The doctors were all wrong. Mr. Speers had what we call "irritated heart." Indigestion and dyspepsia completely upset the stomach. Poisonous gases were formed which swelled the walls of the stomach and pressed against the heart.

"Fruit-a-lives" immediately strengthened the stomach, insured sound digestion and regulated the bowels. There were no poisons—no noxious gases remained in the system, and the heart was no longer irritated. Then the pain and fluttering stopped.

"Fruit-a-lives" is put up in two sizes 25c and 50c. If your dealer has not both, write Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

MAKING THE STRAWBERRY BED.

How to manage the strawberry bed after fruiting is somewhat of a perplexing question for growers as well as for the amateur. There is also a difference of opinion as to the best methods and treatment of such beds. During an experience of 2 years I have tried almost every way that is now practiced by different growers, and am well convinced for my own practical use, considering labor and expense, the best method is for me to plant a new bed every year. After the first bearing year, as soon as we are through picking, I begin to take care of the beds by pulling all weeds and grass, before they make any seed. Let these lie on the bed in spots where there are no plants. As soon as the ground is frozen I cover the entire bed with horse manure to a depth of two or three inches. This will perhaps smother some of the plants, but there will be plenty of them left for the next year's fruiting, and those that come through into the spring will grow with as much vigor as a newly-seed plant. From a bed of one acre treated as above described I picked more berries the past season than from an acre planted one year ago. In berries, however, were not quite as large. After I finish picking a second crop, I plow everything under in July and plant to celery. The bed will then be in a high state of fertility, for the strawberry takes but little from the soil. If a second crop is not wanted the ground should be sown with crimson clover about the first of August. This should be plowed under the following spring, when the ground will be in excellent condition for planting early potatoes, beets, cabbage, or, in fact, any early vegetables. This method of growing strawberries gives me three beds to look after, two bearing beds, one and two years old, and a newly-planted one every spring, and I am of the opinion that there is less labor and expense in planting a bed every year than in trying to build up the old one year after year. Those who have not ground enough for rotation, and wish to retain the old bed, I would advise to narrow down the rows to six or eight inches in width. Where the horse and plow cannot be used it can be easily accomplished with the spade. Broadcast some well-rotted stable manure or fertilizer on the ground and rake it level. New runners will soon occupy the whole space, thus renewing the plantation. Guard against weeds and grass to the end of the season. Mulch with horse manure when the ground freezes. In the spring, when young plants start growing, dig under the old row or plants that have been used for renewing the bed. In these will be pretty well exhausted. This narrow space, when dug under, serves as a path between the renewed rows. Where the mulching or manure lies too heavily on the plants this should be raked off and left in the paths. This will keep the ground moist, and will be useful in the season of fruiting.—Strawberry, Queens Co., N. B.

DIARRHOEA CURE.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without success. I was told to try the Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Phillipian Republican, and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he had a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old can do as much work as a young man." Sold by

Everywhere throughout the country horses of the Great Cole Brothers' Show have been favorably commented on. Horsemen have pronounced them the finest collection of thoroughbred horses ever assembled. Recently in conversation, the proprietor of the Great Cole Brothers' Show said: "I pride myself on my horses, and I am sure they are the finest in this or any other county. I will always buy good horses, for a good horse is more difficult to get than many suppose. In my estimation good horses are always a part of good circus. Features, acts, and performers can always be had more readily than superior horses, such as I have. I differ with those who say a horse has no brain, but that all his intellect is instinct. The horse has reasoning power and memory, and I hold this is the outcome of brain. You can talk, and you can reason with a horse. Not one of the horses in my stable knows what it is to be struck with a whip, nor will I allow a driver to swear at a horse or shout at him in an angry tone. A horse knows when he is sworn at and does not like it. Here is another thing, a horse can tell a drunken man from a sober man, and I would just as soon see a rattlesnake in my horse tent as employ a driver who gets drunk."

JOHN D'S BENEFACTION OVERCOMES POOR WOMAN.

Finds His Old Home Burdened With Mortgage and Contributes One Dollar.

Cleveland, Aug. 11.—From his storehouse of millions John D. Rockefeller has taken $1 to help a poor couple pay off a mortgage on a two-story home of the oil king.

John D. Rockefeller stood the other day in the door of a little old cottage on a farm near Berea. It was the home of his boyhood. He had come back after all these years to find strangers living there. They were William Krause and his wife, a thrifty German couple, with 14-year-old daughter, struggling to pay a debt of $900.

Rockefeller was deeply touched by the simple story of the family. His hand instinctively sought his wallet and he slowly turned over the hundreds of twenties and tens until he found a one. This he handed to Mrs. Krause.

"Don't refuse me," he said softly, and he pressed the money into the hand of Mrs. Krause, called by Mrs. Rockefeller, No. 774-47, 392 did not go to pay the mortgage. It passed out of circulation. Mrs. Krause said she would keep it for luck. She put it in the family Bible.

Area Covered by Prohibition Wave

Dr. P. A. Baker, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, who told the people of Denver what has been accomplished by the prohibition movement, said:

"Nearly 40,000,000 people in the United States now live in prohibition territory."

Dr. Baker says his statement is based upon accurate figures compiled in the league departments, and that the number is swelling daily. Few people, he says, realize that the temperance wave has swept over the country in the past few years with such persistent vigor that now one-half the population of the United States live in territory where the saloon is forbidden.

"The temperance people of this country have been closing saloons in the United States at the rate of thirty a day during the year 1908," said Dr. Baker, "and I believe it will continue at that rate during the rest of the year. About 8,000,000 people I abolished saloons last year, and I believe that this year those figures will be duplicated. It is not fully realized by the general public that the temperance movement has been so universally successful as it has."

"Partly by State abolition of saloons, and to a greater degree by local option, the prohibition territory of the United States has been increased until there are now 40,000,000 people living in places where the saloon is forbidden. Eight states are in the prohibition list, and we hope to put more there. Last spring people living in the State of Illinois abolished 1,500 saloons in one day."

"The Anti-Saloon League is not interested in partisan politics. We have nothing directly to do with the prohibition party. Our work is carried on by the members of all parties. We have a political department, but it is not concerned with the partisan side of politics."

"I have just reached here after a trip to Salt Lake City and other places in the West. I find conditions there excellent for our cause. In Wyoming, Idaho and Utah they are working for a law that will provide for county local option, and are seeking to elect men to the legislatures who will pledge themselves to the passage of such a measure. The Mormons are in favor of the county local option movement and are working for it diligently. The authorities of the Mormon church are co-operating splendidly in this work and we are securing good organization all through the country."

INCURABLE HEART TROUBLE

LOOKED FOR DEATH IN A SHORT TIME.

Entirely Cured by "Fruit-a-lives."

"Gentlemen.—The days of miracles are not the past, and I feel that my complete recovery, from what seemed an incurable and fatal heart trouble, is a miracle. I suffered from severe indigestion and dyspepsia for nearly two years. I could not take food without fearful distress and I became almost a skeleton as the result of the suffering. I could not do any work and became so run down and weak that I could hardly walk. I was attended by two experienced doctors. They both pronounced my case heart failure and incurable, and I looked forward for death in a short time. I not only had the doctors but after they gave me up I tried many remedies and treatments but got no better."

At this time my son asked me to try "Fruit-a-lives," and from the outset of taking these wonderful tablets I felt better and gradually this medicine completely cured me. I took a large number of boxes, perhaps a dozen, and now I am entirely cured and I have gained over thirty pounds in weight. I am now so well that I have sold my farm and bought 200 acres more land. I make this statement voluntarily for the sake of humanity, and I am convinced that "Fruit-a-lives" is a wonderful remedy that will cure stomach trouble where doctors and everything else fail."

(Sgd) Henry Speers, J.P.

The doctors were all wrong. Mr. Speers had what we call "irritated heart." Indigestion and dyspepsia completely upset the stomach. Poisonous gases were formed which swelled the walls of the stomach and pressed against the heart.

"Fruit-a-lives" immediately strengthened the stomach, insured sound digestion and regulated the bowels. There were no poisons—no noxious gases remained in the system, and the heart was no longer irritated. Then the pain and fluttering stopped.

"Fruit-a-lives" is put up in two sizes 25c and 50c. If your dealer has not both, write Fruit-a-lives Limited, Ottawa.

MAKING THE STRAWBERRY BED.

How to manage the strawberry bed after fruiting is somewhat of a perplexing question for growers as well as for the amateur. There is also a difference of opinion as to the best methods and treatment of such beds. During an experience of 2 years I have tried almost every way that is now practiced by different growers, and am well convinced for my own practical use, considering labor and expense, the best method is for me to plant a new bed every year. After the first bearing year, as soon as we are through picking, I begin to take care of the beds by pulling all weeds and grass, before they make any seed. Let these lie on the bed in spots where there are no plants. As soon as the ground is frozen I cover the entire bed with horse manure to a depth of two or three inches. This will perhaps smother some of the plants, but there will be plenty of them left for the next year's fruiting, and those that come through into the spring will grow with as much vigor as a newly-seed plant. From a bed of one acre treated as above described I picked more berries the past season than from an acre planted one year ago. In berries, however, were not quite as large. After I finish picking a second crop, I plow everything under in July and plant to celery. The bed will then be in a high state of fertility, for the strawberry takes but little from the soil. If a second crop is not wanted the ground should be sown with crimson clover about the first of August. This should be plowed under the following spring, when the ground will be in excellent condition for planting early potatoes, beets, cabbage, or, in fact, any early vegetables. This method of growing strawberries gives me three beds to look after, two bearing beds, one and two years old, and a newly-planted one every spring, and I am of the opinion that there is less labor and expense in planting a bed every year than in trying to build up the old one year after year. Those who have not ground enough for rotation, and wish to retain the old bed, I would advise to narrow down the rows to six or eight inches in width. Where the horse and plow cannot be used it can be easily accomplished with the spade. Broadcast some well-rotted stable manure or fertilizer on the ground and rake it level. New runners will soon occupy the whole space, thus renewing the plantation. Guard against weeds and grass to the end of the season. Mulch with horse manure when the ground freezes. In the spring, when young plants start growing, dig under the old row or plants that have been used for renewing the bed. In these will be pretty well exhausted. This narrow space, when dug under, serves as a path between the renewed rows. Where the mulching or manure lies too heavily on the plants this should be raked off and left in the paths. This will keep the ground moist, and will be useful in the season of fruiting.—Strawberry, Queens Co., N. B.

DIARRHOEA CURE.

"My father has for years been troubled with diarrhoea, and tried every means possible to effect a cure, without success. I was told to try the Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy advertised in the Phillipian Republican, and decided to try it. The result is one bottle cured him and he has not suffered with the disease for eighteen months. Before taking this remedy he had a constant sufferer. He is now sound and well, and although sixty years old can do as much work as a young man." Sold by

Everywhere throughout the country horses of the Great Cole Brothers' Show have been favorably commented on. Horsemen have pronounced them the finest collection of thoroughbred horses ever assembled. Recently in conversation, the proprietor of the Great Cole Brothers' Show said: "I pride myself on my horses, and I am sure they are the finest in this or any other county. I will always buy good horses, for a good horse is more difficult to get than many suppose. In my estimation good horses are always a part of good circus. Features, acts, and performers can always be had more readily than superior horses, such as I have. I differ with those who say a horse has no brain, but that all his intellect is instinct. The horse has reasoning power and memory, and I hold this is the outcome of brain. You can talk, and you can reason with a horse. Not one of the horses in my stable knows what it is to be struck with a whip, nor will I allow a driver to swear at a horse or shout at him in an angry tone. A horse knows when he is sworn at and does not like it. Here is another thing, a horse can tell a drunken man from a sober man, and I would just as soon see a rattlesnake in my horse tent as employ a driver who gets drunk."

JOHN D'S BENEFACTION OVERCOMES POOR WOMAN.

Finds His Old Home Burdened With Mortgage and Contributes One Dollar.

Cleveland, Aug. 11.—From his storehouse of millions John D. Rockefeller has taken $1 to help a poor couple pay off a mortgage on a two-story home of the oil king.

John D. Rockefeller stood the other day in the door of a little old cottage on a farm near Berea. It was the home of his boyhood. He had come back after all these years to find strangers living there. They were William Krause and his wife, a thrifty German couple, with 14-year-old daughter, struggling to pay a debt of $900.

Rockefeller was deeply touched by the simple story of the family. His hand instinctively sought his wallet and he slowly turned over the hundreds of twenties and tens until he found a one. This he handed to Mrs. Krause.

"Don't refuse me," he said softly, and he pressed the money into the hand of Mrs. Krause, called by Mrs. Rockefeller, No. 774-47, 392 did not go to pay the mortgage. It passed out of circulation. Mrs. Krause said she would keep it for luck. She put it in the family Bible.

Cure Cholera Morbus

Green or over-ripe fruit will cause it. Johnson's Anodyne Liniment will cure it. An infallible remedy for all similar disorders—cramps, colic, diarrhoea, etc. A few half-teaspoonful doses of

will quickly relieve the most severe cases. It's just as sure in curing sore throat, coughs, colds, grip, bronchitis, tonsillitis, and kindred respiratory troubles. If you have a cut, a burn, a bruise or other external ache or pain, a free application of the liniment will reduce the inflammation and drive out the pain quicker than anything else. Area Covered by Prohibition Wave

Dr. P. A. Baker, general superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, who told the people of Denver what has been accomplished by the prohibition movement, said:

"Nearly 40,000,000 people in the United States now live in prohibition territory."

Dr. Baker says his statement is based upon accurate figures compiled in the league departments, and that the number is swelling daily. Few people, he says, realize that the temperance wave has swept over the country in the past few years with such persistent vigor that now one-half the population of the United States live in territory where the saloon is forbidden.

"The temperance people of this country have been closing saloons in the United States at the rate of thirty a day during the year 1908," said Dr. Baker, "and I believe it will continue at that rate during the rest of the year. About 8,000,000 people I abolished saloons last year, and I believe that this year those figures will be duplicated. It is not fully realized by the general public that the temperance movement has been so universally successful as it has."

"Partly by State abolition of saloons, and to a greater degree by local option, the prohibition territory of the United States has been increased until there are now 40,000,000 people living in places where the saloon is forbidden. Eight states are in the prohibition list, and we hope to put more there. Last spring people living in the State of Illinois abolished 1,500 saloons in one day."

WEDNESDAY, AUGUST 26, 1908.

—A Western subscriber, a Nova Scotian by birth, has taken pains to send us copies of Western papers, reporting the rowdyism of the harvesters en route for the grain fields of the west. Our subscriber evidently takes it to heart that the disgraceful conduct and scenes were enacted principally by the excursionists from the Maritime Provinces. It certainly must be humiliating to us all that our boys should get such a reputation abroad. In view of their indecent behaviour the authorities would be quite justified in refusing to accept any help from these provinces in future. Some effort should be made to prevent a recurrence of this year's fiasco. It is unfortunate for those of the excursionists who behaved themselves as respectable men should that the stigma should rest upon them in common with their associates. A Winnipeg despatch to the Saskatoon Evening Capital says:—
"The hottest and toughest bunch of harvesters that ever came from the maritime provinces reached here yesterday, it being remarked that the Ontarians show an absolute contrast. Some ten thousand immigrants arrived from the east, 5,000 on five trains on Sunday. The first trainload was distinguished by stories of looting that would have been a credit to a colonial regiment, and an indiscriminate fusillade of empty cans, bottles and other unnecessary articles aroused the ire of the many foreigners working on section and double tracking between the head of the lakes and Winnipeg. The result was seen in the last train on Sunday, which arrived with every coach window smashed, the foreigners not discriminating between harvesters and others. The actions of those on the first train caused the trains following to run a continuous gauntlet. The more timorous excursionists took to the upper berths, but the others returned the shower of rocks with a continuous fire from such revolvers as they possessed and all superfluous articles."
KIND WORDS FOR THE MONITOR.
A valued subscriber in Passaic, New Jersey, remitting for his subscription, takes occasion to remark: "I have been a subscriber for the Monitor for many years and have witnessed its growth from its first publication up to the present time, when it has become the best conducted country paper either in this country or any other."—J. A SERIOUS LOSS

The Academy of Music at Amherst, which was destroyed by fire a short time ago, was under lease to Messrs. Torrie & Winter, of Moncton, who were using it for moving picture entertainments. The day previous to the fire, H. Price Webber, the veteran show man, well known in Sackville, stored all his scenery, costumes and other paraphernalia in the theatre and his whole outfit went up in smoke. This is the second time that the veteran and genial showman has met with the loss of his outfit by fire, the former occasion being at Truro a few years ago while playing in that town, the theatre being destroyed in like manner, the company losing their entire stock of scenery, wardrobe, etc. Manager Webber's many friends will hope to hear of his early recovery from this latest catastrophe and that he will rise, Sphinx-like, from the ashes, and continue for many a season yet to entertain and amuse his thousands of patrons throughout the provinces.

BROOKS—GILLIS.

A pretty home wedding took place at Thorne Road, August 12th, at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. B. J. Gillis, when their second daughter, Alice E. was united in marriage to Mr. Louis L. Brooks, of Centrelea, the Rev. J. Reeks, of Round Hill, officiating. The bride was most becomingly attired in a travelling suit of dark blue with cream lace blouse, and carried a bouquet of white flowers and maiden hair fern. The bridesmaid, Miss Minnie Buckler, cousin of the bride, was daintily attired in lace corsage and skirt of brown, and carried a bouquet of pink poppies. The ceremony was performed in the parlor, decorated for the occasion, and was witnessed by only the near relatives of the bride and groom.

At one o'clock, the hour appointed, the bride, followed by the bridesmaid entered the parlor leaning on the arm of her father and took her place beside the groom, who, with his brother, Mr. Milton Brooks, of Westfield Mass., acting as best man, stood in waiting. After the ceremony and congratulations, a delicious luncheon was served, following which, amid the best wishes of all the friends, the happy couple accompanied by bridesmaid and groomsmen were driven to Bridgetown in A. L. Anderson's smart wedding turnout, where they took the Bluenose for a short trip to Halifax and other places in the eastern part of the province.

The bride was one of Dalhousie's most fair and highly esteemed young ladies. The community at large join in wishing her and the one of her choice all the happiness and prosperity this world can afford.

BOY MANGLED BY A MOWING MACHINE.

Guyabro, Aug. 21.—A very sad accident has occurred at Triville, about fifteen miles from this town, by which James McCourt, the four-year-old grandson of John Kennedy, nearly lost his life. It appears that Mr. Kennedy was mowing hay in his field with a mowing machine, and while he stopped for a few moments to do something to the machine, the little fellow ran around on the car side of the mower with the whip and it is supposed struck the horse with it, for the animal suddenly started ahead, the boy being caught in the mower and knocked down. Before the team could be stopped the sharp scythe had severed one of his legs above the ankle and badly lacerated one of his arms. Medical aid was immediately summoned, but not having been informed in the dispatch of the nature of the injuries, the doctor did not have the necessary instruments with him. The little fellow was at once driven to Antigonish to be operated on. A report today says that he is doing well and that he will likely recover. The boy's father is in Colorado.

The engagement is announced of Miss Lydia Munro, Bridgetown's well-known vocalist, to A. L. Siedler, of Hartford, Conn. The marriage will take place this autumn.

Geo. Bartheaux, a D. A. R. brakeman, belonging to Saw Mill Creek, broke a bone in his leg Saturday while coupling cars in Digby. The limb was set and the man sent to his home.

Ask your Annapolis friends how they liked the recitals given by Prof. James Carruthers. They will tell you not on any account to miss such a rare opportunity as you will have on Monday night.

The Royal Theatre will re-open for the fall and winter season this evening. A number of entirely new pictures will be exhibited with an illustrated song. Mr. C. L. Denton, of Moncton, is in charge.

The Inglewood Giants Base Ball team went to Annapolis Wednesday, August 19th, to play the Annapolis Royal team, a return match game but the Annapolis Royal team failed to show up on the grounds.

The Providence Methodist congregation held their annual picnic at Hampton yesterday afternoon. The day was one of the most perfect of the season, and the event was thoroughly enjoyed by young and old.

The announcement of a new mercantile business for Bridgetown will be found in our advertising columns. The Hayward Clothing Store will be opened in one of the stores of the Union Bank Building on August the 29th.

Providence Methodist Church will give another of their popular Sacred Concerts on Friday evening. Mr. R. J. Belue, who will assist, is a musician of unusual talent and much interest is taken in his appearance here for the first time.

A siding is being laid at the H. & S. W. Station, for the benefit of the Graves' Vinegar Company. A nice gravelled sidewalk from the corner of Granville Street to the station has been laid by the town, under the supervision of Mr. George Snow.

Prof. Carruthers, who gives an Education Recital at the Court House on Monday evening, under the auspices of the Young People's Christian Endeavor Society of the Gordon Memorial Presbyterian Church, is a speaker of most unusual and magnetism personality. He holds the attention from first to last.

About one hundred people took advantage of the excursion to Digby last Thursday by the S. S. Granville. The Granville left Bridgetown at 7.30, returning at 6.40, giving the party a five hours stay in Digby. Refreshments were served on the boat. Though the weather was not altogether favorable, the outing on the whole was a success, except perhaps financially, as we understand the promoters did not quite cover expenses.

The flags were flying at half-mast on the D. A. R. steamer Prince Rupert Sunday out of respect to the death of second officer McDonald, who died at the General Public Hospital on Friday night. It is strange to relate that only a couple of weeks ago Lars Carlgen took suddenly ill and died. He was second officer on the Prince Rupert, and on his demise the position was awarded to Mr. McDonald, who has only lived a short time in the position. He underwent an operation in the hospital and death resulted.—Sun.

The delegation of Scottish Tourists who are touring Canada visited Middleton last week. They were shown the MacDonald Consolidated school and other points of interest, and driven to Lawrenceville, where they boarded the train for Annapolis. Eminent preparations had been made there for the reception of the tourists which had to be very materially modified owing to a heavy rain storm. Many leading citizens, including S. W. W. Pickup, M. P., Mayor Shannon, Judge Savary and Judge Drenn, received the visitors and pointed out the memorials of historical interest.

Owners of automobiles in Truro have decided of their own accord not to run their machines on Tuesdays and Saturdays.

A very sad accident occurred at Berwick on Wednesday afternoon, when Lawrence, the twelve-year-old son of the late Harry W. Davison, received such injury while watching the machinery in the Berwick saw-mill, as to result in his death a few hours later.

At the auto and coaching parade held in Barre, Mass., last Wednesday R. H. Messenger, formerly of Centre, was awarded second prize in the class for runabouts. His automobile was decorated with scarlet ribbons and was driven by himself, accompanied by Miss Essie Weeks, of Barre.

When you buy tea it is just as easy to get the best as to get the next best. The best housekeeper cannot make a good cup of tea with tea of poor quality, but anyone by using "Salada" Tea can make a delicious and healthful drink. With "Salada" you can make more tea and better tea. At all grocers.

A fatal automobile accident occurred at Halifax last week when a big touring car driven by E. L. McDonald collided with a bicycle driven by Isaac Hutchinson, aged fifty-five years, of 80 Kempt Road, causing the latter's death. The accident occurred near the junction of Robie street and Quinpool Road.

Yarmouth Herald—A suspicious looking package, which arrived here today by the Maritime Express, was opened by the Scott Act Inspector and was found to contain liquor. As it is illegal for any company to handle these goods a test case will be made of it and an action will be entered. It was addressed to a party in Hebron.

The number of American tourists to Digby and Annapolis Royal is said to be not nearly so large this season as formerly, says an exchange. It is claimed by some that the Halifax and South Western sets the record. The visitors via the D. A. R. boats ro over that road from Yarmouth to Halifax, taking in Chester on the way.

Lieut. Governor Fraser laid the corner stone of the new Technical College at Halifax Wednesday last. The service was impressive and interesting. Several of the leading educationists of the Province made speeches, among them the Presidents of Mount Allison, Acadia and King's Universities. Dr. B. A. Falconer, of the University of Toronto, was also present.

Conductor Harry Edwards, of the Halifax and South Western Railway, was quite badly injured last week. He has the Caledonia-Lunenburg run, and at Riversdale, was knocked through a car window by the engine being backed with too much force against the passenger coach after a shunt had been made. His back was cut and his knee sprained. Another man was thrown to the floor.

The St. James Sunday School picnic was held last Friday as advertised, and all who took themselves to Hall's Island, Lawrenceville, spent an enjoyable time. The large amount of willing help from the members of the congregation enabled the management to give the children a pleasant time, and all returned by the Owl hitch in praise of their day's fun. The committee desire to thank the members of the congregation for their able assistance and also the people of Lawrenceville, who, for a second time, extended their hospitality and made the pleasant day possible.

Mr. J. Murray Lawson, proprietor of the Yarmouth Herald, is presented by Mr. C. G. Pollard, foreman of the office, on behalf of the staff, with a handsome souvenir in commemoration of the Herald's Diamond Jubilee, which was celebrated last week. The gift consisted of a beautiful and richly embossed silver plaque. Another presentation to Mr. Lawson was made by the leading business men of Yarmouth and consisted of an address and a cheque for a goodly sum. On both occasions Mr. Lawson was greatly surprised and affected, but responded in a most appreciative manner.

Prof. Carruthers, who is spending the summer at Annapolis, recently delivered a course of three lectures there, each of which drew a larger attendance than the previous one. So popular did they prove that a general request was made that a further course be given. This course is now on, the last recital being given on Friday, August 26th. So acceptable has Prof. Carruthers become wherever he is well-known that, at the present time, he has no less than twenty-eight requests to lecture in cities and towns all the way from Sydney, C. B., to Campbellton and St. Stephen, N. B. As Mr. Carruthers is able to accept only a limited number of these invitations, the people of Bridgetown therefore have a chance, vainly sought after by many larger towns.

LOCAL AND SPECIAL.

Mass will be celebrated in St. Alphonso's Church on Sunday at 11 o'clock.

The steamer Senlac is refusing to accept shipments of liquor to Scott Act counties in Nova Scotia. Fifty dollars or one month in jail is the penalty for infringements on the new act prohibiting the shipment of liquor by transfer concerns. A recent shipment of intoxicants forwarded to a Scott Act town was labeled "beef, iron and wine" and the ruse passed the watchful eyes of the inspector successfully.—St. John Times.

"One of the largest audiences seen in the Academy of Music for a long time gathered there last night to hear Rev. James Carruthers read from the Midsummer Night's Dream. Mr. Carruthers' reading, everybody knew would be natural, and in the highest sense artistic. No one who heard him was disappointed. He showed the versatility of his talents to the great pleasure of the audience which, by the way, was highly critical one."—The Halifax Herald.

Mr. D. R. Graves, of Boston, has been spending several weeks with his brother, M. W. Graves, of Graves' Vinegar Company. Mr. Graves, or Captain Graves, as he was then known, was for many years a resident of Bridgetown. In his younger days he ran the packet "A. M. Holt" between Bridgetown and St. John. He has for the past twenty years conducted very successfully a real estate business. He has two sons, and one daughter. One of the sons is in the real estate business in San Francisco, building houses for sale. Mr. Graves has had much pleasure in revisiting the scenes of his youth and renewing old acquaintances, and finds the attraction for old scenes so strong that he admits he may be tempted to return here to reside. Mrs. Graves was also here for a few days but left Monday for Nauvauk, N. B., where their daughter, Mrs. W. A. Magre has a summer home.

PERSONAL.

Miss Mary Chute, of Aylesford, spent a couple of days in town last week.

Mrs. Bert Legge and two children, of Stoughton, Mass., are guests of Mrs. Oliver Ruffee.

Mr. G. H. Dixon attended the shoot at Bedford last week. He was accompanied by Mrs. Dixon.

Rev. A. S. Lewis returned yesterday from St. John where he attended the Baptist Convention.

Mrs. Carl French, of Boston, and her niece, Miss Eva Leslie, of Bangor, are guests at the Grand Central.

Mr. J. B. Stewart, superintendent of the Boy's Institute of Industry of Boston, is a guest at the Baptist Parsonage.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson, of Roxbury, Mass., and two children, visited at the home of Mrs. Edward Marshall over Sunday.

Mr. A. R. Bishop, who is painting the interior of the Church of England at Annapolis Royal, spent Sunday at his home here.

Mr. Harold Troop, of the staff of the mechanical department of the Boston Transcript, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Troop.

Mr. and Mrs. Willard C. Chase, of Swampscott, Mass., are guests of Miss Ella Messenger, at Centrella. Mr. Chase is editor of the Lynn City Item.

Miss Bertha Taylor's friends are pleased to learn that latest reports as to her health are more favorable, and hopes of her recovery are now entertained.

Rev. E. E. Locke, of Economy, has received and accepted a call to the First and Wallace Baptist church, and expects to enter upon his new field of labor early in September.

Rev. Zenas Fash and wife have been guests recently of Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Fash. Mr. Fash has a parsonage at Hillsboro, N. B., and has recently been made moderator of the Baptist Conference.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Denton, of Moncton, are spending a fortnight at the home of the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ashby Hutchinson. They are accompanied by Mrs. J. T. Hennessy, of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Tucker, of New Britain, Conn., who have been guests of their relatives here several weeks, expect to return home on Saturday. Mrs. Tucker has almost recovered from her unfortunate accident met the day of her arrival here.

Dr. A. J. deBlais, of Chicaco, visited his uncle, Dr. L. G. deBlais, on Monday and Tuesday of this week. Dr. deBlais is an Acadia graduate who, although still a young man, has risen to eminence in his profession. Since his last visit to Bridgetown, eighteen years ago, he noticed many evidences of progress, especially in the new and handsome residences which have quite transformed the town.

BY

Richard Harding Davis.

Copyright, 1901, by Robert Howard Russell.

If he had not been a detective he would have made a great success as a poet, or a playwright.

"When Arthur turned on him Lyle hesitated for a moment, and then told him exactly what was the case against him.

"Ever since your brother was reported as having died in Africa," he said, "your Lordship has been collecting money on post obits. Lord Chetney's arrival last night turned them into waste paper. You were suddenly in debt for thousands of pounds—for much more than you could ever possibly pay. No one knew that you and your brother had met at Madame Zichy's. But you knew that your father was not expected to outlive the night, and that if your brother were dead also, you would be saved from complete ruin, and that you would become the Marquis of Edam."

"Oh, that is how you have worked it out, is it?" Arthur cried. "And for me to become Lord Edam was it necessary that the woman should die, too?"

"They will say," Lyle answered, "that she was a witness to the murder—that she would have told."

"Then why did I not kill the servant as well?" Arthur said.

"He was asleep, and saw nothing."

"And you believe that?" Arthur demanded.

"It is not a question of what I believe," Lyle said gravely. "It is a question for your peers."

"The man is insolent!" Arthur cried. "The thing is monstrous! Horrible!"

"Before we could stop him he sprang out of his cot and began pulling on his clothes. When the nurses tried to hold him down, he fought with them.

"Do you think you can keep me here," he shouted, "when they are plotting to hang me? I am going with you to that house!" he cried at Lyle. "When you find those bodies I shall be beside you. It is my right. He is my brother. He has been murdered, and I can tell you who murdered him. That woman murdered him. She first ruined his life, and now she has killed him. For the last five years she has been plotting to make herself his wife, and last night, when he told her he had discovered the truth about the Russian, and that she would never see him again, she flew into a passion and stabbed him, and then, in terror of the gallows, killed herself. She murdered him, I tell you, and I promise you that we will find the knife she used near her—perhaps still in her hand. What will you say to that?"

"Lyle turned his head away and stared down at the floor. "I might say," he answered, "that you placed it there."

"Arthur gave a cry of anger and sprang at him, and then pitched forward into his arms. The blood was running from the cut under the bandage, and he had fainted. Lyle carried him back to the bed again, and we left him with the police and the doctors, and drove at once to the address he had given us. We found the house not three minutes' walk from St. George's Hospital. It stands in Trevor Terrace, that little row of houses set back from Knightsbridge, with one end in Hill Street.

"As we left the hospital Lyle had said to me, 'You must not blame me for treating him as I did. All is fair in this work, and if by angering that boy I could have made him commit himself I was right in trying to do so; though, I assure you, no one would be better pleased than myself if I could prove his theory to be correct. But we cannot tell. Everything depends upon what we see for ourselves within the next few minutes.'

"When we reached the house, Lyle broke open the fastenings of one of the windows on the ground floor, and, hidden by the trees in the garden, we scrambled in. We found ourselves in the reception-room, which was the first room on the right of the hall. The gas was still burning behind the colored glass and red silk shades, and when the daylight streamed in after us it gave the hall a hideously dissipated look, like the foyer of a theater at a matinee, or the entrance to an all-day gambling hell. The house was oppressively silent, and because we knew why it was so silent we spoke in whispers. When Lyle turned the handle of the drawing-room door, I felt as though some one had put his hand upon my throat. But I followed close at his shoulder, and saw, in the subdued light of many-tinted lamps, the body of Chetney at the foot of the divan, just as Lieutenant Sears had described it. In the drawing-room we found the body of the Princess Zichy, her arms thrown out, and the blood from her heart frozen in a tiny line across her bare shoulder. But neither of us, although we searched the floor on our hands and knees, could find the weapon which had killed her.

"For Arthur's sake," I said, "I would have given a thousand pounds if we had found the knife in her hand, as he said we would."

"That we have not found it here," Lyle answered, "is to my mind the strongest proof that he is telling the truth, that he left the house before the murder took place. He is not a fool, and had he stabbed his brother and this woman, he would have seen that by placing the knife near her he could help to make it appear as if she had killed Chetney and then committed suicide. Besides, Lord Arthur insisted that the evidence in his behalf would be our finding the knife. He would not have urged that if he knew we would not find it, if he knew he himself had carried it away. This is no suicide. A suicide does not rise and hide the weapon with which he kills himself, and then lie down again. No, this has been a double murder, and we must look outside of the house for the murderer."

"While he was speaking Lyle and I had been searching every corner, studying the details of each room. I was so afraid that, without telling me, he would make some deductions prejudicial to Arthur, that I never left his side. I was determined to see everything that he saw, and, if possible, to prevent his interpreting it in the wrong way. He finally finished his examination, and we sat down together in the drawing room, and he took out his notebook and read aloud all that Mr. Sears had told him of the murder and what we had just learned from Arthur. We compared the two accounts word for word, and weighed statement with statement, but I could not determine from anything Lyle said which of the two versions he had decided to believe.

"We are trying to build a house of blocks," he exclaimed, "with half of the blocks missing. We have been considering two theories," he went on; "one that Lord Arthur is responsible for both murders, and the other that the dead woman in there is responsible for one of them, and has committed suicide; but, until the Russian servant is ready to talk, I shall refuse to believe in the guilt of either."

"What can you believe in him?" I asked. "He was drunk and asleep. He saw nothing."

"Lyle hesitated, and then, as though he had made up his mind to be quite frank with me, spoke freely.

"I do not know that he was either drunk or asleep," he answered. "Lieutenant Sears describes him as a stupid boor. I am not satisfied that he is not a clever actor. What was his position in this house? What was his real duty here? Suppose it was not to guard this woman, but to watch her. Let us imagine that it was not the woman he served, but a master, and see where that leads us. For this house has a master, a mysterious, absentee landlord, who lives in St. Petersburg, the unknown Russian who came between Chetney and Zichy, and because of whom Chetney left her. He is the man who bought this house for Madame Zichy, who sent these rugs and curtains from St. Petersburg to furnish it for her after his own tastes, and, I believe, it was he also who placed the Russian servant here, ostensibly to serve the Princess, but in reality to spy upon her. At Scotland Yard we do not know who this gentleman is; the Russian police confess to equal ignorance concerning him. When Lord Chetney went to Africa, Madame Zichy lived in St. Petersburg; but there her receptions and dinners were so crowded with members of the nobility and of the army and diplomats, that among so many visitors the police could not learn which was the one for whom she most greatly cared."

"Lyle pointed at the modern French paintings and the heavy silk rugs which hung upon the walls.

men of the Gladiator were not afraid to die. They did not cry like cravens. They did not so much with panic. They faced death as calmly and as gallantly as the British sailor has always faced it from time immemorial. There is one incident which strikes the imagination. Let us rescue it from the welter of details.

AN IMMORTAL QUESTION

"As the bow of the St. Paul was momentarily locked in the wreckage of the cruiser's hull, some of the blue jackets climbed over on the deck of the liner. One of them, as soon as he had planted his feet on the St. Paul's bow saluted, but he seemed to be temporarily dazed by the episode. He rapidly recovered himself, he saluted again. Then, looking around he seemed to realize his position, and gasped out, "Oh, my God, what have I done? What will my captain say?" Then he jumped back to his own ship."

"What will my captain say?"

There is a large nobility in that immortal question. It is the heroic Drake and Greppville. "What will my captain say?" "What will my captain say?" The splendid simplicity of the phrase hall-marks it. No poet could have been out of death a more deathless cry. It is sublime in its symbolism, although the line that uttered it cared for nothing so literary and so sentimental as a symbol. One wishes that Tennyson were alive to set that great cry of a great heart to verbal music.

"What will my captain say?"

"The Captain of Captains who commands the British navy is the Spirit of Patriotism, Honor, Self-Sacrifice, Discipline and Courage. As that great Captain looks out over the Solent today the word he says is, "Well Done!"—Selected.

ROOT PRUNING FOR TREES.

If a tree is making too much wood growth, and is not bearing what might be considered a fair crop, it should be deprived of a few of its roots. In order to illustrate the value of this, I will give one of my experiences along that line. A few years ago, I received, as a premium with The Canadian Horticulturist, a wealthy apple tree and, if my memory serves me right, it was one of the eight feet high and six feet in width and with no sign of fruit. I said to it one day, "You have got to stop this, I don't want so much wood; I want fruit." I dug a hole about 30 inches from the trunk and then tunneled in under it and there I found four large roots. I cut these off and put the soil back again. The next year, I had to prop up every branch but one on the opposite to where I dug the hole and in the fall I had about three bushels of splendid apples.

My boys found they were good to eat, and as a consequence the branch nearest the wall was stripped of its load quite a while before the rest. The next year, the branch which did not require to be propped and the one which the boys stripped, had to be propped. Altogether, the tree bore about one and one-half bushels and the third year I bore about two bushels. They were as good a sample as one could wish to pick up. This instance is not a solitary one but one of scores, and always with about the same results. To my knowledge, it has been practiced through three generations. I myself having been taught it over 40 years ago by my grandfather, who was a nurseryman and knew whereof he spoke.—Edward Lane, in Canadian Horticulturist.

A Prized Cough Cure

"I have not been without a bottle of Coltsfoot Expectant in the house for over nine years. At that time I procured it for a bad cold I had. It worked such wonders then that it has been a household remedy ever since, and we will have no other for coughs and colds. It is so pleasant to take, and all of my children look for it as soon as they get a cold at all. Nearly all of them have been subject to croup, and that's when I find Coltsfoot Expectant useful. You are welcome to use this testimonial as you wish."

Railway Development in Cape Breton

(The Canso Times.)

The visit to St. Peters of Mrs. Seward Webb, accompanied by one of the leading experts of the Vanderbilt railway system, has again stirred up extension in Richmond and Cape Breton counties.

The immediate object of Mrs. Webb's visit (and Mrs. Webb as regards her personal interest in her railway properties is evidently a thorough Vanderbilt), was to inspect the Cape Breton Railway, of which she with her husband is chief owner; but it is no secret that a wider survey of the position was taken than that involved in looking over the line between St. Peters and Point Tupper.

It is highly satisfactory to know that both Mrs. Webb and her expert were thoroughly pleased with the condition of the line. They indeed could hardly conceal their surprise that the road was in such a good shape. They had doubtless anticipated a piece of track over which it would be dangerous to take their private cars. Instead, they found, considering its newness, a solid, easy going, well-knit track, with good rolling stock, efficient locomotive power and capable management. As for the traffic, they did not, of course, find a great deal, but they were frank enough to admit they had expected less.

In a word, Mrs. Webb found the property in the best of shape, and if it was not paying it was only because it was incomplete.

As already intimated the object of the visit went a little beyond the mere inspection of the existing line. Failing to find purchasers, it is understood that the owners are once more contemplating the completion of the system, which would carry the lines to three important points, namely, Arichat, Louisbourg, and Sydney.

Dr. Webb's engineers are already familiar with the ground to be gone over, having had several surveys taken of the different routes.

It is not improbable, it may be noted, that the additional subsidies granted for these several routes may prove a turning factor in the situation, and that the present owners, rather than see their existing line run at a loss, will decide to avail themselves of the liberal subsidies offered and complete the original scheme with perhaps some modification.

Up to the recent session of Parliament there were available for the St. Peter-Louisbourg-Sydney extension subsidies, federal and provincial, amounting to $11,400,000. These have been added to by the further vote, at the recent session, of a subsidy for an extension from St. Peters to Sydney, by way of Red Island, Big Pond and East Bay. This latter for one reason and another is regarded as offering a good chance for investment, and there is a strong probability that the Webbs have been led to reconsider the whole situation. Among the developments that may be counted on in the near future then, is the building of two distinct lines from St. Peters to the two principal ports of Cape Breton county.

GRANULATED SORE EYES CURED

"For twenty years I suffered from a bad case of granulated sore eyes," says Martin Boyd, of Henrietta, Ky. "In February, 1903, a gentleman asked me to try Chamberlain's Salve. WHEN TO JUDGE OTHERS.

A snap shot and adverse judgment of a fellow-being is the easiest thing in the world to give; that is why so many inferior persons are constantly at the business. To condemn a person is a mark of inferiority. To point out another's strong points is a sign of power. Hamilton W. Mabie has said a strong word on this: "To see the good in people is not so much a matter of charity as of justice. Our judgments of others fall oftenest through lack of imagination. We fail to see all the facts; we see one or two very clearly, and at once form an opinion. . . . I ought not to pronounce judgment on a fellow creature, until I know all that enters into his life, until I can measure all the forces of temptation and resistance; until I can give full weight to all the facts in the case. In other words, I am never in a position to judge another." Let us be on our guard, therefore, against publicly condemning ourselves by doing that which only the ignorant do.

THE HOME

Care of Milk in the Home

Cleanliness and cold are essential in having wholesome milk. Milk absorbs impurities whenever it is exposed to the air or placed in unclean vessels. The amount or degree of this contamination depends upon the cleanliness of the air and the utensils; even the air of a so called clean room contains some impurities. The bacteria which get into milk from the air or vessels increase rapidly as long as the milk remains warm—50 deg. F. or above; they are dormant, or increase slowly at lower temperatures.

Cleanliness and cold are imperative if one would have good milk, although if it is consumed so soon after production that the bacteria in it do not have time to increase much—say two or three hours—the importance of cold is lessened.

If the producer and dealer have done their duty, there is daily left at the consumer's door a bottle of clean, cold, unadulterated milk. It may then become unfit for food, especially for babies, by improper treatment at home. This bad treatment consists (1) in placing it in unclean vessels, (2) in exposing it unnecessarily to the air, (3) in failure to keep it cool up to the time of using it. The above expression, "a bottle of clean, cold, unadulterated milk" is used because the best way of delivering milk is in bottles. Dipping milk from large cans and pouring it into customer's receptacles on the street—with all the incident exposure to air—not always the cleanest—is a bad practice. Drawing milk from the faucet of a retailer's can is almost as bad as dipping milk; for though the milk may be exposed to the street air a little less than by the dipping process, it is not kept thoroughly mixed and some customers will receive less than their proportion of cream.

If situated so that it is impossible to get bottled milk, do not set out over night an uncovered vessel to collect thousands of bacteria from street dust before milk is put into it. Have the milk delivered personally to some member of the family if possible; if not, set out a bowl covered with a plate, or better still, use a glass preserving jar in which nothing but milk is put; use the jars with glass tops, but omit the rubber bands.

Take the milk into the house soon after delivery, particularly in hot weather. Sometimes milk delivered as early as 4 a. m., remains out of doors until 9 or 10 o'clock. This is wrong. If it is inconvenient to receive the milk as early as it is delivered, provide a sheltered place in which the milkman can leave it. Never allow the sun to shine for any length of time on the bottle of milk.

Put the milk in the refrigerator on receiving it and keep it there on ice when not using from it. Milk can not be properly kept without ice. Keep milk in the original bottle until needed for immediate consumption; do not pour it into a bowl or pitcher for storage; do not pour back into the bottle milk which has been exposed to the air.

Keep the bottle covered with a paper cap or an inverted tumbler as long as milk is in it and when not actually pouring from it; after opening the bottle and removing a part of the milk, do not leave the bottle uncovered.

Milk deteriorates by exposure to the air of pantry, kitchen or nursery. Do not expose uncovered milk in refrigerator containing food of any kind, not to mention strong smelling foods like fish, cabbage, or onions. An excellent way of serving milk on the table, from the sanitary standpoint, is in the original bottle; at all events pour out only what will be consumed at one meal.

When milk is received in a bowl instead of a bottle, observe the spirit of the above paragraphs. Keep the bowl covered as directed for the bottle. Expose uncovered milk to the air of any room as little as possible. Do not expose it at all in a refrigerator.

Keep the refrigerator clean and sweet. Personally inspect it at least once a week. See that the outlet for melted ice is kept open and that the space under the ice rack is clean. The place where food is kept should be scalded every week with sal-soda solution, a single drop of spilled milk or a small particle of other neglected food will contaminate a refrigerator in a few days.

As soon as a milk bottle is empty, rinse it in lukewarm water until it appears clear and set it bottom side up to drain. Do not use it for any other purpose than holding milk. Never return filthy bottles.

All utensils with which milk comes in contact should be rinsed, washed, and scalded every time they are used. Do not wash in dish water or wipe with ordinary dish towel; boil in clean water and set away unwiped.

When a baby is bottle fed, every time the feeding bottle and nipple are used they should be rinsed in lukewarm water, washed in hot water to which a small amount of washing soda has been added, and then scalded; never use a rubber tube between bottle and nipple.

If a case of typhoid fever, scarlet fever or diphtheria leaks out in the family, do not return any bottles to the milkman except with the knowledge of the attending physician and under conditions prescribed by him.

Milk from the grocery store or bakery which is kept in a can, open much of the time, possibly without refrigerator is to be avoided.—Geo. M. Whitaker, U. S. Department of Agriculture.

FROM SHADOW TO SUNSHINE.

I learn as the years roll onward,
And leave the past behind
That much I have counted sorrow
But prove that our God is kind:
That many a flower I longed for
Had a hidden thorn of pain;
And many a stony by-path
Led to fields of ripened grain.

The clouds but cover the sunshine
They cannot banish the sun,
And the earth shines out the brighter
When the weary rain is done.
We must stand in the deepest shadow
To see the clearest light;
And often from wrong's own darkness
Comes the very strength of right.
—Agnes L. Pratt.

ADVICE TO AN ENGAGED MAN.

If you think that a woman is any weaker minded than a man, stop where you are.
If you intend to treat yourself any better than your wife, don't take one.
If you suppose that running the house consists in paying the bills, don't undertake it.
If you have found it a hard task to be happy yourself, don't try to make any one else happy.
If you think a house should have only one head, and that be yours, postpone your wedding indefinitely.
If you are of the opinion that marriage makes the man and wife one, and that you are that one, send in your regrets at once.

FLOORS.

When varnished floors have become blackened in spots and there are numerous heel marks they need a standing finish, and must be treated with extreme measures. The old finish must be first removed, and when the floor is revarnished see that the liquid is of good quality, and that several coats are given. A waxed floor needs only another coat of wax and a thorough polishing. Grease spots can often be removed with turpentine. It is best to remove spots from rugs or carpets as soon as they are made. Spots made by sticky substances may be removed by sponging them with alcohol and salt, a pint of alcohol to a teaspoonful of salt. Grease or oil spots should be covered with wet fuller's earth, and allowed to stand for two days and then brushed off. French chalk will remove fresh grease spots. Cover the spots well, then spread a brown paper over them and apply a moderately hot iron.—Evening Post.

A LINK.

Is this to thee a weary day,
A day that passeth slow
A day that burneth thine heart
With some new weight of woe?
Be patient. Know thou that this day
Is in life's lengthening chain
A necessary link between
Joys past and joys again.

A WISE FINANCIER.

'A cent is not worth saving,'
And Harold shook his head.
'If 'twere a dime I'd do it—
But not a cent!' he said.
'What does a cent amount to?'
''Twould take (let's see) until—
''Twould take almost forever.
'To save a dollar bill!'
But Teddy saved his pennies—
''Tis true, just one each day.
But pennies grow to dollars,
He'd heard wise people say.
And when the year was over,
As sure as I'm alive—
He had three shining dollars,
And pennies sixty-five!
—Aldertbert F. Caldwell.

Killing Weeds by Spraying

The Experiment Station at North Dakota, has issued a bulletin on Weed Control by means of Chemical Sprays.

Experiments in spraying to eradicate weeds in grain fields have been conducted at that station from season to season for the past ten years. The results obtained show that the general use of this method of combating certain weeds will save the farmers of the country millions of dollars annually. It is not expected that spraying will supplant other methods of keeping weeds in check, but that it will supplement these methods and prove available in fighting many of the most pernicious weeds which come up in fields of grain. The possibility of success in killing weeds in a grain field by the use of a chemical spray, which does not injure the grain, will not surprise those who are familiar with the use of spraying compounds to destroy various forms of fungi, which are plants of a low order. Only by experiment is it possible to learn what weeds can be killed by a spray which will not injure the growing grain stalks among which the weeds are growing.

The best time to do the work is while the weeds are young, succulent and making a rapid growth. Those which develop slowly under dry conditions are much harder to kill.

Mustard or charcoal can be readily killed by spraying with solutions of either iron sulphate or copper sulphate. It requires about 52 gallons of spraying liquid per acre. To make the liquid, use from 75 to 100 pounds of iron sulphate for each 52 gallons of water, or 12 to 15 pounds of copper sulphate for the same amount of water, but there is some danger that it will injure the grain.

King-head or Greater Ragweed can be controlled in the same way, but should be sprayed while quite young. The same sprays are to be used, but at the greatest strength mentioned.

The Canada thistle can be checked in growth in grain fields by spraying but is best fought by frequent sprayings without regard to the grain. The most effective spray for this weed is sodium arsenate at the rate of 1 1/2 to 2 pounds to each 52 gallons of water, but owing to the extremely poisonous nature of this spray, a solution of common salt is recommended. If the object is to kill the thistles without regard to what they may be growing among, use a half barrel of salt to 52 gallons of water.

Sprays as often as the plants get a few inches above the ground, and if shoots appear the second season operate on them again the same way, and usually the pest will be fully eradicated. When scattered through grain fields it is advised that the first spraying be done with a spray of one-third barrel of salt to each 52 gallons of water when the weeds are about ten inches high. Spray a week later with a spray of 15 pounds of copper sulphate to each 52 gallons of water. After the grain has been harvested spraying again.

The sow thistle is becoming very troublesome in its spread by underground roots like the Canada thistle but cannot be killed by spraying.

Weeds which can be controlled by the sprays are: mustard, wild radish, false flax, shepherd's purse, pepper grass, corn cockle, chickweed, bindweed, plantain, rough pigweed and cocklebur.

Weeds of a grassy nature cannot be so controlled because a spray strong enough to kill them would also kill the grain or grass among which they are growing. Frenchweed, pink cockle, lamb's quarter and hare's ear mustard are weeds that cannot be controlled by spraying.

CHRONIC DIARRHOEA RELIEVED.

Mr. Edward E. Henry, with the United States Express Co., of Chicago, writes, "Our General Superintendent, Mr. Quick, handed me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy some time ago to check an attack of the old chronic diarrhoea. I have used it since that time and cured many of our trainees who have been sick. I am an old soldier who served with Buford and Hayes and William McKinley four years in the 23rd Ohio Regiment, and have no ailment except chronic diarrhoea, which this remedy stops at once."
